CETA grant gets cut, but Canton copes

Canton, along with neighboring communities, is feeling the pinch caused by a tightening of federal CETA regulations.

While money given to Canton through the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act may have dwindled, grants coordinator Terry Carroll said the township is hurting less than others.

According to Carroll, the new regulations attached to the work training program will not mean that Canton will lose employees in such areas as the police or fire departments.

The federal regulations, which went into effect last month, are aimed at bringing the CETA program back to its original intent — to train the consistently unemployed.

Canton, Carroll said, always treated its program as a way to get people channeled into jobs rather than as a way to fill out an inadequate staff.

Other communities, such as Sumpter and Redford townships, had used CETA employees on the police force or public works department. Those employees will either have to be hired under the communities general fund budget or be terminated after a period of 18 months.

Carroll said Canton now employs five CETA employees, down from 13 at one point last year.

The CETA program funds communities based on a formula derived from population and unemployment figures. There are several variations of the program, marked by different eligibility requirements for potential employees.

Canton has been allocated base funding of $27,603 for the 1980 fiscal year under CETA's title two program (which has the more stringent eligibility requirements); and $26,243 under title six.

Last year, Canton was allocated $32,200 under title two and $56,377 under title six. Additional funding was obtained later in the year, bringing the total grant amount to about $114,000.

"We saw this (regulation tightening) coming," Carroll said, "so we took a lot of CETA people in essential slots and put them under our general fund."

The grants coordinator called Canton's CETA program "one of the most exemplary programs in Southeastern Michigan."

"I don't take credit for it — it was set up that way when I got here," he added.

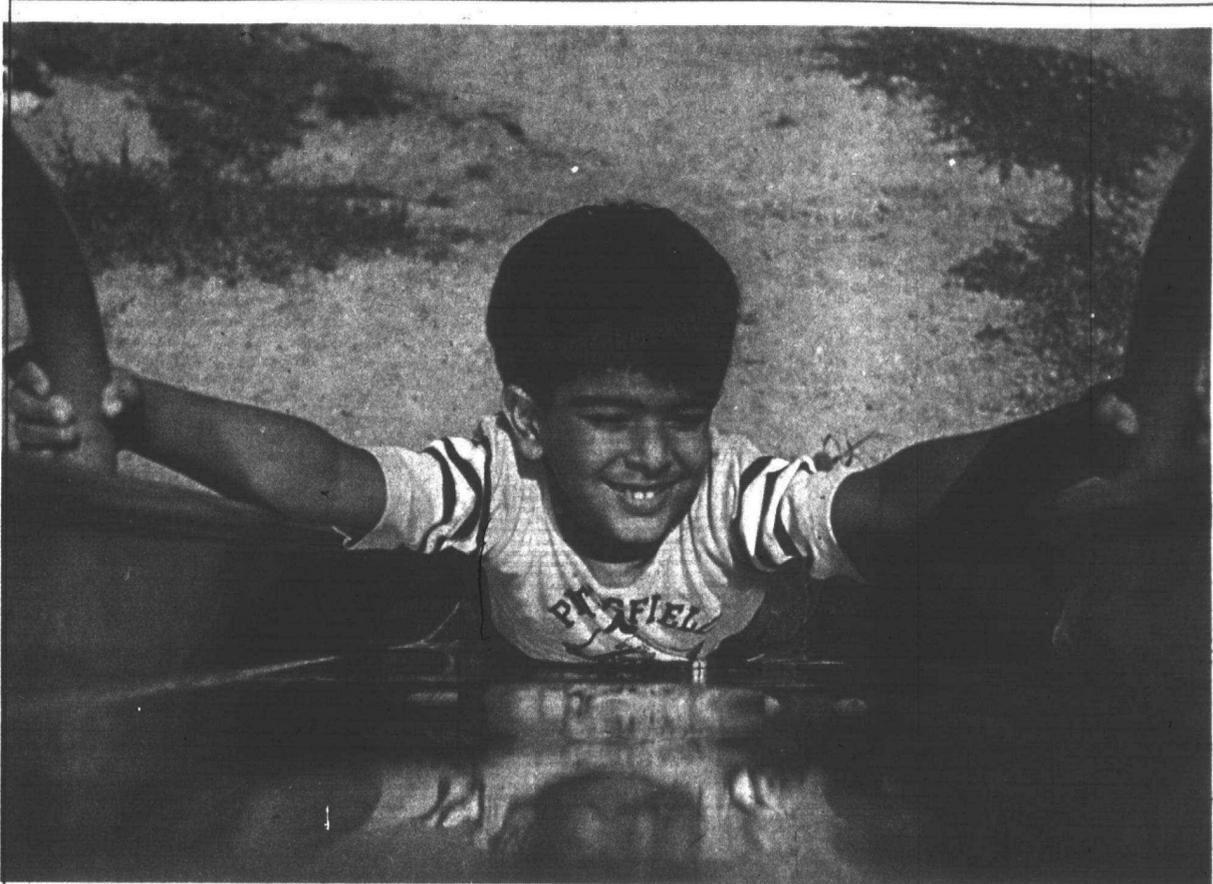

According to Carroll, some 20 CETA employees have been either channeled into the private sector workforce or been absorbed under the township's general fund budget since the program began in 1974.

"The attitude here was that we never promised CETA employees a lifelong job even when the regulations were less strict," Carroll said.

According to the new federal regulations, CETA workers can only work a maximum of 18 months at one job. If the worker is involved in several CETA jobs, he or she can only remain working under CETA funding for a maximum of 30 months over a five year period.

Another regulation requires that half of the title six allocation go for workers in special projects or community groups.

Carroll said Canton will not meet the half-mark this year, but the U.S. Department of Labor decided Tuesday that communities did not have to include the salaries of those hired before April 1, 1979 at the one-half figure.

'Boy on a Slide'

That's the title of the first place winning color slide in the Observer's second annual color photo contest. The picture was taken by Marion Wilson of Plymouth. The boy is Jean Krishnasami, whose likeness was captured by Ms. Wilson at the St. Luke Nursery School in Ann Arbor. Ms. Wilson was teaching at the school, but is now working as a substitute teacher in the Plymouth-Canton Community School district. Ms. Wilson says both she and her husband, Richard, are interested in photography. This is the first photo contest she has ever entered. "I just went into work with my camera one morning and started snapping," she says of the picture that won her first place prizes of a $100 gift certificate from World Camera and a 16-by-20 color blow-up provided by William Plants Photography. In addition to photography, the Wilsons make stained glass designs. There were hundreds of entries in the Observer's contest, which made judging a tough task. We think the results were worth it, as you'll see when you turn to Page 8A for a look at our other prize-winning photos and photographers.

Claim zoning 'inappropriate'

Thwarted theater planners sue

The owners and developer of a proposed movie theater site on Ford Road have filed a lawsuit against Canton Township following last July's decision of the planning commission to table a request for a necessary rezoning.

George Richter and Herbert Pfeffer, owners of the 10-acre parcel on the south side of Ford Road west of Lilley, have joined with developer Lewis George to file the complaint in Wayne County Circuit Court.

No hearing date has been scheduled, according to Canton Supervisor Noel Culbert.

The complaint charges that the current zoning of the land for single-family residential use is inappropriate and makes development of the parcel economically unfeasible.

The court is asked to order a change in the land's zoning from residential to commercial. The complaint also seeks a court-appointed impartial receiver to administer the planning and zoning laws of Canton Township.

Canton planner Jim Kosteva said the planning commission tabled the rezoning request last July pending final revisions to the township's master land use plan. Those revisions have not yet been approved.

According to Kosteva, numerous residents of Westbrooke Manor and Willow Creek subdivisions objected to the proposed rezoning of the parcel.

The lawsuit charges that "the township has in effect abdicated its zoning and planning powers to certain political and homeowner groups within the township. The township is in effect unable to provide a reasonable and orderly plan for development."

Michael Feiler, attorney for the plaintiffs, was unavailable for comment.

But Culbert said he doesn't "attach that much credibility at this point in time to that type of lawsuit."

"I think they're premature in their lawsuit, for one thing," Culbert said. "They quit at the planning commission level. You should exhaust your remedies at the administrative level (before filing a suit)."

Drain use irks residents

Residents of Hampton Court subdivision have filed litigation against a home builder and Canton Township over the use of a storm drain in their backyards for drainage of an adjacent development.

Wayne County Circuit Judge William Giovan last Friday extended a two-week-old restraining order that prevents Canton Township from issuing permits to Leader Homes for the storm drain connections.

Giovan is expected to consider the residents' request for a permanent injunction at a hearing scheduled for this Friday, according to Hampton Court attorney Peter Bundarin.

Bundarin represents 15 residents of the subdivision west of Sheldon and north of Warren whose lot includes an 80-foot storm drain easement owned by Wayne County.

The residents allege that Leader Homes, a builder in the adjacent Hampton Court-West subdivision, lacks the authority to make connections to the drain that runs through their backyards.

Bundarin says that the covenants and restrictions for Hampton Court state that the creek is an open storm drain. According to Bundarin, Leader Homes is burying drainage pipes that run from Hampton Court West through residents' backyards.

Short Takes

Temporary stay?

The Canton Police Department has been working out of old township hall on Geddes near Michigan since last winter. But during all that time, the township building department has refused to issue the police a permanent occupancy permit. Chief building inspector Aaron Machnik says he keeps extending the department's 90-day, temporary occupancy permit to give Rea Construction Co. time to complete the renovation work that converted the former administration building into a police station. According to Machnik, there "were a lot of things that weren't finished right." These included a door on the prisoner holding cell that would not close. Last week, the township board voted unanimously to withhold Rea's final $22,000 payment on the $180,000 project until all repairs are made. Machnik expected the Dearborn Heights company to complete all repairs by the end of last week.

Bowling for (many) dollars

Linda Roushkolb of Canton is bowled over after winning the jackpot on — you guessed it — Bowling for Dollars. Ms. Roushkolb, who normally plays at the Superbowl and has a 132 average, was on the show Sept. 30 and rolled two strikes in order to gain the $2,000 prize. She split the winnings with a "pin pal" whose name was drawn before she played. Ms. Roushkolb's name was submitted for the show by her brother.

She got the day off from Trident Real Estate, where she works, and brought her two daughters along to watch Mommy go on TV. Although she was nervous about talking to host Chuck Springer, she said the men on the show seemed even more nervous — which might explain why they bowled much better in practice than on the air.

Meeting an obligation

Your Monday and Tuesday evenings can be filled with thrills and excitement this week. Don't sit home and be a wallflower. Instead, you can attend the regular meeting of the Plymouth Canton Community Schools Board of Education meeting, which begins at 7:30 Monday night in the administration building on Harvey in Plymouth.

Or, if you prefer, the Canton Township Planning Commission meets beginning 8 p.m. Monday in Canton Township Hall on Canton Center Road south of Cherry Hill Road. The planning commission will discuss such subjects as site plan approvals for a Center Stage parking lot addition and the township master plan under consideration.

The Canton Township Board of Trustees meets beginning 7 p.m. Tuesday in township hall. Topics on the agenda include discussion of the 1980 general fund budget, and introduction of an ordinance to give a franchise to the McLean Hunter cable television company.

Tonquish Manor gets special grant

National recognition has been received by the city of Plymouth and its housing commission by the award of $3,856 in federal discretionary funds.

Sharon Thomas, housing director of Tonquish Creek Manor, explained that the award was based on achievement in management performance as well as on funding need.

The formal announcement of the award was made by Lawrence B. Simons, assistant secretary, U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

The Plymouth Housing Commission was the only public housing authority in Michigan to receive this one-time grant and was only one of six across the nation.

Housing commissioners expressed pleasure at the award as it will offer relief to the presently strained budget position of the senior citizen apartment operated by the city.

Members of the housing commission are Betty Andrews, Barry Simescu, Clyde Nichols, Liv Williams and Dorothy Sincock.

THE PLYMOUTH Housing Commission also has received final approval of plans for the 48-unit addition to Tonquish Creek Manor.

Erick Carne of Carne Associates, Plymouth, will be the consulting architect under this HUD turnkey project.

Bids are scheduled to be opened on Nov. 20 in the community room at the Manor, 1160 Sheridan, Plymouth.

Tonquish Creek Manor now has 60 units and the additional 48 units will relieve some of the housing needs of the elderly in the area, said Ms. Thomas.

Baptist school leader says 'rights' violated

By TERI BANAS

The pastor of a Christian school served with state fire code violations said his church is ready to "test the Constitution of the United States" in its battle to maintain religious education for some 36 school children in Plymouth.

The Central Baptist Temple School, 670 Church Street, opened its doors to K-12 instruction four weeks ago. It has not been approved by the Michigan Department of Education and is in violation of state fire codes regulating school buildings, according to State Fire Inspector Sgt. Walter Davenport.

According to Wayne County Assistant Prosecutor Robert Sage, if school officials do not comply with state fire regulations, the school could be shut down and its pastor, Dr. Stanley Jenkins, could be arrested. Jenkins is expected to meet with Sage on Tuesday.

The Plymouth-Canton Community Schools have contacted parents of the school children, telling them the school is not state-approved. That letter, dated Sept. 26, states the parents themselves are in violation of state school attendance laws by sending their children to a non-approved private school.

The conflict, which originally erupted as a concern for student safety, has mushroomed into a showdown between church rights and state law.

"What is state certification other than placing controls on peoples' lives? It's just like the curl on a pig's tail. It doesn't make the pork taste any better, it just makes it look prettier."

— Rev. Stanley Jenkins

that meeting, Jenkins told Turnbull to first clean up his own house before questioning the accreditation of teachers in the church-run school. Turnbull said there are four other Baptist schools in Michigan today that are under question by the state for building and teacher certification.

Attorney Charles Craze, of the Gibs and Craze Law Association in Cleveland, Craze said his partnership represents as many as 2,000 church-run schools nationwide and that state regulations governing such schools have become "unfair and ridiculous." Craze's partnership has also represented an Amish school's interest in Ohio, where the state has attempted to remove non-Amish students the state claims are still governed by local school attendance laws. The case is under appeal.

Assistant Prosecutor Robert Sage, of the Wayne County Prosecutor's Office, who said the school must abide by state regulations. Sage, who said he doesn't want the case turning into a "religious contest," said it's rather a case of safety for children.

CENTRAL BAPTIST Temple School is run out of one large classroom in a partially submerged basement of Temple Baptist Church, next door to Central Middle School.

Some instruction and daily church services are held on the second floor of the church. Recess is confined to a parking lot on the west side of the building and children are always supervised.

Davenport said a Sept. 21 inspection revealed "a major deficiency" involving the building's construction. He said wood structure throughout the three-story building defies state school regulations that require schools be made of non-combustible material.

He added there are no fire prevention measures, such as fire extinguishers or smoke alarms.

"I DON'T KNOW what the end result is going to be, but we'll give them every chance and go from there," Davenport said. "We're not against the church or the school. We just want fire safety conditions for school children."

Davenport said an enclosed stairwell outside the main room is another cause for concern.

"If a fire broke out it would spread rapidly," he said. "A system with an open stairwell is just like having a smoke stack. It's a flue effect."

Jenkins and attorney Craze contend the building has met safety standards as a church and therefore should pass as a school.

"All we're asking is that they treat us fairly as a church," Craze said.

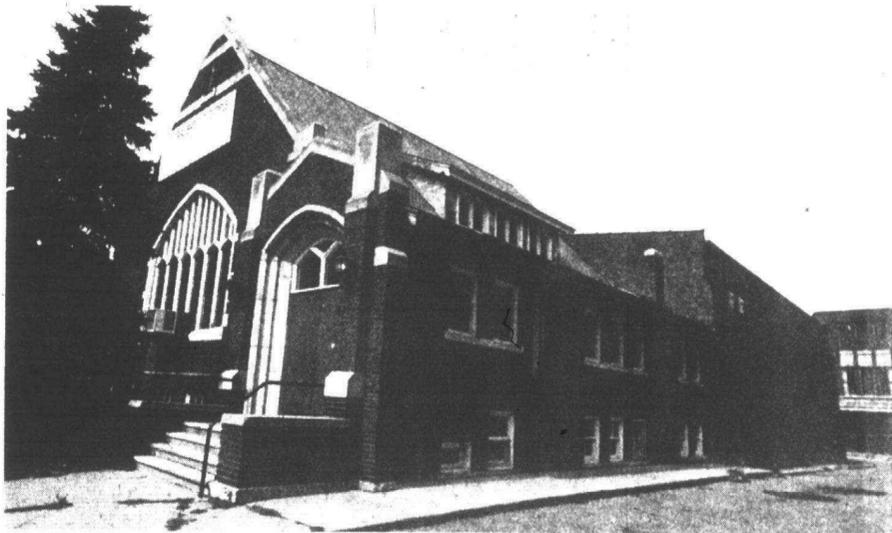

Jenkins added that their "religious exercise" as a ministry committed to education is protected by the First Amendment.

"Everyone else wants their rights like the homosexuals," Jenkins said. "But the Christian society — our rights are being taken away from us left and right."

IN HIS LANSING office this last week, Turnbull said the education department's concern also is with the quality of course study and whether the school's four teachers meet state certification.

If these factors are not met, the local school district must take up the matter

State aim is to limit private schools—Jenkins

An "alternative" to public school education. That's how it was described in the past and that's what they're maintaining today.

An official of the Central Baptist Temple School, which recently came under fire for failure to meet school building code standards, claims his school programming can match if not exceed public school programming despite state accreditation of two of four instructors.

The church's congregation instituted a K-12 school this fall after five years in Plymouth. According to Pastor Stanley Jenkins, its emphasis in education is discipline and daily goal setting for success.

Additionally, the teachings of the Bible are paramount.

"All our courses are filled with the word of God. The best English and science book written is the Bible," Jenkins said.

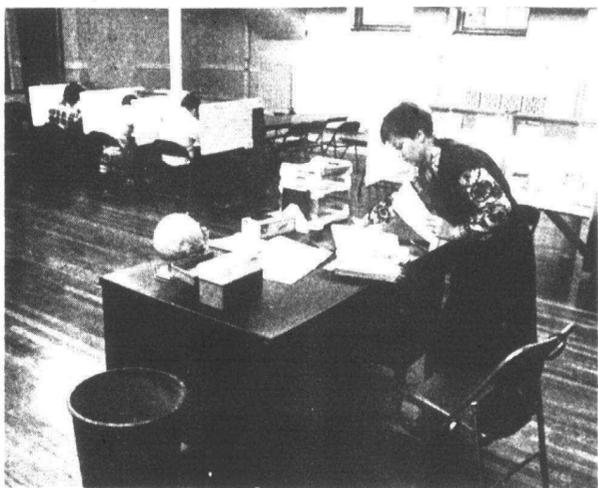

Jenkins said that behind the state's dictating of building code regulations is a drive to limit private school enrollment. He said public schools lose out on state dollars when students switch to private schools.

