WHAT'S INSIDE

In the mood

The holiday social season arrived officially Saturday evening with the Symphony Ball in the Mayflower Meeting House. Tuesday's Holiday Luncheon and boutique sponsored by the Plymouth Branch, Woman's National Farm and Garden Association also did its bit to get everyone in a Christmas mood. For stories and pictures turn to the Suburban Life section in today's Observer.

Terry Giese has started a new business in Plymouth in which he processes strip-mine coal from Kentucky and sells it to major retail outlets, such as Meijer Thrifty Acres in Canton. See Page 3A for story and pictures.

Salem cagers

Man puts his life 'on line' to rescue downed pilot

When Douglas Shumard took his 4-year-old son to Mettetal Airport to watch the planes take off and land, he never planned to demonstrate how heroes act—but that's just what he did.

Shumard, a Plymouth Township resident, hadn't been at the Canton Township airport more than five minutes Saturday when a helicopter he and his son Jim were watching crashed and caught fire.

Despite the real threat of an explosion, Shumard entered the burning aircraft to save the unconscious pilot's life and worked alone to free the man from the wreckage until more help arrived.

After his rescue, the pilot, Frank Thomas, 45, of Highland, was taken to Wayne County General Hospital where he was listed in satisfactory condition Monday. Thomas' wife Mary, the only passenger, was treated at the hospital and released.

SHUMARD ran to the burning helicopter seconds after the crash. Mrs. Thomas had already crawled out. Shumard rushed to help as she collapsed on the ground.

"Then someone in the crowd shouted, 'Get back. It's going to blow,'" recalled Shumard, still visibly shaken by the event. "That made me come to a complete stop. I used to be a pilot myself, and I knew an explosion was a distinct possibility."

Shumard said he could see the unconscious Thomas pinned inside the aircraft. No one in the crowd of 15 to 20 persons appeared ready to offer any help.

"I just felt someone had to do something, so I ran ahead," said the Ford Motor Co. marketing analyst.

"The pilot was unconscious, and everything behind the pilot's cabin was in flames," Shurmard said. "I tried to pull him out, but something was jamming him in. I moved the control stick and tried to lift him, but he was too heavy for me."

It was then Pat Monks, general manager of Hi-Lift Helicopter, and Jim Fulkerson creeped up behind Shumard to lend a hand. Dave Dice rushed in with a fire extinguisher to douse the flames.

"I NEVER EVEN saw these other fellows," said the 35-year-old Shumard. "The only conversation I had was when I said, 'Hold it. I've got to get his hand.'"

After the trio rescued Thomas from the burning aircraft—which never did explode—Shumard rushed back to his wide-eyed son.

"I was totally covered with blood, and I was afraid he'd be severely upset," Shumard said. "Fortunately, he was too young to really understand what was going on. He seemed to think it was an air show that we purposely went to see."

According to Monks, the tail rotor of the helicopter dug into the ground during landing. The aircraft rolled onto its side and caught fire.

County cops tout contract with Canton

Disgruntled over the ho-hum attitude given to a similar proposal last month, the Wayne County Sheriff's Department Tuesday took another stab at convincing Canton board members to sign a contract with the sheriff's department for police protection.

This time it was Wayne County Undersheriff Loren Pittman who took the podium in the Canton meeting hall and called a contract with the sheriff's department an "efficient and relatively inexpensive" way of providing 24-hour police protection.

Jamil Akhtar, president of Wayne County Sheriff's Local 502, spoke similar words from the same podium on Nov. 1, when he asked township board members to sign one of three contracts with the sheriff's department for 24-hour patrol.

BOTH MEMBERS of the sheriff's department had their eyes on the two mills ($2 per $1,000 state equalized value) that Canton voters approved for police protection last August. In Canton, two mills represent $450,000.

But, as in November, township board members did not appear enthusiastic over the sheriff's department proposal. The board has already approved a $450,000 budget for a full-time Canton Police Department and okd the hiring of four full-time police sergeants.

Supervisor Harold Stein raised his hands and laughed when asked about the proposed contract with the county law enforcement agency.

"I don't know. I just don't know," he laughed.

Clerk John Flodin, who's also chairman of the township's police commission, repeated a statement he made after Akhtar's presentation last month when he said township board members would probably not even discuss the proposed contractual arrangement.

"If some member of the board wants to discuss it, it will be discussed," he said. "But it seems the board has already taken a direction to start our own police department."

Pittman, who said he represented Sheriff William Lucas at Tuesday's meeting, proposed a slightly different police protection package than Akhtar offered last month.

PITTMAN SAID the county law enforcement agency would place eight full-time sheriff deputies at Canton's disposal for an annual cost of $314,000.

One deputy would be assigned to Canton on the day shift, two would be assigned to the afternoon shift, and three would be assigned to the midnight shift. Two other officers would be assigned to relief duty.

In addition, Pittman said a traffic unit and a township patrol already assigned to Canton and other out-county townships would continue to patrol Canton streets.

Under Akhtar's proposal, the township would pay the sheriff's department $225,000 to $431,000 for one of three contractual arrangments providing for varying degrees of police protection.

"My real purpose here tonight is to tell you that law enforcement is not cheap," Pittman told township board members. "I'm well aware that someone from our department has already spoken to you and that you are considering starting your own police department.

Pittman came to the meeting equipped with budgets of police departments in nearby communities which ranged from $2.3 to $3 million. He insinuated that township board members could expect a similar budget for a full-time Canton Police Department in the not-too-distant future.

"IF YOU DECIDE to start your own agency, you can rest assured that you'll be at the bargaining table with professional police union officials for more wages and better working conditions," he predicted.

Pittman noted that the proposed contract with the sheriff's department already reflects union-scale wages.

He said township officials concerned about the "home-rule" concept should be comforted by the department's intentions to give deputies who live in Canton "first crack" at the Canton Township patrol.

"Whatever you decide to do is going to be expensive," Pittman reiterated. "I'm not here to preclude the possibility of forming your own police department. I just hope you consider the less expensive alternative."

Developers promise paving; rec center finally approved

Construction of The Center, a huge recreational complex proposed for a site on Haggerty near Ford, should begin next spring, provided the Wayne County Road Commission (WCRC) carries out its promise to sign a contract for the paving of Haggerty.

A cautious Canton Board of Trustees, which until now has stymied developers' plans to begin construction of the controversial project, finally approved The Center's site plans Tuesday night after months of delay.

A proposed contract, requiring the developers to finance the county's share of paving a 950-foot strip of Haggerty, from a point 300 feet south of Ford to The Center's entrance, unlocked board members' indecision on the project and prompted the 4-2 vote on site plan approval.

Trustees Lynne Goldsmith and Brian Schwall voted against the project, and Trustee Robert Myers was absent.

Ms. Goldsmith said she favored a proposal made by the Canton board last September, that required the developers to pave Haggerty before construction work on The Center began.

"It's not that I'm against The Center," she said. "It's just that I want more guarantees that Haggerty will be paved, and a timetable for the paving. I'm concerned about the impact construction (of the Center) will have on (an unpaved) Haggerty."

BUT NED APIGIAN, architect-planner of the project, insisted that the developers are more than willing to finance the WCRC's share of paving the 950-foot strip of Haggerty during "next year's paving season."

He noted that the contract drawn up by the WCRC would force the developers to carry out their promise.

Under the contract, the developers would pay $69,000 or 30 per cent of the county's share of the paving project. The State of Michigan is expected to use federal funds to finance the remaining 70 per cent.

In addition, the state has promised to pave Haggerty 300 feet north and south of Ford. If a proposed WCRC bond issue passes early next spring, the county says it would probably pave the remaining portion of Haggerty to Cherry Hill for an estimated cost of $250,000.

The contract between the WCRC and developers of The Center would be nullified, however, if the State of Michigan vetoes the use of federal funds for the 950-foot paving project.

Township Clerk John Flodin is confident, however, that the state will approve the use of federal funds.

"I spoke to Bob Larson, planning director of the WCRC, about this," Flodin said. "Larson said they have every reason to expect that they will get this federal money. He assured me that the Wayne County Road Commission will sign this contract at its Thursday meeting."

Site plan approval given to developers of The Center, however, simply requires that the Wayne County Road Commission sign the proposed contract. If Haggery is not paved because federal funds are not allocated, The Center can still be built.

Developers' plans for the 16-acre site on Haggerty near Ford call for construction of bowling lanes, a bar, racquetball courts, tennis courts and a movie theater under the roof of the mammoth recreation complex.

Patients' fate debated

Attorneys representing Wayne County and patients at the Reuther Long Term Care facility in Westland will meet in federal district court today (Thursday) to thrash out a plan for patients' "orderly transfer elsewhere."

If attornies are unable to reach an agreement, federal Judge Ralph Freeman is expected to impose his own plan.

Jim Jackson, attorney for Reuther patients, had filed suit in federal court requesting a preliminary injunction to prevent the county from transfering patients out of the Reuther facility.

Instead of issuing his own opinion, Jackson said Freeman "adopted the state circuit court decision" which denied a request for a temporary injunction in a similar suit filed originally in Wayne County Circuit Court.

"He decided not to disturb the state court's finding," said Jackson, adding that the judge "did not consider" differences between the two suits.

Storm strikes suddenly

More than six inches of snow was dumped on Canton Monday, causing schools to close and drivers to creep along the highways. Police reported a number of small accidents but no major injuries. (Staff photo by Gary Caskey)

Kids find drugs in dumpster

A pharmaceutical salesman who, police said, "thought he was disposing of some unwanted drug samples safely" dropped about 7,000 Tolectin pills in a dumpster Monday near Sunflower subdivision, on Canton Center Road near the west side of Warren. If taken in excess, the pills can cause internal bleeding.

Some young children playing by the dumpster found the pills around 5:30 p.m., Monday and took several to their parents. The parents called the Wayne County Sheriff Department.

"We came out and recovered all of the pills," said Sgt. Edward Glomb. "To our knowledge nobody swallowed any of them, and we don't think there are any left unaccounted for."

Tolectin is manufactured by McNeil Laboratories, Inc. of Fort Washington, Pa. It is prescribed by physicians, according to Glomb, to "relieve the symptoms of rheumatoid arthritis."

However, Glomb said, if taken in large quantities, one of the side effects of the drug can be internal bleeding.

Glomb said the salesman who put the pills in the dumpster wanted to get rid of the samples. "We know who the man is," he said. "He is not being charged with anything. He just wasn't thinking of all the possibilities when he threw the samples away."

As a precaution, however, Glomb said the sheriff department notified all schools in Canton so that teachers would be on the lookout for sample boxes of the pill. He said parents who live in the area should also check with their children to make sure they didn't pick up any of the samples.

"It was just very lucky that the kids who found them took them right home and showed their parents," Glomb said. "We are not expecting any problems from this."

Things ESY students can do

Some ideas of activities in the Plymouth community have been made to students at Pioneer Middle School who are on the Extended School Year (ESY) schedule.

The suggestions were made in a recent school bulletin. Among the activities available are:

•The Penn Theater has Wednesday 1 p.m. matinee for students who are on vacation.

•The Plymouth Community Cultural Center will be open for ice skating from 1-3 p.m. daily. The normal fee is 75 cents for a special rate of 50 cents is offered for students on ESY schedules.

•A special activity available to all students, but especially timely for students on Track A, is a one-day science tour to Toronto on Dec. 14 at $28 per person, offered by Plymouth Parks and Recreation Department.

Fossil fuel venture here processes fireplace coal

By GLENN BUNTING

When people drive down Amelia Street in Plymouth, they probably are not aware of a one-week-old company there called Fossil Fuels, Inc. And chances are if they happen to catch a glimpse of the company logo, it won't leave much of an impression.

But behind the small, ordinary-looking factory stands an unusual business destined to become a permanent fixture in the Plymouth-Canton area, according to owner Terry Giese.

Giese's firm produces Kentucky strip-mined coal for fireplace burning. This is the first year coal has been processed for fireplace use and 15 other companies have already penetrated the market.

The fireplace coal is expected to make its local debut on the shelves of Meijer Thrifty Acres in Canton beginning next week. Fossil Fuels, Inc. is the only coal-processing firm in Michigan.

"The fireplace manufacturing industry is really competitive—it's going bananas," said Giese, a 1975 University of Michigan graduate. "Coal is a natural fuel alternative that is more economical than wood because it burns longer and with more intense heat. It also burns cleaner with low ashes and easy clean-up."

GIESE SAID one 25-pound bag of fireplace coal will provide homeowners with 16-18 hours of burn time for $2.95. Fireplace logs, which have been on the market the past two years, sell for $1 apiece at 2-3 hours burn time.

The strip-mined coal is sent to Plymouth from Pikeville, Ky. via the C&O Railroad. The railroad cars are parked behind the Fossil Fuels building, where the coal is dropped into an undertrack feeder. From there, the coal is fed inside the building by a conveyer belt, where it is packaged and sealed in 25 and 40-pound bags.

The coal is processed and screened in four-inch lumps at the company's loading dock in Kentucky. Giese said it is less expensive to package his product here than to prepare the coal in Kentucky and deliver it north on trucks.

The United Mine Workers strike, which began Tuesday at midnight, will only have minimal effects on th e local coal operation, Giese said.

"Our workers in Kentucky are non-union so we don't expect any work stoppage. But the unions generally set up picket lines and slow production. Things get pretty hectic down there for the first month, so we'll honor the pickets.

"I've ordered seven cars of coal to keep us going until things settle down. Once the strike has been on for a while, we don't expect any problems."

GIESE HOPES to undercut the coal brokerages serving the auto industries in metropolitan Detroit "We should be able to offer coal at cheaper prices and penetrate the brokerage market, too."

Although producing coal is a seasonal business, Fossil Fuels won't have any problems keeping busy this summer.

"The first indication from the major store chains is that they want us to bring the coal in their warehouses in June and July for distribution in September. In the summer, our machines can process stones, seed, salt and fertilizer," Giese said.

Giese suggests using the coal as a supplement to firewood because it is difficult to light. Once lit, however, coal can be continuously added to the fire.

Homeowners are urged to use heavy wire screens to hold the hot coals as normal grates for wood burning will not suffice. Fireplace screens also are a necessity because of the intense heat, Giese said. The coals burn at temperatures reaching 450 degrees Fahrenheit.

"The potential of coal as an alternative energy source is explosive. It's going to play a more important role in our everyday lives from now on. This is a new marketing idea that is catching on very well," Giese said.

Besides Meijer's, Giese is talking to Montgomery Wards, Penney's and Kmart. Fossil Fuels also will stock many independent oil stores in the northern portion of the state.

Longtime residents recall area's biggest blizzards

By W.W. EDGAR

When the Plymouth community was pelted with seven inches of snow Monday and traffic was tied up, an old question arose—what was the heaviest snowfall the area ever experienced?

There have been many heavy snowfalls through the years, but if you ask Harold Fischer, the real estate man born in Plymouth 55 years ago, he wouldn't hesitate to tell you it occurred during the winter in the early 1950s.

"I grew up at the corner of Haggerty and Plymouth Road, and the worst snow I ever saw there came in the early 1950s when Plymouth Road was blocked.

"I'll never forget it because it was during that storm that I got my first lesson in business. I learned that you never unhook the chains when you help a motorist out of the ditch until he pays you. I helped about eight fellows out of the ditch during that storm. No sooner were they out than they started the motor, raced away and left me standing with the chains and hook."

As Fischer recalled it about 19 inches of snow fell on that occasion and the high winds caused the snow to drift into mounds four and five feet high on Plymouth Road and he hasn't seen them that high since.

KEN VOGRAS, director of the public works department for the City of Plymouth who has been on the job for close to two decades, calls the snow storm of 1965 the worst he has experienced in the DPW.

"It was so bad that Joe Bida, then head of the department, sent me down to Livonia to the Miller Equipment Co. to rent extra equipment to help remove the snow. And the traffic was so bad that I had to drive the equipment through the fields to get back to Plymouth.

"The snow was about 19 inches and blew in drifts so high in the open spaces that then existed between Livonia and Plymouth, that the roads were almost unpassable. So, I did the next best thing—I cut through the fields."

While commenting on the snow Vogras expressed a hope that the snow never gets any deeper—and never as high as the 30 and 40 inches in Buffalo.

"Our people wouldn't know what to do," Vogras said. "They are accustomed to running to the market everytime they need milk or groceries. They'd panic if it ever got bad. That's why we emphasize on getting the Plymouth streets and roads as clear as soon as possible after a snow."

THERE WAS A humorous side to the heavy snows of other days when some of the farmers out in the wide open spaces along Beck and Napier roads made us use a few tricks to pick up money in the winter.

"There was one farmer out there," Earl West, another long-time resident recalled, "Who made the most of the bad roads during the winter.

"He'd deliver his milk in the morning and then, in the afternoon and evening, he'd take the milk cans, fill them with water, and pour the water into the holes so they wouldn't dry up. Then he'd spend his spare time getting the motorists out of trouble."

West hastened to add that most of the roads were dirt roads in those days and given to "explosions" during the winter and spring.

Secretarial firm opens

A new secretarial serivce has opened its doors at 45450 Ford Road, Canton Township.

Community Secretarial Services offers complete secretarial services to businesses which want to supplement the work of their present staffs or who don't have staff secretaries.

"We provide a full line of secretarial services, including answering telephones, preparing and mailing statements, handling correspondence—even typesetting and printing," Ms. Davis says.

"With labor costs constantly increasing, it is difficult for businesspeople, especially owners of small businesses, to hire the size staffs they really need. We offer efficient secretarial work which will help the businesspeople who work on a narrow profit margin as well as those whose businesses are expanding at unanticipated rates."

Canton investor heads court firm

The company, which includes Time, Inc. as a minority stockholder, is headed by Craig Hall, 27, who is general partner of Honeytree Apartments in Canton and the Lemontree Apartments in Van Buren.

The company plans to invest at least $125 million in opening 100 racquetball courts over the next four years. It already has five clubs open—all in Michigan—and has six more under construction, including one in Belleville.

The firm's Off-the-Wall University, which provides training for club managers and teaching pros, is located at Lemontree.

AS BEFITS its Belleville-Van Buren ties, the club will be the most luxurious in the Sports Illustrated Court Club chain.

The $1½ million, 12-court facility is coming out of the ground at the intersection of the south I-94 service drive and Denton Road—just west of Lemontree. Completion is scheduled for March 1.

One feature will be a completely glass-enclosed racquetball court for better viewing of tournament matches. The club will be an active bidder for major tournaments, Hall says.

An amphitheatre viewing area, overlooking the glass courts, will include a bar and lounge—the chain's first.

Other features include a co-ed whirlpool, saunas, exercise rooms, and nursery facilities. "We are building a workingperson's country club," said Hall.

MEMBERSHIP IN THE club will carry guest privileges at all other Sports Illustrated Court Clubs. Clubs already open are in Ann Arbor, Flint, Lansing and two in Kalamazoo.

Clubs under construction are in Lansing and Saginaw, South Bend and Fort Wayne, Ind., Youngstown, Ohio, and Pittsburgh.

Nurses to receive additional training

Registered nurses employed in emergency room care, are among those who will receive special training in delivery of primary emergency service through a grant awarded to the emergency medical technology department of Madonna College, Livonia.

Under the expanded program, funded by a grant of $38,337 from the U.S. Health, Education amd Welfare Department's division of medicine, 60 advanced medical technicians, 4o in—service RN's, and 10 pre— service RN's will enroll in a new curriculum during the 1977—78 school year.

"This new interdisciplinary approach will give EMT's and RN's a better understanding of their roles in emergency care, and ultimmately imporve the transition between pre—hospital and hospital care," said Diane Kryzsyton, director of EMT programs at Madonna.

The three—course program consists of a total of twelve semester hours. It will include classroom lectures, and observation and experience in ambulance service.

Films, tapes and other audio—tutorial equipment will be available in the health instruction center at Madonna. Sites for clinical Hopital, Southfield, the Detroit Emergency Medical service, several local fire departments and private ambulance companies. Completion of the program will apply toward a two-year associate degree or a four-year baccalaureate degree in health care.

JCs vs. DJs for the library

The Canton Jaycees have formed a basketball team and is practicing for a challenge game against WDRQ disc jockeys to raise money for the Canton Library Fund.

The benefit cage contest will begin at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 15, in the gymnasium of Central Middle School, Church Street at Main Street, Plymouth.

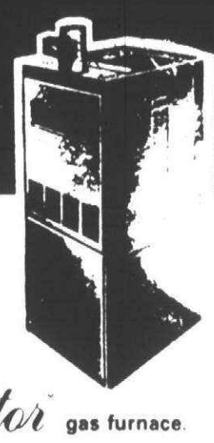

Advance tickets are $1, and tickets at the door will be $1.25. Persons interested in advance tickets should contact Edwin N. Rasmussen Jr. of 42066 Brookview Court, Canton. Rasmussen, a director of the Canton Township Jaycees, is responsible for the benefit game.

CEP musicians are Chicago bound

The Plymouth Centennial Educational Park symphony band and director James R. Griffith will travel to the Windy City to perform at the Midwest National Band and Orchestra Directors' Clinic at Chicago's Conrad Hilton Hotel.

The band, which has been rehearsing daily for its Dec. 17 engagement, and 22 chaperones will leave on chartered buses Dec. 16. Money for expenses was raised by band members and their families.

Following Saturday morning's formal concert before an expected audience of more than 2,000, the Plymouth group will tour the Museum of Science and Industry in the afternoon, and will cap off the trip by attending a Saturday evening Candlelight Dinner Playhouse performance of "Sound of Music."

TO BECOME ELIGIBLE for the clinic, in which only six other high school bands from throughout the nation will take part, Plymouth had to have the recommendations of three college band directors.

Presenting Plymouth's bid were bandmaster Harold Arnoldi of Wayne State University, Thad Hagerberg of Michigan State University, and John Long, dean of the school of music at Troy State University in Troy, Ala.

Other rules of the clinic are that at least 60 per cent of the music performed must be new material published between Sept. 20, 1976, and Sept. 19, 1977. No selection is to exceed eight minutes in length, and a minimum of 10 numbers must be performed.

Distributing the playing time equally between music at levels one to five (with five being the most difficult) also is a requirement for the bands participating.

Clarinets include Jeanne Schumacher, Donna Smiatacz, Diane Routson, Ann Lattin, Dennis Hafley, Dave Bewernitz, Kathi Gladden, Coleen Osborne, Lynn Kummer, Robin Bolly, Margaret Kaziak, Clarisse Hartnett, Karen Schnoen, Debbie Weil, Michelle Heskett, Grace Cumming, Linda Nurmi, Kim Nance, Jeanne Adams, Susan Dobel, Linda Koch and Roger Hewett.

Penni Ickes, Connie McCue, Kim Wittrick and Linda Vincent make up the alto clarinets, and Karen Hopper, Sue Busha, Linda Jacobs and Mark Posthill, the bass clarinets.

Matt Schroeder and Greg Carl are the band's bass players, and the percussionists include Karen McKeon, Peter Lee, Randy Merritt, Mary Stevenson, John Sartori, Brent Tucker, Jerry Swantek, Cathie Materyn, Debbie Feole and Ted Johnson.

CHAPERONES FOR the trip include Ann Griffith, the director's wife; Roberta Gladden, who was the secretary of the parents' committee in preparing for the trip; Elizabeth See, Russell and Ruth Koepke, who arranged entertainment for the band in Chicago; Dennis McVittie; Art Davis; Fred and Olga DeLano; Jacob and Nancy Weil; Jerry and Helen Moyer; Harold and Gwen Muenchow; Ted Thrasher; Bill and Jean Upton; Maryann Butash; and Marlene Donoghue, a registered nurse who has volunteered to look after the health needs of the group.

Others who helped to get the trip off the ground included: Alva Holk, records secretary and treasurer; Clyde Nichols, in charge of having Plymouth programs printed for distribution at the Chicago concert; John Lynch, corresponding secretary; and Linda Lynch, who was in charge of all hotel arrangements.

Overpass question still unanswered

The long-standing question of what Plymouth should do about traffic delays at railroad crossings is being resurrected by the city commission.

But there appears to be little chance of an answer in the near future.

The city would like to find a way to put in an overpass either at the Farmer Street crossing or at Main Street but feels that the cost is beyond reason.

According to City Mger. Fred Yockey, an engineering study to determine the best location for an overpass would cost about $45,000. The overpass itself would cost approximately $4 million.

