Five communities file for own seniors' grant

By CAROLINE PRICE

Canton Township officials figure there's strength in numbers, at least as far as it concerns government grants.

That's why the township will be applying in conjunction with Westland, Wayne, Garden City and Dearborn Heights to obtain a grant for a senior citizens home services program.

A running feud between Canton Township and the Canton-Northville-Plymouth YMCA also is behind Canton's decision to join with other communities in seeking funds for the program.

According to Canton Grants Coordinator Terry Carroll, the township would have little chance of getting a home services grant without the backing of the other communities because of the feud that began last year with the Y, which currently operates the senior citizens home services program.

$21,000 federal grant it received for the past three years for the purpose of running the home services program in Canton, Northville, Plymouth, and Plymouth Township. Y director Janet Luce says the grant will run out in September, when services will be discon- Carroll said.

Mrs. Luce did not comment on the motives for the Y's withdrawal from

THE ANIMOSITY between Canton and the Y began after such officials as Carroll maintained that little or nothing had been done for the township's senior citizens during the grant period. even though the money was aimed at a four-community program.

The feud extended to the Detroit-Wayne County Area Agency on Aging, a "linking agency" which administers

The Y decided not to re-apply for the the grants for programs such as home services.

According to Carroll, the agency refused to give Canton a copy of a report on a one-day investigation of the Y's home services program.

"They told us to go to court about it,"

The Observer obtained a copy of the report which rated the Y's compliance with the grant regulations as "good" or "fair" in all areas.

The report, however, makes recommendations for improvement. Most of those recommendations involve keeping better records.

One recommendation suggests the Y keep a separate file folder for each senior serviced. Another recommendation involves the amount of service provided in both the homemaker and chore services part of the program.

The program provides such services as meal preparation, financial plan- of the grant was going to the homening, light housekeeping and grocery shopping under homemaker services; and workers paid on an hourly basis perform such functions as household maintenance, lawn care and other noncontinous jobs under the chore services segment.

The agency report said the Y is "close to meeting projections for homemaker services but well under meeting projections for chore services."

The agency also recommends that program coordinator Jean Campau do more follow-up of seniors assisted by the various services and file an assessment report for each client.

THE REPORT issued by the area agency on aging also referred to the distribution of the grant money. Last December, the Y was taken to task because less than the required two-thirds maker and chore workers and too much (more than one-half) of the grant was going to pay for administrative costs.

The directive caused Y director Janet Luce to go in search of additional funds, which deepened the rift between Canton and the Y.

Mrs. Luce said she obtained $5,000 from the Plymouth Community Fund, $540 from the City of Northville, $2,000 form the Plymouth Rotary; and $2,000 from Plymouth Township.

Carroll said the amount of money spent on administering the grant was 'ridiculous.'

According to Carroll, Canton would not donate any money unless Mrs. Luce provided a monthly report on the number of Canton seniors serviced and what services were performed.

Records on file at the Y office in Plymouth show that lists of local seniors who receive home service aid are given to Northville and Plymouth Township, all of which supplied the Y with additional money.

Mrs. Luce said she did not provide such lists to Canton or Plymouth because "they don't pay anything.

A letter from Mrs. Luce on file with Carroll says that the Y director could not furnish monthly reports, even if Canton provided the money, because it would be too time-consuming.

ALTHOUGH Canton did not provide any money, the funds given to the Y by the other governments and organizations has brought the budget for 1979 to $34,245. That figure, Mrs. Luce said, includes some $2,000 coming from the Y's general fund.

The money pays the salary of home

A really big shoe

Duane Carpenter has the dubious distinction of having the rottenest sneakers in all of Canton.

Actually, tattered, torn, rather ripe sneakers paid off for Duane, as they netted him first prize in a Rotten Sneaker Contest sponsored last week by the Canton Department of Parks and Recreation.

The rotten sneaker contest. judged a hit by the participants, was judged by Canton Township Clerk John Flodin, playground supervisor Gene Smith and Community Crier sports editor Betty Delano.

The contest was staged on the third floor of the Canton Township administration building. It drew an audience of curious employees from other floors in the building.

Participants ranged from young children to adults, proving that scuzzy sneakers are ageless.

Residents want trees, not warehouse group

Residents of the Holiday Park subdivision are on a save-the-trees cam-

The trees in question dot a 15-acre parcel of land bordered by Kaiser, I-275 and the railroad tracks next to the subdivision at Joy Road east of Hag-

Loren Gould of Gould Enterprizes, who owns the land, wants to clear some of the trees and develop an industrial park on the land, which is zoned to allow light industry.

However under Canton's tree ordinance, all trees removed from property have to be replaced.

Last week, Gould requested an appearance before the Canton Zoning Board of Appeals in an effort to get the tree ordinance waived. Gould says he wants to replace as many trees as possible but would be unable to put them all back after developing the heavily-wooded property. The ZBA told Gould to go before the township planning commission with site plans for the warehouses he plans to construct. The first step in any kind of development is generally to get a site plan approval recommendation from the planning commission, which Gould had not yet received. Although Gould did not go to the ZBA meeting, some 65 residents of the Holiday Park subdivision did show up.

No action was taken on Gould's request, but the residents did arrange a meeting with Supervisor Noel Culbert set for 7 p.m. Aug. 9.

DAN SMITH, one of the spokesmen for the Holiday Park residents, said noise from the freeway would become a serious problem if the trees were

Flood loans offered

Homeowners and businesspersons who suffered losses from the July 11 flood may apply for low-interest loans under a disaster program of the U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA).

According to disaster branch manager Douglas McGarrity, the SBA has declared Wayne, Washtenaw, Oakland, Macomb and Monroe counties disaster areas at the request of Gov. William Although McGarrity would not guess on the amount of damage caused by the flood, he estimated that more than 10,000 homes in the five-county area were hit by flooding on July 11.

Hundreds of homes in Canton Township reportedly suffered flood damage. Under terms of the disaster loan program, the owners of damaged homes and businesses may apply for loans at 7% percent interest to restore their property to predisaster condition.

Loans up to $55,000 with maximum maturity of 30 years are available.

McGarrity asked flood victims to contact his office for a loan application and informational packet at 226-4030 or by writing to the SBA Disaster Branch Office, McNamara Federal Building, 477 Michigan Avenue, Detroit, 48226.

The deadline for filing loan applications is Sept. 17 for home or business loans and April 17, 1980 for economic injury loans.

"It cost a lot of money to put up those concrete sound barriers along I-275," Smith said. "If those trees are removed, we'd need one too."

Gould offered to leave a 50-foot green belt between the proposed warehouses and the residences, which "is more than required," he said.

According to Smith, the 50-foot belt won't be enough. The spokesman said the residents hope, "at the very least," said. to get the green belt widened and ideally would like to see Canton buy the property and develop it into a park. Supervisor Noel Culbert said the township "has no plans at this time" to buy the property. "I sympathize with the residents. It irritates me that someone is going to go in there and cut the trees down. I like trees," Culbert said.

GOULD, who developed the Canton Professional Park on Canton Center Road, said he, also, wants to retain as many of the "good" trees as possible. He said a date hasn't been set yet for his appearance before the planning commission to present site plans.

"If the township doesn't want me to build an industrial park, I won't fight it. I'll just put up a 'for sale' sign," Gould

According to township planner James Kosteva, the 15-acre parcel in question always has been zoned for industrial use. A master plan addendum up for public hearing Aug. 15 also has the land zoned for industry.

Kosteva said the land was zoned for heavy industry until 1967, when the zoning was changed for light industry.

Policy upgraded on subdivisions

A new policy to intervene in neighborhood spats over subdivision lot grades could force some homeowners to dig up lawns and remove some topsoil to stop water accumulation in their neighbor's backyards.

The policy to enforce subdivision grading requirements could penalize some homeowners for work performed by landscape contractors or previous owners, Canton board members admit. But they say the policy is needed to help homeowners whose yards are swamped after each rain because of other residents' excessively high lots.

THE POLICY approved by the Canton board last week would require homeowners to meet the grading plan stipulated for their subdivision when it was built.

Planner Jim Kosteva recommended enactment of the policy as a way to resolve grading complaints that currently lie on his desk.

The township's subdivision control ordinance empowers the Canton planner to enforce grading requirements. But Kosteva says that he has been unable to act because of the absence of an enforcement policy.

Under Kosteva's plan, the township will not intervene in grading disputes until a formal complaint is filed with the planning or building departments.

At that time, a visual inspection will ing the grading plan. A letter will be ment plan.

sent to the offending homeowner if the grade appears higher than that approved by the township when the house's occupancy permit was issued.

If the grade is not corrected within 60 days, a formal grading inspection will be made. The homeowner will be ticketed for violating the grading plan, and litigation will be instigated to correct the situation.

TOWNSHIP officials are researching ways to charge the offending homeowner for the grade inspections.

Although board members expressed condern for homeowners who hired contractors to perform their landscape work, they said that property owners are the only persons legally responsible for incorrect grades.

"It's a tough thing to have to do," Kosteva said of the grading enforcement policy. "But something has to be done to help people who have water on "The previous thinking in the township has generally been that this is a civil matter between neighbors. I do not agree. The problem affects the health and well-being of the neighborhood and, drainage-wise, the whole township.

Deputy treasurer Maria Falkiewicz, who sat on the township board during Treasurer Jim Donahue's absence, was the only Canton official who voted be made of the lot suspected of violat- against enacting the grade enforce-

First grade kids celebrate Christmas in July

Santa came to Griffin Park five months early last Tuesday to tell first graders at Field Elementary School that Christmas is celebrated in many ways around the world. No matter where you live, getting gifts is probably one of the more fun parts.

"See you in December," said Santa as he prepared to drive out of sight.

It wasn't exactly a white Christmas. But not even rain could dampen the spirits of the kids in Linda Haberle's and Kathy Woodruff's classes.

Cable TV firms court Canton

Two firms have expressed interest in bringing cable television to Canton Township following a tentative decision of the township board to award a non-exclusive franchise to Omnicon of Michigan.

Supervisor Noel Culbert said the interest shown by Maclean-Hunter Limited of Toronto and Cox Communications of Atlanta may delay final approval of Omnicon's cable TV contract.

The township board tabled an ordinance that gives Omnicon a non-exclusive franchise on July 17 for publication purposes. The township board could give final approval to the document on Tuesday, but Culbert said that the item will not appear on the board's

Under a non-exclusive franchise, any number of cable television firms can offer services to Canton with township board approval.

"But I just think it would triplicate the amount of work involved," Culbert said. "They'd have to reach an agreement to put joint cables down."

Neither Maclean-Hunter nor Cox have submitted a formal proposal to township officials. But Culbert said that Maclean-Hunter has made a proposal to the city of Southgate that is

"substantially better than what we're getting from Omnicon.'

HE SAID the Southgate proposal includes cheaper subscriber rates and a provision that would give the city a three-year advance on 3 percent royalties. Under the Omnicon contract, Canton would receive 3 percent of subscriber revenues as they are paid.

"But I really don't know if we'd get the same thing in Canton Township," the supervisor said of Maclean-Hunter's Southgate proposal.

Cable TV firms normally construct cables in the same location as utility lines. In Canton most utilities are underground - a location which creates a higher construction cost for cable TV companies

According to Culbert, Cox Communications currently lists 600,000 subscribers, which makes the firm the fourth-largest cable TV company in the country. Maclean-Hunter, with 330,000 subscribers, is rated as the seventh largest

Although several of Omnicon's employees have worked in the cable TV field, the firm's proposal to Canton, Plymouth, Plymouth Township, Northville and Northville Township represents the company's first venture.

Richwine tells of an audience with the Pope

By W.W. EDGAR

There is no emotional experience quite like sitting among thousands of people in St. Peter's Square in Rome for a public audience with the pope.

At least that is the opinion of Perry Richwine, a Plymouth attorney, and his wife, Janet, who enjoyed the experience recently when Pope John Paul II gave his first public audience after returning from his trip to Poland.

THE AUDIENCE was arranged by the Rev. Robert Keller, who recently was transferred from Our Lady of Good Counsel Catholic Church in Plymouth to Roseville.

Richwine was amazed at the details which were involved before he and his wife were seated only a few rows from

"Folks began arriving at 3:15 in the afternoon and kept standing until the conclusion five hours later. "Can you imagine any of us standing 51/2 hours in our church to hear our pastor give a two-hour sermon?"

cording to Richwine, it was one of the best-behaved gatherings he and his wife ever had seen. There was no shouting, pushing or shoving all the while they were waiting for the arrival of the pope.

Richwine described the scene in this

"The platform upon which the pope and his assistants sat was about six feet above the street.

"There were six assistants on the platform and the Swiss Guard stood at attention all during the program. As the pope entered St. Peter's Square, the crowd started cheering and applauding, but when he stepped to the podium to welcome the audience one could hear a pin drop. He then blessed the whole audience and gave a prayer for their health and soul.

WHAT FOLLOWED was one of the most emotional moments of the entire audience.

There were 12 buses from different church schools which brought children who were incapacitated, most of them

The children began waving flags from their own home countries and the pope spoke to each in their own language. "It was a sight one can never forget," said Richwine.

No matter what language the pope spoke, Richwine recalled, you could tell what he was saying by the change in his expression and the way he guided

"The way the pope's words inspired the crowd was a sight to behold. The pope expressed a love for all people and prayed for them. The beauty of his face seemed to shine with love, health and vigor. His little red cap seemed to express the glow in his face which also was more visible because of his long white cloak.

One of the things which impressed the Richwines was that not a word was spoken by the pope against anybody or anything. The pope's deep religious convictions seemed to flow out to the

Pavilion to open soon

The pavilion at Plymouth Township Recreation Park, may have appeared to be a long time coming but the end is within sight now, says township engineer Mike Bailey.

"We're pleased at this point," he said Wednesday.

Bailey says most recent delays have been caused by inclement weather. However, the completion is expected at the week's end.

Some minor work such as interior touchups and handiwork, as well as general cleanup remains.

Construction of a park pavilion began last fall with an expected completion date of May 1, 1979. At one point, the township was encouraged to fire the company directed to do the job. That firm, DAC Construction Co. of Farmingion, was cited with failure "to supply sufficiency of properly skilled workmen and failure to prosecute the work with promptness and diligence," by the township engineering-consultant firm.

The structure will be used for gatherings and houses the park supervisor's office.

PALM BEACH and NORTH PALM BEACH (WORRELL'S)

By DAN GUIDO

"I feel a United State Senator should do more than go to Washington after he's elected and vote on national and international issues. A U.S. Senator can and should be the best, most effective advocate a state has.'

He appeared confident, sincere and very tired. After a full day of Senate proceedings in Washington, Don Riegle had flown into Detroit to attend the first national budget hearings ever conducted in Michigan.

The budget hearings were held in Detroit July 19, at Riegle's request. The senior Michigan senator said he would conduct the hearings to determine the state's financial needs for 1980. The Detroit hearings were scheduled a few weeks prior to Congress' final ratification of the 1980 budget.

"My first concern is what Michigan and its cities, such as Detroit, will receive from the federal government next year. For years Michigan has been one of the few states that actually pays more into the federal government than it gets back. I'd like to change that," Riegle said.

For Riegle, the budget hearings are his latest attempt to become the most effective "state-oriented" U.S. Senator in Congress.

Riegle began his campaign to achieve that goal by opening seven state offices only months after he was elected to complete the final term of former Senator Phillip Hart, who died of cancer while still in office.

