Construction firm fine reduced $10,200

A $10,400 fine levied against a construction company stemming from a fatal crane accident in Canton Township has been reduced to a $200 fine by the Michigan Department of Labor's construction safety division.

The construction worker. Chuck Kennedy, 23, of Livonia, was the second son in his family to be killed while working with a crane operated by Acitelli and Peterman Poured Wall Co, of Farmington. In July, Keith Molin, director in the department of labor, charged the company with "willfull" violation of state safety standards in the June 17 accident.

However, Nate Nordin, review officer for the construction safety division, said that in reviewing the case, it was decided that the penalty levied was too high.

The charge, "willful" violation of Michigan Occupational Safety and Hazards Act (MIOSHA), was changed after the company appealed to a "serious" violation of the act. The company accepted the new decision, Nordin said, and paid the $200

THE REDUCED charge and much lower fine was ordered, in part, Nordin said, because state investigators erroneously based some of their findings on the poor safety record of another construction company in Flint which is also named Acitelli.

The MIOSHA regulation which Acitelli and Peterman of Farmington didn't comply with was a 1975 stipulation that the swing radius of a crane's counterweight must be roped or barricaded to prevent anyone from walking into its path. Kennedy was crushed when he walked between the rotating counterweight and the frame of the

After the accident, a labor department official said that the company had been cited previously by a MIOSHA inspector for failing to shield other moving parts of the crane's machinery. However, Nordin said that a check revealed no inspection had been made at an Acitelli and Peterman site since the MIOSHA requirements went into effect in 1975. As a result, a $400 fine for the alleged violation was dropped.

Because there were no inspections made until the accident occurred and because of the company's small size. Nordin said, it was decided that a $200 fine would be sufficient.

Kenneth Kennedy, father of the fatally injured young man, still works for Acitelli and Peterman When informed of the reduced fine. Kennedy said he had no interest in the proceedings

Will apartment zonings halt new development?

By DARLENE STINSON

To many subdivision residents and Canton planners, "multiple zoning" has been a pair of dirty words.

Homeowners have fought tooth and nail against the construction of apartment buildings near their subdivisions and township officials have jumped on any opportunity in recent years to change zoning from multiple to single-

A recent decision of the Canton Planning Commission, however, indicates a change in the township's anti-apartment attitude may happen in the interest of balanced development and possible control over the township's mushrooming growth.

Last month, the planning commission unanimously refused developer Dominic Moceri's request to rezone a 31-acre parcel in Stonegate Subdivision from multiple to single-family use.

ALTHOUGH THE commission's decision may not stick, four commissioners told the Observer the decision may represent the beginning of a new zoning trend.

Bart Berg, a planning commission member for 17 years, said it's the first time he can remember township officials refused to rezone land from multiple to single-family.

The commissioners say the new attitude is based on retaining multiplezoned land as one way to control township growth and lighten the burden on already crowded schools.

More school-age children live in single-family homes than apartment buildings, commissioners maintain, so construction of apartment buildings would not create as heavy a burden on the schools.

They also point to the poor marketability of apartments, townhouses and condominiums at the present time.

"In the present state of the economy, it's either development of singlefamily homes or non-development," said Trustee Brian Schwall, the township board's representative on the planning commission. "No one's making money on apartments right now and I see multiple zoning as a way to slow development.

The planning commission's rezoning denial involves a 31-acre parcel in the Stonegate Planned Unit Development (PUD) near Palmer and Lilley. The PUD includes an area of already-constructed single-family homes and undeveloped parcels zoned for commercial and multiple use.

ROBERT RAYMOND, consulting engineer for developer Moceri, appeared before the township board last week to appeal the planning commission's refusal of single-family

Residents at the meeting called the commission's decision "inconsistent" with past zoning decisions. They pointed to lawsuits filed to fight apartment construction in some areas, like the recent court battle between the township and Slavik Development Co., over a proposed 153-unit apartment complex near Windsor Park Subdivision.

Township board members voted 5-2 to send Moceri's rezoning request back to the planning commission for a public hearing and reconsideration. Schwall and Trustee Lynne Goldsmith voted against the action. The public hearing has not yet been scheduled.

Moceri wants to build 100 singlefamily homes and a three-acre park on the multiple-zoned land. According to Raymond, the zoning change is requested because of the poor marketability of apartments at the present

Raymond said Moceri will not develop the land if the zoning remains

"You never get any objections to a decrease in density," said Raymond. "We were just totally lost for words when the planning commission voted against rezoning this land."

AT LEAST SOME members of the commissioners, however, believe township officials have acted too hastily in the past to rezone land from multiple to single-family use.

'You have a situation where the planning commission is looking at these things more skeptically," said commission chairman Robert Padget. "This is brought on by a deepening

Daley ends a career of crimebusting

By CRAIG PIECHURA

That old still-smasher Gene Daley retired from the Wayne County Sheriff's Department last Thursday without regrets or future employment plans.

Daley, who is also a Canton Township trustee, spent a total of 22 years in the sheriff's department after working eight years in the county home for the retarded. Counting his six years in the Navy, the 54-year-old lieutenant figures he's spent the past 37 years in public service.

And, with the recent retirement, Daley said Tuesday he'll now be able to devote more time to local issues

Many political pundits in Canton speculated that Daley would be named to a supervisory post in the Canton Police Department once he retired from the sheriff's department. At present, he is one of three township board members who comprise the police commission. But Daley said joining the Canton Police Department is just about the farthest thing from his mind at present

"No way; don't even mention it," Daley said. "That's just a rumor somebody started."

"At this stage of the game, I've got nothing planned. I reached the point where it was costing me to go to work when they got through taking the deductions out. So it's cheaper to

"Will I miss it? Not right now. Right now it's like a vacation. (Canton Police Chief Walter) MacGregor keeps telling me 'Six months from now you'll be climbing the walls' but we'll give it a try and see what happens. The first thing I've got planned is cleaning out my garage.

IN ADDITION to Daley, another Canton resident, Det. Sgt. Kenneth Young of the sheriff's department, is retiring this month.

He, Daley, Inspector Robert Sullivan, Inspector Frank Van Wulfen, Lt. Donald Sherman, Inspector Leonard Newlon, Det. Jack Hopkins and Sgt. Robert Ruelle will be honored by the department at a retirement party scheduled for Thursday, Dec. 1 at Livonia's Roma Hall. Tickets are $12.50 per person and cocktails will be served at 6 p.m.

Daley reflected on his police career last Tuesday—a career that included work in the county jail, road patrol, rackets squad, organized crime task force and, finally, lieutenant in charge of Metro Airport's detective bureau.

Unlike the police sagas on television. Lt. Daley never shot anyone in the line of duty and never was shot at.

THERE WAS one time in 1958 where Daley came close. He and his partner. Ptl. Anthony Shannon Sr., came up to a house in what was then Dearborn Township to find a man holding a handgun to his sister-in-law's head.

The man had been drinking and threatened to shoot his sister-in-law. his wife, himself and any police officer that got in his way. Daley said. A group of sheriff deputies kept the man's attention while he was standing on the front porch. Daley and his partner slipped in the back door of the

"I came out on the porch and hit him in the arm with my shotgun. which knocked the gun out of his hand," Daley said. For his calm work, he received a department citation.

Daley also talked about his work on the rackets squad which often involved breaking up stills in neighboring Sumpter Township.

"I remember sitting in a pig pen for a week. That's where our observation point was, in the corner of a pig pen. And it was weather like today-rainy and cold. The guy finally came and

Anita Bryant has Brown's support

By GLENN BUNTING

Two state legislators representing Plymouth and Canton Township have sponsored a resolution congratulating Anita Bryant for her campaign against homosexual rights.

Rep. Thomas Brown (D-Westland) and Rep. Roy Smith (R-Ann Arbor) were among the 50 representatives who supported the house resolution urging Miss Bryant to continue her anti-gay efforts.

But both Brown and Smith contend the resolution is meaningless and unimportant. "When anyone does anything, someone draws up a resolution to commend that person," Smith said. "I was asked to sign the proposal by the sponsor (Rep. Mark Siljander of Three Rivers). He told me the essence of it and asked if I was interested." Although Smith downplayed the resolution, he expressed disgust on the issue of gay rights.

"I CAN'T SUPPORT queers," he said. "I live by the Bible and refuse to support that philosophy "A woman is made for a man, not a man for a man-that's basic humanities. I don't know how a man can marry another man. They speak of basic rights-I don't know what they're talking about.

When pressed for clarification, Smith said: "All your questions can be answered with common horse-sense."

A part of Smith's district includes Ann Arbor, a liberal community for gays where the house resolution has been attacked. Smith said he has received little feedback from constituents on the resolution

"People can't write on something they don't know about. But I have received two or three unsigned letters and a few phone calls from Ann

Flexibility is goal

Schools unravel annuity puzzle

The Plymouth-Canton Board of Education acted Monday to cut a slice through the number of companies that want to offer tax shelter annuites to school employees.

By a vote of 7-0, the trustees approved a resolution authorizing payroll deductions for employees only if evidence was shown that 10 or more people were interested in joining the particular program.

"This will give us more flexibility in dealing with these companies," said to offer its own tax shelter annuity Trustee Richard Arlen, the resolution sponsor. "We'll be able to work within a frame of reference rather than judge each one as it comes along.

The question of what to do about the increasing cost to the district of providing payroll deductions for its employees enrolled in annuity plans has been before the trustees since early this month when the Michigan Education Association (MEA) asked

The MEA is the bargaining agent for all the teachers in the district. A spokesman for the association said it could offer higher returns at lower cost than any other plan or program. WHEN MEA asked for the chance to offer its annutiy program, Tom Yack, board president, argued against approving the request.

'We cannot just add the MEA to the authorized list and let it go at that," he said. "What will we say to the next firm which wants to do business with our employees?"

In 1974 the board placed a limit on the number of companies which could enroll district employees in a tax shelter annuity plan in an effort to reduce clerical costs.

However, the board felt that limiting the programs by size instead of number would be a more equitable way to handle the problem.

SC hosts state arts humanities conference

A state legislator and a professor from UCLA will be the main speakers when Schoolcraft College hosts the Nov. 18-19 conference of the Michigan Community College Arts and Humanities Association.

The sessions, on the Livonia campus all day Friday and Saturday morning, are open to the public.

State Rep. Richard Young (D-Dearborn Heights) will speak at 2:45 p.m. Friday on the relationship of the Michigan Legislature to community colleges. Young is a member and former chairman of the house subcommittee on community colleges.

Prof. Arthur M. Cohen, of UCLA's Center for the Study of Two-Year Colleges, will speak at 10 a.m. Saturday on "Upholding the Humanities." He will deal with national research on humanities programs and strategies for enhancing humanities teaching.

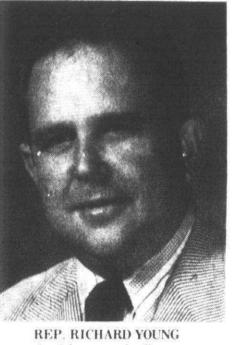

Both sessions will be in the Liberal Arts Theater at the south end of the campus at 18600 Haggerty.

Richard Saunders, Schoolcraft's director of fine arts and conference chairman, said more than 100 humanities instructors and administrators are expected.

Saunders will lead one session on summer arts festivals, drawing on his experience as director of Schoolcraft's summer music festival.

Area persons making presentations will include John Davenport of Oakland Community College and three Schoolcraft faculty members-Dr. Larry Rudick on theater, and Suzanne Kaplan and Gordon Wilson on independent human studies.

The conference is the association's fifth. The association was founded on the Schoolcraft campus.

Miller claims ZBA is defunct deliberately

An ousted member of Canton's Zoning Board of Appeals (ZBA) claims township administrators are sitting on an opinion from Wayne Circuit Judge Neal Fitzgerald that would reinstate him to the idle zoning board.

Robert Miller, who was appointed to the ZBA as the planning commission's representative by former Supervisor Robert Greenstein, believes administrators are stalling on his reappointment to the ZBA until his present term on the planning commission expires

Unless township board members reappoint Miller to another term on the planning commission, he will have no claim to the ZBA seat given to planning commission chairman Robert Padget after Dec. 31.

"It appears that (Supervisor Harold) Stein, (Clerk John) Flodin or (Treas. Anne) Bradley have decided not even to bring this matter up to the township board so that the trustees can decide what to do," Miller

"I want to be reappointed to the planning commission, but I think that's out of the question. They're not going to reappoint me, because that would aggravate the whole ZBA

MILLER IS A MEMBER of the ZBA appointed by Greenstein, then dismissed by Stein last winter. The action was taken at the advice of township attorney William Sempliner, who ruled that Greenstein's ZBA was improperly appointed. After the ZBA appointed by Greenstein was dismissed, Stein appointed five other people to the zoning board.

Court battles and a dispute over which ZBA was "legal" followed Stein's action. Last May, Judge Fitzgerald ruled that neither ZBA was legal because the township's zoning ordinance was never properly Township board members amended the zoning ordinance and reappointed members of "Stein's" ZBA to the zoning board.

In September, Fitzgerald issued a temporary injunction prohibiting the "Stein" ZBA from meeting at the request of Miller's attorney, Daniel Burress. Burress argued that Miller was removed from the ZBA without "show of cause," and Fitzgerald agreed. Unless Miller is reinstated to the ZBA, it cannot meet

But township board members have failed to reconsider Miller's reappointment to the zoning board. Stein says that fact does not mean he's stalling any ZBA decision until Miller's term on the planning commission runs out.

"That's not my intention," the supervisor emphasized. "I'm not going to settle this issue that way. There are a couple of unresolved things about the court order, and I've pushed the whole thing right to the attorney.'

ATTORNEY SEMPLINER hopes the whole ZBA controversy will be over by the time Miller's term on the planning commission expires.

"The township is hurting so badly for lack of a ZBA that it can't wait until Dec. 31," Sempliner said.

"We hope to upset Judge Fitzgerald's ruling by the first of January.

We're going to go back to him for a hearing or file a petition for a hearing with another judge.

Sempliner said he has advised the township against reappointing Miller to the ZBA because of two conflicting state statutes

A state zoning statute says any member of a municipality's planning commission may serve on that community's ZBA, he said. But a state planning statute says the planning commission's representative on the ZBA must be chairman of the planning commission.

Although Miller once served as planning commission chairman, Padget has since taken over that post.

