Judge declares both zoning boards illegal

Wayne Circuit Judge Neal Fitzgerald Tuesday took both of Canton's two Zoning Boards of Appeal (ZBA) by surprise when he declared both ZBAs invalid.

In a motion for accelerated judgment, Fitzgerald dismissed the lawsuit filed by Supervisor Harold Stein in hopes that one of the two ZBAs would receive legal sanction.

According to Fitzgerald, the township currently has no legal zoning board because the township's zoning ordinance was never "properly" amended.

To appoint a legal ZBA, the township board must first publish an amended zoning ordinance and hold public hearings on the change.

According to Fitzgerald, the township board could then re-appoint either one of the two defunct ZBAs or an entirely new one.

STEIN HAD ASKED for Fitzgerald's judgment in hopes that the political controversy surrounding the two ZBAs would be cleared.

At the advice of township attorney William Sempliner, Canton board members last February replaced a ZBA appointed by former Supervisor Robert Greenstein with a new five-member ZBA.

The original ZBA, composed of Greenstein, Jim Donahue, Robert Miller, John Burdziak and Tom Quinn, was illegal, Sempliner said at the time, because the township's zoning ordinance was never amended to comply with a new state law.

Township board members had amended the zoning ordinance before appointing Gary Sands, Kathy Prince, Robert Padget, William Gilmore and Trustee Gene Daley to a new ZBA.

But according to Fitzgerald, the new ZBA was appointed illegally, because township board members never published the amended zoning ordinance or held public hearings on the matter.

The amended ordinance must call for a five-member ZBA. Canton's old zoning ordinance called for a three-member ZBA.

"At the time we amended the zoning ordinance, I recollect that Sempliner said it was not necessary to publish it," said Township Clerk John Flodin. "I don't think anyone was trying to evade the law. Now we'll just have to do what the court directs."

Flodin said he does not know how long it will take township officials to "properly" amend the zoning ordinance and appoint a "legal" ZBA.

DONAHUE, a member of the original ZBA appointed by Greenstein, said members of his zoning board may appeal Fitzgerald's ruling.

"We may end up with three ZBAs," he said. "I think the whole thing is preposterous to the point of being ridiculous. I don't think Fitzgerald's ruling will stand long enough for them to appoint a ZBA other than ours."

But Gary Sands, chairman of the ZBA appointed by Stein, said members of his board will accept Fitzgerald's ruling and not complain if they are not reappointed to the zoning board.

"I'm not quite sure how to react," he said. "But, hopefully, this whole thing will get settled speedily, and a new board will be appointed properly."

Neither ZBA has met since Stein asked Fitzgerald for a judgment on the matter three months ago. A backlog of zoning appeal cases has been piling up.

Trustees support saving farmland

The Canton Board of Trustees has given its unanimous support to a recommendation of the township's land use study committee that endorses preservation of agricultural land in the southwestern section of the township.

At Tuesday's special meeting of the planning commission, township board and land use study committee members directed the administration to estimate the cost of purchasing development rights from farmers in Sections 16 through 21 and Sections 28 through 32.

In addition, board members pledged "to pursue" three actions recommended by the the land use study committee:

- Adoption of a zoning ordinance that establishes an agricultural district.
- Implementation of a program that protects the equity of landowners in the agricultural district.
- Development of a fair and equitable tax structure for agricultural and open-space land.

"The retention of agricultural land on a longterm basis is possible," board members stated in a resolution, "if certain actions are taken by the township board with the support of the community."

THE RESOLUTION is taken word-for-word from a report submitted by the land use study committee two weeks ago.

Although the report urges the preservation of agricultural land, it outlines the need to win the support of the public to implement the farmland retention program. Canton residents, the report concludes, must pay the bill for the program and the purchase of farmers' development rights.

Canton officials must first estimate the cost of purchasing development rights, however, before they can begin to sell the proposed program to township residents.

"Money is obviously the key question of the whole thing," one study committee member told township officials. "It's the bottom line that we have to sell to people."

Deputy treasurer Mike Gorman roughly estimates the costs of purchasing development rights on the 6,483 acres deemed "prime agricultural land" by the committee at $12 to $15 million.

Once administrators pin down the cost to a fairly accurate estimate and propose a bond issue or other method to finance the program, members of the land use study committee will host informational meetings on the proposed retention of agricultural land. In addition, a survey of residents will be conducted.

Voters would have to approve the proposed program at the polls before it could be implemented.

ACCORDING TO the committee's report, preservation of farmland is cheaper in the long-run than providing services to potentially developed land.

But to preserve a viable farming community, committee members say, the farmer must be be reimbursed for his lost development rights and receive a tax break.

"If you want to retain agricultural land as a going business, you have to make it economically feasible," stressed committee member Alfred Lobbestael. "The taxes have to be reduced somewhere around $15 an acre."

Added committee chairman Bart Berg, "It used to be that the farmboy went to the city, but that pendulum has stopped. If we can make it economically feasible for him to go back into farming, we can swing the pendulum the other way."

If the committee's recommendation to preserve farmland is implemented, almost all of the land between Ford, the township's southern line, Canton Center and the township's western line would be zoned for agricultural purposes. Section 33, bounded by Canton Center, Beck, Geddes and the township's southern line, would be zoned a "buffer area"

The 1976 master land use plan engineered by former Supervisor Robert Greenstein reserved thousands of acres west of Canton Center for agricultural purposes.

Although the plan proposed lowering farmers' tax rates, it failed to outline a specific method that would reimburse farmers for their development rights. As a result, the plan brought criticism from the farming community.

Although the 1976 plan was approved by the planning commission, it was never implemented since a zoning ordinance was never passed.

Value of raising age for drinking is debated

By PATRICK TOUHEY

Six years ago, in the heat of the Vietnam war, the legal drinking age in Michigan was lowered from 21 to 18.

"If they're old enough to fight, they're old enough to drink," argued those in favor of the change. "They are young adults. We can't treat 'em like kids."

Now, with six years of experience, there are those who feel the decision was unwise. They maintain the number of young alcoholics has increased as has the number of traffic accidents caused by drinking.

The Michigan State Police have carefully documented the number of drivers in the 18-20 age group who have been involved in drinking accidents since 1971 when the age of majority was lowered.

If the department's statistical data is taken at face value, it would appear that a good case could be made for raising the age of majority.

However, the question becomes much less clear when other data is considered.

If the Michigan Senate has its way, this sign will have to be rewritten. The senate this week passed legislation, now before a house committee, which would raise the legal drinking age to 19. (Staff photo by Gary Caskey)

PLYMOUTH POLICE Chief Tim Ford's calculations show that the percentage of drunk driver arrests has not increased for the 18-20 age group during the last six years in the city.

In addition, Plymouth-Canton High School Principal Kent Buikema said that in his judgment, the lowered drinking age has not created a problem for high school students.

Those who favor leaving the drinking age at 18 maintain the law's opponents are playing number games with their scary statistics. They charge the State Police launched a campaign to prove what they wanted to prove: That the age of majority should never have been lowered.

Moreover, the legal definition of "under the influence of alcohol" has not remained constant. At the time the drinking age was lowered to 18, the per cent of alcohol in the blood which constitutes legal drunkeness was also reduced.

Because the State Police data is gathered on a state-wide basis, all Michigan drivers are included. Among other findings, the figures show that the number of youths under 20-years-old arrested for drunk driving has increased each year since 1971.

In 1971, 4.8 per cent of all drunk drivers arrested were between 18 and 20 years of age. In 1973 the figure had climbed to 9.1 per cent. And by 1976 it

Greenstein helps reunite Russians

"Could you call me back in a few minutes," asked Robert Greenstein from a posh New York hotel suite. "I've got Mike Wallace from '60 Minutes' on the other line."

That's how life has been going for the former Canton Township supervisor ever since he engineered Sunday's emotional reunion between Dr. Victor Herman and his two Russian daughters.

Ever since Saturday night's joyous reunion, televison and radio stations, publishers, even Hollywood film makers have plied Greenstein and the three Hermans with phone calls and personal visits.

In between the publicity visits, Greenstein and the jubilant Herman, an American who was forced to spend the last 45 years in the Soviet Union, have shown 25-year-old Sveltana and 20-year-old Janna the sights of New York.

Plenty of hugs and kisses have been wedged in between the hectic events.

"You know, someone said at the airport when we first met the girls that the hardboiled trial lawyer-politician was melting all over the place," Greenstein said of himself. "I guess that was happenning, and I've been melting ever since."

GREENSTEIN TOOK UP Herman's cause about six months ago when he saw the former Soviet resident on television.

Herman, 61, who has seen the insides of Soviet jails and the steppes of Siberia as a political prisoner, was appealing for help in bringing his daughters to the United States.

The native Detroiter had moved to the Soviet Union when he was 16-years-old. Herman was accompanying his father, a Ford Motor Co. employee, who was making the trip to help build an auto plant in Russia under terms of a trade agreement between the auto company and the Soviet government.

What started out as a temporary stay turned into a 45-year residency, however, when Stalin prohibited all foreigners from leaving the country.

Herman finally left the Soviet Union last year, but was forced to divorce his Russian wife to obtain a visa. When he finally entered the United States, the long struggle to bring his daughters to America began.

"Here was this man on television, saying he'd go back to the Soviet Union if he had to," Greenstein recalled. "I just couldn't tolerate that in my mind. Going back to Russia would be pure tragedy.

"I picked up the phone and got in touch with Herman. I just thought I'd be paying my dues. Life's been good to me, and I just thought I'd be paying a little bit back."

FOR THE LAST six months, Greenstein, an attorney, has been slicing through layers of U.S. and Soviet bureaucracy.

"We've gone through heaven and hell," Greenstein said. "We've had loads of problems, like the time Moscow gave the girls a 90-day exit visa. The United States said they needed 120 days to approve the girls' entrance into the country. We had to really move to get the red tape cut."

Greenstein said he has even picked up the tab for the entire venture. He rented a limousine to hustle the Hermans out of the busy airport and into New York's classy Drake Hotel. There, the Hermans are staying in a posh suite that belongs to Telly Savalas, star of televison's Kojak show.

Although Greenstein declined to put a dollar figure on the amount he has spent,he admits "it's quite a bundle." But he says it's all been worth it.

"It's just been 30 feet off the ground ever since we picked the girls up. It's been fantastic. It's been unbelievable."

Canton's CETA funding is reduced by one-third

The City of Plymouth and Canton officials received word last week how much federal money they'll receive under the Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA), and neither municipality is overly excited.

Plymouth received only half of what it applied for while Canton received just one-third of what it hoped to get. Both the city and Canton filed a joint application which included fund requests for their individual municipal projects plus CETA funds for community groups which would serve both Plymouth and Canton.

PLYMOUTH RECEIVED about $56,000, although it had asked for some $120,000.

Canton, which had applied for some $100,000, received $36,440.

Plymouth Township had applied for $63,000 through Wayne County, expecting the county to set up a program to clean ditches and roadways in the township and hire local residents through the Michigan Employment Security Commission. Wayne County, however, received much less CETA money than it asked for and so the fate of the township's program is uncertain at this point.

Canton's municipal program under CETA is to hire six persons for drain cleaning as well as other general tidying up.

The city will hire a crew of two persons to trim trees along sidewalks and to trim trees along the creek areas. City Manager Fred Yockey said the crew will be trained to trim tree branches high enough along sidewalks so persons can walk or ride bicycles underneath safely.

Some 15 groups had applied for CETA money through the Plymouth-Canton joint application. Mike Gorman, deputy treasurer for Canton, said some seven groups which served both communities were selected in case full funding had been granted.

Yockey and Gorman said Tuesday that only three groups could receive funds have been cut so drastically.

Gorman said the three groups to receive CETA money are likely to be Plymouth-Canton Community Schools' Opportunity House to hire a cook, and the Salvation Army to expand its senior citizen's program.

The school district had applied for five positions. Gorman believes the school project to be funded will be for two counselors to staff a resource center at the high schools.

Strait forts open for summer visitors

Michigan's historic forts Michilimackinac at Mackinaw City and Mackinac on Mackinac Island are now open for the 1977 tourist season.

The forts, dating back prior to the American Revolution, feature both military and cultural attractions of the period.

According to the Mackinac Island State Park Commission, there are several new visitor attractions in additon to the daily cannon and musket firinng exhibitions.

Dave Armour, assistant superintendent, said, "This year there will be a full-time blacksmith at work at the island's blacksmith shop.

"Visitors can observe two women engaged in early American household chores throughout each day at the Priest's House at Fort Michilimackinac, including spinning, cleaning and cooking over open fires," he added.

Also Fort Michilimackinac's powder magazine has been reconstructed, and several pre-revolution trader's houses are being reconstructed, Armour said.

IN ADDITION to the attractions at the two forts, the Maritime Museum adjacent to Fort Michilimackinac will be open. Visitors can observe the construction of a pre-1800 sloop, the "Welcome." The vessel is a replica of a ship which plied the Straits waters from 1775 to 1781.

Fort Michilimackinac and Maritime Park will be open until Oct. 16 with visiting hours from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Hours are extended to 8 p.m. from June 15 to Labor Day.

Across the Straits, Fort Mackinac will be open until Oct. 9 with daily visiting hours from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Again, hours will be extended from June 15 through Labor Day from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.

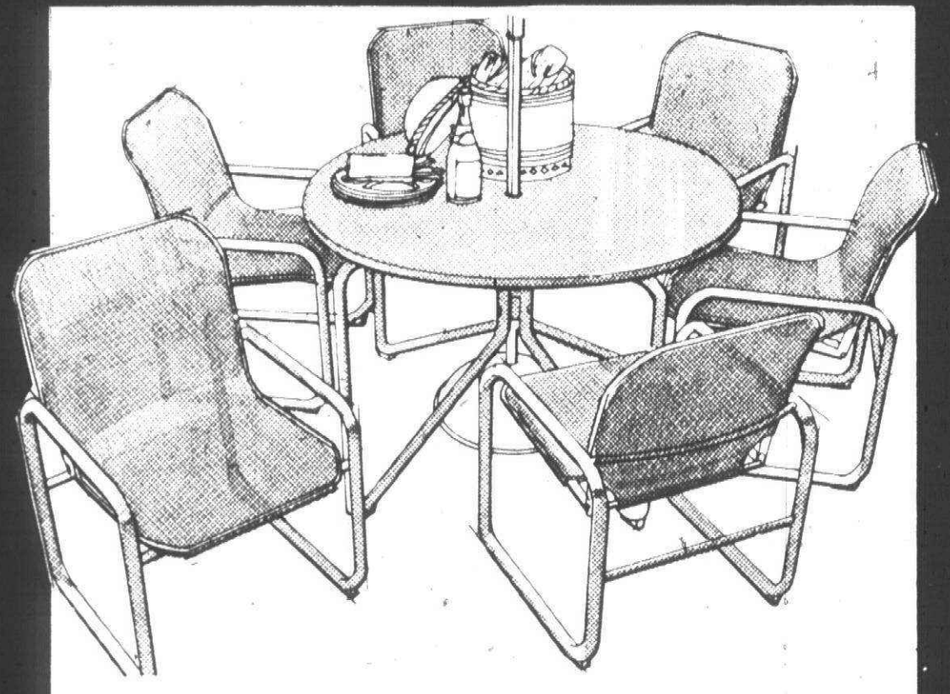

Adult admission to both forts will be $2.50 from June 15 through Labor Day. At other times admission is $2. Youths, 13 through 17, are charged $1.50, and there is no charge for children under 12.

Plymouth-Canton school hopefuls speak on bond issue

All three candidates for the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education supported the $29.75 million bond issue defeated by voters in April.

In the wake of that defeat, each of the three candidates have their own views on what the school district should do next and what are the best options to constructing new school buildings.

The candidates are Arlene Callahan and Mary Jane Mulaski of Canton and Stephen Harper of Plymouth Township. Each candidate was asked by the Observer what size bond issue should be placed on the ballot in September and what are the two least desirable options to building new schools?

MRS. CALLAHAN says the school board probably should come back and seek voter approval for a bond issue of about $19 million.

The state said the bond issue should be split with the second $10 million not borrowed until two years, if needed then. "If the state suggests splitting the issue and waiting, than we should do likewise.

"There are some buildings which might become available in the Livonia School District in a couple years that we could rent and bus students to, so it would be wise to wait.

"But we need the first series of the bond issue. We must get started on constructing some new schools soon because in two years we'll be in a lot of trouble. You cannot put up walls around the district—the people are coming."

One of the least desirable options to new buildings, Mrs. Callahan said, would be half-day sessions. "We are used to thinking in terms of morning and afternoon sessions when someone says half-days. But because of state requirements, half-days at the elementary level means from 7 a.m. to noon, and from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. I don't think the community is willing to go along with that."