Riegle's seven Michigan offices are the most ever operated by a senator from this state, and clearly illustrate his desire to "do as much for Michigan as I and my staff can do.

And he appears to be doing just that. By opening the offices, one in Detroit, Cadillac, Flint, Grand Rapids, Lansing, Livonia, and Marquette, Riegle has committed over half of the office allowance he receives as senator to Michigan.

"I decided to do that after I was elected in order to achieve the type of quality care for Michigan residents that I had in mind,, 'Riegle said. However, the committment of half his congressional office funds to the state has limited the number and diversity of his staff in Washington.

"That was a tough decision that I had to make soon after I was elected. The question was; should I spend most of allowance in Washington and employ some very highly skilled professionals, or should I spend the bulk of the money in Michigan in order to attract some quality people to my state-wide

Trustees stew over culinary arts cut

Schoolcraft must trim its new addition plan

By TIM RICHARD

officials will try to redesign a culinary arts addition, whittling a $2.2 million project down to less than $1.1 million.

The board of trustees, in a 4-2 straw poll, told President C. Nelson Grote and Vice President W. Kenneth Lindner to proceed with a revised program statement and building design.

The community college vainly sought voter approval twice this year for a property tax increase to complete financing of a culinary arts addition to the Waterman Campus Center. Purposes of the addition, as planned, were to double culinary arts enrollment (to 120), reduce the program's years-long waiting list, introduce a restaurant management curriculum, and add banquet, meeting and faculty office space.

INSTEAD, Schoolcraft will proceed It'll be tough, but Schoolcraft College with the money it already had available prior to the vote — about $534,000 left from a 1968 bond issue and $730,000 from the state.

> It's the state funding that prompts complexities at this point. The state grant was voted on the basis of the full program and the $2.2 million building project. But if the project is to be scaled down and the program reduced, there's a question about how much of the state appropriation still will be available to Schoolcraft. Grote said $536,000 might be salvaged.

A possibility, Lindner said, is that the college could use its capital funds entirely for the building and seek outside funding - perhaps from the food service industry — for equipment.

R.J. Alexander, who represents Oakland County, was elected to replace Henry M. Hogan Jr., also of Oakland County, as first vice chairperson of the SEMTA board. Hogan, who opposed the rapid transit compromise plan which Alexander supported, had expected to be dropped as first vice chairperson and offered no contest.

Other options considered but dropped were: using the money to pay off the bond issue and returning the state appropriation; remodeling the Waterman Center (which would mean shutting it down for the better part of a year); or using the local funds for other campus needs.

TRUSTEES SAID they would rather start over than abandon the project, designed for one of Schoolcraft's most popular programs.

"If we're going to build it, let's build it," said Trustee Mark McQuesten, adding, "but I don't want to design a program to suit the building. We should design the building to suit the program."

Harry Greenleaf and Nancie Blatt, board chairwoman and vice-chairwoman, and new trustee Michael W. Burley also favored going ahead. Burley asked for comments from the culinary arts

All's not quiet on gasoline front

By W.W. EDGAR

Something new is happening along the gasoline front.

No, it isn't another raise in the price of gasoline. But don't be surprised if you stop at your favorite station within the next few days and see a price list posted which reads:

99.9 cents a gallon Gasoline

Check oil 50 cents Windshield

Tire check 10 cents

AND WHEN IT happens, you can blame those who are driving up to the self-service pumps and then demand extra service.

Added to the behavior of those looking for service after buying cheap gasoline is an obscure law which took effect this week.

According to this rule, dealers are prohibited from adding the cost of service to the price of gasoline. They can give it away or charge for the service by posting a price list.

Charles Shipley, executive secretary of the Service Station Owners Association, has been quoted to the effect that he doesn't expect many of the dealers to adopt the price list. But the law is there and they can use it.

Charging for air is nothing new in Plymouth.

Erv Evenson, owner of the Shell station at Ann Arbor Road, and Sheldon, has been charging 25 cents for more

"It got so bad at this corner that the free loaders who were buying gas at the other stations came in here for air.

he pointed out that it was only fair that the people who go elsewhere for cheap gasoline at the self-serve pumps should be asked to pay extra for the added service. And if they want full service they should get into the line for the full service pumps.

In a hasty survey taken of the Plymouth stations, Evenson Shell was the lone dealer in this area charging for air. But there were hints from the others that those who deal at the selfserve pumps would have a choice either get into the full service line or pay the extra charge for service.

There used to be a time when these services always were given without charge. But that was before the selfserve pumps were installed to combat the price rise. But now the self-servers are causing what could be a furor along the gasoline front.

No European sprawl

By TOM LONERGAN

Mention "suburban sprawl" to a European and you're likely to get a quizzical look, no matter what language you

"They have not allowed suburbanization at all," said Larry Salci, general manager of the Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority (SEMTA), who recently returned from a tour of several European cities.

Salci was the only Michigan representative among a group of 14 local and federal transportation officials who looked at urban transportation systems in Paris, London, Munich and smaller cities in Sweden and the Netherlands.

The group spent two days in each city riding subways and surface rail cars as well as reviewing how each system was funded and operated.

MODELING a Detroit area mass transit system after a European city's would be impractical due to "our suburbanization," said Salci, a Troy

Transportation and land use are "closely interwoven" in European cities, he said. "We really don't have an adopted land use plan that really means anything."

The automobile brought great individual mobility and suburbanization to U.S. cities, Salci said, but also "haphazard land development.

European cities are "still the centers of government," Salci said, and don't have the "same political problems and fragmented self-interests" of their U.S.

Most European countries "cut back the auto penetration of the city" 10

"If you want to go through the city, you have to go around."

He said between 20 and 30 percent of all people who travel to downtown Detroit do so by bus or commuter rail. In European cities, he said up to 80 percent use mass transit to get to the cen-

EUROPEANS USE cars for "specialty trips" and on weekends, Salci said. Gasoline is $3 a gallon in Paris, $2.50 in Germany and "better than $2 everywhere else," he said. With those prices, Europeans have "very little sympathy for our energy situation," he added.

The change in transportation emphasis this country faces due to rapidly increasing gas prices and supply shortages has been met by European countries during the last 20 years, Salci

He estimated most European countries split their transportation spending evenly between highways and mass transit, while the U.S. government has spent 90 percent on highways.

Salci said interstate highway development was "a great policy when energy was very cheap."

SALCI APPLAUDED the Carter Administration's proposal to spend $10 billion more on mass transit development during the next 10 years. He said it would increase federal mass transit spending to $41/2 billion a year.

SEMTA now gets $30 million annually in federal funds for operating costs and another $30 million for capital investment. Purchase of 180 new buses during the past year cost $20 million, Federal mass transit policy during the next five years emphasizes replacement of the "rolling stock" of 30,000 buses nationwide, Salci said.

He noted the European countries he visited are "far, far ahead" of the U.S. in bus and rail technology. Salci said the U.S. has two bus manufacturers and one rail car manufacturer.

"Nothing's going to change overnight," Salci said regarding quicker U.S. development of urban mass

Plymouth Hilton Inn is honored by AAA

The Plymouth Hilton Inn was honored at a luncheon in Plymouth this week by Automobile Club of Michigan for being among North America's most outstanding establishments.

The Plymouth hotel received a Four-Diamond national AAA rating in the 1979 Michigan-Wisconsin Tour Book.

A Four-Diamond hotel is one which is "Exceptional; significantly exceeds AAA requirements in most physical and operational categories. It offers luxurious accommodations, as well as extra amenities. The management and staff, the housekeeping and maintenance rank well above average."

The meaning of that rating is described by Len Barnes, editor of AAA's Michigan Living/Motor News magazine:

"What those concise, businesslike words cannot convey is the human effort which goes into the transition from three diamonds to four.

"Behind each accomplishment there is someone who has the imagination to visualize an improvement in the property, the determination to get the project underway and the courage to stay with it until it is completed."

JAMES CAMPBELL, manager of the Auto Club's Plymouth branch, comments: "The diamond rating system is a relatively new AAA feature. It was added to the resort rating system about a year ago to designate the best places to stay, dine and vacations

The award was presented by Campbell Tuesday to John Dithmer, general manager of the Plymouth Hilton.

Michigan boasts 24 Four-Diamond hotels among 463 which are rated by AAA No establishment in the state received a Five-Diamond rating — the highest

Only 45 of 14,258 AAA-approved hotels and motels in the U.S., Canada and Mexico received a Five-Diamond rating. There are 979 Four-Diamond hotels or less than seven percent of the total number of establishments. The other 23 Michigan hotels which received Four-Diamond ratings include:

Detroit Plaza; Hotel Pontchartrain, Detroit; Hyatt Regency-Dearborn; Dearborn Inn; Michigan Inn, Sheraton Southfield and Stouffer's Northland Inn, all in South-

Georgian Inn, Roseville; Northfield Hilton Inn, Troy; Campus Inn, Marriott Inn and Weber's Inn, all in Ann Arbor; Bay Valley, Bay City; Bavarian Haus Motel, Frankenmuth; Best Western Chalet Motor Lodge, Gaylord; The Homestead at Glen Arbor:

And: Big Paw Resort, Harrisville; Point West, Macatawa; Hilton Inn-Lansing; Leland Lodge, Leland; Grand Hotel, Mackinac Island; Tiroler Hof, Marquette; and Ramada Inn-Valley Plaza, Midland.

AAA EMPLOYS a team of 50 fulltime field reporters trained to seek out and inspect quality accommodations.

The teams will inspect hotels once a year — twice a year for those gaining the Five-Diamond status.

The Bottom Line

On dependents

(The author, Daniel Herriman of Plymouth, is partner in a consulting firm for small businesses.)

Parents often ask whether it is, "tax wise" to let their children work during summer vacation.

The three questions most frequently asked are:

1. If my child works, will I lose the right to claim him as a dependent on my own tax return?

2. If my child works, how will his earnings be reported?

3. Can a self-employed individual pay his own child for working in his business?

DEPENDENTS

A child can be claimed as a dependent on your income tax return, regardless of the amount of money earned during temporary employment, provid-total support, including food, lodging, sits them in a bank. Parents should obmedical and dental care, education and and savings to ensure that he is conother necessities. (The child cannot file tributing less than half of his own supjointly with a spouse and still be port. claimed as a dependent unless gross income is less than $5,400.)

In computing total support, do not include amounts received such as a scholarship for study at an educational institution. You must, however, include amounts received by veterans under the GI Bill. Examples:

1. Your son receives a $1,000 scholarship. In the same year you provide $800 as his only other support. You may claim him as a dependent because the scholarship is not included in determining total support.

2. During the year, your son received $990 under the GI Bill, which is used for his education. You contribute the balance of his support — $700. Because the GI benefits are included in determining the amount of total support, your contri bution of $700 is less than half and you cannot claim your son as a dependent.

A child is not considered spending his · You provided more than half of his earnings for his own support if he depo-

clothing, transportation, recreation, serve the extent of a child's earnings

FILING REQUIREMENTS

Your child will file his own income tax return if required by law, although it may be that no tax return is neces-

In no case will it be necessary for the parent to report the child's earnings on the parents' return.

However, a federal income tax return must be filed by your dependent child if unearned income (i.e., interest and dividends) exceeds $1,000 or if gross income exceeds $3,300

Students working during summer vacation who will earn less than the minimum filing requirement, but have income taxes withheld from their pay, should file a federal income tax return to claim a refund of amounts withheld.

They may exempt themselves from having federal income tax withheld if they furnish the employer an Internal Revenue Form W-4, indicating they owed no federal income tax last year and expect to owe none this year.

PIRING OWN CHILDREN

Self-employed persons who hire temporary employees should consider the possibility of hiring their own children during summer vacation. The following tax advantages result:

· If the child is less than 21 years of age, no Social Security taxes need be withheld provided the employer is a sole proprietor.

 If the child earns less than the minimum filing requirement per year, he will have no income tax liability and need not file a federal return.

· If the child qualifies (as outlined above), and files the proper withholding form, it will not be necessary to withhold income tax. . If the parent is careful to establish that he provides more than half of the child's support, he may still claim him as a dependent.

Enriched Flavor'cigarette sparks whole new taste era in low tar smoking.

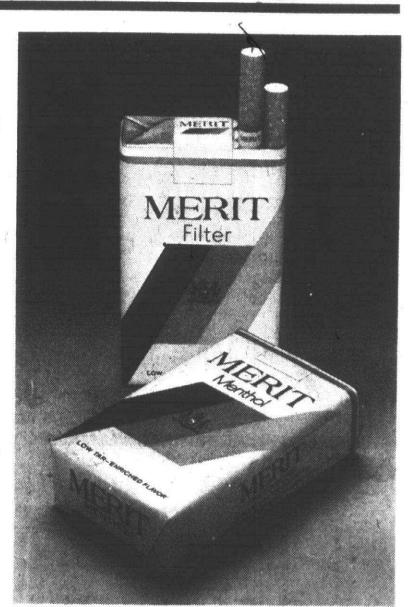

A few years ago, most smokers agreed: low tar meant low taste.

Then along came MERIT and a whole new taste idea called 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco. And the "low tar, low taste" theory was exploded. Exploded with proven taste in a new low tar cigarette.

No other new cigarette in the last 20 years has attracted so many smokers as quickly as MERIT!

It's clear: MERIT taste is changing attitudes towards low tar smoking.

But not on everything

Got a complaint? Try calling the Governor

By DAN GUIDO

Got a complaint?

Tired of traveling on state highways that are rutted and full of holes? Tired of waiting hours for a bus or train every morning? Tired of fighting city hall?

Well, if you suffer from these types of problems, and want to start action to resolve them, one answer might be to write the Governor's Office.

But be aware - not even the Governor can take care of all your problems in every instance.

William Rustem, director of the Office of Research within the Governor's Office, identified the governor's biggest problem as letters and phone calls concerning questions the governor does not have jurisdiction over.

"Of the 500,000 letters the governor receives in a year, 80 to 90 percent of them are of a complaint nature. A lot of folks write in who think the governor is all powerful, but he isn't. Some people write to us about nationwide issues, which the governor simply cannot do anything about," Rustem said.

"That's when I have to write them and tell those people that these types of issues are just out of his jurisdiction."

An example of an issue not under the governor's umbrella would be the debate to close down nuclear reactors built by Babcock & Wilcox, Inc., the same firm that developed Three Mile Island, the Pennsylvania nuclear reactor which suffered a near melt down during the first weeks of April.

"We've received hundreds of letters in the last few months about the danger of nuclear power," Jonathan Cain, an aide in the Governor's Office, said. "People are concerned about the possibility of a Three Mile Island happening here in Michigan, which I can appreciate.

"But the problem remains in that the Governor's Office has no control over building or not building nuclear reactors in the state. That's between the Nuclear Regulatory Commission and the power-producing corporations."

Cain said Milliken is concerned about nuclear power in Michigan, but that he was "pre-empted by federal law" and had to abide by Washington's decisions

"The governor has not stated that he is opposed to nuclear power in industrial pollution in that area in the Michigan to begin with. He feels it's im- future, but was unable to set a date for portant that we look into what happened at Three Mile Island and see what the situation. One type of problem the governor is able to deal with is industrial pollution in Michigan, Rustem said.

An example would best be evidenced by the controversy surrounding the

Mr. Dan Guido 20390 Westview Drive Northville, Michigan 48167

Dear Mr. Guido:

WILLIAM G. MILLIKEN

Thank you for your recent letter regarding Michigan's energy supply situation. I share your concerns about the energy future of Michigan and hope that oil supplies will continue presence of TCCD-tertrachlorodibensop-dioxin in the Saginaw, Tittabawassee and Chippewa Rivers, Saginaw Bay and Lake Michigan.

