Sludge suspect culprit in landfill pollution

Laboratory tests have indicated that the dumping of sludge at a Canton Township landfill may have polluted well water at the site, according to Canton engineer Robert Wade.

Wade said he will ask township Supervisor Noel Culbert to authorize additional testing of well water at Woodland Meadows Landfill, on Hannan south of Michigan, to determine if. heavy metals from the sludge has caused the pollution.

According to Wade, the preliminary tests have shown a "dramatic difference" in the amounts of chlorides, sulfates and total organic carbons contained in two wells which are located upstream and downstream from the landfill location.

The wells are situated at Woodland Meadows for monitoring purposes. According to Wade, an independent laboratory in Ann Arbor conducted the tests which he called "very broad CULBERT HAS INDICATED that sludge dumping at Woodland Meadows or take the landfill's management to court if more specific tests determine that sludge is causing the pollution.

The action would be based on a toxic waste ordinance approved by the Canton board in May. The ordinance, which prohibits the dumping of proven hazardous wastes, was passed after township officials learned that Bi-Product Systems of Michigan had been dumping 300 to 400 tons at Woodland Meadows since March.

Bi-Product Systems holds a threeyear contract with the City of Detroit for the disposal of sludge from the Detroit Wastewater Treatment Plant.

The firm has proposed a sludge composting operation on Michigan near Sheldon to help Detroit comply with a troit River.

The dumping of sludge at Woodland Meadows has been approved by the township officials would order a halt to Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR) and the Wayne County Environmental Health Department.

Bi-Product Systems views the dumping of sludge at Woodland Meadows as an interim measure until a composting site can be put into operation, according to general manager Tom Reed.

However, the Canton Planning Commission has recommended denial of the firm's plans for the composting site because of environmental concerns. The township board, which holds the final authority in such matters, has not yet considered the site plans.

WADE SAID he personally believes that the sludge at Woodland Meadows may be causing the pollution indicated by the preliminary laboratory tests.

He said that the results showed contamination levels in excess of 1975 federal standards as well as tentative groundwater standards proposed by the

"We had to run the tests to see if there was even a cause for concern," Wade said. "It seems to me that there is an indication that there is."

Wad said he will request permission to test for nickel, cadmium, mercury, copper, lead, zinc and ammonia in the well water at Woodland Meadows.

The DNR is also conducting tests of the landfill's well water. But Larry Aubuchon, a DNR water quality specialist, says those results will not be available until next week.

Although the county health department has not taken recent water samples from the landfill, public health engineer Bob Barber said his agency inspects Woodland Meadows weekly. He said that inspections at the landfill have shown that the sludge is being buried properly. Barber called Woodland Meadows 'one of the best landfills in the county." He added, however, that his agency could rescind special approval to dispose of sludge at the site if the waste is causing water pollution. Richard Leszcz, assistant manager of Woodland Meadows, was unavailable for comment on the preliminary test results.

the ethics of passing an interim zoning ordinance that could legally stay in effect for three years.

State law allows communities to adopt interim zoning ordinances as long as work is proceeding on permanent zoning texts. But public hearings and other requirements that are normally attached to zoning considerations are not legally necessary for passage of interim zoning laws.

Flood victims request

Residents whose homes were flooded during the July 11 rain are asked to contact Nancy Longwell at Canton Township hall to file a damage report.

Police Chief Jerry Cox said the reports will be forwarded to Gov. William Milliken's office. Cox said the governor's office has indicated that the information will be included in an application to declare parts of metropolitan Detroit a national disaster area because of the July 11 flooding.

Flood victims are asked to call Ms. Longwell at 397-1000 to report their losses by Monday.

Cox, who is chief of the Canton Office of Emergency Preparedness, estimates damage from the July 11 flood in Canton Township at $300,000. He said one homeowner reported losses of $30,000 from the water which destroyed his finished basement.

Canton joins Nankin Transit bus network .

Want to do a little shopping this have trouble) getting to and from weekend? Need a ride to church?

The Nankin Transit Commission beginning Saturday will offer dial-a-ride service to the general public during certain weekend hours. Served will be residents in Wayne, Westland, Garden City, Canton Township and Inkster.

Nankin Transit Commission chairman Glenn Shaw said weekend dial-aride service will be available from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturdays, and 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Sundays. All residents may ride NTC buses to locations within the fivecommunity service area.

NTC was established several years ago to serve handicapped persons and senior citizens. Buses are supplied by the Southeastern Michigan Transit Authority (SEMTA).

The weekend service represents a step in the commission's goal to expand services to include the general public. Recently, Nankin obtained several new buses, which brings the fleet to 13, with 11 regularly scheduled and two held as back-up vehicles. The new buses are larger, holding 14 passengers. They also have additional space for two wheelchairs.

According to Shaw, the limited weekend hours will meet requests for transportation to church.

"We have had a lot of people (who

"Riders should allow as much time as possible," continued Shaw. However, they may phone the NTC at 729-2710 for same-day, weekend service.

Base fare of $1 covers a distance of two zones. A third zone costs an additional 60 cents, for a maximum fare of $1.60 per person.

Senior citizen and handicapped riders pay half of that amount.

Still being worked out is a firstcome, first-served "feeder line," which would pick people up from their homes and deliver them to centralized bus stops on Ford Road and Michigan Avenue. In the afternoon, SEMTA buses will deposit commuters at the same centralized stops, where NTC buses will pick them up for the trip home.

In other Nankin Transit business, the Westland City Council Monday adopted a resolution accepting Canton Township as a full partner in the enterprise. Earlier, Canton Township participation had been on a contractual basis.

Other cities in the Nankin Transit service area - Garden City, Inkster, and Wayne - already have approved Canton's inclusion.

Ford Road shopping center plans received commission approval

Site plans for a proposed shopping center offering home improvement merchandise Monday received the recommendation of the Canton Township Planning Commission.

If the center is built, on the south side of Ford Road between Morton Taylor and Oakview, it will be in conflict with changes made on the township's master plan scheduled to be updated after public hearings in August. The Canton Township Board has final authority on whether to approve the plan, but must have solid reasons to turn down a site plan once it has been recommended by the planning commis-A proposed interim zoning ordinance, tabled Tuesday until the next township board meeting, could give the board a legitimate reason to deny the site plans.

Although the site plan, submitted by the Republic Development Corp., had been tabled last week for 60 days, Planning Commission Chairman Robert Padget asked that the subject be removed from tabling and voted on.

The July 16 meeting was not one at which site plans are normally reviewed.

Padget had joined commissioners Dan Richardson, Carol Bodenmiller and Thom Carmen in initially voting to table Republic's plan.

Padget said his decision to ask that the site plans be removed from table was motivated by several discussions with township attorneys Dave Berry and Bert Bergoyne.

"I want to make it clear that the attorneys have not issued a formal written opinion, but their feeling is that the table (of the Republic site plan) was highly improper, probably illegal and probably subject to unfavorable legal review in the future," Padget said.

The motions to remove the topic from table and to pass the site plans were approved. Commissioner Frank McMurray, who made the motion for site plan approval, added two conditions to the approval recommendation.

McMurray's first condition was that the shopping center have no more than three curb cuts to be shared by Frank's Nursery, which hopes to open a store by the center. The second condition involved sug-

Mrs. Bodenmiller said she had several concerns about the proposed shopping center's impact on traffic congestion, visual pollution and water pres-

She said Supervisor Noel Culbert had received a letter in January from the Michigan Department of Health that said all future site plans would be carefully examined and that it would be necessary to submit a hydrolic analysis for every project in southern half of Ford Road before permits from that department would be issued.

Padget noted that the township engineers had sent a letter recommending approval of the center, but said he did not know if the firm had taken the water pressure problem into account.

Mrs. Bodenmiller's objections were echoed by Richardson, who issued the minority opinion on the site plan approval. Richardson said the site plan should not be approved unless a traffic study, hydrolic study, outdoor lighting plan and drainage impact report were presented.

Growing districts helped

A proposed change in the state aid bill which will be of special benefit to Plymouth-Canton Community Schools has made it through another hurdle in the State Legislature.

A House-Senate conference committee has retained provisions in the state aid legislation which will, for the first time, begin to recognize problems of school districts with rising enrollment.

THE PROVISION, in the form of an amendment offered in May of this year by State Rep. Robert Law (R-Livonia), would require the state to pay school districts with increasing enrollments money for the new students during that school year.

Enrollment figures will be determined by calculating the difference between the number of students in a district as of Aug. 1 of the present school year and enrollment figures from the previous Aug.

Law said his increasing enrollment amendment will help the Plymouth-Canton school district deal with its financial problems caused by rising enroll-

"The language that I put into this bill will improve the cash flow situation of districts with increasing enrollments like Plymouth-Canton by giving them their money as quickly as possible.

"It also sets a precedent for future funding for districts with increasing enrollments."

Law offered the amendment after learning that Plymouth-Canton Community Schools was adding almost 1,000 students a year while receiving state aid payments for the additional students a year

UNDER THE PRESENT plan, the state makes six payments a year to local school districts.

But because of a discrepancy between the start of the school year (usually in early September) and the state's fiscal year which begins Oct. 1, the state is behind on its payments to districts with rising

The $1.5 billion K-12 school aid budget which passed the conference committee also will guarantee pupils in the 1979-80 school year about $325 a year and $43 for each local mill levied up to 30 mills. Local districts also will receive $43 per pupil for half the mills over 30.

Those figures are up from last year's allotments which included $274 per pupil and $40 a mill up to Law also said the millage rollback provision of the Headlee amendment passed by voters in November will not result in a loss of state aid because of the rollback provisions.

OTHER AREAS OF interest in the school funding legislation include:

• $23.75 million for districts with declining enrollment, up more than 12.5 percent from last

• $36 million for municipal overburden, up 12.5 percent over last year.

• $102.8 million for transportation, up 9.24 percent over last year.

• $32.9 million for comprehensive education, an increase of more than $2.2 million over last year. The purpose of the conference committee is to work out compromises between the differences in the House and Senate state aid legislation.

by new state aid bil

Plymouth-Canton Community Schools will have more dollars to educate each child in the growing district but still may be expected to have a tough time adopting a balanced budget.

That is the assessment made by State Sen. Robert Geake, R-Northville, whose district includes Plymouth, while announcing passage of the new state aid legislation.

The increase in dollars per pupil will occur because of a more generous state aid formula, increased local property tax revenues, and increases in special categories of assistance.

All of these benefits were included in a bill which cleared the conference committee, was approved by the House and Senate last week, and sent to the governor to be signed into law.

GEAKE, a member of the powerful Senate Appropriations Committee which helped write the bill and the formula it contains, said Plymouth-Canton Schools will be guaranteed $325 for each pupil enrolled, plus $43 per mill levied on local property values up to 30 mills and half of the mills over 30.

These figures compare with only $274 per pupil in the 1978-79 (current year) state aid formula, plus $40 per mill up to 30 mills.

"We put this in the formula to help 'high effort' districts - those where the citizens are already supporting their schools with relatively high local property taxes," said Geake.

"The people in the districts I represent have done so, and they deserve to have that extra effort rewarded. Under the new formula, the Plymouth-Canton schools should receive about $7,351,243.

"In addition, Plymouth-Canton Schools should take in about $22.6 million from property taxes," said Geake. "This will be more than $3.2 million over last year." Plymouth-Canton Community Schools now levy 33.45 mills for operating purposes, a figure which does not include millage levies for bonded indebtedness.

"Total revenues from the two contributing factors (state aid plus local taxes) should be $29.95 million for Plymouth-Canton, or about $1,768 per pupil. This figure compares favorably with $1,609 per pupil in 1978-79.

"In addition, the state will send money for special categories of services to students such as pupil transportation and classes for the handicapped.

"Nonetheless, the district will be on an extremely tight budget and will have a real challenge meeting increased costs for salaries, utilities, and other expenses in the coming year for its growing numbers of students," added Geake.

The school district enrolled 16,116 students in the current school year but expects to have upwards of 17,000 when school doors open again in September.

EPA lawsuit may hike water rates

Water bills for western Wayne County homeowners could increase as much as $25 next year under new rates proposed by the Detroit Water and Sewage Department.

Sewage rates already went up by 16 percent July 1 for the city of Plymouth, Canton and Plymouth townships, and other western Wayne communities.

Another 38 percent increase is proposed to take effect Jan. 1, 1980.

NEXT YEAR'S new rates are expected to raise about $180 million to bring the Detroit sewage plant, which serves the city and 75 suburbs, into compliance with federal anti-pollution regulations.