"That's why I advised the township to appoint the chairman of the planning commission to the ZBA so they can avoid any future problems," Sempliner said. "I feel Judge Fitzgerald's ruling was wrong.

SEMPLINER SAID he is also examining a contention of Miller that the township should pay for his legal fees in the ZBA court case. Burress has charged Miller $3,425 for his legal Miller maintains that the township should pay the fees, because he was involved in the court case as a township official (planning commission member)-not a private citizen.

"He just threw a shotgun at us-who pays for Burress' legal fees?" said Sempliner.

Township officials have taken a "noaction" stance on the bill.

The booklet is now available and contains information to make it easier for citizens and citizen groups to work for reform in Lansing and Washing-

Published originally by Bullard as a guide to the 1975-76 state legislative session in Dec. 1975, the new edition includes advice and suggestions for effective citizen lobbying, as well as names, addresses, offices, telephone numbers and pictures of all members of the House and Senate.

The booklet also shows maps and descriptions of all House and Senate districts; lists the members of House and Senate standing committees, subcommittees and foint committees; explains how a by becomes law; gives the addresses, betelephone numbers, and directors of state departments, and contains other useful information on state and federal government. balanced development. "A PUD is supposed to be a balanced community with single family, apartments and commercial use," he said. "To the extent that you alter PUD agreements, you alter that. In my opinion, a community that's nothing but single family homes is not a balanced community.

Berg said six developers have requested single-family zoning PUD amendments in the last few years, and all but Moceri's have been granted.

MOST OF THE TOWNSHIP'S 16 PUD agreements were signed by Canton officials and developers during former Supervisor Philip Dingeldey's administration, Berg said. Township officials agreed to the multiple zoning within the PUD agreement in exchange for parks that developers promised to build in the middle of single-family subdivisions.

When former Supervisor Robert

Greenstein took office, township board members took an increasingly negative view toward multiple zoning and voted to sign no more PUD agreements

'Apartment' is not a dirty word

Their anti-apartment attitude was based on the belief that rented apartment units deteriorate quicker than single-family homes and that homeowners don't want to live next to apartments.

According to Berg, only three or four developers have constructed

Business Briefs Direct foreign investments are light in Plymouth area

There are only two firms in the Plymouth area operating with direct foreign investment.

That is the finding of a survey conducted by the research division of the graduate school of business administration at Michigan State University.

Foreign direct investment, as defined by the U.S. Department of Commerce, is those investments with a "direct and-or indirect ownership of 10 per cent or more of the voting securities of an incorporated business enterprise or equivalent interest in an unincorporated business enterprise.

Based on that definition, the MSU survey showed only two firms with foreign direct investment in Plymouth-Howmet Corp., and Specialty Coatings, Howmet, with French investors, produces metal products and employs 3,000 persons in Michigan. Specialty Coatings, with investors from the United Kingdom, is engaged in chemicals and employs 35 persons at its Plymouth facility.

ACCORDING TO the MSU survey the value of plant, property and equipment located in Michigan and owned by foreign companies or their U.S. affiliates was about $11/2 billion, or 3.3 per cent of the U.S. total at the end of 1974.

Petroleum based companies accounted for 40 per cent of the Michigan total; manufacturing, 31 per cent; banks, retailers, hotels, 29 per cent.

Michigan affiliates of foreign companies employed about 37,300 workers or one per cent of the total number employed in Michigan. Wages and salaries of these firms totaled $436 million, or 3.8 per cent of the national figure.

In the number of foreign owned manufacturing plants, Michigan ranked seventh among the states with 84 following New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, California, Illinois and North Carolina.

The countries who own the most plants in Michigan are: Canada (18), Germany (14), United Kingdom (12), Netherlands (11), Japan and France, nine each.

Among the major firms are Total-Leonard refinery at Alma, Massey Ferguson, Baker Perkins, United Biscuit, BASF which controls Wyandotte Chemicals, Hoover Ball Bearings, Yamaha Musical Products, Hitachi Metals, Voltek and TSK.

Nearby firms with direct foreign investments include: Argus, Inc. and Hoover-NSK Bearings Co., Ann Arbor: Perkins Engines, Inc., Farmington; Schuler Presses America, Southfield; Perkins Engines in Wayne and Wixom; and Celasto, Inc. in Ypsilanti.

The survey was conducted by Zahir Ahmed Quraeshi, research assistant in the graduate school of business administration at MSU and by Mushtaq Luqmani, assistant professor in the marketing department at Western Michigan University.

EFFIKAL Automatic Damper System.

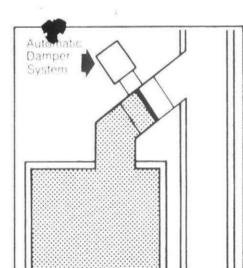

For the past 5 years the famous German EFFIKAL Automatic Damper System has been saving energy and fuel costs throughout Europe. Now American homeowners can get a break with lower heating bills. The EFFIKAL unit, when installed in your (furnace-tochimney) flue, will probably pay for itself in the first year. And it will continue to cut fuel bills year after year

Those who have a natural fireplace know that when the damper is left open, the warm air in the room escapes up the chimney

The furnace flue leading to the chimney is always open, until you have your EFFIKAL installed. Then this famous damper system will open and close AUTOMATICALLY and, with absolute safety, keeping the warm air in the house.

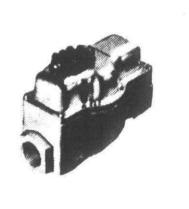

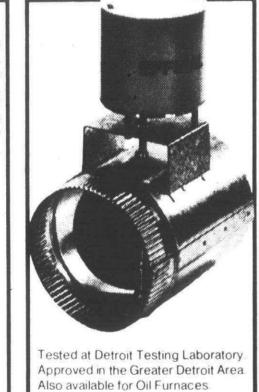

During burn cycle the damper opens,

The unit closes immediately after burn cycle. Hot air stays in furnace.

The Gas Flow Detector assures the complete safety of your EFFIKAL system. When the thermostat calls for heat, the EFFIKAL unit will open, turn on the gas valve and turn it off after the heating cycle Should the gas valve fail, the Gas Flow Detector keeps the damper open. A true, positive fail safe system.

Saturday the eyes of all sports fans will be focused on Ann Arbor as the Wolverines take on Ohio State for the Big Ten title, or at least a piece of it.

In recent years, the Big Ten title has gone down to the wire to the final contest between U-M and OSU. In fact, these two teams have really dominated the Big Ten to the conference's detriment.

This year, however, has seen the rise of the MSU Spartans who have built a strong team while living out its prohibition from participating in bowl games or being on national TV for recruiting violations. They are finishing strong this year, and will certainly be in contention for 1978.

WHICH IS A good thing because a healthy league should have three or four teams in any given year which are strong enough to have a crack at

Beyond that, the Spartans' rise is pleasing for personal reasons. Some may not remember, but the Wolverines and Buckeyes were not always one-two at the season's end. There was a time, before Bo, when MSU was the team to contend with, with the Buckeyes and Wolverines assuming the role of challenger.

In those days, for me at least, Ann Arbor was an academic center and if you were interested in good football teams East Lansing was the place to look. I'm talking of the period from roughly 1955-60 when the best Big Ten football was played in Spartan Sta-

At that time I was living in a rural area near Bridgeport, which is near Frankenmuth and Birch Run. The young people in the area were quite active in 4-H, which had a close relationship with the MSU Agricultural Extension Service.

Because of that relationship, once a year our local 4-H club received free tickets to attend a football game in East Lansing. We'd charter a bus, pile into the stadium, enjoy the game as much as possible, regardless of our limited understanding of how it was played, and head for home.

So as a young boy, I developed some intense loyalties for the Spartans. And not just because of the free ride, but because they had some pretty good teams in those years. I still remember Dean Look scampering around the field, Sam Williams grabbing a pass with those big hands of his, and whatshis-name kicking the game winning field goal in a Rose Bowl contest.

There were other stars too, but I won't enumerate all of them-primarily because I'm no longer sure of the spellings, and I've lost track of which MSU stars played on the same teams.

ANYHOW, my introduction to college football was with the Spartans, not the Wolverines or the Buckeyes.

For years I continued to root for MSU; actually until my family moved to this area in 1959. For a few years I continued to follow the Spartans closely but soon became aware that people in these parts were interested in U-M and U-D.

My first detraction was when I began following the Titans basketball games. And then, gradually, I belin to be aware that they played football in Ann Arbor also

About the time Bo took over the Wolverine football machine, my loyalties shifted from East Lansing to Ann Arbor. Now the transition is complete and MSU is only a memory.

But that's why I'm glad to see the Spartans putting together a good football program. I'd like to pull for both teams, particularly when they play OSU. But, when they face each other, I'll be behind the Wolverines all the way. That's what the passing of years, and switch in geographical domicile will do.

So my eyes will be turned toward Ann Arbor this Saturday, and for many weekends in future years. But I've got a soft spot for MSU which I'm certain in the near future will cause serious conflict as the Spartans build a strong team capable of beating U-M any Saturday of the season.

Schools show off Phase III

Plymouth and Canton residents Monday got acquainted with the athletic and music facilities available in the new Phase III building at the Plymouth Centennial Educational

The music-physical education facility, opened last spring, was built with monies from the 1974 bond issue. The first athletic contests were scheduled in the facility this fall and with construction completed, an open house was held Monday.

THE PHYSICAL EDUCATION building inclues ten teaching stations with a combined area of about 70,000 square feet.

The largest area is an open gymnasium which can be divided into three smaller gyms of equal size for teaching purposes.

An 11-lap indoor track surrounds the open gym, and roll-away bleachers seat about 1,000 spectators.

Adjacent to the gymnasium are a gymnastics room and a wrestling

A six-lane, 25-yard swimming pool ranging in depth from 3 to 41/2 feet serves an instructional purpose as well as meeting intramural and interscholastic competition needs. The area also includes a diving well, and rollaway bleachers to seat about 200

One unusual feature is a multipurpose dance and handball area-two 40 by 40 foot rooms divisible by moveable walls into four 20 by 40 foot handball courts. Also available is a weight training room for students and staff

The music section of Phase III includes a large instrumental music room, a vocal music room, instrumental locker area, workroom and storage areas and individual offices and instructional areas.

PHASE III WAS built for $3.8 million with $140,000 invested in equipment.

Physical education activities which can be played in the facility include basketball, volleyball, tennis, badminton, indoor track, handball, raquetball, and gymnastics. Another unique feature is an indoor pole vaulting facility. Architects were Wakely-Kushner Associates, Inc. of Warren and the general contractor was Fordon Construction Company of Farmington.

Jeffries opening ignites numbers game

Next Monday's opening of the I-96 (Jeffries) freeway in western Wayne County will cause several highway number changes in the western suburban area and in southern Oakland

Sign changes, now under way, are expected to be completed by December, according to the State Highways and Transportation Department. These changes will be made:

•The Jeffries, which follows the route of Schoolcraft Road through Detroit, Redford Township and Livonia, will take the designation I-96.

•The I-96 Business Spur, which parallels Grand River in Farmington, will lose the I-96 BS designation and become M-102.

·Grand River in Farmington, Redford Township and Detroit will lose the I-96 Business Loop designation and become M-5.

 Eight Mile Road west of Grand River will lose the M-102 designation. (East of Grand River, it will remain

•Plymouth Road will lose the M-14 designation east of the I-275 freeway. (West of I-275, Ann Arbor Road, as it is called there, will remain M-14 until that freeway is completed in 1978.)

CEREMONIES MARKING the Jeffries Freeway completion-five years behind schedule—will begin at 9:30 a.m., Monday, Nov. 21 on the westbound lanes east of Inkster Road, the border of Livonia and Redford

The highway itself will be open to traffic later in the day.

Band music and a parade of old and new vehicles will herald completion of the 12-mile section built at a cost of $126 million, 90 per cent federally funded ($113 million). The state paid for the remaining 10 per cent.

The Jeffries link ocmpletes the 193mile freeway from Muskegon to downtown Detroit.

It is named for the late Edward Jeffries, mayor of Detroit from 1938-48.

I-96 also marks the end of a 35 years of freeway construction in Wayne County that began with the World War II-era Detroit Industrial Freeway, now known as I-94.

THE NEW I-96 has eight lanes, four in each direction, divided by a concrete barrier. It parallels an old Indian trail from Detroit to Howell, Lansing, Grand Rapids and Muskegon known as the Grand River Trail.

It was one of the first major routes in Michigan to be taken over as a "state highway." The old Grand River Road for years carried the designation of US-16.

Its first freeway sections were opened in 1957 west of Grand Rapids and between US-23 (at Brighton) and Farmington. With the opening of the new section, the entire Grand River Road is now paralleled, and replaced for intercity travel, by freeway.

DEDICATION REMARKS will be delivered by Congressman Carl Pursell, (R.-Plymouth). Attending the ribbon-cutting will be Major Edward MacNamara of Livonia, Supervisor Patrick J. McDonald of Redford Township and Mayor Coleman A Young of Detroit.

Master of ceremonies will be Peter Fletcher, of Ypsilanti, chairman of the State Highway Commission.

Welcoming guests will be Ms Michigan Transportation-Gloria Crafton of Lansing.

State legisaltors, county and local officials and representatives of the Federal Highway Administration will Act will help home owners

The Housing and Com-Development gact of 1977 could be good news for home owners and home buyers alike, according to a savings and loan business spokesman.

John A. Hardin, president of the United States League of Savings Associations, said that although federal regulatory agencies still must write the implementing regulations, the Housing and Community Development Act "will become a very important piece of legislation, one that will significantly aid the entire housing market.

The new law raises the maximum amount savings associations lend on residential mortgages and on home improvement loans. expands the community development block grant program and exempts FHA graduated payment mortgage plans from state usury laws.

League is the primary trade association serving the $430 billion savings and loan business. Savings associations are the nation's chief suppliers of home mortgage credit and the second largest suppliers of home improvement financing.

Hardin said that an The United States important portion of the legislation extends for three more years-the community development block grant program initiated by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development in 1974.

The extended—and expanded-program devotes more attention to communities.

Tips for pricing funerals

Funerals, understandably, are a sub ject most of us prefer to avoid.

But whether we like it or not, funeral arrangements present us with some of the most expensive consumer decisions we are forced to make as adults. One recent survey in Oakland County revealed that it's not unusual for funerals in this area to cost in excess of $2,000.