"We're talking about dollars and cents. They could care less about the kids down there (in the school's learning center) unless they didn't have a dollar tag on them," Jenkins said.

JENKINS SAID the school was established because providing education is part of their "ministry."

Additionally, Jenkins said, "society as a whole has degenerated" and that

School schedules for '79-80

A three-year school calendar has been adopted by the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education. The three-year calendar has no split sessions, no Saturday classes, no four-track days, no transfer of students to other buildings, and no total cutback of summer vacation. The nine days lost because of the strike are made up by a readjustment of some breaks, by carrying school longer into the summer, and with a one-time after-Labor Day start in 1980. The administration and teachers still are working out final arrangements on Easter vacation for the second and third years. Listed below are the school calendars for 1979-80 for those buildings on a traditional school year (TSY) and for those on an extended school year (ESY):

Union charges lockout

City suspends DPW workers for 2 days

A decision on whether 15 suspended Plymouth DPW employees will return to work Tuesday is still "far into the future," said union spokesman Jim Markley last Friday while awaiting legal counsel.

"It depends on what the city does or doesn't do," said Markley, who is an area representative for the Teamsters union.

Meanwhile, DPW Director Kenneth Vogras last Friday said "there was a good possibility" the workers would strike this week.

The question of a possible strike has surfaced following a breakdown in contract talks between the union and city. Employees have been working under an expired contract since June 30.

On Friday, workers were suspended from work until Tuesday because of an unauthorized work stoppage last Thursday when all 15 employees called in sick, Vogras said. He added that "doctor's slips" were requested as proof.

"The guys were not satisfied with how negotiations were progressing and as far as I'm concerned it's kind of a 'blue flu' thing."

The union, on the other hand, said the illnesses were "legitimate." Upon arrival at DPW offices Friday morning, however, workers were served with notices of their two-day suspension without pay based on an unauthorized work stoppage. They were not allowed in the plant following the notice.

Negotiations were last held Oct. 2 and a Sept. 16 meeting was held with state mediator Tom Badoud, who replaces previously appointed mediator Frieda Mills.

Badoud was the mediator in the Plymouth-Canton teacher's strike.

Calling the massive sick day a "work stoppage," Vogras said it was a violation of their contract and that "theoretically I could lock them out."

MARKLEY, HOWEVER, said the city violated the contract by not allowing the men to work Friday. He said the city should have served them with "written reprimands" and refused payment for Thursday. In that way, he said, the issue could have been resolved through grievance hearings.

"At this point we're seeking legal counsel and hope we can handle it through the proper channels," Markley said. Among some possibilities, he added, were hearings before the Michigan Employee Relations Commission, the court or arbitration.

Markley added union members will seek back pay for the two suspended days.

About a possible strike, he said

"that's the big bullet in the gun. I've heard what the city wants us to do loud and clear. We went in Friday morning to make a good offer to resolve the issue and we were rebuffed."

Markley would not elaborate on union demands on negotiations other than saying "salary — I think it would settle a lot."

Vogras said the city has offered the union a 6.8 percent salary hike beginning July 1, one additional leave day and a long term disability plan comparable to one offered other city employees.

He said the union, however, preferred a 5 percent salary hike retroactive from July 1 with an added 5 percent pay hike beginning next January.

"But we're not buying it," he added.

WHILE TEAMSTERS SAY negotiations with the city have been moving "very slowly," the Plymouth Police Officers Association (POA) also reports little luck in their talks with the city.

The POA, which represents 14 patrol officers, has been working under an expired contract since June 30. Plymouth police accepted representation by the Michigan POA last May after being represented by the Teamsters.

According to POA representative Mike Gardner, a state mediator has been appointed but the name has not yet been disclosed.

"There's been very little settled," he said. "The way the city is negotiating there's a lot of work ahead of us."

Gardner blames the lack of progress on an "inexperienced and chaotic situation in city hall."

Asked if the local POA would join the DPW Teamsters if a strike developed, Gardner said: "Definitely, there's sympathy there but whether it would work out into any action, I don't know."

Jim Markley, asked if DPW workers would go on strike after the suspensions end Tuesday morning, said that was a long way off and the union would await advice from its legal counsel.

with parents under state compulsory education laws.

"Normally, a private school (starting up) contacts us, but in this case a parent called us to see if it was accredited (or state approved)," he said.

Turnbull said more information is forthcoming in a full report expected from the school Oct. 26.

"I don't even know if it has certified teachers," he added.

Jenkins, however, said that two of four teachers have state certification, although they all have bachelor's degrees in education.

Asked if he felt it was important to have state certification, Jenkins replied: "What is state certification other than placing controls on peoples' lives? It's just like the curl on a pig's tail. It doesn't make the pork taste any better, it just makes it look prettier."

Jenkins said the congregation attracts members from not only Plymouth but Canton Township, Novi, Westland, Livonia, Wayne and Inkster. Jenkins described members as Independent Baptists. He added that offering education to members is part of their ministry.

"I feel as a church leader I must give them this opportunity."

This is not the first year, however, that Temple Baptist attempted to set up a K-12 program. Under Pastor Robert Billings in 1975 the request was turned down following a negative review by fire marshalls. In that year, the plan called for a more comprehensive school complex throughout the three-story building.

Jenkins said a program limited to one room is safe because of its immediate access to an exit door within the classroom. After a surprise fire drill earlier in the school year, Jenkins claims the room was evacuated within 20 seconds. He challenged neighboring Central Middle School to the same success.

Jenkins added he is not worried of a fire breaking out because cigarette smoking is not allowed by teachers and students are prohibited from carrying matches.

includes public schools.

Four weeks into the new school year at Central Baptist Temple, 36 children of varying ages have settled into a schoolroom routine. They sit at long tables that are partitioned into individual office spaces. All the children are taught in one open room.

Children are instructed to rise and greet visitors as they enter. Discipline and courtesy is evident. On the playground the school's teens have taken on a protective attitude toward their younger classmates as they play.

All students receive instruction in five courses: Bible, social studies, language arts, math and science.

According to principal Karen Jackman, although several electives were premiered in the school's introductory handout, they are available only on demand.

Teachers will be found to instruct these classes when interest is determined. Some listed electives include accounting, bookkeeping, pre-algebra, office management, consumer math, home economics, art and Spanish.

The students score their own homework and assignments and then receive immediate feedback from teachers, according to Jenkins. In order to instill self-discipline, students make a list of the work they need to do for the day every morning.

The students use no hardcover texts, but rather a series of "pac work" for each subject. The "Lifepac" series is used in Christian schools, according to principal Jackman.

AS OF LAST WEEK each child had been tested for understanding of subject matter. The traditional grade structure is not used. Each child is placed in a subject level based on tested results.

This Christian school's program was based on Alpha Omega National, a Christian educational program. Jackman claims this form of education has had surprising success with children labeled slow by public schools.

Tuition is not set, but school support is received from congregational donations. As for teachers' salaries, Jenkins said Ms. Jackman earns $125 per week. She has 12 years experience in education, five of which were spent as an elementary principal. She also has a master's degree as a reading specialist.

"Well, you know why she's here," Jenkins said.

PROFESSIONAL BLACKJACK INSTRUCTION JOHN BLACKNEY, CONSULTANT

Card Counting is the only proven method ever devised to obtain a mathematical advantage at Blackjack. Card Counting has been refined to various levels of complexity through the aid of computers and these Strategies have been given names such as Ten Count, Hi-Low, Plus Minus and Point Count.

It is a fact that no count strategy is worth the paper it is written on if the casino personnel is aware of the fact that you are tracking the cards. This is why many individuals who read a book and make a bee line for areas such as Las Vegas end up going broke. Maintaining the appearance of a non-counter is absolutely essential and there are a multitude of guidelines for deceptive play.

My experience as a count strategy player is extensive. I have been playing at a professional level since 1974 and I am not barred from a single casino in the entire state of Nevada. I studied for 3 years with Lawrence Revere, Author, Teacher, and Professional player. I have developed and copywritten numerous count strategies from the amateur to the professional level. I have also developed a Multiple Point Count Approach for accurate bet sizing that is superior to side counting aces. The Blackney Strategies and other useful playing information have been compiled into a 200 page manuscript and is being offered to major publishing companies by my literary agent.

As an instructor, I will outline a program to suit your personal needs. I will show you the correct way to master a count strategy and I will advise you on how to obtain the appearance of a non-counter. Most important, I will help you devise a method of play that is consistent with your personality. There is one set of guidelines that applies to everyone. You must tailor your style of play so that you are comfortable at all times.

Private consultation is once a week or semi-monthly. There is no tuition fee or minimum number of hours. The cost for a one hour appointment is $40 and I will provide all materials including the Blackney Strategies at no cost to you.

I also have a special class for those who are interested only in the basic fundamentals of Blackjack. It consists of the correct playing procedure to be used at the tables and the correct way to play each hand. If you do not play each hand correctly, you are simply giving your money away to the casinos. This short course is one hour a week for 3 weeks and the cost is $45.

Double-cross behind super sewer rejection by SEMCOG-Manning

By TIM RICHARD

A suburban political leader said Detroit officials "double-crossed" western Wayne County by helping defeat an endorsement of the so-called "Super Sewer" project.

The executive committee of the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments split 15-15 Friday on whether to endorse Super Sewer, a Wayne County Department of Public Works plan to build a sewage treatment plant at the mouth of the Huron River with sewer lines extending to Canton Township.

Nevertheless, other county officials were confident Super Sewer will be built anyway.

Eighteen votes were needed for SEMCOG to endorse the project, seen as critical for industrial development in the western suburbs along the I-275 freeway.

RICHARD MANNING, chairman of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners, revealed after the meeting that suburban commissioners thought Detroit would support them.

"They told us that if the out-county would modify its position on SEMTA, they would support this — that the City of Detroit would vote for the sewer needs of western Wayne County," said Manning, D-Redford, in an interview.

By "modifying its position" on SEMTA, Manning said, suburban commissioners agreed in caucus to tell their three appointments on the Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority (SEMTA) it would be all right to support a partial subway in the Woodward corridor — a project cherished by Mayor Coleman Young.

A tight-lipped Manning added grimly, "However, a review of our SEMTA positions is imminent — and on the (Detroit) Downtown Development Authority."

Detroit's three votes on the SEMCOG executive committee were all cast against "Super Sewer." Had they voted for it, SEMCOG would have endorsed the nearly 20-year-old plan.

TWO PLYMOUTH area officials were elated, however, at SEMCOG's refusal to endorse a project they considered unnecessary, costly and a contributor to urban sprawl.

City Commissioner Beverly McAninch and township trustee Lee Fidge told the SEMCOG group the Wayne County DPW was wrong when it advised them their communities were over-capacity in sewage discharge and advised them to join in support of "Super Sewer." Mrs. Fidge said the county had confused the city's and the township's capacities.

"Super Sewer's" formal name is the Huron Valley Wastewater Control System. At one time, it was a giant of an idea, serving the Ann Arbor-Ypsilanti area of Washtenaw County; the Commerce-Novi area of Oakland County; and the western range of cities and townships in Wayne County.

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, however, scaled down the plan. First, Washtenaw County was eliminated two years ago. Next, further "study" was asked for the Oakland County portion, Northville and Plymouth.

As it stands, according to engineer Ken Bonin of the Wayne County DPW, the project would serve 185,000 persons from Canton Township south to Lake Erie, cost $217 million (80 percent federal) and 40 miles of sewer interceptor. This version is about half the size of the original.

THE MAN WHO is confident "Super Sewer" will be built anyway is Robert Fitzpatrick, head of the county's Economic Development Corporation. His job is to recruit industry to the suburbs.

Fitzpatrick, along with Commissioner William Sullivan, D-Wyandotte, noted that EPA had actually proposed the latest version and had achieved the reluctant consent of the Wayne County DPW. They saw little chance EPA would abandon it, although technically SEMCOG's action puts the project in limbo.

Fitzpatrick, a former Wayne County board chairman and SEMCOG chairman, also noted that SEMCOG's position wasn't really as "negative" as it appeared.

A resolution passed by SEMCOG's Regional Clearinghouse Review Committee (RC2) did give a "negative review" to the EPA's scaled down "Super Sewer," but it did so on the grounds that more information was needed and that the expansion plans above Joy Road were "too nebulous."

STRESS

It has been estimated that more than 20% of our hospital beds are filled, directly or indirectly, because of stress.

Stress is a confiner, acrippler, a killer. It aggravates every disorder known to mankind.

Stress is the accumulated tension which builds on the delicate nervous system. It interferes with the normal function of this system, throwing the control mechanism of every body cell out of its normal relationship.

This alone produces disorder to a great degree.

The human body was not designed to endure the tremendous pressures which today's lifestyle puts on us. If we do not find a way to alter or reduce this amount of stress, we are heading for trouble.

The most obvious way to reduce stress is to maintain the spine, which houses the nervous system, in a way which will keep pressure to a minimum. The best way to do this is with regular visits to your chiropractor who has been specially trained to keep your spine in top condition. Spinal integrity will ensure that the flow of nerve energy is unimpeded along the spinal column. It is very important to eliminate stress here because any stress at the spine will amplify stress in any other part of the body.

Hobbies, exercise and regular eating habits can all help in the battle against stress. But remember, your most important ally in this fight is your chiropractor.

"Headaches and Backaches Disappear Under Chiropractic Care"

I was suffering from painful headaches and backaches before a friend directed me to seek chiropractic care. In fact I had a headache for 8 days straight before I went to Dr. Grassam's clinic in Garden City. After one day of treatment my headache went away and back pain stopped. I am so happy that I go out of my way to recommend chiropractic to anyone in pain. I think it is just wonderful that we have the good doctors of chiropractic to turn to when we need help.

Thank you,
Genula Fortney

Long-time Old Village resident is preparing to leave Plymouth

Health studio plan may settle lawsuit

A new development in a long standing court fight over rezoning of land in Plymouth Township may result in a different development after all.

The owners of property at Ann Arbor and Haggerty Roads, which has been proposed for a mini-mall, recently received another offer from developers of a health studio.

The mini-mall would require a rezoning from office to commercial. The township denied that request on several occasions and the issue found its way into the circuit courtroom of Judge Theodore Bohn.

According to township attorney Donald Morgan, court hearings have been postponed until property owners review the latest offer and make their presentation to the township board. Property owners are Andrew Anasara and Jerry Costanza.

Plymouth attorney Edward Draugelis was not available for comment as to his clients' decision.

Among opponents of the proposed 18,000-square foot mall has been the Southeast Homeowners' Association. Because private homes abut the property, residents opposed the proposed business because of operations such as late night deliveries, hours of operation and discarded food products.

As to the status of a health studio, Morgan said its zoning would have to be determined because it's not clearly defined under existing township ordinances. Because the case still is in court, however, the issue could be resolved there.

The court case has been ongoing since 1971. Last May, Judge Bohn ruled the O-S zoning was illegal and directed the township board to reconsider it.

Florence Ebert has many fond memories of the more than six decades she has lived in Old Village. Seated in a chair in the midst of her antique collection (one of which is a lamp from Al Capone's estate) and her many pieces of hand-painted china, she said she was ready to say goodbye to Plymouth and live the rest of her days with a daughter in Stone Mountain, Ga.

"I was only 17 years old when I came here with my father in 1918, and I have seen many changes in Old Village. But I think the time now has come when I must make a change and I am prepared for it."

"My father came here from Lake Odessa to serve as yard master for the railroad. But he could take the hustle and bustle for only one year. Then he returned to the peace and quiet of our little town."

Then, pointing a finger at the window, she said her husband was born on the property where she now lives. It was a corner house then, at the intersection of Mill and Pearl Streets.

"It was moved back on the lot in later years — just in back of the gas station and next to the old carriage shop that burned down."

ASKED ABOUT THE old Nelson House which now is undergoing a facelift, she smiled and said that there was a time when it was a very busy place.

"They used to have private stalls for the big cars to park in the rear of the place. But the thing I remember best was the beautiful bar it had. I understand the famed old bar is still there."

The Nelson House in those days was one of three outstanding places in Old Village.

Where the freight house now stands was the Pierce restaurant and rooming house, and just a bit removed was Nettie Purdy Moore's place which was the first museum in Plymouth.

"Oh, the place has changed a great deal since then. But in recent years the people have gotten together and Old Village now is a picturesque community again."

Mrs. Ebert recalled the days when the Pottowattomi Indians traveled through the area and established a camp up along Hines Park Drive.

"I recall the day Nettie sold her bird cage and eggs to the Indians. They gave her a costume and named her the 'White Princess.' The bird cage and eggs were from her father's collection."

Mrs. Ebert revealed that the area now converted into a mini-park at the intersection of Mill and Starkweather was the site of N.I. Moore's barn.

Mrs. Ebert said she had good reason to remember the barn.

"There was one big beam saved that was of the finest wood and they wanted to bring it in this house for the top of our doorway. But I just wouldn't stand for it. Now, I sort of wish I had allowed it."

Reluctantly, she confided that many of the hand-painted china dishes which encircle the rooms were her work.

FOR THE PAST 25 years she has been teaching china painting in her home and at times has had 24 students two days a week.

"I have one student who is 82 years old — Netta Schrader of Northville — and she is an ardent painter."

"You know, you don't have the money to work on china painting as a hobby until you are about 50 years of age because it is too expensive. But I can tell you that, in this day, my students now run from 20 to 82 years of age."

She finally admitted with a sigh that she liked living in Plymouth in the old days. "But I know I am going to like being with my daughter."

"I love Georgia and am going to take my antiques and paintings with me."

'Laid Back'

Jessica Starr Tarrow, who is all of 3 years old, is the subject of our Observer color photo contest second place entry. The dreamy expression was caught by Jessica's mother, Gayle Tarrow of Plymouth. Ms. Tarrow says she got her Minolta camera when her daughter was born and started taking pictures. "One thing about Jessica — she either underdresses or overdresses," Ms. Tarrow says of this photo, which was taken on a hot summer day. When not taking pictures, Ms. Tarrow says she likes to take care of her house and daughter. This is the first photo contest Ms. Tarrow has entered, as was the case with many of our winners. She won a $75 gift certificate from World Camera and a framed blow-up of her photo by William Plante Photography.