The rates must comply with a consent judgment issued by federal Judge John Feikens two years ago to settle a lawsuit brought against the city by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA)

Feikens will review the proposed increases in September.

Plymouth and Plymouth Township now are considering water rate increases to its residents based on the July 1 increase of 16 percent and in anticipation of the 38 percent hike on Jan.

Some suburban communities, which have protested the city utility's rate structure and increased charges, may take their latest complaints to Feikens in an attempt to delay the increases.

The new rates are supposed to comply with a settlement reached last fall between Detroit and its suburban cus-

ACCORDING TO John Hubert, finance director for the Wayne County Board of Public Works, a family of four in western Wayne can expect to pay $22 to $25 more for sewage treatment next year. Detroit residents' water bills are expected to go up from $12 to $16. (Charges for sewage treatment and removal are included in water bills).

Western county communities are part of the Rouge Valley Sewage District, operated by Wayne County. .

Hubert says the county adds an operation and maintenance charge, plus local communities add a billing charge to the base rate set by the Detroit depart-

EFFECTIVE JULY 1, the sewage rate charged to western Wayne communities was $2.33 per 1,000 cubic feet of sewage (cfs).

Hubert said the full 25 percent increase assessed other suburban communities wasn't charged because the county expects a rebate from Detroit due to a court decision last year which lowered rates for suburban customers.

The proposed Jan. 1, 1980, rate to municipalities is $3.45 per 1,000 cfs, not including the extra charges from the county.

Hubert said "most of the increase is necessary," but added the county was questioning the cost of bringing the Detroit River treatment plant into compliance with federal clean water standards and the way the increases were spread out across the region.

When it increases its rates, the city of Plymouth also is planning on instituting a flat rate charge for all customers (residential, commercial, industrial) instead of continuing the practice of offering volume discounts to large wa-

Plymouth approves cable television franchise

City of Plymouth residents will have access to more than 20 television stations, possibly within a year but at least by 1981.

Monday night, the Plymouth City Commission voted 5-0 to grant a permit to Omnicom of Michigan to operate cable television (CATV) within the city. The vote also authorized the signing of an agreement with the Iowabased firm.

Jeff Dorn of Omnicom pledged the service would be operating within two years, and could be available within one year.

Omnicom will construct a building in the area which will contain a studio for local programming for the Plymouth-Canton community.

The firm also will be erecting a 200-250-foot tower and now is negotiating with the city about purchase of the well field property owned by the city in Plymouth Township.

After obtaining approval for a franchise from the Canton Township Board of Trustees, Omnicom will make a CATV proposal to Plymouth Township trustees.

PRESENT PLANS call for a package being offered to customers which includes all Detroit VHF and UFH stations plus the Windsor station, two stations in Lansing, one in East Lansing, and four in Toledo.

Omnicom also will import distant signals from stations in Chicago, Atlanta, two in New York, Boston and San Francisco. Other services available will include:

a sports channel, a children's program channel, religious programs, telecast of proceedings in U.S. Congress, a printed news service from UPI wireas well as financial and sports news.

Locally originated service will include a time-weather channel, a community channel, educational channel future, a fire and burglar alarm service may be offered to those who chose to subscribe.

Two movie packages will be offered. The full-run service will feature the release of 18 to 20 movies a month, which will be repeated several times. A variety of movies will be shown, including "R" rated films but not including "Xrated." The mini-movie package will involve six to eight new movies a month all rated "G" or "PG."

Ban on booze is eyed by Hines Park Task Force

The heat's on at Hines Park - and maybe even a ban on alcholic bever-

Park revellers can soon expect to see mounted sheriff's deputy patrols, a new mobile mini-station, even less roadside parking and, possibly, prohibition Hines Park-style.

It's all part of the Wayne County Sheriff's Department's plan to maintain order along the 17-mile parkway, a popular spot among area youth, that winds through western Wayne County from Northville to Dearborn Heights.

Jail cells, which can hold up to 50 persons, will be installed in the recently opened sheriff's mini-station at Hines Drive and Newburgh Road. The station will remain a holding facility for those arrested for park violations.

THE MICHIGAN Legislature last of the six-week-old mini-station, purchase of a mobile trailer for use as an additional mini-station at Telegraph and Hines Drive in Dearborn Heights and renovation of a stable for 10 horses donated to the sheriff's department for the park patrol.

The mounted patrol may begin next week. Five officers who have been taught by the Detroit Police Mounted Patrol Division will complete their training this week. State Rep. Robert Law, R-Livonia, who led the push for extra sheriff's department funding for its Hines operation, said at a press conference Tuesday, "By next year, you'll see a truly changed park.'

Law organized a task force two years ago which has been instrumental in increasing fines for park violators and obtaining increased sheriff's patrols along Hines Drive.

the task force identifies narcotics, disorderly conduct and alcohol as three major park problems.

The report lists 419 narcotics arrests in county parks in 1977, a decrease of 75 from 1974. But illegal possession of alcohol in the parks increased by 353 during the same period to 369 in 1977, according to the report. Disorderly conduct arrests in 1977 numbered 405, an increase of 281 from 1974.

When asked what drugs are used, Lt. Russell Gregory, former park commander and member of the task force, said "everything." Gregory said the task force wants to "bring back the legitimate use of this park by larger groups," such as area church groups, unions and civic associations. The reduced parking shouldn't be a problem, he said, because it can be arranged with groups who register with the sheriff's department.

LAW SAID Tuesday that the major park problem remains "controlling the size of crowds." He said there should be a limit on the number of people entering certain sections of the park. Law noted that several of the task force recommendations have already been approved or implemented, including the two mini-stations, increased sheriff's patrols, strict enforcement of the 10 p.m. curfew, the mounted patrol and increased fines.

Fines for park violations have been increased from a miximum of $50 up to $500 or up to 90 days in jail, with an option of participating in a park clean up program.

Law said the district court judges in the Hines area have been using the stiffer sentencing provisions

State's tax agents seize fun & games

Fun and games came to an end at the Eamily Emporium Store in downtown Plymouth this week

The State Treasury Department descented on the failing business Tuesday to hold an auction for the payment of back taxes.

According to local businessmen, the shop that featured toys and games "for the whole family" closed its doors three weeks ago after it went bankrupt.

state's share of taxes totals, City Treasurer Ken Way says the company owes the city $342.67 in back taxes.

Way made an appearance at the auction Tuesday afternoon to serve company owners with a notice of the tax

"Oh yes, I stopped by to nudge them a little," Way admitted. "I didn't want them to forget about me."

The site was leased from Allan Sparage of Southfield. According to Way, Sparage has potentail tenants lined up for the store front.

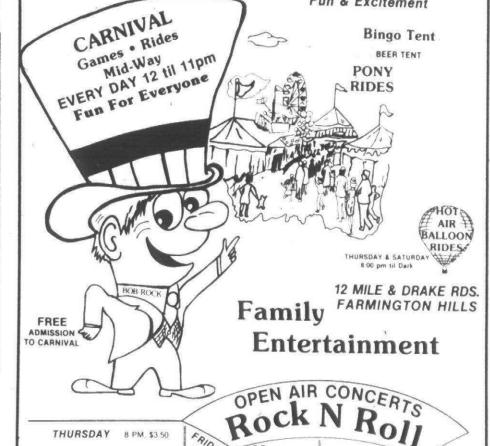

According to observers, the auction lasted 30 minutes and distributed the leftover merchandise in some 37 lots. It attracted less than 10 buyers.

Buyers walked away with a variety of goods ranging from a four-foot teddy bear to a cash register. Toys, games and store shelving were other items that made the auctioneer's block.

By the end of the day, the store's interior looked bleak and dusty. Paper boxes lined the walls in disarray. A few suspended mobiles and a small box of "Big Foot" erasers were left behind.

The late Tom Kelly was one of those who helped build the platform besides Dr. Pino's pond in Colony Farms.

Plymouth — Past & Present

Symphony played outdoors

By Sam Hudson

The recent retirement of Wayne Dunlap as conductor of the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra brings to mind the outdoor concerts he conducted, from 1957 through 1960, at Dr. Ralph Pino's Plymouth Colony Farms just west of Plymouth

Dr. Pino, whose offices were in Detroit but who lived in Plymouth Township, was one of the nation's foremost eye surgeons.

As early as 1949, when the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra was only two years old, Pino had touched on its value to the community in a talk to the Plymouth Rotary Club.

THE MAIN PURPOSE of his talk was to explain the reasons behind the interesting experimental project he had established on his farm, located near the intersection of Ann Arbor Poad and Ann Arbor Trail. (More about this farm will appear in a future column.)

During his talk to the Rotary Club, Dr. Pino referred to the need for decentralization of big municipalities. Among his recommendations were the establishment of organized choruses in rural communities.

He specifically referred to the kind of music the Plymouth Symphony was creating "as a way to beat the jukebox attraction and at the same time help create a better young man and woman for the future.

Eight years later, in 1957, Dr. Pino gave tangible evidence of his interest in the local symphony by inviting the orchestra to use his property for a series of outdoor summer concerts. The Plymouth Symphony Society readily accepted the invitation.

The place Pino proposed for the concert was an ideal site. A hill, rising gently from a willow-bordered pond, formed a natural amphitheater from which the audience could see as well as WAYNE DUNLAP and other prime movers in the Plymouth Symphony Society soon began to organize supporters of the orchestra in order to made the site suitable for performances.

A platform on which the orchestra could perform had to be built and covered. Entrances to and from the site had to be cleared.

Railroad ties for use as piles; 3/4-inch plywood panels, and reams of canvas were scrounged from local business firms either gratis or at reduced pric-

Supporters of the orchestra worked under the hot summer sun, seating the ties on end into the ground, placing plywood panels on top of them, and erecting the canvas as a backdrop to reflect the sound toward the audience.

Local Boy Scouts volunteered to clear trees and brush to make paths for people to walk from the parking place built near Joy Road. Those who came to listen to the orchestra either sat on the grass or on folding chairs brought from their own homes.

The symphonic strains produced by the orchestra were accompanied by the lazy movement of fleecy white clouds moving slowly past the big red barn on the hill. A mother duck and her brood of young ones who nested by the side of the pond wandered here and there. oblivious to the music or the crowd.

THE SUMMER CONCERTS were an outstanding artistic and social success, drawing people not only from Plymouth but from many other communi-

More than half of the people who attended were from outside the Plymouth area. Some performances drew crowds as large as 2,000.

The series lasted three years, coming to an end after the concerts of 1960. Then, for financieal reasons, the Symphony Society had to face the choice between regular season and summer concerts. The Board understandably chose the former.

Dr. Pino sold his farm to Stewart Oldford & Sons, the real estate developers, in about 1969. They built condominiums and houses on the land, retaining the name Plymouth Colony Farms, and making attractive use of the pond and willows beside which the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra had performed.

Property sale low, cost is up

Rising prices and high mortgage interest rates are slowing the home resale market from its record pace of the past two years, according to the Western Wayne Oakland County Board of Realtors (WWOCBR).

A mid-year report by the board shows 1979 sales down 10.1 percent compared to the first six-months of 1978. Listings in the same period showed a 5.9 percent increase.

"There is a good variety of homes available with a range of prices in nearly all of the areas we cover in our 1,600 square mile territory," said WWOCBR President John Cole.

"UNFORTUNATELY, an increasing number of prospective buyers are being forced out of the market or must settle for a lesser home than desired because of escalating prices. Others may be holding back hoping for a decline in interest rates.

Cole said the average price for exisiting homes rose 23.8 percent since last June to reach $53,722 this June.

"A year ago, the interest rate for a 30-year conventional mortgage with 20 percent down was 9.5 percent," he said. "Now the same mortgage has an interest rate of 11.5 percent.

"Average home prices have increased 9.3 percent in the past six months. Following this trend, the price of the average existing home in our territory will be up another $5,500 by year's end. So, even if mortgage interest rates were to miraculously drop a full percentage point, the monthly payment on principal and interest would still be nearly $10 higher than at the

HOW DOES THIS help a local policeman in his day-to-day job?

It really doesn't, according to Wayne County Sheriff's Dept. Sgt. Raymond Megge, director of the program and the sheriff's internal security bureau.

But the four days of specialized training the officers went through is nonetheless valuable, said Megge, because "who can predict the future?"

"We're not looking for just political terrorists or assassins," he said. The classroom sessions also covered the handling of "professional hit men and mental cases," Megge said.

"Arthur Bremer (who crippled 1972 presidential candidate George Wallace in Maryland) was not a member of any radical left-wing group," added Megge.

