Cops threaten lawsuit on jobs; delay of 24-hour force looms

A court fight over police hiring appears very likely in Canton Township and if that happens, it will be months before residents will have 24-hour police protection.

Tuesday night James Garber, attorney for the Canton Police Officers Association (CPOA), told the township board Canton already has a police department comprised of 14 people who hold state certification and if those people are told they are out of a job or must re-test for a full-time job, legal action will be taken.

"But we don't want a lawsuit," Garber said. "It would be a lawsuit that nobody wins."

The Canton Police Commission and Police Chief Walter MacGregor recommend that 14 full-time police positions be open to any qualified persons living in Canton at date of application. The reason behind this move, according to MacGregor is to find the "best possible police officers for the citizenry of Canton Township."

To find the "most qualified" people, Canton proposes to test job applicants through the Michigan Municipal League (MML), a service paid for by the township.

"Before you act quickly," Garber told the board, "you should take a long, hard look to see if you are accomplishing that aim of professionalism by requiring another test."

The police chief, with a flair for the dramatic, looked at a group of officers in the rear of the room and addressed them personally, saying, "If you're as qualified as you say you are, you should be able to beat the competition. If you're as dedicated to the community as you say you are, and I'm speaking to the reserves in the audience, take on the competition and beat 'em. The competition is from within Canton Township, it's not been thrown open to the United States."

Garber answered that no test can guarantee professionalism and he repeated the CPOA's stand that Canton would be deserting its 14 certified officers by telling them they had no automatic right to be appointed to a full-time job.

"And I have yet to hear anyone say the present officers are not doing a quality job," Garber said.

The attorney believes trustees are "playing games" with semantics when they apply terms such as "reserve" or "part-time" to "regularly-employed, certified police officers" presently employed by the township.

Township board members attempted to adopt a list of criteria for police officers at Tuesday night's meeting. But concerns about the legality of the qualifications and differences of opinion among trustees caused the board to table the motion.

Hiring recommendations proposed by the police commission would limit the age of new applicants to 21 to 32 years of age. Any officers already on the part-time police force who are over the age of 32 would be eligible to apply, however, the report states.

Because existing officers believe they should have first priority on the new jobs, only one has put in an application for a full-time job. The consensus in the ranks is that they already are Canton's police officers, so why should they reapply?

A majority on the township board spoke in favor of opening up the jobs to any qualified person in the community. But Trustee Robert Myers said the township has already appointed the present certified officers as regularly employed and to change that would be an example of bad faith. And, "in the interest of happiness," Trustee Lynne Goldsmith offered a compromise proposal.

She suggested that the present 14 part-time officers get first crack at the 14 new jobs. Some of the officers will not apply because they hold other jobs, she said, and others may be eliminated in the tests. So, any positions left unfilled would be open to people outside the department.

MacGregor didn't go for the idea. "You do not run a police department on happiness," he said.

2d fight for hospital, firefighters next in line

Hearings will be held this week on two suits requesting temporary injunctions preventing Wayne County from closing the Reuther Long Term Care and psychiatric facilities on the grounds of Wayne County General in Westland and from transferring patients elsewhere.

A hearing date on a third suit will be set when a judge can be found to hear the request for an injunction to restrain the county from laying off 14 firefighters at the hospital complex.

Wayne County attorney Al Suchy said he also expects to be served with a fourth suit regarding the "contracting out of laundry service" at the hospital.

Of the two suits on the hospital facilities, one has been filed in Wayne County Circuit Court by attorneys for the American Federal of State, County and Municipal Employees, which has some 1,500 workers at the complex.

That suit was reassigned to Saginaw Circuit Court Judge Fred Borshard after all 31 judges in Wayne County Circuit Court agreed that they couldn't hear the case because their budgets are funded by the county and because they are facing staff reductions due to the county's $13 million budget deficit.

A hearing on that suit has been set for 2:30 p.m. Monday. Filed on behalf of the patients in both the long term care and psychiatric hospitals as well as 480 union members who may be affected, the suit seeks to block the transfer of patients from the long term care facility, its sale to the state and to block closure of the old psychiatric hospital.

The second suit has been filed in federal district court on behalf of patients at the Reuther Long Term Care hospital by attorneys from Wayne County Neighborhood Legal Services, a federally funded agency for indigent persons.

While four long term care patients are named in the suit, attorney Jim Jackson said he plans to ask the court to consider the case as a class action suit on behalf of all the patients at the facility to prevent their transfer.

Jackson said that at a preliminary hearing Friday morning, both sides agreed that "no patients would be moved other than those who voluntarily requested to be transferred."

Suchy, however, said that the four patients named in that suit plus a fifth patient would be moved as scheduled before the next hearing date, set for Tuesday morning.

"We had no one other than those five scheduled to be transferred," said Suchy. "So I had no objection to holding off further transfers until Tuesday."

Suchy added that he objects to the court granting temporary injunctions against the transfers because he is "concerned that gives the patients and their families false hopes when they could be out this weekend looking for another place."

Last week chairman of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners told the Observer that patients would be transferred from the Reuther facility by the Michigan Department of Social Services by Thursday, the date that county funding for the facility ends.

"It's taken us two weeks to reduce our patient census from 237 to 204," said Suchy. "The court's not going to restrain us perpetually from transferring the patients. It will just concern itself with the orderly transfer consistent with the rights and welfare of the patients."

Both the circuit and district court lawsuits say closing the Reuther facility violates the Hill-Burton act under which it was constructed with $2 million in federal funds. The county also is charged with violating civil rights and social security acts.

Suchy hopes to have the two cases, which have overlapping jurisdictions, consolidated. If he fails in that quest, Suchy said he will then question "a host of other issues" such as whether the proper parties have been named in the suits.

The third suit filed by Local 741 of the Elmer Firefighters Association in Wayne County Circuit Court is seeking an injunction preventing the layoff of any firefighters, subcontracting work they perform and preventing the sale of any fire fighting equipment.

That suit said county plans to terminate the fire department violates the union contract.

County attorney Edward Douglas said, "Upon reflection, the board of commissioners might reconsider and might restore some positions for its statutory responsibility."

Westland Mayor Tom Taylor and city Fire Chief Ralph Savini have said a year of planning would be needed to provide an transition.

Straining for Santa

Eight-month-old Robbie Doelker saw Santa for the first time Friday at Canton's Griffin Park. His mother, Mary, pointed out the fact that it also is the first time he saw snow. Robbie's just learned to stand up and is already trying to bean somebody with his first snowball. See the story and pictures of Santa's arrival on Page 3A of today's Observer. Bread, circuses...

Fun slated for ESY pupils

Kids who attend class on the Extended School Year (ESY) schedule have a date with the circus, the Jiffy Mix factory and a ton of fun this winter.

Boredom has no place in the Canton Recreation Department's new "45-15 Fun Club," and the activities planned for the three-week break from school can prove it.

There's a Christmas tour of Greenfield Village planned for kids on Track A, and a tour of the Jiffy Mix factory for kids on Track B. Kids on Track C may try their hands at bowling, and Track D students can goggle at the lions and clowns in the Shrine Circus.

RECREATION DIRECTOR Brenda Pollack said "fun club" activities were added to the department's activity list because of the Plymouth-Canton School Board's decision to expand ESY into five elementary schools and one middle school this year.

Under ESY (45-15 as it was formerly known), four tracks of students attend school for nine weeks and receive three-week breaks throughout the entire calendar year.

Four elementary schools in the township—Erikson, Field, Gallimore and Miller—are now on ESY. The majority of students who attend Pioneer Middle School on the ESY schedule live in Canton Township.

Mrs. Pollack says recreational activities are needed to entertain ESY kids during breaks. Students who are on the ESY schedule cannot attend supervised programs conducted by the recreation department at subdivision parks during summer months.

"So many of our kids are in school during the supervised park program in the summers, so we decided we had to do something else," Mrs. Pollack said. "We've had some parents come in and say we needed to have something for their kids."

MRS. POLLACK has contacted the schools about the new program and said response from parents has been tremendous.

In general, the recreation department has planned an activity for ESY students for each week of their three-week break. A one-day trip to Chicago, in conjunction with the City of Plymouth's Parks and Recreation Department, is scheduled for students on tracks B, C and D.

Students on Track A may take a Christmas tour of Greenfield Village on Dec. 14 and attend a Christmas party on Dec. 20.

Track B students will ice skate at the Plymouth Cultural Center on Jan. 4 and tour the Jiffy Mix factory on Jan. 11. Track C students will try their skills at bowling and visit the Shrine Circus, while Track D students will visit the circus and go to the movies.

Parents may register their children for the activities at the recreation hall at Michigan and Sheldon, or by calling the center at 397-2777.

Video violence tops on toy list

By MIKE SCANLON

If you didn't know better, a tour through area toy shops this Christmas season might lead you to believe some of Santa's hard-working and industrious elves have been slipping a little something extra into their noon-time cocoa.

Would you call this stuff Christmas? Buckets of green, clammy slime, three-inch monsters that shoot rubber darts at you, dolls that talk on the phone when you punch their big toe, games that imitate the exciting world of junkyards—whether you like it or not, that's kid stuff this year.

Raggedy Ann, you asked? Toy trains, you wondered?

Sorry—there just don't seem to be many takers for that kind of stuff.

In the Kmart store on Ford Road, the big sellers include "The Junkyard Game," which is something like a pinball game, since it has flippers. But it's nothing like a pinball game—or even a toy—in that the whole point seems to be knocking down little tiles with junk painted on them.

Also high on the hit list this year is "Baby This 'n' That," a doll that does more things than anyone except a small child would care to hear about when you punch, pinch or prod certain portions of its anatomy.

Then there's the Tuneyville Choo-Choo, which is a little locomotive that has a face where the cow catcher should be. It plinks out something like music when its towed across the kitchen floor.

"Anything with Farrah Fawcett is a big seller," said salesperson Teresa Gagneur as she directed a customer to the paint-by-numbers sets.

"'Baby This 'n' That' . . . does more things than anyone except a small child would care to hear about when you punch, pinch or prod certain portions of its anatomy."

High on the Farrah Fawcett list are dolls, seemingly in numberless assortments and styles. Unlike the real thing, the dolls have bodies that look more like Mae West than anyone else.

The old standby, Barbie, is back again this year, and now she's got a hot little sports car besides. Besides what? Besides the legendary wardrobe that fills a closet the size of a matchbox at a cost of about $2,000. If the sports car follows the same trend, it'll spend most of the time in the shop.

But the dolls aren't limited to shop forms.

There's also a host of dolls apparently intended for boys. Most of them have physiques that would make Arnold Schwarzenegger blush with envy. One of them, something called Stretch Armstrong, is made of some kind of plastic with the consistency of bread dough. A sadists' delight, the doll can be contorted into virtually any fashion the user or abuser chooses.

Then there's a boy's doll with a clear plastic, see-through torso that exposes to view the various intestines and stuff that fill up your own torso. The doll has only one arm, but the sight is too grotesque to invite further investigation.

At Canton's Meijer Thrifty Acres store, store manager Brian Michmerhuizen said TV games are being sold as soon as they reach the shelves—with new features such as video violence.

"We're just blowing out on 'em," he said. "They're selling as fast as possible. These games are incredible this year. They've got auto racing, anti-aircraft games; you can have a gun duel with somebody and everything else imaginable."

The EDC is exempt from all taxation on its earnings or property and a business project may be mortgaged in favor of any lender to the EDC. But the business, not the municipality, is liable for any debts incurred.

Canton Supervisor Harold Stein nominated himself and running mate Eugene Daley to two of the EDC posts but fellow board members voted to substantially reduce the length of their terms on the EDC.

Stein first asked the board to approve appointments which would have given him and Daley, as well as two other persons, six-year terms on the EDC. Trustee Lynne Goldsmith objected to the length of Stein and Daley's terms. It was decided that Stein should be appointed to a two-year term and Daley a one-year term on the EDC.

Richard Wolfe, Andrew Smith, Robert Padgett and George Lawton received six-year appointments; Robert Schaezel was appointed to a five-year term; Michael Koon to a four-year term and Richard Palmer to a three-year term.

The EDC board of directors can review and ultimately approve applications from businesses requesting the tax break. No EDC applications are now on file.

Hospital to close

Employers have filed a lawsuit to block the proposed closing of the long-term extended care and psychiatric hospital facilities at Wayne County General. Wayne Circuit judges, however, have refused to hear the appeal and it will begin this week in Saginaw Circuit Court. The county is planning on closing the facilities, and laying off some 300 employees, in an attempt to reduce a large operating deficit. Page 4A.

Disruption a risk

Foster parents' experiences tale of joy and woe

By MICHAEL MATUSZEWSKI

The Webers, by all outward appearances, are the classic suburbanites of the '70's. George is a Detroit-based executive; Julie, a stylish, community-minded homemaker. They live in a relatively new Livonia subdivision and have three young children.

The Applegates, on the other hand, are of solid working-class stock. David works at Ford's Ypsilanti plant. Maggie also is community-minded and involved in church-related activities. She is mother to two teenage daughters and confidante to the neighborhood's children and teens. "I love children," she simply explained.

Despite social and economic differences, the two families have a common thread—both take temporary foster teenagers into their homes.

The Webers and Applegates take those teens, who, according to juvenile justice officials, are "problem children." They are the runaways and truants; they allegedly have no respect for authority. Some have had scrapes with the law.

"Most come from home situations that are in some way unhappy. They are situations in which people can't exist with one another. In a divorce court it might be labeled mental cruelty," said Poage Baxter, who helps train the foster parents for the

Out-Wayne County Youth Services Coalition.

In some cases, though, it is a mixture of "mental cruelty" and physical and sexual abuse which drives the teen to the homes of friends, relatives or to the streets.

"In many ways running away was a positive gesture," Ms. Baxter said. "He or she was saying, 'I'm not going to take it any more. I'm leaving.'"

While any number of reasons could cause a teen to leave and slam the door on the way out, why would a family open its doors to a perfect stranger?

Both families said they were drawn into it. Both talked of turning points and overcoming the fears and impulses to back out. Both said they knew troubled teens, either through their families or friends.

Mrs. Applegate said her "turning point" came after an incident involving one of her daughter's friends who was repeatedly beaten-up by her parents.

"One day," Mrs. Applegate said, "Sue came home and asked, 'Do you believe the bruises on Tracy?' and that was it."

Mrs. Weber, said her eight-year-old son pulled her into the living room to watch a TV commercial. "There are all these kids, mommy, with no place to go," he said.

That got her thinking about foster care, she said.

Taking in a temporary foster child means more than setting an extra spot for dinner. But both families said their experiences helped, rather than hurt their family lives.

"It's rewarding. It's an adjustment for the children. They have to share me more and now they've seen and lived with an older person," said Mrs. Weber, who recently took in a 16-year-old girl.

Mrs. Applegate said, "It didn't change our family life. It was an adjustment for me—I just had to turn up my 'hearing aid' a little to listen to what she had to say and to learn how she felt."

The term "runaway" usually leads to the assumption of "troublemaker." That "reputation," according to Ms. Baxter and Barbara Bergman, outreach coordinator for the Out-Wayne County Youth Services Coalition, does not help their efforts to recruit more temporary foster parents.

And it is a reputation runaway teens do not deserve, said youth coalition officials and parents.

Most families are afraid to take the risk of disrupting their lives, they said.

Mrs. Weber said, "Deciding you can do something is the first step. I guess somewhere along the line my conscience got pricked. It takes energy, patience, lots of common sense and, of course, an empty bed."

But the hardest adjustment to make is when the foster teen leaves, both families said. The foster "children" can only stay with a family for a maximum of 90 days before they either return to their family or are referred to other foster homes or an institution.

"When I began to feel too close," Mrs. Applegate said, "I call the people at the youth coalition and they reinforce what I already know deep down—that she's going to leave me after a while."

"When Cassie left," she continued, "everybody in the family cried. After she was with us 10 or 12 days, she let it slip out, she called me Mom. I could have melted on the floor." Mrs. Weber agreed, "It takes a lot of extra energy and a belief in kids. You can't take it personally, though. You can't take too much of the credit or the blame. You have to remember they've gone through a whole lot of growing that you've had nothing to do with."

She added, "You want to treat her as one of the family. We have neither the money nor the responsibility to do that. We're not here to give them all the material goods. We're here to provide them with an environment—a place to grow."

"We're here to really love them when they don't feel lovable," she said.

"I guess you have to realize that if you extend yourself in any direction you're taking a risk," she said.

But the youth coalition tries to minimize those risks. It maintains a special hotline and a special staff of counselors to deal especially with the foster parents.

Mrs. Weber concluded, "You just have to believe that youth wants to be better. You have to let them know they're pretty beautiful people."

