Missing radium found

A radium tube used for the treat- or handled too closely, according to ment of cancer patients at Detroit's Sinai Hospital was recovered at Woodland Meadows Landfill in Canton Township Tuesday afternoon following an intensive week-long search for the tiny, radioactive capsule.

Is dump site safe for PCB soil?

An environmental attorney for the firm which owns Woodland Meadows Landfill maintains that the disposal site meets federal standards for the dumping of PCB.

Canton officials verified last week that 55-gallon drums containing PCBcontaminated soil were dumped at the landfill in 1975 before federal regulations governing disposal of the chemical were established.

Supervisor Noel Culbert said he has asked Detroit Edison Co. to finance removal of the soil to a landfill licensed for PCB. The soil was contaminated in 1975 as the result of an electric transformer leak on Detroit Edison property

Ms. Dillick said an intensive search by hospital and health department personnel followed the discovery that the tube was missing from the sealed container in which it is normally kept.

The tube was found at Woodland Meadows about 5:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Ms. Dillick refused to release the name or position of the employee who dumped the capsule in the trash. She said disciplinary action has not been taken against any hospital employee at

"For the past week, everyone has been putting forth all their effort to locate it," Ms. Dillick said. "At this point, we're compiling a report for the Michigan Health Department."

Canton Supervisor Noel Culbert said representatives of Woodland Meadows informed him last Friday that the tube could have been dumped at the disposal

But Culbert said he did not feel it was necessary to warn residents of the dangers of the tube.

"Why should you alarm residents when they have no right to be in a damn landfill looking for a radioactive tube? It's not as though it was floating around on the streets. The press relation's work was done by Sinai Hospi-

According to Township Supervisor Noel Culbert, the township agreed to go out to the mobile home park and check on the tenants' allegations after a meeting earlier this week between officials and tenants.

In response to charges that the township was doing nothing to solve their problems, mobile home park association representatives met with a variety of officials Tuesday in a meeting called by Culbert.

The meeting was sparked by complaints of residents in mobile home parks owned by Sheldon Futurnick, including the Holiday Estates and Royal

Two weeks ago Mrs. Rodriguez returned from a three-week trip to Columbia with two more additions to their family.

Although Raymond is of Spanish descent, neither he nor Mrs. Rodriguez can speak Spanish. And even though the children could speak no English when they arrived, the language barrier has not dampened the couple's willingness to open their home and hearts.

Schools' bond election waits

The school board's timetable had called for a decision to be made on the size of a bond issue by the end of this month, with the proposal going before voters in February.

Monday night, at a workshop study session, the school board decided to delay the election until March or April to get a better idea on the opinions of residents towards the options available to accommodate student growth.

ONE MEANS of seeking community opinion will be a survey mailed to some, 22,000 homes in Plymouth-Canton along with the district's regular newsletter.

The survey will be a two-page instrument with background information on Residents will be encouraged to bring their questionnaires to the forum and turn them in that night. Provisions also will be made for persons to mail in the questionnaire if they don't plan to attend the public forum.

The survey likely will reach residents during the first week of November. Although the board is anxious to obtain community opinion, some decisions might have to be made before the survey is returned and tabulated.

A pressing decision before the school board now is whether to rent an existing middle school from Livonia Public Schools. Livonia has asked for a definite decision by the end of this month, and so the school board must decide

Swede takes in P-C

Dberg was ready for a vacation - except that he was already on a vacation of sorts.

Oberg, visiting relatives in Plymouth Township recently, had a whirlwind of activities planned in the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools by the time he got off the plane from Sweden.

His mission — to observe what the local school district offered American school children of every age with a final stop at Schoolcraft College.

Oberg, cousin of Ann Nickoloff of Plymouth Township, is a headmaster in a Swedish school district of some 5,500 students. His studies of foreign schools have taken him to Russia and plans are in the works to visit schools in Great Britian as well.

By Friday Oberg appeared fatigued. He had observed numerous programs, met with teachers and administrators, and even took in a Monday night school board meeting.

But when he spoke of his most recent expedition, his eyes gleamed brightly while describing the children at Miller Elementary School in Canton. He said they were "calm and nice" and appeared to easily take care of themselves.

He said he also was impressed with mixed classrooms at the grade school where students of different grades are taught subjects together.

'In Sweden it's not so open," he said. "You must have a special group of teachers to be so interested."

these topics:

· School funding: In Sweden school a job before returning to school earns

By the end of the week, Lars-Olaf funding is derived from personal income tax rather than property tax. Oberg said Americans are not alone in complaining about inflation and high taxes. In Sweden, however, the average family has one or two children. According to national priorities, education falls second to the national health plan and senior citizen care.

> · Distribution of school funding: Oberge said while the government has "central control" of fund distribution, it's the local community that tells it what it needs based on administration and teacher input. "It's very democrat-

> Support is divided into two areas what the central government provides and what the local community provides. The central government distributes funds according to the district's student count and the number of classes offered. The local community pitches in for non-educational needs such as buses and school lunches.

· Class sizes: About 25 in the lower grades and 30 in the upper grades.

· School structure: Kindergarten begins at six-years and is mandatory. There is nine years of mandatory education after that for students ages 7 to 16. The program is divided into three stages. About 90 percent of these students attend the gymnasium for two or three years before moving on to a uni-

· Student discipline: Oberg said it appeared student discipline in Plymouth Canton Schools was "very good" despite knowledge of a student ruckus that broke out at the high schools last week. In Sweden, he said, problems with student discipline become evident in mid-teens years. In such cases, problem students are brought into a school work program . "We give the student a choice of what he wants to do with his own life. We give him the option of leaving. But we first look for a solution around the school."

· School sports: There are no competitive team sports in the schools but instead athletics is limited to recreational programs. Sports clubs accommodate students with athletic interests.

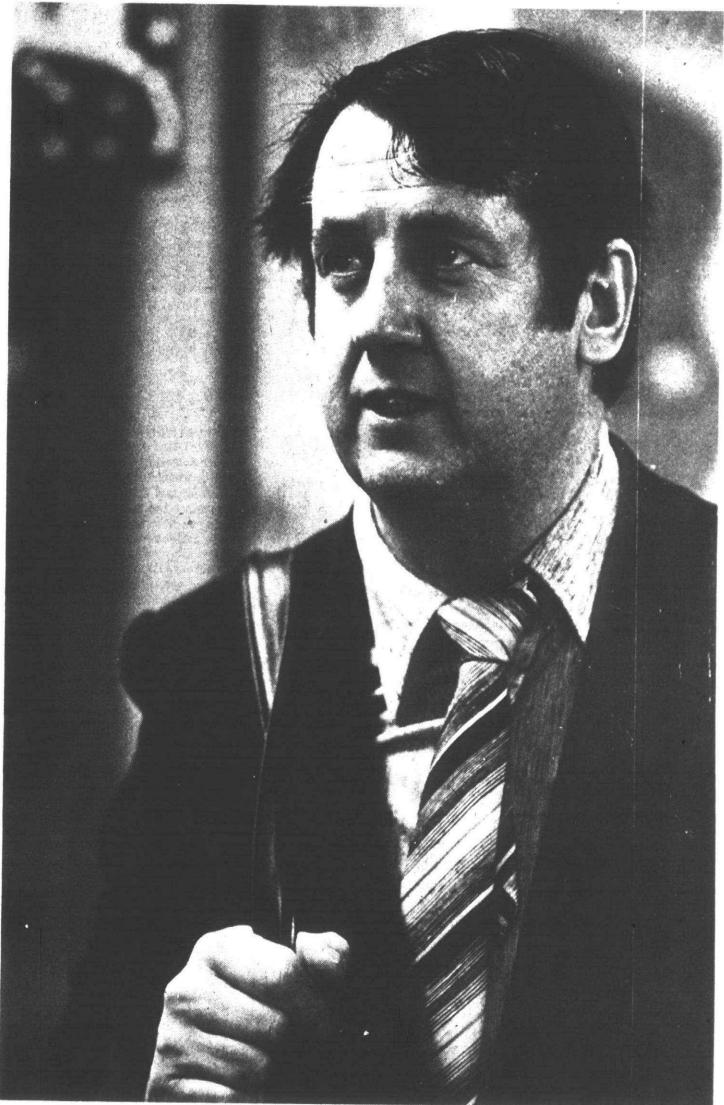

· Teacher salaries: Oberg said one's salary dependent on "what sort of teahcer you are." Top salary is reached after 10-15 years with the district. Hiring policies are based on one's experience and school marks.

NOT SUPRISINGLY, Oberg said the Russian school system is tightly controlled by the central government.

About his impression of the Plymouth-Canton school system, Oberg said his first thought was: "They have no real meal in the cafeteria. In Sweden, lunches are free. You must learn to eat a real meal."

"In Sweden it's not so open," says Lars-Olaf Oberg, "You must have a special group of teachers to be so interested."