"There's no question that figure is way beyond anything the city could justify," said Mayor Thomas Turner. "We'll have to wait until there's federal money available to make up some of the cost."

However, Yockey told the commission that a number of different sources told him there is no money available for either the study or the overpass, at this time.

"Even if we wanted to study it, we'd have to pay the whole amount. The question is do we want to spend that much money for something that's way in the future," he said.

Turner said the city could have the study done and "on the shelf" in case federal money became available. Then there would be no time delay in submitting the application."

"As you know, there is often a 60 or 90 day deadline on some of these programs. If we had something all ready to go our chances of getting approval might be better."

Other commissioners argues that spending $45,000 on a study would be "throwing good money after bad" because the possibility of building an overpass is so remote.

The commission decided to hold off its decision on spending the money for the study until the annual budget is put together next spring.

Appointments are announced

There's going to be a whole lot of new faces on various boards and commissions in the City of Plymouth.

Newly-elected Mayor Thomas Turner exercised his mayoral perogative, and made his selections for the cemetery board, personnel service appeal board, municipal building authority, board of review, zoning board of appeals, and the planning commission.

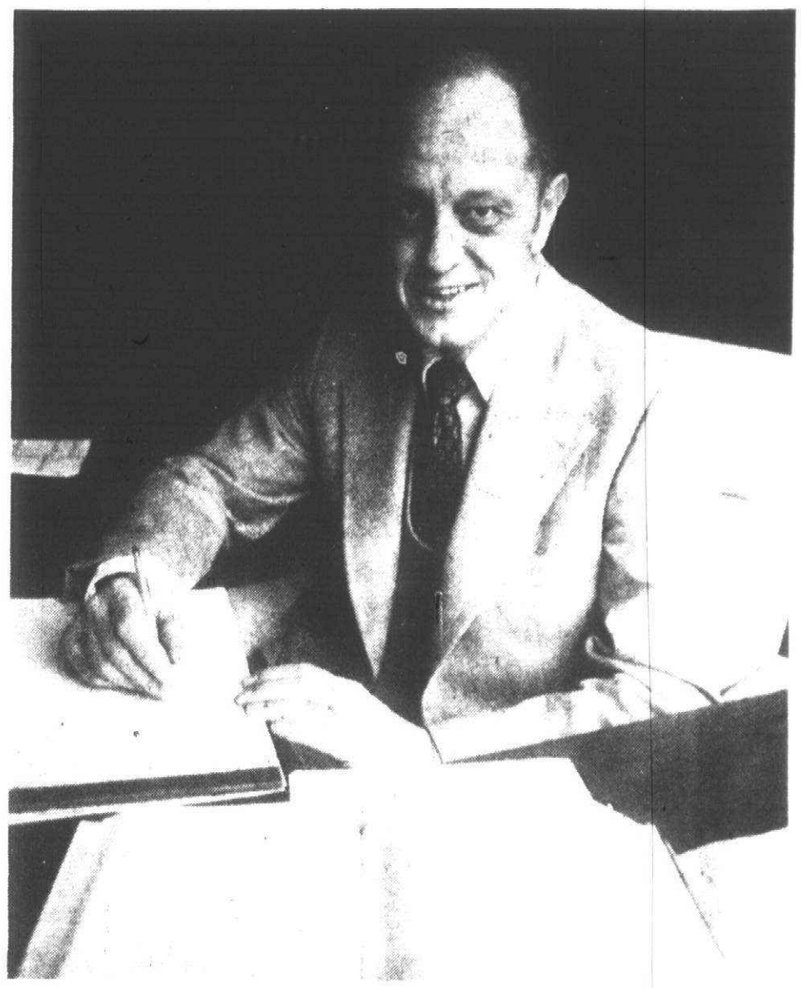

Edmond H. Judd was Turner's choice for the cemetery board. He will replace ex-mayor Joseph Bida who left office in November. Judd is employed by Associated Spring, and his term will expire July 1, 1978.

Cred Hadley was reabbointed to the board of review until Jan. 1, 1981. William Hartmann was reappointed to his seat with the municipal building authority. His term ends Nov. 12, 1980.

Wilma Newton, a retired Michigan Bell employee, will be the new member of the personnel service appeal board until June 30.

Alfred Thoman was appointed to the zoning board of appeals until Dec. 1, 1978 and reappointed to the planning commission until Dec. 31, 1980. Alvin G. Folger, an employee of Ford Motor Co., was the new appointment to the ZBA.

Ken Christensen also was reappointed to the planning commission until December 1980. New appointments to the planning commission were Peter Schwitzer and Clay Fechter. Schwitzer is employed by the Plymouth Center for Human Development.

State share of driver training expense dips

Driver education programs in state public schools cost nearly $11.4 million last year, an increase of 7.3 per cent from the previous year.

State Superintendent of Public Instruction John Porter said principal reasons for the increase were higher gas and insurance costs and the fact many districts must now lease cars which previously were loaned to them by dealers at no cost.

State reimbursement amounted to $5.3 million or 46 per cent compared to nearly 50 per cent the previous year. When the law mandating driver education was passed in 1955, the state supported the entire cost of the program but each year since the financial support has become less, Porter said.

Nearly half of the students enrolled in driver education programs last year learned how to drive on a driving range, operated by 128 school districts.

Range training is less expensive than on-the-road programs becuase one teacher can supervise up to five drivers at once, thus reducing instructor costs and gasoline consumption.

The failure rate for students taking driver education was about average last year—12 per cent.

However, 77 of the 524 districts that offered driver education reported everyone who took the course in their schools received a passing grade.

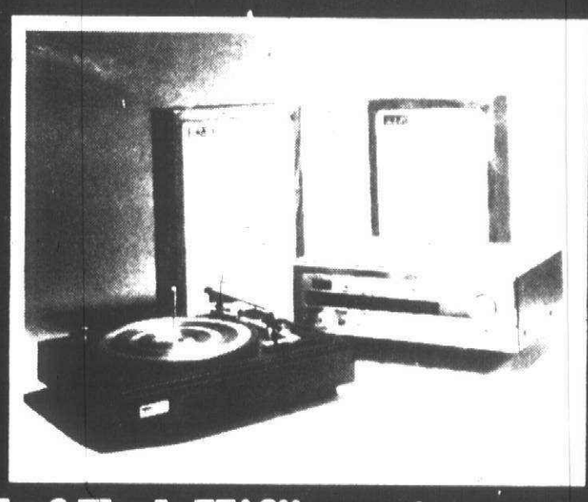

Musical revue set by Guild

The Theater Guild of Livonia-Redford will present a musical revue, "Pieces of Eight" at the Guild Playhouse, 15138 Beech Daly, Redford, Nov. 25-27 and Dec. 2, 3, 4, and 9, 10, 11 at 8:30 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays and 7:30 p.m. Sundays.

The show features music and skits from Broadway hits, ranging from Richard Rodgers first professional musical, "The Garrick Gaieties" of 1925, to Broadway's most recent hit, "Annie." The show's name originates from the eight performers, four men and four women, who are featured in musical pieces taken from many sources.

Tickets at $4 per person may be reserved by calling 421-3124.

Play safe.

All of Tech Hifi's systems come with this moneyback guarantee:
If there's anything you don't like about how a Tech Hifi system sounds or looks in your home, for up to seven days after your purchase we'll give your money back. No questions asked.
How can we make an offer like this?
We improve the chances you'll like your system by letting you play in our soundroom for as long as you like, comparing all the systems in your price range. So your ears will tell you which system gives you the best sound for your investment.
This $320 system gives you uncommonly clean sound. It combines Kenwood's KR2600 stereo receiver (with more power and useful features than any other in its class), a pair of KLH 100 Monitor Series loudspeakers, and the dependable BSR 2260A automatic turntable (ready to play, with an ADC magnetic cartridge). We think this modestly priced system offers excellent value.
But if you take it home and disagree, we'll give your money back.

Congress favorable towards keeping lakes open

By MICHAEL MATUSZEWSKI and TIM RICHARD

Suburban congressmen are intrigued by the idea of keeping the Great Lakes open to shipping all year, but no one is ready yet to start buying Finnish ice-breaking ships at $50 million or more apiece.

They have all heard former U.S. Ambassador to Finland Mark Austad advocate buying ice-breakers, but the mood so far is to continue Coast Guard alternative pilot program to facilitate winter shipping.

One area congressmen says lake ports would have to be improved. Others have questions about how many industries would really benefit from ice-free Great Lakes.

REP. DAVID BONIOR (D-Mt. Clemens), who also represents part of Rochester and Avon Township, noted the proposal's advantages and disadvantages.

"There would certainly be some advantages to those who mine and ship ore from Lake Superior down to Cleveland and Detroit. There would be similiar advantage to those transporting coal to utility companies in the area," he said.

There is great potential to ship Wheat Belt grain through the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence Seaway. "We haven't tapped that yet," Bonior said.

The Great Lakes area's failure to take advantageof its position in relation to the Midwestern Wheat Belt and the northern water route goes beyond the closure of the waterways by winter ice.

"Port development is in a terrible state. Port Huron is barely functioning. Detroit port needs help. We're not equipped for container cargo. We're way behind the times in our port technology and ability to serve.

"This has to be addressed especially when we're talking about food and commodities," said Bonior.

Although some have said proposals to take action to keep the lakes open through the winter would meet oppositionfrom coastal and Gulf shopping interests and Congressmen, Bonior said opposition would be minimal.

"I don't see us threatening the Gulf and coastal interests," he said. "We just don't do that much international shipping.

That may change, though, if the Great Lakes states can shore up their outdated ports, open up lake traffic year round, and tap the "vast potential" of shipping the grain of the Midwestern Wheat Belt.

See related story on 15A

U.S. REP. WILLIAM D. Ford (D-Taylor), whose 15th District includes Garden City, Westland and Canton Township, studied the matter in his role as vice-chairman of the Conference of Great Lakes Congressmen.

Congress showed interest in year-around shipping with the 1965 Rivers and Harbors Act, and in 1970 set up a demonstration program to test the benefits of year-around shipping, Ford said in an article for Waterways magazine.

Hopes rose, he said, when 15 million tons were shipped on the Great Lakes during the 1974-75 winter season (compared to 232 million tons in the nine warm months of 1973).

But the General Accounting Office raised several objections: Operating costs of keeping the lakes open would be triple the estimates; the winter cited was a mild one; how many industries would really benefit; and what was the effect of ice-breaking on hydroelectric power plants.

The congressional decision, said Ford, was to continue the demonstration programs two more years.

REP. JAMES BLANCHARD (D-Pleasant Ridge), who also represents Troy, said Austad's proposal was reasonable.

"I can accept his theory that it would have a positive economic impact on the Great Lakes region. I've even had people complain to me about the closing of the Lakes," Blanchard said.

He recalled that former President Gerald Ford was in favor of a plan to either purchase icebreakers or design them for use on the lakes. The Carter Administration has not taken a stand.

President Jimmy Carter's lack of support was an important factor in the denial of a $55 million appropriation for an icebreaker this year.

Blanchard predicted that, according to congressional sources, if the issue come up for serious considerationthe Great Lakes congressional delegation "would hold up quite favorably" under the pressure he said would be exerted by coastal and Gulf port interests.

"This wasn't always true. In the past, under the old seniority system, the Great Lakes congressmen never had enough clout, no matter how talented they were," he said.

Under the old system, he said, Southern congressmen were elected from one-party districts "forever." The North always had sufficient turnover to prevent its representatives from building up enough seniority to gain the chairmanships of important committees.

A STAFF member for U.S. Rep. William Broomfield (R-Birmingham) reported that in August Congress appropriated $17.9 million for two tug boats "with ice-breaking capabilities," at the Coast Guard's request.

The horsepower of the new tugs will be double that of existing tugs. They will bring the Coast Guard's Great Lakes fleet to six.

"The Coast Guard said these would meet the growing demand for ice breaking service. The Coast Guard said these should be given a test before going to large ice-breakers," the Broomfield aide said.

What's private ain't public

The City of Plymouth has been asked to bail out a group of private investors who once had high hopes of constructing a senior citizens apartment project near Ann Arbor Trail and Mill Street.

A group of residents six years ago pooled money to form the Pilgrim Non-Profit Housing Corp. as a vehicle with which to construction housing for the elderly.

After a great deal of effort and hard work, the Pilgrim investors put together projects and were subsequently turned down by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) in Washington, D.C. and the Michigan State Housing Development Authority (MSHDA) in Lansing.

For the past couple of years, the land has remained vacant without any certain plans for development on the horizon. During this time, the Pilgrim investors have been making tax payments and making the interest payments on a loan obtained to make the original purchase of the land.

Now the investors want out. They'd like the city to acquire title to the land, thus getting it off the tax rolls, and to make interest payments on the land loan. Another request is for the city to pay each investor $4,800 individually which each has invested out of personal funds. And that's where the matter now rests with the Plymouth City Commission.

THE COMMISSION has been given legal opinions from its city attorney that the city cannot grant tax abatement and cannot reimburse the Pilgrim investors. The only way the city could help the investors, the attorney noted, is for the city to first acquire title to the land.

And so the question has narrowed to a request for the city to acquire title to the land and pay off the Pilgrim investors $4,800 each—almost $20,000—for personal funds expended since 1971.

A wrinkle in this scenario is that a development company now has an option to buy the Pilgrim property to build senior citizen apartments. But the option to purchase will be dropped if the developer fails to get federal funds for the project. Considering HUD denial in the past, the chances of getting federal dollars aren't great.

Although there were other reasons, basically HUD denied the Pilgrim application because the land was located too close to the C&O Railroad tracks. MSHDA denied an application for the same reason.

THE PILGRIM STORY has a number of complications because a city official in 1971 approached the group of private investors and gave encouragement to beginning the venture.

Since then, there has been a continued relationship between the city and the Pilgrim group. The city, at times, has taken title to the property and made interest payments. Then, following HUD and MSHDA denial, the city turned the land back to Pilgrim Non-Profit Housing Corp.

A history of the city's involvement, prepared by City Manager Fred Yockey, suggests the city isn't contractually or legally obligated in 1977 to bail out the Pilgrim investors. There are a lot of complicated reasons why that appears to be so, and it's primarily a legal position. But what about the moral position?

If you attempt to get at the heart of the matter, what you'll find is a group of private individuals who formed a private corporation in 1971 to assemble housing for the elderly. If the project had sailed, everything would be fine now. But it sank.

And so we must turn to a very basic tenet of American capitalism—risks are involved whenever money is invested. Profits are made by taking risks. Capital is accumulated by taking risks. Almost every economic move in the private market involves risk.

When the Pilgrim investors pooled those first dollars, they were accepting the risks inherent in the marketplace. There was a chance of a loss—that first dollar might not grow.

While the investors were motivated by community needs, the fact remains they were private individuals, pooling private dollars for a private housing project. And in so doing they were taking a private risk—not a public risk. Thus, based on the risk element so basic to capitalism, the public has no obligation to recoup that private loss.

A working relationship with government does not convert a business venture into a public project. The fact government may aid private business for the community's well-being also does turn a private investment into a public investment.

And that's what it comes down to, at least in my opinion. I commend the Pilgrim investors for taking a risk in attempting to meet a community need. I feel bad the project didn't fly, and regret that their personal investments may never be recouped. It is a very unfortunate situation. But I do not see any contractual, legal or moral obligation for the city to come to the rescue of the Pilgrim Non-Profit Housing Corp.

The single lesson which does emerge, though, is that the city in the future must—when dealing with private business or individuals—make very clear exactly what its involvement and obligations will be. Because it didn't six years ago, some very well-meaning investors were led along and now have a personal, private (non-public) liquidation problem.

Leaders: Take your pick

COLUMN PAGE

By JACK BOLOGNA
George Odiorne Associates

"Leaders" seem to come in all shapes, sizes, sexes, colors, and ages.

After years of reading and research, I honestly can't describe leaders or leadership in any very specific way. The only thing leaders seem to have in common is that they have followers.

THERE ARE FOUR recognized schools of thought on leadership: the trait school, behavioral school, situational school, and the style school. But these authorities seem to be in hopeless disagreement.

The trait school would suggest that leadership is a matter of given quantities of positive personality traits, virtues and moral values. It's the Boy Scout idea revisited, i.e. trustworthy, loyal, helpful, friendly, courteous, kind, obedient, cheerful, thrifty, brave, clean and reverent. The merits of that approach can be challenged by recalling ahost of leaders who had few or none of the suggested traits: Charles Manson, Hitler, and Stalin.

The one bit of relevance the trait school offers is the insight that leaders seem to excite people to take some form of action. Unfortunately the action may be a new form of evil rather than good.

One seemingly common trait or characteristic of the leaders studied in the U.S. is their superior ability to communicate either through writing or public speaking. But that may be a product of our own cultural bias. Gandhi was noted neither for his writing nor oratorical skill. Stalin had similar limitations. So the trait school has fallen into disfavor of late even though it continues to preach and publish its own gospel.

THE BEHAVIORAL school is of a more recent vintage. Its adherents suggest that it isn't what a person says, writes or manifests as personal qualities that makes him a leader; it's what he does.

He may be the first to identify a danger and then say "follow me out of this burning building." Behaviorists look at leaderdhip in terms of what a leader does when he or she is leading and convert those actions into behavioral characteristics, i.e., a leader must be able to cope with stress, communicate concepts clearly, stimulate action by subordinates, etc.

FOLLOWING ON THE trail of the behavioral school and evolving therefrom, we have the situational leadership school.

They say it isn't what you are or what you do, but how you relate to your environment that makes you a leader. They study what produces successful leaders in any given environment and then say "go and do likewise."

To those who aspire to higher office, they preach the "success ethic" or modeling yourself after those who have succeeded in your organization. Better yet, find yourself a leader (or boss) who is really moving ahead rapidly and hang on to his coat tails.

The literature which turns these people on is that of the Horatio Alger variety: the poor boy who makes it big through pluck and grit or profiles of the titans of industry or heroes of the past and present.

Professor Eugene Jennings of Michigan State University is the most venerated proponent of the situational school, probably the most dominant force in leadership training today.

FINALLY, the style school, being the mos recent innovation in leadership research, is best accepted by people.

Here the point is that leadership os a matter of the style which best fits the organization.

In an autocratic organization, if you want to succeed, you had better adapt your own style to that of your autocratic superiors. But you must remain flexible. Your next assignment or job may be in a predominantly permissive or participative organization and you will have to "style-flex" if you want to get ahead and become a leader or top executive in that organization.

So the style school seems to combine some elements of both the situational and behavioral schools.

WHILE I HAVEN'T added much certainty to your font of knowledge about leadership, my intention was to show that there isn't any universal answer to the question of what constitutes leadership.

There are far too many variables: cultural, environmental, genetic, situational, etc. All we can say in the most generalized way is that leaders are not born to be leaders. They get to be leaders because at least two people choose to be their followers.

Yet people in America clamor for more or better political leadership. Who or what do they have in mind? The simple truth seems to be that as participation by the public in voting and serving in public office wanes, the cry for leadership grows.

Perhaps the answer lies in more and better participation by citizens rather than in more and better leadership.

The one sure thing we know about leadership is that it requires involvement and commitment to a cause. So if you aspire to lead others, get involved. Participate.

Calorie counters will have fun with this unusual gift item—the Diet Fork, a styled silver plated dinner fork with prongs bent into curlicues that make eating extremely difficult, if not impossible.

Selecting Christmas gifts for dieters

By NANCY AUSTIN

If you are not a dieter or worried about your weight, chances are you probably know someone who is. Read on.

If you are a dieter and, of course, worried about your weight, this article is for you too. Selecting Christmas gifts for the weight conscious can be tricky and embarrasing, for both the giver and receiver, so I urge you to carefully consider the sensitivity of the person or people involved in the gift exchange.

Those of us who have a weight problem genuinely appreciate the positive encouragement from family and friends, which will hopefully manifest itself in an appopriate gift selection. Don't be fooled by the jolly exterior of the overweight person. In 98 per cent of all cases, this person is crying on the inside and needs moral support.

Although a man or woman may joke about his physical size, it is only a facade. And though it is important for an overweight person to keep a healthy sense of humor, his emotions regarding his state of health run very deep within. An inappropriate gift can crush an already troubled ego.

Personally, while I appreciate the gesture of someone selecting a gift for me, I do not appreciate the ultimate results of a three-pound or even a one-pound box of chocolates.

KEEPING THIS in mind, then, the following suggestions are directed towards those who will be buying a gift for a dieter.

The same list can be used by a weight watcher when Santa asks him or her what he would like for Christmas. Any dieter seriously interested in losing weight, and keeping it off, would welcome any of these items.

The nitty-gritty of weight watching revolves around the bathroom scale. It is something we don't often buy. It is not unusual to find scales at least ten years old in any home, and seriously out of balance—discouraging for someone trying to keep an accurate account of weight loss achievements.

Scales are available in a variety of sizes, shapes, colors, decor and prices. An addition to the choice this year is the availability of the electronic LED scales, accurate to within two-tenths of a pound. They range from $50 by Counselor to $135.00 by Heathkit. The Counselor scales also can register your weight in kilograms (1 k.g.—2.2 lbs.) if you desire. Available at the Wayside shop in Plymouth.

DIET COOKBOOKS are plentiful, as are books on nutrition.

Both paperback and hardcover, range from $1.95 for the "American Heart Association Cookbook" (Ballantine Books) to $12.95 for "Cuisine Minceur" by Michel Guerard. A book particularly good for understanding nutrition in a non-technical style is "A Diet for Living" by Dr. Jean Meyer, hardcover or paperback. It is an excellent reference book and should be on everyone's bookshelf. It is appropriate for both men and women. A good selection of books including those mentioned are available at Plymouth Book World and the Gourmet Gallerie.

Consider the selection of cheeses and wine. Remember dry white wine contains the fewest calories of all wines. Salespersons at cheese and wine shops can help you make an appropriate selection.

Consider a fruit basket from Florida. Citrus fruits are a welcome mid-winter treat to spark up otherwise dull assortments of fruit. Gift baskets are available at Stockers Market in Farmington.

The Diet Master Frozen Dessert Maker is the low calorie way of satisfying the sweet tooth. This neat machine provides a way to prepare soft "ice cream" with fewer calories. It resembles an ice cream maker, but neither rock salt nor electricity are required. It comes complete with a recipe book and each recipe includes the calorie count. Available at the Gourmet Gallerie for $14.95.

THE MOST UNIQUE item on the diet scene this year is the Diet Fork.

The silver-plated fork differs from the rest in that the tines curl back and around toward the handle so that passing food from plate to palate is impossible.

The item would be a real conversation piece at a dinner party and the owner's manual even suggests possible conversations to carry on between you, your diet fork and your guests. When the conversation has gone out of the conversation piece, the owner's manual then suggests ways of converting the fork to a scarf ring, napkin holder or decorative clothes hook. It is $4.95 at the Cricket Box in Plymouth.

One final suggestion: In any package you present a dieter, don't forget to include one other gift only you can supply— a friendly smile, an understanding heart and positive, year-round encouragement.

Counseling a valuable, but unused, student service

By MICHAEL MATUSZEWSKI

Schoolcraft College officials feel they offer one of the best counseling services in the state. However, only a fraction of the college's student population is taking advantage of the facilities.

Earlier, a look at the college's reading center (Livonia Observer Oct. 13, 1977 edition) revealed a program geared to individualized instruction with relatively few individuals to instruct, even though the school had identified a sizable segment of its student population that needed remedial training.

SCHOOLCRAFT divided its counseling services into three areas: personal, educational, and career counseling. But career counseling clearly holds a disproportionate share of the counseling resources. It commands most of the department's time, effort and money.

John Weber, director of counseling services, said Schoolcraft had taken a "broad view" concerning its career counseling.

"It used to be that a counselor would take a student who didn't know what he wanted to do and immediately give him an interest test leading to a number of career possibilities. After that, the counselor would just give him a lot of literature about those careers.

"It was very narrow and not very effective," Weber said.

The reason for its ineffectiveness, he said, was that the student could not tie the information in with the occupation's every-day actualities.

"They just didn't know enough about themselves," Weber said.

For that reason, the counseling service has stressed "helping individuals to know and understand themselves."

"THERE'S A LOT of self-awareness; there's a lot of self-esteem building, and there's a lot of trying to get the person to know himself," he said.

There also is a two-credit course entitled "Strategies in Life-Work Planning." Coincidentally, student involvement in the counseling program has increased since credits were offered.