The second least desirable option, she added, would be a toss-up between increased class sizes and busing outside the district.

"With the number of new students coming in, we aren't talking about an increase in class size to just 30-32 students, but in the high 30s, and that wouldn't go with most people.

"Also, if we increase class sizes we should do so across the district and that's a problem because some of the school buildings—particularly the newer ones—just aren't physically suited to handle up to 40 pupils in a classroom.

"A lot of people will favor busing outside the district, but they don't want their child bused. Where you bus and who gets bused are the key factors. Right now, busing isn't a practical option because there aren't any empty schools to rent close enough—the closest being in Garden City. Busing outside the district, in practical, would be undesirable because it would erode the neighborhood school concept."

ARLENE CALLAHAN

MARY JANE MULASKI

STEPHEN HARPER

MRS. MULASKI said the size of the bond issue should be determined by the amount of millage needed to pay off the loans. "The millage should be less than one mill because the one mill was defeated by voters.

"I understand the bond issue in April, at one mill, would've saved the district money. But the voters turned it down. So I think if we go for a smaller bond issue we'll have a better chance of getting it passed."

She added that the tax base in the school district is rising and the board might be able to reduce the debt retirement levy now being collected to pay off other construction loans. "So we might be able to get by with a lower bond issue tax-wise."

Mrs. Mulaski would like to see the bond issue cover construction of three elementaries and a middle school, the addition to Gallimore elementary, and pay for the physical improvements needed to implement the Extended School Year (ESY).

"It is economically wise to plan ahead, but the voters don't want to think far ahead into the future."

On options to new construction, Mrs. Mulaski says she definitely wouldn't want to see half-day sessions because "they aren't in the best interest of kids. And I'd hate to see us increase class sizes.

Mrs. Mulaski also feels busing outside the district isn't a practical option at this time. "The closest empty buildings now are in Garden City, and that's and 18-mile drive. There is a building at the former Wayne County Child Development Center, but it would cost so much money to renovate that it isn't economically feasible."

HARPER SAID A $30 million bond issue is reasonable, but before the board decides on the amount it should ask the community to do a needs study.

A committee of parents, teachers and administrators should be formed at each school building, Harper said, to come up with a list of what each school needs in the way of renovations and maintenance.

"That process might actually increase the size of the bond issue from April. Personally, I wouldn't flinch a bit if it came in higher. With our tax base rising, we might have to go for a $32 to $40 million bond issue to qualify for the state bonding program with its lower interest and longer pay-off period.

"But we cannot ignore the opportunity to maintain what we have and provide equal facilities at all schools. Whatever amount is set, we must first have the community involved—maybe 25 to 30 people in a committee at each school."

On least desirable options, Harper said his philosphical answer would be to ask community residents to rank options by their order of preference and then have the administration do cost estimates. The school board would then choose those options most effective in terms of resource use, cost, and community acceptance, Harper added.

"My individual view is that I'd rule out increased class size. I have no real objection to half-day sessions, except that it's not the most efficient use of our school buildings, even though it may be a more intensive use.

"I've no real problem with portable buildings, but from a practical standpoint they are only good for five to 10 years and then have to be scrapped. For that reason, my two least desirable options to constructing new schools would be increasing class size and portable buildings."

Prison plan sidetracked?

If the Wayne County Public Works Committee has its way, there may not be a prison at the corner of Sheldon Road and Five Mile after all.

The seven-member committee pased a resolution Tuesday stating that the Child Development Center property should be sold to the highest bidder. The full board of county commissioners will vote on the resolution Thursday.

According to Commissioner Royce Smith (D-Belleville), whose district includes Plymouth and Canton, if the resolution is passed, the state will have to compete with private industry to purchase the 700 acres of land in Northville Township.

Tom-Becky contest still a challenge

It's been around for a dozen or more years, but the Tom Sawyer-Becky Thatcher look-alike contest is still part of the annual kids fishing derby and still continues to draw interest.

The fishing derby is scheduled for 7 a.m. to noon Saturday, June 18 at Newburgh Lake.

ABOUT 30 boys and girls in the 6-16 age group enter each year, according to Eleanor Chruscial, who works as hard on the contest as does her husband, Hank, who is chairman.

"It gets pretty hard for the judges to pick winners some years," she said, "because the entries are so good.

"Most of the boys wear cutoff jeans and go barefoot. Some have a pail and paintbrush," she said, referring to the chapter in the Mark Twain novel in which Tom cons his friends into paying him to whitewash a fence.

"Some will have a corncob pipe." Mrs. Chruscial added. Actually, Huckleberry Finn was the connoisseur of the corncob; Tom and Joe Harper smoked during the adventure on Jackson's Island, and both got sick.

A LITTLE MORE work goes into the girls' costumes as they mimic Judge Thatcher's lovely daughter Becky.

"During the bicentennial, a lot of mothers made gowns like this from the period. All they have to do is shorten them a bit for their daughters," Mrs. Chruscial said.

"We see lots of hoop dresses, pantaloons and bonnets. Some will carry schoolbooks."

The contest is sponsored by the Wayne County Conservation Association and the parks and recreation departments of Livonia, Dearborn Heights, Farmington, Farmington Hills, Garden City, Northville and Plymouth.

Young anglers can register at the desk on Newburgh Point the morning of the contest, but they are advised to save time by registering in advance. To do so, send a post card with your name, street address, city and telephone number to:

"Fish Derby," 19345 Brentwood, Livonia 48152.

No confirmation response will be sent. Deadline for getting cards into the mail is June 14.

SC aging maturing—Greenleaf

The most obvious change occurring at Schoolcraft College is "the maturity of the institution," according to Harry Greenleaf, one of nine candidates for three posts on the college board.

Speaking to a gathering in the home of James O'Neil in Livonia, Greenleaf said there is "a noticeable aging of the buildings with ever-increasing maintenance costs."

The faculty has had its first retirement, with several more likely in the next few years, Greenleaf said, adding: "These changes create challenges for the board in planning to meet the needs of the physical plants and replacement of faculty personnel."

The average age of students is rising and is now around 30, he said, and there is more interest in occupational skills. "The college can do a better job in promoting Schoolcraft as an inexpensive alternative to four-year colleges at the high school level, and as an opportunity to learn occupational skills without a full, four-year college course."

Board of education candidates address the issues

Voters in the Wayne-Westland School District will have their choice of four candidates to fill two seats in the June 13 school election.

Two of the candidates, Fred Warmbier and Stephen Kelly, are incumbents. Kelly was appointed to fill an unexpired term last year. A third candidate, Anne Harbison, was a board member from 1971-75. The fourth candidate is Clifford Johnson.

To help voters decide which candidates to select, the Observer asked all four to submit brief resumes and to answer five questions. Each candidate's resume is followed by answers to the questions.

FRED WARMBIER

Besides being an incumbent, Warmbier has been active in the Wayne community for many years, serving on the planning commission and zoning board of appeals as well as in community service groups.

Q. What do you think is the role of a board of education member?

A. I believe that a member of the board of education should represent the school community. I see this community as consisting of parents, students, taxpayers and our school employees. He should be an active spokesperson, to be sure that each is fairly represented and receives full measure according to his needs and contributions.

Q. What issues will face the Wayne-Westland board of education during the next four years?

A. The main issues will be successfully completing our renovation and building program. In addition, we must continue to monitor and upgrade our educational programs, emphasizing the basics at the elementary level and vocational guidance and education at the upper level.

Q. Do you favor raising the minimum drinking age?

A. I believe that the drinking age should be set at a level that would eliminate most or all permissable drinking at the high school level. This would probably mean raising the permissable drinking level to age 19 or 20.

Q. If you had an extra $1 million given to you, what would you, as a board member, do with it?

A. Being given $1 million and asking a person how he would respond to such an unlikely and hypothetical happening is difficult to predict. If I had to spend it solely for education, I would use it to upgrade our reading programs including our libraries and also to upgrade vocational education. If it was meant solely for my personal use, I would hope that I would be able to reassess my current goals and continue to make the most of my talents and newly acquired resources.

Q. What do you think the role of Wayne-Westland residents should be in the district?

A. I think the residents, and particularly parents, should be or become active participants in our school community. This means selecting and supporting good school board candidates to represent our community and by demanding and supporting the very best educational system obtainable for our children.

STEPHEN KELLY

Kelly has had personnel, sales and management experience during the past 16 years, and, currently, he is employed in wage and salary administration of Chrysler.

Currently a board member, Kelly chaired a child safety committee for the district. He received a bachelor's degree from the Detroit Institute of Technology in 1966 and was honorably discharged from the army in 1968 after two years service including duty in Vietnam.

Q. What do you think is the role of a board of education member?

A. To provide direction to all personnel and functions of the school district for the purpose of unsuring a comprehensive (emphasis his) educational opportunity for young people and the community-at-large.

Q. What issues will face the Wayne-Westland board of education during the next four years?

A. The continuing challenge to ensure adequate financing. The obligation to continue to examine our educational program offerings and where required, ensure development and implementation of innovative changes to meet our changing needs. The possibility of increased interest in regional bargaining by employee groups. The continued use of recently approved bond issue money and potential public works grant funds in the best interests of our schools and community.

Q. Do you favor raising the minimum drinking age?

A. Yes. Our present law, which has established the minimum drinking age at 18, provides the legal means for many high school students to purchase and consume alcohol. Unfortunately, it also provides easy access to alcohol by students not yet 18. I favor raising the minimum drinking age to at least 19.

Q. If you had an extra $1 million given to you, what would you as a board member do with it?

A. In the unlikely event $1 million was unexpectedly available, I would like to see it used in one (or a combination) of the following ways:

- Establishment of a counseling program for elementary students.
- Increased teaching staff support.
- Increased remedial reading and math staffing and materials.
- Increased elective/voluntary curricular and co-curricular program offerings.
- Establishment of a perpetuating fund for building repairs and renovations.

Q. What do you think the role of Wayne-Westland residents should be in the district?

A. To recognize the importance of, and genuinely care about, the education of children. Parents who recognize and are committed to a full educational experience for their children involving a total team effort by school personnel and parents. To continue to support and take pride in an excellent school system.

ANNE S. HARBISON

Besides serving on the W-W board from 1971-75, Mrs. Harbison also was vice-president of the Michigan Association for Improved School Legislation from 1972-74, secretary of the Wayne County Association of School Boards from 1972-75 and a member of the Secondary Commission of the State Department of Education on Curriculum Objectives.

Married for 27 years and the mother of four sons, Mrs. Harbison also was on the board of directors of the Wayne-Westland Arts Association from 1974-77, president of the Arche Club for 1976-77 and an organist for First Missionary Church. She has been employed as a secretary for the Romulus Community School System.

Q. What do you think is the role of a board of education member?

A. To set policies that will enable the administration of the district to operate in the best interests of the students, taxpayers and staff members, a viable school district.

Q. What issues will face the Wayne-Westland board of education during the next four years?

A. a) Financing of education—Other means of financing must be explored to supplement or replace the property tax which currently is unable to carry the full financial burden of running the school district.

b) Vandalism and discipline—I believe that the school system should undertake a positive program of indoctrinating students to make them aware of their responsibilities (emphasis hers) in showing respect for school property. Offenders should be made to perform tasks around the school building as punishment.

c) Restoration of public trust in teachers, administrators and the school system— . . .I believe it is time to bind up the wounds, accept the fact that unions are here to stay, and attempt to progress the interests of local public education as one team pulling together.

Q. Do you favor raising the minimum drinking age?

A. Yes. It never should have been lowered.

Q. If you had an extra $1 million given to you, what would you as a board member do with it?

A. Hard question to answer. $1 million above what? I believe in being fiscally responsible to the taxpayers—if the budget were met I'd return overage to original source, the taxpayers.

Q. What do you think the role of Wayne-Westland residents should be in the district?

A. a) They should elect the board of education independently, without regard to propaganda sent by union groups who have special interests; b) Share in the decision-making of all areas of the district; c) Encourage legislation that will maintain local control of schools; d) Keep themselves better informed.

CLIFFORD JOHNSON

A 20-year Wayne resident who is in the construction business, Johnson also has been active in community activities. He has served on the construction building codes board of appeals for Wayne, on the specifications committee for the bonding program for Wayne-Westland schools and on the district's career vocational advisory and school needs committees.

Johnson also has been White Cane chairman for the Wayne Lions in 1976 and 1977; chairman for the blind at Wayne County General Hospital; nominated for man of the year for Wayen, and served five years as fund-raising chairman for Michigan Christian Youth Camp.

Q. What do you think is the role of a board of education member?

A. To be willing to take the time in the public's sted to research the questions and problems which face the district. Also, once the facts have been gathered, to treat those problems realistically and fairly. Board members should provide leadership in making the people in this district aware of the problems facing us.

Q. What issues will face the Wayne-Westland board of education during the next four years?

A. The major issue is one that has been around awhile and that is to actively work for a better method in financing our schools in this state. I think it's time we stop talking about a change in the way we finance education and start actively working toward that end. We must shift the responsibility of financing our schools from a narrow based property tax to a more broadly based tax on all the resources of this state.

Q. Do you favor raising the minimum drinking age?

A. Yes. Statistics show that drinking at age 18 has been a problem not only in the schools but on the highways. I would be in favor of raising the drinking age to at least 19.

Q. If you had an extra $1 million given to you, what would you as a board member do with it?

A. Every year, legitimate and reasonable requests for a whole range of things are made from school personnel that must be denied year after year. Perhaps one yaer we could play Santa Claus and facilitate some of those requests. Keep in mind that a million bucks, while it seems like a lot, is only about three per cent of this district's budget.

Q. What do you think the role of Wayne-Westland residents should be in the future?

A. Each resident should make it a point to be informed on issues which face the board. They also should work closely with their schools, for only in that way will their children gain the most our schools have to offer. One other thing—I hope they vote in all elections.

Drinking age limit

had reached 11.9 per cent.

Local percentages, however, do not reflect the trend reported by the State Police. In Plymouth, Ford said, the number of drunk driving arrests of those 18-20 has remained at about 20 per cent of total arrests for driving under the influence of alcohol.

"We do not keep the same kind of statistics as the State Police, but from my point of view, I don't have the impression that we do not have any greater problem with young drinking drivers than we did before the age change.

"There may be a relationship in there somewhere, but you have to be very careful when you start throwing statistics around."

CEP bands end season

As the school year comes to a close, so does the concert season for the bands of Plymouth Centennial Educational Park.

The concert and varsity bands, under the direction of James Griffith, along with the cadet band under the leadership of Michael Endres, will present their final concert this evening (Thursday) starting at 7:30 outside the Plymouth Salem High School building.

The symphony band, also under Griffith's baton, will fill Kellogg Park with music starting at 8 p.m. Friday.

The concert program has been chosen by graduating seniors in the band and will include such selections as "Barnum and Bailey Favorites," "Fiesta Del Pacifico," "Incantation and Dance" and other favorites.

The Plymouth Community Band will start its summer series of concerts in Kellogg Park at 8 p.m., Thursday, June 30.

Township's 150th birthday

Plymouth Township observed its 150th anniversary as a municipality last week with an ice cream social at the township's recreation site at Ann Arbor Trail and McClumpha. Barney Mass (above), who is celebrating his 25th year as a township firefighter, puts a second scoop on the cone for Barbara Prey, secretary to Twp. Supervisor Tom Notebaert. Enjoying the cones (at right) are Ray and Rosemarie Krall. (Staff photos by Dennis O'Connor)

Officials report quiet weekend

While hundreds of area residents took advantage of the long Memorial Day weekend by getting in an extra day of golf, tennis, or just lounging around in the sun, local police officers were out on the highways and byways contending with the holiday traffic.

According to reports from police officials, this weekend was comparatively quiet.

"We had no more accidents or tickets issued this weekend than on any normal weekend," said Sharon DesJardins of the Wayne County Sheriff's Traffic Bureau. "Our weekends are usually our worst time, but the holiday hasn't appeared to make any difference."

Things were fairly quiet in the City of Plymouth also. Police Chief Tim Ford said there was no significant increase in traffic accidents or tickets issued.

"We had more than 100 calls asking what time the Memorial Day Parade started. And as soon as the parade was over, the calls stopped coming in."

One police officer said it was so quiet that he figured everyone had left town for the weekend.

Judging from the number of tickets written by officers from the Northville Michigan State Police Post, everybody who left town was in a hurry to get where they wanted to go.

Sgt. Gary Sauer said that troopers wrote 94 tickets in the Plymouth-Canton area between Friday and Monday. "It was a busy weekend. Most of the violations were for speeding."

