Hearings set on fire, police tax proposals

Finance director Mike Gorman will recommend a two-mill increase ($2 per $1,000 assessed property valuation) in the tax rate supporting police.

The hearing is scheduled from 9-11 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 30, at Canton Township hall.

It will immediately follow another public hearing on the proposed 11/2-mill tax rate ($1.50 per $1,000 assessed property valuation) for fire protection. Property owners paid the same millage to support the fire department in 1979.

The hearing on the fire department's proposed budget is scheduled from 7-9

Both hearings are required by law.

Township officials can legally levy up to 10 mills for police and fire protection without a vote of the people. In 1976 and 1977, voters approved establishment of townshipwide special assessment districts for police and fire.

According to Gorman, the two-mill increase for police protection is needed if the department is to hire six additional patrol officers and six cadets in

The increase would hike the tax rate for police to four mills. Although property owners paid only two mills for police in 1979, $260,000 was taken from surplus funds to maintain the depart-

Gorman expects the surplus will total $500,000 to $700,000 by the end of the 1979 fiscal year.

The proposed police budget for 1979 totals almost $1.3 million. It includes $900,000 for salaries, $112,000 for operating costs and $193,000 for fringe

The proposed fire budget totals $472,500. It includes $290,000 for salaries and $108,000 for capital expendi-

The fuel, comprised of 10 percent grain alcohol and 90 percent gasoline, could be used to power township vehicles and ward off a future energy crunch, Culbert says.

The supervisor also plans to talk to township businesspersons about the possibility of building a privatelyowned distillation plant for the production of gasohol that could be sold to the islation that deals with synthetic fuels. Culbert said Linton is keeping a watch for the possible introduction of bills that could financially help communities develop alternate fuel forms.

CULBERT IS the first to admit that his gasohol proposal is fuzzy.

But the supervisor has already instructed his staff to begin researching the technique of converting corn into grain alcohol.

He said the township may apply for a federal innovative project grant next year for the construction of a gasahol plant that would produce fuel for town-

Culbert added, however, that Canton would not construct the plant if the cost is too high or if financial assistance is not available.

CULBERT SAYS his gasahol concept is not the first he has harbored on alternate energy forms.

Last spring the supervisor researched the possibility of installing solar heating in Canton township hall. He also gathered information on the possibility of constructing windmills behind the administration building for the generation of electricity.

Culbert said the high cost of providing utilities to township buildings various areas of township hall.

"We have a lot of corn out here," the chase gasoline wholesale from Huron prompted the solar heating and windmill research. The township's revised 1979 budget allocates $80,000 for utility costs in the administration building, fire stations and recreation hall.

> But according to Culbert, both ideas were dropped "because they're not cost efficient right now.

Bill curbs industrial flight

A bill introduced Monday by U.S. Rep. William D. Ford would place federal restrictions on industrial flight, the practice of moving factories and businesses from one section of the nation to another, or to a foreign country.

Ford, D-Taylor, whose district includes Garden City, introduced a similar bill in 1974, and a spokesman for his office said the latest measure is a somewhat altered version of the first

"The basic thrust of it is the same," said the spokesman.

sion, then-Sen. Walter Mondale sponsored similar legislation in the Senate. Monday's action paralleled that, with Sen. Donald Riegle (D-Mich) also introducing a Senate version.

The Ford bill has 46 House co-spon-

> While the Ford bill would not allow a decision-making role by any of those community elements, there would "be consideration of the impact that will have on the community left behind."

> When asked what chances of passage the bill had, Ford said, "We've changed a little from the approach we had before. There's a broader understanding (of the bill), chambers of commerce don't automatically react against it.

The base of its support is stronger than it has been - even some Southern congressmen are in favor of it because they see businesses running away to Mexico."

Ford stopped short of saying the bill would pass, but added "even if it isn't approved in this session, something similar" will become law eventually.

ENTITLED THE National Employment Priorities Act (NEPA), the bill would establish a federal administration to investigate proposed plant closings with the intention of either avoiding closings or minimizing disruption resulting from a closing.

To allow time for this investigation, the bill would require plants employing 500 or more to give two years notice of plans to move. Plants employing 100-500 workers would have to post notice 18 months in advance, and plants with fewer than 100 workers would have to wait six months.

Once a plant is closed, the bill would require the company to offer employees at the closed plant a job at another plant under the company's control. The bill would require that wages, often lower in the rest of the country than in the heavily unionized Midwest, be paid to transferred workers at the same rate used in the closed plant. Employee moving expenses would have to be met by the company.

NEPA could authorize loans, marketing advice and technical assistance in efforts to keep struggling businesses above water.

Liquor holds up The Center plan for construction

The architect of a huge recreational complex proposed for a Canton site has said his clients will probably file litigation against the township if an expired liquor license approval is not extended. Ned Apigian, who represents developers of The Center, proposed for the site at Haggerty Road south of Ford Road, appeared before the township board Tuesday night to seek a one-year extension of the liquor license allotment that expired in June.

Although site plans for the controversial complex were approved in June 1977, no construction work has begun on the project. Apigian received a one-year liquor license extension for the complex last year.

The Center would include bowling lanes, tennis courts, four movie theaters and a bar.

On Tuesday night, the township board could not muster a majority vote to deal with Apigian's liquor license request. With the absence of Treasurer Jim Donahue, the six trustees in attendance reached stalemates on motions to approve, table and deny the

They indicated, however, that the liquor license matter will appear on the agenda of next week's township board meeting. Officials have proposed a change in Canton's liquor license policy that could give developers tentative liquór license approval until buildings are completed.

APIGIAN ADMITTED to the board that construction plans for the $18 million complex could be dropped if the liquor license extension is not granted. He added, however, that a lawsuit over the matter is more probable.

Apigian said developers of The Center are ready to begin construction work, which was delayed, he said, because of the expiration dates of variances and special approvals granted by the township board and the Zoning Board of Appeals.

Canton board trustees expressed concern over the length of time it has taken developers to begin building.

"I have never believed that you intended to build what you promised. And I still don't believe it," charged Trustee Robert Greenstein. "I believe you want to build a bowling alley, and we already have a bowling alley in this township.

"There's no reason in the world why this gentleman couldn't have started this building," Greenstein said. "Everytime he comes before this board, his story is the same.'

Apigian said he first proposed the project during Greenstein's term as supervisor in 1974-76. He said plans for the project were changed at Greenstein's insistance.

"I'd like to submit to you that you're the godfather of this project," Apigian told the trustee. "Your baby's coming to birth, and now you don't want it."

Trustee Eugene Daley said he believes the developers of The Center are sincere about their plans. "At least they've drawn building permits," he said.

Teens build nature trails

By TERI BANAS

In the mosquito infested backwoods of Plymouth Centennial Educational Park, 12 teens are getting more than bug bites and sore limbs — they're getting an education.

They're spending their summer vacations building nature trails over some two miles of backwoods. Their work falls under a federal government program aimed at teaching them job skills and discipline.

The program is called SCORE (Student Career Opportunities through Relevant Experiences) and it has been operating in Plymouth-Canton for eight years.

The program aimed at students who are handicapped and from low-income families. While direct results are visible around the community where such projects take place, it indirectly works at teaching students job habits which can be carried over to future full-time employment.

To explain, take it back two months.

Richardson said that for most of these students, the outdoor work was their first experience at holding a job. In the beginning, many students had little understanding of what it takes to hold a job — such things as showing up on time and contacting their supervisor

"We try to teach them to hold a job and not make the mistakes in future jobs they're making here," he added.

On-the-job supervisors (college-age) and Richardson, himself, make a personal effort to reach these students when they're experiencing special problems.

contract with the Wayne-Westland school district in what is being called a "landmark in negotiating history." This is the first time the district has reached a tentative pact before the current contract has expired. The present pact expires Sept. 3. School begins

The executive board of the teachers' union, the Wayne-Westland Education Association (WWEA), will review the proposed contract on Tuesday.

"The bargaining team makes a recommendation on the agreement, that it be accepted and approved," explained Bob Kowalczyk, executive director of the WWEA. "We will be making that recommendation."

A general meeting for the 1,100members of the WWEA is being scheduled for Aug. 20 at an as yet undetermined place. Members will review the contract and vote whether or not to ratify the agreement. Ratification by the Wayne-Westland Board of Education

Like the current contract, the new agreement will be for three years. Further details of the contract are being withheld, however, until members of the teachers' group have reviewed it.

"I think the contract is fair to both sides," said Kowalczyk. "But it wouldn't have been reached without both sides being dedicated and deter-

In preparing for negotiations late last spring, both sides had informal discussions on what the major issues would be. Besides the economics of salary and cost of living adjustments, discussions were expected to include mainstreaming or placing special education students in the regular curriculum as well as teacher input in curriculum areas.

"There are areas we aren't satisfied with and areas we are. In the total view I think its a good contract that will continue good labor relations in the district," Kowalczyk said.

school superintendent, described the tentative agreement as "tough, equitable and fair that we all can live with.

"Now we're in the year of the curriculum. We're going to forget about the year of the budget," he said, referring to austere budgets followed during the past two years before a milinge was approved by voters last spring.

Both sides credited the early settlement to revised negotiation strategy, placing heavy emphasis on negotiating in June and July.

"It's unusual to have an agreement this early in negotiations," commented Kowalczyk. "While others are struggling, we've got a tentative agreement.' That agreement was reached last Friday after both teams had "sequessive negotiations" at the Shanty Creek resort in western Michigan.

finish as when the deadline is the opening of school." Kowalczyk said both sides were "determined" to get a settlement. "We put aside playing games. We were open with each other and worked from there," he said. "We sequestered ourselves a week ago last Sunday and bargained around the clock with time out for rest and meals.

"We had some intensive bargaining in July to narrow the issues. Without that July process, I don't think we would have been successful last week." he added.

"But the distance helped. If we were close to home we may have said, 'Pack it up and we'll handle it at another time," Kowalczyk said. "A couple times we were ready to do it, too, but then we said that's not what we're here to do."

Kowalczyk said the WWEA is about "It was a new process," said Dyer. the fifth largest bargaining unit in the "By having a deadline of the end of the state, comparable in size to Livonia.

Backwoods labor comes to a close

Ren Cen tax breaks ripple through county

Tax breaks given by the Detroit Common Council to developers of additions to Renaissance Center will have a rippling effect on property taxpayers throughout Wayne County, according to Wayne County Commissioner Alex Pilch, D-Dearborn.

Pilch, chairman of the county task force seeking adjustments in the industrial and commercial tax abatement program, appeared before the Detroit Council to report the county's opposition to the abatement.

"This will save developers of the Rockefeller Towers $7.2 million in taxes over the next 12 years, monies that would otherwise go to the Detroit Downtown Development Authority and to Wayne County," Pilch said.

"Due to the county's dire fiscal condition," he said, "we have to look at each and every item of our costs and revenue sources. What business and industry doesn't pay, residents have to make up in order to provide services, tax revenue for projects of this nature, let them do it. But strapped as the county is, we should not be subject to Detroit's decision. But that's the way the law is written," Pilch said.

"We are trying to get it changed so each taxing unit has jurisdiction over its own portion of the taxes that are

Hines found 'improved'

If a house-to-house survey of homeowners along the perimeter of Edward Hines Park is any indication, the good guys in the white hats are winning their struggle to control rowdyism in that area, said Richard E. Manning, chairman of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners.

The survey, conducted by four teams of Wayne County sheriff deputies and lead by Officers Melvin Hertzfeld and Charles Miller, contacted more than 100 homes during the first two days of the project and came away with a healthy 85 percent positive comment.

"Even a majority of the other 15 percent agreed there had been a considerable improvement," Hertzfeld said.

"Construction of a new sheriff's mini-station at Newburgh Road. rerouting of traffic by the road commission, a tougher attitude by local judges, and a beefed-up park patrol have all been contributing factors in regaining control of the situation," Sheriff William Lucas explained.

"INITIAL RESULTS of the poll proved quite interesting," Officer Miller said. "Nine questions were asked and a personal comment requested."

In looking over the comments, Commissioner Joyner observed, "the majority appear to feel that conditions in the park have improved."

Answers to the first group of questionnaires indicated: they were not aware that Reps. Law and Young had obtained the state grant; they knew of the new mini-station: they did not know there is to be a mobile mini-station at Telegraph; they knew of the mounted patrol; they were aware the road commission had blocked off certain entrances and rerouted traffic.

Only half knew the road commission had donated the mini-station. The majority did not want the park closed, wanted more police, wanted the ministation kept open year-around, wanted the mounted patrol expanded, wanted no-parking signs posted along the park and felt the park should be closed at 9

County blasts legislature for governor's fund veto

By TIM RICHARD

Suburban Wayne County commissioners who favor reorganization of county government under a strong executive understand why Gov. William G. Milliken last week vetoed $5.5 million in state funds for the local court system

But they say Milliken was pointing the finger in the wrong direction by blaming commissioners for the county's failure to reorganize. They say legislators are holding up reform.

On Friday, Milliken vetoed funds that would have provided for state takeover of the county's probation and parole system and temporary aid to the circuit court. The county faces a deficit of $13 million this fiscal year, and Milliken has insisted on wholesale reorganization before the state will provide bail-out money.

COMMISSIONERS Mary Dumas, R-Livonia, and R. William Joyner, D-Plymouth, say they have fulfilled their end of the bargain.

"We sent messages to the governor and legislator on what changes we proposed," said Mrs. Dumas, referring to a plan to rewrite the County Home Rule Act to allow major reforms.

"But the clerk, treasurer and the Detroit commissioners went running up and down to Lansing lobbying the legislature not to make any changes."

In a separate interview, Joyner agreed. "I'm not sure he was venting his frustrations at the Wayne County board or the legislators for not passing reform legislation," he said.

"We held an eight-hour meeting six weeks ago to make our proposals," Joyner added.