MARILYN ROBLE

Marilyn Roble of Livonia, our third place photo contest winner, took this picture of her son, Jimmie, while on a family vacation in Canada. Ms. Roble says the 10-year-old had been instructed by the adults on how to catch fish, all the way up to their vacation spot. As it turns out, Jimmie was the only one to catch fish the first day out. Ms. Roble says this is her first photo contest, but she grew up in a family where her father was always taking pictures. She and husband Chet have a daughter, Karen; a bird; and a cat. Ms. Roble won a $40 gift certificate from World Camera and a framed blow-up of her winning photo from William Plante Photography.

BARBARA ORTO

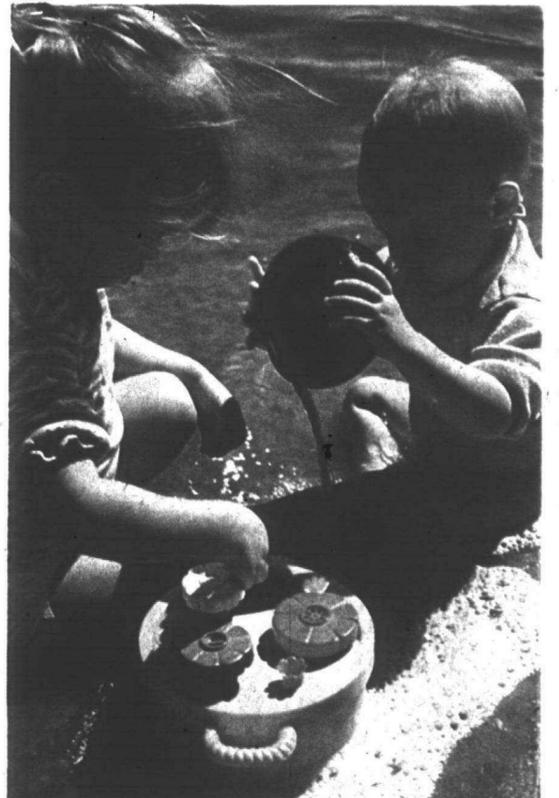

This is the second time Barbara Orto of Canton has won an honorable mention in the Observer photo contest. In fact, she says she took this charming picture of her 20-month-old daughter Beki Rene just weeks after winning last year. One of Ms. Orto's pastimes, aside from working part-time as a registered nurse, is taking pictures of a new house her family is building in all phases of construction. She won a $10 gift certificate from World Camera for this photo.

'Curious Tot'

Michael Downs of Livonia comes from a family of seven children, but says he likes to use his brother, Matthew, as a model most of all. Downs, winner of a $10 honorable mention gift certificate from World Camera, is an employee at Fisher Body but wants to begin taking photography courses next year. He took this picture of Matthew at the family's cottage in northern Michigan. Downs says he likes all kinds of sports, and enjoys shooting sports pictures with his Pentax KX.

'Molly and Shannon'

Dennis O'Flaherty of Plymouth Township took this picture of daughter Molly O'Flaherty and niece Shannon Coughlin while on vacation at a lake near Lovells. O'Flaherty, winner of a $10 gift certificate from World Camera, is a busy man. He works at Fisher Body in Livonia full time, then runs off to take photography classes at the Center for Creative Studies in Detroit. He says he has been involved in photography for about 10 years. He works with a Nikon camera and has won an honorable mention in the Scarab Club's photo contest. He and two other students recently had a showing of their work at the Attic Theater in Detroit.

Stack runs wild as Salem rips Belleville

Senior halfback Craig Stack rushed for 149 yards in 17 carries to power Plymouth Salem to a 34-8 Suburban Eight League football victory Friday night over winless Belleville.

Stack scored three touchdowns on runs of 12, 3 and 20 yards.

The victory lifted Salem's overall mark to 4-1. The Rocks also won their third straight league game without a loss.

Salem opened the scoring at 7:12 of the first quarter when Stack capped a 50-yard drive with a 12-yard jaunt. Four minutes later, Belleville punt-erback Donald Sampson passed 26 yards to William Harper for a touchdown. The Tigers, coached by Mike Colletta, started the drive on Salem's 30-yard line after recovering a fumble. The Belleville extra point attempt was blocked as Salem led, 7-6.

At 10:11 of the second quarter, Stack ended a 69-yard drive with a third yard scoring run. Junior kicker Brian Lewandowski made it 14-7 with his second straight extra point.

Senior linebacker Phil Anderson picked up a Belleville fumble at 5:53 of the second quarter and raced 57 yards to give the Rocks a 20-6 lead. Lewandowski's extra point was good once again and Salem padded its lead to 21-6.

With just under two minutes to go in the first half, Salem started a 39-yard drive toward its fourth touchdown.

WITH JUST 30 seconds until intermission, quarterback Jim Anderson hit wide receiver Ron Schultz with a 13-yard TD pass, giving Salem a commanding 27-6 advantage.

The Rocks elected to try for the two-point conversion, but did not convert as Belleville intercepted a pass at the goal line.

In the third quarter, a bad snap from center led to Belleville's final two points of the night. The ball sailed out of the end zone giving the Tigers a two-point safety.

In the final quarter, Salem tallied its last touchdown on a 20-yard run by Stack, capping a 70-yard drive. Lewandowski's fourth straight extra point was good to give Salem its final margin of victory, 34-8.

The Rocks' offense was impressive, totaling 353 yards in 52 plays. Anderson hit five of 12 passes for 63 yards. The Salem ground game was potent, gaining 290 yards.

Belleville was held to just 125 yards total offense. Sampson hit four of eight passes for 49 yards. Each team intercepted one pass.

Salem was called for eight penalties for 100 yards. Belleville was whistled for five infractions, totaling 60 yards. Lewandowski kept Belleville in bad field position most of the night with his long kick-offs. He averaged 53 yards per kick.

"I was pleased with the good first half," said Salem coach Tom Moshimer. "Stack had a great game and he had good blocking up front. Our whole offensive line did a good job.

"I thought our defense did a good job. We had penalties in the second half that stopped some drives."

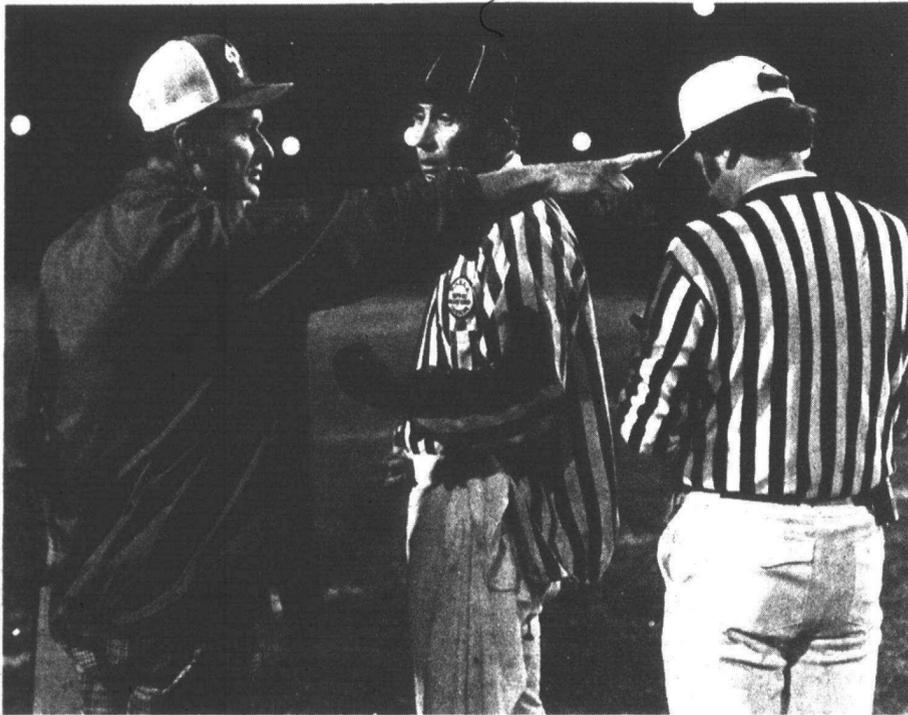

Salem will play its first home game Friday against St. Clair Shores Lakeview.

Churchill strikes fast, ruin Chiefs homecoming

By BRAD EMONS

Livonia Churchill struck Plymouth Canton like a cobra Friday night.

Unable to score until the fourth quarter, Churchill suddenly came alive and scored three touchdowns in the last 8:54 of game to take a hard-fought 20-0 victory over the Chiefs.

Churchill increased its overall record to 4-1 overall and 3-0 in the Western Six League. The Chargers now set up a showdown game at home Friday night when they meet unbeaten Farmington Harrison.

Churchill's much-improved defense was a big factor in beating winless Canton (0-5). The Chargers held Canton to just 62 yards total offense.

"Our defense played a fine game," said Churchill coach Ken Kaestner. "The defense was a big key in this game until we got our offense going."

Churchill's young offense, with nine underclassmen starting, had trouble moving the ball against Canton's gallant defense.

At 11:10 of the final quarter, quarterback Bill Keller hit halfback Craig Williams with a 35-yard swing pass down to the Chiefs' 24-yard line.

Faced with a third down situation, Keller once again hit Williams with a nine-yard screen pass to gain a crucial first down.

ON THE NEXT play, Keller kept the ball himself and raced nine yards for the first Churchill TD at 8:54. The Chargers took a 6-0 lead after the extra point attempt failed on a fumbled snap.

"The first pass helped a lot," said Kaestner. "That got us going. Our running attack was ineffective as the game wore on. We were slipping a lot on the field and the pass was there."

"Canton was blitzing and the swing pass was open."

Canton coach Dave Schuele, although disappointed with the loss, praised the play of his defense.

"This is as good as we've hit in four years," he said. "We gambled a few times. We left the back side open on the swing pass. We changed our defense slightly this week and went into more man-to-man coverage."

"I thought we played pretty good defense."

Churchill hit fast again for its second score, just 30 seconds later when middle guard Walt Taddy scooped up a wild pitch by Canton quarterback Steve Gray and raced 17 yards for the TD.

"Our defense never broke down," said Kaestner. "I'm pleased, according to our stats, our defense held Canton to 11 net yards in the second half."

Churchill made it 18-0 with 2:46 left in the game when defensive back Gary Vendetilli intercepted a Gray pass and rambled 22 yards for the score.

The Chargers converted the two-point attempt when Keller hit Ken Bloch with a roll out pass just inside the goal line.

CHURCHILL accumulated 160 yards total offense. Keller hit four of 13 passes for 60 yards. Williams carried the ball 13 times for 43 yards and Keller netted 42 yards in 10 carries.

Craig Kearns led the Canton rushing attack with 45 yards in 17 carries.

Churchill had seven first downs to Canton's two. The Chargers collected 70 yards in penalties while Canton piled up 75.

Schuele said the Canton offense was unable to move the ball again because of a lack of execution.

"I hate to harp on it, but it all boils down to blocking," Schuele said. "Penalties also hurt us again."

Canton will travel to Waterford Mott Friday in an 7:30 p.m. Western Six League encounter.

Salem, Chief tankers win

Foreign exchange student Tarja Tuominen eclipsed her own school record to pace Plymouth Canton to a 111-57 girls' swim victory Thursday night over Livonia Churchill.

Canton upped its overall record to 3-3. The Chiefs are tied for first place in the Western Six League with a 2-0 mark.

Tuominen, a junior from Finland, set two school records Tuesday against Brighton in the 100 and 200-yard freestyle events. She set a new standard in the 100-yard butterfly Thursday with a time of 1:04.8.

Tuominen also took first place in the 200-yard freestyle.

"Tarja has been a pleasant surprise," said Canton coach Mark Griffith. "She just walked in one day and has been super ever since. Tarja is a hard worker. A dedicated athlete."

Mary Reardon took first place in the both the 50-yard freestyle and 500-yard freestyle.

Other firsts were recorded by Brownwyn Fitzgerald, 100-yard breaststroke; Missey McMurray, 100-yard freestyle; and Kim Massey, 200-yard individual medley.

The 200-yard medley relay team of Reardon, Massey, McMurray and Kris Burns gained first place for Canton.

McMurray, Dickenson, Massey and Janet Powell also took first in the 400-yard freestyle relay.

"It was a good meet," said Griffith. "Everybody was in high spirits. To win, its 10 percent training and 90 percent mental."

Gaining second place finishes included Dickinson, 200-yard freestyle; Ellie Wagner, 50-yard freestyle; Chris Wennerberg, diving; Dickinson, 100-yard freestyle; Powell, 500-yard freestyle; Kris Burns, 100-yard backstroke; and Beth Greenleaf, 100-yard breaststroke.

Canton's third place finishers were Karen Mullen, 200-yard individual medley; Wagner, diving; Fitzgerald, 100-yard freestyle; Julie Stratton, 100-yard backstroke.

The 400-yard freestyle relay team of Michelle Splatt, Carrie Lewis, Lissa Potter and Wennerberg also took third place.

Canton will travel to Livonia Franklin Tuesday in a 7 p.m. non-league dual.

Salem-Franklin

Plymouth Salem sophomore Terri Eudy broke a school record in the 100-yard breaststroke, leading her team to an easy 121-51 girls' swim victory Thursday night over Livonia Franklin.

Eudy recorded a time of 1:16.5 to break the old mark. She also gained first in the 100-yard freestyle (.58.8).

Salem's 200-yard medley relay team of Linda Wochna, Karen Kohler, Sharon Ross and Eudy also took first place with a clocking of 2:09.7.

In the 400-yard freestyle relay, Salem's Julie Cabadas, Nancy Lazarus, Renee Lakatos and Ross swam to first-place clocking of 4:17.8.

Other Salem firsts were recorded by Sue Evans, 200-yard individual medley, 2:37.6; Natalie McClumpha, diving, 192.1; Lakatos, 50-yard freestyle, :29.0; Ross, 500-yard freestyle, 5:39.6; Wochna, 100-yard backstroke, 1:10.0.

Gaining second place for the Rocks included Kelly Brandt, 200-yard freestyle, 2:22.8; Patty Larson, diving, 175.15; Wochna, 100-yard butterfly, 1:15.7; Sallie Weimer, 100-yard backstroke, 1:18.7; Kqhler, 100-yard breaststroke, 1:23.4.

Lazarus took third place in both the 200-yard freestyle and 100-yard freestyle. Other thirds were gained by Kohler, 200-yard individual medley; Cabadas, 50-yard freestyle; Kathy Radgens, diving; Lakatos, 100-yard butterfly; Ellen Wall, 500-yard freestyle; Kim Nelson, 100-yard breaststroke.

The 200-yard medley relay team of Nancy Workman, Cindy McSurely, Dawn Cummings and Kathy Bombach took third with a clocking of 2:22.6.

Robin Cummings, Wall, Evans and Brandt also took third in the 400-yard freestyle relay.

Salem will be back in action Tuesday at Livonia Churchill.

Rock netters impressive, capture league with ease

Plymouth Salem completely dominated the Suburban Eight League girls' tennis meet Friday at Trenton for the fourth straight year.

The Rocks, coached by Judy Braun, devastated the other four league foes by winning six of seven championship matches.

Braun was simply ecstatic afterwards about her league champs.

"It was exciting," she said. "I don't think there's a team around, as a whole team, who works as well as we do."

"Our girls are good right down the line. We don't have any weakness in doubles or singles."

"These girls won because they spent dollars and time working on their game all year round. They really put in the time."

Dearborn followed Salem in second place. Trenton placed third and Livonia Bentley gained fourth. Dearborn Edsel Ford, which dropped only one league dual meet to Salem, 7-0, finished last. The Thunderbirds were hurt by the loss of No. 1 singles player Carol Nigal, who was out with an injury.

Kathy Horton of Salem easily outclassed the rest of the field at No. 1 singles. She beat Trenton's Barb Gaertner in the finals, 6-1, 6-2. Horton, a senior, did not lose a match in the Suburban Eight League.

At No. 2 singles, Salem's Carol Hathaway beat Pam Altenberger of Dearborn, 6-3, 6-2, to win the title.

BETSY MOON of Salem captured the No. 3 singles crown with a 6-4, 6-2 victory over Lynn Stassen of Edsel Ford.

Renee Braun made it a clean sweep for Salem at No. 4 singles when she posted a 6-4, 6-1 triumph over Lynn Kosten of Trenton.

Salem won the No. 2 doubles crown as Kathy Weber and Sandra Hathaway beat Bentley's Jan Eichhorn and Gretchen Payne in a close battle, 7-6, 4-6, 6-1.

Lynn Hathaway and Beth Baker gave Salem its second doubles title with a hard-fought 5-7, 6-1, 6-2 win over Dearborn's Mary Ellen Bageris and Karyn Kunzelman in the championship final.

Dearborn's Stacey Ellis and Maggie Kosch upset Salem's No. 1 seeded Team of Carol Gillespie and Vickie Sterling in the championship final, 6-2, 3-6, 6-4.

Salem and Bentley will now compete in Class A regional play which begins Friday at Westland John Glenn. The Rocks will play two dual meets in preparation for the tourney.

Salem travels to Livonia Franklin Monday in a 4 p.m. meet. The Rocks will then meet Western Six League leader Northville in a road duel Wednesday at 4 p.m.

Salem, sporting an 8-1 dual meet record, was to have played Livonia Stevenson in a meet on Saturday (Oct. 6). Complete results will be in Thursday's Observer.

Stevenson handed Salem its only loss of the season, 4-3.

Chief girls trip Hawk cage squad

Junior center Cindy Sovine scored 14 points to lead Plymouth Canton to a 48-29 girls' basketball victory over Farmington Harrison Thursday night at the Phase III gymnasium.

The win lifted Canton's overall record to 5-3. The Chiefs are 2-0 in the Western Six League. Harrison is now 1-5 overall and 0-2 in the league.

The Chiefs raced out to a 14-8 first quarter lead and were never threatened.

Senior forward Marianne Pink aided the Chiefs' cause by scoring eight points.

Sophomore Lori Winkle paced Harrison with 10 points on two field goals and six of seven from the free throw line.

Beth Dille and Gina Kilka scored seven and six points respectively for the Hawks.

Canton will entertain Livonia Churchill Monday at 8 p.m.

Waterford Mott putts by Chiefs

Brad Rosiar shot a one-over par 36 at Brae Burn Thursday afternoon to lift Waterford Mott to its second straight golf win over Plymouth Canton, 202-209.

The loss dropped Canton to 5-7 overall and 3-5 in the Western Six League.

"They're a good team," said Canton coach Casey Cavell of Waterford. "We didn't get enough scores under 40. If we could have shot around 200, like we did the previous meet, I thought we would have a chance."

