Library, civil service proposals up for vote

A proposal to establish a library on the third floor of the township's new administration building is one of two proposals that will appear on Canton's primary ballot.

A second proposition will ask voters to approve a civil service ordinance for the hiring, promotion and disciplining of township employees.

THE LIBRARY PROPOSITIONS asks voters to hike the township tax rate by one mill ($1 per $1,000 assessed valuation for the establishment and operation of the book-borrowing branch. State law requires municipalities to ask for a maximum one mill for the establishment and operation of libraries.

Township finance director Mike Gorman says, however, that the township board may decide to levy less than one mill the first year. If the full one mill is levied in 1978, Gorman says he is confident that the library millage will be lowered to one-half mill during the second and subsequent years of the library's operation.

The millage amount that the township board decides to levy the first year will depend on the number of books that are purchased to get the library off the ground, Gorman explained.

If the township board decides to purchase 37,000 books—or about one book per capita—the full one mill will have to be levied. The township board will also have to use about $100,000 of the township's $1 million general fund surplus to buy the 37,000 books and finance the library's first year of operation.

According to Gorman, one mill currently represents about $282,000 in Canton Township. Once books are purchased, he estimates that the library will need an annual budget of about $150,000 to finance salaries of a librarian, library assistant and aides and to buy replacement books.

Not included in Gorman's figures are payments the township would have to make to the Wayne County Federated Library System for Canton residents' use of the Dunning-Hough Library in Plymouth and the public library in the City of Wayne.

According to Gorman, the township currently pays the county library system about $50,000 a year. If a Canton library is established, fewer residents would use the Plymouth and Wayne libraries. Gorman hopes the township could phase out payments to the county library system over a three-year period.

If voters approve the library proposition on Tuesday, Gorman figures the Canton Township library should be in operation by mid-1979.

No plans have been made for the third floor of the new administration building if the library proposition fails, he said.

A SECOND PROPOSITION on Tuesday's primary ballot asks voters to approve a civil service ordinance already OK'd by the township board.

Although Canton voters approved a civil service ballot question in 1972, the township civil service commission has not met for about 1½ years because of an opinion issued by township attorney George Ward in October, 1976.

Ward said that the civil service ordinance supposedly adopted by voters in 1972 was invalid because the township board did not follow the proper procedure in placing the issue on the ballot.

Since Ward's opinion was issued, the township has used the services of the Michigan Municipal League to test applicants for township positions.

If voters approve the civil service ordinance on Tuesday, a civil service commission empowered to hire, promote and discipline township employees will be reinstated.

Party affiliation means very little

Judging from the response of every Canton Township candidate, partisan politics have no place in local elections.

In fact, only a handful of candidates thought it meant something to be identified as a "Republican" or a "Democrat." Most said they decided to run as a Democrat because it might give them a slight edge in a township that historically has voted for more Democratic candidates than Republican.

But every candidate would favor a change in election law that would make township positions non-partisan, as it is done in cities such as Plymouth or Detroit.

"No one's 100 per cent Democratic or 100 per cent Republican anymore, at least I don't think so," said Noel Culbert, Democratic candidate for Canton supervisor.

Culbert's comment was typical.

"The party isn't important any more," said Gary Roberts, Republican candidate for trustee. "People should run as an independent, not as a member of a party. I really don't know the purpose of party affiliation in a local race. I'd prefer running as Gary Roberts, that way I'm the only one I'm responsible to."

Roberts said he frankly picked the Republican side of the ticket because he thought there would be less competition. He was right. He is assured a spot on the November ballot because the only other Republican candidate for trustee is Sally Mundo, who launched a write-in bid last month. Two candidates from each party will compete general election in November.

"It's a two-party system so you have to choose," said Democratic candidate for trustee Carol Bodenmiller. But more and more the general public is seeing beyond that and are voting for the person no matter what party he is in."

The Democratic Party is valuable, says Supervisor Harold Stein, in that it is a "vehicle for meeting people and learning about politics on levels other than the local level."

"When I go to party conventions I'm in contact with state and national representatives," Stein said. "It's valuable in terms of exposure and education on issues that affect us locally."

Stein said although he leans toward non-partisan township races he doesn't think it's a pressing concern.

"It makes little difference," Stein said. "I think people vote for the man who can do the job anyway."

Incumbent Anne Bradley, who's running for treasurer on the Stein slate, says she always votes for the person, not the party "and it's always been the Democrat who I thought was best." She too "likes the idea" of non-partisan township elections.

While ticket-splitting is widespread in general elections, residents are reminded that in primary elections you must choose one party only and vote for only that party's candidates.

Absentee ballot voters are especially warned against ticket-splitting. Votes in more than one party void a ballot.

Call for election results

If you're anxious to learn whether your vote makes a difference in Tuesday's primary election, call the Observer office at 459-2700 to find out.

Staffers will man the phones from 10 p.m. to midnight on Tuesday to report the outcome of local races in the Plymouth-Canton community.

A large number of calls is expected, so please call back if you receive a busy signal or your call is not answered.

Staffers will report only the outcome of races.

Another delay stalls move into new hall

Homebuyers aren't the only ones in Canton Township who can't move into their new abodes because of construction delays.

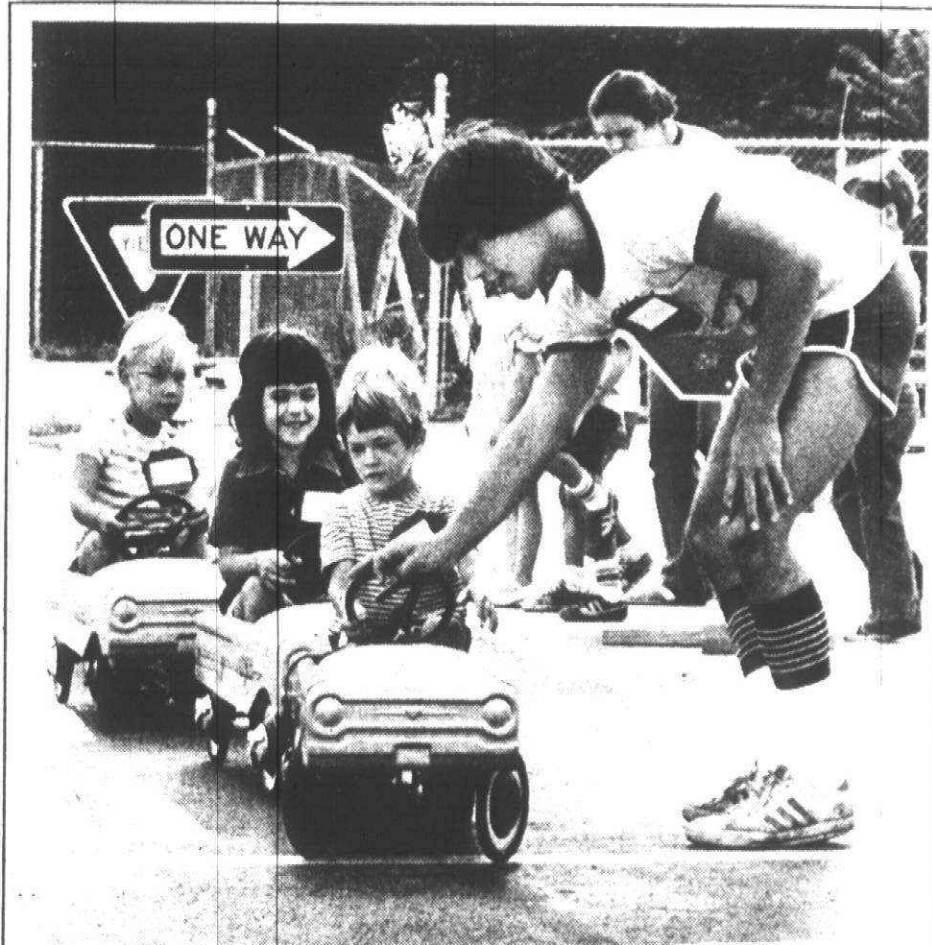

Township employees, who had originally planned to move into the township's new $2.7 million administration building in May or June, now must wait until Sept. 7 to move their belongings into the new building on Canton Center near Proctor.

Earlier, township officials had scheduled moving dates for Aug. 10 and 11 when it became apparent that

U.S. Labor Party courts conservatives

By MICHAEL MATUSZEWSKI
It has been 18 years since Peter Signorelli left Plymouth.

Now, as co-founder of the United States Labor Party in Michigan and its gubernatorial candidate, Signorelli is appealing to the Plymouths of America.

The U.S. Labor Party, according to Signorelli, stands for progress, law and order, respect for authority and technological development—many of the things held near and dear by grass roots, small-town Republicans.

"We have a lot in common with the mainstream, Main Street Republican types, the Eisenhower supporters," the 36-year-old son of a factory worker said.

"We have nothing in common with the extremists, the liberals—the Kennedys, the Jerry Browns," said the fulltime Labor party employee.

SIGNORELLI, WHO graduated from the old Plymouth High School and went on to gain bachelor's and master's degrees from the University of Michigan, bounces easily from topic to topic. He is just as comfortable talking about good, old-fashioned morals as international monetary policy, humanistic and Socratic philosophy and nuclear energy.

"I remember when I was a boy, Lincoln and Washington used to be heroes," he reminisces. "They were potent figures."

"Now who do teenagers and children look up to?" he asks rhetorically.

"Rock groups. Kiss. Alice Cooper. It's absolutely bestial."

WHILE HE SAYS his party is for reviving America's moral fiber, the party also wants to implement programs he guarantees will rebuild the country's industrial backbone.

He says the party's plan would lower taxes on corporations and increase taxes on "nonproductive" partners in the economy. He singles out land and currency speculators for the most burdensome taxes.

"We want to choke off credit to the speculators and make it easier for corporations to gain credit—low-interest, long-term credit—for capital improvements," he says.

"Chrysler (Corp.) officials would be drooling over this program," he says. "It would enable them to completely retool."

Tracing the results of such a project through to its "ultimate" conclusions, Signorelli predicted the retooled factories could produce tractors which could be exported primarily to oil-rich, developing third-world countries. The factories, he explained, would play an important part in helping those countries to develop a solid agricultural base.

Once that is accomplished, he said, third-world countries could export food and begin to develop an industrial base. The United States, as the biggest, most important supplier of advanced technology in the world, would reap the profits.

"We know what we're doing. We know what we're doing," Signorelli said. "We're the only party in the entire country with enough intelligence and guts to carry the program out."

WITH SUCH AN emphasis on corporate development, the U.S. Labor Party might be a misnomer, Signorelli admits he and the party have had an identity crisis. "Whenever people hear the name 'Labor' they used to automatically think we were communists, or at the very least, socialists."

"We're neither. We're humanists. We're Hamiltonians. We don't believe in a welfare state."

NET TOURNEY RESULTS

The championship matches in the annual Plymouth-Canton tennis tournament were held yesterday at the Centennial Park courts. For complete results of yesterday's net action and all the other sports news turn to Page 1B of today's Observer.

In your house, what goes between 2 slices of bread?

Back in the late 1700s the Earl of Sandwich was sitting around the gaming table with his buddies and became so engrossed with the pastime that he found it difficult to tear himself away long enough to obtain nourishment.

It occurred to him that the problem of holding a hand of cards and eating at the same time could be solved by putting one's meal in a neat little package between two slices of bread. Thus, no more greasy cards, the company was well fed, and the game could continue.

Jolly good idea, what?

Probably that marvelous meal known as the sandwich (after our earl of course) has always existed in some manner, but it took the landed gentry to give it a little panache, as it were.

The lowly sandwich has caught on to the extent that it even has a month dedicated to it.

Yes folks, there is a reason for this story. August is National Sandwich Month, and we can't think of a better time to solicit our readers for their idea of the perfect (you guessed it) sandwich.

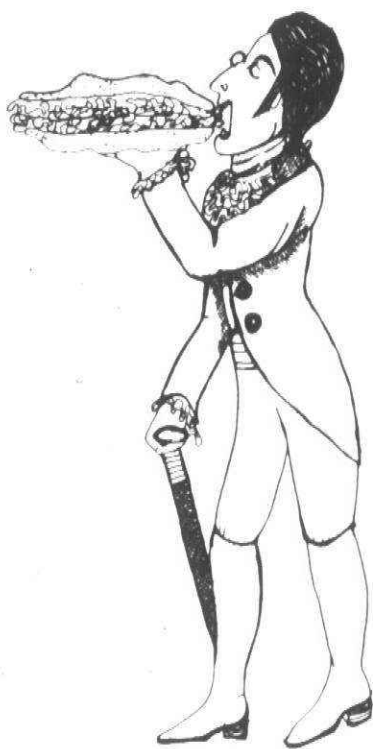

If you have a recipe for the perfect sandwich, let us know. A panel of starving journalists will examine any and all sandwich formulas submitted and determine which one comes closest to perfection.

We plan to invite the winner in and give him or her $10 to concoct this perfect sandwich in our Observer kitchen. A picture of the end product—and its chef, will appear in the pages of this paper.

The sandwich will probably never be seen again.

This entirely subjective and arbitrary contest is open to all non-professionals. Sorry, no commercial establishments allowed.

Earls will also be prohibited from entering. We figure they had a head start.

Police have stolen goods

Persons living in Lake Pointe Village, Plymouth Township may be able to recover personal property stolen from their garages during May, June and July.

Most of the items were taken from garages in the Lake Pointe area.

Victims of the robberies will have an opportunity to look over the recovered items and identify their property.

They are asked to call the Northville State Police Post, 348-1505, for more information.

Before joining the federal civil service, Krinke was a Detroit police lieutenant. He retired from that position in 1973. He grew up in Detroit, graduated from Cass Technical High in 1944, and studied police administration at Wayne State University.

He entered the Army as an enlisted man in 1944 and went to the Pacific theater a few months before the end of World War II. He served on Saipan and Guam before leaving the service in 1946.

7 trustee candidates slug it out for 4 seats

By CRAIG PIECHURA
and
DARLENE STINSON

CAROL BODENMILLER

She readily admits she's a "novice" in political affairs, but Carol Bodenmiller, Democratic candidate for Canton trustee, is no stranger at township board meetings.

"As I sat at township meetings I'd see that many questions were not being asked," she said. "It was often said that I was an ex-officio board member. I'd think of a different angle than they did and I might ask about it afterward."

"For example, the township requires permits for businesses to hide parking. But it has no requirement that business keep up berms. Well, a berm without maintenance is worse than no berm at all."

The number one issue in her campaign is a firm belief that the township has allowed more homes to be built than can be accommodated by the existing sewer system.

"I can't see why the board doesn't see the urgency of this situation," Bodenmiller says.

While various agencies give widely divergent figures on Canton's sewer capacity, Mrs. Bodenmiller believes the township should hire a growth control expert to investigate sewer flow and formulate a growth-slow program that would stand up in court.

Since 1970, Canton has grown from a township of 11,000 persons to one of 36,000. That jump alone, not counting new subdivisions, puts a stress on schools, sewers, roads and services, says Mrs. Bodenmiller, 39.

