Summer nights are hot, hopping in Hines Park

By MIKE SCANLON

The signs of summer in Hines Park are GTO. Mustang, Corvette, Bilstein shocks, Koni wheels, 426 Hemis. Moon roofs, sun roofs, T-roofs.

Motown — more high-performance per square foot than anywhere else north of Indianapolis.

The high-performance includes Craig, Pioneer, Sony, Panasonic. Who has time for the sounds of silence when there is the echo of stereo amplifiers competing in the night?

"Hey, a friend of mine from California came here and it just blew him away. He says, 'This is better than California.' You've got some excellent vehicles here," said Jim, a 21-year-old Novi man who stopped at the park on the night of the year's longest day.

BUT LIFE in the fast lane this is not. No sir. Not at 11 mph in your $10,000, 400-cubic inch Trans Am it's not. Through the park's busy sections, places like the Westland Nature Center, traffic snakes down the two-lane road at a pace suitable for a cardiac patient's evening stroll.

"There's five times more people down here (than last year). It's a little crazy now, no doubt about it. It looks like Daytona Beach," says Larry Melvin, a 23-year-old Livonian who says he has been a Hines Park regular longer than he can put a date on.

"There's so many people down here, there's got be a few crazy people," says Dave, a 25-year-old Redford Township man who passed away the time slugging back cans of Stroh's at the Nature

Dave grew up in Garden City and remembers fleeing pursuing sheriffs a decade or more ago on a mini-bike. He never had trouble with traffic.

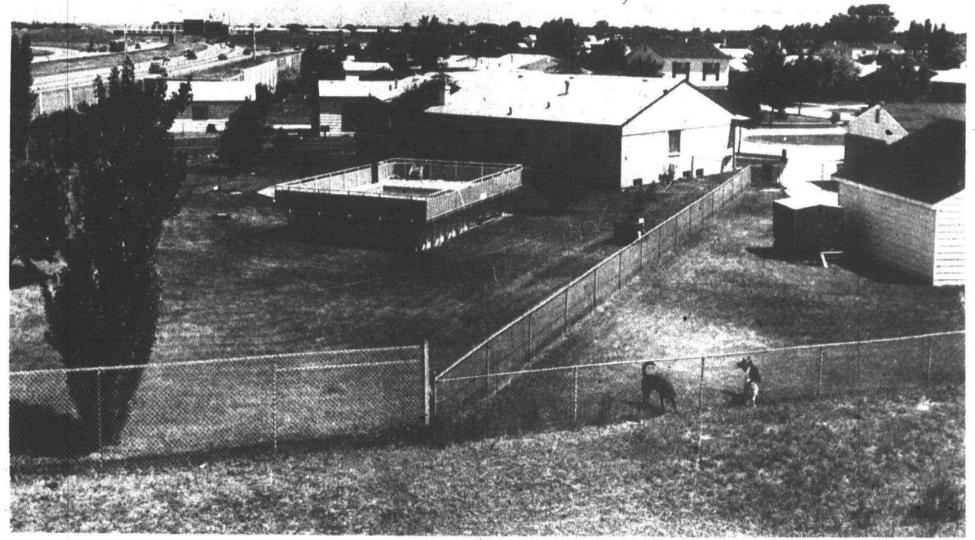

"This park has really changed in the past five years. I mean, everybody's just down here. There's people from way over on the east side," he said.

Maybe so. But a night spent in conversation with perhaps 20 young people old people no longer exist in Hines Park after sundown - turned up five from Detroit. The others were all from cities adjoining or neighboring the

IF YOU WONDER what happens at Hines Park, it's largely a matter of cruising in traffic so heavy it makes the I-94 rush hour look like the General Motors test track at Milford.

You keep one eye on the temperature gauge at these speeds, and the other looking for a parking place. This isn't easy. There aren't enough to go around, and anyway, it is also of prime importance to keep an eye out for Wayne County Sheriff's Department deputies. "Wayco," they are called, as if they were a small Texas town.

Elizabeth Hamann, Gus Matzo, Robert Padget Chervl Casady and Wilfred Hind, Jr., are the latest to make application for the board post. They join Richard Wolfe, Doug Ritter, Tom Stillings, Diane Neihengen, Robert Schaetzl, Jerry Clark Williams, Larry Bowerman, Mary Dingledey, and Steve Larson in the competition for the post that became available when Trustee Lynne Goldsmith resigned her post in preparation for a move to California.

Canton board members must appoint someone to fill the remainder of Mrs. Goldsmith's term, which runs until 1980. Goldsmith's departure was prompted after her husband, Rev. Jeffery Goldsmith, accepted a job as pastor of St. Stephen Presbyterian Church in the Los Angeles area. Rev. Goldsmith is the former pastor of the Geneva Presbyterian Church located on Sheldon Road.

Water wisdom

Now that summer has arrived, here's some safe water tips to insure safety in those backyard swimming pools. They come from the National Swimming Pool Institute.

· Never swim alone or allow others to do so. Sudden cramps can occur even to the most accomplished · Provide adult supervision. (This is also the biggest concern among local fire departments who respond to rescue runs). · Swimming and drinking don't mix, so keep intoxicated swimmers out of the water.

· Stay out of the water during rain storms - especially when lighting lights up the sky. · Invest in a few safe pool games like water basketball, floating checkers and water volleyball to water collection on top of them.

· Some basic life-saving equipment should be on hand, especially a blunt-end lightweight pole at least 12 feet long, or a ring buoy attached to a long throwing rope. · The institute also recommends swimming pool areas be fenced or walled to prohibit small children from entering. Hardware for permanent locking should also be provided. (Check with your local building department on regulations governing fence sizes and distances from pools. Some requirements vary from community to communi-only where conditions are right such as

As of last May, 113 pool permits were issued, which for a half year period is 26 more than were issued in Canton for all of 1978. Prior to that year. annual totals ranged between 56-74 since 1975.

GARY BARNETT, Canton Township deputy building inspector, parallels the increase to the construction of affluent homes in that community, specifically in Windsor Park, Sunflower and Windemere Subdivisions.

"These folks prefer swimming in their backyards to fighting traffic and gas shortages to the lake." he says.

In the city of Plymouth and Plymouth Township, it's a different story. Pool construction, as estimated by the number of permits issued in a community, is not "booming" in Plymouth Township where only seven were issued for this season.

According to Joe Attard, township electrical inspector, the biggest year for pool construction in recent times was in 1974 when 33 permits went out. It dropped to 19 in '75 and the same number in '76 with an increase to 30 in '77. Last year, 29 were issued.

Attard also says most new pool construction is found in the township's western subdivisions such as Walnut Creek, Beacon Hill and Quail Hollow — "in the more affluent neighborhoods."

In the city of Plymouth, the national pool industry's optimistic estimates trickle down to miniscule figures. According to building and safety department records, only one has been issued for this year. Overall, there's been a steady decrease since 1972 when there were 16 given out. There were two is-

ACCORDING TO an office employee of that department, this disinterest could be attributed to small backyard lots and an aging community.

The pool industry, in its promotional pumping, also is claiming the nation's economy is actually "spurring pool sales" because higher mortgage rates make it more attractive for homeowners to upgrade their present residences rather than finance new homes.

"Despite dire prediction about the economy, or maybe because of it, people are investing in swimming pools in greater and greater numbers," Weir

The comment was relayed to two local realtors who both agreed a home with a pool is harder to sell than a home without a pool.

"An above ground pool is normally a detriment to selling a home," says Jim McKeon of McKeon Real Estate in Plymouth. "They depreciate faster normally.'

However, he adds, an inground pool with an expensive home sometimes will add to the salability of the home but it will take longer to sell.

He gave the example of a Plymouth Township family who bulldozed their pool before selling the home because they felt "the property would be more marketable without the pool." "It's hard to generalize. I just sold a contemporary ranch home with a good pool and it was an asset in selling the property but this was an isolated situa-

Current laws allows the city or township collecting school taxes to hold up to 25 per cent of a district's taxes after collection before having to pay it out to the school district.

time the taxes are paid to the school district - a practice followed locally by both Canton and Plymouth town-

John M. Hoben, superintendent of Plymouth-Canton Community Schools, has complained in the past that this is unfair because the money was, in reality, the property of the school district and should be paid as expeditiously as

The bill (HB 4572) requires that payment be made on the 15th and 30th of each month or within 10 days thereaft-

The bill also allows for alternate agreements to be made between school districts and local units of government should they wish to set up a different method of payment.

One of the major areas of the bill, however, deals with the situation of costs to local governmental units for a collection of these taxes, according to state Rep. Robert Law, R-Livonia.

The law now allows for a 1 percent collection fee by the local unit of government to cover the cost of collecton.

Sponsors of HB 4572 felt it was unfair for local governments to assess the one percent collection fee and also earn the interest on up to 25 percent of the funds of a local school district. Hoben, among other school persons, has taken this position.

The one percent fee is permissive and not required to be levied under the present law or in the proposed bill.

Many municipalities will annually waive the fee as a matter of routine.

School officials argue that the 1 percent fee is reasonable to cover the costs of collection and argue that if they don't have prompt payment of school taxes then they not only lose interest on the funds but also have to borrow funds to cover their operating costs for the year.

The need to borrow tax anticipation notes increases costs to the taxpayers, argue backers of HB 4572, and specifically is not a service to the taxpayer of the school district.

The bill presently is before the finance committee of the Senate.

Flossie Tonda, secretary of the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education, gives a lot of credit to Rep. Thomas Brown, D-Westland, for obtaining House passage on the measure. Brown's district includes Canton and part of Plymouth Township.

Local school officials also have expressed an interest in semi-annual tax collections to reduce the need to borrow tax anticipation notes.

This year the school district has borrowed $9.6 million to cover operating costs through December, and will pay an interest expense on that note in excess of $450,000.

School taxes are collected in December each year with the funds turned over to the district during the months of January through May. State law does not allow districts to collect their own taxes.

pull in and get out. But your car still has a use. You sit on its hood, drink a beer, fire up a joint, turn up the stereo.

One young man more interested in stopping than going has stereo speakers installed in the trunk of his Mustang II. They're useless, unless you're pulled over and parked in a place like . . . well, only in Hines Park.

Once parked, you settle back to watch the cars cruising by. Most of them seem to be looking for a place to park.

Finally, depending on an accident of birth, you hoot loudly at A) girls, or B) boys, as they cruise slowly by.

ASK FRANK Slomzenski why he's there and he'll motion at a turbocharged Mustang passing with a low, throaty roar and a young woman at the wheel and say, "Cause of chicks like that.'

Sandy Urbanczyk is a 20-year-old from Dearborn Heights who took quick exception to Slomzenski's view. "Cause of guys like that," she said, sweeping an arm in the direction of an airbrushdecorated van rumbling past, its driver eating fumes from a car four feet ahead noon shift contingent of the 37 deputies assigned to patrol Hines Park cruise by like sharks. That's what the park regulars think they look like, anyway.

"This used to be a nice park, but there were so many of my friends getting busted that I stopped coming down because I couldn't afford getting busted again," said Scott Whitehouse, a 21year-old Allen Park man.

Temptation finally got the best of him, but it took a while - Whitehouse said his visit to the park on the longest day of the year was his first in two

PARK ARRESTS have mounted steadily in recent years. Not counting traffic citations, arrests in the 17.5 mile long park totaled more than 1,800 through the first five months of 1979, compared to 3,100 in all of 1978.

"Basically, we don't run into that much serious crime out there. There's just a tremendous amount of misdemeanors," said Lt. Thomas Harrett, commander of the park sheriff patrol.

Eight deputies assigned to secondary road patrol have been added to the Hines patrol. A sheriff substation has been opened in a long unused road commission building at Newburgh, and the patrolling deputies were recently equipped with new automobiles.

All those tools were put to use, not necessarily to the full satisfaction of all parties involved, in the arrests of three people that evening.

"A busy night," a desk sergeant Course. remarked, not saying at all what he meant of an evening that saw two peoand one with violation of the controlled substance act, both misdemeanors.

Uncounted others were ticketed for violation of park rules and released. but they face newly boosted maximum penalties of 90 days imprisonment or a $500 fine.

ENFORCEMENT OF those new penalties by local district court judges has generally been "excellent," Lt. Harrett said. "Even the new no-parking signs, they're enforcing that with fines up to $100."