And according to the Federal Trade Commission, which recently completed extensive hearings into the funeral business, the high cost of dying often results from practices that are "exploitative, unfair, and deceptive."

Here are some questions we have received at the Michigan Citizens Lobby concerning funeral practices and costs:

QUESTION: Why have funerals become so expensive?

ANSWER: The single most important decision governing the cost of a funeral usually is the selection of the casket. Prices range from a few hundred dollars to elaborate caskets costing $3,000 or more. Frequently funeral homes promote their more expensive models by displaying them more attractively or even by refusing to stock less expensive caskets.

Another factor that inflates funeral costs is the practice of quoting a lump sum figure for the entire funeral. Requiring the home to itemize the various goods and services being soldprofessional services, motor equipment, casket, etc.-gives the consumer the opportunity to reject some parts of the package that may not seem necessary, and to save some in the case of cremation. Does the communicable disease or when burial state require that persons be cremated in a casket?

ANSWER: No. The state only requires that the body be burned in a suitable container, which can mean a $50 cardboard or fiberboard case. Unfortunately, too many people don't know this and end up purchasing an expensive casket for a cremation in the belief that the law requires it.

QUESTION: Is embalming required

ANSWER: Embalming is only required when the deceased had a through advance planning.

or cremation will not occur within 48 hours after death. Again, many people believe embalming is a legal necessity in all cases and spend the $100 that is the approximate cost of embalming

QUESTION: I have often heard that memorial societies offer a less expensive alternative to regular commercial funeral homes. What exactly is a

ANSWER: A memorial society is a group of people who have joined together to "obtain simplicity and economy in funeral arrangments

Making plans to travel

Johnson retiring after 2 decades as asst. police chief

By W.W. EDGAR

The familiar face of Loren L. Johnson, assistant chief of the City of Plymouth police department for almost two decades, soon will be missing from behind the desk.

Within the next few weeks he plans to doff his stiff-peaked cap and the gold badge to live a life of ease and travel up and down and across the United States to visit places that he has dreamed about since his youth.

Now 62. Johnson confided that he was leaving his familiar post because he thinks the time has come for a younger man to take the desk. "I have had my thrills on the job and loved every minute of it." he said. "But now I think it's time I turned to other things to live a life of ease.

OVER THE YEARS the assistant chief has lived an unusual life. Born in Dennis, Kan., most of his youth was spent on a farm.

"There was just nothing else do in that country, but it was a good start."

"This may surprise you, but I went to work for a man named Lester Shore, who operated a greenhouse on Plymouth Road on the site of the Burroughs parking lot. As a matter of fact I helped to build the greenhouse.

"From there I went to the Allen Industries of Junction and remained there until 1942 when I joined the city police force.

AT THE TIME, Charlie Thumme was the police chief and the entire force consisted of six men. "I've seen that force grow to 19 men, aside from the desk staff, and I have seen the city grow from a small community into the thriving city we have today.

As he recalled his days on the force

he confided there were the memories of two events he would take with him into retirement.

"I was on the force in 1967 when the National Bank was robbed. That was a day of real excitement. But we finally prints. We captured him to crown our efforts of solving a small town bank was all part of the job. Now it's time robbery. But it was a big time."

The other memory is that of the Plymouth woman who killed two of her three boys in 1958 and then took her own life.

"From what we could find out that day, the two boys had been carried into the house after being kept in an automobile in the garage. They were filled with monoxide gas. The third boy was still living.

"After the boys were taken into the home, she then went back to the garage and let the gas take her life.

) "That wasn't a pleasant task, but it to turn the badge over to a younger man and let him experience some of the duties of the police force.

Johnson is married and the father of two children. His wife, who is employed by Burroughs, also is retiring to join the assistant chief in the swing around the country "to see many of the things and places we always wanted to see.

They'll be carrying many memories with them, but the police desk in city hall won't seem like the same place without him.

Home loan rate slips

Only Washtenaw County, among the four principal metropolitan Detroit counties, registered increases in September in residential mortgages as both dollar volume and number of loans declined moderately from August peaks for the year.

Yet home lending remained at a strong pace, indicating healthy sales of new and used homes, to give September the second highest dollar volume of the year, at more than $260 million on the basis of 8,911 mortgages.

The August figures were 9,675 loans worth $287.4 million. September's volume surpassed June's $259.6 million to oust that month from the second spot, although the number of loans fell short of June's 9,100 at 8,911.

The figures were released by Edward A. Blaty, vice president and Michigan manager for Lawyers Title Insurance Corp.

Wayne County's 3,801 loans were worth $90.8 million, while Oakland with $99.4 million led the four counties in dollar volume on 2,799 mortgages. Like Wayne's and Oakland's, Macomb's totals slipped slightly, to 1,688 loans worth $48.4 million from 1,833 loans aggregating $50.9 million.

Washtenaw recorded 623 loans worth $21.7 million, up from 572 totaling $20.3 million.

Among mortgages above $100,000. normally considered to be on properties of a commercial nature including multiple housing, September also saw a decline in the number of such loans, 235 compared to 269 in peak August.

In Wayne, 60 of the larger mortgages totaled $65 million. Oakland recorded 120 loans worth $53.8 million. Macomb's 29 loans involved $15.6 million and Washtenaw's 26 loans were worth $17.9 million.

Deer, car encounters number thousands

There were 14,349 deer-car accidents in Michigan during 1976 which resulted in two persons killed and 862 injured. according to reports of the Michigan Department of Natural Resources and the Michigan State Police.

The hazard of a deer-car accident is paramount in the months of October. November and December—and in both the upper and lower peninsulas. In fact, the greater number of deer are killed in the southern lower peninsula.

Maybury Park users must buy motor vehicle permit after Jan. 1

Outdoors writer

You'll need a motor vehicle permit to enter Maybury Urban State Park after Jan. 1

The state Department of Natural Resources says park usage has increased enough and the park is developed enough, to warrant the checking of permits.

Prices are $1 a day or $5 for a year. Maybury is the former Detroit tuberculosis facility in Northville Township. The entrance is from Eight Mile Road. It boasts some of the most extensive bicycle trails in the state. both newly constructed asphalt paths and old concrete roads from the TB san days. It's a nice hiking spot, too although it has no lake or stream.

Add Hudson Mills, west of Plymoudh; Lower Huron, near Belleville and Willow, near New Boston, to the list of spots which was headed by Kensington Metropark last year.

Hudson Mills has no specially developed trails, but groups of people will take care of that in short order. Hudson Mills, located where the Huron River crosses North Territorial Road. also has a roaring rapids and rolling terrain that are just right for winter photography

Lower Huron is easy to reach, now that we have I-275 to take us south. The park entrance is on Hannan Road, a quarter-mile south of Huron River

Three natural rink surfaces are provided at connected ponds. There are also lights, wood for rinkside fires and heated restrooms nearby. Willow, downriver from Lower

McQuesten backs jobs

Mark McQuesten of Canton, a member of the Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees, has issued a statement clarifying his position on job training at the community college

McQuesten objected to a headline in the Nov. 10 edition which said he was "losing Schoolcraft battle against job training." The article pointed out that he thought the college should be "more than a training ground

"I am not against job training per se, but am concerned with the quality of job training to be offered by Schoolcraft. It is not enough merely to teach students specific job skills.

'What I am against is the type of job training which excludes types of learning experiences beyond specific job skills. A student on a job training program needs exposure to other subjects, such as speech, communications, political science or physical

"As a college Schoolcraft must provide to vocational students the educational background which will help them meaningfully perform in a work situation, and not just learn specific skills which may change very quickly

Haze Wilson, Community Relations Manager, Livonia, reminds you:

There are things you can do to control the cost of your phone bill.

We are constantly searching for ways to help you economize on your phone service, but here are just a few ideas on how you can help yourself: Call when it's least expensive. For example, when you're calling long distance, dial direct and plan your calls for times when the rates are lowest. Budget Service that's really low budget! Look into the availability of Budget Service if you don't make a lot of phone calls every month. It's the least expensive one-or-two party phone service we offer.

Plan to have all your service installed in one visit. For instance, if you move, plan carefully so the installer doesn't have to make extra trips, for which you may have to pay additional charges. And while you're planning for new service, make sure it's going to be the kind most suited to your needs.

Sometimes, little tips can save you a surprising amount over the long haul. We'll keep trying to help you save.

Job outlook a bright one for college grads

Students who want to pursue a technical occupation should have little trouble finding a job in southeastern Michigan, according a study compiled by Schoolcraft College.

The annually-updated job outlook examines chances for employment in in 29 occupations divided into four categories.

The latest outlook reveals a broad salary range, from $550 monthly to $1,400 monthly, for entry level positions. The salaries, of course, depend on the field and the employer. The employment outlook for a majority of the occupations was rated "excellent."

Barbara Geil, director of admissions, said the excellent rating meant "that if you wanted a job, the jobs are there and you wouldn't have to look very hard."

She said a moderate rating meant "you might have to look around a little" and that a "fair" rating "could be etuated with 'poor."

Robert Burnside, the admissions counselor who collected most of the data for the outlook, said the document's statements were very credible.

He said much of the data was obtained from the instructors teaching Schoolcraft's applied sciences courses. "They're pretty knowledgeable (about the job situation) within the Detroit area. Our students are being hired all around the Detroit-metropolitan area," he said.

PROSPECTS in the various fields and occupations broke down this way:

Those seeking an associates degree in business face a bright employment outlook. According to the ratings, there are jobs available in the eight occupations in the category. Entry level salaries range from a low of $550 for a clerk-typist to a high of $1,200 for a real estate agent.

•Accountants face an excellent employment picture with monthly salaries ranging from $750 to $1,050 SC defined the position as a person who compiles and analyzes business records and prepares financial reports. Accountants may, however, specialize

• Clerk-typists will probably have to hunt for a job. They may wonder if salary is worth it, because their entry level pay is the lowest of the 29 occupations examined. They expect to earn $550 to $675 a month in the beginning.

•Data processing programmers seem to be in demand. Their entry level salaries range from $800 to $1,000 monthly. "A programmer operates computers utilizing established programs or programs under development," said the report.

•Marketing and applied management graduates should have no problems finding a job. Pay will range between $700 and $1,000 monthly. SC said a graduate in this field should be "a well-trained individual who works in the distribution of goods and services" •

General secretaries, those who "perform duties for top-level executives or managers," will also be in demand. Monthly earnings fall in the $800 to $950 range.

Legal and medical secretaries may have to hunt around, but according to the report, jobs are to be found in the region SC also warms that the pay range in these jobs is just slightly lower than for general secretaries but fringe benefits may be less.

• Those in real estate may have to look around for a position, but monthly entry level earnings are near the top for the applied sciences occupations at $1,200.

STUDENTS IN health careers, by and large, face an excellent employment outlook. There are waiting lists for all these Schoolcraft programs.

•Licensed practical and registered nurses are reportedly in great demand. Salaries range from $750 a month to $1,075 for a registered nurse. A registered nurse, according to SC's definition, supervises nursing care among other things, and a practical nurse gives care under the supervision of a registered nurse or physician.

 Medical technologists, those who help to track down the causes and cures of diseases, are in high demand.
 Entry level salaries are about $800 per Medical records technicians are also given excellent chances at finding employment. Again, salries fall into $800 per month range. "In three to five years, a successful employee will earn $13,000 to $15,000 a year," the report raid.

•Occupaional therapy assistants, with only a "fair" employment rating, have fewer hopes and a less lucrative salary. Upon being hired, they can expect to be paid $550 a month. A certific assistant works under the supervision of a registered occupational therapist who plans treatment programs.

GRADUATES PLANNING to pursue a career in the three public service areas will see the full range of possibilities. Employment outlooks are "fair" and "moderate." The pay scales range .rom roughly $600 to $1,100 a month.

•Those hoping to be child care workers will have to scout around for jobs, which will pay about $600 monthly.

•Industrial security, according Schoolcraft's findings, is a "rapidly growing" field which offers moderate employment

•Biomedical equipment technicians, those who maintain and service medical electronic equipment can look forward to an excellent employment outlook and a $1,500 monthly salary. Their salaires are also bolstered by added fringe benefits such as the use of a car, according to the SC outlook.

•Civil technologists, who serve in supporting roles to engineers, may have trouble finding a job after they leave college, the report warned. If one does get a job, though, opening pay will be about $800 a month.

•A climate systems technician, a person qualified for employment in the refrigeration, heating and air conditioning industries, can expect an open job market and a monthly salary of $1,000.

•The culinary arts curriculum has a waiting list and the excellent employment outlook could help explain it. Those hired right out of the program can expect to earn between $1,000 and $1,400 a month.

•Graduates in the electronics curriculum can expect to find a job in a "wide range of diverse industries," according to Schoolcraft's survey. The entry level salary is approximately $1,100 per month.

 Mechanical design technicians also face an open job market and can expect to earn $850 a month.

 Metallurgists must be trained in the physical structure of metals and alloys. They can expect to have little trouble finding a job at an annual salary of $12,000.

•Tool design technicians, likewise, have an excellent job outlook. Training for the position, which pays about $750 a month, stresses possibilities. Salaries, again, fall into the $600-per-month range. According to SC report, industrial security firms are "seeking trained personnel to administer their increasingly complex programs in such areas as factories, hospitals, banks, schoolsand airports."

• The law enforcement field paints a "fair" employment picture. Opening salaries will fall into the $11,500 to $13,000.

THE TECHNICAL careers, the largest category of SC's survey, likewise covers the entire employment and salary spectrum.

• Architectural technicians, the highly-trained, semi-professional employes who work in direct support of professional architects and engineers, are in moderate demand. The pay is also moderate—$600 to $650 per month. The technician helps to prepare architectural, structural and working drawings.

YOUR PERRY

 Automatic service people can expect to earn between $600 and $800 a month and should have no trouble finding a job opening.

• Auto dealership service managers are also in demand, according to the SC outlook. The normal opening salary would fall into the $600 to $800 range. The General Motors, Ford and Chrysler test laboratories, however, will start new employes out at $800 to $1,200 a month. mathematics and physics which are essential to tool layout and detailing.

•The curriculum for the industri-ally-oriented technicians in welding technology and industrial fabrication is designed for those who will have "application and supervisory responsibility," according to SC's survey. Students in these fields face open markets on which to peddle their skills. They can expect an annual salary of $12,000.