"The kids thought they had a chance. We got a few bad breaks. I'm definitely disappointed."

Dave Visser, shooting one-over par along with Rosiar going into the last hole, hit his ball out of bounds and had to settle for a round of 40, tying teammate Scott Adler for Canton medalist honors.

John Matthews of Canton followed with a 42 and Steve Lareau shot a 43. Doug Moffatt carded a 44.

"I thought if we could have won this match, we might have a better chance for the league," said Cavell.

Canton travels to second-place Walled Lake Western Tuesday and then meets another second-place team, Farmington Harrison at Brae Burn Thursday.

"If we can win our next two matches, it will build our confidence going into the league meet," he said.

Canton will compete in the Western Six League meet Monday Oct. 15 at Godwin Glen, Harrison's home course.

Canton nets win

Canton-Churchill

Plymouth Canton ran its record to 6-1 in the Western Six League with an easy 7-0 girls' tennis victory Wednesday afternoon over Livonia Churchill. Canton, enjoying its finest season in the school's history, also upped its overall mark to 7-3.

The Chiefs were victorious in two close matches. At No. 2 singles, Lori Smith of Canton beat Kim Wellwood, 6-4, 6-7, 7-5. At No. 3 doubles, Canton's Kris Harrison and Valerie Marchand won their second straight match since earning a spot on the varsity by edging Patti Mellen and Kathy Bowen, 4-6, 6-3, 7-5.

In other matches, senior Pam Schipani and Eileen McGlenn teamed up to defeat Churchill's Donna Richards and Patty Mix at No. 1 doubles, 6-1, 6-2. Barb Rupprecht and Ann O'Connell posted a similar victory over Amy Piper and Carol Koch of Churchill, 6-1, 6-3 at No. 2 doubles.

Canton's No. 1 singles player, Joan Keiser, had little difficulty downing Patty Peel, 6-1, 6-3. Substituting for Canton regular Sheryl Smith, reserve player Julie Swain came through with a convincing 6-1, 6-2 win over Debbie Young at No. 3 singles.

Kathy Kidston won her match for the Chiefs at No. 4 singles, 6-0, 6-0, over Debbie Fisher.

By W.W. EDGAR

Onward and upward. That seems to be the theme of the bowlers at Westland Bowl these days as the string of 700 series continues.

Eight of these barrier-breaking performances were recorded during the past week and two of them came in the Tri-City men's league.

And, to make the scoring even more important, Jim Mijal set a new high for the house when he linked counts of 278, 258 and 224 for 760.

For the first two games, Mijal was in a stirring duel with Bob Schmidt, who was bowling on the same pair of lanes. Schmidt started with 267 and followed with 242. But then the pace got too hot and he dropped to 197 for a 711 — 49 pins behind the leader.

One other 700 series was placed on the books during the past week when Gary Krause, a 195 average bowler at Country Lanes, fired games of 213, 246 and 257 for a 716 series.

AT WONDERLAND, the other high scoring house, Tom Vallone missed the magic 700 by 10 pins in the classic when he put together games of 242, 244 and 204 for 690. At that figure, he nosed out Aron Lipshy for scoring honors by only three pins.

While this duel was going on, George Stefan's R&H Machine rolled a 3,176 to pace the teams.

SCORING IN the Ladies Major League at Beech Lanes reached a new low Wednesday night when Gerri Beattie's 606, that included a 235 game, was high for the night.

Norma Johnson of Plymouth shared high single honors with Pat Rizzo. Each turned in a 236.

THE JUNIOR HOUSE LEAGUE at Westland furnished plenty of competition this past week when Larry Pratt finally ended up as the pacemaker with games of 217, 220 and 258 for 695. His big closing game enabled him to beat John Ray who had counts of 274 and 224 in 667.

In the ladies classic, Gloria Gronan lead the parade with a 256 in 600. She was followed by Ruth Worley who had 222 in 584.

Others who fired double century games were Betty Hoerner with 227 and Jane Martin with 225.

In the ladies Wednesday league, Ruby Nelson set the pace with 227 in 567. Rose Hale was next with 505.

Sharing the spotlight for the week at Westland was Gary Putnam. He earned the place by rolling a 214 triplicate.

BOWLING IN THE Kings and Queens at Garden Lanes took an unusual twist when Dick Santo and his wife, Mickey, shared the honors. Dick paced the men with a 577 and Mickey tied Jan Rudolph for women's high with 519.

THERE ACTION aplenty at Woodland Lanes was topped when Ray Le Chevalier, a 186 average bowler, rolled a 267 in 687. Meanwhile, in the Starlights league, Laurie Sachet showed the way with a 234 game in 602.

Thurston cagers roll

DONNA DEPERRO scored a personal season's-high 20 points during Redford Thurston's 75-15 rout of North Farmington last week in a Northwest Suburban League girls' basketball game.

George Heger, coach of the Eagles, had only eight healthy players due to injuries, but more than enough talent.

Thurston sprinted out to a 20-3 lead after the first quarter, 32-5 at the intermission and 54-5 after three periods.

Jean Rowley and Theresa Moran each scored 14 points for Thurston and Sandy Nissen chipped in with 13.

Deperro, a guard, made 10 of 14 shots from the field.

The victory was the second without defeat in the conference and seventh in eight games overall for the Eagles.

LADYWOOD also experience no trouble while disposing of Riverview Gabriel Richard in a AA Catholic League game, 99-19. All 11 players saw action for Ladywood and all broke into the scoring column.

Leslie Nadeau, who sank 11 of 12 shots from the free-throw line, finished with 21 points. She also gathered in 16 rebounds.

Ronna Greenberg netted 19 points and snared 18 rebounds for the Blazers and Liz O'Brien scored 13 points.

"Everyone played pretty much half the game," said Ladywood coach Ed Kavanaugh, who guided his team to its eighth victory of the season without a loss. "We didn't run up the score by pressing. We stayed back.

"Three guards — Cindy Martin, Colleen Schwalm and Aggie Conti — intermixed and played well defensively and really ran the team well," said Kavanaugh.

The Blazers also romped in the JV game, 48-18.

LIVONIA FRANKLIN bettered its Northwest Suburban record to 2-0 with a 44-33 victory over Garden City East.

Julie Wilga, a guard, scored 20 points for Franklin. Teammate Julie Johnson added eight.

Cathy Narramore notched 10 points for the Panthers. Sherry Kiselica and Patty Boyce each added seven.

"The key was, I think, the third quarter when we outscored them 14-7 and busted it open," said Chuck Hebestreit, coach of the Patriots. "Again, we pressed and came on strong in the third quarter."

RU nips North, 8-7

BY DAVE SCHWARTZ

RU ready for a winner? Coach Harvey Heitman sure is. And his "We believe" gang made believers out of a tough North Farmington team, 8-7, in a Northwest Suburban League football shootout for first place Friday at Howard Kraft Field.

Spurred on by a frenzied overflow crowd, the "We believe" Panthers repeatedly made the big play, always with their backs to the wall and seemingly ready to go down for the count.

The night started out with a bad omen, if you're an RU fan. As the Panthers were ready to take the field, a couple of fans appeared on the field waving a banner with RU's "We believe" slogan. Just before the Panthers charged out, the banner ripped in half.

With that in mind, the always tough Raiders of veteran coach Ron Holland ripped through the Panthers defense in the first half and threatened to spoil the festive evening.

Right from the opening kickoff, North drove 64 yards in 11 plays for its only touchdown. The key play came on a fake punt by Rich Nutter that gained 18 yards and fooled everybody in the stadium. That set up Nutter's five-yard touchdown run with 6:10 left in the first quarter.

It was the first touchdown that the Panthers' defense had allowed all year.

Nutter added the extra-point for a 7-0 North Farmington lead, as the RU faithful watched, stunned by the early turn of events.

The Panthers couldn't get going at all in the first half, as the Raiders shut down running threat Bob Utych completely, while North quarterback Doug Schulte was smoothly grinding out the yardage and grinding down the clock.

However, the Raiders were unable to score again.

The first half ended 7-0.

RU took the second-half kickoff, kept a drive alive with countless big plays and struck for the game winner.

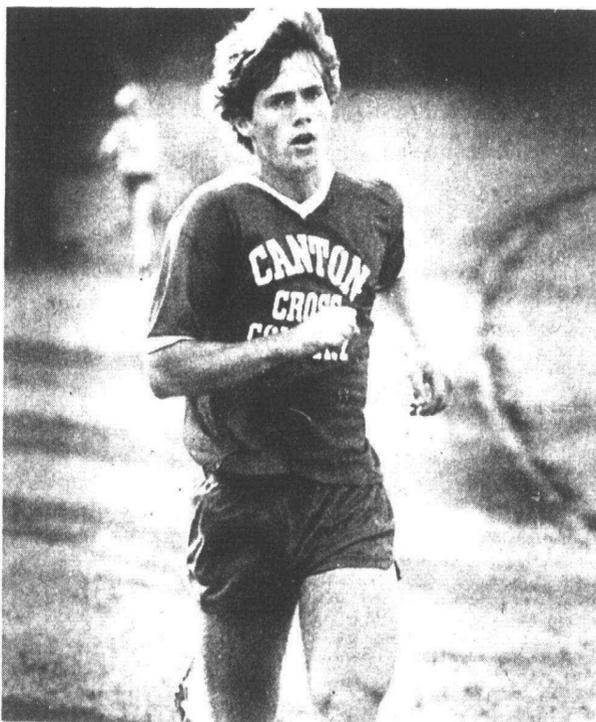

On third and 15, quarterback Andy Szabo hit Larry Wiater with a beautiful 21-yard spiral for RU's only touchdown.

With the score 7-6, the Panthers went for two. Kirk Marsh was set up in kick formation, but took the snap and hit Friedman with a pass that the fullback stole right out of a North defender's hands.

Friedman dove into the endzone to a salvo of cheers with the winning points as 5:29 remained in the third quarter.

But North didn't die easily — not if Ron Holland could help it. The Raiders repeatedly knocked on the door, only to find the cookie jar empty.

The emotional "We believe" gang, led by Brian Melzer, slammed the door time and time again. Tackle Gary Lewandowski stopped Nutter on fourth down at the RU 26, and it appeared that the game was over.

Canton harriers improve record

Plymouth Canton cross country coach Jim Hayes does not get philosophical about his team's winning.

It's just plain simple — hard work.

Canton raised its overall mark to 4-2 and now stands 2-1 in the Western Six League after beating Farmington Harrison Thursday afternoon on a hilly course at Oakland Community College, 22-35.

"Hard work pays off," said Hayes. "We did a good job running on a different course. Our guys bunched up good."

Hayes has reason to be happy. This is easily the best team in Canton's six-year history. The Chiefs won two dual meets last season. That was Canton's best record before this season.

Harrison's Brad Senko won the three-mile race with a time of 16:54. For the fourth consecutive time, Mike Talaga, Canton's No. one runner all season long, finished second with a clocking of 17:12.

"Mike's doing well," said Hayes. "When he gets first it will really boost his confidence."

"Mike had a pretty good time on a tough course."

Junior Dan Inloes placed third for the Chiefs with a time of 17:21. Teammates Randy Hennels, a senior, and Steve West, a junior, placed fourth and fifth respectively with times of 17:28 and 17:29.

Marc Contard of Harrison took sixth (17:34) and teammate Brian Anderson gained seventh (17:46).

Senior co-captain Dan McGlenn garnered eighth place with a time of 18:00 for the Chiefs. He was followed by Clay Dillon of Harrison (18:11). Dave Bennett and Phil Simon of Canton posted times of 19:03 and 19:18 respectively.

Canton, along with Plymouth Salem, will compete in the Redford Union Invitational Tuesday at 4 p.m.

Monday's Commentary

Security seminar offers lesson in profit vs. people

A new industry is finding a fortune in fear.

Not far from where I live, for instance, is a tiny auto parts store. In the time it takes me to buy a tailpipe, the store has a machine that appears to take my picture eight or 10 times, complete with flashbulbs.

The store paid plenty for this machine, but they probably figure they'll have it paid off by the time I buy my eighth or ninth tailpipe. The machine, however, has made sure I won't buy any more tailpipes there.

You don't have to look hard for other examples — beer stores with inch-thick bulletproof glass, gas stations that don't take cash after sundown, grocery stores that take your picture before they'll take your check.

This stuff bothers masses of people, but protects against a select few.

If 200 people buy beer at the corner store every day and it's robbed once a year, then bulletproof glass makes one gunman think twice — and 72,999 other people think they're surrounded by gunmen.

But these things are all chickenfeed compared to the fast track used by the American Society for Industrial Security (ASIS). Last week, it held its 25th annual seminar in the Renaissance Center.

THE ASIS represents businesses, primarily. These businesses have got things they want to keep. Trade secret thefts and labor union organizing were high on the Renaissance Center list of things the ASIS wants to make sure don't happen.

Not that there aren't other, more specialized worries.

Ringling Brothers, Barnum & Bailey

Mike Scanlon

Circus World sent a guy, for instance. The Herman Keifer Health Complex also sent a guy.

More understandably, Standard Oil sent several guys. A crowd of Japanese represented IBM. The Puget Sound Power & Light Co. didn't miss the show.

Hardware is a big part of keeping things, and at the seminar they displayed stuff that would make mouths water at a family reunion of the Hatfields and McCoys.

Take Razor Ribbon, a trademark name for stainless steel barbed wire. "The Mean Stuff," as it's called, is stronger than regular barbed wire, and studded with razor blades. Already, a brochure boasts, it's in use "at every type of facility from schools and amusement parks to nuclear power plants and maximum security correctional institutions."

Now, how can you beat stuff that already keeps both Mickey Mouse and Richard Speck in their place? Well, at least two other companies think they can — they produce razor blade-studded wire, too.

TETRADYNE makes armored cars, complete with concealed gunports in the doors and an optional tear gas delivery system. They modify Chevys, Fords, Dodges, Jeeps and Mercedes. One thing you can still count on in America's consumer society is freedom of choice. If you don't like Tetradyne, you can buy your armored car from Armored Vehicle Builders.

You can go to the Counter-Terrorist Driving School in Virginia to learn how to handle these babies.

A company that rents out security guards had a display made prominent by a large sign maintaining that "Industry today faces three major problems: labor disputes, terrorism, theft. Any or all of the above, not necessarily in that order."

Something called the London House Management Consultants, Inc., sells pre-employment tests that are necessary because "one-third of all employees are bad risks."

The companies that make and sell this stuff say the companies that buy and use it have a right to protect what they have, and naturally they're right. But only within limits.

THE RIGHT a company most wants to protect is its right to make money. All companies want to make money — the problem is that only a comparatively few companies have profitable secrets or products valuable enough to the world generally to justify protection of this nature.

Auto parts and beer stores probably don't belong on the list. Probably Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey doesn't, either.

In the interest of protecting companies that may neither need nor deserve protection — but want it anyway, the way you want unnecessary chrome on a car — the rights of millions of individuals are overlooked.

Razor Ribbon is the trademark name for a new, $1 a fence foot. Selling it at the seminar last week was improved type of barbed wire. The barbs are razor blades, and the wire is stainless steel. The stuff costs Steve Brock. (Staff Photo by Bob Woodring)

Reader blasts Honeytree

Editor:

As a five-year resident of Honeytree, the conditions currently being tolerated by residents are reminiscent of the deplorable state this complex was in before The Standard Realty Property Service bought and truly started to manage these properties.

I supposedly live in an adult building, which was confirmed by the office on September 10, although I know of at least three teenagers residing in it. It is my understanding that one of these young people was caught setting fire to building 25 and was sent to a juvenile detention center for a time but was released this summer.

Now that more young people have moved in, groups of kids are always visible. They usually hang out on the stairs and landings, smoking cigarettes, letting them go out on the carpet, littering, often running up and down the stairs and sometimes being very noisy. The events of the past week are more than any tenant should have to put up with.

I notified the clubhouse on Tuesday, Sept. 11, that someone had thrown rotten tomatoes at the front door and window of the building and asked that it be cleaned up. Today, someone did a partial clean-up job finally, almost a week later, and it still looks disgusting. In addition to that, the cleaning people can't keep up with the messes in the halls. I'm ashamed to invite company over and find myself apologizing for the sordid conditions.

At 10:30 p.m., Wednesday, Sept. 12, my evening was interrupted by angry voices in the hallway. Being alone, I did not venture into the hall. I gathered from the men shouting that one apparently beats his wife and kids and makes so much noise that another tenant risked talking to this loud mouth to ask for a little peace and quiet. Fortunately this event passed with no bodily harm to anyone, but next time we may not be as lucky.

Thursday night, Sept. 13, I went down to the basement to do laundry and found my storage cage had been broken into again. This time, a bag of garbage was left for me and a raw egg was broken on my bicycle seat.

When I called security, they said, "I think we know who it is, don't we?"

They told me someone would be over to investigate. If the people running this complex know who the troublemakers are, I suggest that more drastic action must be taken.

Saturday morning, Sept. 15, I cleaned out my storage area and moved to a new cage where I could wrap a length of chain around the post and through the gate to padlock it shut.

When I went home on Sept. 17, I decided to check my cage and found that someone had put a combination padlock on the gate latch so that now I cannot get into the cage at all. I also noted that another cage had also been forced open with the locked lock still on the latch. When I called to report this, I was put off and told to call back in an hour.

One suggestion I would make to help deter vandals from tampering with storage areas is to put vacuum door hinges on the door leading to the basement so it automatically locks behind the person going in or out. Realize this won't stop tenants who have keys from doing these things, but it would help build a case against them if you can keep out all outsiders.

My lease is up at the end of the month and I would like to re-sign my lease for another year. I do not want to move out and shouldn't be forced out by anyone.

The Stroller

Hooray for football

By W. W. EDGAR

Thank goodness for football.

Despite the fact that a former president of Cornell University once remarked, during a discussion of the sports program at his school on the shores of Lake Cayuga, that he couldn't get excited over the agitation of a bag of wind, there is something about the gridiron season which stands it apart from all other periods of the year.

What could have been nicer than the ride to East Lansing last Saturday for the annual meeting of the Spartans and the Wolverines of Michigan than the view of the Michigan State campus, long rated one of the prettiest in the nation?

What other game in the state could have caused the populace to forget the energy crisis and spiraling inflation? These troubles were cast to the winds for the past few weeks as the old grads of both institutions and the general populace argued the merits of both teams.

THERE IS SOMETHING about this fall sport that is invigorating and the outcome of the emotional rivalries means little as the clans gather.

Just visit the parking lots in Ann Arbor before a Michigan game and see the activity of the "tailgaters" to become convinced that it would happen at no other sports event.