Parking has been eliminated on the north shoulder of the roadway between Ann Arbor Trail and Merriman, ostensibly to provide access for emergency vehicles. The most obvious effect of the ban, however, has been to stack cars on the free side like planes waiting to land at O'Hare Airport on a foggy night.

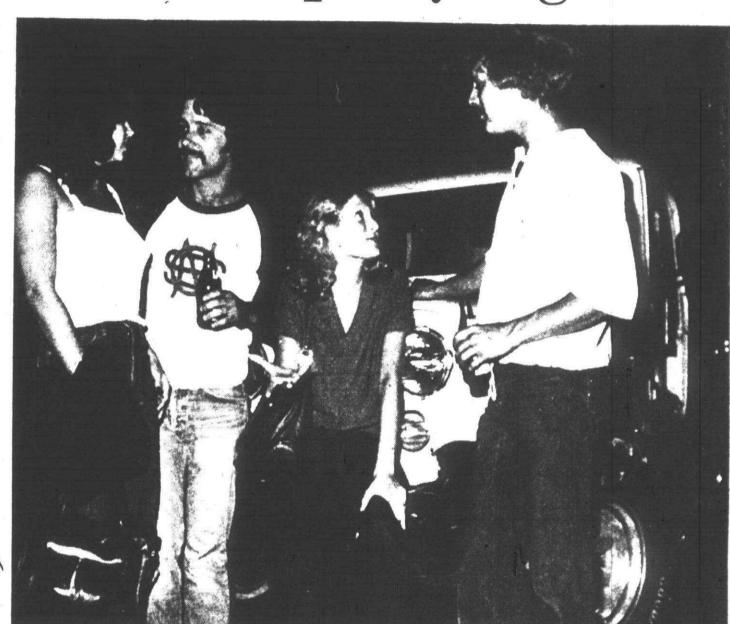

Hines Park closes at 10 p.m., an hour the sheriffs take seriously. Some ugly confrontations were required, some cursing, too, and one incredibly bold, or stupid driver in a Corvette was ticketed when he parked his car directly in front of a sheriff on the no-parking side of the road.

But by 10:12 p.m., the Nature Center was almost deserted.

The only people left were a reporter and a young man with a golf hat walking a dog.

Earlier, the young man had stumbled against a picnic table and tripped over his words telling a story about a horse that tried to kill him at Detroit Race

"Ask anybody," he said. "Park's closed," a sheriff's voice While all this is going on, the after- ple charged with disorderly conduct boomed from a loudspeaker.

"The buyer didn't want one and the seller didn't want to remove it. So we reached a compromise.'

He says they estimated the cost of removing the pool, filling the hole and covering it with grass at $1,700-$1,800. Eventually, the seller agreed to remove the pool if the buyer filled the hole and sodded it.

"I hope I don't run into too many pools. I was up to two in the morning on this thing.'

Garling says that only in recent years has he found a declining interest in purchasing homes with pools. "The ones that don't want one - really don't want one. And the ones that do want them - really don't care."

He says a home with an inground pool tends to cut down on its marketability by limiting its range of interested

Team spirit is Larsen's GOP goal

By TIM RICHARD

"I'm asking county chairmen to list goals. Then we're going after targeted areas."

That is how Republican State Chairman Mel Larsen is starting in his ambition to win a GOP majority by the end of the 1980s.

The state has voted Republican for governor in five straight elections and for president three times in a row. But in the same period the Republican 12-7 congressional majority has flip-flopped into a 13-6 Democratic majority, and the GOP has lost control of both houses of the state legislature.

Larsen, a former three-term state representative from northern Oakland County, told a Livonia Republican Club audience last week how he's going to reverse the tide.

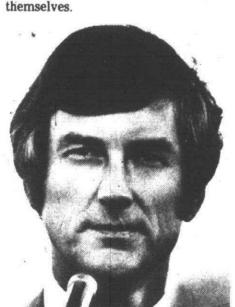

"WE'RE A service organization." ·Larsen said of the state party setup in Lansing. "You tell us how we can help Among the services will be voter candidate recruitment and candidate "We're going to put some money into identification, telephone center setups, house seats and (State) Supreme Court seats," he said. "It's not the most important thing in the world to elect one person. The most important thing is to elect a team.'

That was a new message in a party that has spent big dollars to elect the top of the ticket and left congressional and legislative candidates to fend for

MEL LARSEN Toward a majority

SPEAKING OF dollars, Larsen said he was going after businesspeople's contributions.

"Business made a decision 15 years ago to desert the Republican Party," he said, thinking of Lyndon Johnson's landslide victory over Barry Goldwater in 1964.

"Labor made a decision 30 years ago to support the Democratic Party. Today we're paying the price," Larsen said, pointing to the state's high workers compensation costs.

A liberal who supported Gov. William G. Milliken's pet proposals when other legislators shied away, Larsen said the state is too diverse for the GOP to be "of a single mind and purpose." He said candidates must be hand-picked to suit their districts if there are to be takeovers of Democratic districts.

Larsen himself won in a district that was considered 60 percent Democratic when he carried itin 1972. It went Democratic again after he left.

And to anyone who says a Republican can't win in an urban area, Larsen points to U.S. Rep. Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth, who won 2-1 in a district that was designed to be Democratic.

A MAJOR change Larsen has made since taking over in February from William McLaughlin, who is now commerce director in the Milliken Administration, is publication of a monthly tabloid with the ambitious name of "Republican Majority News." A second is the hiring, after a nationwide search and 25 applications of an executive director. Dick Adams, previously executive director in Maryland and a staff member of the Republican National Committee, moves here July

Although the mainstream of Michigan Republicanism is decidedly more liberal than the national party. Larsen's tabloid plays no ideological favorites. A June article is a profile on presidential aspirant John Connally. Another June article reports that James Damman, former Troy councilman and state representative who was dumped by Milliken as lieutenant governor, is seeking to pay off campaign debts incurred in his aborted run for the U.S. Senate nomination. A $100 per couple "event" is scheduled for 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, July 11 in the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Rose, Bloomfield Hills.

Courts updated

By Sam Hudson

(Part III)

The new court system, replacing justices of the peace, was established by the legislature in 1968.

From the beginning of 1969 on, the judges in the district were required to be legally trained and their compensation was in the form of salaries rather than fees.

The first judge of the 35th District, which includes Plymouth City and Township, Northville City and Township, and Canton Township, took office on Jan. 1, 1969. He is Dunbar Davis who is now serving his third term as judge in this district.

JUDGE DAVIS WAS born in Southport, N. C., where the outlying shoals of Capes Hatteras, Fear and Lookout are dangerous to navigation.

In his chambers at Plymouth City Hall, Judge Davis handed me a book. Entitled "Graveyards of the Atlantic," it was written in 1951 by David Stick.

"I sometimes tell people this is me," Davis said with a smile.

He was referring to a Dunbar Davis in the book who devoted most of his life to saving mariners wrecked off the North Carolina coast. He was keeper of the Oak Island Lifesaving Station in the 1890s.

One chapter covers a grueling day in the life of Keeper Davis in August, 1893, when disaster struck the Carolina coast. On that day, Davis and crew rescued sailors from seven vessels.

Keeper Davis was Judge Davis' grandfather. As a boy, Davis had an ambition to be a big league baseball player. The nearest he got was to play on the team at Earlham College in Richmond. It was at Earlham that he met Martha Alger.

They were married in 1937. They have two daughters, both married. The Davises have five grandchildren - some in Livonia, some in Salt Lake City.

AFTER EARLHAM, Davis enrolled at the University of Michigan where he received his law degree in 1937.

Among his classmates were the late Senator Phil Hart, former Governor G. Mennen Williams, and Martha Griffiths, former U.S. Congresswoman.

When he graduated, Davis found few jobs were to be had in law. For the next 18 months he bided his time as a structural steel worker. Headquartered in Detroit, he traveled extensively, working on large factory buildings.

In 1938, with $500 he saved as a steelworker, Davis came to Plymouth and opened a law office. He conducted a general law practice here for the next 30 years.

For two years, his offices were in Mrs. Kate Allen's building on Penniman Avenue. Then he moved to Fletcher Campbell's Professional Building at the corner of Ann Arbor Trail and Forest

From 1944 to 1946, Davis served in the Military Police in the U.S. Army. While he was still in the service, local businessmen ran him for the Plymouth City Commission in opposition to Mrs. Ruth Huston Whipple.

Mrs. Whipple appeared to be the winner by one vote. A recount was made and it was discovered that Davis had really won by two votes. He served on the city commission in 1946-47.

In 1942, Davis was joined in his law practice by the late Nandino Perlongo, who was blind. They had been members of the same class at U-M and Davis had read law lessons to Perlongo. From 1949 to 1961, when he died, Perlongo was a City of Plymouth's Municipal Judge.

DAVIS WAS TO follow in his partner's judicial footsteps in 1967. In that year he was appointed municipal judge to fill the unexpired term of Ed Draugelis.

On Nov. 5, 1968, Davis was elected judge of the 35th District the first person to hold the newly-created position. Ten years later, in January 1979, a second member, Judge James Garber, was elected to the bench in this district.

A slow, deliberate speaker with a soft voice, Judge Davis has a quiet dignity in keeping with his role on the bench. Reminiscent of his southern heritage, he usually wears a silver-threaded string tie. It goes well with his white hair.

Judge Davis runs three miles a day. He also is a devoted tennis player. Frequently his partner is U.S. Rep. Carl Pursell, with whom the judge has played tennis since Pursell was in high school.

Judge Davis is a member of the Plymouth Kiwanis Club, the Oddfellows, the Masons and the Historical Society.

IN THE 10 YEARS he has been district judge, Davis has seen a sharp increase in narcotics cases brought into his court. There were relatively few in Driving while drunk cases are on the increase. One improvement in the handling of alcoholics is there are now treatment centers to which they can

He has many cases of shoplifting brought before him. Very often these involve not only the young, but also middle-aged and older people.

"I don't know the reason for this. It may be because of the new methods of merchandising."

The young are frequently involved in drugs, drunken driving and traffic offenses. The old, perhaps because their eyes and reflexes are not what they once were, are often involved in car accidents.

Judge Davis likes the Plymouth area. For one thing, he says, it has one of the lowest-murder and armed robbery rates in the entire United States.

Canine counter keeps tabs on dog population

By JAMES CLARK

Some people count sheep. Rita Patak counts dogs.

As a canine census taker for Plymouth Township, Mrs. Patak, of Ivy Wood, sets out once every two years to officially count pooches in the commu-

A township ordinance states that the dog population must be counted every two years. The main reason for the census is licensing, according to Treasurer Joe West...

"People like Rita and her co-workers do a big service to our community. What we are doing is trying to determine how many dogs are in the area, and to make sure they are all licensed.

"And to be licensed, the dogs must the have proper shots," said West. "And that is the big thing. To be sure that the dogs have the shots needed to be safe."

MRS. PATAK, along with her partner Nora Jaskierny, make up a small band of dog counters who go from house to house checking for dogs.

"The township breaks up the area into groups for us," said Mrs. Patak. "When we get our assignment, we go to each house in the area and talk to the people living there."

If the residence does not include a dog, then not much time is spent at the Road area. household, said Mrs. Patak. "If the folks own a dog, then we take the address, breed of the dog, color and license information," explained Mrs. Patak. "If we know there is a dog there, but the people are not home, then we will leave a notice on their

More than 5,800 homes were contacted by the counters, said West. Township records show that 2,060 people have bought licenses since Dec. 1, 1978.

"It costs $3 for a license until May 31 and then the price goes up to $5," said West. A check between the licenses on file at the township hall and the information that the dog counters collected indicates there are over 800 dogs in the community that need to be registered.

"A lot of people just do not know that we have an ordinance," said West. "We have many new people in the area and the census gives us a chance to explain the law to them. Most people will comply with the ordinance when they hear

The people who own dogs who do not have a dog license are contacted by the township and told to get one.

"If after a letter they still do not get a license, then we will call them," informed West. "And then if there is still no cooperation, we will send out the dog warden to pick up their dog."

PART OF MRS. Patak's area includes: Canton High School area, Mayflower subdivision, Lake Pointe, a trailer park and portions of the Joy

"Most of the people we visit are real nice," said Mrs. Patak. "Most thought that the counting of dogs was a good thing." But the census is not without its touchy moments.

