Teacher talks fail; school closed today

Plymouth-Canton teachers Monday voted by better than a 3-1 margin not to return to classrooms until after a new teacher contract has been signed.

The vote was 567-158.

Negotiations broke down after round-the-clock bargaining on Saturday and Sunday. Salary remains the key unresolved issue.

A union official said that extension of the present contrct was not likely and that a new agreement would have to be reached before teachers returned to classrooms.

Union officials informed the school administration of the vote in time to cancel classes and halt bus pickups. No effort was made to recruit substitute teachers to man classrooms Monday.

The resolution teachers voted on Monday morning at Plymouth Salem High School read: "We will not return to work until a new master agreement with a completed calendar and starting day of school has been mutually agreed to by the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education and the Plymouth-Canton Education Association."

The last time teachers withheld services was in 1974 and, before that, in 1969 during an extended teachers' strike.

A union spokesman said Monday morning that agreements had been reached on language but disagreement on economics prevented a settlement.

As expected, both sides intensified bargaining last week and gathered at the table over the weekend.

Friday morning found negotiators for the school board and the Plymouth-Canton Education Association (PCEA) — sole bargaining agent for the teachers — at the table early in the morning.

The talks continued until about 3:30 p.m. Friday when the PCEA recessed for a meeting with the union's executive council and the district's bargainers gave a progress report to the school board which scheduled a special executive session for that afternoon.

At the time the teams left the table Friday they had another session scheduled for 1 p.m. Saturday and fully expected to be back at it again on Sunday.

While progress had been made, the negotiators for the school board had failed to meet its earlier stated goal of having the talks wrapped up by the end of the day Friday.

The administration was concerned about reaching a settlement over the weekend, or at least an agreement to extend the 1978 contract, because the year-round schools are scheduled to begin today and those buildings on the traditional nine-month calendar are scheduled to begin Wednesday.

Information on negotiations and/or school opening may be obtained by calling the school hotline at 453-0271.

Development halted until water trouble solved

Canton Township has declared a moratorium on new development because of water pressure problems, according to Supervisor Noel Culbert.

The same water problems have prompted Westland Mayor Tom Taylor to request a computer analysis in order to discover how much more development the city can accommodate.

Culbert and Taylor, along with a representative from the Michigan Department of Health, met last week with representatives from the Metropolitan Detroit Water Board to discuss the water pressure problems both communities have experienced.

Several months ago, Canton was notified that the Michigan Department of Health would not be issuing water tap-in permits for new development without close scrutiny of the impact on pressure.

Canton residents had been required to water their lawns on an odd-even day basis for the past two summers in order to conserve water pressure.

Although Culbert says Canton will actually have a moratorium on new development,(and will closely examine projects with approved site plans), Taylor said Westland has not actually declared a similar halt to new building.

The Canton supervisor said he believes several factors could help eliminate the water problem and end the moratorium.

Culbert said a major transmission line planned in Livonia (the Stark main) has not been built yet because the water board is piqued about a lawsuit filed by western Wayne County communities last year.

The lawsuit protested sewer rate increases made by the board after it was forced to improve sewage facilities by a federal Environmental Protection Agency lawsuit.

The rate increases were ordered without a hearing.

"Detroit said if we drop the suit, they'll put in the main," Culbert said. "We did say we were willing to settle and our lawyers will be meeting about it."

The supervisor also said Canton and Westland had offered to front the more than $2 million cost of the main and be reimbursed later, but the offer was not accepted.

Another factor that could help solve the water pressure problem is a new Oakland County pumping station in the works that would take some of the burden now being carried by Livonia's pumping station. The Livonia station handles water for most of the surrounding suburban communities.

Culbert said he was drafting a letter to the township board of trustees informing members of the moratorium. He said he expected no problems from developers about the move because a recent attorney general opinion said a community has a right to halt development if it can prove that it does not have the facilities to handle it.

Canton is spending some $1.5 million for installation of several water mains, regulators and a meter pit in order to increase water pressure, but the equipment will not be operating until next summer.

A new incentive has been added as entries pile up in the Observer & Eccentric second annual color photo contest.

The six winners — three in Oakland County and three in Wayne County — all will received framed enlargements of their photos from The Plante Co., an area firm known through its displays prominent in Detroit Metropolitan Airport.

The firm offered the award to each winner, with the first prize in each county to be a 16-by-24 inch enlargement in a 24-by-32 inch frame.

This is in addition to the gift certificates that will be presented by World Camera, with stores in Livonia, Birmingham, Avon Township and Renaissance Center. The certificates will be in amounts of $100 for the two first-place winners, $75 for second place and $40 for third place. Winning photos also will be published in this newspaper.

Three weeks remain to submit entries for the contest, which has as its theme photos of children in recognition of the International Year of the Child. To be eligible, entries must be received by Sept. 17 at Observer & Eccentric offices at 1225 Bowers, Birmingham, or 461 S. Main, Plymouth.

Bi-products request scheduled

Sludge issue back with board

Representatives of Bi-Product Systems, Inc. will appear before the Canton Township board Tuesday night to seek special approval for a controversial sludge-composting operation proposed for a site near Michigan and Sheldon.

The meeting is scheduled to begin at 7 p.m. in the Canton administration building.

The special use permit is needed to establish the composting operation on the industrially-zoned parcel. The Canton Planning Commission has recommended denial of the special use permit for fear that heavy metals in the sludge would contaminate the environment.

If the permit is granted by the township board, Bi-Product representatives will have to return to the planning commission with site plans.

Under the proposal, 600 tons of treated sludge would be shipped daily from the Detroit wastewater treatment plant to the Canton site. The waste would compost in an open field for 51 days before taking the form of an odorless soil additive.

The operation would help Detroit carry out a court order to decrease the amount of waste that is being dumped into the Detroit River.

DUANE SHAW, technical advisor for Bi-Product, said the firm is considering about eight other sites for the composting operation, including DeHoCo property in either Plymouth or Northville townships.

Tom Reed, the firm's former general manager, said some months ago that

Board asked to buy school buses

The Plymouth-Canton Board of Education is being asked to purchase seven additional buses to handle the increased students expected in the fall.

If approved by the board tonight, the buses aren't expected until December.

The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. at the board offices, 454 S. Harvey in Plymouth.

The board also will be receiving evaluation reports on the program at the high schools, on a talented and gifted (TAG) program, a report on district-wide testing, and a position statement on vocational education from the chambers of commerce of Plymouth and Canton.

RAY HOEDEL, assistant superintendent for business, reports that some 12,000 Plymouth-Canton students will be bused daily this fall.

That will require some 67 large-capacity buses to handle 77 high school routes, 64 middle school, and 78 elementary routes.

About 10 of the routes will have an early pick up, starting at about 6:15 a.m., to allow the same bus to deliver students to the high schools and then pick up another load of high schoolers so they can arrive at about 7:05 a.m.

Last March the school board was asked to purchase 17 full-size buses. After some study, the board decided instead to authorize the purchase of 10 66-passenger buses at $20,583 each.

Because of the lateness of the order, says Hoedel, these 10 buses won't arrive until January or February of 1980.

As of today, Hoedel reports, the school district has 71 full-size buses and the scheduling requires 67 vehicles which does not leave the needed amount of extras for spares, emergencies, preventative maintenance, or in case of overload from continued student growth.

Based on that, Hoedel is asking the board to approve an order to purchase seven vehicles for immediate delivery at $21,400 each from Classroom, Inc.

To run a safe and dependable transportation program, he added, the district needs a fleet of 84 full-size buses. Once the district gets its ten buses in January or February and has a total

Probation officers sought by court

The probation department of Canton's new 35th District Court is looking for residents who wish to become probation officers.

Citizens who wish to volunteer for one of the estimated 40 positions are asked to call Canton Township hall at 397-1000 and ask for the probation office.

Thomas Szeles, chief probation officer, said the recruits will allow establishment of the township's own probation program. Probation officers from 35th District Court facilities in Plymouth and Northville are currently manning Canton's program.

The district's third courtroom was opened last winter in the basement of township hall. Szeles said probationary activity will be conducted at that location.

Probation officers meet once a month with persons 17 and older who have been placed on probation after being convicted of a misdemeanor. Szeles said the officers must make sure terms of the sentence are being followed.

According to Szeles, some probation officers meet with up to 15 probationers a month. Others volunteer for just one.

He said the officers should be at least 21-years-old and "show a strong motivation to supervise persons as a condition of probation and to be a friend."

A four-week training session for probation officers is scheduled to begin at 7 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 19 in the Canton court. The sessions will be held on four consecutive Wednesday evenings.

Short Takes

Hit the road

Residents along Warren road report a most unusual event recently. The road, freshly graded by the Wayne County Road Commission, became pitted and nasty after a rain and was promptly regraded by said road commission. That made two grades in a two-week period, which may be some kind of record. Of course, that's small consulation to the people who are weary of roads that have been closed more than a month for road commission work.

Acting up

Area entertainers have been asked to dust off their acts or their musical instruments and come to the aid of the Canton Rotary Club.

Musicians, dancers, comedians, singers, ventriloquists, magicians and pantomimists — all will be welcome to audition tomorrow evening at Geveva United Presbyterian Church, 5835 Sheldon Road. Beginning 7 p.m., judges will be on hand to screen acts for the Rotarians show, which is scheduled for Oct. 5 and 6 in the Plymouth Salem High School auditorium. Interested persons can call show coordinator Orren Hall at 455-3590 for more information.

Meeting a challenge

That's what you'll be doing if you manage to attend all the various meetings of interest to Canton residents this week. Beginning 7:30 p.m. Monday, the Plymouth-Canton school board meets in the administration building on Harvey in Plymouth.

At 7 p.m. Tuesday, the Canton Township board of trustees meets at the administration building on Canton Center Road. A public hearing on Bi-Product's request to establish a sludge treatment site in Canton is on the agenda. And, since once is not enough, the board meets again at 7 p.m. Thursday for public hearings on proposed police and fire department millage increases, as well as other items.

Chicken delight

The Canton Chamber of Commerce reports that approximately 1,150 chicken diners were devoured by those who attended the chambers sweet corn festival and chicken barbeque Aug. 12. In other corny business, Geneva Mitchem is the winner of the "kernal counting contest," in which contestants had to guess the number of corn kernals in a sealed jar. There were about 10,000 entries. By the way, there were 4,002 kernals of corn in the jar. Mrs. Mitchem won a lawn swing and metalcraft ship from Barts Rustic Furniture; two plants from Schwartz's Greenhouse; a watch from K's Jewelers; and an electric broom from Canton Vac and Sew.

Suburbs facing sewer rate hikes

A public hearing on wholesale sewer rates, expected to increase suburban area homeowner's water bills an average of $24 next year, will be held at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday, Aug. 29 before the Detroit City Council.

The hearing will be in the City-County Building Auditorium, 13th floor.

The new rates, proposed by the Detroit Water and Sewerage Department, represent a 38 to 69 percentincrease for suburban area communities. The rates vary due to transportation costs and whether sewage is metered in an area. Water and sewage flow is metered in the western Wayne County and southern Oakland County areas.

The new rates are scheduled to take effect Jan. 1 and remain in effect through June 30, 1981.

More than 70 cities, towns and villages in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties are serviced by the Detroit sewer and water utility through county sewage districts. The counties and municipalites pass on the wholesale oost increases to homeowners, plus add maintenance and service charges.

The sewage treatment plant on the Detroit River is under court order to comply with federal anti-pollution regulations.

The treatment plant is now being tested by a special consultant appointed by Detroit Mayor Coleman Young to measure its progress towards meeting the clean water standards.

The Detroit water utility has said the huge rate increases are necessary to raise about $180 million needed to bring the plant into compliance. Suburban homeowner increases are expected to be about double what Detroit residents will pay. Detroit residents' water and sewage treatment bills are expected to increase $12 to $16 next year.

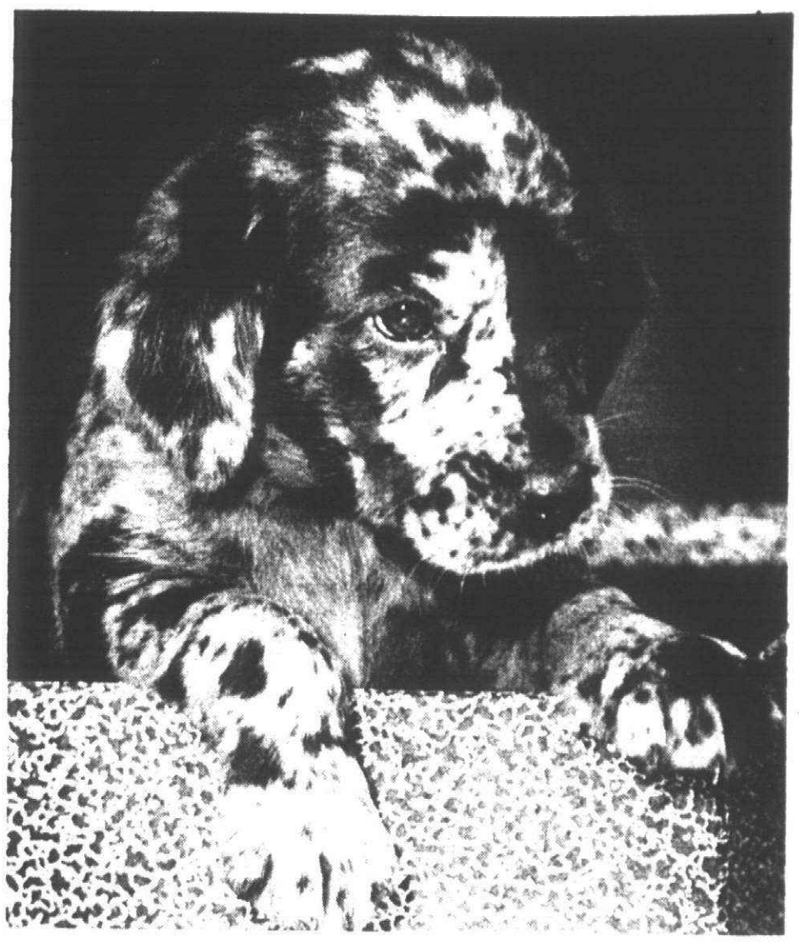

OAKLAND COUNTY Drain Commissioner George Kuhn, expecting that the rate hikes will be routinely approved by the Detroit City Council, said this week the county may join Macomb County in appealing the new rates to U.S. District Judge John Feikens. Feikens has presided over the federal government's lawsuit the past two years to bring the treatment plant in compliance with federal and state standards.

Macomb County is expected to protest its residents being assessed the full repair cost of a major sewer main which collapsed last summer. Macomb wants the entire region to share the repair cost.

"What we want is good performance and the lowest possible cost and we can't get either one," Kuhn said. "Questions that we can't get answered (at next week's hearing) we plan to take to federal court. That's our only recourse."

Kuhn claims the Detroit plant only treats 50 percent of the total sewage flow. "Isn't someone owed a rebate for lack of service," he said. "We're not getting what we're paying for."

The new sewage rates were approved by the Detroit Board of Water Commissioners last month.

Indian Center closed a week

The American Indian Heritage Center of Plymouth-Canton Community Schools will be closed from today through Aug. 31.

The center will reopen its facilities in the portable unit at Central Middle School on Tuesday, Sept. 4, with hours from 1 to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Phil Radant, director of the Indian Heritage Center, currently is on an "Outward Bound" program for Indian educators near Thunder Bay, Can. He is learning survival skills to teach the students in the Plymouth-Ganton community.

Jill McCree, who has been helping at the Indian Heritage Center, is leaving to accept a position as a media specialist in another school district.

Law urges thorough revamping of county

Wayne County must change to a county executive form of government, State Rep. Robert Law, R-Livonia, told Kiwanians in Plymouth last week.

Law was the guest speaker last Thursday noon for the Colonial Kiwanis Club of Plymouth and the week before spoke, on the same subject, to the evening Plymouth Kiwanis Club.

"If Wayne County combines its Recorder's Court, Circuit Court and Common Pleas Court it would mean $6 million in savings and increased efficiency each year," Law said.

THE GOVERNOR, he explained, recently vetoed $5.5 million which would have paid for a state takeover of Wayne County's probation and parole system and provided aid to Wayne Circuit Court.

"He did it because the county has dragged its heels on his recommendation that it reorganize into a strong county executive system.

"But in order to veto the money targeted to Wayne County as part of the state takeover of probation expenses, the governor had to veto $8.7 million to all counties for that reimbursement.

"If the county reorganizes its courts to set up a new system of one level of circuit courts and district courts, it will automatically receive the money the Legislature earmarked?," continued Law who is a member of the House Appropriations Committee.

LAW ALSO SAID he believes it is imperative for Wayne County to change to a county executive system of government.

"The governor clearly supports a reorganization, and operating funds will not be forthcoming until this is accomplished.

"I agree with the governor's position that the county executive should be elected and I think it also is important that a charter commission have a free hand in deciding the form of government from that point on."

Law said the county presently is more than $19 million in debt with a projected deficit of $22 million if changes are not made. Lt. Gov. James Brickley has reported he believes the deficit could reach $38 million.

Follow the bouncing ball

Rob Brown expects his business to turn a tidy profit by providing the means for people to work up a sweat.

The place is Rose Shores Canton Racquetball, Inc. on Ford Road between Liley and Haggerty. The business is racquetball, a sport that can leave the out-of-shape player panting on the floor in under an hour.

Brown is the manager of Rose Shores, which has been open about two weeks. The new facility was plagued with problems while under construction. First, heavy storms damaged the partially built structure. Then, the cement workers strike prevented development.

Finally, the structure is complete and ready to accommodate the recent hoard of converts to racquetball.

Manager Rob Brown explains the various offerings of the Rose Shores Racquet Club in Canton.

Although the sport in recent years is edging out tennis as one of the most popular racquet games, Brown says he believes the demand for racquetball courts has barely been tapped.

According to Brown, the sport has appeal to almost all age and income groups.