Rudolph's resting, copter brings Santa

After a few dramatic swoops over the assembled crowd, Pilot Barney Stutesman touched the helicopter down on the ground and S. Claus hopped out to greet his Canton fans.

Santa Claus came to Canton Friday and a throng of about 300 people were waiting to greet him.

A giant red helicopter, flown by Barney Stutesman, circled above the crowd as Santa waved at the youngsters and increased their excitement.

Finally, the copter landed, the doors slid open and the jolly old gent from the North Pole jumped out. Well-wishers immediately surrounded him, and sang a welcome with "Santa Claus is Coming to Town."

Santa's helpers, Theresa Dingelday and Margaret Dobrick, ushered the man of the hour over to a bullhorn where Santa received the key to the hearts of the boys and girls of Canton. As Santa gripped the wooden key, which was presented by Harold Stein, township supervisor, children were hoisted onto their parents' shoulders to catch a glimpse of their favorite elf.

LODGED IN A mobile home, Santa held court for the children who were intent on placing their Christmas order early.

Mary Dingelday, secretary of the Canton Chamber, said Gene Reeves, who plays Santa "the best Santa in the land."

Reeves has been entralling youngsters as Santa for 42 of his 75 years.

The former Canton resident led the J.L. Hudson Thanksgiving Day Parade for 10 years during the '40's.

Continuing a local tradition, Reeves is organizing another Christmas visit to the Plymouth Center for Human Development on Dec. 12. Persons who wish to make a donation to the retarded, in the form of clothing or toys, should contact Reeves at 722-5967.

THIS YEAR marks the second annual "Santa Comes to Canton" promotion sponsored by the local chamber of commerce. Hi-Lift Helicopters of Canton donated the chopper, the mobile magic castle was provided by H & W Sales of Canton and the Donut Scene and Krogers donated doughnuts. Refreshments were served at Fire Hall No. 1 by the fire fighters ladies auxiliary and Boy Scout Pack 776 from Gallimore Elementary.

Santa's shopping center itinerary is: New Towne Plaza—Nov. 26, Dec. 3, 10, and 17 from noon to 6 p.m. and Dec. 24 from noon to 4 p.m. Harvard Square—Nov. 27, Dec. 4, 11, 18 from 1-5 p.m.

Meijer's Thrifty Acres—Dec. 2, 9, 16, 23 from 4-6 p.m.

Canton Plaza (Ford and Lilley) Dec. 14 from 4-6 p.m. Kings Row (Warren and Lilley) Dec. 8 from 4-6 p.m.

Cherry Hill Plaza (Haggerty at Cherry Hill) Dec. 15 from 4-6 p.m.

Kennedy Plaza (Ford west of Canton Center) Dec. 22 from 4-5 p.m.

Total Plaza (Ford north of Meijer's) Dec. 22 from 5-6 p.m.

Santa barks out a Christmas greeting through a bullhorn. Note the new red and white mittens that Mrs. Claus knitted the old gent this year to keep his hands warm while holding the reins to his sleigh.

Nearly 300 Cantonites came out on a snowy afternoon Friday to catch a glimpse of the Yule guru. Sponsored by the Canton Chamber of Commerce, the Santa program is in its second year.

What Santa debut would be complete without youngsters presenting St. Nick with the keys to the hearts of the boys and girls of the township. Chris Jefferson (left) and Candice Jefferson are bearers of the keys.

Off the walls

Special relationship exists between a man and his TV

By NANCY WALLS SMITH

I guess I'll never fully understand the special relationship between a man and his television set.

Oddly enough, I saw no signs of my husband's strange relationship before we were married. When I think back on those long hours spent in earnest discussion of our respective beliefs, values, dreams, ideals... why, not once during that time did he mention he'd seen every episode of "I Dream of Jeannie" at least 25 times. Nor did he let on that I would spend the rest of my life competing with Howard Cosell for his attention.

I knew that I was marrying a very intelligent man, one who had many things of interest to say. What I didn't know is that he only drops these pearls of wisdom on me during commercial breaks.

It's a common affliction, I've heard. I have a feeling I'm not the only married lady in Canton Township who spends her evenings spouting forth points of wit and wisdom that fall on seemingly deaf ears.

"Kathy and John are looking for a new house." (Silence.) "How do you think the Panama Canal treaty will affect us, personally?" (Silence.) "I've been thinking of taking a part-time job as a disco dancer. Would you mind?" "Hmmm." "I said, would you mind?" "Unh."

Frustrating, to say the least. If I have anything I really want him to hear, I've learned to wait until the next commercial. After years of practice, I find I can tell him how much I'll need for groceries, the latest atrocities the kids have committed, and all about this really great book I'm reading in 60 seconds flat. If I expect a reply, I must wait for the next commercial.

Sometimes I suspect that he uses television to avoid doing the more mundane chores around the house. This insight occurred to me the other day while I was putting the groceries away. He was sitting there totally engrossed in Fred Flintstone. Looked pretty fishy to me.

Now, I'm not knocking the tube. I have my share of favorites. How could I make it though the day without my morning fix of "Captain Kangaroo"? (I think I have a crush on Mr. Greenjeans.)

What I can't understand is how a man with so much youth and vitality can spend entire weekends rolled up in a blanket on the couch, watching a whole bunch of silly men throw a boring little ball around.

IF IT WEREN'T for an occasional "Kill the creeps!" cry coming from the family room, I'd worry that he had slipped into a coma.

And how, oh how, can he bear to watch these big, burly men on the screen hit each other in the face and make each other bruised and bloody? I think it's called boxing. I call it "Yuck."

Ah, well, I think I'll take up needlepoint to pass the idle hours and just accept the fact that I'm married to an inanimate object. Do you think if I wrote to the sponsors, they might make the commercials longer?

ZBA case back in court

The unresolved question of whether Robert Miller was illegally removed from Canton's Zoning Board of Appeals (ZBA) will be discussed at 2 p.m. Monday in circuit court.

Miller claims, through his attorney, that he was illegally removed from the zoning board when Supervisor Harold Stein replaced five members of the ZBA appointed by his predecessor.

Miller also is asking Canton Township to pay a whopping $3,425 legal fee charged by his attorney, Daniel Burgess, because Miller says he did not initiate the legal action and is in court because of his township appointment. Supervisor Stein started the lawsuit in April.

Wayne County Circuit Judge Neal Fitzgerald ruled last May that Miller was improperly removed from the ZBA because he was dropped from the board before his term expired without a hearing on cause. Miller sits on the ZBA as a representative of the planning commission. But his term expires on Dec. 31.

In May, Judge Fitzgerald ruled that neither board—the one appointed last year by Greenstein or the most recent one appointed by Stein—was legal because the local zoning ordinance was never properly amended to provide for a five-person ZBA instead of the previous three-person board.

The township's attorney, William Sempliner, has been advising the township on the ZBA matter and was rebuffed by Fitzgerald last May.

Senior discounts on everything from graves to glasses

Fifty-six local businesses are offering Canton seniors up to 25 per cent discounts on goods and services in a program jointly sponsored by the township's recreation department and the Canton Chamber of Commerce.

A discount guide has been published listing the businesses participating in the program and the special offers available at each. But in order to receive the goods or services, Canton seniors must show a valid senior citizen identification card which proves they are a resident of Canton Township and at least 55 years of age.

Cards may be obtained at the Canton Recreation Center, 44237 Michigan at Sheldon, or the Canton Chamber of Commerce, 5834 Sheldon Road, in the Harvard Square shopping center. Phone number at the chamber is 453-4040 and the telephone number at the recreation center is 397-2777.

A wide range of goods and services are available in the discount guide. Schoolcraft College offers seniors, who are no longer working full-time, a $50 semester tuition grant. Persons 60 and over are eligible.

Knollwood Memorial Park gives a 10 per cent discount on cemetery lots and the DeSwan Motel offers seniors a 50 cent discount on pool privileges.

Weird toys

When you come right down to it, all this information is really rather pointless. As any parent knows, it doesn't matter how many hours are spent agonizing over the choice of a toy for little Judy or Johnnie—come Christmas morning, you can find the little rascals playing under the tree. With the box the toy came in.

By the way, the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission has certain rules recommended for parents to follow when buying a toy, to insure a child doesn't injure himself or herself when playing with the toy.

For further information on toy safety, you can call the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission's toll free hotline at 1-800-638-2666.

'Super Cut' benefit

Hair stylists in the Detroit area are donating their time and skills in the third annual March of Dimes "Super Cut" Sunday, Dec. 4, and Monday, Dec. 5. Headline Salon owner Grace Scalia (right), chairs the benefit and is shown here cutting the tresses of 1978 March of Dimes poster child Debbie Ott of Canton. A CAREER IN SALES MAKING MONEY IN THE PRESTIGIOUS WORLD OF MONEY MAKING

Our business as one of the world's major brokerage and investment banking firms is, fundamentally, the business of money. It's only logical, then, that we offer our sales executives opportunities to prosper that are rivaled in few other careers. Many of our experienced Account Executives enjoy incomes well in excess of $40,000 and even $50,000. It's all a question of having sales ability and an acute facility for assisting our clients in meeting their financial objectives.

Though you may never before have pictured yourself selling stocks and bonds (only two of the sixty-five financial products and services offered to our clients), our intensive training program — small, select, and one of the finest in the field — is specially designed to fully introduce the financial industry to you. And you to it. And then, to make you a success — if you're willing to work hard.

As an experienced and well-educated sales or business executive, you have certain life-style standards to maintain, and we'll do our best to help you keep and improve those standards with a competitive salary plus the open-ended income potential that commission sales can bring.

Our experience as a Wall Street leader for almost one hundred years enables us to provide you with the support you need and expect from a major, publicly-owned company: modern office facilities; a sophisticated computer system; and expert research analysts, marketing strategists and advertising specialists — all working to help you make the most of your talents, abilities and opportunities.

What don't we offer? Income ceilings, product quotas, reduced territories, forced relocations and other impediments to the higher earnings top sales people demand & deserve.

There is a commitment at Bache Halsey Stuart Shields to the success of our Account Executives. Their success is, after all, our own.

By EMORY DANIELS

Imagine you are driving down I-275 at a 75 mph clip, a State Police car pulls up, and an officer yells through a bullhorn out the window: "You have five minutes to slow down to 55 or I'll issue a ticket!"

Or imagine making car payments for 36 months and not being able to possess the car until the last payment is made.

In real life, neither would occur. But they are examples of the philosophy behind the City of Plymouth's practice of issuing parking credits.

A PARKING CREDIT is something granted to a businessman in the downtown area who needs additional parking to locate a new business, expand an existing business, or change use in such a way as to require more parking spaces.

The problem is that downtown lacks sufficient spaces on streets or in municipal lots where more automobiles can be parked. If the codes were strictly enforced, there would be no new businesses or expansion of existing businesses in the downtown—never!

But the codes aren't strictly enforced. To avoid deterioration and other negative conditions which would arise from a no-growth stance, the city grants "credits" where a need for more parking exists but spaces don't physically exist.

Part of the thinking behind the credit policy is that the money paid for each credit will be "banked" in the parking fund to pay for physical spaces in the future once enough money is collected. Although the arrangement is advantageous to the merchant, the reality is that he is making monthly payments for parking spaces he can't use (because they don't exist) until after all the money is collected. In this case, it's not 36 months or any fixed term. The last payment is made when enough money is collected to actually build the needed parking spaces.

THE CREDIT POLICY also implies that it's all right to break the law provided the merchant and the city intend to comply at some unknown point in the future.

By agreement, city and merchant acknowledge a violation of the law exists and compliance will be in the future—once enough money is collected.

Actually, the process of granting a credit is similar to the city's granting code variances through the zoning board of appeals on fencing, garages, setbacks, etc. The ZBA doesn't grant parking variances before credits are granted, although the city attorney last week advised this should be done and so that step may now be required.

What has happened, though, is that the parking credit policy was developed by the city to rationalize continued growth without coughing up the bucks needed for expanded parking.

And that is the root of the entire parking credit program. The policy can be explained and explained, but the fact remains more real spaces are needed. The policy can be revised and revised, but the real need still will be more parking spaces. The city and merchants can rationalize and rationalize, but still more space is the real problem.

Until the city comes up with a way of financing construction of the parking spaces it really needs, the parking credit policy will only be a crutch upon which the city will limp along on for an indefinite journey.

News staffers vote for Guild

Editorial staff members of the 12 Observer & Eccentric newspapers voted 38-21 last week to authorize Detroit Local 22 of The Newspaper Guild, AFL-CIO, to represent them for collective bargaining.

Next step will be negotiation of a contract to cover the reporters, photographers, receptionists and copy editors in the bargaining unit.

The new Guild unit will meet Dec. 7 to elect officers and review contract proposals.

The newspapers, a division of Suburban Communications Corp., recently signed a three-year contract with Local 13 of the Detroit Newspaper Printing and Graphic Communications Union, AFL-CIO.

The contract is retroactive to July 1 and expires June 30, 1980. It covers 83 employees in the composing room, press room, platemaking, mailers, maintenance and transportation.

Chamber plans winter dance

The same folks who bring you the annual chicken flying contest each fall have it in mind to start a brand new annual event for the winter months.

The Plymouth Chamber of Commerce plans to hold a "benefit ball" for the city on New Year's Eve. However, the Chamber's planning committee hasn't decided just yet who or what the proceeds will benefit.

"We want to do something for the city," said Ron Griffith, project director. "But we haven't definitely made up our minds."

The dance will be held at the Mayflower Meeting House, and the cost is $50 per couple. The ticket price includes food, entertainment, and a cash bar.

Griffith said that the number of tickets which will be sold for the ball are limited. "We are going to be limited by the amount of space available, so we are planning to keep the number of people manageable."

ACCORDING TO Griffith, the idea for the annual dance came up at one of the Chamber's board meetings and everyone felt positive about it.

"With Plymouth being the kind of place it is—a city with an identity and sense of community—we thought it would be just the thing to offer to people who wanted to stay close to home on New Year."

"We'd like to see the dance become a yearly event and build a bit of tradition around it. I think the people will find it a nice idea."

Those who are interested in attending can make ticket reservations by calling the Chamber office at 453-1540.

The Stroller

On leftovers

By W. W. EDGAR

We were in the midst of our Thanksgiving Day dinner at the old inn, where we have gone for the years for a touch of colonial days and the first day of thanks, when a lady at the next table broke the silence with a loud "The only thing wrong with this is that there'll be no leftovers."

When she saw that she gained the attention of many around her she continued, "There is nothing I like better than to pay a visit to the refrigerator before retiring and take a snack or two off the scary looking carcass."

THE STROLLER TURNED to her and grinned. He could have said, "Me, too—" from childhood he had been acquainted with "leftovers."

When we went to our grandmother's house for dinner, we kids never ate at the first setting. We had to wait until the old folks had finished. Sure, we were allowed to watch grandpa carve the turkey—and he did it with enthusiasm and a touch of artistry. When he finished and grace was said, the children were sent to a side room to await their turn.

We used to watch eagerly, hoping the older folks didn't eat all the turkey.

At the close of the day, when we started for home, mother always was given a bag of leftovers and we dined on them the next day.

It wasn't always at holiday time that our family got its sustenance from leftovers. We had them most of the year. As a matter of fact our family name became a bit famous because of leftovers.

Due to ill health The Stroller's father could not work in the factories. So, with the knowledge that mother was a good cook, he opened a small lunch-room in our hometown. It was a six-stool affair and most of the cooking was done on a three-burner gas stove. Mother started to bake pies at home for the restaurant and we kids carried them down at meal time.

For a while they were the conventional pies that one would find most anywhere. Then one day mother tried what she called a "trick."

She had one pie shell left over. She also had a bit of corn starch pudding and a banana. On a gamble, she filled the pie shell with the pudding, sliced the banana over the top, added another layer of pudding, and covered it all with the last bit of coconut.

When The Stroller's father came home for lunch he tasted this new concoction, licked his lips, and asked mother what she had done.

She told him that she had taken the leftovers and put them together for what she called a "slop" pie. "Fine," he said, "bake one or two of them for the shop." She did. They were an immediate hit, and the old-fashioned berry pies were pushed back into the limbo of forgotten things.

INASMUCH AS OUR little town was a station break on the railroad for travelling salesmen, word soon spread that the Edgar Lunch Room had something new in the way of pies. They came, day after day, from miles around to try the new concoction.

And mother, now realizing that she had something good, started to vary the contents. That's how chocolate custard came into being, along with berries and fruit as they came in season.

The travelling salesmen were not the only ones who enjoyed the "new" pies. The townspeople heard of them too, and mother soon built up a clientele within a half-mile of her kitchen. The demand became so great that we had special baskets made that would hold six pies.