"I have had people tell me that they are against dog licenses. They say it is against their principles or something." said Mrs. Patak.

One thing that canine counter Rita Patak learned in a hurry was that people will talk about their neighbors when given a chance.

"It happens all the time," said Mrs. Patak. "We will go to a neighbor's house of a person who owns a dog and the neighbor will complain like crazy.

"It is like they could never tell the person to their face, but when we come around, they go into detail about what is bothering them."

Being a dog counter for a few weeks every two years, Mrs. Patak knows what it must be like to be a mailperson or other service people who must walk through neighborhoods. With the number of dogs in the community, not all are the friendly type. "A few years back out on Beck Road, I went to a house to get census information and saw a big German shepherd on the porch of the house next door," said

"The dog did not look real friendly, and I eased off the porch I was on and started to walk slowly back to my car. Well, the dog came down off his porch and started coming at me, ever so slowly. As I speeded up, so did the dog, and finally I raced to my car and jumped in, with that big dog right behind me. It was close, but I made it."

RITA AND THE dog counters are paid 40 cents for each house they contact. Thé 40 cents is up from 30 cents of a year ago.

Going back a couple of years, the pay was a quarter for each house, but with gas and cost of everything going up, we needed more money," said Mrs. Patak. "And the township board was very understanding."

sus, according to Mrs. Patak.

"That 40 cents per house may be misleading. It entails more than going to someones house and checking for a dog," Mrs. Patak explained. "If someone is not at home, then we must go back, and after we have all the information, we must file everything alphabetically and take it to the township

Mrs. Patak has been involved with the dog census since 1969. She said she plans to do it again the next time

"I really enjoy doing it," she said. The money is good and it gives me something to do. My husband is retired, and this helps out." Mrs. Patak said she helps out with other township functions, including elections.

So, if you are one of the people contacted by Rita Patak or one of her

There is a lot of work to the dog cen- group and your dog is not licensed, you are in violation of a township ordinance. To paraphrase Treasurer West: either pick up a license for Lassie, or face the possibility of having Lassie picked up by the dog catcher.

NEW 4-YEAR MONEY MARKET SAVINGS CERTIFICATE* MINIMUM BALANCE $100.00 INTEREST CONTINUOUSLY COMPOUNDED

This account pays interest at a rate based on the average 4-year yield for United States Treasury Securities as determined by the United States Department of the Treasury. The interest rate on 4-year Money Market Certificates is determined monthly by the Treasury Department. The rate in effect on the day the certificate is opened will remain in effect for the full 4-year term. Interest is continuously compounded on the most favorable basis possible—giving you the highest rate available on these certificates-1/4 % higher than banks can pay. In July, the rate is 7.85% per annum, and with continous compounding the effective annual yield is 8.284%.

NEW! A HIGHER INTEREST RATE ON REGULAR PASSBOOK SAVINGS ACCOUNTS.

The interest rate on the regular passbook savings account has been increased to 51/2 %, paid and compounded quarterly. No minimum deposits are required. Interest is paid from the day of deposit to the day of withdrawal. With quarterly compounding, the effective annual yield on this account is 5.614%. No bank can pay this high rate on regular passbook savings.

26-WEEK MONEY MARKET CERTIFICATES* MINIMUM BALANCE $10,000

The interest rate of this certificate is determined by the average auction rate (on a discount basis) for 26-week Treasury Bills. Federal regulations prohibit all financial institutions from compounding interest during the term of a 26-Week Money Market Certificate. If retained in the account, interest is compounded at the time of renewal. The interest rate on 26-Week Money Market Certificates is determined weekly. The rate in effect on the day the certificate is opened is the rate in effect for the full 26-week term. Call 643-9583 to obtain the current rate.

$100,000.00 SAVINGS CERTIFICATE*

This certificate has terms ranging from 30 days to 5 years with interest rates quoted by Standard Federal Savings on a daily basis. The rate established at the time an account is opened is the rate in effect for the full term of the certificate. Interest may be added to this account and compounded quarterly.

Our new tax-deferred $100,000.00 Savings Certificate with a term up to one year allows you to defer taxes on the interest income until the tax year in which your account matures. For these tax-deferred certificates, interest is paid only at maturity and no compounding occurs. Call 643-9562 for the current rates.

House approves toxic control bill

The State of Michigan could begin monitoring industrial poisonous wastes from their creation to disposal next year, under a bill unanimously approved by the House of Representatives last week.

The bill, sponsored by State Rep. Alice Tomboulian, D-Rochester, is expected to be considered by the state Senate before the legislature adjourns for summer recess in mid-July.

The legislation creates a combined state-local site approval board to consider toxic waste disposal sites, requires stricter reporting of hazardous wastes to be disposed and requires licensing of all disposal operators and

Woman hears night whispers

A Plymouth woman who claims to have been harassed by an obscene caller for two years recently contacted police about a prowler she believes is responsible for those calls.

She told Plymouth police last week that the man who has made those calls could be the same one who appeared at her bedroom window Friday night. She claims the white male had been whispering to her while peeking through the window.

Although police did not find the prowler upon arrival, they did find fresh footprints in the soil surrounding her garage. They also found the window screen had been pushed in and a two-foot piece of wood lying beneath the window. The woman described him as 25 to 30 years old with thinning hair. She added he could have been wearing a stocking mask over his head.

haulers. The state Public Health Department and Department of Natural Resources would create new toxic waste regulations.

An amendment by State Rep. Robert Law, R-Livonia, to strengthen local government representation on the site approval board was added to the bill.

Ms. Tomboulian said the bill isn't limited to disposal of pesticides or chemicals. "Wherever you have manufacturing, you have hazardous waste," she added. Hazardous waste now gets "no specific attention" from the state, she said. "We need it (the legislation) if we're going to be both safe and have manufacturing."

Law said the state "didn't know how much (toxic waste) is created, how it's transported and in most cases, where it's disposed." He said the bill was supported by the three major auto companies and other major manufacturers.

The bill gives the state Department of Natural Resources authority to close a plant not complying with toxic waste regulations and/or to levy $25,000 a day fines. Amendments to reduce the fines to $1,000 were defeated in the TOMBOULIAN estimated there were at least 150 companies in Oakland County who now store toxic wastes or ship them out of state which would benefit from the bill. Some toxic wastes are now dumped in landfills or incinerated, she said.

The bill would allow the state to set aside some areas for hazardous waste landfills, depending on their geological condition, Tomboulian added.

Law said Wayne County has "more landfills and places where we've dumped toxic wastes than most areas of the state."

Estimations are that from three to 30 major landfills may be needed for toxic waste disposal, Law said.

THE NINE-MEMBER site approval board is a "pioneering" aspect of the bill, according to Tomboulian. Three of the members would be state department heads, two would be appointed by the governor and four members would come from counties and the local government where a waste disposal site is being considered.

Law's amendment requires one of the county's two representatives to be from the city or township where a disposal site is proposed, giving the local government three representatives on the site approval board.

The bill would supercede all local ordinances on toxic wastes.

Remedy is needed on school tax collections

There is a lot of merit in a bill now before the finance committee of the Michigan Senate.

House Bill 4572 requires municipalities to turn over school taxes to local districts on the 15th and 30th of each month or within 10 days thereafter.

The measure is necessary because of a parochial practice by the local townships.

By law, school districts cannot collect their own property taxes. And so the city and townships collect the school taxes for the district. By law the local units may hold up to 25 percent of the school tax funds before turning the money over, and that provision has been used to the fullest by Canton and Plymouth townships.

Both townships will collect school taxes and deposit them in the bank in an interest-earning account until 25 percent of the school taxes are col-

Of course, only the 25 percent is turned over the townships keep the interest. This amounts to a

This year, for instance, Canton's share of total local school taxes was $9.5 million and Plymouth Township's share exceeded $8 million. Thus it's pretty easy for either unit to earn $100,000 in a very short time on the school district's money.

THE TOWNSHIPS argue that the law allows them to hold on to up to 25 percent, and they are doing what the law allows. It's a good argument for changing the law.

The townships also counter that they are only being prudent by investing the funds - that they would not be using the taxpayer's money wisely if they didn't invest and earn interest.

That argument rings hollow because the school district invests the tax funds as soon as they are received. And so the taxpayers' money would be invested if it were turned over faster.

In fact, that is the case with the City of Plymouth, which has a good track record for promptly turning over school tax collections. School taxes which the city collects are turned over within three days, and the school promptly (same day) invests that money until it is needed for operation expenses.

The school people point out that there's really little reason to hold onto the tax funds and invest them because the townships are well enough rewarded for their collection efforts by being able to impose a one percent collection fee on taxpayers.

Based on school tax collections alone, this one percent fee generates more than $90,000 for Canton and more than $80,000 for Plymouth Township

THE REAL POINT which needs to be understood is that taxpayers pay school millage to be spent solely for the purpose of education.

School millage proposals never have contained a provision to allow townships to earn interest on their money. And it's not likely taxpayers would approve such a measure because they have voted to have the money be spent on schooling — not sewers and roads.

From a moral viewpoint, the argument is compelling for prompter turnover of school tax collections. If anyone earns interest on school tax collections, it ought to be the schools. That sounds pretty basic, but it has thus far escaped the logic of the townships.

Financially, the townships have a lot of interest income to gain for themselves by following/the letter of the law and ignoring the moral implications.

Even more galling for school officials is that Plymouth Township will earn thousands of dollars a year by investing school taxes and then claim it cannot afford to pay $5-$7,000 a year as its halfshare of the cost of providing crossing guards.

The townships should have taken the common sense approach the city has and turned the school tax collections over promptly. But they haven't. And that's why HB 4572 has a lot of merit.

Gar's deeds

Down through the years, it has been the belief that the deeds men do live after them. Maybe so. But they never heard of it in Algonac, the little town on the St. Clair River that once was the speedboat capital of the world.

It has been 46 years since Gar Wood, known around the globe as the 'Gray Fox of Algonac." made his last successul defense of the famed Harmsworth Trophy, then considered the world's championship and later established the world record of 124.91 miles an hour in his famed Miss America X.

To relive some of those moments when he sat in the boat between Gar and Orlin Johnson, his mechanic. The Stroller drove up to Algonac a week ago to spend part of his vacation.

· It had been heralded far and wide in the river district that the downtown section of the city was being rejuvenated.

FOR SOME REASON The Stroller pictured in his mind's eye, a strip of beauty to match that in St. Clair, only a few miles up the river, and that somewhere there would be a suitable marker stating that this was the home town of Gar Wood, the speedboat

More than that, The Stroller had hopes of seeing a marker at Roberts Landing, on the outskirts of the city, stating that it was right here in the calm waters of the river that Gar and his Miss America had astounded the speedboat world. You can imagine the shock when The Stroller learned that there were no markers — and none was planned. Not even a small marker to designate the home in which Wood had entertained the top nautical engineers and journalists from all parts of the globe in the 1930s.

The Stroller always will have a warm place in his heart for Algonac and the memories of that morning, for it was then that he was given one of the greatest thrills of his long journalistic career at the Free Press.

IT SUDDENLY dawned on him that morning, in the now long gone Maples Hotel, that if Gar would succeed in his attempt it would leave him in a tough spot. The News and Times would have the story in all of their editions during the day and he would have little news to report to the Free Press readers when his deadline came along later in the after-

Then an idea struck him. Why not get Gar to tell of his emotions and how it felt to travel faster on water than man ever had traveled before? It would be the human interest side of the event.

You think that would be a good story?" Gar smiled when told of the idea. "Well, you are going for a ride and your emotions will be the same as

Before he knew it, The Stroller was slipped into a driver's suit, powder puffs were placed over his ears and a helmet was pulled over his head.

You can imagine the feeling. A Presbyterian who was taught that if you live to be hanged, you'll never be drowned — a fatalist who couldn't swim and was deathly afraid of the water — going for a ride in a world record boat at top speed.

But he went - just to get a story for his paper and it was a thrill he never will forget even if the City of Algonac has forgotten the man who made it the speedboat capital of the world in the record books, at least.

Paying for tennis courts

Editor:

Recently my husband and I went to Central Middle School tennis courts in Plymouth to play a few games. We were approached by a young man asking us if we had a membership. Both my husband and I were appalled and left in a state of shock, not knowing what to say.