Of the present township board, Bodenmiller believes only Trustee Lynne Goldsmith exhibits "a questioning mind, empathy and independent thinking."

SUPPORT FOR Bodenmiller's candidacy comes from what was once known as the "Greenstein camp." Delores Bashor—Mrs. Bodenmiller's campaign treasurer—is an old Greenstein supporter. Robert and Martha Miller, two other backers of Greenstein, are in Bodenmiller's corner. And Bodenmiller herself says she'll probably vote for the ex-supervisor in his bid for the second trustee nomination.

But Bodenmiller stresses that she's her own woman in this race—not a shill for Greenstein.

"He might offer me advice or I might ask him a question," she said. "But if I question what he tells me I'd check it out. I'm old enough to know when I'm being fed a line."

She says she'd work to unify Canton and improve its tarnished image as a troubled township.

"I'd like people to say, 'Hey, I've heard of Canton,' not 'HEY, I've heard of CANTON!'"

Mrs. Bodenmiller thinks Supervisor Stein is being hypocritical when he talks of trying to avoid costly court battles by discouraging a move to limit building permits.

The township has already spent $50,526 in legal fees in 1978 up to July 7, she claims.

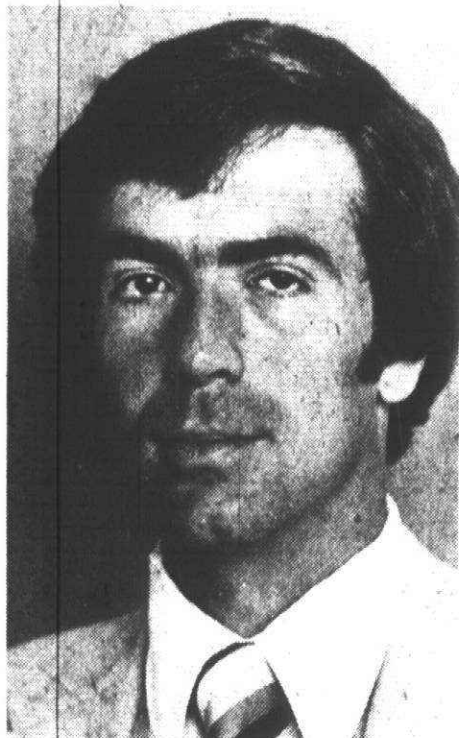

Much of the legal bill came from a court battle between the administration and the police force over who would be hired for 10 full-time police jobs. Stein won part of the court fight but the part-time police got first crack at the full-time jobs and did not have to take some tests they found objectionable.

"If you treat people honestly and fairly, they won't take you to court," Mrs. Bodenmiller maintains.

The idea of buying a farmer's development rights to keep farms in the western half of Canton appeals to Mrs. Bodenmiller. But she readily admits she's "no expert in the field." She favors a tax break for persons who farm land and favors development rights payments if the initial cost would be cheaper in the long run than providing services to developed land that was once farmland.

Building complaints are not a new problem, Mrs. Bodenmiller says, and she favors a move made by Greenstein three years ago. She'd stop issuing building permits to builders who had outstanding complaints against them.

And she'd keep the present sign law as is, prohibiting business from putting up a free-standing ground sign. She'd also outlaw neon and blinking signs to promote an "attractive, well-planned community where people and developers know what's expected of them."

LARRY BOWERMAN

Trustee candidate Larry Bowerman makes it very clear that he is running as an independent "not connected with any slate or organization." Bowerman figures if he is not endorsed by a slate or an organization he won't owe any obligations.

Like many other candidates running in the Aug. 8 primary, Bowerman, 30, got the bug to run for office after being a board-watcher at township meetings. "I'm disappointed more people don't attend the township board meetings," Bowerman said. "When they do show up, I'm surprised at how little they know about the workings of the township board."

"Even by attending regularly, people know too little about what's going on. Decisions seem to be made beforehand. There's almost no free exchange of ideas. Different sides should be expressed but they're not."

Bowerman believes that if the Stein slate sweeps the election this situation will be even worse. The way Bowerman sees it, anything Supervisor Harold Stein wants he would get if slate-mates Trustee Eugene Daley, Treasurer Anne Bradley, and new Trustees Frank McMurray and Robert Schaeztl are reelected.

Bowerman considers himself among the faction seeking to slow down the rate of development in Canton Township. He's in favor of the concepts of growth control and preservation of farm land and figures a master land use plan for Canton is long overdue.

"I think a growth control program or policy that limits the number of building permits issued is valid and can be justified by at least two or three goals the township should have:

"Number one, we would be limiting population and growth to a level that services can keep up with the demand without an increase in taxes.

"Number two, it would limit construction until the township can develop a master plan and farm preservation program.

"It could be justified in court under the general category of protecting the health, safety and welfare of the citizens of Canton Township," Bowerman said.

"Look at the large number of building problems that have surfaced. Developers are attempting to build more homes than they can possibly build in the prescribed time because they're trying to make a profit in spite of runaway inflation. If we limit the building permits, we would permit a builder to finish homes in six months as promised and do quality work for a change on the homes he has a permit to build."

THE PRICE of $15 million that is being touted as the cost of preserving farmland is unrealistically high, Bowerman said. He'd like to see taxes lowered for "real farmers" but does not believe a tax break and development rights fee is fair.

Both incentives would amount to a double-dip, Bowerman said.

"If the farmers' land is taxed on its use as agricultural, not potential development, and there is compensation paid for the loss of development rights, you're giving them double compensation. I think farmers should be compensated but I'm concerned about land speculators making a profit at the township's expense."

On business incentives, Bowerman believes the township is presently too gung-ho on enticing new business through the Economic Development Corporation. "There doesn't seem to be any evaluation of projects. They don't screen businesses enough to see if they're getting the best project. We may be getting a lot of small places in that could jeopardize our ability to get larger industrial taxpayers."

Bowerman doesn't want to see the present, strict sign law made more lenient by allowing free-standing ground signs to identify businesses.

"I don't want Ford Road and Canton Center to be an extension of Westland, Garden City. I support Canton businesses. I try to do most of my shopping here. But a business is successful because its product or service is good, and it has a reputation for reasonable prices, not because they have a big sign out front."

ROBERT GREENSTEIN

A deep dissatisfaction with the present administration has prompted ex-Supervisor Robert Greenstein to jump back into the political arena with a bid for a township trustee seat.

The 40-year-old Democrat criticizes the board for being too soft with builders and for the purchase of Fellows Creek Golf Course.

Greenstein, who lost the 1976 supervisor's race to Harold Stein, accuses the present supervisor of pushing for development in the western half of the township even though Stein favors placement of a farmland preservation question on the November ballot.

GREENSTEIN, who engineered a 1976 proposal to save the farmland west of Canton Center from development through a lowering of farmers' tax rates, strongly endorses the public purchase of farmers' development rights.

But Greenstein says the proposal to spend $15.2 million of taxpayers' money for the purchase is a Stein tactic to scare people into voting against the proposal.

While supervisor, Greenstein said he met several times with Rep. William Ford (D-Taylor) to discuss the possibility of establishing a pilot federal program that would fund the purchase of development rights in Canton and a few other U.S. communities.

The Canton attorney accuses Stein of not pushing for the federal legislation.

Greenstein claims the township does not have to spend $15.2 million for the purchase of farmers' development rights at the present time. He says the township should purchase development rights only on land that is most threatened by encroaching development.

Taxes should be lowered on other farmland, he says, to enable farmers to continue farming. Development rights on those parcels could be purchased in 10 or 15 years.

GREENSTEIN also believes Canton Township is growing too quickly. He favors imposing a limit on the number of residential building permits issued each year.

When Greenstein was supervisor, he ordered the building department to stop all inspections on homes under construction until all warranty problems were corrected.

Greenstein says he would take a heavy-handed approach to builders who are taking an excessive amount of time to honor warranties or complete homes.

"While in office, I always preferred to break the back of a builder before he had the opportunity to break the back of a homeowner," Greenstein said. "The township has absolute control over inspections, work progress and final certification."

"Stein says he can't interfere."

Architect of a strict sign ordinance that prohibited free-standing signs, Greenstein is opposed to a proposed change in the ordinance that would allow free-standing signs up to 15 feet high and 50 square feet in area.

Greenstein believes the present sign ordinance should be liberalized, but thinks the proposed change in the law goes too far.

The former supervisor believes the budget of the Canton Police Department should be supplemented with some money from the general fund. He opposes the construction of Super Sewer, because Canton will not have a strong enough voice in its construction or operation.

FRANK McMURRAY

expansion of the police department, an increase in recreational programs and improvements to township roads.

McMurray, 39, is running for township office on the political team of Supervisor Harold Stein. The team includes Stein, McMurray, Treasurer Anne Bradley and trustee candidate Robert Schaeztl.

McMurray says, however, that he joined forces with Stein only for financial reasons.

"It's much easier to pool your money and manpower for the campaign this way," the Democrat explained. "But I'm an individual. I want to stand on the issues on my own."

McMURRAY, a Stein appointee on the planning commission and a member of the township recreation commission, is against a proposal to spend $15.2 million for the public purchase of farmers' development rights. He says there are too many questions about the proposal that have not been answered.

"Personally, I'm not ready to pay for the preservation of farmland when there are so many other things that we could be taxed for," he said. "I think preserving farmland is a low priority."

McMurray believes that the township's mushrooming growth will be automatically controlled by a limited sewer capacity, the ability of utility companies to provide services and the rapid escalation of housing prices.

He is opposed to the proposal of some candidates to control growth through a limit on the number of residential building permits that are issued.

"Some people want to shut the door after they move here and not let anyone else in," he objected.

McMurray recognizes the problems that many Canton homeowners have encountered over warranties on their new homes and excessive construction delays.

He suggests that the township require builders to post a performance bond to insure the repair of new-home defects.

As a solution to occupancy date problems, McMurray says homebuyers should ask builders to include occupancy dates in written purchase agreements.

McMURRAY served on a committee that proposed a relaxation of Canton's strict sign ordinance to allow free-standing signs up to 15 feet high and 50 square feet in area.

"When you have an ordinance that doesn't allow a business to even advertise its name, I think that's wrong," McMurray said of the current prohibition on freestanding signs.

McMurray is owner of a Canton business, McMurray Insurance Agency, and a member of the Canton Chamber of Commerce.

McMurray favors the policies of Canton's Economic Development Corporation to grant tax breaks to industry as a way to lure industrial developments to the township.

He takes a neutral posture on the construction of the super sewer and believes the Canton Police Department is headed in the right direction.

McMurray has been endorsed by the United Democratic Club of Canton, the 15th District Democratic Party and the United Auto Workers.

ROBERT SCHAEZTL

Democratic trustee candidate Robert Schaeztl got his political "wings" in a flap over the proposed purchase of three military surplus helicopters for Canton Township's police department.

As a pilot, Schaeztl doubted whether the helicopters would be in useable shape and said the upkeep alone would make it a prohibitive purchase.

He debated with Supervisor Harold Stein in print and in person on the issue and even accompanied Stein to Flint to see a Genesee County program that employs surplus helicopters for policing.

The township board is still considering the purchase.

Schaeztl said that while he disagreed with Stein on the copter plan—and still does—he was impressed with Stein's willingness to listen and involve citizens in decision-making.

Schaeztl expressed interest in the Economic Development Corporation and was appointed by Stein to that advisory board.

"A lot of people have misconceptions about the EDC," Schaeztl says. "An EDC cannot give out tax breaks. It can issue tax free revenue bonds. Now Public Act 198 can give a business up to a 50 per cent tax break for up to 12 years. This may be used to improve property that could remain unimproved for years unless we entice industry to locate here."

BUT THERE'S no attempt to "give away the store," Schaezel says.

According to Schaezel, if a large industry locates in Canton with a 12-year, 50 per cent tax break, it creates jobs and might end up paying Canton $500,000 as a result of higher assessed valuation, plus pay a greater share of the school district millage.

But he's quick to point out that Canton must locate business only in industrial zones—such as the Michigan Ave. corridor and the 132 acres the township owns south of Joy and east of Haggerty.

"One of my biggest concerns is getting the industrial tax base in an area where it will not encroach on residential properties," Schaezel said. "We must preserve the integrity of our residential areas. In fact, we will use the tax money from industry to pay for services the residents want and need."

The golf course purchase was a wise idea, Schaezel says. It provides the township with park land, he added, and will operate at a yearly profit.

Although he agrees with Stein on many issues, Schaezel says people are paranoid when they talk of the Stein Slate as a voting block.

"THE WHOLE BIT about the slate has taken on a sinister connotation," Schaezel says. "Good Lord, this is not Tammany Hall. I got together with Stein because my ideas about getting an appropriate balance of industry in Canton is pretty much akin to Stein, (Frank) McMurray and Anne Bradley's (position). I'm running with a group of people who feel the same way on this vital issue."

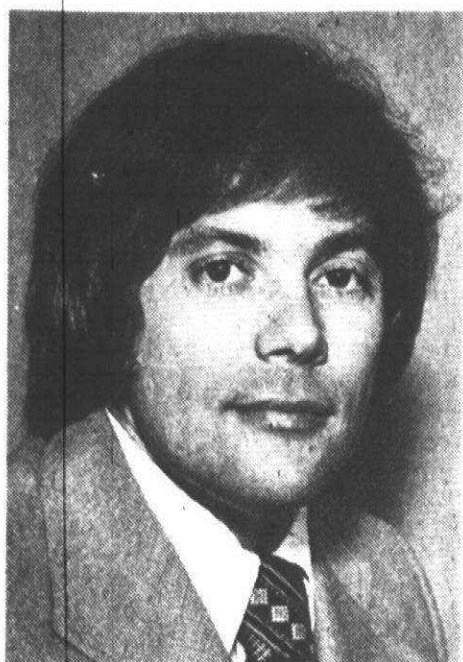

Schaezel says he's disagreed with Stein in the past and is bound to disagree with him in the future.

Schaezel doesn't believe the voters will approve a $15 million bill to purchase development rights from farmers to keep them farming and keep the western half of the township undeveloped.

"We're neglecting to look at what the real issue is—that's the taxation involved—in any one of these proposals calling for growth control and development rights."

Schaezel says he is worried that some people have their minds set on saving farmland and refuse to look at the expense involved or examine the farmer's attitudes toward the plan.

Like the rest of the Stein Slate, Schaezel would like to allow free-standing business signs. And, short of limiting building permits, Schaezel believes the township can demand that builders cleanup the streets and provide quality workmanship by enforcing existing township ordinances.

GARY ROBERTS

The name of Gary Roberts became known in Sunflower subdivision last fall when he became the self-appointed spokesman for home owners with warranty gripes.

Roberts steadfastly denies that his homeowner crusade was a stepping stone to public office but other candidates—such as Supervisor Harold Stein—doubt his sincerity.

Running as the only announced Republican candidate for trustee, Roberts, 33, said he fought against the recall of Stein after Stein told him he'd investigate the homeowner complaints.

In addition to Roberts, Sally Mundo has launched a write-in campaign to win the second trustee spot on the Republican ticket.