Dioxin, the most toxic chemical known to man, is currently the center of a controversy surrounding a lawsuit brought against the federal government and Dow Chemical of Midland, Michigan by Vietnam Veterans who claim they have been exposed to TCCD, a known carcinogen, through their use of a Dow product called 'Agent Orange' in Vietnam.

Rustem said the Governor's Office has received about 100 or so "letters concerning the Dioxin pollution from residents who live near the affected rivers and lakes, and from those who have cottages in the area and are concerned about the health risks involved

"We first got involved in the Tittabawassee shortly after the Department of Public Health issued a warning (last July) against the eating of any fish caught in the river," Rustem said.

"The governor was aware of the problem shortly after that, although he is still not sure what happened in those rivers.'

Rustem explained that the polluter must first be found before the state can do anything to alleviate the Dioxin levels in the rivers. He said the governor has the powers to institute some form of more stringent controls to limit the implementation of such controls.

Although the pollution of the Titactions are taken by the NRC to control tabawassee and the other rivers is a fairly recent example of industrial pollution of the state's rivers with toxic chemicals, Rustem was also involved in the biggest industrial pollution scandals in Michigan history. Rustem said the Governor's Office episode involving PBB. Many of these letters we sent on to the Department of Natural Resources and several other government agencies involved in the PBB thing.

Rustem explained that every letter that comes into the Governor's Office is catalogued and tagged. The tags consist of four carbon-backed sheets which are used to record the process of the letter through various state agencies.

As the letter is sent from office to office, department to department, whoever is responsible for it signs his name on the carbon tag at the top of the letter, tears off the top tag, and sends the letter on to the next official, if needed. That way, the Governor's Office always knows the location of the letter.

Cain admitted that occasionally a letter will get bogged down in a department, but since a copy of the original tag that was first affixed to the letter is kept by the aide who first dealt with it, it is not hard to track down a letter and find out what is holding it up.

"Sometimes we find that some in-not really attempted to deal with a letter as efficently as he could. When that happens we sometimes are forced to rattle that person's chain, or have that particular individual transferred to another department where he could be better put to use.' Rustem said each and every letter sent o the Governor's Office is answered providing the reader writes his returned dress on the envelope. The best way to get a satisfactory reply from the governor is to write legibly, unemotionally and to include a return address, Cain said.

"We often get letters which say, listen you jerks, you're all crooks and I don't think you're going to do anything good anyways, but just in case someone reads this letter by mistake, here's what I feel and why.

"My first response to that type of letter is that I don't feel too highly of the writer, and that may prejudice my reaction to his complaint. Although most of those types of letters do not dividual somewhere along the line has have a return address, some of them do, and we'll answer them and try to straighten out whatever problem he wrote about. "By the time a person sends a letter to the governor, they have usually been around the track and they're madder than hell. By that time, the lines have been clearly drawn, and the person is feeling that nobody gives a damn. "That's when I come in, and those here like me. It really is a good feeling to help people solve their problems they write in about," Cain said.

All letters sent to the Governor's Office are considered important and will be answered even if they are written on an old piece of paper sack, Tom Drake, also an aide, said.

Drake said the content and clarity of a letter would not mean that it would be treated any differently from any other letter received by the Governor's Of-

He said those who do write should expect up to a five-week wait from the governor before the letter is returned

Interim zoning law had too many add-ons

The failure of an interim zoning ordinance that would have prevented development while the 1976 Canton Township master plan is under revision leaves us with mixed feelings.

We believe, as do the proponents of the ordinance, that key areas along Ford Road will be snapped up and well along the way toward development before the master plan and subsequent zoning ordinances can be enacted.

We find the notion of an unbroken strip of businesses and driveways along Canton's main thoroughfare to be distasteful and short-sighted in terms of future shopping needs. The concept of clustering commercial ventures according to their local versus regional nature, as outlined in the master plan, has merit.

But until Canton puts some muscle behind the master plan by adopting a zoning ordinance to implement it, development along Ford will continue to be strip oriented.

THE INTERIM zoning ordinance, however, concerned more than the fate of Ford Road — and this is where we begin to see problems,

Numerous other items connected with township planning are tacked on or are part of the interim ordinance that was presented to the board.

The sign law under consideration by the township board, landscape regulations and other zoning changes would all have a place in the interim zoning ordinance.

Most of these added-on items, unlike the portions concerning Ford Road, do not have to be enacted immediately. We will not see huge signs springing up along the road, because the current sign ordinance is even stricter than the one under considera-

Another provision in the interim zoning ordinance would have expanded the zoning board of appeals from five to seven members.

Once again, this kind of provision does not belong in an emergency ordinance.

The ordinance is not as temporary as it should be, which could have meant too much delay in the passage of the regular zoning ordinance. The interim ordinance could have remained in effect for up to

WE DISAGREE, however, that the public would have been denied input at least on the body of the law if an interim zoning ordinance had been passed. The temporary ordinance primarily carries out the goals of a master plan developed in 1976. There was public input during the development of that plan, but it was never carried out because a zoning ordinance implementing it was never adopted.

The public hearing set for Aug. 15 in Plymouth Salem High School is on the 1976 master plan with revisions - not on an entirely new master plan. The public should have had input on the additional sections of the interim ordinance.

It took courage for those members of the board Carol Bodenmiller Robert Greenstein and Maria Falkiewicz (acting as deputy for Treasurer James Donahue) to vote yes on an issue that had no legal precedent and could have meant personal liability.

But we share the concerns of those who voted the ordinance down because it contained too many nonemergency matters to be passed on an emergency

Had the previous board of trustees seen fit to pass a zoning ordinance implementing the 1976 master plan back when it was first developed, Canton would not be in this dilemma now

Bird's knee sore spot

According to the public prints, a new chapter is being written on the life and times of Mark (The Bird) Fidrych, the young Tiger pitcher who startled the baseball world in 1976 and was acclaimed as the greatest thing to come along in years.

He has been sent to a clinic in San Diego where the specialists there will attempt to solve the problems of his shoulder and pitching arm that have kept him on the disabled list for the better part of two seasons.

As he read these lines, The Stroller was reminded of a short visit he had with a retired "country" docfor some time ago. On this occasion, he had spoken at an evening meeting of the Lions Club in Marine

IT WAS then that the old time doctor asked, When are the Tigers going to get smart and get down to The Bird's real trouble.?

It wasn't an unusual question. It had been asked of The Stroller many times in the past several sea-

Before he could furnish any sort of an answer, the old time doctor asked, "When are they going to learn that the Bird's real trouble is with his knee not his arm.?

This was a new twist and the questioner asked the old doctor to explain.

"If you recall," he said, "The Bird injured his knee during spring training.

Before it healed properly, The Bird started favoring it on the mound. To do this he changed his pitching motion — and that's where the real trouble

"It is this favoring of the knee that causes him to get down on his knees and 'manicure' the mound before every pitch. The Kid isn't showing off. He's protecting his knee so he doesn't make a misstep.

If they ever get his knee, back in shape, it is possible that he can get back his old pitching motion and things will be different.

THE STROLLER thought of this again as he read the latest chapter and learned that the knee would be looked at, too. So, maybe, the old time doctor, now retired, has a solution to the problem that seems to have stymied the modern specialists and left the baseball world wondering if "The Bird" is all through.

It is a funny thing about pitchers and their pitching motions. Years ago the legendary "Dizzy" Dean's career was cut short because of a freakish accident in which he was hit on the foot by a liner in the All-Star game. It didn't seem like much at the time. But it caused him to change his pitching motion as a means of favoring his foot, and the change took all the speed and zip out of his fast ball. It wasn't long until he was on the sidelines.

ANOTHER CASE that comes to mind happened in the Tiger training camp some years ago when The Stroller was covering the daily doings in the Florida camp.

Lining up one morning, four abreast, Manager Mickey Cochrane had the squad attempt a military type march. In the midst of it he yelled "halt." Evidently Pinky Higgins, the Tigers third baseman, didn't hear the command. He took a step and his spiked shoe came down on Pitcher Roxie Lawson's ankle and inflicted a deep wound.

The wound healed, but Rox had to change his pitching motion and he wasn't long in the major leagues.

'Me' generation shows it can think of others

There's a silver lining embedded in the "Me" decade.

Although examination of developments in the last six or seven years tends to make a person cynical, many persons are going out of their way to help others.

We've become used to hearing about millions exterminated in Cambodia and thousands set adrift in the Pacific by the Vietnamese government. And not until recently have many cared.

Domestically, a tirade of emotion has been vented against helping those who are in need of such basics as housing, food and medical care. The cry seems to be "everyone for himself.

But a closer examination reveals that many persons do care.

Why?

TAKE THE CASE of Garden City resident Jim McDonald. Earlier this year he saw a television report on the defacement of a Farmington Hills synagogue with Nazi graffiti. McDonald volunteered to clean up the mess.

About three years ago, his house burned down and his twin sons were killed. An outpouring of good will came from neighbors and friends in the way of badly needed aid. McDonald figured he owed a debt. Cleaning the synagogue was his way of paying back that debt.

DALE WINNIE, of Romeo, is another example. A successful lawyer, Winnie dedicates 20 hours a month to helping senior citizens out of their legal tangles.

His clients include seniors from Rochester, Troy, Royal Oak and the Farmington area.

Winnie is like the old-fashioned country doctor. If the seniors are unable to get to him, he goes to them. He also caters to deaf seniors in the tri-coun-

A GREAT DEAL of aid also has come the way of Howard and Ruth Eldrege, Farmington Hills seniors who recently were burned out of their home.

An appeal through the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers and some quick work by local government agencies found them shelter, clothes and needed medical equipment.

The Prince family of Canton has seen its kindness repaid. Through the years, the family has adopted five children. But recently they fell on bad times when their house burned down. They didn't have any insurance.

The community came through with a series of garage sales to raise funds. The First Church of the Nazarene, based in Farmington Hills, even got involved in helping these faraway neighbors.

WESTLAND ALSO has those who dedicate their time to helping others.

Joe Doline, 68, hasn't let age and three heart attacks slow him down. He recently was honored statewide for his senior citizen leadership.

Doline has concentrated on lobbying efforts to get a dial-a-ride system. He also has been instrumental in seeing that a local Social Security and medicaid office was established in Westland.

Dorothy Clayborn, another Westlander, has been honored for her work with the terminally ill. Mrs. McGuire dedicates her time by working with seven convalescent homes in Westland and Livonia.

The list of those helping others is endless. It demonstrates that the "Me" generation isn't as self-centered as we may have thought. Although efforts to help others may not be as organized as they once were, individually persons are putting out for others.

It makes even a cynical editor feel pretty good about life.

Flood cure will require cooperation

The long-awaited Wade-Trim Report finally has been released.

The Wayne County Drain Commission signed up Wade-Trim Associates to conduct a study on the Tonquish Creek floodplain and make recommendations on anti-flooding measures.

The report was of particular interest to the city of Plymouth because of a history of major floods causing considerable damage to residences and the downtown, especially in the last two years.

Plymouth Township was vitally interested in the report because an adequate storm water drainage system is a key to development of the western portion of the township.

Canton Township also has a direct interest in the findings, as evidenced by last month's flooding in residential subdivisions along the Tonquish Branch as it winds through the township towards the south west portion of Westland.

BECAUSE OF these common interests, the city of Plymouth and Plymouth Township had formed a joint floodplain study committee.

At the time of its formation, the joint committee also extended invitations to Canton and Westland to appoint representatives so they could participate in the anti-flooding efforts.

The first multi-community meeting was scheduled for last week when a representative from Wade-Trim, which also is the engineering firm for Canton, appeared to discuss its study and findings. Both Plymouth governments and Westland were represented, but unfortunately Canton presence was missing.

The absence is unfortunate because a group of Canton homeowners who suffered from the most recent flooding have retained an attorney to investigate a possible injunction prohibiting any future development in Canton until the drainage problems

The city of Plymouth also has considered seeking an injunction barring further development in Plymouth Township until the water runoff to the west is slowed down.

And so there is a lot of common interest along the banks of the Tonquish. And people with common interests ought to get together when solutions to problems are discussed.

AS FOR THE meeting with Wade-Trim, there were no major surprises in the report.

As anticipated, the report listed a number of alternative solutions.

And also as anticipated, each alternative will cost millions of dollars.

Whatever solution is decided upon, then, will be beyond the financial resources of any single community. In fact, it's unlikely Wayne County will be able to come up with the bucks to finance a project.

There's no question but that federal and state grant monies will be needed to supplement the county's bonding abilities to pay for a solution. And neither is there any doubt that sizeable local contributions will be needed.

also dive in together.

makers.

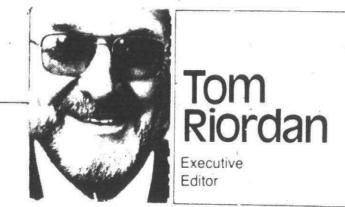

Right now the local government engineers are poring over the technical details of Wade-Trim's report to summarize the recommendations in language which can be understood by laymen decision-

The study committee also is trying to find out from the drain commissioner what the possible financing arrangements are. In a few months, we might know what the total price tag will be and the dollar share of each local governmental unit. But the final solution is not right around the corner. Before construction is completed, another spring flooding season will arrive — and probably another, and another. Meanwhile, it is important that all communities along the floodplain work together to find any short-term, temporary measures which can be taken to lessen the extent of future flood damage. We certainly will be swimming together

At age 22, he spoke words of real wisdom

First in two parts

He was 22 when he made the move.

At the time, 1928, he surely had no idea how that decision would shape his life — and the lives of hundreds of thousands of others.

Harry B. Cunningham, known as Pete to his wife and close friends, was then a general assignment reporter for the Harrisburg (Pa.) Patriot.

He had taken two years of journalism at Miami University of Ohio That seemed enough classroom work. He wanted to get at the real thing.

The young Cunningham was hired by Ray Eberle, city editor of Harrisburg's morning daily.

THE YOUTHFUL CUNNINGHAM quickly fellin love with newspapering. He brimmed with enthusiasm. He learned quickly. The city editor was pleased with the new reporter's progress.

Cunningham lived in the downtown Harrisburg YMCA. His roommate was an assistant manager of a Kresge store.

Young Harry worked the afternoon shift, starting

Young Harry worked the afternoon shift, starting at 2 o'clock. Often he would go to work by way of the Kresge store to chat with his roomie.

One day while visiting at the store. Harry was

One day while visiting at the store. Harry was introduced to the firm's district manager, who volunteered to buy the Cokes. The conversation at the Kresge lunch counter quickly turned on the rapidly growing dime store chain.

The Kresge executive asked Harry how much he

"Twenty dollars a week," he said, then went on to explain he started a year earlier for $15 and had merited two raises of $2.50 each.

"Do you have any idea how much I make?" the prosperous-looking. 29-year-old district manager asked. Before Harry could respond, the fellow added. "I won't tell you exactly, but it's in five figures. It you joined our management training program you'd start at $25."

Harry Cunningham told himself, "Wow!"

BEFORE THE COKES were consumed, the district manager had invited Cunningham to climb aboard the Kresge bandwagon. After all, the executive said. Kresge was then opening 100 new stores a year and there were oodles of opportunities for ambitious young men.

Fifty-one years later. Harry remembers, "By the time we were done talking he had my application."