He then went on to say that it costs $10 during the summer months to use the courts on school grounds, and if we didn't pay and the courts got full, we would be kicked out so those with memberships could use them. We thought that Plymouth Canton

High and Central Middle were public schools (and tennis courts) and that this is what our tax dollars went for. Now I find that Plymouth is profiting from leisure-time activities.

Is this a money mongling democracy? Are we the victims? Will we eventually have to pay for the use of baseball fields, tracks, etc.?

DEBBIE & MICHAEL JETT

Northville

WHAT CAN WHITE Americans do to conserve the fishery? "Buy them out," suggested Washington, meaning Congress should pay off the Chippewas to buy away their fishing rights. "Grin and bear it," another might say, hoping the Indians will regulate themselves despite contrary evidence.

When, in 1763, the Chippewas wanted the White Man out, they staged a lacrosse game and attacked Old Fort Michilimackinac, slaughtering the inhabitants, scalping living victims, drinking the blood of those they had hacked open.

But solving the rape of the Great Lakes fishery is not my purpose here. I point out only that law is not the same as justice; that it takes more than law to resolve society's problems; that one may be a good lawyer and jurist but a pretty nasty human being.

IT WASN'T SUPPOSED to be any big deal. We were only going a couple of miles, from a Farmington apartment to a neat little place on Sunset Avenue in Livonia.

Sounds simple, eh?

After all, we had moved only 18 months earlier, from Jackson to Observer & Eccentricland. For that transfer we discarded truckloads of stuff. Next time around — if there ever was to be a next time I figured there couldn't be any problems. We'd be traveling light from then on.

Marilyn and I had decided an apartment would be the answer for our more mature years. There'd be no lawns to cut, no snow to shovel, no worries about upkeep and no property taxes.

AS IT TURNED OUT, there was no opportunity to hammer my electric typewriter when the Muse struck. (Hold down all noise, please.) There was no opportunity to wash the car in the backyard (that's a violation of rule No. 17.)

Worst of all, there was no chance to frolic with our grandchildren when they visited.

"Remember, Karen, the lady downstairs is asleep," we said so many times to that 4-year-old miss that it seemed like a needle stuck in a record.

Our granddaughter would eventually reply: "She sleeps a lot, doesn't she."

SO GETTING ANOTHER HOUSE kept coming up more and more in family conversations. What if it meant caring for a bunch of shrubs and trees, even buying a snow shovel?

Believe this or not, I missed puttering around the yard, yes, even giving the grass an occasional haircut. We were ripe to take the plunge again.

Jack Reault, an old friend who sells real estate, knew of our thoughts. One evening, Jack called and said he had "our house."

Jack said the three Vittore sisters, Victoria, Angelina and Jean, were building a retirement home in Boynton Beach, Fla, That's where their brother Daniel lives. The women's immaculate home on Sunset Avenue would soon go on the market.

Jack showed us through. That was that. The deal was closed.

Now it was time for what I innocently figured would be a casual move.

JUST GETTING A MOVER nailed to a date this time of year, the season's busiest, is tough.

We found this out, so did the Vittores. Their mover said he'd possibily come Wednesday, Thursday or Friday. Maybe.

We decided to gamble that they'd be out by Friday afternoon. Marilyn arranged with our mover to pick up our stuff that day.

Then packing began. I couldn't believe all the stuff we had. How can one couple have this many plants? I was feeling that tightening in my stomach knowing that day was rushing down the calendar at us. With it would be certain disaster.

For us, trying to figure out if the Vittore goods would be loaded before ours on the actual moving day was like a cat-and-mouse game. There were phone calls, and Marilyn drove over there once.

Things were not going at all well.

THE THREE SISTERS had headed for Florida two days earlier. Left to oversee their move was brother Silvio of Farmington Hills. He was our contact man.

I operated from the apartment, urging on our team of movers, Pat Kozora of Detroit, Paul Sprague of Inkster and Don Bush of Romulus, who as a group worked at the tidy rate of $70 per hour.

Their task was far from easy. Have you ever moved from a third-floor apartment with no elevator?

Silvio was trying to get his gang on the ball, but he was having only limited success. Third flights of stairs can dishearten anyone.

BY EARLY AFTERNOON, our guys were loaded and taking a lunch break. I rushed to Sunset Avenue to check the Vittore movers. They were still oozing

When our truck rolled up, Pat, the crew leader, saw the situation. He wanted to be helpful. Maybe we should put the van in storage for the weekend and unload Monday morning, he suggested.

I appreciated Pat's concern, but shuddered at the thought, examining my tattered togs and envisioning two more days in them.

A command decision had to be made.

In my best George C. (Patton) Scott voice I ordered, "Men, we unload."

With that began your average all-American comedy. The Vittore crew was hauling things out. The Riordan crew was hauling things in. There were some close calls at the front door as both sides going in different directions hit the opening simul-

Nothing was shattered, thank goodness, including

Happily, I noted that the two crews, which were from different companies, were giving one another a hand.

That was about the best I felt all day.

ONE SMALL COMPLICATION did arise. There was a bit of nasty weather. Lightning struck a Detroit Edison transformer near Sunset, and the power was off for three hours.

Moving stuff into the basement was a problem. The stairwell was in near pitch darkness. Pat, Paul and Don were reluctant to navigate this route while loaded down with 60 or 70 pounds of bulky boxes.

But I lied and said how easy it must be for experienced and talented movers of their ilk

Somehow, we all made it through the ordeal.

ABOUT 7 P.M., son Tommy volunteered to get a pizza from Gagliardi's on Merriman Road. "Great," Marilyn and I chorused weakly.

"What do you want on it?"

"Everything," we answered. With this, I plucked a $10 bill from my wallet, knowing the offer was for pick up and delivery only.

Oh, how delicious that crisp crust, that cheese, bacon, ham, green peppers, mushrooms, sausage and onions tasted.

The stomachs were full. Now the muscles were well into their yowls of protest:

Come Saturday morning, every sinew of my 57year-old body was wracked with pain. My eyes blinked plaintively as if I'd been on a three-day bender. My insides felt like a bulldozer had done a number on them.

Right then I vowed, I will never move again:

Untreated overbite can cause serious problems

Dr. DeFrancesco: My daughter, 15, has been told by an orthodontist that she has an "overbite." He said that unless the condition is treated, it might affect her ears and the permanence of her teeth. Is it possible? Will time correct it without Your orthodontist is well informed. It is established that a bad "bite" can affect the entire structure of the teeth and the joint.

Bony changes within the jaw joint affect the opening and the closing of her mouth and can cause pain that can be referred to the ear. In many instances, patients are suspected of having ear disease when in reality the jaw joint is the seat of the

If you were to put your small finger inside your ear and open and close your mouth, you would feel the motion of the jaw joint. This will give you a better understanding of how closely the outer ear is related to the joint and how it can be affected by it.

The correction of the malfunctioning bite will be a significant contribution to your daughter's dental health during this period and in her adult life.

Time will make the condition worse rather than correct it.

Dear Dr. DeFrancesco: When does a child make his first visit to the dentist?

Mrs. J.L.

A child should make his first visit to the dentist somewhere between 21/2 and three years of age so that he will become accustomed to regular visits

After the youngster has become familiar with office procedures and has gotten to know and trust the dentist, he will explain to the youngster what he's about to do and tell him if any pain treatment is necessary. At the first visit, the dentist will give his young patient time to look at the office.

When the youngster is relaxed enough, the dentist will proceed to clean his teeth and take X-rays.

In near monsoon conditions, DiPonio completed its game against Livonia on Saturday, grabbing a 9-6 victory. On Thursday, DiPonio swatted Dearborn Fairlane 11-2.

Waite earns spot on JUCO power

By BRAD EMONS

Bob Waite went a long way from home to prove a point.

The Plymouth Salem graduate (1978) enrolled last fall at Yavapai Junior College in Prescott, Ariz. Waite wanted to play baseball there but had to do it as a walk-on.

He batted .434 for Salem his senior year, gaining all-Suburban Eight League honors and all-state recogni-

"I was recommended to Yavapai by the scouting services but I went there as a non-scholarship player," said the 5-10, 170-pound Waite.

Yavapai is a national junior college power. The Roughriders were national champs in 1975 and 1977 and finished second in 1978.

As a part-time player this season, Waite helped Yavapai to a third place finish this season to go along with a 42-12 record.

Waite, despite reserve duty, proved he could play with the big boys. He batted .320 and stole 20 bases, being used frequently as a pinch runner.

He was a first baseman at Salem but when he arrived at Yavapai, he was moved into the outfield. "I have good speed so they decided to move me into the outfield," said Waite. "It took awhile to adjust because of the glove change. I like it out there now."

WAITE WILL have to wait and see what he is offered next fall at Yavapai. He's about 90 percent sure he'll receive some kind of aid to play. "I think I can be a starter there next year," he said. "I'm pretty sure I'll get 3/4 of a full ride.

"We had mostly a sophomore team and had a lot of guys drafted."

1971, 42 Yavapai players have gone on to the pros.

Waite enjoyed his first year in Arizona. Baseball is a big sport there and is played year-round. "It's really dry but the fields are excellent and the background for hitters is good," Waite said. "It's a big difference than playing here. It takes time to get used to. We started games back in February."

Yavapai also holds workouts in the fall which was time Waite used to put on his shoulder pads . He was a defensive back for Salem when they went to the play-offs in 1977.

"I wanted to play in college and sort of miss it," he said. "Playing baseball all-year round is kind of monotonous but that is their only sport there."

The national finals were held this season at Grand Junction, Col. where 7.000 to 8,000 fans turned out each

"It was a thrill playing before that many people," he said. Middle Georgia Junior College was this year's champ. Waite returned home June 2 and began working for the Plymouth Parks and Recreation Department as a summer playground leader HE HOOKED on with Redford in the Livonia Adray League. So far, he is among the league leaders with a .470 batting average. "It's a little different playing here.

The fields are terrible and the umpires use a different strike zone.' Redford has been struggling in the Adray League and boasts a 3-4 mark (as of July 2). "I'm getting used to the conditions and my arm is getting stronger. I had some trouble at first but now I'm not misjudging the ball," Waite said.

Waite would like to play for the University of Michigan some day. He's had that goal for a long time.

Bad weather forced postponement of the Canton Township Parks and Recreation doubles tennis

The tournament has been rescheduled for Saturday at 9 a.m. at the Canton High School tennis Entries will be accepted until Friday at 4:30 p.m. The fee is $3 per team. All teams must also provide a can of USTA approved tennis balls. Players will compete for honors in men's, women's and mixed doubles. The No. 1 seeded team in mixed doubles is Todd Beyer, of Wayne, who was a member of the Northwood Institute team which participated in the NAIA national tourney last month, and Robin Walker, a member of the Central Michigan University Thirteen teams have already signed up for the men's draw. Seven teams have entered the mixed competition and eight teams will vie in the women's division.

To enter this weekend's tournament, call 397-1000 (ext. 214).

The tournament was originally scheduled for last Saturday and Sunday, but a steady rain made play impossible.

Novice tourney

The Plymouth Parks and Recreation Department is sponsoring a novice tennis tournament, July 20-22, at Central Middle School.

The tourney is in conjunction with the Detroit News Harvey-Barcus event. First place trophies will be awarded with the chance to compete in the Harvey-Barcus finals slated for Detroit.

The tournament has been split into four divisions:

boys under 15, girls under 15, adult men (over 16) and adult women (over 16).

The entry fee is 50 cents per player. Each competitor must furnish a can of USLTA approved ten-

Both attended Schoolcraft College.

WENDY TIPTON and Jim Gemuend, Livonia Stevenson seniors, were recipients this year of the school's James Brieske Award.

The honor is presented to the female and male senior athletes who best exemplify academic achievement, participation in athletics and contributions to the sports program at Stevenson.

Also considered are community contributions and demonstration of good sportsmanship.

Tipton earned six varsity letters during her prep sports career while participating in track, cross country and basketball.

Gemuend collected four letters while captaining both the football and baseball teams. The award is a memorial to James Brieske.a for-

Ex-Michigan player stars in medicine

By KEN VOYLES

Kirk Lewis is not your average athlete, but then again he's not your average doctor either.