COUNTY HOME rule is provided for in the 1964 Michigan Constitution. But when the legislature met the next year to draw up an enabling act, it refused to allow counties to eliminate election of such officers as clerk, treasurer, drain commissioner, register of deeds, board of auditors and sheriff and to replace them with either an elected executive (like a mayor) or appointed man-

Before a Wayne County charter commission could do that, a new enabling law would have to be passed by the legislature. So far, the legislature has failed to act, the suburban commission-

Of the current governmental system, Milliken's veto message said:

"With a 27-member board of commissioners, a three-member board of auditors and six other positions directly elected by voters, and with 26 boards and commissioners appointed by the county board and exercising varying degrees of autonomy," it was inevitable that Wayne County had drifted "toward administrative and fiscal chaos."

The argument over how to reorganize Wayne County is steeped in racial politics. Detroit blacks generally fear an elected executive who would probably be white and have a larger constituency than Detroit Mayor Coleman Young. County home rule advocates are largely suburban.

JOYNER, MEANWHILE, said his petition drive to create a county executive immediately was moving slowly.

"Endorsements continue to mount Nine chambers of commerce have endorsed it," he said.

"But we need 66,000 petition signatures, and we're at the half-way mark. I never thought petition signatures would be that difficult to get. We're shooting for the end of September to collect them."

Joyner's effort is supported by several other suburban commissioners, chambers and Jaycees, among others. The strategy is to put a county executive in office prior to writing a home rule charter so that the executive can bargain with the legislature over rewriting the County Home Rule Act.

Tinkering Around

by LOUISE OKRUTSKY

It's only a ride: don't worry

Carnival rides are one of the mysteries of civilization.

Persons actually pay for rides which have the same affect on them as a sound beating. In the world of amusement parks such a thing is regarded as funny not felony.

I must have been standing behind the door when they passed out stamina for carnival rides. I size up a ride by taking a poll of the ages of all the persons lined up for it. If the average age is less than 10, I know that ride is for me.

Only persons with squeamish stomachs will appreciate the trouble I have trying to convince someone to go on the merry-go-round with me.

Once you finally find someone to ride the painted ponies with you, it's embarrassing when the carnie won't let you on the merry-go-round because you're

But it's equally embarrassing to admit that you're terrified of just about every other ride in the fair.

Last year a friend of mine cajoled me into riding on the State Fair's double ferris wheel. When we at long last alighted from the monster, he was sporting a series of half-moon shaped dents in his forearm from my fingernails. I was the one who was trying not to give into my initial impulse to kiss the earth.

DURING THE RIDE the car had stopped at the top of the ferris wheel.

"Isn't this a great view," my friend

"I can't see it," I answered.

"Try taking your head out from my shoulder," he suggested.

I cautiously removed my head from its hiding place. Even more cautiously, I opened one eye, caught a quick view of the city lights and then returned to my original scaredy-cat position.

"OK, I saw it. It looks nice," I said. 'Quit rocking the car."

"That's the wind," he answered. But for every ride I've gone on and suffered through, there are two I'm forever grateful I never tried.

There's one ride that resembles a huge drum. By using centrifical force, the riders are plastered against the wall as the drum turns around and around with sickening speed.

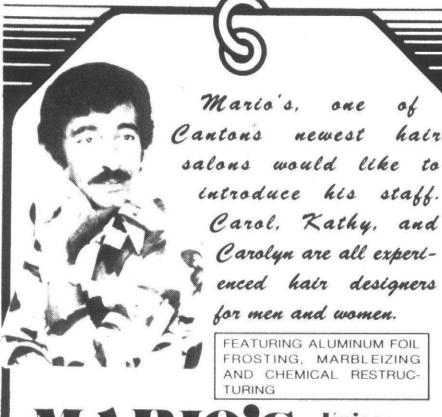

Some of the riders get creative about the position in which they torture themselves on this thing. They assume positions normally seen in Egyptian tomb

One slightly plump man took on the appearance of the Pillsbury doughboy.

I became dizzy just watching.

THE TYPE OF RIDE I enjoy actually is very tame. I loved the haunted mansion in Disneyland. Riders were taken through this haunted mansion and got to see cute ghost cartoons projected onto the wall. It was nice.

And no one said I was too big And no one said I was too old for the

The interest rate on the regular passbook savings account has been increased to 5½%, paid and compounded quarterly. No minimum deposits are required. Plymouth — Past & Present

Horseshoe pitching was park pastime

By Sam Hudson

(Part I) Forty years ago the clanging of horseshoes against iron stakes was a familiar sound in Plymouth's Riverside

In the 1930s, the park's eight horseshoe pitching courts, not far from where Park Drive now enters Hines Drive, were one of the busiest places in

This was especially true on Sundays when local horseshoe buffs competed in a sport that dates back to the time of the American Revolution. (Quoits, played with a circular iron without an opening, date back to the Ancient STANDING IN THE pitcher's boxes, aiming at iron pegs 40 feet distant, you would find horseshoe enthusiasts such as Gus Panko or Walt Kingsley. Or you might see Fred Lute, well over 70, who was once the city champion.

If you walked to the court where the audience was largest you would most certainly see young Bobbie Hitt. A Plymouth High teenager and a celebrity since grade school days, Bobbie was the horseshoe pitching champion of the State of Michigan. He won the title, defeating the state's most seasoned veterans, when he was only 14.

Bob Hitt, now 57, lives on Ross Street. Hitt's amazing athletic career, spanning several sports, began when he was a youngster in Knee pants.

He was only 10, in 1932, and in the fifth grade, when he became the horseshoe champion of Plymouth. He defeated title-holder Fred Lute, a veteran of many contests. The match was held in Riverside Park courts not far from the Middle Rouge River.

In the following year Hitt was a regular member of the Dearborn Horseshoe Pitching Club and was recognized as one of the outstanding tossers in the circuit. Reporting on a tournament in which he participated, a Jackson newspaper had this to say:

"Freckle-faced Bobbie Hitt, 11-year old horseshoe pitching wonder led his club to the International Horseshoe Pitchers Association Championship." The other members of the club were all grown men.

IN THE SAME year, Bobbie tossed 12 consecutive double ringers in a match to establish a new world's

He was only 14, in 1936, when he beat Detroit Champion Lee Rose of Belleville to win the championship of the State of Michigan. Hitt was the youngest ever to hold the title.

The matches were held in Marquette.

The Iron River Reporter, which covered the event, wrote:

"Bobbie is the sensation of the tournament. He attracted practically all of the attention of the gallery which marvelled at the maching-like manner in which he threw ringer after ringer."

Hitt specialized in ringers. During the qualification matches at Marquette, he tossed 247 ringers out of 350 shoes. His closest opponent was 27 ringers below him.

The state championship matches in 1937 were held at Iron River. Among Hitt's adult rivals were: Ed Walls, five times State champion; Lee Rose, secretary of the State Horseshoe Pitcher's Association; and Carl Lundgren, Detreit city champion.

In the finals, Hitt took the title for the second time, nosing out veteran Lundgren in a very tight match. It took Hitt's two ringers on top of a ringer by Lundgren to win, 50 to 48.

In 1938, at the young champion's request, the state matches were held in Riverside Park. The finals took place during Plymouth's "Gala Day" community picnic.

Before a huge hometown crowd, Bobbie Hitt, then 16 and a junior at Plymouth High School, turned back 30 ace horseshoe pitchers to win his third consecutive state championship. During the matches, he had 75 ringers in 90 throws. Later, a state official was heard to say the Plymouth Tournament was the best the organization had ever

DURING ALL OF the state tournaments in which he appeared, Hitt was the only youth participating. The attention and publicity he received apparently did not go to his head. The Iron River newspaper said of him:

"He's a modest fellow, too, and invariably sympathizes with his opponent when a seemingly excellent toss fails to circle the peg.'

In spite of practicing, and appearing at horseshoe matches and exhibitions, young Bob did not neglect other activities. During his days at Plymouth High School he starred in three sports.

In 1940 when he graduated, his "Senior Sketch" indicated the extent to which he participated in athletics.

"Lowell Robert Hitt," it read. "Ambition: to be a big league baseball player. Freckled, small, curly-haired athlete. Four years varsity baseball and basketball. Three of football. State champion horseshoe pitcher in 1936, 1937 and 1938."

Skin damage starts early Newborn babies or freckle-faced toddlers do not normally inspire thoughts of old sagging skin, age spots or skin

"Freckles are the first sign that a baby's skin is susceptible to sun damage," said Dr. James Keyden, Associate Professor of Dermatology, University of Pennsylvania, School Medicine. "Parents who don't consistently protect their baby's skin from the sun's burning rays are condemning their children to prematurely aged skin and even skin cancer."

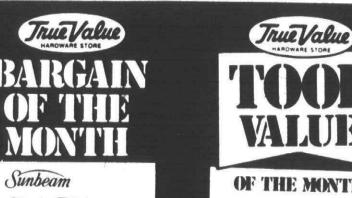

" Skin acts like a bank, cumulatively storing every ray of harmful radiation," he said. "After years of multiple exposures, the skin's elasticity breaks down and a sagging, wrinkled appearance results."

Leyden recommended keeping children out of direct sunlight whenever possible, and adding additional protection with an effective sunscreen product whenever they are outside.

This year, for the first time, consumers will know how much protection to expect from the suncreen they buy. All products must be labeled with a "sun protection factor" (SPF), a number which designates how much longer skin can be exposed to the sun without burning.

The higher the SPF, the more protection is offered. For instance, a product with SPF 5 offers moderate protection and is best for skin that normally tans gradually and only moderately burns. However, a SPF 15 product offers the ultra protection recommended for people who always burn easily and rarely

"Children should be protected by products with SPF's of 10 or more," said Leyden. "And for active kids who are in and out of the water all day, a product with high wash-off resistence and a lotion base that prevents dry skin

Canton's future rests on master plan hearing

Mark Wednesday, Aug. 15 on your calendar, because that's the date for your chance to shape the future of Canton.

The first of an expected series of hearings on revisions of the 1976 master plan is scheduled for 7:30 p.m., Aug. 15, in the Plymouth-Salem High School auditorium.

A master plan shows the goals for Canton's development. It is only a plan, however, and must be enforced by zoning laws. The zoning ordinance implementing the 1976 master plan never was adopted, so the 1976 plan never was closely followed.

THIS TIME around, it is vital that residents not only state their views about what they want Canton to become but insist the 1967 zoning ordinance be revised in accordance with the plan that is eventually adopted.

Otherwise once again we will end up with a carriage and no horse to pull it. Canton no longer can afford to be pulled and twisted by the whims of politicians and developers. It cannot afford lack of direction and goals for development that exist in theory but not in practice.

We will be presenting a report on the details of the master plan addendum in the Aug. 13 edition of the Observer.

Remember, however, that nothing is engraved in concrete, and your comments at the public hearings can result in changes to the master plan. That's the whole idea behind public hearings.

These are some of the major planning issues that should be considered and commented upon by the people they will most affect:

Farmland preservation: Do you believe some 500 acres in the western half of Canton should be saved for agricultural purposes? The master plan revision provides for the preservation of that acreage.

Residential land use: The master plan proposes that the residential density be reduced, especially in land east of I-275 and south of Ford Road, adjacent to the lower Rouge River and along Michigan Avenue west of Canton Center. In those three areas, it has been recommended that lot sizes for homes be no less than 70 feet, rather than the more common 60 feet, with side yards at least 15 feet.

Commercial land use: The revised master plan seeks to prevent strip commercial development along Ford Road and instead focuses development in planned intervals. In the plan, business that serves regional customers would be clustered near I-275, while business that serves local needs would be located closer to Canton Center Road. Intersections throughout the township would be targeted as prime spots for businesses catering to neighborhood needs. The goal is to prevent an unbroken row of businesses along Ford Road.

Industrial land use: The master plan recognizes that more industry is needed if Canton is going to have a healthy tax base. Some 200 acres of land designated for industrial use have been added to the master plan addendum. About 160 of those acres are in the area of Warren Road both east and west of I-275. Most of the other land slated for such development is along Ford Road east of Lotz.

THESE ARE some of the highlights of the master plan. Most of them are the center of controversy for one group or another. One group wants development. Another group doesn't.

But the biggest group of all — Canton's residents; — may want something entirely different. No one will know unless those residents go to the public hearing and speak up.

Trip shelved

Editor:

KDAC — Kids Deserve A Chance, a non-profit organization — will have to postpone their Sea World Trip on Aug. 22, 1979 until futher notice because of Canton Township's Ordinance number 50, section five.

"No license shall be issued to any applicant as a food vendor and/or street vendor until such applicant shall have attained the age of 15 years, except that a person between the ages of 12 and 15 years may be issued a license as a street vendor and/or food vendor if such applicant is accompanied by a sponsoring adult at both the time of applying for such license as a street vendor and/or food vendor, and at the actual time of selling such products."

In other words, young people 15-years-old or older need a vendor's license to sell anything door to door; those 12 and 15 years old need a vendor's license and adult supervision. Anyone under 12-years-old cannot sell or apply for such a license. Therefore, club members or potential club members under 12-years-old cannot sell their candy to pay for the Sea World Trip.

Noel Culbert, John Flodin, Robert Greenstein, Bruce Philips, Maria Falkiewicz, Lt. Larry Stewart and Police Chief Jerry Cox have been most helpful and are working furiously to improve on this ordinance — and KDAC would like to thank them at this time.

Chop the trees

Editor

I'd like to comment on the "Save the trees" campaign of the residents of the Holiday Park subdivision. How do they suppose their subdivision got built? You don't suppose somebody cut down a tree or two? I live south of Cherry Hill on Lilley and watched an entire forest be demolished so subdivisions could be built. The machinery, noise, dust, building materials flying all over my land was darn near unbearable, not to mention workmen sitting on my and my neighbor's lawns eating lunch and leaving the mess behind. Still, it never occured to me that a person didn't have the right to use his property as the zoning permits. I'm on Mr. Gould's side and I think he's getting a bum rap. Let the residents of Holiday Park Subdivision smother their own property with trees — build their own fences.