The self-awareness facet of counseling sprang from the college's early "human potential" seminars.

"We're not hung up on trying to solve people's problems and traumas," Weber said.

"We try to help people identify the positive things about themselves. That can be more effective more quickly than trying to solve their hang-ups. They begin to function more positively and their problems seem less important."

THE SCHOOLCRAFT concept of counseling—career and otherwise—may be caught up in such terms as "human potential," "self-conceptualization," "value clarification" and "strength acknowledgement." But the college stresses the bread-and-butter issue of catering to a student body interested more in finding jobs than in finding philosophical truths.

"When the college first opened, everybody was concerned about trying to get a four-year degree. If you didn't get the four-year degree, you weren't going anywhere," Weber said.

"It was a fallacy."

Since then, the economy intervened and liberal arts graduates were having hard times getting jobs. But Schoolcraft graduates were getting jobs with no problems, Weber said. And the jobs weren't bad—they paid $13,000, $14,000 and $15,000 to start.

"Gradually people realized that a four-year degree wasn't that great," he said.

IN ADDITION to becoming more job- and technical-oriented, the college has opted for an open-door policy and self-advising.

Schoolcraft College President Nelson C. Grote said, "Many students are self-advising, and they resent counseling. I stood in lines at registration and found a lot of students who really resented counseling."

As with its remedial reading program, the college has decided that it will merely make counseling available, rather than mandatory.

"We're not saying don't come, but come if you want," Weber said.

While Weber and Grote have said the students are happy with the present system, not everyone is satisfied. Trustee Mark McQueston, in the past, has blasted the college's lenient admissions and requirements policy.

McQueston has suggested more thorough counseling in order to avoid the problems which have made remedial reading courses a necessity for many of the college's students.

By and large, Weber said, "Students are very satisfied with what we offer. But there are hundreds who don't take advantage of what we're offering.

"They have commitments to their social life, to work, to their families. It just doesn't let them spend the time on some things they'd really like to spend some time on.

While Weber and others may complain that the counseling services are not fully used, the college's statistics may cloud the issue.

IN THE PAST for example, Schoolcraft's 12 counsleors have approximately 25,000 "contacts."

That total, however, includes much more than traditional counseling appointments. It includes the mandatory initial contacts between counselors and new students, class meetings in such courses as "Strategies in Life-Work Planning," and even phone calls between counselor and student.

Officials said the counseling program may be limited by the number of students it serves, but they agree that, like many other programs, it is limited even more by space restrictions.

"The whole office of student affairs is the worst off in the college. There's just no space for the activities we want to be involved in," Weber said.

Weber, along with others, recently made arrangements with the Wayne County Intermediate Schools for a special Michigan Occupation Information System computer terminal. This terminal would provide job information at the push of a button.

There's one hang-up, though. Weber has no place to put the hardware.

"The terminal has to be available to the students," he said. But there is only one room available—the conference room. That room is heavily used for meetings between SC personnel and representatives of other colleges and universities, and regular classes.

The room also houses the bulk of the department's educational and job-related materials.

There is not even enough room to house Weber's entire staff in the same building. Counselors are spread throughout the campus.

"We have the technical counselor in the technical building. That's pretty good. We got close there," Weber said.

Realty groups merge forces

United Northwestern Realty Association (UNRA) has become a wholly-owned subsidiary of the Western Wayne Oakland County Board of Realtors (WWOCBR).

The move, approved in general membership meetings of both organizations, means that all Realtor and Realtor-Associate participants in the multi-list service, must be members of the WWOCBR.

The vast majority of the UNRA's 3,400 active members previously held membership in WWOCBR. The remainder was made up of Realtors and Realtor-Associates from neighboring boards with non-resident status who may elect to have full membership on both boards.

"We believe this merger will strengthen the Realtor movement in the Detroit metropolitan area and assure a higher level of professional service to the public," said John J. Kelly, WWOCBR president.

Members of the WWOCBR and the UNRA cover a 1,600 square mile territory encompassing areas of northwest Detroit, Wayne, Oakland and Livingston counties.

Steve Robb, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Robb of Northern, Plymouth, is a student teacher at Albion Senior High School. A physical education major, he is teaching physical education in Albion.

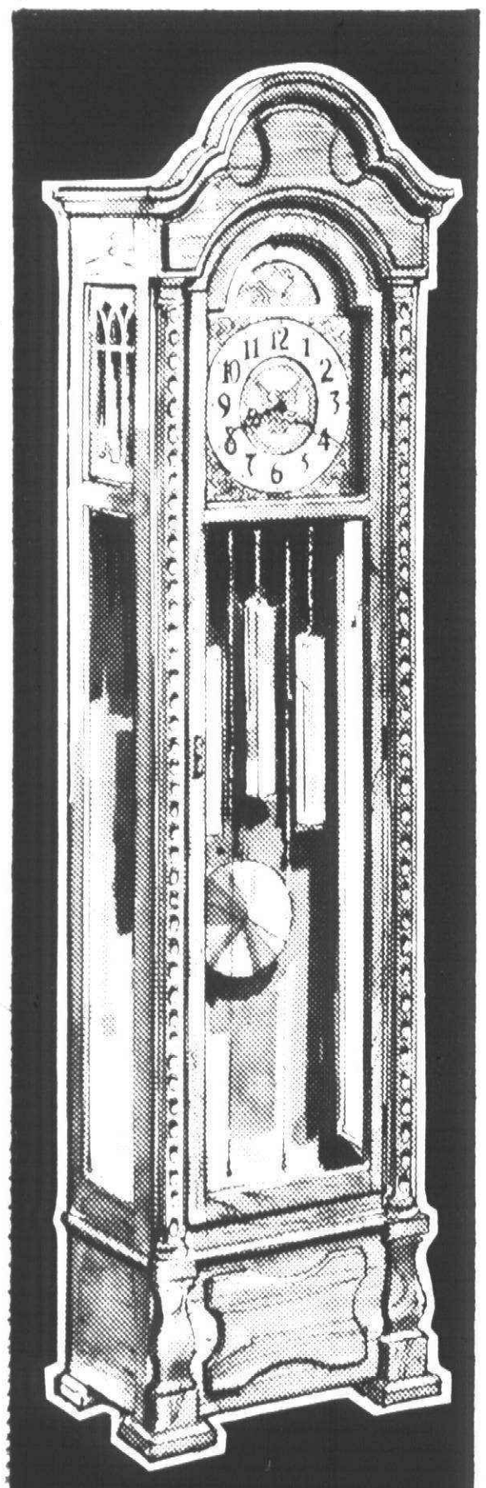

PAUL SINCOCK

Paul Sincock, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sincock of Penniman Avenue, Plymouth, has been named station manager of WMHW-FM at Central Michigan University, Mount Pleasant, for the winter semester. Sincock is a junior at CMU and will hold the highest position a student can attain in radio at the college.

Since coming to Central, Sincock has held the positions of community relations director and program director for the station. He was appointed to the executive staff as a second semester freshman. His interests in radio started at the National Music Camp at Interlochen where he took his first class in broadcasting, and continued when he worked at WSDP-FM at Plymouth Salem High. As station manager, Sincock will have charge of the 85-member station staff and be responsible to the broadcast area covering 35,000 listeners in Mid-Michigan for station programming and planning.

60,000 jobs are at stake

Icebreakers urged to keep Great Lakes open

By TIM RICHARD

Great Lakes shipping could operate all year long if the United States government would buy three new icebreakers from friendly Finland, said the former American ambassador to that northern Baltic Sea nation.

Mark Austad, who served in Helsinki from 1975-77, said congressmen, businessmen and the general public on "America's fourth coast" fail to realize what the closing of Great Lakes shipping three months of the year is costing them.

"The Army Corps of Engineers tells me 60,000 direct jobs go down when the lakes are closed up," Austad told the Detroit Economic Club this week. "That means $2 million loss a day in direct wages, $10 million a week, plus $6 million in unemployment compensation."

BILLS TO purchase ice-breaking ships are in both the senate and house appropriations committees in Washington, he said.

Declaring he has no monetary interest in such a purpose, Austad said the U.S. Coast Guard is "a major stumbling block. They've had nine years and haven't come up with (an American-made) ice-breaker.

"Lockheed tried—and it was a comedy of errors.

Austad put the cost at $50 million to $55 million, and the delivery time at "two years, if they were pressed to do it." While the congressional bills don't mention where ice-breaking ships would be purchased, Austad said Wartsila Co. of Finland is the best in the world and is selling ships to all major seafaring nations.

"THE PEOPLE of the Great Lakes haven't spoken up yet," he said. "I don't think they ever realized they could keep open their lakes.

"If they open the lakes, there will be a resurgence of barge building. Sen. William Proxmire (D-Wis.) told me, 'You don't close down the lakes for three months; you close it down all year. A shipper needs dependability.'

"Neither coast (Atlantic or Pacific) is excited about this. You're competition for them. The railroad and trucking lines aren't excited. It's competition for them."

Austad said Montana coal could be brought in more easily by lake freighter, and grain and oil could be shipped all year. Without open ports, industries such as steel and the utilities must engage in costly stock-piling to assure supplies of raw materials.

The new ice-breakers would carry crews of about 50, be powered by 22,000 horsepower engines and be capable of cutting through ice 60 feet thick.

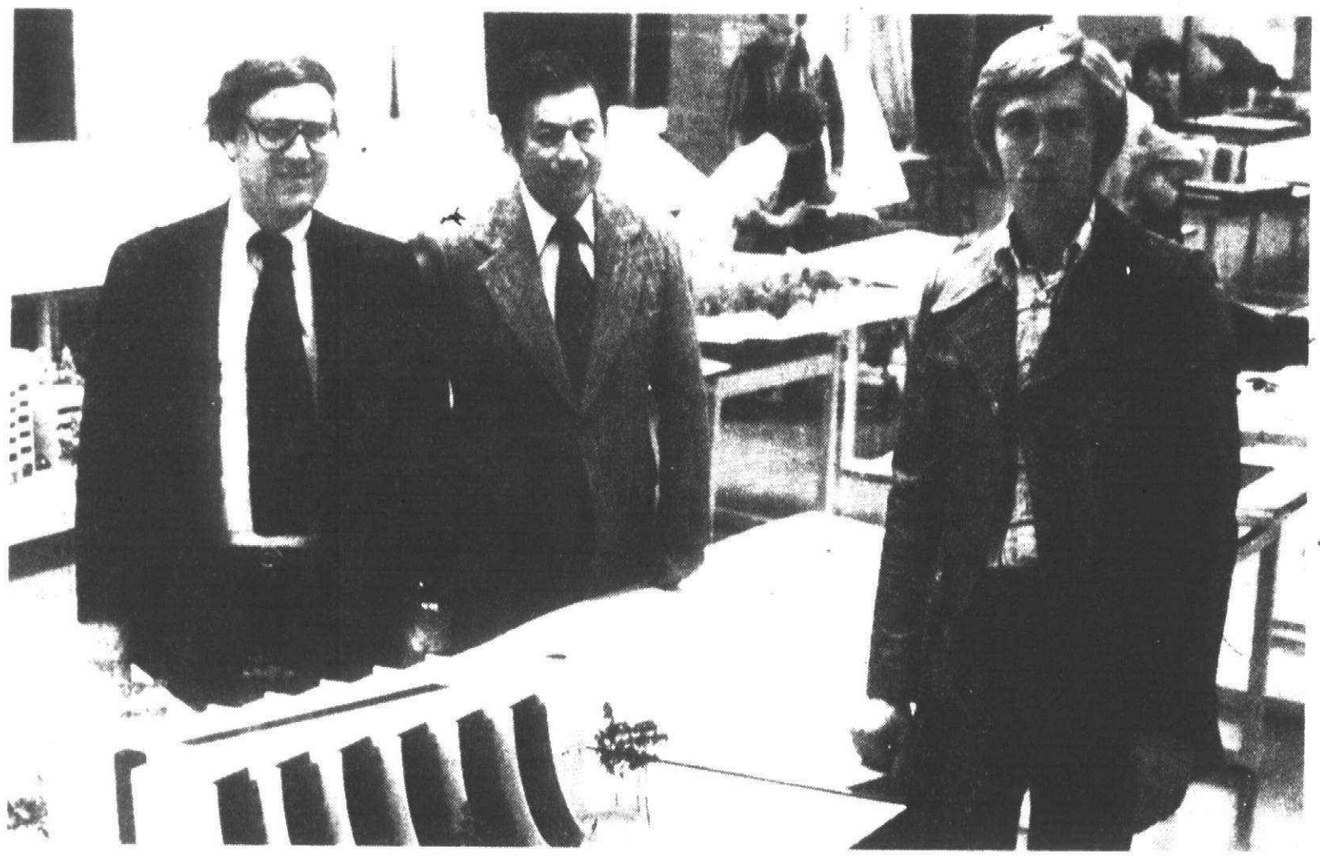

"A LABOR of love" was how he described his feelings about helping Finland.

The tiny nation resisted "tremendous pressure" to buy commercial airplanes from the Soviet Union and instead purchased DC planes from American manufacturers.

"I kinda think we owe them one," he said. "She doesn't squeak. If you know the Finns—and in Michigan you do—they're a shy people.

"We can't help them militarily or politically, but we can help them economically," he said, recalling that Finland faces constant problems with the Russians and is the only country to repay its World War I debt to the U.S.

A broadcaster by occupation and inaugural affairs arranger for Republican presidents, Austad has returned to Metromedia, Inc., in Scottsdale, Ariz., where he is vice-president for public affairs.

Design winner

Proud pine endures

By JOHN CZUBAJ
Dale Carnegie Inc.
Plymouth-Canton Area

It was a cold winter morning high in the beautiful Adriondack Mountains, and the wet snow had been falling for several hours.

The trees of the forest were labouring under the heavy burden of ice, sleet and snow which bore down on their branches. Many of the mighty hardwood trees, that had stood so long on the hillside, were now crippled.

The tremendous weight was more than some of their proud and stubborn branches could endure and many of them had broken and crashed to the ground.

But with the pine it was different. It, too, stood tall and stately and when the great storm came its branches gracefully bowed under the strain.

THE STORM PASSED and the rays of the sun looked down upon the mountain.

Soon the heavy load had vanished from the trees and the branches of the great pine rose back to their position as beautiful and as graceful as before, but the hardwood trees that had so long boasted of their great strength and stability had a tremendous task before them. It would take years for them to grow new branches and heal the scars from their wounds.

Sometimes people fall into the pattern of the hardwood trees. When adversity appears in their lives, they break under the strain and, all too easily, give up the fight for the accomplishment of their cherished dreams and desires.

But so often it is not necessary that this should occur. Fortunately humans can develop the more flexible characteristics of the pine which will enable them to bend under the strain of the burdens of life. After the crisis passes, they can rise back to normal and go on their way to enjoy life.

Trials and hardships are a part of life. Adversity tempers the steel of our character and helps us to grow and mature and develop the strength and determination that will enable us to achieve a fuller, richer and more rewarding life.

OF THIS WE can be sure, even when grey clouds appear in our lives, they will not long remain, soon they will change.

We live in a universe of change, everything changes, nothing remains static. We are told that even the tiniest atoms constantly revolve around one another at a terrific rate of speed; they constantly change. And so this is one thing we can depend on—change.

When we suffer the disappointments of adversity and temporary defeat we must remember that it is only temporary. No matter how bad it may seem it will change. It was Henry Wadsworth Longfellow who wrote:

"Nothing that is can pause or stay,
The moon will wax, the moon will wane,
The mist and cloud will turn to rain,
The rain to mist and cloud again.
Tomorrow be today."

Instead of giving up when the future looks dark, we must hold on a little longer with the assurance that the dark clouds will soon pass and life will again be bright and cheerful.

Canton's among housing leaders

Housing construction is booming in southeastern Michigan, and western Wayne County is in the thick of it.

Livonia, Westland and Canton Township were among the region's top 10 communities in issuing new building permits, according to the Southeastern Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG).

Five Oakland County and two Macomb County communities rounded out SEMCOG's top 10.

Permits for the first half of 1977 increased 47.2 per cent over the same period last year. Altogether, permits for 13,470 new dwellings units were issued across the region, compared to 9,148 in the first six months of 1976, and 6,348 in the same period of 1975.

The first half 1977 totals, however, fall short of the 19,000 to 21,000 permits issued in the first six months of 1971, '72 and '73.

The SEMCOG figures are for building permits only.

"Permits may have been been issued for new housing construction that has yet to get under way," said SEMCOG Chairman David Shepherd, mayor of Oak Park.

Permits for construction of multiple family units—apartments, condominiums and duplexes—accounted for a major portion of the increased totals. Westland, finishing just behind Southfield and Farmington Hills, and Livonia were listed among the region's top 10 communities for multiple-family structures.

Wayne County accounted for a gross total of 2,935 permits. Of that total, 2,090 were issued for detached, single-family structures, 12 two-family units and 833 multiple-family structures.

Here is how Observer & Eccentric-area communities fared during the first half of 1977:

•Garden City — 42 permits minus 5 demolitions. It recorded 36 single-family permits and six multi-family dwelling permits.

•Livonia — A total of 499 permits consisting of 335 single-family units and 164 multiple-family structures. There were seven demolitions.

•City of Plymouth — Two two-family permits and three demolitions.

•Redford — 10 single-family permits, two demolitions.

•Westland — A total of 361 permits for 39 single-family units and 322 multiple-family dwellings. It had nine demolitions.

Realtors pick '78 officers

The Western-Wayne Oakland County Board of Realtors (WWOCBR) has named its officers for 1978.

Serving as president will be Conrad Jakubowski, president of the Rymal-Symes Co. in Novi. Last year's vice president, he succeeds John J. Kelly, owner of Roundtable Realtors in Union Lake.

Other new officers are John W. Cole, owner of 1st United-John Cole Realty, Redford Township, vice-president; John J. Halser, owner of Norwood No. 1 Inc., Livonia, secretary; and Robert D. Shimmin, president of Realty World-R.D. Shimmin, Union Lake, treasurer.

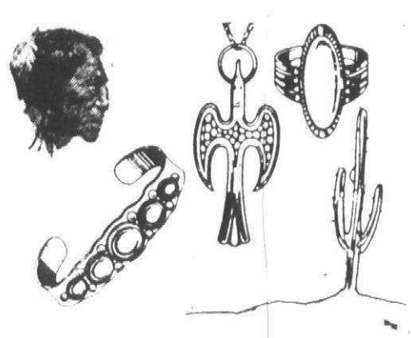

Shimmin is one of three new directors chosen for three-year terms in voting among WWOCBR's 3,500 members. Also selected were Bernice Roginski, owner of Noling Real Estate Inc., in South Lyon and Lloyd Mason, of Dupont Real Estate in Detroit.

M-153
From I-275 to Canton Center Road
PUBLIC MEETING

The Michigan Department of State Highways and Transportation will have representatives present at a public meeting from 4-8 P.M., Wednesday, January 11, 1978, in the Canton Township Meeting Hall, 128 Canton Center Road, Canton, Michigan.
The purpose of this meeting is to provide the opportunity for the public to drop in and discuss future improvements to M-153 from I-275 to Canton Center Road in Wayne County.
It is the intent of the Department to not only invite, but also to encourage, citizen involvement and participation in the M-153 study. It must be stressed that this is not a public hearing of the recommended highway improvements, as there have been none selected. The purpose of the meeting is to gain input, at the earliest stage of the study, from local residents and to stimulate communication and cooperation.
Brochures are available at the Canton Township Meeting Hall. Additional information may be obtained by contacting:

The Stroller

Cold remedies

By W. W. EDGAR

Walking down the hall of Providence Hospital, where The Stroller's wife, Leona, is taking advantage of modern medical science by having her knee replaced, he couldn't help but peer into some of the rooms. What he saw was rather surprising, even is this modern age.

In most rooms there were stands holding bottles of all shapes. Some patients had plastic tubes in their nostrils to aid breathing.

The Stroller couldn't help wondering what his dear old mother, now long gone, would have thought of this modern equipment. You see, when mother was left a widow with five children, she had to make the most of the things at hand. Being from "the old school," she always had a remedy when any of us children took sick.

WHEN ANY of us came down with a cold, she put us to bed and gave us her favorite remedy—rubbing our chests with goose grease. Where she got the goose grease or where she kept it was always a secret. The odd thing—it never failed to help.

For a cough, she hastened to get ingredients for the Pennsylvania remedy—a good helping of sulphur and molasses. But that was only part of the remedy. A "used" sock and a bit of flannel went around our necks after they had been rubbed with camphor oil.

The crowning bit was a tablespoon of castor oil.

No wonder our colds never lasted long.

Mother had several other treatments. She was never without a huge bottle of Father John's cough medicine. If that wasn't available, she'd give us a good shot of Dill's cough syrup.

As The Stroller walked down the hall of Providence, he recalled the many times he was sent to bed with a mustard plaster on his lower back, goose grease on his chest and a camphorated sock around his neck.

THERE WAS ONE time, though, when mother's remedies were of little use. The Stroller had attended the annual dinner party of the young men's club of which he was president. Long after midnight, he returned home feeling "swell."

By morning he was writhing in pain and holding his lower right side.

Mother tried the camphor oil, then a bit of goose grease, but neither helped. Finally she called a doctor who lived several blocks away. No sooner had he started his examination than he told mother, "That stuff you are using won't be any good this time."

"Why not?" she asked, rather defiantly.

"Because he's got acute appendicitis, and he's got to be rushed to the hospital," the doctor said.

As we were leaving for the hospital in the city, four miles away, mother stood at the door, vowing that she could have brought me around with her remedy.

THE MERE FACT that The Stroller was kept in the hospital 55 days with a ruptured appendix didn't faze her. She honestly thought she could have "cured" me in much less time.

That's why The Stroller couldn't help wondering what she would have thought—and said—as he walked down the hall of the hospital and saw the bottles and plastic tubes. She possibly would have whispered that a good mustard plaster and a good rub with camphor oil would have done just as well—and wouldn't have cost as much.

Laugh as you will now at the old-time remedies, they did the trick. Otherwise, The Stroller never would have reached his 80th birthday.

MESC to hire older hands for offices

Eighty older workers are being hired by the Michigan Employment Security Commission (MESC) to help other older workers find work.

The positions are subsidized by the state Office of Services to the Aging (OSA) using funds from the federal Older Americans Act.

Older worker specialists are paid $2.75 an hour and work 20 hours a week. The program is temporary and will end June 30.

To qualify for an OWS position, a person must be at least 55 years old and physically able to do the job. His or her annual income must not exceed $2,970 plus $960 for each additional dependent, including social security.

Center services analyzed

Services for residents at Plymouth Center for Human Development will receive special attention from a professional panel appointed by Don K. Worden, Ph.D., metropolitan region director for the Michigan Department of Mental Health.

"It has become apparent to me that an in-depth analysis of the center's operations will be useful in achieving a higher level of excellence in care and treatment programs," explains Worden.

Members of the panel are: Joseph J. Pernick, Wayne County probate judge; Jane W. Kessler, Ph.D., president American Orthopsychiatric Association, professor of psychology and director of mental development center at Case Western Reserve University in Cleveland; Arthur L. Johnson, vice-president for university relations at Wayne State University.

Scented gifts please, aid sleep and dreams

Years ago, a traditional gift for an invalid, elderly person or insomniac friend was a scented pillow. These pillows contained blends which were said to aid sleep and induce pleasant dreams.

Such a blend can be made by mixing together the following ingredients, all of which are available in a health food store:

¼ lb. oak moss
¼ lb. wild thyme
½ lb. dried peppermint leaves
2 oz. dried spearmint leaves
2 oz. hops
1 oz. lemon verbena

My youngest daughter made a pillow for me a few years ago, and it is still one of my favorite possessions. It has received hard use, because everyone who sees it enjoys resting his head on it.

One of my readers sent in the following recipe for a Christmas potpourri. Packaged in attractive jars, it makes a very special gift. Once you smell its fragrance, you will want to keep an open jar in your home over the holidays.

CHRISTMAS POTPOURRI

Mix together:
½ lb. rose buds
¼ lb. thyme
2 oz. French lavender
2 oz. lemon verbena
2 oz. spearmint
2 oz. marjoram
2 oz. whole cloves
2 oz. orris root

Place the blended ingredients in a covered jar in the refrigerator for a week before packaging in individual containers for gift giving.

SCENTED SOAP balls make an excellent gift for the man or woman who has everything.