Every Sunday mother would arise at dawn and start to bake. Then, after attending morning Sunday School class, we would hurry home and start delivering the pies. We had no vehicle to carry us. We walked with the heavy-laden baskets and hurried to deliver them by dinner time.

The Stroller smiles now as he recalls that mother sold these pies for five cents a slice and each slice was a quarter of the pie.

Even at home today we look forward to leftovers. The Stroller's lady loved to make beef roasts, so that she had some left for stew the next night. It is the same with her favorite meat loaf and the English dinner of ham and cabbage.

But there is nothing as appetizing as the leftovers of a holiday dinner. That's why the Stroller looked toward the woman at the Inn on Thanksgiving Day and nodded agreement when she said, "It was fine, but I'll miss the left overs."

County says no bucks for roads

A tight Wayne County Road Commission budget may keep Plymouth Township drivers slippin' and a slidin' this winter.

In a letter to Supervisor Thomas Notebaert, Walter Meyers, county highway engineer, said that because of reduced money and staff, the county would "no longer...continue to program local roads for priority attention during the 1977-78 winter season."

In past years, the county gave "first priority" treatment to Riverside Drive from Ann Arbor Trail to Hines Park.

But now it will give the same ploughing and salting as the "remainder of the county local road system."

First priority roads are salted and ploughed first during a snow storm. And they are gone over until a "bare pavement" condition is achieved, according to Meyers.

Once these major access roads are completely clear then, and only then, are the other more heavily traveled roads cleaned and salted.

Although Meyers said he regretted the reduction in essential services, "the diminished effectiveness of an operating budget which, over the past several years, has not increased to compensate for inflation, forces this action."

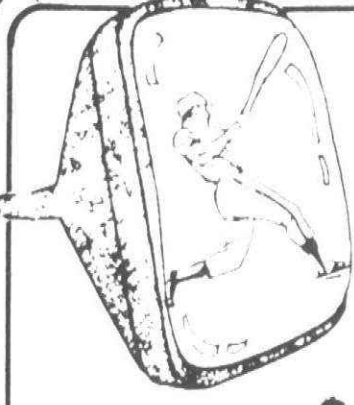

How best to pay for education

"Everything You Want to Know About Financing Education, But Are Afraid to Ask" will be the topic for the Christmas Holiday Tea of the League of Women Voters of Northville, Plymouth, Canton, Novi.

The tea will begin at 12:30 p.m. Dec. 7 in the Northville City Hall Council Chambers, 215 W. Main.

Speaker will be Liz Krummer, State of Michigan LWV legislative and education vice-president. Ms. Krummer also will give an update on bills pending before the state legislature which are of interest to the league.

The public is invited. Child care is available by contacting Liz Morelli at 455-4992.

Gunman robs 2nd station

For the second time in a week, a gun-wielding masked man robbed a Plymouth gas station.

The Total station on N. Mill was the latest to be hit by a man wearing a ski mask over his face and carrying a blue steel revolver.

Mark Johnson, the attendant on duty Wednesday evening, told Plymouth police that a man came into the station at about 8 p.m. put a paper bag on the desk, and told him (Johnson) "Put all your money in the bag. This is a hold-up." Johnson said he then asked, "Do you have a gun?"

The man pulled back his coat to show a pistol in the waistband of his trousers, Johnson told police. He said he put about $89 in bills in the bag. The masked bandit then took off towards Wilcox Road, Johnson said.

Johnson said the man was "very polite considering the circumstances. He apologized for having to rob the station but said he needed the money."

In addition to the ski mask, the robber wore faded Levis and a blue "police-type jacket." Johnson described him as slim in build and between 18 and 19 years of age.

The description matched one given by an attendant at the Gulf station on Ann Arbor Trail and Mill when it was robbed last week.

Same ol' story! Rocks win opener, 89-66

By DENNIS O'CONNOR

Walled Lake Central's boys basketball team sported new uniforms last Tuesday night, but that's the only change the Vikings offered to Plymouth Salem.

The Rocks opened the cage season with yet another victory over Walled Lake Central, waltzing to an easy 89-66 triumph at the Vikings' gym.

Plymouth has never lost this non-league opener to the Inter Lakes conference representatives since the game was scheduled in 1970.

The up-and-down, race-horse style of play resulted in an offensive show, although Salem had things under control from the start.

"It was nice to get into a game situation," said Salem coach Fred Thomann. "You can practice all you want but it's not the same as game conditions."

After the Rocks jumped into a commanding 14-0 lead four minutes into the game, Thomann was able to shuffle his line-up at will, playing different combinations of the 13-member squad.

"I was just watching kids tonight," the Salem coach said. "Now I will get the film, sit down, and get a chance to look at it.

"I was fairly satisfied with the way we played. We had a little trouble handling the full-court pressure because we didn't concentrate."

Aside from a brief Viking spurt late in the third quarter because of the pressure, the Rocks totally dominated play.

The Vikings finally got their first two points of the game at the 3:58 mark of the initial period to make it 14-2. The Rocks finished the quarter with a 19-7 edge.

The Rocks extended the advantage to 41-25 at halftime despite playing most of the second quarter with reserves.

Salem co-captain Mike Christie came out shooting in the third period, leading a scoring barrage which saw both teams score a combined total of 51 points. Christie sunk 10 of those points in the quarter as Salem gained a 27-24 margin during the eight-minute span.

The Rocks were ahead by as much as 25 points late in the third quarter before Central reeled off 10 straight points to cut the margin.

Two free throws by junior Paul Dillon with 1:03 left in the period ended the Central threat and Salem was never bothered after that.

Christie and Tom Ellinghausen led the Rocks balanced scoring attack with 16 points each. All but three Salem players reached the scoring column.

Reserve Dave Monk played an excellent game off the bench netting 12 points. John Broderick added nine, Matt Etienne and Kevin Kelliher scored eight each, and Steve Horton scored seven.

The Rocks open their home season tomorrow (Tuesday) against Livonia

Franklin starting at 8:15 p.m.

Salem's junior varsity also opened with victory when it defeated Central 49-38. Rob Neu led the Rocks with 18 points.

Plymouth Salem (89): Matt Etienne 4, 0-0, 8; Mike Christie 8, 0-1, 16; Steve Horton 2, 3-9, 7; Doug Agnew 0, 0-0, 0; Tom Ellinghausen 6, 4-4, 16; John Broderick 3, 3-5, 9; Dave Monk 4, 4-4, 12; Bob Hissom 1, 1-3, 3; Kevin Kelliher 4, 0-1, 8; Paul Dillon 1, 2-3, 4; Barry Owens 0, 0-0, 0; Bill Thumm 3, 0-1, 6; John Van Wagoner 0, 0-2, 0. Chiefs eye Western-6 with good shooters, experience

By DENNIS O'CONNOR

"The attitude is tremendous. We're working like crazy. We are confident about winning—not cocky."

That's the way Plymouth Canton basketball coach Casey Cavell talks about his team this year.

And when he talks, one can see a gleam of happiness in his eye.

The Chief cagers enter the 1977-78 season with five returning lettermen on the 14-member squad. Four of the returners were starters on last year's 10-11 team.

The Chiefs, if you remember, got off to a horrible start last year, losing game after game by less than three-point margins.

After the Christmas break, however, the Chiefs began to put things together—winning their last seven of 10 games.

And the main reason behind this surge was due to players like Randy Rienas, Butch King, Rusty Mandle and Keith Fuelling. All four players return to the line up this winter.

Add the senior leadership of guard Doug Smith who came off the bench on occasion last year, and you can see why Canton talks about the possibility of its first-ever Western Six League basketball crown.

MAJOR GRADUATION losses from last year's squad are Rob Mandle, Mike Albright and Kevin Randazzo.

But the addition of seven juniors from the junior varsity squad and the return of a long-time senior friend, aids Canton in all aspects of the game.

The Chiefs have the same type of team as in past years—small but quick and very good shooters.

Junior Butch King led the list of eagle eyes. Last year, as a sophomore on varsity, King led the Chiefs in scoring with strong outside shooting performances.

Senior captain Randy Rienas, a second-team Western-6 selection last year, combines strength on the boards and outside scoring ability to the Chiefs' attack.

Senior Keith Fuelling has good moves both defensively and offensively, but he may have to wait before using those skills after suffering torn ligaments in his ankle during practice last week.

Junior Rusty Mandle returns with a year of varsity experience, rebounding strength and defensive play.

The old friend returning to the line up is senior Brent Eckles. Eckles moved away from Plymouth last year and played guard on the varsity level for a California prep school.

His return delights Cavell since he was part of the program in his freshman and sophomore years.

The three top juniors from the junior varsity which Cavell counts on for depth are Kurt Hebert, Mike Leary and Jay McKinley. The three were the heart of a respectable junior varsity last season.

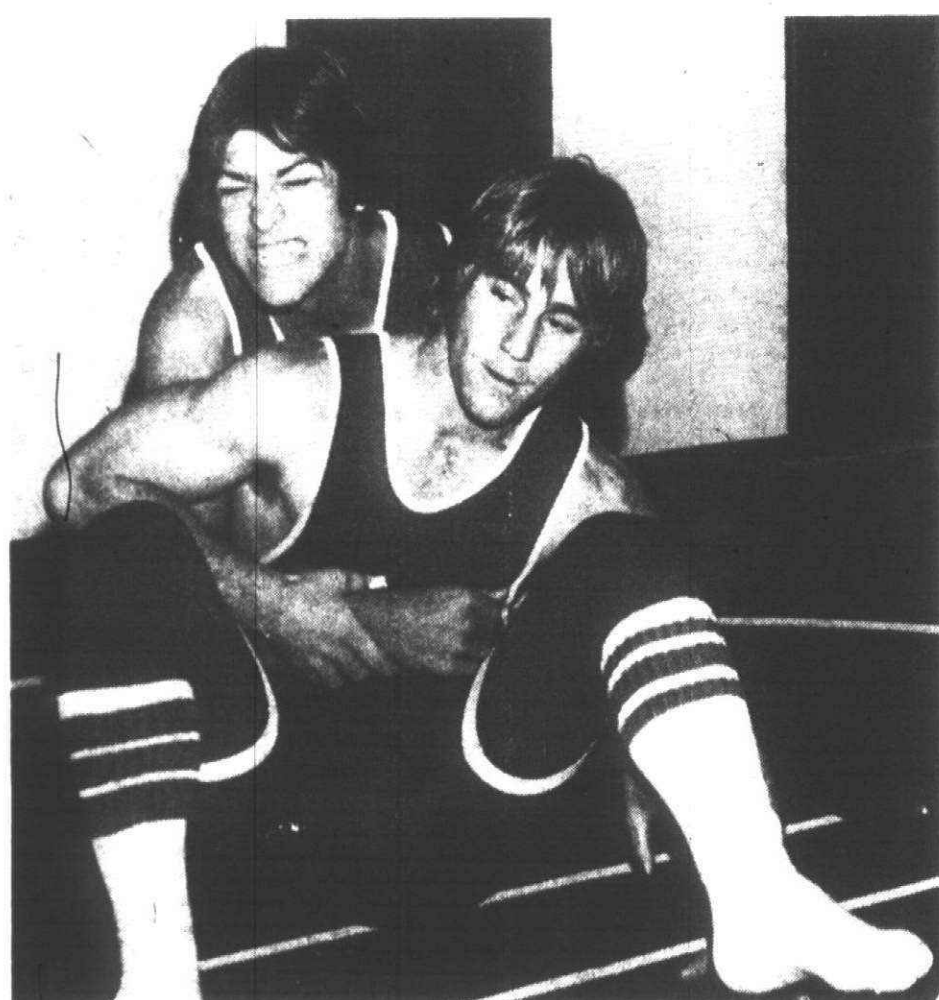

Other former junior varsity members who have moved into a varsity position are Dale Albright, Mike Morin and Frank LaSota.

Two new juniors who recently moved into the district are Dale Talaga and Mike Pathe who both made the varsity grade.

CAVELL SAID the key to his season will be getting off to a quick start and having more control at the end of games.

Canton faces pivotal season

It will be a pivotal year for the Plymouth Canton wrestling team and the Chiefs' program as a group of four-year varsity performers take the mat with hopes of a Western Six League title.

Canton's coach Dan Chrenko took the Chief wrestling program from scratch four years ago and is finally completing a cycle of grapplers who have performed all these seasons at the varsity level.

After two years of embarrassment, the Chiefs finally gained some respect for themselves last season with a 7-7 record, the best dual meet mark in the school's short history.

Along with this record, Canton went to the state meet last year for the first time, represented by Scott Collins at the 145-pound class.

Collins enters his senior season this year at the 155-pound class and is expected to extend on the school records he now owns. Collins rewrote almost every season and career mark last year.

Despite last year's accomplishments, the Chiefs still had problems in the Western Six, finishing last in the loop meet for the fourth straight time.

This year, the conference meet will be hosted by Canton at the new athletic facility on Jan. 28. Canton coach Chrenko feels it will be up to his senior leadership to carry the Chiefs to a successful loop finish.

"THE SENIORS are all coming to a peak this season," the Canton coach said. "We will be dependent on senior leadership. The season will go how the seniors want it to go."

Chrenko sees this season as an important one, not only because his team should be successful, but also to develop the younger kids and continue what the seniors have accomplished.

Chrenko is realistic, however, regarding his teams' chance in the league race. He knows his teams haven't been out of the cellar yet.

"It's still out of the blue to think we can win the league title," Chrenko admits. "Even though we were respectable last year our kids should be eager. We've got potential and need the leaders."

Along with Collins, the middle of the Chief line-up should be strong with 145-pound senior Kyle Heaton. Heaton wrestled at a heavy 155 last season and has worked all year on improving.

Sophomore Tommy Herald will wrestle at 98 pounds but there remains a question at 105 where Bill Heedum graduated last year. Ron Richards currently has the inside track.

Durkin will battle at 119 after missing last year.

Senior Craig Lee, who compiled a 26-14 record last year, is at 126 but should cut to 119 as the season progresses.

Senior Mark Bartlett follows but won't wrestle until Christmas because of a bad back. Mike Kitt, an improving sophomore, will take Bartlett's place.

Jeff Rey, Terry Clifton and Jay Lee will battle for two positions at 132 and 138.

Dennis Howell returns at 165, following Heaton and Collins. George Hamblin hopes to come off an injury to compete at 178.

At 191 there is a big question mark, but heavyweight Chuck Walker should balance things out.

Walker is 50 pounds lighter this season and shows much more quickness on the mat.

Salem suffers Monday blues

Plymouth Salem wrestling coach Ron Krueger and his squad were on cloud nine just a week ago anticipating a Suburban Eight League championship and a strong performance in state tournament action.

Then the roof fell in last Monday at practice.

Five, count them, five of the 14 starters were lost to the Rocks—most of the power at the lightweights.

First, 105-pound Terry Ward comes to school on crutches because of a sudden knee injury. Big Bob Doherty, who has been toting a cane on his arm, learned he would have to wear it two weeks longer than expected.

Then two predominant lightweights quit the team before the Monday practice.

And to top things off, Mark Ross, a starter last year, broke his wrist during Monday's practice.

So what might have been a very rewarding season for the Rocks turns into a season of question marks.

"I'm afraid to be optimistic anymore," said coach Krueger. "Once upon a time I thought we could beat Belleville and Edsel Ford (the top two teams in the Sub-8) but I just don't know anymore."

"It was a black Monday—the worst coaching experience of my life. I just couldn't believe it."

"I don't think I could handle another day like that."

If there is a bright side, it's the assurance that Salem's four senior captains, Bob Dasher, Steve Ernst, Renee Leist and Jim Ross, are healthy and ready to go—giving Salem needed strength in tournament action.

Just watching the four grapplers perform gives Krueger something to smile about.

"We won't give up," Krueger said. "We'll be scratching and digging all the time."

"I really think we have some outstanding people returning and we'll have to bring some young kids along—and we will."

"You never know what kinds of things can happen in this sport."