Outdoor fun minutes away

Michigan folks are fortunate when it comes to recreation and the energy crisis.

A three-year study recently completed by a Michigan State University professor shows us just why that is the case.

The limited availability of gasoline, says Prof. Mike Chubb, will curtail recreational activities that involve long distances by car. It will increase the use of recreational resources closer to heavily populated areas.

A look around metro Detroit shows that we, indeed, are the lucky ones. Within an hour, an outdoor recreational fan can launch a canoe, dip a fishing line, ski, or pitch a tent. That's just the tip of the list.

IN SHORT, a tank of gas provides many recreational possibilities.

Take the Huron-Clinton Metro Parks system, for instance. We have 10 on which to rely.

Westsiders are most familiar with Kensington, west of Wixom on the I-96 expressway. You can name your recreational ticket at this facility. Eastsiders can hit either Metro Beach or Stony Creek for variations on similar activities. Those downriver have Lower Huron, Willow and Oakwoods metroparks. West of Ann Arbor are Hudson Mills, Dexter-Huron and Delhi metroparks. But that's just the beginning.

A QUICK LOOK at the map shows numerous state recreational areas. The Island Lake State Recreational area connects with Kensington and west of that are the Brighton and Pickney state recreation areas.

Few other major metropolitan areas in this country have such nature accourrements in this close proximity.

Persons who are a little more daring, and who own good mileage vehicles, can hit the road for half-and whole-day drives to enjoy the state's park system — one of the best if not the best in the country.

A ride up I-75 will take you to Higgins Lake, which has two state park outlets and plenty of room for campers. This is a super lake for those who enjoy letting lose the sails or revving up the outboard engine. The lake is huge and the sunsets are something to behold. Those who prefer a little more solitude on the big lake should head for the North Higgins Lake State Park. It's much smaller than the South and offers an air of serenity lacking in the larger site.

Pattern hits a great band

"I don't think we could say Detroit doesn't want us," said Helen Rowe, unpaid publicist for the Detroit Concert Band and wife of conductor Leonard B. Smith. "But they are taking us for granted."

When Smith cancelled the band's July 29 concert because picnickers on Belle Isle were playing rock and disco music over a van loudspeaker, a city official dismissed it as "just one of those things."

But it wasn't just one of those things. It was part of a pattern. Helen Rowe won't say it's a plot and denies that the city wants to dump the band. Nevertheless, a lot of things have been happening to the band vis-a-vis the city, and they're all bad.

THE PATTERN looks like this:

- No city police were available to crack down on the van with the loudspeaker although earlier the offender had been asked to turn down the volume. Although police shrugged that "all it would have taken was one little call to us," Miss Rowe points out that the band shell has no telephone because the city has never had one installed.
- This concertgoer can attest that bicyclists, not always sober, have buzzed the Belle Isle audience. There were no fights or threats, but there was clear intimidation and no police.
- Two other concerts at Belle Isle had to be cancelled this year because earlier events ran much too long. This is particularly annoying to the band because, as Miss Rowe says, "Leonard runs a tight ship," starting promptly at 7 p.m. and ending on schedule.
- In 1976 Joyce Garrett's Detroit Bicentennial Commission put on a "homecoming" program and published a brochure of present and former Detroit musical groups. Miss Rowe noted. "There was no mention that the Detroit Concert Band was ever part of the cultural scene."
- There has been no room in either FordAuditorium or the Veterans Building for an office for the band.
- There used to be D-DOT bus service from Jefferson at The Boulevard to the Belle Isle band shell for concertgoers. No more.
- The band's two chief sources of money are the Detroit parks and recreation budget and the union-run Music Performance Trust Fund, financed by royalties from records. The number of concerts they have sponsored has shrunk from 49 in 1946, when the band was founded, to 27 this year.

AND YET THE Detroit Concert Band continues to be popular.

Its free concerts draw up to 4,000. A July MeadowBrook concert was a sellout in the 6,000 to 8,000 range, even though tickets cost up to $9.

In 1970 when the BBC filmed a documentary on March King John Philip Sousa, it selected the Detroit Concert Band for live music because its style is closest to Sousa's own.

The band is currently making its 10th recording.

The band has drawn enthusiastic crowds to Birmingham's Shain Park the last two years. A large throng is expected at 6 p.m. Aug. 19 for a performance at Livonia's Ford Field, Farmington Road north of I-96.

"Which shows you," said Helen Rowe, "That our audience is in the suburbs."

NO SUBURBAN government, however, could afford to pick up the band's $200,000 annual budget, though I wouldn't mind being proven wrong.

The band sought funding from the National Endowment for the Arts, but the endowment had no category for an adult professional concert band, "They practically told us to get lost," said Miss Rowe.

She said Smith is thinking about seeking commercial sponsor ship. Last year the band played 10 unpublicized Ford Auditorium concerts underwritten by Chevrolet for 10,000 visiting dealers. Pontiad Motors and Michigan Consolidated Gas Co. have donated uniforms in the past

You wonder: Can a concert band which a city takes for granted survive? Can the suburbanites who enjoy it most come to the rescue?

12 years passed before he got his first store

"I made up my mind I was going to stay and try to keep ahead of that manager."

Harry B. Cunningham of Bloomfield Hills was recalling his start with Kresge 50 years ago.

He had drawn a post as a stockman at a store in Lynchburg, Va. Harry's first manager was a tyrant. Harry quickly learned he was the 10th person to hold the job in five months. The other nine had quit or been fired.

Harry decided he was going to hang in there. He was showing the tenacity of character that served him so well in years to come.

The trait of dogged determination, mixed with a natural enthusiasm and an inordinate willingness to serve, carried Harry Cunningham to the top strata of retailing.

IT WAS HARRY CUNNINGHAM who became the father of the Kmart concept. He didn't originate the discount store. He simply studied it intently. Then he hammered out in his mind a plan for the faltering Kresge chain, of which he had just become president.

The Cunningham concept appears almost simplistic when stated.

Merchandise would always be top quality, no seconds, no irregulars. Prices would be lower than the competition's.

And topping that off would be good service and an unqualified money-back guarantee if the customers were not satisfied.

So simple. Hundreds profess these tenets. Few follow through.

Harry made certain Kmart did. That's why there new are 1,600 Kmart stores in the United States, Canada, Australia and Puerto Rico.

BUT WE'RE GETTING AHEAD of our tale.

Harry Cunningham's ascent up the corporate ladder was at first extremely slow. There was no indication he'd end up running the whole multi-billion-dollar corporation. Or even that S.S. Kresge Co. would have its name changed to Kmart Corp. in a sort of tribute to the genius of Harry Cunningham.

When Harry joined Kresge's management training program in 1928, he was told he'd end up as manager of his own store in three years.

That had been the pace during the lush and lively 1920s as Kresge opened 100 new locations each year. Then came 1929 and the Wall Street crash. Kresge, like all of retailing, was stopped dead in its tracks. More than a decade and a world war would pass before things got moving again at Kresge.

Harry Cunningham hung tight, learning the fine art of marketing and polishing his managemement techniques.

As an assistant manager, one lateral transfer followed another (see list of Harry's travels). Twelve years dragged by before that first assignment as a manager was Harry's.

The store was in Grosse Pointe.

THE DELAY NEVER discouraged Cunningham. Out of those years, a philosophy was being nutured within him. When he spelled it out in a 1974 speech at the Graduate School of Business Aministration at University of Michigan, its stark simplicity might have left students wondering why they were spending all those hours in a classroom.

Harry Conningham told the students to:

1. Concentrate on the strengths of your associates.

Find excitment in your life's work.
 Develop ways to involve other people in your achievements.

4. Be receptive to change.

Those in the audience might better have understood if they had known about one of Harry Cunn-ingham's mistakes while running Kmart. It had to do with MBAs — masters of business administration graduates.

"Our training program is working in stores," Harry told me during lunch at Peabody's in Birmingham two weeks ago. "Lots of long hours. One of my mistakes was to encourage the personnel department to start an accelerated MBA (management training) program."

"It flopped," he candidly admitted.

WHY WOULD IT? one might ask.

Harry explains: MBAs seem to be impatient to reach the top. They want promotions and money — now. Long years of seasoning as assistant managers and managers don't seem in the cards for the average MBA.

Could that be a short-sighted view of retailing? I wonder.

One thing for certain, all people who aspire for careers in professional management could profit from the Harry Cunningham credo.

"Business is a team effort. The task of management, therefore, is not outstanding performance in specific areas, but rather the ability to see that specialists perform effectively as a harmonious group dedicated to a common objective."

That's for starters.

"Good management is to an important degree an art that defies description," says Cunningham.

Harry has boiled down to five the points he thinks best characterize successful management. He admits they may sound "trite and tired."

But who out there would dare knock the Cunningham concept, what with the amazing career he carved following them?

HERE ARE THE keys, in Harry Cunningham's own words:

1. Hard work. Excellence is always a result of dedicated and consistent effort — particularly in application to grubby, unglamorous details. Many duties may seem irrelevant to the "big picture" or the development of executive ability. But every good manager is thoroughly grounded in the handling of detail.

2. Considerateness. Thoughtful regard for the feelings, rights and needs of associates. This quality may not always be apparent, but subordinates are aware of it. They know the manager understands their problems. Because of that knowledge they are willing to accept severe criticism when warranted.

3. The art of intelligent listening. One of the most valuable and one of rarest qualities. It is not simply a matter of keeping quiet when another is talking. It is an honest reflection of genuine interest, an understanding of motives, a certain kind of humility and mature willingness to be informed by anyone who has something to say.

4. An open mind. Management must demonstrate a constantly alert receptivity to new ideas, new concepts, new methods. The only constant in any progressively managed company is change.

5. Creative risk-taking. A quality related to the open mind. Since almost every business decision is in some degree a gamble, the manager who hesitates and frets about the dangers in every move will never achieve anything worthwhile. He or she must nurture at every level a sustained willingness to make mistakes in the pursuit of progress.

SO THERE YOU HAVE a glimpse of Harry B. Cunningham, the public figure.

Throughout his whirlwind career he never once lost sight of his personal and family responsibilties. Just ask his wife Peg or his three daughters. One might conclude from them that his score there was even higher than in the arena of the business executive.

Now that's my kind of guy.

Canton Mantle squad 2nd in NABF tilt

The Canton Elks battled through the elements and reached the final of the National Amateur Baseball Federation (NABF) World Series (15-16-year-olds) in Columbus, Ohio.

But in the Elks' sixth game their supply of pitchers ran dry and Bel-Air, Md. captured the championship, beating the Canton team, 8-3.

"We are naturally disappointed we didn't win the big one but we were happy to get as far as we did," said Canton coach Dave Racer.

The Elks stayed alive in the tourney despite a first-game loss to Atlanta, 6-5, and injuries to two key players — third baseman Jeff Stemberger and catcher Frank McMurray.

After the opening round loss, Canton bounced back to defeat Long Island, N.Y., 3-2; Lancaster, O., 8-7; Akron, O., 12-3; and Grove City, O., 11-3.

On Sunday, three teams remained in the tourney — Canton, Grove City and Bel-Air. All three teams had one loss. In a coin flip, Bel-Air drew a bye, thus facing the winner of the Canton-Grove City game.

"We simply ran out of pitchers," said Racer. "The coin flip to draw the bye really hurt us.

IN THE CHAMPIONSHIP game, Canton jumped off to a 1-0 lead in the first inning when designated hitter Greg Wendt tripled home Keith Stone.

Bel-Air tied it up in the third inning and then erupted for three runs in the Canton got two runs back in the seventh inning but it wasn't enough.

With only one day's rest, Racer elected to start Dan Funkhouser but he lasted only three innings. He was relieved by Mark Clark who gave way to a sore arm. Bobby Smith and Daye Malek finished up as Bel-Air outhit Canton, 7-5.

The game was delayed four hours by a tremendous rainstorm. The final game was played on astro-turf at Clippers Stadium.

Canton reached the final by eliminating Grove City in a Sunday morning game, 11-3, as pitcher Tom Malcolm, a draftee from Manchester, scattered 11 hits and struck out six to pick up the victory.

"The kids showed signs of playing good ball," said Racer. "We cut down on the errors."

Canton came through with three successful suicide squeeze plays.

In the second game against Akron,

Clark relieved Smith and allowed only one hit in 6% innings. He struck out six.

Trailing 2-0, Canton scored five runs in the second inning and four runs in the fifth to win going away.

Meador was the big stick again as he collected five RBI's on two doubles. Gray and outfielder David Carter each added two hits and Steve Schumacher scored two runs in the 11-hit attack.

In the first game played at Harmon Field, Clark came to the rescue of Wendt as he notched the victory over Lancaster.

Wendt pitched the first five innings and Clark held off the hot Lancaster bats the final two innings.

Canton broke a 7-7 deadlock with a run in the seventh.

Four Canton players had two hits — Stone, Carter, Schumacher and catcher Nick Krzyzaniak from Milan. Canton totaled 13 hits.

"We played over errors and walks and we put ourselves in a hole early," said Racer.

McMurray's shoulder popped out in the first-game loss against Atlanta and was unable to catch although he was used as a DH. Stemberger suffered an injury the previous week (a bone bruise to the leg) and hobbled much of the tourney.

McMurray's replacement for most of the tourney was Tim Racer, who hadn't caught in two years.

TIM DID A super job for us filling in," said Racer. "McMurray could swing the bat but couldn't throw.

"We thought Stemberger would be ready but he really wasn't. He limped around a lot."

Canton's biggest downfall was walks delivered by the pitching corps. In six games, Canton pitchers gave up 39 walks. Bel-Air benefitted from nine in the finals.

Stone, Carter, Gray and Malcolm were all named to the all-tourney team.

Schumacher, Carter, shortstop Billy Hanis, Meador, Stone and Gray combined for a .355 batting average during the tournament.

Oasis team on tear end the game.