None of the police departments reported any traffic fatalities.

Tax collection fee challenged

By TIM RICHARD

At first it looked like just another lawsuit from a Southfield lawyer and a group of apartment building owners.

But the tax implications are immense for such governmental units as Avon Township, Livonia, Plymouth, Westland, Detroit and others in the metropolitan area.

Attorney S. Lawrence Stein and his long list of plaintiffs are attacking the one per cent "collection fee" levied by the treasurers of a dozen or so cities and townships. They're asking Oakland Circuit Court to declare that fee unconstitutional and force the cities and townships to refund the fees to all taxpayers for the last six years.

FINANCIALLY, here is what has been happening in many of our local governments:

As they find themselves bumping up against their legal property tax limits, and as they encounter mounting hostility to tax increases, they have begun to look at fees as an important source of additional revenue.

Listen to the builders association. The builders gripe that communities are multiplying building permit fees with no regard for what services are rendered the consuming public. The builders contend it's a money-raising gimmick.

Listen to folks who aren't too embarrassed to admit they got a traffic ticket. Even minor violations with no collision or recklessness involved are worth $25 in many district courts. One strongly suspects the purpose of many such fines is not so much to punish and correct the violator as to raise revenue.

HISTORICALLY, there was a reason for allowing townships to let the treasurer charge a one per cent collection fee. In rural townships, the treasurer wasn't paid a salary. There were no big taxpayers such as factories and office buildings and apartment complexes, so there was some relationship between the one per cent collection fee and the amount of work the treasurer did.

Along about the late 1960s, the cities and big townships with paid staffs found this interesting little twist to the law:

"On all sums voluntarily paid before Feb. 15 of the succeeding year, he (the treasurer) shall add one per cent for collection fees . . ."

And so they began collecting such a fee, too.

IT DOESN'T SOUND like big money, that one per cent. For a homeowner, with a $1,200 annual bill, it amounts to $12.

But to cities it's quite a tidy sum. Consider: of all the property taxes you pay, the city gets only a fraction, with the big chunk going for schools and with the counties, community colleges and intermediate school districts getting lesser amounts.

Take a city where 25 per cent of your tax bill goes to the city government. The one per cent collection fee amounts to one-25th of all the city's property tax revenues, or four per cent of its total property tax revenues. That's fairly big money to the city.

You can bet Avon Township, Southfield, Livonia, Plymouth, Westland, Detroit and the rest will take a strong interest in Stein's case, which, for the record, is Schecter vs. the Treasurer of the City of Southfield, 77-154681 in Oakland Circuit Court.

STEIN IS raising some interesting constitutional, legal and moral questions in his brief to the court:

"All the defendant treasurers and their staffs receive salaries for the performance of their duties. . . There is no legal basis upon which a one per cent collection fee should be imposed upon plaintiffs and other members of the class.

"The amount of work that the defendant treasurers and their staffs do in connection with the collection of taxes bears no relationship whatsoever to the amount of the tax bill or the amount of the one per cent collection fee. . . Yet the higher the tax bill, the greater the collection fee. . . "

Since the collection fee is really a tax, Stein contends that it violates the state constitution, which provides that property may not be assessed at more than 50 per cent of true cash value.

The constitution says all laws must be uniform, Stein notes, but the law allows communities to waive the collection fee, "resulting in a destruction of the uniformity requirement."

WHAT YOU'RE getting is, to be sure, only one side of the story. The attorneys for the cities and townships haven't trotted out their quotations from the constitution and statutes and citations from case law, and the court hasn't ruled.

It looks like just another lawsuit until you delve into the details.

Look again at what it means to the homeowner—let alone the apartment building owners who are Stein's clients—if he wins. If your annual tax bill is $1,200, your fee is $12. Stein is asking for a six-year refund. Six times $12 equals $72. That's a bigger tax rebate than President Carter was proposing.

The Stroller

Unforgettable reunion

By W.W. EDGAR

The sun was shining brightly. It was bouncing heat waves off the concrete highway. The motor in the little cream-colored Buick was purring like a cat that had just finished a bowl of milk. Ahead, westbound I-94 stretched out for miles as we rolled along, homeward bound after a class reunion up on the St. Clair River.

More than half a century has passed since that day the little lady stepped up to receive her diploma. And we were enjoying the scenery while chatting about the enjoyment of seeing some of her old school chums. She was more pleased than ever to be with one of her old school teachers.

All the while we were discussing the class members who still answered "present" at the reunion, we were amazed at the many changes made along the highway in recent years. What a relief it was not be asked to drive the old gravel road out Gratiot Avenue to the river country.

It was a perfect day and what seemed like a perfect ending to a glorious weekend as we ate up mile after mile through the heavy, homeward bound traffic.

SUDDENLY, off in the distance came another sight.

The dark clouds seemed to gather fast. Then came a bit of wind. Before we knew it the rain was coming down in torrents. It was not the usual type of rain. This was so heavy it seemed almost like fog.

Now came a question. Should we pull off on the curb or stay on the road and battle with the elements? The little lady chose the latter and we soon were in the safety of Eight Mile. But what a deluge. We struggled through and finally the rain stopped. And what a sight we saw. The highway ahead was dry. Not a bit of rain had fallen.

Little did we know what lie ahead. By the time we reached the intersection of Inkster Road, down came the rain again.

As that little cream-colored Buick crossed Grand River Avenue, the cloud burst struck again. This time it was relentless. Almost in a flash the street was flooded. The water was up to the headlights.

Then it happened. The little lady, calling on the courage she had shown on the freeway, started through. But the motor quit.

What a frustrating experience. We sat there helpless as cars cut in and around us. As The Stroller kept watch he couldn't help but think of Noah when he built the ark to survive the 40 days and 40 nights of rain in the biblical story.

AFTER A BIT the motor started again, only to konk out at the next intersection in another driving rain. Not only did it quit, but when it started, it did so with a most horrible sound.

We managed to get home but we had the feeling of riding an old thrashing machine.

Next morning came the sad news that the muffler had given way. Not only would we have to give up use of the car for a day or two because of the auto mechanic's holiday, but the price of the new system was $71. That was the cost of the ride home.

That was not all.

When The Stroller called for the car he noticed that the rear view mirror was sitting on the front seat. Returning to the repair shop quite upset, he said, "If you fellows knocked it off you should be gentlemen enough to replace it."

Then came the startling news that the mirror on late model cars is pasted on with special glue. And, as could be expected, this shop didn't have it.

"We can get some of the special glue," The Stroller was told, but it will take several days."

On top of that a lost muffler and loss of the rear view mirror, due to the heat of the sun beating on it with the car closed.

"This is one case in a thousand," the mechnic said, "and the first one I have seen."

Along with that a $71 bill for the new exhaust system.

It was an unusual class reunion that one never will forget.

Surprise visit from the Little Red Hen

John M. Hoben, superintendent of Plymouth-Canton Community Schools, receives an invitation to attend the play "The Little Hen" being put on by first graders of Doris Balconi at Eriksson Elementary on June 8 at 1 and 2 p.m. with a 7:30 p.m. showing for the general public. The students, dressed in costumes made by parents, visited the school board offices Tuesday morning to extend a person invitation to Hoben. From left are B.J. Stridivon, Julie Makowiec, Bobby Brooks, Hoben, Robbie Burton and Jennifer Smith. (Staff photo)

Area pioneer dies

Harmon Gates, who used to play in the woods where the Observer Newspapers' office now stands, died May 29 at the age of 84.

Services for the longtime Livonia resident, who lived in Rogers, Ark. for the last five years, were held June 1 from the Schrader Funeral Home in Plymouth.

Gates was born Aug. 19, 1872, in a small frame house at the corner of Schoolcraft and Levan.

The house stood back from the road, just in front of the woods.

He was the son of Godfrey and Mary Gates, who had come to the area with their parents from Germany.

Gates and his sister, Mary, went to school at the old Newburg schoolhouse about two miles away from their home. The schoolhouse still stands behind a newer version on the hill at Newburgh and Ann Arbor roads.

Gates spent most of his adult life living near the old homestead in Livonia with his wife Martha. He was a Burroughs employee, and a member of the First Methodist Church of Plymouth.

Gates is survived by his wife, Martha; sons, Kenneth of Saline and David of Ark.; grandson, Lynn Thomas; granddaughters, Martha Jones and Mary Gates; and five great-grandchildren.

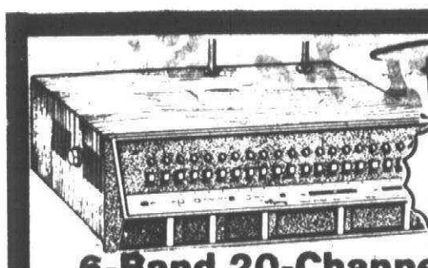

Rev. Samuel Stout of Plymouth Methodist Church officiated at the funeral and burial was at Riverside Cemetery in Plymouth.

Schoolcraft seeks funds to complete its work

Ask a person where he or she lives and the answer will be a city or township—Plymouth, Garden City, Livonia, Westland, Farmington Hills, or maybe just "the suburbs."

Rarely will someone answer "the Schoolcraft College District." Yet few institutions reached by Observer & Eccentric Newspapers have so much contact with people and have done so much to enrich our way of life.

It's time to recognize that significant contribution and to complete the work that was begun in the early 1960s with support at the polls June 13.

SCHOOLCRAFT IS asking a property tax boost of 0.8 mills. That's a modest enough request, amounting to $12 to $17 for most homeowners, even if it were enacted immediately.

Consider, however, that the full amount won't be levied for several years, and remember that a portion of your local property taxes are deductible from your income taxes.

Attractive as the campus and its satellite centers are, Schoolcraft College is less than complete. The college plans to expand the popular culinary arts program, expand its vocational-technical offerings, house the fine arts program in a suitable facility, build a new learning resources center, remodel the existing library for offices, and move some offices that are now located in houses with septic tanks onto the main campus.

The tax funds we approve June 13 will pay for operation of the programs in those buildings.

In the severe economic weather of the past few years, caused not only by the recession but also the effect of the single business tax and the loss of an earlier millage proposal, Schoolcraft has actually had to make cutbacks.

Maintenance programs on older buildings have had to slashed. Jobs have been left vacant by attrition. The library has been closed on weekends—which is all right for a high school but an extremely harsh step for a college to be forced to take. Some Saturday and all Sunday classes have had to be dropped, to the detriment of job-holding students whose average age is nearing 30.

Schoolcraft officials have forthrightly explained the needs and how they would meet them.

SCHOOLCRAFT COLLEGE deserves to be completed because it has put these communities on the metropolitan map with its cultural programs and its famed culinary arts programs.

Schoolcraft has fulfilled its mission to provide the first two years of basic college education toward a degree at a far cheaper cost to students than if they had to reside in East Lansing or Ann Arbor.

Schoolcraft students in academic programs are taught by senior faculty members, not graduate assistants.

Schoolcraft has given attention to developing the talents of mature women who used to dismiss themselves as "just housewives."

Schoolcraft has gained stature, both locally and nationally, for its attention to the needs of older citizens, particularly in the recreation field.

Schoolcraft's faculty has taken part in other phases of our communities' public life and culture, writing dramas and music that we would be unable to enjoy if the college had never been founded or so well run.

Life here wouldn't be as good as it is without Schoolcraft College. Support of the millage proposal June 13 will be not only finance the future but will give the community college a collective pat on the back for a job excellently done in the past.

editorial opinion

How about 4 for 4th?

Independence Day is 32 days away, but it's not too early to begin thinking about how you and your family would like to observe the Fourth of July.

Plymouth and Canton residents are used to observing the Fourth by watching the fine parade up Main Street and aerial fireworks that evening. In fact, local residents are so used to observing the Fourth in this manner that we almost take it for granted.

But staging a parade and hiring a professional firm for the fireworks are expensive propositions. In fact, the total bill for the parade and fireworks is some $5,000.

THE PLYMOUTH JAYCEES each year sponsor the parade and fireworks and underwrite the cost. But the club cannot do so without financial support from the community.

Last year, business, professional, industrial concerns and residents pitched in to help the Jaycees put on a fine parade and fireworks for the bicentennial year. And the same kind of response is needed this year.

If we should take the parade and fireworks for granted, and forget the costs, 1977 could be the last year we can enjoy both on the Fourth. The Observer urges our readers not to forget that the Jaycees do need help, and we suggest that now is the best time to make a donation.

Residents might want to consider donating $1 for every member of their family who'll be attending the parade and fireworks July 4. Or they may want to make it "Four for the Fourth" and send in a check for $4 to the Jaycees.

Actually $1 from every spectator would be too much, because some 30,000 people enjoyed these festivities last year. But we know that many persons will enjoy the festivities and not think of making a contribution. That's why your decision is important.

And it's an easy decision to make because the Jaycees aren't asking you to contribute much. Just a small donation so you can play a part in a communitywide observance. Make out your check today and mail it to the Plymouth Jaycees, PO Box 279, Plymouth 48170.

You'll enjoy the parade and fireworks much more if you play a part in underwriting entertainment for 30,000 people.

Steve Harper for trustee

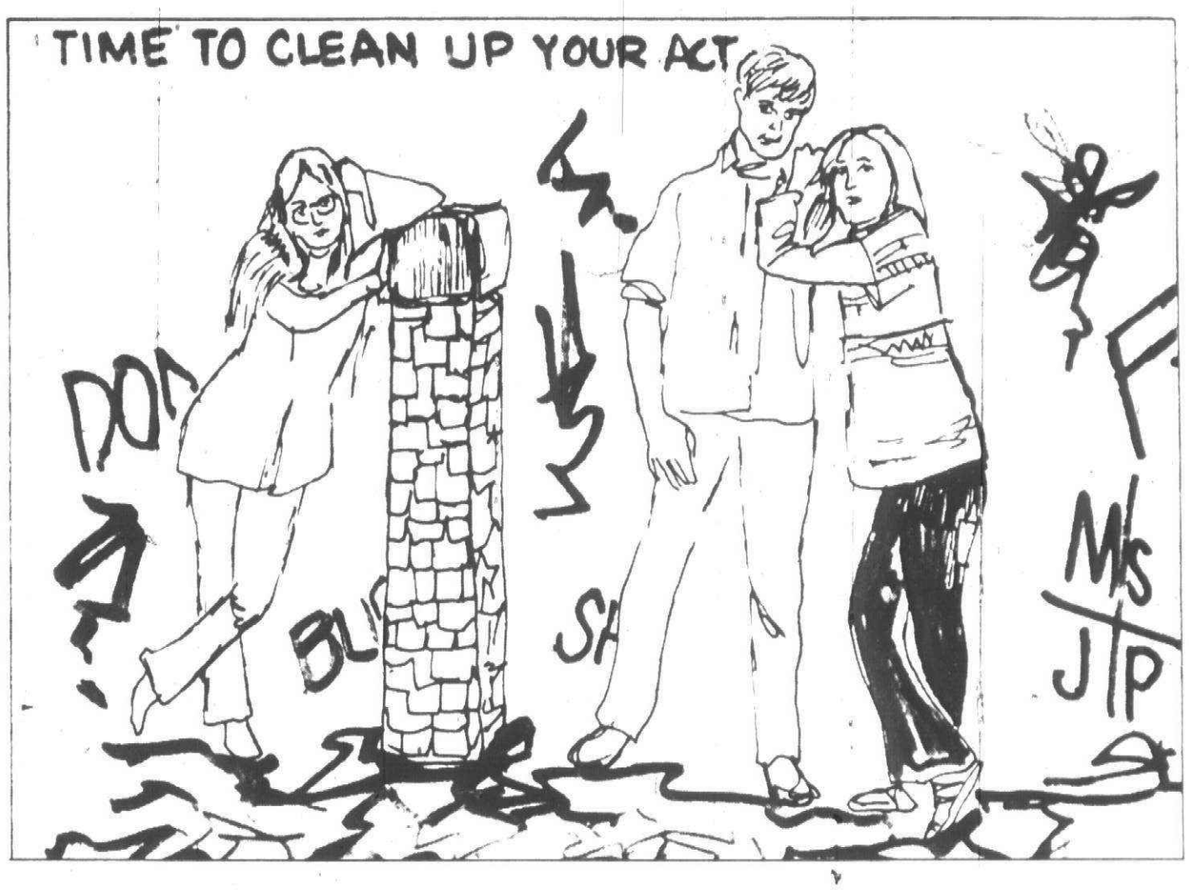

On July 13, voters in Plymouth-Canton Community School District will elect one member to the school board. The names of three candidates—Arlene Callahan, Mary Jane Mulaski, and Stephen Harper—will be on the ballot.

