Stark main gets OK if financing is approved

By CAROLINE PRICE

A water main that Westland and Canton officials believe will help solve their water pressure problems will apparently be built once a method of financing it has been worked out.

According to John Kanters, director of the Detroit Water and Sewerage Department, the $2 million Stark main is "already a scheduled project of high priority in our capital improvement plan."

Kanters said the only reason the drain has not been built is lack of money. Engineering plans have already been drawn up.

"Under existing water rates, and because the water rates are under litigation filed by some suburban communities, we have not had the money to build the drain," Kanters said.

He denied that Westland and Canton had offered to front the money for the project. "There has been no firm offer on either side," he said.

Canton Supervisor Noel Culbert, however, maintains that the two suburban communities did offer to buy the bonds, but the offer was not found acceptable by the Detroit officials.

The Canton Township Board of Trustees also passed a resolution Sept. 18 saying that Westland and Canton agreed to split the cost of financing the drain, whether by buying bonds or through some other method of funding.

Although Kanters denied that either community had made a firm commitment to finance the project, he said his department was "not opposed to building the drain" providing there was a legal opinion supporting the method of financing.

Kanters, Culbert, Westland Mayor Tom Taylor and a representative from Young's office met in Westland Oct. 1 to discuss project financing.

One of the alternate methods of financing the drain, according to Culbert, would be for Canton and Westland to serve as guarantors for bonds issued by Detroit.

Kanters said other methods, such as having all three communities named on a bond issuance, are being considered.

The various alternatives are being studied by the area bond council agency, Miller, Canfield, Paddock and Stone.

Taylor has also requested that the agreement to build the water main be put in writing.

Kanters said the proposed main would solve much of the inadequate water pressure experienced in Westland and Canton, although a "couple of other projects are needed."

The water pressure problem caused the Michigan Department of Health to announce last month that water line extensions or tap-ins for large water users in Westland and Canton would not be approved until pressure could be improved.

Culbert has accused the Detroit water department of dragging its feet on the project because of a lawsuit filed by suburban communities over unilateral sewer rate increases.

The supervisor said Young was supposed to attend the Oct. 1 meeting but sent a representative instead.

"The word I got is that Young didn't want the aggravation. He just told the water department to go ahead and build the main," Culbert said.

Middle school system elimination considered to avoid more building

By EMORY DANIELS

The middle school concept may be scrapped in Plymouth-Canton Community Schools to avoid having to build two high schools at a cost of $20 million each.

A bond study committee told the school board Monday night that the best way to avoid building two high schools was to switch from the middle school to the junior high approach.

If accomplished in school year 1981-82, the board was told, the high school population would exceed present capacity by only 1,500 students and expansion could be limited to only a third high school.

If approved by the school board, the plan would result in sixth graders being moved back to an elementary building and ninth graders back to a junior high building in 1981.

The school board wasn't ready Monday night to drop the middle school program, but neither was it prepared to discuss construction of two new high schools.

The only other alternative discussed was housing four high school student bodies in the two current high school buildings by using the extended day.

The extended day, similar to split sessions, would have one group of students attending school from about 7 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. and another from 12:30 p.m. to 7 p.m.

While no one was pleased with the available alternatives, the reaction probably was best summed up by Dr. Michael Homes, assistant superintendent for instruction, who said:

"Nobody's turf is sacred. The entire district is being affected and we must share the burden. The problem cannot afford anymore debate. We must make a decision and begin taking action."

IN PRESENTING its report, the bond study committee suggested four possible bond issues to be put before voters.

The four bond issue alternatives ranged from a high of $30 million to a low of $13 million.

The committee consists of representatives of the citizens bond committee, administration, the architectural firm of Tarapata-McMann, and construction advisors Barton-Marlow.

In analyzing costs to residents, Ray Hoedel, assistant superintendent of business, said a $19.9 million bond issue would cost an additional 2.58 mills the first year it was levied and a lesser amount each preceding year.

The major problem in accommodating growth is that the currently large elementary population will be entering the secondary level within a very short time, causing a middle school crisis in three years and a high school crisis in six years.

THIS YEAR the student enrollment is expected to reach 16,900 (including adult education) for an increase over last year of 800 students.

Board explores bond proposals

Plymouth may get its own high school back after all.

Two of four bonding alternatives now before the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education include a proposal to remodel Central Middle School — formerly Plymouth High School — and convert it to a high school.

All of the proposals, itemized below, involve all four middle schools and 11 of 13 elementaries (all but Starkweather and Tanger) going on the Extended School Year (ESY) schedule.

The four proposals also assume that sixth graders will be placed in elementary buildings (instead of middle school) and ninth graders will be moved back to middle school (instead of high school).

Each proposal also includes $4.6 million for maintenance and renovation of existing school buildings. The alternatives now before the school board are:

PLAN A

Build a new high school at $20 million; renovate Central at $1.5 million to absorb more middle school students; buy portable classrooms at $1.5 million; and air-conditioning costs of $2.5 million to expand ESY. The new high school would be located either at the current site of the two high schools or at another site in Canton. Total cost would be $30.1 million which would require an additional 3.31 mills the first year and lesser amounts thereafter.

PLAN B

Renovate Central to a third high school at $4.5 million; build a new middle school at $8.82 million; buy portable classrooms at $600,000. ESY air-conditioning costs of $1.5 million, and a new elementary building at $4.642 million. Portable and ESY costs would be less in this plan because of the construction of new middle and elementary schools. Total cost would be $24.662 million for an added 2.97 mills the first year and lesser amounts thereafter.

PLAN C

Renovate Central to a third high school at $4.5 million; build a new middle school at $8.82 million; buy portable classrooms at $1.5 million; ESY air-conditioning costs of $2 million. Deletion of the elementary building in Plan C makes its ESY and portable costs higher than for Plan B. Total cost is $21.42 million for an added 2.58 mills the first year and lesser amounts thereafter.

PLAN D

Build a 40-classroom addition at the current high school site at $4.65 million; renovate Central to handle more middle school students at $500,000; buy portables at $1.5 million and cover ESY air-conditioning costs at $2.5 million. Total cost of $13.565 million causing increased millage of 1.7 mills the first year and lesser amounts thereafter.

The principal and interest cost per year to the district would range from $2.548 million to $1,156 million.

Many of these figures are subject to change because they are based on current interest and construction costs.

For own protection

Ordinance officers get gun permit

Ordinance officers have been authorized to carry concealed guns as weapons of self-defense while knocking on the doors of homes and businesses to enforce misdemeanor laws of the township.

Bruce Phillips, Canton Township ordinance director, said the firearms are needed to protect members of his department who have been threatened with physical violence on numerous occasions. He said some persons accused of violating a township ordinance have threatened to use a gun.

Ordinance officers enforce approximately 95 township laws which range from a prohibition on the storage of junk cars to zoning regulations. Although they issue tickets to suspected ordinance violators, they lack the power of arrest. They are not members of the police department.

Although Supervisor Noel Culbert signed a concealed weapons application for the officers last June, Phillips said members of his department carried guns for only a few days.

He halted the practice in order to compile a policy which limits the use of guns for self-defense.

Trustee Eugene Daley brought the matter before the township board Tuesday night on the grounds that the carrying of firearms should not be a decision of only the township administration.

The arming of the ordinance department was approved by a narrow 4-3 vote of the board, with Daley, Culbert and Clerk John Flodin dissenting.

The officers will not be allowed to carry guns until the police chief and township administration compile a policy for their use and a training program for the department.

ACCORDING TO CULBERT, township attorneys have stated that Canton would be liable for damages if a gun is accidentally fired by an ordinance officer. But the township would also be liable if an unarmed ordinance officer is injured while performing his job.

"I would not want to ask someone to risk their lives for a few measly bucks a month without giving them proper protection," said Trustee Robert Greenstein in support of arming the officers.

"Even though it may go against the grain, I'd rather take my chance on liability than go to one of their wives and try to explain what happened."

But other township board members maintained that giving the officers guns could invite trouble.

"Once you have a weapon, it's so easy to use," said Culbert. "It takes one heck of a person to exercise restraint."

Residents Larry Bowerman and Gary Roberts spoke in opposition to the idea.

"You can always walk away from trouble," Roberts maintained.

Phillips said an ordinance officer would not display his gun or use the weapon as a warning. He said the officers have been instructed to leave the location and return with a police officer if they are threatened.

"The gun would only be used if they can't leave and their lives are threatened," said Phillips. "An ordinance officer doesn't know what he'll encounter when he knocks on that door."

Board switches TV firms

By DARLENE STINSON

A cable television franchise which is expected to gross $1.5 million a year was yanked away from Omnicom of Michigan Tuesday night and handed to Maclean-Hunter Cable TV.

The switch of firms was narrowly approved by a 4-3 vote of the township board, with Trustees Robert Greenstein, Stephen Larson and Eugene Daley dissenting.

The competition for the contract resulted in a flurry of bids from Omnicom, Maclean-Hunter, and United Cable TV companies and promises that each firm would meet the offers of the other.

Maclean-Hunter's offer promised the township 5 percent of subscriber revenues from a special movie service after MetroVision pledged 3 percent.

Colbran also promised to ask the Federal Communication Commission (FCC) to increase the customary 3 percent share of basic subscriber revenues that communities usually receive to 5 percent.

United Cable TV had also pledged to make the application to the FCC. The other cable television firms promised Canton the customary 3 percent.

Following the vote, Greenstein and Daley made an effort to award other non-exclusive franchises to two other cable TV firms — Omnicom and MetroVision.

Their motions failed after R. Scott Colbran, manager of corporate development for Maclean-Hunter, compared the awarding of two cable television franchises to the presence of two telephone companies in a community.

"I can't believe that a company would walk into a community and overwire another company," Colbran said. "If the motion had passed, there would have been a rush to get cables down a street. It would have been total confusion."

Colbran indicated that he would have sought advice from Maclean-Hunter management on the firm's commitment to Canton if two or more contracts had been awarded.

THE CANTON BOARD tentatively awarded the cable TV contract to Omnicom of Michigan last July. Following the vote, however, three other cable TV firms — Maclean-Hunter, MetroVision and United Cable TV Co. — made applications to the township.

Although the ordinance giving the non-exclusive franchise to Omnicom was published, the document was never given final approval by the township board.

Livonia school rental mulled

The possibility of Plymouth-Canton schools renting a building from the Livonia School District still is not a dead issue.

The decision could come in 30 days. That's the deadline the Plymouth-Canton board must meet if it is at all interested in renting a Livonia school as a means of easing space problems the district is facing. The school superintendents from the two districts held informal talks last week, along with some school board members.

But Monday night when the Plymouth-Canton trustees were asked if they were ready to make an offer to Livonia, the board waived.

Superintendent John M. Hoben cautioned the board that a definite offer must be made soon because Livonia must proceed with plans on which schools will be used.

Hoben said he has promised Dr. George Garver, Livonia superintendent, that Plymouth-Canton will make a decision by the end of October.

IT IS KNOWN that Plymouth-Canton has its eyes on Lowell Junior High on Hix Road south of Joy in Westland.

Livonia, however, plans to keep Lowell open and will not consider changing its plans until a definite offer from Plymouth-Canton is received.

A rental agreement for Lowell, or another junior high, would allow Plymouth-Canton to absorb its continued student growth without having to build a new middle school at the cost of about $8.8 million.

Although Livonia hasn't offered Lowell for rent, that is the only building the Plymouth-Canton district has its eyes on because of its proximity to a heavy growth area in Canton east of I-275 and south of Ford Road.

Students in that growth corridor would have a shorter bus ride to Lowell than either of the middle schools they now are attending.

If Lowell were made available, the building would immediately be placed on a year-round schedule. Ray Hoedel, assistant superintendent for business for Plymouth-Canton, estimates it would cost about $300,000 to open a school there — not counting rent.

Hoben said he felt Livonia might tailor its plans to meet Plymouth-Canton's needs if a definite offer was made. He added that three junior high buildings could be available — Dickinson, Frost and Lowell.

WHILE DEBATING whether to make an offer to rent, trustee Flossie Tonda pointed out that the funds to rent would be an operating expense as the district could not sell bonds to pay for a lease.

She pointed out, though, that the bond issues Plymouth-Canton is considering would cost the district $2.5 million a year in principal and interest and some of that cost might better be spent on rent. Trustee Carol Davis said she like to hear the opinions of residents before making a decision on renting schools from Livonia.

Jeanette Wines, a Canton resident, said she'd rather have new schools built than rent from Livonia because cross-district busing "would open a can of worms."

Hoben said he has heard legal opinions from two attorneys that such action would not set a precedent for cross-district busing as it relates to the federal Bradley vs. Milliken integration lawsuit.

Tom Yack, board president, urged trustees to make up its mind on whether to rent, identify the school(s) it might want to rent, and investigate the lease requirements. "Livonia's planning cycle is such that they must know our intentions soon and must be able to rely on our word."

Hoben cautioned: "We are getting our backs up to the wall on Lowell. I told them we'd let them know within a month."

The board, though, decided to wait until more information had been gathered before deciding whether to make an offer to Livonia.

Currently Plymouth-Canton is looking at four possible bond issues ranging from $13.5 million to $30 million.

Enrollment in Plymouth-Canton has been increasing by 700 or more for the past seven years, or the equivalent of one elementary building per year.

Much of the growth has been absorbed by putting schools on a year-round schedule, which increases the holding capacity of each building by one-third.

Clean-up crusade targets Kellogg

By TERI BANAS

Elementary teacher Valerie Mestrovich admits Kellogg Park may not have been the best target to demonstrate a point — but it was the closest place at hand.

Ms. Mestrovich, a religion teacher at Our Lady of Good Counsel School, recently spent two days leading a group of sixth graders in a cleanup of Kellogg for — of all things — a religious assignment.

"The assignment was to stress God's giving us an environment and how man is destroying it," she said.

Kellogg Park was selected because it is near walking distance from the school, she added. A native of Pennsylvania and familiar with steel town pollution, Ms. Mestrovich initially was concerned her students wouldn't grasp the lesson behind pollution in clean downtown Plymouth.

"I told the children not to expect too much because this town is so clean."

The children, however, were not discouraged and managed to fill their paper bags with trash by the end of Monday's cleanup crusade.

About 36 students participated last Friday and Monday. According to Ms. Mestrovich, many of them were impressed with the amount of stuff they did find.

One student found an old sock and many ended the day with valuable returnable bottles and cans.

WHILE ENROUTE to the park, Ms. Mestrovich recalls the children's enthusiasm increased by a comment made by an elderly woman found watering her lawn.

"She said it was good the children were picking up litter because she was too old to bend down and do it." "That just made the children want to pick up more."

Ms. Mestrovich said religious instruction in parochial schools has come a long way since its primary focus on the Baltimore Catechism. Today, instruction includes many current topics such as people's responsibility to the environment.

Salaries at issue in teacher talks

Talks still are continuing in an effort to get final agreement on a contract for teachers to vote on ratification.

Both sides have come to a tentative agreement on make-up days but still are apart on the exact salary package agreed upon.

The two sides have agreed to accept the fact-finder's report on salary but each interprets the pay package differently.

In an attempt to clear up differences, the union and board teams met last Friday with fact-finder George Gullen Jr.

Gullen listened to the presentations from both teams and then said he would consider the matter and get back with a decision, but did not state when.

GULLEN'S REPORT had included a specific proposal for dates teachers and students would make-up time lost during the strike.

But those dates only were for schools on a traditional nine-month schedule. Gullen left it to both sides to work out an agreement on specific make-up days for Extended School Year (ESY) teachers and students.

(The TSY make-up days are Oct. 19, 22, Nov. 8, 9, Jan. 2, March 14, May 23, June 12, 13, 16.)

An agreement on how to handle the ESY make-up days was reached by a committee working on a three-year school calendar. Leading the efforts of that study were Michael Homes, assistant superintendent for instruction, and Bill Bartlett of the Plymouth-Canton Education Association (PCEA).

Basically, the make-up days are different for each of the three tracks (A, B, C) which missed days during the strike.

Norm Kee, assistant superintendent of instruction, says the specific make-up days are a little difficult at this point to identify because of the way the three-year calendar was constructed.

Homes explained that the nine days were made up primarily by adding a few days at the end of the year and adjusting vacation periods for each of the tracks.

A full 187 work days was provided for, Homes said, without having to place any schools on split sessions and without having to move students on Track C to a TSY school to complete the year, as earlier feared might be done.

To accomplish this, Homes said, some changes had to be made in the schedule for students on Track D. Originally it was expected the Track D schedule would remain unaffected as the school year had not started for these students during the strike.

"We had to involve Track D to take the heat off from Track C and allow those students to stay in their own school."

After having the three-year calendar explained, the school board approved it in a special meeting Monday night.

Although the nine strike days will be made up during the current school year, the impact of the strike does affect the school calendar next year.

Because the ESY schools will end the current year on Aug. 28, the district will be unable to start the next school year before Labor Day as it had hoped to do.

For schools on a traditional schedule, the 1979-80 year will end on June 18 for students and June 20 for teachers.

For 1980-82 the TSY schools will open Sept. 3 and end the year June 17.

In the third-year TSY schools will revert back to the pre-Labor Day opening of Aug. 31 for teachers and Sept. 1 for students.

One of the major changes in the TSY schedules this year and next is the elimination of some four-day weekends.

An advantage of the three-year ESY calendar, says Homes, is there are no days when all four tracks will be in school at the same time.

Another, he added, is that there will not be any conflict with Good Friday in any of the three years as there has been in the past when school has been opened a half day.

The second year ESY calendar will result in more equitable vacation schedules for all tracks, Homes added.

Tech Hi-Fi stereo stores have agreed to stop requiring customers to pay for out-of-stock sale items in advance of delivery, according to Attorney General Frank Kelley.

In an agreement reached recently with the attorney general's office, Stereo Component Systems, which owns Tech Hi-Fi, said it would give customers "rain checks" if an advertised sale item is sold out.

The Massachusetts-based company, which has stores in Farmington, Rochester and Livonia, had been requiring customers to pay for sale items in advance with credit cards. The agreement provides that consumers won't have to pay for an item until delivery, according to the attorney general's office.

The state investigated after it received a consumer complaint on the stereo store practice. Tech Hi-Fi paid the state $500 for investigation costs, Kelley said.

State law requires that a sale advertisement include either the dates of the sale or the number of available advertised items. If the ad doesn't specify the number, the merchant must provide rainchecks if the item is sold out.

A raincheck guarantees the consumer will receive either the advertised item or a substitute item of the same or higher value within 90 days.

Cable TV contract awarded

A cable TV committee comprised of Greenstein, Larson and Treasurer Jim Donahue was formed to review the applications of all four companies and submit its recommendation to the township board.

Greenstein and Larson recommended Omnicon for the contract, while Donahue backed the bid of Maclean-Hunter.

IT WAS NOT monetary promises, however, that convinced the Canton board to award the contract to Maclean-Hunter.

Backers of the firm were convinced that Maclean-Hunter would offer the best local programming to Canton. The firm won a 1978 national programming award for its cable services.

The firm is a wholly owned subsidiary of Maclean-Hunter Limited, a Canadian-based firm which grossed $221 million last year. According to Culbert, the firm is among the 10 largest cable TV companies in the United States.

Omnicon of Michigan, on the other hand, is a new firm in the cable TV field. It received financial backing for the proposed Canton system from Capital Cities Communication, which counts the Oakland Press and WJR radio among its media holdings.

Supporters of Omnicon expressed opposition to granting the contract to another firm after Omnicon had already won tentative approval.

They said there was no reason to switch, since all four companies would offer the same basic services including special movie channels, sports channels, children's channels, time-weather channels and channels that would air local governmental meetings.

Greenstein, a vehement Omnicon supporter, objected to the Maclean-Hunter contract on grounds that profits from the Canton system would return to Canada.

COLBRAN SAID it would take Maclean-Hunter about a year to construct the cable TV system in Canton.

Will middle schools be dropped?

in a row that enrollment has increased by 700 or more students each year — the equivalent of one elementary school per year.

The district has been able to absorb that growth by expanding year-round school, now at six elementaries and one middle school, scrapping modular scheduling at the high schools, and new construction from an earlier bond issue (Field, Eriksson, Hulsing elementaries in Canton and the music/physical education wing at the high school site).

Two years ago voters rejected a $29 million bond issue which would have resulted in construction of new middle and elementary school buildings.

By 1987-88 school year high school (grades 9-12) enrollment is expected to reach a peak of about 8,100 students. (About 4,600 students are now enrolled in both high schools which were designed for 4,100).

If the peak enrollment is absorbed by new buildings, reported Hoedel, two new high schools would have to be built at $20 million each within the next two years.

If the ninth grade is moved back to the middle school level, the high school (10-12) enrollment then would peak at 6,200 students in '87-88 which would require only one additional high school, Hoedel added.

In 1983-84 the middle school enrollment is expected to reach 5,300 students in grades 6-8, an increase of 1,600 students over the current count.