Should PCB stay? Debate goes on

MICHAEL ANDREWS of the Wayne County Health Department and Richard Powers of the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR) back up Diver's statements by saying that Woodland Meadows would probably be approved for PCB dumping.

"So they say," said Supervisor Culbert in response. "I think in fairness the soil should be moved to a certified landfill. There's no sense gambling with this.'

According to Andrews, PCB (poly-

Christopher and Michael, who attend Plymouth Canton High School, received only three years of formal education. Don had very little education, and the other children received none.

"BUT THEY'RE now doing very well," Mrs. Rodriguez said, adding that the four older children have all reached the approximate grade levels that correlate with their ages.

"The older ones have a little accent, but other than that, you'd never know they were Columbian," she said.

According to Mrs. Rodriguez the children have adjusted suprisingly well to their adopted country and parents. Despite the problems in their early lives, all six children are in good health. "They're just so grateful for anything. They just can't stand to see kids throw away food, and all six will eat anything you put in front of them," she said."I always thought that picky eaters would bother me." The children's father works fulltime for General Motors and part-time

According to Culbert, township attorneys are now researching "the legal alternatives" to the PCB issue if Detroit Edison refuses to pay the removal

He said the township may file a lawsuit against the utility company if the removal demands are not met.

TOWNSHIP RESIDENT George Miller obtained documentation of the 1975 dumping incident while researching activity at Woodland Meadows. Miller said he was suspicious of the types of wastes buried at the landfill.

Culbert said following the meeting that he thought the gathering was "pretty productive."

Culbert said Canton can issue violations under two different state acts as well as a township ordinance.

The earliest act, Public Act 230, has a township ordinance backing it up. The act says the mobile home has to be installed according to the manufacturer's specifications.

The earlier act put most of the responsibility on the person who took out a permit on the home rather than the seller. Public Act 419, which took effect Oct. 1, says the seller is responsible for proper installation. The act also states that complaints to the prosecutor's office have to come from the Michigan Mobile Home Commission.

Culbert said he expects the township board to pass an ordinance enforcing act 419 (which means fines would go to Canton rather than the state) at a special meeting called for 7 p.m. Oct. 30 at township hall. The meeting is being held primarily to discuss the complaints of Canton mobile home owners.

The supervisor said he also has been requested to meet with Futurnick this Friday

Gunshot injures hunter

Michigan State police are investigating an incident in Salem Township last Saturday in which a Plymouth hunter was shot at while trespassing on private property.

Gregory Kilby, 31, was treated and released from St. Jospeh Hospital that night after he was shot in the head by Malcom Laughbaum, 68, the owner of a 13-acre site at 6845 Napier Road, po-

According to State Police Trooper Sandra Miller, Kilby and Philip Maly, 26, also of Plymouth, were hunting for squirrels and ducks on Laughbaum's property about 7 p.m. when they heard shots fired in their direction.

About 45 minutes later, they approached Laughbaum's home and 'some verbal threats" were made in relation to the gun shots.

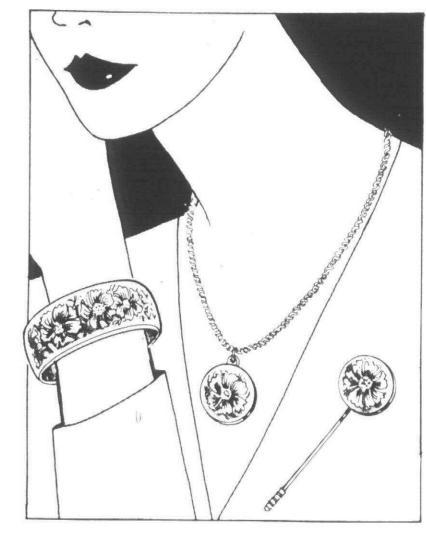

According to Laughbaum's attorney, Jack Garris, Laughbaum fired the shots in the air to scare off ducks that gathered in a nearby pond when he heard the hunters' firing. Garris said trespassers often hunted on Laughbaum's property although it is posted in several spots.

Miller says as the two men approached Laughbaum's home, Kilby kicked the door in with his left leg, lost ers "threatened to get him." his balance and fell to the floor. As Kilentered his skull at the base, exiting man was shooing at us."

Temptation hides in those sweet treats

By NANCY AUSTIN

There you sit. It's Halloween night, and temptation surrounds you.

You look around the room and the bowl that held the candy treats has a few leftovers. The children have sorted through the treats they received from the two hours of running house to house trick or treating.

The room is quiet now. The children are tucked in bed and you can't take your eyes off the Milky Way bar and the candy corns - two of your favor-

"Devil get thee behind me," you say in an audible whisper. You know you don't really want to eat the sweets, but on the other hand you know how good they will taste. No, I won't. Well, maybe. Oh, I'll feel so guilty. Well maybe just this one.

On and on you talk to yourself. Ambivalence is the name of the game. Why, you ask yourself, are you so wishy-washy? Your head tells you one thing. Your sweet tooth tells you something else. Should you are shouldn't you? Only you will know for sure.

WITH TRICK or treating over for another year, all that remains is the temptation. But you can do some things to minimize that temptation.

You can begin by making sure that the treats you hand out to children are not sweet treats. For example, children love to hear the clink of pennies into their treat bag. Or perhaps with inflation running rampant this year, you may elect to choose nickels or even dimes.

The advantage for you is that you don't have to ponder over the candy selection in the grocery store, and if you have some left over at the end of Halloween night it won't eventually turn stale. Nothing wrong with leftover

Or perhaps apples or oranges would be a good alternative. Sometimes children complain about receiving apples, but if they are good, crisp, shiny red ones, the appeal is heightened and the children's mothers will be happy to see

SMALL BOXES of raisins or small packages of peanuts are healty snacks, too. While the calorie content of each is high, they are loaded with iron and protein, respectively.

If you are interested in doing something different, then you may want to try a couple of suggestions for a cookbook entitled, "This Can't Be Healthy Published by Concern, Inc., Detroit, the book has recipes designed to take the "junk" out of snack foods.

For example, the book contains a recipe for banana chips, and one for dried apple chips. A recipe for granola, which can also be used for a cookie base sounds delicious

LaRiche took over, stayed

By Sam Hudson

Unlike Ernie Allison, who as a boy was not sure what his vocation should be. Lou LaRiche always knew that he was destined to be an automobile deal-

Until he got his first dealership, he worked for his father or one of his brothers, all of whom were in the business of selling cars.

Long before he got his first franchise, LaRiche had done everything there was to do in a car agency: washing cars, scrubbing floors, working in parts and service, selling used cars, office work. His boys, he says, are now following in his footsteps.

BUT LARICHE DIDN'T want merely an automobile dealership - he wanted a Chevrolet dealership. He realized his ambition in 1970. That was the year he took over the Chevy franchise in Plymouth.

His first agency, however, came in 1964 when he became a Volkswagen dealer. It was a small operation in Findlay, Ohio. Now married and with five children, LaRiche knew he had to make the business grow.

He made money the first month. Eventually, he was able to expand, moving his showroom to a new shopping center that had been built in the outskirts of the city. His business associates told him no one would go that far out of town to buy a car. Today, most of the automobile dealers in Findlay are located in that area.

LaRiche built a new building in the center, which he still owns. It is occupied by the Volkswagen dealer who replaced him when he moved to Plym-LaRiche says the years he spent with Volkswagen were good ones for Volkswagen and for him. But his heart was set on becoming a dealer for Chevrolet. He had always been in contact with the firm's headquarters and they finally began to offer him some locations.

He turned down several places of-LaRiche's first showroom in Plymouth, at the nie Allison built in his early days as a Chevrolet corner of Main and Amelia, was in the building Er-fered to him because, like Ernie Allison in the 1920s, he was looking for a good growth area. Eventually, in 1970, Chevrolet offered LaRiche the Plymouth dealership. He came to town, liked the area, was convinced that it would grow.

"But I had no idea it would grow as fast as it has."

THE CHEVROLET franchise in Plymouth had gone from the Allisons to Don Hassinger. In a short time, Hassinger sold it to Jim Edelbrock, who soon sold it to LaRiche.

One of the obstacles LaRiche had to overcome during his first couple of years here was the short-term image which this rapid turnover of owners had created in the minds of potential

In their 46 years as Chevrolet dealers in Plymouth, Ernest J. and Frank Allison had built up a reputation for stability. That fact that Hassinger and Edelbrock each held the franchise a matter of months made car buyers wonder how long the next Chevy dealer would be around.

"In my first year in Plymouth, people come in and asked me how long I intended to remain in business here," says LaRiche. "I tried to make it clear that I was here to stay, but I knew there was skepticism. I knew I had to do something to convince buyers that I would remain here to service what I

His first step in that direction was to purchase property on which to expand the dealership. As he had in Findlay, he looked for some land in the outskirts of the city, but this time another dealer and preceded him - Leo Calhoun with his Ford agency.

