Parents fear worst after trio talks to kids

By CRAIG PIECHURA

About 25 youngsters leaving Miller Elementary School Monday afternoon were reportedly approached by a neat young man and two young women who asked them if they wanted to attend a "backyard fun fair"—causing many parents to worry that their child had been approached by a potential molester.

It is not known if the three people had a legitimate reason to be on Hanford, east of Sheldon. But The Observer has learned that at least one Baptist Church is inviting children to attend "backyard bible classes" and "fun fairs" throughout Canton this summer.

Last Friday, Canton's new Haggerty Road Mission congregation sponsored a "fun fair" at Canton Commons, featuring a performing horse who played tic-tac-toe with the youngsters and taught Bible lessons in the process. Refreshments were provided.

Asked if any backyard Bible classes were scheduled in the vicinity of Miller School last Monday, Rev. Ray Gulick, minister of Haggerty Road Mission Church, said:

"We had three bible clubs going this week but I don't know exactly where right now. I don't believe it was in that area."

APPROXIMATELY 25 children were approached on Hanford, between Gilford and Clarendon streets on Monday at abot 2:30 p.m., according to Michigan State Police Trooper Michael Knuth.

"There was no physical contact or threats," said Knuth.

From the 25 children's varying descriptions, Knuth says it is believed that the male of the group is 30 years old, with short, dark hair, of medium height and weight. One of the females is described as short, overweight, with brown hair. The other female is described as a pretty, light blonde, with hair falling down her back. Both females are said to be about 20 years old or slightly younger.

"We do have backyard Bible classes operating in Canton this summer," said the Rev. Ray Babb, pastor of Merriman Road Baptist Church, sponsor of the new Haggerty Road Mission Church. "But the only ones I know about are operating in Canton Commons and Canton Mews. I don't think it was any of our people. But we're not the only church around here conducting Bible classes. It could have been another, more agressive, ministry."

The Haggerty Road Mission minister, Rev. Gulick, said he has just informed bible school teachers and student aides from Southwestern Seminary to carry identification when soliciting members for the Bible classes.

Gulick said he knows a number of Bible clubs are being conducted in Canton; "but no one is out there soliciting, or contacting children in this manner as far as I know."

"After hearing about the situation on television, I checked it out thoroughly with my people and I believe it wasn't anyone from our group," said Gulick.

NOT ALL CHILDREN gave the same story of what was said to them when they were approached. Some said they were promised either a Barbie doll or a G.I. Joe doll if they attended a fair on LeeAnn Street.

Christine Radzik, 11, told Wayne County Sheriff's deputies the man mentioned a "bible school," another said she was invited to a "fun fair."

Most children said they were promised refreshments. Rev. Babb said refreshments are provided to youngsters attending Bible class.

"We're not buying the story about the Bible school at this point," said Arlene Woods, who organizeda a meeting of "concerned parents" Tuesday night. "If they were a legitimate Bible group, why didn't they contact the school? Why did they stop the kids on the street?

"None of thechildren I talked to School looters leave goods outside

For the second time in three months, Canton's Hulsing Elementary School has been broken into by thieves.

School custodian Virginia Migda reported the burglary at 9:30 Saturday morning, after observing overturned boxes and a pilfered first aid kit.

A trio of Michigan State Police officers recovered vinyl seats, adding machines, a manual typewriter and baseball and basketball equipment in a wooded area behind the school at 10:30 a.m., after responding to the custodian's call.

There were no signs of forced entry, said Trooper Ron Schuster, and the custodian reported that all doors were locked. Police theorized it was the work of "two or three teenagers" who lacked a car to transport the goods.

On Monday, Hulsing principal Kathryn Otto said an inventory by the chief custodian showed everything accounted for except one fire extinguisher.

"As far as we can tell, nothing's missing except maybe the one fire extinguisher," said Mrs. Otto. "We looked around the school and found no damage from vandalism.

Troopers Norm Maxwell, Ivan Figgins and T.P. Schuster dusted the recovered property for fingerprints, but by Wednesday they had no suspects in the break-in.

2 mills for more police will be on recall ballot

By DARLENE STINSON

In an unexpected move Tuesday night, the Canton Board of Trustees unanimously voted to ask township residents for a maximum of two mills to be used to expand the now part-time Canton Police Department into a full-time force.

The millage issue will appear on the ballot of the yet unscheduled recall election if township officials are able to meet Wayne County's timetable for placing the issue on the ballot.

If approved, the millage issue will enable township officials to label the township a police protection district and levy a maximum two mills ($2 per $1,000 state equalized value) for law enforcement purposes. Officials could levy the mills for an indefinite period but would be required to hold a public hearing on the matter each year.

BOARD MEMBERS took the police action on a spur-of-the-moment impulse Tuesday night, after parents of Miller School children objected to time it took the Wayne County Sheriff's Department to respond to an assistance request.

On Monday, several Miller students were reportedly approached by a white male who asked them to attend a Bible school or backyard fun fair. Concerned with child slayings in Oakland County, the school placed a call for help. But, because of a traffic accident and unavailability of a sheriff's patrol car, deputies did not arrive on the scene for 30 minutes.

"Let's get a police department in this township—one that can act when our kids need it, no matter what the cost," said one mother Tuesday night. "Whoever will give us that are the people we'll put and keep in office."

Supervisor Harold Stein, who faces a recall election along with Treasurer Anne Bradley and Trustee Eugene Daley, immediately asked board members to suspend the rules and place a two-mill request for police protection on the recall ballot.

With Trustee Lynne Goldsmith absent, board members suspended the rules by a unanimous vote. The issue was not scheduled to appear on Tuesday night's agenda.

STEIN SAID he arbitrarily picked the two-mill figure as a sum that could begin the establishment of a 24-hour, seven-day-a week police force.

In Canton, two mills represent $440,000. Stein admitted he does not know what that sum will buy.

"I can't guarantee two mills would furnish a full-time police department," the supervisor told board members. "But I recommend we put it to a vote, albeit two mills, four mills or whatever."

Stein said the police department's yet unhired police chief would recommend ways to spend the millage. The Michigan Municipal League, which is interviewing police chief applicants, is expected to recommend its choice for the chief's position in about two weeks.

According to deputy treasurer Mike Gorman, the township will have to schedule two public hearings on the millage request's ballot appearance before the election. Although the recall election has not been scheduled yet, Stein believes the recall issue will come before the people sometime next September.

Gorman says that gives township officials enough time to schedule the public hearings.

County slow in checking recall forms

It will not be known until next week if enough valid signatures were turned in to the Wayne County clerk's office to provide for a recall election against any one of three members of Canton's board of trustees.

"I'd say you're going to have a recall election in Canton Township," said Wayne County Deputy Clerk Orville Tungate, "but I don't know if it'll be against all three."

The county clerk's office has until Aug. 8 to check the recall petitions. Tungate explained that a batch of recall petitions against Detroit's Region 7 school board members will have to be checked before the Canton petitions.

Tungate said the recall petitions against Canton Treasurer Anne Bradley and Trustee Gene Daley each carry about 1,525 unchecked signatures. "And, from a cursory look at them, I'd say it looks as if there's enough."

But, because 1,251 signatures are needed to force a recall—the 1,280 signatures submitted against Supervisor Harold Stein could come up short of the necessary number if some petitions or signatures are judged invalid.

If recall backers do not reach the necessary 1,251 total by Aug. 8, state election law allows the petitioners an additional 10-day grace period to collect more recall signatures.

Peter Gabbert, leader of the first recall group which seeks only Stein's ouster, said he already holds additional signed petitions which he will submit if the county disallows more than 29 names on the petitions.

Canton Clerk John Flodin determined earlier this month that 1,280 signatures on the Stein recall petitions were indeed names of registered Canton voters. Although Michigan recall law is liberal, the county clerk checks the petitions for evidence of misrepresentation, forgery, fraud and improperly filled-out forms.

Stein at the crossroads-he'll fight back

By GLENN BUNTING

Facing the threat of recall, Supervisor Harold Stein is feeling the pressure of running a township torn by political strife without the job security necessary to unite the conflicting forces in Canton. He admits as much but vows a fight.

"They (the recall activists) are constantly testing me, but I can stand the heat. That's why I'm here. I'm no Greenstein. Until the job is done, I'm not leaving," Stein said.

The supervisor says his job is to give the residents of Canton what they want—a free choice on land use, adequate police protection, better recreation and comprehensive township services.

Stein recognizes one of the hottest issues in Canton is land use. He says he wants to reach the best compromise between developing open Canton space and remaining rural.

"I'm in favor of staying rural, but I'm not in favor of stopping progress, either," Stein said.

"You don't put a town out of business. You're not an island unto yourself—you just can't stop." Stein says the only logical solution to the land use dilemma is to put the question to the people.

"WHEN I PUT it out on a ballot, people are going to understand what it says. We're going to show how much and for how long it'll cost the homeowner to purchase land development rights in Canton. Then, they can decide whether they want it."

Stein said he considers it discriminatory to force landowners on the west half of the township to remain agricultural and not those on the other. "It's unfair to draw a Mason-Dixon line down the middle of the township and preserve open space for one landowner and tell another owner you're not going to preserve his land."

In office seven months, there are several programs Stein says his administration has been working on that will be announced in the near future. Canton is close to being part of a dial-a-ride program, plans for a library will be presented in two weeks and, by the end of July, preparations for pumping $125,000 into recreation facilities at Griffin Park will be introduced, Stein says.

Stein is fully aware, however, these new programs will not save him from a recall. He says he is confident they will make Canton a better place to live; but they prevent a recall election. Instead, Stein says he will stand behind his record.

The Canton Township supervisor denies all of the charges levied against him by the recall group and describes all of them as "ludicrous." Here are Stein's comments on the five specific counts listed against him on the recall petitions:

•On seeking to have the Canton Board of Trustees rescind the 1976 Master Land Use Plan—"I never asked them to rescind it. All I said was 'Let's take a look at it.' There are some things in the plan that need revising and I want the board to go to work on it."

•On initiating the removal of a professional police officer without providing a suitable replacement—"I needed a full-time administrative person to resolve communication problems with Carl Silvers. Chuck Thompson is a former professional police officer, and Carl Silvers is still commander."

•On failing to fulfill his campaign pledge to make Canton's township government open and not to hold secret meetings—"This is the biggest bunch of b.s. of them all. The only secret meetings I've ever held concerned pending litigation, the purchase of real estate and one personnel meeting, all permitted by law. If we have to, we'll verify every private meeting and tell you when they were and what went on. I'm the only supervisor to leave this building open until 7 p.m. on Mondays and I'm here on most weeknights to listen to people's problems. They're guessing on this charge."

•On undermining the effectiveness of his study commission—"I have never attended any of the meetings of any of the commisions I have appointed. Furthermore, none of my people have been put on those commissions, and I have supported the proposals on the police study, the land use study and the growth study. It's on the record."

•ON REFUSING TO support the interests of homeowners from incompatible land uses—"This administration has an open door policy and has all along. If a homeowner has a problem, we're more than happy to listen. We can't always satisfy everyone, but we'll do our best to cooperate."

Stein is confident he will survive the upcoming recall battle at the ballot box. "The truth's going to prevail. Everyone knows (former Supervisor Robert) Greenstein's quarterbacking this campaign. I say let's get it over with and get back to doing what's best for Canton."

Stein says his goal in office is to complete his programs and step down. "I don't want to do this the rest of my life. I've been working double-time on this job and my personal business is hurting because of it.

"I'm not using this office as a stepping stone to a higher office, either. Greenstein never was a good finisher; he was a great starter. I'm a finisher and I'm going to stay in office until things are finished around here."

Supervisor Harold Stein: "The truth's going to prevail. Everyone knows (former supervisor Robert) Greenstein's behind this (recall) campaign. I say let's get it over with."

"I'm in favor of staying rural but I'm not in favor of stopping progress either. You don't put a town out of business. You're not an island unto yourself - you can't just stop."

"The only secret meetings I've ever held concerned pending litigation, the purchase of real estate and one personnel meeting, all permitted by law . . . They're guessing on this charge."

Propane explosion rocks area, guts party store

By CAROLINE PRICE

A series of explosions rocked a truck carrying propane tanks Tuesday morning, badly burning the driver and reducing a Northville party store to rubble.

Three other persons in the store escaped uninjured after the explosion, which drew fire and police department units from Plymouth, Plymouth Township, Livonia, Northville, Northville Township and the Wayne County Sheriff's Department.

Two doctors from St. Mary Hospital in Livonia rushed past roadblocks set up by Farmington and Livonia police departments to aid anyone injured at the scene while a Wayne County helicopter hovered overhead.

Gordon Long, 21, of Farmington Hills, was taken by a City of Plymouth ambulance to the University of Michigan burn center in Ann Arbor where he was reported in fair condition Tuesday morning.

George Schoenneman, chief of the City of Plymouth Fire Department, said Long received burns over 23 per cent of his body.

WALTER HOLOWKA, a detective with the Wayne County Sheriff's Department investigating the explosion, said it occured shortly after 10 a.m. at the Six and Park party store, 17071 Northville Road near Six Mile.

Holowka said Long apparently pulled up in front of the store in the truck he drove for North West Propane Co. of Farmington Hills and went inside.

Three persons were in the store at the time: Andree Serra, 56, of Northville, the store operater; an employee, Gary Harkins, 22, of Livonia; and Ronald Johnston, the 10-year old son of one of the store owners.

The Six and Park is owned by Ronald Johnston Sr. of Northville and James Webb of South Lyon. Neither was in the store at the time of the explosion.

Ms. Serra told Long that she noticed vapor coming from the back of his truck, which was filled with propane tanks. Long ran out to the truck to investigate just as the first explosion occured.

"Long ran back into the store with his clothes on fire. The others got his clothes off and escaped through the back door. They managed to call the Northville Township Fire Department before they got out," Holowka said.

"Wayne County just happened to have a unit coming down the road at the time the call went out.

"We ended up sending seven marked units, two detectives and a helicopter."

Holowka said the cause of the explosion is under investigation, "but it was probably caused by propane gas escaping from the tanks."

Young job hunters can get free ads

High school students seeking summer jobs may again use Observer & Eccentric classified ads free this year.

"The purpose is two-fold," vaid Fran Gillis, a classified ad phone room supervisor who has been involved in the program for several years.

"First, it gives youngsters an opportunity to find employment suitable to their ages and, hopefully, within their own communities.

"This enables would-be employers in the community to hire young people who are frequently within walking distance of them for babysitting, yard work and other jobs.

"Second, it is a community service which we are able to perform without discrimination. It is not designed to help this or that particular group, but to help anyone of high school age find employment. A youngster need not be associated with scouting or any particular organization.

"It's our way of showing our readers we appreciate their interest in Observer & Eccentric Newspapers and classified ads."

The experience of interviewing for a job is often new to the youngsters, Mrs. Gillis said. So are the joy and independence of earning money.