•Geology technicians, who are trained through the college's petroleum technology curriculum, will be prepared to work as assistants to petroleum engineers and geologists. The career has an excellent employment outlook with an annual salary which approaches $12,000

Conference to explore retreat from political, social concerns

"Executive Wanted: self-centered, self-serving, able to place personal needs above those of others. Applicants should be free of personal relationships and other social commitments.

An unlikely advertisement? Yes, but not an unlikely description of the person who may be best suited for success in an increasingly complex. impersonal society.

"Many social historians are alarmed at what they see as a rise in self-centered behavior," reports Howard Shevrin, professor of psychology and of psychiatry at the University of Michigan.

"They are observing a retreat from political and social concerns as people turn inward, pursuing self-improvement and other personal goals.

The trend will be explored in a conference entitled "Narcissism in Modern Society" Nov. 16-18 at the U-M. Cosponsored by the university values committee and 10 other U-M departments and programs, the free sessions will be held at Rackham Auditorium and are open to the public. Programs are available through the U-M office of ethics and religion, (313) 764-7442.

Shevrin and other speakers will discuss the origins and repercussions of "the new narcissim:" what aspects of modern society are fostering this behavior? How is it related to changes in family structure, religious movements and work settings?

The '70s have seen an intensified interest in psychic self-improvement, "expanded consciousness" and personal growth. Is it a fad, or the beginning of a new phase of civilization?

"Ego-centric, self-serving people have always been with us," Shevrin

All aboard, for state's art train

As part of its 1977-78 statewide tour of Michigan, the Michigan Artrain will display works selected in a state-wide juried art competition.

Works selected from this competition will be exhibited on board the train as it tours the state from March to July. The pieces will also be on view in Detroit this June when Artrain is in town to celebrate the First Michigan Congress on the Arts.

Regional competitions will be held at six museums, including the Art Center, Mount Clemens, Feb. 26-March 30.

A panel of jurors chosen by the participating museums will make the selections at each competition. Then Artrain's three jurors, state Sen. Jack Faxon, Joseph Ishikawa, director of the Kresge Art Center Gallery and Roy Slade, president of Cranbrook Academy of Art Museum, will select works to be included in an exhibition on board the Artrain.

Past recipients of the Governor's Art Awards in the visual arts will also be asked to submit their prize-winning works for a portion of the juried show.

Three pyrchase awards will be made after the Michigan Artrain show has been assembled. These purchased

"But social historian Christopher Lasch and others believe society is producing more of these types of

The social critics decided to compare notes with psychoanalysts, many of whom also noticed including cases of patients with narcissistic character problems. The patients did not display bizarre behaviors or neurotic symptoms-rather, they had severe difficulties in forming relationships.

"All theorists tend to agree that the deficit very likely traces back to childhood, although they differ as to what causes it," Shevrin says.

"Infants, for example, are born with a readiness to attach themselves to a consistent caretaker, usually the mother. Later, that attachment evolves to a sense of 'relatedness' Ultimately, the maturing child perceives that the feeling of relatedness to others is essential to his sense of

"But the narcissistic person never makes this transition," Shevrin explains. "Other people are important only insofar as they help him maintain or return to a state of well-being."

The seeds of narcissism take root in infancy, Shevrin believes; thus it is the family, the "cradle of personality," which determines their growth.

But the U-M psychologist is cautious about linking narcissism with the demise of the nuclear family, rising divorce rate or changing parent roles. "Infants may vary in their capacity to tolerate disturbance, as parents may vary in their sensitivity to the infant's needs. In fact, I would believe these constitutional or genetic factors are probably much more significant than any social influence on the early ties.

"However, social institutions can work to select certain personality types which, once formed, will best prosper within their precincts. Certainly the sheer growth in size and bureaucratic complexity of such major institutions as corporations, universities and government create fertile ground for the kind of de-personalized behavior that narcissistic individuals favor," Shevrin said.

But are Americans, en masse, becoming totally preoccupied with their own welfare? Shevrin reserves judgment. "Narcissistic people may exist in no greater proportion today than they did in the past," he observes. "Rather, it could be that modern society has brought them to

The social critics are not wholly in consensus as to whether narcissism is a bad thing, he adds. Some applaud it as a great awakening, a cultural breakthrough.

But Shevrin opposes those exercises in expanded consciousness which, taken to the extreme, may negate all sense of participation in a social world. "Whether sought through quasireligious experiences, drugs or other

editorial opinion

Youth must understand consequences of crime

Regular subscribers to the Observer, or even our most casual readers, can't help but be aware of the alarming number of serious crimes committed by young persons this year in the communities of Canton and Plymouth.

Before anyone becomes indignant and proclaims, "Why not talk about all the good things young people are doing," let's make it clear that we regularly applaud the constructive contributions young people are making. But to ignore the destructiveness of a few young people would be to gloss over a problem that must be dealt with Juveniles aren't coming in from out-of-town to commit these crimes; they're coming from local family rooms. In the past year, we've seen local juveniles charged with arson, two instances of armed robbery, car theft, and numerous home and apartment break-ins.

In one instance this summer, a gang of seven teens, ages 13 through 15, were apprehended by state and local police and charged with almost 100 home break-ins. The alleged ringleader was a 33year-old man who escaped arrest.

EVEN SOME of the crimes listed as having been committed by an "adult," were done by persons who are just over the legally-liable age of 17.

Probably the most hair-raising crime of the year was allegedly committed by a 15-year-old Canton boy and an 18-year-old accomplice, William Guethlein, who were arrested after police said they were fired upon by the youths.

According to police, the pair had 10 stolen guns in their possession-guns taken from Guethlein's father's home earlier that day.

ON OCT. 28, Canton Chief fans were trying to cheer their team on to victory. The team lost the game-and their wallets, which were taken from the lockeroom while the team was on the field.

Explanations for youth crime and solutions to reduce it are difficult to formulate. Many people say that the trouble can be blamed on the recent, rapid influx of newcomers. But some of the youths arrested this year come from families with roots in the community that go back 50 years.

Police claim that youths commit many crimes because they know they cannot be charged as an adult. But, judging from the recent crackdown on the alleged "roof raiders" who broke into five different shopping centers in Canton, that bravado may be short-lived. A stint in the juvenile home is nothing for a 15-year-old to look forward to.

But the threat of incarceration is always a poor approach to crime prevention. Young people must learn harmful consequences of criminal acts-not only to others but to themselves. This is done mainly through parental guidance and a sense of purpose. This Thanksgiving, let's consider spending more time than just the holidays with our

Dad can be a pal or change the world

The other day as I was shaving, I looked into the mirror and saw my father.

It was an unexpected shock.

My father was very successful in his chosen field of law, but I always thought of him as an older man. The person in the mirror was graying; his face was lined.

I never really got to know my father until after I married. He was my father and I was his son. He never subscribed to Dr. Spock's theory of being a pal to one's children. He believed in discipline and respect for elders.

He was the man with whom I spent my life competing. He didn't know it, but like every boy I had to prove to my mother that I was just as good a man as her husband had been.

It was psychological, because my mother died when I was in my late teens.

I COMPETED with my father until he died. proud of my victories, taking credit for them as if I had no help. After he was gone, I realized that he had been my best friend, my security blanket, the person who set the pace.

by HANK HOGAN

When I was young, he didn't teach me how to play baseball or football. He was too busy challenging the world.

I saw other fathers who had workshops at home and who shared many experiences with their sons. I saw other fathers who came home early each day so they could be pals to their sons

I vowed that my son would have that kind of father.

BUT THEN I saw their sons-my contemporaries-when they were grown. They were not interested in making the world a better place but content with making a living and letting the world take its course without caring much, beyond grip-

I realized that my father had held me to a strict

I realized that my father had judged me on my performance, not my words.

I realized that if everyone came home early to be pals to their sons, the world would have no leaders, because the world doesn't work an eight-hour day. What would the world be like if everyone went home at 5? So, I became like my father.

IT'S TOUGH on sons whose fathers want the world to be a better place.

But it's the price that must be paid if the world is not to drift

My son won't understand this until some time later in life, when he looks into a mirror and is shocked, as I was, because he will do the same thing after vowing to teach his own son baseball.

But I'd rather have my son be his own person and compete with me and try to change the world for the better than be a self-satisfied, lazy individual who leaves the direction of the world to others.

Young's world still 'us versus them'

A year ago, Daniel T. Murphy started his second term as Oakland County executive with a pledge to end the "us versus them" attitude toward the City

Murphy pointed out the county, with a population of a million, was nearly as large as Detroit. It deserved to be treated as an equal partner in southeast Michigan's progress, he said, and it would recognize its obligation to help Detroit with its urban problems.

Murphy received much praise for his new attitude and has continued to avoid a strident tone toward the folks south of Eight Mile.

LAST WEEK, Coleman A. Young was elected to a second term as Detroit's mayor. There was a the Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority. This blunder plays right into the hands of the opponents of rapid transit such as the Oakland County Road Commission and State Rep. Tom Brown (D-Westland)

Young says he wants to establish a Detroit city government powerful enough to resist being "horsed around" by the suburbs and state government-whatever "horsing around" means.

Actually, whenever the state legislature has acted it has always passed two laws-one for the rest of the state and one for "cities of more than one million population." Young sees many in the white power structure who want to "castrate black political power" through regionalism.

Young still talks about Detroit's big investment in its bus system, although the truth is that federal and state money has paid for this big "Detroit" investment that Young wants to sell to SEMTA.

YOUNG'S TENURE began on a sour note as far as regional cooperation is concerned. The Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG) invited him to be featured speaker at a 1973general assembly dinner meeting. That was an olive branch if anyone ever saw one.

Well, Young didn't show. He blamed a staff error in his schedule making. He never has appeared as a SEMCOG speaker

Young is one of Detroit's official general assembly delegates to SEMCOG, a voluntary but official planning agency in the seven-county region, and is a member of its executive committee. In four year, I cannot recall seeing him at any SEMCOG meeting I covered, and I cannot recallseeing his name in the minutes of any meeting I didn't cover. While the suburbs send mayors and township supervisors or other elected officials to SEMCOG meetings, Detroit sends the mayor's administrative assistant or a department head.

YOUNG HAS can turn over a new leaf. Today he is scheduled to be at a transportation conference sponsored by SEMTA. He is scheduled to speak in * the same portion of the program with Dan Mur-

Tinkering around

Let's hear it for noisy kids

By LOUISE OKRUTSKY

Years ago, it was a sign of prosperity to have a large brood of children packed into a wood paneled station wagon. Passers-by could always look at each other and comment how nice it was to see a growing family

Now, after years of zero population growth philosophy and an economy that makes it difficult to raise a large family in relative comfort, the sight of mom and the kids can raise a few tsk tsk comments about how could she think of raising that many children.

I daresay the ZPG people were right about overpopulation. And I realize that a family's size doesn't always bear broof of a great love of children. It's a healthier attitude to believe that children aren't for everybody. But slowly, I'm beginning to see subtle hints that insinuate that children aren't a good thing for anybody.

SEVERAL SEMESTERS ago, when the school board was considering the future growth or decline of the student population in the cities, it was pointed out that one of the reasons children aren't as numerous nowadays is that many of the apartment complexes have very limited, if any, space for

At a time when it's becoming more difficult to buy that dream house, voung couples are settling down in apartments and townhouses which are more within their financial reach. Once they start apartment shopping they realize that children are about as welcome in complexes as a 50-pound St. Bernard with a nasty habit of frothing at the mouth.

Some complexes are not open to the idea of having littles ones cavorting about the grounds. To keep the noise level down for those without children, management companies have come up with a great compromise called the children's building. These little enclaves of family life are usually located in some remote corner of the complex. I assume that's so the wee ones won't disturb everyone else.

I wonder when the owners will wise up to the fact that while some of the regular apartments sit and wait for renters, there's a waiting list at the family buildings.

AS FOR THEnoise level of children-they can't be worse than adults. The only problem is that adults tend not to listen to the noise they make with the same annoyance that they exhibit at the sound of kids acting

Ever since the Puritans dressed their offspring in miniature adult costumes, the grown up world has been trying to get the smallfry to grow up

If there's one thing I've noticed about my apartment complex, it's that the grouping of childless couples and singles into buildings separate from those containing children is an artificial environment. It hurts the community by discouraging young families looking for a place to put down roots. Communities, like every other living entity, need to renew themselves or face stagnation.

Shoving young families to one side also helps to destroy whatver community-like feeling can be generated in an apartment complex. I hardly think that the stilted, pointless social gatherings sponsored by the complexes does anything toward creating a sense of community. (They're good for a few drinks and for sizing up whichever couple has decided to get together this month, though.)

IT WOULD be nice to mix the young and the old together again. I harbor the rather unfashionable feeling that if persons saw what each age was like. there would be less fear of growing older and less distrust and dislike of the young, who grow up believing that there must be something distasteful about childhood, starting the cycle

Bite that tongue

By LYNNE ORR

Edwin Newman seems to be the only journalist prepared to take a stand on the murder of the English language.

All one has to do is listen to television news or open a paper to find that out. Journalists, who should be particularly protective of the language, drastically abuse it. Words are our business, and if we can't make the machinery work properly, we lack authenticity.

If we fail to observe grammatical rules and fail to find the most descriptive word, the reader or listener has a right to question whether we know what we're talking about.

When Jo Jo Shutty MacGregor says "Keep an eye out for thunderstorms," we should cringe. I'll keep an ear out, JoJo. Hyperbole is the only word for a sportscaster who talks about two-game winning streaks. Typos and grammatical errors in newspapers, as well as dull stories, can be added to the list of journalistic

Food stamp eligibility

Families and senior citizens who applied for food stamps since Aug. 5, 1974 and were not eligible may now be entitled to buy food stamps, says the Michigan Department of Social Services

broadened

Persons who were ineligible since then because they were receiving rent subsidies from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD), should contact their local food stamp office. These persons may also be entitled to additional food stamps to make up for benefits lost because their application was denied.

Other persons were found eligible but were charged too much for their food stamps because of the HUD rent subsidy. These persons should also contact their local stamp offices. They may be eligible for a cash refund.

The broader eligibility and retroactive compensation was ordered by a federal appeals court which ruled last year that the HUD rent subsidy was erroneously classified as earned irresponsibility. I certainly can't exempt myself as a participant in the mass slaughter of the English language, much as I would love the idea.