The reasons, he says, range from the fact that rules are simple and even beginners can enjoy playing; to the relative inexpensiveness of playing the game.

ALTHOUGH A PLAYER can purchase special shoes, $90 racquets and expensive clothes, a racquetball beginner needs no more than a pair of tennis shoes, a comfortable outfit, a racquet (which can be had for as little as $10) and a can of balls.

And, should one want to avoid the initial expense of a racquet, Brown rents them out.

The game is played in a pristine white cell that may or may not be partially opened up by windows. Usually two people play, although four people can also indulge in a version of the game.

The rules are simple: One player serves the ball against the front wall, after which the ball can bounce on the floor once before it is returned against the front wall by the other player. The ball can hit any of the other walls, but must be returned to the front wall. The game goes to 21 points.

Similar sports, such as paddleball (players use a perforated wooden paddle) and handball (no racquet, just hands) can be played on the courts.

Courts at Rose Shores rent for $7 an hour from 6 a.m. until 5 p.m. weekdays, and $10 an hour from 5 p.m. to 11:30 week nights and all day weekends and holidays. Reservations can be made up to one week in advance. There is no membership fee.

Rose Shores has 16 courts, making it one of the largest such facilities in the area. Brown says he hopes to add 11 more courts next summer if all goes well.

RACQUETBALL IS a fast moving sport. An expert can send the ball whizzing against one of the walls at speeds approaching 140 miles per hour, putting a tremendous strain on both the players and the walls.

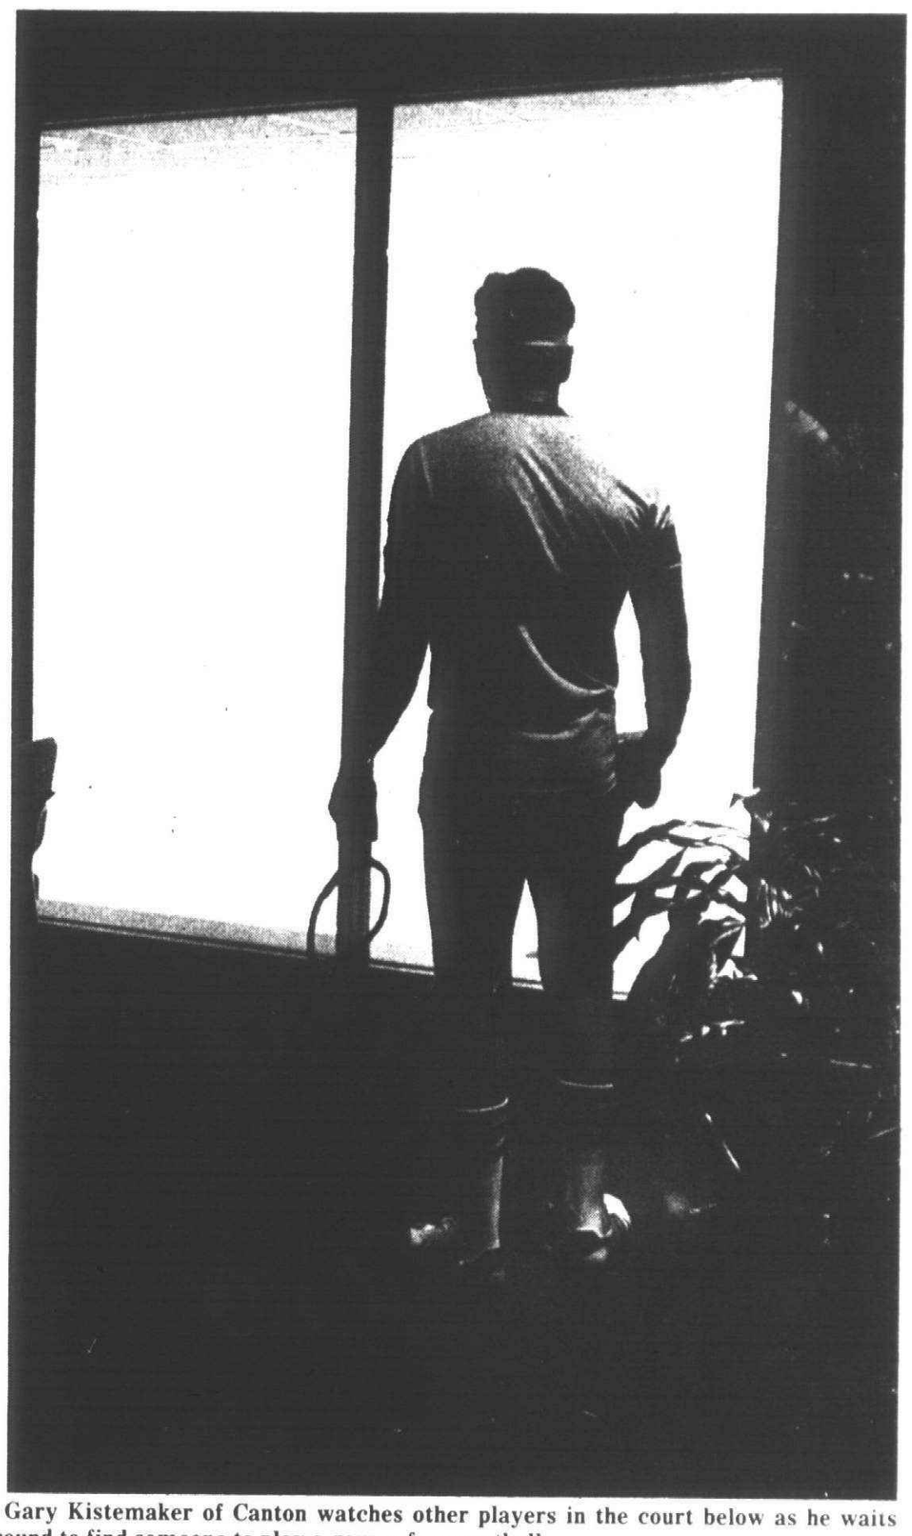

Brown says the court walls are made of cinderblock filled with cement and reinforcement rods, than covered with an epoxy finish. "I defy anyone to damage those walls," he says.

The court floors are a departure from the traditional wood ones found in many courts. Brown says the floors at Rose Shores are made of vinyl, which "is better on the legs and knees because there's more give in the floor."

But the real success of the Rose Shores facility will probably be made or broken by the other amenities offered to visitors.

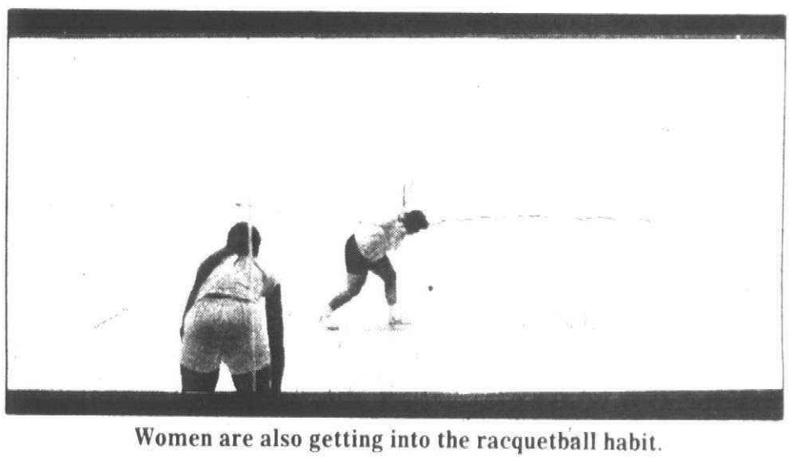

There are saunas and steambaths in both the men and women's locker rooms, hair dryers, shampoo, soap and shave cream provided free, weight-lifting equipment, a children's playroom and lounges with full kitchen facilities. Both lounges are available to rent for private parties and Rose Shores can arrange for catering.

Rose Shores first test will come next month when it hosts a tournament sanctioned by the Michigan Racquetball Association and United States Racquetball Association. The tournament, running Sept. 14-16, is the first of a series held at racquetball courts throughout the state.

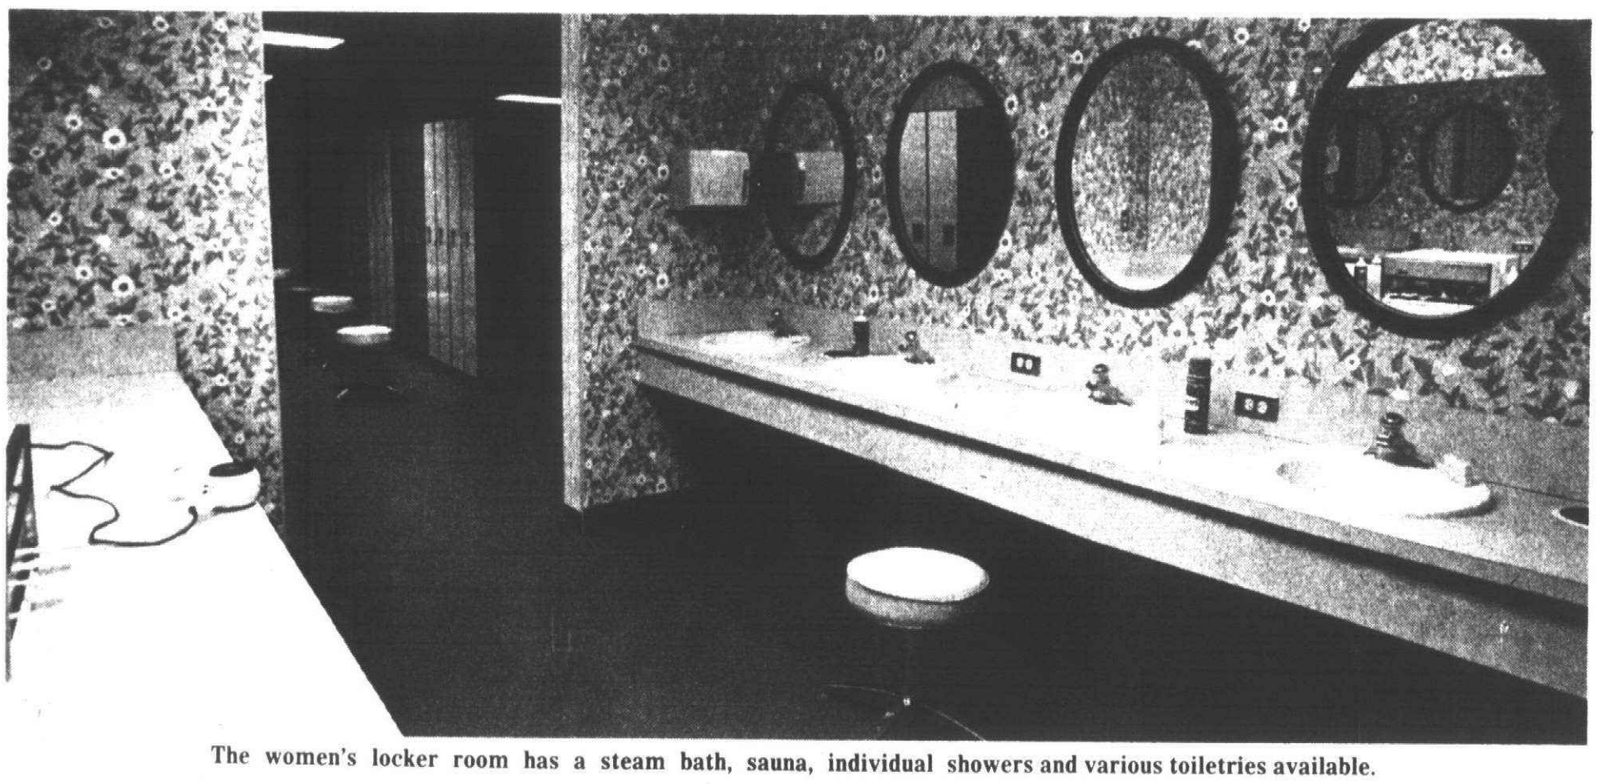

Gary Kistemaker of Canton watches other players in the court below as he waits around to find someone to play a game of racquetball.

Staff photos by Gary Caskey

Women are also getting into the racquetball habit.

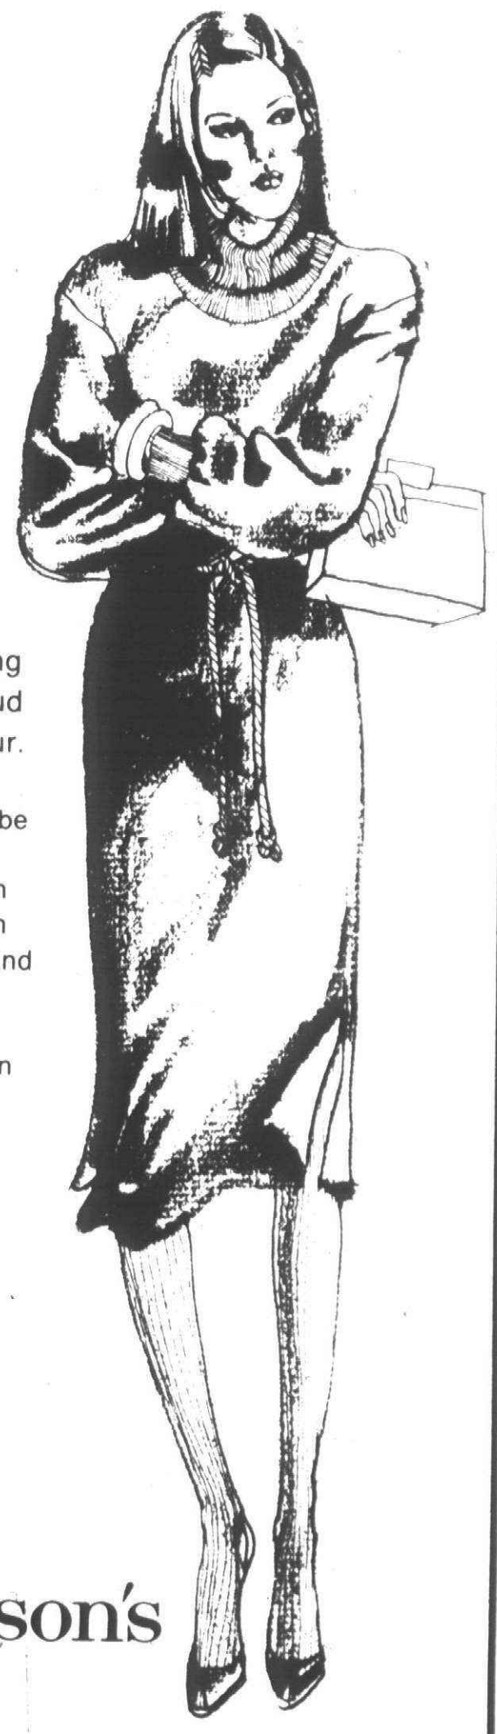

The women's locker room has a steam bath, sauna, individual showers and various toiletries available.

One of the lounges can be seen through the window that allows visitors to look on while players indulge in a rousing game.

Monday's Commentary

Supervisor chastized for interim zoning vote

The conduct of the July 17 (Canton) township board meeting in which the adoption of interim zoning was considered should be cause for concern among those who wish to make a positive contribution in planning Canton.

Canton Supervisro Noel Culbert permitted the interim zoning to be formally presented to the board of trustees and even launched into a brief law seminar supporting the interim zoning. However, he then allowed only alternating pro and con individuals to speak.

Culbert's unorthodox restrictions on free speech gave the impression that the public was split on the issue.

In addition, Culbert permitted the discussion to get sidetracked away from the central issue of protecting the public's right to speak on the land use element of the revised 1976 master plan without fear of developer circumvention.

Public concern, not on the land use issue, but on the inclusion of extraneous material such as the sign ordinance, landscape ordinance and change in ZBA (zoning board of appeals) membership forced the tabling of the interim zoning. The manner in which these changes were announced made it appear that Mrs. Carol Bodenmiller (another planning commissioner) and myself were trying to slip these changes through, when the fact remains that Culbert inserted the proposed instead of the existing sign and landscape sections into the interim zoning document.

THE TABLING motion on July 17 was to allow a week for study of various zoning map and text changes proposed to strenthen the interim ordinances compliance with the proposed master plan as revised. The question most people were left with was, "What else is buried in the interim zoning ordinance that we do not know about?"

In the week leading up to the July 24 board meeting, developer's attorneys flooded board members with official-looking opinions purporting to affirm the interim zoning's illegality. Big money interest group lobbying was intense.

The conduct of the final, impromptu hearing was even more incredible when Culbert limited the public input to those who did not speak the week before.

The intent of the previous week's tabling motion was to allow the public time to review the interim zoning as amended to ascertain all that it contained. If every interested party could not speak again July 24 following a review of the amended interim zoning, then why was it tabled July 17?

The announcement by Culbert of his intention to vote against the interim zoning was made only after he had closed puplic comment and limited discussion to board members. As a result, the reasons Culbert ticked off in support of his negative position were not challenged effectively. For the benefit of the community at large, I would like to reiterate and criticize the rationale Culbert used to go against the people who elected him, the planning commissioners he appointed and the township planner, James Kosteva.

Culbert said:

1. One-third of a mile of Ford Road is residential and therefore it is not a commercial strip.

2. The master plan shows two-thirds of Ford Road to be commercial.

3. Apartment zoning will replace commercial zoning on Ford Road and there is no way to stop HUD-financed projects.

4. The board does not have to approve commercial site plans on Ford Road.

5. Threats of recall were contained in flyers circulated in support of the interim zoning. The flyers implied a big difference between the proposed interim zoning map and amended interim zoning map.

7. The planning commission would not listen to public input anyway and is permanently split 4-3 against growth management.

THE FIRST FOUR reasons used by Culbert to justify voting against interim zoning and growth management relate only to Ford Road. These reasons point out that Culbert, in ignoring the informational meeting he requested last July 12, did not understand the intent of interim zoning to protect the whole of Canton.