Into a large mixing bowl, pour one-half cup hot water. Add a few drops of food coloring, one tablespoon olive oil and a few drops (more if you desire a stronger scent) of scented oil such as patchouli, bergamot, musk, lemon, lavender, rose, or any other kind.

Then add three cupfuls of Ivory Snow, available at the grocery store. Using a wooden spoon, mix these ingredients well. With your hands, knead the mixture until it is even-colored, stiff and smooth. Shape into balls.

Allow these balls to dry in the open air for several days before wrapping them for gifts.

One nice way of packaging these soap balls is to place them inside a covered glass jar or an apothecary jar. Even a one-pint canning jar can make an attractive package.

NOTE: IN ANSWER to your requests, most of the dry ingredients used in both last week's and this week's Christmas gifts may be obtained from your local health food store. For the more hard-to-find herbs, try one of the various shops around the Eastern Market in Detroit.

The rose buds and orris root called for in the Christmas potpourri can be purchased from Goodwill Candle Co., 300 E. Milwaukee, Detroit.

The best area source for perfumed oils is the Monkey Boutique, 1250 Washington Blvd., Detroit. Ali Rahaman, the proprietor, is an expert on perfumed body oils and will even custom-blend one for you.

Roll call report

Here's the votes of area's congressmen

Here's how area members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes on Nov. 28 and 29, the days immediately following the semi-recess that began in early November.

HOUSE

SOCIAL SECURITY: Failed, 183 for and 209 against, to insist that the Social Security "earnings limitation" be lifted at age 65. As a result of this vote, House and Senate conferees on HR 9346 are likely to go along with Senate-passed language lifting the limitation at age 70. That will mean that when pensioners reach 70 they can earn as much as they like without having their monthly Social Security entitlement reduced by Uncle Sam. The vote was on a motion to instruct House conferees to insist on the House-passed 65-years-old threshold.

Rep. Bill Archer (R-Tex.), sponsor of the motion, said the earning limitation at 65 costs society "the services of wise and experienced workers who simply cannot afford to work for substantial pay because, if they do, they will lose their valued Social Security benefits."

Rep. James Burke (D-Mass.), an opponent, said that if Congress lowers the threshold to 65 it "would have to levy a tax of $3 billion to $3.5 billion on the business firms of this country. . .to finance this provision."

AMTRAK: Voted, 258 for and 138 against, in favor of increasing by $18 million the supplemental appropriation for Amtrak—an amount sufficient to delay until at least March proposed cutbacks in passenger service. Major routes such as the Floridian apparently were given a lease on life by this vote. The vote, on a motion to recommit, came during consideration of the conference report on HR 9375, a fiscal 1978 appropriations bill. It approved $18 million instead of proposed lower increments.

Rep. Albert Gore Jr. (D-Tenn.), a supporter, said: "We need a national rail service for passengers. We can have one if we go about it in an intelligent manner."

Rep. John McFall (D-Calif.), an opponent, said he favored an $8 million rather than $18 million supplemental appropriation. "Now this extra $10 million is not really going to provide the opportunity to restore service that everyone believes will be provided," he said.

Members voting "yea" favored an extra $18 million for Amtrak.

SENATE

ABORTION: Approved, 44 for and 21 against, language on federal funding of abortions which was a bit stricter than previous Senate language. This was yet another attempt at compromise with the House, which for months has been taking a harder line against the funding of abortions under Medicaid. This vote was on the conference report on HR 7555, a fiscal 1978 appropriations bill for the departments of Labor and Health, Education and Welfare. After it occurred, the House rejected the compromise language, thus continuing the stalemate and raising questions as to whether employees of those departments will receive their next paychecks.

The language approved in the vote would have permitted federal funding of abortions where the life of the mother was endangered and in cases of rape and incest that are reported "to a law enforcement agency or public health service or its equivalent."

Senators voting "yea" favored the compromise language.

Sen. Donald Riegle (D) voted "yea" and Sen. Robert Griffin (R) did not vote.

Water quality topic of Town Hall forum

The Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG) will hold an Oakland County Town Hall meeting in Southfield at 8 p.m., Dec. 13, to discuss the management of wastewater treatment and sludge disposal.

According to SEMCOG, the purpose of the meeting, which will be held in room 115 of the Southfield Parks and Recreation Building, 26000 Evergreen, is to provide citizens enough information and lead time to prepare for public hearings which will be held in April.

SEMCOG officials and planners are currently developing the technical aspects of the Water Quality Management Plan for southeast Michigan. Their management proposal was adopted by the SEMCOG General Assembly late in October and is now under review by local governmental units in the region.

Written comments which the council receives by Dec. 5 will be forwarded to Gov. William Milliken and the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency.

SEMCOG delegates are expected to take action on the technical aspects of the Water Quality Management Plan in March 1978 for purposes of April's public hearings.

After the hearings, the council is expected to consider the entire plan at its June general assembly meeting.

Avoid surprises when giving animals as gifts

Unplanned pet ownership can lead to problems for master and animal, according to Farmington area experts.

Common sense should govern the acquisition of a pet for a holiday gift.

"There's nothing wrong with giving a pet for the holidays," said Andrew Dworkis, a veterinarian with the Oakland Orchard Veterinarian Clinic, Farmington. "But there should be a conscious decision to have a pet."

"People should put as much thought into getting a new pet as they would when they're getting a stove or a refrigerator," suggested Ron Blauet of the Michigan Humane Society.

The size of the new owner's residence, the cost to take care of the animal and the size of the pet should be considered before buying, according to Blauett.

Children in the household should be taken into consideration when deciding upon a dog, he added. Beagles make good pets around children.

Pets can help the elderly and mentally disturbed youngsters, according to Dworkis.

"They're beneficial to everyone," he said.

But they should be given sufficient and appropriate living quarters. Working persons ought to choose cats rather than dogs, he said.

"Dogs require about four to five months of housetraining. They need someone around during meals. They need attention for a good upbringing," he said.

"Apartment dwellers can get away with a cat, easily," he said.

Persons who are about to present an animal to an apartment dwelling friend ought to make sure that the landlord allows pets before springing a surprise.

The size of the pet is important in relation to its new surroundings. Apartment dwellers who purchase a German Shepherd puppy ought to be prepared for it to attain its adult size in about nine months, according to Blauett.

"When it's mature and there's no room for the pet, it's brought to the humane society," Blauet said.

"Think before you get a dog."

BRINGING A PET into the family can be likened to having a new child in the family circle, according to Blauet. Food, shelter, extra attention and cost are part of owning a new pet.

"Check first. A pet isn't a surprise gift," he said.

Once the decision is made to shop for a pet, care should be taken to select a healthy animal.

Prospective Santas and owners should be careful to assess the cleanliness of the pet shop, according to Dworkis.

Look at the animals. Make sure they have clean, full coats without scabs or bald spots, Dworkis suggests.

Run a hand down the back of the dog. If the animal's bones can be felt through the fur, it's probably poorly nourished.

Dogs' eyes should be bright and their noses should be free of discharge, according to Blauet.

Pet stores can offer some advantages over private breeders, such as a larger selection and easier payments, he added

These advantages are balanced by the private breeder's ability to give personalized service and more intimate knowledge of the animal's past history and family.

THAT'S IMPORTANT if the customer is in the market for a pedigreed animal.

Before making the final selection, ask about the type of guarantee that will be attached to the pet, Blauet suggests.

The Michigan Humane Society offers a 10-day guarantee on its animals. If the pet becomes ill within that time or if the family decides against keeping it, the society will exchange or take back the animal.

Have the pet examined by a vet before bringing it home, suggests Dworkis. Once the pet has been brought home, the family veterinarian should be consulted about the appropriate program of shots. The first year's shots should cost about $50, Dworkis said.

Kittens should receive shots too. They're subject to the same diseases as dogs. Parasites are a particular worry with cats, according to Dworkis.

Commercial pet food is recommended over table scraps for the new pets, according to Dworkis. Products sold on the shelf contain the correct nutrition.

SLIGHT variations in diet can throw off the hamsters 105 degree body temperature, according to Dworkis, and result in disease.

Society shelters are located at 37255 Marquette, near Newburg in Westland, at 1700 Brown Road, between M-24 and Josyln, Pontiac and at 7401 Chrysler Drive, north of East Grand Boulevard, Detroit.

Cracking the energy crunch

Hors d'oeuvres by Lynn Orr

The snap—crackle—pop of the energy crunch propaganda by now is like a non-stop buzzing in our ears.

If Nancy Dickerson isn't reminding us to conserve for all it's worth, we get those embarrassing gas company commercials belaboring us about how much they care about the environment and the energy supply.

But for all their verbiage, those who make the bucks off this country's power needs have failed to convince me of their sincerity. All I have to do is watch Christmas ads on TV.

The power sure is in our hands—and our wallets. If Edison had its way, we'd be dialing down every night but cramming the kitchen cupboards with such energy-consuming items as hot dog cookers, donut makers, and hamburger fryers.

If Edison was sincere about its energy pitch, why don't the big wheels take such items off the market, so consumers have to go back to brushing their teeth by hand?

IF SHELL Oil was so concerned about protecting our resources, why does it mail catalogs crammed with energy-wasting devices to its charge card customers every Christmas?

Obviously, there's a discrepancy between the output of the marketing and public relations segments of the companies, which really isn't anything new.

PR people seldom know what's going on behind the doors of those making the decisions. That's why our office is inundated with press releases that have little in common with what's going on in the boardroom.

For instance, Michigan Consolidated Gas Co. has been diversifying its interests by buying into films and other non-power businesses. Speculation tells me that top management wants to get out of the energy field somewhere down the road. Perhaps in 1990, Michigan Consolidated Gas will drop out of the gas altogether. But why does the Michigan Public Services Commission allow a utility company to invest in this manner? Why shouldn't a publically regulated business be directed to invest in the energy future or spend more money on research?

Instead, we have the feds spending our tax money on grants to researchers to come up with alternate energy sources, and the utilities researchers are developing new machines to make donuts. My grandmother fried donuts in a black iron pan with a large supply of shortening, and I guarantee they were better than anything that come out of one of these donut makers.

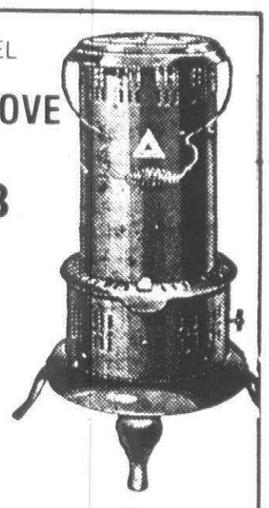

OBVIOUSLY, there's a paradox here. Whether it's intentionally designed that way, I leave to further speculation. I prefer to believe that the paradox is the result of public pressure for conservation versus company concern for profits.

There's nothing wrong with profits, but it seems that the desire to present an unspoiled image to the public negates truth in advertising.

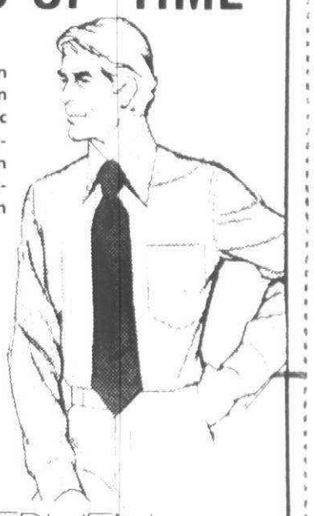

I'm not advocating a return to the butter churn. I like my blow dryer and curling iron, but I refuse to buy or accept hot dog cookers. (I would like an egg poacher since's I've never been able to manage an unstringy poached egg in a sauce pan, but I can manage without in the same way I can survive at lower temperatures.)

Perhaps if the public refuses to buy most of this junk, at least Edison will get the message. I'd like to see the company pay Nancy her fees in unloaded water pics.

Friends, hucksters and cars

Tinkering Around

by LOUISE OKRUTSKY

"I haven't seen a place like Detroit where a car is so important," mused my friend from his place behind the wheel of his own vehicle.

We were wending our way through the northern suburbs along with other wayfarers who were staring straight ahead into the night through their windshields as if hypnotized.

"Yeah," I answered, wearily, "getting your first driver's license here amounts to a rite of passage."

"Hmmm," commented my friend whose experience on the road has been mainly out of the Automobile State.

I didn't pursue the subject any longer but dejectedly looked out the car window at the steady rain that glistened in the street lights.

I DIDN'T have a car and I was getting mighty tired of being shuffled around by friends as if I were an overaged orphan.

My friend is right. Cars are a little too important in the suburbs. Apartment complexes are built in driving distance, not walking distance from shopping centers, drug stores and grocery stores.

In my old home town, if you were without a car, you hopped on a bus to your destination. Or, if you were one of the hardy young, you could hoof it. I used to walk eight miles to get to a downtown shopping area and my only complaint was that the weather was too cold.

I'd walk in the suburbs, too, except there isn't any room on the half-lit roads for pedestrians.

The almighty car takes up all the room and its drivers never set foot on solid ground long enough to realize that sidewalks were meant for human feet as well as stray dog leavings.

But I digress. What I really wanted to talk about is what happens to someone who finds himself outside of the stream of activity because he's lost his car. That's tantamount to bucking the system and strangely akin to being quadraplegic. At first people are sympathetic, then dutiful and then they begin to treat you in the same way they'd handle a difficult child.

CAR RENTAL places have found a special place in my heart. I'm sure they're the logical successors to snake oil salesmen. Once they know they have you in their clutches, they're willing to drive to drive a distance to make sure you, poor unfortunate, will end up paying for not being four-wheeled like everyone else.

Phone conversations with car rental personnel have a tendency to resemble "Let's Make a Deal."

"When do you need a car?"

"Today," answers the customer.

"Well, we have a car we can give you today. What kind do you want?" said Rent Four Wheels.

"Economy."

"Well, that'll cost you $14 a day and 13 cents a mile. But we don't have an economy car today, we can give you a luxury car for twice the amount. What kind of credit card do you have?"

Aha. Catch 22 of the banking world. Credit. If you don't have a car and have studiously managed to pay off your debts and most of your purchases in cash, you're really bucking the system.

IF BANK AMERICARD has certified that you have the ability to honestly get into debt and scrupulously avoid paying for your purchases, you can accrue enough credit to be trusted to owe even more money.

I had forgotten about that little hitch. I haven't even applied for a major credit card. I didn't think I'd need it.

Another friend of mine, who has a good idea of my rather straightforward payment practices, likes to remind me that the great sprawl of suburbia doesn't resemble a Hamtramck grocery store where the owner knows you personally and will trust you to owe him for the week's food supply.

"Get a checking account, will you," she told me in exasperation as she drove me back to work.

"I will," I said.

I will because I usually get bank checks or money orders and I live too far from banks and post offices to slink in and out fast with the necessary paper.

Getting a checking account now, represents acquiescence to a lifestyle I've managed to avoid.

But the good thing, if there is a good thing, about sliding your car into a drainage ditch during a snow storm is that you discover that people aren't that bad. Friends have a way of appearing and making you feel truly gifted because they care about you.

I HAVE discovered there are still Good Samaritans in the world. One member of the vanishing breed stopped to help me. His name was Bruce and he drove a late model Mustang. He thought he was going straight home to Wixom after the holidays but he made a few detours for me. He insisted on taking me to get my head x-rayed, although I insisted it wasn't necessary. Then he helped me in a fruitless search to find someone to get my car out of the ditch. When he left, after retrieving my belongings from the downed auto, he didn't ask for anything in return nor did he accept my offer of at least a warm dinner for his trouble.

If that wasn't enough to boost my faith in humanity, friend and professional cohort Harry Mauthe outdid himself in patiently helping me to get my car towed as well as sitting with me one evening to make sure I was all right.

What really made me count my blessings was my heretic friend who is amazed by Detroit's driving habits. When I confessed to him that I was a little nervous because the doctor had told me to wake up every few hours in case I had a really serious head injury, he volunteered to get me up by telephone in the middle of the night. Since my head hadn't stopped hurting, I decided to play along, figuring that he'd sleep through my 3 a.m. awakening.

HE DIDN'T forget, even though he had to get up earlier in the morning than I. To really top it off, he and his girlfriend helped me stock my empty refrigerator and kept me laughing when I really wanted to go into a corner and feel sorry for myself.

Now that I'm a member of the Four Wheeled race again, with a car loaned to me by yet another generous coworker, I have to admit, I feel more than relieved. When all my friends rallied together, I even turned down help in renting a car because I had already accepted one loaner.

If the weather holds up, I'm sure I'll regain my equilibrium.

Right now I'm looking forward to being self-propelled so I can plan my free time. With all this shuffling around, I haven't had the time to take an after-dinner walk.

Pierre Cardin presents the well-dressed Lamp.

For his first lighting collection, designer Pierre Cardin, has created a sophisticated group of lamps and lighting accessories with European styling to enhance and accentuate the decor of almost any contemporary room.

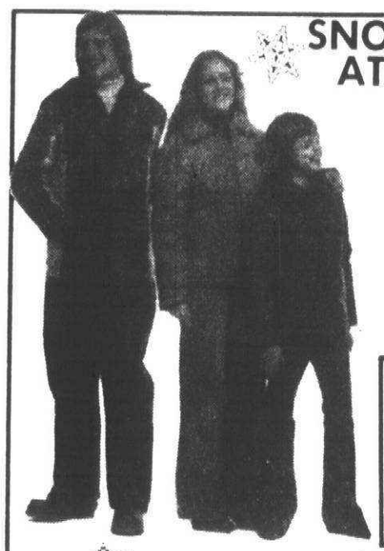

Styled like a modern sculpture, "Elysée" combines polished chrome or brass with clear acrylic. This handsome floor lamp has a square base supporting two metal rods which holds solid blocks of acrylic between them. A rectangular shade in oyster white "floats" around the rods. Overall height of the lamp is 59 inches.

Hot air won't huff problem away

When the Michigan House of Representatives defeated a special appropriation for the ailing Wayne County government, outstate legislators huffed that the county's problems were self-made.

That is far from the truth. Not only has Wayne County been hit by problems from the outside, but state government itself has been a partner in Wayne's undoing.

Actually, only the county human services budget has a deficit. The road commission and the drain commission office, both of which deal in physical facilities, are fiscally sound.

But the elected county board of commissioners has had problems meeting the costs of welfare, health care, jails, probation and courts. The perverse irony is that those costs rise during a recession at the same time tax revenues take a dive.

THE STATE Constitution prohibits deficit budgets. For the past six years, then, Wayne County has used the gimmick of selling tax anticipation notes to make up its operating deficits.

Here is where the state's hands get dirty, too. Before the county can float that kind of loan, it must get permission from the Michigan Municipal Finance Commission, state watchdog over local borrowing. The MMFC gave its blessing to those tax anticipation notes, knowing full well they were covering a deficit.

Finally, the MMFC last year blew the whistle, approving a loan of $13.5 million but providing that Wayne County had to balance its budget in a single year.

Socked with that kind of restriction, the county is in the process of laying off as many as 700 employees and closing down long-term care facilities in Westland, dumping senior citizens and other patients into nursing homes around the region.

The county can take some blame for the contracts it negotiated with employees' unions and for failing to find uses for empty buildings.

BUT TO CALL the county's problems self-made is a great overstatement. Consider:

•The MMFC could have given the county two or three years to straighten out the fiscal problem that took six years to accumulate. Instead, the state agency insisted on a remedy in 12 months.

•A good portion of the county's deficit was caused by state-mandated programs and the rising costs associated with those programs. A county is a creature of the state and must perform the functions the state tells it to perform—no home rule here.

In the past year, the state ordered that female prisoners be housed in the M Building on General Hospital land in Westland, and inflicted a crash program of reform in Recorder's Court. Is that "bad management" by Wayne County?

INSTEAD OF looking for weaknesses in management, we need to accept the fact that governmental programs aimed at meeting human needs are difficult to finance with static kinds of revenue.

We need to stop blaming Wayne County government for macroeconomic woes that befell the auto industry and energy prices.

Parking lot Scrooges

They're getting more arrogant this year. They're the drivers who park their cars in the clearly marked fire lanes of suburban shopping centers.

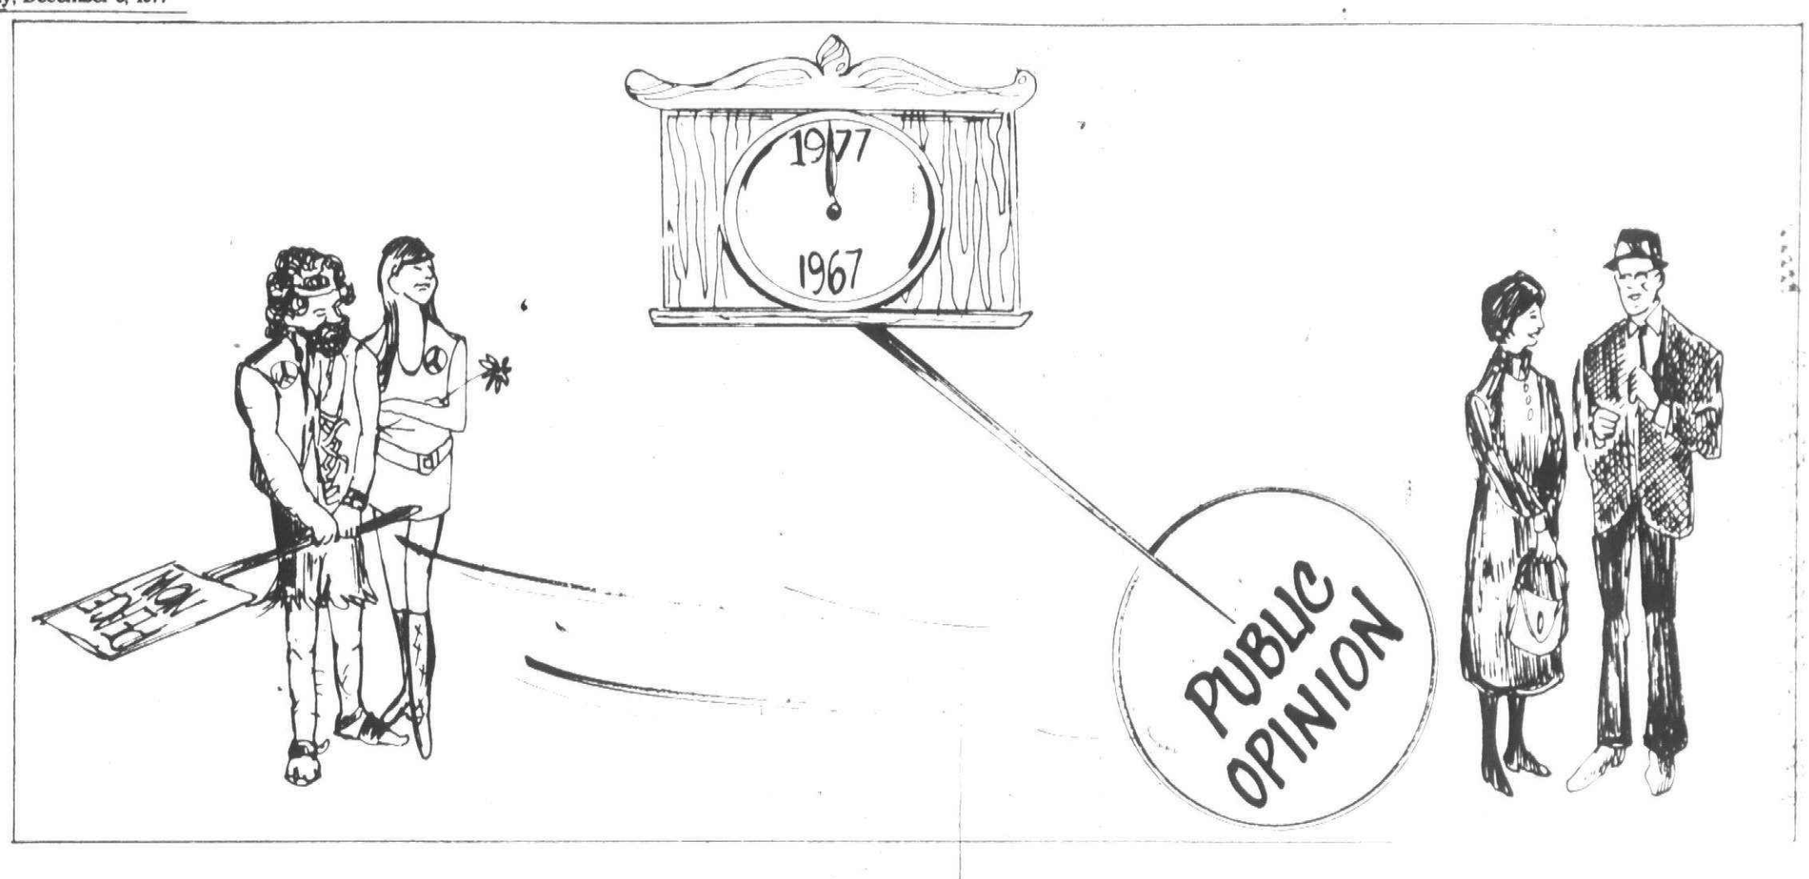

Usually, such lanes are wide enough for three vehicles—one picking up or discharging a passenger, two passing each other. When one car is parked in a fire lane, traffic slows to a trickle. When cars are parked on both sides of the driveway, in both fire lanes, traffic grinds to a halt.