The Observer has interviewed each candidate and examined their involvement in the school district and other qualifications for office. We endorse Stephen Harper as best qualified and recommend him to voters.

Harper, like Mrs. Callahan, has been deeply involved in the schools as a member of various committees. He is dedicated to a rational approach to decision-making, and to meaningful community involvement with major decisions. Harper understands that if good decisions are to be made, sound decision-making procedures must be followed.

He also is committed to ongoing evaluation and follow-up, to make sure programs implemented actually perform the functions intended. He knows new programs can get lost, causing a need for drastic overhaul in the future instead of less disruptive remedial treatment from year to year.

The Observer believes residents would be served well regardless of who gets elected June 13. But we believe residents will be served best if Harper is elected, and recommend him for the office.

Litter bugs the students

A couple of weeks ago, one of our staffers judged an area-wide high school editorial writing contest.

He came back to the office enthusiastic about the high quality of the entries and made an interesting observation: "The single most popular subject of all entries was the problem of litter and vandalism in the schools," he said, "and the interesting thing was the way the kids reacted so strongly to it."

He brought back some examples, and they make fascinating reading for anybody who thinks that the kids of today lack a sense of responsibility.

A NORTH FARMINGTON High student wrote: "Obscenities are conspicuous on walls, signs are covered with graffiti, halls are filled with litter, people don't even talk in the halls any more. Students' pride in North Farmington is obviously lacking...

Observation Point

by PHILIP H. POWER

"In addition, evidence of vandalism is apparent everywhere. The walls of johns, backs of desks and bulletin boards are covered with writing. The graffiti is not even clever. The authors of this junk are not even proud enough to use correct spelling."

Another student described an episode at Livonia's Churchill High School:

"A fire burned in the trash container which is part of the Winston Churchill mural while CHS students walked by or watched... One student who noticed the smoke pouring out into the hall ran to get help. Fortunately, by the time she had returned, the fire had been put out by CHS administrators. An observer noted that the fire had been going for nearly 20 minutes."

A student at Garden City East High School wrote that "litter in parking lots, papers strewn over the floor, marred walls, and scratched desks all characterize the lack of concern for the appearance of our school."

THESE EDITORIALS did more than just describe the litter problem. They were blunt in condemning the attitude of their fellow students who produced it or condoned it.

"It's obvious that students who participate in vandalism have nothing between their ears," said the editorialist at Churchill High.

"But they are not to be confused with those who sat around on their brains and did nothing for fear that someone might think that they were a goody-goody if they were to stand up and let everyone know what they actually think.

"It's too bad that these students who spend their hours at Churchill with only thoughts of destruction and disrespect. Perhaps if they tried to listen once in a while, they might learn a thing or two about responsibility and the rights of others."

The writer from Garden City East High wondered why students "take this uncaring attitude." From walking from the parking lot of the school and its classrooms, evidence proving this poor attitude can be seen.

"This careless attitude will not be limited to school grounds. It doesn't matter where someone is or what time he litters. Sidewalks, streets and parks prove that. Maybe that one little wrapper doesn't seem like much or won't seem to make any difference, but everybody's paper or wrapper or bottle will."

PERHAPS THE BEST summation came in an editorial from Northville High School.

"Everyone knows that there is a lot of work to be done to make this school favorable, but too few care enough to attempt a change."

These kids are not goody-goodies. They are tough-minded young journalists, who still have a sense of outrage at the abuses they see in their schools.

Thank heavens we are still producing kids like that!

Branch banking laws stifle competition

Banks are mysterious things.

They seem to control our lives, but they're faceless except for the teller who takes our deposits or cashes our checks.

It's an old cliche, but it seems that when we need them most to borrow money, they're really not interested in us, or when we don't need them, they're always willing to sell their services.

There are occasions when you want to borrow money that you would never even realize that's how a bank makes its income.

But a bank is not what it superficially appears to be. It is the most highly regulated industry in the country. Unfortunately, it's regulated by both state and federal governments and the banking laws, state by state, are inconsistent.

IN MICHIGAN, after the closing of banks in the 1930s, and the scandals in the banking industry in the '40s great fears developed, so our constitution provides that it is one of the few industries that legislature must have a two-thirds vote to pass laws concerning them.

Because of what happened in the '30s, Michigan has fought against statewide banking and the state statute provides that no bank may have a branch more than 25 miles away from its main office.

These are political decisions. The net result has been a concentration of the banking industry in the metropolitan Detroit area with some outposts on the western side of the state in Grand Rapids. The rest of the state has been denied a banking system that has sufficient funds to finance large industry.

Eccentricities

by HENRY M. HOGAN, JR.

Consequently, the outstaters either have to come to Detroit for their funds or go out of state. Why these outstaters have not risen up in arms over the years, nobody seems to know.

WHILE THE STATE STATUTES said there would be no branch banking beyond 25 miles of the main office, over the years there have been many operations that have gotten around it.

Major banks either started or purchased little banks through pension trusts or individuals so that they, in fact, have a new bank that they could branch out 25 miles.

This was successfully done in the Detroit area in the 1960s and was called "satellite banking."

The people at Michigan National Bank, for example, started the Livonia National Bank and the Troy National Bank and the Oakland National Bank in Southfield. The Parsons' group of young bankers did the same thing with the Birmingham-Bloomfield Bank, the National Bank of Royal Oak and some 16 others as satellites of the Bank of the Commonwealth.

In the past several years, the Bank Holding Act was amended so that these satellite banks did not have to be individually owned and could be owned by one central holding company which was highly regulated.

THUS, THE LIVONIA NATIONAL BANK and the Troy National Bank became part of the Michigan National Holding Co.

When we step back and look at the banking laws we ask: Who are they meant to protect? The people? The consumers? The bankers, or other bankers?

The limitation on branch banking limits competition. It is only through competition that we now have Saturday banking and drive-in banking and 24-hour bank tellers, late banking hours, and no-charge checking accounts.

The satellite banking system brought banking executives out into the suburbs so that businesses could negotiate decent-sized loans with important banking officers and still have the resources of a larger bank downtown.

But if you step back and look at it, satellite banking and now bank holding company banking are really fiction. It's really a series of banks that is meant to bring the services to the customers to be more competitive.

Last week, Attorney General Frank Kelley started suit against Michigan National Bank on behalf of the State Financial Institution Department. He claimed Michigan National Bank, through its holding company, was in fact letting its various wholly-owned subsidiaries take deposits on other subsidiary banks and cash checks on other subsidaries. So in fact, they were violating the branch banking law.

THE ANSWER SHOULD BE: "So what?"

The answer should be that the people in the state should cry out against banking laws that limit competition and entrench larger banks as long as the banks are well regulated.

Frank Kelley is supposed to be the consumer's advocate. He has appeared time and time again on behalf of the consumer before the Public Service Commission fighting rate increases for utilities.

Now he has put himself in the position of being the advocate of the big banks in Detroit who never did like the way the Stoddards ran Michigan National Bank.

What jobs, powers?

SEMCOG ponders water board

By TIM RICHARD

The Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG) is struggling with its biggest operating decision in the decade it has been in existence.

The question is not whether, but how, to establish an "Area Water Quality Body" as part of a federal goal to have all bodies of water clean and swimmable by 1985.

There are signs the debate may soon find Detroit and some conservative suburbs on one side and the regionalist-minded suburbs on the other.

JERRY RAYMOND of Livonia, Larry Pernick of Southfield and David Shepherd of Oak Park took the regionalist view last Friday when the question came to SEMCOG's executive committee.

They contended SEMCOG should appoint the Water Quality Body's governing board, or at least most of it, and the WQB should be a kind of appeals board to air and resolve disputes between local governments on water quality questions.

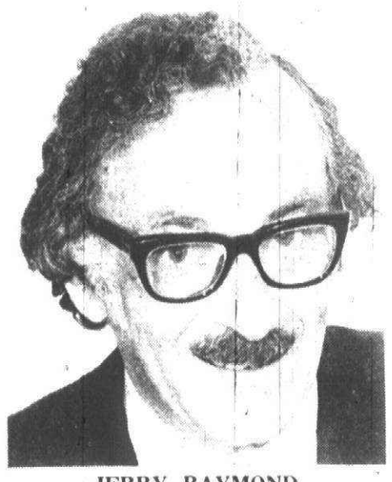

Conrad Mallett of Detroit and James Lanni of Royal Oak sought a lesser role for SEMCOG, with Lanni vainly suggesting there be no WQB at all.

Although it's a theoretical possibility, no one in SEMCOG is suggesting that the voluntary planning agency or whatever water Quality Body it creates actually get in the business of building sewers or drains or inspection systems. Under all plans SEMCOG is considering, all pollution control measures would be left to local and county agencies and the Michigan Department of Natural Resources.

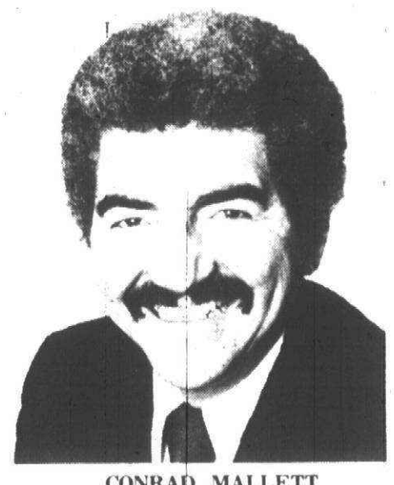

UNDER FEDERAL guidelines in Sec. 208 of the 1972 water quality act, SEMCOG was selected as the regional planning agency to come up with a water quality management structure.

"There is no requirement in Sec. 208 to establish such a board," said Shepherd, SEMCOG chairperson and mayor of Oak Park. "But we have a responsibility to come up with a management system."

Raymond, SEMCOG parliamentarian and Livonia councilman, argued for a strong SEMCOG role in the Water Quality Body. "I know of no other group that directly represents so many people as SEMCOG," he said, adding: "Review (of all pollution control efforts) and appeals belong with the SEMCOG general assembly."

JERRY RAYMOND
'SEMCOG represents people'

CONRAD MALLETT
'Be a planning agency'

Raymond pleaded with the executive committee not to repeat "our asininity" of allowing the Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority board control to slip from SEMCOG's hands. The original act setting up SEMTA put majority appointment power in SEMCOG's hands, but the state last year stripped SEMCOG of that function and turned it over to the mayor of Detroit and county boards.

MALLET DISAGREED with Raymond, and his disagreement is significant. For besides being a former SEMCOG chairperson and a current elected Wayne County commissioner from Detroit, Mallett is Mayor Young's director of the Detroit Department of Transportation. Thus, he was speaking with Young's voice.

"We said we wanted to be a planning agency," said Mallett, arguing for a management system where SEMCOG would have little or no appointive authority.

"Words like 'monitor' and 'implement' change the nature of SEMCOG," Mallett said.

Raymond replied: "I object to relinquishing 1) the power of appointment and 2) the appeals power. I'm not talking about implementation.

"If there is an allegation of deviation from the plan by a local body, that's for us to determine. I do not suggest we operate and carry out the plan. But do not relinquish the authority to appoint!"

Larry Pernick, an Oakland County commissioner and experienced voice on the SEMCOG executive committee, said the elected officials who run SEMCOG are expected to make decisions, "but we don't want to be held accountable for those decisions. We cannot go on creating new bodies. I am not convinced that one more independent body that will be divorced from the people affected is the way to go."

That put Pernick in the camp of those who want the Water Quality Body closely tied to SEMCOG.

THE EXECUTIVE committee finally narrowed its preferred management options to three middle-of-the-road plans, asked staff to develop those, and advanced the plan to the SEMCOG general assembly, where all final decisions are made by all member governments.

The preferred systems are:

- Plan C—SEMCOG would make some WQB appointments, sharing authority with counties, municipalities and the governor; SEMCOG would handle all appeals.
- Plan D—SEMCOG would make only a few appointments, with local governments making the others; SEMCOG would again handle all appeals.
- Plan E—SEMCOG would have even fewer appointments, and the state Water Resources Commission would handle appeals.

Plan F gave SEMCOG no appointment power and left appeals to the state. Plan A gave SEMCOG all appointment power and B half the appointment power; botT0 A would set up the water quality body as a SEMCOG committee, while B would give it some operating autonomy.

Only one-fourth of S'craft tax will be levied in first year

Schoolcraft College will use about one-fourth of its new money the first year if voters on June 13 approve a 0.8 mill property tax increase.

That financial outlook appeared as E.F. Peterson, manager of business services, projected a $10.66 million budget for fiscal 1977-78 to the board of trustees May 26.

Without the tax increase, Petersen said, the college will have a little more than $10.3 million in total revenue. Program cuts or tuition increases, or a combination of both, would be needed to avoid a deficit of nearly $400,000.

A PUBLIC HEARING on the budget was set by the board for 8 p.m. Wednesday, June 29 in the conference room of the college administration building at 18600 Haggerty, Livonia. By then the results of the June 13 election will be history.

Petersen projected an enrollment increase (in credit hours) of 2.2 per cent, inflation of six per cent and utility increases of 20 per cent. The latter two figures are being used nationally by economists, he said.

By using 0.18 mills of the new money, he went on, Schoolcraft would have property tax revenue of nearly $3.75 million; without it, property taxes would yield $3.4 million.

Here's how the $346,000 in new revenue would be used:

- $100,000 to a special maintenance account. The total for this item would thus be raised to $250,000.
- $50,000 for a special equipment account. The new total would be $150,000.
- $167,000 to "personal services"—salaries and fringes. The new total would be $8.7 million and constitute 85 per cent of the total budget.
- $26,000 in non-personal services, raising this total to nearly $1.4 million.
- $3,000 to the continency account, raising it to $154,000 or about 1.5 per cent of the total.

College President C. Nelson Grote called the spending pattern "a conservative needs model."

Board members asked a few questions but engaged in no further discussion of the budget.

IN CURRENT BUDGET spending matters, the board voted unanimously to:

Purchase nearly $11,000 in stationery from Beecham, Peck & Lewis Papers of Detroit, lowest of four bidders.

Hire Carmichael & Associates of Farmington to do two energy use studies—on heating ($4,000) and air conditioning ($9,000). The board must decide what kinds of fuels to use and whether to have a centralized or decentralized heating-cooling system.

School board buys 15 buses

The Plymouth-Canton Board of Education approved the purchase of 15 66-passenger buses for $243,338 last week.

The purchase was necessary to replace four buses going out of service, along with the addition of 12 more to meet the demands of an enrollment increase of 200 new students this fall. The buses will also be used as spares for part-time service.

Bids for 13 of the buses were awarded to Classrooms, Inc. for the total amount of $217,776 and the remaining two were given to Great Lakes & Wolverine for $35,562.

The school board also awarded bids of an additional $43,075 for the purchase and installation of lockers, and art instruction materials and office and teacher supplies for warehouse stock.

The lockers are needed to accommodate the implementation of the extended school year schedule at Pioneer Middle School.

Red Cross needs more blood donors

The Red Cross needs blood and is asking residents of the Plymouth-Canton area to consider becoming regular donors.

According to statistics, only three per cent of all eligible blood donors in the entire country give blood on a regular basis, despite the fact there is a constant need for blood for open heart surgery patients and victims of accidents, blood disease and shock.

There is a donor center at 15425 Middlebelt in Livonia, which is open five days a week. To make an appointment, call 422-2887.

In addition, there are two bloodmobiles scheduled for the Plymouth area next month.

The second will be at Our Lady of Good Counsel, 1060 Penniman, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. June 11.

Dinner on Friday night was in the Executive Inn in Louisville.

Must be Sunday! This is Berea

Back in their grade school years, the 84 seniors could have ended their compositions describing the trip to Nashville on the same note: "We returned home, tired but happy."

They boarded two chartered buses at the Plymouth Cultural Center at 7:30 a.m. Friday, May 20. By the time they returned to Plymouth the following Monday afternoon, they had visited the Grand Old Opry and packed a host of sight-seeing and side trips into their four-day journey.

The trip was co-sponsored by the local YMCA and the Plymouth Community Credit Union's Crediteers, a senior citizens club. Janet Luce planned and supervised the trip for the Y in cooperation with Dorothy Chandler of the credit union.

The party stopped for lunch in Lima, Ohio then rolled on to Louisville, Ky. Their goal was the Executive Inn where they enoyed a warm dinner and a cold duck party. Breakfast was served the following morning.

ANOTHER NOTABLE guest arrived at the inn that evening but none of the Plymouth people caught the slightest glimpse of him. Elvis Presley and his entourage took over the third floor of the building. The aging rocker was guarded so well that not even the ruse of pretending to get off the elevator at the wrong level worked. Elvis maintained his privacy.