A short time after he arrived, LaRiche bought property adjacent to Calhoun's Ford business. The land, which he purchased from Harold Fischer, is on Plymouth Road opposite the Burrough's plant. The property contained three houses and Fischer's greenhouse, all of which were razed.

"I immediately put up a sign announching that this was the future home of LaRiche Chevrolet. I think that gave me a vote of confidence not only from potential buyers but from my employees. I guess they decided that if I intended to expand I intended to stay.

THE NEW BUILDING was completed in August 1971.

After he moved in, LaRiche said he and his people made an extra effort to get people "to come back." The effort succeeded. Today, eight years after he arrived in Plymouth, LaRiche is one of the leading Chevrolet dealers on the west side of Detroit.

It was not all smooth sailing. LaRiche's worst year, like that of Allison, was caused by a strike. This one, at General Motors' plants in 1970, lasted

"I almost lost everything," LaRiche recalls. "We had no new cars to sell. All we could do was to buy and sell used cars and do service work. We cut down to a skeleton crew, and I did almost every job there was to do in the place."

But after the strike, his business began to prosper. During his first year here, Chevrolet set his "planned potenttal" at 500 cars. By 1978, it had risen

"I actually sold double that number that year," he says. "My planned potential for 1979 is 2,300."

Like Ernie Allison, Lou LaRiche's father, was a Kiwanian. But Lou is a Rotarian and has been a member of the Plymouth club since 1972.

"I always work at the Rotary chicken barbecue in September, but I never eat chicken."

He hasn't relished chicken since the days he worked for a retail poultry firm when he was of high school age. (To be continued)

Adorning the rock

Tulips were planted last week in front of the "piece of the rock" between city hall and the library by some people who made a 1970 trip to Plymouth, England, to celebrate the 350th anniversary of the sailing of the Mayflower.

With some help and advice from Mayor Mary Childs and Pat Scott, the residents purchased and planted the tulips on Monday. Among those involved were Bruce and Doris Richard, Mable Lorenz, Peter Guenther and Scott Lorenz. Salesman finds a new approach to icy walkways

By W.W. EDGAR

When Robert Radoye was a young fellow marching each afternoon on the plains at West Point as a cadet at the Military Academy, he was taught the lesson that later helped him launch a

He is selling what he calls the Romar Ice Melter, and for the moment he is working out of his home at 41567 Greenbriar in Plymouth.

Back as a cadet on the plains, he was taught that no matter what the odds, you never give up. Try, try again.

He smiles about it now as he tells how his new product is better than rock salt. He says it is 10 times as strong and won't damage grass or ruin carpets that it just melts ice.

Manufactured by the Dow Chemical Company, the new product, calcium chloride, produces results in temperatures 30 degrees below zero, whereas ordinary rock salt is ineffective when the temperature falls below 15 de-

FOR SOME YEARS after leaving West Point, Radoye worked for the American Hospital Association in Michigan. In 1970 he decided to step out with his own business. He went into the market with all sorts of medical equipment for hospitals and nursing homes.

For a time he did well. Then came 1973 and for some reason he lost his company and all that went with it.

It was then that the lessons learned on the plains spurred him on. Refusing to give up, he weathered the storm by returning to the role of a manufacturer's representative.

He picked up where he left off and again dealt in medical supplies for hospitals and nursing homes. He now represents 90 different companies and can supply any product needed in a nursing

It was while making the rounds of nursing homes and hospitals that he continually heard of the need for ice removal. This was the tip-off that here was a new market.

Delving into the subject, he learned that in the past half dozen years calcium chloride came into its own as an ice melter and was being manafactured by the Dow Chemical Company.

REALIZING THAT THIS was a saleable product in that it differed from rock salt, that is sodium chloride, he sought out the newer product and immediately met with success.

In fact, he is now making plans to open a store at Six Mile and Middlebelt in Livonia.

Now the father of four children, he has become a firm believer in the old saying, "If at first you don't succeed, try, try again."

His new business will be known as the Romar Enterprises and, he hastens to add, the ice-melting product is unconditionally guaranteed.

The old Army lessons come in handy.

Another payless pay day?

County deficit hits employees

By TOM LONERGAN

Payroll checks for Wayne County sheriff's department and hospital employees were late last week, and other county employees may not even be paid this Friday.

That's the predicament of financially troubled Wayne county as the long-predicted "cash shortfall" in the county's general fund hits home.

County government may run out of money by the end of next week, with six weeks remaining in its 1978-79 budget year. That budget is expected to be at least $18.2 million in the red by County officials are meeting today to determine if there will be enough money to pay some 2,500 county employees later this week. As of last Friday, county officials didn't know if they could meet a $2.3 million payroll for employees paid from the general fund.

FRIDAY the county held up checks for some 2,000 employees, including those at Wayne County General Hospital in Westland. Checks are normally corporation counsel, was miffed at issued by 11 a.m., but were witheld until mid-afternoon as county officials responded to Chief Circuit Court Judge Richard Dunn's order to provide $1,573,000 for the county's four court

Dunn was told only $333,000 - onefifth of what was needed - was available for the courts, which like most county services could come to a halt before the end of the month.

County officials said Friday the amount was "the only cash available" in unrestricted funds.

The county has impounded the $333,000, meaning it can't be spent for any purpose but court operations. That action kept Treasurer Raymond Wojtowicz from being held in contempt of court.

But before the county grants the courts any extra money, the matter could end up before the state Supreme Court, which has ordered the county to keep its courts open.

GEORGE CROSS of Livonia, county

Dunn's order issued Thursday and cosigned, as required, by Supreme Court Administrator Einar Bohlin. Bohlin's office oversees court operations throughout the state.

Cross said the county will file a complaint with the state Supreme Court because it was not notified in advance of Dunn's order and had no time to respond

Cross said Bohlin violated state court rules in approving the order. In a letter to Bohlin. Cross said he considers the order "null and void." Cross' letter was read and released to the press before it was delivered to Bohlin.

Judge Dunn said circuit court, which has 450 employees, "will continue functioning as is.'

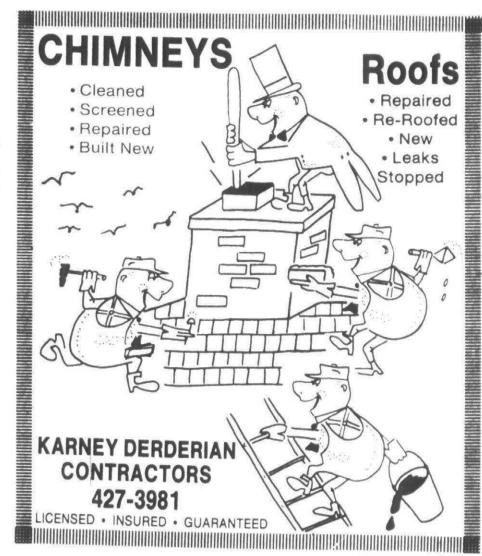

Board of Commissioners Chairman Richard Manning, D-Redford, has been critical of Dunn for failing to cut court costs. Considering the county's financial plight, it's unnecessary for each of the 35 circuit court judges to require a secretary and a court reporter, Manning said last week. Manning said that the judges should pool services.

BUT DUNN SAID the court has reduced employees during the last five years by 20 percent. "I cannot possibly reduce services to any lower level."

Should the county fail to meet its payroll this week, it faces fines and penalties that could exceed $1,000 per employee, under Michigan labor laws. Since it hasn't laid off the employees who may not get paid, it hasn't given them the chance to file for unemployment compensation.

There is revenue trickling into the county coffers from such sources as licenses, fees and state reimbursement for the county's providing indigent health care. But county officials say they don't know in advance if the weekly revenues are sufficient to meet the payroll.

This is the third straight year the county has operated at a deficit. Unlike previous years, the state has refused to allow the county to borrow against next year's tax revenues to cover the

These sportsmen hunt ways to help Indians

By TIM RICHARD

You hear a lot about the bad blood between sportsmen and Chippewa Indians over commercial fishing in the upper

But a couple of affiliates of the Michigan United Conservation Clubs (MUCC) are helping an Indian school and mission in the north woods.

"There are sportsmen who care about the Indians," said Hank Chruscial of the Western Wayne County Conservation

He and associates in the Wolverine Four-Wheelers, a family camping group, are gearing up for Thanksgiving drives.

SPECIFICALLY, THEY are looking for donations of:

· New toys · Children's undergarments, particularly for girls aged 6-

· Toilet articles, combs, toothpaste, brushes

· Canned food

Chruscial uses his home at 19345 Brentwood, Livonia, as the collecting point. Things are sorted and boxed for delivery. Deadline is Tuesday, Nov. 20, two days prior to Thanksgiving.

Much will go to the Holy Childhood Indian Mission School at Harbor Springs. Other places served are St. Catherine's Mission, L'Anse, and the Woodland Indians group near

At the L'Anse mission, Rev. Elmer Stoeffel, the priest in charge, has had to slow his work pace after suffering a heart attack last summer, Chruscial reported.