City West and a graduate from the Uni-sooner. versity of Michigan medical school has been combining athletics and academics for as long as he can remember.

The 25-year-old is right now in his residency at the UCLA Medical Center intent on becoming an orthopedic sur-

Lewis earned nine varsity letters while in high school at West and then went on to play football for the Wolverines. Between medicine and athletics he really hasn't had much time for anything else.

"I guess I was goal-oriented. For as long as I can remember I've wanted to be a physician. That has been my primary goal in life since way back," said Lewis. "I didn't want anything to get in my way of becoming a doctor.

"As for sports, my father interested me in that early on. As a result, I became sort of goal-oriented in sports also. My parents really encouraged me in both athletics and academics and I wanted to be the best at both if I could.'

For three years while at West, Lewis lettered in football, basketball and track. He earned all-state honors as an offensive end in football.

"Kirk had a very good career at West. He was good in athletics and was co-valedictorian when he graduated." said Lewis' father, George. "I think my profession had something to do with Kirk's wanting to be a football player but I never pushed him. He just liked

The senior Lewis was head football coach at Dearborn Fordson for several years before becoming athletic director there, a position he still holds.

"High school really wasn't a problem. I knew that during the day I went to school and in the afternoon I played sports. There was a fairly clear line and the studying wasn't that concentrated enough to make things rough," Lewis said.

"College was a lot tougher. Time became a big problem when I was at Michigan, I didn't want to exclude sports so I just worked everything into a pattern as best I could."

Lewis was named to the Academic All-American team in 1974, his first vear at U-M and then in 1976 he was named Michigan's Scholar-Athlete of the Year.

When he first started college, Lewis entered the Michigan Interflex program, an accelerated, six-year medical program, instead of the normal eight

Included in those six years are course work and a normal internship. By eliminating duplication of class work and by combining other courses, the program cuts off those two years so Lewis, a 1973 graduate of Garden a would-be doctor can get into practice

"I never once saw sports and my medical studies as a contradiction. The work load in both was heavy. I probably didn't study in college as much as some people in the medical program, but there was still a lot of work," said

An average day for Lewis at U-M would start with four hours of class from 8 a.m. to noon. At noon, he would ride his bike to the football field for an hour then back to the studies until 4:30 p.m. when he would take to the field for a solid practice session.

The interior lineman was named cocaptain in 1975 but a week before the season was to begin he broke his forearm and was forced to sit out the entire campaign.

In 1976, Lewis missed the first half of the year after he re-fractured the same area but he did play in the last half of the season and in the Rose Bowl.

"Football was very important to me in school. I didn't want to be occupied with just academics. I needed a release, an outlet from things," Lewis explained. "The year I was hurt really bothered me. It felt strange not being able to even practice."

With the special program he was in, Lewis didn't receive his undergraduate degree until this year. It was then that he decided to take his residency at the UCLA Medical Center.

After applying for the position and interviewing, Lewis was chosen by the "Football really helped me through school. That may sound surprising, but it helped me get away from medical school which is very, very demanding,"

According to George Lewis, the young doctor's biggest advant throughout his high school and colle years was that he was very organizeo. "He is a goal-minded person. He's highly organized and knows how to budget his time well.'

With several more years of medical training in front of him, Lewis can't quite slow down just yet. Sports has not left his life either.

"Athletics will always be an intergal part of me. I'm planning on combining the two fields together. Orthopedic surgery ties in with sports medicine to a great degree and I like the sports angle," he said. "There are a lot of facets in the field but sports medicine is what I like.

"I love sports and always will and this way sports and medicine will stay with me," he said.

Pike, bass not biting

By LEM MESEE Outdoors writer

Panfishing reports are excellent, but big gamefish are another matter in southeast Michigan.

Most Oakland County lakes are producing good crops of bluegills and other panfish. Fish are still in the shallows where they have been spawning, but any day they will begin moving into deeper water for the summer.

Reports on bass, northern pike and walleye are "fair" to "a few," which is the conservation officers' jargon for "very few."

Pike, when you can get them, are in deeper, open water. Try trolling red and white spoons to nab them. Bass are in four to six feet of water around weed beds.

Walleye fishing has been fair in the Selfridge Air Base area of Lake St. Clair. On Lake Erie, walleye fishing is only fair on the best days, but catfish angling is good in the Detroit Edison cut in Monroe County.

KENSINGTON Metropark near Milford has bicycle, paddleboat and canoe nature trips coming up.

A "Nature Cycle" begins at 6:30 p.m. Thursday, July 5, starting at the nature center on the west side of the lake. Naturalist Dave Moilanen will lead a 10-mile trip. Bring your own bike.

Early risers can take their canoes to Kensington's Windfall Hall picnic site at 8 a.m. Sunday, July 8 when the naturalist will lead an exploration of "River Life by Canoe." The two-hour trip will give you a closer look at birds, mammals and plants along the river.

An evening nature cruise aboard the Island Queen excursion boat will start at 8 p.m. Tuesday, July 10. Canada geese, great blue herons and other wildlife will be studied. There is a $1 charge for the

AS A KID, I thought it would be great sport to kill a rattlesnake and save the rattle.

The encounter occurred at the water's edge of Teeple Lake in the Highland State Recreation Area of northwest Oakland County. There's a high hill with a southern exposure that gets very hot in the summer sun.

I mention it now because it was early in July when I met the rattler.

It was a massasauga rattler, Michigan's only poisonous snake. It's brown with black blotches that appeared diamond-shaped.

The massasauga's bite is rarely fatal, and it probably won't bite you unless you mess with its turf first. But the bite could be harmful if you have an allergic reaction, or if the snake bites a young child or a dog. Just give a rattler plenty of room.

Blackburn, a 15-year-old who will atttend Birmingham Groves High School in the fall, disposed of the No. 1 seed, Bill Thompson of Grosse Pointe Woods, with relative ease, beating him 6-2, 6-1. Thompson was rated sixth in the Southeastern Michigan Tennis Association rankings before his match.

Blackburn did not take the easy route through the tourney. He faced the No. 2 seed, Ken Germain of Sterling Heights, in the semifinals and won in three sets, 6-4, 2-6, 6-4.

Germain, a tennis pro at Centaur Racquet Club, was once Blackburn's instructor. But, at least in this match, the student surpassed the teacher.

Sponsors a big part of pro ladies tour

Many young golfers who start off seeking their fortunes on the LPGA tour lack the financial means to enjoy the lifestyles of the more established, successful players.

Golf is difficult enough at the professional level without having to worry about such things as food, lodging and transportation when not on the course.

That's where sponsors figure into the sport. Ian Stevenson, a Dearborn automotive manufacturer who also oversees two insurance businesses, heads a seven-man syndicate (partnership) which sponsors Barbara Mizrahie. Stevenson first met Mizrahie and her golf pro-husband, Bill Shaw, while working at parking recreational vehicles during last year's inaugural Lady Stroh's Open. The three quickly struck a friendship. During the week, Stevenson learned that a proposed sponsorship between Mizrahie and another group was not materializing.

At that time, Mizrahie had been on the pro tour for a couple of months after a two-year layoff to improve her Stevenson, impressed with Mizrahie's personality and golfing potential, convinced six other businessmen and professionals to sponsor Mizrahie on the circuit for three years.

The partnership is formally known as the Dearborn Professional Golf This is Stevenson's first experience sponsoring professional athletes. He had sponsored a couple of Dearborn hockey teams, but said he never knew much about or considered backing a pro athlete.

Mizrahie's contract calls for her to receive expense money and a monthly salary from the syndicate. In return, her winnings revert to the partners.

Earnings are split between Mizrahie and the partners after an agreed-to base level has been reached during the percent of all LPGA tournaments through the season barring injury or illness. She may choose which events she Both Mizrahie and the syndicate have options when the original threeyear pact expires.

JANET AND PERRY Richwine had an audience with Pope John Paul at the Vatican during their recent European trip. It was the pope's first audience after his return from Poland.

THERE ARE garage sales and there are garage sales. But the one at Davis Hilmer's house on the corner of Farmer and Blunk streets last weekend was exceptional. Besides the usual furniture and household items, there was a large collection of cameras and photographic equipment of the gentlemen who had spent more than 50 years as a photographer.

And there were the post cards.

Mr. Davis' collection of old penny and two-cent post cards revealed the history of the area in the early 1900s What a wonderful means of communication those post cards were!

There is one dated 1909. The message from a small boy visiting in Detroit to his mother in Plymouth read: "Dear Mother, I got to Detroit all right. Davis."

That card revealed the difficulties associated with travel in those days. When you think of it, a trip to Detroit was not a 20-minute drive down the Jeffries. Family members visiting in Detroit kept up a brisk correspondence via the penny post card.

They told of visiting Belle Isle and the picture shows they had seen.

THERE WERE post cards from friends thanking them for sending post cards. There were post cards for birthdays, Easter, Christmas and Valentines Day.

A card with a picture of the Town Hall, Salem, Mich., bore a Salem post mark. There was no house-to-house delivery then. Everyone had to go to the post office to pick up their mail.

The pictures on the cards show the Dime Bank Building, Grand Circus Park and Detroit Harbor by night with three of the Detroit-Windsor ferries and the not-too-tall buildings of the Detroit skyline in the background.

Davis Hilmer's mother was a Starkweather, one of the founding families of the village of Plymouth. The first white baby born in the area was a Starkweather. He was born in a log cabib which stood just about where the Mayflower Hotel stands.

Mr. Hilmer retired to Plymouth and is now a resident of the West Trail Nursing Home.

WINDOW WALLS have been death traps for many birds. Some just knock themselves out and recover.

The indigo bunting that crashed into Audrey Cunningham's window died. What do you do with a beautiful dead bird?

"I didn't want to just take him out and bury him," said Audrey. "His feathers were so beautiful — a shiny turquoise."

turquoise."

After several telephone calls, she discovered that the Museum of Zoology at the University of Michigan accepts the birds.

The bird division of the museum is on the third floor of the Natural History Museum. That's the one with the two stone lions at the entrance.

Janet Hinshaw, a technician in the bird division, says they accept and welcome every wild bird except pigeons and common house sparrows. The research department is trying to build up its breeding bird skin collection, and its skeleton collection.

Naturally, they prefer birds that haven't been dead very long. If you find a dead bird, the technician says there are two tests: Try pulling a feather from its belly. If they come out easily, it has been dead a long time. "You also can tell by the look of its eyes. If they look quite normal, it has not been dead very long," says the technician.

She said some of the rarer birds in good condition are mounted for display. If you spot a recently killed bird, write the time and date on a piece of paper and the exact place it was found. Place the bird in one of those plastic bags that can be sealed air-tight and put it in a freezer until you have an opportunity to deliver it to the muse-

Any dead bird should be stored that way until delivery. She said it is important that the people in research discover the sex of the bird. If they have been dead too long, this is impossible.

The bird division at the Museum of Zoology is open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Mondays through Fridays and the research staff would appreciate contributions.

THE PLYMOUTH Jaycees are trying a new kind of fundraiser, at least it is new to their club.

They are sponsoring a used vehicle sale from noon to 4 p.m. Sunday, July 15, at the Plymouth Industrial Center on Plymouth Road, west of I-275. There will be a $5 entry fee for those with a vehicle to sell or trade. All Proceeds from admission fees will go to support club projects in the como munity.

Pen pals picnic in Griffin Park

Extended school year (ESY) isn't all that bad.

Second and third graders in Bethany Oxender's class at Field Elementary and Maureen Hussey's class at Gallimore can testify to the advantages of ESY.

For one thing, more school buses are available when all the schools are not in session. There are more field trips and school begins 20 minutes earlier in the mornings. This means that by 2:30 p.m. school is out and they have the long summer afternoons and evenings to enjoy.

Some of their classes can be outdoors. When the temperature soars, they can return to their classrooms to study in air-conditioned comfort.