On Saturday morning the group traveled to Whitney Farms, one of the typical bluegrass horse farms in the area. Then they headed south for Murphreesboro to unload their baggage at an inn before going to Nashville and the Grand Old Opry.

Following Sunday morning breakfast, two local guides—one for each bus—conducted a Nashville tour.

The two buses went to Berea, Ky. Sunday afternoon where reservations had been made at the Boone Tavern for dinner, overnight lodging and breakfast.

Monday morning was a free time. The travelers could tour Berea College or shop for Appalachian handicrafts near the tavern before starting for home.

HAVING 84 PERSONS drop in for lunch can strain the facilities of some restaurants.

Dorothy Chandler praised the food and the service of the Heritage, a new chain of restaurants which serves food cafeteria-style.

"They have long tables which seat 18 to 20 persons and three buffet tables," said Mrs. Chandler. She added that there was a wide choice of southern food: Yellow grits, beans and bacon, corn pone, hush puppies and "all kinds of salads."

She also recommended the food and atmosphere at the Executive Inn and Boone Tavern. She particularly enjoyed the spoon bread, that hot custard-like bread that has to be eaten with a spoon.

The Nashville junket was the first senior citizens' trip for Roberta and Milt Orr who still are marveling at the seniors' stamina.

Milt doubted that any of them would be able to be up, dressed and have their luggage out by 7:30 a.m. "I'll bet you a dollar none of the luggage will be out there on time," he told Roberta when they retired.

"When we got out there in the morning, there they were. Most of them were there before us," said Roberta.

RIDING ON THE BUS for long distances need not be boring.

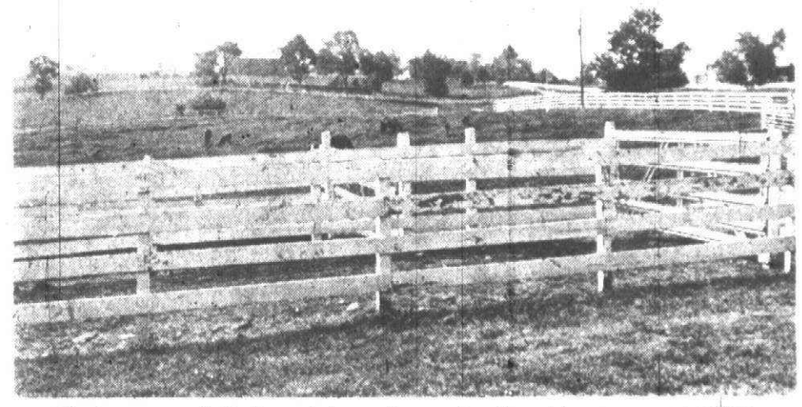

There are sing-alongs, bingo games with prizes and exercises.

The exercises keep the blood flowing and help ease the kinks and stiffness of muscles and joints. A bus loaded with passengers who seem to be flailing the air with their arms sometimes causes bewildered looks from other motorists and pedestrians. But when those passengers get out of the bus, they will not suffer the aches of a long ride.

The problem of who sits where on the bus is solved by a rotation system. Every time the bus stops everyone moves up three seats. The moves sometimes cause a little confusion but no one is relegated to back of the bus for the complete journey.

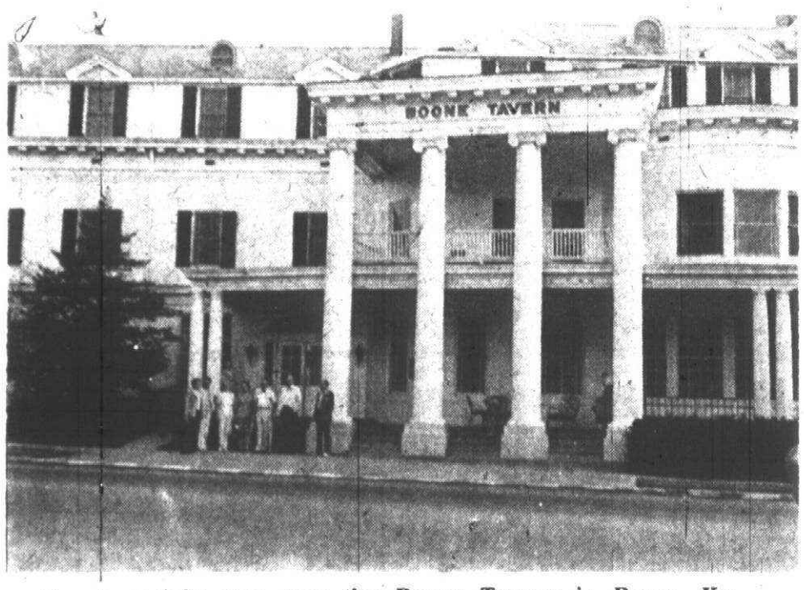

The buses travel together and alternate the lead position on the return trip. Janet Luce and Dorothy Chandler agreed it had been a good trip.

"It's like being in one big family," said Dorothy. "Getting up and saying good morning to the same people—there's a feeling of warmth and friendship that I enjoy being part of."

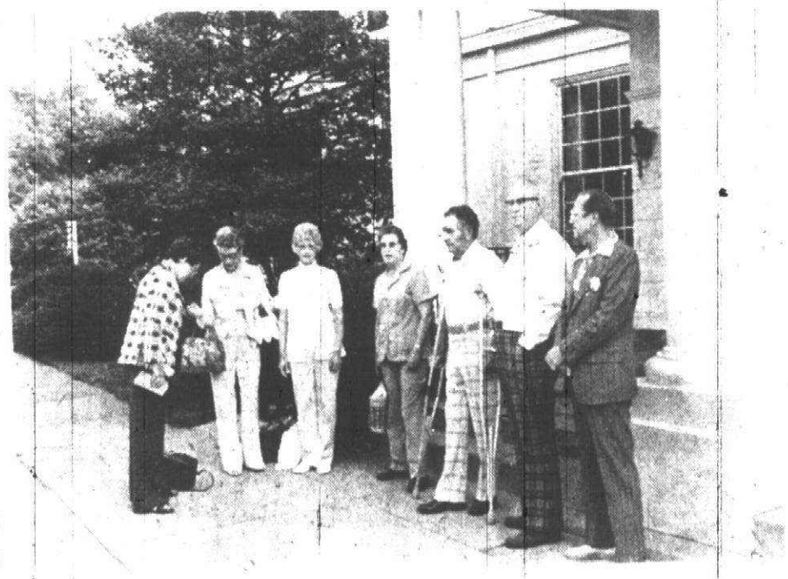

The group visited a horse farm in the bluegrass country.

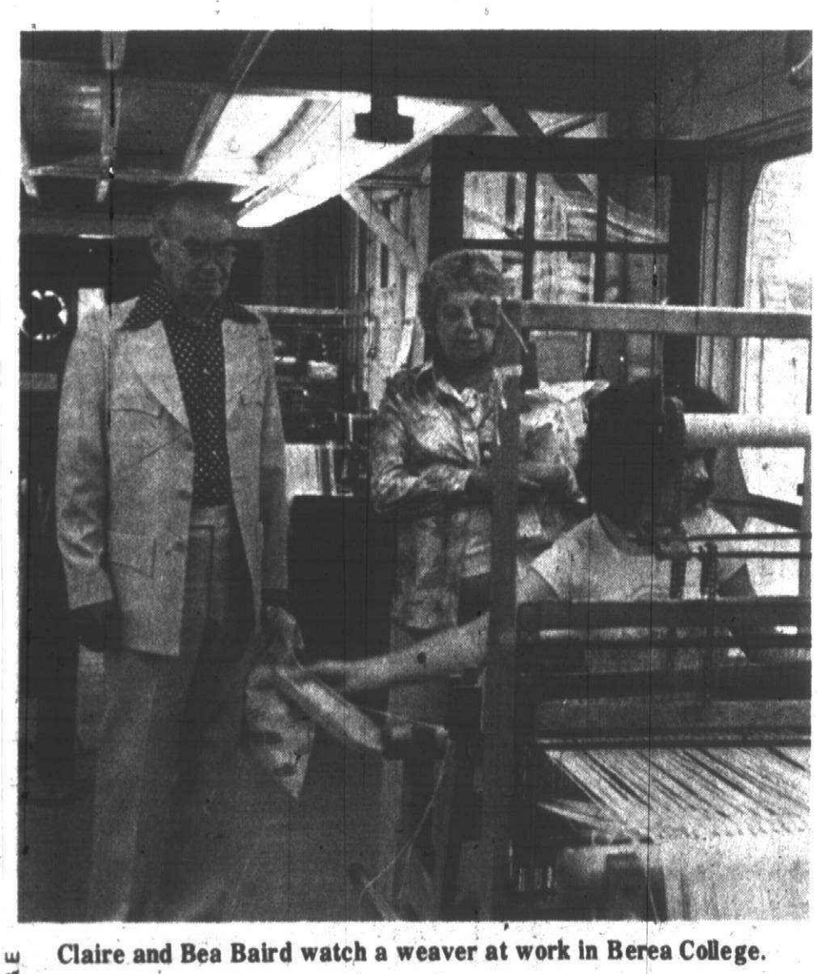

One overnight stop was the Boone Tavern in Berea, Ky.

Claire and Bea Baird watch a weaver at work in Berea College.

One of the two busloads rolls merrily along on the Nashville trip. (Photos by Dorothy Chandler)

Canton chatter

By SHARON STARON 455-5322

The campers were packed and boats hitched to various autos last weekend as many families were on their way to a fun holiday mini vacation.

The crowds I encountered at the local nurseries, however, led me to believe I was not the only one who stayed home to do yard work. If you spent the weekend at home, pulling weeds, or away, basking in the sun, this still was the official Memorial Day weekend that marks the turning of the season to white shoes and straw hats and many days on the beach.

The summer sessions at the high schools were posted last week. Swimming lesson registrations have been made by many children, and the baseball season is well under way.

THE PLYMOUTH-CANTON Junior baseball league is probably the most popular sports league.

Any sports activity has to have community involvement. Parents always are needed to manage teams in order for the teams to exist. Because baseball is the largest and most popular sport, more managers have to be enlisted to help. Every year the league has had a manager for each team. Sometimes, however, it comes right down to the wire before enough volunteers are acquired.

There has been a lot of talk about how some Little League sports fall short of teaching our youth how to have fun while participating in an organized activity. Being a firm believer in not complaining about something until having enough information to voice an opinion, I decided to get involved in baseball this year—other than just my normal position of spectator.

Since the beginning of May, I have been the official manager of a girls' softball team. The girls in this division are aged 9-12.

What a thrill it was to learn that I was not the only "rookie" manager.

Much assistance was needed at the beginning of the season and our league director, Larry Arnold, was always there to help.

Another less experienced Canton manager is Sue O'Donnell. Her sons, Ed and Steve, are helping her coach the Glads. The Glads are doing great. As of this writing, they are undefeated; Sue says she is having a lot of fun and enjoying the experienec immensely.

Cantonite Bob DeCorte manages the Bunnies and also is having a good time. His team is improving every day with his help. They are having a lot of fun in the process of learning the game.

My Kittens also are undefeated—because of me or in spite of me hasn't been determined. I also have a better picture of Little League-type sports.

The directors of the program stress good sportsmanship. Everyone has to play in each game. The main point for the children is to learn the fundamentals of baseball.

It is the manager of each team who sets the tone for the kids. The children take their cues from the adult.

If the purpose of the game is to win rather than to learn and have a good time, it's the manager's fault.

If you're not happy about the person coaching your son or daughter, give some serious consideration to managing a team next year. Everyone in the association is more than willing to help beginners. We need considerate, even-tempered, and baseball-for-fun philosophies in the league.

If I can do it, anyone can. It takes time to manage a team, but, it takes time to be a parent. It also takes time to teach children how to win gracefully and lose with a smile. You don't have to be a parent to coach a team. I do not have a daughter.

I now have 16 great little girls I refer to as "mine."

THIS YEAR'S MUSCULAR Dystrophy Association March Against Time campaign begins this weekend.

This is a door-to-door campaign. All the money raised will go toward wheelchairs, hospitalization and medical supplies for dystrophic patients.

Cynthia Betley of Lancaster Court is chairwoman for the Canton walk.

"We would like to do especially well this year," says Cynthia, "because the poster children for Southeastern Michigan are Canton residents."

Five-year-old Christopher and 3½-year-old Matthew Yotti live in Carriage Hills subdivision.

They and many other dystrophy patients will benefit from Canton residents' generosity.

Remember: "The time you give helps a child live."

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Betley, in cooperation with the Detroit Alumni Association of Sigma Pi fraternity, is sponsoring a fund-raising auction for the benefit of the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

The auction is being given by the Gallery Art Center and will include outstanding original signed lithographs, etchings, oil paintings and sculptures.

Artists include Norman Rockwell, Leroy Neiman, Edna Hibel, Salvadore Dali and many more.

Starting prices will range from $10 to $500.

The auction and exhibit will be in St. Theodore Parish Hall, 8200 Wayne Road, Westland. A champagne preview will start at 8 p.m. and bidding will begin at 9.

Art collectors and those looking for just the right decorator touch will not want to miss the auction.

Admission will be $1.50 at the door. All proceeds will go to the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

THE KINGDOM IS A TREASURE: PART 1

In Melvindale, Michigan, a young boy walked along on Wood Street on a sunny, breezy, and warm Fall day. Tumbling along ahead of him on the sidewalk were some green pieces of paper—a ten, a five, and some one dollar bills. He joyfully scooped them up and went merrily home. Did he do this because he was greedy? Or perhaps because he was ecology minded? No, he picked them up because he recognized their value.

Jesus tells us that the Kingdom of God will be personally appropriated when it is recognized as a treasure (Matt. 13:44). There is no emphasis in this parable on seeking or searching. The treasure is unexpectedly uncovered, the "finder" hides it, and out of joy sells all that he has to buy the field in which the treasure was buried. He buys the field to obtain the treasure. Through buying the field he takes possession of the treasure. In this way he is entitled to all the benefits of such possession. By ownership he appropriates the treasure and benefits of its wealth.

Thus, when the kingdom is seen as a treasure it will be personally possessed. There is no ambiguous believing. If you recognize the value of the kingdom, then you will personally appropriate the word of the king as your very own (cf. 1 Cor. 15:2). This is how God brings his elect to himself and on to glory. He gives spiritual eyes and ears. He forms men of determination who must possess the kingdom as their very own.

Schoolcraft boosters display their prowess in fund-raiser

Schoolcraft College means a lot to people like Maud Piggot and Joe Squires.

Also to Nelson Grote and Ron Griffith and Ken Kianfor.

So the former, who help at the college and enjoy its facilities, will join with Schoolcraft's president and dean and faculty members in a special fund-raiser Triathalon from 6-9 p.m. tonight to boost Schoolcraft's coming millage election June 13.

All of them, along with other deans, faculty members, administrators, students and interested citizens will run a few miles, swim a few dozen lengths or wheel along the campus bike trails to collect on pledges that have been made on their prowess.

Funds thus raised will go to Citizens for Schoolcraft College, a volunteer group that is sending out mailers and making calls to support the college's request for a millage boost of eight-tenths of a cent per $1,000 state equalized valuation to continue and upgrade its programs.

Participants and pledgers will be welcome to get into the acts right up to the time Mrs. Piggot, 69-year-old Canton resident, starts swimming laps, Joe Squires gets of Farmington Hills gets into his biking and jogging and Griffith, Schoolcraft dean of student activities, sets out on a run he says will take him two to five miles.

OR FOLKS may want to put their money on Dr. Grote, Schoolcraft president, or Dr. Eric J. Bradner, president emeritus, who will race on adult tricycles in the feature event that begins at 8 p.m.

The runners and joggers will go at 6 p.m. and the swimmers at 7 p.m., with bikers taking over at 8 p.m. All events will be held in the area of the physicial education on campus, and forms for participation or pledging are available in that building, in the office of Marvin Gans, athletic director.

Plans for the fitness Triathalon developed out of conversations among members of the Citizens for Schoolcraft College on how to raise money to back the mail and telephone campaign to support the millage.

"We can't use public funds for sending out communications on this," explained a member of the committee, "but the people doing the work are donating a great deal of time, and we need some financial backing."

Mrs. Piggot's enthusiasm for swimming got the idea going, and then Griffith volunteered to go into his running act, wearing a T-shirt bearing the name of the Women's Resource Center and carrying a WRC tote bag as a handicap.

At that point Dr. Grote remarked he'd be willing to ride one of those big bicycles on a bike trail if he could find the vehicle.

Dr. Gans said he had one, and he was sure he could get another should Dr. Grote wish to challenge Dr. Bradner.