"I got calls all through the winter and just recently I took about 50 complaints," I filed with the township from dissatisfied homeowners and checked back with them to see if their problems had been solved. Only four were satisfied. Most said Stein made an initial attempt but left and that was the end of it."

So, like Supervisor candidate Noel Culbert, Roberts says he is an ex-supporter of Stein who grew increasingly upset with the job performance of the current chief administrator.

"A few people wanted me to run for supervisor and if I had the financial backing I would have," Roberts says.

He says he's not the handpicked candidate of any slate or ex-candidate. His primary power base, he says, is people who have home problems.

"WHAT DOES the word 'political' mean anyway?" Roberts asks. "Is it political to hope that people who waited four months for their driveway will vote for me?"

Like many other candidates, Roberts thinks Canton is at a crisis stage in sewer capacity.

"There were dire predictions made about sewer capacity in articles last year and the present administration is doing nothing about it."

Preserving farmland is an idea that appeals to Roberts, but he believes it must be investigated thoroughly and voted upon before it goes into effect.

He also proposes that an open-air farmer's market be established in Canton for farmers.

The payment of development rights is something that disturbs Roberts. "Even putting it on the ballot bothers me," he said. "I think it should be voluntary, not mandatory. I think that farmers who want to farm should get a tax base and those who want to sell their land should have to sell minimum five-acre lots. Leave it up to them which one they'd prefer but don't let the majority of voters tell them what they have to do."

Roberts is certain he would push to limit the number of building permits issued to builders.

"Building permits should be issued based on the facilities available—like sewer and water. Right now I can't see permits being issued for quite a while. When the sanitary sewer guarantee comes, fine, project permits out that way."

IN RESPONSE to Stein's statement that the township can't be a party in every new home contract, Roberts says the township should require a signed commitment from builders "that they'll follow our ordinances to a T."

He says he'd ration temporary occupancy permits to builders so they would not get any more until the previous homes are complete.

The movement to make the present sign law less strict by allowing free-standing signs up to 15 feet high, is opposed by Roberts. He'd like natural wood signs and he'd like to require maintenance of berms at business places.

"Maybe we could spend $10,000 with voter approval to make our signs look gorgeous," Roberts said. "A shopping area with a consistent theme, natural wood signs and trees and benches would entice more people to shop and keep business right here. It would be gorgeous."

SALLY MUNDO

Just when it looked like the Republican Party was an afterthought in Canton Township, out popped another candidate for trustee.

Sally Mundo, 31, announced her write-in bid for trustee late last month after grumbling about a lack of choices on the township board ballot. Gary Roberts is the only other Republican candidate for trustee, and two people from each party will qualify.

"So it's not like I'm bumping somebody else off," said Mrs. Mundo.

She'll need approximately 15 per cent of the votes received by Roberts to qualify for the general election in November.

Without running, Mrs. Mundo believes, the election would have been a "rehash" of the 1976 township race—pitting Supervisor Harold Stein's slate against former supervisor Robert Greenstein's "unofficial slate." She believes the unofficial Greenstein slate is comprised of Greenstein, and Carol Bodenmiller, both trustee candidates, and James Donahue, Republican candidate for treasurer.

Mrs. Mundo takes a hard line on building complaints, an issue espoused by most of the candidates. Mrs. Mundo organized a picket against Mocer Developers in fall 1975 when grading work in Pickwick subdivision went unfinished.

A TV crew came out to film the protest and Mrs. Mundo says she never forgot the reporter's closing comment: "A squeaky wheel gets the grease."

Mrs. Mundo says she'll squeak loudly if she's elected to the township board. On justified building complaints, Mrs. Mundo would slap stop-work orders on new houses to force builders to catch up on homes lagging behind in construction or repair work.

As for her party affiliation, Mrs. Mundo makes it clear that she would rather see township candidates be non-partisan. She says she ran on the Republican ticket because there was one empty slot in the trustee nominations.

"I always thought, 'Well, somebody else will do it' but it soon became apparent that no one would and come November I wouldn't have a choice of four trustee candidates."

She said she decided she'd run after getting support from "housewives" who can discuss issues intelligently, "rather than talk about what type of floor wax to use."

On the major issues facing Canton, Mrs. Mundo says she'd like to think the idea of preserving farmland is feasible. But she's adamant in her belief that the program would have to be voluntary. She foresees problems with having farms so close to heavily populated subdivisions. Each would get on each other's nerves, says Mrs. Mundo.

The rate of residential growth has Canton Township in "a dizzy head-spin," she says. "It's like you've got company for dinner and you haven't cooked yet." Mrs. Mundo would like to see larger lot sizes—such as one-acre parcels—to slow the encroachment of subdivisions.

She'd also like to limit the number of building permits issued.

"I don't know how else you stop the growth. Everyone has the right to buy a house in a nice community like I did but the township has grown so fast it can't handle growth at the same rate we've been experiencing. It taxes schools, police and fire, not to mention sewers."

She singled out school overcrowding as a particular concern.

Mrs. Mundo wants to keep Canton's present sign law—that bans free-standing ground signs for businesses—unchanged.

"Otherwise we're just going to be a continuation of Ford Road like Garbage City."

editorial opinion

Elect Joyner for county job

The race for county commissioner in the 27th district has been singularly uninspiring.

Of the seven candidates who filed for the office, it would be easy to get the impression that most of them are running because the job pays $18,000 a year, and they don't have anything else pressing to do.

But that might be too harsh. In fairness to the hopefuls, it must be pointed out that the county is in a sorry state. With budget deficits to the left and right of them, county commissioners are doing well just to stave off bankruptcy.

The only issue that the candidates have been able to speak to is making the county more fiscally responsible. But that's not that much of an issue.

It would indeed be a novelty to find a candidate who was for increased taxes and spending.

Land won't get cheaper

Plymouth Township voters will be asked for their permission to purchase two separate parcels of land on the Aug. 8 primary ballot.

One of the parcels is the Teledyne property and building next door to township hall. The other is comprised of 33 acres adjoining the township golf course.

Township officials have it in mind to use the Teledyne facility to house an expansion of township offices. The acreage next to the golf course will be used to expand the nine-hole course into a full 18 holes and build a storm water retention basin.

The Observer takes no editorial stand on the two purchases. We merely point out that land acquisition is a business decision.

The price the township negotiated for the Teledyne property is a good one—$117,500.

However, the price of the 33 acres off Ann Arbor Trail is open-ended for the time. The township had made application for a federal grant earlier in the year in the hope of getting matching funds for the purchase.

One of the stipulations of the grant application was that no purchase price could be negotiated until the grant was approved.

Last month, the grant was denied. But there are still other avenues to explore for financing. And knowing the township's penchant for thrift, it will probably get the best price possible for the acreage.

It might be useful to quote a saying popular among real estate agents: "Land will never be any cheaper than it is right now."

Cantonites should back books

The library and civil service propositions on Canton Township's primary ballot deserve your support.

Canton is no longer a small rural community. Students working on a research project should not have to drive to Plymouth or Wayne just to borrow a book.

The library proposition is not asking voters to increase their tax rate by a large sum of money.

As required by state law, the ballot question asks voters to approve a one-mill tax hike ($1 per $1,000 assessed valuation) to establish the library on the third floor of the township's new administration building.

If township board members decide to levy the full one mill, it will mean a tax increase of only $30 for the owner of a $60,000 home assessed at $30,000.

Prospects are good that the library millage would be reduced to a half mill (50 cents per $1,000 assessed valuation) during the second year of the library's operation, particularly if the full one mill is levied the first year.

Establishment of a library in Canton Township is worth a small increase in the tax rate.

APPROVAL OF THE civil service proposition would simply establish a fair procedure for the hiring, promotion and disciplining of township employees.

Municipal employees deserve the protection that a civil service ordinance offers. Township workers should not be subjected to the political whims of bosses who may be removed from office every few years.

A LEADER WORKING FOR YOU

Back in 1974 State Senator Bob Geake was one of the founding members of Taxpayers United, a group of citizens from throughout the state determined to work together to bring the state's mushrooming bureaucracy under control by limiting the spending and the taxes which feed it. In 1977 Senator Geake became one of the charter members of the organization's Legislator's Advisory Committee to support the Tax Limitation petition drive. The drive made history this summer by collecting enough signatures to place Michigan's first comprehensive tax limitation proposal on the ballot. The sudden popularity of tax limitation among the citizens has caused many politicians and government officials to finally come around to supporting this cause for which Senator Geake has provided leadership from the very beginning.

Bloom gains revenge

Crespo, Horton cop Plymouth net honors

By DENNIS O'CONNOR
Sports Editor

Becky Crespo and Kathy Horton earned three trophies each in singles, doubles, and mixed doubles competition to dominate action in the annual Plymouth-Canton Tennis Tournament last weekend.

Ken Bloom, Curt Schultz, Scott Crespo and Louise Stahley each took home two trophies, after gaining spots in the championship rounds of singles and doubles play.

More than 120 tennis players from the area competed at the Centennial Park courts, and most of the top seeds played true to form.

Second-seeded Ken Bloom pulled off a mild upset over top-seeded Curt Schultz to win the men's 16-years-and-over singles competition, 6-4, 6-3. Last year, Schultz entered the tourney as the seventh-seed but upended the 19-year-old Bloom in split sets to win the title.

Bloom turned the tables this year on his former Plymouth Salem High School teammate, gaining back the singles title he also won in 1976. The well-played match included balanced attacks from both players, as they demonstrated sharp baseline games and steady net play.

Neither netter seemed to want to hold service in the first set, as the first nine games resulted in service breaks. Bloom was the first to hold service in the 10th game giving him the set, 6-4. The match remained close in the second set with Bloom holding off Schultz's comeback efforts.

IN THE WOMEN'S 16-years-and-over singles competition, Becky Crespo and Kathy Horton, both members of the Plymouth Salem girls tennis team, advanced to the finals. The championship match will be played tonight at the Centennial Park courts at 6:30 p.m.

Earlier, Horton and Crespo combined in the women's doubles category and barely broke a sweat in trouncing unseeded Louise Stahley and Dottie Derhake, 6-1, 6-1.

Crespo and Horton were the second seeds to last year's doubles champions Laura Hastings and Beth Redmond. The top duo defaulted early in the tourney when Redmond was bothered with an injured leg which she broke earlier in the summer. Hastings, also last year's women's single champ, failed to defend either title.

Crespo and Horton also find themselves in the mixed doubles championship which will be played later in the week.

Crespo and partner Bloom will face Horton and partner Dave Nelson in the finale.

All was not sour for Schultz and his partner Dick Cook in the men's doubles action, as these first seeds defeated Salem High teammates Bob Braun and Scott Crespo, 6-3, 6-4. After losing the first set, Braun and Crespo held the upper hand in the second set, 4-1, before falling to the surging Schultz and Cook.

ROM SRIRAMAN edged Jerry Hart in a heart-stopping men's 35-years-and-over singles thriller, 6-2, 4-6, 7-5. Sriraman, last year's runner-up, outlasted the southpaw Hart in the marathon championship which lasted over two hours.

Louise Stahley proved to be the best of nine women in the 35-years-and-over singles competition, besting Alice Hathaway in straight sets, 6-1, 6-4.

IN THE CHILDREN'S competition, 10-year-old Andy Rama got off to a slow start but defeated Eric Hartnett in split sets, 2-6, 6-4, 6-2 to win the boys 10-12-year-old singles competition.

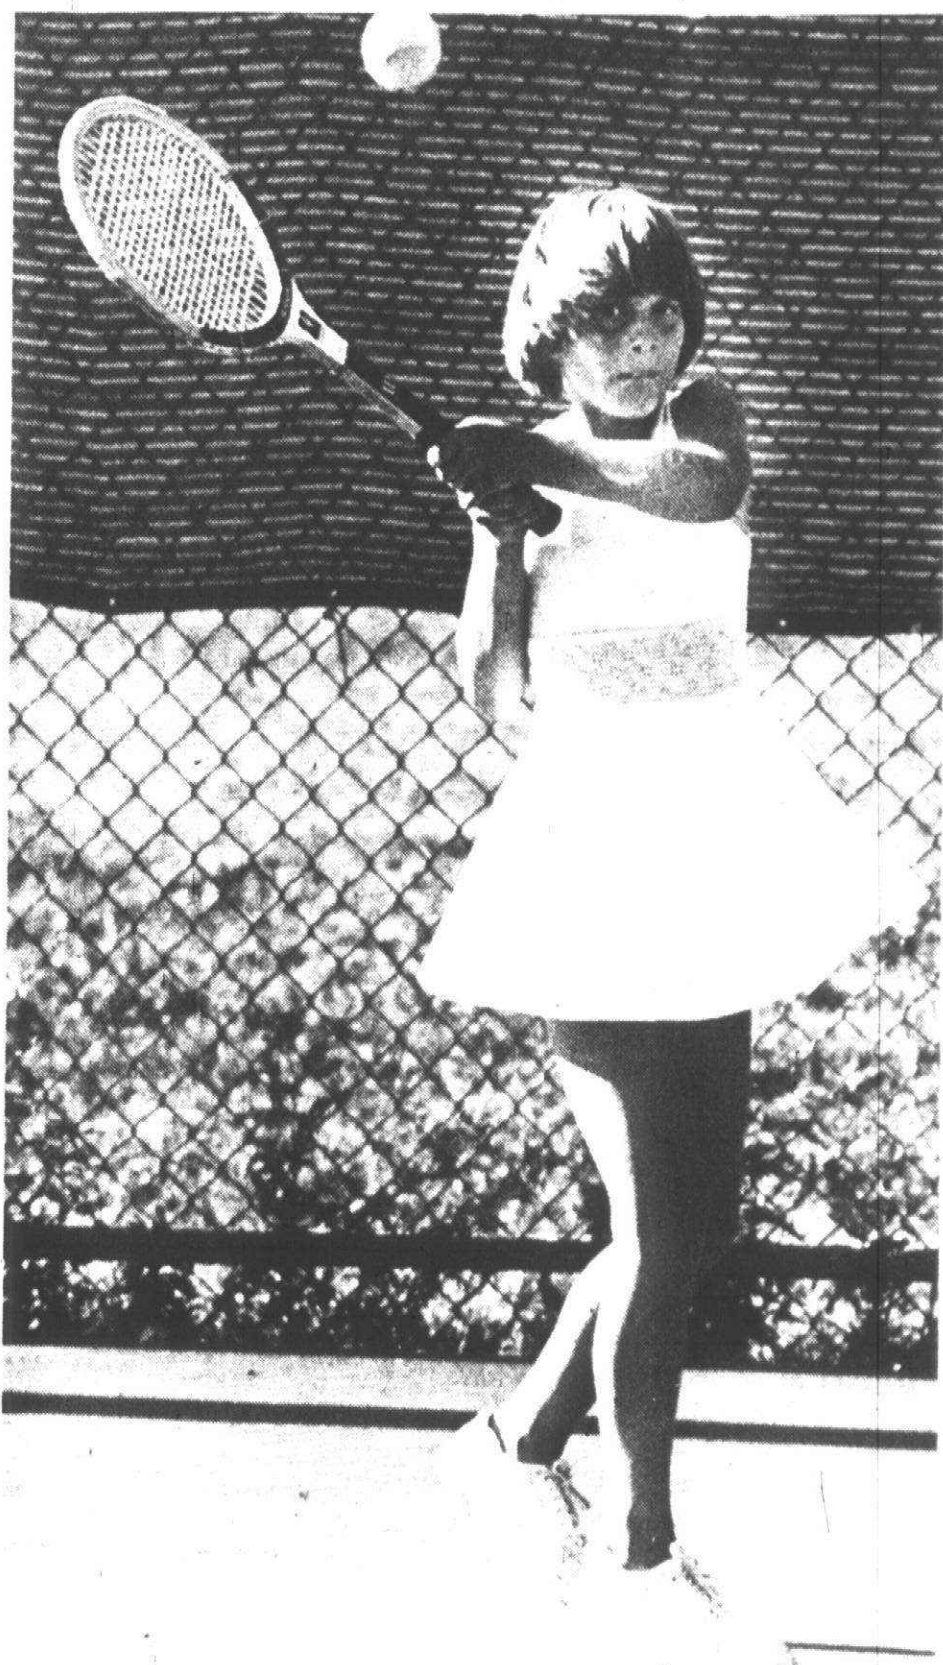

As expected, the Gilles sister, Wendy, 10, and Chris, 11, met in the finales of the girls, 10-12 bracket, and the top two seeds gave the fans an emotional match.