Developer pressure to ram through their commercial site plans on Ford Road was so intense it narrowed Culbert's perspective down to their level — Ford Road only. Ford Road was the issue because developers made it the issue following the board's initiation of the interim zoning process.

Individually each reason is suspect. For example, one-third of a mile of residential zoning does not alter the commercial character of Ford Road. The goal of the master plan was to halt strip commercial development wherever possible, and, to hold up in court, the change in highway character must be along a sufficiently long stretch of highway to permit a transition in useage away from commercial to residential with office or similar bettering.

Culbert's second argument that the 1976 master plan shows Ford Road as two-thirds commercial is irrelevent because the 1979 addendums to the 1976 master plan do change Ford Road to correspond with 1976 goals and objectives, discouraging strip commercial.

Thirdly, Culbert knows that condominiums and not income-assisted apartments were the preferred alternative to commercial zoning on Ford Road.

The fourth Ford Road argument by Mr. Culbert suggests that the Township Board can table site plans pending zoning ordinance revision or deny site plans based on traffic problems. The truth, as Culbert well knows, is that such actions, when challenged in court, result in the developer obtaining a vested interest under the old zoning.

CULBERT alluded to what appeared to be large areas of change in the proposed interim zoning map he briefly held up before the people in attendence.

First, these changes were formally proposed at the initial board meeting on the interim zoining and, therefore, had been on file for the preceeding week.

Second, the interim zoning underwent extensive review as provided for in the interim zoning process. Thus, changes that were proposed as amendments to the map came from many sources not the least of which was the township attorney who sought to improve it's legal defensibility.

Finally, as mentioned earlier, apartment and residential zoning was reduced in density wherever possible and standards to ensure condominiums in the R-6 zone were proposed as amendments.

Another justification for Culbert's negative posture on growth management was that he somehow had been threaten with recall in the informational flyer which identified him as the person to convince on interim zoning. One need only look at the flyers to dispute this.

Culbert represented himself in the election campaign as in favor of growth management when he was questioned on the issue during a meet-the-candidates-night.

The interim zoning ordinance provided an opportunity to demonstrate leadership and get a handle on growth in Canton instead of leaving the township at the mercy of developer proposals controlled only by a 12-year-old zoning ordinance.

INSTEAD OF leading the effort to bring growth management to Canton as he said he would do before the election, Culbert continuously dragged his feet at every step of the interim zoning process. What should have taken 30 days took 3½ months to come to a conclusion. Culbert voted to initiate interim zoning in May to protect Canton's land use planning options. Then he proceeded to undermine the purpose for which interim zoning had been proposed by incorporating sign, landscaping, and ZBA changes into the interim zoning ordinance when he knew these separate issues were highly controversial and had not been decided upon by the board. The harvest of what Culbert sowed in May came out at the first night of interim zoning discussion July 17, when Mrs. Bodenmiller and myself were made to appear the culprits when it was implied that sign, landscaping and ZBA changes were being slipped through under the guise of interim zoning.

In a charter township like Canton, the community does not control its own support facilities such as sewer, water drainage, highway and school systems. The only way in which a charter township can directly respond to problems associated with these life support systems is through its zoning power. In the final analysis, Culbert failed to exercise the township's only defense mechanism — zoning.

THE THREE fundamental reasons he expressed as justification for his failure to act disclose a narrow-mindedness that bodes ill for Canton. Culbert confused the narrow Ford Road issue with the larger issue of growth management and the placement of zoning decisions in the hands of our residents instead of developers.

Culbert displayed an alarming lack of understanding of the purpose of interim zoning when he misread the master plan, confused interim zoning as an attempt to replace public hearings, and told the public he could deny or delay site plans without regard to the zoning ordinance.

I submit to Culbert that, since planning and zoning is the only way in which Canton can directly cope with it's growth problems, he had better show leadership while there are still some choices remaining.

The results of Culbert's failure to act on interim zoning will be clear to all residents expecially along Ford Raod before the next election. The developers have done it again to Canton Township, thanks to Culbert, the only member of the Township Board competitively elected last fall who voted against interim zoning.

...And Culbert replies

A revealing look at the art of defense

Mike Scanlon

Boxing is beautiful at its best, like a tiger at rest, say, or a lake in the mountains.

But there are plenty more alley cats with mange than tigers, and more Lake Eries than pristine pools.

And in this nation of 220 million legal people and a crowded metropolis or two of smuggled aliens, you couldn't fill a SEMTA bus with the number of boxers capable of looking beautiful consistently.

So instead the sport is heavily populated with the used-to-be, might-be, could-have-beens that fill the rest of the world — the car you can't start the morning after an $80 tune-up was fiddled with by the mechanic's equivalent of a ham-and-egg preliminary fighter.

The big difference is that nobody pays $25 to watch that borderline wrench jockey at work.

Anyway, if you're at a professional fight and two of these guys climb into the ring and begin to swing at one another with all the easy grace of a pair of three-toed sloths in a savage snit, you can find other things to do.

At Cobo Hall last Thursday night where promoters assembled 10 fighters to flank Thomas Hearns like pilot fish around a shark, you could have wandered up the aisle while Dave McCann and Jimmy Robertson took turns splashing one another's blood and sweat on the upturned faces of the ringside crowd.

At the top of the aisle you'd find 16-ounce containers of beer tagged at $2.25 each. Probably you'd turn around and head back down the aisle.

YOU COULD have sat and watched Ron LeFlore when you got there, sitting in the press section five feet from the edge of the canvas with a Spanish-looking date.

Later on, you could have watched Irene Goodwin, Mickey Goodwin's mother, film his entire 10-round fight from a neutral corner using a Keystone 8-mm movie camera and another son, who passed her new film cartridges, always clutched two used cartridges in his hand and screamed sometimes contradictory advice.

"Be strong, Mickey. Hook 'em. Stick and move. The White Shadow, Mickey, The White Shadow — he can't hit what he can't see. Get him with the right hand," the brother screamed, tucking the film cartridges in a small duffel bag.

Between rounds he ran over and got Ron LeFlore's autograph.

From a television station were cameramen and personalities who listened when some guy also at ringside promised them Goodwin needed a knockout to win — he took a unanimous decision — before they turned on the lights and took film of Goodwin's brother.

In the third round of the Goodwin fight, a beautiful blonde woman across the ring in the photographer's section was wincing every time Goodwin looked like he was hit, including the times when he really wasn't.

Every swing from his opponent caused a frown to cross her face, and her hands repeated these movements: Up to run down the long, blonde hair framing her face, then down to clutch a gold medal hanging against the front of her jet-black blouse.

ONCE GOODWIN sprawled awkwardly against the ropes, his butt sticking out between them, looking like he was going to join the blood and sweat falling in the upturned faces below him and the woman just . . . sat down. Fifteen photographers swarmed into the space she'd vacated, and the sound of their frantic motordrive cameras was like a fast-time slide show.

She sat there and wrung her hands in frustration.

After the fight, in Goodwin's training room, the press crowded him and asked him questions. The decision in his favor was an unpopular one with the crowd. Hometown or not, they booed him — his jaw dropped in surprise at the sounds.

In the crowded, steamy room, Goodwin soaked a broken hand in a plastic bucket of water and ice, so cold it smoked. He drank from a water bottle he filled by lowering it in the bucket. His trainer blamed the crowd's jeers on racial prejudice.

Two seats down from Mickey sat his mother — next to him, ignored but willing to wait, was the beautiful blonde.

And you wondered why sane men turn to this sport.

Daniel's Den

By Emory Daniels

Fun is in the search, not the find

I returned from vacation with few fish tales to tell but a lot of explaining to do.

It was a good week of fishing — in fact, in volume it was the best year in a number of annual excursions to the UP. But there was no string of large ones to boast of, and only one big one that got away.

Yet I still had a lot of explaining to do to my staff, which was somehow laboring under the impression that an angler who had gone walleye fishing actually would catch walleye.

So I had to set them straight that catching fish does not automatically result from going fishing. Furthermore, one does not always expect to catch what one is fishing for.

And that's the way it is with me for walleye fishing. I go in quest of the walleye each year, but never really expect to catch many. Even if I land don't land any, the trip still is worthwhile. It's the search I enjoy, not particularly the actual catch. This year I happened to land two but still would have enjoyed the week with less.

A writer is a novelist even when he's not working on a novel, and a person is a walleye fisherman even when he's not catching walleyes.

But I'm still getting sideways glances from the staff so I'm not sure that argument is very convincing.

WHILE UP NORTH, though, I did not spend all my time in the boat.

One day, when dark clouds threatened rain, I took a drive with the family over to Germfask, which is east of Manistique and a bit north of the famed but defunct Blaney Resort, just about a mile south of the Seeney wildlife preserve.

We took the trip to make an unexpected call on Art and Barbara Leffler, former Plymouth residents who moved their family to Germfast about a year ago.

They are operating a small grocery store, with gasoline pumps in front, in the heart of Germfask — a very small town compared to those around us, but a thriving little community by UP standards.

There are two restaurants and a bar in town, and one other gasoline station. The general store was closed, but there were a couple of small stores open. A quick drive through the town tells you Germfask has some importance because it has its own post office.

Art was busy in the store, so after a short reunion, Barbara invited us into her home (located next to the store) for coffee and some banana bread.

My son Lyle soon settled down in the living room to watch whatever program was on the only TV channel Germfast receives (his first program all week). Daughter Bridgette fast became acquainted with Carol Leffler and the two soon were on a tour of downtown Germfask.

I was interested in talking with Barb to find out how she liked living in a small UP town, fairly deserted, after so many years in the Plymouth community.

One thing which made her transition easier is the town spirit in Germfask. Parents there are very interested in the welfare of their children and are involved with Scouting, 4-H, athletic programs and the schools.

Softball is very big in that area. The Sunday before we stopped by, Germfask played host to an area championship game — a highlight of the year for residents.

There was a lot of snow last winter, which was harsh, but school was cancelled for only two or three days. The main roads are kept clear and bus drivers, and other drivers, are used to it.

Distance, of course, is one of the biggest factors the Lefflers had to adjust to. There is a small elementary school in Germfast but junior high and high school students attend school in Manistique — about 70 miles away.

The bus route isn't a straight line, as students in other hamlets must be picked up enroute to Mainstique and so the daily ride to school consumes 90 minutes one way.

But the Lefflers love it up there, and I'm glad they do. Everyone, at least once in a lifetime, should find a pot of gold at the end of the rainbow. And for the Lefflers, their rainbow seems to have ended in Germfask.

They say hello to all their friends in Plymouth-Canton and hope to see at least a few on their next trip back to these parts.

Yes, it's always nice to come across a rainbow on a day too rainy to fish.

Jeans no longer standard brand

By RUSTLE SHAND

Did you ever stop to think that we are branding our backsides with blue jean labels in much the same way cattle are branded by the ranchers?

Can't you just imagine Levi Strauss chuckling and rubbing his hands in glee. "You belong to me," he's probably saying of the millions of Americans who wear the "Levi's" brand on their right hind quarter.

Or Sasson, who has the trendy teens set buffaloed into believing any brand other than this is dumb and shows lack of imagination and flair.

The epitome of good breeeding in the land of brands comes with the new Yves Saint Laurent brand which is equally de rigueur worn with or without a shirt. Mother always said, "good breeding will out." Don't you wonder if she would go so far as to flash it on her hip?

The coup de grace of blue jeans, however, has just been introduced by none other than America's darling from Indiana, Bill Blass. Designed especially for the modern, young American woman who wants to update her jeans wardrobe, the bold "Bill Blass" signature splashed across the rear pocket tells the world she has entered a new sophisticated stage in life.

The new sophisticate has probably given up Calvin Klein on her derriere in favor of Bill Blass bcause Calvin's name now adorns jeans for the toddler set and she feels they are beneath her.

Branding, of course, reached an all time high, or low - depending on how you view it - with the advent of "Calvin Klein" stamped not only on jeans for the grown-ups but for the two year old toddler as well. Good cattlemen know you never brand the little calves.

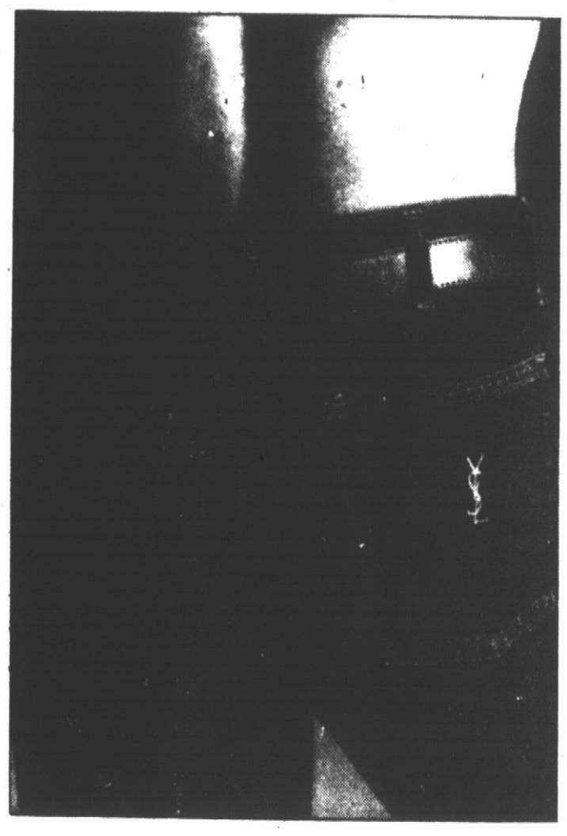

As if all of this identification with the wild west were not enough, America's teens are honing up for a western venture in make-believe cowboy hats and shirts to go along wwith their Ralph Lauren and Calvin Klein jeans.

Kids who didn't dare wear anything but jock shoes are growing up to western-look boots and cowhide string ties to wear for prancing around shopping malls and clomping through hallowed school halls this fall.

And it's all because Ralph Lauren, who grew up in the heart of New York City, dreamed of being a cowboy while he doted on western movies as a youngster — or so he says. He is the designer who went western all the way with his spring line and started the stampede.

Even Italian designer Andre Laug who has always maintained a women should be feminine and above all sexy in her dress has done a western cowboy suit for milady of the world to wear.

The real test always comes when it's later than you think. In the end, in that final roundup in the sky, will you be stamped "USDA choice," or "USDA prime," or just plain old "hamburger?" Will it matter whether your backside was branded "Levi's", "YSL" or "Bill Blass?" Probably not.

Sludge is back

the company's engineering consultants had identified the Canton site as the best in the metropolitan area for the composting of sludge. The decision was based on the parcel's high clay table, appropriate industrial zoning and easy access to Detroit.

Last Thursday, however, Shaw said this firm is equally considering all nine sites.

He admitted that Detroit-owned DeHoCo property on the north and south sides of Five Mile in Plymouth and Northville townships are among parcels that his firm is considering. Shaw would not disclose the locations of the other sites.

He said no work has been done to formulate a site plan for the DeHoCo property. Detroit Mayor Coleman Young and the Detroit City Council would have to approve use of the land for a composting operation before the proposal could be broached to either Plymouth or Northville townships.

AT LEAST ONE member of the Detroit City Council is lobbying for termination of Bi-Product's contract with Detroit, however.

Councilman Jack Kelley said the city's legal department is researching the possibility of terminating the firm's three-year contract with Detroit on grounds that Bi-Products has not met terms of the agreement.

New buses requested

fleet size of 88 buses, Hoedel explained, it will then trade-in four buses.

Those four trade-in vehicles have been used for more than nine years and have more than 100,000 miles on them, he said.

Hoedel noted that the cost of buying the seven buses will be reimbursed to the district over a seven-year period from state aid.

Personnel director hired by board

A full-time personnel director has been hired by Canton Township following the refusal of another man to accept the new position last May.

Charles Deno Syrios, assistant personnel director of Redford Township, had refused the Canton post on grounds that the job would involve "glorified paper-shuffler activity." He advised the township board to hire a file clerk instead.

But Larry Bowerman, chairman of the Canton merit commission, said Daniel Durack, 32, of Dearborn, is expected to begin performing personnel functions for the township sometime next month.

Durack currently works as a personnel technician for the city of Dearborn.

BOWERMAN SAID the merit commission slightly changed the personnel director's job description following the refusal of Syrios to accept the job. The salary was also increased from approximately $19,000 to $22,800 a year.

The original job description called for a personnel director who would deal with employees' problems, handle fringe benefit matters, write job descriptions and assist in the hiring process.

The new description calls for a director who will also assist in contract negotiations. All non-management personnel in Canton Township are unionized.

Syrios had been recommended for the job by the merit commission and tapped for hiring by the township board. He subsequently refused the post because of "differing philosophies on the role of the personnel manager."

Syrios said the personnel job should cover contract negotiations and other matters, such as time and absenteeism studies.

Bowerman said Durack was the merit commission's top choice for the personnel director post after a second round of interviews was completed. The job was readvertised after Syrios turned down the job offer.

A merit commission ordinance which voters approved a year ago calls for creation of the personnel director position. According to Bowerman, a debate over the part- or full-time status of the job stalled actual creation of the position.

Durack holds bachelor degrees in both business administration and psychology as well as a master's degree in personnel and industrial relations.

Workship will explore turning points

"New Directions," a four-part series designed particularly for adults who are at a turning point in their lives, will be offered during September and October at the University of Michigan-Dearborn.

Areas of common concern to adults who are returning to college or work, or who are thinking of changing careers will be the focus of the workshop series sponsored by the University of Michigan-Dearborn's counseling center and women's programs.

Gail Berkove will lead the four, 90-minute workshops Sept. 18 and 25 and Oct. 2 and 9. A psychologist in prive practice, Ms. Berkove has counseled returning students as part of UM-D's women's programs.

The workshops offered from 10-11:30 a.m. or noon to 1:30 p.m. will explore several different areas, including the decision to change, managing time demands and multiple responsibilities, family reactions, and self esteem.

There is a $32 fee, and registration information is available from UM-D's counseling center at 593-5430.