MAUD PIGGOT hopes to do lots of dollars worth of good for Schoolcraft as she heads into her swimming act.

A retired nurse, she became interested in both swimming and the college in recent years.

"I moved to an apartment in Canton where there was a pool," she explained, "so I taught myself to swim. I don't swim like everybody else, but I enjoy it and swim at the school or at the apartment just about every day."

Her involvement with Schoolcraft came after she enrolled in a "Fitness-After-50" class in 1973 and then became involved in the federally-sponsored Retired Senior Volunteers Program (RSVP).

That led to work with Betty Andrews, SC administrator in gerontology, on a federal program to involve more older persons in continuing education.

JOE SQUIRES, is another regularly visitor to the Schoolcraft campus who is anxious to do whatever he can to help the millage pass.

He and his wife Marie come to the physical act education building often to jog or play handball, and Squires has promised he'll carry pledges for both running and biking in the Triathalon.

An employee of the Ford Motor Co. Livonia transmission plant, Squires is currently on medical leave while recuperating from brain surgery. He also takes classes at Schoolcraft, currently trigonometry.

Rev. Schmidt set for installation

The Rev. Ralph G. Schmidt, the clergyman who played a major role in the organization of Livonia's new Missouri Synod Lutheran church, Christ Our Savior, will be installed Sunday as its first pastor.

Installation of Rev. Schmidt, who for the last four years was assistant pastor of St. Paul Lutheran Church of Northville, will take place at 3 p.m. in Hosanna-Tabor Lutheran Church of Redford Township and will be conducted by the Rev. Roy Pranschke, another pastor instrumental in getting the new congregation started last year.

The Rev. Richard Schlecht, president of the Michigan District Missouri Synod will deliver the sermon, and Rev. Pranschke will be assisted by the Rev. Bernhardt Kube and the Rev. Charles Boerger. A mass choir from several sister congregations in the area will provide special music.

Christ Our Savior congregation, organized as a mission late in 1976 with the aid of several area pastors, meets Sundays in the Harry Will Funeral Home in Livonia, and its members voted several weeks ago to extend the call to Rev. Schmidt.

The congregation's new leader, now 30, is a native of Sheboygan Wis., and was baptized and confirmed in Bethlehem Lutheran Church, Sheboygan. He graduated in 1967 from Concordia College in Milwaukee and in 1969 from Concordia Senior College at Fort Wayne, Ind.

After serving his vicarage at Trinity Lutheran Church of Jackson, under Dr. W. Harry Krieger, former president of the Michigan District, Rev. Schmidt graduated in 1973 from Concordia Seminary in St. Louis.

He was ordained on Pentecost in 1973 in his home church and then came to Northville to serve in St. Paul.

REV. RALPH G. SCHMIDT

He is married to the former Janice Mackie, a graduate of the University of Michigan school of nursing, and they are expecting their first child in November.

Members of the Missouri Synod congregations all over the area are invited to share in the installation service. Hosanna-Tabor church is located at 9600 Levern, west of Beech-Daly near West Chicago.

He'll walk the 31st mile

Guy Runyan shows off his Burning Bunion award. Having it made for him required a painstaking search for a battered sneaker.

By MARGARET MILLER

When Livonian Guy E. Runyan walks for mankind, he goes the second mile for his church.

And so the hike he takes Saturday—at least 31 miles if all goes well—will bring in dollars for both the Walk for Mankind fund being raised by several thousand others in his community and some extra funds for projects at Rosedale Gardens Presbyterian Church.

Runyan began participating in his city's Walk for Mankind the first year that Project Concern sponsored the 20-mile trek to raise funds to support medical care in this country and under-developed nations.

Then, in 1975, this church school teacher and generally concerned citizen started to wonder whether it wouldn't be possible to use the walk also to get revenues for Rosedale Gardens.

The first 20 miles he walked that year would be for Project Concern, he explained to leaders of the Walk for Mankind. Then he would walk on with members of Rosedale pledging $1-a-mile.

The idea won approval, and Runyan picked-em-up-and-put-em-down for 25 miles in 1975, netting $200 for Rosedale in addition to $412.50 for his first 20 miles.

THEN NEXT YEAR he followed the same practice, only this time he managed 30 miles.

Walk for Mankind gained $656 from his efforts, and pledges from the church members totaled $762. A grateful congregation bronzed a sneaker for a special trophy and gave hime the "Burning Bunion" award.

In this year's walk, Runyan will be hoofing t again, and the goal this time will be to repeat that 30-mile distance and then go one more mile.

"One of the members of the congregation has offered to double his pledge if he goes more than 30," explained Runyan's wife, Bettie, so he's going to give it a good try."

As in past years, Runyan will be joined on the first 20 miles of his hike by several members of the Sunday School class he teaches.

"But Guy is the only one going the extra distance," a church leader said.

Runyan, his wife and their two daughters, Lorraine and Marilyn, have lived in Livonia for 12 years and have been active in Rosedale Gardens Church for 10 of those years.

Besides his Sunday School teaching, Runyan has been president of the Couples' Club, has served a full term on the Session, governing body of the church, and now is in his second term as a deacon.

HIS COMMUNITY involvement goes beyond the church, too.

He has been active in the PTA at Whitman Junior High and Franklin High as well as the Franklin Music Boosters, and for five years has managed the Blue Jeans softball team under sponsorship of the Livonia Parks and Recreation department.

Working with the Blue Jeans is more than an enjoyable father-and-daughter activity to be shared with shortstop Marilyn and the developing of a state championship team, according to Mrs. Runyan.

Grace fetes pastor for 20 years service

The Rev. V.F. Halboth Jr. came to Grace Church on a recent Sunday, prepared as usual for an average service. He was shocked to find his good friend, the Rev. Duane Wuggazer, pastor of Redeemer Lutheran Church in Birmingham, sitting at his desk preparing to deliver the sermon.

Grace Church had arranged for a surprise service celebrating Pastor Halboth's 20th year or ordination and installation as pastor of Grace Church.

Officiants at the service included his father, the Rev. V. F. Halboth Sr., pastor emeritus of Grace, who also ordained him in 1957.

Steven Arnold, director of Christian education at Grace, also participated, along with the Rev. Herbert C. Kaas, pastor emeritus of Rosedale Park Lutheran Church in Detroit, who assists at Grace on occasion.

The choirs presented special anthems, and a fellowship hour followed the services. Some 1,100 people were at the services to celebrate the occasion.

Pastor Halboth graduated from Concordia Seminary, St. Louis, Missouri in 1957 and has served at Grace his entire ministry.

In addition to his parish duties, he also serves the community and church at large as a chaplain for the Michigan State Police and a member of the board of trustees for Redford Community Hospital.

He is a member of the board of directors of the English District of the Lutheran Church-Missouri and as a member of the board of directors of Glen Eden Lutheran Cemetery.

In June, 1976, he was a summer speaker on the Lutheran Hour.

Pastor Halboth and his wife Blanche are the parents of Mark, a dental student at the University of Detroit and Timothy, an eighth grader at Pearson Junior High, and the entire family is very active at Grace.

A gift was given to the family with "orders" that it be used for a vacation trip touring California and the western states.

'Cross of Iron' fascinates, but not here

By ROBERT GLOVER

Many citizens of England and Germany are currently experiencing war fever; a new fascination with the people and events of World War II. "Cross of Iron," a savage war film, has succeeded in Europe through this unusual social phenomenon.

The picture faces a doubtful future stateside, however, where war films hold little interest for American film audiences. Somewhere inside this weak picture there exists an interesting story about die-hard German troops on the Russian front in 1943.

Figuring prominently is Sgt. Steiner (James Coburn), a war-weary, but still effective, killer and platoon leader. Steiner's incredible survival to date is now threatened by an aristocratic new commanding officer to whom foot soldiers are expendable.

Supposedly, their conflict and its overpowering, fatal effect upon Steiner's men formed the core of author Willi Heinrich's book, the basis for this film. Indifferent writing by several writers has weakend whatever real meaning was being presented here.

The fuzzy script occasionally touches upon loyalty to one's country (right or wrong), the dignity of citizen soldiers and war's obvious futility. The Steiner Stransky (commanding officer) conflict eventually only portrays all officers as devils and enlisted men as saints.

Off screen, James Coburn is a rather quiet individual (devoting time to family and the outdoors) but on sreeen, a forceful personality. Almost instantly in "Cross," one senses we are perhaps seeing Coburn act like never before.

There's something inspiring about his Steiner; a tough but humane soldier able to protect his men during a fierce Russian attack. He also can rally them to fight and befriend a young Russian prisoner (affectingly portrayed by Slavko Stimac).

Equally noteworthy are Daybid Warner's fine disillusioned rear-guard captain, and James Mason's commandant whose outdated code of honor should be stored away for better times. Maximillian Schell (Capt. Stransky) is becoming tiresome forever playing war criminals and Nazi officers.

James Coburn (left) as Sgt. Steiner, and Vadim Glowna (right) as Kern assume surrender positions in battle sequence from "Cross of Iron."

"Cross of Iron" joins other films by Sam Peckinpah ("The Wild Bunch") that have been necessarily edited to avoid a damaging rating or offending sensitive filmgoers. Peckinpah has developed a morbid cult following among critics and film fans alike.

Obviously war is devastating, but numerous slow-motion machinge-gun killings and deaths upon barbed wire aren't necessary to make this point. Eleven minutes of shootings, throat-slittings and stabbings were removed to avoid the film's receiving an X-rating.

"Cross of Iron" is no better than any other Peckinpah blood-bath, nor is it gripping or an epic war film.

Glimpses

NEW RELEASES

ANNIE HALL (PG). The best Woody Allen film yet. Truth and comedy go hand in hand in this touching, contemporary love story. Diane Keaton is also at her very best as Annie.

BLACK SUNDAY (R). Slick thriller of inflated terrorism from a blimp at the Super Bowl. Robert Shaw and Marthe Keller are the capable adversaries. Fine acting by Bruce Dern as the berserk pilot.

CITIZENS BAND (PG). Just your average, everyday people next door, next lane, or next town, jiving each other on their piece of the electromagnetic spectrum.

CROSS OF IRON (R). Grimly realistic war drama of 1943 German retreat in Russia. James Coburn, Maximilian Schell and James Mason are the luckless Germans.

THE GREATEST (PG). Film bio of Muhammed Ali in and out of the ring as he decks opponents and stands firm against a draft-minded government.

THE LATE SHOW (PG). Comedy and suspense tangle in this melodrama about a kooky girl (Lily Tomlin), a missing cat (identity unknown), and an over-age private eye (Art Carney) who still knows a trick or two.

ROCKY (PG). Human warmth and exciting drama combine in this stirring film about a no-name boxer who gets a chance at a title bout. Acting accolades to entire cast and especially Stallone as Rocky.

SINBAD & THE EYE OF THE TIGER (G). Swashbuckling adventure-fantasy with Patrick Wayne (son of John) and Taryn Power (daughter of Tyrone).

SLAP SHOT (R). A comic and cutting look at the violence of professional hockey. Paul Newman as the amoral player-coach smiles beguilingly as he utters every obscenity in the book.

WHITE BUFFALO (PG). Charles Bronston in his 59th movie is Wild Bill Hickok chasing a nightmare vision. Western epic also stars Jack Warden, Will Sampson, Clint Walker and Kim Novak.

BACK AGAIN

THE STING (PG). Redford and Newman are the two ingratiating con men who outcon them all in this fast, funny flick that won seven Academy Awards.

Children on kidney dialysis await donors

By ALICE COLLINS

Art shrugged and muttered, "Not sure."

The 17-year-old boy had been asked if he was anxious to have his needed kidney transplant operation.

Art is in Children's Hospital in Detroit waiting for a kidney, one that must come from the dead body of a compatable stranger.

A successful kidney transplant will mean Art won't have to be hooked into a kidney dialysis machine in the pediatrics area of Children's for several hours two or three times a week, every week.

He won't have to spend all that time, lying there watching TV or with a sheet over his head to keep the light out ofhis eyes while his blood is pumped through the familiar machine at his side.

The dialysis machine is cleaning Art's blood, taking out the poisons, the job his kidneys are supposed to do but can't any longer.

ACROSS THE ROOM from Art, an 11-year-old boy is also having his blood cleaned. He's sleeping contentedly through the long process that's become a normal way of life for him.

Two others in the room show physical signs of their kidney disease which affects normal bone development. They look small, frail and underdeveloped.

There are 15 children in the kidney dialysis program at Children's now, all waiting for kidneys to come from cadavers.

None of them has a living relative with the necessary match to donate one of theirs.

"THE ANSWER IS to convince more poeple to donate their kidneys when they die," said Dr. Larry Fleischmann, director of kidney services at Children's Hospital. "Some of the children in our program have to wait as long as a year."

"An adult can decide for himself whether to have a transplant or put up with dialysis for the rest of his or her life," said Dr. Fleischmann, also an associate professor in pediatrics at Wayne State University.

"But I'm a firm believer that the transplant is the best answer to kidney failure in children. It enables them to develope more normally, both physically and emotionally."

"The kidney transplant has become a routine operation in skilled hands, and our guys are very slick. It takes about four hours for the surgery itself."

DR. ALAN PERLMUTTER of Bloomfield Hills and Dr. Yvon Silva of Birmingham do all of the kidney transplant operations at Children's—about one a month.

Dr. Perlmutter was affiliated with a transplant team at Peter Bent Brigham Hospital in Boston before coming to Children's in 1971.

Dr. Silva began doing kidney transplants while training at McGill University in Montreal, Canada. He came to Children's in 1967 and began transplanting in children in 1969.

"WHAT WE HAVE TO DO," said Silva, "is hustle people into donating their kidneys and the question is how.

"We get some calls from relatives saying someone in the family is dying and they'd like to donate their kidneys.

"But we need many more. We would like people to arrange to give their kidneys when they die. It's very simple to do, and we want to ease their concerns.

"The Karen Ann Quinlan case (a young women still alive a year after her parents won a legal battle to have her life support system removed) has set kidney donations back several years," continued Dr. Silva.

"But Karen Quinlan would never have qualified or been considered as a donor.

"THE EMPHASIS is that the donor's heart must be beating when the kidneys are removed. But death must already have been certified by that patient's doctor.

"No doctor involved with the transplant can have anything to do with treating or certifying the death of a donor."

Before a transplant team can consider using the organs from a cadaver, the donor must have had no brain activity, recorded by brain wave tests for 24 hours.

When the respirator is turned off and the patient stops breathing, he or she is dead.

In addition, there must be no narcotic in the patient's bloodstream because it clouds brain function, and his or her body temparature must be normal. If a person's temperature is too low, he or she could be in suspended animation.

After the donor's doctor certifies death, then the tranplant team may examine the body.

Farbers register most wins

It's absolutely one of the hottest racing stables in the country right now and would be welcomed with open arms at any of the 27 race tracks now operating, but Bea and Chuck Farber are saying "thanks, but no thanks—we're staying right here in Michigan."

Bea has been the leading driver at Wolverine Harness Raceway almost from the moment it opened April 11.

Her husband Charles is far and away the leading trainer as far as race victories are concerned. Many of their horses, including the new track champion Quick Command (1:55.3), have been bred on the home farm spread in Brighton.

"Maybe we could win a little more money at tracks like The Meadowlands in New Jersey or Yonkers Raceway in New York," Bea said the other night.

"But we love Michigan and when Wolverine closes in July, we'll just do our racing at Hazel Park."

Campaigning a purely home-owned racing stable of 12 to 15 head, the husband-and-wife operation is enjoying a victory production which has been without parallel anyplace in North American harness racing.

Through Memorial Day at Wolverine, the Farber Stable had started 58 races and won 19, finished second 12 times and third seven times.

"Yes, we've had cordial invitations from several other race tracks," Bea confirmed. "But, we're getting ready to set up a new training farm at Fowlerville, a new home and everything, and we're just not going to upset a life that is very comfortable for us."

The Farbers don't have stalls at Wolverine. Every evening, they van the horses to the track that are going to race that night. After the races, the horses are herded aboard and driven the 40 miles back to the Brighton farm.

"Even the horses like it better that way," Chuck insisted. "We just turn them out loose on the farm for a couple of days after the race and they don't even have to think about a training cart.

"They stay pretty doggone fresh that way and I think that's part of the difference," the trainer said.

Bea gave Quick Command a big kiss in the winners' circle after his track-record performance April 30 and Bea claims this "also makes a difference."

"I seldom even touch them with the whip," the driver said. "I do talk to them during a race, encourage them, whistle at them maybe. What they get all the time is tender, loving care."

One gets the impression that one main reason the Farbers are turning down inviting offers from other tracks is that their horses like it so much back on the farm.