"We always hope the parents will take a genuine interest in the young people's calls so that any problems can be averted—for example, by going with the youngster to the interview, knowing whom they will be working for or being alert to any suspicious phone calls their youngsters might receive.

"We hope to be able to continue this free service and would like to accommodate as many youngsters as possible," Mrs. Gillis said.

The free classified ad form appears in the "Help Wanted" portion of the classified section. It will be published today and again in Monday's edition. A parent must sign the completed form.

The result can be success on a youngster's first quest for a summer job.

Jr. baseball league hosts annual all-star classics

By DENNIS O'CONNOR

It was a special Saturday morning at the Plymouth Township Recreation Park as hundreds of people gathers to witness yet another year of all-star action in the Plymouth-Canton Junior Baseball League for boys and girls, 9-12 years of age.

Cars flooded the upper portion of the recreation sight where three baseball diamonds served as the playground for close to 150 all-star baseball players.

The three games pitted the American League against the National League for the A, B and G Jr. conferences. All three American League squads won their respected games.

For a complete listing of all the all-star players and results of the three contests turn to today's Sports pages in Section C of your Observer.

The scoreboard tells the story of the "A" League game as the Americans went on to an easy 13-0 victory over the Nationals.

"You're out," said the umpire during "B" League action which saw the American League beat the Nationals, 18-9.

'It'll split neighborhoods'–Yack

Random selection method debated

By GLENN BUNTING

The agreement reached by the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education on the best way to implement the random selection of prospective high school students to either Plymouth Salem or Plymouth Canton high schools remains as clear as murky water.

The issue was raised again at Monday night's school board meeting by trustee Thomas Yack, who said he wanted to explore other alternatives to the process the administration intends to use to assign students to one of the two schools.

Only one thing is certain—the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools will rely on the random selection process this fall.

As for a decision concerning the specific process to be used, the administration has advocated the use of computer assignment. But Yack said he would prefer not to break up neighborhoods, yet still select students randomly.

The process used in past years created an imbalance in the enrollments of the two high schools. The feeder system, which established boundaries for elementary enrollment and then fed students into middle schools and high schools, has been criticized by board members for causing biases in the selection process.

THE OBJECT OF the random selection process is to guarantee that no one has command of which students attend which school, and that everyone possesses an equal chance to attend either school according to Dave Rodwell, consultant for Plymouth-Canton schools.

"The administration is taking advantage of having two high schools on the same campus. It doesn't really make a difference which school a student attends, because he can use both facilities, ride the same bus and eat lunch with the same friend, regardless of the school," Rodwell said.

The only drawback with the computer process which randomly assigns students is splitting students of the same family into different schools at the same time. To resolve this conflict, a four-year rule was adopted to maintain the integrity of the family.

Under the four-year rule, any student who has a younger sibling within four grade levels will enter the random selection process just like any other student. But the younger siblings will not enter the random process; instead they will be automatically placed in the same school as their older brother or sister.

Yack's only problem with this process is placing students from the same neighborhood in different schools. He would like to see the administration explore the possibilities of randomly selecting students by neighborhood.

MARCIA BOROWSKI objected to random assignment by neighborhood, because she said it would not eliminate a bias in the selection of students with similar socio-economic backgrounds in the same schools.

"For instance," Ms. Borowski said, "a neighborhood of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) homes in Canton would send a host of students from lower income families to the same school."

A second problem with Yack's suggestion is based on what criteria makes up a neighborhood, according to Rodwell.

Effective 10 days ago, all new students entering Plymouth-Canton Community Schools in grades 8 through 12 also will be assigned by lot, but via a different process. New students will draw a red or blue chip from a canister at the Board of Education administration building to determine which school they will attend.

The same safeguard protecting family unity in the computer process is included in the selection process for new students. If a student moves out of the district and later returns, the initial random assignment will remain in effect.

Sheriff's union files arbitration on patrol

By EMORY DANIELS

The issue of whether Wayne County Sheriff's Department deputies should continue to patrol seven out-county townships went to arbitration this week.

The deputies' union filed for binding arbitration Monday with the issue of the township road patrol being the major unresolved question.

The arbitration process won't begin for another 30 days and could take as long as nine months to complete. Meanwhile, the sheriff's department will continue to patrol the township roads, including Plymouth and Canton, using county funds. Those funds are due to run out, however, and the county has won a court decision that it cannot be forced to fund the road patrol.

The township patrol matter went to arbitration the same week as a House-Senate conference committee met in Lansing to iron out differences in bills to fund freeway patrols in the metropolitan Detroit area.

The outcome of that compromise could have an effect on the current impasse in negotiations with the sheriff's department, depending on the funding proposal worked out between the House and Senate.

JAMIL AKHTAR, president of deputies' Local 502, said the union filed for binding arbitration Monday to protect 28 road patrol officers' jobs.

"There are a few economic matters still unresolved, but the key issue is the patrol for the townships. We've reached agreement on most other matters.

"The question of patrolling the townships is very important to the deputies," Akhtar added, "which is why we are going to spend the money it takes to go to arbitration on this."

Royce Smith (D-Belleville), county commissioner whose district includes Plymouth and Canton, said Tuesday that the road patrol will continue through the arbitration process.

"By law, we'll be operating under the contract which just expired until we either reach agreement, or the arbitrator makes a decision," Smith said, "so there'll be no imminent disruption of patrol services in the township."

Akhtar agreed, pointing out that in 1974 the arbitration process took nine months—from July 1974 to May 1975. "It'll take 30 days probably before the independent arbitrator is selected. Then the process will begin. It could go nine months just like in '74."

Smith pointed out that in 1974 it also was the issue of patrol for the townships which went to arbitration. At that time the arbitrator ruled there could be no reduction in work force for the life of the three-year contract.

"That froze the 22 positions then used to patrol the seven townships, Smith said. "Since then, we added six positions to reduce the amount of overtime pay we're paying out. The county could, if it wanted, eliminate those six positions but we'd be cutting our nose to spite our face because we'd then have to turn around and pay overtime again."

Under the new arbitration process, the Michigan Employment Relations Commission (MERC) provides the county and union with a list of three arbitrators. The county can eliminate one name and the union can eliminate a name. If the county and union strike out different names, then the one remaining becomes the arbitrator. If they each strike the same name from the list, then MERC appoints an arbitrator from the remaining two.

"The major disagreement between the union and the county is whether to patrol the townships," stressed Akhtar, a resident of Plymouth Township and member of the Plymouth Heights Charter Commission. Smith agreed.

"We can reach agreement, though, without the arbitrator having to make a ruling," Smith said. "We are still negotiating every day, and we are free to reach an agreement at the table at any time during the arbitration process.

"I'm sure the union will bargain to the last iota before it gives up any of those 28 positions. It might take awhile."

MEANWHILE, in Lansing, efforts are being made to come up with a compromise between a House bill and Senate bill on financing freeway patrols.

The House bill continues funds for the state police to patrol freeways in Detroit city limits. The Senate bill appropriates new funds to subsidize the patrol of freeways located in Wayne County but outside Detroit city limits—such as I-275 which runs through Canton, Plymouth Township, and Livonia.

Akhtar says the Senate bill would not pay for the seven out-county township patrol of 28 men, but would be used exclusively for sheriff deputies to patrol the freeways in Wayne County.

"It would result in an improvement in police services to township residents because the township patrol now is also handling calls on the freeways. If the freeway patrol is funded, deputies assigned to the townships could then spend more time on patrol in the townships," Akhtar commented.

A county official, however, says Senate funds might be used to subsidize the salaries of the 28-officer road patrol for the townships, who would also have the duty of patrolling the western Wayne County freeways.

Senator William Faust (D-Westland), who represents Canton, voted in favor of the Senate bill while Sen. R. Robert Geake (R-Northville), who represents Plymouth Township, voted against the bill.

Gov. Milliken has reportedly threatened to veto the Senate bill.

The deputies' union, with the help of the affiliated AFL-CIO, has been lobbying in Lansing for funding to patrol the freeways to avoid elimination of the 28 positions now assigned to the townships.

Brown's bait

Brown trout are wily creatures. For best results, try fishing early in the morning, or even at night in waters you know well. Bait is generally more successful than lures, although well-presented flies often can be deadly, and more than one big brown has been fooled by a small, silver spoon. Best baits include minnows, small crayfish, and tiny, hairless baby mice stolen from their burrows. Use a pitchfork while digging out the burrows and you won't waste so many through crushing.

Contract for dial-a-ride signed

Long-awaited dial-a-ride bus service for Canton's senior citizens and handicapped residents will begin in July under terms of a contract agreement between the township and the Nankin Transit Commission (NTC).

The service will enable handicapped persons and residents over 55 to travel anywhere within NTC's newly-expanded area of Garden City, Inkster, Wayne, Westland and Canton's eastern section for a one-way fee of 25 cents.

Although NTC buses will initially service only eastern Canton, NTC director Glenn Shaw expects doorstep pickup service will be expanded to western Canton residents in August or September.

Buses expected to begin rolling in Canton July 25 will pick up residents east of Canton Center at their doorsteps as well as residents of two mobile home parks west of Canton Center—College Park and Wagon Wheel.

Township-owned vans will shuttle residents west of Canton Center to NTC pick-up points in the township's eastern half.

WITH TRUSTEE Lynne Goldsmith absent, Canton board members Tuesday approved the six-month contract with NTC by a unanimous vote.

Under terms of the contract agreement, Canton will pay NTC $6 for each one-way trip taken by township residents. According to Shaw, a breakdown of NTC's $250,000 budget into number of riders comes out to about $6 per person per ride.

"Bus service is a very expensive activity," deputy treasurer Mike Gorman told township board members. "It's almost impossible for us to to provide this service alone."

Canton will also lease two of its vans to the Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority (SEMTA). In turn, SEMTA will lease the vans to NTC for $1 a year.

At the end of six months, the township board and the NTC will review Canton's participation in the program. At that time, both governing boards will decide if Canton should be a member in the NTC will full voting power.

According to Shaw, NTC commissioners were reluctant to award Canton full membership on their board without a trial period. Servicing Canton, a 36-square-mile township, would mean doubling the NTC's current service area.

"We never really said no," Shaw said of Canton's application for NTC membership. "It was just that some commissioners were concerned about handling the 36 square miles. We tried to come up with a solution, and this is it."

TO RESERVE a place on an NTC bus, senior citizens and handicapped persons are required to call the NTC office 48 hours in advance if they plan a trip to a doctor's office. Persons are required to call 24 hours in advance for trip to any other location.

Fears about 'molester'

were told anything about a Bible school," she said. "They were told things like, 'Come to my backyard and play with a Barbie doll.' Or, if it was a boy, 'How would you like to come to my house and play with a G.I. Joe doll?'

"We parents are very upset about all this," said Mrs. Woods. "And even if I find out they were legitimate representatives of a Bible school, I'll still be very upset over their way of operating."

Gail McDowell, another parent of a child who attends Miller, said she too has trouble accepting the Bible school theory.

"WE'VE HAD NOTICES from the school in the past when our children were asked to attend Bible classes. This group showed no brochures, no buttons, no pamphlets. If they were legitimate, didn't they know that any parent would have to approve their child going to the school or fair?"

Other parents in the neighborhood said they were hoping that the incident was caused by people who were "overly-friendly" to youngsters at a time when the atmosphere concerning children's safety is tense. Metropolitan Detroit has been the scene of four child murder-molestations in the past 16 months.

Miller Elementary School students attend class on a year-round schedule and, as such, were in school Monday when the majority of the township's youngsters were on summer break.

Parents showed up in large numbers Tuesday afternoon to pick their children up from school in cars.

State Police say they are confident they'll clear up the mystery surrounding the incident. Wayne County Sheriff detectives say they too are looking into the matter.

Fine for handicap parking violators

Michigan Lt. Gov. James J. Damman recently signed a bill making it a misdemeanor for non-handicapped persons to use parking spots designated for use by handicapped persons in public parking lots.

The bill adds a new section to the Michigan Motor Vehicle Code defining the term "handicapper." For the purpose of the act it refers to a person who has a physical characteristic categorized as a handicap "which limits ambulation or necessitates the use of a wheelchair for mobility."

The bill gives the handicapped person the option of receiving a specially-designated license plate from the Secretary of State or a transferable serial-numbered certificate for personal use. The certificate can be used by someone other than the handicapped person who is driving.

Canton Township has an ordinance that prohibits anyone who is not handicapped from parking in a specially-designated parking spot. Police have been enforcing the law in Canton.

The state law takes effect Oct. 1.

When Damman signed the bill into law it was the first bill he ever sent through. Damman, a former state representative from Troy, acted in place of Gov. William Milliken who was out of town.

JCs still short of 4th fund goal

With just a few days remaining, the Plymouth Jaycees are still short of reaching their minimum goal of collecting $4,400 to cover expenses for the parade and fireworks on the Fourth of July.

"We need $4,400 to cover our expenses," says Doug Jaskierny of the Jaycees finance committee. "But we are hoping to reach the $5,000 mark. Then we can invest some more money in the fireworks and really put on a spectactular show. We'll collect money right up to the Fourth, and even after."

So far the Jaycees have collected about $3,200 or about 70 per cent of the goal. Contributions have been made by the following individuals, businesses and professional firms:

Jim Houk counting on city experience

For Jim Houk, being the oldest candidate for the Plymouth City Commission relates to experience and knowledge of the community.

Houk, of 1200 Maple, will be 67 in August when he will face 10 other candidates in a primary fight to see which eight will run for four seats on the city commission in November.

HOUK, born in Indiana, moved to Plymouth in July of 1954.

He had been working for a few years as assistant manager of Walk Over Shoe Store and in 1941 joined Blake W. Fisher to open Fisher Shoes—the second shoe store in the city at that time.

"In those years I was also active in Boy Scouts, having served on the finance committee for 10 years, and was disaster chairman for the Red Cross for 15 years."

Houk ran Fisher Shoes, and over the years branched out into seven retail stores in the metropolitan Detroit area. He sold out his interest in the stores in 1971.

IN 1948 Houk was elected to the city charter commission and helped write the charter under which Plymouth still operates.

In 1961 he was elected to the city commission, served a four-year term and was re-elected in 1965. During that tenure, Houk served as mayor for two years.

After selling his interests in Fisher Shoes in 1971, Houk took a position as industrial coordinator for Canton, Plymouth and Plymouth Township area and worked in that capacity for about two years before retiring at age 65.

"I have a special interest in senior citizens," says Houk, "and in seeing that the Plymouth community continues to be a good place for all people to live or work. There are many fine people involved in the community who might be residents and taxpayers, property owners and taxpayers, or business people.

"I also feel the commission cannot make decisions without making complete studies on major issues. We need to listen to all sides before making a decision.

"The charter is still good and the city needs to abide by it. We should keep taxes as low as possible but still maintain the level of services that makes Plymouth such a fine community to live in."