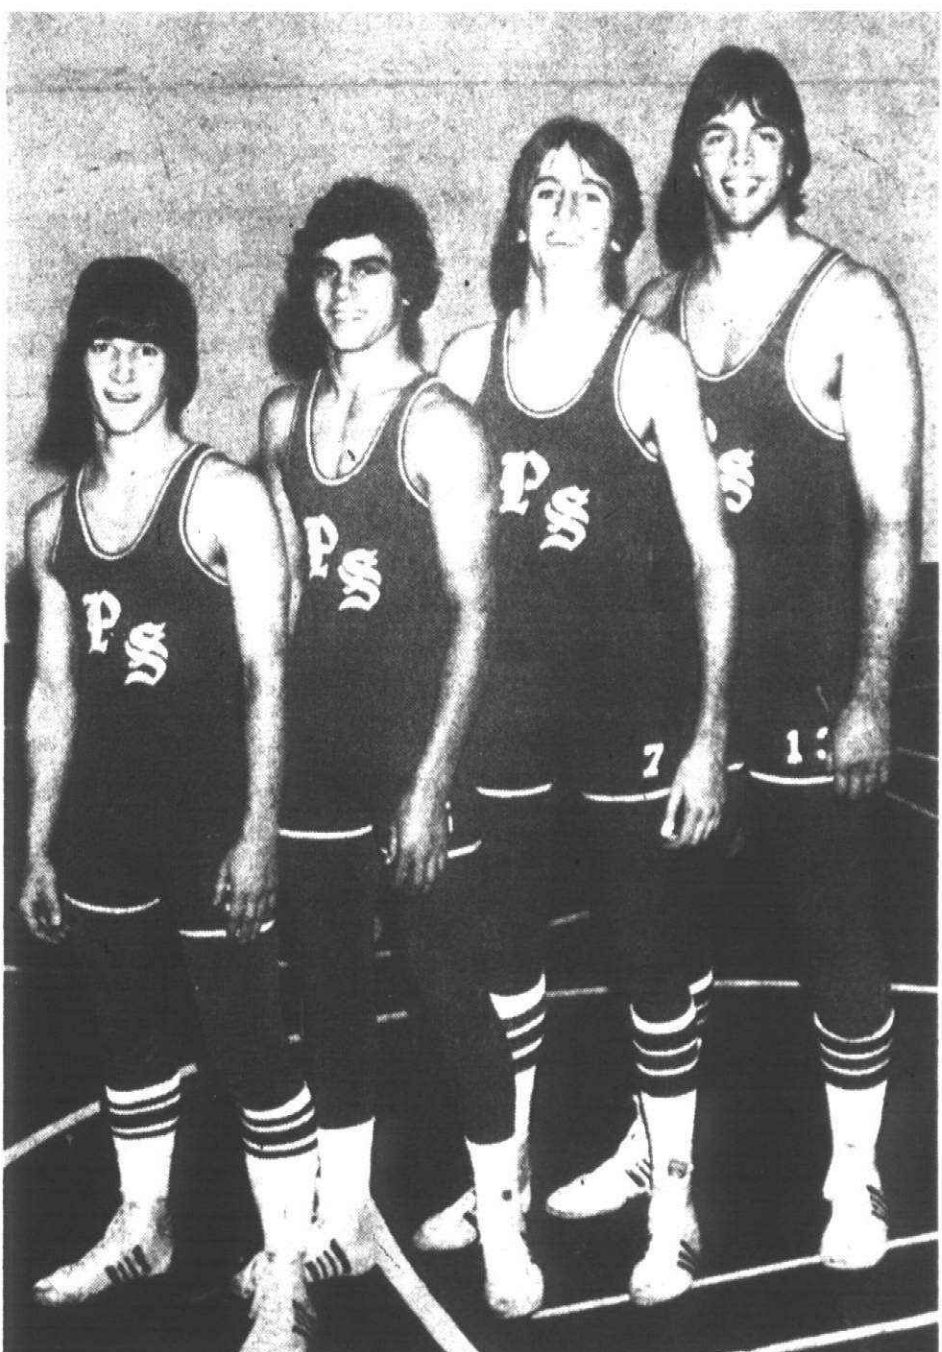

JIM SCHULTZ and Jeff Brown, two sophomores, will battle for the 98-pound and 105-pound slots.

They will be followed in the line up by Ernst, Randy Viperman—last year's top sophomore, and Leist.

Jim Ross heads a list of middle weights. Ross was a Sub-8 winner last year at 132-pounds. The other middle weights, however, are young and inexperienced.

Bob Barachman, Scott Piper, Joe Piccola and Jeff Powers are the four grapplers who will be the question marks in the middle.

Romulus transfer Wally Brown should be solid at 165-pounds but Steve Snider and Scott Miller are inexperienced at 178—the position Doherty will fill later in the year.

Canton heads to Mumford; Salem is Dearborn-bound

It's district time for girls basketball and both the Plymouth Salem and Plymouth Canton cagers have their hopes set on doing great things in the state tournament action.

The Chiefs, undefeated in the regular season with a spotless 19-0 record, will travel to Detroit Mumford this week to battle four other schools for the district title.

The Rocks, sporting a respectable 12-6 mark during the regular year, go to Dearborn High School with four other schools.

This marks the first time in girls basketball history at the Centennial Park that the schools travel to different sites for post-season action.

"It'll be nice for Plymouth to have a chance to win two districts instead of knocking each other out," said Plymouth Athletic Director John Sandmann.

At last week's drawing it was learned that both Salem and Canton drew opening round byes and will begin action tomorrow night (Tuesday). Both Plymouth squads have to win only two games to be crowned district champions.

At Mumford, the host team, champions of the Detroit Public School League, will face Detroit Redford on Monday. The winner of that game will face Detroit Chadsey in the semifinals on Wednesday.

The Chiefs face Dearborn Edsel Ford on Tuesday and the winner will advance to the championship against Wednesday's winner in a Friday finale.

Game time for all the district games is 4 p.m.

At Dearborn, the host Pioneers battle Detroit Denby Monday night at 7:30 p.m.

Dearborn Fordson squares off against Detroit Osborn in the first of a Tuesday night doubleheader in a semifinal game beginning at 6 p.m.

The Rocks will play in the nightcap of the twinbill against the Dearborn-Osborn winner starting at 8 p.m.

The winners of both semifinal games on Tuesday will advance to the championship game the following night (Wednesday) starting at 7:30 p.m.

The winners of the districts advance to regional action.

Doc's Corner

By DENNIS O'CONNOR
Sports Editor

Doc predicts cage tourney results

The football season may have ended just three weeks ago but that does not mean the good doctor has put away his predicting skills until next September.

No, the good doctor is all set to stick out his neck again—this time predicting the outcome of this week's girls basketball district action.

For the first time ever, Plymouth Salem and Plymouth Canton cagers are attending two separate districts. The Chiefs travel to Detroit Mumford while the Rocks move to Dearborn High School.

AT MUMFORD, there isn't too much doubt about what two teams will battle for the district crown Friday afternoon.

In one bracket Mumford, the Detroit Public School League champions who have lost only twice this season, should breeze to easy victories over Detroit Redford and Detroit Chadsey enroute to the finale.

The Chiefs, Western Six League champions and undefeated in 19 games this season drew a first round bye and should get past an up-and-coming Dearborn Edsel Ford squad to reach the finale.

Last chance for citrus

This is the final week that Plymouth Salem and Plymouth Canton wrestling teams will take orders for cases of grapefruit and oranges.

The grapplers have been selling the citrus fruit for the past month to help

After a slow start, the Thunderbirds have played strong ball in the past few weeks but Canton's overall quickness should be the deciding factor—sending the Chiefs against Mumford in the championship.

Canton coach Mike McCauley has been anticipating this Canton—Mumford match up ever since the districts were announced a month ago.

He has scouted the Public School League champs four different times and is very impressed.

Mumford played a quick up-and-down, gun-and-gun type game which should be a test for Canton's aggressive man-to-man full court pressure.

McCauley said Mumford's leading player is Debbie Walker, a 5-9 leaper who not only touches the rim when she jumps but scores 25 points and hauls down 20 rebounds per game.

The Chiefs have had a great season no matter how the post-season tourney finishes.

But I don't think Canton has anyone who came stop Mumford's Walker. The Chiefs would have to play their best disciplined game of the year to stop Mumford from running—I just don't think it will happen.

McCauley predicts his team will beat Mumford 51-50 and he has every right to claim ESP powers after correctly predicting his wife was going to give birth to twin babies.

I have to challenge McCauley's power, however, and pick Mumford as a 12-point victor over Canton.

AT DEARBORN, it's likely the host Pioneers will defeat lowly Detroit Tenby in an opening round contest and face Plymouth Salem on Tuesday in semifinal action. The Rocks drew a bye in that first round.

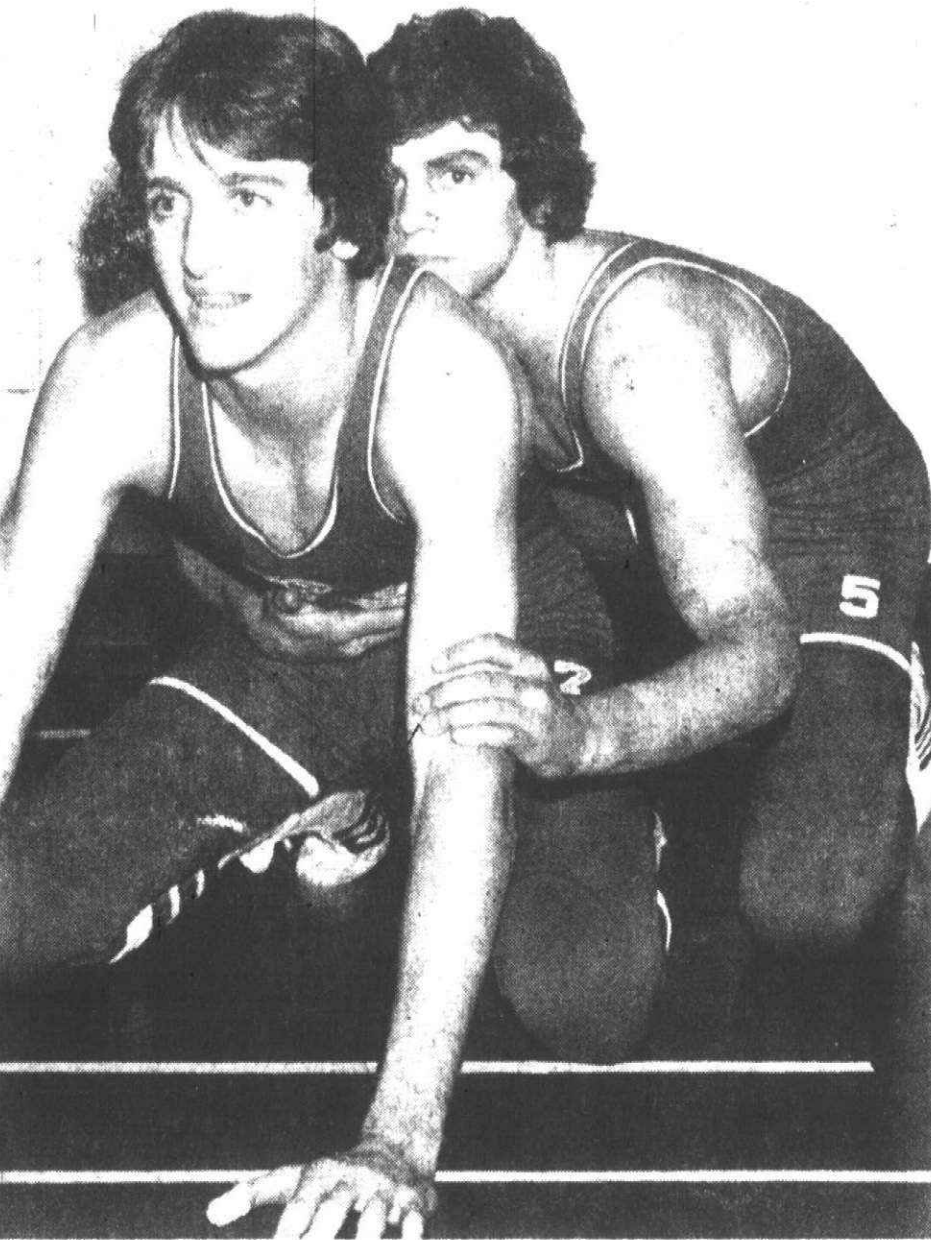

Salem, 12-6 on the year, has beaten Dearborn twice during the season in Suburban Eight League play and it's likely the Rocks can turn the trick for a third time. The Salem—Dearborn game will be close, however, since the Pioneers own the home court advantage.

In the other semifinal bracket, expect Detroit Osborn to breeze past Dearborn in the other Tuesday game and advance to the championship game on Wednesday night against the Rocks.

Osborne is a decent Public School team, but I think the Rocks are ready to put things together after some rough times at mid-season.

The game will be close, but Salem should prevail if it plays tough defense. I give the Rocks a four-point advantage and the district crown.

Hopeful grapplers

Chiefs finish perfect season

By ANDY MELIN

Finishing its season unbeaten at 19-0, the Plymouth Canton girls' varsity basketball team walked over Farmington 72-23 last Tuesday night at Farmington.

It was the first time in Chief girls' basketball history that a squad has gone through a season undefeated and has claimed the Western Six League championship.

Co-captain Kathy Sochacki led the Canton onslaught with 14 points. She shot 86 per cent from the floor, hitting on six of seven tries. "Sochacki has played well the last few games," stated a joyous Chief coach Mike McCauley.

Junior Kathy Peck followed Sochacki with 12 points, 10 of which came in the second half. "She sparked us in that half," said McCauley.

Co-captain Sue Reuk added eight points to Canton's winning effort.

Every Chief played and scored in the contest, showing the depth of the Canton bench.

The Chiefs accumulated 26 steals and 32 rebounds in the game.

Dawn Malek grabbed six rebounds to lead Canton in that category.

The Chiefs dominated the game from the start taking a 22-4 first quarter advantage. Canton stretched its lead to 37-9 at halftime, before tallying 28 points in the third period to make the score 65-13.

The Chief junior varsity squad ended its best ever season at 17-2 with a 36-24 downing of its Farmington counterpart.

Canton will begin state tournament district action tomorrow (Tuesday) afternoon at Detroit Mumford. The Chiefs will take on Dearborn Edsel Ford (12-6) at 4 p.m.

Favored flubs distance race

If there are horses for courses, then there are certainly races for races, as more than 5,900 surprised fans found out recently at the Detroit Race Course in Livonia when DRC presented Michigan's longest horse race, the three-mile leg of the Detroit Distance Series.

Coming off an impressive 7½-length win in the previous leg of the series over 2½ miles, the Chicago distance runner Middle Red, with top local jockey Mike Morgan in the saddle, again was made the prohibitive favorite at 4-to-5.

However, Morgan and Middle Red misjudged the distance and the result was a stunning upset.

"It's awful hard to plan any strategy or tactics with the jockey on a race this long," said one trainer just before the horses went off. "None of these horses have ever been in an actual race of this length."

Middle Red broke evenly with the field of nine horses and stayed in contention through the first mile and one-quarter.

Then, the fatal mistake was made as the 6-year-old gelding ran away from the field, opening a gap of seven lengths after a mile and a half and extending it to nearly 10 lengths through two miles.

That pace proved to be far too severe and Middle Red was weakening as he entered the final mile of the race.

The pack caught up to Middle Red deep in the backstretch. By the top of the stretch, he was fourth and well beaten. The race had passed the favorite and it was won by the 4-year-old gelding Hi Jack for Norman Bowles of Ontario.

Hi Jack, third coming into the stretch saved ground along the rail and passes the two other horses in midstretch for a three length win.

Delightful Tale was second and Zero Latitude was third. Middle Red finished fifth, 12 lengths off the winner.

Hi Jack, sent off at 28-to-1, was as much a surprise to the jockey as to the crowd. Brian Johnson flew in from Toronto to ride the horse and collect a winner on his only mount of the day.

"Have I ever ridden this horse before? I'd never seen this horse before today, much less ridden it. I just tried to hold back with the horse until the stretch," Johnson said.

Meanwhile, Morgan, who had also been flown in from out of town to ride Middle Red, was disconsolate.

"The horse wanted to run. I did everything I could to hold him back for the first mile. Finally, I couldn't hold him any more and he got away from me," he said.

That is the lesson of horse racing. The horse was right for the course, but the pace was wrong for the race.

At last the scoring famine has ended at Wonderland Lanes and no one had a happier Thanksgiving Day than George Bashara because of it.

For years, Wonderland has been rated a high-scoring house. But something happened this year and for some reason that had George puzzled, the high scores didn't come.

That is, they didn't come until last Tuesday night when the Classic went on the rampage and staged a scoring explosion the like of which seldom has been seen.

When the firing had stopped, five members of the firing squad had broken the 700 barrier and George was wearing a smile from ear to ear.

Terry Brandt was the top marksman with a 736 gained on games of 278, 233 and 225. Marv Holly was right behind with a 731 that was marked by a closing game of 279 after counts of 208 and 244.

Dick Preston, the veteran sharp-shooter, was next in line with a 712 where he was deadlocked with Jim Knoll. Dick had a middle game of 266 between counts of 228 and 218.

Jim opened with a 245 and followed with games of 201 and 166. Mel Partozich completed the explosion with a 703 marked by an opening game of 289.

The teams also scored well as Jerry Hay's combination set the pace with a 3087.