If ninth graders are moved to the middle school grades, and sixth graders back to elementary, the enrollment would peak at 5,600 students a year later.

The added 1,900 students at the middle school level would be absorbed, Hoedel said, by expanding year-round school to all middle schools and by locating portable classroom units on all sites from '82-83 through '87-88.

County head support gathered

County executive advocates in western Wayne County have set a Dec. 1 deadline to obtain 66,000 petition signatures needed to place the issue before the voters.

Western and downriver suburban officials want county voters to decide next year if Wayne should have an elected top administrator.

Petitioning for that election, which began early this year, has thus far garnered between 30,000 and 35,000 signatures, said county Commissioner R. William Joyner, D, Plymouth/Canton.

Joyner said if the 66,000 required signatures aren't collected by Dec. 1, the campaign will be dropped. "Momentum has tended to be building the past few weeks," Joyner said.

A high level state task force on county government reorganization has backed an elected county executive for Wayne, long advocated by Gov. William Milliken.

A PUSH for more signatures will be conducted in six suburban shopping areas Friday and Saturday, including downtown Plymouth. The Wayne County League of Women Voters are coordinating the drive.

County executive backers have formed a group called "Provide A County Executive" (PACE).

If the petition drive is successful, Joyner said a vote on whether a county executive office should be created would be held six months from the time the petition signatures are certified by the county clerk's office.

He said the county Board of Commissioners have the option of holding a primary election for county executive at the same time.

Detroit and out-county commissioners are split on the issue.

Leaf pick up begins Oct. 15

The annual pick up of leaves will begin the week of Oct. 15 throughout the city of Plymouth.

The Plymouth Department of Public Works is asking residents to place their leaves by the curb in the street as only leaves placed in the street will be picked up.

Residents also are asked to place their leaves at the curb as soon as possible so they can be removed before the accumulation of snow.

There is no set schedule when trucks will be in any particular area, although an attempt will be made to collect leaves from every area of the city at least once a week.

The DPW has set the week of Nov. 26 as the date when its trucks will make the last pass throughout the city. After that, residents will have to bag leaves for the regular refuse pick up.

New high school curriculum gives students chance at college credits

By TERI BANAS

College-bound students with high school vocational training this year will get a jump on their college requirements next year under a new program in Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

The program entitles students to free college credit if they can prove competency in their selected college curriculums based on high school learning.

According to Barbara Geil, of the Schoolcraft College admission department, a student could shave as much as a term's classload off his or her college curriculum.

The program took three years to prepare and is starting up in Plymouth-Canton schools this year. Its intent is to tie in a student's high school vocational study with college requirements.

The catch, at least for Plymouth-Canton students, is that the program is linked only to Schoolcraft College programs at this time.

Schoolcraft project director Kathleen Dillenbeck, however, says future state-wide plans include extending a student's choice of colleges outside his or her immediate community college district.

This year, there are 11 area high schools involved in the Schoolcraft connection.

In both Plymouth-Canton high schools, vocational programs that will merge into Schoolcraft programs are: Architectural technology, automotive mechanics, culinary arts, child care, office education and mechanical drafting.

Plans are underway to include four other course studies by the end of the year. These include: Electronics, machine trades, nursing and welding.

AT AN IN-SERVICE workshop Tuesday, Plymouth-Canton teachers were told the key to the program is accurate recording of students' capabilities. This will insure proper advance placement at the college level.

Under the plan, vocational high school teachers will check off successfully completed tasks by students in a particular vocational area. These reports will be forwarded later to Schoolcraft College for evaluation. Students will be advanced-placed in college programs based on how well they performed in high school vocational classes.

Students, therefore, will receive credit for beginning level college courses without having to take them or pay for them.

"To have people re-learn what they've already gone through is pretty sad — educationally," Geil said.

According to Geil, a student who earns an associate degree at Schoolcraft in this way can forward these credits toward a bachelor's degree at a four-year institution.

Although several teachers at the workshop said the program would benefit students, they agreed it meant added paperwork for themselves.

ONE TEACHER called it an "increase of workload without a corresponding increase of help."

Harold Gaertner, the district's vocational director, agreed "something would have to be worked out."

Things are getting cagier around township hall.

At Thursday night's township board meeting, trustees took a hard stand on who should be allowed to live in Plymouth Township.

In unanimous agreement, members rejected a newcomer's request for residency.

The resident in question was someone board members said was a potentially dangerous character.

Scheduled to appear before the board was Melvin Motter, who wanted board approval to keep a cougar at his home in Plymouth Township.

Motter, who failed to appear at the meeting, had told township Supervisor Thomas Notebaert earlier that the cat was still a kitten and was not as yet purchased.

Calling on legal counsel, members requested an opinion from township attorney Donald Morgan who said township ordinance forbade such animals living or breeding in the township.

"While I drive a Cougar, I must assume what he speaks of is something else," Morgan said. "All kidding aside, this is a dangerous animal."

Plymouth — Past & Present

Dealer turned potato peddler

By Sam Hudson

(Part III)

Perhaps the biggest obstacle Allison Chevrolet had to overcome, and the worst period of Ernie Allison's business career, was occasioned by the sitdown strike, led by Walter Reuther, at the Chevrolet plant in Flint.

It happened in 1937 and lasted 113 days.

For almost four months Allison had no new cars to sell. To keep his business going he sold furniture "and whatever else I could get."

He bought a four-wheel trailer, towed it behind his car, and went to see farmers in the surrounding area who owed him money. They loaded his trailer with potatoes in lieu of payments, and he sold them at his automobile showroom.

IF THAT WAS the worst year Allison had in business, the preceding one, 1936, was one of the most enjoyable.

"Chevrolet always produced a good car," he says, "but the one they turned out in 1936 was a truly wonderful automobile. It was a pleasure to sell it."

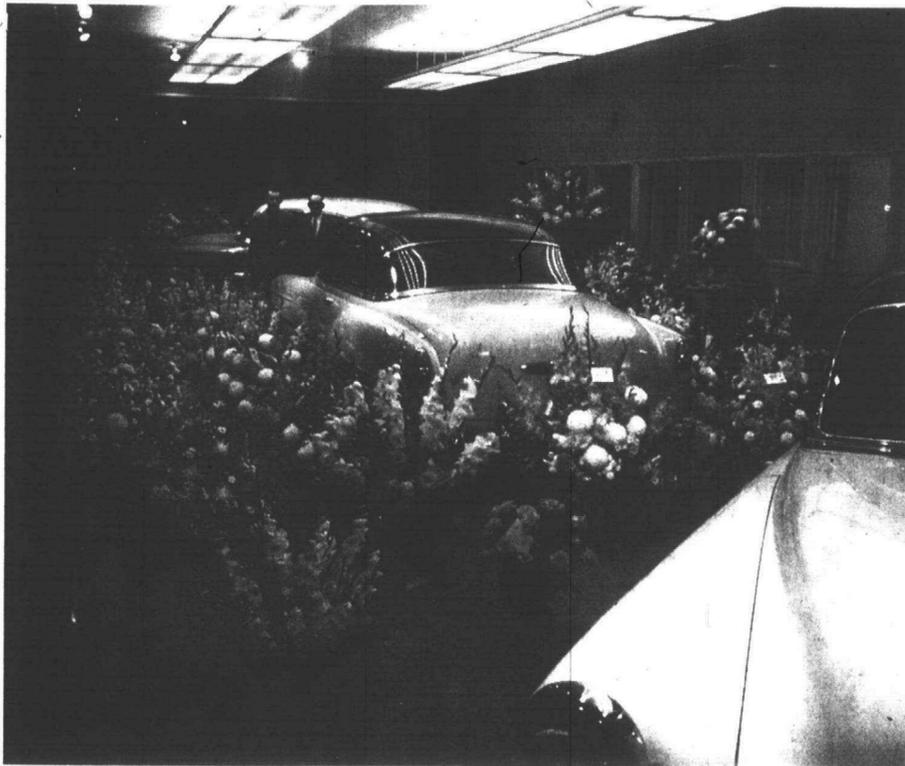

Ernie Allison joined the Plymouth Kiwanis Club in 1925 and is the only charter member of the club still alive. He was president of the organization in 1931 and the district's lieutenant-governor in 1945. He also is a Mason and a Shriner.

He was among the merchants who helped support the Plymouth Hockey Club, which Russell Roe founded and managed here from 1929 to 1933. When the team went to Canada to play the Blenheim Hockey Club, the Canadians, knowing of Ernie's Blenheim background, got Roe to bill the visiting Plymouthites as "Ernie Allison's Plymouth Team."

The billing drew a large crowd, but did not help the Plymouth team which lost by a small margin.

ALLISON SMILES AS he remembers a day in the late 1920s when he looked out of his office to see four Rotarians (Charlie Bennett, Paul Wiedman, Carl Shear, and Fred Schrader, the owner of the funeral home) walk into his showroom.

"I wonder what's up," said Ernie to one of his salesmen. "Here come two of Ernie Allison (right) and son Frank pose in the middle of their showroom for the re-opening after the fire.

my competitors and the local undertaker."

The purpose of the visitation was to ask him if he would serve as a director on the board that governed the Mayflower Hotel. It had been built in 1927 as a community effort.

He enjoyed being on the board. "They were wonderful men to work with. I was the only member on the board who wasn't a member of Rotary."

In the 1930s Frank Allison, Ernie's son, came into the firm and eventually became a partner in Allison Chevrolet.

Frank, who was well-known in Plymouth in his own right, was as active in the Plymouth Rotary Club as his father was in the Kiwanis. Frank was president of Rotary in 1966.

After 46 years, the name Allison came off the Local Chevrolet dealership in 1968. In that year, Frank, who was then the owner, negotiated the sale of the franchise to Don Hassinger of Ann Arbor.

Frank Allison died a few months ago at age 64. His mother had died three years before. Ernie Allison, now 94, lives at the West Trail Nursing Home on Ann Arbor Trail.

His eyesight is failing, and his step is not as firm as it was in the days when he was one of Plymouth's most prominent business and service club leaders. But his mind and memory are as sharp as ever as he recalls the highlights of his past.

And he still attends Kiwanis Club meetings, assisted by his good friend

Clarence Moore, who was his business neighbor when Moore had his stamping company in the Markham Building across the street from Allison's showroom.

NINE YEARS AFTER Allison and Bachelord assumed the Chevrolet dealership in Plymouth, Lou LaRiche, the present owner of the franchise, was born in Cleveland, Ohio.

LaRiche's parents, who were born in northern Italy, emigrated to Pennsylvania, then to Ohio where his father worked at Chandler Motors in Cleveland.

Later, the elder LaRiche became one of the first Ford Dealers in the U.S.

The LaRiche's were married in 1954 when Lou graduated from college. He and his wife, Gail, have seven children, ranging in age from 25 to 11.

Schools find old records

Plymouth-Canton teachers once made $1.25 a week

By W.W. EDGAR

The binding on the cover has deteriorated. The pages have turned yellow with age.

But the beautiful Spencerian handwriting reveals many interesting facts, including the fact that teachers in the Canton school district once worked for $1.25 per week.

The old volume is the ledger of the Canton school district that Delores Willman, secretary to Harold Guenther of the Brilliant Products Co. found while cleaning out an old cupboard several weeks ago.

"But I don't know where it came from or to whom it belongs," she explained in showing the interesting antique.

THE LEDGER, started in 1848, carries the actions of the board through the years before and after the Civil War and soon will be one of the treasures in the Plymouth Historical Museum.

Here is one of the fascinating items: "April 26, 1850 Hired Martha Twist to teach the summer school for 22 weeks at one dollar and twenty five cents per week."

(Plymouth-Canton teachers now receiving $15,000 a year would earn $86 a day for the 187 days worked.)

The financial reports written on the aged pages also reveal some interesting figures.

For example, here is the report filed on Oct. 29, 1856:

Oct. 6, 1855, To cash paid Clementine

Steel in full for all demands at this date

Jan. 7, 1858, One fire shovel	$12.55
Feb. 1, one pail	$.75
Feb. 1, one cup	$.25
Feb. 1, One light clap	$.08
Feb. 11, Paid M.E. scripture	$.03
Feb. 11, Paid M.E. scripture in full	$20.00
March 5, One broom	$28.00
Aug. 9, Paid M.J. Bugbee in full	$.25
Total	$28.00
Cash on hand	$89.91
	$1.08

ANOTHER MOST interesting item in the ledger was the fact that the parents had to provide the wood for the stoves to keep the children warm during the winter months.

Here is how it was explained in the ledger:

"It was agreed that there be one quarter cord of good dry wood cut, suitable for suitable length split and corded before acceptance by the director.

That the wood be brought the first week a man sends a child to school.

That those who fail to get the wood shall pay for the same at the rate of three shillings per quarter of a cord"

While repairs and maintenance of present day schools is a large budget item, according to Superintendent Mike Hoben, the cost in the days before the war is now laughable in comparison. In the minutes of an 1856 meeting it is recorded:

"The Board agrees that there be $5 raised for repairs on school house."

Reading further at the same meeting is this surprise item:

"That fifty cents per pupil be raised to support the school for the ensuing year. And that $50 be applied to support the winter school."

And how the present school board might relish this final item of the meeting minutes:

"It is agreed that this meeting be adjourned one year. (signed) O.H. Patten-gell, Clerk

What an interesting volume this will be when presented to the Historical Society.

CEP Band to compete

The Plymouth Centennial Educational Park Band will be competing Saturday in regional competition in Ohio.

The CEP Band, under the leadership of director James R. Griffith and assistant director Carl Battishill, will be competing in the Marching Bands of America's northern regional championship at the University of Toledo.

The band will enter preliminary competition Saturday in hopes of capturing one of the 10 finalist's positions for the evening's championship contest beginning at 7:30 at the Glass Bowl Stadium.

Tickets for the preliminaries are $2 and for the finals are $4 — both on sale at the gate.

This marks the first time the CEP Marching Band has appeared at an MBA competition.

The 138-members of the band last year won best percussion at the Western Michigan University Cavalcade of Bands.

In the past, the band has presented six solo post-game shows in the University of Michigan stadium in conjunction with the annual Michigan Band Day and has participated in the Tournament of Roses Parade, the Orange Bowl Parade, and the J.L. Hudson Thanksgiving Day Parade.

The MBA was formed in October 1975 by Larry McCormick who is president of McCormick Enterprises. The MBA is a subsidiary of McCormick's Enterprises, Inc. and is headquartered in Arlington Heights, Ill., northwest of Chicago.

Home building forecast looks toward 1985 as the year of 'gap growth'

By TOM LONERGAN

One hundred thousand dollars for an average used house in Livonia or Troy?

That's what it may cost in 1985, according to the Metropolitan Detroit Council of Boards of Realtors. The current average existing home price in metropolitan Detroit is $55,000.

Realtors predict new development in the next decade will be "concentrated in the gaps," between Wayne and Ypsilanti, between Canton Township and Ann Arbor, from Farmington Hills and Novi to Livingston County in the northwest; Troy and Rochester northwest to the I-75-Sashabaw Road area in Oakland County.

AT A PRESS conference this week, 12 council representatives from southeast Michigan painted a dreary picture for future homeowners.

"If you've got a lot of money, I guess it's encouraging," said council chairwoman Bernice McCray, of Dearborn.

As the home mortgage rate (based on a 20 percent down payment) climbed to 12½ percent recently, "properties, including the best homes, are now staying on the market longer," according to the real estate group.

John Cole, president of the Western Wayne-Oakland County Board of Realtors, said prospective homeowners won't save by waiting for the mortgage rate to go down, which the group predicted would happen "sometime next year."

"Inflation would tend to eat up any savings you'd enjoy," Cole said.

Cole said the average sale price in August of existing homes in his area, including Rosedale Park in Detroit, was $53,400, compared to $45,300 in August 1978. The average sale price in Livonia this year has been $61,000.

He predicted the price would climb "another 10 to 12 percent" in the next year.

THE REALTORS group, meeting in Detroit for its annual convention, predicted "a housing shortage coming in the 1980s, particularly for lower priced starter homes, and for income producing properties, condominiums and lake fronts.

"More housing growth can be expected within close commuting distance to new industrial and commercial development," the group said in a prepared statement.

"Once major public transportation avenues are established, they will prove to be effective lures for greater concentrations of growth."

Oakland County led new housing development last year with 9,756 net new dwelling units, followed by Macomb with 3,000 fewer. That pattern will continue, realtors said.

But Detroit will also have "more activity, primarily because of the energy crisis," said John Bosch, president of the Michigan Association of Realtors.

The group said: "We see increased attention being paid to land already developed . . . with many old homes being thoroughly renovated or demolished to make way for new living units."

BUT AN EXODUS back to Detroit is not in the cards, realtors said.

Rather than a "great flood," the move back will be "a gradual transition as housing, especially condominiums and apartments, becomes available."

Besides central Detroit, Cole said the condominium market will likely expand in Southfield, Farmington Hills and Novi.

During the 1970s, the average home price has doubled, the group said, due to inflation, larger lot sizes in outlying areas and larger homes.

With soaring prices predicted for the 1980s, they said "more new homes will be prefabricated and placed on a prepared site in a very short time to decrease the need for labor."

Family services get fund help

Each week, hundreds of area residents seek counseling and related services from Plymouth Service and Growth Works.

One of the oldest Plymouth Community Fund agencies, Family Service, located at 880 Wing Street, has been providing counseling services to area residents since 1963.

Growth Works, one of the Plymouth Community Fund's more recent agencies, provides youth services and counseling programs.

Both agencies address a wide range of problems and concerns and while addressing similar family and personal problems, they offer unique and different approaches.

FAMILY SERVICE serves clients seeking counseling for more ongoing problems which relate to marriage, pre-marriage, alcohol and/or drug abuse, pregnancies, parent/child relationships, adolescence and divorce.

Staff members hold counseling sessions with individuals, couples or families.

The agency also sponsors a number of groups which meet regularly to share mutual problems. These have included a group of pre-teens and older adolescents who were experiencing problems in school or at home, an adult group focusing on new roles for women, and a very successful mother and new infant program.

Plymouth Family Service charges fees on a sliding scale, based on the client's ability to pay. Plymouth Community Fund support insures that the services are available to all regardless of financial status.

Donations are now being accepted to the annual Community Fund Drive, Box 356, Plymouth. Residents who contribute through payroll deduction in other areas are reminded to designate their contributions to the Plymouth Community Fund.

THE PLYMOUTH Community Fund also supports Growth Works, an agency with two major program areas — its Youth Services (formerly known as the Youth Center) and Counseling and Intervention Services (formerly Our House Crisis Center effort).

Counseling and Intervention Services provided programming for over 2,000 people this year. Services include counseling, crisis intervention programming, special self-help groups, tutoring for elementary school-aged children, and substance abuse programming.

Services are available on a walk-in and appointment basis. The C & CIS efforts have recently relocated to the Growth Works Main Street site.

Growth Works Services, located at 271 S. Main provides more than leisure time activities for area youth. During 1978 two major programs were initiated by Youth Services.

The first provides alternative education programs in conjunction with the Plymouth-Canton Schools for the needs of students who are unsuccessful in the conventional high school environment.

The second program is the sponsorship of a Department of Labor Youth Community Conservation and Improvement Project which provides jobs, academic credit and employability skills training to area youth.

Even with these pursuits, leisure time activities are still an essential part of the Youth Services program. "People don't come here just because they might have problems," staff member Dale Yagiela explains, "they come here to have a good time."

Majestic cranes seek warmer winter home

By LEM MESEE
Outdoors writer

They fly with their legs and necks stretched almost straight out 4 1/2 feet. Their wingspreads are as wide as six feet.

If you seem them soaring south in the next few weeks, listen closely to the call. If it sounds like the squawking of rusty hinges, you have spotted the greater sandhill crane.

The third largest bird in this country, the sandhill crane is topped only by the condors of California and the rare whooping crane.

From 1966-73, the greater sandhill crane was an endangered species, but it is thriving now in the Hiawatha National Forest of Michigan's Upper Peninsula. Large bogs give them the nesting privacy they need, according to the National Forest Service. They eat rodents, frogs and insects.

The eastern UP is its favorite spot, but other nesting centers are in south central Minnesota, Wisconsin and Ontario.

Before leaving the UP in fall, they congregate in areas near St. Ignace to the east and Escanaba in the center. The St. Ignace congregation flies through the Lower Peninsula, making stops in Jackson and Washtenaw counties. The Escanaba contingent flies across Wisconsin.

They take the same routes back during the second week of April.

The adult sandhill crane is gray with a red cap. The immature (under age 4) birds are brown. Coloring is uniform. One field mark: The rapid upstroke of the wings.

NOW IS A good time to get in a plug for my favorite map project — getting the Michigan Department of Transportation to show the four national forests on the state map.

State parks and forests are shown, but not the federal government's forests.

The last excuse M-DOT gave for not showing national forests was "clutter."

Nonsense. The state highway map is bare in those areas.