THE TWO OUTDOORS clubs will make one delivery when they travel to Petoskey later this month to atttend a directors meeting of the MUCC. The irony is that MUCC is the group doing the most steaming about alleged overfishing and gillnetting of lake trout by Chippewas in northern Lake Michigan.

editorial opinion

There's a lesson to be learned from landfill

PCB

The initials for polychlorinated biphenyl are now familiar to many people who envision death and deformity as the result of contact with the chemical.

Five years ago, the general reaction would more closely have been, "PCB? What's that?"

That's why the knowledge that PCB-contaminated soil was being buried in drums in a Canton landfill would not have aroused much comment in 1975, when the event occurred.

Then, no one knew of the potential danger of the chemical. Research has since revealed that PCB may cause liver, nervous system and reproductive system disorders in humans and is a known carcinogen in animals.

Suddenly, the information that PCB is buried in Canton has become important indeed.

But what's to be done about it?

Some officials have advocated digging up the barrels and having them moved to a landfill licenced to dispose of the chemical. There are only eight of these sites in the country.

Others say it would be far more hazardous to attempt to move the barrels than to simply let them remain where they are.

THE LATTER solution is probably the better one. From most accounts, the drums are unlikely to corrode, water is unlikely to leak into the high clay content of the landfill, and the PCB probably will remain where it was put, causing problems for no one.

If the drums are tampered with, the chances of mishap become far greater. It's the old "let sleeping dogs lie."

We can learn a lesson from this discovery. What may appear to be harmless to human health today could prove to have terrible side effects tomorrow.

It was wise of township officials not to allow the Bi-Products Systems Co. to begin composting sludge without a full account of the possible dangers of chemicals in the sludge.

Bi-Products never could come up with definitive answers, since the potential hazards of such heavy metals as cadmium contained in sludge are still largely unknown.

There's no need to automatically turn thumbs down at any project that carries some possible risks. But there is a need to examine those risks to know what is being gotten into.

We can't blame anyone for the fact that PCB was buried in Canton. At the time, it was legal to put the chemical there without special licensing. It was not the frightening chemical it is considered today.

Rather than attempt to erase the moves made five years ago (and there has been no proof that any danger has resulted from the buried PCB) it is better to prevent future mistakes by not acting without having all the facts.

Thoughts while hearing the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra's first concert without Wayne Dunlap at the helm as musical director:

Not only has Dunlap retired, but the orchestra is going through some internal changes.

Emily Mutter Austin, regular concertmaster, performed in Sunday's opening concert, but it's the last we'll see of her for awhile. Another one of those schedule conflicts for this professional musician will rob Plymouth of her warm performances.

Nathalie Dale is scheduled to step up to concertmaster from the second chair in the first violin section.

The orchestra has lost its superb first chair cellist, who is now Mrs. Sarah Roth Cleveland, an Ann Arbor resident and member of the Toledo Symphony Orchestra. Losing her was bad news for us cello freaks.

THE GOOD NEWS is that there is a superb replacement, Douglas McNames (pronounced "mc names").

He got his baptism of fire as a soloist in Franz Liszt's "Mephisto Waltz." I listened carefully for flaws in his high notes, and there were none. His tone is big and robust. He is not only a fine performer, but he appears to have the leadership qualities you need in a principal cellist.

"I'm very happy I moved here," said the former Chicagoan. "I was hesitant at first. But this is a much nicer crowd of people," he said, referring both to his new city of residence, Ann Arbor, and the Plymouth Symphony gang.

"I've played with several area orchestras. People here really like to play. I'm not teaching much, but I would like to teach more. I have one student in

McNames came to this area specifically to play in the Quartet Vuillaume with three other PSO members — violist Margaret Lang and violinists Magdalen Heilbronn and Jill Rowley.

"I'm basically in chamber," he said, "with some solo recital work in Boston, Chicago and Denver. I have my bachelor's degree in performance from Roosevelt University and have played with the Arcturus Quartet and the Quartete Riga in Chicago."

AMONG COMMUITY orchestras generally, any weak spot will usually be in the string section. PSO's string section Sunday was far better than average for a season opener.

Before each concert, PSO typically has several full orchestra rehearsals and a separate rehearsal for strings. McNames was enthusiastic about the first sectional rehearsal. He should be.

One sign the orchestra is in good shape is the hefty bank of violas. The altos of string instruments, violas are hard to come by. Plymouth has nine.

Jan. 27 in William Walton's Concerto for Viola and Orchestra.

THE FIRST concert of the season, with Mark D.
Fint as guest conductor, was lighter and more theatrical than usual, but no one seemed to mind. Flint is musical director of the Michigan Opera Theatre, which explains the liberal doses of grand and light opera music.

Since the Bell Telephone Hour of radio days, we've hardly heard the optimistic, upbeat, lilting waltzes of Franz Lehar (with the exception of one PSO pops concert) anywhere, by any orchestra. It was refreshing to see those oldies but goodies dusted off.

Pursell hunts

The 'real' women's issues

U.S. Rep. Carl Pursell has an idea why the kind of legislation that will make differences in women's lives has such a hard time making its way through law-making bodies.

"I have found men in the tives reluctant to talk about women's issues," says the Plymouth Republican. "They'd rather talk about Amtrak. You know, boys are always interested in trains."

He probably has thought of another reason this kind of legislating may get the brushoff: There's a tendency on the part of males to view the schism over the Equal Rights Amendment as bickering among females and to imply that, if the women could agree among themselves, maybe something could be done for them.

Pursell allows that he, too, used to like to play with trains and is interested in what happens to Amtrak. And in an area like the 2d Congressional District, sprawling from Monroe to Ann Arbor to Livonia, he probably has been caught more often than he enjoys between the pro-ERA and anti-ERA

But he also sees some crying needs that involve more than half his constitutients.

SO HE TOOK a whole weekend to meet with the women in his district. There were forum discussions of three or four hours each with representative women in Monroe, Wayne and Washtenaw counties.

Pursell prepared a detailed list of issues — women's employment, women's health, women's insurance, women's education, women's place in business and a whole lot more.

With the help of his staff in Washington, he listed what has been done and what hasn't been done. Which bills reach discussion in the House or Senate and which didn't. Which had died in committee and which seemed likely to be re-introduced.

Then he asked the women who came to meet with him — women selected as representing a wide area of concerns and viewpoints — what they thought of any of the bills listed. Which seemed important and why. Which ones Pursell should push personally. Which ones he should mention in returning to the original author of the bill.

The responses he received were not unanimous, because Pursell had selected his group carefully. He wanted women who looked at various sides of all the questions.

BUT HE RECEIVED some thoughtful answers because he was careful in the selection of his groups. He picked women on both sides of the perennial red flags, the ERA and abortion, but he invited to his conference table those who could discuss without being abrasive.

The matters at hand needed talking over, no matter what happened to the Equal Rights Amendment, Pursell said at the outset, and he received general agreement. And, in the Wayne County gathering, at least, the discussion of abortion legislation proceeded without a lot of rancor, for the first time in the memory of this reporter.

Pursell hopes to digest the ideas he took back to Washington and put together a package that could be called a Women's Bill of Rights. Maybe, he thinks, he can get some other members of Congress to get off the Amtrak and join him.

That could be a real landmark in legislation, Pursell thinks Pursell thinks.

For sure it could. But the discussions could be considered landmarks in themselves. They represent

By paying through an operating millage, the taxpayer ends up paying much more per year and ends up bearing the burden along with letting future taxpayers escape the fiscal responsibility which rightfully is theirs.

While bond issues may be difficult to understand, coping with growth by raising bond money is the most economical and practical way to go. But that decision will be made, in the future, by all voters.

Mechanical vibrators melt inches - for awhile

QUESTION: Do "effortless" mechanical vibrators or special exercise clothing take off or redistribute body fat?

ANSWER: Passive exercise devices which "do the work for you" are promoted by some health spas as effortless methods to reduce body weight

In light of heightened interest in such methods, Dr. Arthur Steinhaus and Associates (1957) investigated the validity of the weight reducing claims made for the mechanical vibrators commonly used in health clubs and gymnasiums.

Thirteen men, some considerably overweight, rely chiefly on dehydration and/or localized preswere subjected to a 15-minute period of continuous abdominal vibration during which measures of oxygen consumption (for caloric cost) were made. The average caloric cost of the 15-minute exercise period was 11.4 calories more than each man would have expended had he merely sat through the 15minute period.

This represents the approximate equivalent of 1 1/8 9 of an ounce of fat. Thus, to lose a pound of fat (3500 Kcal) would require 307 such 15-minute periods of vibration, or roughtly six per week for a year!

Inches may be temporarily lost until dehydration (e.g. drinking) occurs. Sweat or rubberized suits simply increase water losses and restrict the body's evaporative cooling mechanism. The resultant rise in body temperature causes a disproportionate heart rate and blood pressure response to effort, placing an excessive work load on the heart.