It used to be that fire lanes were abused only in winter weather. This year, however, the abuses have been going on all year long.

It used to be the chief violators were grey-haired men waiting for their wives. Then women drivers of all ages got into the act, and now young men have joined the ranks of the parking lot Scrooges.

Parking in fire lanes is something of a custom in the metropolitan Detroit suburbs. Other cities, we hear, honor the fire lanes. Our East Lansing correspondent informs us that if you park in a fire lane there, you will be promptly chewed out by the nearest citizen and almost as promptly ticketed by the cops.

We cannot encourage honest citizens to take the law into their own hands by deflating the tires of illegally parked cars, walking across their hoods or spraying paint on them. But the thought does cross our minds.

Pendulum swings—hard—at the young

Tim Richard

What a difference six years can make!

In the early '70s there was a youth cult. The "kids," as anyone younger than 25 was called, had converted most of the politicians and a large part of the general populace to their views of the Vietnam War, and they won a lot of admiration for it. Those who had fought in the war were heroes, too.

Outlandish garb, bushy hair styles, rock music, the smoking of pot—one youth fad after another was adopted by adults.

Straight magazines adopted the typographical tricks of the "underground press." Oriental religions that an earlier generation would have called heathen became tolerable and even fashionable.

Politicians, whose careers are dependent on sensitivity to whims and trends, responded with heroic efforts to bring young people into the mainstream.

I BRING UP these perhaps embarrassing reminiscences of the past because this is the holy season for western cultures. The songs on the radio equate the Christmas spirit with loving kids.

The public, however, no longer sees it that way. Consider:

•Citizens Research Council of Michigan reports 75 per cent of us agree with the proposition that "Juveniles who commit serious crimes should be tried as adults." Among persons older than age 50, some 86 per cent agree. In Detroit, agreement hits 85 per cent; in the suburbs, 74.

•The death penalty, long considered a barbarism in Michigan, has majority support. CRC finds 60 per cent of us overall supporting it. A poll by State Rep. Jack Kirksey of Livonia shows 74 per cent support. Other polls in the suburbs show even stronger support. The popularity of the death penalty is very clearly related to the desire to crack down on juveniles.

•Raising the drinking age gets a "yes" vote from 92 per cent of Kirksey's district, and other legislative polls run about the same. Such a sentiment is particularly significant when measured against the aforementioned desire to try juveniles in adult courts.

•In Troy, a neighborhood group is overwhelmingly opposing location of a Troy Boys and Girls Club near them. A petitioner in opposition said homeowners would be subject to vandalism, decreasing property values, late-night crowds, increased traffic and a greater chance of break-ins. From a boys and girls club, yet!

SO THE PENDULUM swings.

Actually, suburbs have long shown hostility to young people—by declining to build sidewalks in many subdivisions, by shoveling the snow from driveways and not from sidewalks, by imposing "no singles" rules in what rental housing is available, by zoning out the kind of housing young adults can afford, by eliminating the old drug store soda fountain, by granting liquor licenses only to posh restaurants and hotels they can't afford.

Today, the attitude borders on outright repression.

I suspect what young people deserve is somewhere in the middle. We were too tolerant of their zaniness in the late '60s and early '70s, too prone to appease them. Today we're clearly in danger of coming down too hard.

They're neither as enlightened and "with it" as they think they are, and they couldn't possibly be as bad as we older folks are telling the pollsters they are.

The moderate view I express is bound to be unpopular, at least on first reading. I can only plead the season. Christmas. Hanuka. Peace on earth. The season for kids. Good will toward all. Even those between 15 and 25.

'Balance of metro' is big but leaderless

Eccentricities

by HENRY M. HOGAN, JR.

What is a suburbanite and who speaks for him?

The 1970 census told us more people live in the suburbs than in the core city. It is also believed that by 1980 more people will live in the suburbs than in the rest of the country—core city, rural areas and small cities combined.

Sales & Marketing Management, in its 1977 "Survey of Buying Power," describes the suburbs as "balance of metro."

The United States government defines a metropolitan area in terms of the Standard Metropolitan Statistical Area (SMSA).

The metropolitan Detroit SMSA includes the City of Detroit plus the rest of Wayne County, Oakland, Macomb, Livingston, Lapeer and St. Clair counties.

"Balance of metro" is the SMSA minus the core city.

AS YOU DRIVE through Lapeer County, you wonder why government calls it "suburbs" because it is beautiful farmland. Maybe the government is thinking ahead to a time when farmers will cash in and sell out to developers.

Anyway, a suburbanite in the Detroit area is anyone who lives in the six county area, but not in the City of Detroit.

This means the suburbs include the blue-collar workers of southern Macomb County and southwestern Wayne, the farmers of Lapeer County, the young auto executives of Livonia, and the senior auto executives of Bloomfield Hills.

This diversity of humanity represents 68 per cent of the households in metropolitan Detroit, 74 per cent of the effective buying income, 75.4 per cent of the retail sales, 74.2 per cent of food sales and 75.5 per cent of auto sales.

THE MEDIAN effective buying income per household in the suburbs is $19,643 compared to $14,432 in the core city, or 36 per cent more.

Oakland County's median effective buying power per household is $20,909; Macomb's, $20,183. Wayne County's is $16,951, but this is pulled down by Detroit's $14,432. Lapeer County trails the SMSA at $13,541.

The median age of the suburbanite is 28.3 compared to the Detroit resident's 31.2 years.

There are 3.19 persons per household in the suburbs and 3.64 per household in the core city.

Sixty per cent of the people in the suburbs own pets.

We have described the suburbanite in statistical terms, but we really don't have any better idea what he or she is like except that they are more affluent.

PROBABLY THE biggest single factor separating the mass of suburbanites from the affluent urbanites is a piece of land.

People have moved out of the city so they could have a house on piece of property and live among people of a similar station in life.

But because they have settled in many smaller communities, they have no spokesman. The people in the core city can unite behind a mayor. There is no single leader in "balance of metro."

When 1980 rolls around and the majority of voters live in the suburbs, can their political clout be exercised without a leader for their common causes?

YMCA approaches critical fork in road

The challenge presented to community service by sudden growth cannot be more graphically demonstrated than in the Plymouth-Canton area.

Public services such as schools, fire, police, water, sewers, drainage often lag behind the developers expanding in a new market.

Frequently, the pressure on government to respond to demands for services is greater than it can handle or the voting public will tolerate.

THE SAME KINDS of pressures exert themselves in the field of social services. With people come human needs that require specialized attention. Agencies like YMCA and Salvation Army welcome the challenge, despite the frustrations.

An example can be noted locally involving the struggles of the Canton-Plymouth-Northville YMCA. This non-facility, almost totally volunteer agency is struggling to maintain its identity.

However, it finds itself boxed in a predicament by a combination of factors including politics, jurisdictional questions, Metropolitan YMCA structure, and its own self-pride.

The CNP-Y has never enjoyed greater response to its program of activities. Often only lack of quarters in which to conduct its programs blocks progress of the agency. Thus, in a rather loosely-organized manner, it has sought a building facility to house its offices and accommodate at least some of its activities.

As might be expected, the CNP-Y finds its greatest response from Canton. Unquestionably, its hope for future development rests with continued service to the Canton area.

But Canton is a plum that has caught the attention of "competitors" to CNP-Y, although competition for business hardly seems like a proper term to apply to Young Men's Christian Association.

CNP-Y is not a member of the formal Metropolitan YMCA, although it pays a token membership dues for professional assistance and guidance. Meanwhile, it is becoming increasingly apparent that the full-facility Livonia YMCA is eagerly willing to fill the void and provide the services for Canton that CNP-Y cannot.

And it would seem that Metropolitan Detroit YMCA might prefer it that way. Under such an arrangement CNP-Y might become a subsidiary of Livonia YMCA, if it continues to exist at all.

THE WHOLE ISSUE is further complicated by the fact that Canton is a member of United Community Services Fund, while Plymouth has its own community fund.

So how does Canton contribute to CNP-Y? Does it earmark a certain share of its contributions to UCS to the local CNP-Y? Or does it become the territory for service of Metropolitan YMCA, which means Livonia YMCA would take over?

Another alternative would be for Canton to join the Plymouth Community Fund. Then both communities would support the CNP-Y directly.

Meanwhile, the board of directors of CNP-Y hesitatingly wrestles with the problem. Last week it looked at the old Plymouth Hospital as a possible home for the CNP-Y. On the same evening it met with a representative of Metro-Y and wondered aloud where it is heading.

Without Canton, the CNP-Y has a questionable future. And veteran volunteers who have nursed CNP-Y along to its present status are reluctant to toss in the sponge and let "outsiders" take over their territory.

PERHAPS THE BEST hope for CNP-Y is a compromise.

First, Canton must want CNP-Y to continue to serve its area. Secondly, CNP-Y must swallow some of its independent pride and become a full-fledged member of Metro YMCA.

Then it must strive to gain greater community (Plymouth-Canton and to a lesser degree, Northville) support for its important family programs so that eventually it can house itself in a centrally-located facility.

Meanwhile, CNP-Y and numerous sister social agencies continue to attempt to fill the void that inevitably is created in the wake of rapid growth.

Father should be a model

Editor:

It was with amazement that I read Mr. Hogan's Nov. 17 column and discovered that he is still living in the Victorian Age when a father was aloof from his children and often functioned as a family despot.

Mr. Hogan states that he spent his life competing with his father to prove that he was just as good a man in his mother's eyes as his dad was. Isn't it bad enough that we must all compete in the outside world? Must this also be carried into the home?

It is true that no father should ever become a strict "pal" to his son, for their talents, interests, and ages are against this.

However, a father can and must show his son he cares, that he is there to help, that he is a model the child can emulate. If the son is to learn, not only must the pattern be set by the father, but the father, of necessity, must be closely associated with the son in the boy's world.

By becoming a part of the son's work and play, the father can set examples for him to follow.

It's obvious that Mr. Hogan has no experience or knowledge of the YMCA Indian Guide program, which is based on the philosophy that by sharing common experiences, parents and children can understand each other better without sacrificing their roles as persons or as members of the family.

In addition, joining the Indian Guides gives the child another distinct advantage; he can see other fathers with their sons (which isn't a bad idea for dad to see, either) and learn things from these dads that his own father may not be adept in: archery, fishing, wood working, camping and crafts.

Through this group concept, dads assist each other in teaching their sons the elemental lessons of character, courage, and righteous living, and also help their sons make growing up adjustments just a little bit easier.

Mr. Hogan's excuse for not sharing experiences with his son evolve around not being home at 5 because he was changing the world for the better. Fine, but isn't the home and the family the basic place where changing the world begins?

Sorry, Mr. Hogan but your column was a cop-out, an excuse for not doing anything with your son that would show him that you are interested and concerned about him as a person, not a competitor.

DICK ZIMMERMAN,
National Indian Guide Programs Chief

Stagflation seen in 1978

A somewhat "stalled" economy, a slowing in the rate of expansion, continued high unemployment, and an inflation rate sticking close to six per cent, has been predicted for 1978 by University of Michigan economists.

This assessment was made Thursday by Profs. Saul H. Hymans and Harold T. shapiro as part of their annual econimic forecast.

The control forecast for 1978 assumes a turn toward more expansive monetary policy by mid-1978, no major changes in federal tax policy, and the passage of an energy bill which allows domestic crude oil prices to reach the world market price by 1980.

Liquid Protein has good uses

Editor:

Liquid Protein has some good uses that we aren't reading about in any of the current onslaught of bad publicity. Post-surgery patients, athletes and weight lifters, hypoglycemics and vegeterians are among the people who need extra protein.

Many new brands suddenly appeared on shelves during "The Last Chance Diet" craze. However, several old extablished brands were on the market long before the diet concept was so widly publicized, and they contain no preservatives or artificial coloring or flavoring.

Saying all liquid protein should be banned because of its "suspected," not proved, link to death in 300-pound plus people who lost a hugh amount of weight rapidly—why, that is about the same as saying all penicillin should be banned because someone died from a reaction to it.

By all means, a warning on the label about the drastic dieting would be most appropriate. But let's not forget that it is a product, that when sensibly used, it 's very important to some people's health and well-being.

AND STILL BE COMFORTABLE
...with proper humidity furnished by an
Aprilaire® HUMIDIFIER
Raising the humidity in your home reduces the amount of heat required for comfort, and helps save on your heating bill. And, proper humidity reduces infiltration of cold outside air through spaces caused by shrinkage of framing around doors and windows. Our recommendation to provide the proper humidity is the Aprilaire Humidifier. Accurate control. High capacity. Central humidification with any type heating system. Put more comfort in your life with the humidifier that gives you more — Aprilaire.

Advice isn't cheap

The price paid out for consulting firm services

If you are in the consulting business and want to boost annual income, the best client to select would be a community experiencing significant population growth.

Other good clients would be township governments which, because they lack full-time engineers and other staff members cities usually have, must rely more heavily on consultant services.

Those observations emerge from a check of the use of planning and engineering consultants by the City of Plymouth, Canton and Plymouth townships.

ALL THREE MUNICIPALITIES use planning consultants to advise the planning commission on rezoning requests and site plan approvals.

Both Canton and Plymouth townships also use an engineering consulting service for site plan review, sewer and road projects. The City of Plymouth, however, hasn't used services of a consulting engineering during the past year.

One reason is that the city isn't experiencing the same growth as Canton and Plymouth townships. Another is the availability of a full-time engineer on the city's staff who does most of the inspections and other engineering functions.

Primarily because of the difference in full-time staffing levels, the city spends much less for consultants than both townships. The city normally spends $3,300 a year for the planning consultant services of Velican-Leman. Canton has paid $151,203 thus far for engineering and planning consulting services from Wade-Trim and Plymouth Township spends $12,000 to $15,000 a year for engineering and planning consulting services from Dietrich Associates.

WADE-TRIM of Taylor serves as planning consultant to the Canton Planning Commission and works on site plans and engineering for the township board and building department.

"Actually only a small portion of the $151,203 paid to Wade-Trim comes from the township's coffers," explains Mike Gorman, deputy treasurer. "Actually most of that is paid to Wade-Trim by developers for site plan review-type work."

Of the $151,203, some $126,192 represented payments made by developers for Wade-Trim services. Of the remaining $25,001, about 25 per cent will be reimbursed to Canton from state and federal grant monies.

"About a fourth of the $25,001 is charged to Canton by Wade-Trim for services in preparing an application for a grant, such as a block grant or a land-water conservation grant. When those projects are funded, the township will be reimbursed for the amount it has paid for planning," says Gorman.

PLYMOUTH TOWNSHIP has budgeted $15,000 this year for engineering and planning consulting services from Dietrich Associates of Plymouth.

Dietrich Associates advises the planning commission, the township board and building department on matters related to site plans, roads and sewers. Last year the township spent $12,284 for consulting services and this year expects to be close to the $15,000 budget figure.

The City of Plymouth has spent $5,567 from December 1976 to November 1977, an increase from the normal budgeted amount of $3,300.

"Normally we pay $3,300 a year as a retainer fee to Velican-Leman for its consulting services to the planning commission," says City Mgr. Fred Yockey. "Other money is then paid to them on an hourly basis for special work, such as site plan reviews. During the past 12 months we've had an unusual number of site plan reviews which accounts for the added cost for the city."

Until recently Canton had used Velican-Leman as planning consultants, but has now turned to Wade-Trim for plannning and engineering advice. Plymouth Township had used Dietrich for planning consulting, but a couple years ago had the firm take over as engineering consultant also.

The VIEW from 461 SOUTH MAIN

by ELLIE GRAHAM

MONDAY'S SNOWSTORM did not deter members of the 60-Plus Club as more than 100 of them turned out for the annual Christmas luncheon in First United Methodist Church of Plymouth.

The menu was one of their favorites—chicken in wine sauce, finger carrots in mint butter, cranberry salad, rolls, salad, and beverage with chocolate sundaes for dessert.

Doris Curtis and Florence Griggs chair the club and Walter Fletcher is treasurer.

THAT SMALL but mighty group, the Plymouth Soroptimists Club, has taken the residents of Plymouth Opportunity House under its wing.

There have been seasonal parties and special treats at the house on corner of Deer and Wing.

Now they have come up with special plans for a Christmas party which the residents and the Soroptimists believe will be a sure-fire success.

"This time we're going to take them out for the party," said Ellice Kulick, program chairman for the club. "We're all going to Little Caesar's for dinner. We'll have presents and favors for everybody. But the best part of it is the fact we're going out. All the parties have been taken to their residence. This will be an enjoyable change for everyone."

Roberta Orr is club president.

ROCK AND ROLL Young Americans CBer-style will be Saturday evening (Dec. 10) from 8 p.m. to midnight.

Sponsored by the Young Americans Club, the dance in the American Legion Hall, 888 N. Sheldon Road will be geared to teenagers and the young at heart.

Live music will be supplied by "Alcatraz." There will be free refreshments.

Admission is $3.50 per person, or $6 for a couple.

For more information or reservations call Barb Schacht, 455-3874, Dan Booth, 453-1082, or Tammy Burgess, 455-1545.

RALPH AND MABEL Lorenz returned from Colorado in time for the Symphony Ball. Then Mabel became ill and was unable to attend.

For all those who miss Creon Smith at the Mayflower, the word is he misses us too. Creon is a little homesick for Plymouth.

THE HISTORICAL Museum on Main Street is spruced up for Christmas thanks to the efforts of three local garden clubs.

The Lake Pointe branch decorated the outside of the building. They also are responsible for the decorations on the lanterns and the pumphouse down by the Pointe Park in Old Village.

GALLIMORE Elementary School's PTO has arranged for "Santa's Secret Shop" which will be open Dec. 8, 9 and 12.

Students will be able to do their Christmas shopping in a children-only atmosphere with gifts appropriate for all members of the family. Price range will be from 10 cents to $3.

The Canton Township Garden Club will pick up toys from donors. Call 459-2415 for pickup.

BREAKFAST WITH SANTA, an annual event sponsored by Hudson's will be at 9 a.m. Dec. 17 and 20 in the Terrace at Hudson's Westland store.

Tickets are $2.50 with a menu of juice, muffin, scrambled eggs and beverage. Santa Claus will be there to join the fun.

The recent death of Clarence Moore's "Sam" marks the end of an era. Sam sired generations of lambs which were a sure sign of spring to his Burroughs Street neighbors.

Gala Symphony Ball opens holiday season

The annual Symphony Ball Saturday night in the Mayflower Meeting House was a sparkling affair as 250 persons gathered for cocktails, dinner and dancing.

It was the 22nd annual Christmas Ball sponsored by the Plymouth Symphony League. The Staccato group of the league was responsible for the event with Lori Markiewicz, Sue Bunch and Barb Hanson co-chairing the committee.

The menu received general raves and approval. From the the Oysters Casino, baby frog legs and stuffed mushroom caps served as appetizers to the fresh strawberries in sour cream dressing, tossed salad, steak, fluted potatoes and petit fours, the consensus was "wonderful" and "fantastic."

LORI AND LARRY Markiewicz's group included Mable and Art Partain, Carol and Norman Mikaelian, and Kathy and Carl Rea.

The Gene Gulbransen party was seated at adjoining tables. There were Ed and Ruth Judd, Jean and Hugh Harsha, Bill and Marge Ackerman, and Gipzene and Ernie Myers of Oxford, Ohio at one table.

At the other were June and Tom Turner, Sally and Mark Arthur, Nita and Jerry Brown and the Gulbransens. Gloria Gulbransen recalled that their last symphony ball, before they moved away from Plymouth about 14 years ago, was one she had co-chaired.

Eleanor and Jim Warren have attended every ball but one since the first in the old high school on Main Street. Jessie and Sam Hudson, Kathryn and William Touhey, and Betty and Bob Webber were at the Warren table.

Nan and Bob Cooper, George and Mary Smith, Helen and Ken Merrill, Helen and Bob Rosbolt, and Carolyn and John Jacobs were seated together. The rest of their party, Dee and Gus Carlson, Mary and Eric Childs, Carolyn and Jim Kleiber, and Sue and Kran Rogers, were at an adjoining table.

RUBY AND E.J. McClendon, Mary and Jack Dougherty, Stephanie and Al Miller, Fran and Charles Lang, and Margaret and Brian Kidson took time out to eat between dances.

Garden luncheon has yule theme

Winners of the prizes were Marie Battermann, Sarah Chance, Pauline Penland, Diane Mallow and Marilyn Stathakis. More photos inside. (Staff photos by Gary Caskey)

Canton Chatter

By SHARON STARON 455-5322

December in Michigan does not gently tap you on the shoulder to remind you that winter is here. Oh no—it demands your attention.

Your senses are awakened every morning as you go to get in the car. So are your hands, if you have no gloves; your feet, if you have no boots; and every other part of your anatomy that is not bundled up warmly. Just to have the motor turn over each morning makes you grateful at the start of each new day.

We are more atuned to the weather forecasts as piles and piles of new snow are predicted at any moment. We look out the window more often during this month to see what new and glorious wonders might appear from the sky. Oh yes, December certainly has our attention.

Just walking down the street becomes a challenge. Take your eyes away from where your foot is landing for only a moment and you may not be in an upright position for long. As the sting from a northern wind whips across your face you are aware that you're alive. No question about it.

This month also is a great test to your sense of humor and your sanity. If at the end of a day after driving for three hours going at a steady clip of five mph, slipping and sliding all the way, you still have the ability to speak calmly, then you're doing better than most.

If you laugh while cleaning the driveway with a snowblower that does nothing more than blow snow in your face, you're doing just fine.

And on the way home from work after digging your car out of three different snowbanks along your route and assisting many other cars, you still go out and build a snowman with the kids—then you're a person made for Michigan in December.

CUB SCOUT Pack 1738 from Hulsing Elementary is Canton's newest pack. It was organized at the end of October and is off to a good start with 22 boys and three dens.

Den mother for Den 1 is Linda Campbell and her assistant is Theresa Kline. Den 2 is headed by Linda Groat and assisted by Karen Griffith. Den 3 has Carol Bochy as leader with Diane Rose assisting.

This pack already has been busy with a newspaper drive to raise money and on Saturday there will be another fund-raising project.

They are holding a bake sale and arts and crafts boutique at Kroger's in Harvard Square shopping center at Ford and Sheldon.Hours are 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.

The next pack meeting will be in Hulsing Dec. 21. Any boy who is at least 8 years old or has completed the second grade is eligible to join.

NEWS FROM OUR fourth grade historians from Hulsing: Dorothy West, president of Canton's Historical Society, told the children last week about a small village that was once in the middle of Canton at what is now the intersection of Cherry Hill and Ridge Roads.

The name of the village was Cherry Hill, so named because of the many cherry trees once were abundant around the community situated on a ridge.

In the early 1900s, the late Henry Ford owned 7,000 acres around the village. He helped establish the village's one-room school and small church.

There was one circuit minister who traveled from church to church all over Michigan.

Scented gifts please, aid sleep and dreams

Years ago, a traditional gift for an invalid, elderly person or insomniac friend was a scented pillow. These pillows contained blends which were said to aid sleep and induce pleasant dreams.

Such a blend can be made by mixing together the following ingredients, all of which are available in a health food store:

¼ lb. oak moss
¼ lb. wild thyme
½ lb. dried peppermint leaves
2 oz. dried spearmint leaves
2 oz. hops
1 oz. lemon verbena

My youngest daughter made a pillow for me a few years ago, and it is still one of my favorite possessions. It has received hard use, because everyone who sees it enjoys resting his head on it.