National forests were shown on the state map until 1962. Other states' maps show national forests. Why doesn't Michigan? Is there some kind of bad blood between state and federal authorities?

Michigan has four national forests — Ottawa, in the western UP; Hiawatha, in two sections in the eastern UP; Manistee, in the northwestern LP; and Huron, in the northeastern LP.

You can obtain free, excellent maps showing campgrounds, boat and canoe launches and other national forest facilities. For UP maps, write to: Forest Supervisor, Ottawa or Hiawatha National Forest, Escanaba. For lower peninsula maps, write to Forest Supervisor, Manistee or Huron National Forest, Cadillac.

PUT — TAKE area hunting for pheasants is heavy, with a lot of success, the DNR reports in Oakland County.

Squirrel hunting is still relatively poor due to dense foliage.

Falconry is permitted for hunting migratory game birds from Sept. 1 to Dec. 16. Bag limit is three birds. Possession limit is six falcons. For rules and information on falconry, write to: Wildlife Division, Department of Natural Resources, Box 30028 Lansing 48909.

YOU'VE HEARD of nature trails, but how about a canoe trail?

They have the nation's first at Oakwoods Metropolitan, a short hop south on I-275 near Flat Rock.

"Walk in the Water Trail" winds around several islands in the Huron River near the park's nature center. You can launch your own canoe there or rent one at nearby liveries.

A series of floats, each with an interpretive message about the Huron River environment, marks the one-mile circular path. The water has been low because of our dry September, and the river is wide, so you will have no problem with contrary river currents.

The idea came from Fred Wooley, seasonal naturalist at Oakwoods. He just completed his master's degree in environmental education at the University of Michigan.

Oakwoods, being "downriver," doesn't get the same attention that such western parks as Kensington and Proud Lake get. But it's one a canoeist shouldn't overlook. I've been there.

Salem seniors are thanked

Editor:
To all Plymouth Salem High seniors who helped at the Fall Festival, we give you a hearty "thanks."
The senior class never would have made it without your patient cooperation. Even though we are all sick of pizza now, we survived Fall Festival and made a nice profit. Thanks again for giving of your time.

Editor:
Before it's too late we would like to give a special thanks to the Plymouth Community Arts Council which provided a student booth at the arts and crafts show during Fall Festival.
We are both 12-years-old and are really happy to have that money from selling our artwork. Without the help of Mrs. Pat MacIsaac and Mrs. Pat Atchinson we couldn't have done it.

A rummage sale yields bargain book

Like a great many others in today's society, I have become addicted to rummage sales. It is often difficult for me to keep from buying something for which I have no earthly use, simply because it seems to be such a good bargain.

Of course, it's no bargain at any price if I can't really use it. Last week, however, I did find a real bargain. For 25 cents I purchased a used copy of a book entitled: "What Happens After Death?" by Steven West, in collaboration with Donald Tyburn-Lombard. It was published in 1977 by Abbott McDonnell-Winchester Publishers in New York.

After reading this book, I realized that it was well worth the original price of $9.95, and I did, indeed, have a bargain.

STEVEN WEST is the president of the American Association of Applied Psychology.

Donald Tyburn-Lombard, BS, LLB, has studied at Columbia University, the University of California and Boston University. He has written and directed many documentary films, and edited books and articles in avionics and electronics.

Like so many others in legitimate scientific fields, both of these learned men have long been interested in the mysteries of life and death.

The chapter on dreams is, by itself, reason enough to buy this book.

WEST GIVES PRECISE directions for keeping a dream notebook and lists several helpful methods for analyzing and interpreting one's own dreams.

Reincarnation, out-of-body travel, the origin of man, the fourth dimension, UFOs and magic are all discussed in this book about life after death.

OCTOBER IS traditionally the best month of the year for spirit communication. Therefore, we have chosen the last week of this month to hold a seance.

In the back room at Nefertiti's Nest in Bloomfield Hills, we will be forming a circle with which to page the spirits. If you are interested in taking part in this experiment, you may call 427-1072 for further information.

Former women's jail being redone

Prison laborers are preparing the former women's division of the Detroit House of Corrections (DeHoCo) for remodeling.

When finished next year, the 50-year-old prison will be able to house some 320 male offenders.

Formerly owned by the city of Detroit, the state paid $1.6 million for the buildings and surrounding 159.4 acres of land. The remodeling is projected to cost about $3.8 million.

CONTRACTS FOR remodeling are expected to be awarded this month and work completed by May 1980.

The women's prison closed in August 1977 after the state terminated its two-year lease with Detroit, and when the Huron Valley Women's Facility was opened near Ypsilanti.

As yet unnamed, the remodeled prison will hold a special kind of prisoner, usually only for short periods of time.

The 320 convicts will live in single rooms. About 50 of the men will be minimum security and in the work-pass program run by the state corrections department.

The rest of the prisoners will be medium security and generally composed of parole violators waiting for revocation hearings by the parole board and halfway house rule violators returned to a more secure setting.

Most will be at the prison for six months to a year. Because of this, programming will consist of short courses and include high school completion, job-seeking skills, and consumer education. Individual and group counseling also will be made available.

And there has been some discussion of locating a prison industry at DeHoCo in the future.

PERIMETER SECURITY will be upgraded considerably over the former facility.

The site security will include two chain link fences separated by concertina wire, and an electronic detection system. A superintendent is expected to be named soon.

The state hopes to raze the facility when a new 550-bed prison is built nearby in the next three to five years.

Preparation for the actual remodeling is being done by a work crew of minimum-security prisoners from Camp Waterloo in Jackson County, supervised by a civilian staff from other prisons.

Corrections officials said allowing the inmates to do the preparatory work should save the state about $30,000 in labor charges. Inmates are paid $1.75 a day for their work.

Question of the week:

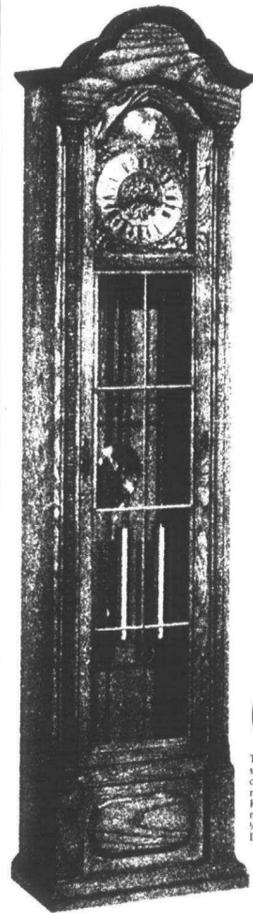

The question of the week provides input to state Reps. Robert Law, Tom Brown, Jack Kirksey, and Roy Smith, and Sen. Robert Geake.

This week's question is: "Would you favor a system of annual vehicle safety inspection which would be designed to identify and correct faulty equipment on automobiles such as lights, brakes, windshield wipers, steering, etc.?"

The system proposed would provide for annual inspections of motor vehicles in Michigan. The system would create private, licensed inspection stations where vehicles would be examined for possible faulty equipment.

The Michigan State Police would supervise the system and structure inspections to minimize potential fraud and abuse.

To give your comments, phone Rep. Jack Kirksey between 11 a.m.-1 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 6, at 422-0750.

GEM WISE

YOU'LL GET A CHARGE OUT OF THIS!

ORIN J. MAZZONI, Jr.
Certified Gemologist

The other day one of my long-time customers came into the store with a strange look on her face. She motioned me aside, confiding to me that one of my window displays was not being properly maintained. She didn't want to cause trouble for any of my sales people, she said, but the stones in the window were all dirty!

When I went to investigate, I did indeed find our gemstone display covered with dust, but there is a good explanation. The stones we had on display were tourmalines. Tourmaline possesses the property of pyroelectricity, and when it is heated to 100°C, it develops a positive charge at one end and a negative at the other. This electrical charge causes the stone to attract dust and other light particles. The hot summer sun combined with the heat of the display lights gave our stones quite a charge. Of course, we do keep our windows clean, but some store construction was producing a good deal of fine sawdust, and some of it floated right into the window box.

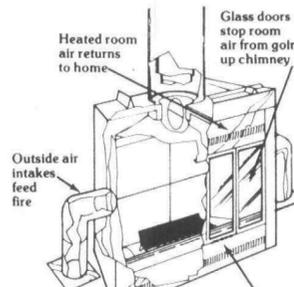

Tourmaline is a very attractive gemstone which occurs in many colors, sometimes in crystals of two colors. It is found in relative abundance in Maine and California and is considered one of the most American of gemstones. At Orin Jewelers we usually have in stock quite a few pieces designed around tourmaline. Please stop by when you're in the neighborhood.

Interest rates are forcing home buyers out

New increases in home mortgage interest rates will have a two-sided effect on the resale home market, according to the Western Wayne Oakland County Board of Realtors (WWOBCR).

"The jump in interest rates past 12 percent for loans with a 20 percent down payment and the uncertainty about the general economy will force an increased number of prospective buyers out of the market," said John Cole, WWOBCR president.

"We look for sales to continue to taper off until about March when seasonal demand will focus increased attention on home buying. By that time, we also hope a build-up in funds available for mortgage loans will cause interest rates to begin edging down.

"THE DEMAND for housing remains very high and, once the shock of the interest rate increases has been overcome, prospective buyers will begin to examine their options. "Some will discover that the income tax deduction for interest paid plus the build-up of equity still makes a home an attractive investment despite the high rates. Others will turn to the lower rate FHA and VA loans or try to buy through a land contract which also offers a more favorable rate."

Cole said there are still some homes being marketed with lower rate existing mortgages that can be assumed. Competition for such homes will be strong, and their market value will remain high, he added.

"For some buyers, particularly people transferring into the area, there isn't really any alternative to buying regardless of the existing rate," the WWOBCR president said. "If there is any significant drop in interest rates in the future, such buyers can be expected to refinance their home purchases.

"From the seller's point of view, the depressed market and an expected growth in available listing may mean a downward adjustment in asking prices. We have already begun to see this in the outlying areas where prices for homes in the $60,000 and up range have been lowered as much as 10 to 12 percent.

"WITH THE INCREASED competition for buyers, sellers also can expect their homes to stay on the market longer. It's certain that our members and other realtors will be striving even harder to find quality buyers."

Cole said a rise in unemployment also may place more listings on the market. He noted that many homes in recent years have been bought with the combined incomes of two wage earners.

"If one or both are laid off from their jobs, they may be unable to meet their payments and will be forced into selling their homes," he said.

However, he urged homeowners in such situations to discuss the problem with their lender first to see if some other remedy can be found.

"Buyers now are in an unusual position," Cole stated. "They can expect to get more house for their money than they could previously. But at the same time, they'll find a tighter money market with record interest rates."

Two fires strike plant within 24 hours

Plymouth Township Fire officials are investigating a fire at Associated Spring Co. that occurred less than 24 hours after another fire in the same plant.

According to township Fire Chief Larry Groth, both fires appeared unlated and neither required evacuation of the plant on Plymouth Road.

Last Thursday evening firefighters responded to a smoke stack fire caused by carbon build up, Groth says. The blaze, caused by oil and dust collection, was contained in the stack. It was extinguished by the time firefighters arrived.

A second fire, at 3:30 p.m. Friday, was caused after a suspended canopy caught fire from sparks emitted from a spring testing machine, says employee Claude Bynum.

He described the second fire as "one in a million."

Bynum says the canopy hung about eight feet over the machine.

The second fire still is under investigation.

About 450 people are employed at the plant.

Canton can plan while main is constructed

After much ado and considerable maneuvering, Canton's water pressure problems appear to be on the road to being at least partially solved.

Through a series of meetings with officials from Westland, the city of Detroit and the state of Michigan, an agreement has been reached that the Stark road water main will finally be built.

This project, which will cost somewhere in the range of $2 million, is being touted as the answer to Canton's ever-weakening water pressure.

THE SITUATION has reached the point that the Michigan Department of Health has announced that water tap-in permits would not be issued for new, heavy water-use developments in Canton.

Also, for the second year, residents were required to restrict watering their lawns on an odd-even basis during the summer.

Canton Supervisor Noel Culbert says Detroit — at Mayor Coleman Young's direction — has definitely committed itself to building the water main.

Should that be the case, development in Canton can proceed once again. But this could prove to be a mixed blessing.

ADEQUATE FACILITIES may attract the industrial development that Canton sorely needs. A major industry would naturally be reluctant to plan to set up shop in Canton when there is doubt that a tap-in permit would be obtainable.

Lack of facilities, however, gives Canton a perfect excuse not to allow ungainly subdivision development without adequate utilities, police, fire or road services.

The township now suffers from imbalance. There is no business district, creating a situation where commercial ventures become offensive because their placement is poorly planned.

Industry is lacking, creating a tax burden upon homeowners.

Subdivisions are crammed together, causing a strain on school and government services.

A NEW WATER main will not solve all Canton's problems, even if it could be built overnight.

As it stands, the main won't be in operation for a good year if one allows for normal building time plus the usual delays.

Thus, the tap-in permits will have to be judiciously doled out, and new development will continue to be closely scrutinized for at least another year.

Canton would do well to use that year to get its master plan and zoning ordinance now under consideration in operation. Township officials can use this coming year to plan future development and to decide what kind of development Canton needs. Industry can be solicited and other development can be better guided.

Then, when all systems are go, Canton will be ready.

'The builders are restless'

We miss part of SC's value

One of the great things about a college town, besides the high rents students pay into the local economy, is the cultural riches the ordinary citizen can find on campus.

Think of Wayne State University's Hilberry classic and Bonstelle theaters, along with its musical attractions. Think of the University of Michigan with its Hill Auditorium for concerts, its Power Center for the Performing Arts, its Lydia Mendelssohn Theater and a host of other spots for recitals and lectures, all open to the public.

Some visionary folks had a notion the same thing could happen in the outer communities of Wayne County — the Schoolcraft College District. It is not to be. The voters have said "no" to anything but teaching facilities.

THAT'S THE CASE with the Culinary Arts addition, whose preliminary plans have been approved by the board of trustees. The project has been scaled down from $2.3 million to about $1.3 million.

Voters in June rejected a minute tax hike that would have provided community facilities as well as teaching facilities. So the board proceeded with what money it had — $638,000 from an old bond issue and about the same amount of state funding — to design classroom and lab space.

Gone from the plans are three dining areas for community functions, an area where Schoolcraft is virtually at capacity. Gone is space for the students services function (the excellent Campus Globe newspaper will continue to function in quarters worse than most high school papers have). Gone is space for counselors.

There will be space for doubling enrollment in the culinary arts curriculum to 120. But there could have been so much more.

THE SAME kind of thing is likely to happen with fine arts.

The vision of a major auditorium has been shot down pretty effectively by voters. For entertainment, we will have to be content with Hollywood movies, discos and bowling.

Nevertheless, Schoolcraft still needs a far more adequate set of teaching, rehearsal and storage rooms for music, painting, sculpture and the rest. Any fine arts facility on Haggerty Road will have to be confined to instruction.

That's too bad. From the taxpayers' point of view, we're getting only part of the value of a college — classroom instruction — and short-changing ourselves in the arts.

From the college's point of view, it's also too bad because a fine college doesn't flourish by state aid and property taxes alone. It flourishes by private donations, and it doesn't get private donations unless it is attracting visits by potential donors.

So it looks as if we must keep our noses to the notebooks and stop the cultural daydreaming.

'Jock mentality' protects Bo

A bit of family folklore came to mind the other day as I read about the latest antics of Wolverine folk hero Bo Schembechler.

The story revolves around my older brother, then 7 years old. I was 4.

I was perched on the playground swing, teasing my brother to consternation by asking him questions which he couldn't answer.

Finally, utterly frustrated, my brother resorted to a typical 7-year-old's solution — he punched me.

It was then, my folks say, they knew I was going to be a journalist.

It's one of those stories that everyone gets a big kick out of retelling at family reunions — two kids clashing in a battle of witlessness.

WHAT ISN'T SO funny is when a grown man, a person who is held up as an example of the All-American way, pushes a student reporter around because he can't answer a question.

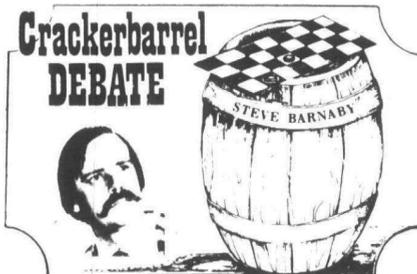

In case you didn't hear about the incident, let me fill you in on the details.

It seems that a reporter from the student newspaper, the Michigan Daily, approached Bo and asked if he would emphasize kicking more when recruiting because of the football team's dismal record when it came to field goal attempts.

The team has missed nine straight field goal attempts. Two misses cost Michigan the Notre Dame game.

Bo took umbrage, pushed the reporter's microphone away and said, "Don't make me look bad, understand, son, or I'll throw you the hell out of Michigan football."

IT WAS THEN that Bo resorted to the push tactics as witnessed by some other reporters standing nearby. Bo's words of wisdom were recorded on tape.

At the least Bo owes the reporter a public apology. And if justice were administered on an equal basis in this country, Schembechler should get the boot — just like Woody Hayes.

But you can bet there will be neither a public apology nor a firing. You see, there is a difference between the situation in which Bo finds himself and the one Woody was in last year. The difference demonstrates how sick our sense of justice in this country has become — especially when it comes to sports.

AS YOU RECALL, last year, Woody was dumped as Ohio State's gridiron coach after punching an opposing player for having the audacity to intercept a pass during the Gator Bowl.

In truth, there isn't a lick of difference in the two incidents, and the punishment should be the same. The difference comes in the jock mentality.

You see, Woody had become victim to the cardinal sin of sports — he had lost too many of the important games. His team lost to the University of Michigan several times and Ohio had to live with the disgrace of going to a bowl game with less stature than the Rose Bowl. In short, he was expendable.

Bo, on the other hand, is still in the running. With the exception of the Rose Bowl, Schembechler wins the big ones. He's the winningest coach in college football.

But the tide is turning, as is Bo's temper. Last year his team lost to Michigan State and had to settle for a co-championship Big Ten Title. This year his team lost to Notre Dame.

Woody shoved a jock while his pupil, Bo, shoved a working newsman. In the jock mentality, the former act is a mortal sin, the latter a mere flare of temper.

It will be interesting to see what will happen if the boys in blue and maize lose to arch-rival Spartans this year and Bo has another temper tantrum. The reaction could be different.

A monument to Ty Cobb

The young writer on the other end of the line was Frank. "They are going to unveil a monument to Ty Cobb down in Georgia," he said, "and I have been assigned to write a piece about the 'all-time star of the Detroit Tigers'."

"But I am only 31 years old. I never saw him play and never even have seen him. That's why I am calling on you. Your old friend, Charley Gehringer told me that you were the fellow who could help me."

Through the years The Stroller always has made it a point to help young fellows along the journalistic trail as a sort of full payment for the many boosts he got along the way. So he agreed to help the young writer — willingly, over the phone.

"I REMEMBER COBB very well," he told the young fellow "I and remember him as the only player he ever saw who swung three bats instead of two on the way up to the plate."

The Stroller also passed along the tale that Cobb had ordered the grass in front of third base watered every morning, so his bunts in the afternoon would be slowed down. And he also recalled for the young writer that he had seen Cobb circle the bases on a bunt — the only ballplayer who ever had done that trick. That's how much havoc he raised with the infielders when he got on base.

While the young fellow admitted he was taking notes, The Stroller also recalled the afternoon when Cobb raced into the stands in Philadelphia to attack a fan who had been molesting him, a move which brought about the most unusual strike in baseball history.

"I have a lot of that material," the young fellow cut in. "Gehringer, who was a rookie when Cobb was the Tiger manager, told me a lot of those things. I would like to know more of him as a man when he was out of his baseball uniform."

THE REQUEST brought back memories of the most frugal man he ever had seen, in uniform or out.

In the days when Cobb was the Tiger manager in the mid-20's stiff-rimmed straw hats were the vogue. As the season drew to a close, it was the custom to recognize a good play by throwing your stiff-rimmed hat in the air instead of applauding. There were days when the outfield was littered with straw hats.

On these occasions Ty ordered little Jimmy Duggan, the Tiger trainer, to gather up all those hats. Then, Cobb ordered them packed and sent down to his home in Georgia.

Asked what Ty did with the hats, Duggan laughingly answered, "He pays his help down there with them. He tells them that's what the white man wears up north, and they are glad to get them."

THE FRUGALITY of the "Georgia Peach" — as the baseball fans remember him — peaked after he had ended his baseball career. He was invited to play a series of golf matches with Babe Ruth, who also had ended his baseball days.

They headed west and agreed to a match at Grosse Ile Country Club. Cobb, always a great competitor, arrived two days early and asked to practice with Joe Devany's son. Joe was the pro and his boy knew the course. In fact, Cobb asked him to caddy for him on the big day.

So great was the crowd that the match had to be halted at the 14th hole with the score even.