SPEED IS the essence of journalism, and accuracy and liveliness often take a back seat. The chase to scoop grows to meet the public demand to know, as well as the competitive spirit of the business.

With haste at your back, it's easy to compromise your values, but we've reached the point where we have to step back and examine how our lack of expertise with the language affects the

If journalists can't speak or write with sophistication and accuracy, how can we expect them to analyze and digest the various arenas they work

If the language is sloppy, does the reader or listener have a right to assume that the material may be just as sloppy?

Perhaps the public's expectations of journalists have taken a nosedive. If the public assumes, as Spiro Agnew did, that the media is out to get whate ever makes a good story at the expense of anyone and anything, it also may be inclined to disregard the media's veracity and objectivity.

But we also have the problem of little constructive criticism. Most people won't bother to write a letter to a paper or a news station. Yet if we lack public comment, we have only ourselves to judge our work.

Granted, no one welcomes criticism, especially the ranting and raving kind, which is the form criticism most commonly takes. We get the phone calls or the nasty comments when we're out in public.

There may be a distinct correlation between the public's acceptance of mediocre journalism and the general decline of the languagge. After all, we're there in the forefront with the

New bank opened

Plymouth Township Supervisor Thomas Notebaert (left) shared ribbon cutting honors recently with John Swek to officially open Manufacturers Bank's new office on Ann Arbor Road at Sheldon in Plymouth Township. "Many Plymouth residents have been Manufacturers customers for a long time," says Swek. "Having an office in Plymouth Township enables the bank to serve this community more conveniently than ever before. The office has the complete range of banking and trust services, including safe deposit boxes, a night depository, drive-up lanes and ample parking. Behind the teller's area is a 22foot mural painted in acrylics of the Plymouth Village Green by artist Erick Carne of Plymouth. The office is open 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Mondays-Thursdays; 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Fridays; and 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Saturdays.

NAPOLEON SAID, "An army marches on its stomach." And so it must be with the Plymouth Centennial Educational Park Marching Band.

One look at the array of foods at the band's eighth annual banquet brought the old saying to mind. It was a potluck affair in the cafeteria of Plymouth Canton High School with food prepared by the parents of the 188 band members

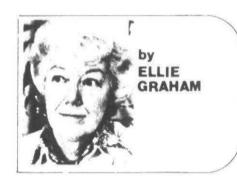

Two long tables were filled to capacity-one at each end of the cafeteria. As soon as one casserole was emptied, it was replaced by another luscious offering

Barbara Goudeseune chaired the banquet. She was especially grateful to the Plymouth Elks Club which contributed $25 for the banquet, National Concrete Company which supplied $40 worth of milk, Heide's Florists for the flowers, and the Mayflower Hotel and the Vivians Club for the vases used as centerpieces.

Nancy Bulmer and Gwen Munchow assisted Mrs. Goudeseune in planning the party Carlene McNiven was responsible for the table decorations. She and her daughters. Nancy and Sue, and Rob Goudeseune made the 200 miniature bandsmen which were used as table favors.

Band director James Griffith introduced the 54 seniors in the band. He said it was the largest group ever to remain with the band. The number of seniors was just three short of his first Plymouth High School band which had 57 musicians.

Griffith reviewed the multi-event season-University of Michigan Band Day, a Detroit Lions game at the Silverdome in Pontiac, the tournaments in Kalamazoo and Ypsilanti and football games.

Because the Rock football season has been extended to the state playoffs, the band planned to go to Brighton Friday evening. There also will be another appearance at the Silverdome Nov. 26

Ralph Johnson, staff arranger; James Schlotz, percussion coach; Dennis McVittie, announcer; and Mark Even, moviemaker were thanked for their contributions.

THEN IT WAS award time-some mock and some for real

Julie Jimmerson had baked a cake for Griffith in the form of a band leader and everyone sang "Happy Birthday." He also received a director doll and a pair of binoculars. Ann Griffith, wife of the director, also was presented.

The mock awards and inside jokes were greeted with howls of laughter.

A good group of young people— a source of community pride

RECENT WINNERS in the Thursday afternoon party bridge games at the Plymouth Cultural Center were Gordon Sherman and Howard Griffore, Nov. 3; and Ann Swithers and Margaret Swartz, Nov. 10.

The group is looking forward to its annual Christmas luncheon Dec. 8.

CHRISTMAS STORY Time for youngsters is planned for three Saturdays in January

A Grosse Pointe author of children's stories will be at the Forest Place Mall Dec. 3, 10, and 17. There will be two storytelling sessions each day-11 a.m. and 2 p.m.

Plymouth Book World in the Mall is sponsoring the story hours.

A FATHER AND SON bakeoff is in the offing for cub scouts in Miller School Pack 854 and their dads.

The mothers can offer advice but otherwise it will be hands off.

Tom Ford is chairing the event as a sort of pilot program. The bakeoff is a statewide program for cub scouts in Virginia. The Miller pack is the largest in the metropolitan Detroit areaprobably the largest in the state.

Baked goods judging will begin at 7:30 p.m., Nov. 29. Judges will be Theresa Cimino, head of the cafeteria at Miller; Rich Holloway of Holloway's Old Fashioned Foods; Hester Griffin, head chef at the Mayflower Hotel; Jerry Luteran of the Roman Forum Restaurant; and Larry Wendell, baker and decorator at Terry's Bakery.

There will be eight winners—a grand prize trophey and seven smaller awards.

Pat Mosti and Sharon Thibodeau are helping Ford plan the bakeoff.

Kids learn Indian lore and culture

Mary Sue Deyo thinks American Indians are the victims of television sensationalism, and she's doing what she can to change it.

Part of her effort to change stereotypes and misconceptions is to present programs on Indian culture to schools throughout the metropolitan area.

This week she came to the Plymouth Children's Nursery on Warren Road to speak to five separate classes-more than 110 children.

"In dealing with youngsters this age, the biggest problem is getting them past the TV image they have of Indians, which is really distorted," she

Mrs. Deyo is part Cherokee, and she draws on her heritage to tell children about Indians. "I talk to them about Indian history and show them Indian artifacts.

She said many of the artifacts she uses have been in her family for years, and she has been collecting them since

Mrs. Deyo has been giving her Indian presentations for almost 10 years. She also was was a member of a parent committee which was instrumental in getting a federal grant for Indian education in the Wayne-Westland school district

Although she charges a small fee for her program, all the money she collects is donated to clubs and groups that further Indian awareness

One of these groups meeting in Iowa, Mrs. Callow said, claimed that women must take responsibility for rape because of the way they dress. She added that others have characterized shelters for battered women as merely places where women can vacation at government expense.

"In presenting both sides, the media can give the illusion that both sides are equal in numbers," the Livonia feminist continued. "This is not the case. All the polls demonstrate that a large majority in this county support

"The anti-ERA forces in Michigan made a concerted effort to bring women out to vote against a resolution in support of ERA at the Lansing conference. They failed miserably. Women showed up four to one in favor. That is why they were reduced to merely being disruptive.

Monologist makes'em laugh and cry at pathos of human drama

By SUSAN ROGERS

"When you think about those close to you, you know them so well you don't have to concentrate on becoming them."

The speaker is Betty Jo Hawkins, actress, monologist and the guest performer at Thursday's Northville Town Hall lecture at the Plymouth Hilton.

Mrs. Hawkins presented a series of four monologues, written by herself, and had the crowd laughing and crying along with her.

The first, entitled "Trilogy and Postscript," "takes place in the past, present or future; however you look at it," said Mrs. Hawkins.

She played a woman who goes from 20 to 80 years of age. A simple prop, an old hat, a pair of glasses, a knit shawl—made the transformation complete. The lilting voice of a young girl gave way to the slow halting speach of an elderly woman as she recalled her life.

The second monologue, a poem called "Children Aren't Children Anymore," examined how times have changed and how children grow and know about things their parents and grandparents never heard about until their adult years. The poem involved a mother who faces the problems of drugs, sex. abortion and other changes in morality through her children and sadly accepts the fact that "children can't be children anymore."

THE THIRD monologue, the only *humorous one, was a story with a twist, depicting a woman giving her 6-year-old twins answers to "the big question," only to find out they'd learned all that in hygene class.

The last and perhaps most powerful, was a story based on historical fact. Col. and Mrs. Burkhart had lost their children to Indians when they had strayed outside the fort. The colonel engaged an old German woman, who had a similar experience, to talk to Mrs. Burkhart.

Looking the picture of a pilgrim, Mrs. Hawkins' characterization of the emotional old woman was memorable. The slight shaking of a hand, the carefully spoken English her belief in hope and the everlasting goodness of man gave life to the character.

Not a sound emerged from the audience as she finished.

"There's a part of me in each of the characters I play," Mrs. Hawkins said to the crowd. "I don't think you can separate us."

Her characters can take up to two years to perfect, she told the group. "I think of characters through an expression I might hear or something someone I know did or said," she said.

MRS. HAWKINS, whose credits include performances with the New York Theater Guild, stage and television roles, and the leads in "The Glass Menagerie," "A Streetcar Named Desire," "Blythe Spirit" and "Showboat," put her career in moth balls while her children were growing up.

MANY MEMBERS of the audience commented on Mrs. Hawkins' performance as being so easy to relate to because of the monologues' subject matter.

Said Pearl Adams, "Her characters were mirrors of yourself. She showed faith, hope and charity in so many ways."

In addition to the many Northville members of the Town Hall series, a substantial number come from other communities. Marilyn Loriaux of Livonia said: "I thought she was delightful—she's a very talented lady.

It wasn't as much the content as your personal associations."

"It was very entertaining and I enjoyed it very much," said Marguerite Hermann of Plymouth. "I could relate to so many of her characters."

Florence Booms, Northville Town Hall chairwoman, said. "I thought she was a warm, charming and talented person. She said so many things I felt but could never put into words. It was a fantastic experience."

Mrs. Hawkins encouraged the women not to join what she called the "battle of the sexes." "Support your husband and let him support you," she said. "Support your family with love and understanding but direct with wisdom."

Audiences tend to favor Rachmaninoff's Piano Concerto No. 2. Pianists tend to favor his "Rhapsody on a Theme of Paganini.

William Doppman likes them both. The second piano concerto is an absolutely first rate piece of music," he said, and then added: "But it's played so much. . The rhapsody has more Doppmann talked about music history and performance in an interview after rehearsing the rhapsody with the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra, with whom he will be soloist at 4 p.m. Sunday in the auditorium of Plymouth Salem High School.

RACHMANINOFF based the rhapsody, written in 1934 and one of his later works, on Caprice No. 24 by the spellbinding 19th century violinist Niccolo Paganini. The rhapsody is a set of 24 variations on the main theme.

Other composers worked with the theme. Doppmann said. "Schumann and Liszt, also, worked with them, but theirs are essentially transcriptions for other instruments. Brahms actually wrote variations on the theme. They're extraordinarily difficult-pianistic horrors," he said. Lutoslawski wrote a set for two pianos, but Rachmaninoff's version is standing the test of time.

Some of Rachmaninoff's variations blend into one another, so the listener can hardly detect the differences. "But there are about four or five breaks (giving the effect of the movement of a concerto). In the early part, the balances (in lengths of variations) are kept, but in the latter part there is a more continuous development.

THE RHAPSODY theme is stated in the strings, with the pianist adding pmann said, referring to the romantic tune that became a theme song for the movie "Story of Three Loves."

DOPPMANN IS a great favorite of Plymouth audiences, and conductor Wayne Dunlap calls him "the closest to a big name we can get."

The rumpled pianist has a clear, nononsense tone and easy manner. This vear he has added a beard not visible in last year's publicity photo.

After earning degrees in music in 1956 and '58 at the University of Michigan, Doppmann appeared as soloist with 60 major orchestras in the U.S. Europe, Japan and hong Kong.

Currently, he is artist in residence for the Michigan Orchestra Association and pianist in residence at Grand Valley State Colleges. His Plymouth performance is underwritten in part by a grant from the Michigan Council for the Arts.

OTHER WORKS on Sunday's program will be Beethoven's Symphony No. 7, a favorite of conductor Dunlap because it was the first symphony he ever played as a young trumpeter in the Dallas Symphony, and three Greek dances by Nikos Skalkottas.

"This is the first time we'se had any Greek music on the program," said Dunlap. "It's contemporary; it's exciting; it's a good curtain raiser. '

It's also difficult. One line in the score Dunlap-pointed to had measures in three-quarters, five-quarters, twoeighths, three-eighths, five-eighths and two-quarters times.

"These dances are based on traditional tunes, dressed up somewhat," Dunlap said. "Friends of Skalkottas got together and published them.

A visit to Plains, Ga. Would it be complete without meeting Billy Carter and Miss Lillian?

Meeting the President's down-home brother and his straight-talking mother is becoming less likely for tourists to Plains, since Billy and his wife have moved out of Plains and Miss Lillian spends more time at the Pond House, even further in the coun-

But just a few weeks ago, I met these members of the famous Carter clan, plus Billy's wife, as part of a group of travel writers participating in a Stay and See Georgia contest judg-

I was one of five writers (the others were from Chicago, New York and Springfield, Mo.) who were traveling through Georgia hosted by the Georgia Chamber of Commerce.

WE VISITED a number of Georgia cities and towns, to pick the ones we thought did the best job of improving their communities and tourist attrac-

Seeing Plains was a bonus, as was a stop in Sea Island, Ga., and was the final day's highlight of the trip. Right now, in Plains, the small town's quiet charm co-exists along with buses offering tours of the town and everincreasing souvenir wares.

Our tour of Plains was aboard a Carter Country Tour bus. Fliers describe this as "the original tour of Plains the only tour with 30 minutes of narration which many compare with the work of Mark Twain.' The two women driving the bus and conducting the tour were folksy and friendly, and both proudly recalled having been invited to Jimmy Carter's inauguration as President of the United States

The driver had a natural-sounding delivery of the facts about Jimmy and Roslyn and their family life in Plains. It was simple but sophisticated patter. told with tongue-in-cheek humor.

FIRST STOP (and we didn't have to go very far-just down the main street of Plains) was a mobile home, which Billy Carter uses as an office. He doesn't sit around at Billy Carter's filling station across the street anymore, we were told.

Billy and his wife came out to greet us and chatted amiably about themselves, answering any questions we asked. Billy was relaxed and cheerful.