"If you're anxious to start right away. I'll send your papers to Detroit," the district manager said. "If not I'll keep 'em with me. When I find an opening in a nice store in my district. I'll contact you."

Harry replied. "I'm in no hurry. I'm having a ball in the newspaper business."

The pair shook hands and Harry headed for the Patriot office. Little did he realize on what a fascinating journey he would soon be starting.

THREE MONTHS PASSED and there was no word from Kresge. Harry was too absorbed in his reporting chores to worry.

On a Monday morning the silence was broken with a telegram from the district manager: "When can you start at Lynchburg. Va. store?"

Harry responded by wire, "Next Monday."

The grand adventure for Harry B. Cunningham was starting to unfold.

But before he left Harrisburg, there still was one chapter of Harry's life to be played. At the time it seemed minor. Now Harry realizes it set the theme for his entire life.

GOING IMMEDIATELY TO City Editor Eberle. Harry told his boss he would be leaving at the cnd of the current week. He had another job.

Eberle was surprised.

"You're just getting to be of value around here. Where are you going?" the city editor asked.

To Kresge

The dime store. Why in the world would you do

Harry explained about the management training program. He mentioned his starting pay of $25 a week. He said he knew this would be a completely different vocation.

Then Harry-concluded. Maybe it I work hard enough at it. I'll get to like it Eberle's race brightened. He stood up and in a fatherly gesture placed his arm around Cunning-ham's shoulders. Young man you just spoke words of wisdom. Ir you work hard enough at any job you'll learn to love it.

Eberle's warm reaction to the young reporter's philosophy of work was never forgotten by Harry

THIS PHILOSOPHY has served Harry well. It was especially important at Lynchburg

He was assigned a job as stock box — the very bottom of the Kresge ladder And he quickly learned something most disheartening. He was the 10th man to hold the job in five months. The others had quit ar been fixed. The Lynchburg manager was a tyrant.

Something else weighed heavily on Harry's mind that first week. He began to wonder if maybe he had made a terrible mistake. Harry could still hear members of his family telling him he certainly had

Last Friday, as Harry Cunningham and I had lunch at Peabody's restaurant in Birmingham, he recalled that faterul time in 1928, one of the roughest of his young life.

"I made up my mind I was going to star, and truto keep ahead of that manager"

Chewy foods won't clean your teeth

Dear Dr. DeFrancesco: Friends have told me that toods such as apples or celery can help clean teeth after meals. Is this so?

No. You must continue brushing in addition to eating apples, etc. Foods of this nature don't remove plaque. Of course, they are better than snack toods with sugar.

Dear Dr. DeFrancesco: I am having trouble with loose upper and lower dentures. Is it practical to use adhesives?

Dr. Joseph De Francesco

No. Adhesives can give you false retention and gum irritation. When the adhesive combines with mouth secretions, it produces foul breath.

Retention produced by adhesives will deter the patient from going to his dentist for the proper adjustment necessary to correct the looseness.

Dear Dr. DeFrancesco: My four-year-old grandson brushes his teeth three times a day, but I noticed he swallows the toothpaste.

In this case, when your grandson decides to brush his teeth, his mother could place a small quantity on the brush. There is no real danger because these products are tested.

Dear Dr. DeFrancesco: Does pregnancy increase the incidence of decay?

No. pregnancy does not cause decay. It may be caused by higher use of sweets and fewer visits to the dentist. Expectant mothers should visit their dentists at least twice during their pregnancies.

Dear Dr. DeFrancesco: My dentures are loose, and my gums are sore when I chew. Can I reline my dentures with reline material purchased over the counter?

No. Consult your dentist as soon as possible because he can identify the condition causing the soreness and looseness and correct it

Where's gazebo?

Two summers ago the Plymouth City Commission approved federal monies to build a gazebo in Plymouth's Old Village. Is was to be built within the park which lies along Farmer, between Mill and Starkweather. What happened?

I personally know just how hard the merchants and residents of Old Village worked to bring about the construction of this gazebo. It was a long, tough fight with certain city commissioners before the park began to take shape to become a reality, although incomplete.

But even now, two summers later, and still no gazebo. At least not where it should be. And God knows, I don't have it. Any information would be greatly appreciated.

Use wind for energy

Here's a very simple idea that, I believe, could solve the energy shortage and clean up the air we breath across the nation

I have tried writing my "dear friend" Jimmy Carter, but naturally he is too busy shutting down the air conditioning systems of our shopping centers and the like to listen to such as I.

If water can be caught by huge dams and run through turbines to produce electric power, why not build a network of a system composed of huge sails to catch the wind and direct it into turbines to produce electric power?

The idea and invention of the windmill was a good one. Why don't we expand on it and have some pollution-free energy? There is plenty to go around.

The projects will create 800 permanent jobs, with indications of more soon to come. In addition, the projects will generate about 500 other temporary jobs during construction phase and finally contribute more than $1 million in taxes throughout the county.

These figures were cited by EDC Director Robert E. FitzPatrick in a recent report to the County Board of Commissioners which establishead the EDC in February.

THE BOARD authorized the EDC as an independent (non-government), nonprofit organization designed to stimulate local commercial and industrial development for all 43 communities in the county. Under state law, it is empowered to sell revenue bonds to finance economic growth projects, and is eligible for federal grants.

Massey bats too much in 7-Up softball tourney

By BRAD EMONS

When trophies are at stake, it brings the best out in Massey Cadillac. A member of the Plymouth Recreation Division A Slow-pitch Softball League, Massey whipped through five opponents to claim the 7-Up Tournament of Champions trophy.

The tournament brought together the top two slow-pitch teams from eight different cities.

The Plymouth team almost didn't make it into the tourney. On Friday night, the team dangled near the forfeit line. Massey fielded only 10 players through the first two rounds.

Massey opened the tourney on Friday with a 15-9 win over Long & Zayti of Northville. Massey then whipped Hart Precision Products of Redford Township and Burghuff Bar of Wayne.

On Saturday night in the winner's bracket, Massey won a hard-fought 22-16 decision over Studio Lounge.

The Westland team battled back on Sunday in the loser's bracket defeating Hideway, also of Westland, 14-10, gaining a rematch with Massey.

IN THE CHAMPIONSHIP final, Massey took a 3-1 lead in the first inning as shortstop Pete Woodard and leftfielder Bill Baughman socked

Massey, however, cut the margin to 10-7 in the bottom half of the inning as Bobby Green, Doc Hauncher and Woodard crossed home plate.

Studio widened its lead to 12-7 in the fourth inning when pitcher Paul Rowgowski blasted a two-run homer. Rowgowski was a member of the Rochester (N.Y.) Zeniths of the American Professional Slow-pitch League (APSL) the final 14 games last season:

Not to be denied, Massey erupted with seven runs in the bottom half of the inning to lead, 14-12, as Woodard hit his second homer and Dan Griffin belted a solo shot.

Studio cut the margin to 14-13 in the fifth and collected two more runs in the sixth, regaining the lead, but Massey answered with four runs in the bottom of the sixth, 18-15.

Canton Elks gain Columbus trip

By BRAD EMONS

Canton Elks manager Dave Racer was a tired and emotionally drained man after last weekend.

But when the National Amateur Baseball Federation (NABF) Regional (for 15-16 year olds) had finally ended, Racer cracked a weary smile. He had a right to be happy. His team won four of five games last weekend at Canton's field to earn a berth in the NABF World Series which starts Thursday in Columbus, Ohio. Eight teams will compete for national honors. The games will be played at two sites - Ohio State University and the Columbus Clippers Minor League Sta-

"The kids came through," said

Racer. "This really drained me. And I'll have to go through it again this week. Last year in Illinois I got so hoarse I couldn't talk.

The Canton team, members of the Mickey Mantle Baseball League, finished third last year in the AABC Regional at Joliet, Ill.

Canton won an emotionally heated final (5-3) against Dearborn Heights Crestwood to gain the Columbus trip. Canton took a 4-1 lead into the top of the third inning when centerfielder David Carter blasted a long homer over the left field fence with Dave Meador aboard.

Crestwood cut the margin to 4-3 in the bottom half of the inning when lefthanded slugger Gary Wayne sent a rifle-like shot over the right field fence with one on against starter Bobby Smith, a pickup from South Dearborn Heights.

IN THE FOURTH inning, Crestwood threatened with the bases loaded and no outs. A faulty suicide squeeze play got Canton out of the inning as Crestwood failed to score.

In the fifth inning, Canton walked the tightrope again but relief pitcher Dan Funkhouser, the winner in Friday's opening round, came in and got two outs with two runners on base.

Meanwhile, Crestwood pitcher Todd Tramel settled down and threw three scoreless innings after Carter's two-run

In the sixth, fireworks began

With one out, Wayne collected his third hit of the game, a single. Dan Shilling followed with ground rule double as Wayne was held at third base.

Ruben Gonzales then hit a sharp grounder to shortstop which Billy Hanis bobbled. Hanis hurried his throw to first base on the close play. Confusion followed immediately as to what the umpire had called.

Koufax squad romps to regional

Canton Koufax steamrolled into Thursday's American Amateur Baseball Congress (AABC) Regional Tournament in Battle Creek by easily grabbing the district title over the weekend at Thomson Field in Northville.

After beating the Detroit Rangers of first round on Friday afternoon, 9-8, of two-run homers. the Canton team blasted Riverside of smashed North Farmington, 15-2.

The last three games were halted beo cause of the mercy rule.

Canton will meet the Jackson County representative in the eight-team double elimination (15-16 years) tourney at 10 a.m. Thursday in Battle Creek. A team from Livonia and a team from Westland also will be represented.

In Canton's 15-5 rout over Riverside, the Police Athletic League (PAL) in the Steve Johnson led the way with a pair Pitcher Jamie Chilcoff went Canada twice, 15-5 and 14-2, and tance (six innings) to pick up the victory. He aided his own cause with a tworun homer.

In the second game against Riverside, Dave Slavin duplicated Johnson's feat as he hit a pair of two-run round trippers.

Jack Ford started for Canton and was relieved by Doug Frasure, a draftee from South Dearborn Heights, in the fifth inning. "Everybody really hit," said Canton manager Gerald Ebmeyer.

IN THE TWO games against Riverside, Canton collected 21 hits. Canton surprisingly handled North Farmington in the championship game.

"We had a much easier time against North Farmington than I expected," said Ebmeyer. "We played them during the regular season and only beat them,

Sam Villa; Canton's regular shortstop, took his turn on the mound and allowed two runs on three hits in his six inning stint.

Slavin, a member of the Salem Crestwood Dodge team and drafted by Ebmeyer for the tournament, hit his third, two-run homer of the tournament.

After a conference near the pitcher's mound, the home plate umpire overruled the base umpire who had called the runner safe. Gonzales' putout touched off a heated argument between Crestwood coach Gene Wayne and the two umpires.

"The base umpire asked for help from the home plate umpire," said tournament director Dick DeVries. "The home plate ump ruled the first baseman (Meador) did not pull his foot."

THE RUN WAS nullified and seemed to take the wind out of Crestwood's sails.

'The base umpire called him safe," said Wayne. "He changed his mind. I showed him the rule book but he wouldn't listen.'

Wayne said he did not file a protest because it takes a week to get a final answer.

"They (Canton) will be in Columbus before those guys in Lansing could rule on it," he said.

Canton got an insurance run in the final inning when Carter singled home Meador.

Mark Clark, a pickup from the Detroit Mic Mac team, hurled the final inning for Canton and allowed a lead-off single before retiring three batters in a row, the last two on strikeouts. "I think we got a raw deal here," said Wayne.

"The tournament was run OK but the officiating was terrible. Our fellas came back and got jobbed on a bad decision. Crestwood reached the final of the double elimi-

Behind the two-hit pitching of Funkhouser on Friday, Canton defeated a tough Westland team, 3-0, as Meador scored the winning run. In the other opening round game, the Detroit Angels of the Detroit Police Athletic League (PAL) beat Crestwood,

On Saturday, Canton put Detroit into the losers' bracket with a 7-3 victory as Greg Wendt picked up the victory with relief help from Clark. Catcher Frank McMurray blasted a grand slam in the ninth inning to give Canton the victory.

Canton met Detroit again Saturday evening with the same result, a 7-3 win.

The game was halted with one out in the Detroit seventh. The umpires ejected the Detroit coach and forfeited the game to Canton.

Canton tallied five runs in the first inning and never trailed Keith Stone scored two runs.

DiPonio loses bid for AABC tourney spot

The key hit was missing Monday night as Plymouth DiPonio missed an opportunity to gain a spot in the American Amateur Baseball Congress (AABC) District playoffs.

In a special playoff game at Salem's baseball field, North Farmington defeated DiPonio, 3-1.

The win put North Farmington into the playoffs which begin Thursday in Rochester. DiPonio finished the season with an 8-7 overall mark. North Farmington upped its record to 9-6.

'We had it going almost every inning but couldn't bring them in," said DiPonio manager Ben Wilcox. "We just couldn't get that key hit."

In the fourth inning, North Farmington grabbed a 1-0 lead on an unearned run resulting from an infield error and two wild pitches.

In the fifth inning, North Farmington collected its its first hit of the game off DiPonio starter Greg Etienne, a triple which produced North's second

Most golfers arrived in Birmingham Monday morning to begin the first of three practice rounds in preparation for this major event.

One of the most notable concerns of the PGA officials has been wet weather, which has lingered in the area since last weekend. Although Monday's practice round was dry, Tuesday's activities were interrupted by a two-hour afternoon downpour. Many golfers mentioned than the tough Oakland Hills' greens were playing rather slowly.

We've got to get the greens to speed and get the fairway down, which is affected by the ain, then we're ready to go," said PGA official Joe Black.

These are exciting days in the Mohacsi household in Livonia and it isn't because Mary, four time bowling queen, has gained another honor.

* This time the excitement centers around daughter Sandra, who will compete for the national junior championship next week in Washington, D.C. She qualified for the title competition by winning the recent state championships in the tournament sponsored by the Coca Cola Company and the National Bowling Council.

Aside from the title, Sandra will be competing for one of the $1,000 prize scholarships.

This is the event in which scores alone do not decide the winner. Scores of college scholastic attitude are used to help name the winners.

When she steps on the lanes to compete for the title, Sandra will be walking in the footprints of Kit Konkle, of Grand Rapids, who was the winner of the first of the national -championships 25 years ago.

THE OPENING GUNS of the new season will be fired over the weekend of Aug. 11-12 when the Mid-City Women's Tournament gets underway at State Lanes in Saginaw.

This has been one of the most pop-"ular events in the past two years and a field of 160 bowlers is expected. The entry list has not been completed and those seeking a place in the field should write Cora Feibig at -990 E. Barrett In Madison Heights,

THE JOHN GAVIE Sweepstakes which annually opens the season for the top league bowlers, is set for Monday, Aug. 27, at the underbowl in Allen Park.

The field is expected to include 32 men's teams and 22 women's teams and they'll be aiming to beat last year's high totals which included Stroh's winning count of 3376 and Purity Dairy's 2959 that were fired at Sunnybrook lanes.

This will be the warm-up for the All-Star Classics as the Tuesday loop opens fire at Thunderbowl on the following night, Aug. 28, and the Thursday loop at Orchard Lanes on Aug. 30. The women's loops open fire on Sept. 5 at Luxury Lanes and Sept. 10 at Beech Lanes. The latter house is the new home of the Ladies Major League.

THE HOT SPELL didn't seem to bother Bob Rose when he took his place on the approaches at Westland Bowl. Competing in the Thursday Trio league, he broke the 700 barrier with a 704 that included games of 215, 229 and 210.