Ever since The Stroller arrived in Michigan more than half a century ago the ride to Ann Arbor for the Michigan games was one of his biggest thrills.

It was a joy riding along Ann Arbor Road and then Plymouth through Dixboro to see the leaves changing their color and each week becoming more of a picture which no artist could paint.

But in those days the ride, to and from the playing field, was only part of the day's enjoyment. No trip was complete without a stop at the little white church in Dixboro for a chicken dinner after the game. It always was part of the day's program.

The church still is there. But the modern housewives long since have abandoned the old-fashioned chicken dinners. But the memory of them lingers on.

IN HIS EARLY days on the sports trail The Stroller travelled through the east to the top game each week.

Well he remembers the ride to the colorful campus at Princeton University. Just a ride through the campus to the stadium made the day worthwhile for it was a sight to behold.

The Stroller has good reason to remember the ride to Princeton for it was there he was introduced to Knute Rockne, the famed Notre Dame coach, and the Four Horsemen who were just beginning to make an impression on the collegiate football world.

Another enjoyable trip was to Dartmouth in Hanover, N.H. This was a long ride from home, but the campus scenery was almost unbelievable. The mingling of the colors on the leaves and the stirring music of the university band as it paraded over the campus to the football field defied description.

Even back home when The Stroller visited the Lehigh University campus, the sight was different. Here was a small college team playing in the foothills of the mountains and even though there were no promenades through the campus, which was hard by the Bethlehem Steel Works, it still was a colorful sight.

The lone trip that was different was the annual jaunt to the University of Pennsylvania and the famed Franklin Field. Here, the school is in the city with no tree-lined paths on the campus or such things as lakes or mountains or bits of wooded areas.

But it always was worthwhile for The Stroller had the chance again to visit Independence Hall, place his hand on the Liberty Bell, and say a little prayer for his country.

Yes, this always was part of the football season. The color, the glamour, and the fierce, friendly rivalries make it stand apart from any other season of the year.

Thank goodness we have it.

The Bottom Line

On tax planning

By DANIEL HERRIMAN

(The author, Daniel Herriman of Plymouth, is a partner in General Business Services, Inc., a consulting firm for small businesses.)

Preparing for your taxes is a year-round job and it is never too early to begin planning for your next tax return.

Smart business owners always are looking for ways to save money on next year's returns. Here are a few sound, legal hints:

First, review your estimated taxes. Remember, the law requires that individuals make tax prepayments, either through withholding or quarterly estimated payments, equal to last year's liability or 80 percent of your current tax liability.

Because the IRS will penalize you if these requirements aren't met, it's worth dollars in your pocket to comply.

If your payments have been too low, accelerate the remainder at the end of the year to bring the prepayment up to the necessary total before Jan. 15. Also, by filing your complete annual return by Jan. 31, you will avoid any penalty which applies to the fourth quarter estimation.

NEXT, ANALYZE your income and expenses for the current year.

If this year's income is likely to vary significantly from next year's, you should consider "income shifting" to equalize the "high income, high tax" rate year with the "low income, low tax" rate year.

Where possible, you also should try to shift the payment of expenses from one period to another by either paying early or by postponing payment because expenses are normally deductible in the period in which they are paid.

Medical expenses, taxes and charitable contributions are a few of the items which can be shifted between years.

If you buy and sell stocks regularly, or have a substantial investment in the market for long-range purposes, it's very useful to review your portfolio. The best advice is to follow the recommendations of a competent investment counselor. There are too many variables to make generalizations.

TAXES ALSO MAY be lowered by alternating from year to year between itemizing expenses and claiming a standard deduction.

Again, you should check with a business counselor to determine if this would effectively save you tax money.

The important thing is to be aware and be prepared. Don't wait for April 14 to complain about your taxes. Do something about them now.

He agrees with editorial

Editor:

Your editorial of Sept. 20 about "More industry or higher taxes — take your pick" was very interesting.

As president of the Canton Chamber of Commerce and a member of the planning commission, I have experienced much of what you have said in the article.

I have suggested to the township supervisor that a committee be set up to help bring industry and commerce to this township. It would be a joint effort between the chamber, the residents and the government. As of this date, nothing has happened. There are businesses and industry that want to come into Canton every week but the political environment tells them to walk lightly and usually they seek other sites.

You are right that the residents are among the first to complain if a new proposed project is seeking approval. Without a "Welcome to Canton" sign hanging at our entrances, the residents should expect to pay higher taxes. Maybe when their taxes go over the $2,000 mark, they will scream for action. Should we sit back and wait?

Impose penalty for strikers

Editor: Regarding your editorial opinion column of Sept. 13, you are absolutely correct. "Teachers should not have a special privilege of striking and still receiving full pay. They should be subject to the same penalty any other worker in America is subject — loss of pay." Bravo, Emory Daniels, on your perceptive view. Perhaps you can suggest how the Plymouth-Canton School District can make up the loss of funds ($336,000) by docking the pay from the 730 striking teachers. A good formula would be to multiply the amount of teachers by the amount of striking days (9) and multi plying that by their daily wage. Using the average teacher's salary of $18,500 (as mentioned on the school board taped messages during the strike period) divided by 180 days of school, that figure would be $102.78 per day.

Therefore, 730 times 9 times $102.78 is $675,264.60. That would eliminate the necessity of any extra millage request, more than make up the loss of funds, and inhibit any future teacher strikes. "Since the teachers' contracts are not finalized, the undersigned taxpayers to the Plymouth-Canton School District agree that such an amendment should be stipulated/inserted into the contracts, thereby discouraging any future teacher strikes by penalty of loss of pay. Signed by the following: Margaret Merritt, Pamela R. Harliss, Mary Thomas, Irene Harmon, Virginia Borius, Marlene Cruce, Mary Brown, Clara Suegles, Jeri Forbring, Neva St. Loves, Janet Faver, Barbara Krivitz, Geraldine Youmans, Sharron Fletcher, Judi McLellan, Delores Smeteh, Jeanne Wolff, Shirley Russell, Beverly Glass, Toni Vestick, Robert Rogers, Priscilla Amador,

What causes price of stocks to go up?

The great humorist, Will Rogers, when asked which kind of stocks he favored, supposedly replied that he liked only those stocks that "go up." While his answer was obviously intended as fun, no words were ever spoken that more accurately reflect the main ambition of every investor. Whatever the primary goal, all investors hope for capital gains. And capital gains can come only from investments which go up in price. If you agree with Will's philosophy and are anxious to benefit from his words of wisdom, how should you go about determining the types of investments that would most likely fulfill his preference?

will offer a simple solution. Regardless of how scientific an approach we might employ in selecting the proper investments, the element of risk can never be entirely eliminated. Investment decisions must be based on a multitude of various considerations, the most important of which is always an evaluation of the future. And rarely does the future unfold exactly as expected. There are some general characteristics of previous successes, however, that might be helpful in determining future investment selections. MOST IMPORTANT at all times is the over-all climate of the securities markets. The risk of loss in almost any common stock investment will be less if the general trend of stock prices is up, while the chance of gain will be also less if the general trend is down. The stock market is comprised of many components. There are hundreds of different companies available for purchase by the investor. Successful stock investments are not confined to new and infant companies. There are always opportunities that exist in old and established companies which, for various reasons, might be emerging from a prolonged period of decline and stagnation.

It is important to be aware of the present condition of each of the major industries. Generally, stocks within an industry will tend to perform together. Each industry is subject to its own cycles, and all industries do not necessarily follow each other. The very best investment opportunity will ordinarily exist in one or more of the companies within an emerging industry. The writer is in the Plymouth office of Manley, Bennett, McDonald and Co.

The Warming Oven by Emily Watson

Mary Sullivan's request for a Shoo Fly Pie recipe led to the Shaker cookbook, "Not by Bread Alone," by Caroline B. Piercy.

I love that book and have given it to so many people. When Aunt Vera used to send recipes, she always gave them a one- to five-star rating. If the recipes in the Shaker cookbook were thus rated, many of them would get the four- and five-star treatment.

Those Shaker women — Sister Abigail, Sister Mary, Sister Content and Eldress Clymena — must have cooked up a storm. The Shaker lemon Pie, the Ohio Lemon Pie, the Pieplant Pie, the Shaker Wheaten Bread and Shaker Brown Bread recipes are priceless.

Leafing through the book generated a yearning to return to Pleasant Hill, that serene Shaker settlement in Kentucky and the wonderful meals served in the Trustees House. Those great breakfasts, that wonderful stuffed eggplant — everything cooked to perfection.

I must admit I have never tried this Shoo Fly Pie recipe, but here it is:

SHOO FLY PIE
 ¾ cup dark molasses
 ¾ cup very hot water
 ½ teaspoon baking soda
 1 ½ cup flour
 ½ cup sugar — brown or maple
 ¼ cup butter
 Pastry for one crust

Mix water with molasses and blend well. Blend flour, sugar and soda and cut in butter to a coarse crumb. Line pie pan with pastry. Pour in ½ of molasses mixture and top with ½ crumb mixture. Repeat adding alternate layers with crumb on top. Bake for about 35 minutes in pre-heated 375-degree oven. (This recipe came from the South Union Shaker settlement.)

Although it is not a Shaker recipe, a method of making Syllabub is included in the book. It's not very practical but it is fun:

SYLLABUB: Sweeten a gallon of cider with crushed maple sugar. Do not stint on the sweetening! Grate a nutmeg on top. Then milk the cow into this mixture. Drink while warm and foamy.

Just thank the Dutch

As you plant your Emperor, Parrot, Cape Cod and other varieties of tulip bulbs, don't forget we have Holland to thank for more than a colorful springtime in the garden.

The Dutch are responsible for some of the best recipes to come out of Western Europe. World famous Dutch Pea Soup — Erwtensoepp — makes a meal in itself. And it is even better warmed over than when first prepared.

PEA SOUP (ERWTENSOEP)
 3 cups split green peas
 3 quarts water
 2 pig's feet
 1 pound piece of bacon
 3 leeks
 2 onions
 2 tablespoons butter
 2 tablespoons chopped parsley
 1 cup chopped celery stalks with leaves
 1 celery root or celeriac peeled and cubed
 ½ pound skinless frankfurters
 Salt and pepper to taste
 Pumpernickel

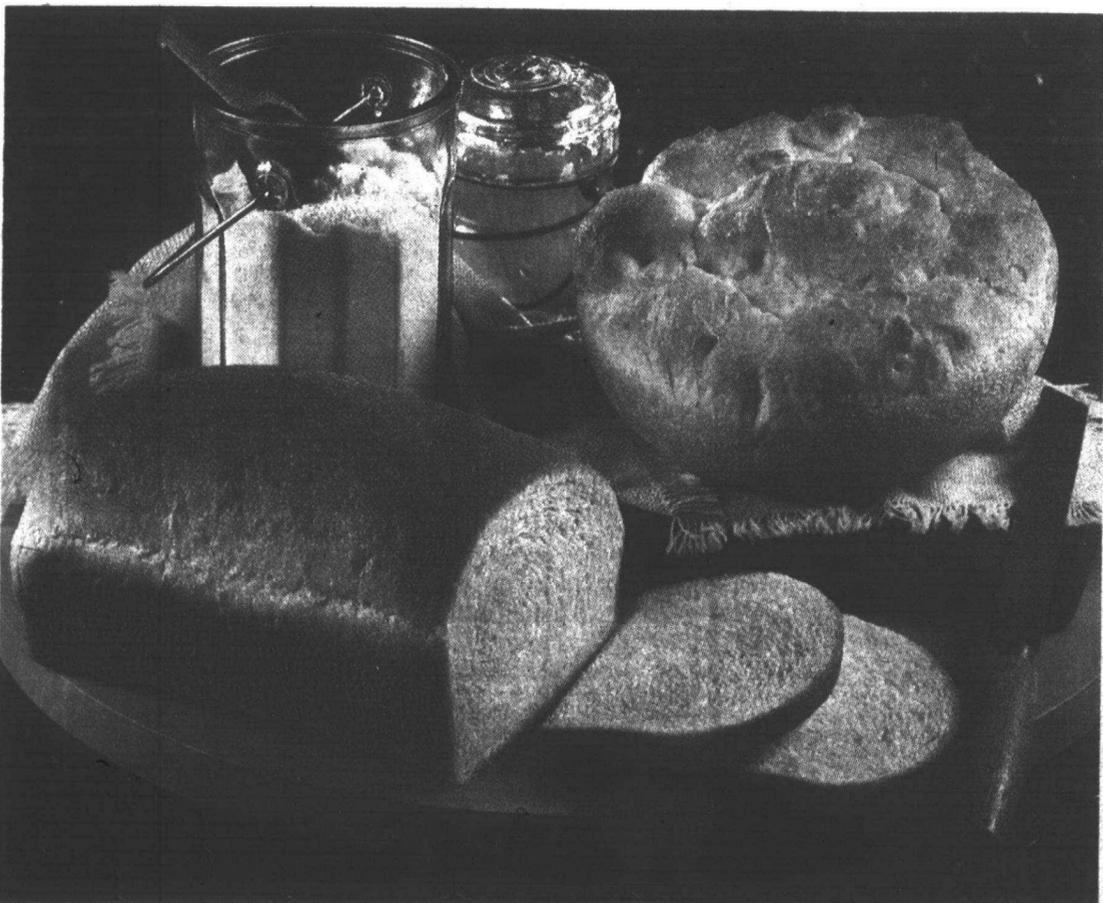

Cook peas in the water until tender. When peas are tender, press mixture through a sieve or whirl in blender. To this, add pig's feet and simmer for two hours. Add extra water when necessary.

Remove pig's feet, bone and cube meat and add to soup. Add bacon. Clean and slice leeks and onions. Melt butter and saute leeks and onions until tender but not brown. Add to soup with parsley, celery and celery root. Simmer covered for one hour.

Slice frankfurters and add to soup. Remove from heat and let stand overnight. Reheat the next day. Stir well since standing will make it thicker. Add more water, if necessary. Remove bacon and cut into slices. Serve bacon on pumpernickel. Reheat soup until piping hot. Makes six or more generous servings for this is served as the whole meal.

Mmm, hot corn meal bread

You know for sure that fall is "in the air" when the aroma of fresh-baked bread floats from neighborhood kitchens. The appearance of homemade bread on the table is as sure a sign of autumn as falling leaves, drifting clouds and flying geese.

Thus it has been throughout American history. The grains from the field and the fruits of the harvest have found their way into daily bread. And, ever since Indians inhabited the land, corn meal has been prized as an ingredient for breads baked in the fall.

Today, corn meal is enriched for the nutrition-conscious consumer, but the full-bodied, rich-textured, field-ripened grain flavor has remained the same since colonial days.

You can taste the difference corn meal makes in breads as it interplays with a variety of "home sweet home" flavors like honey, molasses, coffee, dried apricots and almonds. When you're in a hurry, turn out quick breads for all of autumn's occasions.

MOLASSES CORN MUFFINS
 ¾ cup enriched corn meal
 ¾ cup all-purpose flour
 1 tsp. baking powder
 1 tsp. salt
 ¼ tsp. soda
 1 egg, beaten
 ½ cup milk
 ½ cup firmly packed brown sugar
 ½ cup raisins
 ¼ cup vegetable oil
 ¼ cup molasses
 ½ tsp. soda
 ¼ cup chopped nuts
 ¼ cup chopped dried apricots
 Two 8-oz. cartons (2 cups) plain yogurt
 2 eggs, beaten
 ¾ cup firmly packed brown sugar
 ½ cup vegetable oil

Combine corn meal, flour, baking powder, salt and soda. Add combined remaining ingredients, mixing just until dry ingredients are moistened. Fill 12 greased or paper-lined muffin tins ¾ full. Bake in preheated 425 degree oven about 15 minutes. Serve warm with butter or margarine as desired. Makes 1 dozen muffins.

APRICOT YOGURT TWIN LOAVES
 1 cup plus 2 tbsp. enriched corn meal
 2 cups all-purpose flour
 1 tsp. baking powder
 1 tsp. salt

Grease bottom and sides of two 1-lb. coffee cans. Coat evenly with about 1 tsp. corn meal each. Combine remaining flour, corn meal, baking powder, salt and soda. Stir in nuts and apricots. Add combined yogurt, eggs, sugar and oil to corn meal mixture, mixing just until dry ingredients are moistened. Spoon batter into prepared cans. Bake in preheated moderate oven (350 degrees) about 45 minutes or until wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean. Cool 15 minutes; remove from pans. Cool completely on wire rack. Makes 2 loaves.

CORN MEAL STREUSEL COFFEE CAKE

- Coffee Cake:
- 4 tsp. freeze dried or instant coffee
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup milk
- 2 eggs, beaten
- $\frac{1}{4}$ cup butter or margarine, melted
- 1 cup all-purpose flour
- $\frac{3}{4}$ cup firmly packed brown sugar
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup enriched corn meal
- $\frac{1}{2}$ tsp. baking powder
- $\frac{1}{2}$ tsp. salt
- $\frac{1}{4}$ tsp. soda

- Streusel Topping:
- 2 tbsp. enriched corn meal
- 2 tbsp. firmly packed brown sugar
- 1 tbsp. butter or margarine, melted
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup sliced almonds

For coffee cake, dissolve coffee in milk. Add combined milk mixture, eggs and butter to combined dry ingredients, mixing just until dry ingredients are moistened. Pour into greased 8-inch square baking pan.

For streusel topping, combine all ingredients except nuts, mixing until crumbly. Sprinkle evenly over batter. Top with nuts. Bake in preheated moderate oven (375 degrees) 20 to 25 minutes or until wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean. Cool about 20 minutes. Serve warm.

MICROWAVE OVEN DIRECTIONS:

Prepare coffee cake as directed above. Omit streusel topping. Sprinkle $\frac{1}{2}$ cup sliced almonds evenly over batter. Cook at "high" 6 to 8 $\frac{1}{2}$ minutes or until wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean, rotating $\frac{1}{4}$ turn after each 2 minutes of cooking. Let stand about 5 minutes before serving.