The most effective clothing for weight (fat) reduction is clothing which promotes energy expenditure and/or caloric restriction. To date, no material has been found which promotes these lifestyle changes. It is not surprising that some manufacturers have modified their advertising to include (in small print, of course) the recommendation that a diet or exercise program accompany wearing of the weight reducing garment to maximize effective-

Chiefs notch 6th straight in easy victory over East

By SCOTT ADLER

The Plymouth Canton Chiefs girls' basketball team played its finest game of the season, jumping out to a 17-7 first- quarter lead and coasting to a 61-35 victory over Garden City East last Tuesday.

It was the sixth straight win for the red hot Chiefs, improving their record to 8-3 overall and remaining 4-0 in the Western Six League. Garden City dropped to 3-7 overall.

"Our fastbreak was excellent tonight," said Canton coach Mike McCauley. "This was definitely our best offensive game of the year, although we did have a few defensive lapses.'

After totally dominating the first period, 17-7, the Chiefs went on to increase their lead to 32-17 at the intermission.

"The girls were hungry tonight," said McCauley, "so hungry, in fact, I'm taking them out to eat right In the third period Canton's defense held East to only six points, pushing the lead to an almost insurmountable 40-23. After scoring the first seven points of the final quarter, the Chiefs victory was assured as they continued to increase their lead with a fast-break attack. "Our free-throw shooting was terrible in previous games," said McCauley. "It was better tonight, but it still isn't where I want it."

For the first time all season long the Canton free-throw percentage was over 50 percent. The Chiefs went through the first 10 games at a lowly 43 percent clip. They were seven for 13 from the charity stripe

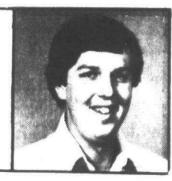

Diane Durocher led the Chiefs with her ferocious defense and 11 points on offense. Jean Timlin also scored 11 points for Canton and

The same two teams met at this time last year with the stakes just as high. Salem won it last year, but lost this time around 57-45.

The two schools have quality basketball squads. They're fun to watch, but the girls just haven't been able to drum up much interest among area fans.

Most coaches agree that state rankings would increase interest. Unless the media provides information, coaches find it hard to grasp which teams are doing well outstate unless it's Flint Northern, a team will all its starters back from last year's championship team and unbeaten this year.

"More publicity from the dailies would help," said McCauley. "Have a game of the week like the boys.

"We bring the district tournament here to get the community exposed," said Sandmann. "I think that helps.

"Our girls have done a tremendous job in our communities. We've had winning teams.

One alternative to the problem would be make girls' basketball a winter sport to coincide with the men. Thus, volleyball would come back in the fall.

But that puts a strain on facilities. Six basketball teams using one gymnasium could pose a problem. "SCHEDULING is is a problem no mann.

The Michigan High School Athletic Association (MHSAA) has taken surveys in the past regarding switching girls' basketball from the fall to winter. Sentiment so far has been toward the fall season.

If that changes and a majority favors going to the winter, then the Representative Council of MHSAA casts the final vote

Putting the state finals on television would be beneficial. It's been done in Indiana and Illinois and seems to create some interest.

Although Indiana is a "basketball state," comprehensive TV coverageand smart scheduling with things like doubleheaders in the state tourney have created a lot of excitement.

Individuals have always grabbed the spotlight in state tournies. I remember when a 5-foot-7-inch sophornore named LuTanya Pollard led East Chicago Washington to the Indiana State title when she scored 35 points, canning jumpers from everywhere a-la David

Rock girls lose bid for regional tennis crown

By BRAD EMONS

Ann Arbor Huron won the girls' Class A tennis regional Monday by the skin of their teeth. The River Rats captured their first title in one of the closest races in years. In fact, the team championship was decided in the very last point played in the tournament. Huron totaled 21 points to claim the team trophy. Plymouth Salem, which had beaten Huron earlier in the season, finished second with 20. Ann Arbor Pioneer placed third with 17.

All three teams now advance to the Class A state finals Friday at Holland. Grosse Pointe South is the favorite to capture the title.

The regional winner at Plymouth-Canton was decided when Huron's Sue Kerry beat Pioneer's Hazel Senior in the finals at No. 3 singles, 3-6, 6-3, 7-6. With score tied 4-4 in the third-set tiebreaker, Kerry outlasted Senior in a long rally giving Huron the team crown. A Senior victory would have given Salem a tie for the championship. "That last point was so close," said Salem coach

Judy Braun. "A lot of our girls have played against Huron's girls. I was hoping the Pioneer girl (Hazel) would have won that match."

"WE HAVE a friendly rivalry with Salem," said Huron coach Wil Cummings. "We were pulling for each other during the matches, but we still wanted

Cummings said he would like to see his team finish in the top three at the state meet.

Carol Gillespie (left) and Vickie Sterling of Plymouth Salem reached the semifinals at w No. 1 doubles eventually losing to the champs from Ann Arbor Pioneer.

'I think we can still beat Huron.'

- Salem coach Judy Braun

"I think we can still beat Huron," said Braun. "I'd like to get second or third at the state."

Salem's Betsy Moon reached the semifinals at No. 3 singles, losing to Senior 7-5, 6-4. In the other semifinal, Kerry outlasted Nancy Estrada of Livonia Stevenson, 6-2, 6-2.

Stevenson and Adrian tied for fourth place with At No. 1 singles, Salem's Kathy Horton won the crown by beating Kelly Lazar 6-4, 6-3. Horton was seeded No. 3 for event. "Kathy is a well-seasoned, tournament player," said Cummings. "She's mentally tough and has a good chance to make the state finals. "I wasn't surprised she won here." Horton gained revenge in a semifinal match by beating Stevenson's Peggy Pfeffer, 6-4, 6-4. In the other semifinal, Lazar blasted Holly Sixt of Northville, 6-2, 6-1.

At No. 2 singles, Sarah Maugh of Huron beat Carol Hathaway of Salem in the championship fi-

"Carol was a little disappointed with her loss, but she was a pleasant surprise," said Braun.

Hathaway beat Sue Presensky of Ypsilanti in the semis, 6-0, 6-1. In the other bracket Maugh beat Carol Kovar of Garden City West, 6-0, 6-1.

AT NO. 4 singles, Sook Han of Ann Arbor Pioneer downed Salem's Renee Braun for the title, 7-6, 6-0. Braun downed Lisa Parquiette of Stevenson in the semis, 6-4, 6-1.

Another key championship final occurred at No. 3 doubles.

Nancy Nishiyama and Monica Borcherts of Huron took a close match from Salem's Lynn Hathaway and Kathy Weber, 6-4, 7-5. Hathaway and Baker won their semifinal match over Sarah Fingerle and Gloria Kao of Pioneer, 7-6, 4-6, 7-6.

It was an all-Ann Arbor final at No. 1 doubles. Debbie Baker and Vivian Lee beat Karen Lorch and Suzy Farhat, 6-0, 7-5, to gain the crown.

Baker and Lee reached the finals by besting Salem's Carol Gillespie and Vickie Sterling, 6-2, 6-1. Salem reached the finals at No. 2 doubles. Liz Dunder and Gayl Marans of Pioneer downed Sandra Hathaway and Kathy Weber of Salem for the title, 6-1, 7-5. Hathaway and Weber defeated Kim Shaffron and Pat Maloney of Huron in the semifinals, 3-6, 6-2, 7-points; Livonia Bentley and Ypsilanti, sixth, 4; Garden City West and Livonia Franklin, seventh, 3; Wayne Memorial and Livonia Churchill, eighth, 1; Westland John Glenn, ninth, 0.

Salem cagers whip by Franklin

By BRAD EMONS

After trailing by one point at halftime, Plymouth Salem outscored Livonia Franklin 34-11 in the second half and went on to post a 52-30 girls' nonleague cage victory at home Tuesday.

The victory upped Salem's overall mark to 8-2. Franklin, a member of the Northwest Suburban League, slipped to

The Rocks struggled through much of the first half as they were handcuffed by Franklin's young, aggressive

The Patriots, one of the biggest teams in the state, starts three sophomores and a junior and comes in with a 6-foot-2-inch sophomore center.

"We're going through a phase where we're struggling," said Salem coach Bob Blohm. "It was hard to come back from the Bentley loss.

"And I think we recovered. We tried to play zone early and couldn't set a tempo. Franklin is a young basketball team who did a good job on the boards. both offensively and defensively."

Salem used its bench to bounce back in the second half.

With 5:26 to go in the third quarter, freshman Jacque Merrifield made an inside shot to put Salem up for good, 24-23.

Senior Patty Weidman, who eventually fouled out, hit a short jumper with 52 seconds left in the period to give Salem its biggest lead of the game, 34-26.

At 7:01 of the fourth quarter, senior guaid Man Horwood fouled out and Weidman followed suit just 46 seconds later as the Rocks held on to an eightpoint lead, 38-30.