Oasis Golf Center established itself as one of the top women's fast-pitch softball teams in the state after winning the tough Vassar Invitational Tournament last weekend.

Led by the pitching of Jan Boyd and the hitting of Jody Humphries, Oasis won the championship by beating Post 18 of Bay City in eight innings, 5-4.

Oasis won the game in the eighth when Boyd led off with a single, stole second base and raced home on Humphries' two-out clutch single to center field.

A single by Joanne Pachiva and a triple by Sherry Kiselica produced the first run for Oasis in the fourth inning. Kiselica then scored on a ground out by Humphries.

Post 18, held hitless by Boyd until the fifth inning, went ahead 3-2 as they connected for three hits coupled with two costly Oasis errors.

Oasis regained the lead, 4-3, in the sixth inning as Sue McDowell and Pachiva singled. Both scored on another big hit by Humphries.

Post 18 tied the game in the seventh on an error and a two-out single to center field.

Humphries was the big offensive gun as she drove home four runs on two hits. Boyd picked up her third tournament victory in the championship game.

Pour wen the Post Pitcher arrend and Post Die

Boyd won the Best Pitcher award and Best Defensive Player Award for the tournament.

OASIS ROUTED Brown's Tavern in its tourney opener, 16-0, as Denise Cifaldi hurled her first no-hitter of her career. She gave up just two walks and was aided by a double play.

Cifaldi also was tough with the bat as she collected four hits and four RBI's. Pachiva had three hits while Sue Barbalas, Humphries, Vickie Forest, Tina Lilla and Diane Connoughton each chipped in with two.

In its second game, Oasis ran into trouble as Daly Restaurant took a convincing 8-1 win.

Despite dropping into the loser's bracket, Julie Stafford Pachiva had two hits each.

Oasis regained its old form against Center Road Tavern, scoring 11 runs in the final three innings to post a 12-2 victory.

McDowell led the attack with two hits and five RBI's. Barbalas, Boyd, Kiselica and Humphries had two hits a piece.

Cifaldi gained her second tournament triumph as she tossed a seven-hitter.

Playing its fourth game, Oasis shut out All Sports of Bay City, 11-0, as Boyd hurled her first no-hitter of her career. Only two Bay City players reached base against the Oasis righthander.

Once again Oasis' productivity came in the late innings.

Leading 3-0, Oasis erupted for eight runs in the sixth inning to put the game out of reach.

BOYD HELPED her own cause with two hits as did Pachiva, Humphries and Forest. Kiselica came through with a three-run homer.

On Sunday, Oasis resumed play by gaining revenge against Daly, 5-0. Daly had been sent to the loser's bracket the night before by Post 18.

Cifaldi notched her third win as she stymied Daly on five hits.

Oasis broke a scoreless deadlock in the sixth inning as Connoughton led off with a single, was sacrificed to second by McDowell and scored on a single by Boyd.

Kiselica then singled to give Oasis a 2-0 lead as Boyd scored.

In the top of the seventh, Oasis added three more runs as McDowell singled home Cifaldi and Boyd doubled, driving home Connoughton and McDowell. The last hurdle for Oasis in the tournament was Post 18.

Boyd pitched her squad into the finals as Oasis earned a hard-fought 3-1 win. She gave up five hits in posting her second triumph.

Kiselica drove home Boyd with a single to score Oasis' first run in the first. The lead increased to 3-0 in the fourth as Barbalas walked, reached third on a single by McDowell and scored on a squeeze bunt by Boyd. McDowell scampered home on a sacrifice fly by Pachiva.

Stafford collected two hits in the game to pace Oasis.

OASIS INCREASED its record in the Livonia Fast-Pitch League to 6-1 with a 6-1 victory over the Dreamers Friday night at Ford Field.

Boyd was the winning pitcher as she gave up two hits and slapped out two herself on offense.

Canton Koufax eliminated

Canton Koufax went snap, crackle and pop last week in the cereal city of Battle Creek.

In the American Amateur Baseball Congress (AABC) Sandy Koufax Regional (13-14 year olds), the Canton Koufax team won its first two games playing like "Tony the Tiger" but ended the tourney

"After winning the first two games so easily, we then kind of relaxed," said Canton coach Gerald Ebmeyer.

Canton Koufax opened the tourney at Bailey Field on Thursday by trouncing Michigan Center McGee, 13-5, in a game called after five innings because of the mercy rule.

Dave Slavin, picked up for the tournament from the Salem Crestwood Dodge team, belted a two-run homer to pace the winners. Mike Scarpello also contributed to the rout with a two-run double.

Jack Ford started for Canton and received relief help from Doug Frasure, from the South Dearborn Heights team.

Faced with a possible suspension, a Plymouth girls' softball coach handed in his resignation Monday night before a hearing of the Plymouth-Canton Junior Baseball League's (PCJBL) protest

Joe Jovanelly, coach of the Phillies in the G-Senior League, told board members that he would no longer coach softball. The resignation came before the board took action regarding Jovanelly's role in a protest of last Saturday's championship game.

Jovanelly and players from his team held a sit-down demonstration Saturday afternoon during the championship final between the Braves and Red Sox. The Canton Township Police Department was called to the scene but no arrests were made.

was planned. His team had won a semifinal game, 2-0, over the Red Sox Thursday night but did not advance into the finals because a protest was filed by the opposing manager. The board upheld the protest and ruled day night to say that a demonstration against Jovanelly. The protest was filed because Jovanelly failed to have one member of the team at bat. League rules state that every player must bat at least once each game.

"We lost on a technicality," said Jovanelly. "We got jobbed and that's why we are going to go over and demand to play in the championship," he said Friday night.

PCJBL PRESIDENT Jim Schols said G-Senior League director Bob Hodge reported to a quorum of the protest board Thursday night explaining the situation. A majority ruled that Jovanelly had broken the rules and thus forfeited the team's right to play in the

Elks battle but Lynch advances

Holloway struck out three and walked three in the triumph. He was also a cat on the mound as he made six putouts.

"That guy really fielded his position well," said Optimist coach Bob Deacon.

Mike Burdette took the loss for Livonia.

Plymouth got its only run against Livonia in the second inning when Ron Curcio led off with a walk. Matt Etienne then sacrificed him to second base on a bunt. With one out, Holloway then drilled a single, scoring Curcio.

BARRY OWENS started for Plymouth against Lynch and was the victim of three unearned runs in his 51/3-inning stint.

A wild pitch led to an unearned score for Lynch in the first inning. An infield error opened the gates for two unearned runs in the third.

Owens left the game in the sixth and Runge once again came on, holding Lynch without a run.

In the fifth, Plymouth got a run back when Paul Dillon singled home Chris Hannan who had led off with a single. The Elks stranded three men with no outs in the inning.

In the sixth inning, Curcio, a draftee from Southfield, tripled and later scored on Hannan's RBI sin-

The final reports are in and again it appears that both the Greater Detroit Bowling Association and the Detroit Women's Bowling Association will lead the nation in membership.

With the close of the bowling year on July 31, the men boasted a membership of 150,110 bowlers who competed in 3,595 leagues. The women's group listed 126,890 members in 3,839 leagues. For the men this is a new high while the women remained close to their membership of a year ago.

For the past several years both associations have been listed as the largest in the country- with no one even close. The same should be true this year. It is this large membersship that has earned Detroit the title of "Capital of the Bowling World".

bowler and radio commentator who suffered a stroke some months ago, had one of the best times of his recuperative period last Saturday night. He appeared at a gathering of friends at Hillcrest Country Club and was greeted by many of those who bowled against him in the good old days and others who had followed him on radio for years.

For Fred, who is recuperating slowly, it was a fine evening and he seemed to enjoy every minute of it. It was the best therapy he could get, and he had the best wishes of those who stopped to greet him.

HERE'S SOME good news for the higher average bowlers.

The men's senior house league is being revived at Wonderland after an absence of a year. Many of the former members who sought greener fields and more cash prizes last year are returning, and the league now appears to be as strong as ever. There are still a few opening for bowlers with averages between 900 and 950.

TIM HENRY had every reason to be wearing a big smile when he finished bowling in the men's 700 league at Woodland Lanes. He had just posted a 277 game that was 107 pins over his average. It was the best he had done all year.

MIKE CAMPBELL took over the role of pace setter in the Monday Men's league at Westland Bowl when he linked counts of 226, 246 and 214 for 686. Ed Stevens was next in line with a 667 and Vic Deogracias landed third with 643.

In the race for high game Rick James had a 252 in 590 George Simpson had a 251 in 590.

OVER AT SUPER BOWL Sharon Fletcher had a 233 in 587 to lead the Whirlwinds. In her wake came Glenda Wojtan with 222 in 566, Gale Daniel with 216 in 535 and June Hammond with 202 in 487.

THE WOMEN'S Mid-City Open gets under way this coming Sunday at State Lanes in Saginaw. The entry is expected to reach 160 when firing starts at 10 a m.

Harwell to be feted at Shores banquet

A testimonial dinner for Ernie Harwell, radio voice of the Detroit Tigers for two decades, has been set for Aug. 23 at the Barrister House in St. Clair Shores.

Proceeds from the dinner will benefit the American Lung Association of Southeastern Michigan (ALASEM) to help continue its fight against lung disease, air pollution and smoking. From the proceeds, ALASEM will make a contribution to the Omega Fellowship Christian Church, which is ministered by Harwell's son.

The testimonial dinner has been scheduled for 6 p.m., Thursday Aug. 23, at the Barrister House, 21801 Harper Avenue, St. Clair Shores. The dinner is open to the public. Tickets may be ordered by mail from the American Lung Association, 28 West Adams, Detroit, 48226, or they may be picked up in person at the Lindell AC, 1310 Cass Avenue at Michigan in downtown Detroit. Checks may be made payable to the American Lung Association of Southeastern Michigan.

Sonny Eliot, WDIV-TV weathercaster and Al Kaline, former Tiger star, and now a Tiger telecaster, are co-chairmen of the event.

Among the celebrities who will be on hand that evening to pay tribute to Harwell are Paul Carey, Joe Falls, Jim Campbell, Bob Talbert, Mickey Stanley, Sparky Anderson, Ron LeFlore and Ray Lane.

The dinner will also feature a special audio-visual presentation highlighting Ernie Harwell and special moments from the Tigers' 1968 world champion-ship season.

A RAFFLE will be held in conjunction with the dinner. Two 19-inch RCA color television sets donated by Highland Appliance will be raffled off during the dinner. The tickets may be purchased for $5 from the American Lung Association. Participants need not be present to win.

Everyone at the dinner will receive a baseball personally autographed by Harwell as a memento of the event.

Wendy's pulls off Adray surprise

By KEN VOYLES

Baseball coaches dream of those now-and-then games when their teams come alive and turn on the hitting pow-

But when a team shakes the field for three consecutive games, in playoff action no less, it's more than a dream it's almost unbelievable.

Just that happened last weekend at Ford Field.

Wendy's forced the Livonia Adray League baseball playoffs into an extra game by coming out of the losers' bracket and bombing the three other playoff qualifiers in succession.

Wendy's had lost to Griffin Sport Shop, 3-2, in the opening round of the double-elimination tournament, but came back and defeated Redford Adray, 16-1, and Griffin, 5/2, to get a shot at Livonia Adray, the regular-season champion.

With two strong outings behind them, Wendy's exploded for 17 runs on 17 hits against Livonia and won 17-9. Livonia totalled 10 hits during the contest.

Since the loss to Wendy's was Livonia's first of the playoffs, another game between the same squads was necessary to decide which will travel to Johnstown, Pa., for the All-American Amateur Baseball Association championships later this month.

That game was to have been played yesterday evening.

THE FIRST Wendy's-Livonia contest lasted only eight innings. Livonia apparently had used up all of its players and had no one on the bench to replace Gary DeYonker after he was ejected from the game under disputed circum-

"The hitting carried us in all of our games. The kids thought they had nothing to lose so they came out all charged for anything," said Wendy's coach Pat Ruvolo. "They came through when they had to. It was a damned nice job of hitting if ever I saw one."

Against Livonia, seven Wendy's batters clubbed two or more hits and three picked up four RBIs each.

Tim McCamant set the pace with three hits and four RBIs, while Pete Arnett had three hits. Mike Martin added two hits and four RBIs as did Tom Zwolan, Dan Dempsey slashed two hits including a solo home run and had two

Dave Croskey and Dave Hostetter rounded out Wendy's torrid attack with Tom Deacon, Jeff Sergison and DeYonker collected two hits each for Livonia.

"I thought our kids weren't ready to play. We didn't play well and Wendy's came out with big guns and played super baseball," said Livonia coach Ron Hellier. "We really didn't expect them to hit that well."

ED LEWICKI was the winning hurler. He controlled the game for seven innings before receiving relief help from Brian Justus, who picked up the save. Lewicki struck out five and walked two while on the mound.

Scott Riley was the losing pitcher for Livonia. He was one of five hurlers pounded by Wendy bats. Dave Frey, Sergison, Ken Webster and DeYonker suffered through the rest of the game for Livonia.

Wendy's tallied four runs in the third inning, four in the fourth, one in the fifth, seven in the seventh and one more in the eighth. Livonia scored one run in the second frame, four in the fourth, one in the fifth and three in the "First of all, we had a real good first game against Griffin," said Ruvolo. When we won that game, it gave us a huge lift. The kids really wanted to win after we saw we could beat Griffin."

GRIFFIN came closer than anyone else over the weekend to beating Wendy's. The final score of their contest was 5-2. Wendy's tallied 10 hits and committed one error while Griffin had six hits without an error

Mark Baker was smooth and steady for Wendy's on the mound. He hurled all nine innings, struck out six and Jim Ross was Baker's counterpart. He suffered the defeat. Doug Smith relieved Ross midway through the con-

After four innings of scoreless baseball, Wendy's struck for three runs in the fifth. Arnett walked, Croskey walked and McCamant singled to load the bases. Dempsey then walked, scoring one run and Hostetter clubbed a double scoring two more runs.