He was likable, and so was Mrs. Carter, who stands about a head taller than Billy. She explained they had to move out of Plains because, although most tourists were pleasant, some just came to the front door and walked in without even knocking.

The two Carters were good spirited, and Billy was more easy and clever than I had expected him to be, even though I had always anticipated he would have a warm manner.

There was no stiffness in the atmosphere, the Carters and the tour guides laughing unselfconsciously

But one questioner asked Billy politely what was the subject of the talk he gave when he was on a speaking engagement throughout the country.

HE ANSWERED in one word, "BS." although he spelled it out. Somehow we all laughed at that, too. The comment seemed so much a part of his candid personality.

The tour took us through town, where we could see a sign on the lawn of Miss Lillian's lovely white home: "No visitors. No trespassers.

Our tour guides took us down a red

Georgia clay road—the first time a tour bus had been allowed down there-winding to the Pond House where Miss Lillian would greet us.

She came out of her house, dressed in casual sportswear separates. Her hair is a snowy white cap, luxurious; her eyes are soft blue. Miss Lillian likes to talk with her hands and because I was sitting by the door of the bus, she kept patting me on the knee during our visit.

She told us how she goes fishing in the pond outside the house. Someone sent her one million fishing worms. and they were all over the floor when she opened the box.

IN OTHER OPINIONS, she told us she doesn't even like peanuts, didn't know the family was trying to sell the peanut business until she read about it in the newspaper ("Nobody tells me anything") and "I don't care what Jimmy does."

The last remark was in response to the question, What did she think about Jimmy's interview in Playboy magazine? She added, "Nobody ever asked me that before.

Miss Lillian talked about how she had met artist Andy Warhol, who asked her to autograph four copies of a picture he had made of her. He gave her a large version of the portrait and said it would be worth a lot of money

She thought the portrait was so ugly she rolled it up and put it in the back of the closet. "Would you like to see it?" she asked.

We did, so one of the tour guides ran in and brought it out. It looked more like George Washington than Miss

SHE DESCRIBED Warhol as, "You know what he looks like, like he's from outer space." Miss Lillian said she met a man who told her he bought the four small portraits of her from War-

"He said he paid $60,000 for them. I didn't believe him, but he showed me a receipt.

Miss Lillian, like Billy, was also genuinely amusing in her conversation. Willing audiences undoubtedly spark their humor After farewells, Miss Lillian went back into the contemporary frame house. A lazy hammock swung in the trees beside the glassy pond. The Pond House is the dwelling described on the tour as where Miss Lillian stays 'to get away from the hectic city life of Plains.

KISSIN' BROTHERS: Vic Caputo, WJBK-TV entertainer, and Phill Weiss give their mom, Irene Jordon, a big kiss in Crackers dinner theater's production of "Come Blow Your Horn."

Hey! Isn't that Vic Caputo?

Vic Caputo has gone Walled Lake. Some local stars may go Hollywood, but Caputo, co-producer and host of WJBK-TV's "Good Morning Detroit," is hitting the stage at the Crackers Dinner Theater, located in the lower level of the Squires Table restaurant in Walled Lake.

The occasion is the rollicking Neil Simon comedy, "Come Blow Your Horn." It starts tomorrow, (Friday), and runs to Jan. 28

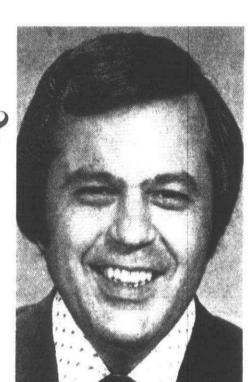

Caputo is not the only local luminary who will take a part in "Blow." Colleen Burcar, the new whirlybird reporter who watches traffic for CKLW, will be playing the hard-to-get Connie.

Critics loved "Blow" during its lengthy Broadway run. One scribe called it "a slick, lively, funny play. it's completely nuts and banging with laughs."

In the play, Caputo plays Alan Baker, a 30-year-old bachelor who is suave and devil-may-care. His highliving is scorned by his father, played by Don Craig.

Baker's life is rumbling along like the lives of bachelors who write letters to men's magazines. But then his brother, played by Phil Weiss, moves in, and it's downhill from there.

His best girl, played by Ms. Burcar, hits him in the face with an ultimatum, and it hurts. A sexy neighbor pops in at all the wrong times. His father, who is also Alan's boss, gives him his walking papers, and then mom, played by Irene Jordon, decides to move in. In less than a month, Buddy turns into the swinging bachelor. As for Alan, well, we won't ruin the play for you, but the conclusion, as the critic said, "will let you laugh all the way home."

YES! It is Vic Caputo.

Caputo, a graduate of St. Josephs Seminary in New York, joined Channel 2 in 1967 as a reporter. He has copped awards for seveal in-depth reports and in 1971, the Italian Chamber of Commerce awarded him its Outstanding Citizen award.

A gourmet buffet is served each night at 7:30 p.m. Curtain time is 8:45. An afterglow follows the show. Call 624-6660 for reservations.

KEITH STROUP: Is pot potentate coming off a high? No, he's coming off a bust. NORML boss Stroup was popped on Canada-New York border earlier this fall. He'll be speaking about pot busts and more at Schoolcraft College Nov. 25.

High priest of pot due in Livonia

Everybody smokes pot.

The Beatles said that, and while it's obviously a bit of an exaggeration, even the U.S. government figures millions of Americans have given the weed a puff on at least one occasion. The National Organization for the Reform of Marijuana Laws (NORML) says there are more than 13 million marijuana smokers in the U.S. today. They are doctors, lawyers, judges, cops, teachers, salepersons, blacksmiths, sewer workers, in a word, everyone

Many medical authorities feel marijuana is safe for human consumption, while others disagree, just as states and cities disagree over how to handle pot law violators.

Enough people were arrested for marijuna violations last year to fill the

'We would like to see some serious study undertaken to develop and analyze various potential legalization models. . .but our immediate goal is decriminalization.'

-Keith Stroup, NORML chairman

entire city of St. Paul, Minn., according to NORML.

NORML's executive director, Keith Stroup, brings the group's marijuana information campaign to Schoolcraft College next Friday, Nov. 25, at 8 p.m. in the Waterman Campus Center. Stroup, 31, will be presenting a film-lecture program which will explore the historical, medical, social and legal aspects of marijuana use.

NORML is a non-profit, public interest lobby which surprisingly supports a policy of discouragement for all recreational drug use, including alcohol and tobacco.

NORML believes, however, that use of criminal laws in drug prevention has been harmful to both society and the individual, economically wasteful, and most ineffective as a deterrent

As Stroup told "Playboy" magazine last February, "We would like to see some serious study undertaken to develop and analyze various potential legalization models so that states in the future will have the information they need, should some of them decide to take this step. But for now, we view such change as premature. Our immediate goal is decriminalization."

Stroup, a lawyer, knows of what he speaks. He was busted earlier this fall at a U.S. Canada border crossing as he was on his way to Ottowa to spread the NORML gospel.

Tickets for Stroup are $2. For more info: Dial 591-6400 ext. 355

REFORMED CHURCH IN AMERICA

It's 25 eventful years for Norwayne Baptist

Sunday, Nov. 30 will be a red letter day for the Norwayne Baptist Church, Grand Traverse and Venoy in Westland, when the church celebrates its 30th anniversary

Residents in Wayne and Westland and former residents of the Norwayne subdivisions may join the celebration, which includes a worship service at 11 a.m. and an afternoon program at 2:45

The afternoon events include a concert, followed by an open house and the showing of an historic film.

The Rev. William Bowman, executive minister of the American Baptist Churches of Michigan, will preach at the 11 a.m. worship. At 2 p.m. the Chancel Choir of the Court Street United Methodist Church of Flint will present a special concert of church anthems, under the direction of Thomas R. Jones, minister of music.

Following the concert at 3:45 p.m. the church will host a reception and open house. Refreshments will be served, and photographs, newspaper advertisement, brochures and other artifacts of the World War II era will be on exhibit.

The activities will culminate at 4:30 p.m. with the showing of "The Time Capsule," an award winning film depicting the early days of the Norwayne subdivisions.

Family relationships home ec workshop topic

"Family Relationships in Today's World" will be the topic of a fall workshop to be held by the student section of the Michigan Home Economics Association. The all-day workshop is scheduled Friday, Nov. 18 at Madonna College, Livonia

The morning session will feature a discussion seminar on "How Families Prepare For and Cope with Death, Divorce, and Separation," led by Dr. Robert Del Campo, family life specialist from Eastern Michigan University, and "How to Deal with Child Abuse and Neglect," led by Madonna faculty member Robert Riley, ACSW, CSW.

In the afternoon, Mrs. June Shada of the adult education division, Detroit public schools, will lead a discussion of "How to Work Toward Good Family Relationships.

Registration for the workshop is $5 for members of the student section, and $5.25 for non-members. Registration fee includes luncheon. Reservations for non-members who wish to attend should be made in advance by calling the home economics and family department of Madonna College,

Arrangements for the meeting have been made by officers of the state student association from the host school, Diane Micklatcher, president; Kathleen Barczak, corresponding secretary, and Lisa Greco, treasurer.

The film was made by John Pursak. teacher at Lincoln school, and students in the Lincoln and Jefferson schools.

NORWAYNE Baptist Church was started during World War II. At the time a housing project was built in the Norwayne subdivisions to house workers in defense factories, specifically the bomber plants at Willow Run.

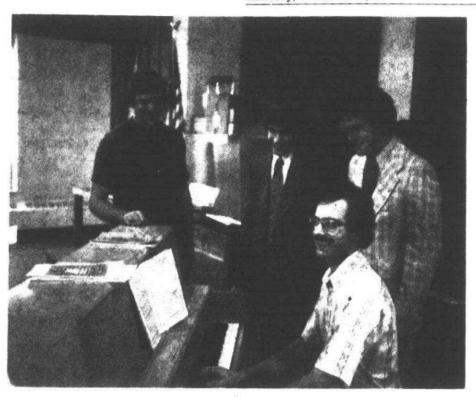

In order to meet the spiritual needs of the people in the project, the Comity Committee of the Detroit Council of Churches asked the American Baptist Churches-USA (then the Northern Baptist convention) to start a community church for all denominations.

The church was started in Jefferson school. When the war ended, the Baptist denomination built the present church building and the congregation moved in during the fall of 1947.

In 1958, the constitution of the Community Church was revised and the status of the congregation changed from a community church to an American Baptist church. In 1976 the constitution was again revised.

The open membership policy was reinstated, allowing members of all Christian denomination to be members of the Norwayne Church based on baptism in their own denomination.

THE CHURCH has an activity ministry in community service, including an emergency food service and crisis counseling. The congregation has been involved in local housing issues, and is currently working on a community coalition to provide a shelter for abused wives in the western Wayne County area.

Thanksgiving music ecumenical

The combined choirs of five Garden City churches will present a Thanksgiving Choir Festival at 7:30 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 20, in O'Leary Auditorium.

The Garden City Ministerial Association is sponsoring the free concert at Garden City East High School in the auditoriumon Ford Road

Participants include the choirs of the First Baptist Church, First United Methodist, Garden City Presbyterian, Good Hope Lutheran Church, Berriman Road Baptist and St. David

Special offeratory music will be provided by members of the community's Free Methodist Church.

Anthems by individual choirs as well as massed choir numbers will be included in the program.

Participating in planning the event are choir directors Kenneth Winkel man of Good Hope, Dennis Tuller of St. David, David Dossette of First Baptist and David Bond of First United Methodist.

A free will offering will be shared by the ministerial association, Garden City FISH and a special reading program conducted by Garden City

Fair to aid sheltered workshop

Proceeds from a Christmas fair to be sponsored by the Western Wayne Association for Retarded Citizens, a non-profit corporation, will be used toward setting up a new sheltered workshop for mentally retarded adults in the area.

The fair will take place Nov. 18 and 19 in St. John Episcopal Church, 555 Wayne, Westland. On Friday, the hours will be noon to 9 p.m. and from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Saturday.

For a fee, a spaghetti dinner will be available at 5 p.m. Friday. The fair also will feature a country kitchen, crafts,

"6 Rms Riv Vu"

Theatre Guild opens with biting social comment

The Plymouth Theatre Guild got the fall dramatic season off to a funny start last weekend with the biting social satire, "6 Rms Riv Vu," a contemporary comedy.

The entire action of the play takes place in a large "rent controlled" apartment in New York City, a real rarity in that neck of the woods.

The characters are the people who are vying with each other to get first crack at renting the place. Two of them, Anne and Paul, get to know each other better when they find themselves locked inside the empty apart-

In just a short while the pair have heard each other's "life story." Anne is a bored, early-thirties houswife with two young children. Her husband is an architect who is fairly regimented in his life and sits up very straight in

Paul is a bored, early-thirties advertising copywriter. He always wanted to write the "great American Jewish novel," he tells Anne, but then Phillip Roth came along and that was that. Now, we presume, he has to content himself writing about industrial toilet cleaning products.

SINCE ANNE is bored with her life and her husband, and Paul is bored with his life and his wife (who happens to be into women's lib), the natural thing to do is have an affair. Right?

They do-after talking about it and talking about it—and they feel very guilty, which they also talk about. And since both Anne and Paul were raised in the 1950s and are college graduates, talking is what they do very well.

They find it difficult, however, to quit talking and acutually get out there and do something. To be sure, some of the talk is very funny.

Paul, for example, thinks his generation is silent and wishy-washy because things were far too easy for them. His parents at least had the depression, "to help them build character," he says.

Anne thinks that if she has an affair with a strange man, she will at last have something exciting to tell the checkout clerk at the grocery store.

Through the long, and sometimes tortuous analysis of their lives, Anne and Paul touch on a little bit of everything and everyone. If you are part of the gret, white middle class, it's easy to recognize parts of yourself.

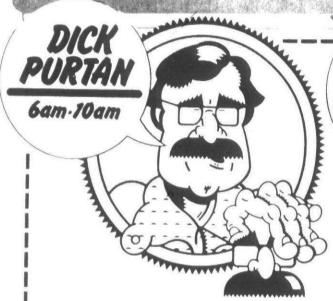

FAR AND AWAY the evening's best performance was given by Ron Samuel, a new face in the PTG. He had an easy stage presence and fit the character of Paul perfectly. Christina Opaleski-also a new Guild memberplays the squeaky-cleann sexually repressed Anne with real conviction.