Back in the locker room Ruth's caddy came in after a bit and said, "Mr. Ruth, your clubs are all cleaned and they are in the bag over there."

"Okay, boy," Babe answered and peeled a $20 bill off his roll and gave it to him.

A few lockers away, Cobb's caddy, the pro's son, said the same thing to Cobb. His clubs were cleaned and ready.

"What are the caddy rates here?" Ty asked. When the caddy answered, "Two dollars," Cobb looked up and said, "but we only played 14 holes," and he gave the lad $1.75.

This was Ty Cobb out of baseball uniform. And The Stroller wonders whether any of those traits will be carved into the monument.

An observation

A television repairman of our acquaintance makes the following observation on the seasonality of his business and on man's nature:

"The average man gets his TV repaired only in the fall, so that he can watch football. But he lets his family watch a crappy picture the rest of the year."

When football betting becomes jaded

Has gridiron betting in your life become jaded? Does the point spread offered by the professionals leave you frustrated?

Are office football pools just more of the same? Maybe you'd like to take a fling at a system recently worked out by two of my racquetball chums and me.

First of all, you must understand these two characters are both accountants. That means they always want a clear-cut explanation of what the numbers are and how they fit together. Perfectly, of course.

SO A BOLD NEW APPROACH seemed to be in order.

The betting scheme got its baptism of fire with the Michigan/Notre Dame outing. It worked perfectly. I won.

When this scheme was first mentioned, the two accountants were skeptical. One guy wanted to know what the point spread was.

"Forget that old stuff," he was advised. "Just put your dollar into this envelope and then we can discuss the system."

That demand fell on deaf ears. So a full round-up seemed to be the order of things.

MAYBE WE SHOULD digress at this point to say that this is the perfect occasion to give the system a try. It's Michigan/Michigan State football time again. Here is a game where there really can be no favorite, no matter what the experts say.

You just can't be certain until about 4:30 p.m. any Saturday on which the Spartans and Wolverines clash as to who that season's winner will be.

Thus, the average bettor usually ends up becoming thoroughly befuddled before the whole thing is completed.

In fact, if the truth be known (to coin a phrase, as Uncle Anthony of Allston, Mass. used to say), many people betting would probably be just as glad not to wager on this one.

BUT THAT'S ANOTHER MATTER. I'm here to reveal an exciting new way to separate you from your money or occasionally turn a buck for you.

There are five parts to this little betting equation. Each one carries a point value.

(No, friends, this has nothing to do with Dungeons and Dragons.)

As many persons as you like may join the fun. The more who do, the more the winner earns. Just be certain to have a sturdy enough envelope to hold the cash.

The usual bet would be $1, although you could up that, depending on the type of rollers you wager with.

For starters, each bettor secretly writes down what he or she thinks will be the final score for your game of the week.

THE MONEY IS PLACED inside the envelope and the organizer accepts the score guesses. The organizer pens each estimate on the front, opposite the name of the bettor.

Now for the part of the bet which seems to delight accountant types.

First, for picking the winning team a bettor earns 20 points.

Second, closest to difference in individual team scores, is good for seven points.

Third, closest to total points scored, five points.

Fourth, closest to points scored by winner, four points.

Fifth, closest to points scored by loser, two points.

NOW, IF YOU'RE THE only one to select the actual winner (as I did when Notre Dame edged Michigan), you pick up all the cash — as you should. I never cottoned up to those deals where your team won, but you lost the bet because of the point spread.

The 20 points earned in this system cannot be topped by the four secondary categories, all of which add up to 18.

The real fun begins when several players settle on the same team. Then it comes down to which one was the best predictor of the actual score.

Why not give it a try this weekend? And good luck.

A QUICK MESSAGE to the army of would-be columnists: Please be patient. It will be several weeks at least before the evaluation process has been completed. Some of you have called, wondering where you stand. There's no way of knowing now. That will come only after each set-of-three samples has been read and judged.

To say I am overwhelmed by your response would be the understatement of 1979. I never would have guessed so many suburbanites are so motivated and such capable writers.

Will exercise cause you to eat too much?

Question: Many people claim that an increase in exercise leads to an increased appetite and food intake, which interfere with weight losses. Is this true?

That is a common belief which has persisted for many years. The belief is that exercise stimulates one to take in more calories of food than what is expended in exercise.

It isn't so. Numerous research studies have proved it a misconception.

DR. JEAN MAYER, World-famous Harvard nutritionist, found that rats exercised daily by treadmill running for up to one hour showed a decrease in food intake and body weight compared to sedentary animals.

With longer periods of exercise, food intake increased but only to the point where body weight was maintained. Swimming the rats instead of running them gave comparable results.

Mayer noted similar results in a study done in West Bengal, India, in which the voluntary food intake and body weight of 300 adult workers were studied. The lowest voluntary food intake and body weight were noted among workers who engaged in light, regular activity.

In contrast, sedentary workers were heavier and ate more. Workers performing heavy manual labor generally ate more than the other groups, yet their body weights were comparable to those who engaged in light activity — and lighter than those of the sedentary group.

SEVERAL EXERCISE training studies on young and middle-aged adults have utilized simultaneous dietary records to assess possible voluntary or involuntary adjustments in calorie intake.

Barry Franklin

Results generally indicated either no change in food intake with moderate exercise of extended duration or slight decreases with vigorous exercise of shorter duration.

The effect of appetite suppression is perhaps mediated by the increased epinephrine (produced by the adrenal) and non-epinephrine levels evoked by heavy exercise.

Questions on physical fitness may be sent to Dr. Franklin in care of this newspaper. He will attempt to answer questions of general interest in his column.

Introducing Barry Franklin

Can you really take off "spot" fat? Is sexual activity dangerous to a person who has had a heart attack? Sure, shoveling snow can be hazardous — but why?

Dr. Barry A. Franklin deals with such practical fitness questions. He also knows about the medical research which goes into the answers. His columns will run for 13 weeks.

The area resident has two titles — co-director of cardiac rehabilitation and physical fitness at Sinai Hospital and assistant professor of physiology at Wayne State University.

He has taught and done research in coronary heart disease, obesity, physical fitness and nutrition. He is author or co-author of many scholarly articles.

Born 31 years ago in Cleveland, Franklin earned his bachelor of science degree from Kent State University, master of science from the University of Michigan and Ph.D. in physiology at Pennsylvania State University.

He has worked for Holiday Health

Spas, the YMCA, the U-M youth fitness program, Millard Fillmore Hospital in Buffalo, N.Y., and the American College of Sport Medicine.

"The escalating interest and participation in exercise and preventive medicine" stimulated him to propose the column. "Fifty-five percent of the population is engaged in some form of regular exercise."

He writes about the benefits and limitations of exercise, as well as about lifestyles, diet fads and how to deal with stress and tension.

Consumer sales low in '79-'80, U-M research study finds

A second year of declining consumer confidence, and business expectations now at record low levels, indicate that declines in consumer sales, especially automobiles and large items, can be expected through the balance of 1979 and into early 1980.

This is the summary outlook offered by University of Michigan economists in reporting on the latest quarterly survey of Consumer Attitudes by the U-M Survey Research Center (SRC).

The Index of Consumer Sentiment was 64.5 in the August 1979 survey of a nationwide representative sample of 1,212 respondents. The index thus stands 3.6 points below the May 1979 quarterly reading and is down nearly 14 points from a year ago and down 23 points from two years ago.

Although the decline in consumer confidence during the past year has been steep and widespread, Survey Director Richard T. Curtin noted in his report, "the overall decline in sentiment has been less severe than prior to the last recession, mainly due to the impact of buy-in-advance psychology."

HE REPORTED that the rate of savings out of disposable income has remained below 6 percent, its long-term average, since late 1976.

"In contrast, from 1970 to 1975 the quarterly saving rate fell below 6 percent only once. During the second half of 1979 and early 1980, continued cutbacks in consumer spending will result in savings rates moving above the 6 percent level."

Although personal financial attitudes have improved somewhat, during the past three months, they remain near record low levels, the U-M report states.

Overall, more families reported that, compared with a year earlier, they were worse rather than better off financially (38 vs. 33 percent), and more families expected to be worse off rather than better off financially in a year (25 vs. 23 percent).

OTHER HIGHLIGHTS from the U-M report:

- Compared to a year ago, more respondents have more frequently reported hearing unfavorable changes in business conditions. In recent months, respondents have increasingly reported growing signs of a slowdown in the economy.

- Confidence in government economic policies to combat inflation and unemployment remained near historic low levels in August. Among all families, 42 percent rated government policy as poor, up from 38 percent in May and 36 percent a year ago.

- In the August 1979 survey, 58 percent of all families reported that it was a good time to buy large household durables, down from 62 percent in May and a year ago.

- Buy-in-advance psychology continues to play an important role in the durable goods market. In August 1979, 33 percent reported that it was a good time to buy since prices would only go higher in the future, slightly below the 35 percent recorded in May and a year ago.

- Buying attitudes toward automobiles were largely unchanged from the May reading, although below year-ago levels. In August 1979, 38 percent of all families rated buying conditions as good for automobiles, compared with 39 percent in May and 40 percent a year ago.

- Offsetting trends were at work: Buy-in-advance psychology has greatly diminished, but the availability of new fuel efficient models has caused some increase in favorable evaluations of market conditions for automobiles.

- Market conditions for houses declined somewhat in the August 1979 survey. Among all families, 46 percent rated buying conditions as favorable for houses in August, down from 51 percent in May and 50 percent a year ago. Rising interest rates have contributed to the decline.

Plymouth Salem downs Ann Arbor girls, 60-44

Plymouth Salem gained its sixth victory in seven starts by defeating Ann Arbor Huron on the road Tuesday night, 60-44, in a non-league girls' basketball game.

An effective fast-break and sound defense spearheaded the Salem victory. After leading only 12-10 after one quarter of play, Salem, coached by Bob Blohm, got its offense going outscoring the River Rats, 18-8, in the second quarter.

"We had a lot of good opportunities in the first quarter, but couldn't get the ball to fall," said Blohm. "We got off a lot of good shots."

Salem's defense became stingy in the second quarter as Huron, sporting a 5-1 mark going into the game, was forced to shoot from the perimeter.

"They never really got the ball inside on us," said Blohm. "This is as good of defense as I've seen."

"Our defensive position was sound. We went with our basic man-to-man defense the whole way."

Huron's full-court press in the first quarter failed to dent the Rocks.

In the third quarter Salem outscored Huron 15-5 to take a comfortable 45-23 lead heading into the final period.

Senior forward Cheryl Sobkow led Salem in scoring with 13 points and 12 rebounds.

SENIORS NAN Horwood and Patti Weidman each chipped in with 12 points. Weidman had six blocked shots and collected 14 caroms.

"We're getting better with our defense and I thought our bench did a good job. We're getting a lot of people to step in for us," said Blohm.

"Julie Lynch did a good job defensively and so did Jean Sobkow."

Kathy Dyer paced Huron with 13 points and Karen Deskins added 11.

"Dyer was one of the best guards I've seen this year," Blohm said. "I was glad we were able to contain her. She got most of her points in the last quarter."

Salem will be off until next Tuesday at home when it entertains Dearborn Edsel Ford in a Suburban Eight League game. The Rocks are undefeated in league play.

Chiefs continue hustling

Canton cagers edge Walled Lake

By BRAD EMONS

Fear is certainly not in the vocabulary of coach Mike McCauley and his Plymouth Canton girls' basketball team.

With three players already out of action for a considerable length of time because of serious injuries, Canton still managed to beat Walled Lake Central at home Tuesday night, 42-41.

The victory put Canton over the .500 mark. The Chiefs are now 4-3 overall.

Despite injuries to Jill Pederson (out for the season with a broken leg), Debbie Gibb and Reggie Ruggiero, Canton just will not forget its aggressive style of play.

It was the same old rough and tumble Chiefs, out-scraping Walled Lake Central by diving for loose balls.

"If I have many more games like this, I'll have a heart attack," said McCauley. "We had some spunky ball-handling, especially at the last part."

The taller Walled Lake team put on a furious last quarter charge, but the Chiefs displayed enough poise to pull it out.

With 2:31 to go in the fourth quarter, Canton reserve forward Marianne Pink came through with a steal and converted on a layup to give the Chiefs a 42-35 lead.

Central then answered with six straight points, the last coming on Erin Blendin's two-foot shot with just two seconds left.

CANTON, HOWEVER, got the ball in-bounds and ran out the clock as Central hopelessly watched as coach Ken Butler had already used his allotted timeouts.

"Our offensive rebounding looked a lot better," said McCauley. "Marianne 'Wonder Women' Pink came through for us in the last quarter."

Pink came up with some key rebounds and tallied three points. She totaled five for the game.

Steady forward Diane Durocher, although fouling out with two minutes left in the game, paced Canton with 12 points. Her basket at 2:46 of the final period on a nifty pass from teammate Vicky Cavallaro gave Canton a 40-35 lead.

Cavallaro, the senior floor general now that Pedersen is out, added nine points, came up with five steals and had four assists.

Jean Timlin and Durocher led Canton in rebounding with seven and six respectively.

The Chiefs hurt themselves at the foul line, converting only eight of 20.

"We're going to have to start working on foul shots," forecasted McCauley. "We need to shoot better than that. It's an obvious problem."

Another glaring problem was the officiating. Numerous fouls were called in the first half, but the game got extremely out of control in the second half.

SEVEN TECHNICAL fouls were called in the game — four against Walled Lake. Both McCauley and Butler were whistled down.

Central, a regional champion last season with over 20 victories, lost almost its entire team as only one senior appears on this year's roster. Its inexperience showed.

"Our passing game stunk tonight," said Butler. "You can't make the bad passes we made. One of our guards made eight turnovers trying to jam the ball through."

Walled Lake dropped to 2-5 overall with the loss.

At intermission, Walled Lake enjoyed an 18-16 advantage.

In the third quarter, Durocher tallied six points as Canton outscored Central, 17-10.

Reserve forward Lisa Hall paced Central with 13 points. Junior center Erin Blendin added 11.

Farmington Harrison will invade Canton Thursday at 8 p.m.

Salem gridders end road swing

By BRAD EMONS

Tom Moshimer's Plymouth Salem football team will end one of the longest prep road trips in the state Friday when they travel to winless Belleville.

Another winless team, Plymouth Canton, will try to snap a five-game losing skid Friday when it hosts Livonia Churchill for homecoming.

Belleville first-year coach Mike Colletta, a graduate of the University of Illinois, must be wondering what type of program he has gotten into as Salem comes in for its fifth road game in a row.

The Tigers have played one of the most murderous schedules in Class A so far. Colletta's team opened with a loss to Wayne Memorial (3-1), whose only loss was Friday against No. 1 ranked Dearborn Fordson.

Belleville then lost successive games to Redford Union, Trenton and Dearborn Edsel Ford. All three teams are unbeaten.

The Tigers almost pulled off a major upset at home two weeks ago against Trenton. Belleville led 15-10 with less than one minute to play. Trenton finally scored on a 15-yard pass with 17 seconds left.

Against Edsel Ford, who is ranked sixth in the state, Belleville took a 41-0 shelacking.

MOSHIMER'S TEAM got out of Utica last Friday night with a 9-7 victory over Eisenhower thanks to a 70-yard kickoff return by junior halfback Brian Lewandowski and a two-point safety made by tackle Scott Piper.

It will mark the fifth straight game on the road for Salem. The bus blues will end for the Rocks next Friday with their homecoming battle against St. Clair Shores Lakeview.

The crowds for Salem have been sparse on the road but a huge crowd is expected for the Lakeview game.

Canton will try to derail a Churchill team which has won three straight games after losing its season opener to Fordson, 35-0.

The Chargers, defending Western Six League champs, gave coach Ken Kaestner his second league victory in as many tries with a 14-7 triumph over Walled Lake Western.

With the score tied 7-7 in the final quarter, Bob Monaghan tossed a 22-yard scoring pass to quarterback Bill Keller.

Keller put Churchill out in front 7-0 in the third quarter on a two-yard run.

Running back John Bielis has been a key factor in Churchill's three victories thus far.

Kaestner, who guided Churchill into the playoffs last season with a 9-0 regular season mark, recently received fine defensive play from his young team.

Senior Defensive back Ron Schuene-man spearheads the defense with four interceptions.

CANTON, MEANWHILE, has been killing itself with costly penalties and a lack of execution on critical plays. Three times the Chiefs had the ball inside the 20-yard line in their 19-6 loss to Northville Friday but just couldn't score.

The Chiefs hit hard on defense but was burned on the pass against the Mustangs.

Canton coach Dave Schueler said his team played well against the run but had trouble getting any consistency going on offense.

Rocks turn showdown into picnic

A showdown for Suburban Eight League tennis supremacy never materialized Monday afternoon.

In a match pitting the league's only two unbeaten teams, Plymouth Salem, coached by Judy Braun, wiped out Dearborn Edsel Ford on the road, 7-0.

The victory upped Salem's league mark to 4-0. Edsel Ford slipped to 3-1. The Rocks are now 8-1 overall.

"I think they were shocked," said Braun. "I was a little surprised we took them 7-0."

Salem's only dual-meet loss came early in the season to Livonia Stevenson, 4-3. Braun's team came within a few games of snapping the Livonians long winning streak, now at 46.

Against Edsel Ford, only two matches were closely contested.

At No. 2 singles, Salem's Carol Hathaway edged Kathy Panzini, 6-4, 6-7, 6-4.

"The other girl (Panzini) was a strong player," said Braun, "but Carol hung in there and played a mentally tough match."

In the other close match at No. 2 doubles, Sandra Hathaway and Kathy Weber of Salem nipped Lisa Boose and Kristi Davis, 5-7, 6-1, 7-5.

Senior Kathy Horton increased her individual dual-match mark to 8-1 with a 6-4, 6-1 win over Edsel Ford's Carol Nigal at No. 1 singles.

At No. 3 singles, Betsy Moon breezed past Mary Pat Richard, 6-1, 6-3, while Salem teammate Renee Braun dropped Lynn Stassen at No. 4 singles, 6-1, 6-1.

Vickie Sterling and Carol Gillespie of Salem whipped Stacy Strongman and Karen Lutz at No. 1 doubles, 6-1, 6-1.

At No. 3 doubles, Beth Baker and Lynn Hathaway downed Sally Bates and Lisa Bouchez, 6-4, 6-3.

Salem appears to be the odds-on favorite to capture the Suburban Eight League team championship which will be held Thursday at Trenton. Matches start at 8:30 a.m.

"It looks real good unless something unusual happens," said Braun about Salem's league title chances.

"You never know though," she cautioned.

Much of the team's success this season can be credited to a good working attitude.

"I'm really pleased with their behavior," she said. "They are an excellent group and show a lot of sportsmanship."

Salem will also be a strong contender for Class A regional honors at Westland John Glenn, Oct. 22-23.

After the Suburban Eight League meet, Salem will travel to Livonia Franklin on Monday and then tests Western Six League leader Northville on the road Wednesday. Both meets start at 4 p.m.

Kingswood wins invitational

Bloomfield Hills Kingswood dominated Saturday's Ann Arbor Invitational Tennis Tournament, taking first places in seven of eight events and compiling 31 of a possible 32 points.

The only event Kingswood missed winning was the No. 1 singles where Jane Neville lost to Marg Mayer of Our Lady Star of the Sea 7-5, 6-4.

Ann Arbor Pioneer finished second with 18 points, and Birmingham Marian and Plymouth Salem tied for third with 14 points each.

Kingswood's winning netters included Amy Walsh, who defeated Salem's Carol Hathaway in No. 2 singles 6-1, 6-0, Cindy Smith in No. 3 singles, Megan Foster in No. 4 singles, Ann Mazure and Leslie Lewiston, who defeated Salem's Vicki Sterling and Carol Gilles in No. 1 doubles 6-2, 6-1, Pam Bush and Sue Nolte in No. 2 doubles, Liz Ausman and Julie Canner, who defeated Lynn Hathaway and Beth Baker of Salem in No. 3 doubles 4-6, 6-2, 6-1, and Jeanne Gibbons and Julie Bach in No. 4 doubles.

Marian got most of its points from Mari McGowan with a third place in No. 1 singles and from Liz Gould and Chris Maynard with a third place in No. 4 doubles.

3 tank records fall, but Chief girls lose

Plymouth Canton set three varsity girls' swim marks Tuesday night, but it wasn't enough as the Chiefs fell to Brighton, 0-72, in a girls' non-league dual meet.

The loss dropped Canton's overall mark to 2-3.

Junior Tarja Tuominen, a foreign exchange student from Finland, had a part in all three records.

Individually, Tuominen set marks in the 100-yard freestyle (:57.08) and 200-yard freestyle (2:04.79).

The 400-yard freestyle relay team of Tuominen, Kim Massey, Mary Reardon and Missy McMurray set a new standard of 4:05.00 for Canton.

Against Brighton, Massey was the only other tanker to take first place. She won the 500-yard freestyle.