LEVI'S CORDS FOR EVERY MAN IN THE HOUSE

ZEB DOES IT AGAIN

SAGEBRUSH, MI (UIP) — In his 157 years, Zebediah Groggs, popularly known as Sagebrush Zeb, has been a lumberjack, gold miner, cowboy, raconteur, phantom jet pilot, and haberdasher to name a few. He has now added one more to that long list of amazing feats. By having this unique sale of quality Levi's cords for all ages of man at one time, Mr. Groggs has ended the era of hand-me-downs. Now everyone can have brand new quality goods made by Levi Strauss and Company. Nobody has to wait til the next one up grows out of his jeans. This feat is recognized as unique in the field of haberdashery and fashion.

This is not the first time Mr. Groggs has been known as a hero. Besides his days as a phantom jet pilot, the Sagebrush Zeb nickname itself marks an act of heroism. Back in 1868 when a feckless hunter caused a buffalo herd to stampede, Zeb seized a sprig of sagebrush and charged into the herd in such a fearsome manner that the herd was frightened off. From that day hence, he has been known as Sagebrush Zeb. And he has been known as a hero.

Greenmead to hold restoration seminar

By MARGARET MILLER

The dedicated volunteers who are slowly bringing a restored village to Greenmead, Livonia's historical area, now are getting ready a seminar so they and others can learn a bit more about how it is done.

A Greenmead Restoration Seminar is scheduled 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 15, in the historic Newburg Church, now waiting at the historical site at Eight Mile and Newburgh Road to become part of the envisioned village there.

The restoration committee of the Livonia Historical Commission is sponsoring the seminar, described by chairman Robert Seymour as "a chance to get some accurate information on how to go about restoration projects."

Six workshops, a picnic lunch, a chance to tour Greenmead's Hill House Museum and plenty of informational exchange will mark the seminar.

"It's going to be a full day," said Seymour.

A $20 fee cover's the day's activities, including the lunch and morning and afternoon refreshments, and space is being limited to 100 persons. Those interested are asked to register by Sept. 7 by calling the Historical commission office at Greenmead, 477-7375, or the Livonia municipal offices, 421-2000.

THE SEMINAR is not aimed at fund raising, much as the restoration project needs funds, said Seymour, a Livonia architect who has been closely involved in the preservation of his home city's historical buildings for several years.
the chance to pick up information on restoration techniques.

"We wanted to start on a limited scale and see how this kind of a program goes," he added. "Hopefully it will be an annual thing, because there is no question that there is a great need for the kind of information we will have.

"A major purpose is making people aware of our existence here. And, of course, we want our volunteers to have

The class sessions will begin at 9:30 a.m. following registration, coffee and a welcoming.

Old Newburg church, currently minus the steeple shown here as it waits for restoration at Greenmead, will be the site for the seminar.

10 reasons why no other rustproofer, including your car dealer, can duplicate the exclusive Ziebart System

Reason No. 3:
PATENTED SPRAY TOOLS

Exclusive spray tools specially developed and patented by Ziebart reach hidden or boxed-in surfaces that need rust protection.
No car dealer or other rustproofer in the world has these patented spray tools...each one scientifically designed to reach a particular area where rust can start. In the hands of your trained Ziebart specialist, these tools are a vital part of the difference between the Ziebart System and other rustproofers. For your new car, this difference means longer life, increased trade-in value.

*The United States Auto Club (USAC) granted the Ziebart System its seal of approval after supervising tests and inspections that certified the performance of Ziebart applied, patented spray tools, training, application and technical procedures.

Rock senior gridders lead

Experienced Salem on schedule

Phil Anderson (left) takes a handoff from Salem quarterback Jim Anderson during a recent practice. The two Andersons should form a powerful backfield this season. The two players are seniors. (Staff photo by Gary Caskey)

By BRAD EMONS

What is the difference between last year's Plymouth Salem football team and this year's?

Experience.

When pre-season practice started at this time a year ago, coach Tom Moshimer had only one starter returning — Rich Hewlett, now contending for a first-string quarterback spot at Michigan.

This year, Moshimer, now in his 13th year in Plymouth, has 10 quality performers back — and they play both offense and defense.

"I try to go with the best athletes," said Moshimer. "I really don't believe in two-platooning in high school. We try to work with everybody we have and let them work their way into the lineup."

There is no doubt the Rocks will be a competitive team.

"The junior class we had last year really matured fast," said Moshimer. "These same kids are seniors now. They came to camp prepared and dedicated themselves. I'm really pleased with the attitude of the whole team."

The Salem wishbone offense will have senior Jim Anderson (6-2, 205 pounds) calling the signals. He will play a safety positions as well on defense.

"As a junior Jim was good enough to start," said the Salem coach, "but we had such a great athlete in Richard. I think Jim is going to be good.

THREE PLAYERS are battling for a spot behind Anderson — junior Joe Garcia and sophomores Kirk Soluk and Jeff Hubert. The Salem backfield is sound with halfback Craig Stack, an All-Suburban Eight choice; senior fullback Phil Anderson (no relation), also a linebacker on defense; and Julian Martinez, a senior halfback and cornerback.

"I think we have the ideal backfield," Moshimer said. "We have some quickness and strength."

Anderson will get the short, tough yardage. He's 6-3, 205 pounds. Behind him will be sophomore Darrell Bartkowiak and junior Rob Hanschu.

Behind Stack, who gained nearly 800 yards last year, and Martinez, are three juniors — Otto Luttmann, Dave Skone and Brian Lewandowski.

The interior line is probably Salem's biggest strength.

Senior center Jeff Powers (6-1, 205 pounds), an all-league guard last year, has been shifted to a new position. He will be joined by another all-leaguer, senior tackle Scott Piper. Guard Bob LaVeck returns as does Stan Snider (6-3, 210 pounds), both seniors. The other starter at tackle should be senior Marty Rapson.

"I feel our backs are good blockers and our people up front are solid," said Moshimer.

"We'll be a run-oriented team and we'll throw more than we have. We'll put the ball up if necessary but I'm not going to pass for the sake of passing if we're moving the ball on the ground up and down the field."

ON DEFENSE, Powers will start at linebacker, LaVeck, defensive end; Piper, tackle; Snider, tackle; Jeff Spencer, end; and senior Ken Czapla, nose guard.

Seniors Spencer and Ron Schultz will man the offensive end posts.

"My biggest concern is the receivers," Moshimer said. "We need work in that area."

Reserves on the interior offensive line include sophomore Marty Piper, juniors , Steve Szilagyi and Greg Staron along with senior Todd Raymer. Junior Mark Kitz, and seniors Ken Holtan and Chris McEvoy should see some action at the end positions.

Penders and Szilagyi also can both

Improved Chief girls seek tennis victories

By SCOTT ADLER

Plymouth Canton girls' tennis coach Cindi Burnstein is highly optimistic about the upcoming fall season stating "this is by far the strongest team in Canton history."

"The team looks really good," said Burnstein. "The kids have played quite a bit over the winter and have really improved. We also have some good freshman this year."

Canton had a 2-10 record last year.

Three of the top freshman prospects named by Burnstein are Cheryl Smith, Lisa Schultz (sister of former Salem varsity tennis standout Kurt Schultz) and Kris Harrison.

The team's youth will be a big asset according to Burnstein.

"We're still very young," she said. "These upcoming girls are getting better every day and that will help us in the long run because of the stiff competition on the varsity level."

Burnstein said this is the first time in six years that she has been able to work with some depth.

"We have had individual players of this caliber in the past, but we have never had so many good players on the same team at the same time."

With the loss of only two players from last season, Burnstein thinks that a team such as Farmington Harrison, a perennial league force, will not be as tough this year in the Western Six League.

WITH EIGHT returnees, Canton may also be able to overtake another league powerhouse, Northville.

Burnstein credits much of the Canton improvement to not only dedicated players, but the switch of geographic enrollment to random selection of students feeding out of the middle schools in the Plymouth-Canton school district.

"Our program has never been real competitive, especially in the league. But we've gotten two girls just this year that will help tremendously, thanks to random selection," Burnstein said.

Returning lettermen include seniors Kathy Kidston, Pam Schipani and Claudia Williams. Juniors who will try to help improve on last year's fifth place finish include Barb Rupprecht and Eileen McGlinn along with 1978 most improved player, sophomore Laurie Smith.

Carol Michaels has been named as the assistant coach to Burnstein this year at Canton. This is a welcome addition according to Burnstein.

"Tennis is an individual sport and you need individual coaching, so another coach is very welcome," said Burnstein.

Michaels will teach this fall in the physical education department at Salem. She is an accomplished tennis and squash player.

Gilles sisters rule state

The Gilles sisters of Plymouth made it a family affair at the Michigan State Closed Tennis Championships last week at Stowe Stadium in Kalamazoo.

Christine Gilles captured the girls 12 and under crown by beating sister Wendy, 6-2, 6-1.

The sisters were also involved in the doubles final.

Chris and Kelly Davidson of Farmington Hills defeated Wendy and Katie Ashare of Grosse Pointe Woods, 4-6, 6-1, 6-2 in the championship final.

Chris, the No. 1 seed for the tourney, whipped through four opponents enroute to the title. She defeated Lisa McMullen of Utica in the first round, 6-1, 6-0; Danielle Durik of Sterling Heights, 6-4, 6-1; Julie Ashare of Grosse Pointe Woods, 6-1, 6-1.

Wendy, the No. 4 seed, won her first round on a default against Noel Berry of Grosse Pointe Farms and then beat Jennifer Block of Kalamazoo, 6-0, 6-0; Ruby Olegario of Ann Arbor, 6-0, 6-2; and upset Davidson in the semifinals, 6-4, 6-4.

Davidson was the No. 4 seed.

Golf course offers challenge

By DOUG FUNKE

Chances are good that golfers in the Observer & Eccentric Golf Tournaments will have the opportunity to use every club in their bag during their rounds over Whispering Willows Municipal Golf Course in Livonia.

The women will battle for honors in an 18-hole tournament Sept. 11, with the men following in a 36-hole test Sept. 15-16.

Amateur golfers who reside in the Observer & Eccentric circulation area may enter. Entry fee is $25 for men, $10 for women. Golfers may register by mail with the coupon found in most editions of the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers.

Entry blanks are also available at the course, which is on Newburgh Road just south of Eight Mile Road.

Whispering Willows plays 6,265 yards for men and 5,772 yards for women. Par is 71 for both.

There are sand traps on each hole and water comes into play on five of the 18 holes. The course places a premium on accuracy rather than long-distance hitting.

The longest hole for men is 485 yards, for women 455. The shortest hole is 125 yards for both.

Following is a hole-by-hole description of what players will have to contend with come next month.

FIRST HOLE: Men - 460 yards, par 5; Women - 430 yards, par 5. A confidence builder, this hole features wide open spaces and very little trouble from tee to green.

Better players should make birdie here. There is a trap on the right edge of the fairway 150 yards from the green and a large trap at the right back part of the green. Other than that, smooth sailing.

SECOND HOLE: Men - 337 yards, par 4; Women - 305 yards, par 4. Unless one is a straight hitter, there is plenty of potential for big trouble both left and right of a narrow fairway. What form does that trouble take? Dense woods.

It may be wise to use an iron off the tee for better control and accuracy.

There is a trap to the left of the putting surface to snare errant second shots, if one is fortunate to have a decent shot after the drive.

THIRD HOLE: Men - 311 yards, par 4; Women - 304 yards, par 4. A severe dogleg left, there is quite a bit of room across the fairway for which to aim from the tee. It's important to stay in the middle or to the right of the middle on the drive.

Whispering Willows offers challenge

Woods lurk on the left and could leave one in a bind if the ball is on the left side of the fairway with a drive.

A drain, two to three feet wide, runs across the fairway about 30 yards from the tee. A trap guards the green.

FOURTH HOLE: Men - 305 yards, par 4; Women - 300 yards, par 4. Slight dogleg right, the fairway is pretty much wide open both left and right. No trouble spots until the green, which is surrounded by three traps. However, the traps aren't all that close to the green. A fairly easy test.

FIFTH HOLE: Men - 360 yards, par 4; Women - 320 yards, par 4. This is a straight hole with a wide target area. There are traps both left and right of the fairway about 150 yards from the green. The green is protected by three traps.

SIXTH HOLE: Men - 217 yards, par 3; Women - 195 yards, par 3. A drainage ditch runs along the left side of the fairway the length of the hole. Tall, dense trees have to be avoided on the right. A trap lies to the right of the green.

A good-size section of the fairway along the drainage ditch has been seeded recently and could present problems for the unlucky golfer who hits in that area.

SEVENTH HOLE: Men - 485 yards, par 5; Women - 455 yards, par 5. The number one handicap hole on the course is highlighted by trees bordering the right side of the fairway about the first 150 yards from the tee.

Two large traps sit off to the left of the fairway about 225 yards from the tee to stymie those who aim that way to avoid the trees on the right.

A drainage ditch goes the length of the hole just inside the fence down the left side. Three traps protect the green.

EIGHTH HOLE: Men - 170 yards, par 3; Women - 155 yards, par 3. A good, fair par three, the green is well-trapped and the hole is not excessively long. The putting surface has many undulations, so putting could be a problem depending on pin placement.

NINTH HOLE: Men - 400 yards, par 4; Women - 330 yards, par 4. A good driving hole, the only real problem area is the fence that runs along the left side of the fairway. There is plenty of room for error on the right. The route to the green is fairly straight and the green is guarded by three traps.

TENTH HOLE: Men - 475 yards, par 5; Women - 450 yards, par 5. Very similar to the first hole, the 10th gets one started on the back nine with a good chance for a par, birdie with a little luck.

The fairway is wide open, but the green is fairly small. Traps lie even with the putting surface both to the right and left and another is to the right in front of the green.

ELEVENTH HOLE: Men - 390 yards, par 4; Women - 350 yards, par 4. This is the prettiest hole on the course and the second most difficult. Almost a mirror of the second, trees line both side of the fairway, so an accurate tee shot is essential.

A pond crosses the entire fairway about 30 yards in front of the green. A poor drive, therefore, will leave a player vulnerable to the water on the second shot.

There is only one trap near the green to the upper right, but after negotiating the woods and water, thank heavens for small favors.

TWELFTH HOLE: Men - 435 yards, par 4; Women - 390 yards, par 4. Dogleg left, there is plenty of room for stray shots until one comes to the green. A large trap blocks the entire left front of the putting surface.

There is a trap about 170 yards from the green on the right side of the fairway, but it really shouldn't present much of a problem.

THIRTEENTH HOLE: Men - 336 yards, par 4; Women - 320 yards, par 4. A severe dogleg left (almost a 90 degree turn) awaits golfers here. Contestants may choose to play far left in an effort to shave some distance by avoiding the fairway and the dogleg.

However, even though there would be few trees to deal with in the left rough, a poor lie could leave players vulnerable to parallel traps on each side of the fairway approximately 80 yards from the green.

The green, with several swirls, is one of the most difficult on the course.

FOURTEENTH HOLE: Men - 205 yards, par 3; Women - 138 yards, par 3. A challenging short hole, the 14th places a premium on an accurate shot from the tee. There is very little room for error and a poorly played initial shot will almost certainly result in trouble.

The tee area is slightly elevated and the green is 40-50 feet higher than the tee. The route is uphill all the way.

There is a mound and woods to the right and woods to the left with a very small opening in between. Three traps surround the green.

FIFTEENTH HOLE: Men - 375 yards, par 4; Women - 330 yards, par 4. Those who had trouble keeping the ball straight on 14 will welcome this hole. A dogleg left, there are few trees to deal with and plenty of room across the fairway.

Parallel traps border the fairway about 130 yards from the green, which is guarded by a trap on the right side and the back left.

SIXTEENTH HOLE: Men - 125 yards, par 3; Women - 125 yards, par 3. A deceiving hole with a wide green and a wide fairway, many golfers will make the mistake of leaving their tee shots short.

A drainage ditch crosses the fairway halfway between the tee and green. Traps guard the entire back side of the putting surface.

Windy or wet conditions could make club selection difficult.

SEVENTEENTH HOLE: Men - 360 yards, par 4; Women - 340 yards, par 4. The fairway looks like an inverted S from tee to green. Good distance is needed on the tee shot to avoid a terrible side-hill lie for the second whack. A trap lurks on the right side of the fairway about 135 yards from the green and three traps guard the green.

EIGHTEENTH HOLE: Men - 380 yards, par 4; Women - 335 yards, par 4. A good finishing test, the straight fairway gradually funnels from tee to green.

A drainage ditch must be cleared approximately 125 yards from the green. Water also could present a problem to the far right side of the fairway 150-125 yards from the green.

One trap sits to the left just before one reaches the green, another lies to the right side even with the putting surface and still another is to the left side.

S & M Management captures Class C crown

S & M Management closed out its season Tuesday night by capturing the Canton Township Parks and Recreation men's class C slow-pitch softball playoff championship.

S&M eliminated the last team in the tournament, Century 21, 8-1.

Under the leadership of coach John Woznik, S&M finished the regular season as First Division champs with a 12-3 record.

Century 21, second to S & M during the regular campaign with a -5 mark, never really got untracked tbe final game as errors opened the gates.

Base hits by Bradley Topp, Carl Roushkolb and Dean Munger produced three runs in the first inning for the winners. S&M never relinquished the lead after that.

S&M collected 14 hits in the final triumph as Topp and Munger each had two.

S&M opened the tourney (Aug. 12) with a 9-1 victory over Star Stop Party Store. In other first round games, Superbowl edged Cambridge Furniture, 8-7; Roman Forum beat Meijers, 19-14; and Century 21 toppled Canton Bowling & Trophy, 18-14.

In the second round, winner's bracket, S&M defeated Superbowl, 13-7, while Century 21 downed Roman Forum, 14-13. Roman Forum was the Second Division champion.

Moose aims for title

A team representing the Plymouth Moose Lodge will compete for the first time ever in the State Moose Softball Tournment to be held Labor Day weekend in Ann Arbor.