Wendy's added one run in the sixth inning when Steve Nowak doubled and Croskey singled him home

Dempsey started Wendy's final rally with a single in the seventh inning. He moved to second base on a groundout and scored on Zwolan's single.

Griffin's big hit of the game came in the sixth inning when Ken Scarpace clubbed a two-run homer. Tim Shearer had reached first with a single before Scarpace connected for the home run.

Hostetter and Croskey paced Wendy's with two hits each. Scarpace picked up two hits for Griffins.

That defeat eliminated Griffin from the tourney.

A NOTE from Lou Straub of Speedway, Ind. gives an update on who's planning to attend the Plymouth High School Class of 1930 reunion next summer. Lou has been trying to get in touch with as many of their former teachers as possible to invite them to the 50th reunion.

"I am sending you a list of the teachers that we have received information from," wrote Lou.

"I have heard from Fred Shear (a classmate) who lives in Ann Arbor. Also from Blake Fisher who before his retirement was director of personnel at the J.L. Hudson Co. in Detroit. He now lives in Newaygo, Mich. Have heard from Carl Denton, 849 Brookside Drive, Pottstown, Pa. He is corporate executive of the Mrs. Smith's Pie Co. in Pottstown.

"I had information that a member of our class was deceased. But on checking further with people that I knew and who knew Dick, I finally was successful in locating Dick Hewer, 911 Chatterson Rd. S.E., Huntsville, Ala. He was supervisor of training instructor (U.S. Dept. of Army) until he retired Feb. 17 of this

"I have finally located Mary Haskell who is now Mrs. Mary Haskell Downs, 32 Cedar Street, Belfast, Me. Also Katheryn Tuck who is now Kathryn Tuck Meier of 428 Butternut Drive, Holland, Mich.

"So you see there is always a better tomorrow, one should never give up on his fellow man."

(Lou was a little discouraged when he stopped at the office last month. He must have received letters from these classmates after he returned home.)

"WE NOW ARE down to five individuals who we have no information on. They are Katherine Purdy, Louis Sherman, Lois Martin, Richard "Dick" Smith and Helen Carr. We hope that persons.

He enclosed a list of teachers he had written to and and their responses to his invitations to the reunion.

Helen Wells, now Mrs. Ira Swartz of Niles is not coming. Marion Perkins, now Mrs. William Nott of Hillsdale, is coming. Mr. and Mrs. Carvel Bentley of Plymouth accepted.

Rev. and Mrs. Cecil Soule (Christine Gray) of Croswell plan to attend. There was no answer from Mrs. Arthur Haar, the former Vivian Smith, who now lives in Boca Raton, Fla.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Matheson of Interlochen, Gertrude Fiegel of Ann Arbor, and Irene Waldorf of Plymouth said they would be there. He hasn't heard from Mr. and Mrs. James Latture of Plymouth or Mr. and Mrs. Jason Day of Levering. Mr. and Mrs. Harold Stevens (the former Helen Edwards) of South Lyon wrote that they were not planning to attend.

Sounds as if the party is really shap-

JUDY GUIDEAU and Frances La Comb had high scores at last Thursday's party bridge games in the Plymouth Cultural Center. There were seven tables in play.

Margaret Swartz says they have had as many as nine tables. The games are open to the public. Play begins at 1 p.m. but players should be there by

Sparkling season ahead for Plymouth Symphony

The 34th season of the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra promises to be a brilliant one with guest artists who have soloed under the batons of the masters - Toscanini, Monteaux, Ormandy, Stokowski.

THE SEASON'S opener will be at 4 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 14, in Plymouth Salem High School auditorium with Charles Roe, baritone, as guest soloist.

Since his New York debut, Roe has performed leading roles with the Music Theater of Wichita, the Michigan Opera Theater, Mississippi Opera Association, Caramoor Festival, Art Park, Meadow Brook and Cranbrook festivals, and the Fort Worth Opera.

Born in Cleveland, Ohio, Roe attended Baldwin-Wallace College in Berea, Ohio, on a music scholarship. While in his senior year, he was chosen to appear as soloist with the Cleveland Orchestra in its summer pops series.

WHEN HE completed his bachelor's degree. Roe was awarded an assistantship in opera performance at the University of Illinois. He won the Enlow Vocal Award in Evansville, Ind. in 1964. Graduating with honors in performance, he was hired as an instructor in voice by Texas Tech University, Lubbock, Tex.

Rodney Perry is ready to roll for competition in the International

Rodney Perry is lone Michigan contender in Special Olympics

By SHERRY KAHAN Rodney Perry will have to wring every ounce of strength from his muscles when he competes this Sunday in the wheelchair events of the International Special Olympics held in Brockport, N.Y.

The competitive, 17-year-old resident of the Plymouth Center For Human Development is a congenital amputee. For him this means he has the use of only one arm to propel and guide his chair down the track to victo-

To win against a field of 150 entrees from all over this country and several foreign countries, he will have to call upon his shoulders and right arm to do an extraordinary amount of work.

Perry is the only Michigan resident chosen to participate in the wheelchair events of the Special Olympics. He will be involved in a slalom competition and a straight-away race. He has also been picked to carry the flag of Michigan during opening ceremonies.

Rodney was not handed this trip on a golden platter. He struggled for it, starting in Olympic events held at the Plymouth Center. Then he captured four first place spots in a local meet for the handicapped at John Glenn High School. This was followed by a strong showing at a state Olympics at Mt. Pleasant, which clinched a place state.

for him among the Michigan athletes heading for the international competi-

RODNEY THINKS it's great to be off on this great adventure during which he hopes to "to get a lot of action" and meet a variety of people. Along with other members of the Michigan delegation he will have the additional thrill of seeing Niagara Falls on the way home.

What this experience might do for the teen-ager was explained by Amanda Wilson, a rehabilitation aide who works with Rodney. "For one thing it will build up his ego," she said.

The Wayne County director for the Special Olympics, Dilcie Green, pointed out that Rodney had labored long hours to prepare himself for the big moment which he calls "the most exciting thing in my whole life."

He has spent 13 of his 17 years in a wheelchair at the Plymouth Center.

For the past few months it has been practice, practice, practice, as Rodney improved his speed and ability to control his wheelchair. Ms. Green, who works in the recreation department of the center, serves as his coach, and will accompany him and other delegation members on the train ride to New York

At the center he works out about twice a day. After being selected for the Special Olympics, he joined other handicapped athletes chosen for the event at a training camp held this summer at Central Michigan University.

Up at 6 a.m. every day, he was off and racing in his hand-propelled hot rod. After breakfast he put in another 21/2 hours, and to give his muscles no chance of going slack, another two hours in the afternoon.

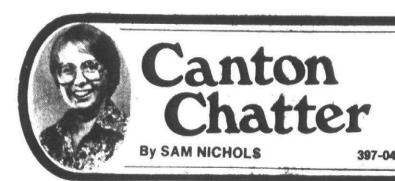

"IT WAS A VERY intensive training camp," observed Ms. Green. "He is already psyched up for the races, but I have let him know that the competition will be tough. We've talked about that.

"When I told him he was going to the international meet he gave me a big grin. I told him he was going to have to put in a lot of effort. And he's worked hard to get where he is."

When he's not rolling his wheelchair down the track, Rodney is a student at Cook Junior High School in Northville. He enjoys music and art, and several examples of his art work are displayed on the walls of his residence hall.

He is one of the residents who is soon to benefit from the center's project to mainstream those qualified into community life. He is expected to be assigned a foster family soon.

Family of 9 enjoys 3,000-mile vacation

What do you get when you combine seven children, two parents, and a 32foot recreational vehicle (RV) with a two-week vacation?

The answer given by the Bernie Pa-pay family is "The time of your life! Bernie and Mary Papay rented an RV complete with air conditioning, stereo, and CB; packed suitcases, supplies, and children; and left Canton on what would become a 3,000 mile fun filled journey taking them through 10

Mary said this was the first time all nine in the family have been able to take a vacation together. Now that the impossible feat of getting nine very busy people together for two weeks has been accomplished, all nine of them already are making plans for next year.

Five of the children had to make plans to be away from full time or part-time jobs. Charley, Terry, Pat, Sally, and Molly were very thankful for understanding employers.

Summer baseball also complicated vacation plans, since five children were involved in coaching or playing. Finally schedules were arranged so the much dreamed about "family vacation" could occur. Michael and Ginger were also thrilled to go.

THE PAPAYS traveled through Ohio, Pennsylvania, and Maryland. Washington D.C. was their first twoday stop. There, the family took in the Lincoln Memorial, the Washington and Jefferson Monuments, and toured the Capitol building.

They also toured the Smithsonian Institution, and walked through our National Cemetery to see the graves of the presidents. While at the cemetery, they were very impressed with the changing of the guards at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier.

The Papays were in Washington D.C. the week Sky Lab fell to Earth. Therefore, the Space Center, and in particular, the Sky Lab were high on their list of priorities. Mary said it was their opinion that the Space Center in Washington D.C. was far more impressive than the Space Center in Daytona, Fla.

After leaving the nation's capital, the family continued its trek through Virginia, North Carolina, and South Carolina. They planned each day's drive to end early enough to set up camp, swim and enjoy other recreation available at each camp site.

AFTER THEY had set up camp in North Carolina, Mary and Bernie were asked by a neighboring camper who had counted their crew, "Are you on a scout camp-out?"

Mary replied, "No, but all seven children are scouts, and it never takes them more than 10 minutes to completely set up camp." Mary further explained that a tent was also part of their gear, and everyone took turns "camping out" in the tent.

While Mary was baffled with poles and stakes, and what goes where, and when, the children had the tent up in a matter of minutes.

The family continued on to Florida, stopping in St. Augustine to see the Wax Museum. The museum made a very enjoyable history lesson for all.

Next stop was Daytona, where they toured the Space Center. The Papays also camped at a KOA in Daytona. Early that evening several of the children wanted to rent a paddleboat at the camp lake, but were refused.

Mary thought they were refused because they were too young, but was informed otherwise. A creek that lead into the lake contained alligators which feed at night. The alligator is now an endangered species in the United States, so the camp owner could do nothing to prevent them from entering the lake, and therefore could not allow paddleboats on the lake in the evenings.

SINCE THE Papays had just visited an alligator farm, they had a healthy respect for the creatures.

Orlando and Disneyworld was the next stop, and as Mary said, "Who wouldn't enjoy Disneyworld? It's amazing!" They also visited the Star's Hall of Fame Wax Museum while in Last stop in Florida was St. Petersburg for a visit with Bernie's sister and family whom they had not seen in years. The parents worried that the children would have nothing in common, but their fears were laid to rest. After a trip to Pizza Hut and a half dozen pizzas, friendships were soon renewed.

The trip home included two new states, Georgia and Tennessee, where Look Out Mountain was an enjoyable

They now have a year to decide where to go next year, but a family vacation to "somewhere" is a unanimous choice in the Papay household.

NANCY AND RON Clauer and children Katy, Chris, and Jonathan, recently returned, from a two-week vacation in Gulfport, Miss.

Nancy's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Behan are residents of Gulfport. Nancy said they just wanted to relax and visit family, but tropical storm Claudette definitely put a damper on their first week. Six inches of rain fell in about three hours time. Nancy and Ron said they have never seen such a heavy rain.

The last day of their vacation, the Clauers spent in New Orleans in the French Quarter. Nancy said they saw thousands of Shriners, as there was a four-hours Shriner parade that day. They ate lunch as the Masperos Market, which is over 200 years old, and used to be the site of slave auctions.

MARY JANE and Vernon Peck just returned from Grand Ledge. The Pecks are the proud grandparents of Mark Robert Pitsch, who arrived July 30, weighing in at 8 pounds, 6 ounces. Daughter Nancy and her husband Morris were very happy to have Mary Jane and Vernon visit and help out for a few days.

Adventuring we will go for fun days

BY PAT BORDMAN

They used to be called outings, but with the gasoline problem we now face, a change of name and perhaps change of distance seems likely.

Probably a more apt term for these now-shortened summertime trips would be nearings. But we'll content ourselves with adventurings.

Whatever the name, the objectives remain the same. These excursions are opportunities to widen horizons. They can be a chance to see parts of our environment and ways of living that the children normally do not have any occasion to see.

As you and your children move from home to your destination, be sure to take advantage of the opportunity to point out different types of housing, neighborhood conditions, factory or business districts, schools and universities, and landmarks or historical sites.

Becoming familiar and comfortable with our greater living area can enhance our sense of pride as well as provide for some very interesting adventurings. Here is a week's worth of these mini-junkets:

MONDAY: Drayton Plains Nature Center, 515 Edmore Road, Drayton

Open 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday, 1-5 p.m. Sunday, Telephone 1-674-2119. Admission: free.

About 137 acres of marked trails take you into Clinton River country. This area is basically undisturbed land, preserved so that city dwellers can have a peaceful and natural setting to observe ecological systems. There is even a trail for the blind in addition to the self-guided walking trails for sighted visitors

There is a nature center building which houses two owls, a red-tailed hawk and a skunk, in addition to some stuffed specimens and other bits of forest memorabilia.

For small fees, the center conducts two interesting programs. For $1 candles, rope, and musket balls can be made by the children in the Log Cabin Program. The Indian crafts program introduces the participants to Indian artifacts and includes a movie. It costs 75 cents

TUESDAY: Royal Oak Farmers Market, 316 E. Eleven Mile, Royal

Summer hours are: 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday and Friday; 7 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturday; and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday. Admision is free but take money.

something.

Since 1928 the building on Eleven Mile has been used by area farmers. All produce and all plant life sold here has been grown in Michigan. In fact, if the farmer didn't grow it himself, he can't sell it.