Bentley wins pre-district

Livonia Bentley last weekend scored a pair of baseball victories, downing Southfield-Lathrup, 5-2, in a pre-district encounter and dumping Belleville, 7-4, in a Suburban Eight League battle.

The Bulldogs sent nine batters to the plate and scored all five of their runs in the first inning against Lathrup. Bentley did the damage with three hits, a walk, a hit batsman and a Lathrup error.

Bill Burgess slapped two hits in three at-bats and Kevin Schultz raised his overall pitching record to 8-1 with the victory.

Bentley now faces Detroit Catholic Central at noon Saturday at Butzel Field in Detroit in first-round state district tournament play.

Earlier, the Bulldogs rocked Belleville for four runs in the first inning, one in the sixth and two in the seventh to reap their 12th conference win in 13 outings.

Richard Hoffman started the first-inning rally with a walk. Pat O'Connor and Bill Burgess followed with singles to load the bases and Ron Cross tripled into left center field to clear the sacks.

Cross subsequently scored on a wild pitch.

In the sixth frame, Jim Ross singled, Kevin Perino sacrificed and Bob St. Clair, in a pinch-hitting role, tripled to score Ross.

Dave Frazier and Jim Ross each singled home a run for Bentley in the seventh inning.

Ross, who pitched the entire game, gave up eight hits, walked two and struck out four. Belleville scored two runs in the second inning, one in the third and one in the seventh.

Bentley's Tuesday game scheduled with Plymouth Salem was postponed by threatening weather.

Kuhns scores 1st hole-in-one

Plymouth Salem junior Ted Kuhns made the first hole-in-one of his golfing career last week on the 119-yard fourth hole at the Hilltop Glen golf course, in Plymouth Township.

Kuhns, who will be captain of next year's Salem golf team, used a wedge on the hole. The ball took two bounces and rolled in. On the same hole the next time he toured the course, Kuhns came within four inches of duplicating the ace.

The 17-year-old Plymouth resident has been playing golf for six years and was named to the all-metro team this past season.

Salem JV whips Canton

The initial season of junior varsity softball at Centennial Park was completed last week as Plymouth Salem knocked off Plymouth Canton, 23-9.

The Salem victory served as sweet revenge since the Rocks lost to the Chiefs in the opening game of the season.

Salem finished the season with an even 5-5 record, while Canton ended with a respectable 7-4 mark.

The Rocks jumped into a quick 9-0 lead after the first inning and were never threatened. Jill Goodrich hurled the distance to pick up the victory.

Cindy Dusha led Salem's offensive attack with four hits and three runs batted in. Lisa Gannon added three safeties and three RBIs.

Glenn's Lutri moves to EMU

The Westland John Glenn football program will be headed by its third football coach in as many seasons this fall when Chuck Gordon replaces Jerry Lutri, who accepted an assistant coaching position at Eastern Michigan University.

Gordon, who has coached defensive backs and offensive receivers over three seasons, served as Glenn's offensive coordinator last fall.

The Westland resident who teaches at Westland's Stevenson Junior High, graduated from Adrian College in 1972 and coached freshman football at Blissfield High before coming to Glenn in 1973.

Gordon was an all-state quarterback in 1967 at Central Lake (Mich.) High School, where he also lettered in basketball, baseball and track. He also played football briefly at Adrian.

Gordon majored in physical education and minored in science at Adrian and earned a masters degree at Eastern Michigan.

John Harrison, principal at Glenn, indicated that he is more than pleased with Gordon's credentials.

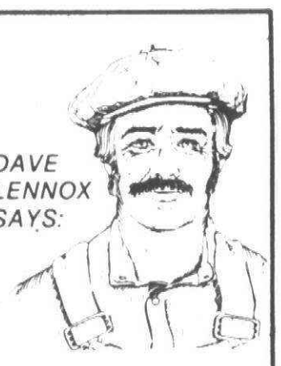

"As the offensive coordinator during the team's perfect season last year, Mr. Gordon clearly demonstrated his superior qualifications as a coach.

"He is dedicated, has a fine football mind and works well with his players," Harrison said. "Our program will continue to be in very capable hands."

Lutri, who guided the Rockets to a 9-0 record and a Northwest Suburban League championship last year, joins former Glenn coach Lloyd Carr at EMU.

Lutri was a defensive specialist who molded an team that shut out its first four opponents and gave up only 40 points in nine games.

It's district time

Canton, Salem batters prepare to battle

By DENNIS O'CONNOR
Sports Editor

The teams are different, the coaching styles are different, and the records are different.

But when Plymouth Canton and Plymouth Salem baseball teams battle each other in the district semifinals in Belleville this Saturday morning, the past season will be forgotten—at least for seven innings.

For it's state tournament time again and another Salem-Canton confrontation awaits at 10 a.m. with the assurance that at least one Plymouth squad will represent the community in the championship at 3:30 p.m.

Yes, it's a brand new season for both teams.

For Canton, a district championship will be an added feature to what has already been a most successful season. Canton has already won its third consecutive Western Six League title enroute to an outstanding 22-2 season.

Canton coach Fred Crissey is definitely looking forward to playing Salem, but considers the game as win number 23. What Crissey and his Chiefs are eyeing, is win number 24—the one that will give them the school's first district championship.

Salem coach Brian Gilles is also gunning for a district championship but in a year where his Rocks have had a so-so record, nothing would make Salem's season more satisfying than to upset the Chiefs.

FRED CRISSEY

ONE THING is for certain. Both teams have a great deal of respect for one another—and a true competitive spirit that should make this all-Plymouth battle something to behold.

In the only other tournament meeting between these two clubs, Salem ousted Canton 9-0 in 1975. The Rocks went on to win the state championship that year.

During that year, there was bitter rivalry between the two clubs as both teams tried to prove which was best in the community.

This season, the rivalry still exists. There has never been doubt that rivalry will always exist since both schools are located so closely together.

But in talking to both coaches, one will notice that much of the bitterness is gone. Both clubs are anxious to compete against each other in a sportsmanlike manner.

"There is a different relationship with these kids," Crissey said about both Plymouth squads. "No animosity exists as it did two years ago. These kids grew up together and played in the same neighborhoods together.

"Certainly, there is a rivalry, but it is not bitter."

Gilles, who teaches at Centennial Park, also notices the bitterness ending.

"These kids seem to get along better—especially in school, which is what I like to see," Gilles said.

THE RESPECT for each other is also signified in what both coaches say.

"Canton plays good defense and gets the hit when they need it," Gilles said. "They are a good all-around ballclub. If they have a weakness it's that no club has hit against their pitching and forced them to field. If we strikeout 11 or 12 times, we will get beat."

"I think the Plymouth Canton baseball program has been accepted as a good program," Crissey said. "And we know the quality of the Salem program has been good for years."

Gilles feels that Canton has an advantage in the game because the Chiefs have not committed the mental errors on the field that his club has been plagued with all season.

But Crissey realizes that its a brand-new season and feels that the mental attitudes of both clubs will be equally high going into the contest.

If there is a mental problem, Crissey feels it will be in the second game with the strong possibility of a letdown.

"Whatever team wins at 10 a.m. will have a problem at 3 p.m. (the championship game time)—simply because of the circumstances."

WHAT IS the key to winning this game?

"Pitching and defense," Crissey said. "I have no worries that we can hit the ball and make runs. We've gotten seven shutouts from our pitchers and we haven't been shutout yet this season."

Crissey said he hasn't decided on his starting pitcher against Salem. It depends on how they perform this week. But Crissey admitted that he was leaning toward Mark Perkins, who is next in rotation. Perkins is the ace of the pitching staff with an 8-0 record.

Gilles is leaning toward junior Doug Holloway as his starter. Holloway is presently the hottest member of the Rocks mediocre group. He showed excellent poise in the pre-district victory against John Glenn.

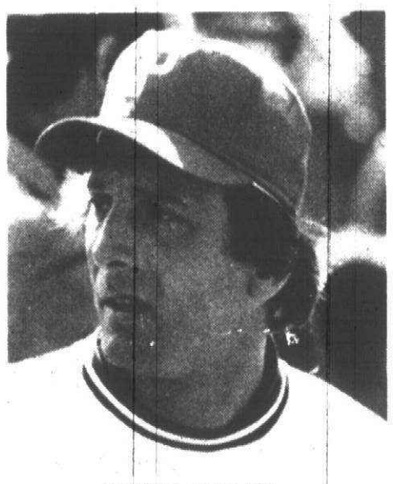

Gilles feels that the key to beating Canton is for his club to hit the ball and force the Chiefs to work in the field.

"We don't have anything else to shoot for," Gilles said about playing Canton. "We are the underdogs for the first time, but we still think we're not a bad ballclub—if we put it together.

"It would make our season if we knocked off any club with a 22-2 record."

Crissey looked at this Saturday in a different way.

"We already have gotten our piece of cake this season," the Canton mentut now it's time for the icing."

Softball squads advance to districts

It's a brand new season for the Plymouth Canton and Plymouth Salem softball teams.

The Rocks and the Chiefs both lost respective league titles but still have hopes for a district title.

Canton defeated Adrian, 17-11, in pre-district action last Friday afternoon and now advance to the semifinals in Ann Arbor.

The Chiefs play Temperance Bedford in that semifinal contest. The game starts at 10:30 a.m. at Veterans Park in Ann Arbor.

If the Chiefs win the semifinal game, they will play in the district championship at 1 p.m.

A big eight-run third inning was the key to Canton's victory over Adrian. The offensive battle also saw the Chiefs score one run in the first and fourth innings, two runs in the fifth and seventh, and three in the second stanza.

The explosive eight-run surge put Adrian away early as Lucy Howe went all the way on the mound for the victory.

Canton's 13-hit attack was led by Judy Freiman and Howe who collected four hits each. Freiman blasted a three-run homer, Sue Rekuc pounded a triple and Howe added a double to the assult.

Fourteen Chiefs batted in the third inning as Rekuc started the fireworks with her triple. Evie Pasek then scored Rekuc with a sacrifice fly.

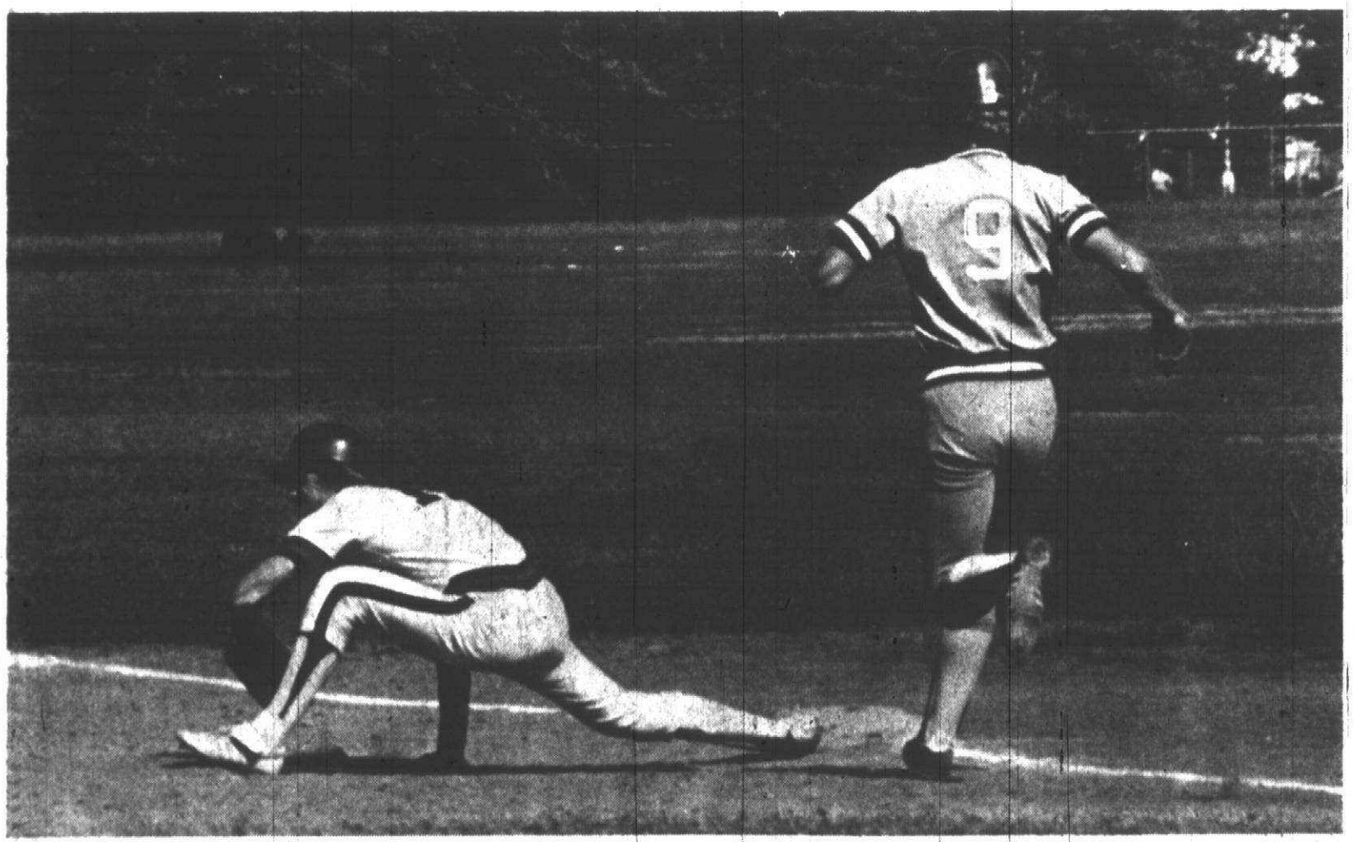

Howe punched a bases-loaded single to centerfield later in the inning. On that play, the Adrian fielder committed an error scoring all four runs. Freiman, Kathie Peck and Vickie Cavallaro all scored in front of Howe.

Base-on-balls were issued to both Pam Schipani and Evie Pasek before Freiman drilled the three-run homer which capped the scoring for the inning.

PLYMOUTH SALEM won its pre-district battle against Ann Arbor Huron Tuesday afternoon. The Rocks also play a 10:30 a.m. semifinal contest against Ann Arbor Pioneer at Veterans Park.

Salem holds a 10-5 overall record and 9-4 in Suburban Eight League play.

Canton owns a 6-8 overall mark and 5-4 in Western Six League competition.

Salem leftfielder Bob Smith (9) is out at first base after grounding to the shortstop in action against John Glenn Friday afternoon. The Rocks won this pre-district battle, 4-3, to advance to the district semifinals against Canton Saturday afternoon. (Staff photo by Art Emanuel)

Netters compete in league meets

Plymouth Salem and Plymouth Canton tennis teams participated in respective league meets yeaterday.

The Chiefs hosted the Western Six League meet while the Rocks traveled to Dearborn for the Suburban Eight League encounter. Results will be printed in next Monday's Observer.