One of my readers sent in the following recipe for a Christmas potpourri. Packaged in attractive jars, it makes a very special gift. Once you smell its fragrance, you will want to keep an open jar in your home over the holidays.

CHRISTMAS POTPOURRI

Mix together:
½ lb. rose buds
¼ lb. thyme
2 oz. French lavender
2 oz. lemon verbena
2 oz. spearmint
2 oz. marjoram
2 oz. whole cloves
2 oz. orris root

Place the blended ingredients in a covered jar in the refrigerator for a week before packaging in individual containers for gift giving.

SCENTED SOAP balls make an excellent gift for the man or woman who has everything.

Into a large mixing bowl, pour one-half cup hot water. Add a few drops of food coloring, one tablespoon olive oil and a few drops (more if you desire a stronger scent) of scented oil such as patchouli, bergamot, musk, lemon, lavender, rose, or any other kind.

Then add three cupfuls of Ivory Snow, available at the grocery store. Using a wooden spoon, mix these ingredients well. With your hands, knead the mixture until it is even-colored, stiff and smooth. Shape into balls.

Allow these balls to dry in the open air for several days before wrapping them for gifts.

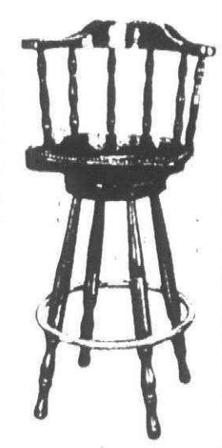

One nice way of packaging these soap balls is to place them inside a covered glass jar or an apothecary jar. Even a one-pint canning jar can make an attractive package.

NOTE: IN ANSWER to your requests, most of the dry ingredients used in both last week's and this week's Christmas gifts may be obtained from your local health food store. For the more hard-to-find herbs, try one of the various shops around the Eastern Market in Detroit.

The rose buds and orris root called for in the Christmas potpourri can be purchased from Goodwill Candle Co., 300 E. Milwaukee, Detroit.

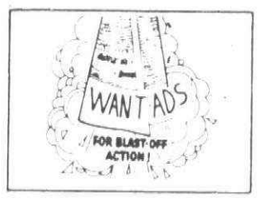

The best area source for perfumed oils is the Monkey Boutique, 1250 Washington Blvd., Detroit. Ali Rahaman, the proprietor, is an expert on perfumed body oils and will even custom-blend one for you.

It will be guest night for members of the Plymouth Historical Society when they meet at 7 p.m. Thursday in the Plymouth Historical Museum. A tour of the museum in its Christmas dress will be followed by a program, "A Swedish Christmas Celebration," presented by Margaret Retting and Marianne Garber.

Society members have been urged to invite a guest to tonight's meeting.

Patients will be moved

Attorneys representing Wayne County and patients at the Reuther Long Term Care facility in Westland will meet in federal district court today (Thursday) to thrash out a plan for patients' "orderly transfer elsewhere."

If attornies are unable to reach an agreement, federal Judge Ralph Freeman is expected to impose his own plan.

Jim Jackson, attorney for Reuther patients, had filed suit in federal court requesting a preliminary injunction to prevent the county from transfering patients out of the Reuther facility.

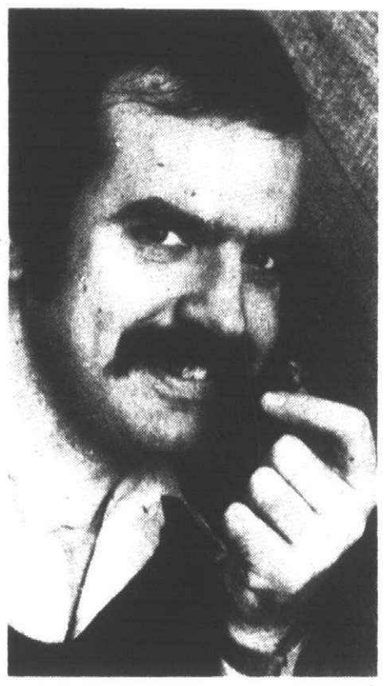

Instead of issuing his own opinion, Jackson said Freeman "adopted the state circuit court decision" which denied a request for a temporary injunction in a similar suit filed originally in Wayne County Circuit Court.

"He decided not to disturb the state court's finding," said Jackson, adding that the judge "did not consider" differences between the two suits.

Jackson said he wasn't "in a position to answer" when asked if the case would be appealed. If the suit is appealed, it would go before the Sixth Circuit Court in Cincinnati.

Attorney George Washington, who represents patients and union employees at the Reuther building, said he plans today to file an appeal of Saginaw Circuit Court Judge Fred Borshard's opinion denying a preliminary injunction request.

"We were waiting to see what the federal court would do," said Washington.

Sweet taste of Christmas

Christmas puddings and fruit cakes are being stored away for ripening, and Christmas cookies are packed in air-tight boxes to retain their crisp or chewy texture. For an added touch, area residents have taken advantage of classes at Larry Jane's Gourmet Gallerie, Plymouth, where luscious gingerbread houses and marzipan were created under the direction of home economist Loretta Mirro. The gallery and other local shops are stocked with a wide variety of gift suggestions. (Staff photos by Gary Caskey)

Individual Retirement Account

A savings account that earns 7¾% interest annually... and not taxed until after you retire!

If you don't have a retirement plan, you should have an Individual Retirement Account. Regular savings are taxed before you deposit, I.R.A. savings aren't taxed until after you retire... Then you're in a lower tax bracket. And since you deposit more to begin with, your savings earn more. You can deposit up to $1750 or 15% of your income annually, whichever is less.

Compare the savings difference if you deposited $1500 each year:

AFTER	WITH A TAX-SHELTERED I.R.A. ACCOUNT	WITH A REGULAR SAVINGS ACCOUNT
10 YEARS	$23,544	$19,025
20 YEARS	$74,646	$50,217
30 YEARS	$185,558	$99,827

'Most likely' vote has pressures

By NANCY DUNHAM

What effect does the title "Most Likely to Succeed" have on the lives of high school seniors in the years following graduation?

A learning specialist from Garden City, a former Livonia resident now studying law in Portland, Ore., and a pre-medical student at the Univeristy of Michigan, all share knowledge of the prestige and problems associated with such an honor.

Sue McCandless, who was elected "Most Likely to Succeed" by Garden City West's senior class of 1968, had also been chosen as the Garden City Teen Queen and was voted "most inteligent" by her fellow classmates that year.

Now Mrs. Robert Herrick and still a resident of Garden City, she believes being named most likely to succeed was the result of her near-perfect grade point average and her many school activities. She belonged to the Pep and Latin clubs, kept score and participated in sports events, planned dances, and served as co-editor of her high school yearbook.

After receiving her degree in 1972, Sue substituted in the Livonia public school system and for the past year and a half has served as a learning specialist at Dickinson Junior High in Livonia, working with students "who are having difficulty fitting into the normal school setting without some special assistance."

THE BENTLEY High School class of 1972 chose the vice president of their senior class as the male student they belieed had the greatest success potential.

Sam Nicholls, whose numerous high school activities put him on page after page of Bentley's yearbook, expressed "mild surprise" upon learning that he had been named "Most Likely to Succeed." He also remembers the reaction of his friends culminating in a loud chorus of "Most likely to succeed at what?!"

Sam personally views sucess "not as an accomplishment or goal to shoot for, but rather a state of mind—an attitude."

During the past five years, Sam has earned a BA from the University of Michigan, and is currently a second year law student at Lewis and Clark Law School in Portland, Ore.

Sam recalled that during high school, "I had no long term goals that were very developed.

"In a vague way I wanted to go to law school, but I did not have any sharp picture of what my future would look like," he added, "I still don't, except that I see my future occuring in Oregon now, instead of in Michigan."

The title Most Likely to Succeed has affected Sam "very little" he says, and will affect him even less in the future. "It's fun to tell at cocktail parties," he noted, but that is about the extent of it.

IT HAS BEEN only a matter of months since Michael Hamlin's fellow students nominated him for the title of "Most Likely to Succeed." A 1977 graduate of Plymouth-Salem High School, Michael also was named "most intelligent," graduating at the top of his class with a perfect 4-point average.

His collection of scholastic awards and letters of recognition crowd his entire bedroom wall. Yet, he remembers feeling "shocked" when he learned he had been named Most Likely to Succeed.

"I never thought that kids were that aware of how important it was to do well in school," he said.

Church Bulletin

FIRST UNITED PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH OF PLYMOUTH, will present portions of George Frederik Handel's "Messiah" during worship services at 9:30 and 11 a.m. Sunday.

Members of the church's chancel choir, with soloists and instrumentalists, will perform the special music, directed by Fred Nelson and accompanied by Dorothy Crawford at the organ.

The oratorio music will be presented in memory of Hazel Larson, former church officer and longtime member who died recently.

Soloists will be Eleanor Burton, Judith Slade, Karen Chapin and Eleanor Warren. Instrumentalists will be Janita Hauk and Cheri Neal, violin; Jean Braun, viola; Janet Holt, cello; Arthur Larson Jr., trumpet, and Sally Hawkins, oboe.

GRACE LUTHERAN CHURCH, 25231 Grand River, Redford Township, will present its combined choirs in their annual Christmas concert at 4 p.m. Sunday.

Eighty voices will join in a choral program written by Harry Simone. Featured will be the choirs in "Glory to God" and the "Hallelujah Chorus" from Handel's "Messiah" as well as brass and percussion ensembles.

Carl Munzel will direct the concert and Evelyn Brugman is organist. The church's pastor is the Rev. V.F. Halboth Jr.

ALDERSGATE UNITED METHODIST CHURCH, 10000 Beech-Daly, Redford Township, will hold its annual church school Christmas program Sunday, beginning at 4 p.m. with a children's play, "Happy Birthday, Jesus," and continuing with a spaghetti dinner and an hour of crafts.

The program was written by Diane Eickhoff.

ST. JOHN LUTHERAN CHURCH, 13542 Mercedes, Redford Township, will present the Sonshine Circle, a Christian singing ministry group, at 7:30 p.m. Sunday.

Two members of the group, Carol Lehikoinen and Steve Waters, are young people from this area and have sung at church and crusade gatherings. The group is based in Niles, Mich., and tours the midwest and east sections of the country.

WARD UNITED PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH, Six Mile and Farmington Road, Livonia, will highlight its Christmas children's program with a Family Treasures Tour beginning at 7 p.m. Sunday.

The tour will begin in the sanctuary and will include special displays with varying Christmas themes in each classroom. It will end back in the sanctuary with a nativity scene.

In charge of the program is Dan Bower, director of children's and family ministries. The public is invited.

RIVERSIDE PARK CHURCH OF GOD, Newburgh and Plymouth, Livonia, will present its sanctuary choir in John W. Peterson's Christmas cantata, "Down from His Glory" at 6:30 p.m. Sunday.

Fred Beitner will narrate the Christmas story and Marjane Baker, Wilma Majors and Robert L. Wood will be soloists. Charles Armstrong is choir director.

LIVONIA WESLEYAN CHURCH, 14500 Merriman, will present the film, "All the King's Horses," a story of a young couple wrestling with marital problems, at 7 p.m. Sunday.

A fellowship hour will follow the showing, with Genevieve Roose, Carol Pilley, Betty Kiurski and Muriel Taylor serving as hostesses.

GARDEN CITY PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH, 1841 Middle Belt, will host the Covenant Players in a program of contemporary drama at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 15.

The players, known nationally for their one-act dramas, term their work "Christian dynamics" and will in this program build their presentations around a Christmas theme. The public is invited.

Clergyman a political refugee

By MARGARET MILLER

Missions and intrigue don't usually mix, but they come together in the person of the Rev. Andrew Allie, a political fugitive from his native Sierra-Leone now serving as co-pastor for a United Methodist Church congregation in Detroit.

Rev. Allie, currently ministering to the People's UMC, a new church formed of members from Westlawn and Greenfield churches, visited Newburg UMC in Livonia recently to talk about the kind of mission work still needed in Africa.

But his visit also included the recounting of a story full of cloak-and-dagger drama.

"I am serving here instead of my own country," he said, "because there was a plot against my life—I was to be killed in a matter of hours so I had to leave the country."

The clergyman described himself as "a product of mission because missionaries brought me up after my mother died of cancer and my father died of malaria." He returned to his native land last year after completing seminary work in this country.

HE WENT BACK to find himself squarely in the middle of a power struggle between two political parties, the All Peoples' Committee, the one in power, and the Sierra Leone Peoples' Committee, the one on the outside.

Rev. Allie said he was assigned to teach mathematics in a mission school in his country and also to serve as chaplain of the school and assistant pastor of the neighboring church.

An election was being held, he recounted, and the party in power was determined to keep the other side from voting, so the principal of the school was arrested and accused of being "conspicuously indifferent to government."

"As his pastor and chaplain, I suggested we go to the local chief and get this thing cleared up," said Rev. Allie, "and that was my first big mistake."

He then told of seeing "thugs" at the chief's residence beat up the principal and then fine him $50—a quarter of his monthly salary. "I drove him to the hospital and that was my next problem," he went on, "because it seemed that if I was a friend of that man I was an enemy of the government."

Rev. Allie compounded his difficulties by suggesting from the pulpit the next Sunday that the small congregation pray for the principal, and the next thing he knew there was word circulating that there were spies in the church and he was a wanted man.

MISSIONARY FRIENDS persuaded him to get out of town, he said, and he headed for a nearby farm. He said he still didn't take the whole thing too seriously until he saw rows of vehicles with mounted guns and received another message that said: "Don't let Allie come back; he must leave the country."

Asked how he got out of Sierra Leone, Rev. Allie suggested that in times of stress "you sometimes do things you would not otherwise."

"I arrived at the airport and saw police all around," he related, "so I went up to one of the airport workers and gave him all the money I had, telling him I wouldn't be able to use it in another country.

"He got me right onto the plane."

The young clergyman said his country is under dictatorship government, and he feels no safety in returning there while the present leader and party remains in power.

"But I do see hope," he said, "because there are a lot of people determined to end this rule and there must sometime be a change."

SIERRA LEONE and all Africa is in its present condition is as much in need of mission-type help as it was under the colonial system, the speaker said.

"I define mission as meeting the needs of the people," he said, "and Sierra Leone has many needs now."

He also pointed out that in countries like South Africa and Rhod50 per cent of the school age children are in sch ool," needs for more industry and nee ls for freedom from the problems of tr balization and poverty.

" nd especially there is a need for people in leadership to be sensitive to the needs of the masses," he added.

He also pointed out that in countries like South Africa and Rhodesia, "there is a need for white and non-white to live together without suspicion."

He described the system of apartheid as "deliberate denial of the basic human rights to non-whites—they are deprived of liberty in the country of their birth."

Colored people and blacks in these countries, said Rev. Allie, must from the age of 16 carry passes with them at all times in order to move from place to place or work, and their wages are much lower, sometimes $9.60 for 50 hours of work as compared to the $150 earned by their white counterparts.

CHRISTIAN missions, said the clergyman, have been the greatest force for help in African countries because they have been the builders of schools and hospitals as well as churches.

Today's mission focus, he went on, is on the doctors, the teachers and those who can help in business and industry.

"If you go to seminary and major in theology, perhaps you cannot be accepted," he noted, "because you have to have some of these skills."

However, he also pointed out that church leadership still is needed in Africa because, with restrictive governments, "the Christian church cannot speak out on issues."

"Christian churches are in dilemma," he explained. "If they preach the gospel and speak out for freedom, they lose their charter and then they are closed.

"If they are quiet, they lose their identity as the church of Christ.

"The hope is in the fact that the church is not the institution by brave Christian individuals for who the kingdom of God has top priority."

Marriage growth weekend set

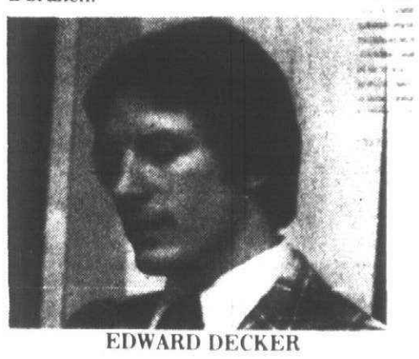

Registration is required by Dec. 15 for a marriage growth weekend sponsored by Our Lady of Good Counsel Catholic Parish in Plymouth starting Friday, Jan. 13 in the Plymouth Hilton Inn.

Titled, "Breakaway for Married Couples," the event intends to combine a relaxing time away from home with a chance for couples to find a fresh perspective in their marriage.

Presenting a series of lectures will be Edward Decker of the Emerge Ministries in Ohio, who holds masters degrees in counseling psychology and organizational behavior.

A minister in the Assemblies of God, he will draw for his material from his experiences as a family counselor, psychologist and minister of the gospel.

Patricipants may either take a room at the hotel or return home on each of the two evenings of the conference. A lecture, discussion, prayer and social gatherings will take place both Friday and Saturday. On Sunday there will be a brunch.

Dedication set for new organ

When guest organist Erven Thoma launches into an organ concert Dec. 16 in St. Matthew United Methodist Church, Livonia, he will be playing an instrument that is the latest development in electronics.

Music will flood the church from a digital computerized organ that will offer those in the audience a much broader spectrum of sound.

"All the organist has to do is to know what sounds he is looking for, and then program them in with computer cards," explained Robert Peritch, staff organist at the church. "We have all the traditional stops we had before. However, we can enlarge this to whatever we want by adding computer cards."

The full set of punch cards includes bells, chimes, carillon and percussion effects.

A dedication of the organ will be conducted by the Rev. William Rickard following the concert, which will start at 7:30 p.m. The ceremony will also celebrate the anniversary of the church, founded 15 years ago following a merger of two congregations, Hope Chapel United Brethren and Livonia Methodist churches.

The congregations worshipped together for the first time on Dec. 16, 1962, several years ahead of the merger than united the two denominations nationwide.

"That day was so beautiful that those who were there felt they were being offered a special blessing from God," said church member Norma Roberts.

IT WAS DETERMINED by church members in the fall of 1976 that the church's 30-year-old organ had seen better days and should be replaced. A committee was started to study various organs on the market, with its members eventually settling on an Allen Digital Computer organ, designed by Smiley Brothers Music Co. of Birmingham.

A member of the Allen company described it as an organ which incorporates "digital logic design and microcircuitry."

When played, digital information is retrieved from the organ's memory, reconstructed into a continuous analog signal which is electronically amplified to drive electronic speakers thus producing sound.

However, before the organ could be purchased, money had to be raised.

Church members decided this was not a wise course as there were still three years to go before payment was complete on a new St. Matthew building.

Breakfast speaker

Keith J. Leenhouts, a judge who has worked with volunteer probation assistants in Royal Oak and now serves with the National Council on Crime and Delinquency, will be speaker for the men's prayer breakfast at Ward United Presbyterian Church at 8 a.m. Saturday, Dec. 10. The speaker is author of the book, "A Father, a Son, a Three-Mile Run."

Rosedale hosts instrumental concert

George Riordan, oboist, and Phillip Austin, bassoonist, will present a join recital at 8 p.m. Monday, Dec. 12, in Rosedale Gardens United Presbyterian Church, 9601 Hubbard, Livonia.

Assisting them will be Rachel Oliver on piano, Shirley Harden, on piano and harpsicord, and Lynn Peterson Route on the cello.

There will be no admission charge for the public recital, which will include works of Telemann, Gordon Jacob, J.F. Fasch and Poulenc.

Holder of a master's degree in music from Northwestern University, he studied with Ray Still, who is principal oboist for the Chicago Symphony Orchestra.

Austin, a graduate of Wayne State University, studied with Charles Sirard, former principal bassoonist with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra. Since 1972, he has been second bassoonist with the Detroit Symphony.

Mrs. Harden, one of the assisting artists, is director of music at Rosedale Gardens Church and a member of the faculty of Schoolcraft College.

She has studied at Michigan State University and the University of Michigan.

Ms. Oliver, now a resident of Birmingham where she is a teacher and performer, has studied and taught at the Rubin Academy in Jerusalem and has earned prizes in piano performance at the Royal Conservatory of Brussels. She has performed in Belgium, Holland, France and Israel.

Ms. Route, who plays cello with the Oakway Symphony Orchestra, has studied at Hope College and participated in the recent Workshop in the Woods at Dunn Scotus College, Southfield.

When you climb into your car, whether to drive to work or travel halfway across the country, assume the weather will do its worst—and be prepared for it.

"A lot of problems arise when people drive in the winter in street clothes with no back-up gear in case they get stuck," says Dr. Paul Risk, assistant professor of park and recreation resources at Michigan State University. "The weather can change drastically in a short period of time. If you get caught in it on the road without warm clothes and other survival essentials, you could be in big trouble."

Risk, who teaches classes in wilderness survival, practices what he preaches about preparedness. He does a lot of driving in the winter and never sets out without heavy boots, extra socks, heavy wool pants and sweater, a parka, a knitted cap and knitted gloves. It's not unusual to find a pair of snowshoes in his trunk.

Even the weekend vacationer should take precautions, Risk notes.

He equips his car with snow tires and chains, so he's never been stuck on the road. If he should get stranded, he could use his CB radio to call for help. For people who do get caught by the weather, he has some basic survival tips.

"When the snow is blowing by so thick that you can't see the front end of your car, it's no time to be out hiking around," he advises. "Stay with your car and use the heater to keep warm as long as your gas holds out. Be sure to open a couple windows a crack to prevent a buildup of carbon monoxide in the vehicle.

"If the car gets drifted over, turn the motor off. Carbon monoxide trapped by the snow will build up under the car and seep inside. The snow will insulate the car against the wind and keep what heat there is inside from escaping rapidly."

If your car isn't covered with snow and your gasoline runs out so you can no longer use the heater, establish some kind of dry shelter nearby. Burrow into a snowdrift and line your "cave" with upholstery and mats from the car. Or seek a sheltered spot in a stand of trees or thick brush. Stay near the car, even if you can't stay in it, he advises, unless you can see and get to a nearby house or other building. Rescuers who find your car will begin looking for you nearby.

The aim of establishing shelter is to keep you warm, dry and out of the wind, Risk explains.

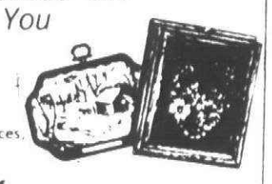

Be sure always to carry some matches in a waterproof container for fire building, a pocket knife and a whistle, he advises. The fire will help keep you warm and dry and, along with the whistle, can be used to signal for help. With a knife you can shave wood for kindling, cut brightly colored fabric into strips to lay on the snow as a signal to anyone flying over your position or perform almost any other cutting task you may have to do.

With shelter—including appropriate clothing—a fire, a means of signalling for help and plenty of water—in the form of melted snow—you are in good shape to hold out until rescue comes.

Rocks battle Bentley in regional finals

Plymouth Salem broke an 11-11 tie 2½ minutes into the second quarter by out-pointing Trenton, 11-1, during the next 3½ minutes and went on from there to score a 45-33 girls' basketball win last night at the Trenton Regional.

The victory thrust the Rocks, now with a 16-6 season record, into the regional championship 8 p.m. Saturday at Trenton.

Salem took charge of the proceedings when it went to its man-to-man press with some half-court trapping. The Rocks forced many turnovers, then took advantage at the offensive end of the court.

"We wanted to control the game with our defense and wanted to keep their big girl (Kim Nash) away from the boards," said Salem coach Debbie Hatcher.

Nash, who ran wild for the Trojans in an earlier contest this season against the Rocks, scored only 14 points last evening.

Both teams had trouble getting untracked, as the score stood tied at 3 after five minutes. Salem's second-quarter rally, which gave the Rocks the lead for keeps, enabled the Plymouth contingent to take a 24-18 intermission lead.

Dillo notched the first six points of the second half to increase Salem's advantage to 12 points. The closest the Trojans came after that was seven.

BENTLEY—MONROE

Completely overpowering at both ends of the court, Livonia Bentley decimated Monroe, 49-14, last night to earn the right to battle Plymouth Salem Saturday for the Trenton Regional title in the Class A girls' state basketball tournament.

Monroe simppy could not contend with the height of the Bulldogs' front line—Debbie Mays, Denise Plachta and Krista Pray—or the speed of the backcourt duo—Beth Burgess and Carla Hally.