With security now being planned for next summer's Republican National Convention in Detroit, Megge said much more coordination between county sheriff's, city and suburban police units is a neccesity. Republican delegates are expected to be housed in hotels all over the metropolitan area.

THE LOCAL police officers were awake for more than 30 hours last weekend. Most of the time was spent in the woods outside the "principal's residence" (the former home of the child center superintendent) in anticipation of a guerrilla attack.

The tally for the weekend showed the principal was killed three times, with numerous casualties on both sides.

The long period without sleep was to test the officers' "stress margin," Megge said. In real situations, they could be under fire or "agitated by demonstrators," he added. "How much can they take?"

The field manuevers are made deliberately difficult for the police students, seven-pound mosquitos.

haps best summed up the training "It's fun," he said, "except for the 30 hours without sleep and the five to six he added, because the officers would better retain the training. In one case, a dead pipe bomb was wrapped in a newspaper and placed in a patrol car. Several officers entered the car but didn't see the newspaper

Megge said, with some "almost impos-

An Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms agent, who requested his name not be used, said more than 15 minutes transpired before the bomb was noticed. "These can tend to mess you up a bit and spoil your day," he reminded the MEGGE SAID the executive protection training is usually funded through donations, mostly in the $500 to $1,000 range, from corporations such as Ford, General Motors, Detroit Edison, Blue Cross-Blue Shield, Manufacturers' Bank and National Bank of Detroit.

Corporate security forces also participate in the training.

Students in the course pay a $50 fee. and area police departments provide a squad car for use in the motorcades. The four-day training costs a total of $4,000, and Megge said he's out of money for next year's session.

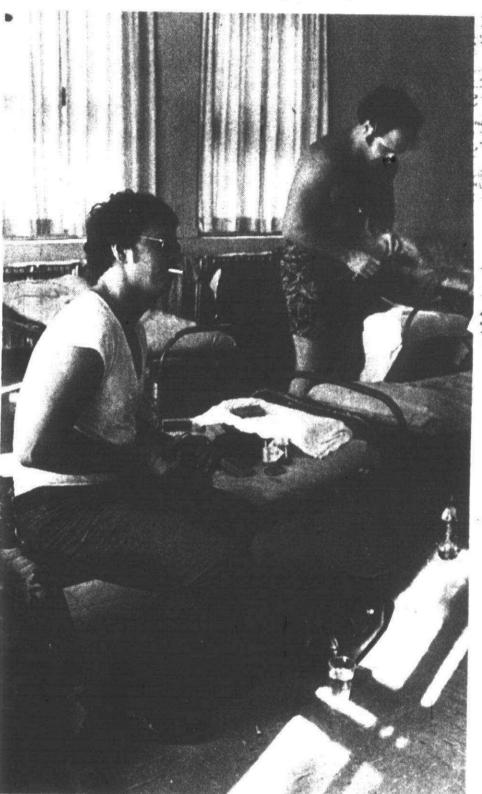

The training is the only course of its kind offered by a municipal police

WHAT DID officers think of it?

A few from the South Oakland Countv Tactical Services Unit, a stand-by squad of local officers from Birmingham, Troy, Southfield, Farmington Hills and other cities, said the training will help them in expected "dignitary security" for next summer's Republican convention.

Canton takes a back seat

I'm writing this letter to express my feelings on the Fourth of July

I'm well aware of the meaning of the parade, and I understand that the competition involved is just for fun. But if there is to be a competition it should be a fair one.

In my eyes, and in the eyes of many of the students I've talked to, Plymouth Canton High students got a back seat in the parade.

I feel it's very unfair that the Rockettes have won in the competition against Canton Chiefettes for the past six years. Every year I've watched the two squads' competition and every year it's been close, both squads doing very well, but this year I noticed quite a difference.

Canton Chiefettes moved into four pletely different formations. very well executed compared to the Rockettes' two. The Chiefettes made two pin wheels which to anyone who knows anything about pom pon are very difficult, whereas the Rockettes formed one long kick line.

Now I'm not trying to take anything away from the Rockettes. They did their routine very well, but so did the Chiefettes and with the degree of difficulty the Chiefettes had, I thought they were by far the

Another thing I noticed was that the Rockettes got a big "Thanks for all your hard work." The Chiefettes practiced every day, rain or shine, and got not even so much as a "thank you."

I think it's time for the people of Plymouth to open their eyes to the students of Plymouth Canton High School.

Pursell, Ford praise Carter's special board in energy plan

By TIM RICHARD and TOM LONERGAN

Two things are new in President Carter's new energy proposals, according to western Wayne County congress-

One is the Energy Mobilization Board, which Carter compared to the War Production Board of World War II. Its purpose is to cut federal red tape in getting production of new energy.

The other is that Carter has put a $140 billion price tag on his proposals, they said.

The lawmakers - two Democrats and one Republican - were generally pleased by Carter's efforts to show leadership in an area where, until now, neither Congress nor the public has shown any air of excitement.

"I CAN'T FIGURE out why a Democratic president can't get together with the leadership of the Democrats and Republicans, the way Truman used to do," said Rep. Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth, whose 2nd District includes most of Livonia

"He can't put it together with (Sen. Howard) Baker and (Rep. John) Rhodes," said Pursell of the Republican leadership. "I think Carter's a couple of years too late."

Citing town hall meetings in the Monroe County portion of his district, Pursell said the public is "very confused. We do have a loss of confidence in government and business."

Although Carter didn't spell out all the details, Pursell was concerned that the president's expenditure on public transportation — $10 billion over 10 years - might be "too low." Southeastern Michigan's own transit plans alone would eat up a substantial portion of that amount.

"MOST OF WHAT he proposed is already moving," said Rep. William D. Ford, D-Taylor, whose 15th District includes Garden City, Westland and Can-

"The synthetic fuels bill has already passed the house. A proposal for something like the War Production Board has been under consideration by the Democratic leadership in the house.

"It would cut a lot of red tape, but (consumer advocate Ralph) Nader and the environmentalists are afraid it will cut back on environmental protection. I don't think that's necessarily the case. Mo Udall (liberal Democratic congressman from Arizona), as orthodox an environmentalist as you'll find, is

Red tape is a major problem, said Ford, an eight-term congressman. "There has been no major oil refinery built east of the Mississippi in 10 years. We have all this water east of the Mississippi, and yet there have been no new hydroelectric projects since the TVA in FDR's day (the Tennessee Valley Authority during the 1930s administration of Franklin Delano Roosevelt)."

" I WAS DISAPPOINTED the president didn't say anything about nuclear power," Ford went on.

"We need a crash program in how to use nuclear power," he said, referring to the Three Mile Island nuclear generating plant accident. "Hell, it's dangerous to experiement with massive use of coal. People are killed in coal mines, but no one has been killed at a nuclear plant yet.

"We recently retired the nuclear submarine Nautilus after 25 years. Men were on it months at a time, but no one was ever hurt. If we can do it (use nuclear power safely) for national defense in a direct sense, we ought to be able to do it for national defense in an indirect sense," Ford said.

An area that Carter didn't mention, said Ford, was a proposal among liberal Democrats to set up a federal purchasing authority to buy crude oil from the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries. Open market bidding by * oil companies is driving up oil prices, and only a federal authority has the clout to deal with them, they argue. Ford contrasted Carter's willingness to spend $140 billion to the Nixon Administration's 1973 pledge to attainenergy independence 1980 while failing to ask for the necessary money.

"VERY SOUND and sensible," said, Rep. William Brodhead, D-Detroit, of Carter's proposals. "I think the country is ready for some action."

He called Carter's Sunday night televised speech a recognition that the energy crisis "has to be attacked on anumber of fronts," including solar power, conservation-and the development of synthetic fuels.

"We've made progress in these areas but we don't know where the breakthroughs will come," said Brodhead, whose 17th District includes Redford, Southfield and Farmington.

The synthetic fuels bill and the windfall profits tax on oil companies have passed the house, and a committee has reported out a standby gasoline ration. ing plan.

By being willing up pump money into development of alternative fuel supplies, he said, Carter wants to provide capital for faster movement.

Job bank offers choices to kids By TERI BANAS

Do you often dream of doing something with your life but don't know where to start?

If you're a high school student, the Plymouth-Canton School District has a handy-dandy computer that could guide you down the path of career

The program lists hundreds of possibilities that are narrowed down according to your personal interests.

Have you ever given much thought to becoming a pest controller? It may surprise you to learn you are well suited to this type of work. Your vocational interests also could spell out a strong leaning toward becoming a police officer in vice work.

The categories range from various power.

positions from agriculture to transportation.

The Michigan Occupational Information System (MOIS) has been housed at Plymouth Salem High School since last fall. The computer works along the same lines as a vocational counselor. After answering a series of questions, it spits out a list of positions that match your personal work interests.

The testing lasts an hour and includes such questions as: Do you prefer to work indoors or outdoors? And, do you enjoy working with people?

THE PROGRAM is administered through the SCORE (Student Career Opportunities through Relevant Experiences) program. SCORE is a division of the Wayne County Office of Man-

Local Director Byron Richardson says the computer service is available during the summer months for those students who did not find the time to use it during the school year.

"During the school year, kids get very discouraged if they have to make an appointment and then wait awhile for it," Richardson says.

Just to make it easy, SCORE employs a full-time Plymouth Salem graduate to help administer the testing.

Kathy Daniels, 19, operates the unit between 8 a.m. and 3 p.m. daily for those who drop in. She also does general office work at the school. She says students of any age can take the test.

She also advises that students take the interest test on several occasions during their high school career to chart changing career interests.

In addition to listing job possibilities the computer also forecasts the change ing job market in Michigan. It lists required education as well as where specialized education can be obtained. Reaction to the computer service has ranged from "amazement" to "shock." Daniels says. Not only are students amazed at its functioning, are shocked at the length of education necessary for particular occupations.

"They're fascinated with it," Richardson says. "This keeps their attention, as well as a television.

Daniels says most students who approach the computer service are "hazy" about career choices. She adds most students appear to benefit from the opportunity to narrow down their career options.

editorial opinion

Worker compensation laws should be revised

State Sen. John Welborn's speech on worker's compensation is heavily sprinkled with the charge "the legislature has done nothing about changing

That editorial comment crops up continuously as Welborn talks about how workers' compensation payments by businesses have skyrocketed in recent years, yet payments to individual injured employees have stayed well below the maximums allowed employees in Wisconsin, Ohio and Indiana.

It may seem that Sen. Welborn, vice chairman of the Senate Labor Committee, has more reason to be irked at his colleagues in Lansing than other legis-While the legislature kicks around the controversial workers' compensation proposals year after year, businesses from Welborn's district in southwestern Michigan hop the border into Indiana.

A Republican from Kalamazoo, Welborn has seen a small auto parts business leave Michigan for Indiana after worker's compensa tion charges for its 15 employees jumped from $3,731 in 1971 to $14,623 in

The area's proximity to Indiana is a constant temptation for businesses bending under the weight of unemployment compensation and workers' compensation payments to jump the line and move into a state which makes it less expensive, and more attractive, to do business.

And it's not unlike the situation in southeast Michigan where Ohio makes a more attractive, less expensive place to do business.

SPEAKING RECENTLY to a chamber of commerce in Oakland County, Welborn used Hayes Albion, a foundry operation in Jackson, as an example of how workers' compensation costs differ from state to state.

The company's operation in North Carolina pays $197 per year per employee for workers' comp. Its Flood hides explanations

Only one option seems to exist for the victims of two recent flooding incidents in Canton. When the next heavy rain occurs, put on the hip boots and

In spite of the various efforts of Canton Township officials and its engineers from the Wade. Trim and Associates Company, it seems unlikely that an easy, inexpensive solution will be found to the flooding problems plaguing some residents.

There are numerous theories as to what is creating the flooding problems primarily in the Windsor Park and Carriage Hills subdivisions. It could be clogged storm drains. It could be over development of the township with subsequent soil erosion and sewer overload. It could be bridges over the storm drains.

Wade, Trim is working on a study to discover what is causing the flooding, which residents of the two subdivisions say is occuring for the first time

The study will take time. Some of Canton's interim measures, such as requiring straw bales to border building projects (to prevent erosion), stricter enforcement of street cleaning operations and cleaning of at least two storm drains, may help until some answers are found.

But the people who have suffered financial losses from the flooding or dreaded every rainfall aren't in a mood to hear about measures that may help. They want to hear about permanent solutions.

That's what they told Robert Wade of Wade, Trim last week at a meeting originally called to discuss dye testing of sewers by the homes of selected fam-

In fact, the residents who packed the meeting the night after the flood were in some cases, rude, abusive and obnoxious. Yes, they have a flooding problem. Yes it's a financial drain and they have every right to be upset and to seek solutions.