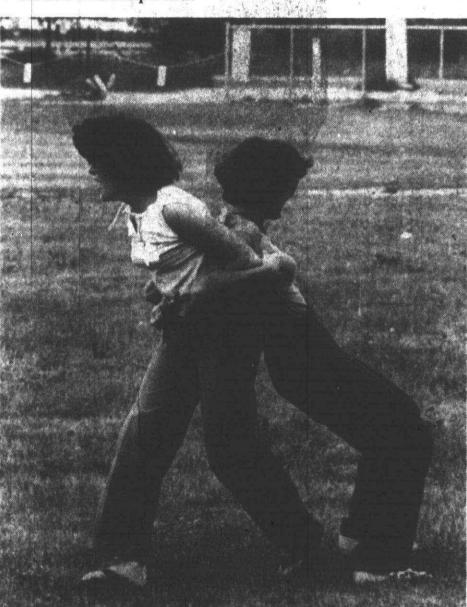

LAST WINTER, the students became involved in a pen pal program.

Miss Oxender's class and Miss Hussey's class corresponded at least once a month. Each child had a pen pal. The big day came last week when they all met, face-to-face, for the first time.

A cooperative picnic was planned at Griffin Park. The students each contributed 75 cents toward food, and some of the mothers went along to cook the hotdogs and prepare the picnic luncheon.

There were three-legged races and other traditional picnic activities as the pen pals paired off for competitions.

They became well-acquainted with their pen pals, and teachers and students had a marvelous outing at the Canton Township Park.

When the buses arrived at Griffin Park, the second and third graders lined up to meet their pen pals for the first time.

Laura stands vigil in Illinois Legislature

By SHERRY KAHAN

When 51 women from all over the United States stood vigil in the capitol building of the state of Illinois, Laura Callow of Livonia was among them.

Wearing white suits and dresses with green sashes bearing the name of their individual state, the women were there to remind state legislators that the women's movement is looking to them to ratify the Equal Rights Amendment.

They also lobbied state representatives who on two previous occasions defeated ratification by small margins.

The event was planned by the Ratify ERA Committee of Alton, Ill., created in opposition to the philosophy of the town's leading anti-ERA advocate, Phyllis Schlaf Schlafly.

Mrs. Callow, co-chair of Michigan ERAmerica, was picked to be the Michigan representative to the vigil because of her many years of activity in behalf of the amendment.

each of the 50 states and the District of Columbia visited state representatives after the vigil, frequently telling them the story of Selina Martin of Louisiana, a state which has a "head and master"

A 26-year-old nurse, Mrs. Martin worked double shifts to help her husbar J complete college and buy a home. But under the "head and master" law, her husband had full power to control their home and property without her

Over her protests and without her signature, he mortgaged the home and took out a loan which he failed to repay. A credit company tried to foreclose the mortgage and take Mrs. Martin's home away.

She challenged the law up to the allmale state supreme court, but it turned her down. So did the all-male U.S. Supreme Court.

"We don't have a full guarantee of legal equality under the 14th amendment of the U.S. Constitution," main-THE REPRESENTATIVES from tained Mrs. Callow. "Women can gain or lose rights by moving across state

"Many Michigan companies have plants in Louisiana. Women going there could lose the rights they have in Michigan. We have to be concerned in this mobile society about the rights of all women. The Louisiana head and master law would be illegal after ERA passes."

WHEN MRS. CALLOW buttonholed one Illinois state representative to make this point about the Martin case, he said, "Don't tell me about some women from Louisiana." When she reminded him that an Illinois women woman might move there, he responded, "She should stay in Illinois."

When she pressed further with the possibility that the woman's husband might be transferred, he told her he couldn't be concerned about rights in other states.

However, most of the other legislators she spoke to supported ERA.

"We are intensifying our lobbying effort to keep them aware that we are there, and we want ERA ratified," said Mrs. Callow. "We will take similar action in other states.'

"WE LIVE IN unratified country" is the new theme of the ratifying efforts. Stress will be laid on the fact that rights for women are uneven across the country.

"Michigan was a community property state for a short period of time," said the Livonian. "But the legislature changed the law and made it a separate property state again. Under community property laws there is a much fairer and more equitable treatment for married people especially for the homemaker. With no income of her own, she owns nothing

"The no-fault divorce law removed most the equity women had in longterm marriages. When they were divorced, women discovered they had no bargaining power. Everything belonged to him.

rights are at the whim of the legislatures. They can easily be taken away." The lobbying in the Illinois capitol

Mrs. Callow emphasized: "Women's building in Springfield will continue. with the ERA committee of Alton providing vigilers every day the legislature meets, as it has since 1977.

"The issue is not going to go away," asserted Mrs. Callow. The ratification problem is especially difficult in Illinois because the state constitution calls for a three-fifths majority to pass legis-

The Federal constitution, along with the constitutions of many states including Michigan, require only a simple majority.

Mrs. Callow and the other delegates were informed that even though they were given a welcome by Gov. James Thompson, this did not indicate universal support of ERA at the executive level. His lieutenant-governor has campaigned against it.

Toward the end of the day, one of the delegates, weary of attitudes that women should stay at home or up on a pedistal, made an observation about the legislators.

She said: "Let their last chivalrous act be to give up their seat to a lady."

BPW had role in minting of new dollar coin

Grace Rix, a past president of the Plymouth Business and Professional Women's Club and past regional director, told why BPW members all over the country have a special interest in the new Susan B. Anthony dollar coin. (Staff photo by Steve Fecht)

Local members of the Business and Professional Women's Club have had a vital interest in the Susan B. Anthony dollar coin that went on sale for the first time Monday.

The BPW has been a prime mover in the campaign to honor Susan B. Anthony. When Congresswoman Mary Rose Oakar of Ohio recommended in 1978 that a Susan B. Anthony design be issued on a dollar coin, the BPW supported the suggestion.

Stella B. Hackel, director of the mint of the U.S. Treasury Department and a BPW member, will present one of the coins to Geraldine Eidson, national BPW president. The presentation will take place at the organization's 60th anniversary convention in Boston later this month

The BPW will be the first women's organization to have this distinction.

STELLA HACKEL was elected treasurer of her native Vermont in 1975. She was a Democratic candidate for governor in 1976. From April 1977 until her appointment by President Carter as 29th director of the mint, Mrs. Hackel was the city attorney of Rutland, Vt.

The National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, Inc. has exerted constant and ongoing efforts to commemorate Susan B. Anthony as a great American.

In 1935-36 it was the first women's group to endorse Anthony's inclusion in the Mt. Rushmore memorial. At the same time, the BPW endorsed a proposal that a stamp be issued commemorating Anthony's birthday.

Members in California initiated and implemented eforts in 1938 for a Susan B. Anthony tree to be planted in Sequoia National Park. Between 1940 and 1950 the BPW worked to have Anthony included in the Hall of Fame of great Americans.

In 1952, the women raised $10,000 for the bust of Anthony which the BPW presented to the Hall of Fame.

MICHIGAN received more than 3 million of the dollar coins which are smaller than a 50-cent piece but larger than a quarter.

None of the local banks reported a run on the coins on Monday. Most banks received 2,000 of the coins but more will be available.

The Main Street branch of National bank of Detroit had "moderate" response. The NBD branch on Ford Road in Canton Township sold 559. The branch at Harvey Street and Ann Arbor Road reported, "The demand was there. About every other customer asked for one or more."

First National Bank of Plymouth sold 1,800 of its 2,000. The branch on E. Ann Arbor Road has many requests but their supply of the new coins had not been delivered.

Joe Zabinski, manager of First Federal Savings and Loan on Ford Road in Canton, said they received only $300 worth of the new coins and sold 61 the first day.

Bill Graham, manager of the First National Bank of Plymouth branch, said the government anticipated an early sale of from $3 million to $5 million to persons who wanted to save them as a collector's item. Interest was expected to drop off after the initial flurry of executive over the new coin.

Director of state home wants clarification

By MARGARET MILLER

Plymouth Center for Human Development director Eranell McIntosh-Wilson wants some straight talk with heads of the Michigan department of mental health regarding charges made against her by a special House-Senate investigating committee.

Stung by statements she was blocking reform at the institution for 640 retarded persons by failing to institute reforms the committee had asked, she said the big question she wants to clarify is whether these moves were suggestions or directives.

"I had not taken them as directives and some are not in my power to

Lettuce, greens are good for you

It is not surprising that ture salads with contrastsalad greens are popular in this day of the diet. Lettuce and greens are all low in calories, fat, and protein, while contributing iron, vitamin A, and bulk to the diet.

Latest figures show us eating about 211/2 pounds of salad each year, according to the Oakland County Cooperative Extension Service.

Iceberg or head lettuce is the most popular green, but for a little variety in salads try bib lettuce, spinach, watercress, romain, escarole, celery cabbage, or others. Feaing textures, flavors, and Proper handling of lettuce produces a better quality. Soon after purchase, discard inedible leaves and twist or cut out core. Don't discard all the dark outer leaves. Though less tender, they are rich in vitamins and minerals.

Wrap and store in refrigerator. Store apart from fruits such as melons, apples, pears as these give off a natural endive, leaf lettuce, ethylene gas when ripening, causing salad greens to rust, (For salad lettuce the summer months. Statistics show that most people gain weight during the winter, and lose more easily during the summer.

NANCY AUSTIN

Heavy eating takes a summer vacation

So these months are usually greeted enthusiastically.

Dieters catapult themselves out of hot kitchens into flower-perfumed breezes, warming sunshine, and sparkling pools.

They resolve to sip lo-cal coolers, drink lots of juices and eat light meals, including a variety of salads and fresh fruit dishes. It is a fact that, in the warm weather, it takes fewer calories to maintain body heat, so eating less makes sense.

It is also easy to begin a serious outdoor fitness program - either structured or self-styled.

Bike riding is more appealing with pathways unobstructed by snow and ice. Jogging seems easier, too, since the weather is more conducive to outdoor activity, and swimming is a natural.

We are now well along into summer (although the weather isn't particularly convincing of that fact). And I wonder how many dieters have slipped up on their resolutions.

Sometimes an uncomfortable panicky feeling grips us as the 4th of July celebrations passes, graduation parties are over and so is Father's Day. But plenty of picnics remain and that means more food.

There are still a good two months where the bare facts of bulging figures are readily seen. Can't put on winter coats yet to hide the truth beneath all of the winter trappings.

For most people, dieting is easier in DON'T BE discouraged. There is still plenty of time to buckle down to some serious dieting, so that by August your serious efforts have begun to pay off.

The hot weather is to your advantage. Maybe it's time to put your favorite novel down (reading doesn't use many calories.) Get out in your garden and hoe, week, fertilize, water, sow seeds, and admire.

Next plan meals that take you out of the kitchen. Outdoor cookery offers so many possibilities of delicous flavor and simple preparations. It is, perhaps, the only way food can be prepared offering the lowest calorie benefits.

Try some new ideas in outdoor cookery. Let your imagination run wild. It doesn't have to be fancy. For example, try skewering cubes of chicken breast alternately with tomatoes, onion, green pepper, mushrooms, and raw zucchini. Cook over a low fire until meat is finished. Vegetables will be hot and crispy. The smoke flavor lends a delicate change to the eye-appealing, low calorie meal. Succulent!

If outdoor cooking isn't your forte, put your crockpot to work. Using this appliance, you are able to prepare an entire meal at once, use less tender cuts of meat, and not heat up your kitchen. You may go away for a whole day, and not worry, about the meal burning, sticking, etc.

FRESH FRUIT and vegetable season is approaching its peak. Take advantage of it. Sure these foods are expensive, so it seems. But when you examine the nutritional content as compared to snack type foods, it's worth it.

Maybe you are fortunate to have planted a large vegetable garden. If cared for properly, you will have the rest of the summer to enjoy the fruites of your labor. Maybe you will be lucky enough to be able to can large quantities to last you the winter.

Canning is a lot of hard work. The effort is worth it, paticularly on a cold winter's day, when you can open a jar of home-canned vegetables to serve with the family's favorite meal. Ah! The rewards are sweet!

Pamper yourself. Summer isn't just time for the kids vacation. Or husband's vacation. Designate a time each day that is your vacation. It's your time for no interruptions. Perhaps the pleasant coolness of a walk in the park, a luxuriously rich bubble bath, a tall glass of thirst-quenching iced-tea on the patio. Whatever it is, researchers show that you are less likely to overeat if you are in a relaxed state of mind and body. So - dream on!

LAST WEEK I told you about the Big Beautiful Woman magazine. If you can't find copies conveniently, send $12 to the magazine's circulation department at 9237 West Third ST., Suite 1201, Beverly Hills, California 90210.