In the high scoring session Larry Brugman fired a 247 and 235 in 673. Bob Jawor had a 254 opener in 670° and Randy Smith had a 247 opener

BETTY WOODSTOCK, who carries a 177 average in the ladies foursome at Woodland Lanes, had one of her better days last week. She found the range for games of 190, 191 and 219 for 600. Behind her came Joyce McLennon, a 146 average bowler, with 506 and Tracy Hayles, a 158 bowler with a 502 that included a 203 opener.

HAROLD VON BERGEN sent the pins flying in the Lads and Lassies League at Merri-Bowl.

He started with a 233 and came right back with 235 and then closed with a 200 for a 668 series.

Bocce — a sport everyone can play

By KEN VOYLES

Looking for a new and different sport to try this summer? Put aside the golf clubs and tennis racquets for a moment and pick up a set of bocce balls.

Bocce (which means "kiss" in English) is an ancient sport that has become a modern, competitive game.

John Del Signore and three friends from Livonia recently proved that the game is very much alive by winning the Italian-American Club of Dearborn's Bocce Tournament.

Del Signore along with Orlando Troiani, Angelo D'Orazio and Nazareno Troiani took first and second place prizes at the competitions which were conducted over a week's Bocce, by rule, is played on a 90-by-12 foot court. However, the game can also be played just about anywhere, from a backyard to a sandy beach.

There are eight balls used by the competing players. Four are brown and four are red. There is also a small white ball called a "pallino."

The game is started when the pallino is thrown down the court. The object of the game is to pitch the bocce as close as possible to the pallino.

The sport can be played by singles or teams of up to four on a side.

The game is played from 12 to 18 points, depending on the number of players.

"I love the sport myself," said Del Signore. "Bocce is a very popular game in Italy. You could call it the national sport. In America, it is played all over but not quite the same way as in Italy."

Volunteers aid PGA cause

By BOB GROSS

Why would anyone volunteer for a job where you're on your feet for at least four hours, subjected to driving rain one day and scorching sun the next, and required to spend $60 for a uniform?

John Bates of Birmingham, a member of Oakland Hills Country Club and a PGA tournament marshall, said members volunteer because "we like to serve when we have an opportunity to do

Bates is one of approximately 350 volunteers serving as marshalls during the PGA championship at Oakland Hills. The Birmingham resident marshalls, in turn, are part of a larger group of 800 to 900 volunteers serving in functions that range from manning phones in the press tent to keeping scores on the

The marshalls are probably the most visible of the volunteers. There are eight marshalls assigned to each hole.

"The big part of our job is crowd control and public relations " said Larry Boensch. "We try to get people to places where they can enjoy them-

Boensch, a long-time who now lives in Metamora and a member of Oakland Hills, has captained the marshalls at the second hole during every major tournament since the 1951 Open. One of the reasons behind the volunteer support of the tournament, according to Boensch, is "we're all golf enthusiasts. "During the tournament we'll have 35,000 golf enthusiasts on the course each day. We really owe it to the public and the players to get the best talent out here for crowd "Besides, it's a lot of ANOTHER REASON behind the volunteers willingness to help might safely be termed "pres-

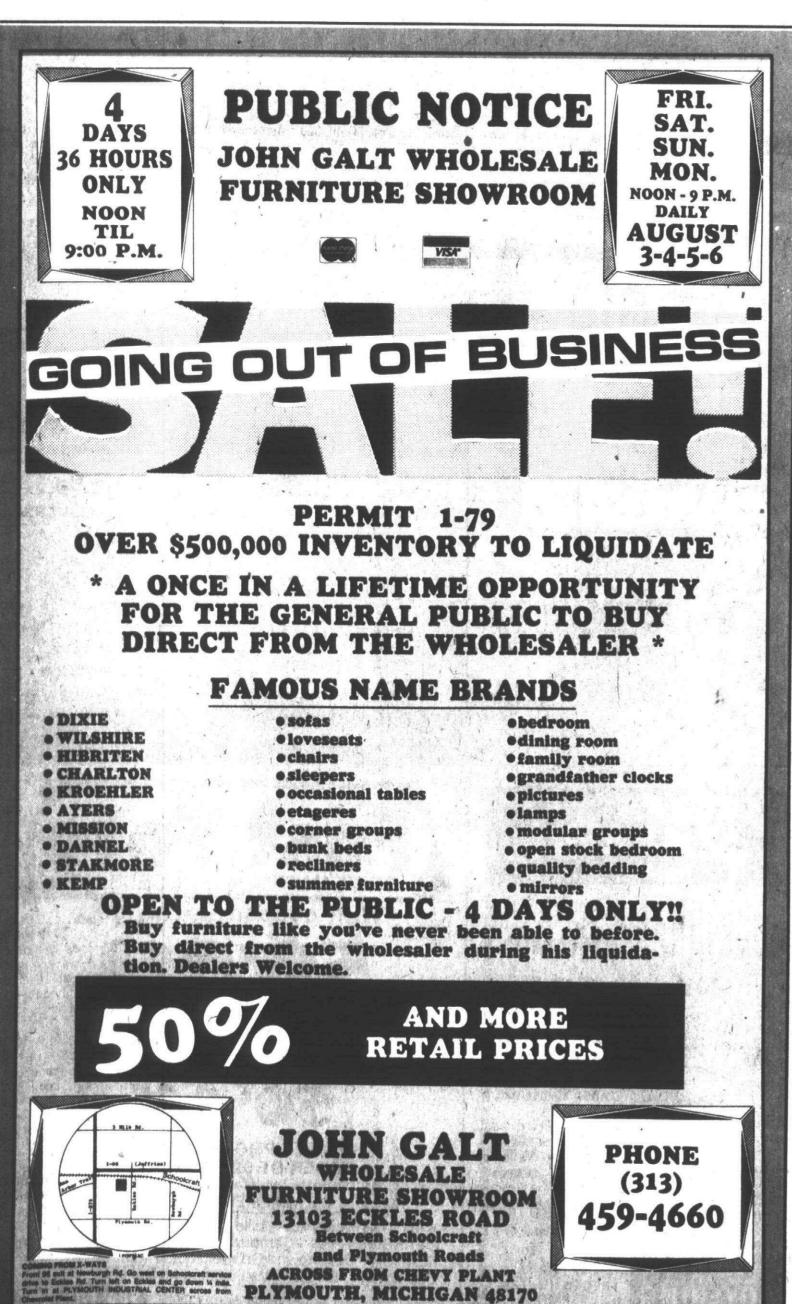

"You'll find, oddly enough, out here during the summer, fellows with the old green pants from the 1951 Open," said Boensch. "It's a status symbol - 'Oh, look at me. I've got on my 1951 green pants.'

The marshalls are also motivated by a desire to see some good golf. They work four-hour shifts, which leaves them with plenty of time to roam the course.

"I've enjoyed watching them (the professionals) putt," said Bill McQueen of Bloomfield Hills, "and shake their heads after missing."

Finally there's the desire on the part of the members to show off their course to the public.

Not all of the volunteers working at Oakland Hills are club members. Marty Parker, a member of the Birmingham Country Club and a resident of Lake Orion, said, "I just love it. I love the atmos-put together a team and play in their tournament," Del Signore said. "I got hold of my friends and we played as two teams. I was a little worried at first because I hadn't played competitively for awhile.'

The tournament, which was double elimination, involved 25 men's teams and 25 women's teams.

Del Signore was teamed with Orlando Troiani. The pair won six straight games and reached the finals against their friends Angelo D'Orazio and Nazareno Troiani and lost, 18-16, in a close contest.

"There are a lot of ways you can play the game. It varies a lot and that makes it interesting. I've been playing ever since I can remember when I was a kid in Italy," Signore said. "There are two ways of throwing the bocce to score points. You can roll them or throw them through the air toward the pallino. The best way is through the air but that's also tougher," he continued.

"I remember in Italy we used to play for wine and other things. It's a very relaxed and easygoing sport for everybody," Signore said.

Another illusion about the sport is that it's. mainly for just Italians. 'That's not true. There were a lot of American players at the tourney not of Italian descent and they played very well,"

Signore said.

The game is not as lengthy as many sports. taking anywhere from 15 minutes to two hours to play, depending on the skill of the players.

As for popularity in Livonia, Signore said the city is fairly new and Signore, an 18-year that bocce is just starting to get popular around the backyards and in the

"The east side of Detroit and Windsor have strong ties with the game. It's not an Italian game and people are starting to find out more about it," he said.

Livonia, in fact, has one regulation bocce court at Rotary Park on Six Mile.

"We would like to see more courts in Livonia. The best way to play is on a court but it's a lot of fun anywhere. It's also good exercise," said Del Signore.

The game is fairly inexpensive with a set of bocce running no more then $50. Del Signore also compared the game to horseshoes and bowling but added that to be good a player one "must have the right feel for the

Probably the nicest element to bocce is that it's a very good summer

"Oh yes, summer is the best time of year. We get into a lot of friendly games and have a lot of fun," Signore said.

The Italian-American Club of Livonia is also at the starting point of organizing its own bocce tournament later this summer or early fall

BILL LAWTON'S summer bicycle trip was about half the distance of last year's journey from the west coast.

"I cut it to 1,500 miles," said the University of Michigan Dearborn sopho-

Bill started out July 1, over the Ambassador Bridge to Windsor and then to Niagara Falls. He recrossed the border and pedaled to Boston and up to Portsmouth, Maine where he took the ferry to Yarmouth, Nova Scotia. He followed the Evangeline Trail from Yarmouth

He went through the Annapolis Valley and saw the tides come in on the Bay of Fundy - the highest tides in the world. He headed northeast to Cape Breton Island where he spent three or four days on the Cabot Trail.

He toured the old French fortress of Louisburg which was built in the late 17th century.

"It's something like Greenfield Village in that the people are all in oldfashioned dress. But there is a difference — Louisburg was there and this is the way it was. There are two restaurants there and we ate the same type of food with the same silver and plates they used in the 17th century."

He went down 680 feet underground in the Sydney Mines.

"The mines extend six miles under the ocean," said Bill. "It took the miners half an hour to get down then they had to go north or south to where they worked. One of the reasons the mines were closed was because they could not provide proper ventilation.'

He brought back a piece of coal from the mines.

"When the mines closed and so many were out of work they built the Cabot Trail and renovated Louisburg with government funding to give the men something to do.'

BILL WENT to North Sydney where he took the ferry to Newfoundland. They spent a day there before returning to North Sydney. There he boarded a train for Montreal "I didn't get to Prince Edward Island or the Gaspe Peninsula. I'd like to go back east and sometime go to Labrador. There are so many places I want to see on this continent before I go to Europe. He missed the International Gathering of the Clans at Antigonish by one week and was fascinated with the people and Scottish names of the Nova Scotia towns - Antigonish, Inverness. The train took him southwest then north through New Brunswick to Quebec and the St. Lawrence River where it headed southwest again, following the south bank of the river.

He changed trains at Montreal and again at Toronto before returning to Windsor.

Only problems were one flat tire and a broken gear cable (which he repaired and replaced), he and his bike were on different trains coming from Toronto (it showed up), and "I didn't eat enough seafood because I was operating on a very tight budget."

Bill is the son of Doreen and George Lawton of Canton Township.

Don't blame it all on menopause

The anxiety and depression often blamed by patients on menopause are usually caused by the stress of life of events of middle age, a Michigan State University internist told family practice residents, nurse clinicians and social workers at an MSU conference on

"The Physician's Care of Women." The daylong meeting was sponsored by the Department of Family Practice in MSU's College of Human Medicine.

"There's no evidence that menopause directly causes depression and anxiety, but rather it is a part of mid-life, a time associated with change and many final and often troubling life events," noted Dr. Ruth Hoppe, associate professor of medicine in MSU's College of Human Medicine.

During parents' middle years, children claim their final independence and leave home, often leading to a sense of parental role loss. Departure of children also exposes the marital realtionship to greater intimacy. A withered marriage will require mending

VOCATIONAL involvement for one or both parents during mid-life can mean accepting the reality about not meeting career goals and setting new job objectives, Dr. Hoppe said.

For those whose goals have been met with success, there's the need to reorder priorities to answer the question 'what now?"

"Death of a parent, or increased depenence of parents are other events assicated with middle age," Dr. Hoppe said. "Underlying the sorrow and, if it occurs, the extra physical and emotional care for elderly parents is the 'closing in' of facing one's own death.

"Menopause changes a women's view of herself as a child bearer, and for many this is difficult," she said. "Menopause is the final statement on childbearing and hot flashes can be unwelcome and often-repeated reminders that the change of menopause are at hand."

DR. HOPPE emphasized that most menopausal symptoms are not severe and that they can be easily tolerated, and urged those providing care for women take good advantage of opportunities for patient education and counseling.

"Studies show that 10 percent of menopausal women have no symptoms of temporary nature and 10 percent have severe symptoms."

The average age of menopuase is 50, the duration is about two years, and there must be 12 consecutive months without a menstrual period for a woman to feel confident about not using contraception, Dr. Hoppe noted.

She cited osteoporosis or bone loss, and the vaginal changes of drying and itching that can be brought on or accelerated by menopause. warned that in prescribing estrogen, physicians should be cautious and begin estrogen replacement only after carefully weighing the risks and benefits. The major risk concern is the possible relationship of estrogen replacment therapy and endometrial cancer (cancer of the uterus).

THOROUGH patient and family histories should be taken to determine what life events are current and the patient's risk factors, such as liver problems, clotting events, heavy smoking, obesity, being prone to tumors, and cases of breast cancer in other family

Dr. Hoppe advised that before administering estorgen, physicians frankly discuss the risks and benefits of estrogen replacement therapy with their patients.

When, on balance, the decision is made to administer estrogen, physicians should prescribe it at the lowest In discussing the controversies sur- possible dosage that will relive symprounding estrogen replacement, she toms and for the shortest possible period of time, and it should be administered on a cyclic basis - for a period "on" followed by a period "off."

Here's a cheer for the 'unsung heroes'

Who will be tomorrow's baseball superstars for the Tigers, Yankees, Red Sox, or Braves? No, this isn't a psychic prediction. But, perhaps, just perhaps, some of the stars of the future got their start this summer in the Plymouth-Canton Junior Baseball program.

As far as the participants and their parents knew, it all began about March 3 when sign-ups for this summer's program were held. Actually, preparations for the summer of 1980 already are being made. Participants in the age groups 7-12 numbered 2,500 this summer, with more expected next year.

The people who organize the program are elected to their positions. They are definitely unsung heroes who spend many precious hours contracting for baseball diamonds for practice and games; recruiting coaches; seeing that equipment is in order; raising money; and making sure the season runs smoothly.

There is a nominal registration fee, however, this does not cover the cost of the program. The players have been involved in a fund-raiser. The happy winners of U.S. Savings Bonds will be announced Aug. 6. A few private donations are made each year, but more are always welcome.

WELCOME ALSO is parent partici-

If you are able to help the program in any way, Jim Schols, 397-3940, would be most happy to hear from you. It's not too early to call Jim and tell him you'd like to help in 1980.

The junior baseball program consists of three leagues, A, B, and C. We all have to get started somewhere, and the C league, or Tee-Ball League is where it begins in this program.

Donna Goodrich was elected as C-League coordinator. Donna will start her second year at Suomi College, and is majoring in business. It was Donna's job to see that all ran smoothly for the 22 teams, and 440 players of the C-League. Practices began in late May, with actual league play beginning June 8 and ending July 28. For many of the players, this was their first encounter with organized team baseball.