Plymouth Moose will tangle with Ann Arbor No. 3 at a.m., Saturday Sept. 1 at Veteran's Park in Ann Arbor. Some 24 teams will participate in the double elimination tourney.

The Plymouth Moose squad is comprised of players from Twilight Zone Disco contingent in the Garden City Class B League which won 20 straight games and a city title.

Players off Mickey's Back Door in the Canton Township Parks and Recreation Class A League will also participate.

Mickey's won the Class A title with a 18-2 regular season mark, not including a 5-0 stint in the playoffs. The two teams have a combinedf overall mark of 44-4.

WAYNE COUNTY ROAD COMMISSION NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

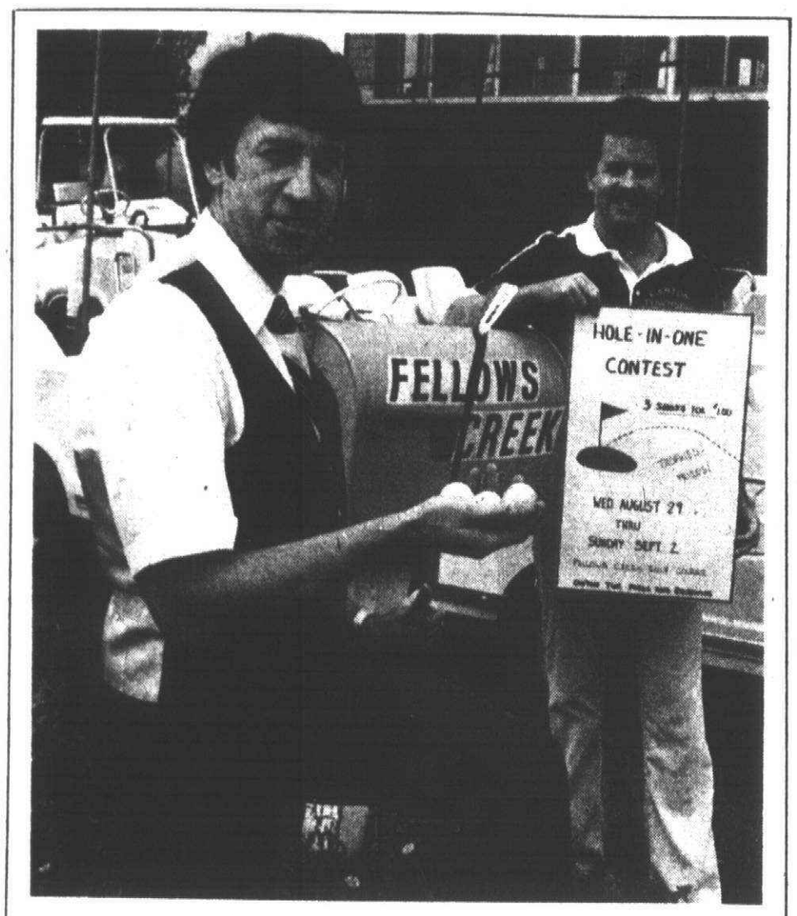

The Airport Zoning Commission, appointed to consider proposed amendments to the Airport Zoning Regulations for Detroit Metropolitan Wayne County Airport, pursuant to the Michigan Airport Zoning Act, Section 20, being MCLA 259.450, is ready to make a preliminary report to the Wayne County Board of Commissioners and has set Tuesday, September 11, 1979 at 7:30 p.m. at the Wayne County Intermediate School District Education Center, Room 232, located at 33500 Van Born Road, Wayne, Michigan, 48184, for the public hearing on the proposed amendments to the Wayne County Airport Zoning Regulations and this Commission's preliminary report thereon.

The entire text of the proposed amendments to the Airport Zoning Regulations for Detroit Metropolitan Wayne County Airport and the maps related thereto are available for examination and review at the Office of Robert Larson, Director of Transportation for the Board of County Road Commissioners for the County of Wayne, Michigan, 8th Floor, Neudeck Building, 415 Clifford, Detroit, Michigan 48226, and the office of Daniel J. Norton, Airport Manager, Detroit Metropolitan Wayne County Airport, Romulus, Michigan 48240. Upon request to either of the foregoing parties, a copy of the entire text will be furnished, provided name and address of the party requesting same is furnished at the time of the request.

All interested persons are invited to be present and to be heard as to their views thereon. Written statements will be accepted until September 26, 1979, and should be submitted to Mr. R.A. Larson at the above address.

Hole-In-One Contest

Mike Gouin, Canton Township Parks and Recreation Director (left) and assistant Bob Dates announce the first ever Hole-In-One Contest for area golfers, Aug. 29 to Sept. 2, at Fellows Creek Golf Course. Each player can hit three balls for $1 as many times as they like. Prizes will be awarded to the winners. For further information, call 397-100. (Staff photo by Gary Caskey)

Interior line makes Rocks solid play linebacker but will not start.

"I go with the most talented players and then look for replacements to spell them," said the Salem coach, who has accumulated a career mark of 108-58-6 in 21 years of coaching.

Other reserves who can fill in on defense include safeties Skone, Lewandowski and Hubert. McEvoy, Garcia and Luttman can play the cornerback spots.

STEVE GRASSELL, a senior will help out at the nose guard spot.

The kicking game will fall into the hands of senior Howard Monk, Phil Anderson and Lewandowski.

"All three are dependable," Moshimer added. "Monk will probably be kicking off with Anderson doing the punting."

Moshimer said he is concerned with depth.

"This should be an improved football team and the kids have expectations," he said, "but right now we're not deep."

One obstacle for the Rocks is the schedule.

Salem plays its first five games on the road. Tough road opponents include Livonia Franklin (Sept. 8), Utica Eisenhower (Sept. 28), and Trenton (Oct. 19).

"It's always nice to play at home because of the crowd," Moshimer said, "but I don't think there's a difference between winning and losing as to where you play.

"I think the schedule is tougher but I feel we have the experience to play our first five away."

Salem was originally scheduled to play Allen Park in its first home game on the fourth date of the season, but a millage defeat wiped out fall sports there. Utica Eisenhower replaced Allen Park on the schedule.

Salem rates as a favorite to contend in the Suburban Eight along with Edsel Ford and Trenton.

The Rocks open the season against Livonia Franklin on the road, Saturday Sept. 8 at 2 p.m.

Grand Valley holds league hot spot

Grand Valley State is a slight favorite to win its third straight Great Lakes Intercollegiate Athletic Conference (GLIAC) football title.

Last year Grand Valley became the first team to ever win two straight GLIAC crowns outright, and also the first club to successfully carry out the pre-season prediction of league coaches.

Grand Valley, coached by Jim Harkema, posted a perfect 5-0 conference record, and advanced to the semifinals of the NAIA Division II championships before losing to Elon College of North Carolina.

The annual GLIAC coaches' poll tabbed Grand Valley as a favorite for the 1979 title over last year's runner-up Wayne State University. Improved Ferris State was a solid pick for third place, followed by Hillsdale and Northwood tied for fourth, and Saginaw Valley State in sixth.

Grand Valley boasts 41 returning lettermen, including backfield regulars Dave Quinley (quarterback) and Kurt Johnson and Will Roach (tailbacks). Speedster Clint Nash heads an expereinced receiving unit, and All-American tackle candidate Ron Essink (225 pounds) anchors the line.

All-GLIAC linemen Hubert Massey (210) and Mark Szczytko (212) lead a defense which needs only patching at rover and safety.

Wayne State features size, experience and quite possibly the league's best running back. Dick Lowry's Tartars have 17 starters returning. The Tartar offensive line averages 244 pounds, and should provide plenty of holes for shifty tailback Randy Alexander who led all GLIAC rushers last year with 507 yards.

RIVAL COACHES figure Ferris State's quality returnees, and a good recruiting crop could make the Bulldogs title contenders. Nick Coso had an offense which led the GLIAC with 320.6 yards-per-game last year, and he welcomes back quarterback Bill Costner, fullback Jerome Metz, center Greg Rambo and tigth end Bob Karpowicz.

Hillsdale's Ron Lynch is rebuilding at his skilled positions, but retains team leader Mark McNitt at quarterback. Offensive guard Kevin Donnelly and safety Harold Stevens could challenge for league honors.

The Charger kicking game excels with veteran kicker Ted Pettibone, punter John Barrett, and return ace Nate Johnson.

Northwood's Jack Finn bows a return to his two-tight end, full-house ground attack which marched the Northmen to three GLIAC titles in the league's first four years. Finn has his entire offensive backfield returning, including power runners Tim Rhine (205) and halfbacks Don Bolles and Jayce Smith.

NOW I CAN STAND UP TO LIFE

I was suffering from lower back muscle spasms. Sometimes I was in such pain I simply couldn't function. Even worse was what several doctors described as an inner ear problem. They said that that was what was causing my poor hearing, ringing in my ears and most of all, my almost total lack of balance. I couldn't even do my housework!

But, these doctors could do little or nothing for me. I was turning into a hermit. I had read about Chiropractic care in the newspaper but was very skeptical about what it could do for me. Finally, a couple of my friends talked me into at least visiting Dr. Grassam's Chiropractic Life Center.

The first visit convinced me to go a second time. It was then that I noticed a definite change for the better.

My back felt better, the ringing stopped and I could hear more clearly. Best of all, my balance is back! I am experiencing a whole new sense of well-being and am steadily feeling better all the time.

I intend to follow through with proper diet and exercise, which is my responsibility in attaining the goal of natural health. Also, I subscribe to their mental attitude theory for feeling good.

Chiropractic really works. I am impressed with the number of people I see at the clinic and their general attitude of cheerfulness and friendliness. I like that very much.

It's Up To You To Make The Next Move!

A game of checkers takes a lot of thought and consideration as to which move to make next.

The decision you make may result in winning or losing the game.

Every day you have to make decisions. The wrong move may cause unhappiness to yourself or others.

These are the moves we all have to make for better living conditions, easier work, and fullest enjoyment of our lives.

These are the luxuries we all want and can have if we can afford the price.

But, the greatest luxury we can possess is good health.

In all the activities of life, in everything we do, health is an ever present consideration.

Yet few of us give any thought to the intricate functions of our bodily machinery, or do we realize the importance of the nervous system as a controlling factor.

Every part of your body depends upon the nervous system to produce the power and strength to function properly.

John Bozzo, 245 pound Redford Observer Editor, and Ed Bolinger, 255 pound Ad Rep are a couple of heavyweights we're proud to have on our team.

When it comes to keeping his community well informed or tackling special projects like our upcoming (don't miss it!) FOOTBALL FEVER '79 section,we're glad Bozzo is on our side. Fever includes stories and pictures of all area high school teams, the Big Ten, major independents and a word or two about the boys who work out at the Silverdome. Bolinger is a pro when it comes to improving the profit picture of Observer & Eccentric advertisers. He plans their advertising strategy and has coordinated (don't miss it!) FOOTBALL FEVER '79.

We think Bozzo and Bolinger make a great team.

We think FOOTBALL FEVER '79 will be a super section.

With less salt and sugar, life can be much healthier

Tipping the Scales

NANCY AUSTIN

More warnings were issued last week. This time the concern centers around the use of salt in our diets.

A study, requested by the FDA, showed that the amount of salt ingested daily in the average American diet is 10 to 12 grams a day — more than one-half of that contained in processed foods.

We've been told for years by medical experts that overuse of salt leads to hypertension in 10 to 30 percent of America's population.

SUGAR IS another culprit. Use of refined sugar has increased, despite warnings that too much of the stuff causes havoc with our health. I'll spare the details.

Cholesterol clogs arteries, veins, and eventually, if too much accumulates, it restricts the flow of blood which can cause either heart attack or stroke. Yet we continue eating too many eggs, dairy products, and organ foods.

Cancer experts agree that some types of cancer could be minimized by the correction of diet. Specifically, colon cancer is under intense research. Yet, we continue to eat foods highly processed which prohibit our organs from performing their natural functions, making them lazy.

I won't even get into smoking and lung cancer, asbestos, air pollution, chemical pollution, etc. That would take a few more volumes than I have space.

Yet, we roll merrily along as if disease can't happen to us. I wonder what it will take so that we (including myself) will see the light and change our path which is now headed toward self-destruction.

As a rule, I add very little salt to a meal when I am cooking. Seldom do I add at the table — or so I thought. Yet, a particular incident at home changed my thinking.

AS I WAS adding a pinch of salt to the water before adding the vegetable for cooking, my husband (after having seen the governments warning on salt) asked me to refrain from this cooking habit.

I complied. At the same time, I asked my daughter to remove the salt and pepper shaker from the table.

"Watch, Mom," she said. "Dad will ask for the salt as soon as he sits down. We'll have to remind him that he asked us not to use any more salt."

Sure enough. Fresh garden tomatoes on a plate next to him at dinner prompted the question, "Where's the salt?"

"We put it away, just like you told us." "WEll . . ." he said, ready to justify his request.

I interjected, "Just think that you can now eat those tomatoes without the salt and let the true taste of the fruit come through."

He hadn't thought of it in quite that way, but proceeded to enjoy their natural, unsalted flavor.

It has been nothing more than a habit.

SUGAR IS quite another story. This made me examine my own conscience. (I'm quite good at helping other people do this.) A close friend of mine, who eats no sugar and no bread products except whole grain, and eats a great variety of garden salads, was having a birthday.

It went against my grain to think this person was going to have a birthday without a birthday cake (full of refined sugar of course). Realizing it's tough to put a birthday candle in a salad, I took him a small zucchini bread, with a candle mounted in the middle.

"I know the cake isn't in your program," I told him. But after you've blown out your candle, just give the cake to your friends. They'll enjoy it. (Fortunately both his friends are quite slender.)

IS THE SUGAR habit harmful? It is in excess. It is when you push these foods in childhood where the taste for salt and sugar is nurtured. It is when you tell your children that too much salt and too much sugar are harmful to your health (with all due explanations and reasons then proceed to encourage eating and preparing foods containing the offending substances.)

Is this a nation of "Don't do as I do, do as I say?"

Faith lives in spite of vast change

By ALICIA GILLETTE

"The religious vocation belongs to that spiritual fullness which the spirit himself — the spirit of Christ — brings forth and molds in the people of God.

"Without religious orders, without 'consecrated' life, by means of the vows of chastity, poverty and obedience, the church would not be fully herself . . . . Your houses must be above all centers of prayer, meditation and dialogue — personal and of the whole community."

Pope John Paul II
Poland, 1979

So how goes it, in this world of ours? Is the person called to religious life — the priest, monk, brother or nun — still alive and well and praying the litanies?

Or, after all the turmoil following Vatican II in the 1960s, is the nun, for example, becoming an extinct species?

Vatican II was the worldwide Roman Catholic council which was called in 1962 by Pope John XXIII. Destined to have a profound effect on the church, the council was completed by Pope Paul VI in December 1965, after John's death.

The council, called to renew or update Roman Catholic religious life and doctrine, officially announced 16 documents. Topics included the nature of the church, sacred liturgy, the Bible, ecumenism, family life, social, economic and political problems, education, religious freedom, social communication, collegiality of bishops, religous life, the laity, and missionary activity.

Among the documents approved by the council was "The Decree on the Appropriate Renewal of the Religious Life," which gave directions for modernizing the religious life of monks, priests, brothers and nuns.

Ironically, it was this council of church renewal and the resultant changes which precipitated a backlash that rocked the church and all its members, both the laity and the religious.

With change came confusion followed by turmoil. In convents, rectories and monasteries all over the world, many religious people left their orders. New applicants dwindled to negligible numbers.

That was the late 1960s.In the meantime, what has happened? How are the religious orders faring as the '70s come to a close?

Is anyone becoming a nun anymore? And, if so, what have religious orders done to make sure women continue to answer the call to religious life?

God provides, you might say. According to three orders of nuns, the Sisters of Charity of Cincinnati, the Sisters of the Immaculate Heart of Mary (IHM), and the Religious of the Sacred Heart (RSCJ), who teach in area parochial and independent schools as well as work in various social ministries, there is some value to that old proverb.

But God also helps those who help themselves. When all three orders suffered a drastic drop in young women entering their novitiates during the late 1960s and early '70s, they took time to do organizational and personal soul searching.

The number of sisters entering her order (novices) dropped by half after Vatican II, said Sister Lorraine, Secretary in the Generalate of the Sisters of Charity at Mount St. Joseph in Cincinnati. However, she spoke positively of the years of turmoil.

She explained that the Sisters of Charity declared a moratorium and temporarily stopped taking women in the early 1970s. Since then, things are "getting much better."

"We took time to reassess ourselves, our order and our formation program — everythng to do with our religious life," said Sister Lorraine, whose order teaches locally at Royal Oak's Shrine High School.

Prior to the church renewal, she noted, 60 women entered the order each year. An average of 40 more nuns made their final profession of vows annually. The "quiet years" were 1968-73, she said, followed by six years of slight increase in the numbers of women entering the order.