Second-place finishes recorded by the Chiefs included Brownwyn Fitzgerald, 100-yard breast stroke; Chris Wennerberg, diving; Reardon, 100-yard butterfly; McMurray, 50-yard freestyle; Massey, 200-yard individual medley.

The 200-yard medley relay team of Fitzgerald, Kris Burnes, Reardon and McMurray also gained second place.

In third place for the Chiefs were Beth Greenleaf in the 100-yard breast stroke and Ellie Wagner in diving.

Canton's second 200-yard medley relay team of Karen Mullen, Greenleaf, Julie Stratton and Wagner also gained third spot.

"It was just a lack of depth," said Canton coach Mark Griffith. "We just beat by a lot of seconds and thirds."

"I was really pleased with the records. Some of the girls dropped their times."

Canton will travel to Livonia Churchill Thursday for a 7 p.m. Western Six League dual meet.

Canton JV tie, 7-7

A 25-yard field goal attempt fell short with just seconds left on the clock as the Plymouth Canton junior varsity football team settled for a 7-7 tie Thursday with Walled Lake Western on the road.

"The game was very evenly played," said Canton reserve coach Dean Naude. "Our guys did a good job. Walled Lake out-numbered us by about 50 men."

Chris Susock tossed a 40-yard touchdown pass to Jamie Chilcoff for Canton's only score.

A 25-yard field goal attempt fell short with just seconds left on the clock as the Plymouth Canton junior varsity football team settled for a 7-7 tie Thursday with Walled Lake Western on the road.

"The game was very evenly played," said Canton reserve coach Dean Naude. "Our guys did a good job. Walled Lake out-numbered us by about 50 men."

Chris Susock tossed a 40-yard touchdown pass to Jamie Chilcoff for Canton's only score.

Canton will host Northville, Thursday at 4 p.m. at Centennial Educational Park.

Plymouth Lions drop 3 to Ypsilanti lions

The Plymouth Lions lost all three games Sunday against Ypsilanti in Little League Football action.

The varsity fell, 19-6, as did the junior varsity, 24-0. The Lion freshman battle to wire before losing, 12-7.

The Lion freshmen, coached by Richard Saah, trailed 12-0 at intermission, but cut the lead to five points on Ricky Genrich's five-yard touchdown pass to Marc Pace. Genrich then sneaked for the one-point conversion.

"It was just one of those days," said Saah. "We had fumbles and penalties, but our kids battled until the final seconds."

With 45 seconds left after the Lions had scored, Plymouth successfully recovered an on-side kick, but could not score.

"We pressed them inside the 20-yard line and couldn't push it across," said Saah.

Ypsilanti, which scored on two long plays, ironically did not gain a first down.

MSU creates new rivalry

By W.W. EDGAR

No matter what happens in East Lansing on Saturday when the Michigan football team invades the Spartan stadium in a battle to stay in the Big Ten race, the once laughed at "Aggies" have greatly changed the priorities of the Wolverines.

There was a time when the Spartans, as they now are called, were hailed as "The Farmers from Michigan Agricultural College" and no one ever dreamed the day would come when they would take over as the keener rival of the Wolverines.

And it is no secret that when the University of Chicago left the Big Ten athletic program, Michigan officials fought their darndest to keep the "Aggies" from taking the vacant spot.

The Wolverines' reasoning was based on selfishness. Fritz Crisler, who then was one of the top Michigan officials, didn't want to share the glamour of Big Ten football with another team from the state. But he lost the battle.

And now, after all these years, the Spartans are about to take over as the Wolverines' chief rival and open another great competitive chapter in the Big Ten.

With Woody Hayes gone from Ohio State, the game with the Buckeyes that always has ended the season, may lose much of its attraction and pave the way for Michigan State to take over.

If they do, it wouldn't be setting a precedent. Through the years Michigan has had several "most bitter" rivals.

Years ago when Bob Zuppke was coach at Illinois, he and Fielding H. Yost developed a great rivalry that topped the Michigan schedule. Later, when Red Grange left the scene, the top game was against Minnesota with their coach Bernie Bierman. They still play for the Little Brown Jug, but the game has lost much of its attraction.

As this game slipped, Ohio State, with Woody Hayes at the helm, took over and the meeting with the Buckeyes was always tops on the schedule.

Rebound battle

RU girls score cage triumph

Clarenceville gave coach Laurie Stasiak her first girls basketball career coaching victory Tuesday by blitzing Dearborn Heights Riverside 84-15 in a non-league game.

The Trojans' tight defense held Riverside to just six points during the first half before Stasiak emptied the bench. The win is Clarenceville's first after five losses at the start of the season.

Chris Stellberger led the Trojans with nine points and 11 rebounds. Teammate Sue Anderson chipped in with seven points.

"We're getting our game together," said Stasiak. "We're playing much better early in the game. Usually, we're a slow starter."

"I played everybody and they all really hustled out there."

The Trojans are now off until Oct. 11, when they open their Metro West Conference season at home against Woodhaven.

REDFORD UNION got back on the winning track by clipping Livonia Churchill 56-36 in another non-league affair.

The Panthers received a balanced scoring attack with three girls in double figures. Nancy Lawson's led the attack with 17 points.

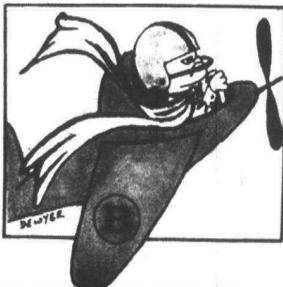

Lori Pastula helped out with 16 points and Cathy Hengy popped in 12. Cindy Bussart was high-scorer for Churchill with eight points. RU, now 5-2, led all the way.

"We played good defense," said RU coach Ken Dersey. "We changed back and fourth from zone to man-to-man and it confused them a bit."

"We did a much better job rebounding than we did in the last game against Thurston. Robin Taylor did a very good job in particular."

Churchill's overall record dipped to 1-6. The Panthers' JV team scored a 20-27 victory over the Chargers.

A backstage look at O&E golf

Well-run golf tournaments just don't happen. Planning, then following through on detail are the keys to success.

The annual Observer & Eccentric Golf Tournament, contested last month at Whispering Willows Municipal Golf Course in Livonia, has rightly earned a reputation as one of the best-run amateur tournaments in the state.

Granted, the O&E tourneys can't be compared with the PGA, which was played earlier this summer at Oakland Hills.

But to hear the amateur golfers speak about their experiences at Whispering Willows, one would think that they were playing for big money and personal glory at Pebble Beach, Augusta National or Pinehurst.

Winners and losers alike had nothing but good things to say about the condition of the golf course. That is a tribute to Dave Montgomery, the head greenskeeper, and his staff.

The course, not overly long, presents a challenge to everyone. Water and traps, which are generally not found on municipal courses because they tend to slow play, figure on every hole at Whispering Willows.

The greens and fairways were in excellent shape. The grounds were free of litter.

As the golfers straggled back to the clubhouse after finishing their rounds, they could be found checking the posted charts that listed the hole-by-hole score of every competitor.

The major tour tournaments have only leader boards. The O&E Tournament lists everyone's score.

Have Arnold Palmer or Jack Nicklaus ever studied a leader board during a big tournament with more interest and intensity than some competitors did in the O&E Tournament? Probably not.

In fact, the golfers in the less-skilled divisions — Flights 2 and 3 — were just as enthusiastic and nervous about their standings than those in the Championship Flight and Flight 1.

Tom Welsh, assistant pro at Whispering Willows who is working in the PGA apprentice program, and Karen Kolb kept everyone up to date with their conscientious effort charting scores.

Then there's Gary Whitener, the personable professional at Whispering Willows, who has directed every O&E Tournament since it began eight years ago.

In addition to performing his regular duties for the month preceding the women's and men's tournaments, Whitener, with the help of Welsh, sorted registrations, figured handicaps, figured two sets of pairings for the men's tournament (225 golfers), set the pin and tee placements and lined the course.

"The easiest part is when they start teeing off," said Whitener.

Whitener has watched the tournament grow from a field numbering in the low 60s back in 1972 to well over 200 this year.

The field was filled before the registration deadline passed for the first time ever this year, a tribute to the growing popularity of the tournament.

Seventeen men on a waiting list never had a chance to start.

What makes that feat more impressive is that the men's tourney competed against the Michigan-Notre Dame football game in Ann Arbor Saturday and televised professional football Sunday.

Whitener is quick to pass around credit to his entire staff, preferring to use the words "us" and "we" rather than "I."

"Ron Reinke (Livonia Parks and Recreation director) helped tremendously. When we needed entry forms and rules sheets, he had them for us that day," said Whitener.

Whitener also cited the efforts of John Bryant, who ran things at Idyl Wyld Golf Course while the tournaments were played at Whispering Willows, and Jim Chubb, a student in the golf management program at Ferris State, who assisted with the men's tournament.

The contributions of Paul Worley, Jeff Leake and Ben Naber were also cited by Whitener.

"We had a lot of compliments that feathered all our caps," said Whitener.

If there was one disappointing aspect to the tournaments, it was the comparatively low turnout for the women's competition.

By W.W. EDGAR

All records for high scoring in the western suburbs were shattered last week and it may be a long time before the bowlers equal the showing put on by the all-stars in the Little Caesars League at Westland Bowl.

Noted for years as a high scoring house, Westland's claim was bolstered when six bowlers broke the 700 barrier and two others had single games above 280.

Mike Lee led the onslaught on the pins with a 734 gained on games of 247, 239 and 248. At that he beat Jim Crispin by only 12 pins. Jim put together games of 239, 247 and 236 for a 722. Right behind them came John Hurley, who made a specialty of breaking 700 last season. He missed a perfect game in the opener when he left up the No. 4 pin on his last ball for a 299. He followed games of 239 and 181 for a 714.

Bob Goike, with counts of 279, 185 and 248, landed fourth with a 712 while Tom Wright and Mark Stauski deadlocked at 703 for fifth place. Along with these high scores, Don Miller added a 282 single and Ron Powell had a 280.

In the women's section, Geri Beattie was high with a 244 in 627 and Linda Ludwich had 612. Denise Rathburn landed third with a 583 while Brenda Evans had a 211 in 579.

THREE OTHER series above 700 were posted during the weekend. Two of these came at Wonderland Lanes. Elmer Shelley paced the Senior House League with a 265 in 739 and Bob Rose added a 703. The ninth 700 of the week was the work of Greg Wizzard, a 190-average bowler in the Senior House League at Woodland Lanes.

After getting away to a mediocre start with 158, he came back with games of 256 and 278 for a 702.

PAT LISOWSKI, one of the all-stars who hadn't been heard from much this season, moved into the winner's circle in the Ladies Classic at Garden Lanes with a 667.

In the St. Linus League, Ray Gogonic was tops with a 637 and Bob Baron was right behind him with a 613 in the TGIF League.

In the TGIF League, John Lizon whowed the way with a 243 in 642.

AT FARMINGTON LANES, Gloria Mertz took over leadership with a 214 in 615 and Darlene Marrow added a 220 in 605. In the High School League, Don Hamilton had a 220 in 596 and Barry Van Dyke hit an even 200 with a 589 series.

Meanwhile, Jim Hamlin, son of Farmington Lanes owner, fired a 640 se series last Friday while bowling for the Saginaw Valley State team.

THERESA VEGIS took top honors in the Livonia Ladies Classic when she won the third game with 190-28 — 218 and the series with 516-84 — 600. In other games, Peg Eizenber took first spot with 188-21 — 209. Dot Fulton took second with 191-26 — 217.

BECAUSE OF Gloria Mertz' kindness, Sue Kreuger, a visitor, turned in one of the high series in the Invitational Doubles at Merri-Bowl.

When Sue expressed a desire to bowl, Gloria loaned her ball to the guest and she went on to roll at 567. It wasn't good enough for the pacemaker role, though Evelyn Galinas fired a 627.

In the regular Lads and Lassies League, John Hellman was high with a 622 and Stan Motyka followed with a 595. In the Gutter Queens League, Ellie Jensen was high with a 586. She was followed by Linda Terry with a 572 and Ann Bennett with a 518. In the Newcomers League Pat Bell posted a 232 game.

Canton JV hoopsters win

Sue Gerke poured in 11 points to propel the Plymouth Canton junior varsity girls' basketball team to a 28-20 win over Walled Lake Central Tuesday night.

The Chiefs, coached by Phyllis Cunningham and David Greenwood, raised their season mark to 2-5. Lisa Sheridan and Janine Carpenter each added four points for the winners.

Riehl evaluates Thurston season; Franklin searches

By DAVE SCHWARTZ

The real test for a coach is to stand up to an unsuccessful season.

It's easy to win. But how do you find bright spots when you're 0-4? Just ask Redford Thurston coach Don Riehl.

Riehl's Eagles prepare to host Livonia Franklin 2 p.m. Saturday after being trounced last weekend by North Farmington 34-0.

"Hey, our kids aren't going to quit," said Riehl. "We came out today and had a real good practice. If we come out smokin' next week, Franklin can be had."

"The toughest thing is to keep the kids' attitudes up. When you get down a little, you lose confidence," said Riehl.

As usual, depth was a big reason for last week's one-sided score. Thurston only has 25 men on the team this year.

Thurston was down only 7-0 with halftime approaching. Then came the back-breaker. North Farmington successfully worked a trans-continental pass play for a touchdown with only two seconds left in the half to make it 14-0.

The Raiders scored three touchdowns in the second half for their final margin of victory. North Farmington tallied 360 yards compared to only 56 for Thurston.

"We couldn't stop them at all on the ground," said Riehl. "We didn't move the ball either, and our defense got very tired because it was a real hot day. We're very thin. So many of our kids go both ways."

"We had a pretty good first half. We played better than the score indicated. But they're a very good team. They don't make many mistakes."

In the midst of recurring disaster, Riehl keeps his chin up.

"Mark Erickson tied a school record by our system of points, with 54 points. Also, Rich Rudd punted very well. He averaged 46 yards a punt."

"We brought some kids up from JV (which is undefeated) this week. We're going to two-platoon a little and see what they can do."

Riehl added, "We're not going to throw the towel in. We've got some games on our schedule that we can win."

MEANWHILE, OVER AT Livonia

Franklin, coach Armand Vigna is picking up the pieces after a heartbreaking 6-0 loss last weekend to Garden City East.

The only score of the game came on an 83-yard pass from Bill Orr to Brian Belcher in the third quarter.

Vigna is coaching through a little run of bad luck after several outstanding seasons, including a state championship.

"We've had too many firsts the last two years as a team — all negative," he said.

So what happened against East?

"What happened was our quarterback, Jon McCarthy, got hurt on the second series of downs. Then what happened is seven turnovers," said Vigna, who must wonder if '79 has snakebitten his Patriots.

"We've lost five starters to injuries, all on offense. You can turn around sometimes on defense, but it's awful hard to untrack on offense when you have to constantly juggle the lineup."

"They (East) hung tough and took advantage of their opportunity. But our kids are better than their record indicates. The most we've lost a game by is nine points. With a couple of breaks, we could be 3-1, instead of 1-3."

"Our defense played well enough to win," said Vigna. "Ron Lohman, Dave Rettig and Jack Williams all did a good job."

"But we were never in the ball game after Jon got hurt. We had a couple of chances. Once we drove down to their four and they blocked a field goal. We fumbled the first three times we had the ball in the second half."

How bad is McCarthy's injury?

"Jon didn't dislocate his shoulder like we thought," said Vigna. "We don't know if he can play this week or not. He'll probably be back in two weeks."

That leaves Scott Lovich as the signal-caller. Lovich had an inauspicious game against East with two interceptions. "It wasn't all his fault," said Vigna. "We've had all tight ballgames so he hadn't had a chance to play before."

"Don Riehl and I were talking and I told him that one thing's for sure — one of these football teams has to win this game," he said laughing.

And with such class coaches, it's a shame that one of them has to lose.

PAUL ALBRIGHT and his wife, Gwen, had perfect weather for their weekend at the Grand Hotel on Mackinac Island. And Paul came home with a very special award and title. His peers in the insurance business had voted him "Professional Fieldman of Michigan."

Paul worked for Plymouth Township as public service director and a fire-fighter before he joined the Millers of Michigan Insurance Co. The home office is in Lansing and the company insures small businesses and houses. Back in 1881, when it was founded and for many years following, it was the Mill and Elevator Insurance Co., and its clients were farmers, mills and grain elevators.

Paul has been with the firm seven years and he is the first Michigan man in the company to receive the award.

The Albrights have five children, Christopher, Dwayne, Karen, LeAnn and Carol.

SUE REDDEN and daughter, 18-month-old Jennifer, of Plymouth Township are going to Anchorage, Alaska to visit Sue's parents, George and Marilyn Douglass. And just to make it a complete four generation get-together, she is taking along her grandmother, 78-year-old Mary Cummings of Middletown, Ohio.

It will be Mrs. Cummings first trip to Anchorage. Sue and Jennifer have been there before.

George Douglass works for Armaco Steel and his territory is the whole state of Alaska.

Sue says the weather in Anchorage isn't all that great. "Summer is two days with the temperature in the 70's. Last year there were snow flurries in the mountains in September and they had continual snow on the ground in the city from Oct. 14 to May 1. This year, they had snow flurries in the mountains in August."

She said, "It isn't like Fairbanks where it actually gets hot in the summer."

LORRAINE GOLLNICK of Plymouth Township is going to see the Pope in Des Moines, Iowa. The Gollnicks lived in Des Moines for 10 years before they moved to their home in Quail Hollow 18 months ago.

Friends in Des Moines have kept Lorraine advised on plans for the pontiff's visit.

He will arrive by plane and say mass in a small community church. He will travel by helicopter to Living History Farm, a working farm owned by the city. The farm is about 20 miles from the airport. Crowd estimates have ranged from 250,000 to 500,000 persons.

"When we were at the Lion's football game Sunday in the Silverdome, I looked at the 75,000 spectators and tried to visualize 250,000 in a field, which is where they will be. And if it rains, it will just be mud."

She said, "All the streets will be closed so we're going to walk the more than 2½ miles to the farm—and back again. Luckily we have friends along the way where we can stop off for coffee or a rest."

The Gollnicks live two miles out of Plymouth. She and her husband had a practice run Saturday morning when they and two other couples walked into Plymouth for breakfast, then walked home. "It was a beautiful day and we enjoyed the walk," said Lorraine.

She believes Des Moines was chosen as a stopover for Pope John Paul II because, although it is the largest city in Iowa, it is "a home-town farming community."

The residents have organized a fundraising committee, headed by a Jew, and contributions of money, time, and computer time have been pouring in to finance and arrange the visit.

"He'll be there just four or five hours," said Lorraine who also will have an opportunity to see her daughter, a student at the University of Iowa.

ANN TRINITY and Dorothy Shaffer had high scores at last Thursday's party bridge games at the Plymouth Cultural Center.

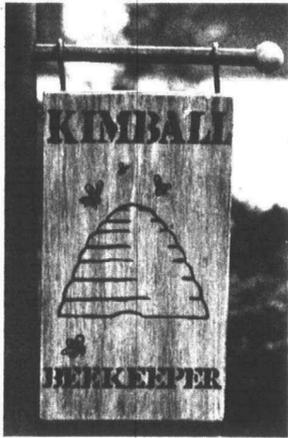

ROBERT PATOW of Northville Road, Plymouth was honored Saturday evening at Providence Hospital's annual awards banquet in the Michigan Inn, Southfield.

He received a diamond pin for 20 years of service at the hospital. His wife, Barbara, is a nurse at Providence. More than 240 staff members were recognized at the banquet for five, 10, 15, 20, 25, 30 and 40 years on the staff of the hospital.

ELM STREET Ella, really Ella II, is the Elm Street Gang's entry in Sunday's Chicken Flying Contest. Her hard-hearted handlers say, "She's a good egg, but if she doesn't come through this year, we're through."

When Suzanne Steele and her class arrived at the Kimballs', they were divided into three groups of 10. Canton Beekeeper Ralph Alloway described the hives, Bob Kimball extracted the honey, and Diane Kimball demonstrated candlemaking.

Beekeepers harvest their honey crop

Bob and Diane Kimball harvested their honey last weekend and they shared the experience with friends and neighbors.

After leaving about 80 pounds in each hive for the bees to feed on during the winter and early spring months, the Kimballs had about 1,200 pounds of honey.

"It was a bad year," said Kimball. "It rained at the wrong times."

The family bought their first hives four years ago. There were three of them. They ordered their bees from down south, a queen and three pounds of bees for each hive.

Now they have 40 hives. Some are on a farm in Plymouth Township and others in Mayberry State Park.

When honeying off time comes, they haul the boxes in a truck to their home on Ross Street in Plymouth. The boxes weigh between 35 and 40 pounds each and Kimball has built a slide to the basement which eliminates carrying them downstairs.

THE BEES ARE given starter racks, a single layer of wax on a frame. These are placed side-by-side vertically in the hives.