Donna briefly explained the tee-ball rules. There are 29 players on each team. All bat in order. Each boy or girl must play for at least six defensive outs. The defensive team consists of 11 players. There is no stealing and no bunting. There is also a "mercy" rule. Not more than 10 runs can be scored in one inning.

If this doesn't sound quite like the brand of baseball you're use to, bear in mind that it is designed to let the maximum number of youngsters get started in the game.

In addition to baseball, the players learned team spirit, and good sportsmanship. It was a great feeling to hear the players cheer on a less skilled player, and tell him or her what a great effort they had made.

THE RESPONSIBILITY for instilling the baseball skills, team spirit, and sportsmanlike qualities fell to the team

The managers were mostly high school students who indicated their interest in coaching at the March sign-up. These students showed a wealth of patience in working with the 7- to 8-yearolds, and making this season a pleasant experience for the young players.

National League coaches were: Giants-John Cruse; Astros-Mickey Madson; Cubs-Greg Williams; Dodgers-Cindy Stevens; Cards-John Blanchard; the Koesels, who thought they were in-

Braves-Sherri Scott; Mets-Ron Halmekangas; Expos-Mark Belding; Phillies-Scott Corrunker; Pirates-Robert Fletcher; White Sox-Bob Woods; and Yankees-Larry Lamphear.

American Leage coaches were: Athletics-Joe Humphries; Red Sox-Dana Wasiak; Royals-Andy Johnson; Orioles-Jeff Hubert; Brewers-Ed Carrie; Indians-Greg Trim; Angles-Greg Chapel; Rangers-Danny Carlson; Padres-Jeff Hansen; and Tigers-Bruno Genrich.

Congratulations to all of you for a job well done!

CAROL AND BOB Koesel were honored this past week at several goingaway parties.

Sue and Art Lawrence were hosts Saturday, July 28 for a dinner and swim party. It was quite a surprisé to vited for dinner with the Lawrences. Carol first wondered why Sue had barbecued a turkey that looked big enough to feed over 20 people. Then the other invited guests began to arrive, each bringing a dish to pass for the dinner. Much to everyone's delight, Sue served her recipe for Yellow Birds which she had acquired in the Bahamas.

Party guests included: Bobbie and Mike Ryan, Mary and Sherm Moore, Kathy and Charlie Freece, Jan and Darrell Brawn, Carol and Bob Shaw, Sandy and Hank Naasko, Kathy and Bob Spencer, Diane and Bill Soules, and Cynthia and Bob Betley.

Carol and Bob were presented with a lovely wooden based, hurricane candle, and a beautiful large framed wall plaque. The plaque was a dried flower arrangement on burlap, with a small painted clock in one corner

Gas crisis hurts cancer volunteers

Metropolitan Detroit's largest volunteer driver program is suffering from gas shortages and high costs, reports William A. Stengle, Acting Director: Medical Division for the Michigan Cancer Foundation.

He explained that 500 foundation volunteers drove 32,000 miles to take 318 patients to hospitals for therapy during the first four months of this year. In 1978, more than 600 drivers helped 528 cancer patients get to hospitals for out-patient chemotherapy and radiation therapy treatments. They drove more than 104,000 miles.

All transportation services are provided at the drivers expense, and are free of charge to the patient.

"Many drivers are willing to give their time, but because of the gas crunch, the Michigan Cancer Foundaton is searching for an angel to help us defray their personal costs," Stengle.

In the past several years, the treatment of cancer has shifted from long-term hospitalization to out-patient care," he said. "This allows the patient to remain in familiar and secure home surroundings. Out-patitent care often requires frequent trips to the hospital or local treatment center. These treatments are necessary for life or for the control of pain.'

Priority is given to patients engaged in a regimen of treatments and unable to drive a car or use public transportation.

Volunteer drivers are usually required between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. weekdays. The trip, which involves picking the patient up at home and driving to and from the hospital, involves one to three hours or more. The foundation's local volunteer transportation chairmen make every attempt to schedule appointments for the convenience of the driver. Patient and driver are matched by zip code, to assure the shortest trip possible.

"Volunteer drivers play an important role in the patient's treatment program," said Stengle.

An excavation for a new house, on Pocatello Drive in Canton Township has been responsible for an exciting summer pastime for four neighborhood children. Carrie, 10, her brother Michael, 7, Billy Mannion, 10 and Mark Trostle, 9, have spent many hours at the new hole in the ground. It has become their own private fossil dig.

Armed with trowels, spades, a hoe and a rake they have uncovered a variety of fossils buried in the Canton clay.

"We have wings and shells and fossil rocks," said Carrie. There were brachiopods and pieces of shell from prehistoric marine life. One of the fossil finders had a clump of fossilized

Preserve taste treats of summer for winter

Summer is the time to make jams and jellies. Prepare them now for toast on cold winter mornings, to add sparkle for desserts and for holiday

To make a perfect jelly, you must have pectin, acid, sugar, and water in the right proportions. Fruits vary in the amounts of pectin and acid they

Fruits rich in both pectin and acid are crab apples, sour apples, cranberries, currants, gooseberries, sour plums, and grapes.

Rich in acid but low in pectin are strawberries, cherries, rhubarb, pinepaple, raspberries, and loganberries.

Peaches, pears, and blueberries are low in both acid and pectin. If a fruit is low in either pectin or acid, it may be combined with one or more fruits rich in the needed pectin or acid.

Pectin and acid change with the maturity of the fruit, both decreasing as the fruit ripens. For best results, therefore, use a mixture of slightly underripe and ripe fruit. Never use overripe fruit for making jelly.

If you are not sure about the fruit you are using, plan to use commerical pectin which take the guesswork out of making jellies and relted prod-

DIAMOND: THE HOW OF IT '79 August #1 The diamond you own is a miracle of nature. In the millions of years between its birth and its discovery, your diamond saw the evolution of different plant and animal WSU received an increase of $8.2 million bringing the total state appropriation to $98.1 million for 1979-80, compared with $109.7 million originally sought by the university.

Good old summertime isn't all that great for pets

By ELINOR GRAHAM

Heat, flies, wasps and a boom in the flea population - the good old summertime is not worth a wag of the tail to the family dog. Add the trauma of his "people" departing bag and baggage for something called a "vacation," and it's almost more than a poor canine can bear.

It doesn't have to be that way according to Richard Kirchgatter, veterinarian at the Parkway Veterinary Clinic, who passed along a few tips on care of dogs during the hot weather.

If the dog spends most of its time outdoors, "It should have access to fresh, clean water at all times. And it should have available shade.'

Dogs suffer from fly bites on their ears. Kirchgatter says there is medication available to repel flies.

Heat stroke is a fairly common occurrence among dogs who become overheated in parked cars. "Excessive heat combined with excitement can cause heatstroke," said Kirchgatter. He said the best emergency treatment is immersion or bathing with cool water.

"Dogs do die of heat stroke and if their condition is bad enough, they should be treated in a hospital."

THE VETERINARIAN suggested checking the dog's skin for brown, sandy material. This is a sign of fleas. He said a dog with a confirmed flea problem should be given flea baths.

"And there is a tablet available that will help control fleas," he added. Two of these flea tablets a week is the recommended dosage.

"Heat bothers dogs more than any other pet," said Kirchgatter.

Dr. Mary Beth Leininger of the Plymouth Animal Hospital said that long-haired dogs do not feel the heat more than short-haired breeds

"Unless a collie's hair is matted and in bad condition, it is not necessary to trim its coat. They and other longhaired dogs are used to the heavier coats," she said.

"Dogs cannot perspire like humans. They perspire through the pads of their feet and discharge heat by panting.", Leininger also warned about letting dogs run loose.

"It is ridiculous to let them run loose. They are bound to get hit by a car sooner or later. The biggest number of our HBCs, hit by cars, are caused by not keeping them on a leash."

SHE RECOMMENDED three alternatives to boarding a dog in a kennel during a family vacation.

"If possible, take the dog along on vacation. The second choice is leaving it at home but having a neighbor, whom the dog knows, stop in two or three times a day to feed, talk to and exercise the dog.

"Or let the dog stay with friends while the family is away."

She said that cats are better off at home. "Cats are territorial. They usually do not like riding in a car. The heat in a car bothers a cat - unless there is air conditioning.

"It's best to have neighbor look in on cats, birds and fish once or twice a day and leave them at home. You can't leave enough food in an aquarium for a week without the water becoming

Dr. Leininger responded to the question of what to do about insect bites. .

"Last year was a terrible year for yellow jackets. Multiple stings can be very serious. A single sting may not require medical attention but a dog stung by several insects or, as sometimes happens, a swarm of wasps or bees, needs emergency treatment."

DR. TAN H. PIRZADA of Canton Township said dogs should be tested every spring for heartworm.

If the tests are negative, preventive medication is recommended. If the larval organisms are present denoting the presence of heartworm, the dog usually is hospitalized for a few days and treatment is initiated, according to the vet-

The disease is transmitted by mosquitoes, and because heartworm received a good deal of publicity several years ago, the number of cases has declined. Pet owners have had their dogs tested and treated.

Religious studies are for credit or growth

Individuals with philosophical questions relating to the Bible and theology may take at Madonna College of Livonia a variety of courses in religious studies. The studies may be taken for academic credit or personal growth.

Offered for the first time this fall is Philosophy of Religions. Sr. Mary Felicity, Ph.D., instructor of philosophy and English, will introduce students to the relationship between theology and philosophy.

She will also focus on the eternal questions: "Who is man, and what is his relationship to religion?" "How do faith and intellect relate?" "Are philosophy and theology mutually supported?"

She also will contrast classical and contemporary views of philosophy and

A series of eight Thursday evening lectures, "Seasons of Life," will focus on the many different periods of a person's life, including the most difficult: childhood, widowhood and death.

Sr. Martin Ann will lead guest speakers through the series.

Based on contemporary ideas, "Christology" class members will study the identity of Jesus of Nazareth and faith proclamations about him as the Christ, the Messiah, and the Son of God. Participants will better be able to formulate Christ's common question, "Who do you think I am?"

"Prophets, Priests and Kings" is an introduction to the literature, personalities and main religious themes of the Old Testament. The course will emphasize both the New Testament and the Old Testament as harmonious pieces.

Ongoing registration at Madonna College will continue until the first day of the fall term, Sept. 4. The registrar's office, in the administration building, is open 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Mondays-

The college is at the corner of Schoolcraft (I-96) and Levan, just east

Summer is the season to beware of botulism

Outbreaks of illness from food contaminated by harmful bacteria are especially common during hot summer

Food poisoning ranks second only to the common cold as the most frequent cause of illness, according to U.S. Government authorities.

Lack of sanitation, insufficient cooking, and improper storage can allow bacteria in food to increase to dangerous levels, says Lois Thieleke, Oakland County Cooperative Extension Home Economist. Life begins at 40 degrees for most bacteria

Little leaks mean big drains

A slowly dripping faucet can waste many gallons of water and more cash than anyone wants to spare.

In fact, faucets are the second greatest source of water leaks (toilets rank first.) The American Water Works Association suggests you can save both natural and financial resources by checking all faucets in the house at least once a year.

Worn washers, the most common cause of leaks, are easy to replace. Turn off the water supply and then take apart the faucet. For more complicated fixtures, consult a good household do-it-yourself book.

Be sure that the new washer is the right size. It has to spread out to the edges of the valve stem when screwed down. You may need to consult a plumber if it still leaks.

Lever-controlled faucets are just as easy to disassemble and repair. Replacment parts can be found in hardware or plumbing stores.

Repairing drippy faucets is one of the simple things homeowners can do to prevent unnecessary drains on water supplies and budgets.

food poisoning: salmonella, clostridium perfringens, staphylococcus and clostridium botulinum. They are simple, little bacteria organisms — one-celled organisms that multiply dividing, to divide they need food, warmth and mois-

These bacteria may be present in all foods because they are everywhere in the environment. It's up to you to protect yourself and your family from

The "infamous four" can cause illness or in extreme cases even death.

Many people from the farmer through the retailer work to protect vou from these bacteria. The U.S.Department of Agriculture or a state agency inspects your meat and poultry for wholesomeness. The Food and Drug Administration inspects plants where all other foods are produced.

But, from the supermarket shelf to the dinner table, you are the one responsible for protecting your food. Your responsibility begins in the supermarket. Don't buy food in containers that are outdated, broken, bent or leaky. Especially avoid bulging cans.

Another thing you can do in the supermarket is to make sure meat, poultry and frozen foods are kept cold. Buy them last so they don't warm up or defrost in the cart while shopping.

Make the grocery store your last stop so you can go home. On arriving home, immediately put your meat and poultry in the refrigerator, which should be at 40 degrees F., or in the freezer at 0 degrees F. Put frozen foods in the freezer right away.

When you take your fresh meat, poultry or frozen foods out to cook thaw foods in the refrigerator or cook them frozen. If you must thaw in a hurry, do so in a water-tight plastic bag submerged in cold water.

Never thaw frozen food uncovered on a kitchen counter at room temperature. Remember, there are bacteria

There are four common causes of everywhere, and room temperature lets them grow.

> The way the "infamous four" usually strike in the home is through cross-contamination. Since the bacteria are killed under proper cooking temperatures, an illness from cross-contamination can occur only if you've failed to take the right precautions. Here's how that can happen:

Your chicken has been thawed and you have cut it up on your cutting board. You put the chicken into the frying pan and begin preparing your other foods. If you use the same knife and cutting board, you could contaminate whatever else you prepare.

Good habits in the kitchen can help prevent food contamination. For example, don't keep main dishes at room temperature for longer than two hours before serving. Bacteria grow rapidly at room temperature.

Following simple hygienic practices can help. Use rubber gloves if you have cuts or sores on your hands. That not keeps bacteria out of the sores, it also keeps bacteria from the sores from getting on the food.

Put leftovers into the refrigerator as soon as the meal is over. Refrigerate them in small or shallow containers so they will cool quickly.

Pets also are carriers of the "infamous four" bacteria. After handling pets, wash your hands before working with food. Don't allow pet feeding dishes, toys or bedding in the kitchen. Don't let pets touch food, utensils or foodworking surfaces.

Salmonella, perfringens and staphylococcus are invisible and can be detected only by a bacteriological test. Save any commercially canned product you may suspect and report it to the Food and Drug Administration, or your local public health officials. If in doubt, don't eat it or even taste it.

The "infamous four" are everywhere, but with proper food handling practices, you can prevent them from causing illness in your home.

Like the man, or men, who came to dinner, this Food poisoning from home canned foods occurs more foursome is prepared to sit right down and turn un-often than from commercially canned products. protected food into an extremely dangerous meal.

Plymouth — Past & Present

The day Plymouth honored Burroughs

By Sam Hudson

In a rare display of civic appreciation of industry in its midst, the city and township got together 20 years ago to honor the Burroughs Corp., then the largest employer in the area.

On March 21, 1959, officials of both governmental bodies donned Pilgrim costumes and paraded down Main Street, past old city hall, to a civic dinner at the Mayflower Hotel.

An assemblage of local dignitaries were gathered at the hotel to play hosts to Burroughs' representatives at a meal specially prepared for the occasion under the direction of the hotel manager (now owner) Ralph Lorenz.

The buffet menu included venison, wild fowl, turkey, goose, oysters, fish and succotash — the type of food eaten by the Pilgrim fathers and their Indian guests at Plymouth, Mass. when they in the spring of 1957. The Plymouth gave thanks for the first harvest in the

IN 1959, the sprawling Burroughs' plant on Plymouth Road at Haggerty, employed more than 3,000 people.