The ladies senior house league followed the classic and the girls found the way to the pocket with some fancy shooting.

Bobby Knox showed the way with a 635 and Marge Moore took the runner-up spot with a 614.

Meanwhile, Mach's Flowers, captained by Earl Van Ness, took top honors in the senior house league with an 1185.

ANN SETLOCK, day manager at Garden Lanes, had another honor bestowed upon her last week when Mrs. Agnes Ekstrom, president of the Detroit Women's Bowling Association, presented her with a plaque to mark 25 years of competition in the women's national tournament.

The presentation was made prior to the Bowlerettes weekly appearance at Motor Bowl.

At the finish of the pin spilling, it was Marge Krobacek, who also wore a big smile. She had a good reason. Her Livonia Bowling and Trophy team rolled an 1105 game for single game honors. Cora Fiebig's Luxury Lanes was high with a 2876.

THEY HAD another close finish in the Vinco league at Garden Lanes.

Lenny Elant wound up in the center of the spotlight with a 659 that gave him a four-pin edge over Frank Garrish, while Ray Merritt had a 614 and Otis Lackey a 601 to round out those posting double-century figures.

In the Moose League, Mickey Cawetgka had things to himself with a 633.

BOB SIMON and Ken Nikkila shared honors at Merri-Bowl when it came to scoring.

Bob had a high game of 256 and Ken had high series with 645 on games of 222, 213 and 200.

AT WOODLAND, Sharon Cowing went 102 pins over average with a 519 series. She carries a 139 average and came through with games of 205, 160 and 154.

In the Franklin high school league, Ron Joseph, a 135 average bowler, posted a 208 and Frank Zazata, who carries a 153 average, turned in a 256 game. In the Bowlerettes, Dianne Sterling, with a 147 average, rolled a 210 game in a 555 series.

THE CLARENCEVILLE Methodist Church team had its best night of the year at Bel-Aire Lanes.

In the mixed doubles, Ron Enders rolled a 675 and was joined by his wife and Chad and Janet Sheets to post a high team game of 2139. Meanwhile, Shirley Kimberly had high series with 570.

Girls start 'second' season

The 15 Observer-area girls' basketball teams will compete at seven metropolitan sites this week as the season-ending state tournament gets underway at the district level.

The format for the girls' journey is the same as the boys—one loss and elimination.

In Class A, Livonia Stevenson, Six Mile between Farmington and Levan, is the only area district host. Westland John Glenn, the four Livonia schools—Franklin, Churchill, Bentley and Stevenson—and Detroit Northeastern will battle for survival.

Garden City East, Garden City West and Redford Union have been grouped with Wayne and Southfield at the Southfield High District. Ten Mile and Lahser.

Redford Thurston and Redford Bishop Borgess have been assigned to the Highland Park District with Detroit Cass Tech and Highland Park.

Plymouth Canton will attempt to advance from the Detroit Mumford District from among Dearborn Edsel Ford, Detroit Redford, Detroit Chadsey and Mumford.

Plymouth Salem, along with Dearborn, Dearborn Fordson, Detroit Denby and Detroit Osborn, will compete at the Dearborn High District, Outer Drive between Cherry Hill and Michigan.

Two area Class B schools—Ladywood and Clarenceville—have been assigned to the Dearborn Heights Robichaud District. Other hopefuls there are Inkster Cherry Hill, Inkster High, Dearborn Divine Child, Melvindale and Robichaud.

Robichaud is at Gully and Janet, south of Michigan.

Redford St. Agatha, a Class C school, will play in the Allen Park Cabrini District with Dearborn St.

Alphonsus, Flat Rock, Redford St. Mary and Cabrini.

Tickets range from $1 to $1.50 per person at the various sites.

U-D's Dick Vitale, Mr. Excitement

A basketball man for all seasons

By RON ONCZA

When people ask the question, "Who is the best known sports personality in the area?" the name that immediately comes to mind is that of the zany Mark "The Bird" Fidrych, and several reasons are unnecessarily given.

Others may say it's the volatile Marvin "News" Barnes. But still others think that emotional, excitable, bubbling bundle of energy, the head basketball coach of the University of Detroit Titans, Dick Vitale.

After last season, the best in the Titans' history, (a 24-4 record and a spot in the NCAA playoffs, where they were defeated by the University of Michigan in an emotional and hard-fought contest) they have had to replace Dennis Boyd and Ron Bostick, who have graduated.

"We think we must get a tremendous effort from people like Wilbert McCormick and David Niles (a Garden City West graduate). We're also counting on Kevin Smith from Brother Rice.

"We're hoping one of these three can come through and replace Dennis Boyd," said Vitale. "We also hope that Kevin Kaseta (a Livonia Franklin alumnus), who is returning from knee surgery, or newcomer Billy Harris can take over for Ron Bostick.

"We are also counting on Terry Tyler and John Long, two 1,000 point scorers, who have to be effective for us to win. We go as they go."

The 37-year-old Vitale, who lives in West Bloomfield with his wife and two daughters, has a diversified background in basketball.

"I spent seven years coaching at East Rutherford High School in New Jersey, where we were fortunate enough to win five state sectional championships and two state championships back-to-back," he continued.

"I then moved on to Rutgers where I was fortunate enough to go to the NIT and NCAA."

"I've also gone nationally making speeches and I've written articles for basketball magazines, so you could say I've got a broad background. Yes, you could."

The Titans were playing winning basketball in 1972-73, but they were losing badly at the gate. Interest was at a low ebb in U of D basketball.

Bob Calihan, then the school's athletic director, knew that someone was needed to turn on the city to college basketball, and that someone was Dick Vitale.

"My goal when I got here was to inject interest into the basketball program. We just established a new school record by going over the 3,000 mark in season ticket sales," said Vitale.

"I promised an enthusiastic program when I got here, and thanks to the people of Detroit who've jumped on the bandwagon and supported us, I feel we've delivered," he said, drawing a deep breath for another sentence.

"In the four years since I've been here, I'm proud to say that attendance has more than doubled. My personal goal is to someday be an NBA coach, but I don't want to get into that right now," confesses Vitale.

"Right now we are picked 18th and 19th in the preseason polls. But I want to be in the top 20 in the post-season, when it really means something."

Vitale and Bob Lanier run a basketball camp in West Bloomfield. "We're proud that it's been sold out every year. We have a beautiful facility, where we get all kinds of help from West Bloomfield High School," added the coach.

"Bob and I love working with kids. I love kids. That's why I've devoted my life to working with them. I want to spend all the time I can with them."

RUSTPROOFING.

EITHER YOU HAVE IT OR YOU DON'T

Car makers don't build the rustproof car and no car dealer can deliver the real rustproofing you get with the exclusive Ziebart process.

Don't be misled by some sweeping references to "anti-corrosion" methods used in building some 1977 cars. Real rustproofing must be done after the car is built. And it must cover every critical area inside and under the car. That's the proven Ziebart method. There are no shortcuts. That's why your Ziebart Dealer uses nine different patented spray tools to reach rust-prone areas. That's why he uses a rustproofing sealant that actually penetrates welded seams where rust can start. Your Ziebart Dealer can deliver a rustproofed 1977 car because that's his business—and he knows it. Call him.

RU, East cagers lose

Linda Spicer and Gina Macertini combined for 38 points and 40 rebounds to lead Redford Thurston to a 72-63 non-league girls' basketball victory last week over Redford Union.

All five of Thurston's scorers notched at least 10 points, but it was a strong defensive stand during the fourth period that really provided the winning margin.

The Eagles led RU 16-10 after the opening quarter and 34-29 at the half, but fell behind 54-49 after three periods. Thurston out-pointed the Panthers, 23-9, during the last eight-minute quarter.

"It was strictly an offensive game, but defensively in the fourth quarter my kids really came through," said Thurston coach Jane Robey. "We stopped them down the middle."

"It was the best game of the entire year for the team," Robey continued. "It was strictly a team effort. The starting five played the whole game almost. They wanted it and they got it."

Spicer tossed in 23 points, Macertini, 15, Ann Biskner, 14, and Lori LeVeque and Sue Beger, 10 apiece. Sue Pastula scored 20 for RU. Karen Brown, 15, and Micki McLain, 13.

The Eagles also recorded a victory in the JV game, 45-36.

CHURCHILL—GC EAST

The Livonia Churchill girls' basketball team recorded its most satisfying victory of the campaign last week in its final regular-season outing.

Karen Kowalski connected on a short jump shot with only two seconds remaining to push the Chargers to a 46-45 decision over Garden City East.

The drama wound down with the score tied at 44 and 10 seconds remaining. Churchill's Linda Mix fouled East's Sheri Kiselica. After a Churchill timeout, Kiselica missed her first free throw and canned the second.

Kim Hewitt passed the ball to Gail Oljace on the inbound play. Oljace dribbled down court and threaded a crisp pass to Kowalski, who moved in front of the basket and made a five-foot shot for the tying and winning points.

Kowalski finished with 20 points and Mix, 12. Jane Sielski netted 18 for the Panthers, Sharon Raftery, nine.

"Kowalski scored 20 points and controlled the boards. She was tough," said Churchill coach Jim Newman. "Mix played a real good floor game. We beat a good ball club."

East coach Jan Moore also praised the Chargers' effort. "They played a good ball game. They were aggressive."

"Our offense just didn't go," Moore continued. "We shot very poorly—25 per cent in the first half, 30 per cent in the second. We were seven of 24 from the (free-throw) line."

The Chargers also muzzled the Panthers in the JV preliminary, 54-22.

East's varsity ended its schedule with a 16-3 record, Churchill, 12-8.

Spikers set

Now that most of the fall sports are finished, it is time to start talking about the winter sports such as basketball, swimming and wrestling for the boys and power volleyball for the girls.

Anyone interested in playing volleyball on the Plymouth Salem girls team should report to room 2510 at Salem on Wednesday afternoon (Nov. 30) at 2:30 p.m. The meeting will be regarding the times and dates of tryouts for the teams, both junior varsity and varsity.

Tryouts for freshmen and first-year players will be held during the first week of December. Tryouts for second-year players will be held the following week.

Plymouth Canton girls interested in playing for the Chiefs should talk to Cyndi Burnstein during the first part of this week. Burnstein is available during the day through the Salem English department. Canton will start practices this week.

First-year varsity coach Cathy Himes will conduct the tryouts. She requests that everyone interested tryout this year so that the best and most experienced players will be placed on the varsity squad.

New Detroit Police Athletic League (PAL) President Jerome R. Heyer, (left), executive vice-president of Detroit Bank & Trust, and PAL Executive Director Dick "Night Train" Lane review plans for the 1977-78 PAL Hockey Program which this season will put more than 300 youngsters, ages 5-17, on the ice.

PAL supports hockey

While the Police Athletic League (PAL) is known primarily for helping city of Detroit youth, when the hockey season rolls around it goes suburban.

More than 300 boys, with strong suburban representation, will be participating in PAL hockey program this year, said PAL President Jerome P. Heyer.

The program covers youngsters, ages 5 through 17, throughout the metropolitan-Detroit area. Heyer said boys from Southfield, Farmington, Livonia, Redford, and Farmington Hills, as well as those from Detroit, have already registered for the program.

In addition to the PAL League play at the Jack Adams Arena, which is aimed primarily at inner-city kids, other teams will play out of Farwell Field, Clark Park, O'Shea Field and Heilmann Field. There will also be five travel teams playing out of the Jack Adams Arena and the Winter Wonderland.

All participants in the PAL hockey program are registered in the Michigan Amateur Hockey Association and will be eligible for tournament play at the end of the regular season.

Also, the National Police Athletic League Hockey Tournament will be played in the Detroit area in March, 1978.

PAL insurance will cover all of those participating in the hockey program. Those interested in playing either in the Jack Adams PAL League or on the other PAL teams, which play throughout the Detroit area and in Canada, can register at the Jack Adams Arena, the Winter Wonderland, or at Farwell, Clark, O'Shea and Heilmann Fields. There is no registration charge.

After School 'Y' is new pilot program

A pilot program for youngsters in grades kindergarten through second is being launched by the Canton, Northville, Plymouth YMCA.

After School 'Y' is specifically geared to give youth a constructive outlet through fitness building, sports, arts and crafts, socialization, and development of leadership potential, explains Janet Luce, YMCA program director.

The pilot program will begin Nov. 28 and be offered Monday through Friday from 3:30-5:30 p.m. until Dec. 22. Registrations on a first-come basis can be made with the YMCA by calling 453-2904. Fees are $5 per week for YMCA members' and $7 per week for non-members, or a total fee of $20 or $28.

Children enrolled in the program will be picked up by the CNP YMCA Van and brought to the small auditorium (Room 113) of Central Middle School for two hours of supervised group activities. Pick up points will be at Allen, Bird, Tanger, Farrand, Smith, Starkweather and Fiegel elementary schools.

Youth are to bring their own refreshments or 35 cents per day. Rides home will be furnished by parents. The program is geared toward helping the working and busy parent, Mrs. Luce adds.

OTHER YMCA activities for which there still are openings include football, Saturday fitness building, and cross country skiing.

Football for youth seven years and older will be offered for four weeks beginning Nov. 19 in the gym of Starkweather, 550 Holbrook, Plymouth. Mike Tiano is instructor and fees are $2 or $12.

Saturday fitness building for kindergarten through second grade, and third through fifth grades, will be offered from Nov. 19 to Dec. 17. Tiano is instructor and Starkweather gym is the location with fees at $8 and $12. The K-2nd graders will meet 10-11 a.m. and third-fifth graders from 11 a.m. to noon. The program is designed to develop strong agile bodies through exercise, sports and games.

The YMCA hopes to organize a cross-country ski club with the first meeting slated for 7 to 9:30 p.m. Dec. 2 in the cafeteria of Pioneer Middle School. Beginners and non-beginners are welcome. Movies will be shown and the instructor will discuss needed equipment and places to ski.

WSDP to follow fortunes of Plymouth gal cage teams

Plymouth's student radio station, WSDP-FM 88.1 on the dial, will have its hands full Tuesday when it broadcasts both the Plymouth Salem and Plymouth Canton girls basketball district games.

Andy Melin and John Hewett will be at Detroit Mumford for the live broadcast of the Canton-Dearborn Edsel

Ford semifinal battle beginning at 4 p.m.

The winner of that game advances to the championship on Friday.

Mark Primeau and Al Baskins will handle the live coverage in Dearborn on the same night when Plymouth Salem battles the winner of Monday's Dearborn-Detroit Denby game in another semifinal contest starting at 8 p.m.

The winner of this game advances to the championship contest on Wednesday night.

WSDP-FM will follow the fortune of both Plymouth girls basketball squads in the state tournament with live game coverage at every Salem or Canton contest.

Elks sponsor 'Hoop Shoot'

The annual "Hoop Shoot" contest, sponsored by the Plymouth Elks Club, will be held Saturday, Dec. 17 at the Plymouth Salem High School gym between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m.

All boys and girls, ages 8-13, are eligible to compete to see which player makes the best-of-20 free throws in each of six different age brackets.

Registration for the competition will be held at the door prior to the contest. All Plymouth winners will qualify for district competition in Ann Arbor next month.

Skaters meet

The Plymouth Figure Skating Club, Inc. was recently selected by the United States Figure Skating Association to host the 1978 Eastern Great Lakes Regional Championships on Dec. 1, 2 and 3 at the Wayne Community Center.

The Plymouth Club will receive 150 amateur skaters from seven different states.