The bees build the six-sided cells of wax on these and fill them with honey. When a cell is filled, they cover it with a thin layer of wax.

Before the honey can be removed from the honeycomb, this thin capping of wax must be removed with a thin, sharp knife. The wooden racks, oozing thick, sweet honey, are placed in an extractor. The drum spins and the honey is removed by centrifugal force.

"Our extractor is an old one, but it is motor driven," said Bob Kimball. The empty racks are later returned to the hives where the bees will fill them up again next year.

The honey is drained into jars and pails for winter use. The Kimballs themselves use about 100 pounds each year. The rest is sold.

Kimball said that during July and August, the bees produce clover honey. In the fall, they collect nectar from golden rod and star thistle. "Some years we separate it, but this year we took it all off at once in one big batch."

HEATHER KIMBALL, 7, has her own hive and according to her father, "is very much into the honey business." Holly, 4, does not have a hive but is very interested in the process.

Heather dons hat, veil and gloves and goes to the hives with her father.

She invited her classmates from Smith Elementary School to the apiaries on Monday.

More than 60 second and third graders and their teachers watched the honey harvest process. Mrs. Kimball demonstrated how to make candles from bees wax.

And the Kimballs received more than 60 "thankyou" notes from the children.

The letters expressed appreciation with some added thoughts about the field trip:

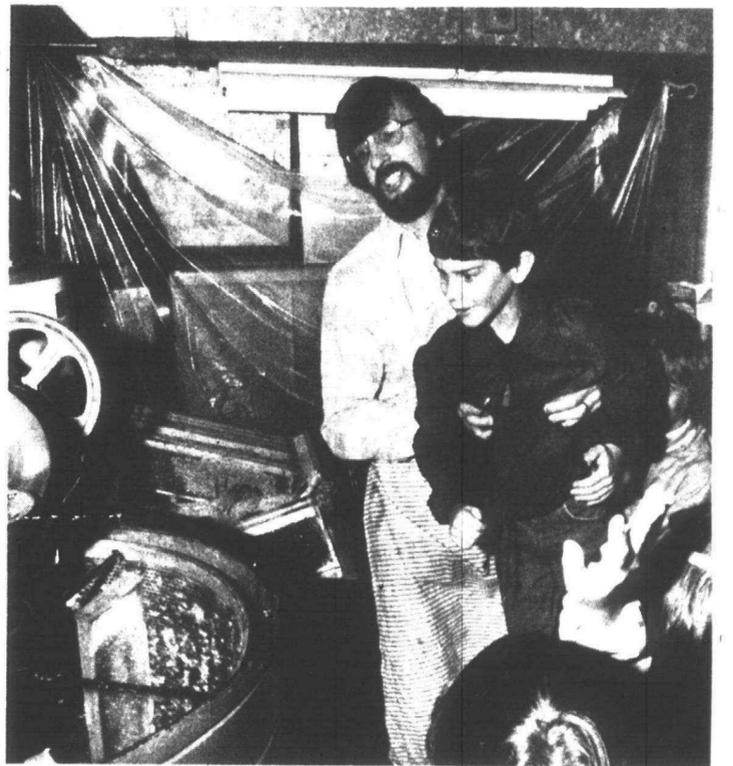

"I like the way you make candles."

"I bit some of the wax and it stuck to my teeth."

"I would have eaten more honey but it would ruin my lunch."

"I liked the place where you took off the stuff."

The youngsters enjoyed having the Kimballs share their hobby with them.

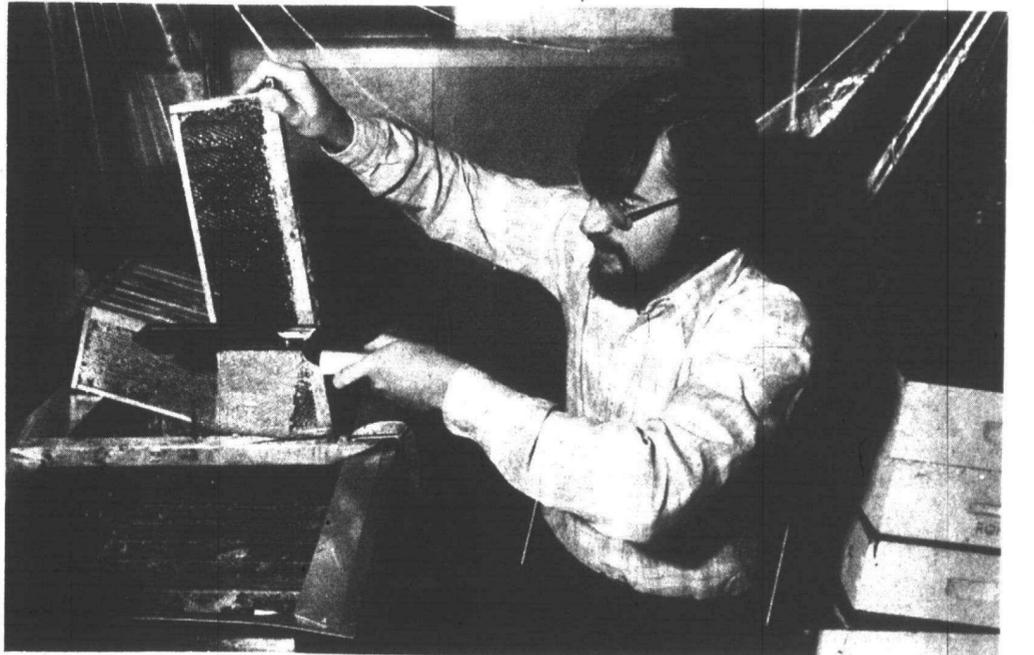

Bob Kimball lifted Marty Weldon, 8, so he could see the honey being whirled out of the honeycomb by the extractor.

Staff photos by Gary Caskey

Diane Kimball explained candle making. She uses the wax the bees have made to cap the honey.

The bees have carefully sealed each cell with a thin layer of wax. Bob Kimball sliced it so the honey could be extracted.

Heather Fields, 8, sampled the honey.

The honey harvest amounted to 1,200 pounds of the golden nectar in gleaming glass jars.

Elise Miller

Crossing guard is alive and well

People have been asking about "the lady who used to be the crossing guard at Miller School." What has happened to her? Has she moved? Is she ill? And most importantly, what is her name?

Most of the people who have asked, knew the crossing guard only as a friendly smile and a wave, in all types of weather. They knew of her great concern for the safety of the children. And they knew they could depend on her being there. She was almost like a statue in a town square. For as long as people in the neighborhood, and those driving down Hanford could remember, this same crossing guard had been there.

This dedicated lady is Elise Miller. She has been a school crossing guard for seven years, and at Miller school for five years. After these many years of faithful service, Mrs. Miller decided she would like a little more choice in time away from the job. With children going to school all year on the ESY scheduling, there is very little vacation flexibility for the crossing guard.

So, Mrs. Miller has turned in her "Stop" sign and has joined the ranks of the ladies of leisure.

NOW, AFTER she completes her leisure activities of cleaning the house, cooking the meals, running the errands, and playing taxi driver for scouts, sports, and the like, she will have time for other activities. Mrs. Miller has been a very active member of Geneva United Presbyterian Church, and plans to continue her active role there.

For the many people who have expressed concern, be assured Mrs. Miller is well and busy.

And Elise Miller, a big THANK YOU from the community you served so faithfully and well for seven years. Your friends, neighbors, and many people who know you only by sight want you to know your efforts have been greatly appreciated.

WILLOW CREEK Nursery School Co-op has several openings for 4-year-olds. The school meets at Geneva Pres-biterian Church on Sheldon Road just north of Ford Road.

The program for 4-year-olds is a two-day a week program. Openings exist in both the Monday-Wednesday class, and the Tuesday-Thursday class. The time schedule for both classes is 12:45-3 p.m.

Being a cooperative nursery school, Willow Creek is able to offer rates of $18 per month. Mothers, or fathers, are asked to attend one meeting per month, and to assist in the classroom twice a month. Assisting mother may be asked to read a story, help at snack time, or aid a budding young artist. Most mothers find this an enjoyable break from the everyday routine.

For more information and registration forms, please contact membership chairwoman Karen Cifrodella at 981-0264.

THE CANTON Jaycettes have several ambitious projects in the working stages.

The Jaycettes assist the Jaycees yearly with Friendly Monster Day at the Haunted House. This year the Haunted House will be on Proctor Road west of Canton Center Road. Friendly Monster Day will be Saturday, Oct. 27 from 2-4 p.m.

Chairwoman Sue Roth said Friendly Monster Day is one of her favorite projects. She said it will be free again this year to all children accompanied by a parent or parents.

For those new to the area, or unfamiliar with the project, it is just as it states. The monsters are unmasked and are friendly to the small children. It allows young children a chance to share in this part of the fun of the Halloween season. It is not the intent of the monsters to scare the children during this two-hour period.

ANOTHER PROJECT in the planning stages is a "Rent-A-Table" craft sale. This is scheduled for Saturday, Dec. 1 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Mrs. Roth said the object of the craft day is to give people in Canton who macrame, knit, quilt, do wood working, or baking, or any crafts, a chance to display and sell them to the community.

The tables will rent for $5 for the day, and may be rented by one person, or a group. So, if you are a crafty person, or one noted throughout the neighborhood as a rival of Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Goodcookie, or Sara Lee, the Jaycettes are giving you the opportunity to display your skills and make some extra money for Christmas.

If you aren't crafty and have trouble heating Chef Boy-ah-dee without burning him, it's your chance to purchase quality homemade items that will make excellent Christmas gifts. For more information please contact Sue Roth at 453-0876.

I DISCOVERED last week that people interested in "garbage" read my column. I've yet to decide if that's complimentary, but at least I know someone is reading it!

I received many calls from women who are not members of Canton Newcomers', but would like to get involved in a coupon and refunding group.

What they need is someone who is willing to be chairperson of the group and get it organized. I know there must be such persons in the Canton area, and if you will call me, we can get your name and number in either this column or Clubs In Action, and get the group started.

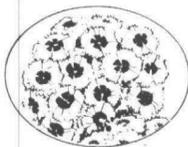

As the Newcomers have found, trading "garbage" creates some wonderful friendships. You can really get to know someone by looking through her trash!

Firebird to compete Sunday

The Plymouth Symphony League has retired Chickowsky, the league's entry in the Chicken Flying Contest for the past two seasons.

New chick is "Firebird," which will arrive in town for the pre-race parade on an antique fire truck accompanied by league members and children.

Talk among the symphony leaguers is optimistic. General feeling that they have a "sure winner" is responsible. A spirited group of supporters will be on hand Sunday, Oct. 7 to cheer Firebird to unprecedented flights.

PEO sponsors Cottey grad's visit

Barbara Anderson, an admissions counselor for Cottey College, will be in the area Oct. 11. Her visit is being sponsored by the local PEO Chapter, EA.

The college is owned and supported by the PEO Sisterhood, an organization of 205,000 women dedicated to providing educational opportunities for women.

Students who want to know more about Cottey may call Pam Michener, 455-6803.

Cottey is the only college in the country founded by a woman to educate young women and supported by a women's organization. It is one of the few totally residential, two-year, liberal arts colleges for women in the country. The school was founded in 1884 by Virginia Alice Cottey, a pioneer woman educator.

Cottey College has a 10-1 student-faculty ratio, one of the lowest in the nation and stresses personal attention in the academic, social and counseling areas.

The student body of 350 comes from more than 40 states, Canada and several foreign countries. The PEO Sisterhood, through its state chapters, offers a large number of scholarships to students who apply and are accepted by Cottey.

The college is 100 miles south of Kansas City in the southwest part of Missouri. A varied range of extracurricular activities includes cultural and recreational events in the the surrounding area, including the Missouri Ozarks.

Miss Anderson is a 1977 graduate of Cottey and received her BSE from the University of Arkansas, Fayetteville. She will conduct workshops Oct. 11 for PEO's, high school counselors, Cottey alumnae, and parents of students interested in attending Cottey. Anyone wishing to attend should call Martha Brown, 455-1125.

Mr. Tony was crowned "King for a Day" by 8-year-old Heather Bolton.

Tanger students give surprise party for their Mr. Tony "School days" came to an end for Tony Garofalo last week, after 13 years and four months.

Affectionately known as "Mr. Tony," Garofalo has been the night custodial supervisor at Tanger School on Five Mile Road for the past 11 years. He previously worked at West Middle School.

Tanger staff members and students treated Mr. Tony to a surprise party in an honor assembly, where he was enthroned in a special chair. His wife, Hedwig, was a surprise guest.

Students from every class presented him with stories, poems, books and pictures which they had prepared about and for him. He also received gifts of money, plus a fishing box and jacket from students, staff and the Parent-Teacher Organization.

Mr. Tony, who lives in Redford Township, plans to go fishing and do a little work around his home. Then he is planning to set out on visits to his children in California and Texas.

Acknowledging the applause of the audience, Mr. Tony waves goodbye to the students.

Doll, ornaments winners in state ceramics show

Several area residents were prize winners at last weekend's Michigan Ceramics Dealers Association Show in the Eight Mile Armory, Detroit. Duplicate ribbons were awarded to the studios where the craftsmen work or receive instruction.

Kathy Coleman's Canton Township studio received ribbons for her husband, Tom's opaque stain Christmas tree ornaments which won a third; William Coleman, her brother-in-law's translucent stain Christmas tree ornaments which won a third; and 4-year-old Jerry Coleman's honorable mention ribbon in the 6-years-and-under class. He made a Santa Claus ornament.

Diane Zahand's glaze combination entry received a second place ribbon.

BETTY MANTHEY, a member of the Three Cities Art Club, won a second for a porcelain doll reproduction. She works out of Bea Roderick's Studio, Livonia.

This was Mrs. Manthey's first ceamics entry. Her first love is painting and her interests extend to other crafts.

"Grace Kabel and I started the doll course together with the intention of making one doll each. It's like a disease, I've made eight and I'm still going. Grace is still going, too. She made a beautiful doll that she couldn't bear to part with as an entry in the show," said Mrs. Manthey.

Her prize-winning entry was a reproduction of a Byelo baby doll of the 1920s. It is crying with tears on its cheeks and a puckered up mouth. The dolls are made from scratch, and bodies are handmade and so are the clothes—trimmed with lace and ruffles of the 1920s.

"Sometimes you can spend two hours putting on the eyelashes. The blush-on colors are very tricky and Bea Roderick is a very exacting teacher," said Mrs. Manthey.

Sandra Witt of Canton Township and Norma Gerns of Plymouth submitted works to the show.

Greenhills has historic homes tour

The Greenhills School Auxiliary is sponsoring a tour of six historic Ann Arbor homes from noon to 5 p.m., Sunday, Oct. 28. Cost of the tour, which includes an open house and refreshments at the school, will be $5.

All proceeds will go to the scholarship fund. Tickets are available at the school, 850 Greenhills Drive, Ann Arbor. Checks should be made payable to Greenhills Scholarship Fund.

The school currently has 287 students enrolled in grades 7 through 12. Designed by Alden B. Dow Associates of Midland, it was opened in 1968.

The first house on the tour, 1606

Cambridge, was completed in 1909 and is a handsome gray stucco house with a red tile roof. The design is Spanish colonial. It is now the home of Harry and Donna Richter.

The second house is a Georgian colonial, called the Edward Campbell House after its first owner, who was head of the University of Michigan Chemistry Department. The Campbell family moved in 1901 and the house was run as a boarding house by Margaret Lydecker for many years. The present owners of the house, located at 1310 Hill, are Dr. Haskell Newman and his wife, Janet.

Nearby are two other homes on the tour, at 1410 Hill and 1530 Hill. The former was built in 1898 for P. C. Freer, a professor of chemistry. It is now owned by Frank and Julia Casa, and features an outstanding garden.

The third Hill Street home was built in 1848 by J.D. Baldwin, and is of classic revival design. It was originally part of a large and prosperous fruit farm on the edge of town. The land was purchased by Louis and Olivia Hall in 1870, and is owned today by Mrs. Hall's granddaughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Hayden.

Henry Simmons Frieze imported skilled stonemasons from Guelph, Ont., to build the handsome Italianate house at 1547 Washtenaw in 1860. When Frieze became acting president of the U-M in 1869, he sold the estate to Augustus Scott, who added the distinctive cupola. From 1899 to 1969, the house was owned by law professor Horace L. Wilgus and his daughter and son-in-law.

The present owners are Geoffrey and Theo Shepherd. The house is listed on the National Register of Historic Places.

The Kempf House, located at 312 S. Division, is a city-owned and operated museum. It was built before 1853 for Henry DeWitt Bennett, postmaster, secretary and steward of the U-M. The Greek revival style house is also listed on the National Register.

In 1890, the house was purchased by Reuben and Pauline Kempf, who became Ann Arbor's leading musical family.

Proceeds will be used to help pay for the cost of renting meeting space.

Among items already donated are several Minkus and Scott one - country albums.

At a meeting Oct. 19, Harry Winter will be the speaker. Winter is president of the Ann Arbor Stamp Club.

Collectors set stamp auction

The West Suburban Stamp Club will hold a benefit auction at its meeting tomorrow (Oct. 5). The meeting will begin at 7 p.m. in the Plymouth Cultural Center, 515 Farmer.

Club members and friends are urged to donate items of philatelic interest - stamps, covers, albums and supplies.

Peeper enters contest

Plymouth-Canton Parents Without Partners has obtained a streamlined, well-muscled chicken as its entry in Plymouth's fourth annual Chicken Flying Contest, Sunday, Oct. 7.

The PWP Peeper is an odds-on favorite according to club members. Members have been up to their elbows in flour, newspaper etc. creating the "Calico Chicken," for the parade which precedes the race.

Approximate starting time for the race on Main Street is 2 p.m. "The Peeper is ready for this one," said PWP president, Ernie Josefosky. "She'll be flying fast and far."

6 seminarians have audience with pope

Six seminarians left St. John's Provincial Seminary on Five Mile Road in Plymouth Township Tuesday afternoon.

Driving in a brand new van provided by Ford International, Dearborn, they were on their way to Philadelphia for a private audience with Pope John Paul II.

When six tickets for the Philadelphia Mass and audience arrived at the seminary, the question of who would go soon was settled. It was agreed that they would draw names from members of the sophomore, junior and senior classes.

Smentaka. They had planned to stay in the St. Joseph Orphanage while in Philadelphia.

With the tickets were instructions to be in their places at 8 a.m. Thursday morning for the 9 a.m. mass. Tickets were unnecessary for the mass which was open to the public. The tickets were for the seminarian's audience, the only one arranged for the Pope's Philadelphia visit.

"We're going to wear just our regular traveling clothes for the trip," Steve Koehler said Tuesday morning. "But we'll wear our Roman collars for the mass and the audience."

Their plans were to drive back to St. John's on Friday.

Foster grants

Catholic Social Services of Wayne County has been awarded a $78,000 Foster Grandparent grant by the State Commission on Services to the Aging.

The grant, made last Friday, will enable the Agency to hire 37 Foster grandparents to work with children and young adults.

One of 13 Foster Grandparent grants awarded by the commission for the 1979-80 fiscal year, Oct. 1 to Sept. 30, 1980, the grant supplements a federal grant from ACTION, the federal volunteer agency.

Diet books: There's always a new angle

An integral part of the dieting scene is the extraordinary number of diet books published each year and eagerly purchased by millions of people.

There's always a new angle. Most proclaim that when you buy this book, you'll never have to buy another diet book again. Dr. Linn's "Last Chance Diet" held the biggest promise, but since then publishing houses have continued to grind out someone else's idea of the ultimate method.

The one redeeming factor in all of them (or most) is that they are increasing focus on the more sensible methods of weight control, although many still smack of faddism.

Of the newly published books, I have read two from cover to cover. Each has a "hook" but one borders on faddism.

"THE LOVE DIET" by John Jansen, M.D. and Joyce Catlett, M.A. (Collier Books, $4.95) has a catchy title and an unusual approach.

The idea is that you find a friend, husband, business associate, wife, or mere acquaintance to feed you. Literally? No, but the next thing to it.

This other person takes total responsibility of the food you eat by granting permission to eat certain foods, plans meals, even prepares them.

He/she orders for the dieter in restaurants and encourages through weekly talks (therapy sessions). At last you are free of the problems relating to food. Someone else is in control.

The method is cumbersome. The authors claim you don't have to count calories nor does your feeder. But they do explain your feeder should have a good working knowledge of balanced nutrition.

In the pact you draw up with your friend you agree to abide by certain rules. Some couples would do well to abide by these rules whether or not they are on a diet.

In fact, probably the most redeeming sentence in the book reads, "The Love Diet is not just a method for losing weight. It is also a vehicle for changing a person, a relationship and a point of view about life."

I can see where this would open a line of communication between people. That in itself is therapeutic. Talking about what's eating at you is the root of the agreement. That's the most valuable part of the diet.

The shortcoming is that this method provides little to help wean the feeder from the feedee.