There is never any excuse for some of the loud, obscene remarks made by some people in the audience. This type of behavior serves no purpose — it certainly won't prevent flooding.

It's one thing to make darn sure that the folks who work for the residents of Canton know that they had better do something about the flooding. the flood victims can make the same check on the performance of the Wayne County Road Commission, which controls some sewers; or the Wayne County Drain Commission, which controls the ma-

Realistically, there is only so much Canton or Wayne County can do to stop the flooding, and almost any of those options is going to cost some money.

Maybe those having the flooding problems won't mind increased taxes to take care of cleaning storm thrains and the like; but they may be surprised to discover their neighbors with no flooding problems won't be interested in voting to pay more for someone else's problem.

And all the shouting and cussing in the world won't change that.

Iowa operation pays $390 and in Ohio it pays $848. But in Michigan, the cost runs $1,902 per employee

Although the statistics for Iowa and North Carolina aren't fair to compare to more industrialized states, it's easy to see the business would prefer to be located in Ohio than in Michigan.

An employee injured on the job would be better off in Ohio where he would receive up to $186 per week. In North Carolina, the employee would receive $146 and in Iowa the payment would be $160. But in Michigan, where the business pays nearly 10 times the rate in North Carolina, the employee would receive a maximum of only $144 per

"That's the guts of the workman's comp problem in the state - everyone is being hurt," said Wel-

WHY IS WORKERS' compensation important to us and why are Welborn's comments about the legislature's lack of action significant?

The point is that it affects us all — the businessman, the employee, the taxpayer.

As Michigan loses its appeal to businesses, the taxpayers are forced to pick up a greater share of the tax burden. The idea is to make Michigan a lucrative place to do business and to guarantee that the state, and the Plymouth-Canton community, retain their tax bases.

Welborn has introduced a bill which he claims will raise the minimum payment to an injured employee to $275 per week as well as drastically reduce the cost to businesses. He claims that the key is to remove disability cases and retirees from the workers' comp law.

The idea is to eliminate situations where a person could draw workers' comp, unemployment comp, Social Security and a pension at the same time.

Welborn's proposal is similar to Gov. Milliken's plan, but both will stand the test of legislative study and, hopefully, action.

These issues of workers' comp have been kicked around for years. We could be headed for another year of inaction unless taxpayers let themselves be

The most effective way to force action is to let your elected officials know just where you stand Although business has lobbied for workers' comp reform, it will take public pressure to force any changes in the law this year.

Let your opinions be known — that's the surest way to get action in Lansing. State legislators from the Plymouth-Canton community include Sens. Robert Geake, R-Northville and William Faust, D-Westland, and Reps. Thomas Brown, D-Westland and Roy Smith, R-Ann Arbor. Let them know how you feel by writing them at the State Capitol, Lans-

Carter's jobs monumental

The culture shock, arriving home from a vacation in Great Britain, wasn't driving on the right side of the road again instead of the left, or sipping coffee instead of tea for breakfast.

The culture shock started when I drove into the bank parking lot and realized what I already knew but had forgotten: in suburbia, banks aren't located in shopping centers or even adjacent to other buildings. Our bank buildings are all isolated. In Chipping Campden and Bath, I had cashed traveler's checks in banks next door to the shops we patronized, but in America a trip to the bank involved a special drive.

The culture shock continued at the fruit market. A day earlier, I had seen English housewives walking to the store with a market basket. But on this side of the Atlantic, my first view of commerce was a lone woman hopping into a van the size of a truck with one package of fruit.

THEN PRESIDENT Jimmy Carter came onto the tube Sunday night to say our nation was suffering a loss of self-confidence. The place to regain confidence, he said, was in national adoption of an energy policy that would a) reduce consumption of foreign oil and b) seek alternative sources of ener-

Great idea, I thought. But how, in the name of all that's green and pure in suburbia, do we apply it?

We could all save gasoline if City Hall told banks it would approve no more building permits for freestanding branch buildings, and banks would have to be in shopping centers. That would help us in the future, but what about the banks that are already standing?

As for shoppers who drive colossal vehicles to buy a bag of fruit, how do you rearrange entire suburban cities so that there are corner grocery stores? Making the next car a subcompact will help, but it's simply no solution to tell the lady to walk. because the distance is prohibitive for walking and there are no sidewalks.

Our towns have been "planned" — if you can call it planning — around taking separate auto trips to the bank, to retail stores, to specialty shops, to the lawyer, the doctor, the government office.

"THERE IS NO way to avoid sacrifice," said Carter, and he is absolutely correct.

We can get used to $2.50 a gallon gasoline, as the British have done. We can get used to small cars that get 40 mpg, as the British have done. But how do you redesign an entire outer city that's built around a separate auto motion for every business transaction and 35-cent gasoline?

I doubt even now that most readers have any notion of how painful the readjustment is going to be.

A substantial proportion of our population needs big internal combustion engines the way a baby needs a pacifier.

CARTER IS also correct that the nation has lost its old ebullient self-confidence.

But I wonder if Carter realizes that self-confidence was undermined not by the energy crisis, not by Watergate, not by the loss of the Vietnam war.

Our self-confidence was shot when the late John F. Kennedy convinced us that "prestige" was a worthy national goal. The America of the 1950s and '60s was, to my knowledge, the only nation on the face of the earth which has ever gone up to peasants in other countries with questionnaires asking: "Do you like us a) very much, b) a little or c) not at all?"

Our teenage neurosis about being popular was pretty ingrained, as Kennedy the First demonstrated. If we can solve our monumental energy problems, we would have good reason to be cocky again.

Tiger tales

Fans get tainted coverage

"I was always told to cover the event, no matter what happens.

Those words of wisdom come from my colleague Eddie Edgar, a living legend in the world of sports reporting.

Known as The Stroller by Observer & Eccentric readers, Eddie worked for many years as a Free Press sports reporter and has attended Tiger baseball games for more than 50 years.

When it comes to being a journalist, Eddie has experience to back up the integrity of his opinions. The veteran reporter's reaction was to the poor coverage by Tiger broadcasters George Kell and Al Kaline during the disco riot at Chicago White Sox Comisky Park last Thursday.

Sports fans have got to go with Eddie on this one. George and Al blew it.

YOU SEE, news is news, whether it happens at the ball park or at a city council meeting and must be covered as such. But through the years, baseball clubs have managed to protect themselves from public scrutiny by hiring their own broadcasters.

A few years back, the Federal Communication Commission (FCC) raised a stink about such practices and ruled that at least one person in the booth shouldn't be a public relations hack for the team.

Thus we have Al Kaline, whose paycheck is written by WDIV, the "we're for the Detroit Tigers winning the pennant" station.

ing too much.

Detroit fans were cheated out of fair coverage of a news story last Thursday night. As Al might put it, "No question about it, George."

Saga of Aviation Country Club is told

In the lush 1920s, a group of high-rolling Detroiters decided to build an exclusive club.

There would be two parts.

In downtown Detroit, they'd have a facility to rival the Detroit Athletic Club. Some 30 miles to the northwest, in West Bloomfield Township, a country club would be the second half. It would feature a sporty, 18-hole golf course, riding stables, large clubhouse and a pier for swimming in beautiful Green Lake.

Truly this was all fit for a millionaire, or the guy who lived like one.

TO GET FROM ONE FACILITY to the other, members would fly. They'd grab a charter at Detroit City Airport and touch down at the club's Green Lake strip, which was to be built at Keith and Willow roads.

The golf course, laid out to run along Green Lake's north shore, would wrap around tiny Flanders Lake, also on the property.

As the course was being completed, work began on the downtown Detroit club, in the area of First and Howard.

Being men of vision, the owners named it the Aviation Country Club.

One thing they didn't see, however, was what was about to happen to their finances. Almost without warning, the Great Depression in 1929 unfurled its sledge-hammer blow to world economy.

Like so many other grand ideas, the concept of the Aviation Country Club was dead.

For more than a decade, the steel work on the downtown club stood naked. Later it was taken over by new owners and completed — not as a club, but rather as apartment-type residences.

I'M NOT AT ALL CERTAIN how Walter Flanders figured in this opulent plan. But it was Flanders, builder of the Flanders Twenty car, who owned all the land around Green Lake from 1909 until the mid-'20s.

In 1911, he built a stone mansion and nearby a three-story garage, which had two bowling lanes in the basement. He sold these and the land to Aviation's promoters about 1924.

The mansion became the clubhouse. The garage was turned into a recreation center.

Following the crash of '29, the property was picked up by another group which renamed it Lockhaven Country Club. Golf continued on the course, horse riding out of the stables and swimming in the

As with that first bunch of high rollers, money problems dogged the second set of owners.

In about 1934 or '35, a cluster of members decided to take over, each kicking in a few thousand dollars. For a third — and final — time, the facility got a new name: Green Lake Country Club.

THAT'S WHEN I GOT TO KNOW of this delightful summer recreation area. My dad and his brother, who were partners in a machine tool business, became members.

Each Sunday through May, June, July and August, the Riordan parents and we kids would take that nearly one-hour drive from northwest Detroit to Green Lake.

The Riordan men and boys would play golf, the girls would ride. As the afternoon wore on, we'd all end up swimming in the crystal-clear water of Green Lake. Then it was off to the club's dining room for dinner, the entire Riordan clan sitting around one huge table.

That was really living. It ran from about 1936 to 1941.

Enter World War II. Exit forever Green Lake Country Club.

ALL OF THIS HISTORY came back to me last weekend as I labored my way around nine holes on a course in Jackson. It was warm and sunny, perfect for golf. My mind drifted back to the time when I learned the game at Green Lake.

Some things a guy will never forget.

Like that first hole. It was about 260 yards, a gentle dogleg to the right. The fairway followed the lake's shore. A creek sliced across the grass at about 220 yards.

I still hear my dad telling my brother and me, "Try to hit your drive just to the right of that clump of birch. You'll be short of the creek. From there it's a chip to the green."

Someone would always recount the time that Walter Hagen, then golf's greatest professional, had played Green Lake. His tee shot on No. 1 landed on the green. That was some kind of blow in the days of wooden shafted clubs.

AND GUESS WHAT? After thinking last Saturday about those wonderful days at Green Lake as a teenager, I decided on an impulse Monday afternoon to see what that area of West Bloomfield looks like in the summer of 1979.

The golf course, long a subdivision of fine homes, is impossible to discern, except for some of the old willow trees which grow by both Green and Flanders lakes. It was great fun being able to recognize these giants, which were pretty big fellows back in the 1940s.

Most fascinating of all is the clubhouse.

Shortly after World War II, it became Green Lake Resthaven, an 86-bed home for the elderly. It looks almost exactly as it did then, with a huge front porch looking down from the top of a hill, surrounded by giant oaks. Some of those trees stand 60 and 70 feet tall.

PARKING MY CAR along the circular drive leading to the home, I wandered onto the porch, enthralled with the beautiful landscape. The front room with its oak paneled walls and beamed ceiling had not been changed. And there was the massive fieldstone fireplace.

My congratulations go to D.J. Bortz Jr., who operates this facility, for the way in which he has preserved the old clubhouse.

On my way out, there was still one more experience in store for me. I had heard that John Warren, one-time West Bloomfield official, had lived since 1947 off Willow Road, on what once was part of the golf course. A visit with Mr. Warren seemed in order.

John is steeped in the history of Green Lake.

When I mentioned my interest in the one-time golf course, he quickly produced a copy of the original plat for Green Lake Hills dated March 1930. On the north shore is lettered Lockhaven Country Club, with 27 holes shown.

I studied the layout and quickly could tell the 18 holes which were actually developed didn't come out quite as platted.

He said he was never able to tell exactly on what hole his home was erected. One bit of terrain that always has fascinated him, however, was a plateau of sorts just west of his driveway. It is bordered on one side by trees and on another by deep depressions which could once have been sand traps. He surmised it might have been a green.

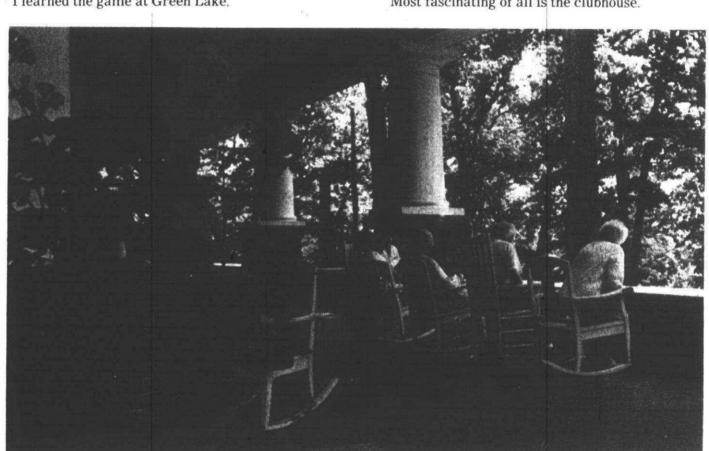

And well it might. Who knows? After some 40 years, I couldn't orient to the old layout.