The supporting cast did a good job of bringing a little pace and diversion to the play when the dialogue got wearisome. The set was crisp, clean and well put together.

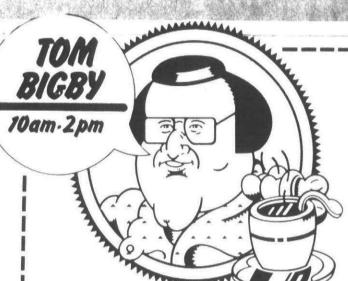

If you missed the first weekend performances, the play will be presented again this Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m., in the Central Middle School Players on the all-Observer football teams keep getting bigger, faster and better. With so many of the 14 area teams having successful seasons, it was no simple task for the coaches to select the premier players in the area.

Plymouth Salem, Suburban Eight League champion, went undefeated in nine regular-season games and advanced to the Class A state playoffs. Clarenceville, Metro West Conference titlist, just missed the Class B playoffs with an 8-1 mark.

Westland John Glenn, 7-2, and Livonia Franklin, 6-3, shared the Northwest Suburban League championship and Livonia Stevenson, 6-3, again proved to be the class of the Inter-Lakes League

Redford St. Agatha, Redford Bishop Borgess, Redford Union and Garden City East all had winning percentages of .630 or better RU won its last five games, East, its last four

If so many teams had such excellent seasons, they must have had the talented personnel to do so. Following is the 1977 all-Observer football teams as selected by area coaches:

FIRST TEAM OFFENSE

Bob Dasher, Plymouth Salem, interior lineman. The 6-3, 235-pound senior, a two-way player, co-captained the Rocks this season.

Dasher recorded a 90 per cent blocking grade for his work during the campaign and received Salem's "Bones Award" for the best hit of the game four times this year.

Bob combines size, speed and execution to be one of, if not, the best center in the state of Michigan," said Salem coach Tom Moshimer. "He's a blue, blue, blue chip major college

Paul Greis, Redford Bishop Borgess, interior lineman. A three-year starter for the Spartans, Greis was named the Most Valuable Offensive Lineman in the entire Catholic League this season.

The 6-3, 235-pound senior served as a co-captain this fall after winning all-Observer honors last year.

"Paul is a devastating drive blocker and blast blocker," said Borgess coach Fred Mushinski. "He's a major college prospect.'

Greis was the second-best vote getter for the offensive dream team behind Dasher.

Tom Jurewicz, Westland John Glenn, interior lineman. The Northwest Suburban League's Outstanding Lineman of 1977, Jurewicz, also a defensive standout, was a unanimous all-conference choice both last year and this year.

The 6-5, 205-pound senior, one of the Rockets' tri-captains, runs the 40-yard dash in 4.9 seconds.

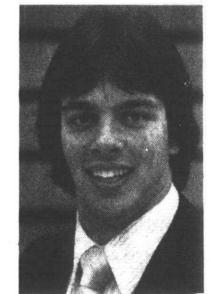

"Tom's offensive line play has been characterized by great consistency during his two years as a starter,' said Glenn coach Chuck Gordon. "He's very coachable and has good football

Mike Broome, Livonia Franklin. interior lineman. The only time the 6-2, 212-pound senior ever came off the field was during kickoffs and kickoff returns. Broome was instrumental in making the Patriots' veer offense

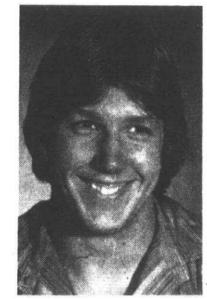

Broome, an all-Northwest Suburban choice on defense, was credited with 19 solo tackles and 82 assists.

"Mike is a very consistent offensive lineman, complimented Franklin coach Armand Vigna. "He is quick Broome, also a good student, carries a 3.0 grade-point average.

The six-foot, 205-pound senior was named to the all-Suburban Eight defensive team. Roy also averaged 54 yards per carry and scored five TDs as a running back

He was used primarily as a blocking back out of his fullback position on

Keith Wesner, Redford Bishop Borgess, down lineman A two-year starter, the six-foot, 185-pound Wesner was selected as the Most Valuable Defensive Lineman in the Catholic League

The co-captain was the Spartans leading tackler.

"Verve, intensity and desire are Keith's trademarks," said Borgess coach Fred Mushinski. "He's the best defensive lineman I ever had.

Jim Boysel, Livonia Churchill, down lineman. Boysel, six-foot, 180 pounds. was a three-year letter-winner for the Chargers. This season, he had 60 first hits and 47 assists. Those stats earned Boysel a place on the all-Western Six

"Jim is a good kid, a very aggressive football player," summarized Churchill coach Ken Kaestner, Roge Frayer, an assistant coach, described the senior as a terror

Tom Piette, Redford Union, end. A three-year varsity starter and a twoway performer the last couple seasons, Piette was termed RU's "best defensive player" by Heitman.

Piette, a 6-5, 220-pound senior, captained the team.

"Tom is a hard hitter; and a game. smart defensive player," said Heitman. "He's a great one-on-one player. a great option player with super pursuit and outstanding strength.

Gordon Wheeler, Livonia Franklin, end. An all-Northwest Suburban honoree, Wheeler was credited with 15 solo tackles and 63 assists during the Patriots' campaign. He also played offensive tackle this season.

The 5-11, 190-pound senior has been a defensive starter the past two falls. An excellent student. Wheeler sports a 3.8

"He has tremendous pursuit and quickness, good football sense," said Franklin's Vigna. "He reads the play quickly and reacts fast.

Doug Agnew, Plymouth Salem, linebacker. An all-Observer pick last year as a junior, Agnew was Salem's premier defensive performer throughout

Co-captain of this year's state-playoff aggregation, the 6-2, 185-pound senior had 46 first defensive hits and 33 assisted tackles. Agnew seemed to have a nose for the ball, as he recovered three fumbles and picked off one

"Doug is quick, hard-hitting and an extremely coachable young man. said Salem's Moshimer, Jerry Cook, Westland John Glenn, linebacker. A two-year two-way starter, Cook, one of the Rockets' tricaptains, averaged 12 solo tackles per game this season.

The 5-11, 185-pound senior combines both strength (bench presses 315 pounds) and speed (4.8 seconds for 40-yard dash). Cook, also an excellent wrestler.

carries a 3.5 scholastic average. "Jerry is extremely dedicated and very unselfish. He ran our defense and played with intensity at all times, said Glenn coach Chuck Gordon ming back. This is the second consecutive year that the six-foot, 183pound slashing runner has earned a berth on the all-area backfield.

McCamant's statistics are almost unbelievable. In eight games, he rushed for 1,274 yards on 152 carries and caught 35 passes for 846 yards. He scored 17 touchdowns, with eight of them on plays of 50 yards or longer.

"Tim's a great leader and team player," said Clarenceville coach Ralph Weddle. "He never missed a practice in four years of high school."

A co-captain. Gibbs had a time of 4.9 seconds for the 40-yard dash, proving that he had speed as well as bulk. He was extremely difficult to bring down in one-on-one situations once he broke through the line.

"He did an outstanding job of blocking," said East coach Gary Brian Macek, Redford Union, running back. Though not very big, 5-9, 170 pounds, Macek holds RU school records for most carries in a career, most yardage in a single season, most career yardage and most yardage in a single game.

The senior this season scampered for 1,212 yards in 204 attempts and totalled 52 points. Macek's best single rushing effort in one game has been 253 yards.

"Brian just might be the best running back that RU has produced," said coach Heitman. "He has been a very durable two-way player for all three years at RU.

Jim Spala, Livonia Stevenson, back. Called "the best hitting back ever at Stevenson" by coach Jack Reardon, Spala had 61 solo tackles and 56 assists during the recent campaign.

The six-foot, 175-pound senior cocaptain was a three-year starter at strong safety and an all-Inter Lakes choice the past two seasons. Spala also was an all-Observer pick last year.

In addition to his defensive duties, Spala also played tailback and took care of the Spartans' placekicking

Curt Lewis, Plymouth Salem, back. Lewis, the anchor of the Rocks' defensive secondary, intercepted eight passes this season and was second to Agnew in defensive points with 15 unassisted tackles, 41 first hits and 12

A senior, the 6-1, 175-pound Lewis also played offensive end and caught seven passes for 178 yards and four touchdowns.

"Curt has great range, can jump and has excellent hands," Moshimer.

Larry Acton, Livonia Franklin, back. An all-Northwest Suburban selection, Acton was credited with 32 solo tackles and 68 assists during the Patriots' 1977 co-championship season. The 5-11, 175-pound senior was also an integral part of the offensive veer attack from his tailback position. "Larry is one of our hardest hitters." He's very dedicated and very determined," said Vigna.

Ken Hodges, Garden City East, back. A senior, the 5-7, 145-bound dynamo was the Panthers' leading tackler this season. Hodges made the big defensive play in critical situations more than his share of the time. "Ken made outstanding plays all year saving scores of other teams. said East coach Gary Humphrey.

Ladywood faces Mercy

Ladywood will take on Mercy in tonight's Catholic League girl's semifinal match-up at Servite High School. The Blazers won a spot in the semifinal with a 72-65, come-from behind victory over St. Martin DePorres last week.

The Blazers rode the hot shooting of Marti Wallace, Carol Crissey, Liz. O'Brian and Janice Pawlak to overtake DePorres in the third quarter. Ladywood had trailed throughout the game by as many as seven points.

They played an outstanding manto-man defense, and it rattled our girls early," said coach Ed Kavanaugh. "It took us a while to get warmed up. Early on our girls were nervous and made a few bad passes.

The Blazers trailed by only two points, 31-29, at the end of the first half, but it wasn't until Wallace. Crissey. O'Brian and Pawlak found their shooting eyes that they took command of the game.

Wallace and Crissey topped the scoring column with 19 points each. O'Brian pumped in 17 points and pulled down 12 rebounds and Pawlak chipped in with 16 points.

Thursday's contest will be the third time Ladywood and Mercy have matched-up this season. Mercy, 14-0 on "Our girls are going to have to play a super game," Kavanaugh said.

The girls from Mercy are favored by many to win not only the Catholic League championship but to go all the way to the state tournament finals.

Kavanaugh said the other semifinal game, with Dominican playingBishop Gallagher, could hold the key to his team's match with Mercy.

He said Mercy's girls could be looking past his Blazers to a rematch with Dominican, which shattered Mercy's state title hopes last year in the championship game.

Doc's Corner

By DENNIS O'CONNOR Sports Editor

It's time to start settling things

I'd like to make one last comment before closing the football season for another fall

As everyone knows by now, Plymouth Salem gridders were stunned last Friday night by an inspired Portage Central crew, 21-3, in state quarterfinal action at Brighton.

But did you see what happened the following day?

Everyone's number-one ranked team in the state, Flint Southwestern, was also upset by East Lansing, 15-14.

I honestly believe both Salem and Southwestern played poor football in the quarterfinals because they were looking ahead to playing each other in what was supposed to be the big semifinal showdown.

I don't want to take anything away from Portage or East Lansing, but I'm still not convinced they are one of the top four teams in the state

The two best teams in the state will be watching from the sidelines, and, unfortunately, won't have a chance to

They blew their chances last weekend.

NOW THAT the weather is getting colder and the football season has been ushered away, it's time to look to the winter sports scene with boys basketball, wrestling and swimming, along with girls volleyball and the new sport of girls gymnastics.

And let's not forget the league and state meets for girls swimming next week, and the state district play for

One most interesting happening which should occur over the next few months, however, is whether Plymouth Salem head football coach Tom Moshimer will reconsider his resignation of three months ago.

Moshimer resigned in late August for "personal reasons" which are believed to be conflicts with the school administration over his scheduling of classes. Moshimer wants his last hour of the school day off to help ease the time demands of coaching.

Administration won't give him this last hour off and immediately accepted his resignation "with regrets.'

Since that time, Movhimer led his squad to a second 9-0 regular season in the last four years and a berth to the state playoffs.

Ever since the issue of Moshimer's resignation, the coach and administration have been silent to me in regards to what has happened.

I know there has been a lot of talk and speculation around the community about next season but nothing has changed.

Moshimer has resigned.

A parents' group circulated a petition urging school administrators to give all coaches the last hour off but there has been no response

The issue even came before the school board at a workshop but was indefinitely suspended until all the coaches were present.

WELL, the Salem football season has finally ended and the hectic schedule of the grid coaches has ceased.

Now it's time for both "sides" to sit down and constructively talk things over-and get this issue settled once

I know things can be worked out for the best for everyone concerned. What is the best solution?

Keep Moshimer. He's too damn good as a coach to let him go

I know that Salem administrators believe this deep down-and some will even admit it privately to me.

I admit throughout this whole episode Moshimer's ego has grown. But hasn't it grown justifiably?

Not only has Moshimer led two undefeated seasons in the last four years, but he is well-liked and respected by players an parents.

Administration has got to bend a little for Moshimer. He's done too much for athletics in this community to let him go because of one silly little hour at the end of the day.

I know administration is tired of hearing me say this-but some things have to be repeated.

Both parties must sit down now, before this thing gets out of hand. Both parties must let by-gones be by-gones. And both parties must hear one another out and come to an agreement that will keep Moshimer coaching for Plymouth Salem.

This is the best solution for the kids, parents and the overall athletic program in the community.

Rocks bomb N. Farmington

By ANDY MELIN

Shooting 56 per cent from the floor in the second half, the Plymouth Salem girls' varsity basketball team rambled over North Farmington, 60-27. last Tuesday night at the Raiders'

Captain Kathy Dillon set a Rock record for steals in one game with 12. Salem's 33 team steals were a season

Dillon also led the Rock scoring attack with 16 points. She was followed by Mary Dickey who added nine points and five rebounds.

Senior Brenda Davis contributed eight points to Salem's winning effort. all coming in the fourth quarter.

Doris Hoelscher accumulated five steals, seven rebounds and three assists for the Rocks.

In all. 12 Rocks played in the contest, and 10 scored.

Salem's phenomenal shooting in the second half was sparked by five Rock players shooting 100 per cent from the

"Our defense looked good," said Hatcher. "We were really hustling."

Salem led 14-8 after the first quarter, 26-12 at halftime, and stretched its lead to 23, 42-19, after three periods of

No one really knows the origin, but bowling has held a close affinity with Thanksgiving Day for years on end.