HONEY-OF-A-BREAD

- 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ cups milk
- 1 cup water
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup honey
- $\frac{1}{4}$ cup butter or margarine
- 1 tsp. salt
- $\frac{5}{8}$ to 6 cups all-purpose flour
- 2 pkg. active dry yeast
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cups enriched corn meal

Heat combined milk, water, honey, butter and salt in 1-qt. saucepan over medium heat until just warm (about 120 degrees), stirring constantly. Add milk mixture to combined two cups flour and yeast in large mixing bowl. Beat at medium speed on electric mixer about 2 minutes or until smooth. Add corn meal. Continue beating about 1 minute. Stir in enough remaining flour to make a stiff dough. Knead on lightly floured surface 8 to 10 minutes or until smooth and elastic. Shape to form ball. Place in greased large bowl, turning once to coat surface of dough. Cover and let rise in warm place about 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ hours or until double in size. Punch dough down. Cover and let rest 10 minutes. Divide dough in half; roll out each half to form 15x9-inch rectangle. Roll up starting with narrow end. Press together ends and seam to seal. Place in 2 greased 9x5-inch loaf pans; brush with vegetable oil. Let rise in warm place about 1 hour or until nearly double in size. Bake in preheated hot oven (400 degrees) 25 to 30 minutes. Remove from pans and brush with oil. Cool completely on wire rack. Makes 2 loaves.

VARIATION: Combine $\frac{3}{4}$ cup raisins, $\frac{1}{4}$ cup sugar and 1 tsp. cinnamon; sprinkle over both 15x9-inch rectangles of dough.

CORN MEAL BATTER BREAD

- $\frac{3}{4}$ cup plus 2 tbsp. enriched corn meal
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup milk
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup water
- $\frac{1}{4}$ cup sugar
- $\frac{1}{4}$ cup vegetable oil
- $\frac{1}{2}$ tsp. salt
- 1 $\frac{1}{4}$ cups all-purpose flour
- 1 pkg. active dry yeast
- 1 egg

Generously grease 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ -qt. casserole dish; coat evenly with 2 tbsp. corn meal. Heat combined milk, water, sugar, oil and salt in 1-qt. saucepan over medium heat just until warm (about 120 degrees), stirring occasionally. Add milk mixture to combined 1 cup flour and yeast in large mixing bowl. Beat at medium speed on electric mixer about 2 minutes or until smooth. Blend in egg; stir in remaining corn meal and flour to make a stiff dough. Cover and let rise in warm place about 1 hour or until light and bubbly. Stir down; spoon into prepared casserole. Let rise uncovered in warm place about 1 hour or until double in size. Bake in preheated moderate oven (350 degrees) 20 minutes. Cover loosely with aluminum foil to prevent excess browning. Continue baking about 25 minutes or until golden brown. Immediately remove from casserole and remove foil. Cool completely on wire rack. Makes 1 round loaf.

VARIATION: Add $\frac{1}{2}$ to 1 tsp. dill weed to batter.

Circus theme treats brighten fall menus

While cheering crowds applaud the antics of clowns and the daring deeds of the performers, and while brilliant costumes dazzle the eye, half the fun of going to a circus is consuming vast quantities of cotton candy, peanuts and popcorn.

Even a hot dog becomes a gourmet treat under the spell of the circus.

Although the circus comes to town usually only once a year, you can bring the spell of the Big Top to your table or party with these circus cookhouse recipes. They come directly from Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus, which is bringing "The Greatest Show on Earth" to Cobo Arena on Oct. 8 for performances Oct. 9 through 21.

SUPER CIRCUS

- 1 can frozen cream of shrimp soup
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cans of milk
- 1 can tomato soup
- 2 tsp. sherry (optional)
- Sour cream
- Parsley
- Chives

Combine shrimp, tomato soup and milk and heat slowly. Just before serving, add sherry and garnish with a dollop of sour cream sprinkled with parsley and chives.

WAGON WHEEL BURGERS

- 1 lb. ground round
- Salt and pepper to taste
- $\frac{1}{4}$ teas. Worcestershire sauce
- 6 pimento-stuffed green olives
- 6 slices American cheese
- 1 small jar of pimento strips
- 3 English muffins, cut in halves
- 6 party toothpicks

Shape hamburgers into six round patties, mixing in salt, pepper and Worcestershire sauce. Broil to desired doneness, then transfer each to toasted English muffin half.

Put a slice of cheese on each burger and return to the broiler until the cheese begins to melt. Remove from oven and decorate each with thin strips of pimento, radiating out from the center like spokes. Garnish the center with the olive speared through on a toothpick, like the shaft of a wagon wheel.

CLOWNIE BROWNIES

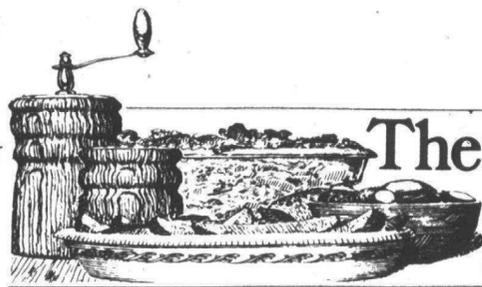

- 6 oz. unsweetened chocolate
- $\frac{1}{2}$ sticks of butter
- 6 eggs
- 3 cups sugar
- 1 teas. salt
- 1 tsp. vanilla extract
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cups flour
- 1 cup walnuts
- cinnamon hearts
- butterscotch kisses

Preheat oven to 325 degrees. In a heavy saucepan, melt the chocolate with butter over low heat, stirring constantly. When chocolate is melted, put aside to cool.

In a mixer, combine eggs, sugar, salt and vanilla extract and mix until light and fluffy. Then add melted, cooled chocolate. Combine well and fold in flour and walnuts.

Line a jelly roll pan with parchment paper, rubbing both the pan and the paper with a little vegetable oil. Pour the brownie batter into the prepared pan and bake in 325 degree oven for 25 minutes.

Note:The brownies will be fudgy inside and not dry. When cooled, cut them into 1-inch squares. After cooling and cutting, decorate each square with a clown face made with a circle of butterscotch kisses, with cinnamon hearts for eyes, nose and mouth.

The Happy Cooker

by Elayne Susan Stulberg

There are those who contest the oft-quoted "An apple a day keeps the doctor away." Physicians agree that apples contain many important vitamins and nutrients. However, we all realize that even two apples a day will not guarantee freedom from illnesses.

On the other hand, dental studies have revealed concrete evidence of the effectiveness of apple chomping: consuming an apple a day has reduced tooth decay due to the fruit's cleansing agents.

Writing about apples stirs nostalgic memories. Do you recall making a favorite teacher the recipient of a beautifully ripened apple? Those who habitually brought such edibles to their teacher were called apple polishers.

How about the phrase "The apple of one's eye" in connection with praise for the best or pick of the crop? And who can forget the effect that fruit had on Adam and Eve!

Only you can decide whether to believe all the quotes attributed to the apple. However, upon one thing most agree: apples are one of the most delicious, versatile fruits known to human kind.

THE APPLE season gets under way every autumn when bright green leaves give way to glorious reds, yellows and russets. Rows of mounded apples and assorted sized jugs of apple cider make their anticipated appearances at roadside stands, orchards, dairies and markets.

And, of course, cider mills are running full-steam now. Fortunately, there are several cider mills conveniently located a short distance from most suburbanites' homes.

Closest to ours is the Franklin Cider Mill in Franklin. It opened for its annual three-month business on Labor Day weekend.

Our family took the short ride to sample the cider and delicious hot doughnuts, freshly prepared on the premises from an old secret German recipe. Munching doughnuts and sipping cider, we leisurely strolled the grounds.

We roamed about the 140-year-old, four-acre spread, enjoying the scenic red barn, cider mill and huge waterwheel nestled in a restful and rustic setting.

Alfresco dining areas are available for those who desire something more substantial than cider and doughnuts. Visitors may buy hot dogs, salami, crocked cheese (try the Port Wine cheese spread), potato chips, and candied and caramel apples.

I can attest to the enthusiastic response of youngsters on a school field trip to the mill for lunch and a demonstration of cider making. While there is no admission charge for schools or group tours, Jack Peltz, owner, requests reservations.

TAKE ADVANTAGE of your area cider mill until it closes the first week in December.

Carry memories of sunny orchards back to your kitchen by purchasing some of the mill's grand eating and/or cooking apples. In good supply are late Golden, late MacIntosh, Duchess, late Johnsons, Delicious, and Ida Reds. October brings in northern Spys.

Using a ripe but firm apple, try this caramel candy apple recipe:

SIMPLE CARAMEL APPLES

- 1 pound package caramels
- 1 tablespoon milk, mixed with 1 tablespoon vanilla
- Wooden sticks or skewers
- 5 medium-sized apples

Partially fill bottom part of double boiler with water; heat to boiling. Lower to simmer and insert top boiler with the caramels, milk and vanilla. Stir frequently until caramels have dissolved into a smooth sauce. Stick wooden skewers into ends of each apple. Dip each into sauce, rotating until surface is completely coated. Set on waxed paper and place in refrigerator until coating is firm. Makes five caramel apples.

WHENEVER I write about apples, one notable recipe immediately comes to mind. It never fails to receive rave notices from column readers. Apple Linzer is its name and it is the creation of the innovative Yvonne Gill Davis, owner and chef of Tweeny's Cafe in Birmingham.

Ms. Davis brought her imaginative and sophisticated genius to suburbia 2 $\frac{1}{2}$ years ago when she opened one of the finest restaurants around.

Many of Tweeny's customers were well acquainted with Ms. Davis' masterful approach to food preparation prior to the Birmingham opening. She was the driving force behind the very successful Money Tree restaurant in downtown Detroit.

At Tweeny's, you will dine in a relaxed atmosphere, under beautiful skylight, and order from a menu chock full of gourmet fare. The daily changing menu includes unusual soups, salads and entrees. Items for the weight-conscious are always available, too.

However, her hot and cold hors d'oeuvres and fabulous desserts have the ability to turn dieters into cheaters. If you do manage to dine on her cuisine mienour, you can forget feeling smug about it. I guarantee your resolve will melt at the sight of her take-out counter, laden with pies, pastries, branried fruits and quiches.

Below is one of Ms. Davis' fabulous apple treats. Once sampled, you will look for excuses to prepare it often.

APPLE LINZER

- Pastry
- $\frac{1}{4}$ cup flour
- $\frac{1}{4}$ cup sugar
- $\frac{1}{4}$ pound butter
- 1 egg yolk
- $\frac{1}{4}$ cup ground almonds
- Pinch of allspice, cinnamon and nutmeg
- 2 tablespoons apricot preserves
- Dash of rum (optional)

Cut butter into flour, sugar and spices until dough is the consistency of small peas. Add egg yolk and ground almonds and cut into dough. When thoroughly mixed, press together to form a ball. Roll out between sheets of wax paper to make pastry for 8- or 9-inch pie pan.

Apple Pulp

Ms. Davis prefers Northern Spy apples for her linzer. Pare and thinly slice six to eight apples and place in dry pan over low heat, covered tightly. Drain off liquid immediately as it forms. Do this at least six-to-eight times depending upon the apples. The object is to remove as much liquid as possible and keep the apples firm.

Remove from heat and add fruit puree made from heating the apricot preserves. Fill pastry shell and decorate with apple slices. Brush surface with melted butter and bake at 350-degrees for about 40 minutes, or until lightly browned. Serve warm in wedges. You may also, if desired, top with a dollop of whipped cream.

FIRST THE BAD news.

Remember the Vineyards restaurant in Southfield? Under Fred Gracyck's consistent management, the restaurant was the recipient of several distinctive awards of excellence. Well, it's all gone now but for the memories because Gracyck sold his eating establishment. For those of us who frequented the Vineyards, it is, indeed, a loss.

Now for the good news. Not content to rest on his laurels, Gracyck is back in the food business again.

Several months ago he opened the Culinary Greenhouse in West Bloomfield. It is a fascinating combination gift shop, greenhouse and last, but not least, a take-out restaurant.

The menu contains assorted fresh and frozen foods as well as fresh salads. Also available are a variety of appetizers, soups and homemade breads. Gourmet delights there include coquille

St. Jacques, veal scallopini or Morengo, cinnamon chicken, curry of pork Belgian, and boeuf bourguignon, to name a few.

If you wish to serve up something special, without putting forth any effort, stop by the Culinary Greenhouse.

You can purchase everything necessary for entertaining. Live plants and centerpiece, dishes and cutlery are but a few of the snazzy offerings.

All you have to do is set the table and pop your meal into your oven for a truly elegant dining experience.

One thing Gracyck discontinued when he sold his restaurant was his very special Apple Beignet. I never visited the Vineyards without ordering it for dessert. However, he has graciously offered this column's readers his recipe for this mouth-watering dish. Once you taste it, you will be just as grateful to him for it as am I.

APPLE BEIGNET

Blend in a bowl:

Two eggs and $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon sugar. Mix in 1 cup milk and then mix in 1 cup flour, stirring constantly to insure smoothness. Add $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon vanilla and 1 tablespoon melted butter. Let batter stand one hour. Before using, stir batter and adjust, if necessary. Batter should be consistency of slightly thinner pancake batter.

Preparation:

Peel and core large tart apples and slice thin (2 slices per serving). Dip apple in batter and fry in deep fat at 350 degrees until golden brown. Remove from fat and drain on paper toweling. Place two slices on dessert plate and sprinkle generously with the following mixture:

Mix together 1 cup sugar, $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon cinnamon, $\frac{1}{2}$ cup chopped walnuts. Cover beignets with a large dollop of rich vanilla ice cream and serve immediately.

This recipe has enough batter for at least 12 servings with 2 slices of apples per serving.

NEXT WEEK: CREPES

Byrd's Kitchen

by Vivian Byrd

How to roast a chicken grandmother's way

Grandma Jennie had a sure hand in the kitchen. When we met, she had been managing a household for nearly 50 years — enough time to develop some expertise.

Once, during a conversation about noodles, she led me into the kitchen to demonstrate noodle-making.

Using the extra fine side of a grater, she grated a potato over a small bowl. The resulting shreds and liquid were spilled down the disposal. Only the potato starch remained in the bowl. She then beat a couple of eggs into the starch, added a drop of this and that, and cooked the mixture like a crepe in a hot lightly-oiled skillet.

Turning the crepe out onto a board, she cut it quickly with a sharp knife into narrow strips. Noodles.

And she did it all one, two, three, as if there were nothing to it.

SHE ALSO TAUGHT me to make roast chicken. Making roast chicken may not sound so difficult until you try getting it tender and moist on the inside, yet brown and crispy outside. Tricky.

At the time, I worried and fussed over anything that cooked in the oven. Grandma Jennie said not to open the door so much, relax, let it cook by itself.

Her recipe for roast chicken was simple.

ROAST CHICKEN

Choose a young roaster of the size needed for the meal; wash it with hot water; then rinse with cold water. Rub the inside with salt and the outside with butter. Sprinkle onion, garlic salt, paprika and seasoning salt on the outside. Put about $\frac{1}{2}$ cup of water in the bottom of the pan. Bake at 350 degrees, 20 to 25 minutes per pound or until nicely browned and the juices run clear when pierced with a fork or small knife.

The recipe can be varied slightly and used for baked chicken breasts.

Spread the pieces in a pan in a single layer, sprinkle with salt, coarse ground black pepper, parika and your favorite seasoning salt. Add $\frac{1}{2}$ cup of water, dot the pieces with butter or margarine and bake about one hour at 350 degrees.

Sen. Bond: Blacks, Jews will work together

Students applaud former civil rights leader

By TOM LONERGAN

Relations between blacks and Jews are "healthier now than ever before," a national black leader told an Oakland University audience last week.

Georgia State Sen. Julian Bond, speaking to 450 students and faculty at the Rochester campus, said last month's dispute over United Nations Ambassador Andrew Young's resignation allowed blacks to have an "open discussion of what we find objectionable" with Jewish organizations.

Bond received a standing ovation after his lecture, sponsored by the Pre-Law Society.

Young resigned after Israel objected to a meeting he held with Palestine Liberation Organization representatives, in apparent violation of U.S. policy against meeting with the PLO.

That incident, along with some black leaders' sympathy for the Palestinian cause in the Middle East, heightened tensions between American blacks and Jews, long time civil rights allies. The tensions have been brewing for more than 10 years, led by differences over affirmative action for blacks and other minorities.

YOUNG, SAID BOND, "has advanced the cause of peace in the Middle East," because he "awakened the interest of a larger body of people."

Even though the Young episode strained relations between major black and Jewish organizations, Bond indicated the ties would not dissolve.

"It's a mistake if some black Americans believe one strong relationship between blacks and Jews can be replaced by another strong relationship between blacks and Arabs."

Bond predicted black and Jewish organizations would work together "when they can."

BOND, 39, rose to national prominence as a young civil rights leader in the south and the first black to be elected to the Georgia Legislature.

He talked about the economic inequality that remains between blacks and whites.

The 25 years since the U.S. Supreme Court ruled segregation illegal have seen a "slow lifting of some black Americans from a position of peonage," Bond said.

"American black people still sit at the bottom of a long, long ladder."

The median income for a black family is 40 percent of a white family's, said Bond, adding that "four times as many blacks live below the poverty level."

The 1960s social reforms "made it too easy for too many to believe the battles have been fought and won," said the Georgia Democrat.

"Too many of the battles are being re-fought and lost."

Among those have been challenges to affirmative action programs for minorities in education and industry, which, Bond said, have "created a gulf too serious to be papered over" between black and Jewish leaders.

"EVERY MAJOR Jewish organization supported Bakke," Bond said, while black organizations supported the affirmative action program at a California medical school the white engineer (Allan Bakke) had challenged.

Last year the Supreme Court ordered the university to admit Bakke. The court upheld the affirmative action program but struck down the minority quota system the school had used. This year the court upheld an affirmative action program at Kaiser Aluminum in Louisiana.

"The black community has a vested interest in quotas and affirmative action," Bond said, citing the small numbers of blacks in the higher paying professions. About 10 percent of Oakland University's 11,000 students are black.

"We're not talking about taking ignorant people and making them nuclear physicists overnight," as affirmative action opponents have charged, said Bond.

The priority issue for blacks in the 1980s is unemployment, said Bond. Blacks comprise 10 percent of the labor force but 20 percent of the unemployed — even more among urban black youth.

But Bond lamented that blacks had "no political organization, sophistication or ability to turn out large numbers of voters on election days."

He noted that only 37 percent of blacks nationwide voted in last year's congressional elections.

BOND CALLED reverse discrimination "an imaginary condition," that implies blacks have "forced 87 percent to live in the worst homes, send their kids to the worst schools, work in the worst jobs and die earlier."

He said "the elimination of petty apartheid in the last 25 years has caused too many whites to believe there has been a radical change in race relations."

"Decaying cities, failing schools and a permanent underclass" of chronically unemployed have led to a "permanent crisis," said Bond.

ON OTHER ISSUES, Bond said:

• Jimmy Carter "knew the words to our hymns but not the numbers on our paychecks." He added that Carter "put a lot of black faces in higher places" and his Africa policy was "one hundred times better than Kissinger's, Ford's or Nixon's."