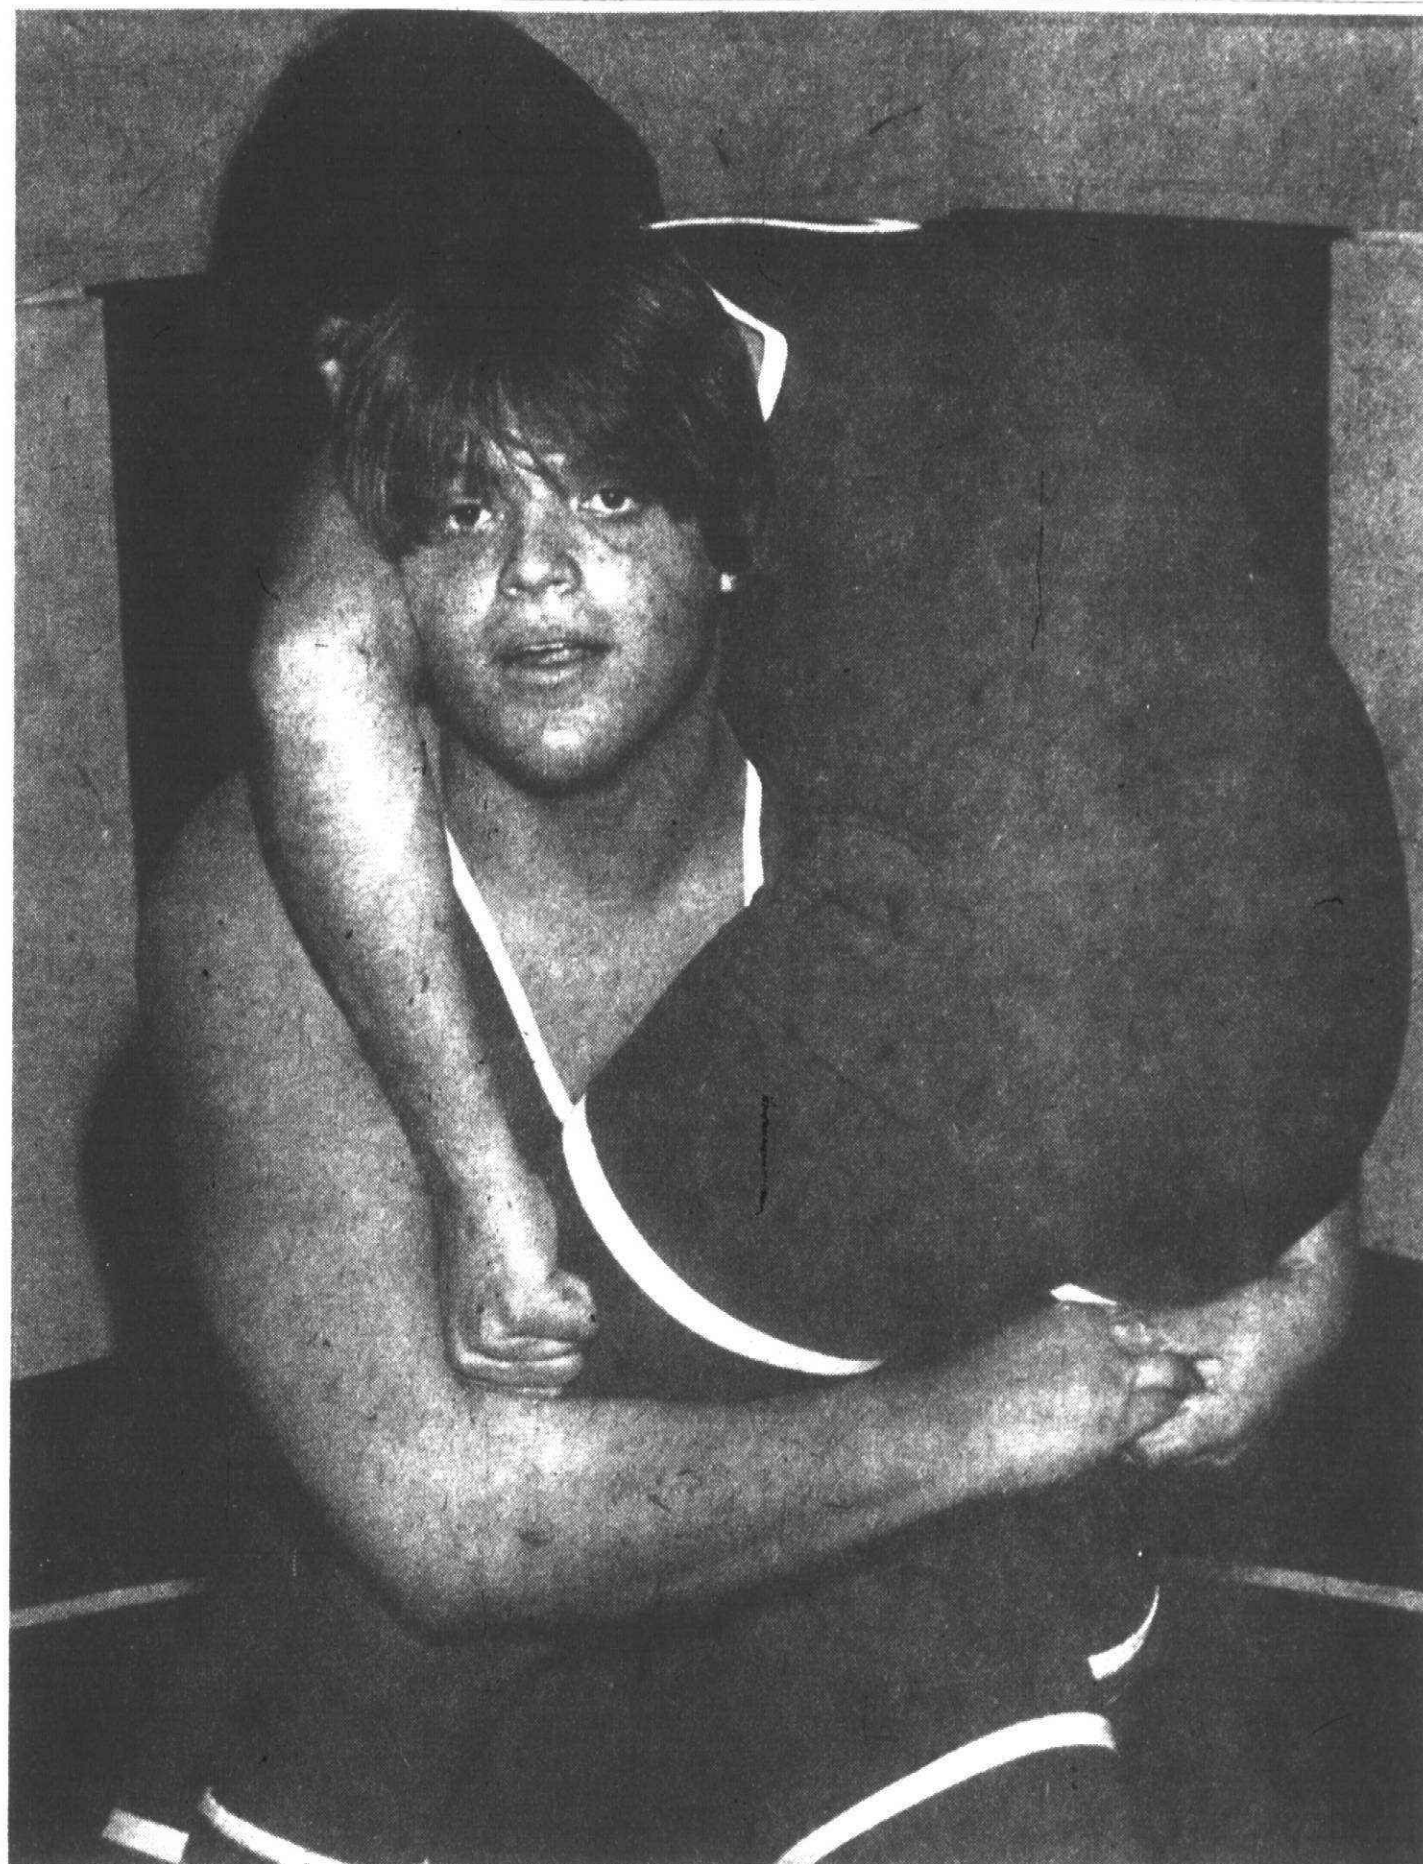

The championships will qualify winning regional skaters to advance to the Midwesterns which will be held in Chicago in January.

MSU grid bust set for Southfield

For the first time in 12 years, Michigan State University will have a football dinner program in the metropolitan Detroit area.

The team, coach Darryl Rogers, Athletic Director Joe Kearney and other university officials will be honored at the Raleigh House tomorrow. The reception begins at 6 p.m., with dinner following at 8 p.m.

Tickets are $15 per person. The Raleigh House is on Telegraph near 10 Mile.

"A man has the right to know what goes into the Scotch he drinks."

—Sir James Buchanan

"At The House of Buchanan, we still believe and blend as my grandfather did."

"It is a family tradition."

"Pride in the excellence of the blend which bears my grandfather's name and mine, Buchanan's 12."

Sir James Buchanan (Lord Wickham) 1826-1906, founder of The House of Buchanan

"That is why, unlike any premium blended Scotch whisky ever sold in America, we take pride in naming the principal single malts which, among other exceptional whiskies, go into our blend."

"If you know fine Scotch, you will recognize them all."

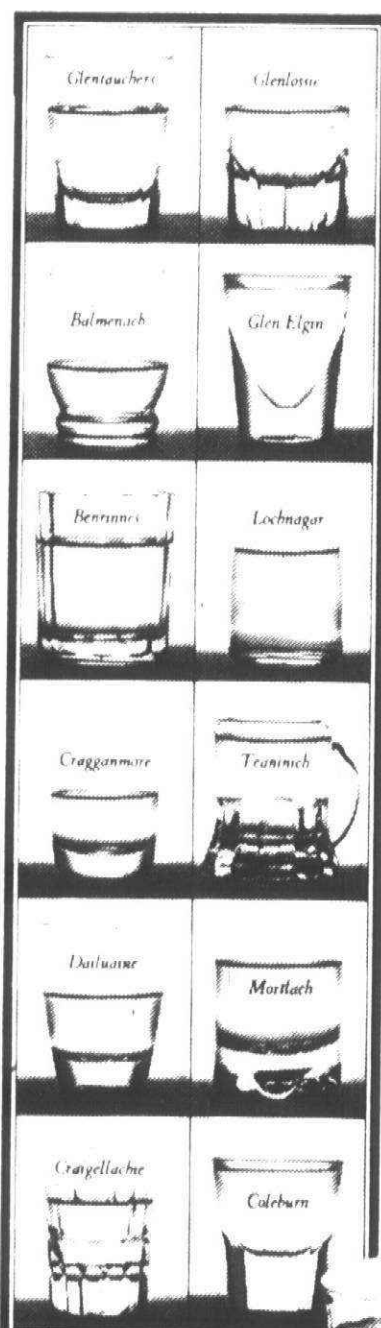

"And fully appreciate why the whiskies selected combine to set Buchanan's 12 apart."

"The selection is choice."

"Limited to 12 'Ideals'."

"Each the product of an old, established and well respected distillery."

"Each and every one, from Balmenach through Tainich, is a Highland whisky."

"And two, Cragganmore and Daluaine, are cherished products of the famed Glenlivet region."

"Together they combine to make Buchanan's 12 the 12 year old blended Scotch with a heart of Highland whiskies."

"For no other single malts but Highlands are used in Buchanan's 12."

"If you choose to sample it, you will find it as it was when it began."

"Subtle."

"Light."

"But with tempered mellowness in both body and bouquet."

"In your country, it is dearly priced."

"And in very limited supply."

"Because we neither can, nor will, mass-produce the Scotch that bears my grandfather's name."

"And mine."

(Items for an outdoorsman's (and woman's) calendar:

The State Department of Natural Resources will hold a public hearing at 7 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 8 on proposed revisions in the Great Lakes Shorelands Rules.

Site will be Room 233 of Building J on the Orchard Ridge Campus of Oakland Community College, Orchard Lake Road at I-696, Farmington Hills.

"The rules govern Great Lakes shoreland high-risk erosion areas, environmental areas and flood risk areas," according to a DNR announcement. "The proposed revisions are designed to make the rules easier to understand, to clarify equal protection and to remove unnecessary restrictions."

"The role of a local governmental agency is also explained in the proposed rules," copies of which may be obtained from DNR's district office in Pontiac.

The Orchard Ridge hearing will be the only one in the metropolitan Detroit area. Others will be in Alpena, Sault Ste. Marie, Holland, Traverse City, Escanaba, Bay City and Houghton.

AN ARTISTS' contest for design of the 1978 Michigan waterfowl hunting stamp opens Dec. 1.

Anyone 18 or older who is a state resident may enter by writing for contest rules and agreement to: Wildlife Division, Michigan Department of Natural Resources, Box 30028 Lansing, MI 48909.

Any living species of migratory game bird commonly occurring in Michigan may be the dominant feature of the design. The design must be the artist's original creation and cannot be a copy or duplicate of previously published art, including published photographs.

The 1977 winner was Larry Hayden of Farmington Hills. The 10 finalists included a disproportionate number from the metropolitan suburbs, we're proud to say.

For the 1978 contest, the wood duck and canvasback cannot be used because they were in the design themes of the '76 and '77 stamps. Waterfowl stamps are purchased by hunters taking geese, ducks, coots, gallinules, rails and snipe. They are attached to small game licenses.

Closing date for entries is March 1. The winners will be selected about March 20. Following the contest, the first place winner will be used on next year's stamp, and all 10 finalists will be put on public view and then returned to the artists.

KENSINGTON Metropark near Milford has several activities coming up at the nature center this weekend. All are free, but it's best to call the park office at 685-1561 to register yourself and your family in advance. The programs:

Saturday, Dec. 3 at 9 a.m.—"Mineral Workshop," an indoor program of mineral identification lasting one to two hours.

Sunday, Dec. 4 at 9 a.m.—"Insects in Winter," a discussion of how to find eggs, larva and active adult insects in the winter.

Monday, Dec. 5 at 7:30 p.m.—"Star Walk," a study of some of the common winter star constellations. If the weather is cloudy, slides will be shown indoors.

Salem JV finishes 17-1

The Plymouth Salem junior varsity girls basketball team completed a very successful season under coach Craig Bell last week, finishing with a 17-1 record.

The Rocks went undefeated in Suburban Eight League play with their only loss coming to non-league opponent Thurston.

"I thought we had a great team effort this year," said Bell.

"The turning point for our success was our disciplined defense."

"We had dedicated girls on this team who worked hard—and it showed," the Salem coach said. "We had a sharing offense and we always had the opportunity to score because we found the open man."

The 10-member Salem JV squad includes Anne Meixner, Pat Weidman, Julie Lynch, Cheryl Sobkow, Lisa Gannon, Jeannine Sobkow, Denise Zonka, Patti Ockman, Kathy Zielke and Kathy Gardner.

Dance was great, but...

Editor:
Last weekend I attended a dance by the junior class at Plymouth Salem High School.

The band was very good and very well-known. The turnout was tremendous—so many, some were turned away. I went to have a good time; I'm sure most of the kids did. But there were some things going on there I couldn't believe. Shoving in the door, smoking marijuana in the middle of the dance floor, taking down the decorations from the walls, and stealing the flowers from the vases on the tables.

I used to wonder why people worried about the kids at Plymouth Centennial Educational Park. I no longer wonder. All I can say is I'm glad my parents were not there to see this!

Editor:

In regards to the article on Monday, Nov. 21, 1977, concerning the possible one mill proposal for Schoolcraft College, I, a medical record student, class of 1978, would like to discourage any increase in property tax in favor of Schoolcraft College.

The article mentioned a request for a 25 per cent refund made by the medical record students, however it did not mention that our request followed an announcement in the Plymouth Observer (Oct. 6, 1977) stating Schoolcraft College boasts a $95,000.00 profit for the fiscal year.

We feel our request was valid in view of our being disrupted in the middle of our program and moved to the Garden City elementary school that they call a "Satellite Campus." In addition to the move, the equipment we were promised will not be installed until the Christmas holidays, leaving only four months to be utilized before our graduation. The Garden City "satellite campus" also has inadequate library facilities, no access to computers for a required data processing course, no anatomy and physiology (also required), no security personnel, or health care facilities (which have already been required. When a student slipped and fell in the hall, there was no first aid available, or provision for transporting the student to the hospital.) The lack of child care facilities and food services also have inconvenienced many.

Why should Schoolcraft College receive another mill increase when they boast profits now? Evidently available funds have been distributed unwisely, or else why would an established program like medical records (nine years) be moved from a campus where all the requirements for the degree program are available, to where, if the facilities are brought up to par the cost would be enormous?

The previously mentioned article stated "The medical records program is scheduled to move into a main Livonia campus building when one is constructed pending the bond issue" is directly contradictory with that Dean Ted Diebel stated at a meeting with the medical record students on Nov. 9, 1977. He said no plans are in the works to return medical records to the Livonia campus.

Many people are probably unaware that as a result of other bond issues the Applied Science Building was erected on the Livonia campus in 1972. This building was to house the medical record program, along with other programs. Unfortunately the Schoolcraft College administration has seen fit to remove medical records after nine years. Is this the kind of policy that deserves more support? Was the medical record program moved to Garden City to provide administrative justification for a millage increase?

I for one, and I am not alone, would urge voters to defeat any bond issue for Schoolcraft College, at least until they rectify the present situation.

Indian culture inspires film

By SYLVIA MURPHY

Every once in a while a good story idea for a movie script turns up. Rarer still does an excellent one surface.

"Bearwalk," by Tom Peltier, is exactly that. A new book about Indians, the interface between their culture and the white man's, and the powers of the spirit.