HOUK HAS BEEN a member of the First Baptist Church of Plymouth for 40 years, a member of the Plymouth Community presently is vice-president of the Detroit and Wayne County Council on the Aged which supervises an annual budget of $2 million for senior citizen programs.

"I've spent some 43 years in the community, made by living here, and raised my family, and I still believe I owe Plymouth something in return. I have the time now that I've retired and would like to serve on the commission to repay that debt.

"I feel I can offer some experience on the city commission and can give some representation to senior citizens as well as all residents. I have the time now, although I've always had the interest in Plymouth. Plymouth is a great place to live and enjoy life, and I hope it stays that way from some time."

JAMES HOUK

Smith backing sale of center

Wayne County Commissioner Royce E. Smith (D-Belleville) says he will continue his support for an open market sale of the former Child Development Center to resist use of the facility as a prison.

Smith, whose district includes Canton and Plymouth, says he isn't anxious to dispose of the property but backs the open market approach for the center won't be used as a jail. He recently voted to refer the open market proposal back to the county's public works committee for more study and recommendation.

The plan to sell the property to the highest acceptable bidder was introduced by Alex Pilch (D-Dearborn) with co-sponsorship from Smith and Thomas Presnell (D-Westland), all members of the public works committee.

Approval of an open market plan would create competition for a state offer to buy the 300-acre facility at Five Mile and Sheldon Roads, Northville, for use as a state prison. A majority of 14 votes of the 27 commissioners is needed to put the property up for open sale.

Smith said that he and the other sponsors will continue lobbying for the necessary votes until today's (Thursday) board meeting. The proposal was referred back to committee by a vote of 12-9 with one abstention.

"I am not all eager to sell the property under whatever circumstances," stressed Smith, "but if we must sell I want it to serve on the tax rolls, and not as a Michigan prison.

"I would hate to reject the open market idea at this time, then later discover that enough votes exist to authorize the prison sale.

"It is important to understand too, that even if we do approve the open market sale, we can still pick and choose our options, and reserve that privilege for as long as we want.

"Approval of the open market concept," added Smith, "doesn't mean an automatic sale to anyone, but it will allow us the freedom to review an alternative other than the state's."

Lore Watt enters commission race

Lorraine F. Watt of 525 Lindsay Drive is a candidate for the Plymouth City Commission in the August primary.

Mrs. Watt anticipates the primary will become quite interesting. "There are 11 hopefuls going into the August primary, and only eight will go on to the November election."

Mrs. Watt, better known as Lore, during the past year has regularly attended city commission meetings where she has taken strong stands on several key issues. Recently in a commission meeting she talked about the city's recreational priorities.

"Parks and recreational programs are an important service a city needs to provide. Recreation should not just be for children, but should offer programs for all people in our community. I'm pleased with the number of small neighborhood parks. However, with the number of families living in rental units increasing, and the use of Hines Park decreasing, we are now in a position needing more neighborhood parks."

Mrs. Watt has been active in the Northville, Plymouth, Canton, Novi League of Women Voters and is presently the local Plymouth chairman of the LWV. She has been involved in many community issues during the past few years.

She recently worked with Wayne County to find alternative uses for the former Wayne County Child Development Center in Northville proposed for use as a state prison.

This past week, after being interviewed, Mrs. Watt received a primary election endorsement from the Plymouth Civic Federation. The endorsement criteria is based on what the candidate considers the issues to be, she explains, and their knowledge of local government.

Mrs. Watt has a bachelor's degree and has been employed as an advertising account executive where she was a member of Women in Broadcasting.

editorial opinion

Stein lacks slick style, but he's willing to listen

Supervisor Harold Stein faces a bevy of formal charges in the drive to recall him from office, but his one major offense, if it may be called that, is his image.

Simply, bad public relations.

He isn't slick or smooth; he can't dance around questions or dodge them without being obvious. He squints one eye and scowls when someone poses an uncomfortable question.

But does he deserve to be recalled for this?

No. The recall charges and the inevitable recall election against all three members of the Stein political slate—Stein, Treasurer Anne Bradley and Trustee Gene Daley—can be traced to a lack of public presence.

Because Stein was the first of the three to face recall charges and because he is the most powerful member of Canton's government, he is the main target. Trustee Gene Daley was added to the hit list because he is a member of Stein's political slate and because he happens to be a Wayne County sheriff officer. Treasurer Anne Bradley is subject to recall charges because she has shown little patience for criticism and because she too was a member of the Stein political slate.

Sure, the recall committees have listed specific charges against all three officials. They are accused of trying to gag the public at township meetings, sabotaging the part-time police department and failing to stand up to builders. But most people aren't reacting to purely political issues when they support the recall movement.

STEIN HAS BEEN criticized for not establishing bold, innovative programs for Canton Township. This assessment is formed by people who compare Stein to his predecessor, Robert Greenstein, who had a program and an immediate opinion on everything and everyone.

Stein is much more cautious, sometimes to the point of absurdity.

When asked about the status of homeowner protection legislation, for example, Stein will tell you that the matter has been discussed with the township attorney, who is looking into legal ramifications and it is not ready for discussion at this time.

Former supervisor Greenstein encourages Stein's recall and is working toward that end through his supporters. Greenstein sees himself as a man of moral vision, a man who can formulate policy that will benefit the good people of the community. He knows what is best for the people and won't stop until they get it. Like it or not.

It has been said: "The Creator has a master plan." Well, so does Greenstein. He is a man of few concessions who knows no hues—you are either for him or against him.

While Stein is no more magnanimous concerning those who disagree with him, he does not take such a rigid line with public policy. Although the word has a bad connotation, compromise is essential in politics. Greenstein never learned that. Stein has.

WHEN PUBLIC OPINION is overwhelmingly contrary to his private views, Stein votes the peoples' wishes instead of his own.

One example is the Windsor Woods apartment fight. Stein had said repeatedly that the apartment builder (Slavik Development Co.) had a perfect legal right to build 153 apartments at the site which borders Windsor Park at Warren and Morton Taylor.

After the homeowners in Windsor Park made their wishes known loud and clear—demanding lower density—Stein backed off and supported hiring a new attorney to fight for a more acceptable offer.

The supervisor also made an about-turn in supporting the land use committee's recommendation to preserve 6,000 acres of land in the western half of the township for agricultural purposes.

Many people will say Stein backed down to save face and his job.

Whatever the reason, it supports our earlier contention that if Stein is kept on the hotseat, Canton will have a representative government. Don't toss him out for an opportunist waiting in the wings.

Canton Townnship needs a professional municipal manager, someone is needed who can solve day-to-day problems as well as plan for an orderly future, providing those plans have citizen support.

Stein has not yet shown himself to be that kind of manager or planner. But the reason may be that every time he turns around, another watchdog is biting him on the seat of his pants.

We're in the same old shape

The dismal turnout in most school district elections recently reminded us of what was going on 200 years ago this week.

The free and independent states had declared their independence from the mother country a year earlier, and something resembling a war was going on.

Most history texts remind us that only about one-third of the Americans supported the creation of a new republic. Another one-third were still loyal to the crown and had not yet removed themselves to Canada. The final one-third were too indifferent, apathetic, uninterested, lazy or absorbed by the demands of work and family to participate. Even today, with the crown loyalists gone, only 80 per cent of our registered voters turn out for a presidential election, 40 per cent for a partisan primary and 10-15 per cent for a normal school district election.

Teachers take a step toward regional contracts

There's more than meets the eye to last week's announcement by the Michigan Education Association that all collective bargaining will be halted in Oakland County during July because of the lack of a contract in West Bloomfield School District.

At first blush, it seems to be a paper threat. Little bargaining is done during July anyway, and the heavy season is from Aug. 1 until Labor Day.

Some 10,000 teachers in more than a dozen districts would be covered by contracts that are in the process of negotiation. Among area districts are Birmingham, Farmington, Southfield and Troy, with a wage reopener under discussion in Clarenceville.

BUT THE MEA action must be viewed in light of other actions and policies.

MEA makes no secret of its desire to bargain regionally. It's clear that Oakland County is perceived to be one region; it's almost as clear that suburban Wayne County is perceived as another (Detroit and Dearborn's contract being with the American Federation of Teachers).

Moreover, MEA's local affiliates are seeking to negotiate contracts that end on the same day.

Consider further that the MEA structure provides for regional guidance of local bargaining units.

Add to that the fact that school boards have ways of getting together to exchange strategy tips if not to set common policies.

Finally, across the state, MEA affiliates have voted to seek regional bargaining. The goal seems to be common language in contracts across the region, with local variations for local issues and perhaps economics.

FROM THE TEACHERS' point of view, regional bargaining makes sense.

Legally, teachers unions have no right to strike. The "blackboard flu" tactic—closing down a couple of schools for a day—is a pale imitation of a strike.

In West Bloomfield, teachers worked the entire 1976-77 school year without a negotiated contract. The same thing happened in Garden City.

If the teachers in a single district went on strike, Crestwood would happen all over again—the teachers would be fired, and it would be fairly easy, given the surplus of labor, for the school board to replace them.

But firing 10,000 teachers in a dozen districts—well, that would be quite another matter. Law or no law, that would be an impossible strike to break.

Consider what would happen to a West Bloomfield or a Garden City under something resembling regional bargaining. If the school boards there should balk at proposed contract terms, not only would they have their own teachers sore at them, but the school boards and residents of all the neighboring districts would be putting on the heat too.

FOR ALL THE militancy of their leaders, teachers have a tendency to practice something less than union solidarity. Whether 10,000 teachers would hit the bricks if no contract were reached in a West Bloomfield or a Garden City is highly problematical.

Yet there's no doubt that unions of government employees in general and teachers in particular are on their way to becoming some of the most powerful in the country.

Regional bargaining is looming as a more distinct possibility in the future, whether the public likes it or not.

Meanwhile, Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley must review his opinion that it's all right for a teacher to be a union member in District A and a school board member in District B. With regional bargaining, that kind of conflict of interest will be unconscionable.

Local questions tell Carter what's on folks' minds

Observation Point

by PHILIP H. POWER

I attended my first presidential press conference last Friday.

I was one of a group of 25 newspaper publishers, editors and TV news directors from around the country who were invited to Washington, D.C. for on-the-record interviews with the likes of Esther Peterson, assistant to the president for consumer affairs, and Robert Lipshutz, counsel to the president.

The high point of the day was a 45-minute press conference with President Jimmy Carter, limited to our group of 25, with the regular Washington press corps excluded.

We were ushered into the Cabinet Room in the White House, a modestly scaled but beautifully proportioned room facing out to the Rose Garden, with a portrait of Harry Truman over the fireplace. We sat around the cabinet conference table, in high-backed leather chairs, joshing with press secretary Jody Powell.

President Carter walked in. Modestly, he said, "Pardon me for interrupting." Powell: "Oh, no, Mr. President. We were just finished." Nervous laughter. A short statement from the president, and we let at him with our questions.

THIS BRIEFING was one in a regular series the White House is putting on. One obvious purpose is to get the administration's message out to the editors and news directors in the sticks, as part of the usual PR routine.

Another purpose, according to the people in the White House press office, is to give President Carter a sense of what's going on in the minds of people outside of the narrow world of Washington, as reflected by the questions put to the president by local news people.

I have never attended a regular presidential press conference complete with the Washington press corps, but I have watched enough of them on TV to get the idea that the questions are both very well informed and in many cases almost entirely irrelevant to the lives of ordinary people living outside the pressure cooker of Washington. "Mr. President, does the fact that a comma was dropped between the second and third phrases of your recent statement indicate a shift in the administration's position on the Republic of Surinam?"

Good stuff, no doubt, but hardly the thing you're going to talk over with your wife when you come home from the office.

THE LOCAL EDITORS and news directors in our conference asked a lot of questions of local importance.

A guy from Tennessee asked when Carter would appoint a new chairman of the Tennessee Valley Authority. A man from Arkansas asked about prospects for a new breeder reactor to be located in his state. An editor from the coal mining country in Pennsylvania asked about the recent United Mine Workers election. I asked about Project Seafarer, which is of concern to Michigan.

None of these questions was on a global subject, but they were more important to the local people living in Michigan or Pennsylvania or Arkansas than some recondite question about Surinam.

Which is why I think the kind of press briefing we had is a good idea. I certainly wouldn't know how to ask a question about Surinam in the way the Washington press corps can, but I do know what's important to people in Michigan.

It's like our local reporters and editors. It's their jobs to know what's important to people living in Birmingham or Rochester or Plymouth, or other communities we serve, rather than what's going on world-wide. Our "press corps" writes for very local newspapers, and in its own way does just as good a job as the Washington press corps, which writes for world-wide distribution.

BUT THERE'S an important difference.

When our reporters walk into the mayor of Livonia's office or run into the superintendent of Southfield schools, we don't rise and say, "Good morning, Mr. President." We are more inclined to saunter in and say, "'Mornin,' Ed" or "Hullo, Carl."

Even when Gov. Milliken spent two hours with our editorial board last year, our talk was an informal conversation (with a certain amount of bull shooting) with Bill rather than a formal set of questions and answers.

When you are interviewing a president, even one who makes as much of an effort to make you relaxed as Mr. Carter, you still cannot escape the feeling that you are talking to the president, not good ol' Ed, the mayor.

Of course, that's the difference between a local mayor and the president of the United States. But that's a difference which needs to be understood and, within the appropriate range of proper respect for the office, overcome wherever possible.

If we communicate

Corporation can respond

Eccentricities

by HENRY M. HOGAN, JR.

It seems common these days to hear people railing against big business or big government or big unions because they claim the little guy doesn't have any way of influencing these organizations.

But it's not really fair to these institutions to criticize them unless you've really tried to influence them and have been unsuccessful.

To prove my point, I'll tell a story.

Most of you know our newspaper group also publishes newspapers in Cincinnati, Ohio.

Over the years I have flown to Cincinnati once a week by leaving Detroit early in the morning, spending the day down there and flying back. I have usually taken a Delta flight, leaving somewhere between 7:30 and 8 o'clock in the morning.

Over the years Delta has served orange juice, a sweet roll and coffee on the flight going down, which means I don't have to breakfast before I leave for the airport.

When daylight saving time came in April, for some reason the sweet rolls disappeared from the Delta flight.

For the first two weeks I asked the stewardess if they were serving sweet rolls, and she said that they were no longer scheduled for this flight. The third week I purchased a sweet roll from the snack bar and put it in my briefcase and when the stewardess came around and didn't serve sweet rolls, I had my sweet roll anyway.

THE FOURTH WEEK I noticed that they were loading sweet rolls onto an Indianapolis flight leaving from the gate next to ours. So I guess I felt like the rest of that massive crowd of people, that I was being discriminated against.

What did I do? I wrote a man named David Garrett, the president of Delta Air Lines, and complained to him about the change in the flight.