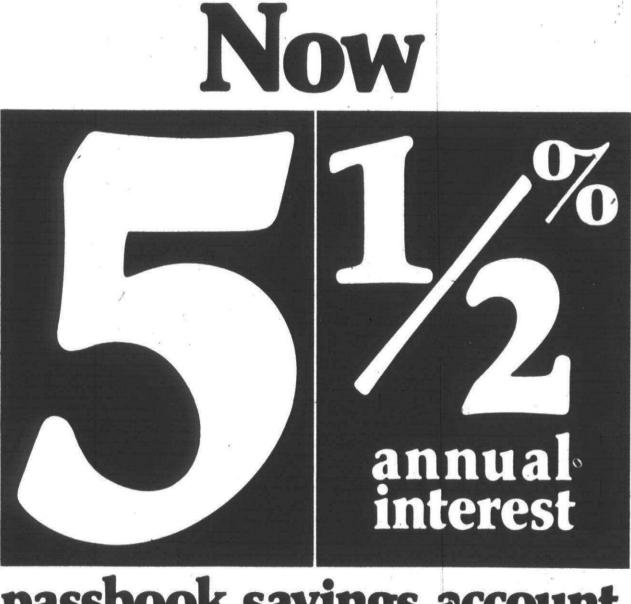

THEY SAY YOU CAN'T GO HOME again, and I guess I really wasn't doing that on Monday — just sort of wandering through the past.

One thing for sure is that I wish I could somehow recapture that easy-going golf swing I had as a teen.

But that, dear friends, I'm sad to report is gone forever.

Airy and bright, the front porch of Green Lake Resthaven retirement home was once part of the Aviation, then Lockhaven, then Green Lake country clubs. It looks much like it did when built in 1911. A gently slopping front lawn, which runs down toward the water, is rich with giant oak trees, some stretching up to 70 feet in height.

Changing mouthwash won't help receding gums

Dear Dr. DeFrancesco: My gums are receding. I have tried changing my mouthwash and my toothpaste, but nothing seems to help. Mrs. M.J.M.

If I were you, I would try talking to your dentist. Your gums may be receding for many reasons.

Accumulated tartar under the gums may have forced away the peridonated membrane. Removal of tartar must be done by a dentist or dental Brushing your teeth incorrectly may worsen the condition. Check with your dentist.

Dear Dr. DeFrancesco: Are X-rays necessary during a routine checkup?

Your dentist depends on X-ray examinations — a necessary part of complete, comprehensive dental care — to help him diagnose and treat conditions that threaten your oral health. Early decay, bone erosion due to gum diseases. impacted teeth, tumors and abscesses are all examples of problems that show up in X-rays.

Dr. Joseph De Francesco

Dear Dr. DeFrancesco: I have had all my teeth extracted and I need full dentures. Most of my friends who have dentures are unhappy because their teeth appear unnatural and false. My mouth is small and I don't want large teeth. Ms. J.O.

Dentures should look natural. Artificial teeth are made with slight imperfections so that they appear natural; they are made in different sizes and shades.

When your dentist is ready to try the dentures in your mouth, invite a relative or friend for an opinion on the appearance of the teeth. Because the teeth are set in a wax matrix at this point, they can still be altered to please you.

Dear Dr. DeFrancesco: My child has no second tooth to push out the baby tooth. Can this tooth be retained to serve as a permanent tooth?

Yes, this tooth can be retained and used as a permanent tooth. How long it can be kept in the mouth is anyone's guess. Many baby teeth have been used for years.

Eventually, the root will be resorbed and the tooth will fall out. This condition can be hereditary.

Dear Dr.DeFrancesco: What can children drink containing small amounts of sugar? Mrs. A.J.

Select natural juices. Pineapple, orange, tomato and grapefruuit juices are appetizing to children. Pick the unsweetened juices with no additives or

Dear Dr. DeFrancesco: Must I go to the dentist's office to have tartar removed from my teeth prop-

Yes. Dentists and dental hygienists are the only persons who are trained to clean hard deposits of tartar, or calculus, from your teeth.

Their instruments are sharp and often have to be placed beneath the gums, so the removal of tartar could easily injure oral tissues if not done properly.

You can help in one way, though. How? By brushing your teeth properly and using dental floss daily. you will cut down on future accumulations of tar-

Dear Dr. DeFrancesco: Does the average water filter attached to the kitchen faucet remove fluoride from the water supply? Mrs. J.D.K.

Most filters remove chlorine from the water, but leave fluorides intact.

However, the specifications of each water purifier should be checked to find out exactly how the filter works.

Power-laden Morrell squad set

By BRAD EMONS

Eleven teams, including Morrell Builders of the Plymouth Recreation League, have entered this weekend's Modified Softball Tournament, which will be played at Massey Field and Canton High School.

Other teams include Corsi's No. 1, Herc's Restaurant, Bee Jay's, Side Street, Trading Post, Fonte D'Amore and Famous Recipe Chicken - all teams from the Plymouth League.

Bascom Ratliff, Mason Lounge and a team yet to be named from Port Huron have also entered.

hot bat of late for Morrell. Massey Field however may prove to be an obstacle for Morrell. The menacing eight-foot fences and 280-0 foul lines are rarely tested.

"You'll hardly see a homer at Massey Field," said Grimes. "We're a power hitting team but we'll just have to hit them in the gaps." Side Street and Bee Jay's are two teams from the Monday-Wednesday league who figure to make a run at the title.

Herc's will be hurt by the loss of veteran pitcher Ken Casey who tore a bicep muscle. His son, Larry, a catcher, will not play either.

Herc's has a fine shortstop in Dan Pederson. Mason Lounge, a team from Livonia in the Plymouth League, will rely on the pitching of Brian Dinsmore in quest for the crown.

Individual trophies will be awarded to the first and second place teams. Two team sponsor trophies will also be awarded.

A most valuable player trophy will also be given.

Bronco ready for camp

Egloff bounces back from hamstring tear

By BRAD EMONS

As a third year pro with the Denver Broncos, Ron Egloff knows his role and is quite happy with it.

The 1973 Plymouth Salem graduate is making a comeback of sorts with the playoff contending Broncos, a member of the American Football Conference's Western Division.

Egloff, a 6-5, 237-pound reserve tight end, missed the second half of the season with a painful hamstring tear, which required surgery.

We were playing against Baltimore in the eighth game last year and I put on a burst of speed going down the field," Egloff explained.

"I felt something break, like a rubber band," he said. "I was through for Egloff was apprehensive about surgery on the delicate hamstring. He was somewhat worried about his future as a professional.

"The type of surgery I had is rare," Egloff said. "I thought about my future because a receiver depends so much on his legs.

Egloff was declared injured for the rest of the 1978 season even though he was jogging again in three weeks. He put in many hours of rehabilitation lifting weights, riding bicycles and using whirlpools.

"It was tough sitting in the stands but the trainers told me my rehabilitation was ahead of schedule," said Egloff. The strapping tight end missed the Thanksgiving Day encounter in which the Detroit Lions edged the Broncos, "I watched the game on television that day. I wish I would have been out there that day giving it to the Lions," he said. During the offseason, Egloff continued to lift weights in Denver (his yearround home now), play basketball and What next?

That's the question being asked by the area bowlers as they view the latest equipment while getting ready for another season.

The latest bit is the extension of the automatic scorer that now figures the individual and team averages, the team standings and everything else that the secretary has been doing except collecting the money. And they figure that may come next.

Being a league secretary always has been a chore. But the job had to be done as much in the way of tournament entries, and prize money depended on averages - both individual and team. But with the new machine the secretary's main duty is to collect the bowling fees.

If the new machine is adopted officially, it means the passing of the old-fashioned secretary and puts him in the class with the old-time foul judge and the pinsetters.

Not many present day bowlers recall it, but the foul judge used to sit in a cage up on the wall. He sat in line with the foul line and kept track of an entire league.

It was the same with the pinsetters. They used to be cooped up in the pits and spent most of their time ducking flying pins. Then came the automatic pin setter and the pinboy vanished from the scene.

Now progress is aimed at the secretary. No wonder the bowlers are asking, "What next?"

THE NAMES Mohacsi and Fiebig have dominated women's bowling for some time and, from all indications, this condition will continue.

Mary Mohacsi, who has been the queen several times, recently fired a 719 in the classic at Town & Country Lanes. And Cora Fiebig was honored with the captaincy of the allcity team

Now the Greater Detroit Junior Bowling Association has named its all-city teams and who should be on the top team, but the Mohacsi and Fiebig children.

Sandi Mohacsi and Lisa Fiebig. have been placed No. 1 and No. 2 in the open division. So, it won't be long until they, too, will be in the all-star leagues.

IT DIDN'T take very long for Bob Bascchi, a member of the Goebel team who won the 1979 ABC all events to learn that there is a price to pay.

When he decided to leave Goebel and join the Stroh team for the coming season, he lost his elgibility to try for a place on the U.S. Team that will bowl in the world champion-

CHARLIE RIFFLE got away to a good start in the men's trio at Westland Bowl when he fired a 256. LOU STRAUB was in town last weekend. He is chairing the Plymouth

High School Class of 1930 reunion, which will be at the Mayflower Meeting House next June.

Lou reports that to date, 57 classmates and their spouses are planning to attend. He has not been able to reach some of members of the class yet, but he is still trying.

Among the teachers who accepted the invitation to the reunion are Ken "Beef" Matheson, who coached football, basketball and track at PHS 50 years ago. Lou visited him in St. Petersburg last winter. Matheson winters in Florida and spends the summers in the Interlochen area.

DOROTHY SHAFFER and Jane Drewniak had high scores at last Thursday's party bridge games in the Plymouth Cultural Center on Farmer Street. The games which are open to the public begin shortly after noon.

APRIL LEWIS and Chris Janovsky, both of Canton Township, will appear with Ted Knight this summer in "The Impossible Years" at the Cherry County Playhouse, Traverse City.

April is spending the summer as an apprentice at the playhouse. She will have the opportunity to meet, work with and take classes from professional entertainers. Among the pros appearing there are Jack Carter, Karen Valentine, Pat Paulsen, Dick Shawn and Broderick Crawford. As an apprentice, she will be involved in all the activities necessary to "put up" a show: Set building, lighting, assistant stage managing, make-up, costuming and performing weekly in children's theater shows. April is a senior at Plymouth Canton High School and a member of Thespian Troop 354. She headed make-up and costume crews for high school productions of "See How They Run," "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying," "Damn Yankees and "Mime

CHRIS JANOVSKY, son of Charles and Carol Janovsky, also is an apprentice at the playhouse.

A comparative newcomer to the world of theater, he performed for the first time last year in the Centennial Educational Park's production of "Damn Yankees." He enjoyed the experience so much that he went on to perform in the "One-Acts" at Plymouth Canton High School. Chris is expanding his experience this summer. Whether it is painting a set, changing props at intermission or performing in the children's show, he says he enjoys it all.

He will have the role of Wally when he appears with Ted Knight.

PHS class of '34 marks 45th reunion

Plymouth High School Class of 1934 had its 45th class reunion Saturday evening at the Plymouth Elks Club on Ann Arbor Road.

More than 50 classmates and their spouses turned out for cocktails, buffet dinner and an evening of reminiscing. Besides the local contingent, there were old grads from California, Montana, New York, Florida and Texas.

The class waited 25 years to have its first reunion. The second was its 35th. At that party, everyone had such a good time they said, "Let's have one every five years."

So they met for their 40th five years ago, and now their 45th.

"Our files are all in good order and, if we're around, we'll have our 50th," laughed Evalyn Rorabacher Cash.

THE COMMITTEE which planned the reunion has remained intact. They are Harold Stevens, Delite McAllister, Molly Murphy, Fred Hetsler, Bob Champe and Mrs. Cash.

The three prizes were won by Mary Knapp of Plymouth, Shirley Pinkerton of Montana and Clarence Levandowski of Livonia. Retired Judge Art Kepka of California probably traveled the farthest distance to attend the reunion.