WITH RESERVES Denise Zonka, Julie Lynch Jean Sobkow in the lineup, Salem used its superior quickness to stymie the young Patriots the rest of the way.

In fact, Salem ended the game by outscoring Franklin 14-0.

"We got a lot of help from our bench," said Blohm. "Our young group is getting better."

Cheryl Sobkow, Salem's workhorse senior forward, led all scorers with 14 points. She got ample scoring support from sophomore guard Eileen Moore and Weidman, who collected 10 points each. Horwood added eight.

Anna Collins, Franklin's 6-0 sopho-

"We need to adjust to different defenses." said Franklin coach Chuck Hebestreit. "We're usually a zone team, but have to start playing more man-to-

"We came out cold in the second half and didn't get the ball inside like we can. Salem got a few quick baskets in the third quarter and that was it.

"I think we can play better than we did tonight.'

"Franklin is a young basketball team that's going to get better," said Blohm.

Bo's dilemma concerns backs

By W.W. EDGAR

Life is just one problem after another these days for Bo Schembechler.

Early in the season the Michigan football coach was troubled with the Wolverines offensive line. It had been weakened by graduation and Bo was fearful that it couldn't be put together again until later in the season.

Week by week that offensive line has grown stronger, as evidenced in the game against Minnesota when Butch Woolfolk and Stanley Edwards each gained more than 150 yards and helped run up a total of more than 500 yards for the game.

At the same time Bo was troubled about the quarterback role. He had lost Rick Leach after four years as a star. But that problem is solved now with B.J. Dickey, who won the role because he is an "option quarterback."

With these developments, it would seem Bo's problems are solved.

But that is far from the truth.

It is ironic — as the team grows stronger, the problems develop.

For instance, he now is forced to choose between two outstanding fullbacks - Woolfolk and Edwards. There was a time when he tried to use both of them in the same backfield. It didn't work.

And last Saturday he was faced with another one - his pass defense. Time after time they missed chances for what seemed like easy catches for long gains. But many of the chances went for naught.

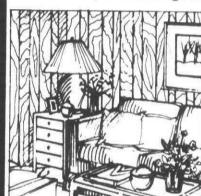

So, as the team gets ready for the traditional game with Illinois, Bo must build up his pass defense because it lacks the ability to diagnose the opposition's aerial game.

And depite the fact that Michigan is an overhwelming favorite, there is no telling what can happen down in the Illinois stadium.

There is an old belief in bowling that the colder it gets the higher the scores become.

So it was no surprise that during last week's cold spell the 700 barrier was broken no less than four times.

Most of the heavy pin spilling was done at Westland Bowl where three of the barrier-breaking totals were registered and John Hurley brought about one of them.

Bowling in the Monday men's league he put together games of 255, 228 and 235 for 728 to lead the sharpshooters. Les Crawford joined the ranks in the Little Caesar Classic with games of 244 and 248 in 718 and Pat Coshatt was right behind with counts of 223, 257 and 203 for

The fourth came from an unexpected source. Competing in the Pin Busters loop at Plaza Lanes Jim Seeman fashioned a 727 by inserting a 235 between games of 266.

This helped Jim to quite a week as he also paced the Plymouth Men's league with a 690. In this instance he rolled 235, 234 and 221

MARY MOHACSI and Muggs Koss waged a great duel in the Ladies classic at Garden Lanes before Mary had to admit defeat by a margin of eight pins.

She got off to a rather poor startfor her — when she posted a 143. But she came back with 233 and 235 for a 611. Muggs had a 619 in her

Behind these two came June Rowlett with 577. Joan Shienke with 575, Mary Alders with 574, and Barbara Smith with 565.

CORA FIEBIG survived a large field to win the mid-city tournament Jast Sunday at Cherry Hill Lanes. She conquered Aleta Rzapecki in the final, 237-137, and Aleta's low score

Area Overall Records

Doug Funke writes:

Should soccer standings be kept?

It has been said that "Hell hath no fury like a woman scorned." That maxim can now be amended to "Hell hath no fury like some soccer parents when they don't see standings in the newspaper."

We have received several calls from anxious parents in recent weeks wondering why we don't publish the Western Suburban Soccer League standings on a regular basis.

That wouldn't have been news by itself because individuals and organizations look for favorable publicity every day of the week. It's the nature of the Most soccer parents usually accept our explanation about the mechanics of how standings are received in Northville, set in type there and sent to our office by messenger. Sometimes they get here too late for the Thursday pa-

Then, with our emphasis on high school sports, there sometimes is not enough news space to get them in Monday editions. Besides, the records are dated by Monday.

That explanation, plus a resolve to try to do better in the future, satisfies most people.

YOUR SPORTS EDITOR had never really taken a good look at the standings. He just figured that with so many local teams on the listing, the interest must be there.

The time was right to make a close inspection with the rash of recent calls.

Would you believe that of the 181 teams in the Western Suburban Soccer League, 73 are for boys and girls 10 years of age and younger?

There are 56 boys' teams competing in seven divisions and 17 girls' teams in two divisions in the 10-and-under classification.

Another 62 teams compete in the 12and-under classification - 20 girls' teams and 42 for boys.

Twenty-two boys' squads and 12 for girls compete in the 14-and-under division. The balance of the league consists of seven girls' teams in the high school classification and five in the girls' 19and-under class.

Amazingly, of the total 181 teams, 135 - 75 percent - consist of boys and girls 12 years old and younger — boys and girls in the fourth through seventh grades.

A thought-provoking question immediately comes to mind. Is winning overemphasized at this young age through standings?

LEON SOLOJOW is coaching a boys' 10-and-under team this season after serving as an assistant coach last year. He, like all coaches in the WSSL, is an unpaid volunteer.

"I really try to teach them the best I can and hopefully they have fun while on the field," said Solojow. "It's nice to win but, basically, I hope the kids have fun at this stage. Winning is good, but you have to understand you're going to lose sometime.

"I don't know (if there should be standings for 10-year-olds). I probably don't think so. I think when you get to 12-and-under you can have standings

"I think at this age (10-and-under), basically the purpose is instruction, learn how to play with teammates, learn how to compete," said Solojow.

SUE ARCHAMBAULT is secretary of the WSSL. "Kids like to see their team name, good, bad or othewise (winloss record).

"A coach likes to see who they're going to play. A coach wants to know if he should get in a lot of practice, if he stands a chance. Everyone wants to win," said Archambault.

"(The purpose of the league) is to teach good sportsmanship. You learn how to take a loss and how to take a win. You learn how to shake hands. Sooner or later, you have to learn to win and to lose," said Archambault.

CHUCK SKENE, director of the Plymouth Parks and Recreation Department, was active in organizing the WSSL. He is also a former member of its board of directors

"I don't see anything wrong with standings - as long as they're put in proper perspective by the coaches," he said. "I'm not against the idea of competition, if it's put in the right vein.

"It happens (overzealous coaches). We have some coaches who put too much emphasis on winning. We try to talk with them. Unfortunately, we're so short of coaches and qualified people, we have to put up with some things we wouldn't if we didn't have the situation," said Skene.

"I start to really think of it as competitive soccer at 14-and-under. I think then kids can handle a little bit of pressure, but not too much.

"What's good about standings," Skene continued, "is that kids can say 'that's my team.' They're relating to something in the paper whether they're 3-0

HOPE CARNEY first became involved in soccer several years ago as an interested parent with children in the program. She is coaching this season for the first time a girls' 10-andunder team

"I found that when soccer started four or five years ago, it was fun. Now, more kids play and it's getting more competitive. I feel this pressure from the opposing team. It's more that winning is the end-of-it-all and I don't like

"My main idea is to get them (team members) to enjoy soccer, be good sports about it, learn to give 100 percent if they can and to show them that fitness is important," said Carney.

"A majority of parents are levelheaded, but I feel pressure. It's not spoken, but I feel it. I bet in two years from now, if I had the same girls and we weren't going anywhere (in the standings), there would be some comm-

"Part of it is that most people didn't know what soccer was when it first got started. Then, they learned the rules and the intricacies of the game and became critical of the officiating.

"It was better when they were ignorant," she said. "Then it was fun."

However, Carney also realizes the place of standings in a competitive society. "To prepare them to be more competitive, then you're going to have standings," said Carney.

At what age? "Definitely by 14-andunder," she said.

IT SEEMS that the amount of pressure a young soccer player bears is directly related to the attitude of his coach and parents. What do parents really know about their children's coaches?

Soccer is a growing sport. There is much evidence that it is less expensive to field a soccer team than squads for most other sports. Soccer offers the individual more sustained physical activity than most other sports.

Life doesn't have to be competitive from cradle to grave. Standings are a very visible measurement of competition. Where there are standings, can playoffs, championships, all-stars, the pursuit of trophies and over zealous parents be far behind?

It would be a shame for soccer to go the route of little league baseball in this country.