A week later I got a call from the head of Delta's marketing department in Detroit. Mr. Garrett had received my letter and was looking into the problem.

A couple weeks later I got a letter back from Mr. Garrett thanking me for the letter and explaining that if he didn't receive letters like mine, he wouldn't know how the Delta customers feel about his organization. He also indicated that he would check with his head of dining service department for review, to see if they could get the sweet rolls back on the flight.

Yesterday, when I arrived at the airport to check in on the Delta flight, I asked the ticket taker whether they were serving snacks aboard. He said that there were none scheduled for the flight but he had just seen them being put on the flight anyway.

As the plane was gaining altitude after taking off from Detroit Metropolitan Airport, the stewardess came along and distributed orange juice, sweet rolls, and coffee.

NO ORGANIZATION will continue very long if it doesn't keep in contact with its customers. Those people who complain that big corporations are not interested in what their customers think are proven wrong if they themselves make some attempt to communicate with these large organizations.

I now know that Delta is an airline of people and not computers. I will fly with them because, as a business, it has proven that it tries to be responsive to the people who use it.

Reader opposed to gifted program

Editor:

I was appalled at Mr. and Mrs. Hintz's letter in appreciation to the school board members who voted in favor of the talented and gifted program.

I have a child enrolled in the Roper Schools for the Gifted and would not think of asking taxpayers to pay to educate her when I want something beyond what Plymouth-Canton Community Schools should offer.

I resent it even more when I think about my son reading two grades below level and cannot get help from the reading teachers because she has too many kids to help that are worse. Of the $55,000 set aside for this gifted program, $18,000 is for a director (this doesn't include benefits) and $10,000 for a van. Florence Beier, community relations director, said, "The board is going to hire two curriculum coordinators." Why can't they direct this program?

Taxpayers of Plymouth-Canton district should check the private schools such as St. Peter Luthern, Our Lady of Good Counsel Catholic, Ladywood Catholic High, St. Thomas Catholic elementary and high school, Plymouth Christian Academy and New Morning School and you will find that parents are sending their kids to these schools just to get a good basic education.

With Marcia Borowski, George Lawton, Tom Yack and E.J. McClendon only interested in the above-average child and all this modern stuff such as open classrooms, multi-age grouping, schools with no walls and doors, modular scheduling, and now they are pushing new report cards to cover up their poor teaching styles from parents.

To prove my point, our former board member has applied for a teaching job in Plymouth-Canton Community Schools and informed me that she wants to teach in a traditional school such as Gallimore.

I just enrolled my son in the reading class at Madonna College two weeks ago and you should have seen the Plymouth students there for the same reason that I was—basic reading.

No more "yes" votes in this family.

READERS' FORUM

What would happen if '60'ers' went on strike?

Editor:

I, for one, am deathly tired of picking up a paper (i.e. Plymouth Observer, June 23, 1977) and reading columns such as "For the Gilded Age Only."

Evidently Ms. Campau deems all senior citizens (a nauseating phrase) either to be ill, undernourished, stupid and-or helpless. Judging from the photo of Ms. Campau she is not among the gilded ager's. Then how dare she be so damn patronizing?

I happen to be a 65'er. I am employed every day as an office manager, secretary and bookkeeper (part-time). I would be able to work full-time were it not that the stupid do-gooders who prattle about senior citizens have made that impossible by depicting us as weak and helpless.

I drive a car—take care of my own affairs—work every day—am currently reading Leon Uris' "Trinity," Will Durant's "The Age of Napoleon," and Taylor Caldwell's "The Ceremony of the Innocent" and for bed-time reading I have the Oedipus Plays of Sophocles tucked under my pillow. Ergo: I am neither stupid, or unique.

Permit me to inform you that Taylor Caldwell is well into her 70s, Will Durant in his 80s—many of the justices of the Supreme Court are 60 plus—some of the most respected men in Congress are older than 60 as are most of the leaders in industry, medicine, science, etc., etc.

The brain does not atrophy because of years but rather because of disuse. It appears to me that many of the under 60'ers are in greater danger of senility than are their elders.

Wouldn't it be funny if the over 60'ers went on strike and let the under 60'ers run the world?

Chaos would be rampant and it would serve you right.

Safety trails for bicycles

Editor:

In riding my bicycle along Ann Arbor Trail, I have decided that there definitely is not enough room for both motorists as well as cyclists.

On most major expressways, a blacktop path for cyclists and pedestrians is available. Why can't the township make one along the Trail and also along Ann Arbor Road? It would come in handy for those people who ride bikes to school. I'm sure if there were such a path, a lot of parents would be put at ease.

Schoolcraft gears for handicapped

A federal law prohibiting discrimination against the handicapped will begin to have an impact on Schoolcraft College this year.

It will affect physical facilities, teaching, hiring, counseling and student activities.

Norman Wheeler, Schoolcraft's director of science and mathematics and a member of an administrative committee to study Sec. 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, told the college board:

"The experience of others shows that, as soon as the word got out that an institution was geared up for the handicapped, all sorts of (handicapped) students came out."

THE LAW was passed more than three years ago, but only recently have administrative rules and timetables been forthcoming from the federal government, President C. Nelson Grote said.

Structural modifications—the hardest and costliest part—must be in place in three years, by June 1980.

"There must be no discrimination in any program financed by the federal government," Wheeler said. "This act does for the handicapped what Title IX did for sex discrimination."

And Grote added that the national price tag for compliance "will be in the billions." Moreover, it will be impossible for institutions to specialize in handling certain types of handicaps; thus, there is no way Schoolcraft could specialize in (say) the blind, Madonna in the deaf, Henry Ford in wheelchair facilities.

THE PROBLEMS are more sensitive than merely building a lot of wheelchair ramps, many of which Schoolcraft already has. Administrators cited these possibilities:

- The college's master contract with the faculty says an instructor may not be tape-recorded in class without his permission. But a blind student who cannot take notes may decide he must use a tape recorder in place of a notebook.
- If such a course as music appreciation were required, the college would have to offer a deaf student an alternative or provide hearing equipment he could use.
- The college cannot prohibit a student from entering a course of study where his handicap would prevent him from getting a job in that field.
- If a student with no hands wants to learn how to type, the college will have to provide some kind of apparatus.

"YOU CAN'T have special classes for these handicapped students," added Dean Fred Stefanski. "That's prohibited."

One mitigating factor, Stefanski added, is that 99 per cent of handicapped students are already receiving some kind of vocational rehabilitation help. Another is that voc-rehab funds are often available from the federal government.

Trustee Ron Cowden cautioned the board to "be wary of jumping in and hiring people you don't need. You can wind up having super, super programs for the handicapped at the expense of your regular students."

"We don't intend to over-react," Grote replied. Rather, much of the process of compliance will be in training faculty to become sensitive to the needs of the handicapped—in such simple things as not turning to the blackboard and talking if there's a student in class who is a lip-reader

The VIEW from 461 SOUTH MAIN

PLYMOUTH HIGH School class of 1913 met for its annual luncheon reunion last week in the Mayflower Hotel.

"We meet every year," said Edna Campbell who organizes the yearly get-together. "We had a fifth reunion and a 10th. Since then, we have tried to get as many as possible together each year. We used to have picnics. Now we meet for lunch."

Mrs. Campbell said there are only 10 members still living from a class of 50. "Anna Nash is in Mississippi and Clarence Wright is in the south." Some are unable to attend.

Fourteen persons attended the luncheon. Husbands, friends and family members rounded out the party.

Besides Mrs. Campbell, Ralph Brown, his wife Sadie and their daughter from Flint; Bert and Marilla Coverdale, Mary and Lloyd Fillmore, Dora Wood, Velda Bogart and her sister Laura from Wyandotte, Olive Brown, and Rose Holstein were in attendance.

Prof. Walter Isbell was principal of the high school 64 years ago.

FORD MOTOR CO. employess and their spouses had an opportunity to display their artistic talents during the June 13-24 art exhibit in the Glass House—Ford World Headquarters in Dearborn.

Each was permitted to enter two pieces in the juried show.

There were 171 items in the exhibition.

Robert Manthey was awarded a first-place ribbon for his pastels. Audrey Paul's oil paintings were accepted and Walter Bone's metal sculpture. Betty Manthey received an honorable mention for her mixed media entry.

JOYCE FOUST was in Fort Collins, Colo., recently, where she was an honored guest at the 75th annual Colorado State PEO convention.

The PEO Sisterhood is an international philanthropic educational organization dedicated to projects advancing higher education for women.

Mrs. Foust is past president of the Michigan State PEO, and also served for seven years on the state executive board. She was initiated into Chapter A1 in 1955 and is a charter member of EA.

She attended the convention as a representative from PEO Supreme Chapter.

ELSIE JEFFERY and Gordon Sherman had high scores at the June 15 party bridge game in the Plymouth Cultural Center.

TONYA WALL, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Wall of Roosevelt Street, Plymouth, was a recent graduate of St. Vincent Hospital School of Nursing in Toledo, Ohio.

THE FIRST ISSUE of "Tipping the Scales" is of the press.

Nancy Austin of Plymouth Township is editor and publisher of the newsletter for dieters.

"Tipping the Scales" is strictly supportive. Nancy's writing has a light, readable quality that encourages rather than accuses those striving to lose weight.

The June issue tells how to avoid the temptations of summer parties. There are recipes, a letter to the editor column and many dieting tips.

Single copies are 50 cents and a year's subscription is $6. Her mailing address is P.O. Box 223, Plymouth.

She will discuss the liquid protein controversy in the July issue.

ONE OF OUR residents called to tell about a rather unnerving experience she had over the past weekend.

She was advised to take her injured child to St. Joseph Hospital emergency. When she arrived, she discovered the hospital had moved to a new building.

"I don't recall how I got to the new hospital from Ann Arbor," she said. "And I still don't know how to get there from Plymouth. I discovered I was not alone. My neighbors didn't know it had moved either.

"Luckily my child was not seriously ill so the extra time was not that important. I do believe you should let people know how to get to St. Joseph's."

St. Joseph's Mercy Hospital can be reached by taking Ann Arbor Road (M-14) to Dixboro Road. Turn left on Dixboro, go beyond Geddes Road and over the river and railroad tracks to Huron River Drive. Turn left on the drive.

The hospital is beyond a wooded area on the left—about a mile from Dixboro Road.

IDA MORGAN, 82, is in Room 422 E of Wayne County General Hospital.

A lifelong resident of the community, Mrs. Morgan suffered a stroke last Friday. According to her granddaughter, a card or a note would mean a lot to her at this time.

PTG prepares float

Members of the Plymouth Theatre Guild were hard at work this week preparing their float for the Fourth of July parade. They had hauled the old freight wagon from Clemie Cyburt's home in Canton Township to Cindy Richards' yard on Adams Street in Plymouth. First night workers were (from left) Don Watkins of Plymouth, PTG president; Richard Brown of Westland, treasurer; Robyn McLean of Northville, publicity chairperson; Cynthia Richards, script committee; and Thelma Parrish of Westland who will chair the house committee.

Plans for the wagon are a big secret until parade day. Pat Bray, vice president; Thomas Hinks, corresponding secretary; and Dale Feldpausch, recording secretary, also will help with the guild's creation. (Staff photo by Elinor Graham)

'The Blue Ridge,' a work of beauty

The Blue Ridge Mountain area is the subject of a newly published book by photographer and author William Bake.

"The Blue Ridge" (Viking Press, 112 pages, $15.95) contains photographs of the magnificent vistas, forgotten fields and houses, flowering meadows and details of nature. The text describes the history of the land and its people.

A former Plymouth resident, Dr. Blake is an artist-in-residence in photography at Appalachian State University in Boone, N.C. At the time "The Blue Ridge" was written, Bake was a writer and editor for the National Park Service Division of Publications for which he wrote booklets about the Blue Ridge Parkway, Sleeping Bear Dunes National Shoreline, and the Stehekin Valley in Washington.

His articles and and photographs have appeared in "Yankee," the "Atlanta Journal and Constition Magazine," "International Photo-Technik," "Backpacker," "National Wildlife," "Travel and Leisue," "Natural History," "Outer World," in National Geographic Society books and Sierra Club calendars, and other publications.

HE IS AN educator as well as a writer. He has taught in Linden, Mich., Dekalb Community College in Atlanta, and the Unversity of Georgia College of Education.

A graduate of Albion College, he received his MA from Emory University and his Ph.D in environmental education from the University of Georgia.

He is the son of Virginia Bake of Plymouth.

With his camera, Bake has ranged the Blue Mountain area from its beginnings in north Georgia, through the Carolinas and Virginias to Maryland.

Blake's prose adds background to the magnificent color plates in the book. Before the reader looks at the pictures, he knows where it was taken, the circumstances that led to the shot, and often the time of the day and the temperature.

DESCRIBING STONE Mountain: "For at least 250,000,000 years the granite has been exposed, time far beyond the appearance of birds and mammals, the ice age and the advent of man. Time enough to evolve a botany perfectly adapted to its environment."

He writes of the desert plants, and tenacious mosses and lichens that grow on the granite slopes: "Gray until the moisture vitalizes them, they carpet the granite with a soft emerald-green mat.

"When small streams of sparkling water burst over them, they are idyllic counterpoint to rock on which they live."

Blake tells of his meetings with wildlife in the mountains. He mentions the suspicions of the hill people when he sets up the tripod for his camera. They have had their fill of surveyors, and a tripod means surveyors.

He also describes the sounds of the forests and streams.

"Nothing moved. Then the wind began to trouble the snow-laden hemlocks. It is always the same in the stillness of such mornings. No more than the tips of a few boughs may be wind-touched at first, but it is enough to begin the snow music. Beneath the smooth curve of the snow on the needles, a tree moves and a spray of snow crystals shatters into the sunlight. A symphony has begun.

He was starting up a ridge on the West Virginia side of the Potomac. It was early morning and eight inches of fresh powder snow had fallen.

Bake's artistry with his camera and the almost lyrical quality of his descriptions are a delightful combination.

First reviews from the southeastern part of the country have been enthusiastic. The book is not yet available in local book stores.

TRIS-treated fabric? Choice is consumers'

The recent controversy about TRIS, the flame-retardant finish used on some children's sleepwear, has left questions in many consumers' minds, according to Bernetta Kahabka, extension specialist in human environment and design at Michigan State University.

"Consumers may want to choose sleepwear made from inherently flame-retardant fibers," she says. "Such fabrics naturally resist flame. The fabrics from which they are made do not need any further chemical finishing."

Kahabka advises consumers to check the fiber content of children's sleepwear. "Look for general fiber names such as modacrylic, matrix, and vinyon, she says. "The names will often be listed along with brand names. The letters SEF with a fiber name indicates that it is a "self-extinguishing fiber."

Some polyesters, nylons, and rayons are also produced inherently flame retardant when they are in the solution state before being processed into fibers or filaments and eventually made into cloth. Kahabka advises consumers to be sure that these fabrics are labeled as such.