"It was a beautiful turnout," said Mrs. Cash. She and the other members of the committee had been planning the reunion since February.

Virginia Carmichael of Ft. Worth, Texas and Hugh Cash of Plymouth reminisced.

Cathy Kelley, Evalyn Cash and La Vern Kelley, all of Plymouth, attended the 45th reunion.

Class officers who attended the reunion were (from Stringer, Oscar Luttermoser, Molly Zielasko, Evalyn

By SAM NICHOLS

Before beginning this week's Canton Chatter, I would like to answer a question asked by many of my friends this past week. The question was phrased in various way, i.e. "How do you suddenly have only one son?" "What happened to Kirk?" Etc.

Let me say first that Kirk is indeed alive and well at home with the rest of us. Secondly, I did not go into my personal life in great detail with the Observer for fear the editor would suggest an extended visit to the funny farm would be more appropriate for me than writing this column.

Not only do I live with husband, Rex; 4-year-old son Keith; and 8-year-old son Kirk; but also with 12-year-old German shepherd, also named Sam; 5year-old Sheltie, Arnie, eight salt water fish; one hermit crab; 14 gold fish; two tadpoles; and varying numbers of

No, we do not have a partridge in a pear tree, but probably only because we don't have a pear tree.

So, for those of you that worried that Kirk was either a.) forgotten or b.) misplaced, the correct answer was actually c.) none of the above.

WESTBROOKE subdivision residents have been newsworthy lately because of their citizen patrols and their opinions of land usage adjacent to the subdivision. Saturday, July 14, they turned their energies from politicking to partying as everyone joined in the fun of a block party.

Organizers of the event were Karen Braum, Carol Dugan, Kathy Freece and Carol Luelleman and the merriment included varied games. There were wagon races, first with husbands pushing wives, then with wives pushing husbands. The water balloon toss proved popular during the hot after-

They played the ever popular hideand-seek, but with a new twist: the adults did the hiding and the children the seeking. Most children did manage to find their parents, although some parents were devious enough to hide under upside down wading pools. THE ORGANIZERS must have made a pact with the weather forecaster. It had been prearranged to have a break in the party from 8-9 p.m. to put children to bed, thus the one-hour downpour didn't dampen party spirits. Many other groups would like to know how you arranged that, Westbrooke.

Partying continued at 9 p.m. with the popcorn contest, in which participants had to guess the number of unpopped popcorn pieces in a large jar.

Final authority on this contest was Charlie Freece's mother, Mrs. Ann Griffith of Philadelphia. She said she never imagined when she came to visit that she would spend five hours of her time counting 5,619 pieces of popcorn. Shannon Kronberg turned in the best guess to win the contest.

SEVERAL Cantonites have returned recently from vacations. Ann and Jack Balcom, with children Lindsey and Jonathan, drove to Cape Cod, Mass. to visit Jack's family. Ann's parents, from Baltimore, Md., were able to join them in Cape Cod for a short visit. Relaxation and visiting with relatives and friends provided a happy two-week vacation for the Balcoms. They made a brief stop on their return trip to enjoy the beauty of Niagara Falls.

Judy and Ken Lally, along with children Suzy and Doug, rented a cabin on Lake Huron for the 4th of July week. The nearest town was Tawas, where they enjoyed the Indian Museum. Dizzy Land Putt Putt Golf provided a highlight for Doug when he won a free game. The family enjoyed a beautiful hungry people. McDonald's orange fireworks display on Lake Huron the Top restaurants' recipes in new book

The seventh volume of "Ford Times Favorite Recipes," a cookbook series that now has sales of more than a million copies, has been published by Ford Motor Co. consumer publications department.

.... vany, vary zv, zviv

The latest volume in a series dating to 1950 draws upon six years of recipes and restaurant descriptions in the monthly Ford Times feature, "Faz vorite Recipes from Famous Restaurants."

The recipes were compiled and tested by Nancy Kennedy, food editor of the monthly travel magazine distributed by Ford dealers.

"When our last cookbook was sold out," said Ms. Kennedy, "we went to work on something bigger and better. The result, Volume VII, has nearly 20 percent more recipe listings than any of the six previous volumes, all of which were sellouts and collectors' items.

Volume VII serves as a guide to good eating at home or on the road. The 144-page hardcover book features 371 prized recipes from 237 restaurants. For travelers, there are directions to each restaurant, while a cross-reference index helps cooks select the perfect dish for every dining occasion. Restaurants and their recipes are organized conveniently by city and state in six major areas of North America: northeast, southeast, north central, south central, west and Canada. Each restaurant is illustrated with a four-color painting or photo.

The book is available at selected Detroit-area bookstores or by sending a $6.95 check or money order payable to Ford Motor Co. to Ford Publications, Box 1508-B, Dearborn, 48121.

Skin damage starts early

Newborn babies or freckle-faced toddlers do not normally inspire thoughts of old sagging skin, age spots or skin

"Freckles are the first sign that a baby's skin is susceptible to sun damage," said Dr. James Keyden, Associate Professor of Dermatology, University of Pennsylvania, School Medicine. "Parents who don't consistently protect their baby's skin from the sun's burning rays are condemning their children to prematurely aged skin and even skin cancer."

Leyden recommended keeping children out of direct sunlight whenever possible, and adding additional protection with an effective sunscreen product whenever they are outside.

This year, for the first time, consumers will know how much protection to expect from the suncreen they buy.

The Susan B. Anthony Dollar Coin

Com shown four times actual size.

Receive five FREE with qualifying deposit at Michigan National Bank-West Metro

To help the Treasury Department introduce the new Susan B. Anthony dollar coin, Michigan National Bank -West Metro is making a special offer. Beginning Thursday, July 19, a person making a deposit of at least $500 or more to a new or existing savings account will receive five Susan B. Anthony Dollar Coins, free. It's Michigan National Bank-West Metro's way of encouraging you to use the coin and find out how convenient it really is.

The new dollar coin has many advantages over the paper dollar. It will help save time because it's easier to count; it will help reduce errors at the cash register; and it should help eliminate problems of paper money, such as bills sticking together, and disposing of worn and torn bills. Plus, the coin has an estimated life of 15 years versus 18 months for the paper dollar. Because of its unusual construction, the coin is difficult to counterfeit. Susan B. Anthony was an early crusader for women's rights - a lifelong dedication that culminated in the ratification of the 19th Amendment to the Constitution in 1920, giving nationwide suffrage to women. The U.S. government is proud to recognize her contribution to history by designing and naming the new dollar in her honor. On the reverse side is a symbolic representation of the landing of Apollo 11 on the moon.

The offer is available at all Michigan National Bank -West Metro offices. So don't delay, be one of the first to have the new Susan B. Anthony Dollar Coins in your pocket! Offer ends July 21, 1979.

Dearie Days are festive

The eighth annual "Dearie, Do You Remember When?" festival will be staged this Saturday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. in Plymouth's Old Village.

Each year the Old Village Merchants Association stages the one-day festival, when prices revert to what they once were.

Keystone Kops, antiques, crafts, produce, gifts, games, flowers, flea market items, outside haircuts, calliope music and much more make up the festival atmosphere.

Each retailer and participant in the day's event will feature at least one item which will be offered for sale to the public at old-fashioned prices.

Other features include barbershop quartet music, a petting farm, pony and dog cart rides, horseshoes, clowns, a tug-of-war, caricature artists, magicians, a farmer's market and all types of food.

Prizes which will be available to shoppers, including a trip for two to Las Vegas and $500 cash (or $1,000 cash), a wheelbarrow full of Cheer, and 150 instant lottery tickets. After the sales end a dance will follow from 8 p.m. to 1 a.m. in the Plymouth Cultural Center on Farmer. Entertaining will be the Lenny Lieberman Orchestra. Another special feature at the dance will be beer sold for $1 a pitcher.

Admission to the dance is $3.50 for adults and $2.50 for those under 18. Tickets for the dance will be available Saturday at the information booth in front of Clothes Tree Plus or from any Old Village

The festival promises to be bigger than any previously held as there are some 50 arts and crafts exhibits and demonstrations slated and almost 70

Greenfield Village also will bring in for the day a 1912 gasoline engine to put on display. There will be antique cars owned by local and area antique

The festivities officially will begin at 9:45 a.m. Saturday when Mayor Pro Tem Mary Childs launches some 100 baloons in the new park area in the center of Old Village.

Because of the festival, Liberty will be closed to traffic from Starkweather to Holbrook, and Division will be barricaded from Starkweather to Mill from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. July 21. Most of the booths will be located on the north side of Farmer from Starkweather to Mill.

Hundreds of people will be crowding into Old Village this Saturday for outdoor sales at old-fashioned prices. (Staff , photos by Gary Caskey)

ATTENTION"TOGETHER PERSONS" (And anyone who's falling apart)

Have you ever noticed how times flies when you're having fun? Or how it drags when you're dragging?

Sometimes there aren't enough hours in the day to accomplish all that you may set out to do. Like placing an Observer & Eccentric Classified Ad.

By the time the busy, sunny, summer days are at a close and you realize that, "Oh my gosh, I was supposed to advertise the stuff in the garage...or the hockey equipment....or the stereo gear...or whatever," we're closed. And you're fuming.

Well fume no more. Beginning Thursday, July 5, you will be able to place an Observer & Eccentric Want Ad until 7:30 p.m. every Monday and Thursday evening.

This means that when you settle down on the patio after dinner with a long, tall glass of something very cold and open your hometown newspaper and arrive at the classified section and that little bell goes off in your head about the ad you were supposed to place — you can still place it — even if it's 7:00 or 7:15 or even 7:25.

Of course, if you're thinking, "This doesn't mean me— I'm always on top of everything. My socks are always sorted, I take my car in for a check-up right on time. Same, with my teeth. I'm really a very together person." Well, we have news for all of our together persons: You can place your Observer & Eccentric Classified ad ANY-TIME you want to. MONDAY through FRIDAY.

We're here five days a week (and beginning July 5 a couple of nights). Just give us a call and we'll get your ad placed for the very next edition of your hometown newspaper.

NANCY AUSTIN Expert advice: 'Set new goals'

Here is a roundup of tips and tidbits from the experts - and some trivia,

Jo Ann Ploeger, National YMCA consultant and food and home editor of Slim Living, gives these tips: Set some new goals for yourself. Make a list of things you'd like to achieve, then choose one and work on it.

Some suggestions may be: exercise 45 minutes a day, every day; be creative with vegetables; include fresh fruits daily; cut back on high-fat meats; omit sugar and reduce salt; think happy, positive thoughts.

If you'd like to subscribe to Jo Ann's "Slim Lifeline" newsletter, send $6 to her at 3605 Strawberry Lane, Port Huron, 48060

Readers could draw their own conclusions. Now a booklet has been received called "Accountable Calories" by none other than the American Dairy Assoication ..

The introduction states: "The only trick serious dieters have is making your calories count." CONCERN over your pet's weight keeps surfacing in such things as lowcalorie pet food. Now information comes to us that is indispensible. If your cat is overweight, it may be the kind of a mouse he favors.

Stephen L. Blythe, a research nutritionist at New England Deaconess Hospital, says the total calories contained in a mouse depend on the species, age and size of the mouse. He has worked out a complicated formula so you can stalk the mice right with your cat to see if your pet is eating the right kind.

Blythe adds, however, it is important a good mathemetician in your home.

The formula reads: Fat X 9kcals/ g9kcals Type No. 1 mouse has 25 kcals, Type No. 2 has. . . Can you believe they spend time on this?

HAVE YOU EVER wondered why some meals leave you hungry while others stay with you much longer, leaving you with that satisfied feeling?

Dr. Robert E. Landers, director of nutrition for Best Foods, says satiety has to do with the balance of nutrients in the meal you eat. For example, carbohydrates are assimilated quickly by your body and therefore satisfy immediate hunger.

We tend to forget, he says, that carbohydrates include fruits and vegetables as well as starchy foods and des-the first things a dieter cuts out of a meal is fats, and so hunger occurs sooner. Foods in the fat group include vegetable oils, salad dressings, margarine and mayonnaise; animal fat in meat, poultry, fish, cheese and butter.

Fats should not be cut completely because they are essential for providing energy and insulation. They also help to maintain the body's temperature.

Landers emphasized all-around good nutrition includes food from all three food groups. "You'll find healthy eating more satisfying and enjoyable if you do," he said.

Birthright—a lifetime available to all

By NANCY AUSTIN

The hand-lettered sign on the bulletin board reads, "An unborn child is an unopened gift from God."

On the opposite wall in the small office is a picture of a mother cradling her infant.