Birmingham producer/director Tom Brank literally jumped at the opportunity to turn this No. 1 Canadian best-seller into film, once he had a chance to read the book. Brank then purchased film rights for $250,000.

"It's unusual and powerful. Not what you'd call a formula film," said Brank.

"Everyone is ready for this type of film to hit the market. It has a great deal to do with man and his mind."

BRANK THEN referred to the success of "Rocky" and said that it was a formula film about an underdog. "Bearwalk" is not what Brank would call an underdog film, but he said that any underdog could certainly get strength and direction from the upcoming film.

"The characters of 'Bearwalk' are strong and well-defined. An agency will do the casting and we are definitely interested in stars with good track records."

Brank hinted at Al Pacino or Alan Alda for the lead although he said it is impossible to say until contracts are firm. Some extras may be picked from this area as well as near Mackinac.

"We've got a great screenwriter too!" said Brank. "Dutch also lives in this area."

Elmore (Dutch) Leonard has written novels and sports a long list of screenwriting credentials. He and Brank are, in fact, presently working on a film called "The Hunted" which is about a stockbroker who must leave Detroit, fleeing to Israel, after testifying against two mobsters.

LEONARD HAS done screenwriting for "Mr. Majestyk" starring Charles Bronson and for a well-known Clint Eastwood film "Joe Kidd."

Brank is also busy raising funds for the production of "Bearwalk." The budget is set at $1.9 million and a Canadian counterpart will take care of raising half that. Brank is certain that the remaining 50 per cent will not be difficult to get once the prospectus is out and people in America get ahold of the book.

Scouting for locations will begin soon up near Sault Ste. Marie and around Georgian Bay.

"A lot of the filming will take place in Canada," stated Brank "and it is becoming a trend to shoot there because it's cheaper tax-wise for American production companies. Half of our backing will be Canadian and half will be U.S. so we'll split shooting between Manitoulin Island, Ontario, Cross Village, Mich., and the Mackinac area."

"We really want to capture those gray November days you can only find up north or in Canada in the backwood areas."

BRANK SAID there are a lot of investors in the Detroit area and that unlike backers out of New York or Los Angeles, they prefer to be silent backers. They don't like a lot of publicity. He also said that people from this area like to back Broadway and enjoy receiving credit for that.

Brank has strong feelings about American productions and prefers them to European ones. "I try to see every film I can. After all, it's part of my trade," he said. "But I always will view an American production over a foreign one."

September Cinema, which is Brank's production company, moved from Grand Boulevard to Birmingham about two and a half years ago.

"I wanted my business closer to home and besides the security is better here," September Cinema is housed in one of the quaintly colorful row-houses at 386 E. Maple just across from Stewart's Fabrics.

Charles Meyers, entrepreneur and owner of the Indian and Inuit Art Gallery, also on Maple Road, knew Brank when he was on the Boulevard. "We lost track of each other and then I was surprised to find out that he was my new neighbor."

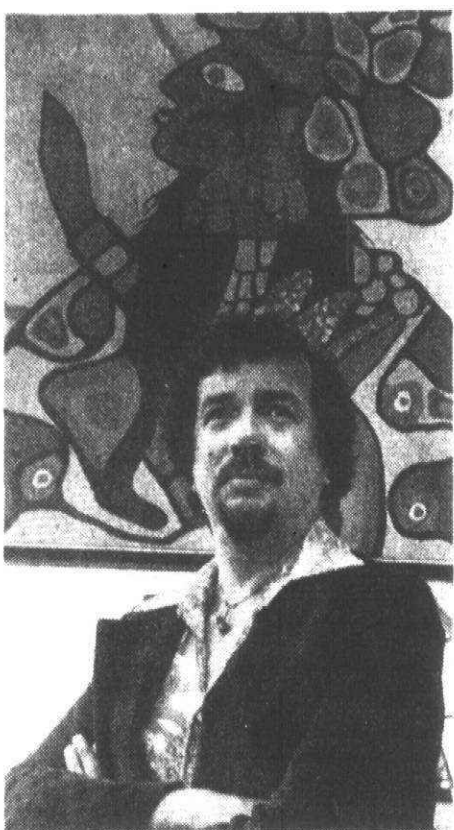

SEVERAL MONTHS after Brank relocated he ran into his old friend Meyers who loves to talk about and retail Indian stories. He is an Indian himself.

Charlie Meyers is also a long-time friend of Tom Peltier, the author of "Bearwalk."

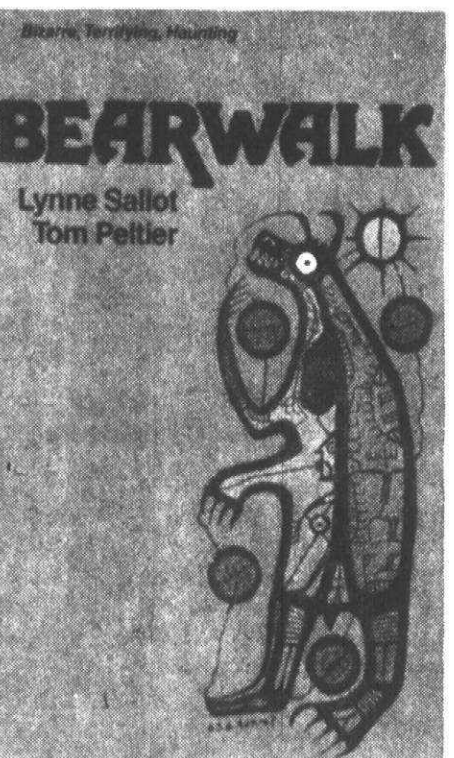

"Tom is half Ottawa Indian and half French Canadian. We've known each other for close to 30 years. I knew Brank and what he did and I knew Peltier and what he had," said Meyers. "I guess that you could say that I married 'em."

Meyers brought the two professionals together. He recognized the potential that the book had for a screenplay and quickly made the arrangements for the two to meet.

"I'm sure that the rest will be history," emphasized Meyers. "Just keep your eyes on this one."

Bearwalk painting by Morrisseau illustrates book's cover and shows big brown bear, its insides cut away like an x-ray.

"BEARWALK" IS indeed a good story and a very powerful one at that.

It's about an ancient Indian curse known as the Bearwalk and is the sinister backdrop for a haunting story of modern-day Shamanism and Black Magic. Shamanism is simply religious practices and belief in good and evil spirits that pervade the world.

It is a story of a man and his family caught in the web of a relentless ancestral curse.

A brash young Indian lawyer raised in the white-man's world, and a man sceptical of his own roots, ironically marries a woman born and raised on his own reservation—a woman whose Indian ancestry has endowed her with a strange, mystical heritage.

Unknown to him, his marriage has invoked the occult powers of an ancestral curse. An insidious, unseen force that slowly tightens around his helpless family.

ON A RETURN to their reservation, frightening things begin to happen. Plagued by bizarre occurrences and his wife's erratic behavior and strange psychic premonitions, the family begins to succumb, one by one, to the terrifying power of the curse.

The book is about self-discovery, and psychologically we can all learn something from the strengths necessary to control our own soul. It is also about the force necessary to direct our lives.

Peltier discussed this force while he was in Birmingham recently visiting the Inuit gallery. He was interviewed along with a psychic named Rita Burns who is traveling with him handling all public relations and book promotion.

Ms. Burns' involvement is curious as she was involved in a very strange incident while working with Dr. Norm Emerson at the University of Toronto. Ms. Burns described a vision recalling all the incidents in Tom Peltier's life. Emerson luckily knew Peltier and could relate to the story.

Ms. Burns also has had many psychic experiences and has worked informally with the Royal Ontario Museum in this field.

Ms. Burns saw bears, bad medicine and death. After she met Peltier she predicted that this story would become a book and later a film. So far she's been right.

SAID PELTIER, "Bearwalking is a negative psychic energy and manifests itself in the form of a person. You don't have to be a North American Indian or even believe in it to be Bearwalked by another."

Peltier told how "Bearwalk" itself is a fictionalized version of a true story and he reluctantly added that he is the main character.

As long as Brank, Leonard and Peltier have good medicine on their side, the film can't help but be successful.

The book "Bearwalk" is available at Little Professor and the Birmingham Bookstore.

Roll back the carpet: Here comes Benny and all that jazz!

Start snapping those fingers, cuz Benny and the boys are coming to town.

Benny, as in Goodman, the king of swing, will be featured on WTVS (channel 56) Tuesday, Dec. 6, when public television gets into all that jazz in a very big way.

The big band sound will come popping out of the set for six hours that night, starting with "Big Band Cavalcade" at 7 p.m.

"Cavalcade" will include the music of Freddy Martin, Margaret Whiting, Bob Crosby and others.

Goodman takes over at 8:00, with such hits as "Sing, Sing, Sing," "King Porter Stomp" and the George Gershwin classic, "Rhapsody in Blue."

At 9:00, channel 56 will repeat one of its all-time favorites, "All-Star Swing." This concert, recorded at New York's Lincoln Center, highlights band era biggies such as Duke Ellington, Ella Fitzgerald, Lionel Hampton, Dizzy Gillespie, Gene Krupa and Count Basie.

Count Basie and Joe Williams perform together at 10:00, in a concert recorded at Detroit's Masonic Temple. In addition to the pair's lively tunes, their words will also be featured.

Della Reese and Woody Herman fill the next one-hour slot, and jazz singer Nancy Wilson closes out the evening at midnight.

Quartet seeks sharp singers

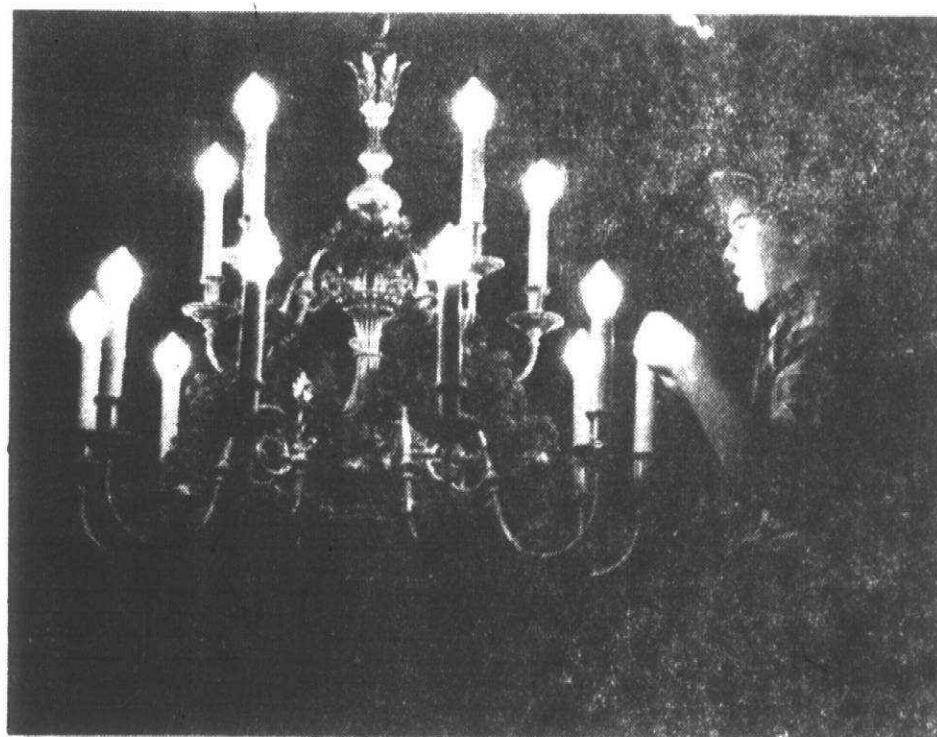

The local chapter of the world's largest singing organization wants you!

Of course, you must have a half-way decent voice, you must be male, and you must like helping people.

If you fit the bill, the Society for the Preservation of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America invites men from the western Wayne County area to its audition program at the Westland Shopping Center, tomorrow, (Tuesday Nov. 29) at 7:15 p.m. A reception will follow.

The SPEBSQSA is composed of several quartets and the Wonderland Chorus. The groups sing for festivals and fairs, hospitals, schools, and of course, for fun.

High Tar No Longer Essential To Taste.

Tests prove low tar MERIT delivers flavor of higher tar cigarettes.

For years, it seemed the only way to get real taste from a cigarette was to smoke a high tar brand.

High tar cigarettes had an "exclusive" on taste.

Today, all the standards are changing because of a new taste breakthrough called 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco.

MERIT is packed with 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco. Tobacco fortified with certain key flavor-rich ingredients isolated in cigarette smoke and proven to deliver flavor way out of proportion to tar.

Test Data Conclusive

MERIT and MERIT 100's were both tested against a number of higher tar cigarettes. Thousands of smokers were involved.

Overall, smokers reported they liked the taste of both MERIT and MERIT 100's as much as the taste of the higher tar cigarettes tested.

Cigarettes having up to 60% more tar!

Only one cigarette has 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco.

And you can taste it.

BETHLEHEM TREES were featured at both morning services at First United Presbyterian Church of Plymouth Sunday. Bright red apples on the small evergreens symbolized man's fall and Christ's redemption.

Yesterday was the first Sunday of Advent and 49 new members were welcomed to the congregation at the 9:30 a.m. service.

THE ADULT AND YOUTH choirs at Our Lady of Good Counsel Catholic Church on Penniman in Plymouth are joining forces to provide a Christmas gift for the community.

They will present "Amahl and the Night Visitors" at 3 p.m. next Sunday, Dec. 4. Admission is free and there will be an informal reception after the performance.

Bert Lord, organist and choir director, is producing and directing the performance, which will be open to the public.

THOSE WHO watched Hudson's Thanksgiving Day Parade saw the Plymouth Fife and Drum Corps. It was right behind the Thanksgiving float—the first in the parade.

It was the 51st parade sponsored by Hudson's. The first was in 1924. Because of material shortages in the early years of World War II, the parade was canceled. The first parade consisted of horse-drawn lumber and milk wagons covered with papier mache and other decorations. There were 12 floats.

Because of a runaway horse team during one of the early parades, manpower was used for many years with as many as 24 persons pulling a single float. Now Ford Motor Company provides tractors to pull the floats.

ELECTRIC TRAIN buffs will be interested in the display at the Plymouth Historical Museum, Main at Church Street, Plymouth.

Five of the first electric trains have been set up around a Christmas tree in the lower level of the museum. Today's children will be amazed at the size of the old trains compared to the small HO and even smaller N gauge.

None is in working order but the tracks have been set up and the big old cars, engines and tenders will be there throughout the holiday season.

Special museum hours for Friday, Dec. 2 are 6:30-9:30 p.m. Regular admission prices are 25 cents for elementary school students, 50 cents for middle and high school students, and $1 for adults.

MERCHANTS IN the Plymouth-Canton area have been invited to join the Rock Shop in Plymouth Salem High School in a special Christmas display.

The window of the shop will be filled with boxes and bags bearing the local stores' names. Those merchants who wish to participate are asked to wrap an empty package and make sure their shop name is prominently displayed. Call 453-3100, ext. 298, and student will pick up the package.

SALLY HOLMES and John Drewiak had top scores at the Nov. 17 party bridge game in the Plymouth Cultural Center.

JUDY MORGAN has a big "thank you" for all those who participated in the local UNICEF drive.

The final tally shows $1,326.89 was raised this year, a decided increase over last year's total of $986.

"It took hours of work and dedication. It took children in Halloween costumes with cartons. But, most of all, it took the help of residents in Plymouth and Canton who donated to UNICEF by participating in UNICEF activities," said Mrs. Morgan.

She said the money would help launch important programs in health care, education, nutrition and social service in 100 countries in Asia, Africa and Latin America. It also helps establish childcare programs that give children in these countries a chance for a better life.

The Plymouth branch American Association of University Women again sponsored the drive which was chaired by Mrs. Morgan.

WAYNE DUNLAP, conductor of the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra, dedicated Beethoven's Symphony No. 7 to Hazel Larson at the November concert.

Mrs. Larson was a former member of the board of directors of the Plymouth Symphony Society and long-time supporter of the orchestra. Funeral services for Mrs. Larson were being conducted in First United Presbyterian Church of Plymouth as the concert was in progress at Plymouth Salem High School auditorium.

Bazaar time

In a scene repeated by church groups throughout the country, the women of St. John Episcopal Church, Plymouth, prepare for their holiday bazaar. Lunch, dinner and a wide variety of Christmas gifts and decorations will be available at the church on Sheldon Road from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m., Dec. 9.

Ever been kissed by a giraffe?

By SHERRY KAHAN

What really tickled Louis Giedeman, 9, of Livonia about the Livonia Town Hall lecture on Africa given by Jock and Betty Leslie-Melville was the story about the giraffe at the window.

The incident could only have happened to the Leslie-Melvilles because they are probably the only people on earth who have adopted giraffes and kept them around the house.