The Plymouth Canton junior varsity football team took possession of first place in the Western Six League Thursday by defeating previously unbeaten Livonia Churchill, 14-7, in a hardfought game.

Slot back Jamie Chilcoff led the way for Canton. He scored two touchdowns, one on the receiving end of a 30-yard pass from quarterback Chris Susock and the other on a one-yard plunge.

Churchill's only score came on a 50yard punt return. "The defense was super," said an elated Canton coach Dean Naude. "This is the fourth game in a row that we haven't allowed a touchdown from the line of scrimmage.

The Chiefs now need only to beat Waterford Mott at home Thursday (Oct. 18) to clinch the league. Canton then meets Farmington Harrison Oct. 25, also at home.

Both games start at 4 p.m. at the Centennial Educational Park.

Salem-Lakeview

The Plymouth Salem junior varsity football team scored all three of its touchdowns in the second half, two by quarterback Jeff Baker, and rolled to a 23-6 victory over St. Clair Shores Lakeview Thursday.

"We played as well as we have all year," said Salem coach Bob Brodie. "The only difference in this game was we didn't fumble like we've done in the

Any FAA-approved single or multiengine aircraft under 450 horsepower was approved for flying.

A 200-mile (actually 199.5) course was set up on the day of the race. That made sure pilots couldn't practice a flying route beforehand. It also brought into effect many variables, such as weather and wind speed.

Indeed, a rainy day made it very interesting Saturday, as pilots' skills were tested along with their nerves.

The course had two checkpoints along the way to test the pilots' navigation. After the 3 p.m. start in Grand Rapids, the route took pilots to Gladwyn, about 30 miles North of Mt. Pleasant. The planes approached the small checkpoint airports and flew at an altitude of 200 feet over a runway, where judges checked the progress of the planes.

The next checkpoint was in Baldwin, 50 miles due west of Gladwyn.

The course was set up over remote

You're wondering how, exactly, the winners were determined? Glad you asked. The pilots sent in a handicap before the race which stated how fast they expected to fly, using what amount of fuel per hour.

An example: I will fly the course at a speed of 100 knots, using 10 gallons of fuel per hour.

Any difference between the actual dicap was penalized, whether it was under or over the handicap.

A percentage was derived to determine the pilot's score. A perfect score would be 1.0 for hitting the handicap right on the button. Multiplied by two for the two-part handicap would make a possible perfect score of 2.0.

To give you an idea of how exact of a science the race was, consider winner Winnie Duperow, who had her son as a co-pilot in her Cessna 172.

Winnie's handicap was stated as follows: expected speed: 96 knots; expect- actual time was 1:56.19.

> Last year's winner was race chairwoman Sammy McKay, who was 63years-old when she took the honor. Sammy only finished 34th this year due to a fuel allotment problem.

She said of the event: "A proficiency speed and fuel used, and the stated han- race such the small race is a true test of a pilot's level of skill, knowledge of flying and mastery of an airplane. In today's conservation-consious times, it is more relevant to the participants then, say, a pure speed race."

Cathy Harris also had her troubles this year. Her and co-pilot Sue Muir's handicap was listed at 103 knots and actual time was 102.9087 knots, a fantastically close accomplishment, better than DuPerow.

In other words, her estimated time was listed beforehand at 1:56.13, her

The problem was with a technical difficulty in refueling her plane. It was a complicated matter that caused her to finish 36th in her Bellanca Decathalon airplane, in spite of her incredible time.

Harris vowed, "I'm ready to fly again next year. We'll try to get around the fuel difficulty."

A county government public relations worker, Harris explained the thrill involved with flying. "Flying gets in your blood. Once you try it, you've got to do it again. With the energy problem, more and more people are taking up flying as a means of transportation.'

Not everybody did poorly. Nancy Miller did an unbelievable job in her first race. The co-pilot helped Virginia Krum to a 14th place finish in their Cessna 172, that belonged to the Southgate Flying Club. A total team effort is involved. As one member of the team performs, so performs the team. Miller and Krum listed their handicap as 100 knots at 9.6 gallons per hour. Their actual performance was 99.198 knots at 9.04 gallons.

"It was fun." said Miller. "The colors were really beautiful up there this time

"I really didn't know what to expect. Virginia did a super job piloting. I guess I was no slouch either. I'll probably try to pilot my own plane next year. We both had a lot of fun." According to Harris, the race was full of upsets, as the top 10 finishers were much different than usual. Kathleen Gerhold was second and Nancy Forth of Mt. Clemens was third. Flying speed ranged from 78 to 152 knots, the fastest plane belonging to Sammy McKay.

"About 50 percent of the pilots fly their own planes," said Harris, "Those who do generally are the ones who do very well

Golfers and would-be golfers in Canton Newcomer's Club gathered Saturday, Sept. 29 for their second golf outing of the year.

The Newcomers played the back nine at Salem Hills. They followed their usual best ball scramble format. The event was planned by Sherm Moore and Charlie Freece with a little help from their spouses Mary M. and Kathy F.

The afternoon began with foursomes being chosen by the luck of the draw. Six teams of two men and two women set out to conquer the links. Chico Rodriquez and Greg Forty competed as one-half a team, and were eligible for the individual prizes.

From the first stroke on the first tee until the last ball was nestled into the cup on the 18th hole, each golfer was able to contribute. Each member of each foursome took a chance at the ball from where the team had determined was the best of the last stroke. Team scores then were computed.

The team of Mary Moore, Alice Spuck, Joe Watson, and Joe Sobditch carded a 34 for the winning score of the day. They could easily have had a score of 35 but for Joe Sobditch's putt for an eagle on the last hole.

JOE SAID the putt was about 20 to 25 feet, but was quickly corrected by his teammates. Mary said it had to have been 30 to 35 feet, and Joe Watson thought it was a minimum of 40 feet. Alice thought it was one of the longest putts she had ever seen made.

By this time members of other teams began to give their opinions of the putt, a very difficult hole. Second place went to the team of Diane Clifford, Sherm Moore, Ted Gonsiorowski, and Loretta Sobditch with a score of 37. Following closely behind with a 38 was the team of Karen Warnecke, John Caron, Charlie Freece, and Claudette Gonsiorowski. The third place team, Karen, John, Charlie and Claudette were quite surprised upon reaching the 10th green. When they pulled the flag before putting they were greeted with a timid "re-deep." The foursome before them had captured a frog and placed it in the cup to catch them by surprise. They briefly considered letting the little guy putt, but apparently he'd had enough golf for one day and hopped quickly out of sight.

the putting contest. That 500-yard putt on the last hole must have made his adrenalin flow for the putting contest which followed the nine holes of golf.

After the outing, couples gathered at the home of Kathy and Charlie Freece which served as the 19th hole that day. Stories of what "might have been" and what "almost was" were swapped over pizzas and BYOB refreshments. Everyone scored well in having a great time, and no one went home empty handed.

Prizes were donated by members of the Newcomer's Club. These included gourmet cooking utensils, wine, golf balls, wine glasses, and certificates for free pizzas. Salem Hills also donated a gift certificate to be used at the golf course. Each couple went home with CONGRATULATIONS to Cathy and Chico Rodriquez upon the birth of their daughter Jaclyn Victoria. Jaclyn was born Oct. 4 at 7:03 p.m. She weighed 6 lbs. 10 oz and was 191/2 inches long. Jaclyn joins a sister, Alisa, and a brother Marc.

Cathy and I are in a babysitting coop together. I had called her the morning of Oct. 4 to ask if she would babysit for my sons for a couple hours. She told me she couldn't because her son Marc had been due Sept. 23, 1972 and had been born Sept. 4. Jaclyn was due Oct. 23, but Cathy thought, and hoped, that history might repeat itself.

I'm not sure if this should be written as "women's intuition triumphs" or "friends will do anything to avoid babyday went to Joe Sobditch for winning sitting Sam's children.'

Old Village Association takes a look at the lake

By BETTY MASSON

You can't see the lake for the trees. That's the opinion of Plymouth's Old Village Association, and the association would like to do something about it.

With this in mind, association members took Plymouth City Commission members on a walk around Wilcox Lake.

They believe that while the Edward Hines (north) side of the lake is well maintained by the Wayne County Road Commission, a lot more could be done to the other three sides, the Plymouth sides.

In the process, the city of Plymouth could get two spectacular gateways, on Starkweather, coming from the Plymouth Hilton and Northville, and on Wilcox, coming from Livonia.

The association believes that with a little judicious pruning, including cutting down weeds, taking away some dead trees and thinning out some of the remaining ones, the hill around the three sides of Wilcox Lake could be made much more attractive.

CITY COMMISSION members seem to agree.

"We are really very interested in the project," said Mayor Mary Childs. Mayor Childs, who is better known for planting trees than advocating their removal, stressed that just the dead wood and a few trees would be removed to open up vistas to the

"We will be doing something about this," she said. It is possible that grant money could be found for the project, she said. She added that she would like to "get everybody doing a little bit. Then it will get

School children, Boy Scout groups looking for community projects and garden clubs may all have a role to play.