About half lived in Detroit and the rest in Plymouth and other communities near the plant. The facility produced accounting machines and precision military equipment.

The five-story plant, on an 183-acre site, had been built in 1938 to relieve crowded conditions at the firm's main plant in Detroit. Additions were made to the building after World War II and plant had become a separate operating division in September 1955.

The parade, and the dinner honoring to participate in the celebration.

Some firms had pulled up stakes and left the state. Among the defectors was the Daisy Manufacturing Co. After 60 years in Plymouth, Daisy announced on Nov. 7, 1957, that it was moving its air rifle manufacturing operations to Rogers, Ark.

There was no indication that Burroughs intended to follow suit, but Lorenz and Chandler thought it would do no harm to demonstrate to the area's largest employer and taxpayer that it was not only needed, but appre-

Riegle was interviewed by Sliger Home Newspapers shortly after he arrived from Washington at Detroit Metropolitian Airport. The Senator spoke at lenght about many things, Chrysler Corporation's economic problems, the budget hearings in Detroit, the then only rumored Carter cabinet changes, his actions to bring federal funds to Michigan and the loss of the Democratic Convention to New York.

As to the cabinet changes, Riegle said he sould be "very surprised" if Carter fired HEW secretary Joseph Califano and Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal, two cabinet members he described as "hard-working intelligent." However, Riegle said the firing of James CSchlisinger, head of the "politically beneficial" to the administration.

The real problem exists within the White House itself," he said. Carter needs to re-access his staff and detertheir responsibilities. The president year. should not rely so heavily on his 'Georgia Mafia'. He needs to hire some experienced, seasoned professionals, as staff members."

The appointment of Hamilton Jordan as Chief of Staff was also not well received by Riegle.

"I wonder if Jordan is the right man by past experience, that he is not. I hope the President realizes this and takes steps to correct the real problems within his administration."

The next morning, Carter accepted the resignations of Bluemanthal and Califano. On Friday, he accepted Schlisinger's and Secretary of Transportation James Brown's. Both moves were described by Riegle on Friday as "almost beyond imagination, just lunacy.'')

The mass resignations so soon after the President's energy speech on Sunday night were seen as damaging to Carter's 1980 political goals by Riegle.

"I hope his energy message will not get lost in the confusion over the cabinet resignations," Riegle said. "I think the president's energy proposals could be very effective, if he attempts to find and hire the specialists needed to implement his plans. If he doesn't take hold of the chance to do that and restore the public's confidence in himself and the presidency, then the chances of passing and implementing strong energy legislation will become very slim indeed.'

Riegle traveled with Carter in Air Force One for the president's trips to Detroit and Kansas on the day after his ed, several Economic Development energy speech. During the trip, Riegle Grants (EDA) to promote private insaid he spoke to the president at "some length" about Chyrsler Corporation's economic problems

"Although the president was very about the situation here in Detroit in even when the base was open.'

order to get Chrysler up higher on his list of priorities.

"You see, according to Carter, his energy message is up here," Riegle said holding his hand at shoulder level, "his cabinent and image problems are here," he said motioning a level waist high," and Chyrsler is somewhere down here," the Senator said, holding his hand at ankle level.

"That has got to change, because Chyrsler and Detroit are headed for some very serious problems unless something is done to alleviate the situation. There is a great urgency here which needs to be dealt with. If Chyrsler falls, we could lose 500,000 jobs, which would have a terrible impact on the economy."

Riegle said he had been in constant Energy Department, would be contact with Chyrsler officials in the past few weeks, in an attempt to solve the company's economic woes. One proposal offered by company officials would be for Chrysler to receive tax credits on this year's loss, which means mine just who is capable of handling they would not have to pay taxes this

After three years, the tax credit would be discontinued, and the company would be required to pay back the federal government through its profits at a higher tax rate than Chrysler has ever been required to pay. The three years would allow Chyrsler to get back on its feet and develop new and more for that type of position. It would seem fuel efficient cars than it is presently marketing, Riegle said.

"A lot of people think this would mean that the federal government is bailing out private industry. I can't agree with that. I think by implementing a tax credit or a similar plan, we would be saving jobs and the economy and not the private industry."

-The economy, with inflation and unemployment running at high levels, is already in bad enough shape in the nation and in Michigan, without losing Chyrsler Riegle said.

The Senator said he has "worked diligently" to improve economic conditions throughout the state by using his influence in Washington to receive grants for employment, housing and downtown development plans like Pon-

"In the past few years, my office has applied for and received hundreds of federal grants for employment, housing and development programs throughout the state. We have received Urban Development Association Grants (UDAG) for several cities, including Detroit and Pontiac.

"We have also sought for and receivvestments in troubled areas. When the president closed Kincheloe Air Force Base in the U.P., we were able to secure $6 million in EDA grants for that area. busy and had a lot on his mind concern- Now there is more part and full-time ing energy, I wanted to talk to him employment there than ever before-

What is more important, heredity or environment?" one class member asked Dr. Fred Roth, an English teacher at Cranbrook.

The question was typical of class discussion topics which ranged from the nature-nurture debate and the films of Francois Truffaut to the poetry of Alexander Pope

The students, 45 in all, are participating in Elderhostel, a one-week educational program for persons over 60. Michigan's regional program is being held at various locations, including Alma College, Ferris State College, Lake Superior State College, Oakland University, Western Michigan University and Cranbrook. The Cranbrook program was scheduled for Sunday-Saturday, June 17-23 and 24-30.

"They had gone to Europe as young people and had stayed in youth hostels. It's now a national program involving about 200 schools, mainly colleges and some secondary schools. Bill Berkeley is the national director, and we had him out here as commencement speaker at Cranbrook School in 1978," Brookfield said.

"Anyone who would do this (participate in the program) has to be willing to take risks," said Helen Dresman, program coordinator. "These people are very clear about their willingness

The students participate in extracurricular activities, including tours of Cranbrook House and Christ Church Cranbrook, a planetarium show, a cookout and voga exercise sessions. They are able to use Kingswood School's tennis courts and Cranbrook School's swimming pool.

One Elderhosteler, Beatrice Kornblum of St. Louis, Mo., said she produces a radio program, "Creative Aging," at KWMU-FM.

Visit the Capp Homes Open House this weekend...

And discover how your finishing touch can give you more home for the money!

Since 1946, CAPP has made quality, custom-built housing affordable for more than 60,000 families. And the reason is our unique, "Finish-It-Yourself House" concept.

CAPP Homes are not pre-fab or modular. We build our homes the traditional beam-by-beam way, with the finest materials, on the lot and foundation you provide. When our carpenters leave, your custom-designed home is fully enclosed and ready for you to finish. Or, you can act as your own general contractor, hiring local help, and still come out money ahead. Either way, you'll get a home that is uniquely yours—one that will be worth far more than you paid for it the day you move in.

But don't take our word for it. Come on out this weekend and see for yourself. Look at the quality of the construction material. Feel the wood . . . knock on the doors ... slide open the windows.

Most of all, talk to the buyers of this home. They'll be here to answer any questions . . . while they work. You'll see them actually finishing their home. Folks just like yourself. We think you'll discover how you, too, can save money on a CAPP Home by "finishing-it-yourself".

1957 returns from obscurity

'Someone would start a dance step and do it on Bandstand; then some group would write a song and it would become a hit.

By DON WELLMAN

It's summer vacation, 1957, and your parents are driving all the way from California to Philadelphia to spend a week at your aunt-and-uncle's who you hardly even know because they live way on the other side of the United States, and wouldn't it be all right if they went without you and let you stay over at your girlfriend's while

After all, you're 16 now and you could make extra money babysitting.

But if they won't let you do that, couldn't your girlfriend come along with you if it's all right with her parents, of course? Because you'll just die if you have to sit around and listen to a bunch of squares talk about the old times and play Roger Williams' records on the hi-fi. It's OK?... No lie? Cool!

So while you're in Philly, you meet some kids who are pretty cool and they take you to "Bandstand," which is this kind-of a hop where they dance in front of TV cameras. When they play a fast dance, you and your girlfriend are doing the dance that the gang started doing to "Be-Bop-a-Lula" by Gene Vincent and the Bluecaps.

The next thing you know, this disc jockey - who's pretty smooth for an older guy - asks you what's that dance you're doing and you say "The Bop," and he asks will you teach it to four of the kids from

Philly? So you do. No joke On the way back to California you stop at the Mammoth Caves and the Grand Canyon you know, all that tourist stuff - and by the time you finally get home, you hardly recognize your friends anymore because you've been away so long, and they say you gotta see this new TV show that they just started called "American Bandstand."

So that afternoon you turn on the show, and it's that Dick Clark guy and all the same kids you saw in Philadelphia. They're all actually doing "The Bop" on your TV!

When you tell your friends you're the one who taught it to them, they look at you funny, like they don't believe you.

It's summer vacation, 1979, and you were just hanging out at Hines Park, partying with some guys in a Trans-Am that live in Dearborn or Dearborn Heights or something and decided to go to a McDonald's because the cops kept hassling you anyway. So you decided to take their car because it has FM and they're playing that new album by "The Knack" on WABX all the way through without commercial interruption, which is cool because there's three or four really great tunes on the album, especially "Good Girls Don't." Even if the lyrics are kind-of gross, it's still a really great song.

So you're cruising down Main Street in Plymouth and you see a sign that says "Danny and the Juniors in Person," and you say isn't that a rock 'n' roll band from the '60s or something? The guy who's driving says it couldn't be.

But you say you're pretty sure you saw them one time on the "Midnight Special" or something like that, and everybody looks at you funny, like they don't believe you.

"Baaaaaaaaaa, baaaaaaaaaaaaaa Baaaaaaaaaaaaaaaaaaaaaaaaa Baaaaaaaaaa At the hop!

Fledgling rock 'n' rollers, even those who are too young to order a beer at the Silver Bird, recognize the opening ba's of "At the Hop." They listen with engrossed, if somewhat bemused, reverence as Danny Rapp sings:

> "You can rock it you can roll it. Do the bop and even stroll it at the hop."

> It was 22 years ago that Danny and The Juniors recorded "At the Hop," still considered to be the quintessential rock 'n' roll song.

"When the records start spinning, You calypso and you chicken at the hop."

While the Bop and Stoll, Calypso and Chicken are today little more than rock 'n' roll hieroglyphics, Danny and The Juniors are still shakin'. Following an appearance at Napoleon's last month, Danny Rapp and Joe Terranova, Danny and one of the original Juniors, recounted the story of "At the Hop."

> "THE PHILLY SCENE in the late '50s was the center of everything," Teranova recalled. "Someone would start a dance step and do it on 'Bandstand'; then some group would write a song and it would become a

> Dick Clark's "Bandstand" was a local television program in Philadelphia where teenagers danced the Lindy and Jitterbug to early rock 'n' roll records, and the Fox Trot to slow songs. Then, in the summer of 1957, "The Bop" was introduced on "Bandstand" by some teens vacationing from California.

> When "Bandstand" became "American Bandstand" on Aug. 5, 1957, with a network feed to 67 stations, everybody in Philly was doing "The Bop."

> Rapp and Terranova; along with Dave White and Frank Maffei, were the Juvenaires, a vocal group signed to Philadelphia's Singular Records, when the Bop caught on. To capitalize on the dance craze, they recorded a song called "Doin' the Bop." Artie Singer of Singular and a local disc jockey. Larry Brown, suggested the group rename itself Danny and the Juniors, and played the record to Dick Clark.

Clark's reaction was pessimistic. He felt the Bop, as a fad dance, had almost run its course. But the song had potential if it could be rewritten to incorporate a broader topic perhaps a record hop.

In the days of the hop, Dick Clark played a Artie Singer, Dave White and pivotal role in the success of Danny and the Joe Medora, another Philadelphia musician, rewrote "Doin' the Bop" with lyrics that expressed the feeling of a record hop, then Danny and The Juniors went back into the studio with the new song, "At the Hop."

"There wasn't that much difference between the two songs," Danny Rapp said. "A few of the lyrics were changed, but it was basically the same. I don't even remember anymore how the original went."

Working on the big comeback

Juniors as well as many other groups.

With the success of "At The Hop" in 1957, followed by "Rock and Roll is Here To Stay," released in February 1958, Danny and The Juniors were at the top of the pop music heap.

Numerous appearances on "American Bandstand" and top billing with Alan Freed's traveling rock 'n' roll troupes kept them in the limelight for several years. But the industry was young and stardom was tenuous.

Danny and The Juniors, whose first hit was rewritten from a melody based on a dance craze, The Bop, tried to make the formula work again. Most of their follow-up recordings capitalized on dance steps: "Twistin' U.S.A.," "Pony Express," "Back to the Hop," "Doin' the Continental Walk," and "Ou La La Limbo." By 1963, their records barely dented the top 100.

"In 1969, there was a rock 'n' roll revival of sorts," says Joe Terranova, one of the original Juniors. "That's when we started back on the road."

Sha-Na-Na, a nostalgia-rock band, had recorded "At the Hop" at the Woodstock Festival that year and Terranova met with Danny Rapp about reviving the group.

Danny and Terranova enlisted Bill Carlucci to complete the new, traveling "Juniors." Carlucci had sung the lead vocal on the 1910 Fruitgum Company's bubblegum classic, "Yummy, Yummy, Yummy (I've Got Love in My Tummy)."

Together, billed as Danny and the Original Juniors, they toured the nightclub circuit. "At first we used local bands to back us up while we sang our hits," Danny says, "but rock musicians in the late '60s were unaccustomed to the material. They only knew three chords and couldn't read charts. I'd have to call out the chord changes during the songs."

Two years ago Danny and The Juniors auditioned a three-piece Philadelphia band, Horizon, to back them on the road. They worked up the Vegas-style stage act they perform today. The only time that Bill Carlucci calls out chord changes is when they do their "Stump the '50s" band routine.

"Name any song from the '50s and we'll sing it" Danny enjoins from the stage.

"At the Hop!" is the almost unanimous response. "We'll get to that later," Joe promises. "Something

"Rock and Roll is Here to Stay!" the audience demands. As Danny and Billy and Joe modulate through the verses of the rock 'n' roll anthem, all the polyester suits and Manilow medleys and disco trappings in the lounge melt away into 22 years of musical history.

"Rock and roll is here to stay. It will never die, It was meant to be that way, Though I don't know why, I don't care what people say. rock and roll is here to stay.

If we didn't care, Danny, we wouldn't be here.

What's a nice girl like her doing in Ann Arbor on a unicorn hunt?

By SHIRLEE IDEN

If you've never been on a unicorn nunt, this weekend may be your big opportunity.

But beware - only a virgin can catch a unicorn.

"That's always been the special challenge," said Heidi Gottfried, expert on unicorn hunts and the Ann Arbor Medieval Festival

Ms. Gottfried is one of the movers and shakers of the upcoming festival, Ann Arbor's 10th such festivity.

Some festival events have already begun, but the principal activites are scheduled for Friday through Sunday.

Ms. Gottfried, 24, accepted a diploma from the University of Michigan recently but admits she skipped the graduation ceremonies and spent the day with friends.

Her bachelor's degree is in history and literature but her passion is the

In the Medieval Festival, she has been involved in several months of planning and will also perform.

"The secular theater of the Middle Ages traveled from town to town and actually served as kind of a living newspaper," she said.

"This year we're doing a comedic del arte show called 'Emperor of the Moon' a 16th century piece.'