Those are just two symbols that suggest the purpose of Birthright of Western Wayne County.

Located in Garden City at the corner of Middlebelt and Ford Road (above Orin Jewelers), the agency's aims are "to lend guidance and moral support to any woman who has a problem pregnancy," according to president Marie Gonzales.

No problem is too involved or too serious for the agency, she says. The team of volunteers who staff the office can help cut red tape for those in need of financial, medical and/or legal aid. In addition, clients may need homes if their parents have asked them to leave, or they may need clothing or a crib for the baby.

"No one," continues Mrs. Gonzales "is turned away . We helped a young girl who was 13 years old, and we have helped married women as old as 42."

"Most of the time," says Mrs. Gonzales, "a girl is confused. She doesn't know what options are available to her. Sometimes she even will deny the possible pregnancy. "A girl may think abortion is the only possible solution to her problem.

> abortion. One such service is the Alternative Education Program for pregnant students, a part of the Garden City educational program. Failing to complete her education is often one of the fears of the unwed mother. This program allows her to continue her classes in grades 7-12. Even if the school year is interrupted by her delivery, she will be allowed to resume classses after deliv-

Finances is another pressing con-

"There are several ways we can help" a girl financially," explains Ms. Gonales. Usually a girl's parents have insurance that will cover her expenses if she is living at home.

"We also have information available about low-cost clinics, ADC (Aid to Dependent Children) and welfare. Medicaid also can help in this situation."

IN SPITE of the fact that most girls don't want their parents to know, fearing parental reaction, the problem must eventually be dealt with, Mrs. Gonzales points out.

Most of the time, the parents react first with anger, sensing their own failure and guilt. Eventually, however, most parents ask, "What can I do to help?" Mrs. Gonzales says.

Sometimes the situation doesn't resolve itself in that manner.

office with her suitcase packed. Her father told her she couldn't live at home. In this case, I drove the girl down to Booth Memorial Hospital (in Detroit) where they provided her with immediate shelter that same day."

There are two such shelters available to women — Booth and Marillac Hall in Farmington Hills. There a girl receives housing, pre-natal care, and may continue her education. When she is ready to deliver her baby, she is taken to Providence Hospital in Southfield. An effort is made during pregnancy to see to it that the girl has made provisions for herself and her baby following delivery.

THOSE PROVISIONS may take two paths, Mrs. Gonzales says. Many elect to place the baby up for adoption. In that case, the mother works directly through an adoption agency. Today the father involved in the situation may be quite interested in his rights. Adoption must be handled legally through an agency to assure all parties concerned that proper contracts are drawn up and that everything is valid.

But there is a continued trend for the mother to keep her baby.

"We don't try to influence a girl in either decision," says Ms. Gonzales. 'We help her take an objective look at her situation in light of the options available. She must make the decision and accept the responsibility for it. We offer moral support in any case, and refer her to additional agencies where the need dictates.

THE NON-PROFIT organization handled 75 cases through to completion in 1978. Hundreds of phone calls are received throughout the year.

Sometimes a call comes at night, usually answered by Birthright's answering service. The caller - if she requests - can be connected directly to a volunteer, or she may leave her name and phone number and a volunteer will

"If we return her call, we will never reveal that we are calling from the agency. This maintains total confiden-

Calls have come from as far away as Flint and as near as around the corner. The agency's district includes all of Western Wayne County as well as all of the downriver communities.

Since June, 1973, Birthright has served clients from just about every community in the territory. People find out about the agency's existance from a lisitng in the phone book, the yellow pages, and occasional newspaper ads. Many people find out from word-ofmouth.

"We'd like to advertise more but we don't have the funds it takes. It takes about $3,000 a year just for the bare essentials. That includes rent and phone bills. Our phone bill alone runs about $75 per month, and we don't always have that money readily avail-

"Our service is free to anyone who walks in.'

Neither are the staff volunteers paid. While they all receive a training program of about 10 hours over a four or five week period, they have the tools necessary to help any one who requests the agency's services.

Staffing the office with volunteers can be a problem. The prerequisite is a desire to help those in distress by their pregnancy and a strong belief in life. It is not an abortion agency, Mrs. Gonzales stresses, it has no political nor religious affiliations.

CONTRACEPTIVE services are not provided. "We are not a medical service. But if a client wants contraceptive information, we will refer her to a physician who will provide it.

Confidentiality is stressed in this request, as well.

Program helps police understand alcoholism enforcement is one area of concern of the criminal justice program at Madonna College in Livonia.

Recognizing the behavioral patterns signaling alcohol abuse and knowing how to handle and where to refer the intoxicated person is important not only to law enforcement officers but to probation and parole officers.

Providing this information has been the job of Wayne Isbell, director of the alcohol education project at Madonna, in cooperation with Alan Eichman, director of the criminal justice program.

As a result of the first year of the project, four criminal justice courses include integrated alcohol information: juvenile delinquency, criminal justice administration and organization, the senior criminal justice seminar and crime prevention and community relations.

Madonna was developed with the aid of federal funding through the National Institute on Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism for the ultimate purpose of integrating alcohol awareness into every major at the career-oriented liberal arts college. The criminal justice program was the first discipline.

"Madonna's program is one of a kind," Isbell explained, "in that we do Alcohol abuse and its effect on law not seek to make alcoholism counselors of police officers, but rather alert persons to the danger signs and make them aware of the treatment agencies available for referral. We see an improved criminal justice system as the end result."

> Isbell has served the past 21/2 years on the National Council of Alcoholism, Greater Detroit area. He has worked with the city of Detroit Health Department, Bureau of Substance Abuse, in developing a city-wide plan for controlling alcoholism.

> ONE ASPECT of alcohol abuse as it relates to law enforcement is the law officer's own drinking problem. Drawing from personal experience of police officers, the students in the criminal justice administration and organization class learned of alcohol and drug problems on the force.

"This is significant because many po-THE ALCOHOL education project at lice supervisors deal with personnel problems such as these," Isbell said.

He added that the Madonna program offers an alternative for cover-up or firing, the more commonly used methods of dealing with alcohol and drug abuse within the department. Help is available for those who seek it.

A recent law decriminalizing public intoxication requires law enforcement officers to refer public inebriates to TURNING HIS attention to alcohol abuse among the young, Isbell cited a 1978 report from the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare in which researchers listed factors influencing high school drinking. These include peer, family or parental pressure; socio-economic environment, and personality. All of these influences are client referral, evaluation of effective cluding criminal justice. Those interreviewed in some detail in the Madonna course on juvenile delinquency.

In addition, course content covers the interaction of alcohol and drugs, the effect of an alcoholic within the family structure, and drinking as a catalyst for deviant behavior.

As an extension of the alcoholism criminal justice curriculum, Madonna offered a 10-week course this summer entitled Alcohol Studies in Criminal Justice, bringing in respected authorities on alcohol dependence.

The Bottom Line

Insuring loss

By DANIEL HERRIMAN

IN the event of fire or civil disorder resulting in other damage, the small business owner who is prepared for such emergencies will find that he is protected against excessive loss.

Small business owners, particularly retail shop proprietors, should have a complete set of photographs of the place of business, kept off the premises along with duplicate business records.

In case of disaster, the insurance adjuster can make a reasonable comparison with the prior condition of the establishment.

As soon as it is safe to re-enter the premises, additional photographs should be taken before any clean-up starts. Any easily accessible, still saleable or usable merchandise must be removed from exposed areas.

The business owner is not expected to risk life or limb, but you must demonstrate reasonable concern for the safety of your inventory.

The next step is to make a detailed inventory of all merchandise in enough detail to identify each specific item and its cost. Segregate and identify all merchandise which is damaged, broken, or otherwise diminished in value. Naturally the insurance agent must be immediately notified about the type and extent of the damage, and the premises must be boarded up or otherwise made inaccessible to looters and vandals.

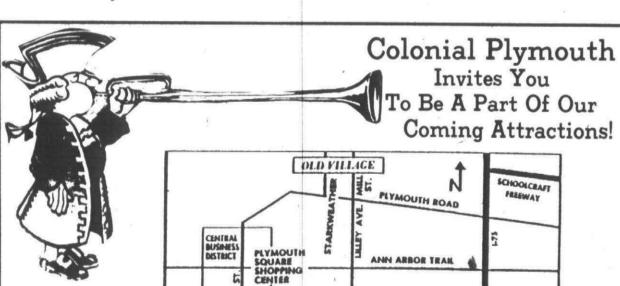

THERE ARE VARIOUS types of insurance coverage which you should consider. One is a relatively inexpensive extended coverage feature, which pays for damage caused by civil disorders and other non-fire disasters.

Another desirable feature is business interruption insurance. Most of these policies are written to cover 50 percent of gross profit based on the preceding year.

Because many commercial leases provide that either party may terminate a lease if a business is closed for more than 30 days because of disaster, special lease protection insurance is also worthwhile.

Also useful is "extra expense" coverage, to pay the costs of moving, temporary quarters, storage, etc.

If you're carrying less insurance than your business warrants, you may find that you have to bear some of the loss yourself in the event of fire or other damage.

Yep, dearie. As in "Dearie, do you remember when?" which is the name of a little festival this Saturday in Plymouth's Old Village area. There's lots of cheap beer, games, calliope music and old-timey stuff. "Everybody gets real crazy," adds one of our informed sources.

Streets of Ann Arbor to fill with art again

Canton Observer

Thursday, July 19, 1979

Three fairs, three - three fairs in

"Visitors to the fair can watch Todd Warner of Charlevoix create incredible ceramic animals watch a welded sculpture materialize in the hands of Louis Torres of Linwood, Michigan.'

Look for the sign of the floating Japanese paper fish.

"One of the highlights of the Ann Arbor Street Art Fair is the Children's Activities area. Here, children paint, model clay, draw and are given other opportunities to create some art of their own."

The fairs will draw 250,000 people. There will be 500-600 artists and craftsmen displaying their work.

"Highlighting the festival will be a 'Create a Patron' contest."

THAT, IN A NUTSHELL, is what we'll call the Ann Arbor Art Fair, or, more simply, "the fair." (It's really the Ann Arbor Street Art Fair, the State Street Area Art Fair and the Summer Arts Festival, a.k.a. the Main Street Art Fair.)

It's a summer fun festival, and it starts at 9 a.m. next Wednesday, running 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. July 25-28, its first three days, and 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. the final day.

Purists - the sort who are quoted above - would call this the 20th Ann Arbor Street Art Fair, the Ninth Annual Summer Arts Festival and the Umpteenth State Street Area Art Fair.

But enough of all that. We'll just say that "the fair" has come a long way since 1960, when 99 artists gathered to display their work on ropes strung between parking meters.

Today the fair is a multimedia event. While such events dot the state throughout the summer, with artisans displaying their wares from Detroit to the far reaches of the Upper Peninsula,

To U.S.23 & 1-36 $ 1-34

The Ann Arbor Art Fair is one of the biggest of its kind, attracting thousands to the streets of the usually calm university town. The map at right shows where to go.

the Ann Arbor fair is notable for its sheer size

THE ENTIRE downtown area and the central campus of the University of Michigan are taken over by throngs of haggling browsers, each looking for something to take home for the living

You can find everything from woodcarvings, watercolors, weaving, welding, wheel thrown pots and wood-block prints to repertory theater, folk singers, jazz, disco, ventriloquism, and yes - a "Create a Patron" contest.

The latter is a competition to construct a life-sized figure of one lucky fair patron from papier-mache, tissue paper, textile remnants, yarn, string and - perhaps the largest available commodity - any promotional matter that has anything to do with the fair.

Such special events by the dozens will be going on each day of the fair at three locales: Main at Liberty, E. University at S. University (across from Ulrich's bookstore) and E. University at N. University

The University streets are easy to confuse. Keep in mind that they all border the Diag - N. University being the northern boundary, S. University the southern, etc.

Best bet: If you're not familiar with Ann Arbor, head straight for the fair's information booth. Folks there will be ready to dispense info on special events' schedules and locations, give directions and furnish rosters of participating artists. One booth is at the corner of E. and S. University streets. Another is at Maynard and Liberty.