Second-seeded Wendy lost the first game but went on to win the next six straight to capture the first set over her older sister. Chris rebounded, however, getting her game together in taking the final two sets and the match, 6-1, 6-0.

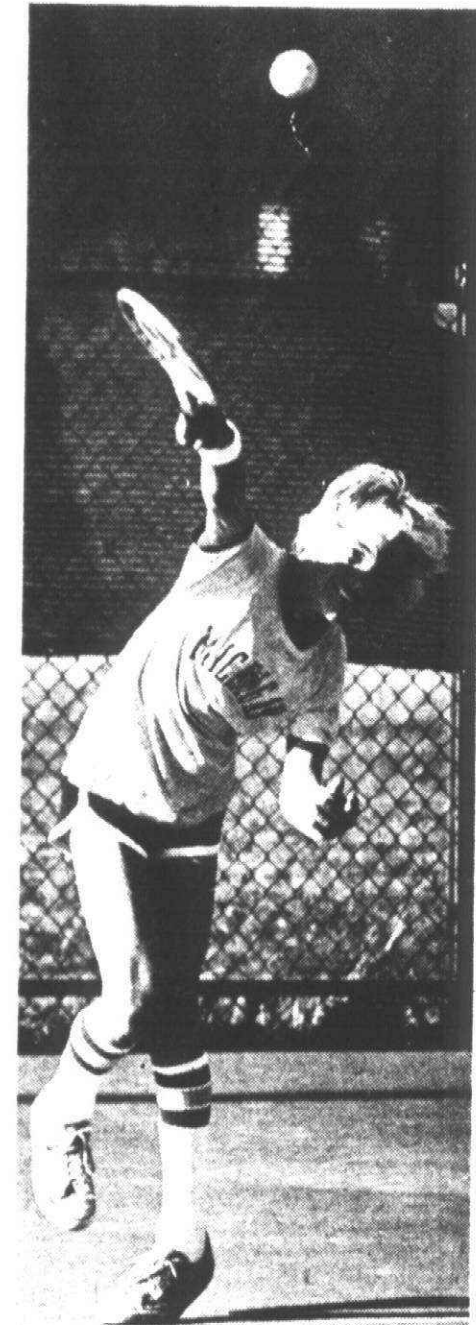

The Gilles sisters also played in the women's doubles category and advanced to the semifinals before bowing to Crespo and Horton, the eventual champions.

Scott Crespo dominated a small field of six players in the boys 13-15-year-old singles bracket, defeating Doug Baker in straight sets, 6-0, 6-1.

Betsy Moon had a rougher time with Renee Braun but still captured the girls 13-15 title in straight sets, 6-2, 6-3.

Canton Koufax squad grabs 3d in Alabama

Plymouth Canton's Sandy Koufax baseball team (boys 13-14-years old) grabbed third place out of 19 teams at a recent national tournament in Birmingham, Ala.

The Canton players finished with a 14-1 regular season record in the Northwest Suburban League. This impressive mark not only was the best in the conference but helped earn the right to compete in this National Amateur Baseball Federation (NABF) Sophomore event with squads from across the country.

Canton, coached by Jerry Ebmeyer, lost the first game of the double-elimination event but battled back with four straight victories before bowing out in third place. Canton lost its final game to Long Island Conference from New York—the tournament runners-up. A squad from the North Farmington and West Bloomfield High School programs in Michigan was the champion.

CANTON lost a heartbreaker in its first game, falling to Long Island Federation, 4-1, in eight innings. Canton battled back from a 1-0 deficit and tied the score in the fifth inning when Keith Stone doubled and Bill Hanis followed with a single. Long Island scored three runs in the first extra stanza, however, to send Canton to the showers.

Canton won its first game of the tourney over one of the Birmingham host teams, 11-10. This was a wild hitter's battle which saw Canton take a 4-0 lead after the first inning.

The Koufax squad extended its margin to 5-0 in the top of the second inning before Birmingham battled back with four runs to cut the margin to one.

Canton exploded with six runs in the top of the third to raise its advantage to 11-4, but the host squad tallied six runs of its own in the bottom half of the inning to pull back within one run, 11-10.

The game settled into a pitcher's duel after the wild first three innings. Neither team scored after the third as Canton maintained its slim margin of victory. Steve Johnson and Stone each had two hits for the winners.

The most exciting game of the tournament followed when Canton won its second contest in three decisions with a 4-3 triumph over Akron, Ohio in eight innings.

Canton found itself on the brink of elimination, trailing 3-1 after six innings. But a two-run rally in the bottom of the seventh sent the game into extra innings. After the first two men walked for Canton in the eighth inning, winning pitcher George Bednarski delivered the game-winning single to end the overtime game.

Canton's third straight win in the tourney saw Keith Braun hurl the distance in a 5-2 victory over the other Birmingham host team.

Canton was ahead all the way in this contest as Todd Tramel, a pick-up player from Dearborn Heights Crestwood, paced the attack with three hits. Stone added two safeties.

Tramel was back in the spotlight in Canton's fourth and final tourney victory when he hurled a no-hitter over Dayton, Ohio, helping Canton to an 8-0 victory. Stone, Hanis and Dave Malek all had two hits to pace the offensive surge.

Canton found itself playing catch-up in its sixth game against Long Island Conference, losing 11-8 to end its hopes for a tournament championship. Canton finally tied the score, 8-8 after five innings. Both teams were held scoreless in the sixth, but Long Island scored three times in the seventh inning to end the game. Pat Tramel, Stone and Dan Smith all had two hits for Canton in the losing effort.

Last season, all-star night included only the Division 'A' game. It was an exciting battle which saw the Plymouth stars eke out an extra-inning victory. Plymouth rallied in the seventh inning to tie the score at 7-7 and won the game in the bottom of the ninth inning, 8-7.

Patches will be awarded to each all-star after the games. The stars are picked by their respective teammates. Each squad has the same number of all-star representatives.

This activity is co-sponsored by the Plymouth and Canton Parks and Recreation Departments. Massey Field is located on Plymouth Road at Hagerty across from the Burrough's plant. Admission is free.

Plymouth battles Canton in all-star softball games

The second annual Plymouth-Canton slow-pitch all-star night will be held Friday at the Massey diamond in Plymouth Township.

This year's all-star format has been expanded to include four games.

The top women players from the Plymouth League will battle the best from Canton in the opening contest at 6:15 p.m.

The men begin all-star action with the Division 'C' battle at 7:30 p.m. The Plymouth Division 'B' players square off against Canton's Division 'B' team at 8:45 p.m.

The finale takes place at 10 p.m. when the top players from both leagues face each other in the Division 'A' contest.

New challenge for Moshimer

First there were two and now there are none.

That's the situation facing the Plymouth Salem varsity football staff where head coach Tom Moshimer has seen all three of his assistants leave in the past two years.

Ron Krueger was the first to resign after the 1976 season. The Rocks went on to post a perfect 9-0 regular season record in 1977, and then it was Gary Balconi's turn to call it quits. Last month, Wayne Sparkman, an assistant for Moshimer the past 10 seasons, decided to take this year off to think about his coaching future. He may return to the staff next season, if he chooses.

This varsity coaching staff started working together in 1972 and brought Salem its first state football championship in the 1974 season.

For five years, these three men worked well with Moshimer, giving the Rocks one of the most stable staffs in the area.

But now that stability is gone, and

TOM MOSHIMER

Moshimer must train three new men. Of the new coaches, one assistant, Dick Barr, has one year of varsity experience under Moshimer. The other two, Jim Jarvey and Gary Temple, have no varsity experience with Moshimer.

Moshimer always said he thought the Sparkman-Balconi-Krueger staff was the most balanced group of coaches ever to work for him.

Sparkman worked with the linebackers and coordinated the 5-2 defense. He was responsible for all the defensive calls on the field.

Moshimer handled the quarterbacks and worried about generating the offense under his specialty—the wishbone.

Krueger was the mean, tough interior line coach who motivated the players with his mouth.

Balconi, sometimes referred to as the 'Chaplin,' was the nice guy of the staff, always available when the players needed someone to talk to.

It was this kind of balance and teamwork which helped the Rocks to produce winning team after winning team under these men.

These coaches were dedicated to their cause—Plymouth Salem football. But now that dedication is gone. Krueger and Balconi have left to concentrate on their own varsity sports—wrestling and track.

Benefit tourney

A double-elimination slow-pitch softball tournament for any men's team with a below .500 record in league action is being planned to help raise money for muscular dystrophy.

Any below-average squad from the Plymouth, Canton, Livonia, Westland, Bedford or Garden City recreation leagues are eligible for competition.

The tournament fee is $55 and each team must supply a game ball for each contest. All proceeds go to muscular dystrophy.

The tournament will be held on the weekend of Aug. 18-20 at Canton's Griffin Park. Canton Center Road north of Cherry Hill. Deadline for entry is Aug. 11.

First place individual trophies will be awarded to the winners. A sponsor's trophy goes to the runners-up.

Any team interested in competing can register by calling 453-5560.

Grand slam tennis

Maurice Hunter, a resident of Hollywood, Calif., defeated Graham Snook, of Canton, 7-5, 4-6 and 6-0, to win the $300 first prize last weekend in the Grand Slam Invitational Tennis Tournament.

Hunter had more difficulty in his semifinal match against Phil Norville, of Farmington. Hunter managed to squeak out a 7-5, 5-7 and 7-6 win in a two-hour test.

The doubles event was won by Norville and Bob Learman, of Bay City, who tripped Joe Fodell and Scott Davidson, of Warren, 7-6 and 6-2.

Correction

Tom Taetsch, the lone Junior Olympics winner from this area, is a Canton resident and not a Plymouth resident, as reported in last week's Observer sports pages. The statewide Junior Olympics competition was held two weeks ago at Kensington Park.

Chamber softball

The single-elimination event began yesterday at the chamber's annual chicken barbecue.

A field of 156 bowlers from 13 states converged on Satellite Bowl on last Friday and Saturday to compete in the American Youth Games.

This is the first time this unusual event has been held in the metropolitan area and the eyes of the junior bowling world were focused on Mel Groszko's 84-lane establishment.

The young bowlers who ranged in age from nine to 15 years were the pick of their respective areas and the bowling activity was one of the features of the Youth Games held in various sections of the city.

MEMORIES OF THE 1960s and the overbuild splurge by the bowling proprietors are coming to the fore again as word of large new establishments is being passed along.

The biggest splurge is on the Detroit east side where three 50-lane houses are being readied to open in the fall. They are the Mustang, Five Star and Avon and their appearance promises stiff competition.

Only one new establishment has been slated for the west side thus far. It is a 32-lane house to be built by the owners of Westland Bowl at the intersection of Middlebelt and Joy Road.

It also is possible that Ted Hochstein's mammoth establishment will get underway at Ford Road and I-275 after being in the planning stage for the better part of a year.

FRED WOLF, popular proprietor of Eastland Bowl who suffered two strokes within several days two weeks ago, still is in critical condition at Bon Secour Hospital.

He has been in intensive care for more than a week and it is said that he may be paralyzed on his right side.

The stroke was a bad break for Fred, as he was looking forward to the re-opening of the lanes with the new synthetic covering over the boards—the first of its kind in the Detroit area. The opening will go on as scheduled Aug. 15-16.

RON SARAH is finding the summer time conducive to high scores. Several weeks ago he fired a 300 game in the mixed doubles at Woodland Lanes. Then, to prove he was still in the groove, he came back this week with a 236.

Chief gals rewarded

By SCOTT ADLER

Many sports fans are anxiously awaiting the upcoming football and basketball season at Plymouth Canton High School.

But how many are aware of another part of the Canton varsity program—a program consisting of nine girls who recent placed second in overall competition at the Oakland University Cheerleading Camp.

These spirited girls, who are affectionately called the 'Red Blob,' won nine ribbons at the camp, including the prestigious spirit firecracker, given to the squad with the most spirit during the week-long camp.

The daily routine for the camp included morning exercises and an instructional period for new cheers. After lectures on fund-raising ideas, the girls worked on new mounts and continued extensive practice on the new cheers.

Regular competition took place every night as the girls demonstrated their skills to the college instructors. The Chief girls won two ribbons every night of the competition. One award was for overall excellence and the other for cheering execution.

Along with the firecracker award, the Chiefs also won a 'spirit frisbee' for their efforts.

The second-place finish was in a competition against more than 400 girls at the camp.

The Canton cheerleaders include Sheri Slavin (senior co-captain), Lynne Rudolph (senior co-captain), Sue Sobczynski (senior), Lynne McAllister (senior), Leslie Bublin (senior), Leedah Schrader (senior), Tamie Mehmed (junior), Becky Hayes (junior), and Shelly Baltazar (junior).

Salem cagers to report

The Plymouth Salem girls basketball team, under its new coach Bob Blohm, will start practice for the fall season on Monday, Aug. 14 at the Salem gymnasium.

All girls, grades 9-12, are invited to try out for this year's team.

The tryouts will be held in two sessions. The 11th and 12th graders practice at 9 a.m., while the grade girls start at 3 p.m.

These tryouts are for both the varsity and junior varsity teams. There will be no freshman program this season because of the millage failure. Junior varsity coach Dave VanWagoner will help Blohm with the tryouts.

Physicals for all athletes can be arranged through the Plymouth-Canton school system. Any girl interested in getting a physical can call the Plymouth-Canton High School general office at 453-3100, ext. 373, for more information.

Griffin breezes in tourney

Griffin Sport Shop, which had to win three games in a row last season in the Livonia Adray Baseball League playoffs after losing its opener, is sailing a much smoother course this year.

Griffin measured Burger King, 5-1, last week for its second victory in as many outings in the 1978 tournament. The win assured Griffin a spot in the championship game.