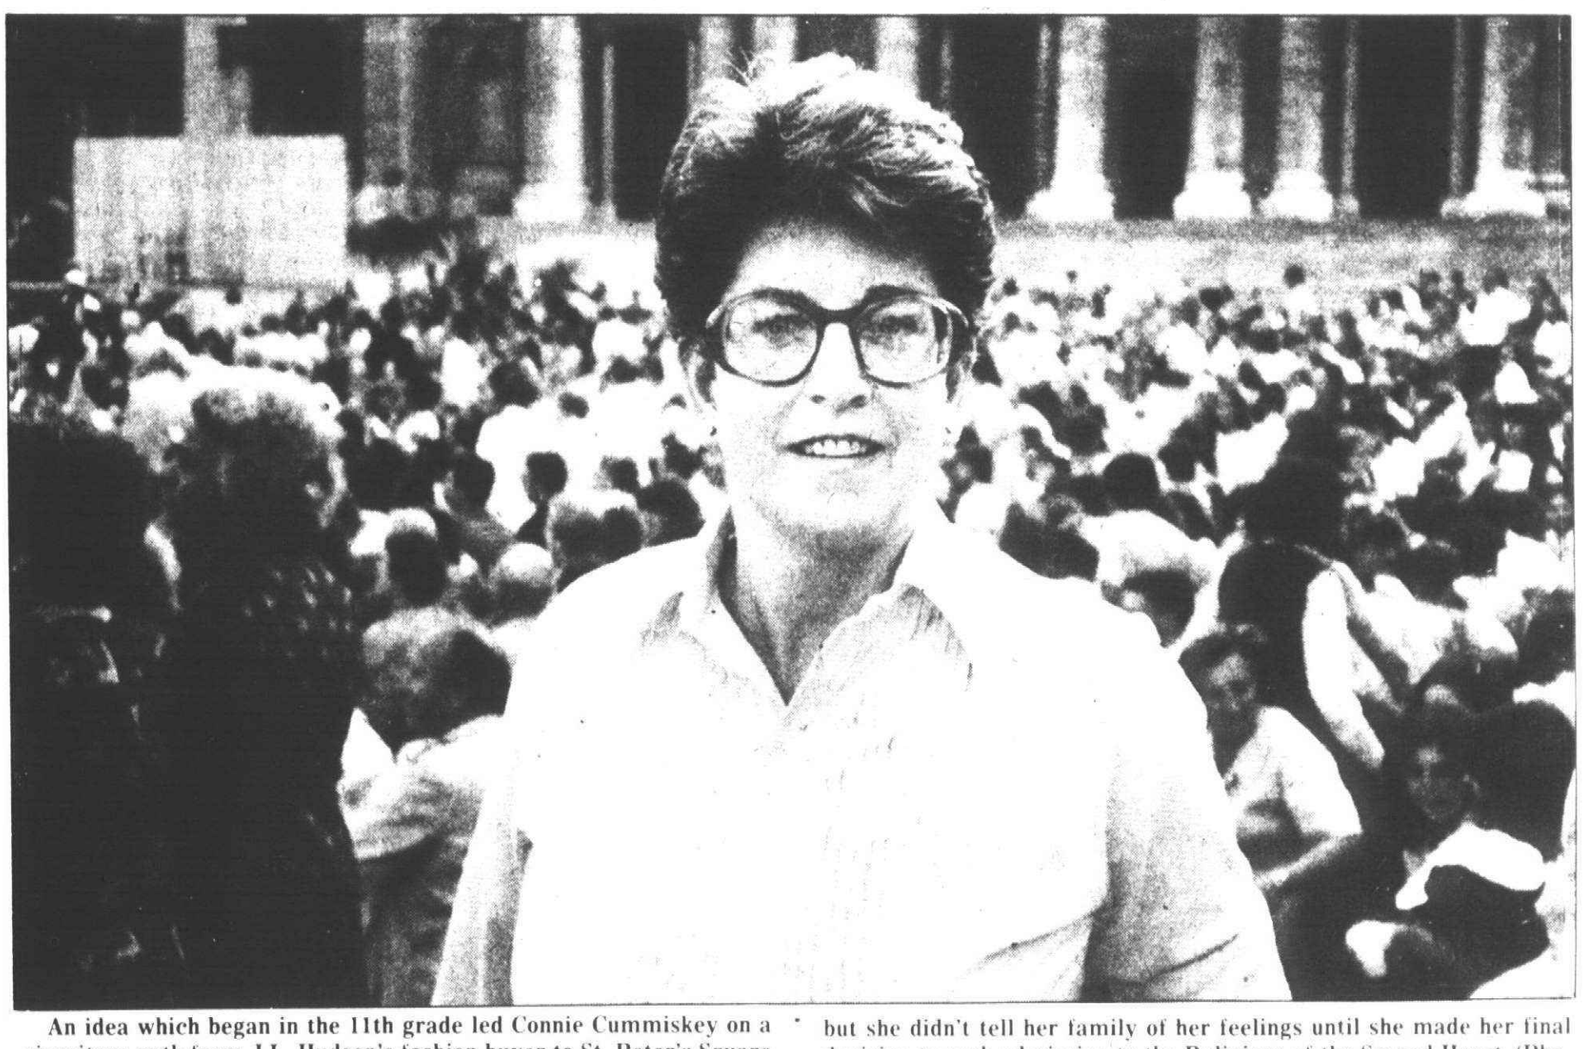

"We had at least two novices enter every year for the last six or seven years and this year we have five novices," she said.

According to Sister Lorraine, seven Sisters of Charity are expected to make final vows in 1979, and 16 "junior" sisters "could make it anytime."

The Sisters of the Immaculate Heart of Mary (IHM), who teach locally at Marian High School, Holy Name School and several other parochial schools in the metropolitan area, also reevaluated their order during a moratorium period. Like the Sisters of Charity, they are also noticing positive results.

"Since 1976 when we completed the study, we're seeing an increase in women who are interested," said Sister Mary Mercy, coordinator for personal growth and development at the

An idea which began in the 11th grade led Connie Cummiskey on a circuitous path from J.L. Hudson's fashion buyer to St. Peter's Square in Rome. Along the way she said she discussed her future with God, but she didn't tell her family of her feelings until she made her final decision to seek admission to the Religious of the Sacred Heart. Nun's story

You can't know it until you've experienced it

By ALICIA GILLETTE

"The two best things that have happened to Rome this year are Connie and Pope John Paul II."

The statement was made by the Rev. Thomas O'Connor, an Irish priest stationed in Rome, Italy. We met at a reception following the "Ceremony of Commitment," when my youngest sister Connie Cummiskey became a religious of the Society of the Sacred Heart of Jesus (RSCJ).

With me in Rome were my daughter, Mary, 21, my sister, Mimi Murphy, and her two children, Liz, 19, and Tom, 17, of Tucson, Ariz.

"My sister the sister is going to make her final vows as a Religious of the Sacred Heart nun," I told friends before leaving Birmingham.

As background let me explain that the RSCJ is the same religious order which operates the Academy of the Sacred Heart in Bloomfield Hills, one of more than 200 Sacred Heart schools and colleges the society has organized.

'Why, I wondered, should my sister be entering a vocation that seemed to be dying on the vine? What on earth was she doing entering a convent? What had happened to cause my funloving, spirited, career-girl sister to take leave of her senses?'

So much for the statistics, but they are necessary to the story of my sister the sister.

PICTURE IF YOU will a rather portly, 41-year-old version of "The Flying Nun" with horn rimmed specs. Delete the habit. Recostume her in a khaki wrap skirt and blue or red blouse. Mix the ingredients all together and you have my sister, Mary Constance Commiskey, RSCJ, delightful, humorous, crazy, reverent-yet-irreverent, bright and thoughtful.

When Connie was 4 years old, we, her older sisters, thought she was possessed by the devil. She had long platinum curls, endless energy, and a sophisticated set of lungs.

Today she would be considered precocious. In 1942 we classified her as a brat. Nevertheless, Connie managed to graduate from St. Hugo School in Bloomfield Hills and in 1957, the Academy of the Sacred Heart, then located on Lawrence Avenue in Detroit.

That's where it all began. The nun story, that is. Connie shared her thoughts with me in a room at the Villa Lante in Rome, Italy.

THE VILLA LANTE is a Sacred Heart house built in the 17th century. It is a former mother house and residence of Saint Madeleine Sophie Barat, who founded the Society of the Sacred Heart in 1800.

Today it is used as a residence for retired Italian religious as well as a day care and youth center for children of the Trastevere district of Rome. Villa Lante was also a temporary home for Connie and 16 other women from 10 countries who lived there during four months of intense study and reflection in preparation for their final profession of vows.

I found Connie in her room, packing. Clothes cascaded from suitcases, papers, books and assorted memorabilia were strewn on two cots, two small chests and three hard chairs. The scene was total chaos.

While we talked we were interrupted by visits from other nuns, meetings to wind up business, and incessant wailing and shouting from nearby Regina Coeli prison. The shouting drifted across the courtyard through screenless 18th century windows.

In this circus setting in Rome, I heard for the first time about my younger sister's vocation. Later she told me that being able to share her story with a member of the family was one of the special joys of her recent religious experience.

IN 1956 Connie was a high school student at Sacred Heart, commuting daily from Birmingham to Detroit.

"I thought I wanted to be a nun in the 11th grade, but I never said anything to anybody. During my senior year I felt the same way, but thought I should have more experience with life. Actually, I didn't think I could face living with all those women," she said with an easy, hearty laugh.

"I loved the society. One thing that attracted me to it was the fact that all the nuns were able to keep their own personalities. They were individuals who had love and concern for both students and alumnae. Although not spoken, it was very evident. Through their actions, love resounded.

"I was impressed because they were women of prayer but did not flaunt it. I thought I couldn't live with so many women, but if I ever did, I would enter the society (of the Sacred Heart)."

She said she conducted a running dialogue with God for years. "I said to God that I'd get a college degree first. And then when I decided to leave college after my sophomore year, I told God I needed work experience."

On and on they communicated while Connie left a retailing career at J.L. Hudson's in Detroit to work as a buyer of junior sportswear, coats and dresses at Woodward and Lothrup Department Store in Washington, D.C.

Finally, at age 26, she contacted the Provincial of the New York province of the Sacred Heart. But, for personal reasons as well as turmoil within the Catholic Church and religious orders, Connie delayed entering religious life until 1969. She was 31.

I remember receiving the news of her decision with surprise, disbelief, and a general lack of enthusiasm. My mother was in shock. Dad was apprehensive but supportive. My sister Mimi sent long distance love and approval.

Why, I wondered, should my sister be entering a vocation that seemed to be dying on the vine? What on earth was she doing entering the convent? Sisters were supposedly leaving

Families, friends, religious, Roman and foreign prelates, and members of the Society of the Sacred Heart gathered at Villa Lante in Rome to watch when Sister Connie and 16 other women spoke their promises "to follow Jesus Christ forever." Sister Connie will now study in Spain for the summer then return to the U.S. in the fall to continue her work in Boston.

Newcomers club will kick off its 22nd season

The Plymouth Newcomers Club will kick off its 22nd season Thursday, Sept. 6 when members meet for lunch in the Mayflower Meeting House. The hospitality hour will begin at 11:30 a.m. After dining on chicken crepes, Carole Townsend, vice president of the club, will introduce chairpersons of the club's interest groups.

Members can sign up for as many of these small-group activities as appeal to their interests. And there are groups for every taste.

There are: antique browsers, bicycling, book beat, bowling for women and couples, bridge, Christmas park decorating, crafts, golf, gourmet, greenery, holiday workshop, little tots, newsletter, pinochle (ladies and couples), reading (book exchange), yarn crafts and tennis.

ANY PERSON who is a newcomer to the city of Plymouth or Plymouth Township and has been a resident for less than two years is eligible for active membership in the club.

General meetings are the first Thursday of every month, September through June. These luncheon meetings are in various restaurants. The meetings are announced in the Observer Newspaper and a prospective member may attend any two Newcomers Club luncheons before being required to pay dues of $6.

Cathy Kirkpatrick, 459-7016, is reservations chairperson for the 1979-80 season. Deadline for the Sept. 6 meeting is Dec. 4. Cost of the luncheon is $5.50.

To encourage mothers of preschool children to join the club, a babysitting service is available. This season, Mary Michener is taking reservations for babysitting. Deadline for the first meeting is noon Sept. 4. Mrs. Michener's telephone number is 459-3064.

Hundreds of Plymouth women have formed lasting friendships through the Newcomers Club. Many continue their social contacts through membership in the Ex-Newcomers, formed by a group of women whose eligibility as newcomers has expired.

Mary O'Shaughnessy was elected president of the Plymouth Newcomers in June.

David and LoAnn Smith of Old Bridge in Canton Township announce the birth of their daughter, Jennifer Lee, Aug. 7 in Mercy Hospital, Toledo, Ohio. They have a son, Jeremy, 2.

Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Harlan Knoblauch of Blissfield.

Church budding career

and new novices continued to dwindle. What had happened to cause my fun-loving, spirited, career-girl sister to take leave of her senses?

It took much prayer and my Episcopalian husband's wise counsel to help me stifle my misgivings. He also had to buoy my mother through her apprehensions and send Connie off to the Albany, N.Y., novitiate in July 1969. As we parted she was reeling from one of the most gala soirees that ever sent any woman off to a nunnery.

Her new life held many revelations. However, it no longer included the long black habit or the cloisterd life of her mentors. Vatican II edicts had changed all that. But it did include a year as a postulant in the Sacred Heart Novicehip, followed by a canonical year and another year as the assistant to the academic dean at Newton College of the Sacred Heart near Boston.

In August 1972 she made her first promise. Final vows would come sometime within 10 years after those promises, according to the rules of the order.

She made her final vows in the chapel of the Villa Lante in Rome on May 31, where Connie and her spiritual sister had completed a required four-month probation period. In a chapel filled with family, friends, other religious, Roman and foreign prelates, and Sister Concepcion Camacho, the superior general of the Society of the Sacred Heart, we watched her promise "to follow Jesus Christ forever by living the vows of poverty, chastity and obedience in the Society of the Sacred Heart of Jesus which carries out in the church its mission of education to justice in faith."

THESE PROMISES, which are taken for life and may only be broken with special permission of the pope, followed years of preparation. Connie earned a bachelor's degree in economics at Newton College of the Sacred Heart, worked as the dean of high school students at the Carrollton Schools for Girls in Miami, Fla., and coordinated a CETA training program at the Casa del Sol Community Center in Boston.

She then requested and was accepted for the probation period in Rome, a time to prepare for her permanent commitment.

For four months, from January through May, Connie and 16 other religious from the United States, Korea, India, England, Ireland, Japan, the Philippines Canada and New Zealand completed an intense course of study and reflection designed to enhance their awareness of God, themselves and the Society of the Sacred Heart. Six of the women came from the United States.

"We can talk about the internationality of our order, but you can't know what it is until you've experienced it," said Connie during our hectic conversation. She spoke of the understanding she gleaned from the non-American sisters, their languages, cultural differences, even the ways of operating and funding their schools.

She described the probation period as "an intense four months, a profound experience' which produced a deepening of her faith in God, herself, the church and her order.

"I've experienced a deepening of self discipline in my prayer life," she said. "An inner freedom has come during the four months.

"When I made the decision to come to probation, I had decided that I wanted to become a Religious of the Sacred heart forever," she said without flinching. "I wanted to respond to God's call — to be free to live in a community that will support my efforts to show forth the love of God."

It's going to be so nice to have a nun around the house when she comes to visit in October between studies in Spain and her new stateside duties at the Sacred Heart Provincial House in Boston.

Avon Players slate tryouts

The Avon Players community theater will hold open tryouts for the musical "Fiddler on the Roof" on Monday and Tuesday at the group's playhouse, 1185 Washington Road, Avon Township.

Tryouts will begin both nights at 7:30 p.m. Parts are available for all ages, with singing roles for baritones, tenors, altos and sopranos. Four young male dancers are needed, one with a good tenor voice. Almost all members of the show's chorus will have speaking roles.

The first production in Avon Players' 1979-80 season, "Fiddler" will be presented Oct.18-21, 25-28 and Nov. 1-3. Director of the show is Mattie Wolf of Berkley. Assistant director is Winnie Stubenvoll of Rochester; producer is Ginny deSteiger, also of Rochester.

A youth theater production is scheduled for March 21-23.

'A devastating experience'

Paula Joyner on Mexican poverty

Paula Joyner cried all the way home on the plane from Tijuana.

"I was shocked, " she said later. "I have seen poverty before, but never like that."

Paula Joyner of Plymouth, along with 45 other United States Jaycettes, went to Tijuana, Mexico to see what Project Concern is attempting to do in impoverished areas. After making Project Concern one of their top priority national projects this year, Jaycettes from nearly every state met in Tijuana for a three-day workshop.

When she returned, Mrs. Joyner reported to the Plymouth Jaycettes on what she had seen. The club members agreed to boost their contribution to Project Concern by having a Walk for Mankind in the fall. The "mini-walk" will be chaired by Toni Jarmol.

SHE TOLD of seeing starving babies in a hospital — babies so weak that they cried without sound.

"It was a devastating experience," she said. "The children have no chance. In some places, they don't give a child a name until it is 7. If it lives to that age, it may survive.

"They have no water. When the water trucks deliver a load, it is already so contaminated that those who drink it get intestinal worms. Of course, there is no electricity. The work of Project Concern is fantastic. We were there when the new day clinic was opened. I'd love to go back in a year and see what was accomplished."

She said Project Concern does not give handouts; it attempts to educate the people.

Most of the women learn how they became pregnant after they visit a Project Concern pre-natal clinic.

THE TOWN dump is far from an ideal place to live, much less to rear children, but the women saw 47 families living in such conditions when they visited Pan Americano, Project Concern's an health care program site.

They also visited Project Concern's 3-year-old Flores Magon program which recently reached its goal of self-reliance. The community of Flores Magon now has a self-sustained health care program which receives only administrative assistance. The Project's Maternidad Infantil Hospital and Casa de Todos, a school for the poor, were included on the tour.

"There are so many things we take for granted," said Mrs. Joyner. She explained that the people have no concept of abstracts. Show them a picture of a fly, magnified several times, and they can not associate the picture with an actual house fly. Just to teach the mothers to boil water before giving it to their families is a big step.

"I WISH EVERYBODY I know could go there. It was a tremendous experience. We toured the canyon community where people scavenge their living from discarded aluminum and tin. Yet they told us this is nothing compared to Bolivia, Hong Kong and Guatemala."

Project Concern International is a nonprofit health care training and development organization. It is funded primarily by the Walk for Mankind, a nationwide walk which enlists walkers and sponsors to raise funds for health care programs at and abroad. It has programs in the United States, Mexico, Guatemala, Bolivia, Indonesia and Hong Kong.

"The project's work and funding does not all go out of the country," said Mrs. Joyner. "There are dental vans and clinics for the poor in the United States."

Paula Joyner joined 45 other Jaycettes in Tijuana, Mex., to see what Project Concern is doing in impoverished areas.