• If he runs, Sen. Edward Kennedy would defeat Carter and the Republican nominee. Kennedy "is generally in favor of what's good for us," Bond said. But he warned that because backing Carter was a "mistake," blacks have to make sure what Kennedy stands for.

• People in U.S. Rep. Charles Diggs' district "have a right to have whoever they want represent them," but if Diggs went to prison, "they should get somebody else." Diggs, D-Detroit, is appealing his conviction for misusing government funds.

• Chrysler Corp.'s request for federal aid indicated a "truism in the American economy of socialism for the well to do and capitalism for the poor." The government "may give you a subsidy, but they wouldn't call it that, it's called welfare."

CEP News is featured by WSDP

A new program entitled CEP News has been introduced by WSDP, the student-operated radio station of Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

The program is intended to supplement the bi-monthly newsletter sent to parents of students attending the Plymouth Centennial Educational Park (CEP).

CEP will be featured at 5:30 p.m. every Monday and Thursday to inform parents and students of activities at the CEP and on issues necessary for the scholastic development of each student.

Some of the information will include dates of the PSAT and ACT tests, driver's education sign up, senior pictures, homecoming games and dances, and other CEP-related activities.

Each week a feature will be presented to provide additional insight on various aspects of the CEP.

UPCOMING BROADCASTS from now through Oct. 12 on WSDP (88.1 on the FM dial) include:

The Plymouth Salem Girls Varsity Basketball team vs. Edsel Ford on Oct. 9 with tip-off time at 7:30 p.m. and broadcast beginning at 7:15 p.m.

The Salem Rocks homecoming football game against St. Clair Shores Lakeview will be Friday, Oct. 12, at 8 p.m. with the broadcast beginning at 7:45 p.m.

McClendon to speak on VD at conference

Dr. E.J. McClendon of Plymouth is one of the main speakers for a conference on venereal disease being sponsored by United Community Services of Metropolitan Detroit.

The conference will begin at 8:30 a.m. Wednesday, Oct. 24, in the board room of the Comprehensive Health Planning Council on the 13th floor of the Book Building in Detroit.

Dr. McClendon will speak during the first one-hour session on the topic: "Statement of the Problem: Who are the Victims of VD?" He will end the conference at noon with a closing statement entitled, "Where Do We Go From Here?"

McClendon is a professor in the School of Public Health and chairman of health education at the University of Michigan and is a board member of the American Social Health Association.

Other speakers at the conference will include: Thomas Chapel, M.D., director of the social hygiene clinic, Detroit Department of Public Health; Donald Clough, executive director of the American Social Health Association; Max Lichter, M.D., chairman of the United Community Services health committee.

"Venereal Disease has reached epidemic proportions across the country," says Dr. Lichter, "especially in Southeastern Michigan and particularly among adolescents."

"VD affects newborn children as well as other innocent adult victims; it affects the wealthy and the poor; and its consequences affect the entire community."

"For this reason, United Community Services Board has adopted a study recommendation that a coalition for action on venereal disease be mobilized."

Before coming to U-M, McClendon served as an assistant superintendent for the Michigan Department of Education. He has a pre-med degree in physiology, speech and social studies, a master's degree in guidance, counseling and school health from the University of Oklahoma, and earned his doctorate in curriculum development and health education from Wayne State University.

He has directed a joint school health project for a state department of education and a state department of health. McClendon has been director of health education for a state health department and for an intermediate school district.

McClendon has been a teacher, high school principal, director of secondary education, curriculum director, superintendent of schools, and college vice president. He also has served on the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education and on the community human relations commission, and is an active member of the Rotary Club of Plymouth.

Law index is available

Copies of an index to all legislation introduced during the 1979 session of the Michigan Senate now is available from the Lansing office of State Sen. Robert Geake, R-Northville, whose district includes Plymouth and Plymouth Township.

The publication is indexed by subject and arranged in alphabetical order with the sponsor of the bill listed and a one or two sentence explanation of the legislation included.

The publication is available free by writing Geake at the State Capitol, Lansing 48909, or by calling his office at 1-517-373-1707.

"I publish this type of information about every six months in order to provide the people of my district with more detailed information on what the Legislature is actually working on," said Geake.

"I hope as a follow up that if someone has questions about any of the legislation that they read about in this booklet, that they will contact me or my office for further explanation."

Your ideas Committee

Question of the week:

"(The question of the week allows residents the chance to give their opinions and make suggestions to state Reps. Robert Law, Tom Brown, Jack Kirksey and Roy Smith, and state Sen. Robert Geake.

This week's question is: "Should a subway in the city of Detroit be included in the SEMTA transportation plans?"

SEMTA has been in the process of developing an area-wide transportation plan for the past two years. Recently, tentative agreement was reached on the overall concept including a rail system on the Woodward corridor in Detroit.

The unresolved question is whether any or all of the rail system should be a subway as proposed by Mayor Coleman Young.

To give your comments, phone Rep. Tom Brown from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 13, at 422-0750.

THE CHESS CLUB is getting into full swing for the fall and winter months. Bill Faulk of Canton Township inherited the office of president of the club which meets each Tuesday evening from 7:30-11 p.m. in a room in the Plymouth Cultural Center, 525 Farmer Street, Plymouth.

Yearly membership fee is $9 and to encourage senior citizens and under-21 players, their fee is just $5. Visitors pay 50 cents for the evening or 25 cents for seniors and under-21's.

The first tournament of the season is planned for Oct. 23. Three trophies will be awarded — novice, upper and women. The club owns just three chess sets so it might be a good idea to take along your own set for a Tuesday evening game.

The club is sponsored by Plymouth Parks and Recreation and most of the players have been from the Plymouth-Canton area with occasional out-of-town visitors. It is a non-profit organization and Bill is trying to build up the membership. He can be reached after 6 p.m. at 981-0152 for more information about the club or the tournament.

THE COMMUNITY Chorus is off to a fantastic start this season with 68 voices. And they say they can use more.

The chorus, under the direction of their dynamic young leader, Mike Goss, meets Tuesday evenings at 7:45 in East Middle School. They have a break at 9 and a sizable group congregates after rehearsal at Little Caesars for conversation and some impromptu vocalizing.

Because their membership has increased, they now can sing the "Hallelujah Chorus." They are practicing for their Christmas concert and auditions are unnecessary — just come along on a Tuesday evening and join the fun.

Their most ardent fans are the members of the maintenance staff at East Middle School who never fail to tell them how much they enjoyed the rehearsal. A few of the singers had tears in their eyes last week when did the "Hallelujah Chorus."

"It is so beautiful," they explained.

IT'S A TIME for making the annual big decision as youngsters worry, ponder and endlessly contemplate the question: "What will I be for Halloween?"

Once the perfect costume has been selected, there is a way to get double or triple duty out of the disguise. It can be worn Halloween evening, to school, and as a volunteer for UNICEF.

The Plymouth-Canton branch of the American Association of University Women is handling the local Halloween UNICEF drive again this year.

The AAUW is in need of volunteers — neighborhoods groups, individuals, clubs, youth groups — who will join the UNICEF drive. This means that they will put on their Halloween costumes and spend an evening trick or treating for underprivileged children around the world. The AAUW will provide canisters and identification tags for the volunteers.

The after-effects of trick or treating for UNICEF are much healthier and rewarding than the actual collection of candy.

Volunteers can call Sylvia Stetz, 455-0193, or Cindy Zajac, 455-0687, to sign up.

A LIBRARY is a wonderful institution. If you are a lover of books, there's no feeling that compares with that feeling of well-being when you leave the library with a stack of books under your arm.

The joy of discovering an author is like a miner striking a new vein of gold.

Thursday evening's visit to Dunning Hough couldn't have been more perfect.

There was Gloria Gulbransen, returning books, two of which she recommended very highly, and a new one (on the waiting list) which she termed a loser. I gleefully latched onto the two winners by an author who is new to me.

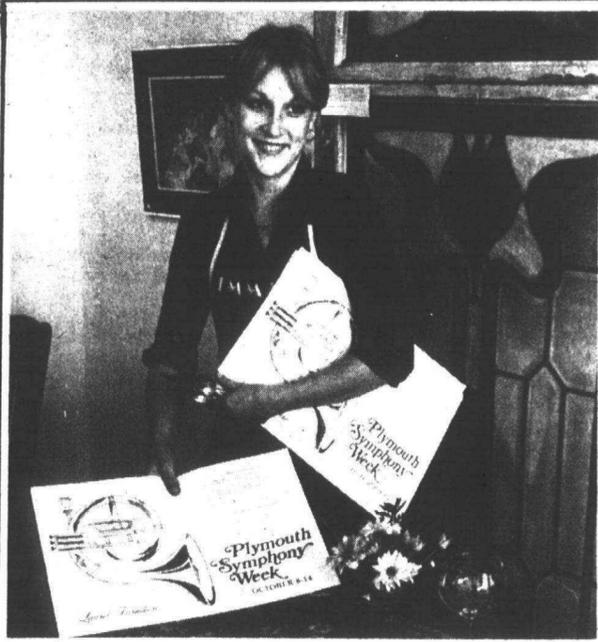

I recommended the two John Ballis' I was returning and, being on a John Ball kick, found a new one to take home.

Sam and Jessie Hudson were there. (Jessie is methodically reading authors from A right through to Z. I believe she's in the C's.)

She and Sam recommended a new-to-me mystery author. Pat Butler came along and recommended the same author. What an evening!

Sam was looking for a good mystery and he hadn't read any of the the Dick Francis books. I insisted he would love him and he agreed to sample one. It was like presenting a lovely gift of hours of pleasure.

Pat, librarian of Schoolcraft College and former Plymouth High School librarian, says he is not doing any writing. His humorous pieces in Saturday Review were always a source of enjoyment and pride, especially to his hometown readers.

34th season

It's Symphony Week

It's Symphony Week in Canton Township and Plymouth.

The Symphony League will lead off the week with a membership tea today in the home of Janet Repp. League membership is open to any resident of the Plymouth-Canton community who would enjoy working as a volunteer to help raise funds to support the symphony orchestra. The league now has a membership of 150 women who are divided into groups.

Each group has one major project each season. The assignments are rotated. In a five-year period, a group's responsibilities could be the Symphony Ball, the round robin bridge, the antique mart, the fall fashion show and the spring pops concert. Members usually volunteer to serve refreshments at one Monday evening orchestra rehearsal in Central Middle School.

The league's fund-raisers contribute to the social life of the community and the existence of one of the finest community orchestras in Michigan. Last year $10,500 was donated to the orchestra.

Shop windows will be decorated in recognition of Symphony Week.

Special placemats will be used in several area restaurants. These were printed by Laurel Furniture for the Symphony League.

SYMPHONY Week observance will culminate at 4 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 14 when the symphony orchestra opens its 34th season in the auditorium of Plymouth salem High School.

The concert will feature guest conductor Mark Flint and a guest soloist from the New York City Opera Company.

Flint is beginning his third season as music director of the Michigan Opera Theater. The young conductor's talents show him to be equally adept as operatic stage director, vocal coach and piano recitalist. He recently completed a tour as accompanist for a Metropolitan Opera star.

Baritone Charles Roe starred in a network TV production of Aaron Copland's "The Tender Land." This will be his first appearance with the Plymouth Symphony. He has soloed with the symphonies of Detroit, Flint, Kalamazoo, Grand Rapids and Toledo.

Tickets for the concert now are on sale at Beitner Jewelry on Ann Arbor Trail, Book World on Forest Street, and Heide's Flowers, Ann Arbor Trail at Harvey. Admission will be $4 for adults and $2 for senior citizens. Members of the Plymouth Symphony Society will be admitted with their season tickets. Memberships will be available at the concert.

Students, kindergarten through 12th grade, will be admitted free. A Girl Scout troop will provide babysitting for preschoolers during the concert. Free transportation for senior citizens is provided from Tonquish Creek Manor at 3:15 p.m. Sunday. The van will return to the manor after the concert.

Music appreciation comes to nursing home

By BETTY MASSON

Old songs bring back memories, memories of families gathered around the piano or organ singing "Daisy, Daisy, Give Me Your Answer, Do," "In the Gloaming" and "Just a Song at Twilight."

Fran Loiselle, although born well into the movie and television age, remembers this kind of gathering. Her grandmother played the piano and her grandfather, the violin. Her mother gave piano lessons, as well teaching tap and ballet.

It's a fortunate background, because Mrs. Loiselle, who lives in Plymouth, teaches music appreciation to people who live in four nursing homes, Whispering Willow in Canton Township, Hendry and West Trail in Plymouth and Wishing Well in Northville.

Her work is part of a program designed to bring interesting and informative courses to area nursing homes. It is underwritten by the Plymouth-Canton Schools Continuing Education program, under the direction of Larry Masteller.

With the courses, now in their second year, the retirees can get not only enjoyment but also high school credit for arts and crafts, current issues, Bible literature and dance, as well as for music.

Students range in age from their 60-95.

IN A RECENT CLASS, one of Mrs. Loiselle's students was pleased to find that Sousa wrote "El Capitan" in the year she was born, 1896. Mrs. Loiselle had to play it again.

In a segment on patriotic songs, one gentleman recalled hearing Kate Smith sing "America the Beautiful" in New York. "God Bless America" also brought back memories of hearing Miss Smith on radio back in the '30s.

"America the Beautiful" was written in 1893, Mrs. Loiselle told her students, after its author, Catherine Lee Bates, had traveled from New England to Oregon.

Although the old songs, such as "McNamara's Band," "A Bicycle Built for Two" and "Let Me Call You Sweetheart," are most popular, Mrs. Loiselle spends some time on the classics in her two-hour classes.

For instance, at the end of this month, she'll honor Halloween by playing "The Sorcerer's Apprentice," "Night on Bald Mountain" and "Danse Macabre."

Not at all incidentally, she will discuss their composers, Dukas, Moussorgsky and Saint-Saens.

She also gets her audience to participate by handing out rhythm instruments, sticks, blocks, triangles and tambourines. Some, she has made herself, but she can use more.

SHE WOULD ESPECIALLY like to get hold of a good used autoharp. If someone has one in the attic that can be donated to a good cause, its owners can call Mrs. Loiselle at 459-4263.

One of her students thinks it would be a good idea to start a rhythm band to play at events in Kellogg Park.

Mrs. Loiselle can also use more old-time song books, although she already has many.

She would like to hear from any small performing groups that could perform in the daytime. Classes are given mornings and afternoons.

ANOTHER SEGMENT of each class deals with current events in music, such as the death of Gracie Fields, and the decision of the Moscow State Symphony Orchestra not to tour the U.S.

Moscow may be reluctant to tour, but some day, if she can arrange it, Mrs. Loiselle will take her fourth, fifth and sixth grade choir from First United Methodist Church out to sing for older students.

Mrs. Loiselle has a bachelor of science degree with a major in vocal music and a minor in social science from Wayne State University. She plays the piano and the guitar.

She teaches music in Plymouth and Northville elementary and middle schools as a substitute.

So her students pretty well span the years of human life. She said she was having trouble getting used to one thing.

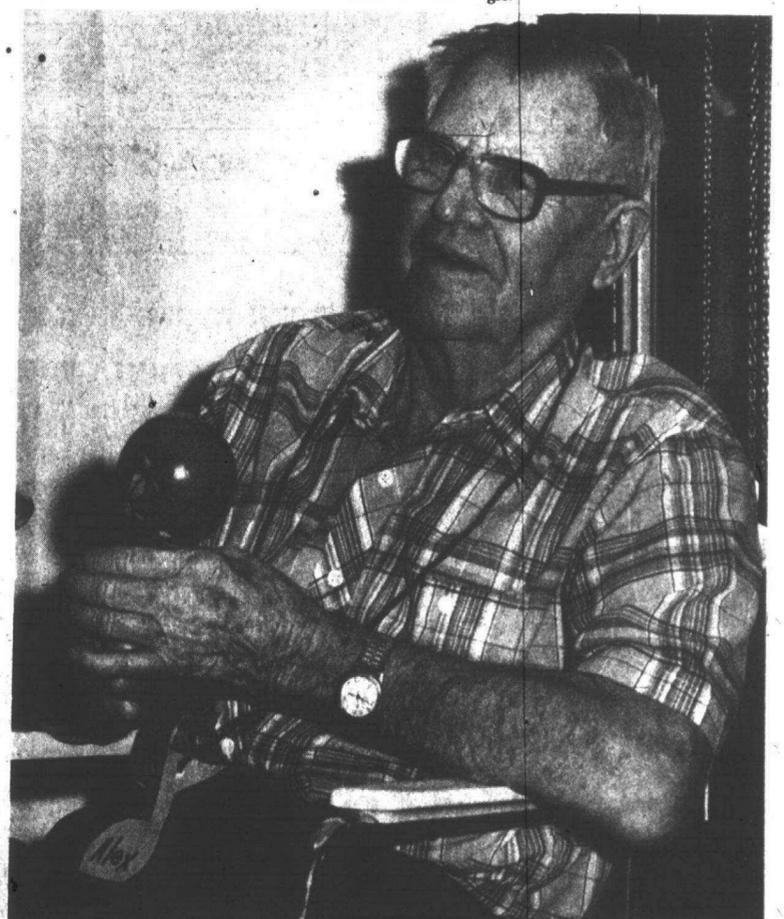

If she had to leave her younger students alone, they might well disappear. But this doesn't happen with the older students. It's too much fun recalling "When You and I Were Young, Maggie."

Caroline Ling beats time to the music.

Alex Papke joins the others in a well-remembered tune.

Do you want the community to know more about your organization and its activities?

Then you would like to learn more about how to prepare a news release, get a picture in the paper, or have an item printed in Brevities or Clubs in Action.

And you'll want to learn more about the deadlines for the Monday and Thursday editions of the Plymouth and Canton Observers.

These and other information and tips will be given during the Observer's seventh annual public relations seminar, designed for publicity representatives of non-profit community groups.

The seminar for organizations in the Plymouth-Canton community will begin at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 24, in The Loft of the Roundtable Club, Mayflower Hotel, Ann Arbor Trail just west of Main Street, Plymouth.

Plymouth editor Emory Daniels and Canton editor Caroline Price will be present along with Suburban Life editor Elinor Graham and Gary Caskey, staff photographer.

The program will last for about two hours, with a break for refreshments scheduled about midway. Publicity booklets and forms for submitting announcements to the Observer will be distributed. The seminar is free.

Those interested in attending should call Bridget Lucas in the local Observer news office at 459-2700 on weekdays. The seminar will be limited to the first 50 persons who sign up and so registration will be on a first-come basis.