Bentley, in a basic 2-3 zone, kept Monroe off the scoreboard during the entire first quarter. Monroe scored its only field goal and only points of the first half 54 seconds into the second period.

Reserves played the entire second half for the Bulldogs. All 14 Bentley players saw action and 13 scored. Hally was high-point girl with seven.

"Now we get back to a tough Suburban Eight game. We beat them once on their floor and they beat us once on ours. This will be the rubber game. The team with the best shooting night will win," said Lang.

The victory over Monroe upped the Bulldogs' season mark to 14-7.

Dahser, Agnew also honored

Hewlett named MVP

Rich Hewlett, Plymouth Salem's All-State wishbone quarterback, was selected by his teammates as the Rocks' Most Valuable Player at the team's annual post-season banquet held Tuesday night at the Mayflower Meeting House.

Hewlett, a junior, was the catalyst of Salem's explosive running offense this fall. He gained 901 yards in only seven games, helping the Rocks to an undefeated regular season, Suburban Eight League title, and state playoff berth. His selection marked the first time a junior was named MVP.

Another Salem all-stater, Bob Dasher, was voted the team's Most Valuable Lineman. Dasher, 6-3, 235-pounds, played both offensive center and defensive tackle during his three-year stint with the Rocks.

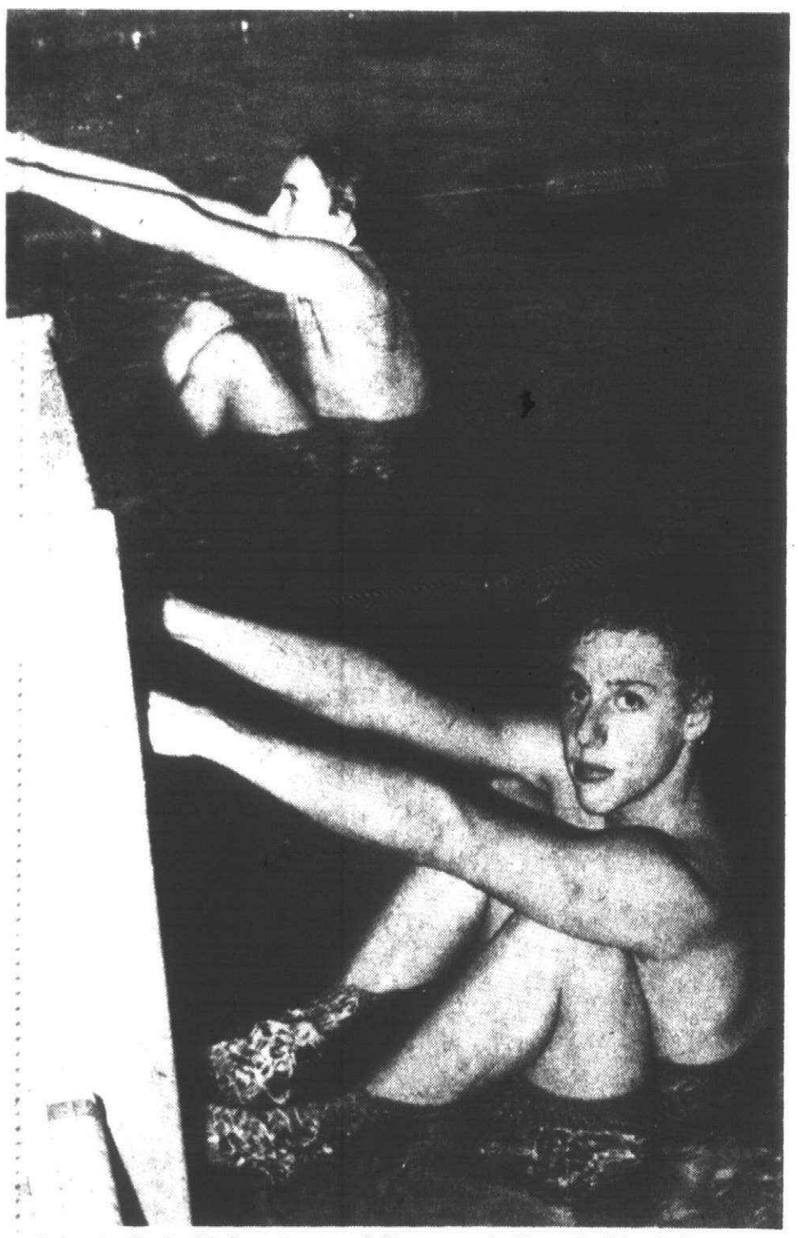

Senior Linebacker Doug Agnew was voted the squad's Most Valuable Back. Agnew was an all-Suburban Eight League and all Observerland first-team player for two years in leading the Rocks' defense.

The Rocks, under head coach Tom Moshimer, achieved their second-straight undefeated regular season in the past four years. Salem lost in the state quarterfinals, 21-3, to Portage Central, the eventual state runners-up.

RICH HEWLETT

Stevenson sinks Rock swimmers

By ANDY MELIN

It was the first loss in two outings for the Rocks this season.

Smith, one of the finest swimmers on the Spartan squad, edged Finley in the 200-free, and also won the 100-free. Smith's time was 1:48.4 in the 200, and :50.2 in the 100.

The diving competition saw Stevenson's Bruce Heiden win with a score of 186.45 points. The Rocks' Jim LaRiche finished second.

Livonia Stevenson of the Inter-Lakes League will battle Redford Thurston of the Northwest Suburban League on Thursday, Dec. 22 in a first-round contest beginning at 6:45 p.m.

The host Rocks will take on Livonia Churchill in the second game of the evening starting at 8:30 p.m.

The losers of the first round games will face each other in the consolation contest the following night, Friday, Dec. 23, beginning at 6:45 p.m.

Plymouth Salem has won the tournament all but one year, taking home the trophy the last three seasons.

The tournament, is co-hosted annually by Churchill and Salem. Salem High School is located on the corner of Joy and Cannton Center Roads.

Tigers trounce Canton, 71-53

By DENNIS O'CONNOR

After the Belleville Tigers lost their first two games of the year on the road last week they came home Tuesday night for their opener in front of a familiar crowd and the result was Belleville's best basketball performance of the season.

Unfortunately for Plymouth fans, the victim of the Tigers' fine performance was the Plymouth Canton Chiefs.

Belleville's overall quickness finally started dominating play in the second period as the Tigers outscored the Chiefs 44-12 to grab a 44-28 halftime advantage. It was a lead the Chiefs wouldn't overcome the rest of the night.

"I think Belleville was quick but we didn't react well," said a somber Cavell.

Rock grapplers breeze to Allen Park tourney crown

The Rocks gained 178 points to win the tourney trophy. Host Allen Park placed second at 145½ and Dearborn Fordson was third at 131.

"We had a lot of match ups with Allen Park and when we face them in a dual meet it'll be a helluva fight," Krueger said.

Salem went into the championship round with 149 points and Allen Park had 121. Both squads placed 10 grapplers in the final two rounds.

Clarenceville finished fourth at 106. Grosse Ise followed with 88½, Wyandotte 85, Luthern West 62 and Taylor Kennedy was eighth with 25 points.

Rene Leist's 4:57 pin of Tim Mairicio not only won a first-place metal for Salem, but also increased his record to 9-0 for the year. Leist won three matches on the day—all by pins. Leist has a school record of nine consecutive pins for the season and he's still counting.

Perhaps the most encouraging news for the Rocks was the strong return of heavyweight Bob Dasher who took first place on three straight pins. Dasher missed last week's action because of several pulled muscles.

Bruce Piper raised his record to 8-0 with two first-period pins before forfeiting in the championship round because of an injury. Piper should be healed for tonight's dual meet against Belleville, according to Krueger.

Randy Vippermann, Bob Barachman and Joe Piccola all finished with 3-1 records at Allen Park, placing third with victories in the consolation round. Jeff Brown lost in the consolations but placed fourth with a 2-2 mark.

Tankers roughed up

The only bright spot for the Rocks was a 57-second split time by freshman Sarah Stanwood in the 400-yard freestyle relay. The quartet finished poorly, however, and Salem's chances to finish as one of the top 10 teams in the state never materialized.

Wayne wins Glenn Invitational

In one of the closest finishes in the four-year history of the John Glenn Wrestling Invitational, Wayne totalled 213 points to nip the host Rockets by 3½ points for the team championship. Belleville finished third with 205½. The invitational was held last weekend.

"The top one, two and three teams changed places about six times during the finals," said Glenn coach Bob Lusk. "I was very, very impressed. This early in the season it was just super wrestling."

Wayne titlists were Wally Lazarz, 132 pounds; Chris Bachus, 145; Mitch Dart, 178, and Chris Leverenz, 191. The Zebras also had one runner-up and four third-place finishers.

Glenn's champions were Paul Demers, 98 pounds; Tim O'Neil, 105; Jeff Doyle, 165, and Jerome Robinson, heavyweight. The Rockets placed second in one weight class and third in another.

Six other area teams took part in the 15-squad field. Plymouth Canton was eighth with 53 points; Garden City West, ninth, 36; Garden City East, 10th, 32; Livonia Churchill, 11th, 28; Redford Union, 12th, 23; and Livonia Bentley, 13th, 16.

The most encouraging news of the invitational was the performance of Tommy Herrald who adavanced as the lone Chief finalist in the 15-team event.

"We thought last year that he would be good and now he's on his way," Chrenko said. "Now we will be tough at the bottom weights and get a good start at out dual meets."

"We had a good week of practice and everybody worked hard," Chrenko said. "But we haven't put our lineup together yet.

Canton travels to Harrison tonight for its Western Six League opener.

Rock JV whips AP

By TOM ZAIBEK

The Plymouth Salem junior varsity basketball team opened its Suburban Eight League season last Friday by trouncing Allen Park, 75-35.

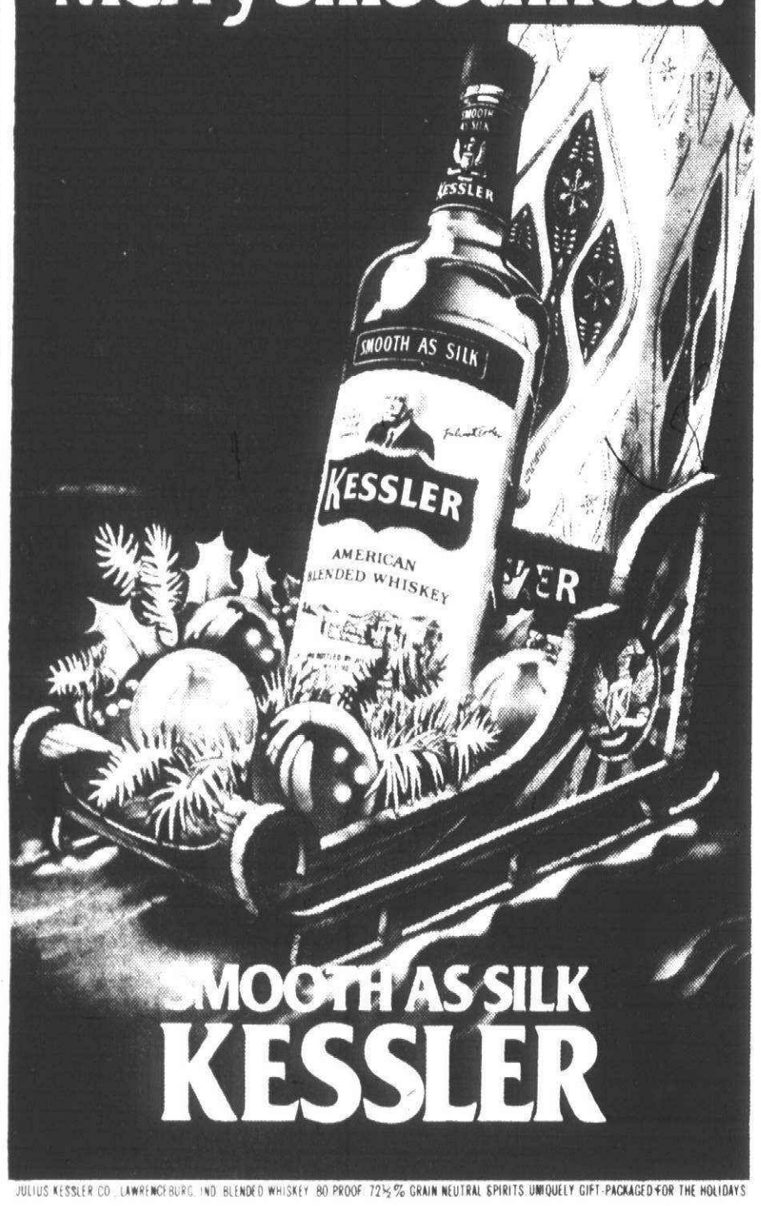

It was the Rocks third straight win. Plymouth raced to a 14-0 lead in the opening minutes of play. Allen Park didn't score until three minutes were left in the opening quarter.

Paced by Craig Flower, Rob Neu, Jim Anderson and Howard Monk, the Rocks took a 39-17 halftime lead and breezed to victory.

Late in the fourth period, when coach Craig Bell was substituting freely, a Plymouth player failed to leave the court after a substitution. He played several minutes as the Rocks' sixth man on the court. Realizing what happened, he cautiously left the court while play was in progress, unnoticed by Allen Park and the game officials.

Chiefs lack swimming depth

"We may win a lot of battles but we won't win many wars."

That's the way Plymouth Canton boys swim coach Bill Faunce sees this season: a lack of depth will overshadow many individual performers.

The Chiefs open this season tonight (Thursday) at Farmington Harrison in a Western Six League dual m et.

Canton loses a host of seniors from last year's squad headed by freestyle star Kevin Harris who now swims for Eastern Michigan Univeristy and diver Scott Wales.

But the thing which upsets Canton's chances this year is the loss of seven returning lettermen who have decided not to swim this season.

Because of this, Faunce not only loses depth but also finds himself with a varsity squad which includes 75 per cent freshmen and sophomores and only four seniors and five juniors.

"We can cry cry about it but that's just the way the things go," Faunce said. "We were really looking forward to this year with our own pool (at Phase III) and not bumping practices but these things happen."

Although the depth is missing, Faunce thinks he has some fine individual talent which should win many events.

Pederson is a versatile swimmer who has had many years of experience. His best event is the breaststroke.

Steve Wood returns for another season as the team's butterflier. He also swims freestyle and is a member of the relays.

Dave Tanner also swims all strokes, competing in the individual medley. Junior Bob Cline returns for his third year as a backstroker, and senior Mike Gaab swims the butterfly and freestyle.

Two sophomores who look promising are Dave Smith and Keith Greenleaf. New divers include sophomore Steve Gray and freshmen John Gray (no relation).

Faunce admits, however, the younger swimmers lack strength and experience and how long it takes for them to develop remains to be seen.

The Plymouth Salem boys swim team wasted no time in getting on the winning track when it demolished Redford Thurston 119-53 in the Rocks' season opener last week.

The non-league victory was the first triumph for new varsity coach Chuck Olson.

"This was our first meet and I really didn't know what we had," Olson said. "We didn't swim that badly."

The Rocks won all but two events in romping to the decisive win. Olson pulled all his varsity swimmers for the final event, the 400-yard freestyle relay, and the junior varsity swimmers still managed to gain second and third place finishes. Salem also lost the backstroke race.

Salem swept first, second and third places in both the butterfly and breaststroke events.

Craig Finley was a double winner in the 200-yard and 500-yard freestyle events recording times of 1:52.6 and 5:03.5 respectively.

Mike Etienne had a strong sprinting night, winning the 50-yard freestyle and placing second in the 100-yard freestyle. Tom Rubadue won the 100-yard freestyle with a :51.5 clocking.

Cagers have confidence

For those who have seen Plymouth Salem's boys basketball team play its first three games this season, it's evident that head coach Fred Thomann has things well under control—as usual.

The Rocks have scored 89, 81 and 81 points in their first three games and the closest contest was a 23-point spread.

It's seems, however, that this team has everything which could not only win a fifth-straight Suburban Eight League title but also advance in the state tournament.

The talent is obviously there. There are nine strong returning lettermen and a couule of surprising juniors who form a solid starting lineup and bench.

Many of these players have been practicing at the hoop all summer and into the fall months. They are in top physical shape and play equally strong at both ends of the court.

But there is something else which is special about this team which will make it a great one—confidence.

Now, it isn't a cocky kind of confidence. They know they are good but they aren't overconfident by any means.

Example—The Rocks came off an 81-35 bombardment of Livonia Franklin last Tuesday night.

So what I expected to see was a Salem squad which would probably play a lackluster, uninspired contest resulting in a win because of its overall talent.

But that's not what I saw at all. It's not what I've seen in all three Salem games.

What I saw in Allen Park was another hustling, inspired performance. The Rocks played this game like it was for the league championship.

Since Salem has nine or 10 players on its team which could easily be in the starting lineup, Thomann has a situation where all the players are trying their hardest when they reach the court.

And when junior guard Rich Hewlett, who started last year for the Rocks, returns to the lineup after Christmas fully recovered from his collarbone injury, the competition for starting positions will become keener.

SALEM CAGERS are confident they can win every time they step on the court. And they are quick to show opposing teams this confidence.

Canton JV starts strong

It looks as though the Plymouth Canton junior varsity basketball team has picked up where it left off last year as undefeated freshmen with the Chiefs defeating Farmington Harrison 59-34 in the league opener last Friday night.

Canton jumped to an early 22-6 first quarter lead with an excellent full court press which had the Hawks dumbfounded.

The Chiefs took off the press in the second quarter and the Hawks responded by outscoring the Chiefs 12-10. The Chiefs still held 32-18 lead at intermission.

Canton got back on track in the second half controlling the boards and getting many steals. The Chiefs nabbed 24 steals and 39 rebounds in the contest.

Brad Westin led the barrage with 11 points and 14 caroms. Dave Visser and Scott Adler followed with 11 and 10 points respectively. Da8 McGlinn dropped in nine.

Dillon out

Paul Dillon, Plymouth Salem's substitute guard, suffered a broken right leg at basketball practice early this week. He is expected to be out of the lineup for approximately four weeks.

IN THE POCKET

By W.W. EDGAR

The eyes of the bowling world will be focused on Thunderbowl in Allen Park for the remainder of the week when the nation's top professionals—both men and women—compete for the rich prizes in in the second annual Grand Prix tournament.

While more than 500 amateur bowlers competed in all parts of the state for the big pro-am, the most attention will be paid to the pros. Earl Anthony, the top money-winning southpaw, and Betty Morris will be defending their titles.

The finals are scheduled Saturday afternoon on television and the competition gives every promise of being the highlight of the entire bowling season.

FOR THE FIRST TIME in many years, the Bowlerettes, one of Detroit's top all-star leagues, was forced to cancel the weekly shooting at Motor Lanes because of the heavy snow and the wretched driving on the thoroughfares Monday night.

WHEN TOM HAY rolled his 720 series in the junior house league at Farmington Lanes last week, there wasn't the usual commotion when someone breaks the 700 barrier.

"We average about one 700 a month," Fred Hamlin, the Farmington proprietor remarked. "But we all were quite pleased with it."

In the mixed classic, Greg Hatter paced the men with a 236 in 624, and Barbara Waling, who had been in a slump, came out of it with a 231 in 600.

BOB JAWOR didn't let the heavy snow bother him Monday afternoon. He struggled through to reach Country Lanes and then proceeded to roll a 709 series in the suburban proprietors traveling league.

For his big count, Bob put together games of 290, 175 and 244.

WHEN THE DOORS to the Split Conversion Club opened at Mayflower Lanes, another woman who had toppled the "impossible" split was among the new members. She earned her membership by knocking over the 4-6-7-10. The other new member was Mike McKeon, who converted the 6-7-10 in the Mixers league.

Meanwhile, Loran Krause and John Good shared scoring honors. Loran linked games of 221, 204 and 205 for a 630 while John had a 254 in his 630. Among the other high scores, Carol Gold had a 266 in 535. "I just got too nervous after that big game," she said.

ALL YEAR LONG, Caroline Neiderkorn serves as secretary of the Ladies Classic at Livonia Lanes and doesn't concentrate on bowling.

Last Tuesday, it was different. She had her mind on the game and walked off with top honors, taking the series with 521-120—641 after winning the third game, 191-40—231.

ORDINANCE NO. 77-17

AN ORDINANCE TO AMEND SECTION 5.194(3) OF ARTICLE XV OF CHAPTER 52, ZONING, OF THE CODE OF THE CITY OF PLYMOUTH.

THE CITY OF PLYMOUTH ORDAINS:

Section 1. Section 5.194(3), Article XV, of Chapter 52, Zoning, of the Code of the City of Plymouth is hereby amended to read as follows:

5.194. Accessory Buildings. Accessory buildings, except as otherwise permitted in this Chapter, shall be subject to the following regulations:

(1) Where the accessory building is structurally attached to a main building, it shall be subject to, and must confrom to, all yard regulations of this Chapter applicable to main buildings.

(2) Accessory buildings shall not be erected in any required yard except a rear yard.

(3) An accessory building may occupy not more than twenty-five (25) percent of a required rear yard, plus twenty (20) percent of any non-required rear yard. However, the area of such a structure shall not exceed six hundred twenty-four (624) square feet.

(4) No detached accessory building shall be located closer than three (3) feet to any side or rear lot line. In those instances where the rear lot line is coterminous with an alley right-of-way, the accessory building shall be no closer than one (1) foot to such rear lot line. In no instance shall an accessory structure be located within a dedicated easement right-of-way.

(5) No detached accessory building in a R-1, RT-1, RM-1, RM-2, O-1, O-2, or P-1 District shall exceed one (1) story of fifteen (15) feet in height. Accessory buildings in all other districts may be constructed to equal the permitted maximum height of structures in said districts, subject to Board of Appeals review and approval.

(6) When an accessory building is located on a corner lot, the side lot line of which is substantially a continuation of the front lot line of the lot to its rear, said building shall not project beyond the front yard line required on the lot in rear of such corner lot. When an accessory building is located on a corner lot, the side lot line of which is substantially a continuation of the side lot line of the lot to its rear, said building shall not project beyond the side yard line required on the lot in the rear of such corner lot.

(7) When an accessory building, in any Residence, Business, or Office District, is intended for other than the storage of private motor vehicles, the accessory use shall be subject to the approval of the Board of Appeals.

Section 2. This Ordinance shall become operative and effective on the 13th day of December A.D. 1977.

Made, passed and adopted by the City Commission of the City of Plymouth, Michigan, this 21st day of November A.D. 1977.

Hilberry recruits Moliere to expurgate the greys

By TIM RICHARD

It's been a rough week, has it? The boss was grumpy, the kids cranky, you say? Your soul is grey December, you feel?

You're in the perfect mood for a Moliere comedy, and no one does them better than the Hilberry Theater at Wayne State University. Indeed, if there's any one act anywhere in town to give you a bellylaugh when you have the greys and browns and blues, it's the middle act of "The School for Wives."

They don't call it that in the current version, though. The WSU graduate company is doing a musical adaptation under the title of "The Amorous Flea." Several of the songs—"Learning Love" and "When Time Takes Your Hand," especially—are entirely forgettable. But the Moliere comes through.

ABOUT THAT bellylaugh:

Arnolphe, the foppish old bachelor, has secretly raised a sweet young thing named Agnes. He has kept her in "total, sublime ignorance," or so he thinks. While he is on a business trip, Agnes is wooed by a young dandy named Horace.

Arnolphe attempts to teach Agnes the lessons of love and life. Feigning the ignorance he desires, she responds with a series of wooden gestures guaranteed to leave one helpless with laughter.

Cynthia Dozier is the enchanting blonde who carries off this role with a comic timing that surpasses what Julie Newmarr used to do with Rhoda, the Robot, and almost matches the Goldie-isms of "Laugh-in."

Miss Dozier, who traveled to Wayne from Waco, Tex., to polish the skills of her craft, has been a singer, dancer, model and veteran of broadcast commercials.

Will she go on to fame and fortune? Wayne has made it happen for others. The last time "School for Wives" was performed there, the hilarious maid, Georgette, was played by a junior from Highland Park named Mary Jean Tomlin. Ms. Tomlin changed her stage name to Lily, and. . .

It is one of many plays with the theme of creating the perfect wife. "Pygmalion" and "My Fair Lady" come immediately to mind; "Coppelia" is a variation on the theme—using magic to create life. Yet another modification is "Pinocchio," when you stop to think about it. And a classic is "Frankenstein."