Gonthier-Upton

Carla Jean Upton wore her mother's chantilly lace wedding gown for her June 10 marriage to Gregory E. Gonthier in Geneva United Presbyterian Church, Canton Township. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Upton of Carol Avenue, Plymouth. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Gerald E. Gonthier of San bernadino, Calif.

The bride's gown of lace over satin had a four-foot train. It had been handmade by her grandmother. She wore a fingertip veil of silk illusion and carried a silk flowers bouquet of white yellow roses, lilies and stephanotis. Cindy Brown of Plymouth was her maid of honor and Susan Christoff of Warren was bridesmaid. They wore aqua qiana gowns with cape sleeves and carried bouquets of silk violets, lilies and daisies.

Ted Kowalski of New Jersey was best man and Grant Sutton of Ann Arbor was groomsman.

Music for the service was provided by a five-voice brass choir organized by the bride's brother, John Upton. Karen Upton, the bride's sister, sang solos and another sister, Laura, read several poems. The Rev. Margaret Scabich and the Rev. Edward Baldwin, officiated.

The wedding reception was in the Mayflower Meeting House with music provided by thge PCEP stage band. The couple honeymooned in Toronto. They will live in Norfolk, Va. after the new year.

The bride graduated from the University of Michigan in 1978 with a degree in piano performance. She expects to complete her master's degree at U-M in December. She is employed at the university as a teaching fellow. Her husband is an ensign in the United States Navy. He is now on a six-month tour of duty in the Mediterranean.

'Tracks' for kids

School children in Plymouth and Canton will have the chance to learn a great deal more about conservation this school year, thanks to the Western Wayne County Conservation Association.

In a continuing effort to promote conservation education, the association (an affiliate of the Michigan United Conservation Clubs (MUCC) has made available Tracks magazine for use in Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

The magazine is a new monthly conservation publication produced by MUCC and is aimed at fourth and fifth grade readers.

Tracks aims to give young students an understanding and appreciation of the natural world.

Each month the publication focuses on basic conservation concepts, the habits and habitat of various wildlife species, and what is going on outdoors.

The magazine is produced from September through May and is available for $1.50 per student, which includes all nine issues and a teacher's guide each month. To order, write Tracks, MUCC, Box 30235, Lansing 48909. A minimum of 10 orders per classroom is required.

Church precipitated a backlash

Congregational Office of the IHM in Monroe.

"My theory is that vocations come from the witnessing of members. Since 1974 we've been over the terrible trauma of renewal. We know now where we stand. This is reflected in the security of the sisters, and young people see that."

SISTER MARY MERCY explained that an average of 30 to 35 women made their final profession of vows each year in the 1950s. In 1967 the number dropped to 20. Only 11 women entered the novitiate. In 1978 one sister professed her final vows. Between 1974 and '78, the IHMs admitted an average of two novices per year. It has been a far cry from a novitiate class of 48 women in 1961.

But Sister Mary Mercy sees an upward trend with the arrival of five novices and the final profession of five more sisters in 1979.

"Within the last 18 months there's been much more interest, not a great upsweep, but perhaps six or seven who are interested," she said.

Sister Ann Conroy, Provincial of the New York Province of the Religious of the Sacred Heart, also notes an increased interest.

"We have to get additional housing for our novices next year," she said. "We're expecting between 16 and 18 novices compared to an average of eight to 12 each year for the last eight years."

Between 1969 and 1970, she said, Sacred Heart novices dropped to an all-time low of one or two each year.

Sister Conroy's order, which operates the Academy of the Sacred Heart in Bloomfield Hills, is the only order of the three which is international. Over 200 Sacred Heart institutions are located in 23 countries on evrey continent. Her figures for novices, she explained, reflect numbers within the United States.

Internationally, Sister Conroy said that almost 80 sisters professed their final vows each year during the 1950s. By 1969 the number dropped to 40. This year 17 nuns made their final profession in May. Another 20 are expected to do likewise in October.

Sister Conroy sees another benefit the renewal has created within religious orders — the kind of women choosing religious life.

"Women are entering older. They've already completed college, many have master's degrees, and all have had work experience before entering," she said.

Sister said the Sacred Heart order is interested in a woman "who is very interested in giving herself totally to God." She said she looks for someone who is balanced, generous, responsible, secure, and able to live in a community of women.

And who need not apply? "I try to spot someone running away from something," she said.

Sister Lorraine of the Sisters of Charity agrees. She describes a prospective sister as "a woman of the world."

Clubs in Action

INSTRUMENT SELL, SWAP, SHOP

The Central Band Boosters Club is sponsoring a sell, shop and swap night at 7 p.m. Monday, Aug. 27 in the band room of Central Middle School, Main Street at Church, Plymouth.

With the goal of getting unused musical instruments back into action, the boosters are inviting everyone with an instrument that is gathering dust to sell or swap it.

All transactions will be private sales. There will be no added cost to sellers or buyers — no fees. The sale will be from 7-9 p.m. The Boosters Club will not be responsible for sales' agreements.

Persons wishing more information can call Bev Stanley, 453-7327, or Mary Jo LaBeau, 453-3512.

BLOOD DRIVE

The Plymouth Jaycettes will sponsor a Red Cross Blood Drive from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sept. 1 in the Knights of Columbus Hall, Fair Street at Mill, Plymouth.

The Red Cross uses 1,000 pints of new blood each day in the metropolitan Detroit area. The Jaycettes are endeavoring to help fill this need by sponsoring the one-day drive.

Prepare thy self

Givin' up easy

By JOHN CZUBAJ

(The author, John Czubaj, is an instructor in human relations for the Dale Carnegie Corporation with classes held in the Plymouth Hilton Inn.)

A young boy of ten stood by the curb watching the circus parade pass by.

He was fascinated by all the glitter and the high-pitch whistle of the calliope.

He enjoyed the antics of the clowns and the grace and beauty of the high-spirited horses.

But most of all he was enthralled by the huge elephant.

WHEN THE elephant passed he began to follow it down the street with his eyes glued on its every move.

On and on he followed until they came to the circus grounds where he watched with amazement as the trainer tied the huge animal to a small stake with a tiny rope around his front leg.

The trainer went about his job of feeding the elephant as the boy watched in silence — trying to understand why such a huge and strong-looking animal could be held with a rope so small.

AFTER AWHILE the boy asked the trainer: "Why do you use such a small rope to tie to the large elephant?"

The man smiled and answered, "Yes, lad, I will tell you why.

"You see, when we first captured the elephant in the jungle we had to tie him to a large tree with a strong steel chain. He so desperately wanted his freedom that for several days he lunged and strained in an effort to escape.

"And then one day he stopped pulling against his chain. He decided that all his effort was futile so he hung his great head and gave up in utter defeat and to this day has never tried again.

"Now, he could easily break his bond and walk away but he doesn't know it. We can now keep him secure with a tiny rope because we know he will never try again."

AND SO IT IS today with many men and women.

Many people are tied with a cord of complacency or discouragement to the stake of mediocrity or even failure.

Setbacks and temporary defeats are familiar landmarks to those who travel the road to success and achievement. Some fall by the wayside, but the successful are those who refuse to accept defeat — those who muster the courage and determination to keep pulling against the chains of complacency, procrastination and fear, and shatter all their barriers, one by one, until they reach their goal.

The British statesman Benjamin Disraeli once said:

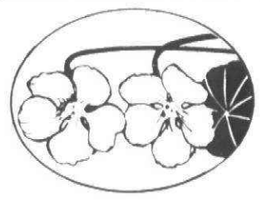

"The secret of success is constancy of purpose."

And if we want badly enough to succeed we always will keep our minds focused on the prime purpose of our lives. We will refuse to be bound to failure.

We will break the cords and chains that would hold us in defeat and go forth to win the abundant life rightfully ours.

TRAVEL LOG of Iris Jones

His mission, since he accepted it, is to bring news of other worlds

You have seen "Star Wars," "Superman, The Movie" and "Brief Encounters of the Third Kind," so it will not surprise you to learn that I have met a creature from another galaxy. His name is George Pierrot.

Pierrot tells the world that he was born in Washington state and has spent his adult life in Detroit. He is actually from another galaxy and is here on a mission. His job is to stretch our horizons so that we earthlings can begin to see things from a planetary and interplanetary point of view.

I understand that George asked to be sent to earth as a potentate of some kind, but, with typical galactic bureaucracy, they sent him down as a travel writer and lecturer.

George, the practical one, made the best of it.

WHAT BRINGS THIS up now is a photocopied letter that George sent to all of his friends and associates, recently, announcing his retirement from the "World Adventure Series" and his donation of the series to the Founder's Society of the Detroit Institute of Arts. If you are taken in by this smoke screen, you haven't been paying attention to your Superman movies.

This only means that the first phase of George's mission is complete and he is checking in with Galaxy 81, known in the trade as the Georgian Galaxy, for another assignment.

REMEMBER THOSE World War II movies in which the innocent shopkeeper pushed open a hidden panel and made radio contact with the enemy? When George has finished distracting us with his dirty limericks, he takes off his thick glasses, sucks in his ample stomach, dons a red and blue cape, and flies through the air to make radio contact with the Georgian Galaxy from the top of the Taj Mahal.

He was caught at this once but quickly covered his tracks by announcing that he had just made the first telephone call from the Taj to North America; his friend Lowell Thomas backed him up.

The first time I saw Pierrot, he was a large shape with a pixie smile on the television screen, discussing the pubs of Europe with a travel photographer. Rule one of interplanetary spying is "look like one of them." Nobody with a figure like that could fly like Superman.

I met him through Sheila Holden, a mutual friend from Farmington, who took us all out to dinner. "I have to eat to keep up my strength," he would answer when nudged about his weight. I knew then that he couldn't have come to earth as Kal-el (later Clark Kent) had, in a simple space ship.

Pierrot would never travel on a vehicle that didn't serve vodka martinis.

OVER THE YEARS, I've seen him do a lot of good works for others. Rule two of interplanetary spying is to contribute to the planet where you are stationed.

I probably would never have blown Pierrot's cover if he hadn't recommended me for membership in the

HELEN AND GEORGE PIERROT

Society of American Travel Writers. That's where I first discovered the familiarization trip, in which writers race through a country making notes for their readers, and that's where I first considered the possibility that Pierrot was on such a trip to planet earth.

He'll deny all this, of course. He's already addicted to earthy pleasures and he doesn't really want to go back to a place where he can't eat, drink vodka martinis, collect limericks, peer through his heavy Clark Kent glasses at pretty girls and play an amorous Superman to the Lois Lane of his life, his wife Helen.

For a while I wondered about Helen. She is a little too beautiful and well-preserved for a woman in her '70s, but she shows other signs of being an earthling.

I don't have the slightest doubt about Pierrot. If you doubt me, look up into the sky during a full moon some night at midnight. You'll hear yourself ask, "Is it a bird? Is it a plane?" And you'll answer, "Hell, no, it's George Pierrot."

Where to camp it up if many want to camp it out

The Forest Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture has set aside 10 campgrounds and six picnic areas for groups that want to make reservations in the eastern region of the U.S.

Family campgrounds continue to be available on a first-come, first-serve basis at the 14 national forest areas in the northeast, which covers the Great Lakes and adjoining states.

Group campgrounds, intended primarily for tent camping, are used by youth groups from scouting and church organizations as well as by adults traveling on company, union, civic and fraternal outings.

Wedding parties are not unusual in group picnic areas. At least two have been booked this year in the Goose Bay picnic area in Shawnee National Forest, Ill., according to Ed Cnare of the forest service.

picnic areas are also commonly used for large family reunions, especially in the Monongahela National Forest of West Virginia, which is often used for the reunion of pioneer families.

Advance reservations are required. The Furnace group picnic area in the Wayne National Forest in Ohio is so popular that reservations come in on Jan. 1 every year.

Fees range from $10 a day for groups of 50 or less to $60 groups of 200 or more. Reservations are taken by contacting the following Forest Service offices.

In Michigan, which has the Ottawa National Forest, Marion reservations for group camping can be made by writing to the Watersmeet Ranger District, USDA Forest Service, Watersmeet, Mich., 49969, or by calling 1-906-358-4551.

In adjoining states, contact the USDA Forest Service in Ironton Ranger District, Ironton, Ohio, 45638; the Vienna Ranger District, Vienna, Ill., 62995; the Florence Ranger District, Florence, Wis., 54121; the Park Falls Ranger District, Park Falls, Wis., 54552. Ironton and Vienna also have group picnic sites available.

Group camps are also available in Sheffield, Marienville and Ridgway, Pa.; at 208 Broadway, Montour Falls, N.Y.; and at White Sulpher Springs, W.Va.

West Virginia has three of the group picnic areas, at Parsons, Petersburg and White Sulpher Springs.

Chicago site of Oct. theater fest, Lautrec exhibit, new mall debut

Three major events — a giant Chicago Theater Festival, a Toulouse-Lautrec Retrospective, and the opening of the State Street Shopping Mall — will make Chicago a busier place in October.

More than 40 Chicago area professional acting companies will produce plays during the city's first Theater Festival, from Oct. 8-22.

Plays stages will range from debuts of original works written by Chicago playwrights to Broadway road company productions of "Annie" and "A Chorus Line." Theater goers will have the option of purchasing a special $5 festival ticket entitling them to half-price admission at five participating theaters. For example, with the festival ticket, a $20 theater ticket will cost $10.

Actors will perform special productions during the noon hours in the city, in the neighborhoods and in the Public Library's Cultural Center. Two companies of festival troubadours will perform throughout the Chicago area during the festival as well.

A do-it-yourself musical will fill the Auditorium Theater at 8 p.m., Oct. 17. The audience will be invited to sing with the chorus of the Grant Park Symphony Orchestra as it performs a well-known Broadway musical.

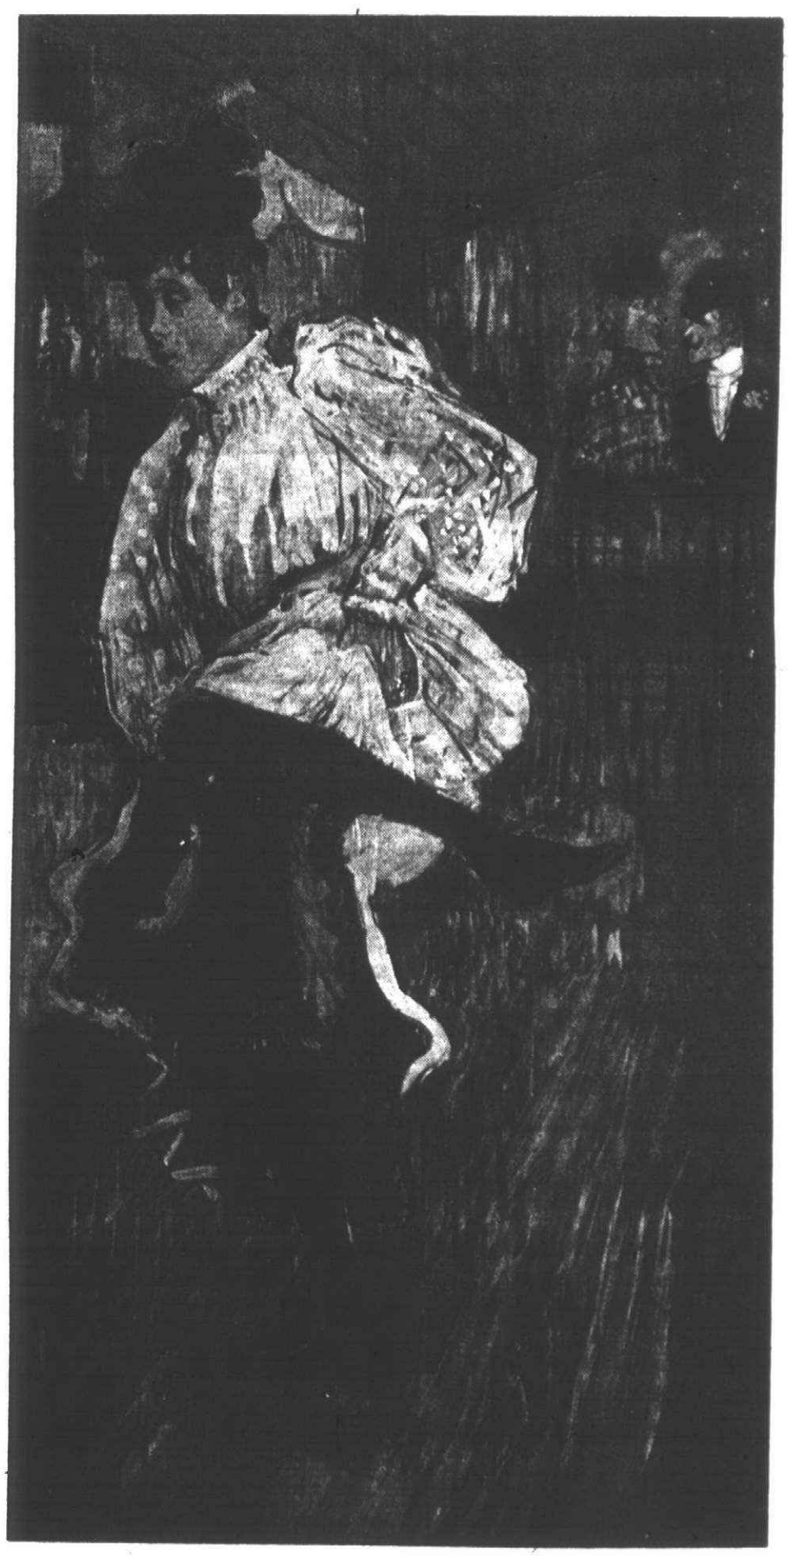

THE TOULOUSE-LAUTREC Retrospective, from Oct. 6 through Dec. 2, will be held at the Art Institute.