In many of these years, before the advent of the automatic pinsetter, it was customary for the proprietor to award a turkey to the members of the high team on the week of Thanksgiving. To this they added another turkey to the high man on each squad. So the proprietors really went into the turkey business when the modern establishments bloomed to 80 and 90 lanes Another old custom is the calling of three strikes in a row a "turkey." That's the one tradition that has the historians fooled; they don't know when it started. JEANNETTE ROBINSON came down from Flint last Sunday to show the Detroit girls a thing or two about the topping of tenpins Bhwling in her first Mid-City Open, she paced the qualifying round with an 1,166 and then won the monthly championship by beating Jan Pavella 204 to 201 in as exciting a finish as the event ever has had.

Two others also shared the spotlight at Thunderbowl as Jan Pavella missed a perfect game in the qualifyin . round when a stubborn No. 10 pin stood on the final ball. And to share the honors for the day, Cheryl Mertz posted a 706

CHUCK SUNSERI wrote his name indelibly into the season's record last Thursday when he posted an 815 series in the all-star classic. It was the highest series bowled in the area this season and was gained on games of 278. 259 and 278.

In the wave of high scoring, Ken Charette posted a 299 and the Goebel team had a 1,207

The bitter end

The weary look on the face of linebacker Doug Agnew (11) tells the story of last Friday night's Plymouth Salem state quarterfinal setback to Portage Central, 21-3. It was this Rock defense which won many games during Salem's 9-0 regular season-only to see that string stopped on the snowy, muddy gridiron at Brighton. (Staff photo by Gary Caskey)

Cagers set for districts

With the regular season of girls basketball coming to an end next week, its that time of the season where post season state tournament action steals the spotlight

For the first time since girl's basketball began, teams from Plymouth Saless and Plymouth Canton will be placed in separate districts.

The Chiefs, undefeated this season, were chosen as one of two suburban teams to travel to the Deatroit Mumford district for its competition.

Canton, along with Dearborn Edsel

Ford from the Suburban Eight League, will battle for the distrcit crown against heavily-favored Mumford, one of the top teams in the Detroit Public School League.

Salem, currently holding on to third place in the Sub-8 standings, travels to Dearborn High School where it will battle the host Pioneers, Dearborn Fordson, Detroit Chadsey and Detroit Osborn for the title.

Last year, both teams were defeated by powerful Walled Lake Western, winners of its own district.

Free throw contest comes to Plymouth

The annual "Hoop Shoot" competition, sponsored annually by national Elks affiliates, comes to the Plymouth-Canton community for the first time next month.

Recently-appointed contest chairman Jim Sinclair uregs all boys and girls, 8-13, to start practicing their free throws for the competition to be held Saturday, Dec. 17 at the Plymouth Salem High School gym between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m.

Contestants are given 20 free-throw opportunities.

Winners from six age groups, 8-9, 10-11, and 12-13 boys and girls, will qualify for district competition which will take place at Ann Arbor Pioneer High School the following month.

Registration for this contest will be held at the door prior to the competition.

Swimmers ready for league meet

Both the Plymouth Salem and Plymout Canton girls swim teams were idle Tuesday night from dual meet action as both squads prepare for their respective league meets later this week

The Rocks will host the Suburban Eight League meet scheduled for today and tomorrow at the Salem

The Chiefs travel to Livonia Churchill today with hopes on improving their Western Six League standing.

Plymouth Salem will be one of the favorites to win the league meet for the second season in a row. The Rocks have lost only one dual meet all season and are undefeated in conference competition.

The swimming preliminaries start at 3 p.m., today (Thursday). with the diving competition to begin one hour after the swim events. The finals in all swimming and diving events will start at 7:30 p.m., Friday.

Admission for the preliminaries is 50 cents and $1.00 for the finals.

Schoolcraft spikers eye jr. college crown

For most people the Thanksgiving weekend means parades, football and lots of turkey. But for the members of the Schoolcraft College volleyball team it means a battle for the National Junior College Athletic Association (NJCAA) champmonship.

Coach Tom Teeters' team will be traveling to Cantonsville, Md., for the competition by virtue of a sparkling, 12-3 performance in the NJCAA regional tournament last week.

The Ocelots swept through the opening round undefeated, 8-0. Their opponents; Jackson Community College, Kalamazoo College, Lakeland (Ohio) Community College and Grand Rapids Community College were no match for the girls from Schoolcraft.

Jackson Community College was the only team to present a stiff challenge. Schoolcraft downed them 15-12 in the toughest game in the round. Through their eight games Schoolcraft outpointed their opponents 120-56. The Ocelots' opening round performance was good enough to seed them third in the elimination round behind second-seeded Lake Michigan Community College and Kellogg Community

In their first match in the elimination bracket, Schoolcraft met a fired-up St. Clair Community College team. The St. Clair squad surprised the Ocelots 12-15 in the first game, but SC came back to take the next two games, 15-7 and 15-8.

In the next match SC faced the favored Lake Michigan squad.

Lake Michigan jumped out to a quick 11-3 lead. But Schoolcraft held them to just one point thereafter and went on to a 15-12 victory.

"They were over-confident," said Teeters. "Our net and service play was just overpowering," he added.

The Ocelots went on to eliminate Lake Michigan with a 15-7 win in the second game.

In the battle for the regional championship SC met the first - seeded Kellogg team. Teeters, who said his team was tired, saw the Ocelots ripped 8-15 and 7-15.

The top two regional teams, however, advance to the national tourna-

Teeters said the play of co-captains Cathy Johnson and Ann Schwaller were instrumental in getting the team to Cantonsville for the championship tournament.

Schwaller, a graduate of Plymouth

Salem, had eight scoring hits in the scoring barrage which brought SC back from the 11-3 deficit against Lake Michigan. She was named to the alltournament team.

Also named to the all-tournamnet team was Johnson. "Our offense is designed around her. When she's in the front row we go to her as much as possible," Teeters said. Teeters said his team should fare well in Cantonsville. The Ocelots are no strangers to the NJCAA championship tournament-two years ago they placed third in the nation.

"How we do will depend on the luck of the draw and how well we play. But we should do well. We're probably in the strongest region in the entire county," he said.

New freeway delights DRC

The opening of the Jeffries Freeway (I-96) through Livonia and western Wayne county has made not only area legislators and commuters, but Detroit Race Course officials very happy.

The opening of the freeway, which runs directly north of the track, has been a key point for DRC officials for five years. During that time attendance and mutual handle have dropped consistently during thoroughbred meetings.

Meanwhile, at Hazel Park Race Course, an exact opposite trend has developed since the opening of I-75 which runs within one mile of the

"This will increase our access to patrons immensely," said DRC general manager Richard Wilson. "I don't expect things to pick up in the remaining two weeks of the season this 'vear," he said, "but next year."

The next year the DRC officials have anxiously awaited since 1973 will finally materialize next April.

Racetrack officials are counting on the freeway, which will cut travel time, eliminate much of the stop-andgo frustration related with making the trip to DRC down Schoolcraft Road or any of the major arteries nearby, to attract more fans to their turnstiles.

In a test run, a track official, traveling the 55 mph speed limit, made the delivery. Fee is $3, and registration is trip from Inkster Road to Cobo Hall in requested. Call the center at 459-2360 downtown Detorit in just under 17 minutes. He traveled more than 15 miles.

And to help celebrate, DRC's "Freeway Opening Parade," which was originally scheduled for spring, 1973, will take place in the vacant westbound lanes of the Jeffries at Inkster Road Nov. 21 at 9:30 a.m.

According to DRC officials, the parade "will not make anyone forget the Thanksgiving Day festivities that will welcome the jolly old gentleman with the long white beard but it will be a genuine event, nonetheless, replete with marching bands, unicyclists, and, of course, race horses.

Livonia Mayor Edward McNamara and Detroit Mayor Coleman Young are also expected to be on hand

Prices Are Going Up and Shares Are Paying Less!

Got your attention, haven't we! We're a restaurant who is bullish on our customers. We think they want to know what the price of coffee is doing. (It's coming down in New york, but you'd never know it.) You can find out that hams are going to be expensive over the holidays. Some of the blue chips aren't paying what they used to. Looking for information like this? We provide the Wall Street Journal for you to read while you're having breakfast, lunch or dinner. We also provide copies of local and both Detroit papers. Why? We just feel that it's one nice way many of you like to relax while eating.

"The citizens of Michigan are faced with a crisis that came to the forefront four years ago and has yet to be resolved. It is the energy crisis. The crisis has many facets it is a crisis of diminishing resources and increased dependence on foreign imports, it is a crisis of skyrocketing costs and of waste; and, unfortunately, it is a crisis of disbelief. Many citizens are not yet convinced that we are indeed confronted with an invisible enemy that touches all aspects of our lives. Michigan is particularly vulnerable since it must import close to 95 percent of its energy supplies. But the energy crisis is such that individual efforts can make a difference Therefore, I. William G. Milliken, Governor of the State of Michigan. do hereby declare November, 1977, as the second annual Energy Month in Michigan Turge every citizen in the state to focus in on the issues of energy and the importance energy plays in our lives. And I urge every citizen to seek new ways to conserve energy while at the same time developing a new energy ethic."

Nancy Dickerson, prominent national correspondent, reports for Detroit Edison:

It's Michigan Energy Month. Take another look at how you can use energy wisely.

Governor William Milliken has officially proclaimed November as Energy Month to promote discussion about energy conservation in Michigan.

It's a good time for all of us to find and share new ways to use energy wisely.

The theme for the month, "Energy - Handle with Care," tells the story. Many of the fuels we use to supply energy are becoming scarce and expensive. So energy conservation directly concerns us all. If you have questions on energy-saving techniques, call the Energy Hot Line in Lansing during November. The number is 1-800-292-4704 and it's toll-free Here are just a few of the things you can do to conserve energy at home. You'll be dollars ahead on energy costs, too. Have your home properly*

- insulated. If you own your home, Detroit Edison's Home Insulation Finance Plan may help you get the work done. Ask about it at any customer office
- Install storm windows and doors, and check weatherstripping and caulking. Close draperies and pull shades at night to cut down on heat loss through glass areas.

- Keep your furnace and air conditioner in good repair, and replace filters often. Faulty appliances waste energy and
- Consider installing a heat pump for energy-efficient heating and cooling. If you're planning on buying an air conditioner next summer, make sure it's the right size for the area you want to cool and has an Energy Efficiency Rating of 8 or more

As an energy supplier, Detroit Edison is an active and concerned participant in America's crusade for conservation.

So, even though the people at Detroit Edison cannot control the use of energy other than their own, they are continually working to produce and supply electricity as efficiently as possible; both to conserve our non-renewable natural resources and to give you the most for your energy dollar.

Here are some of the things Detroit Edison is doing:

• salvaging and recycling paper, wire, lines hardware, poles, street-lighting equipment, transformers, capacitors... even oil, again saving limited resources using compact service vehicles for more efficient and economical operation and gas mileage

ours: Daily 9-6 Fri. 9-8

 pioneering time-of-day rates and remote-controlled air conditioning and water heating to reduce energy consumption and waste as well as slowing the need to build costly new generating plants · continuing research into alternative energy sources such as solar, nuclear, wind and refuse in order to conserve scarce fossil fuels.

America's crusade for conservation requires a working relationship between those who supply energy and those who use it.

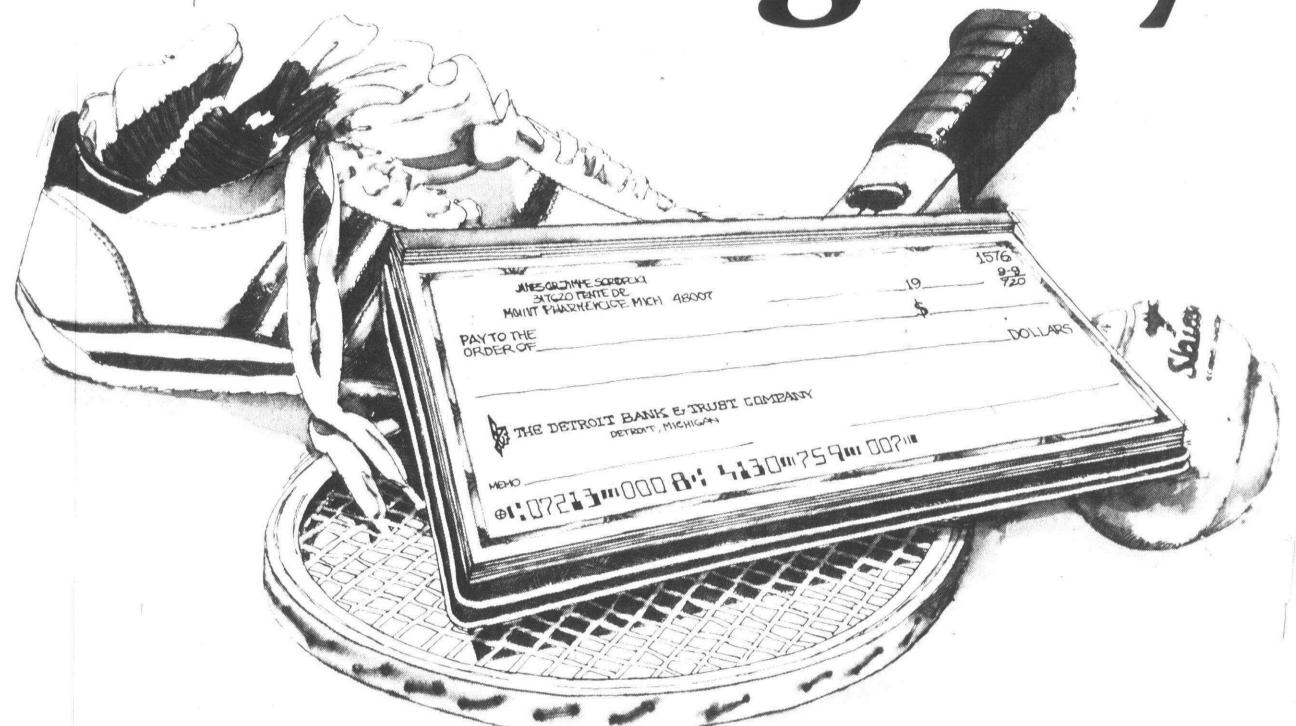

Detroit Edison is working hard to do its part. But the success of this crusade depends on all of us

... every day,

November is Energy Month. Conserve for all it's worth. The power is in your hands.