The U.S. Consumer Products Safety Commission (CPSC) has banned the sale of any children's clothing containing the flame-retardant chemical TRIS. Consumers who have purchased but not washed any TRIS-treated children's garments or uncut fabrics are entitled to a full refund of purchase price.

The commission position has been that already-washed (three times or more) TRIS-treated garmetns are not banned because they do not present a substantial risk.

However, there is a difference of opinion among CPSC members, producers, scientists, and lawyers about this. It leaves the consumer to ultimately make the decision as to whether they will continue to use the washed TRIS-treated sleepwear.

New tree in park is 'thank you' gift

Plymouth area Girl Scouts consider the Plymouth evening Kiwanis Club their oldest and staunchest supporter. Five years ago the scouts gave the club its "best friend of scouting" award.

The Latest gesture of appreciation by the Girl Scouts was the presentation of a tree. The red hard maple was planted in the park in front of Central Middle School. The Kiwanis Club took over the care of the park two years ago and has been responsible for many improvements. They landscaped the terrain, planted new shrubbery and removed straggly, overgrown bushes. The club also installed an underground sprinkling system for the lawns.

The Kiwanis Club built the Plymouth Girl Scout Lodge which was a source of envy to scouts from surrounding areas. The big cabin high above Hines Park and the Rouge River was built when Plymouth Girl Scouts were a separate group—the lodge was for their private use.

ALTHOUGH THE CABIN was only a mile from the city, it was so isolated that it seemd to be miles from civilization.

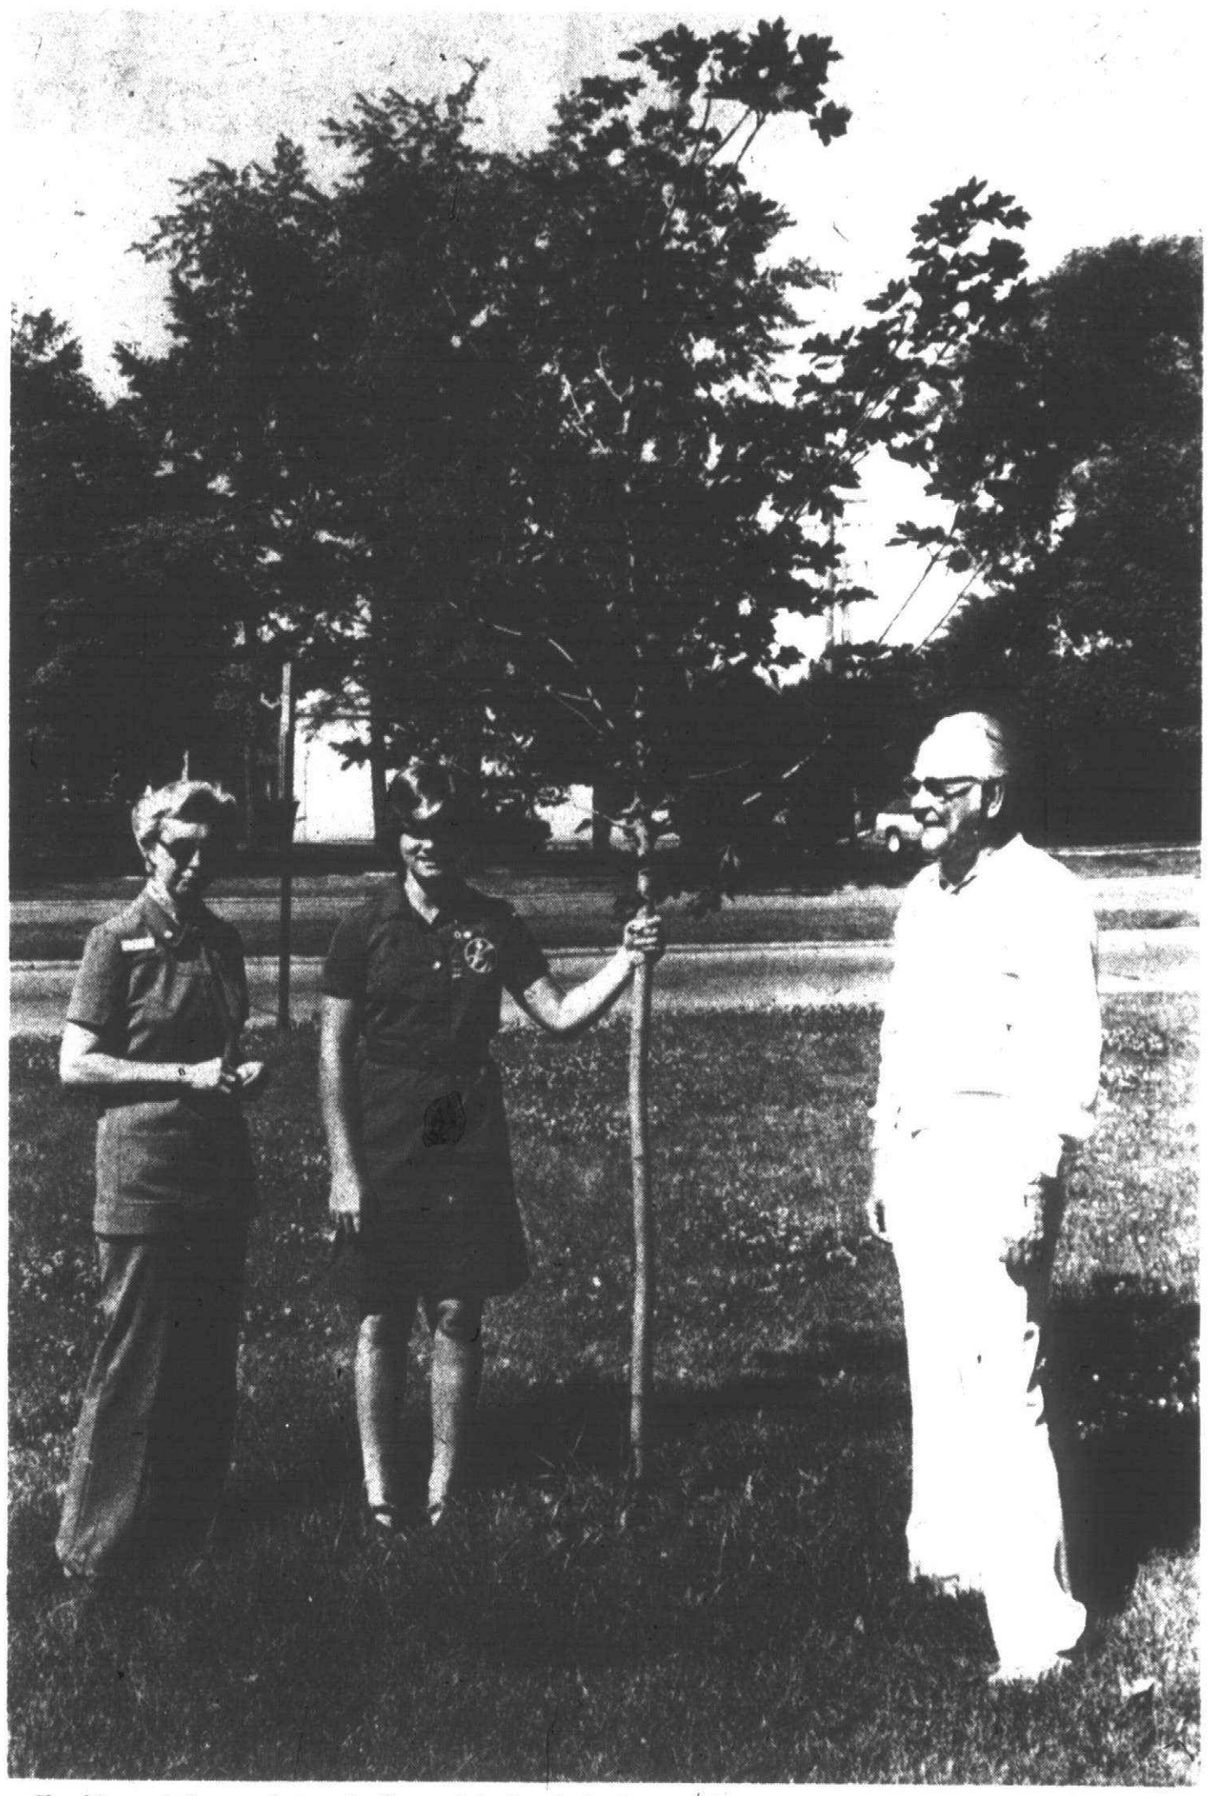

It had a spacious activity room with a huge fireplace and stairs that led to the balcony sleeping quarters. There were screened porches, kitchen facilities and showers.

When the lodge was destroyed by fire, the Kiwanis Club used the insurance money to build a shower house at Camp Linden in 1969. The Plymouth area Girl Scouts had become part of the Huron Valley Council and the lodge had become community property of the council.

In 1972, the Kiwanians donated the time, labor and funds to build a cook's cabin at Camp Linden.

Each year they award a campership to a Plymouth Girl Scout.

The maple tree, with its deep red leaves, will be a lasting tribute from the scouts to the Kiwanis Club.

THE KINGDOM IS LIKE A PEARL MERCHANT: PART II

The merchant work of Christ includes an expensive finding: "He sold all that he had" (Matt. 13:45-46). According to Luke 14:26-27,33, what one possesses represents himself or "the whole of the existence granted to him by God in all its possibilities and connections." Jesus gave himself completely to secure the salvation of the elect. He obtained it. He secured it for them. He finished his work.

The price Christ paid included a great condescension (Phil. 2:6-7). Being equal with God and as possessing all the qualities that make God distinctive from all other personal beings, he entered the real experience of nothingness and poverty. He became poor for our sakes that we might be made rich. Further, the payment included obedience. A necessity rested over Christ as the Messiah come from God. He must obey the Father. He must suffer many things. He must be obedient even to the death of the cross. Finally the payment included the giving of his life for his sheep. We owe a debt we are utterly unable to pay (cf. Lk. 7:41-42). Christ paid it for us.

Do you trust the Savior and yet feel your weakness? Take heart. He loves you with the love of his coming from glory into the real experience of poverty and obedience. He determines that you who believe the gospel be with him in glory.

Can you earn your way to heaven? There is only one who can earn enough to pay your sin debt. We must receive this salvation with a determination to serve him as our King. In this way the waters of life are purchased freely, without price.

Their golden anniversary is for sharing

By SHERRY KAHAN

You don't find many 50th anniversary parties like the one given by Philip and Faye Sills of Farmington.

To celebrate their golden wedding anniversary, they tossed a party in Huck's Bavarian Village for about 50 of their friends who live in the Plymouth Center for Human Development.

For 17 years the Sills have been spending most of their spare hours with these mentally retarded individuals, some of whom are also blind.

Recently the center let them know what they thought of them by naming the Sills its volunteers of the year. An award went to Mrs. Sills for having given 13,000 hours of help over the years; to Sills for 8,000 hours.

"I feel it is more blessed to give than receive," declared Mrs. Sills. "And they show more appreciation than anyone else in the world. Their expressions of their feelings are worth a million dollars.

"WE TAKE THEM once or twice a month to places like Uncle John's Pancake House, Tiffany's or the Old Mill.

"I think outsiders should see them. That's why we bring them out in public. It might open a few eyes to reality. Most people don't realize how lucky they are."

Mrs. Sills learned how lucky she was when she began making dolls for retarded children in the old Fort Custer Home, and visiting the kids.

"But they closed Fort Custer and transferred the kids," she recalled. "Because one of the groups was located in Farmington, we decided to move here. I figured I could go to their home and work with them. In 1960 the group was moved to the Plymouth center.

"I used to do physical therapy with them until my health would no longer permit."

There are moments she still remembers about the days she worked in physical therapy, one of them being the delighted cry from a child who said, "Look, look, Mrs. Sills, I'm standing alone!"

Their accomplishments still thrill her. One mongoloid child went home to parents and brothers and sisters who worked with him day and night. He graduated from high school with honors.

"You could just about cry when you hear something like that," smiled Mrs. Sills.

BETWEEN THE SALAD and the chicken at her anniversary celebration, Mrs. Sills pointed to the 50 friends she had invited.

"Didn't I tell you you would be able to hear a pin drop," she said, indicating how quiet and well behaved everyone was. "Any time you take them out they're beautiful people."

Peter Schweitzer, community relations director of the center, reported that in the hospital the group had been very excited about the prospects of dining out.

"They all wanted to look good," he said.

For Sills, a former laundry truck driver, the relationship with the center has been a pleasure all through the years.

"We sometimes spend as many as four or five days a week there," he explained, "although we are usually there just Tuesday, Thursday and Sunday."

The Sills never arrive empty handed. Recently arriving with them was a large batch of homemade vegetable soup. "We have a party every Sunday," noted Mrs. Sills. "We bring in pizza or hamburgers or something."

SILLS WAS introspective about his involvement. "I guess I was the last man in the world you might think would be able to put up with these children," he mused.

"But if you could see them for a month, you'd never leave them," he added. "You find out what they're like, the same as normal people. They react like everyone else."

To which his wife added: "They love baseball."

The kids like to use the names Mama Sills and Daddy Sills.

"Some consider me their second mother," Mrs. Sills said. "I love it. I love it. I only wish I were younger, so I had the strength to take them home."

She observed that their two daughters and their five grandchildren often help them with their projects with the retarded. Daughters Miriam Parel of Huntington Woods and Mae O'Connor of Lathrup Village always see that she gets a ride to the center if she needs one.

"They help me because they know this is my life," she said.

Surrounded by friends from the Plymouth Center for Human Development, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Sills prepare to cut their golden wedding anniversary cake. The Sills celebrated their anniversary by throwing a dinner party for their friends from the center.

Women's roles viewed in MSU book

Few basic differences exist between career women and homemakers, say two Michigan State University professors of psychology, but career women may be healthier psychologically than exclusively home-oriented women.

Dr. Elaine Donelson, associate professor, and Jeanne Gullahorn, professor of psychology, are editors and co-authors of "Women: A Psychological Perspective," just published by John Wiley and Sons.

Other MSU faculty members contributing to the 342-page book are Glenn I. Hatton, Lauren J. Harris, Hiram E. Fitzgerald, Ellen A. Strommen, Lucy Rau Ferguson, the late Stanley C. Ratner and former doctoral candidate Audrey D. Landers.

Society as it is now constituted, Donelson and Gullahorn write, tends to inhibit personal development in both women and men. Women, they say, are expected to express competence in marital and maternal roles within the home, and men in occupations outside the home. Nobody of either sex is encouraged to develop simply and fully as a person.

Future societies, they suggest, may allow women and men to assume the "self-oriented" achievement roles usually assigned to men and the "other-oriented" roles usuaslly expected of women.