The loss was the first for Burger King after an opening-round victory in the double-elimination playoffs.

Brent Erickson, a 6-4 righthanded pitcher, struck out 11 and walked three while going the distance for the victors. He allowed only one infield single by Mark Lipinski which didn't figure in the scoring.

Jim Ross, who worked the entire game on the mound for Burger King, sustained the defeat. He struck out three, issued four walks and was roughed up for eight hits.

Rob Taraskavage, who reached base with a double, a walk and a single, was a key figure during each of the three innings in which Griffin produced runs.

Griffin erupted early and notched four runs during its first turn at bat.

Scott Collins drew a walk, but was forced out at second base on a ground ball hit by Ken Scarpace to shortstop. Scarpace dashed around to third base on a single by Tim Murphy.

Both Scarpace and Murphy scored when Taraskavage belted a long double into the right center field power alley. Taraskavage then crossed the plate on a single by Steve Morman.

Griffin added another run in the fourth inning when Taraskavage and John Massab walked and Mark Galasso punched a single.

Griffin notched its final run in the sixth inning. Taraskavage singled, Morman moved Taraskavage to second base with a sacrifice bunt and Galasso picked up the RBI with a double into right center field.

Burger King scored its only run in the ninth inning, but by then, it was too little too late.

Many cross-currents

Investing like log-rolling

In these days of million dollar-plus salaries for professional athletes, it seems to me that the sport that requires the greatest skills offers the least reward to its participants—log rolling.

Have you ever thought just how much skill is required to stay afloat on a wet, rolling, churning log?

It requires the utmost in fleetness-of-foot, a keen sense of balance, and the extreme in concentration.

Remember that the log does more than roll. It is also moving in a clockwise or counter-clockwise direction, and, on occasion, can sweep in an end-over-end direction.

The stock market offers a similar challenge.

There are three major sources that are continuously affecting investor decisions.

They are, in order of importance: world politics, domestic politics, and business conditions.

The market is concerned with the first two with regard to whatever effect they may have on the latter. Business conditions can never be any better or any worse than the political atmosphere in which they exist.

In this age of extremism and political unrest, who can predict what the relationships of nations will be a century from now?

The heads of state could at best offer a limited prediction. Which leads to a discussion of one of the most important areas of the brokerage industry—research.

note employs people for the express purpose of determining a course of action with regard to general investment action and specific recommendations tailored to each investor's purpose.

The research department of a brokerage firm is its most important asset. The individual broker, while he may have a favorite or two of his own, is extremely dependent on the advice that he receives from his research people. A broker's longevity is directly related to the job that he is able to do for his clients.

Research is essential to accomplish this end.

Since heads of state can't really see too far down the avenue, then, how can we expect underlings to view the unwinding scene with greater clarity?

Believe me, there is much more vision in Wall Street than there is in Washington.

A talented research person reaches conclusions based on pure, hard fact. There is no emotion involved. He looks at balance sheets, profit and loss statements, gross national product, the price of gold, economic statistics, industry trends—you name it—and arrives at a cold decision.

Buy or sell.

Research tries its best to be right, but there is one element of the market that can never be totally rationalized—the human element.

THE MARKET is people. Every day millions of dollars of securities are bought or sold by thousands of individuals—each for their own reason.

Collectively, the individuals become a crowd. Whatever the crowd thinks will establish the trend of the market. How the crowd will react to the unfolding of events is difficult, if not impossible, to predict.

Diesel plant moving toward 'middleweights'

By MARIE CHESTNEY
Special Writer

Mammoth threshers lumbering up and down America's grain fields are powered by its diesel engines.

Jet fighters streaking across a sky are fired by its turbines.

Long-haul trucks lugging 65-ton payloads are pushed by its transmissions.

Whenever a heavy-duty power plant is needed to move the threshers, jets and trucks of the world, General Motors Corp.'s Detroit Diesel Allison Division (DDAD) is first in line to custom-build the muscle.

DDAD IS the world's largest producer of heavy-duty transmissions and the largest manufacturer of heavy-duty diesel engines in the United States.

From its headquarters plant in Redford Township, DDAD has put over two million diesel powerplants in land and water workhorse vehicles since 1937.

During the bountiful years of the last three decades when gasoline flowed freely and cheaply, truckers, shippers and heavy-equipment owners still elected to power their fleets with the fuel-stingy, durable, dependable diesel.

DDAD responded to the truckers' needs by engineering a compact, lighter family of diesels that could, with changes here and there, fit the shape of any powerhouse vehicle and tackle any tough and dirty job assigned.

THE ENGINEERING at Redford and this includes 300 employed as engineers and technicians "in the lab".

Buried within the heart of the 130-acre manufacturing complex is this meandering lab. It is actually 124 small, soundproof rooms called test cells, each containing the life support system needed to run an engine continuously.

In these cells, diesels whisked off the assembly lines are hooked up to consoles and computers and monitored day and night.

A technician can twist a dial or run a scan and know the health of an engine immediately.

Each cell records the performance of the tested engine as closely as an electrocardiograph records the heartbeat of a patient.

"WE TEST for noise, for durability, for fuel economy. We test the exhaust for pollutants. We test for every conceivable reason," said Frank Sinks said, director of engineering. "We did a lot of this long before the federal standards came along. But now, the federal regulations require that each of our 17 different diesel families gets 1,000 hours of continuous running, so we do that, too."

When the tests are done, a logger in Alaska can tell if a DDAD diesel can still do the job when temperatures plunge to 50 below zero.

Or a ferry-boat captain in Boston harbor can tell just how much mileage to expect from his engine before it needs an overhaul.

Or the federal government can tell just how far the diesel industry has come in providing an alternative to the power needs of tomorrow.

Redford's DDAD grew from a small, tree-sheltered shop employing 500 "out in the country" into a massive, three-million-square-foot operation with more than 10,000 local employees and 27,000 employees internationally.

TODAY, amid warnings of future gasoline shortages and government mileage and emissions regulations, the diesel is gaining a whole new flock of converts.

It is increasingly seen as an alternative to the gasoline engine and an engine especially suited for the middleweight trucks of industry as well as its heavyweights.

DDAD agrees and has plunged into this middleweight market in a "multi-million-dollar" manner, Sinks said.

A huge expansion program is under way in Romulus which, when completed by 1980, will give medium-duty truck owners a new engine option—a 8.2 litre, 4-cycle diesel.

Mass produced, DDAD's new manufacturing center, the 8.2 litre will cost less than the custom-designed, two-cycle heavy duty diesel which will continue to come from Redford, Sinks said.

The new engine is intended to make the transition from the gasoline engine market into the diesel market easier on the truck owner's pocketbook.

"Our new diesel is the most economical, most cost-effective way of putting diesels into the smaller delivery trucks," Sinks said.

The soon-to-be-completed Romulus manufacturing building, engineering center and expansion to an existing parts distribution center heralds a new era of growth for one of western Wayne County's largest employers.

ESTABLISHED IN 1937 as GM's Diesel Operations, it expanded 10-fold on its original Redford site during World War II as it made engines for tanks and landing craft. One of the youngest of GM divisions, Diesel Operations merged in 1970 with GM's Indianapolis Allison Division to form DDAD. With the merger, the two GM divisions making the powerplants—the turbines and diesel engines and transmissions—for the world's heaviest vehicles were brought together.

Redford's diesel plant alone sells its custom-designed engines to more than 700 makers of these heaviest of vehicles.

That figures out to about 6,000 different adaptations DDAD's engineers have to cope with, and is one of the main reasons why DDAD has the largest research and engineering staff of any GM division.

Worming into business

Suburban teachers seek profitable sideline

By LISA GERBER
Special writer

Breeding worms is a rapidly multiplying business.

And almost anybody can raise worms successfully, according to a trio of Sylvan Lake vermiculturists (worm raisers). It doesn't cost much to start, requires little time and effort, and can be very profitable, say Michael Beaudoin, his twin brother Daniel and Fred Fry.

They are partners in Sylvan Worm Farm in Waterford Township. Housed in a boarded-up warehouse, hundreds of thousands of squirming red worms are raising money for them 24 hours a day.

The demand for worms is great, said Mike, a sociology teacher and basketball coach at Mott High School in Warren.

THE USE OF earthworms for fishing bait is a familiar one, but there are other possibilities.

The earthworm may turn out to be man's best friend, Mike says.

Worms are being used to consume industrial waste garbage, landfill deposits, and sludge. Not only do the worms get rid of unwanted waste, but they turn it into something of value—fertilizer.

"They eat anything organic and don't excrete pollution," Mike said. "In fact, worm castings are the purest organic fertilizer there is. A jar of worm castings sells for about $1.50 at any nursery."

Zoos, aquariums, frog farms and fish hatcheries use worms for food. The creatures are 70 per cent protein and are being investigated as food additives for poultry, cattle and other livestock because of their naturally high protein content, Mike said.

The company from which the worm breeders bought their worms sells five tons a month to Japan for feeding shrimp. In the European market, worms are used as a protein supplement in flour.

Mike, Dan and Fred expect their first harvest in August. "If the market is as good as they claim, this is a tremendous business," said Fred, a math teacher at Beecher Junior High in Hazel Park.

The partners were looking for a sideline, bought 16 beds of worms (about 200,000) from a farm in Ohio for $1,500. They now have more than 400,000 worms and hopes for 28 million more this time next year.

"Raising the worms is so simple it's ridiculous," said Dan, an industrial arts teacher at Beecher Junior High.

The men spend about 20 minutes every day feeding and watering the worms. They live in an organic fiber and eat a ground mixture similar to mash. It costs about $1 a month to feed a bed of worms.

"They don't eat much, there is no noise and there is no smell," Mike said.

"It's a crazy set up," Dan added. The worms even stay put in their beds. The little beasts breed more rapidly than rabbits, doubling their population every 60 days. "They're a fantastically prolific type of livestock," Mike said.

LOUISE SNIDER

Movie-goers pant in anticipation for 'Pink Panther'

There is a certain excitement of anticipation in the air when the house lights dim and cartoon characters batter one another as the titles announce "Revenge of the Pink Panther" (PG), fifth in the series of Panther movies.

The anticipation is rewarded by the movie's faithful adherence to the formula that has entertained audiences and enriched its creators.

Once again Peter Sellers re-creates that accident-prone, nasal-voiced, imbecilic detective, Chief Inspector Clouseau. Clouseau, by a combination of brainlessness and lunatic luck, always manages to avoid every fiendish plot to annihilate him.

He not only survives, but to the chagrin of every rational police officer and frustrated villain, he catches the crooks. In this case the top crook is Douvier (Robert Webber), known as "the French connection." He's head of the biggest dope smuggling ring in France.

TO EFFECT THIS capture, Clouseau resorts to one of his favorite ploys, the use of inventive, if absurd, disguises. In "Revenge" he zips his way in and out of a sizeable wardrobe. The costumes run the gamut from Toulouse-Lautrec to a Swedish herring fisherman to a Chinese Mandarin.

Sellers' discipline and aplomb are remarkable. It's difficult to imagine how anyone can deliver Clouseau's lines without cracking up—as, for example, when he fumbles for change while in his Toulouse-Lautrec guise and apologizes, "Sorry, I'm a little short today."

In contrast to Clouseau's calm stupidity is the hysterical character of Inspector Dreyfus. Herbert Lom is back as the paranoid officer who literally was driven crazy by Clouseau.

Burt Kwouk, another "Panther" regular, returns as the tenacious Cato. Cato, Clouseau's servant, has the comical knack of challenging his employer's self-defense skills at the most inopportune times.

For romantic interest, Dyan Cannon is a perky and attractive Simone, the cast-off mistress of Douvier, and statuesque Valerie Leon makes a brief but spectacular appearance as Tanya, a sexy lady with a whip.

"REVENGE OF the Pink Panther" displays the high standards of professionalism that have distinguished this comic series created by Blake Edwards.

Moreover, it launches its laughs with greater ease and less of the frenetic, sledgehammer gags that occasionally became irritating in "The Pink Panther Strikes Again."

"Revenge" is superb Sellers and very good "Panther."

A rock 'n' roll original

Gary Bussey stars in the title role of "The Buddy Holly Story," a motion picture based on the brief but brilliant career of one of the pioneer innovators of rock 'n' roll. The Columbia Pictures release features 12 of Holly's original song hits, performed in the film by Bussey.

Animal exhibits are jumping in Michigan

Barnyards featuring farm animals and deer that can be petted and fed, fierce timber wolves and bobcats that can be viewed up close and giant dinosaur reproductions are just part of the lure of Michigan's animal attractions, according to Automobile Club of Michigan.

The Dinosaur Gardens and Prehistoric Zoo near Alpena contains no living creatures. It is filled with life-size reproductions of prehistoric dinosaurs and birds which inhabited the earth during that period. There are more than two dozen huge, lifelike creatures displayed in a heavily forested tract.

The exhibits took 38 years to construct and assemble. The huge brontosaurus, 80 feet long and nearly as high, took two and a half years to complete. The gardens are open daily 8 a.m.—7 p.m.

The Detroit Zoological Park in Royal Oak is well-known for its bar-free atmosphere, and it features more than 500 species of mammals ranging from great apes to penguins. A new aviary, the size of a football field, features a free-flight area, with more than 100 species of birds.

THE DETROIT ZOO has the largest collection of polar bears in captivity and one of the largest and most attractive penguinariums anywhere.

Detroit's Children Zoo on Belle Isle draws thousands of youngsters each summer to view, feed and pet a variety of small farm animals.

The Stage CoachStop, a theme park on US-12 in the Irish Hills, includes a barnyard with horses, donkeys, goats and pigs. A train ride is available, and regularly scheduled, old-time western shootouts are featured on Main Street.

The Kensington Children's Farm, adjacent to Kensington Metropark near Milford, covers 100 acres bordering the Huron River. The barnyard has live animals to pet and feed plus pony rides and hayrides.

The Kalamazoo Nature Center, 7000 N. Westnedge Ave., features a variety of farm animals and is open 9 a.m.—5 p.m. Monday—Friday. There are nature trails, wooded areas and other wildlife.

THE KELLOGG BIRD sanctuary near Augusta has swans, ducks, geese, turkeys and peacocks that can be observed up close as they wander freely. Environmental displays may be seen at the multi-purpose reception center, where guided tours can be arranged.

Lansing's Potter Park Zoo, 1301 S. Pennsylvania, displays some 150 varieties of mammals and more than 200 bird species. The zoo has monkey and bird houses. It is open daily 10 a.m.—8 p.m.

Mott Children's Farm adjacent to Crossroads Village and the Huckleberry Railroad near Flint, has domestic animals in farmyard settings to watch and pet. Hours are 3—5 p.m. Monday—Friday and 10 a.m.—5 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

Jackson Browne delight Knob crowd

By ERIC MOBEY

Jackson Browne is widely renowned as one of the most gifted songwriters in popular music. His sensitive lyrics and intricate imagery set him apart from other songwriter singers.