Adopted is the right word to use about their relationships with two rare Rothschild giraffes, for one of them named Daisy regards Jock as her mother, and the other, Marlon, regards Betty as his mother.

Like your average child, these African skyscrapers like to follow their parents around as much as possible.

One dark night when most humans were asleep, Betty and Jock were snoozing in their bed on the second story of their large home six miles outside Nairobi, Kenya. A sound at the window woke Betty. Fearfully she slid from bed, went to the window and cautiously peeked out.

"I was eyeball to eyeball with what looked like the Lochness monster," she recalled. "It was only one of the giraffes, but their heads are about the size of a kitchen stove."

She told the story "because I don't think people realize how big giraffes are."

She added: "They get to be 18 feet tall and weigh 3,000 pounds."

JAMES WELCHER, 9, learned that when giraffes are born they are six feet tall, a piece of news he was planning to pass on to his mother. He and Louis were part of a group of students from classes for the academically talented at Buchanan Elementary School, Livonia.

Steve LaChance, a classmate, was amused by a story of how Daisy took a juicy drink of milk and then bestowed a slobbery kiss on Jock. The moment was important because the animal imprinted on Jock and henceforth thought of him as Mom.

Jock was full of information on giraffes. Born and brought up in Kenya, he runs the African end of Percival Tours, which takes travelers on photographic trips among the animals. He and his wife also make films, write books on Africa, and aided TV performer Jack Paar when he came to Africa to make films.

"Each giraffe has a coat pattern that is unique," Leslie-Melville told to his Town Hall audience. "It's like a fingerprint, and never duplicated."

Some spots can look like hearts, other like butterflies.

"Our giraffes are so affectionate," he continued. "They run up to us and kiss and kiss us. They also get playful when we go for walks and want to throw their arms around us. We spend a lot of times behind trees."

Giraffes' life span is from 30-35 years, and James Welcher should also remember to tell his mom that their gestation period is 15 months. They have the same number of vertebrae as human, seven, but they are very elongated.

THE LESLIE-MELVILLES became interested in trying to save the dwindling number of Rothschild giraffes when they heard that a ranch of 18,000 acres on which the animals roamed was going to be sold and cut into 10-acre lots.

"Once a species is wiped out, it can never be re-created," said Jock. "We knew our place could sustain giraffes, so we decided to get a couple."

Easier said than done. First you have to know that the range on which the giraffes roam is pocked with holes made by aardvarks. Next you have to understand that these holes are impossible to spot, so that when Jock and Betty tried to drive over the area their vehicle kept dropping into them. That made racing along after a young giraffe all but impossible.

However, there lived at the ranch a strange pair, called by Betty "Crazy Rutherford and Crazy Douglas."

CRAZY RUTHERFORD is a man who taught his horse Douglas not be afraid of giraffes. Usually horses are terrified by the tall animals because of their tremendously powerful kicks. Rutherford also taught his horse to spot the hidden holes made by the aardvarks.

Before long, Rutherford and Douglas went racing across the landscape after a giraffe, and returned with the words, "It's a girl."

That was Daisy, about whom the Leslie-Melvilles have written a book called "Raising Daisy Rothschild." Film rights to the book have already been purchased, and it may become the "Born Free" of the '70s.

Betty said that in New York City recently there was some talk that Joanne Woodward may play her role. "But if Paul Newman is going to be Jock, I'd like play myself," she laughed.

The period following the capture of female giraffe was crucial because if Daisy didn't eat in 48 hours, she would have to be released.

"At about the 47th hour she had eaten nothing and couldn't stand up," recalled Betty. "Jock was holding a pan of milk and she put her head into it. She licked her lips, and took another drink. Then she leaned down and kissed him. He's been her mother ever since."

"I was flattered," added Jock. NEVERTHELESS HE POINTED out that for the most part having a wild animal is not nearly as satisfactory as having a tame one.

"As wild animals get older, they are a problem," he said. "They are not happy. When we embarked on the plan to have a giraffe it was with the idea of releasing it."

"But Daisy was very timid. She stuck close to us. When we went in to lunch she looked in the window for us. Her dependency on me was awful. If we had to go away, she would sit pathetically on the lawn. We had to lead her into the forest and tell her to eat the leaves."

Betty noted: "Whenever Jock is on the phone, Daisy looks in the window. He sometimes surprises his callers by shouting out, 'I'll be right with you, Daisy.' She seemed so miserable without Jock, we decided to get her a friend."

Back to Rutherford and his incredible steed Douglas, this time with camera. The duo came through with Rutherford announcing, "It's a boy."

"I went up to him and kissed him, and he imprinted on me," said Betty, adding that the adoptee was named after Marlon Brando.

Marlon confounded Margaret Mead when she came to call and heard that he was capable of making a noise. Giraffes have been regarded as mute.

The Leslie-Melvilles also have ranging about their property three Masai giraffes, called Tom, Dick and Harry.

They recently gave a giraffe ball to raise funds toward the purchase a forest in Nairobi as a permanent home for giraffes and other animals. They feel the park could be an educational center for Kenyan children, who know little about their greatest natural resource, animals.

"EIGHTY PER CENT of the African population has never seen an animal," said Jock. "That's because animals go where there are no people. Wildlife is an elitist thing. You have to have a car and travel to a park and pay to get in."

"How can you expect a population that has no experience with animals to nurture wild life? Most of them live in rural areas and they need land used by the animals. The birthrate is rising."

"The best way to educate them is to go into schools and talk about animals. The primeval forest near us for which we raised $6,000 is inside the city boundary and would be a marvelous place to take kids."

Later at the celebrity luncheon in the Mayflower Meetinghouse in Plymouth, Betty reminded her audience that many animals are killed only for their value in producing curios for tourists.

"I have seen a poisoned arrow in a giraffe, which was killed for his tail, which is used in the making of hair bracelets. They sell for about 50 cents. About 50 per cent of the elephants have been lost, killed for the ivory in their tusks."

Another crucial and highly controversial question in Africa today is whether animals should be killed to prevent overgrazing and starvation, as is done in Michigan with deer.

An expert suggested that 3,000 elephants be killed and the meat given to the people, so that the remaining elephants would not starve to death. He was asked to leave the country.

THE LESLIE-MELVILLES meet many celebrities drawn to Africa to view the animals. Walter Cronkite turned up with his wife and two children. Two hundred sides out in the bush, Cronkite's son Chip became ill with what his father diagnosed as appendicitis.

They found it impossible to find a doctor, even though they drove to find help through the bush at night when there is considerable danger from animals.

They were also unable to reach the flying doctor by radio, and Chip was getting sicker. Then Cronkite dredged up the name of a doctor he had conversed with briefly at a party in Nairobi before leaving for animal country.

He managed to get through to him by phone. The doctor flew in with the morning light, and got Chip to a hospital where he underwent a successful operation to have his appendix removed.

TICKETS ARE STILL available for two future Livonia Town Hall concerts, including a lecture by Marjorie Kunz on fashion on Jan. 18 and another by film actor Roddy McDowall March 15. The price is $8 for the two speeches.

To obtain tickets send a check payable to Livonia Town Hall Inc. to Mrs. Jack Kirksey, 32710 Barkley, Livonia 48154.

Tickets for the celebrity luncheons that follow cost $5 each, and can be secured by mailing a check to Livonia Town Hall Box 2143, Livonia 48154. The luncheon after the Marjorie Kunz talk will be in Nicky's at Livonia Idyl Wyld Golf Course, Five Mile, east of Levon.

Children often get up at night to find comfort from their mothers. But giraffes? Having adopted a giraffe who regarded her as "mother," Betty Leslie-Melville was startled one night by a tall, pajamed visitor. (Art work by Glenna Merillat)

Juried art society exhibit, sale opens

The second annual exhibit and sale sponsored by the Plymouth Juried Art Society will open Friday for a three-day run in the Plymouth Cultural Center, 525 Farmer Street, Plymouth.

Hours will be 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. Dec. 2 and 3, and 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Dec. 4. There will be no admission charge.

Artists are requested to take their works to the center between 6 and 9 p.m. Dec. 1. All entries must be framed with an overall size limit of 24x36 inches. Each artist must pay an entry fee of $2 per picture. For further information, artists can call Audrey Paul, 459-1265, or Betty Manthey, 459-1839.

Categories will be oil, acrylic, watercolor, pastel, drawing, mixed media, sculpture, graphics and photography. All works must be original, recent and not shown in last year's exhibit.

Juror of the show will be Sr. M. Angeline, chairperson of the art department, Madonna College. She is professor of art history and creative arts and had designed occasion cards and visual aids for elementary schools. She instructs painting in various media at the college for credits and in adult education classes.

Sr. M. ANGELINE

Sr. Angeline is an experienced judge and juror of art shows. She earned her MFA in sculpture at the Catholic University of America, Washington, D.C. and her Ph.D. in the history of fine arts at the University of Michigan.

AAUW funds scholarship

The University of Michigan Center for Continuing Education of Women has received a $300 scholarship grant from the Plymouth branch of the American Association of University Women.

The contribution will help a woman who lives in the Plymouth Canton School District and who is continuing her education at the University of Michigan.

Seven women have received grants given by the branch since 1970. The women have returned to school to pursue programs in gerontology, anthropology, pharmacy, occupational education and educational psychology.

Women in the local school district who are interested in applying for the scholarship for the 1977-78 academic year should contact the Center for Continuing Education of Women, 328-330 Thompson, Ann Arbor, Mich. 48109. Telephone is 763-1353.

GIANT RUMMAGE SALE
Growthworks and the Colonial Kiwanis Club of Plymouth are planning a rummage sale from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Dec. 3 in the Growthworks Building, 261 S. Main, Plymouth.

A large collection of furniture, appliances, clothes, toys and some antiques have been assembled for the sale.

PLYMOUTH NEWCOMERS

Plymouth Newcomers annual Christmas tea will be Dec. 1 in First United Methodist Church, North Territorial west of Sheldon. There is no charge for the tea, which is open to members and prospective members.

Tea, coffee and Christmas cookies will be served 12:30-2:30 p.m. Entertainment will be provided by the eighth grade West Middle School chorus.

Baby sitting reservations are a must and can be made by calling Sheryl Biskak, 455-3988, before 2 p.m. Nov. 29. Santa will visit with treats for the children.

AWARD WINNING FILM

"The Bonding Birth Experience," a 1977 film will be shown at 8 p.m. Nov. 30 in Room 128 of Plymouth Canton High School. Persons are asked to use the first entrance north of the main entrance. The school is on Canton Center Road just south of Joy.

The film, sponsored by the Childbirth and Family Resource Center Ltd. of Plymouth, is a birth documentary capturing the initial moments of family attachment. Also to be shown is "Preparation for Breastfeeding," a

HOLIDAY LUNCHEON

Plymouth National Farm and Garden Association will have a holiday luncheon at noon Dec. 6 in First United Methodist Church of Plymouth, North Territorial Road, west of Sheldon.

Holiday table settings will be featured and boutique items will be for sale.

Tickets at $4 are available to the public by calling ticket chairman Mylene Schultz, 455-4427, or Elaine Pierce, 453-0670. Number of tickets is limited.

PANCAKE BREAKFASTS

Mayflower Auxiliary 6886 of the VFW will serve pancake breakfasts the first Sunday of each month from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the VFW Hall, 1426 Mill Street, Plymouth. Eggs, toast and rolls are available for those who don't like pancakes.

McClellands mark 50th anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander McClelland of North Territorial Road, Plymouth, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary at a dinner party at Hillside Inn.

The party was arranged by the couple's three sons, Alan J. of Clawson, Gerald P. of Royal Oak, and Thomas D. of Howell. The couple also has six grandsons.

Alexander McClelland and Dorothy Baumgartner were married Nov. 5, 1927 in Salem. He is retired from the Ford Motor Company, Dearborn.

Over-30 hockey stars shine

Adistra, an over-30 team in the Plymouth Canton Hockey Association, has broken every record in its four-year history. The men won two games in the first round of the season and have moved out of last place.

Hardly spectacular, you may scoff, but this team has placed last each season with a no-win record. Neither could they gain a victory in practice sessions.

But all that has changed. The Red Wings aren't the only ones playing aggressive hockey. The team, sponsored by the Adistra Corp. in Plymouth, scored its first victory Nov. 10 against the Blazers with Ken Monberg and Dick Gray responsible for the goals.

The first period saw the men down

by two points but it was evened out midway through the second. Another score in the third brought them that long-sought first win.

The celebration lasted into the wee hours. Little did they know that Nov. 20 would add another feather to their caps.

The adversaries this time out were the Fish. Adistra led into the second period when their opponents struck back and tied the score.

A final goal completed a hat trick by Dick Gray in the third period and settled the score 4-3. The other goal was a Jim Wellman special.

Victories in any sport are a team effort and Adistra is no exception. There are defensemen like John Wilson, Bill Miller, Maurice Roach, Jeff Jones, Ralph Brickman and Walter Chapoton.

The forwards on first line are Dick Gray, Mat Kocik and Bill Cousins. On the second line are Gary Brickman, Tom Olesky and Ken Monberg, with the third composed of Frank Fauer, Jim Wellman and Jan Hard.

The team's goalie, Steve Jenks, is having an outstanding season and is being compared to Ron Low of the Wings. He and fellow teammates had a chance to see the Red Wings in action last Wednesday night.

The players took their special ladies to Olympia Stadium where Detroit faced off against the first place Philadelphia Flyers. It was an action-packed evening for the audience, and for Adistra. The enthusiasm may carry them through their next game and a third victory.

OFF THE ICE rink, aggression seems to have its drawbacks. Members of the American Association of University Women, Plymouth Branch, learned more about the skills necessary in expressing oneself at their November meeting.

Sandra Prochaska, from the Associated Counseling Services, located on North Main in Plymouth, was the guest speaker. She presented a workshop on assertiveness training.

Mrs. Prochaska is a counselor, teacher, psychotherapist and clinical social worker. She also has advanced training in transactional analysis and family services counseling.

Learning to be direct, honest and appropriate in expressing yourself is important to the working woman but equally so to those who are not employed outside the home. Each encounters problems in public on a daily basis as anyone who talks to a repairman or returns a purchase to the store may attest.

Branch member Peggy Fisher shared a very comprehensive definition of assertiveness. Three positions in life for dealing with others are passive, assertive and aggressive.

If you are in the passive position, someone is over you telling you what to do; therefore you are one down and unequal. If you are in an aggressive position you are over someone telling them what to do; therefore you are one up and unequal.

If you are in an assertive position, you are talking to and getting feedback from another person in a direct, honest relationship. You are equal.

AAUW membership chairman Carol Heisher welcomed several new members joining the branch this month. Florence Beier is administrative assistant to school Supt. John Hoben. She has degrees from Stanford and the University of Michigan.

Jan Carson is an elementary music teacher with a BS and MA from Eastern Michigan University. Jane Emery teaches first grade at Bird School. Debbie Maloni also teaches in the Plymouth Canton system having received education degrees at Indiana University and Purdue.

Mary Grinnell was an education major at Miami University in Oxford, Ohio. Cynthia Hennig, a Wayne State grad, is working part-time in the Sparky program for the Wayne-Westland Schools.

Elizabeth O'Mara and Mary Thomas are both EMU alumnae. Amy Raffel, a first grade teacher in Milford, is a graduate of Eastern and Wesleyan College.

CONGRATULATIONS to James and Betty Territo in the celebration of their 35th anniversary Nov. 18. The couple lives in Royal Holiday Park in Canton.

More than 50 friends and relatives gathered in the Fenton home of their daughter, Theresa Morche, for the festivities. Their son, James Territo of Detroit, was on hand to co-host his parent's special afternoon.

Mrs. Territo commented on marriage in general. "The first 10 years are the toughest, after that it's wonderful!"

CHUCK SKENE, director of City of Plymouth Parks and Recreation Department, received the big block M treatment again this year.

Last Monday morning following the Ohio State-University of Michigan football game, his office in the Plymouth Cultural Center had been decorated with maize and blue—not his favorite colors.

Chuck isn't as pro Ohio University as he is anti U-M.

AND THEN THERE'S a touching Thanksgiving story as related by our Canton Observer editor, Craig Piechura.

It was several years ago. Craig was sharing a flat with another young journalist. Both were just about dead broke and the rent was due.

But it turned out to be a memorable day. They had turkey—several turkeys.

The only edible thing in their cupboard was a box of pancake mix. They carefully poured the batter for each pancake in the shape of a turkey.

Mrs. Piechura and Mrs. Erikson may have shed a sentimental tear over their sons' turkey pancakes. But it's not difficult to imagine the aesthetic joy of creation that went into their design.

Besides, it makes a good story.