The book's group of authors examine psychobiological foundations of sex-typed behavior, social influences, adult involvement and the quest for androgyny which combine psychological characteristics of both sexes.

The Stroller

Wanted: markers

By W. W. EDGAR

Many years ago, long before The Stroller started his stroll along the journalistic trail, John Marshall, one of the leading public figures of the time, remarked that what this country needed was a good five-cent cigar.

That might have been true in his time. But if he had been with The Stroller on several outings during the past few weeks the five cent cigar would have been far from his mind.

Instead, like the others in our party, he would have been moaning about the absence of the white lines, both in the middle and on the edges of the state highways.

Nothing is more aggravating than to be driving along the highways, especially at night or during a rainfall, and the white lines are not visible. And when traffic is headed your way on the opposite lane, the driving really becomes hazardous.

On his recent jaunts The Stroller drove along I-96 to and from Lansing and never was he more delighted to reach home. Not only were the white lines washed off, but it had rained a bit and the absence of the side white stripe, made it a hazard and doubled the chances of slipping off the highway into the ditches.

Much the same thing happened on I-94 on our return from a short vacation trip up on the St. Clair River. Again it had rained and the white marker down the center was only a ghost. It rarely could be seen. And if you don't think driving can be hazardous under these conditions, try it some time.

The absence of the white line is bad enough, but on I-96 it seems that the lights of the cars coming toward you in the opposite strip partially blind a driver. Now put the two conditions together and you have a highway hazard that easily could lead to disaster.

It has been reported, unofficially, that the State of Michigan purchases 70,000 gallons of white paint each year to be used for striping purposes. Figure that cost, plus the labor, and one can see that the white lines are a problem—even when they can be seen.

With his curiosity aroused after his recent trips, The Stroller contacted an offcial in the state highway department to report the problem and ask why white cement could not be used. With white cement, so he thought, the lines would be there permanently, and the problem would be solved.

"Too costly," came the reply. "It would cost a great deal more than we are spending for paint. And white cement is not as durable as the concrete now used. So, the white cement would deteriorate and cause even a worse problem."

The explanation seemed adequate, but The Stroller couldn't help wondering why a generetion that could send a man to the moon and send ships to the bottom of the ocean to explore the living conditions of fish, couldn't come up with a permanent white line as a safety measure on the nation's highways.

Another thing that has concerned The Stroller on his recent jaunts, was the poor markings of street signs—even in the heart of our cities.

Did you ever go looking for a street in any residential areas ? If you did, you possibly became frustrated, too, as you drove past the street for which you were looking.

Most of the signs today have black letters on a white background or white letters on a green backgrund. By day, they are not bad. But try finding them at night. Then it is a different story, especially if the sign posts are not on the corner of the intersections.

Schools buy house for lot

Growth in Plymouth-Canton Community Schools continued to take its toll on the school board Monday night when it approved the purchase of property adjacent to its board offices in downtown Plymouth to provide additional parking spaces.

The shortage of parking spaces has long been a problem for businesses in the heart of Plymouth, and the board office is no exception. John Culotta, architect-planner advising the schools, estimated a parking deficiency of 25 spaces, based on calculations of its present use. The lot currently provides 51 parking spaces.

The purchase of the property at 1040 Maple Street will enable the south parking area of the board office to expand in a westerly direction. The school board approved the purchase of the property for $27,000. The asking price was $34,900.

Board member Thomas Yack raised the concern that the purchase only remedies temporary problems and there is no long range plans. "As the district grows, this site leaves a lot to be desired in parking," Yack said. "Every time there is a parking deficiency, are we going to continue knocking down houses and destroying the neighborhood?"

ALL MEMBERS of the board agreed the parking situation will only grow worse.

E.J. McClendon, who participated in his final board meeting as trustee before stepping down, said the lack of parking at the board office forces visitors to park in business lots, a practice which results in poor public relations with downtown merchants.

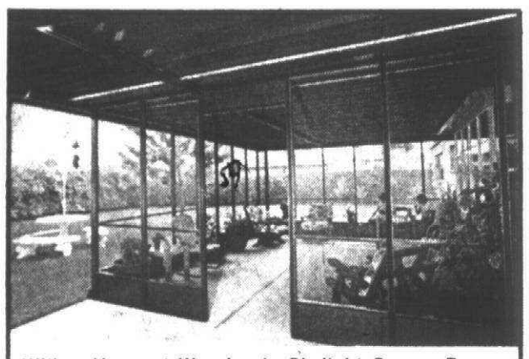

Both McClendon and secretary Flossie Tonda admitted to parking in the Plymouth Credit Union lot across from the board offices during business hours. "I can't see cramming cars in the board's parking lot and jeopardizing the safety of them," Mrs. Tonda said.

Although the board bought the property, it does not know what the administration intends to do with the house. There has been talk of rennovating the house, which is in need of repairs, to create some additional office space for an expected increase in personnel at the board offices.

Another possibility mentioned at the meeting was to tear down the house to provide for even more parking spaces. The administration was unable to produce figures for the cost of demolition, rennovation, debris removal or parking lot resurfacing.

Canton chatter

By SHARON STARON 455-5322

Canton Township Jaycettes are beginning a new community project—BUBS—which means Buckle Up Babes. The Jaycettes are in the preliminary stages of securing as many as possible of the specially-designed GM Love Baby Seats.

They will then be able to rent them to residents at a minimal cost.

The safety of Plymouth and Canton infants should be in the minds of many of our residents. This is a statewide Jaycette project. The Canton Jaycettes will be coordinating the BUBS program for the whole area, including Canton, Plymouth and Plymouth Township.

Chairwoman for BUBS is Charlene Carlson of 39806 Edmunton, Canton 48187. Charlene has been a resident for six months since moving from St. Louis, Mo. She is excited about the new project and has set very high goals for the Jaycettes.

The project cannot succeed without the help of the whole Canton-Plymouth community and their response to this worthwhile cause. The Jaycettes are contacting businesses in Canton and Plymouth, asking for support.

EACH BABY seat costs approximately $20. The Jaycettes hope to have enough money to purchase 50 seats by August.

A GM representative told the Jaycettes that he thought the highest number of baby seats that any organization had for rent was 75. Charlene has set her total goal for 80 seats for this community.

The seats securely hold infants from birth to nine months. They are highly recommended by many auto safety groups for infant travel in a car. Anyone wishing to rent one would pay the sum of $12. When the seat is returned, they will receive a $6 refund if the seat is in good condition.

OUR COMMUNITY is such a fast-growing area, we will have many residents who need a good safety seat for their infants. If the Jaycettes' project is a success, every infant in the area should travel in safety.

The Canton Senior Citizens Club already has donated $50 to BUBS. The Jaycettes are delighted by their sponsorship. Watch this column as more sponsors pledge their support.

Wouldn't it be great for the Plymouth-Canton community to have the largest number of safety seats in the nation for our infants? The Jaycettes are very optimistic about receiving the support they need. Anyone wishing to help can contact Charlene at 455-6854. She is asking for donations, but is not yet prepared to take rental applications.

Hopefully, by August, we'll be able to say the Jaycettes are ready for business.

CONGRATULATIONS to Bob and Kathy Spencer of Palisades Drive on the birth of their daughter.

Amber McKenzie was born June 18 and weighed 7 pounds, 11 ounces. Her sister Heather is thrilled over the new addition to the family. Mrs. Markward of Grosse Pointe Shores and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Masters of Melvindale are the proud grandparents.

GEORGE AND GAIL McDowell hosted a surprise birthday party for Denise Owens with the help of her husband, Stan.

Many friends were on hand to celebrate the occasion. Much thought and effort went into the many gifts given to the birthday girl.

Denise is employed by John Smith of Plymouth, and her fellow workers did not forget her. A toy cash register was one of the gifts received. This was to encourage Denise to keep in practice over the summer months while she is on vacation.

She received a variety of gifts. One had a picture of Wonder Woman on it with Super Salesgirl in bold lettering. A box of No-Doz, contact lens solution, a gasoline can, and a microphone made of soap are a few more we can mention.

The birthday cake read "Happy 29th." Now all Denise's friends and neighbors are unsure of her true age.

Happy birthday, Denise, whichever one it may be.

Yeskie-Kingery

Mr. and Mrs. Howard W. Yeskie of Canton announce the engagement of their daughter, Kimberly Joy, to Rick A. Kingery of Westland, the son of Ernest W. Kingery of Jackson, and Virginia R. Douglas of South Carolina.

The bride-elect is a 1976 graduate of Plymouth Salem High School and employed as a dental assistant by Dr. Donald J. Davies in Plymouth.

Her fiance attended Michigan State University and is employed by Stahl Manufacturing Co. in Plymouth.

They plan a July 29 wedding in Lutheran Church of the Risen Christ in Plymouth.

Livonian in new Archdiocese post

By MARGARET MILLER

Serving the Catholic laity, a task Phillip Tanguay of Livonia took on eight years ago for the Archdiocese of Detroit, is one he will continue in a new way as he takes over a newly-created post July 1.

Tanguay, who has lived in Livonia since 1961 and is a member of St. Maurice parish, becomes director of the Ministry to Councils as part of a general archdiocesan restructuring announced by Cardinal John F. Dearden.

The one-time executive director of the Livonia Chamber of Commerce has since 1969 been the Archdiocese Delegate to the Laity, a post created by the Synod following Vatican II, which also mandated creation of parish councils in the Catholic church organization.

IT IS THESE parish councils, as well as vicariate councils and the Archdiocesan Pastoral Council, that will be Tanguay's particular concern in his new assignment.

"There are 20,000 people out there responsible for the decision-making of the church, and the majority of them are lay people," he said.

"They need training and support in these decisions, but support and service are the key words. We will counsel and aid, but we cannot do their work.

"The church isn't down here in the Archdiocese offices—it's out there where the people are."

Tanguay said in his former capacity he considered himself a sort of ombudsman, helping in any way asked by lay people involved in church organization.

"That ombudsman is no more with the reorganization," he pointed out, "but that does not mean that the service will be gone.

"The reorganization also has decentralized the Archdiocese and put the several bishops into more direct contact with the parishes in their areas.

"So with the bishops more available out there, there's less need for an ombudsman. The service I did will continue, but in a different way."

INTERESTINGLY enough, some of the tasks Tanguay now will take on are things that have been the charge of Bishop Thomas Gumbleton.

"The bishop served as Vicar for Parishes," the Livonian explained, "and as the Cardinal implemented the decentralization he and the other bishops are going out more into the field, so some of the tasks he had done had to be reallocated.

"The Ministry to the Councils will pick up a good share of these."

Working with Tanquay will be Sister Peggy Schmidt, IHM, who has served in recent years as an assistant in the office of the Vicar for Parishes.

The Ministry to Councils will be under direct supervision of Bishop Gumbleton.

Tanguay will continue to serve as executive secretary of the Archdiocesan Pastoral Council and the Archdiocesan Pastoral Assembly, in which capacity he will be directly supervised by the Cardinal.

Duties in that capacity involve setting up a meeting just before Easter of persons called to the assembly by the Cardinal. That body makes decisions for the Archdiocesan Pastoral Council to carry out during the year.

HIS RESPONSIBILITIES to the parish councils involve numerous training sessions like the series being concluded at present in Roseville.

"This is aimed as orientation for newly-elected council members," he said.

"In the fall we will have some in-depth training sessions," he said, "and we also are planning some other programs really not off the drawing board yet."

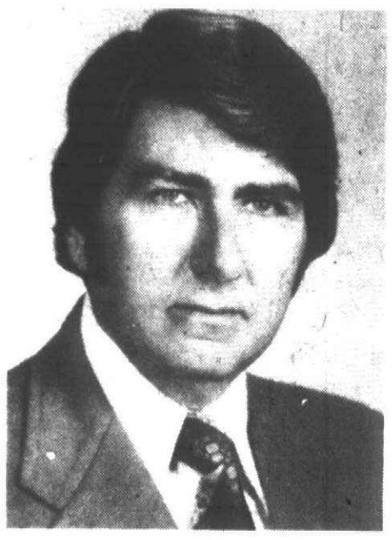

The Ministry to Councils office will be located in the Chancery Building, 1234 Washington Blvd., Detroit, and those wishing to consult with Tanguay can call him at 237-5853.

Tanguay and his wife, Martha, have three children, Phillip, 21, Marie Julie, 22, and Mary Joanne, 23.

Phillip Tanguay of Livonia will continue in his new post with the Archdiocese of Detroit to serve the Catholic laity.

Bennett to be ordained deacon

GERALD L. BENNETT

Gerald L. Bennett, Farmington resident and active member of St. Andrew Episcopal Church of Livonia, will be ordained as a deacon in the Episcopal Church Saturday, July 9.

The ordination will take place at 10 a.m. in St. Andrew, 16360 Hubbard and will culminate nine years of study in the Episcopal School of Theology in the Cathedral Church of St. Paul in Detroit.

Bennett, an assistant principal in the East Detroit school district, plans to continue his studies to ordination as an Episcopal priest.

He then will be eligible to serve as an non-stipendiary clergyman, probably assisting without pay in an area church, while continuing his full-time school career.

The Right Rev. William Gordon, assistant bishop of the Diocese of Michigan, will preside for the ordination as deacon.

Presenting the candidate, along with the Rev. Kenneth G. Davis, rector of St. Andrew, will be Bennett's wife, Mildred, a licensed lay reader and vestrywoman of the church.

The public is invited to attend the rites.

At St. Andrew, Bennett has served as vestryman, choir member, lay reader and church school teacher.

Bennett attended Albion College, Wayne State University and Eastern Michigan University and holds a BA in speech, an MA in counseling and an educational specialist degree in administration.

His wife is an elementary principal in the Farmington school district.

The Bennets and their daughter, Catherine, a recent graduate of Farmington High School, have been Farmington residents for 14 years.

Hasselbacks wed 50 years

Mary and Russell Hasselback celebrated 50 years of marriage with a mass in St. John Bosco Catholic Church of Redford Township.

Four generations of the family were present, along with Margaret Daud and William Brown, matron of honor and best man when the vows first were spoken on June 12, 1927.

The Rev. Sheltreau celebrated mass with the Hasselback's 16 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren in attendance.

Following the mass, a reception for 100 family members and friends was held in Colonial Hall, Dearborn, and was hosted by the Hasselback children, Russell Jr., John, and Mary Ann Stedman, and their spouses.

The couple were long-time residents of Livonia where Hasselback conducted his business. Now retired, the Hasselbacks reside in Redford Township.