Since the release of "The Pretender" and "Running on Empty," Browne's following has grown dramatically. Not too many years ago he would have had trouble filling Pine Knob even with a notable opening act. All that has been turned around, as was evident by the sold-out crowd in attendance for his opening night show last week at Pine Knob.

The show was divided into two sets, with Browne opening the show without a warmup band. He began the first set with "The Fuse" and closed the second set with "The Pretender," just as he did last year. The material in between included 19 songs with selections from all five of his albums.

He was accompanied by many of the same people who have backed him for several years but part of the back-up known as The Section was not along for this outing. I thought the absence of Russ Kunkel, Dan Kortchmar and Leland Sklar would lead to a weaker concert, but my apprehension was short-lived.

DAVID LINDLEY, Browne's proverbial sideman, provided the foundation for Jackson's lyrics with his unique slide guitar and haunting violin. Lindley is so much a part of Browne's music, it is difficult to imagine what it would be like without him.

Browne surrounds himself with the finest back-up musicians available, their collective resumes read like the social register of rock. The band for this concert consisted of Craig Doerge on keyboards, Jim Gordon on drums, Bob Glaub on bass and Rosemary Butler and Don Heywood singing harmony.

Jackson seems to have little difficulty in employing the finest. He is in the inner circle of rock music. He has earned the respect of everyone in the business from the critics to the roadies. This has been accomplished through a lyrical expertise that seems to mystify fans and colleagues.

So much has been written about his lyrical genius by music critics they have overlooked the vitality of his music. His ability to pack so many deep lines into a verse and still carry out a cohesive sound is truly convincing.

His voice is also maturing with his writing. His latest songs from "Running on Empty" allow the listener to appreciate a more refined vocal with a lighter genre of lyrical content.

"YOU LOVE THE Thunder" and "Rosie" are examples of Browne's latest style and judging from audience reaction, they like the new stuff. This is the enjoyable excitement of Jackson Browne. He is able to captivate critics with classics like "Rock Me on the Water," while cultivating a neophyte following with tunes like "Running on Empty" and "Load Out."

In "The Pretender," Browne articulates the painful dilemma of being "caught between the longing for love and the struggle for the legal tender." As far as this performance was concerned, the Pretender readily achieved both with ease.

Science institute focuses on holographic techniques

The future in visual imagery can be seen at Cranbrook Institute of Science's exhibition "Holography: 3D Makes History" beginning Sunday.

Holography is a form of picture taking that uses no camera but employs the coherent light of a laser beam to create startlingly clear, three-dimensional images.

At first glance holograms appear to be glass plates or strips of film. But when viewed at eye-level, pictures materialize. A move from side to side produces "parallax," or change of view, as though walking completely around the object.

The scientific principles of holography were discovered in 1947 but remained speculative until the laser was invented. After research began at the University of Michigan in 1962, Cranbrook wrote its own chapter of holographic history when the Academy of Art Museum opened the first fine arts exhibition featuring holograms in 1970.

Now you can see a hologram at the Institute of Science's new exhibition. You also can see new holographic techniques including samples of reflection, transmission, rainbow, achromatic and multiplex holograms.

The holographic exhibition, which runs through Oct. 7, is one of many exhibits at the Institute of Science. Admission is $2.50 for adults and $1.50 for students and senior citizens.

Cranbrook Institute of Science, 500 Lone Pine, is a natural history museum that conducts research and offers classes and programs for adults and children. It is a division of Cranbrook Educational Community, which also includes Cranbrook Schools and Cranbrook Academy of Art.

People buy property 'to get away from it all'

By LEM MESEE

People who buy property in the hinterlands remind me of the nursery rhyme about the Chinese man and his pigtail. It always hung behind him. He would try turning around suddenly, but no matter how fast he turned, the pigtail was always behind him.

And so it is with folks who buy property in northern Michigan "to get away from it all." Hundreds of thousands of other folks have the same idea.

Two items brought the old nursery rhyme to mind.

One was Gov. William G. Milliken's invitation to a "Northern Michigan Growth Conference" Thursday and Friday, Aug. 16-17 at Ferris State College, Big Rapids.

The other was some survey work done in Emmet and Cheboygan counties, bordering Lakes Michigan and Huron, by the University of Michigan's Institute for Social Research.

RURAL AREAS in recreation territory are growing faster now than many urban and most suburban areas. The chances for environmental mischief by hasty or unwise development are even greater.

And there are great chances for conflict, as the U-M report indicates:

"Year-round residents of the two counties were slightly more likely than seasonal residents to favor extensive growth and development because of the economic advantages that would bring to the region, although most of the people in the area said they favored policies for limited development (69 per cent).

"But fully a quarter of all those surveyed—permanent residents, second-home owners, and vacationers alike—said they wanted to see no growth at all.

"The population of the two northern Michigan counties swells by nearly 50 per cent during the summer months.

"Although 90 per cent of the non-waterfront dwellings in the two-county area are occupied by year-round residents, less than a third of the homes and cottages along the shorelines of the inland lakes and rivers are occupied throughout the year.

Here's one that surprised me about how much leisure time we have:

"Visitors to northern Michigan spend a remarkable amount of time there. Second-home owners average over eight weeks during the summer months alone. People who rent cottages, homes and the like are there an average of four weeks during the summer."

THE NORTHERN residents were asked some questions about growth, and in the answers you see a lot of the "I've got mine, you stay out" mentality. Said the U-M report:

- When offered the choice between a new state park and a privately developed ski resort, three out of four respondents who chose one of the alternatives selected the park. Nearly a third of the respondents, however, said that neither was desirable. ??
- "Some economic development and the creation of new jobs were favored by the vast majority (93 per cent) of year-round and seasonal homeowners. But when faced with a choice, the number of people willing to accept new economic opportunities at the expense of good water quality was reduced by one-half. Similarly, one-quarter of those opting for more jobs were willing to forego them if more jobs meant developing farmland or higher tax bills."

And so you have some grasp of why year-round residents, who vote in those areas, elect someone like Joe Mack to the State Senate.

You can get the complete report for $12 in paperback and $17 hard cover from: SALES Fulfillment Section, Institute for Social Research, Box 1248 Ann Arbor, MI. 48106. The full name of the publication is "The Quality of Nonmetropolitan Living: Evaluations, Behaviors and Expectations of Northern Michigan Residents," by Robert W. Marans and John D. Wellman.

THE POINT of their researches is that local government must be prepared when residents seek limitation and control of growth.

That's what the Aug. 16-17 governor's conference is about. For registration information, write to: Governor's Northern Michigan Growth Conference, Ferris State College, Big Rapids, MI. 49307.

After the conference's goals are outlined by Keith Molin, director of the Michigan Department of Commerce, local officials will report on growth problems in Traverse City, Kalkaska, Gladwin, Kingsford, Grand Haven, Roscommon County, Big Rapids, Tawas, Gaylord and Marquette. That will take all the first morning.

That afternoon, state agency directors and the governor's staff will conduct workshops on: Housing, education, law enforcement, transportation, economic development, human services, environment—recreation, and local government. You will have time to attend any two.

Citizen chairpersons next morning will summarize their recommendations and reports directly to Gov. Milliken, whose remarks will follow.

Conferees will be able to sit in on the summer meeting of the Upper Great Lakes Regional Commission later Friday morning.

How to discard unwanted lover without injury

Two weeks ago, this column dealt with the dangers of casting love spells. I pointed out at that time that they do work, and later on, we sometimes wish they hadn't.

There is one thing worse than not having the one you love; that's having one you don't love and not being able to get rid of him.

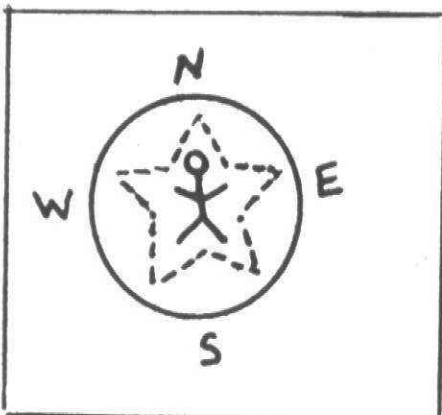

It is always harder to get rid of a man than it is to get him in the first place. But in case you find yourself in such a dilemma, here is a spell that you may wish to try.

RUBBER EGG SPELL

Soak a raw egg from a black hen in vinegar for 36 hours. Remove it from the vinegar, and wash it with water from a mountain spring. The shell will rub off, leaving a brown, rubber-like egg.

Name this egg after the one whom you wish to discourage. Place it in a jar of water, and carry it with you for three days.

Then remove it from the jar and say, "(his name), I am tired of having you with me." Hold the egg two inches from the table, and drop it lightly. It will bounce. Say, "Don't bounce back."

Roll it across the floor, saying, "Don't roll with the punches. I have tired of you. I send you from my sight. Return no more."

Go to the door and throw the egg as far as you can, being sure that it does not land on your property. He should bother you no more.

ANOTHER PROBLEM which causes much grief is that we sometimes fall in love with one we know is not good for us. We become gluttons for punishment; no matter how badly they treat us, we can't seem to stop loving them.

Such a love is really a neurotic obsession, and one should take steps to cure himself or herself of it.

The Mother Earth Spell to discourage love should help you regain control of your emotions.

THE MOTHER EARTH SPELL

Draw a nine foot circle on the ground, and mark the four compass points.

At the eastern point, place a gift from, or a souvenir of, the one you wish to stop loving; at the south, a braiser of glowing charcoal and bergamot; at the west, a jar of rain or spring water.

Lie naked, face-down in the circle, with your arms and legs outstretched, forming a five-pointed star (see diagram).

Cry out, "Mother Earth, hear my tale of woe!" Beat upon the ground with your fists, calling out, "I beat upon your breast, and beseech you in tears. Release me from this undesired love."

Stand and face north, saying: "I love him (or her) not." Face east and cast the souvenir away, saying, "I fling his (or her) tokens to the wind."

Facing south, pick up the firepot and say: "Alas, the fires of love still smolder in the heart." Face west and place the pot on the ground. Pour the water over the coals, saying: "Let the water quench the fire of that unwanted love."

Caution: Once this spell is used, that love can never be rekindled.

Rail Scouts could help out

Editor:

I met your staff photographer, Gary Caskey, on a Chessie Special tour, and told him of an idea I've had since October 1976 about Rail Transportation Scouts.

At that time I wrote several letters to many leading organizations dealing with the youth, and several railroads. Without much support, I dropped my idea of Rail Scouts and joined the Boy Scouts as a leader.

Today, the railroads are crying for help. Because of lack of response to such a program, many of the rail accidents are caused by kids playing on or near the tracks, reasons being the sense of adventure leads them to the rail yard for release and causes damage to switches, auto-carriers, railroad personnel and engines.

Rail Scouts would have some changes in uniform, meetings and times. Boys known by railroad police, teachers, parents, and the court system as having played on railroad property would be asked to join the unit being taught by trained railroad personnel on railroad property.

Boys from the ages of 11 through 20 upon entering the unit would be given a hearing test and a physical to find out if he has a hearing loss which might endanger his life while working on the property with silent-running diesel engines. Those boys failing this test would not be excluded since they would be the same ones to start trouble among the other youths. Either hearing aids or shop assignments would be given to them with monthly trips by rail.

Rail Scouts would learn every inch of the railroad industry—construction of box cars, track repair, switching operations, computer operations, etc. Rank would be different than Tenderfoot as in regular scouts to Trackman, Brakeman, Conductor, Engineer, Computer Control and Yard Master.

After full training is completed or rank of Yard Master is obtained or the age of 18, each boy would have a chance to work on the railroad or mass transit system of his own choosing. Special engineer scholarships to transportation colleges would be available.

First aid being a must, it would be taught to each boy with movies showing kids that playing on railroad property can be a killer. Also every rule of safety would apply to the Rail Scouting movement.

This idea should have come about 50 years ago but today's children have little or no adventure in the home so after meeting with others they choose railroad yards, tunnels, and bridges for their adventure and games.

It is my hope you review this issue with all fairness and bring it to the readers for their reaction.

7 lawyers vie for judgeship

From the list of candidates running for the new 35th district judgeship, the old saying about every lawyer wanting to be a judge must have a grain of truth in it.

Seven lawyers have made their bid and will appear on the primary ballot tomorrow.

The 35th district court serves Plymouth, Plymouth Township, Canton, Northville and Northville Township. The hopefuls represent a cross-section of the communities.

Maurice Breen lives in Plymouth Township and has his law offices in the City of Plymouth. James Garber also has his private offices in Plymouth, as does Walter Guth.

Philip Ogilvie, Aloysius Suchy and Allen Ingle are Northville residents. Craig John is the only lawyer running who resides in Canton.

The additional four-year judge's seat was created by the state legislature at the 11th hour. The official word was slow to get out, and some candidates had less than one week to file their nominating petitions.

Originally, the second judgeship position was not going to be in the state's budget until 1980.

Judge Dunbar Davis, the only judge to sit in the 35th since the district court system went into effect in 1969, is running unopposed for a six-year term.

Study group defended

Editor:

The Citizens Committee for United Services was formed by the Township and City to determine if, by combining services, the taxpayers of the community could be provided the desired services at an efficient and economical cost. What services and how many services was left up to the committee.

At our organizational meeting we broke down into three sub-committees: (1) fire protection, (2) next viable service to be studied, and (3) the direction and course of the total committee. Incidentally, each of the three sub-committees is chaired by a township representative.

Fire protection service was selected first because it was felt that it could be implemented without any change in cost to the taxpayer. However, the service cost ratio could be improved. The problems involve number and location of fire stations, area coverage, full-time volunteer ratios, volunteer training, fire equipment, current union contracts, communications, emergency equipment and manning, etc. It is a profound undertaking but progress is being made.

The "next viable service to be studied" sub-committee never got off the ground. Mrs. Levitt was chairperson and apparently did not have time to provide our committee an input in the two meetings out of five which she attended. There are 13 or 14 services which could be next to be considered, ranging from senior citizens to police. According to the Plymouth Observer, Mrs. Levitt has now resigned. As chairman, I have not yet received any official notification of her resignation.

The direction and course sub-committee has recently recommended a cross-sectioned survey be made to determine the public's reaction to the thought of combining services and the extent to which we should consider the question. How should the questions be asked? How does one take an accurate and representative sample? How are results tabulated? A survey, run by amateurs, is not very valid. We were indeed fortunate to be able to obtain a professional to direct our survey at no cost. The committee is very grateful to Plymouth Township's Oz Olstad, (a Ford employee) who has offered to direct and analyze the taxpayers questionnaire on uniting services.

From the start, our committee has felt that prior politics have overshadowed quiet reasoning. We desperately need to know how the citizens of the overall community think on the issues we are addressing. We want to ask the individual taxpayer how he feels. He may not want to unify fire protection service.

We invite interested citizens as well as your Observer reporters to attend any of our meetings and to participate in the formulation of our efforts. The meetings are held on the second and fourth Thursdays of each month at 7:30 p.m., with the second week meetings at the township hall and the fourth week meeting at city hall.

She's 90 and on the job daily

By W.W. EDGAR

When most women are fortunate enough to be nearing the ripe old age of 90, they are content to sit all day in a comfortable rocking chair at home and watch television or work on a bit of needlepoint.