It's amusing reading. But as for the diet, don't say I didn't warn you.

A COMMON SENSE approach can be found in "Getting In Shape," by Frank Katch, William McArdle, and Brian Boylan. (Houghton Mifflin Company, $7.95).

It is an equilateral triangle consisting of diet, exercise, and behavior modification. It is good common sense.

A sizable amount of the volume is devoted to the exercise part of the triangle. While the other parts of the book are handled well, I was impressed with the authors' ability to encourage the reader without intimidating.

Fitness-wise, they help you find your place in the fitness scale in a methodical manner, which neither intimidates nor preaches. Katch, McArdle, and Boylan, whose strength is in the field of fitness and exercise, pace a beginner even if that beginner wants to start a program with ordinary walking or strolling.

They define the difference between overweight and overfat, and provide a scientific method for finding out where you stand. Based on what's lean and fat, you can find your percentage of body fat and calculate how much you should weigh. They pooh-pooh height and weight charts (hurrah!).

The book contains good calorie guides, along with carbohydrate values, fat values, and protein levels in most foods. The guide even defines these values in fast-food restaurants.

Youth Symphony Orchestra needs more wind instruments

The Plymouth Youth Symphony Orchestra has sent out a call for all young musicians who are interested in playing with a full orchestra. There is a special need for students who play clarinet, trumpet, trombone and French horn.

The orchestra, under the direction of Linda Mapes, rehearses at 6:30 p.m. each Tuesday in the orchestra room of Plymouth Salem High School, Joy Road west of Canton Center.

Among the selections which will be performed during the 1979-80 season are: Fourth movement of the Brahms First Symphony, William Tell Overture, and musical highlights from "Rocky."

Some additional challenging music is being planned for possible wind ensemble performance.

Each year, members of the youth symphony attend at least one professional symphony concert.

Joan Seay, president of Youth Symphony Association, says, "An exciting and enjoyable experience is in store for all who participate."

Persons wishing more information about the orchestra can call Mrs. Seay, 455-0816, or N.L. Hansen, treasurer, at 455-1877.

Mission, musical events fill area churches

CALVARY BAPTIST CHURCH OF CANTON, 43065 Joy, will host its annual missions conference Oct. 7-12. The key speaker will be Dr. Helen Rosevear of Glasgow, Scotland, who for many years has been a medical missionary in Africa. When independence, rebellion and civil war came to the Congo during the early 1960s, Dr. Rosevear was forced to leave.

In 1966 she returned to establish the Evangelical Medical Center of Nyanzunde in northeast Zaire. This consisted of a 250-bed hospital, maternity complex and leprosy care center, a training college for para-medical workers and several regional hospitals and dispensaries. It also provided a flying doctor service and a central supply depot for drugs and equipment.

Services will be at 9:45 and 11 a.m. and 5 p.m. on Sunday, Oct. 7. Week-night services will be at 7 p.m. Special music will be supplied by Beatrice Bush Bixler, singer and hymn writer.

CALVARY CHURCH, 29850 Six Mile, Livonia, will welcome the Rev. Charles Carpenter, chairman of the Brazil field of the Missionary Church. He will speak at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 4 and Friday, Oct. 5. The public is invited.

RIVERSIDE PARK CHURCH OF GOD, 11771 Newburgh, Livonia, has scheduled a concert by gospel recording artist Fred Frank at 10:45 a.m. Sunday, Oct. 7. The program will include music from a new Christian musical called "The Witness," during which Frank sings the role of Simon Peter. Other contemporary gospel songs will also be on the program.

Frank has appeared in a number of musicals including "My Fair Lady," "South Pacific" and "Music Man." He has appeared with such personalities as Danny Kaye, Carol Burnett and Tennessee Ernie Ford. Frank and his wife, June, have a special ministry to those involved in divorce.

PILGRIM MISSION CHURCH, 5737 Middlebelt, Garden City, will host the Inter-church Holiness Convention Oct. 9, 10 and 11. Special speakers will be the Rev. Don Wardlaw of Salem, Ohio, and the Rev. John White of Allenwood, Pa. Music directors are Judy Cheat-ham and Juanita Broadhead.

Services will be 7:30 p.m. on Oct. 9, and at 10:30 a.m., and 2:30 and 7:30 p.m. on Oct. 10 and 11.

HOSANNA-TABOR LUTHERAN CHURCH, 9600 Leverage, Redford Township, will add a period for intensive Bible study starting at 9:30 a.m. Sunday, Oct. 7. All members between the ages of 3 and 90 can be involved between the 8 and 11 a.m. services.

Missionary to visit Lutheran churches

The Rev. Marcus Felde, missionary to Papua, New Guinea, will visit two Lutheran churches in this area Sunday, Oct. 7, and then extend his stay to meet with several other groups.

PASTOR MARCUS FELDE

Pastor Felde will preach the sermon for the 8:30 a.m. worship and then will lead 9:45 a.m. adult study in Holy Trinity Church, 39020 Five Mile. He then will go to All Saints Church, 8850 Newburgh, to present slides for its adult Bible class at 11 a.m.

Other visits for the missionary include a talk for the Holy Trinity nursery school Oct. 16 and a slide presentation at the Nightingale Nursing Home Oct. 17. He will meet with the All Saints ladies' guild Oct. 18.

While at Holy Trinity, he will contact his partners in New Guinea through ham radio operated by Wayne Wiltse, a member of the congregation.

Pastor Felde and his wife, Carol, have worked since 1975 in a remote region where people lived a stone-age existence until the middle of the 1950s. They are seeking to establish churches in the emerging area.

"Our main goal is that the Christian church in our locale shall be able to stand on its own feet," he said.

Henderson serves Rosedale church

The primary focus of the Rev. Francis Henderson, interim pastor at Rosedale Gardens United Presbyterian Church in Livonia, will be worship, proclamation of the word, hospital or emergency visitation and development and support of the education program. Administration and planning of congregational life and its mission are also high on his list of priorities.

Ordained in 1942, Rev. Henderson is a graduate of Missouri Valley College, McCormick Seminary, and specialized in foundations of education at the University of Pittsburgh. He has special skills in group work, evangelism, Christian education and recreation.

He has served as an interim pastor six previous times. In addition to serving as pastor he has been moderator of two presbyteries and has served on many presbytery and synod committees. Pastor Henderson and his wife, Eleanor, came to Livonia from Ft. Dodge, Iowa. One of his leisure activities is fishing. He also enjoys hiking, volleyball and bridge.

Artist in wool

Ellen Wilson will be demonstrating the old art of hooking rugs Friday and Saturday, Oct. 5 and 6, during the Autumn Harvest Weekend at Greenfield Village.

Mrs. Wilson, a Northville resident, is the former Ellen Travis of Plymouth. She uses an old-fashioned rug hook and used woven wool materials for her rugs and wall hangings.

In August, she was at the Worcester Polytechnic Institute in Worcester, Mass., teaching traditional rug hooking at a teachers' workshop. More than 100 rug hooking teachers from 20 states and Canada participated.

She also heads the rug-hooking bees at Schoolcraft College. The next one will be from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday Oct. 20 in Room T 300 of the Applied Science Building.

Rug hookers can take along a current project and a sack lunch, and gain inspiration in the atmosphere of an old-fashioned rug hooking bee.

Many fish—like the angelfish, for example—change color, and even shape, during the various stages of their lives.

The anemones look like blossoming plants, under water—but actually are sea animals.

The anemonefish, which lives among the tentacles of the anemone, grows and feeds their host.

The mudskipper fish of South America clambers about on land and even climbs mangrove roots.

Quilt fair Saturday

United Methodist Women of First United Methodist Church, Ann Arbor will have a quilt fair from 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 6 at the church, 120 South State Street, between E. Washington and E. Huron streets.

Theme of the show is "Our American Heritage." There will be 50 to 60 quilts on display, many of them between 50 and 100 years old.

Items for sale will include quilts, pillows, Christmas items, toys, doll quilts, aprons, etc. as well as kits to make many of these items. Fabrics suitable for use in quilting will be available along with quilting supplies. Home baked goods will be for sale.

Admission will be $1 and free coffee and tea will be served. Children under 12 years of age will be admitted free but must be accompanied by an adult.

Among the unusual quilts will be a contemporary friendship quilt made by church women and presented to a Detroit Conference president. It was made by women of the conference which extends from the Ohio border to and including part of the Upper peninsula; a 100-year-old all-wool crazy quilt made by a member's great-grandmother who was raised by friendly Indians after most of her family had been killed by Indians; a quilt made during the Civil War which contains pieces of uniforms; an all silk quilt in the fan pattern; and one made by the Navy Mothers of Eaton, Colo. during World War II.

Lady Lavinia Loveless: "EEEEEEEEEEEEK! Pray do not strike him.
He is the only one who knows how to drive the automobile!"

Penelope Pattingale, her niece, a Sweet Young Thing: "Please, Livermore, perhaps he didn't know that the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers have a solid, thorough penetration that is both amazing and marvelous."

Livermore, the Butler: "But, Miss Penelope, surely everyone knows what an astounding, multitudinous variety of people this fine, hometown, family newspaper reaches." *

Farthingale, the Chauffeur: "Please Sir! I will hasten to the Observer & Eccentric office and ask the Classified Hot Line to place the ad in the next issue. I must vindicate myself for that dastardly deed."

Lady Lavinia Loveless: "Lose no time! Dash off posthaste, with all due speed and dispatch! This ad must run immediately or we are doomed."

Penelope Pattingale, a Sweet Young Thing: "Oh yes, Farthingale, do! Please, Livermore, fling away that cruel weapon."

To Washington with concern

By MARGARET MILLER

"Revise Social Security so women have it in their own names."
 "Draw up health legislation so that tests given under Medicare are not dangerous to women."
 "Institute a program of massive research to find a means of contraception acceptable to all to end the abortion conflict." These were a few of the ideas U.S. Rep. Carl D. Pursell heard as he listened to the women in his district during unprecedented hearings.

And if Washington listens to Pursell, it could mean some landmark legislation on issues concerning women. He will have plenty of specific suggestions for congressional action, suggestions straight from area women who have expertise in matters like employment, health, family planning, displaced homemakers, spouse abuse and taxation.

From women's leaders like Laura Callow and Linda Renik of Livonia and Jean Wagner of Plymouth, he can take back some new ideas that could perhaps change the course of legislation.

THE PLYMOUTH Republican spend the weekend meeting with three groups of women — representing cross-sections of opinion in Wayne, Monroe and Washtenaw counties — getting their ideas on many issues.

At each of the three sessions, he told the women he would take their ideas back to the Congress and would try to get others to join him in synthesizing some sort of women's bill of rights.

"A lot of effort has gone into this project," said Pursell, who supplied each of his panelists with a comprehensive list of bills that had been introduced in 14 areas of women's concerns. He introduced staff members Nancy Nidriker, who works with him in Washington and did much of the preparation work on the listing of bills, and Denise Radke, who arranged the sessions with the women from his Livonia office.

"This is something that never has been tried by anyone in Congress to my knowledge," Pursell went on for the Wayne County group, 11 in number, gathered at Schoolcraft College.

"We deal with issues on a piecemeal basis, and, in the hundreds of subcommittees, bills have a tendency to get lost."

"But if we could get a general agreement on issues, we could introduce a Women's Bill of Rights that could be an important landmark whatever happens to the Equal Rights Amendment."

SOME SPECIFIC IDEAS in the areas of health, Social Security and birth control came from Mrs. Renik, a nurse, Mrs. Callow, a homemaker and ERA booster, and Mrs. Wagner, an attorney.

Mrs. Renik addressed herself specifically to a house resolution introduced in the 96th Congress by Rep. Elizabeth Holtzman (D-N.Y.)

Designed to provide Medicare coverage for breast cancer detection, it would provide for one mammography and Xeromammography per year, according to the information Pursell distributed.

"A mammography every year is dangerous unless you are dealing with high-risk women," Mrs. Renik said. She was given quick support by several other women present, including Esther Friederichs and Peggy Letvin, both of Livonia.

"Holtzman needs better medical advice," said Mrs. Renik.

Pursell said he would see that she sought it.

Regarding Social Security, all present agreed, "the whole thing needs revising."

But Mrs. Callow had a suggestion on how.

"I'm interested in seeing that women have Social Security rights in their own name whether they are single or married," she said.

"When a husband works and his wife stays home to take care of the home and family, why couldn't his Social Security payment be divided, with half in his name and half in hers?"

"Then when the wife goes to work, hers should be split, too," someone else in the group suggested.

"Yes, that would be fair," Mrs. Callow agreed.

Her point, she went on to explain, was that such a system make a big difference to the woman who is divorced after a number of years of marriage and has no Social Security benefits in her own name.

ATTORNEY WAGNER make her suggestion during an unusually calm and matter-of-fact discussion of abortion legislation — an issue Pursell said is "the only visible women's-interest issue in Congress and has so deadlocked the House and Senate that it has stopped the processes of budget approval."

Jean Wagner thinks massive research could cut through the abortion question stalemate.

Prize winner

Play will be broadcast Monday

By BETTY MASSON

Even a teachers' strike can sometimes have a silver lining.

Because Plymouth-Canton teachers were on strike for two weeks last month, a Gallimore fifth grader, Janai Stepp, decided to enter a writing contest.

She competed with other young authors 12 years old and under in the Detroit area.

Ten-year-old Janai came out a winner. Janai and her mother moved to Plymouth Township from Westland last year.

The contest was sponsored by WDET-FM and National Public Radio. Janai's story, "Count Miro's Secret," will be presented on National Public Radio by the Wayne State University speech department at noon Monday, Oct. 8.

Locally, it will be heard at 101.9 on the FM dial.

Before her story is presented, Janai will be interviewed on the air.

pass to the Detroit Youth Theater good for 10 admissions.

JANAI'S WINNING story has been sent to the National Public Radio in Washington, D.C., where it will be in competition with other winning stories from across the U.S.

There also will be an international competition, sponsored by the European Broadcasting Union and UNICEF in celebration of the International Year of the Child.

Whatever happens in these contests, the next week is certainly going to be an exciting one for Janai and her mother.

Not only will she have the radio interview, but next weekend (Oct. 11, 12 and 13), Janai will be appearing with the Saline Community Players. She has the role of Gretel in "The Sound of Music."

Music is Janai's favorite school subject, and she likes sports such as gymnastics, tennis and hiking, better than reading or writing.

However, this is the second writing contest she has won. When she was a second-grader at the Gibson School in Dearborn, she won a Young Authors Contest and took part in an authors conference at the U-M.

Janai also takes dancing lessons and acting classes. The latter are offered by the Plymouth Community Arts Council.

But neither writing plays nor performing in them is her life's ambition. Right now, she is trying to decide between becoming a doctor or an underwater archeologist.

Janai's prize-winning play would never have been written if school had opened on time. (Staff photo by Gary Caskey)

Heading out

The Minstrels, a group of musicians and satirists from Livonia, are holding a farewell concert at 8 p.m. Friday before most of the group heads for points south. The group includes (from left) Jim King, Vickie Skerritt, Mary and Tom King, along with John Reece and Mark McGuire. The performance is free in the Jefferson Community Center, 9501 Henry Ruff. "We have contempt for traditional patterns of life. But it's a good-natured contempt, never hateful," said Jim King.

Theater reopens with 'White Hope'

The Theater Company of the University of Detroit, a two-time winner of the American College Theater Festival, open its ninth season this weekend in a new home, the Paul Robeson Theater at the Northwest Activities Center.

This season features seven productions, to be presented in The Theater Company's two performance centers.

The doors will open Friday, with Howard Sackler's Pulitzer Prize-winning "The Great White Hope." The play focuses on the tumultuous career of the first black heavyweight champion of the world and his affair with a white woman. This show will run Oct. 5-7, 12-14 and 19-21.

Later shows include:

- "Private Lives," a comedy by Noel Coward. Elyot and Amanda, once married to each other and now honeymooning with new spouses, meet by chance, re-ignite the old flame and impulsively elope with each other. Nov. 2-4 and 9-11.

- "Once Upon a Mattress," a musical slated as the Christmas show. It is based on the fairytale of "The Princess and the Pea," only this time the princess is a tomboy and the queen is a curse. Nov. 30, Dec. 1, 2, 7-9 and 14-16.

- "Medea et la Force de Voodoo," by Arthur J. Beer. This is a new treatment of Euripides' tragedy, giving a new setting to the passionate tale of jealousy and infanticide. Feb. 1-3, 8-10 and 15-17.

- "American Buffalo," by David Mamet, a character study of three men as they plan the theft of a valuable coin collection. Feb. 29, March 1, 2 and 7-9.

- "Light Up the Sky," Moss Hart's comedy. It deals with the trials, tribulations and insanity of opening a new Broadway show. March 28-30, April 4-6 and 11-13.

- "Captain Cook," by Aldyth Morris. The exhilaration of adventure and the challenge of the sea underline a personal and insightful view of one of history's greatest sailors. April 18-20 and 25-27).

SUBSCRIBERS SEE seven shows for the price of five. They also are invited to several student productions and receive a special newsletter prior to each production. Reservations and additional information are available from the box office at 927-1130.

The clowns, the animals and the crowds . . . the circus is coming to town!

It's the 108th edition of the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus, opening Tuesday for shows at Cobo Arena through Oct. 21.

The big top is gone — replaced by concrete and bricks — but they still call it the greatest show on earth. The performers include tiger master Charly Baumann (far left); clown Dave Carlyon (left), a lawyer who traded in his shingle for a smile; and the King Charles Troupe (above), who play basketball on unicycles.

There's also the Flying Gaonas, winners of the Gold Clown Award at the circus festival in Monte Carlo; 33-inch Michu, billed as the smallest man in the world; and the Urias Troupe, daredevil Brazilian motorcyclists who continue to career around a steel globe despite several accidents and one death.

BUT WHEN YOU THINK of the circus, you think of clowns more than anything else, of course. And Dave Carlyon of Bay City is the best ambassador they could find, a guy who pursues his curiosity.

One winter weekend, Carlyon, 29, hopped a bus to check out Clown College in Florida, which is run by the Ringling Bros. folks. After finishing law school, he enrolled. He's been on the road with the circus since 1977.

Carlyon tells the story from his first year as a clown, when a young couple brought their daughter, stricken with leukemia, to see the circus for the last time.

He was mingling in the audience before the show and the parents introduced him to the girl. Afterward, they told him of the reason for their visit. Six months later, the child died, and the couple visited Carlyon to thank him for giving their daughter something to remember.

"It shook me up, and it's an experience I'll never forget," says Carlyon. "Only as a clown could I have made such an impact."

He intends to continue his professional clowning for at least a few more years.

"I still have a lot to learn and I want to become really good at clowning before I hang up the baggy pants."

Her professional theater debut — at 15

By JIM WINDELL

Fifteen-year-old Martha Sanders plays the role of 13-year-old Shirley Talley in Lanford Wilson's "5th of July," a drama continuing through Oct. 13 at the Attic Theater in Detroit's Greektown.

Martha Sanders is Shirley Talley. Then, again, she really isn't.

"It's not typecasting," the young actress said, sitting in the family room of her Bloomfield Township home, "but she is like me in some ways."

In her first professional production, Ms. Sanders was not sure if she liked the play, at first. "I've learned, though, that you don't really know a play until you see it come to life."

SINCE IT CAME to life after the hard work of four weeks in rehearsal, she has found her character fun to play.

"Shirley is precocious and nosy. She dreams a lot and is determined to be a star. She says she is going to be an artist, but she never does anything about it."

That's what makes Ms. Sanders different from the character she portrays.

When she wanted to learn more about the theater, she signed up for Cranbrook Summer Theater School and rode her bike to classes.

A friend told her about the opening for the part of a teenage girl at the Attic Theater. Ms. Sanders didn't just dream about playing the part. She auditioned for it and got it. She rode a bus every day to rehearsals in Detroit.

Carolyn Sanders, her mother, said she wasn't sure at first that she wanted Martha to have the part.

'When we were in elementary school, my girlfriends and I liked to make up plays and write scripts. We also made our own puppets, and for awhile I was thinking about going into puppetry.'

"I had never seen a play like this before," Mrs. Sanders said. "It is very adult. But we all talked it over and decided that we can't shelter Martha. There is nothing in the play that she isn't going to come across sometime in life."

EVEN THOUGH Ms. Sanders was not taken to a great number of plays as a child, ("Dad would take us down to the Fisher once in a while to see plays like 'The Wiz'"), she drifted toward acting in a natural way.

"When we were in elementary school, my girlfriends and I liked to make up plays and write scripts. We also made our own puppets, and for awhile I was thinking about going into puppetry," she said.

Martha has the same interests as other teenage girls. She often wonders why she looks the same age to herself every year in her school picture and why she doesn't have a boyfriend.

Three years ago during the Bicentennial celebration, Ms. Sanders and her friends wrote a script depicting important events in America's first 200 years. After making costumes and scenery, they performed the pageant in the neighborhood.