Look for a gentleman known as Old Man Petrie, who has been selling here for years. He'll tell you some of the history of the market. On Sunday, they switch over to a flea market. About 85 dealers sell everything from tools and chess sets to beer cans, books, dolls, coins. This is the original shopping

WEDNESDAY: Maybury Urban State Park, located on Eight Mile near

Open 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily. Telephone: 1-347-8390. Admission: There is a park entrance fee of $2 or show an annual park permit.

Here is a chance to go to a real working farm. The look, smell and feel of a You won't be able to resist buying farm surrounds you. There are horses. cows, sheep, goats, pigs, rabbits, chicken, even a donkey for the jaded urban

> Look for the farmer. He might be shearing sheep, milking the cow, or planting whatever is in season. Be sure to enter the chicken house where, besides chickens, you can find an observation beehive.

THURSDAY: Detroit Police Mounted Division, 22000 Bethune, near John R, Detroit.

Hours: Morning is best, but call ahead to be sure of the exact time.

This may prove to be one of the more interesting adventurings you do. In addition to seeing the actual horses and police officers, you may also be treated to a visit with at the saddle maker and the blacksmith.

The officers are delighted to have visitors to their unusual headquarters. Near Rouge Park there is another mounted divison location, without the saddlery and blacksmith, but with a park for a picnic lunch. In Detroit. lunch at Hart Plaza afterwards.

FRIDAY: Fort Wayne Military Museum, 6053 West Jefferson near

Hours: 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Wednesday through Saturday; 11:30 a.m. to 7 p.m. Sunday.

Admission: Adults $1. Senior citizens and children 12-18, 50 cents. Children 11 and under 25 cents

This is a real fort built to protect the citizens of Detroit in the days when automobiles weren't even traversing Pontiac Trail. The barracks houses the exhibit of early military Detroit.

Aug. 3-5 is a Civil War living history week-end

SATURDAY: In case of rain during your week of outings, here's an inside adventure of an historical nature.

The Southfield Historical Museum known as "The Berg,", 26040 Berg Road, north of Civic Center Dr. South-

Hours: 2 -5 p.m. Saturday and Sunday. Phone: 354-4711.

Admission: free.

The museum is located in a house dating to 1850 and houses artifacts from the Southfield, such as tools, photos, clothing, furniture.

When you visit the museum be sure to take along cans, bottles, and newspapers. There is a well-run recycling center on the same site and is also an interesting place to visit.

SUNDAY: Belle Isle. These two words should say it all.

There is so much to do on Belle Isle that it really takes more than one day to see it all. If you plan well, a full day's adventuring will satisfy.

There is plenty of picnic space, so be sure to bring a lunch complete with drinks. You can rent bicycles and canoes on the island for two slightly different perspectives of its beauty.

Be sure to visit the aquarium and the conservatory right next to it. The children's zoo isn't available this summer because it is being renovated However, there is a very interesting nature center where you can sometimes catch a glimpse of the many deer that live on the island

'My Dog Toby' is a short story Seventh graders in Karen Johnson's But, today there would be no leash, and class at Pioneer Middle School were given the assignment to writing a short

There were no special prizes awarded when they were graded but Ms. Johnson decided Jerry Williams' story desrved some recognition.

Jerry is the son of Kathleen and Jerry Williams of 7401 Chichester Street, Canton Township. The young writer does have a dog named Toby. It is getting old but it is still in good health.

My Dog Toby

"Let's go for a walk Toby," I said to my dog. I always liked walking with him in the woods or in the field behind our house. He liked that. I hardly ever used a leash on him. When I did, he would start shaking, thinking we were going to the vet's.

That was about the only time I ever put a leash on him - and he knew it.

as I opened the door to let him out, he started wagging his tail and barking.

I noticed that he was getting old. I could tell by the way he would walk. It was like something was holding his hips and making him walk funny. I knew that it was arthritis. When he had his last checkup, the veterinarian said he was healthy for a dog who was 11 years

He used to be so good at finding animals outside. But now, since he was getting old, he would imagine that he would see some sort of game. But, when I would walk toward the spot, where he pointed, there would be nothing there.

That was a year ago and now he had heartworms. We had found out about them too late. The vet said he had about one month to live. He was suffering so much.

The vet said that it would have been good to put him away but I objected. I had a way of my own.

It would be fast, quick and easy. He was such a beautiful dog with a gleaming black coat. So many happy times that dog had given me. But now, it must come to an end.

Today would be the day. I called for him to come. we would be taking a walk. His last walk. I brought my 12gauge with me. He loved the outdoors. That's why I thought that it would be a good place for him to die.

As we were walking, he suddenly got very stiff. His nose pointed toward a bush. I felt sorry for him. He was imagining that he saw something in the bush As I raised my gun, he moved closer toward the bush. Then, the shot. He fell straight to the ground. Tears came to my eyes as a flock of pheasants flew up from the bush and into the sky.

Off the Walls

Avoiding the sandman

By NANCY WALLS SMITH

Suddenly a youngster who earlier in the day refused to discuss what happened at swim lessons or where he buried your emery boards is full of interesting tidbits of information that just can't seem to wait till morn.

One of their more effective ploys is "Guess what my teacher said today, Mom?" Mom is always very interested in what teacher said.

Four hours earlier, at dinner, this same child couldn't be bothered with the more mundane details of life that might interest Mom. His head was too full of Mighty Mouse and waiting friends.

Now, oddly enough, at 10:00 p.m., he's a fountain of fascinating facts. Usually this tactic is resorted to some time after the old stand-bys of:

- I want a drink.
- · I have to go to the bathroom.
- · Open my door.
- · Close my closet door.
- · Close my door.
- · My covers slipped off. I have too many covers.
- · Let's talk about what we're going to do

I've been blessed with two of those kids who just lie in their beds and yell, "Mommmmmm!"

From the family room it's difficult to tell if this imperative screech is a signal that he has his head caught between the mattress and the headboard or if he just wants to tell me why he likes the color green.

Though perhaps this may be slightly better than those mischievous little tots who sneak into the room long after you think they've drifted off to dreamland. It could put a crimp in your conversation if at any moment a short person may pop up from behind the couch and announce, "Mom, I hope you remember that I have to have new shoes for school this fall."

MY KIDS don't sneak up on me, but they keep me bouncing up and down all evening for those last minute kisses (about six a piece) and important discussions of life in general. Last night after kiss-and-hug number three, my four-year-old said, "Are you falling for these kisses, Mom?"

I didn't know if he wanted to know if I was falling in love with him or if he was taking me in with his tricks. Sounds like something he heard Popeye say to Olive Oyle.

I can remember as a child being very confused about the fact that I would always have to go to bed when I wasn't tired and get up in the morning when all I wanted to do was sleep. It seemed to me at the time, that life would have been so much simpler if the routine were reversed.

For this reason I'm not completely unsympathetic to my son's sneaky tricks. It's just that it's impossible to explain to a child that he must go to bed so Mom and Dad can get some rest.

A traveler passing through an ancient city noticed three men working near a pile of

And so, while stopping to rest his camel, he chatted with the workmen. He stepped up to one who was sitting on the ground, chipping away at a stone with his hammer and chisel.

For a few moments the traveler watched in silence as the man went about his work. Then he asked:

"Tell me, young man, what is the purpose of your labor?"

THE WORKER dropped his tools, looked up at the traveler, and answered:

'Why I'm shaping a stone." "Yes, of course," the traveler answered. "I should have known." He then went to another worker and asked the same question, "What is the purpose of your labor?" This man hesitated for a moment before answering, "I suppose you would say that I am helping to build a wall." The wise old traveler approached the third worker and asked a similar question: "Why do you work with the stone? What is the reason for your labor?"

This man was different — he had a purpose in life. He smiled as he looked up at the stranger, rose to his feet, looked up at the sky, and gestured with his hands high and

Some will content themselves to meet the minimum, but others will broaden their scopes and raise their sights. They will see higher and farther into the realm of their own possibilities.

Tipping the Scales NANCY AUSTIN Tasty (lo-cal) tidbits

The following is a collection of news, tidbits, new products, and fun facts about the happenings in the world of dieting.

WHILE THE debate continues as to whether or not jogging can extend your life, new evidence surfaces from Baylor College in Houston.

A professor of physical medicine, Dr. Harley Hartung, has found that a man who jogs a mile or so several times a week has a lowering of cholesterol, thus reducing one of the major risk factors for a heart attack. The beneficial effects had been found in early studies of marathon and long-distance runners.

Whether or not you would like to walk or run, try doing it for charity.

Members of Weight Watcher chapters in the metropolitan area will begin their PEPSTEP to benefit the Metropolitan Chapter March of Dimes at 11 a.m. Sunday, Aug. 19.

Billed as a family day, the route will follow a two-mile course beginning at the Hart Plaza in Detroit. Members have sought pledges from friends and family with prizes being awarded to chapters having the most members participating.

IN ADDITION to the March of Dimes benefit, WXYZ radio and the 7-Up Company are co-sponsoring the "Dr. Sonya Friedman Run for Your Mind," at 9:15 a.m. Sunday, Aug. 12 beginning at the Southfield Civic Center, 26000 Evergreen Road., Southfield.

The 10,000 meter run (6.2 miles) not only benefits your mind and body, but the benefit proceeds go to Children's Hospital for its psychiatric and psychological programs for children. Both serious runners and the "round the block" runners are encouraged to participate. Prizes will be awarded participants including a custom-designed T-shirt, and a chance in a drawing for bigger prizes. Late registrations are being accepted at the site at 8 a.m.

Liquid protein update: data collected by the Investigators at the National Heart, Lung, and Blood Institute and the Center for Disease Control, indicates that semi-starvation may have caused the death of 17 people who died while on the diet. Decreased heart size in proportion to body weight was found in 16 of those victims.

Saccharin ban: The House has voted fitness concept, recently introduced to allow diet sodas and other products containing saccharin to remain on MENU ASSISTANCE Planning Guide has been introduced by Chatham supermarkets as a measure for shoppers with special dietary concerns. Now shoppers may easily discern products on shelves intended for their use.

The color-coded system will differentiate products that are caloriecontrolled, low in cholesterol or sodium free, as they appear on the shelves throughout the market. Due to consumer demand for such special products to improve health, the number of these products has grown steadily in recent years; and now this speical consideration is an additional aid to dieters.

Tired of the ads aimed at your children on Saturday and Sunday morning encouraging them to eat all the "wrong" things? In February, 1980, CBS television has accepted and will show nutrition-oriented spots, produced by the Produce Marketing Association.

Designed for 4-to-8-year olds, the spots will feature numerous vegetable and fruit puppets discussing fruits and vegetables as snacks, in salads, and as part of your daily diet. At this time it is not known whether the Detroit affiliated station, Channel 2, will be running the spots.

New Products: A salt-free popcorn is now available in the Featherweight brand from Chicago Dietic Supply, Inc. The popcorn is suitable for people on low sodium/salt-free diets, and is packaged in 2-ounce boxes.

A lo-cal meatloaf pan is now being offered by Starcrest of California. It's actually two pans nested together. The inner pan raises the meatloaf and allows fat to drain into the outer pan, thus allowing you to drain off the grease and with it the extra calories. Cost is $3.99. Write to Starcrest of California, 3159 Redhill Ave., Costa Mesa.

It's a fact: Lower socioeconomic families, single parents and minorities are less concerned about calorie intake than others. It's also a fact that 60 percent of substitute foods introduced last year were dietetic in form because of the general public's concern for diet.

The proportion of dieters is greatest among women between the ages of 25 and 34 - according to a Nielson sur-

Dear Gundella: I have had the same dream several times during the past year. Can you tell me what it means?

In this dream my father, who has been dead for two years, and I are waiting for a bus. As the bus approaches, I realize that I am barefooted, and I begin to look for my shoes. I can't find them.

The thrill of victory, the agony of de-paws

By DENNIS ROSENBLUM

Lyle Boyer was doing her best to maintain a relaxed attitude. And Corkie, her black-and-white border collie, was going along with it, at least for a

The big event last Thursday morning was the local Frisbee-catching competition for dogs, the first step on the road to canine stardom, held at the Jefferson Community Center.

For Ms. Boyer, 24, it wasn't that big of a deal. "I'm kind of hoping she doesn't win," she admitted. Corkie, 3, didn't know what was going on, but sensed excitement in the Frisbee-filled

"I don't think she needs practice," said Ms. Boyer. "I need practice throwing the Frisbee.'

A FEW OTHERS were arriving. Ms. Boyer finally decided to make a few practice throws to Corkie. All of a sudden, the mild-mannered dog sprung into action

But Corkie had a nasty habit of catching the Frisbee on the nose and then retrieving it off the ground. No points that way.

'She's not catching 'em," mumbled Ms. Boyer. "I don't know.

The dog was clearly deserving of an A for effort — anxiously running back to Ms. Boyer with the disc after each throw, hoping for another.

This was Corkie's first try in official competition. From the backyard minor leagues to the big time is a long way one strewn with chewed-up Frisbees but one has to start somewhere.

Ms. Boyer, who lives on Clarita in Livonia, is a member of the Wolverine Dog Training Club. Besides responding few good catches.

to all kinds of hand signals, Corkie will kiss anyone who says "daj mni buzi," which means "give me a kiss" in Pol-

For the competition, though, points are awarded on the number of catches made at least 15 yards from the thrower within two minutes. A catch from the ground is worth one point, and a catch with all paws off the ground gets two points. Kisses get no points.

Some allowances are made for the doggie lifestyle. For instance, time will be called for one "nature break," as the rules describe it, if the dog decides to exercise his or her option while the clock is running. The owner of the dog is responsible for clean-up.

Also, according to the rules, "Female dogs who are in any stage of heat. which is a serious distraction to other competing dogs, are to be declared ineligible." This problem didn't arise.

IT WAS FINALLY time to start. Only five dogs had been registered for competition. There was some grumbling about the wind but all else was

Amy Vassallo of Livonia thought her dog, Whiskey, seemed nervous about the crowd. "I think he's being intimidated," she said. "He loves Frisbees, but not today."