But you won't find Zella Livingston Collon among them. Instead, you will find her waiting on customers at Minerva's Dunning's on Forest Avenue and having the time of her life.

For years, she has been fitting foundation garments and now is rated among the best. But she shuns any claim to notoriety and is satisfied to spend her time just meeting people.

Born in Gagetown, Mich., she came to Plymouth with her late husband in 1923 and has been here ever since. At the time, she was content to be a mother. But left a widow, she decided to move into the business world. And it has proved to be a wise choice.

"I would be crawling up the walls," she said, "if I didn't have this chance to be a customer's friend. I love to meet them and talk to them. It has been my life for years."

While she keeps busy each day, Mrs. Collon likes to tell of the days when she played piano and saxophone in their family orchestra.

"WE WERE the Livingston Family Orchestra. My husband played the violin, my son the clarinet and I was at the piano or the saxophone."

"We played just for entertainment at parties in and around Plymouth and had a great time. But I haven't touched the piano since my son died."

When she started in the business world, it was with the Blunk store on Main Street. Next she was with the Taylor-Blyton firm and then on to Forest Avenue where she clerked 20 years for Margaret Dunning.

When Miss Dunning decided to retire from an active role in business 10 years ago, the place was taken over by Minerva Chaiken. But Mrs. Collon remained as the cornerstone of the business.

After eight years of widowhood, she remarried and became Mrs. Collon in 1945. Her husband died, and now she lives, in her spare moments, with the memories of her interesting life.

WORKING since 1930, she still has the enthusiasm of a woman many years her junior. She is looking forward to many more.

From the days when she had a role in the Livingston Family Orchestra she enjoyed meeting and catering to people. She claims this is what has kept her feeling young.

"I'll be 90 years old next May," she says, "and I intend to keep going just as long as I can. I can stay at home just so long. Then I must get out and meet the people. That's what I like about my job."

While no records are kept on such things, Mrs. Collon may be the oldest saleslady in the country. If she has her way she'll extend the mark. She has a great booster in Mrs. Chaiken, one of the Minerva's owners, whose eyes brighten every time she talks of the saleslady who is approaching 90 years and still has a distaste for the rocking chair and needlepoint.

Families can explore art at S'craft

Can you draw a C with your elbow or an R with your nose? Can you make string prints or paper sculptures?

Depending on your dexterity, you can try at Schoolcraft College's three-day workshop "Art Exploration for Families." It is scheduled for 10 a.m. to noon, beginning July 17.

Instructor Cynthia DeBolt is an artist and teacher who specializes in helping families explore art. According to Ms. DeBolt, the workshop is a chance for parents and children to explore and share in an art experience.

Students will have the opportunity to draw, paint, build and act out different concepts to gain a greater awareness of art. Slides and taped music will be used as learning aids.

Fees are $12 per adult and enrollment is limited to 12 parents and their children, 5 and older.

Registration and more information is available by calling 591-6400, ext. 449.

If this state is Nebraska that must be Rusty Staub

By DENNIS ROSENBLUM

Rusty Staub is somewhere around Nebraska. Mickey Rivers is down in Florida. Ty Cobb is buried somewhere and the entire St. Louis Cardinals team is in Texas.

And Tim Royce is still at home on Three Lakes Drive in Troy, trying to keep the family dog away from his life's greatest work.

Tim, you see, is 13 years old. He has yet to scale any mountains, find a cure for cancer or get a chicken in every pot.

He has, however, discovered that it takes about 3,000 baseball cards to make a model of the United States that will fill up the living room.

"We made a house in the basement, then I wanted to make something bigger," says Tim. With a bit of parental nagging, he moved up.

First they said to do Michigan, then they said to do the United States, so I did the United States.

And there it sits—minus Alaska and Hawaii, which would have ended up somewhere on the front lawn—looking like the pride and joy of a 13-year-old, which, in fact, it is.

"I like Reggie Jackson the best," he beams. The structure includes about five or six cards of Jackson.

And, true to the standard lament of every kid who collects baseball cards, the lesser-known players are the easiest to collect.

"We have about 15 Bill Lees," says Tim.

He figures he's been collecting cards for six or seven years, but he got an assist from an uncle who donated his collection.

Besides the 3,000 cards used in the United States, Tim has about 1,700 more, including the entire 1974 roster.

And what happened to all that bubble gum?

"I can't chew it," says Tim. "I got braces on."

TIM FIGURES it took him about five hours, with a little help from his friends and a good map, to get the country all together in the living room.

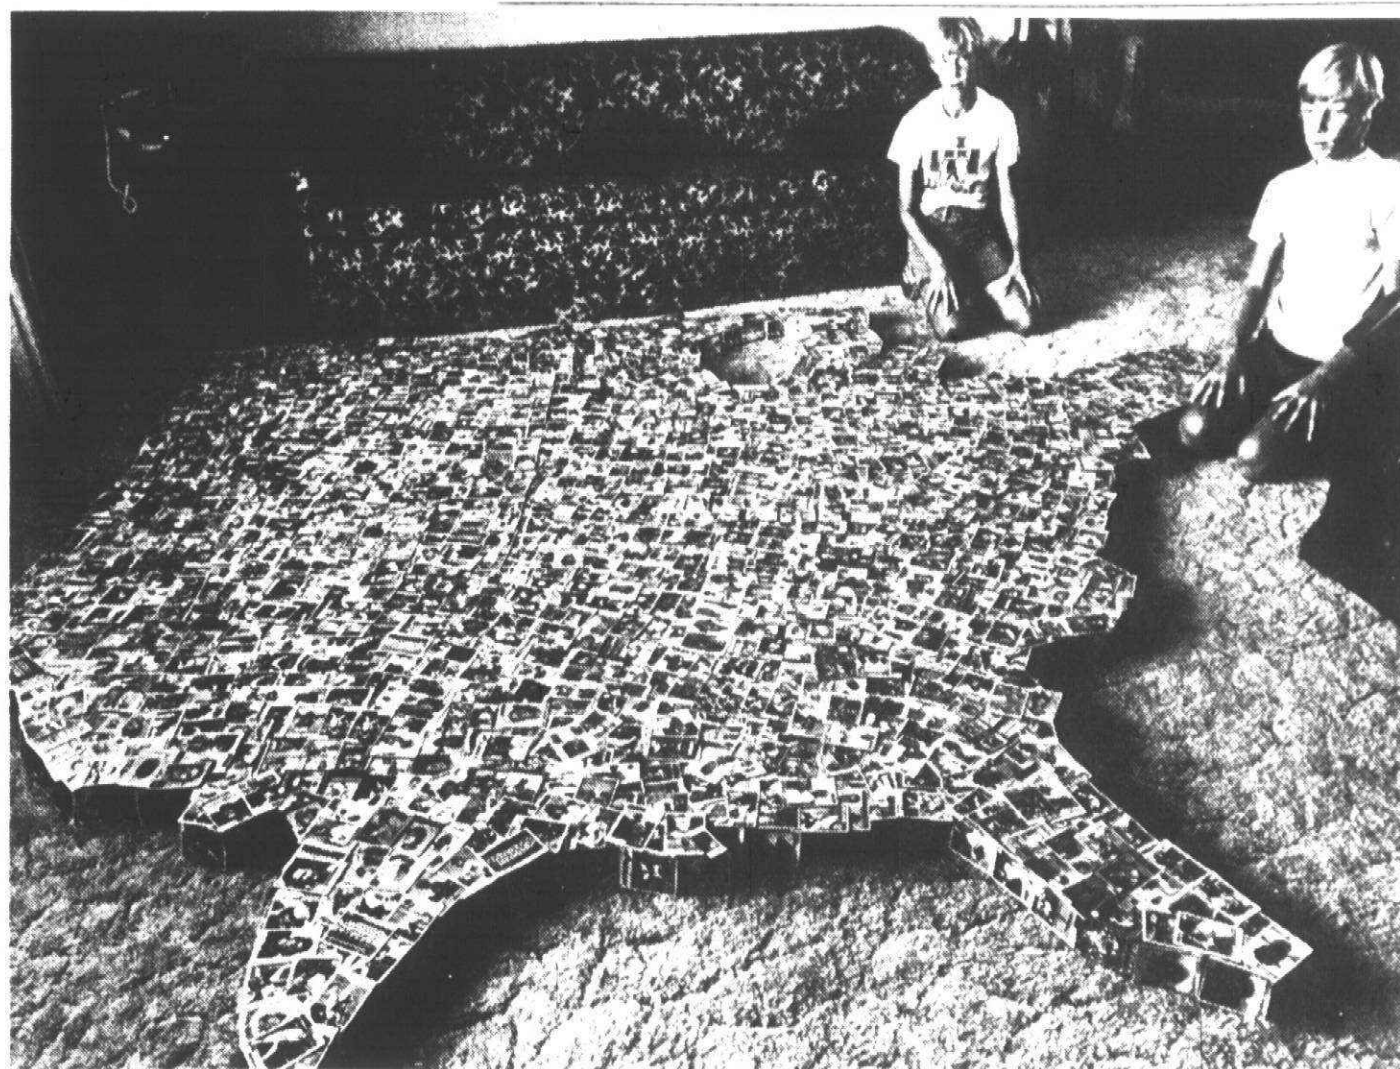

The structure is one-card high, supported by cards leaning against each other.

"We were gonna put two stacks on it but it fell over, so we just did one," says Tim, who is a student at Smith Middle School and plays ball in a Troy Baseball Boosters league.

But fame is fleeting, as any baseball player knows. That great homer can rapidly become a piece of history. And the Royce living room is scheduled to return to its previous state soon when some cousins come to visit.

So what does Tim have in mind to build next? What can he build to top the whole United States in his living room?

"Tiger Stadium!"

Computers reward digital workout

Maybe the movie "Star Wars," with little R2D2 gave you the thrill of your life.

So big a thrill, in fact, that nothing could possibly do more for you — except talking to more machines.

Or having them talk to you.

If so, dial 932-0437. If you like what you hear, call 932-1212. Both numbers will connect you with the weather; in fact, the first number spells WEATHER.

Once that exercise has limbered you up, you may be ready to go on and try more numbers at the intermediate level. Give 421-0210 a buzz. You'll get the message: "This is the fabulous La Parisien Theater. Your call," it adds unnecessarily "is being answered electronically."

If you had the idea that the whole subject of talking to machines is something the federal government might find interesting, you're right.

You could, for instance, be wondering just how little that dollar in your pocket is worth. Try giving the U.S. Department of Labor Statistics a ring.

Despite an impressive sounding name, the U.S. Department of Labor Statistics is actually a recording. At least, in Detroit it is. You'll have to call Chicago to talk to real people.

Dial this week, by the way, and you'll discover that a dollar worth a dollar in 1967 is worth now just a shade over 50 cents. In other, but just as grim, words, what cost you a dollar to buy in 1967 will cost you $1.95 to buy today.

Or let's say you want to know the cancer-causing agent of the week. You might think the place to look is the Food and Drug Administration "consumer phone message."

Well, you'd be wrong, and the rest of us could only hope the Food and Drug Administration was joking.

Dial the listed number for the consumer phone message, 965-3300, and you'll be instructed — by a recording, of course — that the number has been changed to 568-3300.

We're dealing here with the federal government, after all, so it should come as no surprise to find that 568-3300 is, of course, disconnected.

There's always dial-a-prayer. Except the number isn't listed.

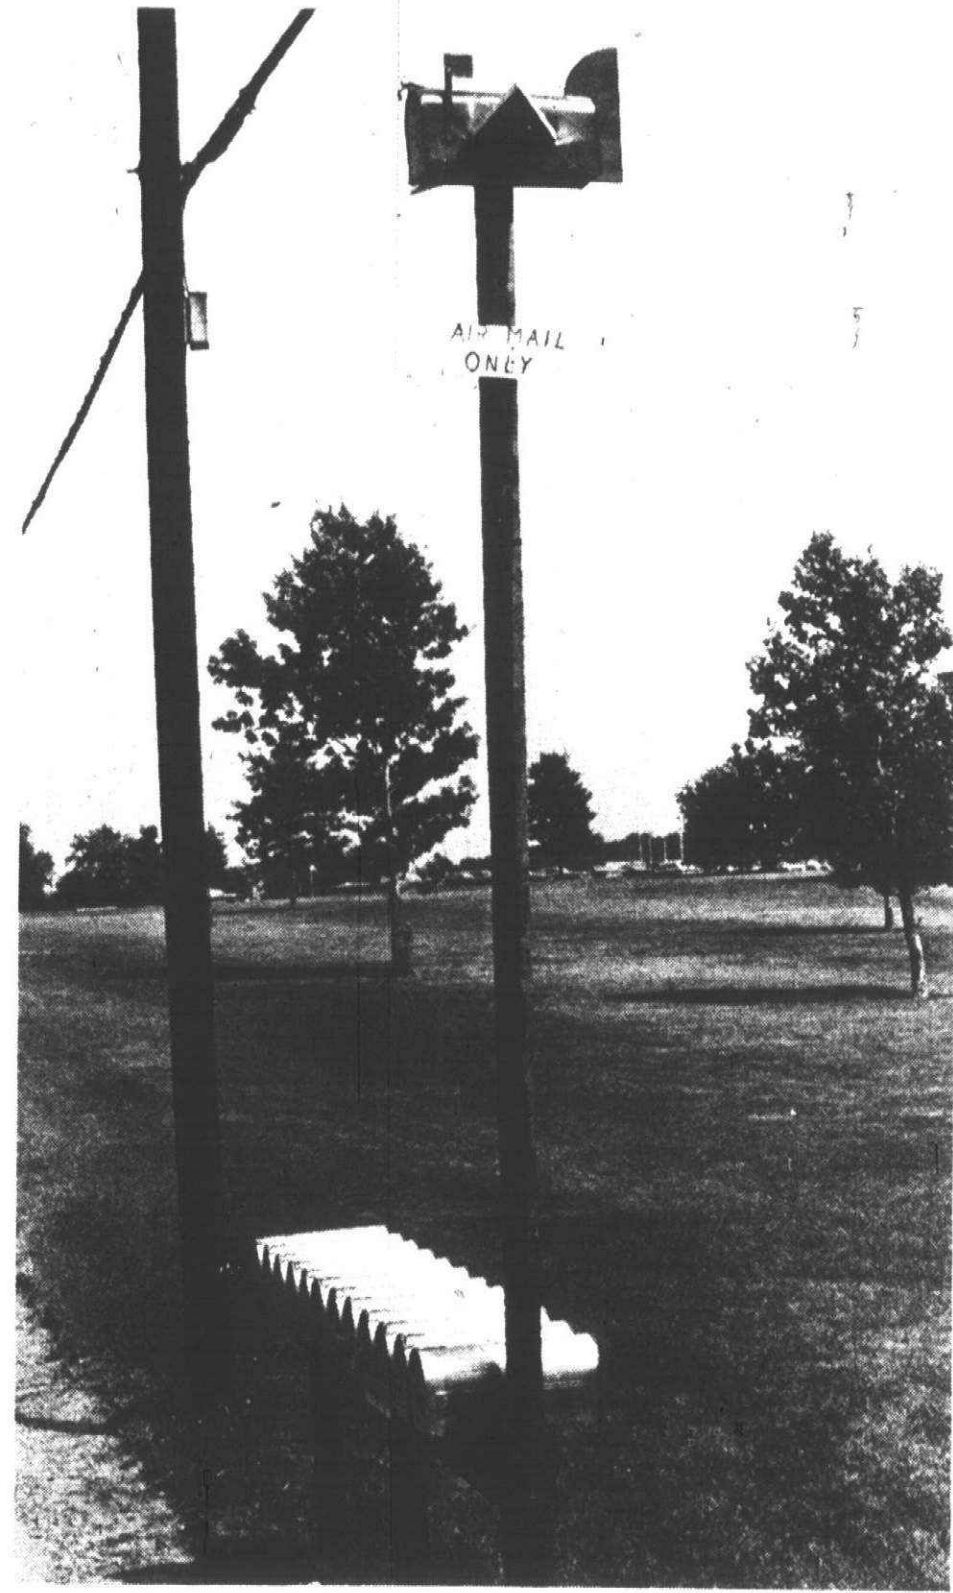

So you'll have to settle for "Dial-a-positive thought." It's 261-2440.