Sweet-McCully

Leah Marie McCully and Larry Wood Sweet were married Sept. 15 in a garden wedding at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William McCully of North territorial Road, Plymouth. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Lemuel Sweet of Livonia.

The bride wore an off the shoulder tiered gown trimmed with Chantilly lace. It had a short train and her fingertip veil was lace-trimmed. She carried an ivory fan decorated with silk flowers in shades of peach and ivory. Matron of honor Becky Kor wore a tiered off the shoulder gown and carried a fan-shaped bouquet. The bride's niece, Jennifer Christensen, was flower girl. She wore a print gown in shades of peach and carried a nosegay.

Howard Sweet, the groom's brother, was best man. Justin Christensen, the bride's nephew, was ringbearer. The men wore brown and ivory to complement the color scheme.

A garden reception followed the wedding and the couple honeymooned at the Hilton Head. They will live in Ypsilanti.

The bride earned her bachelor of science nursing degree at Eastern Michigan University. She is employed by St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Ann Arbor. Her husband is an EMU graduate and is employed by Ford Motor Company.

The state is aflame in a blaze of color

By IRIS SANDERSON JONES

IRONWOOD, Mich. — Color was in its full autumnal glory in the Upper Peninsula this weekend, although the strong green present in the woods along Highway Two indicates that travelers may be able to enjoy this world of flaming trees for another two or three weeks.

The timing and the quality of this traditional Michigan festival of the trees is as hard to predict now as it was when the fur traders entered the country centuries ago.

I have been driving two days through the fall color with fellow writer Mary Augusta Rodgers of Birmingham. We left Detroit mid-afternoon on the first leg of our trip in a drizzling rain and arrived in Ironwood, at the far western end of the UP, at the end of our second day of travel.

Our color journey took us north on Interstate 75 to the Mackinac Bridge and west along Highway Two through 300 miles to the Wisconsin border on our way to Duluth, Minn.

COLOR DIARY: Day One

We drive out of the Detroit area in mist. The world is green with a light dusting of yellow leaves, a few fringes of red sumac and an occasional burst of orange and green maples.

North towards the Zilwaukee Bridge, the stubble is still on the cornfields, the roadside grasses are yellow, and bare white birch trunks poke through multicolored woods. By a roadside park, one brilliant yellow tree explodes against a stand of green.

Near Grayling, a brief detour down Highway 93 takes us to Hartwick State Park. We turn left at signs marked, appropriately, Bright Lake and Glory Lake. We follow a brilliant path past small orange maples to Glory Lake where we share a sandwich and a beer with ducks, bluejays and leaping fish in the autumn stillness of a Michigan sunset. Our destination for the night is St. Ignace.

Day Two

It is so quiet in St. Ignace that we must get up to look at the clock to know that morning is here. By 8 a.m., even under an overcast sky, the maple behind the motel swimming pool is purple against the Straits of Mackinac. Strangely, the grass is still green, the birches full-leaved, the petunias in full bloom.

Along Highway Two, we begin to hear complaints from people in the travel industry about what "the government and the press have done to tourism in the UP." Travel is a major industry and a main source of income here. The energy crisis, and public reaction to it, has reduced travel traffic substantially since last spring.

"THE PEOPLE IN Lansing told everybody in May that they should stay home on Memorial Day because there might not be enough gas to get home from faraway places and nobody has been up here since." That was A.M. Della-Moretta, manager of the Straits Breeze motel in St. Ignace. His feelings were echoed by a waitress in the Ramada Inn coffee shop along the road in Manistique.

"This summer we had four busy weeks. Usually we have three busy months," she said. "We had a lot of free bad publicity we didn't need. The Auto Club and the newspapers told everybody not to come up here because of the gas shortage but we had gas stations open 24 hours a day.

"It was all over by Memorial Day." Some parts of the UP were more seriously affected than others. Travel facilities on Highway Two, which are inclined to take their business for granted, and don't bother to advertise, may have felt the pinch more than others. Bob Helwig of the Upper Peninsula Travel and Recreation Association said that tourism was down by one-third early in the summer.

"By labor Day, we were about 18 percent below normal and it's getting better," he said. "We expect a good winter."

Why is business increasing even though the gas crisis remains.

"People adjust to anything after awhile, including the gas crisis," Helwig said. "Skiers and sportsmen are less likely to be deterred than families." The hunting season is already started and the ski season opens at Thanksgiving.

GAS STATIONS are open all over the UP, some 24-hours-a-day. Regular unleaded is selling for about $1.02 per gallon.

Going west on Highway Two, the roadside parks we didn't find in the Lower Peninsula are suddenly visible on every side. We drive down a hill into a rolling view of green and red and yellow treetops.

It is not full color yet here in the eastern end of the UP and there are enough evergreens along this stretch to keep green the predominant color.

Color seekers swap stories when they meet. Two families who circled Lake Superior report that the colors are yellow but that there is no red in sight along the Canadian highway.

"Everything is still yellow and green on the Wisconsin side of the Michigan border."

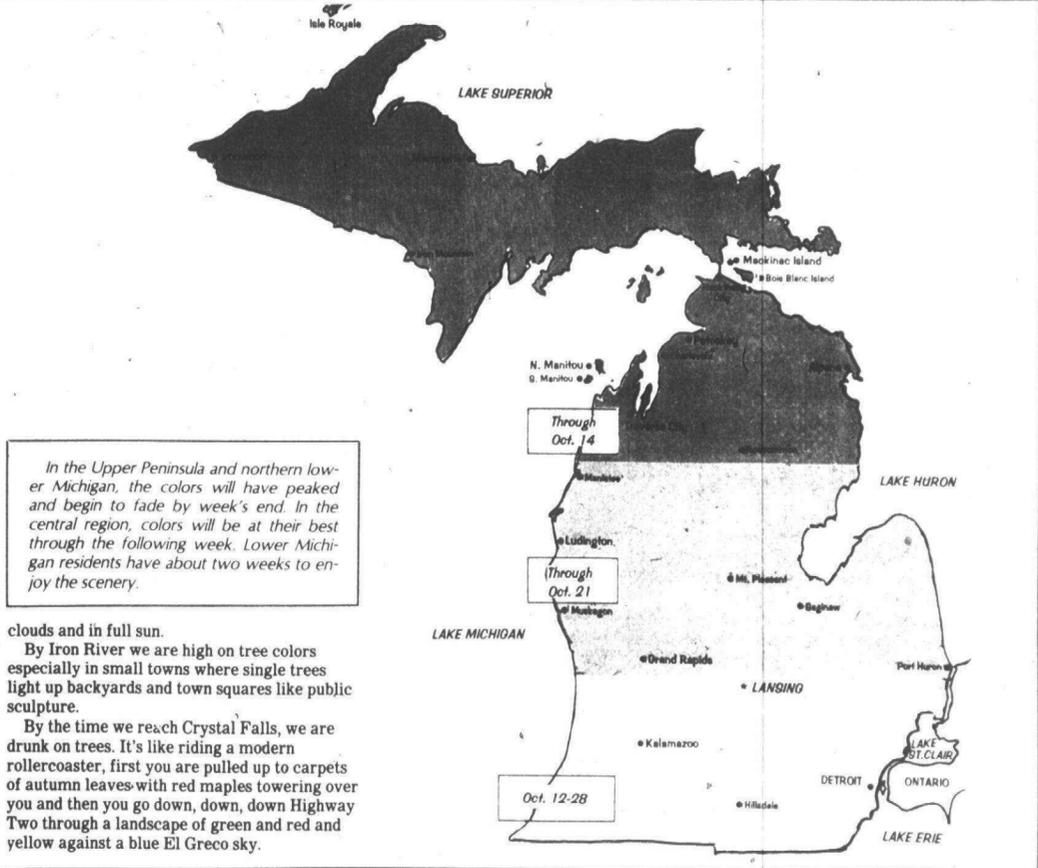

"Minnesota reports that color is at its peak."

"The trees west of Ironwood will be bare soon enough."

"Snow flurries are predicted in the UP."

BY NOW WE begin to understand the challenge of looking at something that we have always thought of in two words — autumn leaves — and seeing the many aspects of fall colors. We begin to see the landscape as a painter sees it. Not just in red yellow and green but in hundreds of shades in different circumstances.

The color view differs with the light under

In the Upper Peninsula and northern lower Michigan, the colors will have peaked and begin to fade by week's end. In the central region, colors will be at their best through the following week. Lower Michigan residents have about two weeks to enjoy the scenery.

clouds and in full sun. By Iron River we are high on tree colors especially in small towns where single trees light up backyards and town squares like public sculpture.

By the time we reach Crystal Falls, we are drunk on trees. It's like riding a modern rollercoaster, first you are pulled up to carpets of autumn leaves with red maples towering over you and then you go down, down, down Highway Two through a landscape of green and red and yellow against a blue El Greco sky.

TRAVEL LOG of Iris Jones

It's turkey day in Canada, minus parades and stuffing

Your calendar may say that today is Columbus Day, but for 22 million North Americans today is Thanksgiving. No, you didn't lose a month. Oct. 8 is Thanksgiving Day in Canada because Canada is further north than the United States and its harvest comes sooner.

As you travel around the world, you quickly discover that your traditional holidays are unknown in many parts of the planet and that people celebrate other national and religious events of which you never dreamed.

During the last week, we have all been aware that while Christians were celebrating the arrival of the pope, Jews were celebrating the ancient holy days of the Jewish New Year.

MANY YEARS AGO, in Singapore, I watched firecrackers light the sky during late January, that was the celebration of the Chinese New Year. In that multi-ethnic city, everybody celebrated Christian, Moslem and Hindu holidays.

The most colorful was Thaipusam, an Indian religious holiday during which the faithful mortified the flesh to exalt the soul. We watched parades of people move down the street with long silver spears piercing the skin of their backs and their ears and tongues.

At the time, we were young enough to think of it as primitive, but we know now that it is part of a very highly developed religious culture.

The same was true for us last fall in Nepal, when we learned that a man could go to jail for several years for killing a cow with his car. How can a person who eats beef relate to the sacred cow?

All of this has taught me that the world is a different place when you look at it from other people's viewpoint, and that we are much better off when we expand our horizons this way.

IT TAKES VERY LITTLE horizon-expansion to accommodate our thinking to Canadian Thanksgiving, but it's a start. To begin with, we must remove from that event the pilgrims and other strictly American Thanksgiving traditions. Thanksgiving is an ancient celebration held all around the world during harvest time.

Harvest time differs in parts of Canada as it does in different parts of the U.S., but generally speaking it is several weeks earlier so it is logical that Thanksgiving should be earlier. Canadians enjoy the holiday and the tradition, but it does not have as strong a national or family feeling there as Thanksgiving does in the United States. Nor is it the opening day of Christmas shopping. For that we can be thankful.

FROM THE MAILBAG — Writer-photographer Ken Lawrence wants to remind you that the World Adventure Series continues at the Detroit Institute of Arts even though George Pierrrot, Mr. Travel, has retired.

According to Lawrence, the phones have stopped ringing, giving the DIA the impression that people have retired this famous series from their thinking, too.

The "World Adventure Series" was first of its kind in the country, and it is still one of the finest travel experiences you will find on this continent. We are lucky to have it here.

The brochures are ready and the new season is scheduled to begin Oct. 28. Call for information, 832-7676. This year two Stan Midgely films will be shown after the regular series is over so that season ticket holders can buy an entirely new series of adventures and new "WAS" adventures can still see the humorous travel photographer at work.

LOUISE SNIDER

Religious spoof: It's in bad taste but oh, so good!

What is all the fuss about? "Monty Python's Life of Brian" (R) is certainly an irreverent movie. It occasionally is hilarious, sometimes dull, and always in bad taste. But, somehow, I think both Christianity and Judaism will survive.

Python's Judea of 33 A.D. is a land of quarreling revolutionaries, where each terrorist group begets a splinter group until some people are so confused they can't recall which organization they belong to. The Judean People's Front? The Popular Front for Judea? The Judean Popular People's Front?

Nor can everyone recall why it is he wants to drive out the Romans. When the speaker at a meeting asks rhetorically, "What have the Romans ever given us?" a voice from the audience says, "aqueducts." Another says "education," and someone else says, "roads." Soon, much to the chagrin of their leader, the enthusiastic crowd itemizes Roman contributions to their daily life.

The film is a spoof. If any people are held up to the light of ridicule, it is authority figures — whether religious, political, or military — and the people who blindly accept them.

THE COMEDY GROUP'S parodies range from 1930s Hollywood musicals to grammar lessons to soapbox orators to market place haggling. However, religion and revolutionaries bear the brunt of their attention, with the funniest scenes going to religion and the reluctant messiah, Brian Cohen.

We guess from the beginning that Brian is a loser. The evidence is in early, when three Magi bring gifts to the infant Brian, then hastily take them back and leave when they discover they are in the wrong manger.

Thirty-three years later, Brian is a nervous wreck from the crowds which follow him everywhere. People have become devoted to him since misinterpreting some mutterings he made while pursued by Roman soldiers.

Eluding his followers, he loses a shoe and leaves behind a gourd. Both items are seen as signs. Thus his admirers divide into two zealous groups, those who follow the gourd and those who gather shoes.

The ending easily is anticipated, though one never knows to what vulgar lengths the group will go. It is just one more antic in the crazy quilt mode that is familiar to those who have acquired a taste for Monte Python's guerrilla comedy. For those who haven't, come prepared to be offended, and you won't be disappointed.

Starring roles

Two movies from Twentieth Century-Fox are coming this month to metropolitan Detroit theaters — "Avalanche Express," an adventure-suspense drama opening Friday, Oct. 19, and "Luna," a contemporary drama opening Friday, Oct. 26. (Above) Linda Evans stars as Elsa Lang, an American agent on a dangerous assignment in "Avalanche Express." Also heading the cast are Lee Marvin and Robert Shaw. (Below) Jill Clayburgh stars as an American opera singer returning to Italy accompanied by her adolescent son in "Luna," a film by Bernardo Bertolucci.

Glimpses

NEW RELEASES

THE AMITYVILLE HORROR (R). James Brolin and Margot Kidder look for a "dream house" and find a nightmare.

THE APPLE DUMPLING GANG RIDES AGAIN (PG). Tim Conway and Don Knotts return as the bumbling outlaws in this light feature from Disney.

AMERICATHON (PG). Wild, but maybe not too wild, tale of giant telethon to erase the national debt as U.S. goes broke in 1998.

BEYOND THE POSEIDON ADVENTURE (PG). Sequel about the upended ship with adventurers after the "spoils," while more passengers are found wandering about. Can you believe it?

BREAKING AWAY (PG). Bicycle racing occupies four high school pals from Indiana who discover the graduate world in funny, touching story.

THE CONCORDE — AIRPORT '79 (PG). Latest entry in "Airport" series is the silliest yet. All-star cast can't save this.

THE DEER HUNTER (R). An emotionally gripping and violent film about the lives of three friends from a small steeltown as they are affected by the Vietnam war.

DRACULA (R). A scary and very sensual remake of "Dracula" with Frank Langella in the title role he played on Broadway.

ESCAPE FROM ALCATRAZ (PG). Clint Eastwood and director Don Siegel team up again to create a tense, taut drama from the conventions of the prison escape film.

THE FRISCO KID (PG). Comic adventures of a rabbi (Gene Wilder) and a robber (Harrison Ford) as they cross the West to San Francisco in 1850.

GOLDENGIRL (PG). Susan Anton is a programmed track star after Olympic gold in film that tries too hard, looks too silly and finishes last.

HOT STUFF (PG). Dom DeLuise directed and stars in slick comedy about undercover police fencing operation.

THE IN — LAWS (PG). Hilarious comedy with Peter Falk and Alan Arkin as near-relatives who not only plan a wedding but ripoff the U. S. Mint.

JUST YOU AND ME, KID (PG). A comedy nimbly tailored for George Burns, with Brooke Shields standing by as half of this young-old duo of delinquents.

LOST AND FOUND (PG). George Segal and Glenda Jackson are paired again in romantic comedy about a "fractured" couple who meet in the Swiss Alps and decide to yodel on through life together.

THE MAIN EVENT (PG). Barbra Streisand is a perfume manufacturer who manages a retired boxer, Ryan O'Neal, in comedy about the fight game.

A MAN, A WOMAN AND A BANK (PG). Capier movie doesn't cut much of a caper as engineer and computer expert team up to rob a bank.

MANNHATTAN (R). The inhabitants are somewhat frayed, but the Big Apple looks glorious in Woody Allen's witty peek at the pairings and partings among New York literati.

MEATBALLS (PG). Lively comedy with Bill Murray (of "Saturday Night Live") as head counselor at a summer camp in an "Animal House" for the junior teen set.

MONTE PYTHON'S LIFE OF BRIAN (R). Totally irreverent, completely zany story tracing the life of Brian Cohen, a peasant born at the same time as Christ.

Integrated styling

Chevrolet's 1980 Corvette has integrated its front air dam and rear spoiler into bumper covers. A 250-pound weight loss puts the car in the EPA's 3,625-pound classification. Significant reductions in front-end weight were achieved by use of a new fiberglass face bar and two fiberglass corner braces. An energy-saving torque converter clutch assembly is used with automatic transmissions.

Toll-free phone number encourages ride sharing

Sharing a ride from coast to coast and from points in between has become as simple as dialing a toll-free telephone number.

And pooling is a great way to conserve the nation's fuel, says the Automotive Information Council (AIC).

With that phone call, a person who wants a ride or a rider tells the operator the point of origin and destination and desired dates, and in a few seconds, the computer provides the names and phone numbers of those planning the same trip, or portions thereof.

THE CHARGE FOR membership in this service, operated by the National Car Pool Association, is $25 for six months, $450 for a year or $125 for a lifetime wanderer. Non-members can use the service for a one-time fee of $15.

Each passenger and the driver agree to share expenses.

The association set up 100,000 referrals last year, and it brags that it never has had a crime. It also says its service has saved about 1.5 million gallons of gasoline since it was started seven years ago.

THE APPLICATION form asks such questions as tobacco use, lifestyle leanings and other questions — for which answers are optional — in an attempt to match up those who might be most compatible on a long trip.

It also suggests that the parties who may share the ride get together before the trip to discuss groundrules and to share proper identification.

Whereas the share-a-ride concept first appealed to servicemen, students and the retired, the spectrum of interested persons has broadened to include everyone, says Ray Orsini of National Car Pool.

The organization also has set up a pooling effort for sharing rides on private airplanes and even yachts.

Membership forms can be obtained by calling 800-547-0933 or writing to Box, 40303, Portland, Ore. 97240.