Good Shepherd youth on far-flung missions

Good Shepherd Reformed Church of Westland is expanding its mission this summer to France, Italy and Africa.

Three young people from the local church, all working through a non-denominational group known as Teen Mission, are working on special projects designed to carry aid and fellowship to Christians in other parts of the Lori Pfeiffer, 18 and a recent graduate of John Glenn High School, is in France with a crew building a six-unit residence hall in the Paris area.

Sanda Paulson, 15, a student at Franklin High school, is doing her building in Ravenna, a town in northern Italy. Her unit's project is finishing the inside of a Christian book store.

Roofing a church in Nigeria is the summer work for 14-year-old Maurice Mexico and many parts of the United Stebila, who will be a freshman at Plymouth Salem High when he completes that project.

The three decided to sign up for overseas mission work after a representative of Teen Mission visited Good Shepherd last winter and urged the young people there to join the organization's work projects and "get dirty for

Maurice said his minister, the Rev. Kelvin Kronemeyer, had "prayed that one person from our church would decide to go, and he got three."

A wide variety of mission assignments were offered, the teens said. Besides the spots they selected, there are projects going on this summer in Haiti. the Philippines, Scotland, England, Volunteers for Teen Mission pay their own way to their assignments. In the case of the Good Shepherd trio, family, friends and church members joined in helping underwrite the trips.

All went first to Merritt Island, near Cape Canaveral, for two weeks of indoctrination and training.

Why did these three elect a summer of hard work far from home?

"The thing is,"said Sandy, "you don't have showers or hairdriers in these places. This will be an experience, physically and spiritually. It will be a whole new culture."

"I wanted to do something different," said Lori, and Maurice added: "It was a challenge."

July Bible schools planned in area

At least four area churches have announced the opening of their vacation Bible schools for elementary-age children during July.

Christ Our Saviour Lutheran Church, 14175 Farmington Road, Livonia, will conduct its Bible school for the first time in its new church. The two-week Bible school will begin on Monday, July 16 and run from 9:30 a.m. until noon. The program will feature Bible stories, songs, crafts and games based on the theme, "I love to tell the story." Special events planned for the two weeks include a picnic and a puppet show on safety. A new feature of this year's Bible school will be the "Gospel Dollars Store" where children can earn "Gospel Dollars" for attendance and bringing new members. The dollars can be redeemed for special items at the end of the session. A closing program for the entire oriented activities as well as recreation family will be held at 7:30 p.m., Friday, July 27. For registration information call Mrs. Carolyn Zaske, Bible school chairwoman, at 478-2637 or the church office at 522-6830. The First United Methodist Church of Garden City will also hold a vacation Bible school 9-11:30 a.m., weekdays, July 16 -26. Music, crafts, Bible studies and recreational activities will fill the two-week session. Register for the Bible school by calling the church office at 421-8628. Hosanna Tabor Lutheran Church. 9600 Leverene, Redford Township, will have vacation Bible school July 9-13 from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. Children threeyears-old through 6th grade are wel-

MONEY ON EXHIBIT

A special exhibit from National Bank of Detroit's Money Museum will be on display at NBD's Plymouth branch on Deering Street from July 9-20.

The exhibit tells the story of coin making and shows the locations of past and present U.S. Mints.

Other highlights include America's first paper money as well as our country's smallest denomination notes the fractional currency issued during the Civil War.

Another section of the display is a photographic description of the world's largest money - the huge stone discs used on the island of Yap in the Pacific Ocean. These stones, which sometimes weighed as much as 800 pounds, served as the traditional money on the island until recent times.

BOLOGNA TO DELIVER PAPER

Jack Bologna of Plymouth, president of George Odiorne Associates, will deliver a paper on management by objectives at the seventh annual International Conference on Management by Objectives State-of-the-Art.

The paper is entitled: "The Human Aspects of Management by Objectives: Defusing the Anxiety of Change." The conference will be held Aug. 27-30 in the Marriott Hotel in Denver.

The annual conference is sponsored by the International MBO Institute at Bowling Green State University and will include presentations by academic and professional experts on MBO from the U.S., Great Britain and Canada.

MBO is a theory of management proposed 25 years ago by Peter Drucker, the avowed statesman of the management scientists, and has been adopted by a large number of both private and public sector organizations.

Odiorne Associates, a Plymouth management consulting firm in Suite 4 at 711 W. Ann Arbor Trail, also announces the selection of Bologna and Dr. Donald D. Starr, a senior associate, as members of the faculty who will lecture to a large group of Dr. Pepper bottlers in New Zealand next fall.

Their lectures will deal with the MBO concept.

Talks proceed for township police

Plymouth Township Supervisor Thomas Notebaert says he may have a police contract proposal to present to the township board by the end of this Presently, township negotiators are meeting with the Wayne County Sheriff's Department to iron out a package of police services to the newlychartered Township of Plymouth.

A second meeting between the sheriff's department and the township was scheduled for today (Thursday) in which Notebaert says they planned to work on the "wordage" of that con-

"We pretty much worked on the dollars part of it," he said earlier in the week. "I think we'll go for two cars on a 24-hour basis with one man in each

He added the annual cost for such a service has remained at about $230,000, which is the previously discussed offer.

Representing the township are Notebaert, Township Clerk Esther Hulsing, and Township Trustee Maurice Breen. Deputy Jim Akhtar is sitting in for Wayne County Sheriff William Lucas.

Once a tentative package is arranged, Notebaert said he will present it to the township board to authorize an election to approve its funding. He anticipates a millage request of 1 or 11½ mills. A Sept. 11 election date has been reserved for that issue.

In the meantime, an interim plan for police services has been arranged with the sheriff's department. Township resident and sheriff deputy Andy Pruner begins surveying township neighborhoods in an eight-hour shift.

The township board had approved this plan last month in lieu of a final wrap-up for a more comprehensive Pruner will be the only officer assigned to township neighborhoods for one day a week until a total package is secured by the township.

Although it's expected that negotiations for the contract will not be lengthy, the delay is expected to be found in presenting the plan to the Wayne County Board of Auditors and the Wayne County Board of Commissioners. Both bodies have final say in

Pruner will be working between noon and 8 p.m., which is when there is a high volume of traffic on local streets. Road leading nowhere is OK'd for church use By TOM LONERGAN

At least an access road from Six Mile, west of I-275, to be built by Schoolcraft College, won't be connecting to the campus.

And that fact drew some questions from Trustee Mark McQuesten at last week's board meeting.

The board authorized bids to be taken on the estimated $88,000 road after administration officials explained the college must build the road as part of a land exchange agreement made with Trinity Baptist Church in the early

The church is building a nursing home complex north of Six Mile and west of I-275. The complex is expected to be completed in February.

"HOW CAN the college build an $80,000 road when it's not going anywhere to the college?" McQuesten asked. The road will extend about 950 feet north from Six Mile.

W. Kenneth Lindner, vice president for business, said that when the college agreed to the land exchange with the church, "the impression was we were going to develop first." Five acres of college land were exchanged for six acres of the church's. "We said we would give them a road," Lindner add-defeats and an enrollment that is not expected to jump significantly in the near future makes college expansion at the southeast corner of its property

"If I could assure local tax money which I can't - to fund new buildings, that roadway would be justified," said President C. Nelson Grote.

McQUESTEN DIDN'T suggest the college renege on its agreement with the church, but trustees agreed to seek bids on an asphalt road surface as well as concrete.

Linder said that the city of Livonia requires a hard surface road and the road has to meet the specification requirements of the Wayne County Road Commission because it will be attached

Up to $15,000 in the project is for drainage, which is also required. The nursing home would be the only property with driveway access to the road, and Lindner suggested the board not grant access to any private developer that might build west of the proposed

If the church expands again with proposed senior citizens housing, the college would have to extend the road, Lindner said. "At some future date, we'll tack on to the road," he said.

Board President Paul Kadish summed up the college's predicament.

"Right or wrong, a commitment was made," he said. "I don't think we have any alternative."

Summer theater festival continues July 18

Two American dramas whose statures have grown in the years following their Broadway premieres mark the halfway point of this year's Hilberry Summer Theater Festival.

"The Price" by Arthur Miller, which is currently enjoying a Broadway revival, and "A Raisin in the Sun" by Lorraine Hansberry, which again became a hit as the Broadway musical "Raisin," both open for a two-week run at 8:30 p.m. Wednesday, July 18.

The dramas play Wednesdays-Satur-

"The Price" marked Arthur Miller's triumphant return to Broadway in 1968 and later enjoyed a critically acclaimed television production with George C. Scott and Colleen Dewhurst.

This spring it was revived in a highly praised production at the Spoleto U.S.A. Festival in Charleston, S.C., and was then transferred to off-Broadway and finally to Broadway, where it opened in June.

"A RAISIN in the Sun," when it opened on Broadway in 1959, was an American theater landmark. The cliche that black plays were bad box office was destroyed. Two months later Miss Hansberry was to become the youngest American playwright, the fifth woman and the only black writer ever to win the New York Drama Critics Circle Award for "The Best Play of the

Are you hip enough for Oscar's disco?

By CRAIG PIECHURA

The mission: Find out if the average man-on-the-street is admitted into Southfield's so-called exclusive Oscar's discoteque.

The undercover agent: The average man-on-the-street reporter for a major metropolitan twice-weekly newspaper.

Biographical info: Agent hasn't danced since the hully-gully went belly up and thinks Calvin Klein is lead singer with the Chipmunks. Agent is known to wear brown shoes with gum soles.

Report follows:

Having picked up female cohort for rendezvous, I wheel dinged-up brown Horizon into parking lot full of Trans Ams, TR-6s and an occasional Cordoba. Stash paper bag from cheapo hamburger stand under seat as parking lot attendant approaches to park car. As ignition is turned off and agents walk away, engine keeps coughing due to run-on problem. Run-on problem makes parking lot attendant look askance at vehicle.

Entering the chi-chi establishment, we are met by a Phil Coughon, doorman, who stands behind a wooden pulpit with the words "Homilies from the church" carved into it. Coughon is sorry to inform this agent that we will not be admitted because aforementioned agent neglected to wear a suit coat, sport coat or reasonable facsimile.

"No jeans, no corduroys, no leather," Coughon informs us. "Men must wear a jacket and women must have suitable evening wear." Female cohort told her attire is acceptable.

In subsequent conversation the following day with general manager John Rogers, I learn that more formal attire is expected to be worn on weekends. I'm also told that on Wednesdays, Fridays and Saturdays a reservation which must be made in person ahead of time - is expected.

We take this to mean suit coats, not sport coats and dresses, not fancy pants. Reservations are needed if the establishment is crowded.

A half hour after being denied entrance into establishment, we return with this agent in white sport coat. This time doorman willing to take $3 cover charge from each of us but reluctant to be interviewed about admission policy.

BECAUSE both of us are on duty, we order non-alcoholic, but trendy, glasses of carbonated water substance known as Perrier. Bill for two tumblers of fizzy water comes to $4.50, lime included.

Music not as loud as we were led to expect in briefing. Most of the disco tunes, we discover, have "Boogie" in title. "Get down" is also popular theme. Disc jockey Gizelle St. John informs that "Boogie with Me" by a group called Poussez is the biggest song at the moment among Oscar's regulars. "And they love 'Hot Stuff' by Donna Summer," she adds. When Ms. St. John goes home, does she listen to disco, much like a mailman goes home and takes a walk?

"I listen to jazz mostly. When I go home, it takes me an hour to unwind, believe it or not."

I take note of that comment because many people tell me disco helps them unwind. In fact, without bringing up the topic of tension, most persons I talk to that evening say disco dancing is a tension release for them...

Suki Fredericks, a photographer from Birmingham, says the attraction of disco for her is "human contact, the physicality, sensuality and eroticism. Strike eroticism in the article, will you please?"

Mary Taylor of Fenton says disco is "a sign of the tension in our culture.

"It reminds me of the old Shirley Temple movies," Mrs. Taylor explains. "She allowed people to fantasize for a while, to forget about their problems. I'm sure today, with all our financial problems, there is a need for fantasies, to get away from realities."

Her husband Marvin almost didn't get into Oscar's that night because he. like this agent, didn't wear a sportcoat in the 90-degree weather.

WITH THE help of his companion and frequent visitor to the disco, Harvey Fink of Southfield, Marvin Taylor was admitted sans sport coat and spared the embarrassment of heading back to Fenton without a dance.