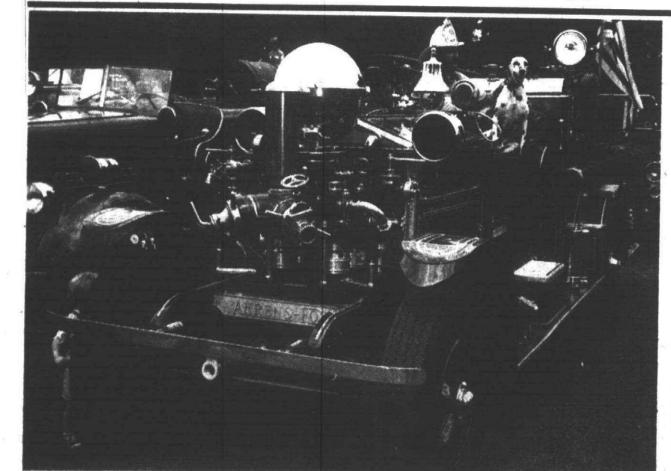

FOR THE KIDS, there will be a few designated children's areas, located along the major routes of the fair.

Greenfield Village

Fire engine buffs gather

Hundreds of fire engine buffs with more than 60 antique fire engines will gather at Greenfield Village during the Antique Fire Apparatus Muster, July 21-22 - where firefighting enthusiasm is never dampened by tons of spurting water.

These fire engines, hose carts and handpumpers - including 19 pieces here for the first time - are paraded and exhibited daily. Fire-fighting buffs participate in waterpumping exhibitions, bucket brigades and games of skill and chance.

None built later than 1954, and many from the 19th and early 20th centuries, these vehicles often recall the golden age of the rural volunteer fire department. A special feature will be the display of an early horse-drawn piece with a gasoline-powered pump.

A tradition of this special event is the waterball competition in which squads of firefighters, working their pumper engines, try to force a ball across each other's goal line with a stream of water. Fire companies will also compete against the clock as they vie to put out a mock fire in the shortest possible time. The climax is the simulation of a multiple-alarm fire by a number of departments.

Antique fire engine collectors will compete in balloon-breaking and potato-spearing contests. The competitors consist of owners of antique apparatus and members of existing volunteer and regular fire departments.

There is no additional charge for the Antique Fire Apparatus Muster beyond the regular village admission of $3.75 for adults and $1.75 for children ages 6-12. Children younger than 6 are admitted free.

A special combination ticket is available for visits to the village as well as adjacent Henry Ford Museum. The cost is $6.75 for adults and $3.25 for children 6-12.

Chamber series for night owls

"Nightcap with Mozart," a new chamber series, will open at the Birmingham Unitarian Church on Friday with a complimentary wine or coffee at 11

The music begins at 11:30 p.m. At the concert's close at 12:15 a.m., there will be an afterglow to meet the artists. The new series, presented by Renaissance Concerts, Inc., was organized by Misha Rachlevsky of West Bloomfield, a violinist with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra. The opening concert features the Renaissance String Quartet, including Rachlevsky and Jascha Samoylov, violins, Philip Porbe, viola, and Timothy Butler, cello. The first selection on the program is "Eine Kleine Nacht Musik" by Mozart.

Tickets are $5, including beverages. For reservations, call 851-8934.

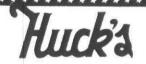

The July 27 concert will be a piano trio made up of Fedora Horowitz, piano, Debra Fayroian, cello, and Rachlevsky.

On Friday, Aug. 3, the Pastiche Wind Quintet will play. Members of the quintet are Susan Ivers Barn, flute; Kathy Ceasar, oboe; Bradley Wong, clarinet; and Gary Caperton, bassoon.

On Friday, Aug. 10, music for violin and guitar will be featured with Chris Birg, guitar, and Rachlevsky, violin.

mTHE RUSSIAN-BORN Rachlevsky organized and presented the successful Solisti Barocchi concert series which begins again in the fall at St. David's Episcopal Church in Southfield. In this series, as in all his chamber presentations, Rachlevsky works to achieve an intimate atmosphere, the kind for which chamber music was intended. Egg artists show shells

Eggers will be out in force this weekend in Livonia, with some of the strangest art this side of an

They take eggs - from finch eggs to ostrich eggs and everything in between - carefully empty them out, and decorate the shells to such detail that even a mother hen would be amazed.

The eggers, as they call themselves, will be converging on Livonia from throughout the country with more than 2,000 pieces of their egg art. The show, the Great Lakes Egg-o-rama, runs from noon to 6 p.m. Saturday and Sunday in the Eddie Edgar Arena, Farmington Road at Lyndon.

Admission is $1. Proceeds from the event, cosponsored by the Livonia Lions Club, go to the Leader Dog School for the Blind in Rochester.

"Some people think we are nuts, but we enjoy it," said Ruth Livernois of Westland, one of the organizers of the Egg-o-rama.

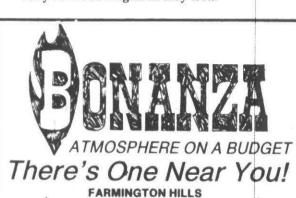

Mrs. Livernois picked up the hobby five years ago when her daughter came home from school with a decorated egg shell. "Some are so involved. You can spends weeks and weeks on it. Sometimes you get them out in a week.'

Local eggs-hibitors include Bob and Grace Anderson of South Lyon, known in egging circles as the velvet people because of their habit of lining the eggs with velvet. Bob Anderson is also the inventor of a device called an egg marker, which makes it easier to cut the shells into clean patterns.

The shells - which only faintly resemble eggs when the eggers get done with them - include a 43-year-old emu egg with a miniature emu egg inside it, made of bread dough. The obvious question, of course, is how to deal with something as, well, as fragile as an eggshell.

"The thing you learn is that the eggshell doesn't give one bit," said Mrs. Livernois. "I've only broken two or three.

"They're not as fragile as they look."

Taste test results can't be predicted

It is sometimes instructive and almost always a lot of fun to compare wines. Particularly true when those to be tasted are of high quality and similar in many respects.

Consistent with the American spirit of competition, it is also entertaining to induce a sense of contention by comparing wines of different regions against one another, e.g., Moselle vs. Rhine, Napa vs. Sonoma, Pomerol vs. Pauillac, etc.

While it is possible to confuse or overwhelm by comparing too many at a time, a tasting comparison of six to 10 wines in an evening can do a great deal in one's wine instruction. The obvious route is, of course, to compare wines that are more alike than they are different, forcing concentration on the subtle differences that make wine tasting such a heady experience.

From time to time this column will report the results of locally held events under the auspices of the Winetasters. Reports will come when tasting results are wholly unexpected or of high general interest

A recent comparative tasting featured five 1974 California Cabernet Sauvignons and five 1975 Bordeaux. Both vintages are generally conceded to be the best of this decade. Not since 1970 in Bordeaux nor 1968 in California had the Cabernet produced wines of such general excellence, so the general

It seemed, then, reasonable to compare several of each among a group of competent wine drinkers, asking them to evaluate each before there was any indication of what was being sampled.

International Institute

Ethnic Fun Days continue in Detroit

Dancing a Russian Troika, making a court jester doll from paper and glue or keeping up with the Mexican winking game are all part of Summer Ethnic Fun Days, at the International Institute, 111 E. Kirby in Detroit, now through Aug. 11.

This special two-hour program is dedicated to the fun and games of other countries. It introduces children, 6 through 12, to the culture of other countries via their games, dances, folk stories, arts and crafts and songs. The program is open to any organized group such as summer camps, recreation centers or summer school classes who make reservations. These groups may have achoice of learning about the Orient, Europe or Spanish-speaking countries.

The program is housed in the Institute's newly decorated Hall of Nations, now dedicated to the International Year of the Child with Cyril Miles colorful 42-case display entitled "Toys, Dolls and Folk Art of the Six Inhabited Global Continents." It features the games, toys, folk art, textiles, dolls, jewelry, puppets and general handicraft of six continents.

The display includes an eight-foot hexagonal puzzle symbolic of the six continents of the world which the children are able to put together.

"We always emphasize that by learning the culture of another country, you must think about your own ethnic background and recognize its qualities," said Janet Onesian, program coordinator. "Inevitably, it makes a big impact on the kids and they start investigating their own cultural background."

Cyril Miles is an art instructor at Highland Park Community College. She collaborated with Wayne State University anthropologist Barbara Bilge in designing the exhibit and was assisted by students Pamela Patterson, Ruth Harlin and James Robertson with support from Highland Park Communi-

The program costs 50 cents per child. It was made possible by a grant from the Detroit Council of the Arts.

Miss Onesian will also take a traveling version of the program out to other locations upon request. For reservations, call 871-8600.

Money is time.

Save now and enjoy a timely gift.

First Federal Savings of Detroit is offering savers this great variety of beautiful Timex gifts. Make a qualifying deposit to a new or existing First Federal savings account and you can take home the Timex of your choice. Either free, or at big savings. Choose from decorator wall clocks, alarm clocks, 24-hour timer, women's and men's watches. It's our way of introducing some great new savings account features.

We've increased our interest rate on regular savings. To a full 51/2% per year daily interest, paid and compounded quarterly. One-quarter percent more than any bank is permitted to pay on an annual interest rate basis.

We're offering a brand-new Four-Year Money Market Certificate that features a high rate of interest never before possible in so short a time with a deposit of only $100 or more. The interest rate for this account is established monthly. However, the rate in effect when your certificate is issued is guaranteed for the full 4-year term.* July's rate for this account is 7.850% annual interest, compounded continuously for an effective annual yield of 8.284%.

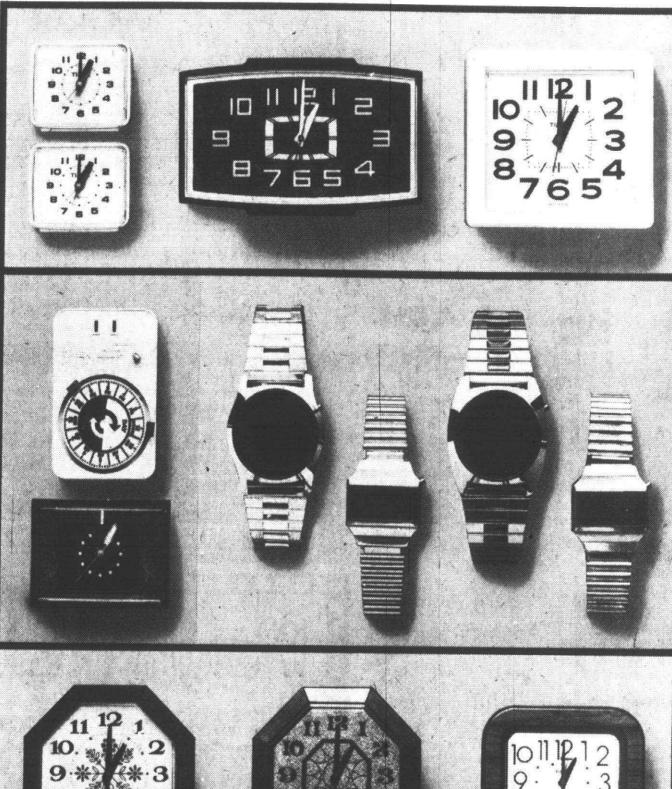

On top of that, we've reduced the minimum deposit on most of our other certificate accounts, too. Now you only need to deposit $100 or more to open any of our high-interest certificates (except our popular 182-Day Money Market Certificate which pays an even higher rate on deposits of $10,000 or more).

And the penalty for early withdrawal has been modified for certificate accounts opened after July 1, 1979. On our One-Year and our 182-Day Money Market Certificates, the penalty is no more than 90 days' interest. On our longer term certificates, the maximum penalty is now 180 days' interest.

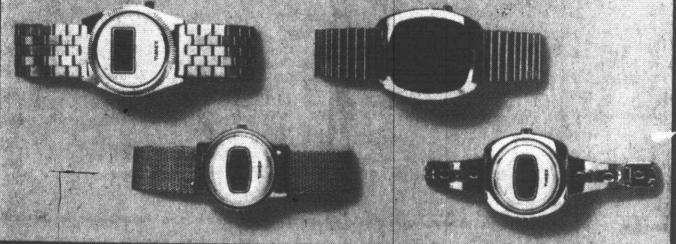

Check the gift chart, visit any First Federal office, make your qualifying deposit and take home your Timex gift. Of course, our Timex offer is limited, so open or add to a First Federal savings account today. While money is time.

It won't kill crabgrass, but it gets rid of houses fast.

Between one mowing and the next, your house could change owners. And you know that's fast!

How can we be so sure?

Because we're a member of the Homes

For Living Network. When our sign goes up a lot of things happen. With our exclusive Homes For Living magazine, a picture and description of your home can be available to home buyers in our area. And, through our 2,000 affiliated offices, we'll reach potential out-of-town buyers.

After all, they account for one-third of all home sales.

When you consider that our 25,000 Homes For Living sales associates have more than 10-billion dollars in home sales each year, you know we don't let any crabgrass grow under our feet.