Whiskey went out for a couple tries after the Frisbee, then sauntered off for the event's first official nature

Then came Ms. Boyer and Corkie.

Ms. Boyer tossed the Frisbee and Corkie took off like a bullet. Corkie jumped for it, but missed.

Ms. Boyer made one bad throw. But the dog persevered and progressed to a

It turned out to be a good showing. No front-runner, though.

Not one to blame others, Ms. Boyer took full responsibility.

"It's just the way I throw it," she said. "I'm not very good at throwing

BY THIS TIME, the audience had grown to noticeable size. Each twopoint eatch brought a round of polite applause, which made it all sound something like a golf tournament. Some contestants brought along the whole family. This made for handy cheering sections, although it's doubtful the dogs noticed.

At the end of the first round, three entrants had made the cut. By the rules, 10 points were needed to contin-

Robert Groff and Rusty, of Livonia, had 11 points. Dennis Farac and Amos, of Madison Heights, got 10 points, as did Vince Consiglio and Partner, of Amos had made five two-point catches, which made him the one to beat. The contest grew a bit more serious. The smokers in the group were lighting up more often and the TV cameras had arrived, which means the whole thing must somehow be import-

Bob Groff started worrying about the wind again. Rusty refused comment, other than a pant or two.

"Don't ask me what he is," Groff said. "My wife found him on the expressway a few years ago.

"I think the other dogs are distracting him - but the other dogs always do that to him. If they're not upsetting him, they're upsetting me.'

And anyway, he added: "We just kind of entered this for the hell of it.

END OF ROUND TWO: Amos got 16 points, including six two-pointers, making him the clear winner. Rusty and Partner tied for second place with 13.

"I don't know who had more fun, me or him," said Dennis Farac, trying not to sound like a proud father. "He has to concentrate on catching the Frisbee and not going to the bathroom."

Any little tricks to winning? "For him, I try to get more spin on it. By the time he gets to it, it's floating and he has to jump for it," said Farac. "But I don't want to give anything away here."

Farac, 28, a professional musician, said the dog just picked up Frisbee catching naturally. Amos also likes to play basketball, according to Farac.

"If I dribble, he'll jump and steal it. If he's out there, I never get a chance to Amos, ever modest, just panted.

There was another round of throwing to settle the second place tie. Consiglio and Partner scored nine points for second place. Groff made only four with Rusty, who was clearly tiring of it all.

The top three dogs and their owners got their certificates and ribbons, the TV folks filmed their little "That's soand-so reporting from Livonia" endings and everyone went home.

MS. BOYER, meanwhile, had been taking all of this in from a back row vantage point on the grass.

She was undaunted by her first-round defeat, even though she had gone to the trouble of getting a dog license for-Corkie just so she could compete.

She hadn't really wanted to win, she explained, because there was an obedience trial on Saturday, the same day as the Frisbee-catching state finals.

"No big setback," she said. Corkieseemed to agree.

Of dogs, licenses, topless dancers and puppies

If you happen to be a meat vendor, or own a topless go-go bar, your city licenses will cost more this year than

Of course, there is neither a meat vendor nor a topless go-go bar in Garden City. Neither is there an amusement park, an archery range, a golf school, a shooting gallery, a go-kart track or a trampoline center. But in a meeting tonight, the city council will start churning the legislative gears toward eventually raising the costs of licenses needed to operate those kind of

THEY'RE PART of citywide increases in various fees and license costs, most of which apply to real, functioning businesses and activities. Cities all across the state are raising these fees, or can be expected to do it soon, because the limits on property taxation imposed by the Headlee amendment have no effect on these kinds of service-related costs. Not to mention that these costs balloon at the same rate as most other things in this year of double digit inflation.

topless go-go dancers. wanted to talk

One of the things that won't be included in the new city rates for these various licenses is a difference between the cost of dog tags for male and neutered female dogs and the amount charged owners of fertile, female can-

This difference was proposed by City Manager Dana Miller, but shot down by Mayor Sam Pappas and Councilwoman Geraldine Kiessel at last week's study session. This happened because Pappas happens to own two fertile female dogs, and Mrs. Kiessel appeared to believe that levying different rates was, in some way beyond my ken, a sexist

The council took all this debate in good humor. Councilman William Belcher's response to Mrs. Kiessel's comments was to hitch up his sleeves, a la Ed Norton preparing to write down Jackie Gleason's words of wisdom, and jot something down as he said, "Aha.

This attitude is good. Because if

But I didn't really want to talk about they'd acted seriously about it, there would be no alternative but to question their collective sanity.

> Council dropped Miller's suggestion as if it were some smoking firebrand of wild-eyed radicalism. Responsible owners of fertile female dogs shouldn't be punished by the actions of the irresponsible, the mayor noted.

Yet, The 1919 Dog Law - one of my favorite law names, by the way, although lawyers might call it P.A. 339, 1919 - reflected the unplumbed depths of legislative wisdom when it establishfemale dogs. It's been amended since, but the gist is the same.

law says owners of pregnant dogs have no recourse to blame the owners of canine fathers.

BUT, EVEN if council had been right about the law, they would have been wrong. They're making a horrible mistake, good humor or not.

We ask you, then, to think back to the days of childhood to discover those things that made growing up special to you. All you need to do is search the face of the nearest child, and you will find that those same special experiences haven't really changed.

Then, tell us--through the eyes of your camera--what's so special about growing up in the suburbs. All you need is some slide film, a camera and a child (or children) doing what comes naturally.

You'll find them at carnivals, shopping centers, playgrounds and quiet river banks.

Since there is no age limit to our contest, children who enter may have an added advantage, since they don't have to resort to memory to tell us what's special about growing up in the suburbs.

We will publish the winning entries--in color--right here on the pages of your hometown newspaper.

And now we introduce Dr. Mozzarella, Madam LaScalla, Tommy Spagetti, Suzy Creamcheez and the gang.

First you see them doing some comedy and rock music in a local park. Then you see them juggling and playing games with kids on a library lawn. And, look again, now you see them doing a satiric theater bit.

They call themselves the Minstrels, and - any way you look at them they're easily Livonia's most engaging stage show.

"We're pretty versatile. We can perform in any situation," says Jim King, a.k.a. Dr. Mozzarella.

IT SEEMS THAT he's right. The core quartet of the Mintrels - King, his brother, his sister and his girlfriend tailor their performance to the audi-

So one day you see Dr. Mozzarella dressed in a butcher's costume, slicing a watermelon with a chainsaw in a takeoff on TV commercials for kitchen gadgets. Another day, he's joking with young children.

Next Wednesday, the Minstrels will give a free concert at 8 p.m. in the outdoor courtyard of Jefferson Community Center, at Henry Ruff and West Chicago in Livonia. The performance will include some comedy and lots of music.

"We wanted to do something for the young adults in the neighborhood," says King. "People that are our age bring their kids.

In whatever the situation, the group's objective is to involve the audience, to eliminate the artificial barrier between the viewer and the viewed.

"We try to get as many people in the stage as we can during a show," says King. "We play with the audience get 'em singing, get 'em dancing.' None of this is without its problems, of course. The group played a few times in Livonia's Music Under the Stars outdoor concert series. But as you can't please all of the people all of the time, the group's last appearance caused a minor flap.

"I guess some people got offended," says King. "But when there's kids or senior citizens in the audience, we never use four-letter words or anything

The group also tried the bar circuit for awhile, but found it too restrictive. King said one bar owner hired them in and they packed the house. But everyone was paying too much attention to the show and not enough to drinking.

And the format the boss wanted was too tight for them.

"They want us to do 40 minutes on, 20 minutes off, 40 minutes on," King says. "Most bars just don't fit our needs."

"If we work once a week, we're happy with that. We've all got other jobs,"

And there is an element of social THE MINSTRELS like to think of concern underlying it all. King, a vegea giant hamburger - a dead cow sandwich, as he prefers to call it.

"We try to take everything that's so smug, so sure of itself, and make it absurd. I guess that's as good a definition of satire as any.

"We just want people to take a look at what they're doing. But you gotta be

Their songs talk of the everyday things they've experienced. Two titles, for instance, are "Let's Go Get Something to Eat" and "Lime Green Cadillac with the White Vinyl Top, VRM 635, Your Lights Are On.'

The Minstrels, in some of their various forms - dancing on stage,

parodying television commercials and making music.

They also delight in parodying suburban life. Livonia is alternately referred to as Lizonia or Nirvana. Westland is Wasteland and Garden City is Garbage

In their roles as mimes — or fools, as they are known in history - they hope to gain impact.

'Tyrants trembled before fools," says King. "One of the biggest fears people have in this society is to look foolish. We go up there and say it's OK to look like a fool."

Hunters get ready

By LEM MESEE Outdoors writer

While the rest of us are still swimming and munching sweet corn, a special breed of sportsman is feeling the adrenalin surge through his veins. He is the duck hunter, the cold, cramped inhabitant of cold, cramped blinds and cold, cramped boats on cold, wind-swept lakes.

My good friend C.O. Jones is a duck hunter, and at this time of year he is pawing the ground in anticipation. Dates are circled on his calendar.

One is Sunday, Aug. 26. It's a duck hunters' clinic sponsored by the Saginaw Valley chapter of the Michigan Duck Hunters Association. From 11 a.m. to 6 p.m., they'll be at Potters Lake Pavilion on Davison Road three miles east of Davison, which is east

The non-profit event will offer free instruction on all phases of waterfowl hunting - dog obedience and retrieving, waterfowl identification, duck calling, decoy carving and so on.

Admission and parking are free, according to chapter spokesman Steve Armstrong (313-733-2520).

THE OTHER date is Sunday, Sept. 16, when the 32nd annual Michigan duck calling championship contest will be held at Pointe Mouillee State Game Area on the Huron River at Lake Erie. It's at the headquarters site east of the I-75 freeway. Sponsoring group is Pointe Mouille Water-

Registration closes one half-hour prior to the 2 p.m. starting time. Each contestant will be limited to 90 seconds, and overtime callers will be disqualified.

Judging chairman George Kadar said these calls will be used: the hail or highball call, to attract ducks to a blind; the lonesome hen or mating call; the feed call; and the come-back

Winner has a chance to compete in the world championship duck calling contest in Stuttgart, Ark.

IN LANSING, there's a dull-sounding but highly important agency called the State Licensing and Regulation Department. I mention it now because many folks who have vacationed in Michigan's north country talk wistfully of buying property

Department Director Bill Ballenger doesn't discourage those dreams, but he does issue some words of caution:

· "Visit the property prior to signing any sales contract.

· "Request a copy of the state or federal property report if one is required.

· "Check with the county health department to see if the water supply and septic system permits are avail-· "Check on the availability of such utilities as telephone, gas, electricity or propane.

State law provides you certain safeguards if you are dealing with a licensed real estate broker or salesperson. So ask to see the salesperson's pocket license card.

CENTURY CITY was "the center of everything," and producers, writers and performers from the industry caught his act. Anderson then went to the Dunes Hotel in Vegas, where the club was switching from big-band dance music to a show policy. "They liked my type of act," he said. "Another two-week stint turned into two years.' Speaking of Vegas, Anderson said "that's a town of benefits. With his star billing at the Dunes, he was asked to appear on two or three benefits a week. Recently he did the St. Jude Telethon at the Desert Inn, with Wayne Newton, Tony Bennett and Milton Berle. "I guess I've been doing impressions all my life," he reflected. "That's how I learned to sing, by listening to Sinatra, Damone, Bennett, all these years." Once he put the impressions into the act, it seems he got everybody's attention. After his first appearance on the Johnny Carson show, "the response was phenomenal," Anderson said.

"The next day I got calls from Sammy Davis, Jr., Andy Williams, Steve Lawrence and Jack Jones, and I didn't even do Lawrence and Jones on that EVER SINCE THAT first "Tonight" show appearance, Anderson has received special attention from Carson, as well as the audience. The singer. now 32, received a standing ovation af-

Anderson has appeared on the 'Tonight" show with guest host Rich Little, whom he calls "the world's greatest impressionist.'

Sammy Davis Jr. has praised Anderson's impression of Davis singing 'What Kind of Fool am I." Anderson's impression begins with looking up with his eye kind of half-closed, and he was relieved to find Davis took this bit with good humor.

ANDY WILLIAMS flew Anderson to Williams' golf classic banquet, and Williams mouthed the words to his own hit "Days of Wine and Roses" while Anderson sang from behind a curtain.

Then Williams walked away, and Anderson was revealed. "I finished as

'Meeting of Minds' makes Steve Allen an author

Steve Allen: "I'm just someone who does a dozen or so things for a

By DIANE ABRAMS

Bringing together people of the past, so that Florence Nightingale could debate important questions with the likes of Plato, Voltaire and Martin Luther is a Steve Allen brainstorm brought to life on the PBS-TV network series, "Meeting of Minds."

The unique talk show concept is the recipient of several awards and was voted the best television writing of 1976-77 by TV critics.

(The TV program is seen locally at 8 p.m. Saturdays on Channel 56.)

In his newly released book, "Meeting of Minds" second series, Allen includes the six scripts of the show's first season.

While autographing copies of his latest endeavor Monday night at Bookpeople in the Orchard Lake Mall, Allen talked about the unique TV series.

"'Meeting of Minds' is the only thing I've done that has real social importance," Allen said. "It gets its impact from the significance of the people who are interviewed."

ALLEN PRESENTS these historical characters based on facts he turned up after extensive research. He deliberately matched figures with conflicting philosophies and viewpoints to heighten

Each of his famed guests is garbed in the styles of that time. Although it would have been impossible for many of them to meet, the absurdity of the situations add to the creative content.

"When I was 10 years old the structural concept came to me," said Allen. "I wanted to bring a lot of macho characters together, like Tarzan and Popeye. The idea involved important people coming together."

Allen writes the scripts and appears as host on the shows. He strives to bring into focus the personalities, interesting anecdotes and public positions of each character. Instead of the traditional one-onone interview, Allen gathers his guests around a table and encourages a free exchange of ideas.