The festival production is a short version of the same show that Detroit's Attic Theater did recently.

"We'll have topical references that are very current and not Middle Ages at all," she said. "I take the part of a servant who doesn't speak at all but, in his bumbling way, is very physical.'

The revelers are mostly non-professional performers who volunteer their time to the seasonal event.

Hello, outer space calling

Fashion takes cake in splash for film

By JOHN BOZZO

James Bond! 007! Moonraker! All that, and more (unfortunately not Roger Moore) were at Oscar's disco in Southfield on Sunday evening.

Blast off was 8 p.m. for a United Artists sponsored event promoting Roger Moore's newest James Bond flick, "Moonraker."

Like Zorro, Moonraker was every-

A young barmaid offering complimentary glasses of champagne to all arrivals, wore a blazing red Moonraker

There was a large Moonraker cake on the hors d'oeuvre table. Even the carrots were cut out into little spaceships.

SOME "BEAUTIFUL" people attended the affair. They wore outfits a la the current disco craze, some of which bordered on the risque.

Many of the movements those couples made on the dance floor were even more daring.

Highlighting the evening was a fashion show presented by John Thawley, couturier of Birmingham. Earlier, Thawley and his partner drew applause when they performed on the dance floor. Other couples respectfully moved aside to allow the Thawley duo more room.

Although a couturier, strictly defined, is a man who designs women's clothing, Thawley's fashion show dealt with the men's apparel carried in his Birmingham shop

THAWLEY'S SHOW followed the evening's Moonraker theme. His six male models paraded out in groups of three, posing before a screen displaying color slides of scenes from the mov-

Dry ice behind the screen created clouds of smoke, which flowed past the models and into the audience. A light show alternated from strobes to roving spotlights.

Each of the models "cased" the audience like a spy agent, making guns out of their fingers and pointing the weapons in different directions.

Music from the typical James Bond sound track played throughout the Almost hidden by choreography and stage effects was Thawley's lineup of fall fashions for men. Men's fashion, according to Thawley, has taken a nice dip into the past.

Each of the 12 outfits was complete with pleated and cuffed trousers (naturally - as the program states). Some jackets and suit coats had patch pockets or were vented. Every ensemble had a different name, like "Collectable," "The Rich Fit," "Touchable Textures" or "In Good Company."

A "TWO-PIECE CLASSIC," complete with rust colored wool flannel suit, spice flecks, two buttons and notched lapel, opened the show. The shirt was a salmon color, all cotton with spread color. Tie was pure wool.

The "Piece De Resistance" was fittingly the final ensemble. It consisted of a pure wool suit in a color called iridescent gun metal blue. The suit also had jetted flap pockets, bi-swing back and no vents.

 MARK YOUR CALENDARS It's later than you think. For instance, there are only 143 shopping days, by our count, until Christmas. If you don't like the idea of keeping the thermometer up to 78, just hum a few bars of "White Christmas" and relax.

On other fronts, the Michigan State Fair opens Friday, Aug. 24 (The big parade is on Aug 23.). The Ringling Bros. Barnum & Bailey Circus will be at Cobo Arena in Detroit Oct. 9-21. And — just in case you were wondering - Chuck Berry was scheduled to give a concert on Aug. 10 at the Center Stage in Canton, but he had to go to prison and won't be able to make it

"WE RECORDED 'At the Hop' in 12 or 13 takes - less than a half-hour," Terranova recalled, "There wasn't all this dubbing and overdubbing back then. You sang it through until you got it right and that was it, that was your record."

Recorded with vocals, a bass, drums and piano, "At the Hop" was released in November 1957. When the disc began to sell, it was sold to ABC Paramount Records, and by January 1958 it was the number-one record in the U.S., knocking Pat Boone's "April Love" out of the top spot. Since then, rock 'n' roll records have dominated the Top

. Danny and the Juniors hit the charts with seven more singles, including the prophetic "Rock and Roll is Here to "All the cats and chicks can get their kicks Stay," through 1963.

For his creative contribution, Clark was given half of the publishing rights to "At the Hop." Clark, understandably, received considerable criticism for accepting it, especially during the Congressional "payola" hearings in 1960. Clark maintains, in his "Rock, Roll and Remember" memoirs, that "no amount of airplay can turn a 'stiff' into a 'hit.' " As a "hit," "At the Hop" was a landmark.

Performances of "At the Hop" by Sha-Na-Na, at the Woodstock Festival in 1969, and Flash Cadillac and The Continental Kids, in the film "American Graffiti," have endeared the song to a generation that remembers Clark only as the host of the "$20,000 Pyramid" and the Chicken as something you bring home in a bucket.

This weekend

Art, music fill Palmer Park

The fourth annual Palmer Park fine arts festival, this Saturday and Sunday, will again blend art with nearly continuous music and informal entertainment by clowns and mimes.

There will be ethnic and other foods, a supervised creative play area for children and the natural setting of the park to make the festival unusual.

The Palmer Park Citizens Action Council inaugurated the festival in 1976 as a way to showcase both artists and the community of 3,000 residents. The festival has grown each year.

The festival jury has selected 110 artists to participate this year. They will display their work in the park, next to historic Palmer Log Cabin and Lake Frances. The site, west of Woodward and three blocks north of McNichols, will be open 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. both days.

Participants will include a cartoonist, dulcimer maker, mouthsketcher, miniature house portraitist, and a gourd carver in addition to painters, potters, weavers, glassmakers and photographers.

The majority of the exhibitors are professional artists, with the rest nonprofessionals ranging from art teachers to a medical student and a caretaker. Most are from Michigan, the surrounding states and Ontario, with others coming from Colorado, Arkansas, Florida and Tennessee.

A highlight of the weekend will be an auction of selected artists' work, 1-2 p.m. Sunday. One-third of the auction proceeds will be donated to Friends of the Palmer Log Cabin for restoration and preservation of the building.

Some of the area's most popular entertainers will provide a broad range of music, including jazz, blues, folk and classical. Those scheduled for Saturday are: Mary Foley, New McKinney Cottonpickers, Street Traffic (mime troupe), Pastiche Wind Quintet, BoBo Jenkins and the Big Star Blues Band, and New Detroit Jazz Ensemble with Marcus Belgrave.

Sunday's music will be provided by D.C. Malone and Nootcheez, Prismatics, Dean Rutledge, Phil Esser, Ron Coden and Orthea Barnes

A sculptor heads for Poland to pursue his studies

By Corinne Abatt

The trip which Cranbrook Academy of Art student Heromin (Harry) Zmijewski will make to Poland in August could be the beginning of a mini cultural exchange program.

The 28-year-old Cranbrook sculptor was accepted for an international cultural exchange program for people of Polish heritage. Zmijewski will attend a painting workshop in Yanow Podlowski, a small art center in northeast Poland near the Russian border. He will also be visiting several sculpture workshops while there for about a month and a half.

He went to Poland for the first time last summer to visit his father's side of the family

"I loved it," he said. "It is such a contrast to American society and culture. In some aspects, it is more primitive. But, since socialism came in 1945 at the end of the war, the country has been on an upward swing. They're above water now. They're comfort-

HE IS NOW COMFORTABLE with the language, but is continuing his study of it with the help of a teacher at St. Mary's College, Orchard Lake.

On his trip last summer, he found he recalled enough of the language to converse with his relatives. His parents spoke Polish to him before he went to grade school, after that to help him along they switched primarily to Eng-

However, on that trip he was more concerned with the social, political and economic aspects of the country, this next one will be more art-oriented. Zmijewski plans to take a series of slides on Cranbrook with him and hopes to give programs using them. That's one reason for continuing to work on his language ability. The workshop programs will also allow opportunities for him to investigate inviting someone in the arts from Poland to visit Cran-

ZMIJEWSKI, ONE OF 10 children, grew up in Erie, Pa. His father was a steel worker and the young man, following in a pattern, was trained as a machinist and welder.

His training as a machinist and welder became an asset rather than a liabil-

Once he became involved in art, he was committed. "It will never leave me, it got a hold of me," he said.

"He would look at each one without saying anything and hand them back to me. Then, one time, I did his head in clay and he really liked it."

Zmijewski, who doesn't deal in a figurative approach to art, is anxious to see what is happening in contemporary art in Poland. He isn't sure if there is a national identity or each person is expressing himself as a strong individual.

"END OF PHASE I," a sculpture which Zmijewski said is one of his most important, was donated to the Cranbrook auction and purchased by Mr. and Mrs. David Hermalin of Bingham

"That was the last formalist piece I made. Now, I use whatever material is available that most conveys my ideas.'

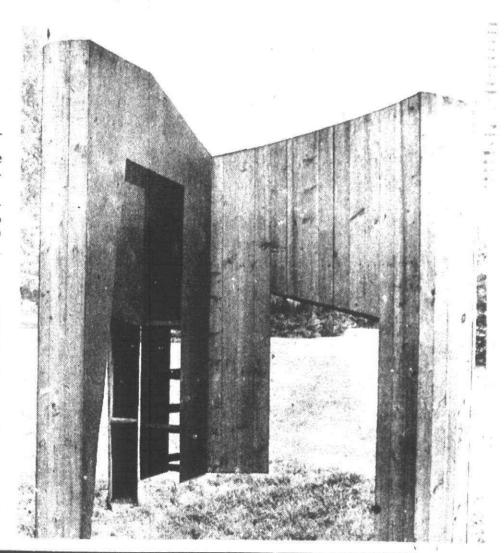

So, before he comes back for his final year in the academy's graduate school next fall, Zmijewski will have had an extraordinary adventure. Even before

This sculpture is significant to the artist because it marks the end of a period in his art career. Zmijewski considers it one of the best examples of his early work. (Staff photo by Dick Kelley)

DSO: Pianist met Schumann's precise demands

Klaus Tennstedt, the Detroit Symphony performed an incredibly fierce concert last Saturday. It offered few, if any, substantial opportunities for the musicians to catch their breaths.

The result of this intense evening of composition. music was a fine display of the orchestra's capability to produce a strong rich sound, not only from the whole, but from individual sectons as well.

The opening selection was Weber's "Oberon" Overture. The power of the piece was revealed through the strong melody of the string section. This strong melody, after the introduction, featured a regal fanfare motive, originating in the horns and strings and then carefully developed in an exchange between the string and winds.

This wide alternation of dynamics and intention in the motives continued throughout the piece, with a sweet, dark clarinet line introducing a romantic string melody that shifted to a faster, more demanding section.

as diminuendos and crescendos quickly followed each other and introduced

Under the baton of guest conductor respectively. The most romantic line of the piece was then recapped by the orchestra, as conductor Tennstedt broadened the tempo a little to improve the effect of the line. A thick brass and string coda concluded the > Pianist Horacio Guitierrez joined the orchestra in a performance of Schumann's Concerto in A for Piano and Orchestra. A difficult piece that demanded endless precision, the Schumann was well executed by Gutierrez, who captivated his audience from the opening bars of the allegro affetuoso with the enchanting effect of his clean playing.

By introducing the two basic themes that would dominate the movement one a playful idea than seemed to tease one's emotions and a second, more sincere and romantic theme - Gutierrez established a solid rapport with the orchestra during the exchange of melodic and accompanimental material.

The abrupt alteration of dynamics A fine job was done by the orchestra, that was created in the Weber seemed to continue in the Schumann, with the various forms throughout the concerto. The first movement closed after a mighty cadenza gently gave way to a quiet melody in the strings that was set against a carefree piano accompani-

THE INTERMEZZO of the concerto was unusually weighty. Centered around the kind of emotional themes for which Schumann is known, the movement again placed a playful theme against a romantic melody to produce a relaxing and interesting

These two motives were masterfully passed from soloist to orchestra and from inner voice to inner voice, creating a pefectly round musical tone.

A segue into a fast waltz tempo revealed the allegro vivace movement. Onc again, two themes were used for most of the movement's melodic material, this time a menuet-like phrase and a detached kind of waltz.

A well-tempered orchestra traded these two ideas with the soloist freely, with each melody apparently taking command for only a fleeting moment.

GUITERREZ' ABILITY to adjust his vertical and horizontal hand motions. which helped to keep the technically difficult eighth note passages consistently interesting, combined with this orchestral ability to shift from the broad to the distinct motive and back to create a dramatic final movement.

An inspired performance closed with a flair in a strong coda section, where Guiterrez' playing was outstanding.

Just as Guiterrez produced a rich sound on the Schumann, conductor Tennestedt produced an equally brilliant orchestra sound in the final offering of the evening, Schubert's Symphony No.

Subtitled "The Great," the andanteallegro ma non troppo opened with a strong melodic line coming from the French horns and upper winds. This classical idea then carried into other melodies within the slow section of the movement, until an articulate triple meter section opened the allegro ma non troppo. As a second theme, set in duple meter, was established and then pitted against the movement's triple meter theme, conductor Tennstedt seemed to draw extra power from the upper strings at will.

The placement of the three against two rhythms was then carefully traded from low brass and trumpet to winds and strings and then, curiously, to strings and winds. A more grand section of the movement revealed yet another melody, an offbeat woodwind accompaniment part maintained the piece's intensity. A fast coda that included quick dynamic changes and a long return to the three against two broad brass ending. The andante section of the symphony offered little variance from the evening's power-dominated program. A playful main theme that originated in the oboe line took on both a military and a hushed aspect in the movement's opening bars - unlike many symphonic movements, then, the main melodic material for this andante was drawn from only one main theme that possessed two distinct dimensions.

rhythms brought the movement to a

A FINE EXCHANGE of the different concepts for the melody was accomplished by the orchestra, until the climactic phrase of the movement was cut short, so that a richer treatment of the same motives could be carefully delivered by a responsive orchestra.

The piece gradually returned to a full level of sound that faded away to reveal more of the brilliant oboe work that had_been maintained throughout the movement.

A noble scherzo continued to bring out a deep sound from the orchestra. The dark opening melody of the movement soon gave way to a more delicate one, as flawless execution of the exchange of orchestral motives continued. In leading the orchestra through this movement, conductor Tenestedt called for a near segue that caught most of the audience off guard.

But the effect of a quick change from a dance-like movement to a thick finale was a success. Intensity filled the stage, as new melodic material was introduced in the string and wind voices and then echoed in other voices to produce a mysterious kind of sound.

These new motives then combined with the still-busy string line to produce a good harmonic blend in the upper vocies of the orchestra.

The familiar competition of the legato theme and the marcato theme was recapped after more rich playing flowed from the broad oboe line. The piece reached a dynamically complete climax and conclusion in an impressive manner, only to be carefully diminished by conductor Tennstedt, so that the final chord of the symphony served as only a minute reminder of the true power this piece, and the orchestra, had contained.

Put this sign on your lawn.

It won't kill crabgrass, but it gets rid of houses fast.

Between one mowing and the next, your house could change owners. And you know that's fast!

How can we be so sure?

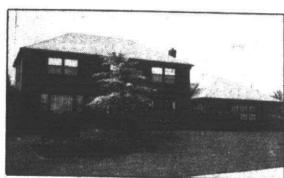

Because we're a member of the Homes For Living Network.

When our sign goes up a lot of things happen. With our exclusive Homes For Living magazine, a picture and description of your home can be available to home buyers in our area. And, through our 2,000 affiliated offices, we'll reach potential out-of-town buyers.

After all, they account for one-third of all home sales.

When you consider that our 25,000 Homes For Living sales associates have more than 10-billion dollars in home sales each year, you know we don't let any crabgrass grow under our feet.