Fink was asked if he approved of the exclusionary admittance policy that almost kept his friend out.

"That doesn't bother me," Fink said. "I've been in similiar situations. A great deal of life comes down to who you know and what you know. If I were in that position (being denied entrance), I'd either go around it or go through it; whatever you're capable of.'

Fink said he lives close to Oscar's and frequents the place.

"They (the Taylors) asked me how this place was different," Fink said. "There's more glamour, more style in the way a person moves, they're more into their apearance here, and I would say Oscar's attracts more of a with-it crowd in the society today.

"The typical disco crowd is not a very cultured crowd."

While celebrities are synonymous with New York's Studio 54, the granddaddy of exclusionary disco clubs, the only luminary this agent saw at Oscar's Thursday night was Bill Bonds, TV newscaster, sitting at the end of the bar in the singles section after the 11 p.m.

Bonds declined to be interviewed on the sociological significance of disco music, explaining that he came to Oscar's to meet former Detroit Lion Mel Farr on a business matter. Farr, an auto dealer, couldn't make it, so Bonds chatted with three women and a man at the bar.

Rogers, Oscar's general manager, said while "There is a little bit of an aura" about the place, the club doesn't use the same admission policy found at Studio 54.

"Our policy here is basically make reservations in person, especially on your busier nights when you have to tighten up the policy. Certain people tend to make reservations, and certain people try to get in without making reservations."

I asked Rogers whether a nerd dressed in white shoes, polyester slacks and sport coat who made a reservation well in advance would be admitted into Oscar's on a busy night. Would a nerd who followed the rules be excluded for not meeting the beautiful people (B.P.) standard?

"I KNOW what you're angling for," Rogers said. "We've had enough press and publicity comparing us to Studio 54's policy. We try to be as selective as possible without offending anyone.

Panfishing reports are excellent, but big gamefish are another matter in southeast Michigan.

Most Oakland County lakes are producing good crops of bluegills and other panfish. Fish are still in the shallows where they have been spawning, but any day they will begin moving into deeper water for the summer.

Reports on bass, northern pike and . walleye are "fair" to "a few," which is the conservation officers' jargon for 'very few."

Pike, when you can get them, are in deeper, open water. Try trolling red and white spoons to nab them. Bass are in four to six feet of water around weed

Walleye fishing has been fair in the Selfridge Air Base area of Lake St. Clair. On Lake Erie, walleye fishing is only fair on the best days, but catfish angling is good in the Detroit Edison cut in Monroe County.

AS A KID, I thought it would be great sport to kill a rattlesnake and save the rattle.

But the only time I ever met a rattlesnake, I let it go. That is, the snake looked at me and buzzed (it's not really a rattle). I called my dog away so he wouldn't be bitten. And we went our separate ways, not doing any harm to one another.

Opera theater opens with new production

Michigan Opera Theatre (MOT) will the possibility of a European tour. open its 1979 fall season with a new production of Frank Loesser's "The Most Happy Fella," starring Metropolitan Opera basso Giorgio Tozzi.

This contemporary American opera will premiere in Detroit Sept. 7-10 and 12-16. After the Detroit engagement, "The Most Happy Fella" is slated for a Broadway run to be followed by a national tour.

"We are very proud to be producing "The Most Happy Fella" with Sherwin M. Goldman Productions of New York," said David DiChiera, MOT general director. "This joint venture reflects a major move by MOT into the national limelight.'

"The Most Happy Fella" replaces the previously announced production of Scott Joplin's "Treemonisha" which has been rescheduled as part of MOT's 10th anniversary celebration in 1980. Plans for "Treemonisha" also include MOT's fall season will follow "The Most Happy Fella" with two productions in both English and their original language.

Martina Arroyo will open Sept. 24 in Verdi's "Il Trovatore," MOT's first dual-language production. Miss Arroyo will sing two performances in Italian on Sept. 24 and 29, soprano Marie Robinson will sing the remaining performances, Sept. 26, 28 and 30, in English.

MOT's third production is Puccini's "La Boheme." Pamala Myers and Rico Serbo, who scored critical successes with MOT last season, will be returning Oct. 8 and 13 for the two Italian performances. Karen Hunt and Stephen Dickson, who sang with MOT during the '77-78 season, will sing in English, Oct.

David MacKenzie writes about the perils of uptown hotels and the boredom of turnpike driving. His strength is in his laid-back humor and the power of his lyrics.

His songs have been recorded by the likes of Kittie Moffat and David Soul but no one interprets a MacKenzie song like David himself. He calls Chicago home and the rest of the country is his backyard.

AND SOMETIMES, when he's sitting there on stage, you get the feeling that he is in a backyard, perhaps in the shade of an oak, performing for his

Raised in St. Louis, MacKenzie hung out with his older cousins who listened to Fats Domino, Little Richard and Chuck Berry, who have had obvious effects on his style.

He began singing professionally at age 13. Since then, he has written and played country, blues, rock and roll, jazz and ragtime, plus folk.

David was "seriously discovered," as he puts it, by Frank Zappa's manager one night in a Chicago club. He's been on the road ever since sharing the stage with the Amazing Rhythm Aces, Jimmy Buffet, Crystal Gayle, B. B. King, Meatloaf, Taj Mahal, Randy Newman. Muddy Waters and countless others.

Complementing his diversity is the slide that he plays on his old National steel guitar.

The folk and blues of David Mack- MARK KORNHAUSER is part of the new wave of up-and-coming magicians around the country. He began practicing magic as a child in Detroit and performed his first show at age 14.

But magic became secondary while he studied for his B.A. in psychology at the University of Michigan. Shortly after graduation he became a teacher of the Transcendental Meditation program and was a traveling lecturer for five years.

Kornhauser's diverse background has obviously influenced his magical

"The real secrets of magic are psychological. A magician simply sees a little bit into how the mind works and uses that understanding to provide entertainment. This psychological aspect is what makes magic so uniquely charming. People are finding out that watching a magic show can be one of the most pleasant and uplifting experiences that one can have.'

In 1977 Kornhauser won the Chicago International Brotherhood of Magicians' annual platform contest, and he was selected by the city of Chicago's "Arts Alive" program to be a performing artist.

HE HAS PRODUCED and performed a full-length magical-musicalcomedy for children and has performed large illusion shows at Treasure Island amusement park in Miami, and B-Ginnings, Clayton House, Aragon Ballroom and Harry Hope's in Chicago.

At the Bridge-Vu Theatre in Valparaiso Ind Mark was the opening act for Tommy James and the Shondells and also for Tammy Wynette. Included in his credits is having produced and emceed the Doug Henning magic show in Chicago. Kornhauser is currently appearing at Detroit's Bob-Lo Island Amusement Park.

WHATEVER YOU'RE BUILDING OUTDOORS, YOU NEED

Anything you build will have extraordinarily long life build it with ordinary lumber or plywood pressure-treated with Wolman preservative chemicals.

It won't rot, and termites won't bother it — even if you don't stain or paint it. Considering how long it lasts, Outdoor Wood is surprisingly inexpensive. And if you don't have a project in mind, ask us for a suggestion.

fers slightly in that each program starts out with a theme which - although the Python humor remains as "insane and surreal as ever - is fol- feeler. In another episode, Hamlet unc lowed through to its ultimate, inconcludergoes psychoanalysis.

TV's 'Monty Python' returns sive conclusion.

Starting Thursday at 10:30 p.m. on Channel 56, the first of six new-to-Detroit episodes of "Monty Python" will be aired.

These shows were recorded a few years ago and will have the same group of loonies except for John Cleese. Cleese, at the time, was working on his own series, "Fawlty Towers," which p.m. weekdays.

The new "Monty Python" series dif-

In the first new episode a plumber/ narrator describes the Golden Age of Ballooning and how it began with the first ascent by the Montgolfier Brothers at Annecy. This is followed by Chris Quinn shopping at the great store, with gases and viruses in the basement and fresh air on the 10th floor.

The second program again shows the customer at the great store as he manages to select the ant he wants. However, to his dismay, he realizes that his ant is short two legs and has a false

A survey sheds light on buying habits

A recent series of in-home interviews conducted to determine buying habits of young people, turned up some interesting things. The survey indicated the average homemaker requires 3.4 shopping trips to make a furniture purchase. Six out of 10 are won over by price or a special sale.

More than half of the 18 to 29 yearolds surveyed purchased their furniture from a furniture speciality store, 10 percent from a national chain, 10 percent from a discount department store, and 8 percent from a department store.

Those who shopped most carefully, the survey showed, were better educated and from higher income families. College-educated women, for example, typically made 3.8 shopping trips compared with 2.8 trips for those with high school educations or less

Only 20 percent mentioned style or looks as reasons for buying. Quality was mentioned by 13 percent and store reputation by 9 percent. Indicating they would buy the same way again, 71 percent appeared satisfied with a recent purchase.

However, 29 percent indicated they would buy differently. Of those who said they would buy differently, 40 percent said they would choose better quality and 38 percent said they would shop around more. Eighteen percent said they would seek the help of a designer to aid them with selections.

The findings seem to bear out the need for the consumer to be better informed and to shop more carefully.

SOME TIPS ON FURNITURE CARE: Elementary as it sounds, regular dusting and polishing are the best guardians of the beauty of a fine furniture finish. Grandma with her featherduster understood the secret of preventing the accumulation of surface soil, often abrasive and harmful to a carefully rubbed finish.

Today, you have a choice of excellent waxes and polishes which, if used regularly, deepen the luster and clarity of fine finishes as well as maintaining a protective film.

Accidents will occur. For the care and treatment of these, here are some suggestions on how to treat minor scratches blemishes and burns.

FIRST AID: — For minor scratches, use a wax stick in a matching color to fill the scratch. These are inexpensive and usually available at paint, hardware or furniture stores. Rub in well, with a soft, dry cloth and apply your preferred polish

White spots - cause unknown - rub blemish with cigar or cigarette ashes (your favorite brand), using a cloth dipped in wax, lubricating oil, vegetable shortening, lard, or salad oil. Wipe off immediately and rewax with your Alcohol spots - rub with finger dipped in paste wax, silver polish, linseed oil, or moistened cigar ash. Rewax. On some finishes a quick application of ammonia will do the trick. Follow immediately with polish.

Water marks - marks or rings from wet glasses are common on tables, especially if these surfaces haven't been waxed. Wax can't prevent damage when liquids are allowed to stand on the finish indefinitely.

However, it will keep them from being absorbed immediately, thus giving you time to wipe liquid before it damages the finish. Apply preferred wax or polish with fine steel wool, rubbing lightly. Or, place a clean, thick blotter over the ring and press with a warm (not hot) iron.

Candle wax - hold an ice cube on the wax for a few seconds to harden it, but wipe up melted ice immediately. Crumble off as much wax as can be removed with the fingers and then scrape gently with a dull knife. Rub briskly with a clean cloth saturated with liquid wax, wiping dry with a Milk spots - when milk, or foods containing milk or cream are allowed to remain on furniture, the effect of the lactic acid is like that of a mild paint or varnish remover. Wipe up the spilled food as quickly as possible. If the spots show, clean with wax, then follow the tips under alcohol spots.

If your grandma lives around the corner, you probably know all of these things, but if she is a long-distance call away, the above tips may come in han-

It is one thing to shop, find and furnish your home the way you want it. It is still another thing to care for your furniture properly.

New show "Starting Here, Starting Now," a musical which played at both Oakland University and the Attic Theater in Detroit, will open July 13 at Mr. Mac's Stable in Dearborn in dinner theater format. The cast (from left) is Jim Moskal, Diann Moskal, David McIntosh and Phyllis Wolfe.

It won't kill crabgrass, but it gets rid of houses fast.

Between one mowing and the next, your house could change owners. And you know that's fast!

How can we be so sure?

Because we're a member of the Homes For Living Network.

When our sign goes up a lot of things happen. With our exclusive Homes For Living magazine, a picture and description of your home can be available to home buyers in our area. And, through our 2,000 affiliated offices, we'll reach potential out-of-town buyers.

After all, they account for one-third of all home sales. When you consider that our 25,000 Homes For Living sales associates have more than 10-billion dollars in home sales each year, you know we don't let any crabgrass grow under our feet.