The first major exhibition in the U.S. of the artist's work in 25 years will contain more than 100 paintings and gouaches by the 19th century French artist. Highlighting the exhibit will be 25 pictures from the famous collection of the Toulouse-Lautrec Museum in Albi, France, the artist's birthplace. This will be the show's only stop in the country.

THE OPENING of the $17 million State Street Mall in late October will be the beginning of a several hundred million dollar development program for the area that will include construction of a Conrad Hilton hotel and major renovation to the Palmer House Hotel.

When opened, the mall will feature 24-foot-wide sidewalks, outdoor cafes, and several entertainment areas. The world's longest shopping mall also will have new subway entrances, a year-round information booth, and sport landscaped areas for relaxing and watching the city move by.

Auto traffic is already banned from the street and only CTA buses and emergency vehicles are allowed along the nine-block mall. Taxi stands will be at each of the east-west streets crossing the mall.

Jane Avril, pictured here in oil on cardboard done in 1892, danced at the Moulin Rouge. A favorite subject of Lautrec, her style and manner allowed her to strike the most sensitive and boldest of poses, captured in full by the artist's brush. A Toulouse-Lautrec retrospective will open at the Chicago Art Institute Oct. 6.

Reaching for the stars in Ohio

They come from near and far, but not to be a shooting star. Rather, they simply come for the practice.

They are the people with potential, winners from auditions held around the country to fill spots in shows at Cedar Point. Try-outs are held in cities like Detroit usually from February through April, and are conducted by reps from Cedar Point. More than 1,000 people tried out this year.

While some Hollywood, Las Vegas, Broadway or TV hopefuls polish their acts in bars or before party crowds, these young Channings, Streisands, Falks and Nicholsons are on a merry-go-round of sorts, performing in the park's various productions and later attending classes after their respective spotlights have been dimmed.

The Sandusky, Ohio, amusement park a few years back initiated a program for students of the stage to earn their keep and learn their craft simultaneously. Their stamina and drive are tested through boot-camp-like requirements which all performers endure sooner or later.

At the park, 16 different shows play daily during the summer. More than 150 singers, dancers, musicians and technicians are involved.

Performances in five theaters there range from revues of musical hits from radio, television and Hollywood, to contemporary, dixieland, barbershop, bluegrass, folk and country styles.

Classes available include dance (tap, ballet, modern and jazz), audition workshops, the business side of show biz (budgeting, show production, resume writing) and classes for musicians (arranging scores). The training through the classes, once open to all Point employees, is now limited to those in the shows.

Thespians work out in drama or various spoofs such as "Step Right Up Folks," the subject of which is the traveling medicine show of yore.

"They (the classes) help me as a performer. All entertainers need as much dance instruction as possible. With this, I'll become a more versatile performer," said Peter Samuel, the hero of the melodrama at the Golden Palace Theater.

SCHEDULES ARE rigorous, with show stagings as many as five times daily, six days a week. Estimates are that the college-aged entertainers will do between 400 and 700 shots this season.

"The entertainers working here this summer are learning the wares of entertaining," said Marjory Cronenwett, live shows manager at the park.

"Nothing serves as a better teacher than working in front of people. Contact with different types of audiences forces our performers to change their style accordingly and by doing this, they are adding new dimensions to their abilities and perfecting their craft."

The young entertainers apparently agree with Ms. Cronenwett on this educational method.

"The amount of exposure I get by working ever day allows me to try different techniques. I have learned to read an audience and determine which roles will work in every situation," said Kristopher Antekeir, who plays the doctor in the medicine show.

Performances and the tolerance needed for each is important to Susan Stokes, a singer in the cast at the Frontier Theater, which features popular songs in "Make Your Own Kind of Music."

Said she: "It is a challenge to be up for every show. You have to make each performance fresh or your role becomes stale and it will show."

Back to Ms. Cronenwett: "Not only do we want to put on high-quality shows that will entertain our guests, we also want our performers to improve and develop their talents. We want them to be better prepared as far as knowing their capabilities and what to expect at different levels in the entertainment field."

Susan Stokes of Warsaw, Ind., is a cast member in a show at the Frontier Theater at Cedar Point.

Rail Canada turbos back on track

VIA Rail Canada's Turbo trains are back on track for runs between Montreal and Toronto.

The trains will make one afternoon trip each way, following the existing Turbo schedule, with departures from both Toronto and Montreal at 3:45 p.m. and arrival at destination at 8:15 p.m.

The Turbos were pulled from service following a fire which damaged one of the three trains on May 29. Since then, an investigation uncovered that the fire was caused by a broken stainless steel pipe that allowed fuel to spray over a hot turbine engine.

It was determined that the break in the pipe was the result of corrosion inside the pipe caused by the sulphur content of the fuel. The train on which the fire occurred will not be returned to service.

With only one trip per day for each train, the two remaining in service will each have a 20-hour lay-over period, during which daily inspections will be carried out.

Dave, (Dennis Christopher), lower right, is the hero of the movie "Breaking Away." He plays a determined racer.

Champions?

Film tracks college bicyclists

(Editor's note: Louise Snider is on vacation but she will be back next week. This week we have a production story on the movie "Breaking Away.")

"Breaking Away" is about four young men who are trying to sever ties with their youth and enter into adulthood.

The movie was filmed on location at Indiana University (IU), Bloomington. Steve Tesich, a graduate of IU, wrote the screenplay and Peter Yates is the film's producer and director.

"Breaking Away" centers on four Bloomington townies who have just graduated from high school. Dennis Christopher, Dennis Quaid, Jackie Haley and Dan Stern play the innocent Bloomington natives.

The film's hero is Dave, played by Christopher, whose ambition is to become an Italian bicycle racing champion. In pursuit of his goal, Dave chooses an Italian name for himself and starts speaking Italian.

The leader of the group is Mike, played by Quaid. Mike is a high school football star having trouble adjusting to life, who takes his frustrations out on the college students.

The four hometown boys are constantly in conflict with college boys — members of an IU fraternity. The two opponents clash in a swimming race and in a fist fight until their competition is resolved in the Little 500 bicycle race. This race, which is an actual sporting and social event at IU, brings thousands of spectators who watch 32 teams of four members each compete.

From left to right: Dennis Christopher, Jack Haley, Dan Stern and Dennis Quaid star as four young men who become bike racing champions and grow up at the same time.

"BREAKING AWAY" began production before IU students returned for the fall semester. However, a staged Little 500 race, 100 miles long, was filmed after fall semester began in a stadium holding 10,000 people.

Thousands of students at IU and residents of Bloomington showed up for the staging of the race. Most of the student extra parts are played by IU students.

Some became more than extras. Jennifer Mickel, 17, was a freshman at IU who played the girlfriend of the fraternity leader. Another student was hired to do a 65-foot dive off a cliff during the swimming race scene shot at a limestone quarry.

Glimpses

NEW RELEASES

THE AMITYVILLE HORROR (R). James Brolin and Margot Kidder look for a "dream house" and find a nightmare.

THE APPLE DUMPLING GANG RIDES AGAIN (PG). Tim Conway and Don Knotts return as the bumbling outlaws in this light feature from Disney.

AMERICATHON (PG). Wild, but maybe not too wild, tale of giant telethon to erase the national debt as U. S. goes broke in 1998.

BEYOND THE POSEIDON ADVENTURE (PG). Sequel about the upended ship with adventurers after the "spoils," while more passengers are found wandering about. Can you believe it?

BLOODLINE (R). Relatives trying to bump off pharmaceutical heiress constitute a bitter pill in placebo version of Sydney Sheldon's best seller.

BREAKING AWAY (PG). Bicycle racing occupies four high school pals from Indiana who discover the graduate world in funny, touching story.

BUTCH AND SUNDANCE: THE EARLY DAYS (PG). " Prequel" to the successful hit. Tom Berger and William Katt are paired off as the rascally robbers in their salad days.

THE CONCORDE — AIRPORT '79 (PG). Latest entry in "Airport" series is the silliest yet. All-star cast can't save this.

THE DEER HUNTER (R). An emotionally gripping and violent film about the lives of three friends from a small steeltown as they are affected by the Vietnam war.

DRACULA (R). A scary and very sensual remake of "Dracula" with Frank Langella in the title role he played on Broadway.

ESCAPE FROM ALCATRAZ (PG). Clint Eastwood and director Don Siegel team up again to create a tense, taut drama from the conventions of the prison escape film.

THE FRISCO KID (PG). Comic adventures of a rabbi (Gene Wilder) and a robber (Harrison Ford) as they cross the West to San Francisco in 1850.

GOLDENGIRL (PG). Susan Anton is a track star after Olympic gold in film that tries too hard with too many themes and finishes last.

THE IN-LAWS (PG). Hilarious comedy with Peter Falk and Alan Arkin as near-relatives who not only plan a wedding but ripoff the U.S. Mint.

JUST YOU AND ME, KID (PG). A comedy nimbly tailored for George Burns, with Brooke Shields standing by as half of this young-old duo of delinquents.

LOST AND FOUND (PG). George Segal and Glenda Jackson are paired again in romantic comedy about a "fractured" couple who meet in the Swiss Alps and decide to yodel on through life together.

LOVE AT FIRST BITE (PG). Dracula goes disco dancing in funny, contemporary version with George Hamilton.

THE MAIN EVENT (PG). Barbra Streisand is a perfume manufacturer who manages a retired boxer, Ryan O'Neal, in comedy about the fight game.

MANHATTAN (R). The inhabitants are somewhat frayed, but the Big Apple looks glorious in Woody Allen's witty peek at the pairings and partings among New York literati.

MEATBALLS (PG). Lively comedy with Bill Murray (of "Saturday Night Live") as head counselor at a summer camp in an "Animal House" for the junior teen set.

MOONRAKER (PG). James Bond (Roger Moore) in space adventure with Lois Chiles for company and Richard Kiel (the metalmouthed "Jaws") for challenge in most spectacular of the 007 films.

MORE AMERICAN GRAFFITI (PG). George Lucas's very successful continuation of "American Graffiti" examines the lives of seven of the original characters and their problems in the troubled '60s.

THE MUPPET MOVIE (G). Anyone who doesn't like this movie is probably in need of immediate CPR. A host of stars make cameo appearances but none outshines Jim Henson's laughable, lovable muppets as they head for Hollywood.

NIGHTWING (PG). Some scary moments in the shocker about vampire bats on a Hopi Indian reservation.

NORTH DALLAS FORTY (R). Fine performances from Nick Nolte and Mac Davis as pro-football players in film that takes hard look at the commercialism of the game.

ROCKY II (PG). Sylvester Stallone as Rocky Balboa, the over-the-hill boxer, returns for a rematch with the heavyweight champ.

THE VILLAIN (PG). As slapstick as a Road-Runner cartoon extended to 90 long minutes with Ann-Margaret, Kirk Douglas and Arnold Schwarzenegger, who is a cartoon.

UNIDENTIFIED FLYING ODDBALL (G). Lagging Disney comedy about Cape Kennedy engineer who gets launched into Round Table days.
Based on Mark Twain's "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court."

Young 'Munya'

Jeff Lynas (center) is featured as "Munya," the young Paul Muni, and Herschel Bernardi and Georgia Brown star as his parents in "Actor." The original musical play for television will be shown in the Detroit area at 9 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 11, on Channel 56. The story tracers Muni's childhood in eastern Europe as a member of a family of traveling performers, followed by their odyssey to America.

Architecture talks resume

Once again this year, the Design Lecture Series of Lawrence Institute of Technology's School of Architecture will present a program of lunchtime lectures on various aspects of art and architecture.

The series begins Sept. 11 with a presentation by Aleksis Lahti, free-lance designer, on "How Personal Experiences Relate to Design" and will conclude on April 15, 1980, with a lecture by Harold VanDine, head designer of Straub, VanDine, Dziurman, on his company's current works. All of the lectures will run from noon to 1 p.m. in the LIT architecture auditorium, 21000 10 Mile at Northwestern in Southfield. The lectures are free of charge and open to the public.

The complete list of speakers and topics is:

Sept. 11 — Aleksis Lahti, free-lance designer of interiors, silkscreens, graphics, cafes, restaurants, will discuss "How Personal Experiences Relate to Design."

Sept. 18 — Karl Greimel, dean of the School of Architecture, Lawrence Institute of Technology, will talk about "Architecture: Opportunity Unlimited."

Sept. 25 — Richard Thomas, Design Specialist/Rossetti & Associates, will discuss "Architectural Graphics and Signing."

Oct. 9 — Glen Michaels, a noted American and Michigan sculptor now specializing in work for architectural spaces, will talk about "Murals by Glen Michaels."

Oct. 16 — Mary Wright, who owns and operates the Xochipilli Gallery of Rochester, will talk about "The Beginning Collector's Guide to Graphics."

Oct. 30 — Joseph Olivieri, associate professor of Architecture, Lawrence Institute of Technology, School of Architecture, will discuss "Comfort and Energy Conservation: Are They Compatible?"

Nov. 6 — Tividar Balogh, architect and instructor of architecture, University of Michigan, will discuss "Works in Progress."

Dec. 4 — Leonard Else, interior designer and assistant professor of architecture, Lawrence Institute of Technology, School of Architecture, will talk about "An Overview of Interior Architecture."

Dec. 11 — Ken Paul, photographic specialist/Smith, Hinchman & Grylls Associates, will talk about "Photography and Visual Communications."

Jan. 8 — Harold Linton, practicing artist and assistant professor of architecture, Lawrence Institute of Technology, School of Architecture, will discuss "Color Usage/Fine Art and Architecture."

Jan. 15 — John Hilberry, a practicing architect in Detroit who remodeled galleries at Detroit Institute of Art and has done renovation projects at downtown offices, will talk about "Works in Progress."

Jan. 22 — Robert Champlin, associate professor of architecture, Lawrence Institute of Technology, School of Architecture, will discuss "Visual Aspects of Architectural Design."

Jan. 29 — Balthazar Korab, nationaly recognized architectural photograher, will talk about "Architecture and Photography."

Feb. 5 — Jerry Trainor, director of programming, Channel 56, WTVS, will discuss "Programming on Art and Architecture at Channel 56."

Feb. 12 — Thomas Munsell, assistant professor of architecture, Lawrence Institute of Technology, School of Architecture, will talk about "Design What You Build and Build What You Design."

Feb. 19 — Harriet Saperstein, principle planner, recreation department, City of Detroit, will talk about "Recycling Detroit's Riverfront."

March 11 — Ted Amsay, associate professor of art, University of Michigan, will talk about "The Art of Papermaking."

March 18 — Kent Hubbell, designer of tensile structures throughout the United States and an instructor in the school of architecture, University of Michigan, will discuss "Tensile Structures."

THE PRICE OF A USED BMW WILL TELL YOU SOMETHING ABOUT THE VALUE OF A NEW ONE.

BMW 320i P.O.E $10,520
BMW 528i P.O.E $17,395

A high sticker price on a new car reflects the value an automaker places on his product.
The used car price, however, is where the consumer has his say.
And according to the latest figures, it's not unusual for even a five-year-old BMW to retain 75%-80% of its original price.
If the thought of investing in such a car intrigues you, phone us and we'll arrange a thorough test drive.
THE ULTIMATE DRIVING MACHINE.

The 1980 Cordoba is an example of weight reduction.

Chrysler saves weight, gas

Chrysler Corp. has pushed its fleet average above 20 mpg by lowering weight.

Chrysler's biggest weight reduction change for 1980 is the mid-size Chrysler Cordoba. It is 400 pounds lighter than one year ago.

In 1979, the firm's full-size cars shed 900 pounds. The smaller Plymouth Horizon includes proportionately more high-strength, low-alloy steel and plastics than larger cars.

Plastic is involved in most changes, aluminum in others. Some parts are eliminated altogether.

The domestic fleet average is 3,500 pounds, down 100 pounds from the 1979 domestic fleet average.

Using plastic not only reduces weight but improves corrosion protection and provides more durable finishes.

A soft front end is used on Plymouth Horizon two-door models with an energy-absorbing system.

Foam plastic bumper guards are available on all mid-size cars. Rear guards on mid-size wagons and Chrysler LeBaron sedans also are plastic.

A one-piece glove box and hinged door molded of expanded structural foam is used on Cordoba. The box is easier to install and remove to service the heater ducting behind it. It weighs only 1.5 pounds.

Full-width one-piece plastic instrument panels are used in Chrysler's large cars, some mid-size cars and in Horizon. These panels are 40 percent lighter than a few years ago.

Fender and quarter panel extensions on Cordoba are made of injection-molded plastic.

A one-piece plastic evaporator housing for the air conditioning system on mid-size cars saves 3.5 pounds.

Floor mats with an all-carpet top save four pounds per car. Plastic replaces zinc in the automatic speed control systems. The new design saves 0.5 pounds and performs better.

Glass-filled polyester distributor caps are on all four-cylinder engines. The caps allow easier coil lead insertion and removal.

The heater core for mid-size specialty cars and large cars uses a glass-filled nylon end tank, which saves a pound.

A polyester carrier for windshield wiper blades is lighter, quieter, reduces glare and helps reduce streaking.

Hypalon rubber replaces neoprene in all engine compartment hoses. The rubber is more flexible, withstands higher temperatures and resists gas and oil better.

A new Horizon battery is six pounds lighter. A four-pound bracket is gone from some 318-engine cars. Minor changes in 225 and 318 engine blocks trim four and seven pounds, respectively.

High-strength steel in the mid-size station wagon luggage floor panel and rear seat filler panel saves four and three pounds, respectively.

The use of swashplate drive air conditioning compressors in Horizon saves three pounds. A new rear seat back arm rest mechanism in some cars saves three pounds. Mid-size models have lead-dipped mild steel fuel filler tubes that save 0.75 pounds. Rear seat upholstery changes in Horizon saves two pounds, and a single-row core radiator in some cars saves thre pounds.

Chrysler also continues to use one- and two-sided galvanized steel in body panels for added corrosion resistance. Lightweight steel inner and outer hood panels will be used on Plymouth Volare models.

Stamped, heat-treated, chrome-plated aluminum rear bumpers will be used on Cordoba models.