Mailman's malady
The joke is on the U.S. Mail at the Northville State Hospital, where someone has erected a mailbox for air mail packages. It's hard enough for a mail carrier these days with dogs and the heat and now they'll have sore arms from straining. (Staff photo by Art Emanuel)

Thousands of Successful Organ Transplants

Medical research has advanced so rapidly that organ transplants have become fairly commonplace—to date, over 10,000 kidney transplants, 5000 skin transplants and well over 10,000 corneal transplants have been made.

All these successful transplants and the extent of today's surgical skills could not have been possible were it not for the humanitarian body donations at the time of death.

To keep pace with the advanced skills and the ever-growing needs, medical groups have established 24-hour, inter-hospital organ banks for most of the United States. With the increased knowledge and availability of these transplant operations, there has come a much greater need for the organs and for body donors.

If you may have wanted to participate in such a life-saving cause and yet wished to conform to the traditional funeral customs, let me point out that it is possible to accomplish both. Please feel free to discuss this in complete confidence with me personally.

RATED the PREFERRED AND WELL QUALIFIED CANDIDATE

By Civic Searchlight, Wayne County's Oldest and Most Respected Independent Candidate Rating Organization

Paid for by Citizens for Geake, Ken Kelsey, Treasurer, 33150 Schoolcraft, Livonia 48150

IF YOU'VE WATCHED any of the candidate's nights on television, you may have reacted as I did during the League of Women Voters' program for U.S. Senate candidates.

You did a double take when the panel of political experts was introduced. The young lady in the middle, with the curly blond hair, was familiar. Sure enough. When she was introduced, it was Joanna Firestone, Lansing Bureau chief of United Press International. Joanna graduated from Plymouth High School 10 years ago, and her parents, Berda and Eugene Firestone, are longtime Plymouth residents.

Joanna has been bureau chief for 2 1/2 years. When she received the appointment, she was one of two women UPI bureau chiefs in the country. "Now there are five or six." She has been with the Lansing bureau for five years and their offices are in the Capitol Building.

by
ELLIE
GRAHAM

"IT'S A FUN year," said Joanna. "Thank goodness it happens only every two years. It takes two years to recover."

She has been involved in the primary elections and estimates a 72-hour stint on election day coverage.

"We start setting up Sunday afternoon and we won't be through until Wednesday afternoon." The bureau has to keep track of 110 house, 38 senate, and 19 congressional races. She and her staff are UPI's political writers for Michigan.

"It has been a tough campaign to cover," said the young bureau chief. "We've been catching them (the candidates) on a spot basis."

Joanna has spent a good deal of time taping and appearing live on candidates television shows. She says she prefers the taped shows. Tim Jones, Jim Harrington and Joanna taped the gubernatorial candidates' debate Thursday night. It was aired on Detroit television Sunday evening.

Tomorrow night, the UPI crew in Lansing has to pick winners before the total ballot count is in.

"It is all computerized," said Joanna. "The candidates have told us their strengths and their major counties. You pick a winner when you get a feel for it."

She predicts the Senate race will be close and very late. The Detroit UPI bureau will handle that one. "The decision on the race for governor should come earlier."

JOANNA ATTENDED conventions in 1976. She was on the campaign trail with both Jimmy Carter and Gerald Ford.

When Vice President Walter Mondale came to Dearborn two weeks ago to speak at the UAW-CIO convention, Joanna was there. It meant getting up at 6 a.m. to be at the Hyatt Regency by 8 a.m. for checkout by the FBI and other security forces before joining the vice presidential party.

She has been married for 1 1/2 years to Lee Foley who is a political commentator on both radio and television in the state capital.

"When we're working 12 and 14 hours a day covering a political story, we're doing it together."

Her high school class is having its 10th reunion this month and Joanna is looking forward to it. "I wouldn't miss it," she said.

A GROUP OF Plymouth residents made a weekend of it when they went to Grand Rapids for the wedding of Jeff Tittle and Carol Ann Berg. Jeff's parents, Jack and Martie Tittle, are former Plymouth residents.

Jack and Ann Hoffman, Con and Ann Krankel, Sam and Doreen Volpe, Fred and Jean Sigmon, Dick and Nancy Brown, Fran and Frank Lang and Joyce Kelly stayed at Holiday Inn in East Grand Rapids. Jack Kelly was out of town so couldn't join the group.

The wedding was in Mayflower Congregational Church and the dinner-dance reception was at Blythefield Country Club.

MEMBERS OF the Canton Rotary Club and their wives had their first past-president party July 26. There were good food, refreshments and a good many laughs during the gala affair at the home of past president John Schwartz.

Bill Tesen says even "the area animal population was kept up late by the gathering."

RECENT WINNERS at the Thursday afternoon party bridge games in the Plymouth Cultural Center were Carl Peters and Madeleine Green, July 13; Fran Peters and John Drewniak, July 20; and Judy Guideau and Jo Fountain, July 27.

STACEY BOUCHE of Plymouth attended Blue Lake Fine Arts Camp for a summer session. She is a member of the Livonia regional Ballet Company.

It's a year in Washington for Padillas

Alice and James Padilla of Trailwood in Plymouth Township are preparing to move to Washington, DC. It should be an interesting year.

Padilla will be working with Juanita Krebs in the Department of Commerce. They have rented a condominium in nearby Fall Church, Va. Their children, Jimmy, 8, and Katie, 6, will attend St. James School. Daniel, the youngest, who is only 3, will stay home with his mother.

After five years in Canton Township, the Padillas built their house in Trailwood two years ago. There was not much time for hobbies what with landscaping the grounds and decorating the interior. Padilla did everything from paint to hang wallpaper.

When asked about his hobbies, he replied, "My family is my hobby." Condominium living will give them the freedom to enjoy the Washington year.

There will be weekly meetings with senators and heads of business. Mrs. Padilla will be included in many of the activities. They are not going to Washington as outsiders. The Padillas will have a decided "in."

JAMES, 30, is a White House Fellow, one of an elite group of 15 who attained the distinction from the field of 2,026 persons who filled out demanding Fellowship applications last fall.

The number was narrowed to 110 by the Civil Service Commission. After personal appearances before regional panels there were 32 survivors. These were invited to spend a spring weekend at Cross Keys Inn, Columbia, Md. It was there the candidates underwent grueling sessions of questioning by members of the President's Commission on White House Fellowships.

Among the 32 finalists were 10 women, including one black; six male blacks; and three Hispanics. There were doctors, lawyers, a nutritionist and Military officers. They ranged in age from 26 to 41.

PADILLA could be classed in the corporation "comers" class. He is in charge of fuel economy planning at Ford Motor Company's World Headquarters in Dearborn.

Serving on the commission were such notables as Lady Bird Johnson, John W. Gardner, who proposed the fellowships to President Lyndon Johnson 14 years ago; former Pennsylvania Governor and U.N. Ambassador William W. Scranton; Steven Miller, president of Johns Hopkins, and Tom Johnson, president and chief operating officer of the Los Angeles Times.

Johnson is a former Fellow. He was a 23-year-old reporter on a Macon, Ga. newspaper when he was selected in 1965.

Michael Walsh, U.S. Attorney for the Southern District of California, is another Fellow who now serves on the president's commission.

Candidates and judges mingled for informal meals, cocktails on the patio and poolside conversations.

But the interview sessions—300 minutes for each finalist—were intense. When it was all over there were 17 losers and 15 winners—the annual crop of White House Fellows had been selected.

THE LOCAL White House Fellow has worked for Ford Motor Company for 10 years. He started out as a co-op student while attending the University of Detroit.

He earned bachelors and masters degrees in engineering at U-D and an MA in economics.

Padilla has worked "all over the company." He was involved in emissions research and was at the Rawsonville plant before receiving his assignment at World Headquarters.

He has been working night and day to complete his present project at Ford so they will be ready to move by Aug. 15.

Last year's White House Fellows had a trip to California where they spent some time with Governor Jerry Brown and an afternoon at San Clemente with Richard Nixon. Rumor has it that this year's group will go even further afield.

During the first years of the fellowships, spouses were not included in plans for the sojourn in Washington. It was an unsatisfactory arrangement.

"Now, there is something every other week," said Alice Padilla.

Of the 15 Fellows chosen for 1978-79, three are women, and their husbands as well as the wives will be a part of the White House year.

Over-65 group aided by psychotherapy

Since she retired, Mrs. Jones has lost touch with most of her office crowd. Her husband and several friends have died, and her children are settled in different parts of the country. Recently, her health failing, she sold the family home and moved to an apartment.

Almost always, aging involves losing: one's friends, family, income, possessions and health.

"Persons over 65 are a high risk group in the area of mental health," report Berit Ingersoll and Alida Silverman, researchers at The University of Michigan Institute of Gerontology. "Although they represent 10 per cent of the U.S. population, they account for 25 per cent of all reported suicides.

On the other hand, they are less than five per cent of the clients seen at community mental health centers."

OLDER PEOPLE are hesitant to seek psychotherapy because in their youth such help was for "crazy people," the two social workers explain. And therapists tend to avoid that age group due to the myth that aging inevitably leads to senility and resistance to change.

But Ingersoll and Ms. Silverman have found that feelings of loneliness, alienation, low self-esteem and even physical ailments can be dramatically reduced through psychotherapy.

They compared two approaches, both with positive results. The "Here and Now" group focused directly on their present concerns through relaxation and self-awareness exercises. The "There and Then" group emphasized reminiscence and life review.

Seventeen clients were recruited for a "well being" group for adults over age 60 who were experiencing "tension, depression, memory lapses and insomnia." They were divided into two groups which met weekly for eight two-hour sessions.

In the "Here and Now" group, the researchers taught participants relaxation techniques to cope with anxiety and tension. They conducted group discussions and role playing exercises to help the clients identify their feelings and problems. They kept a "daily activities record" to help them compare which activities they found most satisfying.

Monday, August 7, 1978

Their "There and Then" group sought to cope with current problems by linking them with past experiences. To enrich their sense of identity and "rootedness," they encouraged the clients to construct a familytree.

"The tree, which recorded the lives of parents and other family members, stimulated discussions of guilt, anger and depression," Silverman reports. "The clients drew praise and support from one another when they recalled how they had coped with bad experiences. They were encouraged to balance their painful memories with pleasurable ones."

QUESTIONNAIRES given both before and after the eight-week sessions showed that members of both groups felt the therapy had improved their feeling about their lives and themselves. They reported higher self-esteem, fewer anxieties and in many cases, fewer physical complaints.

The team is continuing to conduct psychotherapy sessions with elderly people in various community settings. They have worked with more than 100 clients to date, assisted by funds from the Area Agency on Aging, under the Older Americans Act.

"A flexible therapy which combines elements from both the 'Here and Now' and 'There and Then' approaches seems the most practical," they conclude. "It is important to assess the needs of each individual client. The relaxation method, for example, might be medically inadvisable for the frail elderly. Reminiscence and life review might be inappropriate for persons who need information on housing, finances and other urgent problems."

Local girls in queen's court

Sue Kovarik, a Livonia resident interested in the horseback riding and homemaking opportunities offered by the 4-H organization, is queen of the 1978 Wayne County 4-H Fair, scheduled for Aug. 14-19 at Belleville.

She and her court were informally crowned this week to reign for the coming year over various functions of the organization.

Another official crowning will be part of opening ceremonies Aug. 13 at the 4-H Fairgrounds, located near Belleville Road and I-96.

Court members include Victoria Ann Standard of Garden City, first runner-up; Karen Murphy of Plymouth, second runner-up; and Patricia A. Ochman of Canton, third runner-up.

The four are involved in a wide variety of 4-H activities.

The new queen, besides being a five-year member of the Rainbow Riders 4-H Club, also participates in arts and crafts and sewing and plans to study home economics when she goes to college.

Miss Standard, a member of the Canine Capers Club, has been working on 4-H dog projects for four years. Miss Murphy belongs to the Town-N-Country Club and is interested in floral arrangements. She hopes some day to open her own florist shop.

Goats, safety, conservation, arts and crafts and horticulture all interest Miss Ochman, whose club is the Doebackids.

The 4-H Fair will begin at 2 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 13, with a parade to the fairgrounds, followed by opening ceremonies.

Exhibits of floral, horticulture, livestock, and craft, cooking and horsemanship projects will continue through the week, 8 a.m. to 11 p.m.

Judging of the exhibits and awarding of ribbons will take place throughout the run of the fair. Special events scheduled during the week include a horse show and an antique tractor pull.

Eighteen rides, an assortment of games and entertainment by country bands will add to the fair's carnival atmosphere.

Total fat intake should be reduced

It's not likely you'll reduce the risks of heart disease very much by replacing animal fats with vegetable fats in diets, according to Albert M. Pearson, Michigan State University food scientist.

Pearson discussed positive aspects of meat eating in a paper, "Meat as a Nutrient in the Human Diet." "All available evidence suggests there is no clear-cut relationship between meat consumption and cardiovascular disease," said Pearson, the recipient of numerous national awards for meat research.

The increasing rate of coronary heart disease in the United States during the past 60 years has often been blamed on meat consumption. But, he stated, consumption of animal fats declined by nine per cent in that period while vegetable fat consumption increased three-fold.

"Laboratory evidence exists to suggest that reducing total fat consumption may help in controlling obesity and reducing heart disease and cancer in men," said Pearson.

In recent years the meat and livestock industry has followed a defensive rather than offensive approach to promoting meat, he added. He suggested a better approach is expanding research on meat benefits in the human diet.

Flesh foods (meat, fish, poultry) make their major contribution by supplying an abundance of high quality protein and appreciable amounts of vitamins and minerals. Pearson pointed out. It is nearly impossible to obtain the recommended daily allowance of Vitamin B12 without including flesh foods in the diet. A majority of premenopausal women need flesh foods to stay in positive iron balance.