Digging a foundation

Instead of shovels, members of the Good Shepherd Reformed Church of Westland used an old-fashioned plow to break ground for the new addition they are planning. Evelyn Fagan (left) led the groundbreaking service and the symbolic pulling of 60-foot ropes to dig the furrow that will grow into a foundation for future worship and education space. Attending the service at the invitation of the Rev. Kel Kronemeyer, pastor, were the Rev. John O'Callaghan, president of the Wayne-Westland Ministerial Association, city officials and other Reformed Church in America pastors. Good Shepherd is at 6800 N. Wayne. (Photo by Fred Hopkins)

Madonna sets open house July 10

Madonna college in Livonia will sponsor a family open house, Sunday, July 10, with a general information session beginning at 2 p.m. Prospective students of all ages and their families are invited to attend, tour the campus and classrooms, and talk with admissions counselors.

Programs to be discussed include the allied health professions such as medical, dietetic, operating room, and radiologic technologies, business administration, criminal justice, nursing, and teacher education. Madonna, a fully-accredited liberal arts college also offers pre-professional education for medicine, law and dentistry.

"Opportunities for fall enrollment still exist in many programs," said Louis E. Brohl III, director of admissions, "and it is not too early for 1978 graduates to begin planning their college careers."

College admission policies, and financial assistance such as scholarships, grants, and loans also will be discussed.

Madonna is one of only six colleges in the country which encourages deaf students to enroll in regular classes with hearing students. Classroom interpreters, tutors, and note-takers are provided for them at their request. The college also has a curriculum in sign language interpreting which is open to both deaf and hearing students.

More than 2,100 men and women students were enrolled in day and evening classes at Madonna during the last full term. The college is located at Schoolcraft and Levan roads, in Livonia.

Further informatin may be obtained by calling the Admissions Office, Madonna College, 425-8000, ext. 15.

Polish Day film to show women's role

An award-winning documentary film on the role of Polish women in the struggle for feminine rights in the 19th century will be shown as part of the monthly "Polish Day" progam Sunday, July 3, at St. Mary College, Orchard Lake.

"For the Benefit of the Country Hereafter" recounts a portion of the story of Ernestine Potowski-Rose, primary speaker at the great meeting for Women's Suffrage in 1850.

Another feminist who is spotlighted in the film is Dr. Marie Zakrzewski, founder of the New England Hospital for Women and Children. Unable to receive a degree as a doctor at several midwestern medical schools, she persevered and finally was able to open practice in Boston.

Produced by Robert Radycki, of Norridge, Ill., the film won an award in the history and biography category of documentary films at the 1976 Chicago International Film Festival.

It will be shown at 2:30 p.m. on the college campus northwest of Detroit, folowing a mass in Polish at 1 p.m. in the college's shrine-chapel.

July is the month for antique lovers

July not only will be a month of barbeques, fireworks and Sol's rays, but, for some, it will be a month of finally getting around to cleaning windows, perhaps some indoor/outdoor house painting, and maybe sprucing up the landscape around the settlements.

If you've got the clean-up, paint-up, fix-up urge, two antique shows and sales are scheduled—one near and one not-so-far.

Starting off the month for improvers is an antique show and sale at Midland Circle Mall in Midland, featuring Currier and Ives prints, Windsor chairs, refinished furniture, copper tea kettles, wooden wares, a Carry Nation ax, flour sifters, tools, Tin-type photo albums, beer steins, Wedgewood pitchers, Ironstone china, coins, sewing items, and other such items which can normally be found at these gatherings.

Scheduled for June 30 and July 1-3, hours are 9:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. Thursday and Friday, 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Saturday, and noon to 5 p.m. Sunday. Midland Circle is at Jefferson at Rodd and Ashman streets, Midland.

Detroit Plaza Antique and Collectibles Show-Sale in the Ontario Room of the Plaza in RenCen is set for July 22-24.

On display and ready for new surroundings will be jewelry, prints, furniture, paper weights, toys, lamps, silver, china, glassware and statuary.

Also making appearances will be Gladyse Hilsdorf of Fayettevill, New York, the "Doll Queen of America," with her crew of silent friends from around the world, and Mrs. Peter Galanis and her collection of many-sized and many-styled old combs of tortouise-shell, celluloid, imitation and real stones, and silk flowers and feathers.

Hours are noon to 10 p.m. daily and noon to 8 p.m. Sunday. (If you make it to this one, take time to enjoy the broiled-in-butter-and-lemon sea bass at the Laikon Cafe or the shish-kabob, and baklava for desert, at the Old Parthenon, both in Greektown.)

Tunes on the river

The Nitty Gritty Dirt Band, along with Charlie Daniels Band, Winters Brothers and Colleen Peterson, brings progressive country music (heavy on the electronics), to the Detroit River from 6-11 p.m. Saturday, July 2. Tunes will originate from a barge off Dieppe Park, at the foot of Ouellette Avenue, in downtown Windsor.

Ella and Bassie

Velvety tones on a sultry night

By BEN SHAW

The Meadow Brook Music Festival opened its Friday night jazz series last week with a powerful one-two combination of Ella Fitzgerald and Count Basie and his orchestra.

The first lady of song and the Count blended their talents so deliciously that the two and one-half-hour program passed in a wink.

Ella was as awesome as ever when delivering her flawless scat rendition of "Day by Day" and "The One Note Samba." She remembered her dear and closest friend, Duke Ellington, with "I A'int Got Nothin' but the Blues" and "Satin Doll."

However, it was her velvety tones in the ballads "My Old Flame" and "Feelings" which recalled the bygone era of the big bands and Ella's climb to stardom.

The night was sultry and Count Basie just added to the heat with his pulsating rhythms. The Count, looking much younger and more refreshed than in his last few visits into the area, brought a seventeen-piece ensemble which has basically been intact over the last three years.

His soloists of note include tenor saxophonist Eric Dixon, trumpetman Waymond Reed and drummer Butch Miles. Miles replaced Sonny Payne about two and a half years ago and has been laying down the Basie beat ever since.

Dixon performed beautifully on "Body and Soul," particularly down in the low register where his glissando had the audience murmuring.

Harbinger Dance is taking it to the streets

Dance performances will be given by the 10-member professional dance company at five locations downtown. Three scheduled times are set for the Civic Center Plaza at the foot of Woodward on Jefferson at 11:30 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. July 1; at noon and 1 p.m. at the Pontchartrain Hotel Washington Boulevard Terrace July 5; noon and 1 p.m., July 7, Blue Cross - Blue Shield building; noon and 1 p.m., July 11, Michigan Consolidated Gas building; and at noon and 1 p.m. July 13 at Detroit Plaza Hotel.

Performances, 45 minutes in length, will include selections from Harbinger's repertory of contemporary dance. The offerings are free.

Review

SC concerts begin Tuesday

The first summer music festival concert at Schoolcraft College will begin at 8 p.m. next Tuesday, July 5, featuring members of the summer music faculty.

The 11th annual series will be held on three Tuesdays in July in the Liberal Arts Theater at the south end of the campus at 18600 Haggerty, Livonia. Tickets are available at the door.

Featured performers for the first program will be David Mariotti, oboe; Paul Ganson, bassoon; and Donald Morelock, piano.

THE PROGRAM will open with Sonata in D major by Tomasso Albinoni, a contemporary of J.S. Bach, who admired Albinoni and transcribed his works for his (Bach's) personal use.

It will be followed by the Quartet in D minor by Franz Danzi, a composer of opera, symphonies and chamber music in the late 18th and early 19th centuries.

After intermission, the group will perform Franz Schubert's popular quintet, "The Trout," named for its famous fourth movement.

Americans sweep jr. all-star games

By DENNIS O'CONNOR
Sports Editor

The Plymouth-Canton Junior Baseball League hosted its annual all-stars games for the A, B and G Jr. leagues last Saturday at the Plymouth Township recreation diamonds.

Each all-star game included battles between the American and National Leagues of each conference.

In the A League (ages 11-12), the Americans scored early and often to coast to an easy 13-0 shutout.

The B League game (ages 9-10) was its usual wild affair with the Americans besting the National squad 18-9.

The Americans scored 12 unanswered runs in the third inning to soar to the victory.

The G Jr. battle (girls-ages 9-12) made it a clean sweep for the Americans with a 12-2 triumph over the Nationals. The Americans scored three quick runs in the opening inning and were never behind after that.

All 144 all-star players selected saw at least three innings of competition.

For complete photo coverage of the games see page 3A of today's Observer. Here is a list of the All-Stars:

Observer honors 'best' softball team

By DENNIS O'CONNOR
and DOUG FUNKE

Girls fast-pitch softball has made great advances in its short three-years as a high school program.

This season, three of the Observer area schools won or tied for league titles.

Redford Thurston was a winner in the tough Northwest Suburban League, and Clarenceville was the first-place finisher in the Metro West Conference. Livonia Stevenson tied for its title in the Inter-Lakes League.

Softball talent in this area grows richer each season as many girls strive for college scholarships.

This year's All-Observer squad is full of such talent and is by-far the best Observer softball team yet selected.

Area coaches recently met to select the top 20 players, and here are the results:

FIRST TEAM

Renee Enright, pitcher, Redford Thurston. No stranger to any Observer team, Enright, a senior, has been part of this coveted squad for the past two years. She also has been an All-Northwest Suburban League selection for those three years.

Enright finished this year with a 10-3 record, leading Thurston to a conference championship. All three of her losses were by one run.

"Renee is a fireball pitcher from the mound and the team's Most Valuable Player," said Eagle coach Dick Munson.

Debbie Pitera, pitcher, Plymouth Salem. Only a junior, Pitera has been the ace of coach Livy Way's team for the past two years.

An extremely quick hurler, Pitera easily outdistanced every other Observer pitcher for the strikeout title with 111.

Pitera also proved valuable on offense, as she blossomed at the plate in the second-half of the year as the Rocks' lead-off hitter. She was a second-team member of the All-Observer squad last year.

Vicki Williams, catcher, Redford Union. A transfer student from Benedictine, where she was an All-Catholic League selection last year, Williams finished her first season for the Panthers with a lusty .414 batting average.

"Defense is Vicki's main asset," said Redford Union coach Tip Smathers. "The key to her defensive skills is her strong arm."

Anita Luka, first baseman, Clarenceville. In a year when first-base talent in the Observer area was exceptionally strong, Luka was chosen the best.

Clarenceville's captain and Most Valuable Player, Luka finished the season with a fat .551 batting average which included 23 runs batted in.

Luka was an All-Metro West Conference selection for coach Karen Oliva's squad and was also chosen as Clarenceville's Most Valuable Athlete in the 1976-77 season.

Mary Crechiolo, infielder, Westland John Glenn. Just a sophomore, Crechiolo is an outstanding fielder who also batted a .500 average with three home runs.

"Mary is an invaluable player," said Rocket coach Bruce Calhoun. "She runs with an admirable reckless abandon and has a phenomenal arm."

Diane White, infielder, Ladywood. A four-year letter winner in softball, White was named to the All-Catholic League team at her shortstop position. She hit for a .450 batting average this season and was Ladywood's Most Valuable Player.

White also pitched some games for coach Ed Kavanaugh's squad.

Chris Witek, infielder, Livonia Stevenson. Witek, a senior co-captain, hit for a .483 average to lead the Spartans in that category. The first baseman also was a spotless fielder.

"Chris didn't make any errors all year and was a very clutch hitter," said Stevenson coach John Soave.

Witek was selected as Stevenson's outstanding scholar-athlete for 1977.

Kathy Gravino, outfielder, Livonia Franklin. The senior co-captain has played in all 53 Patriot games over the three-year span of the sport. She led her squad in hitting this season with a potent .529 average with 37 hits and five triples.

Gravino was an All-Northwest Suburban League selection for coach Chuck Hebestreit team and will attend the University of Michigan next fall.

Krueger resigns grid post

By DENNIS O'CONNOR

Plymouth Salem varsity assistant coach Ron Krueger has announced his resignation from the Rocks' football staff.

To replace Krueger, head coach Tom Moshimer has promoted former junior varsity head coach Dick Barr to his varisty staff. It is the first change Moshimer has made in his varsity staff in five years.

Krueger was sorry to leave his post as offensive and defensive interior line coach, but noted family obligations and involvement in his wrestling program as the reasons for his resignation.

Krueger started Salem's wrestling program five years ago and also serves as an assistant track coach for the Rocks.

Moshimer called Krueger an "invaluable" member of his staff and hated to see him leave.

With the addition to Barr on the varsity staff, the coaching assignments have changed. Moshimer will continue to work with the quarterbacks and defensive ends as well as running the entire program.

Assistant Gary Balconi will continue to coach the defensive backfield but will also direct the offensive line in Krueger's place.

Barr will run the defensive line and will take Balconi's former job as coach of the offensive ends.

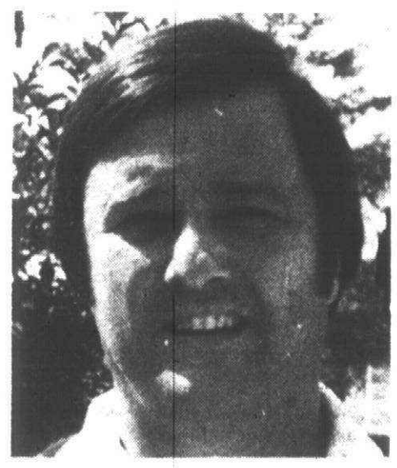

Wayne Sparkman continues as the defensive coordinator of the staff, working with the linebackers and offensive backfield.

Barr, 36, has been in the Plymouth-Canton school system for seven years and currently teaches physical education at Pioneer Middle School. After coaching football on the middle school level for two years, he became part of Moshimer's staff on the junior varsity level five years ago. He has been coaching football for 13 years.

"I'm really looking forward to coaching this year," Barr said. "When you've been coaching for 13 years, you always want to get on a varsity staff. When you finally make it, the job becomes more of a challenge and more interesting."

FRESHMAN FOOTBALL COACH Dan Chrenko has also resigned from his position on the Salem staff due to extra duties in his Plymouth Canton wrestling program and the addition of graduate school.

Jim Jarvey and Gary Temple remain the lone coaches for the junior varsity and freshman Salem football teams. The positions vacated by Barr and Chrenko have yet to be filled.

It's never been better

Last Saturday, I had the extreme pleasure of participating in the third-annual Hank Rupert Golf Classic held at the Hilltop Glen golf course. And without a doubt, this tourney was the biggest and best ever.

The tournament, hosted by Hank Rupert, head custodian at the Centennial Park, has served as a small reunion of Plymouth Salem alumni.

The original idea behind this tournament came in the spring of 1975 when Hank suggested getting together with some of the graduating seniors for a round of golf over the summer.

One thing led to another, and before anyone new it, 15 guys were interested in playing golf with lovable Hank.

So Hank met with Paul Sincock, the news director for WSDP-FM at that time, and the two men began to organize a tournament scheduled for that June.

The first Rupert classic was so much fun that everyone suggested it become an annual event in June after everyone was out of school.

Sincock kept close contact with Rupert through the winter from his residence at Central Michigan University. In no time at all, Sincock became the tournament director, expanded the participating alumni following, and built the tourney into the true classic it is today.