'I don't consider myself a pioneer. The reason I got into TV as soon as I did is because I was born first.'

What emerges is an intellectually stimulating discussion covering a wide range of topics. Alllen develops the conversation to include comments on morals, government, religion, values and other timely subjects. To do this, he has to familiarize himself with the characters well enough to guide the discussion.

"SO MUCH has been written about these historical figures. There's an enormous amount of research and information done," he said. "Many of the characters have written things of their own, which gives even further insight.'

In one show, Marie Antoinette movingly describes the last night in the life of her husband, Louis XVI, before he went to the guillotine. She later followed.

Karl Marx tells of the bigotry of some Catholic monarchies and actress Jane Meadows, Allen's wife, portrays Cleopatra and Susan B. Anthony, as well as a host of other famous female figures. The entertaining devices Allen uses in his creation provide a means of educating viewers or readers in a subtle fashion. The potential of TV is exemplified to its fullest capabilities. "We've finished 18 shows so far and will probably turn out more," Allen said. HOWEVER, "Meeting of Minds" is just one of Allen's many accomplishments over the years. He is, perhaps, best known as a comedian and origina-

"Tonight" show years ago, he introduced a number of upcoming stars to the television medium.

"The pace at which things change is more accelerated today than ever before," Allen said. "The situation comedy is better now, it's more constructive. But, that's not true of sketch comedy - that was better in the '50s.

Naming "Mork and Mindy" and "All in the Family" as some of his favorite situation comedies, Allen said he wasn't as impressed with the sketch format of "Saturday Night Live." "The characters on 'Saturday Night Live' are very funny, but they generally have only one good sketch in 90 minutes of time," he said. "During the '50s every sketch was terrific, I don't know why writers can't do that now.'

Allen got his start in radio as a staff announcer in 1943. Although he got involved with television as early as 1949, he doesn't consider himself a forerunner of the medium.

"I DON'T consider myself a pioneer," he said. "The reason I got into TV as soon as I did is because I was born first.

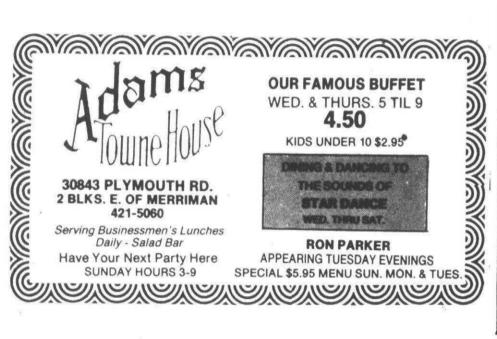

Allen's success story doesn't begin with the familiar big break that's written about in TV or movie magazines. He started out at a young age and worked hard and continues to do so to this day. His advice to upcoming comedians: "Keep coming up.

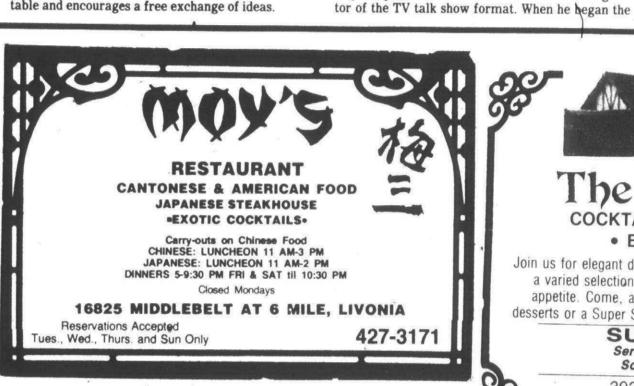

"There's no short cut to comedy. You have to be professionally funny. The average comedian is 35 years old when discovered. It doesn't happen

After taking time to answer questions, Allen looked up at the crowd gathering to have books personalized. He smiled warmly.

"I could have written another book by now," he

But nobody appeared to be in a hurry. Many Bookpeople customers just starred in awe at the man whose face crossed their television sets in a multitude of programs.

The inimitable Fred Waring and his Pennsylvanians graced the Meadow Brook Music Festival stage Sunday night for the second year in a row at Baldwin Pavilion.

Early arrivals at the Oakland University Campus near Rochester were aware the stage was set with risers for the singers, a piano, drums, electric bass quitar, banjo, flute, Polymoog synthesizer and an accordian.

Noticeably absent were the chairs for a complete orchestra. EvAnn Dahl, 18, the accordianist, took care of all the missing instruments. She plays a Duovox.

A Duovox, Waring explained later in the show, is an accordian blended with an electric organ and exudes "250 million" sounds. Ms. Dahl handled the familiar sound of string and wind instruments perfectly. The group didn't need an orchestra.

THE DISTINGUISHED chorale and band created an instant wave of nostalgia for the over-40 age group by opening the program with its familiar "I Hear Music." (The Fred Waring theme-introdution was heard every evening on the radio during the 1930s and '40s.)

After that the fun began.

A true showman, Waring conceived and directed the entire production called "More About Love," the "more" being a carry-over from last year's performance.

The chorale sang questions about love: what, where, why, who and when - answering in beautifully blended voices, "Love is the Greatest Thing," "Love Is Where You Find It," "Love Is the Reason," "You Are Love" and

These songs are a mere sampling of the more than 70 masterfully presented by the chorale. The Pennsylvanians abound with musical talent. Performers didn't just stand on stage and sing, or sit there and play instruments. The singers danced too; simple, sweet choreography while singing and the instrumentalists sang while playing - no easy Waring's selection of performers is perfect. No wonder. Many of them are very young products of his Fred Waring Music Workshop, who easily combine their talents with two long time (total 68 years) Pennsylvanians.

From September-June, the second weekend of each month will bring either a double-feature film program from Hollywood's "golden years" or an inperson appearance by someone closely associated with the film industry, introducing a single feature Series tickets ($20 for the 10 monthly programs) are available from the Friends of the Detroit Public Library's office at the Main Library; phone 833-4048 and an order form will be mailed. All screenings are held in the library's Friends Auditorium.

On Sept. 8, Sylvia Sidney will introduce her favorite film made during the 1930s, "You Only Live Once," with her frequent co-star, Henry Fonda.

Fritz Lang directed this 1937 release in which the actress appears as a heartbreaking young girl in desperate flight from the law, one of a series of roles in which she portrayed a heroine who was underprivileged, poverty-striken, but beautiful.

She lived in city slums in "Street Scene" and "Dead End," a mountain shack in "Trail of the

Merlot becomes new red aristocrat have been dominated by the regions of Margaux, St. Julien, Pauillac, St. Estephe and Graves. These regions are uniformly dependent on the Cabernet Sauvignon grape for their excellence.

Other grapes are used to soften, extend or color the Cabernet, but in themselves they have generally been considered lesser grpaes and for generations were not considered worthy of being the chief ingredient for any release. Cabernet Franc, Malbec, Merlot and Petite Verdot are the most prevalent.

However, as recently as 40 years ago a new region of France attained strong recognition rather suddenly. This one made its wines chiefly from the Merlot grape. Today, St. Emilion and Pomerol are as esteemed as the wines of the Medoc and have far exceeded most red Graves in reputation.

A similar set of circumstances recently occurred on the California wine scene, although the time span involved is remarkably compressed. Fifteen years ago there were but two acres planted to Merlot. In 1969 there were 120 acres. Today there are 4,450. These figures support the idea that there has, indeed, recently been a Merlot explo-

Much of the Merlot wine, (a taste said to be herbaceous and tea-like. lacking the pepperish bite of Cabernet, and having softer tannins) from these acres is now going into blending with Cabernet Sauvignon releases.

This follows the great traditions of the French who blend varieties cosiderably more than Californians have traditionally done. The availability of Merlot in recent years is doing much to enhance the quality of California

For centuries the wines of Bordeaux Cabernets. Indeed, it is heavily responsible for the greatness of the 1974 vintage releases, making an otherwise monstrous wine that year more drink-

But the reason we are aware of the development of this grape from California is its increasing use as a varietal release. I vividly recall the anticipation we felt the Sterling Vineyards' '69 Merlot in the mid-70s.

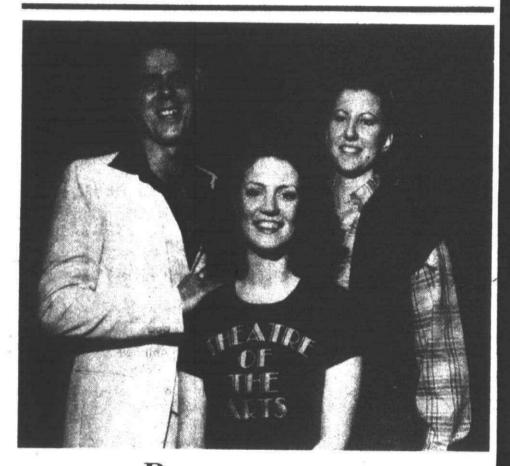

We really had little benchmark for anticipating its taste. From that solo effort we now have a great many vineyards issuing vintage dated Merlot, all blended with some other red but all distinctive and different than Cabernet Sauvignon.

They should not be drunk before they have matured at least four to five vears, so the '74s and '75s now on the shelves should be coming around nicely. Look for a taste not unlike Cabernet, but generally softer and lacking in toughness. There should be subtle layers of flavor.

Any of the following would make a good intoduction to Merlot:

Martini (generally light and gentle), Sterling (huge), Rutherford Hill, Stag's Leap (very lush), Chappellet (very big), Souverian (excellent value), and Veldercrest (light and pleasant). Or you can try Almaden and LeFleuron (Phelps' second label), the pride of Washington State, and that of Chateau Ste. Michelle. All are available locally.

An interesting comparison is to drink a wineries' Merlot against its Cabernet of the same year. It's a good guess each issue will contain both grapes but in different balance. It's a good way to gain a new wine experience.

Antique cars on display

Heritage is the theme of a major exhibit now on display a the Detroit Historical Museum. Under the supervision of Robert Kothe, the museum's curator of industrial history, the exhibit features some fine historic automobiles.

Among the "pioneer" automobiles, four are on dislay - the 1896 King car (first "horseless" carriage on the streets of Detroit), a 1902 Oldsmobile, a 1905 Cadillac, and a 1909 Brush. Labeled "unique" are a 1914 Detroit Electric, 1915 Scripps-Booth, 1924 Hupmobile, and a 1924 Rickenbacker.

In reference to the fact that at one time nearly 300 different types of automobiles were produced, the exhibit pays tribute to some of the survivors, a 1911 Ford Model T, two 1919 Dodges and a 1924 Cadillac Roadster. Three experimental cars displayed are a 1934

A tribute to Michigan's Automotive Chrysler "Airflow," a 1935 Stout Scarab and a 1964 Turbine car.

Included in the exhibit is a lenghty alphabetical listing of every automobile produced in Michigan including the place and years in which they were manufactured.

"Michigan's automobile genius is known worldwide," said Kothe, "and we hope that this exhibit will help visitors remember the contributions of the past to that legacy."

"Michigan's Automotive Heritage" will be at the historical museum until Jan. 13. Located at Woodward and Kirby in the Cultural Center, the museum is open from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday, Thursday, Friday, Saturday, 1-9 p.m. Wednesday, and 1-5 p.m. Sunday. Singer Phil Marcus Esser and comedian Sheila Kay are among 25 performers in "Happy Day," at the Birmingham Theater starting at 2 p.m. Sunday. The theater is at Maple and Hunter in downtown Birmingham.

Hilberry: A good mystery drags

By JEFF SHORR

"Night Must Fall," a murder mystery set in rural England almost a half-century ago, is entertaining fare at Wayne State University's Summer Theatre Festival.

The play's first two acts build toward a proper feeling of anticipation. However, the third act seems to drag and substitute melodrama for the tightly woven plot that was there earlier.

"Night" has the trappings of the classic thriller — a grisly murder, a rural Essex setting without a phone, a local inspector who stops by to give warning and several eccentric personalities among the household and community.

AUTHOR EMLYN WILLIAMS, better known for his recently revived "The Corn Is Green," leaves the feeling of having conducted a psychological case study of interfacing personalities at the expense of the plot.

Mrs. Bramson, a sharp-tongued, malingering dowager in a wheelchair, makes life unpleasant for all those about her. While these traits (masking loneliness and an embittered soul) suggest she should be open to a warm relationship, it happens too quickly and too inappropriately when the person that reaches her (Dan) is a smooth-talking, conniving, cocky but charming young man, 40 years her junior.

He quickly wins her heart and turns Mrs. Bramson into a silly, cooing coquette, despite the fact he has arrived at the house without background or references. (His only accomplishment has been to impregnate the

The rest of the terrorized and tyrannized household and neighbors — particularly niece Olivia — are aware of this, but Mrs. Bramson is not. A not impossible circumstance, which, nevertheless, doesn't ring true.

Mrs. Bramson (Joyce Ramsay) and Dan (Andrew Barnicle) give outstanding performances in the principal roles. The other major relationship that seems to come under author Williams' scrutiny is that of Dan and Olivia (Barbara Acker). She both suspects and is drawn to him.

THE GRUESOME murder of a local bleached-blond gadabout precedes Dan's arrival. That timing, his lack of background and his winning over of the tyrannical Mrs. Bramson, together with his increasingly strange actions (and the introspection — the aloof and suspicious Olivia Provide), suggest Dan's guilt. And what's in the pigskin hatbox?

Two other parts stand out in the Robert Hazzard-directed play, with it's always-splended WSU Repertory Theatre cast:

Dianne Winslow's Cockney cook, who doesn't quake like the rest at Mrs. Bramson's querulousness, battles back and provides part of the levity. The other is in the part of the very British Hubert Laurie, played with delicious stuffiness by Buckner Gibbs in knickers and tweeds.

"Night Must Fall" continues at the Hilberry Theatre in Detroit with 8:30 p.m. performances Thursday-Saturday.