One resists picking out special performances in the splendid Hilberry production. Erick Devine is an almost overly foppish Arnolphe, playing the role in whiteface that is somewhat distracting, yet there is consummate skill in his effort.

Gearld B. Roe and Rhonda Smith, as Arnolphe's servants, prove one need not fake a French accent to portray the sometimes fawning, always practical and mercenary, character of that nation's humble folk.

A breathtaking characteristic of Hilberry drama is the way the actors handle swords and staffs and ladders on a tiny stage without poking one another's eyes out. Director Robert T. Hazzard and choreographer Nira Pullin do it again.

"School for Wives" will be in repertory until Feb. 18. It is enormously curative.

Jocelyn sings at Hines Hideaway

Fans of Bonnie Raitt, Joni Mitchell and Rita Coolidge should get their fill of music and libation at the Hines Park Inn's Hideaway Lounge Friday and Saturday evening listening to the alternately mellifluous and throaty strains of Jocelyn.

Morelock-Lynch recital

The piano duo of Donald Morelock and Lynn Lynch will perform two-piano works of Schubert, Mendelssohn and Rachmaninoff in a free public recital at 8 p.m. Monday, Dec. 12, in Holy Cross Evangelical Lutheran Church, 30650 Six Mile, Livonia. Morelock is head of the piano department at Schoolcraft College, and pianist Lynch is professor of piano at the University of Michigan.

Oakway production–'entertaining, multi-media carnival'

What happens to them? There's at least one in every school. You know, the aspiring stars of stage and screen whose talent for giddy extroversion carries them to the lead in the school play and leadership in the college drama department.

Possessed of more enthusiasm than sensitive artistry, they eventually land in amateur cultural groups. And, as the cast of the Oakway Symphony Society's recent production of "A Midsummer Night's Dream" shows, there is indeed enjoyable creative life after graduation for drama majors.

It was an ambitious production. Under the auspices of the Oakway Symphony's subscription concert series, the show combined the talents of the orchestra, a girl's chorus from Southfield-Lathrup High, the dancers of the Arts Chamber Ensemble and the actors of the Will-O-Way Repertory Theatre.

The director of Will-O-Way, Celia Merrill Turner, narrated the play. Her actors mimed the action. The dancers

THE ORCHESTRA played Mendelssohn's music for the play behind the whole composition, with the chorus kicking in at key dramatic moments.

Most of the participants, at least on the dramatic side, have seen their dreams of starhood changed to a fulfilling hobby. As such, performances were adequate, though far from New York's Shubert Theatre.

Shakespeare's play was originally a celebration, performed at private marriage revels, and the spontaneous texture of such an event fits well with the spirit and efforts of amateur cultural groups. The final effect was an entertaining multi-media carnival.

The play itself concerns the shifting allegiances of four young lovers, played out against the meddling of Oberon and Punch, the king and prince of the woodland fairies, and punctuated by the famous "play-within-a-play" sub-plot of Bottom the weaver and his fellows.

The pantomime of those actors portraying human characters was mostly wooden. In part this seemed to be due to a curious approach to the concept of mime, as their parts were narrated verbatim while they lip-synched on stage. Deprived of the freedom and fluidity of movement necessary for mime, they still couldn't express themselve verbally.

BOTTOM AND his fellow tradesmen came off much better. They were allowed to speak their parts, and the performances of their "play" was a highlight, capturing the antic buffoonery of Shakespeare's words. Jack Cortes as Bottom was strong but tended towrds caricature while Dike Dwelley in the part of Peter Quince presented a more subtle picture.

It was the graceful movement and blocking of Oberon, the fairy king, and Puck, his henchman, which cemented the action.

Dolores Bolling's Oberon, in a costume of striking savagery which was Helen King's finest in the play, literally danced her way through the part. Bonnie Turpin, playing Puck, was impish, relishing every trick she played. Together they struck a vein of pure fantasy through the balletlike interpretation of their roles.

The dance scenes of the Performing Arts Ensemble fit well with the surreal set of shimmering cellophane and gauze, but were unfortunately two-dimensional due to the narrow strip of stage they had to work in.

Though a linear descendent of the high school production, this show came alive simply because those involved were having fun. And isn't that the point, after all?

SC Chorale sets concert

A concert by the Schoolcraft College Chorale will be given at 4 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 11 in Holy Cross Evangelical Lutheran Church, 30650 Six Mile, Livonia.

The 50-voice chorale, under the direction of Bradley Bloom, will perform "The Lamentations of Jeremiah" by Ginastera, "Zigeunerlieder" (gypsy songs) by Brahms and "Carmina Burana" by Orff. The Schoolcraft Madrigal Singers will also perform.

So we did.

Creamy, rich, zesty dressing. The same famous dressing we've been serving for 35 years. It's made from a very secret recipe. And from very natural ingredients. No preservatives here. And now, we're pleased to offer our superb dressing for "take out." You can have it both ways. In our salad. Or in our bottle.

today there's a new kind of fun called Puch.

The Puch has pedals like a bicycle and a motor like your motor-boat. Which means it can whip you around town in great style without worrying about things like being out of breath, or cardiac arrest.

It's so much fun we almost hate to mention economies like up to 150 miles per gallon of fuel, and practically no maintenance.

Area gal tankers compete with state

The six Livonia Stevenson swimmers who competed in the Class A state meet in Kalamazoo last week met their goal by finishing among the top six teams.

The Spartans, with 55 points, tied Royal Oak Dondero for the fifth position. East Lansing, the 1976 champion, successfully defended its title by collecting 193 points.

Ann Arbor Pioneer, 156 points, finished second, Birmingham Groves, 113, third, and Northville, 74, fourth. The meet was held at Western Michigan University.

Stevenson lost to all three of the teams that finished ahead of it during the regular season in dual competition.

"We had one sick girl (Becky Stanley) and a couple of flat swimmers," said Stevenson coach Lois McDonald. "I was just hoping and praying we'd be in the top six."

Linda Hein was the Spartans' only champion at the state meet. The senior, like last year, set the pace in the 100-yard butterfly with a clocking of 59.1 seconds in the finals.

Hein, who also won the 200-yard individual medley last season, failed to qualify for the finals in that event last weekend.

Hein, did, however, place eighth overall in the IM with a time of 2:15.14 in the consolation finals.

Kari Santo, a junior, finished behind Hein in the IM with an effort of 2:18.12 and placed fifth in the 500-yard freestyle with a time of 5:24.71.

Stanley, suffering from a throat infection, did not place in either the 200- or 500-yard freestyle. Sally Zehnal also did not place in the distance freestyles.

Lori Loomis failed to qualify for the finals in the 100-yard backstroke and Dede Hoeft did not make the cut in the 100-yard breaststroke.

Stevenson, did, however, receive fifth-place points in the 400-yard freestyle relay from the quartet of Hein, Stanley, Zehnal and Santo. The time was 3:38.09.

"Becky (Stanley) was really sick," said McDonald. "She was on medication from Monday on. She really did good just to hold on.

"Hein did not get into the (IM) finals and that was a disappointment," McDonald said. "She would have been third if she had the time she did in the consolation finals. She was just all tightened up.

"Santo didn't do too well. She just didn't have a good day. Zehnal didn't place and I didn't expect her to. She did just a nice job as a sophomore going in. Dede Hoeft did real well. She handled the pressure very nicely."

Cindy Brown, a Livonia Bentley senior, finished third in the 100-yard butterfly finals, 1:00.17, and fifth in the finals of the individual medley, 2:17.05. She had better times in both events during the preliminaries.

Neither of Livonia Churchill's state qualifiers—Jeanne Gessler in the IM and 100-yard breaststroke and Jackie Rudolph in the IM and 100-yard butterfly—advanced to the consolation finals or finals.

However, both are only sophomores and have two more years to make their marks.

Marcia Hartley, swimming for Clarenceville in the Class B meet at Central Michigan University, finished ninth in the individual medley.

Bentley, Churchill cagers roar

Effective rebounding on the part of Chris Bollin and Dave Stone led Livonia Bentley to victory Tuesday over Livonia Franklin in a non-league boys' basketball contest, 66-47.

Bollin collected 14 rebounds, while Stone grabbed 17. Bollin also had 17 points, while Stone scored 15. Eric Thorderson added 17 points to help lead the Bulldogs' offense during the game.

"Bollin and Stone had a very good game on the boards which I would say definitely helped us," said Bentley coach Jim Komula.

Most of the game was an even battle, with each team trading baskets. However, Bentley held on to, and slowly built up, its lead until the Patriots were unable to come back from the deficit.

At the intermission, the score was 26-17, Bentley. At the end of the third period, the Bulldogs were up by 14 points, 45-31.

"We came out flat, but as the game progressed we did what had to be done," said Komula.

Bentley's JV also won, 62-43.

CHURCHILL—GC WEST

Livonia Churchill jumped to a 31-12 lead by halftime Tuesday and went on to defeat Garden City West, 67-39, in a non-league boys' basketball contest.

Ray Progar with 14 points, Dave Kielty with 13 points and Craig Hanton with 12 led the Chargers' offensive onslaught that produced advantages of 13-6 at the end of the first quarter, 31-12 at the intermssion and 51-24 at the end of the third period.

Agatha rips Hedwig

Detroit St. Hedwig, held to only 16 field goals by a tough, full-court man-to-man press throughout the game, fell to Redford St. Agatha, 65-42, Tuesday in a non-league boys' basketball encounter.

The Aggies had to hold on down the stretch after three players—Bill McCafferty, Steve Peck and Kerwin Johnson—fouled out during the third quarter.

"Our pressing defense, I believe, was the key," said St. Agatha coach Mickey Henson. "McCafferty turned the game around for me. He's our sixth man and gives us a lift when he goes in there. Steve Peck and Barnauskas did a good job on the boards."

The victory was the second of the season without a loss for the Aggies.

St. Agatha fell to St. Hedwig in the JV preliminary, 63-54.

Thurston, Clarenceville fall

RU, Spartans, Glenn roll on

Redford Union's superior height advantage proved a little too much for Redford Thurston to handle Tuesday in a non-league boys' basketball game won by the visiting Panthers, 77-70.

Mike Petsch, RU's big center, notched 35 points and Jim Grimwade, a forward, scored 20. Mario Bravo also hit double figures with 12.

The Panthers out-rebounded Thurston, 41-27.

"We did everything we could to stop Petsch," said Thurston coach Bill Croteau. "Carl Andrews (the RU coach) paid us an excellent compliment when he said, 'I know if anyone plays defense, your kids do.'

"We really hustled. We came a long way and really played good D," said Croteau. "Petsch played an excellent game."

The Eagles used a variety of defenses, Croteau said, including some zone, match-up, pressing and man-to-man. None could stop the hot-shooting Petsch.

Thurston won the JV contest, 47-42.

STEVENSON—EDSEL FORD

Taking control of a close contest in the fourth quarter, Livonia Stevenson ran over Dearborn Edsel Ford Tuesday in a non-league boys' basketball game, 72-66.

The Spartans scored 23 points in the fourth period, while holding Edsel Ford to just 16. "We changed to a zone in the quarter and the quick breaks helped. We also beat their press," said Stevenson coach George Van Wagoner.

The first quarter of play ended wito each club tied at 14 points. At the half, the Spartans were down by one point, 33-32. At the end of the third period, Stevenson was still down by one, 50-49. However, things changed in the final period.

"We were slow to get started, but once things got going, the team got together," said Van Wagoner.

CLARENCEVILLE—LUTHERAN WEST

Clarenceville could not come back from a 24-12 deficit at the end of the first quarter Tuesday and fell to Lutheran West in a non-league boys' basketball contest, 75-66.

Lutheran West jumped to the 24-12 lead in the first quarter, captailizing on the Trojans turnovers, but Clarenceville fought back in the second period and closed the gap to just one point, 38-37.

However, the Trojans again fell apart in the third quarter and this time were unable to regain the momentum in the final period.

"They jumped out to a big lead and we just couldn't make it up. Turnovers killed us in the first and third quarters," said Clarenceville coach Bob Wolf.

Bill Peterson led Clarenceville's offensive attack with 21 points. Jim McPhail, with 16 points, and Jim Beyer, with 14 added to the Trojans point total.

GLENN—TAYLOR CENTER

Outscoring Taylor Center by five points or more during every quarter and limiting its guest to only 14 points in the first half, Westland John Glenn Tuesday gained an easy 69-40 non-league boys' basketball win.

Everyone played for the Rockets and 12 of the 14 players scored. Tom Jurewicz, Doug Martin and Daran Armstrong all notched 10 points and Pat McBride reaped eight.

Taylor lost many of its quality players to other schools when sports were terminated there during the fall season.

JOHN GLENN—TAYLOR CENTER

Westland John Glenn (69)— Mitch Preston 3, 0-0, 6; Tom Jurewicz 4, 2-5, 10; Brad Summers 2, 2-2, 6; Doug Martin 4, 2-2, 10; Pat McBride 3, 2-4, 8; Daran Armstrong 5, 0-0, 10; Ed Bates 2, 1-3, 5; Brad Jennings 2, 0-1, 4; Mark Cesarz 1, 1-2, 3; Mike Plocharcyk 0, 1-2, 1; Tim Ruark 1, 2-4, 4; Bill Lee 1, 0-0, 2. Totals: 28, 13-26, 69.

Thurston grapplers win

Buddy Ault, 119 pounds, Jeff Hunt, 126, and Matt Wyman, 132, each won all three of their matches, while Tom Arsenault, 98, Brian Galdes, 105, Jim Boyer, 112, Craig Schauder, 155, Bob Cutsinger, 178, and Matt Barbour, heavyweight, were all perfect in two mat tests.

Buddy Ault out-wrestled Jeff Scott of Ferndale, 23-2, and pinned Tim Evasic of South Lyon in 25 seconds and Keith Masters of Adams at 3:06.

Hunt disposed of Ferndale's Guy Ross, 10-3, Adam's Adam Fifield, 17-1, and pinned South Lyon's Carol Shopp at 3:15.

Wyman secured pins over Chris Craddock of Ferndale at 3:03 and John Monica of Adams at 3:11 and beat Leo Grishold of South Lyon, 12-4.

Arsenault, Galdes and Barbour all pinned their two opponents. The other three Thurston grapplers who won both their matches did so on decisions or a combination of decision and pin.

In addition to the Eagle wrestlers who won more than one match without taking a loss during the competition, Kevin Ault, 138 pounds, and Pete Newton, 145, each defeated two opponents and sustained one defeat.

"Buddy Ault was outstanding and he was even wrestling up a weight class," said Thurston coach Jim Urick. "Barbour, Galdes—I could go right down the list. All the kids did good.

"We've been working hard and we want to get part of the title this year," Urick continued. "We know we can do it if we beat Glenn (tonight). They know it, too.

Starting time for tonight's Glenn-Thurston tussle at Glenn is 6:30 p.m.

Spartans win trophy

By placing second to Oscoda at the Waterford Mott Wrestling Tournament last weekend, Livonia Stevenson won its first team trophy in 10 years of grappling competition.

"The boys wrestled exceptionally well—probably the best the kids ever wrestled," said Larry Ruzsas, assistant Stevenson coach.

Although the Spartans did not have a single individual champion, five wrestlers finished second and two placed third.

Runners-up were Steve Justice, 119 pounds, Mark Hilpert, 126, Eric Temby, 132, Dave Groh, 191, and Kent Bassett, heavyweight. Temby, Groh and Bassett all won two of three matches and Justice and Hilpert each took one of two.

Frank Piana, 112 pounds, and Dave Price, 165, each finished third for the Spartans and were, said Ruzsas, the keys to the second-place finish.

Oscoda tallied 153½ points, Stevenson 102, Lake Orion 95, Sterling Heights 90½, Waterford 83, Waterford Kettering, 78½, Madison Heights 76½ and Mott 69½.

Garden City icers split with Zurich

An exhibition hockey series between three teams from the Garden City Youth Athletic Association and Zurich, Ontario, was contested last weekend in Garden City, with the host squads winning three of the six games and tying one.

The Garden City Squirts, 9-10 year olds and unbeaten in 11 games this season, defeated their Zurich counterparts twice by a 2-1 score.

Bob Cusmano and Jeff Knuth scored for GC in the first game and Mike Ryan recorded both goals in the second. Arron Bullock netted Zurich's goal in each contest.

The Garden City Pee-Wees, 11-12 year olds, tied Zurich 4-4, in their first meeting, and skated off with a 6-2 victory in the second.

Ron Adolf provided two goals and Paul Harrison and Bob Gaston one each for GC in the tie. Paul Johnston scored two, and Dean Armstrong and Darrin Telford had one each for Zurich.

In the second game, a 6-2 GC win, Paul Pummill and Adolf both scored twice and Kevin Lafferty and Tom Terwilliger, once each. Dwayne LaPorte and Telford found the range for the visitors.

The Zurich players stayed in the homes of Garden City players during their weekend stay. Garden City icers will do the same Feb. 25 and 26 when they visit Zurich, 135 miles away between Port Huron and London.

Brett Green scored two goals and assisted on another to help steer Livonia Bentley to a 4-1 Suburban Hockey League victory last week over Livonia Churchill.

Before Green's heroics, the Chargers took a 1-0 lead at 14:32 of the first period when Marty Abraham, from behind the Bentley net, centered the puck to Craig Cannons who slipped the disc over the goal line.

Green tied the score at 4:48 of the second period when he received a pass from Doug Crilly and found the Churchill net from 15 feet out.

Chris Delabbio made it 2-1 Bentley at 7:31 of the second period when he scored during a scramble while both teams were short a man. Mike Mazur drew the assist.

Mazur notched the Bulldogs' third goal at 4:14 of the third period when he tipped a Green slap shot from the point past Churchill goalie Doug Fox.

That goal came during a power-play opportunity, as did the Bulldogs' fourth score when Green blasted in a slap shot from the point at 11:29. Mazur and Dave Fraser assisted on that play.

"Green played on the power play and first line right wing and was playing sick," said Bentley coach Phil Beyer. "Smykowski was very steady for us and Mazur, our captain, with a goal and an assist, played very well."

Camera beats Daly-Inn, 5-1

Jim McVicar scored two goals and Matt Mulcahy had a goal and two assists, when Colonial Camera, the pace-setter in the Livonia Over 30 Hockey League, defeated Daly Restaurant last weekend, 5-1.

HOLIDAY ART CONTEST

Dear Kids,

It's holiday time again, and that means it's time for the annual Observer & Eccentric Holiday Art Contest! If you're a boy or girl in any grade between 1 and 6, and if you live in our newspaper circulation area, then you can enter our Holiday Art Contest and maybe win a prize!! All you have to do is create your own work of art. When you do, try to think about the "holiday" theme. Show us, in your own way, how the holidays make you feel, or what the season and these special times mean to you. Show us in any form you like: drawing, painting, collage, sculpture, mixed media, even 3-dimensional creations. But — there is a size limitation. 2-dimensional (basically flat) works can be as big as 11"x14", and 3-dimensional works can be as large as 16"x16"x16".

PRIZES!!

First prize artists in each category (grade 1-3 and grade 4-6) will win a bicycle. Second prize winners in each category will receive a $25.00 U.S. Savings Bond. All of these prizes will be awarded on the basis of originality, imagination and interpretation. The decisions of the judges are final.

To Enter, print your information on the official entry blank and make sure it is well attached to the back or bottom of your art. Enter now. The deadline is Dec. 16. So get your pens, pencils, crayons and paints, glue, scissors and other stuff to work! Good Luck and happy holidays!

Sincerely,
The Observer & Eccentric Newspapers

P.S. Your entry can be sent to either our Birmingham office or our Livonia office. Or you may hand deliver your entry to any of our offices. Entries must be delivered or Postmarked no later than 4 P.M. Dec. 16, 1977.

P.P.S. A special exhibit of the winners will be set up in the lobbies of our Birmingham and our Livonia offices.

Charge It!

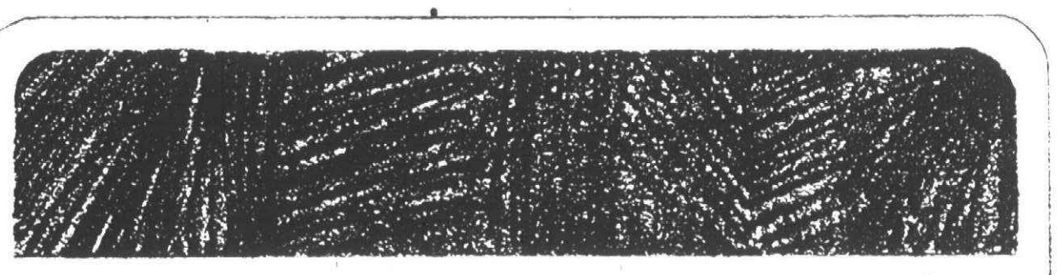

Now it is even easier to advertise in the Observer & Eccentric Classified Section. Just dial our classified department, tell us what you would like to advertise and charge it, to your Bank Americard or Master Charge account.

Whenever you call, be sure to have your Bank Americard or Master Charge ready and give us the account number and expiration date directly from the card. Then the total cost of your ad will be billed directly to your monthly statement, simplifying your record keeping while earning money for you and your family.

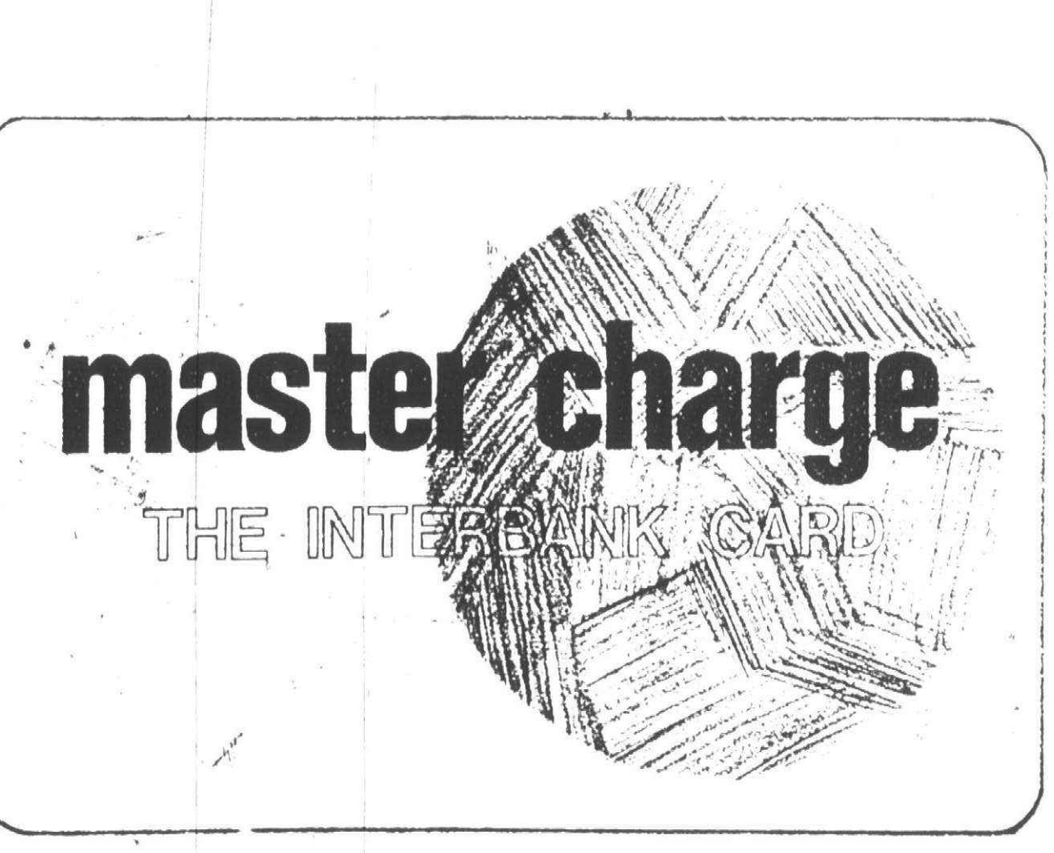

You can benefit twice from this bonus by placing a Double Action Family Want Ad. Double Action ads run two consecutive issues for one low price of $6.00, with no changes or cancellations in the second ad. These 15 word ads save you $2.00 off the regular cost of placing an ad in two issues and are so easy to place now that you can charge them.