JEFF ROTH, Salem's 1975 graduate who attends school in Arizona on a golf scholarship, won the first Rupert tourney.

Salem teachers Bob Waters and Ron Krueger were invited to the following tournaments as part of the expansion. Waters, the Salem boys and girls golf coach, has won the tourney the past two years.

Waters shot a 74 total last Saturday—despite suffering from a sore back.

BUT FOR most of the competitors, it wasn't a matter of winning or losing. It was a chance to take a Saturday morning off, see some old friends, and most importantly, to visit Hank.

Saturday's activity included 27 golfers, six different trophies, a raffle of prizes and delicious food prepared by Hank and his lovely wife Josephine.

The participants reached the clubhouse at 8 a.m. to enjoy a beautiful breakfast. And after 18 holes, they all returned to an equally delicious lunch.

YES, THIS YEAR'S Rupert tourney was bigger and better than ever. And it was the most enjoyable for me—despite my annual poor performance on the links.

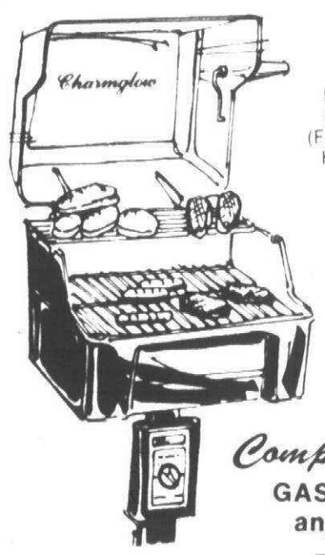

Speaking for all the participants, I would like to thank Hank, Josephine and tourney director Sincock for all their hard work and effort in giving the alumni a day to remember.

The Hank Rupert Golf Tournament has truly turned into a Classic.

Observer honors softballers

Kim Rochon, outfielder, Livonia Franklin. Rochon was Gravino's sidekick in the outfield all season for the Patriots. The junior rightfielder hit for a .397 average and threw out seven runners at first base.

Rochon was an All-Observer selection last season as a second baseman.

Judy Freiman, outfielder, Plymouth Canton. The junior leftfielder played outstandingly in the state districts with seven hits in nine trips to the plate.

Freiman led the Chiefs in hitting and home runs this season.

"Judy is able to get hits off all fast pitchers in the area," said Canton coach Joan Ryan.

SECOND TEAM

Charisse Dore, pitcher, Livonia Franklin. Dore was an honorable mention All-Observer pitcher last season but reached second-team status with her 11-5 record this year.

Only a junior, Dore will return to anchor the Patriot pitching staff next year. She was an All-Northwest Suburban selection this season.

Elaine Jeffrey, pitcher, Livonia Stevenson. The Spartans' MVP this year, Jeffrey, a senior co-captain, did almost all the pitching for her school for the past three seasons.

"Elaine did an outstanding job knowing there was virtually no backup pitcher," said John Soave. "She was a team leader and an inspiration to other team members."

Pam Ellison, catcher, Redford Thurston. The three-year varsity starter led the Eagles in batting this year with a .460 average and was second in RBIs. She was an All-Observer first-team selection last season.

"Pam is a strong-armed catcher with the ability to pick runners off first base," said Dick Munson.

Patty Brzys, first baseman, Livonia Franklin. Patty switched from the outfield to first base this season but still gained All-Northwest Suburban League honors for the second time in a row. She hit for a .493 average, smacked six home runs and added 29 RBIs. Brzys also scored 36 runs.

Lori LeVeque, infielder, Redford Thurston. The sophomore was a newcomer to the Thurston program this season and hit for a .353 average never having seen fastpitch before. She also led the team in base-on-balls.

"Lori seems to get the key hits to drive in a needed run or to start a rally," said Dick Munson.

Kathy Lehmann, infielder, Plymouth Salem. The senior second baseman has been the mainstay for the Rocks at that position for the past three seasons. Lehmann recorded her best season this past spring, hitting for a hefty .474 batting average and knocking in key runs.

Daun Muller, infielder, Livonia Franklin. The sophomore third sacker hit for a solid .433 average with an amazing total of 40 RBIs—tops in the Observer area.

"Daun is a super hitter with tremendous bat control," said Chuck Hebestreit.

Carrie Mathes, outfielder, Westland John Glenn. Glenn's Most Valuable Player this season, Mathes, a three-year starter, earned All-Northwest Suburban League honors for the second straight season.

"Carrie has an outstanding glove, making circus-type catches look routine," said Bruce Calhoun. Mathes hit for a .360 average and was the fastest player on the team.

Janet Livingston, outfielder, Ladywood. Ladywood's Most Improved Player, Livingston, a junior, started every game in leftfield and didn't commit an error. She was voted on the All-Catholic-West squad and hit for a .480 average.

"Janet made a number of outstanding plays and robbed opposing runners of extra-base hits by throwing them out," said Ed Kavanaugh.

Lois Flannigan, outfielder, Redford Thurston. The Eagle senior played all three outfield positions and was the squad's lead-off hitter. She finished with a .317 average but reached base on numerous occasions due to errors.

"Lois is one of the quickest outfielders in the area and has an outstanding glove," said Dick Munson.

Koufax squads begin action

Summer baseball action in the Sandy Koufax League (13-14 year olds) is well underway with Plymouth Salem and Plymouth Canton teams in the midst of the action.

Salem, coached by Bill Runge and Jim Symonds, currently holds a 5-2 record (not including Tuesday's game) for a first-place standing in the "A" Division.

Canton's club is directed by Mel Johnson. Canton owns a 2-4 record which places third in the "B" Division.

Salem won two important ballgames last week, first knocking off Crestwood 6-3 on Tuesday and then beating Mic-Mac 5-3 on Saturday.

Canton demolished Dearborn J.J. Curran,15-0, on Tuesday but fell to Crestwood, 6-2, on Saturday.

Tim Sonnega, Jimmy Jimmerson and Mike Symonds shared the mound duties for Salem in the Crestwood victory. Jimmerson was credited with the win.

Joe Garcia smacked two hits to lead Salem's eight-hit attack. Mitch Wilcox, batting in the second position for the first time this season, got on base four times and scored two runs.

Mike Symonds smashed a three-run homer and pitched six scoreless innings to lead Salem to the Mic-Mac victory.

Wilcox added three singles while outfielders Billy Ward and Garcia made outstanding catches in the field.

Canton's Scott Adler hurled a three-hitter in the easy 15-0 victory over Curran.

"We played super ball and everybody put it all together that day," Johnson said.

In the setback to Crestwood, Johnson said "a couple errors at the wrong time broke it open for Crestwood."

Rama qualifies for nationals

Plymouth's Gordon Rama will travel to St. Louis, Missouri next week to compete in the National Public Parks Tennis Tournament.

Rama qualified for the national tourney with a second-place finish in the doubles competition at the Detroit City Public Parks event held last week in Northville.

The Plymouth netter teamed with John Dapkis from Northville in the doubles event.

Rama and Dapkis won six straight matches before falling in the championship round to Gralin Prophet and William Mictchell, 6-3, 6-3.

The unseeded local pair defeated second-seeded Len Basiek and Mark Laking in the semi-final round, 6-2, 6-4.

More than 100 doubles combinations competed in this prestigious state tourney.

DiPonio stays in Mantle lead

Plymouth DiPonio continues to win in the "A" Division of the Northwest Mickey Mantle Baseball League. DiPonio, coached by Mike Michalek, is Plymouth Salem's representative in the conference.

A doubleheader victory over Detroit Mic-Mac in the afternoon and Southfield at night raised DiPonio's first-place record to 8-1 after Saturday's competition.

DiPonio also defeated South Lyon 9-1 in a non-league battle last Wednesday to raise its overall mark to 9-1 for the season.

The Plymouth squad demolished Mic-Mac 14-2 in its first Saturday contest.

John Holdsworth fired a two-hitter in going all the way on the mound. He struck out 13 batters and faced only 26 hitters— five over the minimum. Holdsworth sent down the first 10 batters he faced.

Dave Wilcox and Holdsworth each homered to pace the hitting attack. Matt Etienne, Sam Merrill, Dan Palubinsky, Chris Lock and Holdsworth each registered two hits.

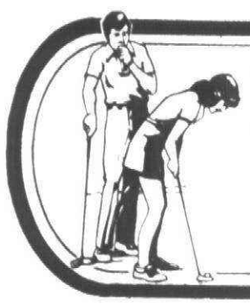

In the evening game, Paul Dillon delivered the crushing blow—a bases-loaded triple in the fourth inning which helped DiPonio to an easy 7-1 victory over Southfield.

Etienne sparkled on the mound, yielding only four hits while striking out six and walking four batters.

Merrill and Mike Michalek recorded two hits each.

The DiPonio bats remained hot against South Lyon as 16 base hits sparked the eight-run victory.

Holdsworth and Etienne combined for the pitching triumph.

Hilltop Roundup

By Betty DeLano

Business really booms for Hilltop Glen golf course when the leagues start swinging, and this past week was no different.

Starting with the Hydromation league on Monday nights, leaders include the team of Gary Keehn and Mike Verville on top, Dave Parshall and Dave Willson in second place, with Wickie Smith and Tom Wylie in the third spot.

Low net individuals were John Neinhaus, Wickie Smith and Bill McDonell.

Helen Moore of the Plymouth Newcomers Wednesday morning league led the A flight with a 34 net score, and Ruth Davis leads the B flight with a net of 23.

Low gross scores from the week included Cathy Merritt shooting a 47 for the A flight and Ruth Davis 70 in the B flight.

HILLTOP GLEN'S own team still holds the lead in the Wednesday night Businessmen's league with 35 points. Following Hilltop is Derby Bar with 31½ and close behind them is Johnston Insurance with 31.

The pressure is on from there on down with Jerry Abram Stamps—30, Madison Products—23, Plymouth Office Supply—22, Michigan T-Cats— 20½, Mel's Golden Razor—19½, Merriman Insurance—18, Team Four and Evenson Shell tied with 15, and Team Eight—9½.

The Jerry Abram Stamps team of Jim Stephens, Jerry Abram, Pat Herbert and Tom Hall had low net for the week of 130. Herbert also earned low net individual honors with a 29.

IN THE HYDRAMATIC league, the team of Ed Clark (51 gross—38 net), Betty Clark (49—34), Pat Smith (83—45) and Joel Clark (45—35) took winning honors.

They were followed by Kay Blagus (47—35), Bill Stone (44—36), Paul Schuster (48—40) and Joe Signorelli (49—49). Third was taken by Tom Smith (52—45), John Hills (53—36), Jim Meier (47—35) and Ed O'Connell (51—41).

Low net individuals were Betty Clark, Janine Fruehan, Bill Meyer, Terry Mielewski and Steve Elmore, all earning a 34.

HOLDING 14 POINTS, Elaine Ableson and Vivian Bauer are co-leaders of the Ladies Elk league with Kerry Pattison and Kay Morin. Jean Earhart and Theresa Krause and next in the competition with 12 points.

On Friday night, the mixed doubles scotch two-ball league takes the course. In the A flight Jim and Judy Stephens tied with Rod and Kay Graham with a low net of 32.

Leaders in the B flight with a net of 30 are the teams of Tom and Barb Rubadue, and Al Qlower and Anne Buie. C flight leaders are John and Lucille Mushinski with a 29 net, while a 24 low net was earned by Jack and Carol Bluerock in the D flight.

Winning the booby prize for high gross in each flight this week were Gene and Marion DePriest in the A flight with 50, Larry and Flo Reame with 57 in the B flight, Irv and Lois Burns at 59 for the C flight, and in the D flight 59 by Herb and Arleen Kidder.

Shirley Strong was faced with a 20-foot putt on the seventh hole for a par and left it 19 feet, 10 inches short, while on the ninth hole Helene Schelling sunk a five-foot downhill putt for a birdie to tie their match. Strong is thinking of putting her putter up for sale, but Schelling has decided to keep hers around for a while.

Fran and Art Esper shot a net 26 this week, so they definitely will be back.

ORDINANCE NO. 77-7

CITY OF PLYMOUTH MICHIGAN

AN ORDINANCE TO AMEND SECTION 124.0 OF CHAPTER 98 OF TITLE VIII-BUILDING REGULATIONS-OF THE CODE OF THE CITY OF PLYMOUTH.

THE CITY OF PLYMOUTH ORDAINS:

Section 1. Section 124.0 of Chapter 98 of Title VIII-Building Regulations-is hereby amended to read as follows:

124.0. Soil Erosion and Sedimentation Control.

124.1. Local Enforcing Agency. The building Department of the City of Plymouth shall become the local enforcing agency in regard to implementing Soil Erosion and Sedimentation Control Act 347 of P.A. 1972 within the municipal limits of the City.

124.2 Rules Adopted. The City of Plymouth hereby adopts by reference the latest rules promulguated by the Water Resources Commission relative to Soil Erosion and Sedimentation Control Act 347 of P.A. 1972, said rules to be available for public distribution, at a reasonable charge, with not less than ten (10) copies to be available for public inspection at the Office of the City Clerk.

124.3 Submission of Plans. Before ground-breaking of any construction project in the City of Plymouth involving one or more acres of land or any construction project within 500 feet of lake or stream, an erosion and sedimentation control plan shall be submitted to the City in accordance with WRC rules mentions in Section 124.2.

124.4 Permits, Fees and Bond. Upon payment of the necessary fees to the City in accordance with a fee schedule to be determined by the City Commission, as amended from time to time by simple resolution, and the execution of a good and sufficient bond to the City of Plymouth, the submitted plans shall be reviewed and approved and a grading permit shall be issued, provided the plans meet Wayne County Soil Conservation District standards and specifications, which have been adopted by reference, to prevent soil erosion at all major construction sites in the City in excess of one (1) acre or any construction project within 500 feet of a lake or stream (except isolated single family dwellings).

Said bond shall be a surety company bond or a personal bond with two sureties owning real property in the County of Wayne, in a form approved by the City Attorney, or in lieu of a surety bond a cash bond or an instrument of credit, approved by the City Attorney, in the amount of the estimated total cost of the work authorized by the permit, as determined by the Building Inspector. The City may waive all or part of the amount to the extent that it is determined that the hazard or danger created by the work does not justify the full amount.

124.5 Site Inspection. The local enforcing agency shall inspect the construction site at least at the beginning, during construction and at the end of the project and shall issue cease and desist orders upon violation of the rules set forth in Act 347 of P.A. 1972.

124.6. Appeals. An appeal may be taken to the Building Board of Appeals by any person, firm or corporation, or any officer, department, board or bureau affected by a decision of the Building Inspector.

Section 2. This ordinance shall become operative and effective on the 12th day of July A.D. 1977.

Made, passed and adopted by the City Commission of the City of Plymouth, Michigan, this 20th day of June A.D. 1977.