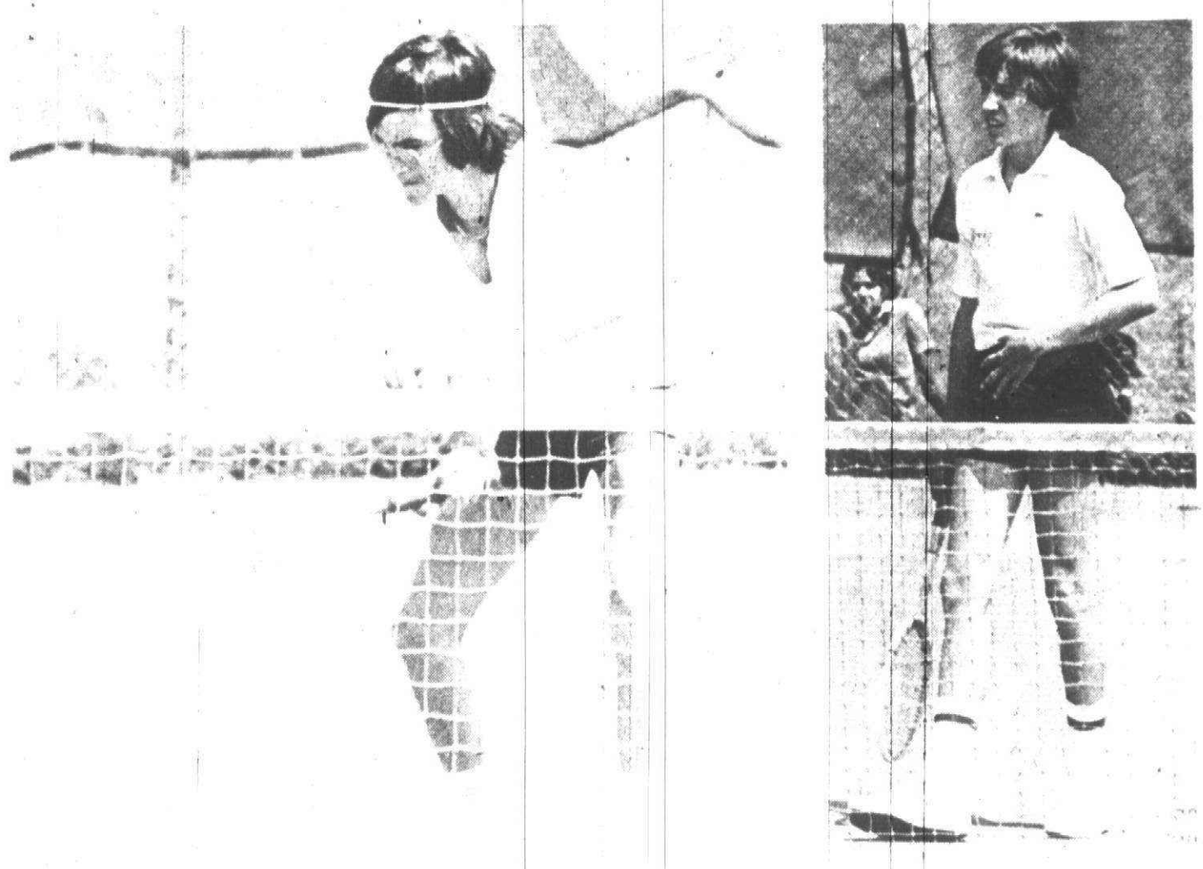

Salem holds a 5-9 overall which includes four victories in the conference. Canton is 6-8 overall and has a fourth place standing in the Western-6 with a 4-6 mark.

In action last week, the Rocks beat Trenton on Tuesday, 6-1, but lost matches to Ann Arbor Huron, 7-0, and Dearborn, 5-2, later in the week. Tuesday afternoon's dual match against Bentley was cancelled due to rain.

The second doubles combination of Craig Stevens and Ed Thomas along with first singles Curt Schultz, won the matches against Dearborn.

Canton split 4-3 decisions last week, losing to Farmington Harrison, but beating Bentley in non-league action.

The Bentley victory saw fourth singles Chris Davio and third doubles Matt Norris and Stuart Sobczynki each win split set decisions.

Register now for jr. hockey

The Plymouth Hockey Association (PHA) will hold its 1977-78 registration between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. on Saturday, June 11 at the Plymouth Cultural Center.

The association would like everyone interested in participating next year to register now to help plan for the upcoming season.

Registration fees are $25 for the first player, $20 for the second, and $15 for the third.

A $5 late fee will be added for those registering after June 11.

Canton JV ends year

The Plymouth Canton junior varsity softball team brought its 1977 season to a close with a final record of seven wins and four losses.

The Chiefs won three of their last four games, taking two from Redford Union and then a 19-3 decision over Clarenceville before losing the last game of the season to Plymouth Salem.

The mercy rule, which states that the game is called when a team is ahead of its opponent by 10 or more runs by the fifth inning, was brought into effect against Clarenceville.

The Chiefs took a 5-0 lead in the first inning and added 10 more in the second, highlighted by Chris Housden's inside the park home run.

Earlier, Canton had scored another victory by virtue of the mercy rule, 16-3, over Ann Arbor Huron, with major help from Julie Tobey, Cindy Stevens, Sherry Smith, Maureen Morahan, Angie Rich and Cheryl Pijanowski.

In the season's finale, Salem scored nine times against the Chiefs in the first inning and was out in front after two innings, 14-0. Canton came back with nine runs, pitcher Robin Radoye getting the only home run of the day, but at the finish Salem had a 23-9 edge and finished its season with a 5-5 record.

"No one was talking during the game against Salem like we did in other games," said Canton coach Cathy Himes. "Robin got the batters to pop up and then we'd end up running into each other and dropping the ball."

Morman, Randazzo, Collins, Perkins gain all-league honors

Western Six League champions Plymouth Canton dominated the all-conference baseball selections, placing four players on the first team.

The Chiefs won the league title for the third straight season with a 9-1 record. Farmington Harrison finished second. Canton currently holds an outstanding 22-2 overall record and will participate in district semifinal play against Plymouth Salem this Saturday in Belleville.

The Chiefs dominated the infield selections as three players were chosen. Senior first baseman Steve Morman headed this list. Morman was an all-Western-Six selection last season as a junior. He is by far the best fielding player at his position and was the Chiefs' second leading hitter.

Second baseman Kevin Randazzo received honors for his position. The senior right-hander, sparked the Chiefs during the second half of the season batting in the second spot of the line up.

Junior shortstop Scott Collins, the Chiefs' leading hitter with a .470 average, was everyone's choice for that position.

Pitcher Mark Perkins was the fourth Canton player to make the honor team. Perkins is Canton's ace on the mound in clutch situations. He currently holds an 8-0 overall record.

Three Canton players received second-team honors. Catcher John Young, outfielder Doug Bricker and pitcher Doug Smith were among the second-team selections.

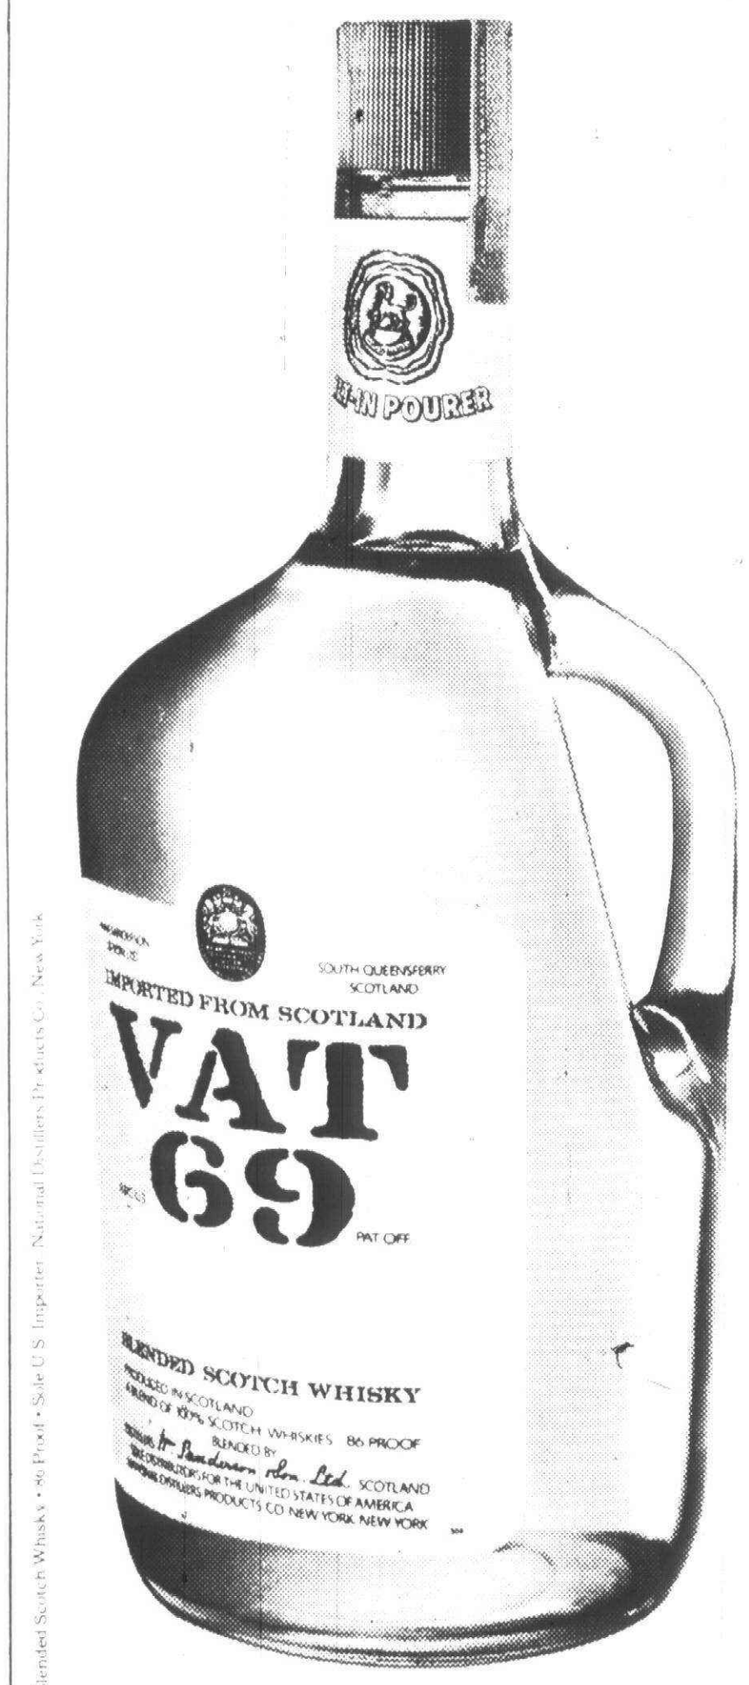

Sophomore hurler Brian James and versatile senior Rob Mandle were Canton's honorable mention players.

Rounding out the first team includes third baseman Chris Kalgren from Harrison, catcher Greg Armstrong from Northville, outfielders Nick Hamp (Northville), Kevin Guthrie (Western) and Bill Coyle (Churchill), designated hitter Larry Shay from Harrison and pitcher Greg Mathiak from Harrison.

Chiefs will defeat Rocks by 2 runs

Doc's Corner

By DENNIS O'CONNOR
Sports Editor

I thought all weekend about which Plymouth team I should pick to win the big district semifinal game in Belleville this Saturday when the solution became quite apparent.

Detroit Tiger pitcher Mark (The Bird) Fidrych lives in Belleville, correct? Well, the first team, Salem or Canton, which can successfully lure Fidrych into pitching the district contests will surely be the winner.

But seriously, I don't think The Bird can help Salem knock off Canton as the Chiefs are certain winners in the all-Plymouth battle.

The Chiefs now hold an impressive 22-2 record and a nine-game winning streak. Canton is by far the hottest team in the entire state.

The only drawback that Canton faces is the absence of second-leading hitter Steven Morman, whose defensive performance at first base and importance on the mound will be sorely missed.

Canton baseball coach Fred Crissey has the choice between ace Mark Perkins, reliable Doug Smith and sophomore Brian James to hurl against the Rocks. The odds are that Perkins will start against Salem.

It's very unlikely that Crissey will start the sophomore James, considering the embarrassment the Chiefs went through two years ago when a sophomore started in Salem's 9-0 thrashing of the Chiefs.

Crissey expects a low scoring game with defense and pitching ruling the way.

Salem coach Brian Gilles honestly doesn't know what to expect from his up-and-down squad. The Rocks will place their hopes with Doug Holloway on the mound. And it should be interesting to see how the junior hurler reacts to the pressure.

Gilles knows that Holloway must have a strong game to give the Salem hitters a shot at Perkins.

WHAT WILL Salem have to do to upset the favored Chiefs?

The Rocks will have to score against Perkins early and often. And I mean at least five runs within the first three innings of play.

If the Rocks do this, they will give Holloway a nice cushion to work with and force the Chiefs out of their style of play.

But the early Rock lead must be a substantial one. It can't be two or three runs because the Chiefs have shown they can come back strong.

But I think it's truly unrealistic to see Salem getting these early runs against Perkins.

Holloway can hold its own against the Canton hitters which should make the contest a close, tight battle all the way.

BECAUSE OF the likely closeness of the game, I have to predict a Canton victory—on past experience this season if nothing else.

Canton has time and time again proven that it can win the close, pressure-packed ballgames. The Chiefs will always come up with that key defensive or offensive play which is reflected in its heads-up play. Why else are the Chiefs 22-2?

On the other hand, the Rocks have been known to commit crucial mental errors at very important times of a ballgame.

The Rocks could easily be 18-6 going into this district game, but sloppy, lackluster performances in clutch situations have been the Rocks downfall all season. That's the reason for Salem's 12-12 record.

ABOUT THE SCORE? Well, it's almost impossible to predict something like that but I do think Canton will win the game by two runs.

And just for the fun of it—let's say the final score will read: Canton 4, Salem 2.

Rec softball tourney set

The third-annual Plymouth-Canton men's slow-pitch softball tournament will be held on the weekend of June 17, 18 and 19.

The tournament, co-sponsored by the Plymouth and Canton Parks and Recreation offices, will be run under a double elimination format.

In The Pocket.

When the all star bowlers in the Detroit area organized the all-star classic 40 years ago, it was the hope that it would be the strongest circuit in the country.

It didn't take long—just a year or two—and that recognition came.

Leagues and individual teams balked at meetings with the Detroit group and it generally was agreed that the Detroit loop, with such stars as Joe Norris, Johnny Crimmins, Harold Allen, and their mates, was the strongest between the two oceans.

Now, four decades later, the league still has the reputation of being the "toughest" in the land. This was proven again this week when the official averages for the season were released.

These statistics reveal that 60 of the 90 bowlers, competing in two different houses each week, averaged 200 or better during the 35-week season.

And, for the first time, there is a deadlock for the top individual performance. Both Bob Chamberlain and Edwin Peart posted marks of 219.32. They were tied right to the pin.

Another highlight of the averages was the fact that Bob Strampe, who was inducted into the ABC Hall of Fame last spring, tops the all time averages of those still competing in the league. Over the past 12 years he has averaged 208.49.

Right behind him is Mike Totsky, the Stroh veteran, with a mark of 208.17 for 19 years.

Despite these high averages and the high scoring throughout the year none of the Detroit teams reached the top five in the national honor roll. This is the first time in several years that Detroit is not among the top teams.

The Stroh team did make it in the single game class when its 1261 bowled early in the season that was good for fourth place, one notch below the 1262 rolled by the Tri-County Electric team that bowls out of Belleville.

MARGARET DUNLOOP finds herself at the top of the list in the largest women's tournament in the state.

She rolled a 1067 in Fred Wolf's classic at Eastland and that score is apt to stand for quite a while.

THE BIBLE BOWL TEAM, representing the Memorial Church of Christ, placed first in the second annual Michigan Christian Convention Bible School competition.

The team was composed of Paul St. Louis, of Livonia; Mark Ford of Wayne; Dave Ford, of Wayne and Robin Kitchen, of Dearborn Heights.

A second team, composed of Jerry Holden, of Canton; Karis Davenport, of Plymouth and Debbie Taylor, of Dearborn Heights, placed fourth in the competition.

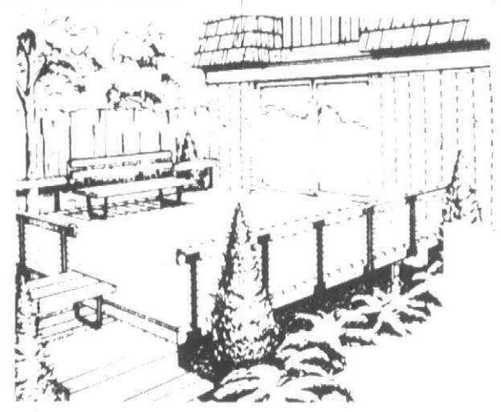

The first team placed first in the round robin, which consists of four monthly tournaments.

INASMUCH as the bowling year doesn't end until July 31 and due to the unprecedented interest in summer bowling, both the Greater Detroit Bowling Association and the Detroit Women's Bowling Association are expecting to establish new membership records.

If the present trend continues, the total membership may well surpass the quarter million mark.

At present, the Detroit women have the largest membership in the country.

I belong on Wall Street ...especially with Merrill Lynch

Mary Kay Campbell

"To succeed in the securities industry, I'd have to say a person would need energy, tenacity, perseverance, but most of all, intelligence. You've got to be smart enough to put it all together. Both the psychic compensation and very adequate material compensation at Merrill Lynch make it worth it for me."

Do you belong in a sales career at Merrill Lynch? We're looking for people for our offices nationwide - people who can absorb financial facts and deal effectively with smart, money-wise customers.

Sales experience would be an asset, but it's not necessary. If you've already proven your ability to succeed in some other field, that's fine with us.

Most important, you should be aggressive, ambitious and persistent. Be willing to take time to create a future for yourself.

We'll start you with an in-depth training program. And back you up throughout your career... with absolutely first-rate resources.

Salaries and benefits are excellent. And there's no ceiling on how much you can eventually earn. It all depends on you.

If you feel you belong on Wall Street with Merrill Lynch, write to us for an application.