Mrs. Sanders still proudly shows pictures of her daughter in this pageant, from the family photo album.

MARTHA'S HECTIC schedule, which started when rehearsals began in August, has put a crimp in her life.

Her mother said Martha has a way of getting totally involved in activities and "sometimes bites off more than she can comfortably chew."

The part of Shirley in "5th of July" has demanded a heavy commitment.

"After I got the part, Sam — Sam Pollack, he's the director — called me and stressed all the work that would be involved. From Aug. 7 to opening night on Sept. 7, we had rehearsals practically every day, 6-8 hours a day," Ms. Sanders said.

For the first week of rehearsals, she and other cast members spent their time examining their character's personality.

"I had to figure out what Shirley was like for her whole life. She is an illegitimate child, and I had to figure out who she stayed with and how she got her values."

"Getting down to the nitty-gritty of her character was a big help in playing her."

DESPITE A SCHEDULE that includes performances Thursday, Friday and Sunday, with two shows Saturday, Ms. Sanders is enjoying her first taste of professional theater experience.

"I would like to keep working at the Attic in some way, even if it is working with lights or stage managing," she said. "There are lots of people at the theater I like and would like to continue to work with."

Martha Sanders is in her first professional role in "5th of July," now playing at the Attic Theater in Detroit.

Old World Market returns this weekend

Detroit's original ethnic festival, the 50-year-old Old World Market, will take place Thursday through Sunday at the International Institute of Metropolitan Detroit, Kirby at John R in Detroit's Cultural Center.

The four-day annual event will feature the demonstration and sale of old world crafts that Detroit's many immigrant communities have brought to the new world.

The market will run from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. today and Friday, 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. Saturday, and noon to 6 p.m. Sunday.

Admission is $1.50 for adults, 50 cents for children and $1 for senior citizens.

ON THE AGENDA for the four days of festivities are Mrs. Daskaloff's Bulgarian Meat Ball Soup, Mrs. Spargo's Estonian Wood Burning, and Japanese songs by Toma and Yuki Mack. An outdoor German beer tent will feature wine and sandwiches. Folk dancing in the street and continuous music and entertainment also are planned.

"The most unique Christmas shopping in metropolitan Detroit is a highlight of the Old World Market," said Hazel Boltwood, market chairwoman.

"The ethnic communities of Detroit join in for this one event to show off the last practitioners of their lost arts and to import the finest handicrafts from the old country."

An addition to the market this year is a booth where children can buy inexpensive gifts from around the world.

Food is also a key to the four-day event. A visitor might assemble the thick and hearty Bulgarian meat ball soup or Greek lemon soup, Greek or French bread, Norwegian sausage with red cabbage or a Danish anebleskiver, which is a round ball-type of crepe. Other specialties are from Romania, Mexico, Turkey, the Philippines and the Arab world.

For dessert, the International Pastry Shop at the market features 50 different international baked pastries.

The Institute's first cookbook, "Cuisine International," is a 300-page volume with recipes gathered from kitchens in ethnic communities throughout metropolitan Detroit. The cookbook will be on sale at the market.

A traveling American dulcimer player and Ukrainian bandurist player will circulate through the market. Continuous music and dance performances of numerous nationalities are scheduled.

Craft demonstrations will include the making of delicate Japanese dolls, Faberge eggs, Ukrainian egg painting called Pysanky, Estonian wood burning, Polish, Belgian and French lacemaking, glass blowing, Japanese leather craft and Japanese stained glass making, Ukrainian cross stitching, old world woodcarving and modern Polish tapestry making.

Items for sale will include French Canadian mukluk boots; French dolls; Norwegian crystal and porcelain; Lithuanian amber; South American dough dolls; African carvings; and world-wide tapestries, weavings, baskets and knitwear.

THE OLD WORLD Market was founded during the depression, 10 years after the International Institute was founded.

Hawthorne classic starts Sunday on 56

The 4-part drama, "The Scarlet Letter," will be re-broadcast at 10 p.m. Sundays, beginning Oct. 7, on Channel 56.

This Nathaniel Hawthorne classic is the story of Hester Prynne, a 17th century woman forced to wear a scarlet "A" as public punishment for adultery. Hester, who during her husband's absence had taken a lover and borne him a child, is a criminal by colonial codes. She becomes the object of curiosity, ridicule and contempt.

Meg Foster stars as Hester Prynne, Kevin Conway as her husband, Roger Chillingworth, and John Heard as her lover, minister Arthur Dimmesdale.

The four, 60-minute episodes of "The Scarlet Letter" represent the first serial presentation of a classic American novel produced by public television. It was shot on location last summer in Newport, where the town of Boston (circa 1642) was constructed to recreate the Puritan atmosphere Hawthorne described in his work.

Jazz at Marygrove

The all-woman jazz quintet Alive will perform at 8 p.m. Saturday at the Marygrove College Theater, 8425 W. McNichols in Detroit.

"You can't really categorize it and say it's one thing," says percussionist Carolyn Brandy. "It's not bop, it's not pop, it's not Afro-Cuban, it's not gospel, it's not blues, it's not swing — but it's all of those things. It's not classical, yet all those elements are definitely there."

Tickets are $6 at the door.

A folk musical of Appalachia

"The Furies of Mother Jones" will be performed at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday in Detroit's Rackham Auditorium. The original musical portrays the lives and culture of coal miners and mill workers in Appalachia. It will be performed by the Little Flags Theater group from Boston, now on its fourth national tour. The play is set in modern times and depicts the struggles of real people. Mother Jones was a labor organizer until her death in 1930; in the play, she serves as the link between past and present. Tickets are $3 at the door ($2 for senior citizens and unemployed people). The auditorium is at 80 Farnsworth, a block north of the Detroit Institute of Arts.

Vermeer talk free on Sunday

The influence of Vermeer's 17th century paintings will be discussed by Christopher Wright, visiting British scholar, at 1 p.m. Sunday in the Detroit Institute of Arts Lecture Hall. Admission is free.

"Vermeer of Delft, Painter of Light" will offer a close look at one of Holland's foremost artists. Wright will discuss the artist's clarity, stillness of figures, and local color, especially the use of blues and yellows.

The slide talk will also touch on the exceptional uniformity in Vermeer's work.

La Marre's thrilling accounts of crimes chilled readers of detective magazines

By MARY KLEMIC

He lives the quiet life of a retired executive now, but his name was once linked with some of the most sensational and fascinating crimes in the United States.

From 1934 to 1942, Troy resident Virgil La Marre, who retired four years ago as vice president of public relations at the D'Arcy-MacManus & Masius advertising company in Bloomfield Hills, wrote factual crime stories for national detective magazines.

For 25 cents in those days, you could pick up an issue of a magazine like "True Detective" and read about a variety of homicides, robberies and crime investigations. The table of contents of any issue was peppered with such spicy story titles as "The Aviator — the Lady — and the Dead Lover," "The Mystery of the Strangled Fiancee" and "The Swamp Horror."

La Marre wrote almost 300 detective stories under his own name and under the pen names of Stewart Chandor, Neal Wood, John Carroll and Ward Bonnell. The magazine publishers would give La Marre the pen names because he would often write most of the stories in a single issue.

"Some people hated me under one name and liked me under the other," La Marre recalled. "The magazine would get letters saying, 'Keep Virgil La Marre, he really knows his stuff, but forget that bum Chandor.'"

LA MARRE WROTE for the Fawcett and Dell publishing companies, but most of his stories were written for the McFadden Publishing Co., "the Cadillac of the bunch," he said. The company's "True Detective" magazine sold almost one million copies every month. The magazine had fans in England and Africa as well as all over the United States. One of La Marre's stories for the company on the Ku Klux Klan-like "Black Legion" of Detroit was made into a movie.

Writing was only the first of La Marre's three careers. He has also worked in public relations and as a sales executive at Ford and in advertising at D'Arcy-MacManus & Masius. Now 69 years old, he said that his work in advertising was "the most fun."

"My temperament is compatible with that work," he explained. "You meet sensitive, creative, highly intelligent people who are always interesting and never boring in that business. And you have an interesting variety of people and products to write about."

Before he began his career in crime, La Marre majored in history at the University of Michigan and worked as a police reporter for the Detroit Times, earning $35 a week. His crime writing career began after a lawyer friend of his, an avid "True Detective" reader, suggested that La Marre write about a case he was working on.

La Marre was paid more than $155 for his first story, one he wrote in two days, and more than $166 for his second. He quit the paper after his third story, a three-part serial, earned him $451, and devoted the next few years to detective writing.

La Marre and his wife, Katherine, travelled all over the United States and Canada gathering material for his stories. An "indefatigable researcher," he spoke to police, lawyers and suspects, taking notes on his portable typewriter. He read police reports and confessions as well.

"I WAS A STICKLER for detail, and the research paid off," La Marre said. "I would have as much as 5,000 words of notes from people, police reports, anything I could get my hands on.

He authored almost 300 detective stories during his magazine writing career.

Virgil La Marre spent eight years of his life combining his knowledge of police reporting and his findings on police blotters into factual detective stories. (Staff photos by Charlie Kidd)

Sometimes I would take 5,000 words of notes to write a 5,000-word story."

After reading the material carefully, La Marre would list the factors he wanted to include in the story and make an outline before he would begin to write the story itself. He said that his stories would take between three days and two weeks to write.

"I could sure rattle those things off," he said. "The words just came." But writing has always been a "painful process," he added.

"The better you write, the more you write," he explained. "The last time I wrote was no easier than the first. And reading a manuscript is always embarrassing and painful. Even today, I'll read one of my stories and think, 'Oh, no, why did I use that phrase?' You're never really satisfied."

The stories were accurate but the facts were sometimes embellished, La Marre said. For example, most of the dialogue in a typical story was fictitious.

There were three kinds of detective stories, La Marre said: those with sex ("They were the most popular, and the easiest to sell"); those with a lot of action, like bank robbery stories, and those about the deductive side of police work, like La Marre's interview with a wood expert in the famous Lindbergh kidnaping case.

THE EXPERT claimed that the wood from Bruno Hauptmann's attic was used to build a crude ladder that was thought to be used to reach the baby's window. Hauptmann was convicted and executed for the crime.

La Marre would also "ghost write" editorials for more than 25 governors on how to deter crime. He likes to recall the time he interviewed a handsome, imposing Indiana governor without knowing his name. The governor later became high commissioner of the Philippines and a presidential candidate. "I had more audacity and energy than brains," La Marre said with a smile.

La Marre said that he "always wanted to take a crack at writing advertising," and in 1942 he got a job in public relations at the Ford Willow Run bomber plant. Fourteen years later, he became a copywriter at the D'Arcy-MacManus agency. There he "sat in all the chairs," holding positions as account executive and supervisor and finally vice president of public relations.

La Marre was a licensed pilot for 47 years. He owned his own Cessna plane for 13 years.

The La Marres have three children. Their daughter, Linda, is a writer for the Detroit News. "She's a better writer than I ever was," La Marre said. Another daughter, Carol, is a medical secretary at Beaumont Hospital, and their son, Robert, is a sales representative for Bethlehem Steel.

La Marre said that the true detective story he used to write was a product of that particular era.

"THERE WAS NO TV then, and people weren't as mobile as they are today," he said. "The timing was just right for this type of titillation and entertainment. People would get their jollies out of detective stories."

"There's no market for this anymore," he continued. "TV in particular has killed these magazines off."

Today he spends his time playing golf and reading. "I could read all day long," he said. "If I had to live my whole career over I would like to be an editorial writer on a fine paper like the New York Times. I'm a readaholic and you have to be one to write a good editorial."

La Marre said that while he enjoyed his career as a detective writer, he doesn't miss it.

"I had a wonderful time," he said. "I was young and full of vitamins. I saw the United States and I saw many interesting people. I learned a lot about people. It all works out to your advantage, because the more people you meet, the more you understand what life is all about."

"It was a great, wonderful experience, but so was my 14 years at Ford and my 20 years in the advertising business."

La Marre said that he doesn't follow crime stories that much these days. "I have very little interest in crime," he said. "The only crime story I've read recently was 'The Godfather,' which I found extremely fascinating."

"My interests now are more about the whole world in which we live, not just the narrow category of crime," he said.

Vaudeville days spark Youtheatre season

Pascual Olivera and Angela del Moral will perform Spanish dances in March.

"The Emperor's New Clothes" will be enacted by New York's Prince Street Players in December.

Striking a vaudeville theme, Detroit Youtheatre's 1979-80 season of "Something Every Saturday" will offer birthday and celebrity parties, backstage tours, the "Wiggle Club," and 33 live professional productions.

The season begins this Saturday, and continues through next May.

For 16 years, Youtheatre has offered a full range of performances in an introduction to the performing arts, in its home at the Detroit Institute of Arts auditorium.

Highlights of this season will include "Dinosaurs, Puppets and Picasso" (Oct. 13) starring Philadelphia's master puppeteer Marshall Izen; American Indian folklore in "Totem Tales" (Nov. 10) performed by the Melikin Puppet Theater of Chicago; Emmy Award-winning Prince Street Players' production of "Aladdin" (Dec. 8);

"The Magic of Danny Orleans" (Feb. 9) marking this family's 12th annual Youtheatre appearance; "Flamenco Holiday" (March 22) featuring two dancers in a whirlwind tour of the culture of South America; "The Tales of Beatrix Potter" (April 5) in a special Easter presentation with a visit from the Easter Bunny's mother.

AMERICA'S FOREMOST young people's balladier, "Tom Glazer, Live!" (May 3); and a return visit from Prince Street Players with their production of "The Emperor's New Clothes" (May 10 and 17).

Youtheatre's 25-cent movie matinee series, entitled "Kidstars," will take Elizabeth Taylor, Jodie Foster, Roddy McDowall, Judy Garland, Mickey Rooney and others back to their childhood successes on the screen with such favorites as "My Friend Flicka," "A Christmas Carol," "The Elephant Boy" and "Captains Courageous."

Live performances will be seen at 11 a.m. and 2 p.m., with films at 2 p.m. only, in the Detroit Institute of Arts auditorium. General admission tickets for all but the "Kidstars" series are $2 each for children and adults and for groups of 10 or more.

Five Youtheatre programs designated as Wiggle Club shows are presented for families with children 3 to 8 years old. And as an introduction to theater-going for preschoolers, the club features its own membership pass cards, Wiggle Club buttons and a graduation certificate at the end of the season which entitles the bearer to a free first ticket to the next season's "big kids" shows.

"The Clown Meeting" is performed by Boston's Living Poem Theater at 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. this Saturday in the Detroit Institute of Arts auditorium.

Each Wiggle Club show is composed of three or four short segments designed to hold the younger child's attention. The five-show packet is available with tickets priced per child and for accompanying adults.

BIRTHDAYS CAN BE celebrated with Youtheatre's birthday party package — including invitations, party hats, a salute from the stage, the celebrant's name on the lobby birthday sign and a gift from the performing guest stars.

Guided backstage tours may be reserved for young people 10 and older. Following each live production, the curios are shown some of the secrets behind the footlights.

Saluting young people's service and community groups, Youtheatre will present special performances for Blue Birds, Camp Fire Girls, Indian Guides, Maidens and Princesses, Cub and Boy Scouts throughout the season.

Following each live performance, the audiences are invited to a "celebrity party" to meet and speak with the professional performers.

In addition to its Saturday presentation, Youtheatre also provides a full schedule of "Field Trip to Broadway" — musicals in the museum auditorium during school time.

Its "Show on the Road" series brings the professional performing arts to school and community locations throughout the entire state.

For more information and a brochure of Youtheatre programs, call the Detroit Institute of Arts ticket office at 832-2730.

Kendallarks open for members

The Kendallarks of Farmington, a woman's choral and specialty acts group that has been performing for 23 years, are putting together its performance schedule for the season while simultaneously welcoming new members.

The Kendallarks offer musical programs that run from 20 minutes to an hour in length, tailor-made to fit the season, the occasion, or the special-interest audience.

The repertoire is varied and includes contemporary and show tunes, songs from the good old days and folk songs.

The programs feature soloists, duets, trios and a new barbershop quartette. Sara Woollard, who enters her second term as president of the Kendallarks this fall, described the programs as "a little bit of dancing, a little bit of acting and a whole lot of singing."

The group is supported, in part, by The Michigan Council For The Arts. The Kendallarks are directed by Jim Whitten, a resident of Plymouth who holds a bachelor's degree in music.

Susan Garr, the group's accompanist, is a Wayne State music major and a professional organist.

OPEN REHEARSALS are a traditional part of the Kendallarks' schedule every fall for newcomers to join in the goings on, get acquainted with the members and learn the workings of the group.

Open rehearsals are set this fall for 8 p.m. on Tuesday, Oct. 9, in North Farmington Baptist Church on 13 Mile Road, west of Orchard Lake.

Mrs. Woollard will take inquiries at 553-0182.

"I am taking calls from anyone who would like to sing with us, and I am also putting together the performance schedule this year so I can answer any questions groups might have about our shows or our availability," she said.

Marcy Yutendale is Mrs. Woollard's vice president. Carol Cushing is secretary and Joyce Messing is treasurer for the coming year.

Getting Sillies

The Sillies, a new wave band, is on stage Saturday at the Wrapper, at 20401 W. Eight Mile Road just west of Evergreen. "Be prepared for the unexpected; anything can go off at a Sillies concert," says their promoter. A copy of the group's single recording will be given to the first 20 paid admissions. Also performing will be the Scott Slash Band. Music starts about 10:30 p.m. Cover is $3.

Fall harvest highlighted in G'field Village

The Autumn Harvest Weekend is on this weekend at Greenfield Village, complete with the whine of antique machinery and the rhythm of old-fashioned country music.

The weekend features the aroma of freshly threshed grain and newly pressed apple cider; the music of fiddles, banjos and dulcimers; and demonstrations of farm skills and chores. An antique tractor pull — with drivers trying to pull the largest weight the furthest distance — will take place on Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Costumed crafters will churn butter, split rails, make paper, carve hunting decoys, hook rugs, dry food, make apple butter and do a variety of other things that most people just don't do these days.

Square dancing will be performed on the Village Green on Saturday and Sunday.

There is no charge beyond the regular village admission of $3.75 for adults and $1.75 for children 6-12. People younger than 6 are admitted free.

The village is open 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Mondays-Fridays and 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. on weekends.

Dance to help burn medicine

The Benefit Committee for the National Institute for Burn Medicine will sponsor a fund-raising party and dance, 5-10 p.m., Sunday, Oct. 7, at the Fairlane Manor in Dearborn.

The benefit will raise money for the burn hospital being developed in Ann Arbor called "Center for Excellence."

Governor Milliken is honorary chairman. Vic Caputo, TV2 newscaster and host of "Good Morning Detroit," will be master of ceremonies. The evening will include dancing to a 17-piece orchestra and a silent auction throughout the party.

Two artists will do caricatures of anyone present, which can be purchased.

Through the efforts of the National Institute for Burn Medicine, research and education in burn medicine has progressed rapidly in the past decade. Whereas a few years ago a person with 40 percent burns had virtually no chance to live, today a person with 90 percent severity in burns has a fighting chance for survival.

As a result of this progress from the institute, a burn hospital will be erected on the University of Michigan Campus in the near future. This project has been approved by the Southeastern Michigan Regional Planning Council as well as the state public health director.

For ticket information call 751-2642, 274-1130 or 839-6428.

Indian culture in EMU show

A slide show on native American culture and a weaving workshop will highlight Leona Zastrow's lecture at Eastern Michigan University on Monday.

In addition to her work as an artist and teacher, Ms. Zastrow has published articles on basketry, weaving and other native American crafts in the Journal of American Indian Education and other journals.

At Eastern, Ms. Zastrow will conduct a walk-in weaving workshop from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. in Eastern's Intermedia Gallery, on the first floor of McKenny Union. At 7:30 p.m. she will present a slide lecture titled "Southwest Native American Cultures" in Lecture Room 1 of Sill Hall.

The weaving workshop and the slide presentation are free and open to the public. For additional information, contact the EMU art department at 487-3388.

WHY ARE THESE MEN SMILING?

Meet Cecil Peterson. He's the smallish man with the newspaper. Cecil never misses a chance to check what's happening in his hometown.

Why, just last week he found a bird cage for his pet gerbil in the Observer & Eccentric Classified section. The reason Cecil is reading while standing up in a crowd (he usually has better manners, but he doesn't know any of these fellows anyway) is because he's reading a story about his nephew's baseball team.

Cecil never misses one single issue of his hometown newspaper because he knows that it's crammed full of stuff that the city dailies never touch. Stuff like local bargains at his neighborhood stores, those juicy classified ads, and what's happening at city hall.

There was even a story about Cecil the time he grew the largest squash he'd ever seen. Or anyone else had ever seen for that matter. Cecil cut that picture out and put it in his scrapbook. He ate the squash.

Oh yes, why are those other fellows smiling?

Well, first they're on their way home and second, they know their hometown newspaper will be waiting for them when they get there.