The first thing to do, said Mayor Childs, is to get some engineering drawings and see just what is involved.

Association members would like to see paths leading down to the lake from the south side, benches and tables for sitting and enjoying the view, and antique lamps, such as those in Point Park.

They would also like to see the hillside blooming with wild flowers.

Presently, the Lake Pointe Garden Club maintains the area around the old pumping station at the top of the hill. Just across from this is the wedgeshaped Point Park at Starkweather and Mill, which was planned by the association.

Before work on the new project can begin, one question has to be settled. Who really owns the land around the lake?

According to Pat Hann of the Old Village Association, Wayne County says it is owned by Plymouth and the city says it is owned by the county. It has also been suggested that Plymouth Township might have some claim.

On the map, though, it looks like the City of Plymouth.

INCLUDED IN THE WALKING tour was a visit to the C&O roundhouse west of Starkweather.

The association has some ideas about this, too, and to prove its point almost lost some commissioners there.

The association is hoping to persuade C&O officials to set aside some space there for a railroad museum. Although work is still done on trains there - this is what some commissioners found captivating - there is a lot of space in and around the roundhouse. The association thinks this could be used to attract visitors.

City commissioners also surveyed work already done by the 40-member association, such as the mini-parks which seem to be sprouting up all over Old Village

"We're following the example of the Japanese, who do an awful lot with a small space," said Mrs.

One of the most popular parks is the children's playground on the corner of Holbrook and Spring. Actually, it is in the front yard of a fire station.

Just across the way, on Holbrook, is another small lot owned by the city.

The association has some plans for this, too. These involve swapping it for a nearby lot which offers better prospects for tennis courts and a pavilion. Or it might be a good location for an outdoor musical amphitheater. "The view is spectacular at night," said Mrs. Hahn.

MEANWHILE, THE ASSOCIATION'S gazebo, at Farmer and Starkweather, is establishing itself as a romantic attraction.

It was completed late this summer, and has already been the scene of at least one marriage proposal, according to Mrs. Hahn.

This weekend, the gazebo will have its first wedding. Old Village resident Pat Neidermeyer will be married there on Oct. 20.

Bill Ruehr, who is the association president as well as an Old Village florist, is busy with plans for some colorful floral decorations for the wedding.

Spring brides may be able to walk through an arcade of roses if they choose to be married in the gazebo next year. The assocation is planning to put up a rose arbor from a new parking lot nearby.

Last year, students interested in ecology and chemistry visited the water treatment plant in Detroit.

In learning to use the employment office, the final exercise is a visit to the MESC office to fill out an application and interview for a job.

TWENTY-NINE STUDENTS were involved in the program last year. An equal number is expected this year by Paul Chamberlin, youth coordinator; Shari Frank, associate coordinator; and Jim Grimmer, technical advisor.

All of last year's students are in high school, community college or working. said Grimmer.

Last year's participants performed jobs such as shoveling snow for low-income senior citizens in Plymouth; painting an eight-stall garage in the Northville Department of Public Works garage; transplanting saplings in Northville; painting apartments at Tonquish Creek Manor in Plymouth; and painting several rooms at the Plymouth Cultural Center.

They also built erosion walls on Tonquish Creek in Plymouth Township and the city.

Total YCCIP wages were $59,228 for 10 months.

During the 1978-79 year, students also worked on renovation of the Growth Works building. Working from plans drawn up by architect Tiv Balogh, they used funds provided by the city of Plymouth.

APPROXIMATELY $2,800 was

This year, Growth Works has been awarded a $15,000 community development block grant by the Plymouth City Commission.

Most of this money will be used to install heating in the newly-built Growth Works offices. Money left over will be used to continue building renovations. Plans include replacing existing windows with thermal efficient glass and building an additional conference room.

Baby's baptismal dress converted wedding gown

William Robert Scherle II, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Scherle of Charterhouse Court, Canton Township, re-established a family tradition when he was baptized in a gown made from his great-grandmother's wedding dress.

The gown had been packed away and forgotten until the baby's birth, so it was not worn by his brother, Brian, 7, nor his sister, Amy, 4.

The wedding dress was made in London, England, in 1887. It was brought to Ishpeming, Michigan, as part of the trousseau of Mrs. Richard (Bessie) Lid-

In 1889, it was converted into a baptismal dress and was worn by all of her Five are still living, and four were on hand for the baby's baptism in St. Thomas a'Becket Catholic Church in Canton Township.

They are the baby's grandmother, Mrs. V. W. Lingle, 75, of Detroit; Dr. A. G. Liddicoat, 83, of Detroit; Mrs. C. H. Berryman, 85, of Ferndale, and Dr. R. T. Liddicoat, 88, of Ann Arbor. Roy Liddicoat, 79, of Kenosha, Wis., was not at the baptism.

The dress is elaborately trimmed with fine lace and hand crotcheting down the entire four-foot length. The material is a fine white-on-white cotton, and except for a few broken sections in the lace, it is in perfect condition, said Mrs. Scherle.

I look for troubleand sometimes the trouble is no insulation.

I'm a Consumers Power gas serviceman. and it's my job to troubleshoot. If people smell gas in their homes, they call me and I get there

But sometimes while I'm working in a customer's home. I find more trouble-like no insulation. You'd be surprised to learn how many homes I go into that aren't adequately insulated.

Some customers tell me they can't afford insulation. But what they really can't afford is to pay for all the natural gas it's costing them by not insulating. Over the long winter, insulation doesn't cost money-it saves money and scarce energy. It's the best thing you can do to your home, and for your gas bill. Believe me, I know. I get a gas bill at my home every month just like you.

Shy?

On stage, it's a new life for Bill Akey

By JOHN MacCOLL

Imagine yourself in Quito, Equador. And imagine yourself singing in front of a thousand people. And imagine yourself being 5 years old.

If you can do all that, you can imagine being William Akey. "It was the start of my theatrical career," he says. "I've always been involved in theater. First doing shows with my brothers and sisters for the relatives, then later in high school.

'We traveled around a lot, my dad was in the Army and I was shy. Doing theater was a way for me to reach out and talk to people.

learning to talk to people for a living. A junior theater major at Wayne State University, Akey is preparing himself for a professional career.

California and give it a real try. I've studied dance for the last two years and just recently I started voice lessons. You have to be a triple threat act, sing, dance - if you expect to have

Akey plays the part of Tony Lumpkin in "She Stoops to Conquer," opening Friday at WSU's Bonstelle Theater in p.m. matinees on Oct. 21 and 28. Tickets are available from the Wayne State theater box office at Cass and Hancock on campus, or at Hudson's.

THE PLAY was written as a protest NOW, 15 YEARS later, Bill Akey is against the sentimentality of popular drama of the time. It pits the snobbish ways of the aristocrats against the gaiety of the common people.

"Tony Lumpkin is the comic go-be-"I would like to go to New York or tween, an aristocrat who prefers the ways of the commoners to the haughty. dull ways of his own family," says Akey. "He spends his time drinking and carousing.

"His character is a happy-go-lucky, slow moving, down-to-earth kind of guy. He's always jovial and laughing from his belly.

"Like I said, I'm pretty shy and being this outgoing is not easy.

"I'm not one of those actors who can just step out there and act. I have to work at it. The cast helps a great deal. We work together, always talking to each other, giving suggestions.

"As for me, the character won't be fully developed until opening night. It's six weeks of struggle.'

AND A STRUGGLE is it. Akey's day starts at 8 a.m., fighting morning traffic, and it doesn't end till after 11 p.m., when rehearsal is over. With classes, auditions, studying and those long rehearsals, he doesn't have much time for other things.

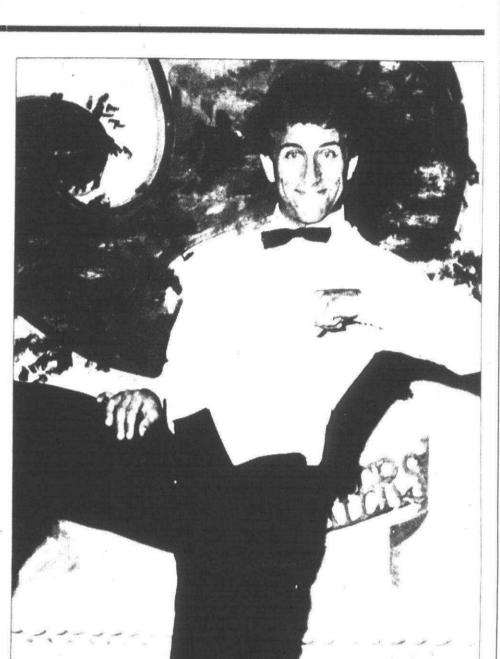

"I've got a couple of close friends at home in Livonia who aren't theater people and they keep me sane," he says. "You have to be able to walk away from it all and just walk down a country road or sit and watch a train go by. Of course, there's his family. "I'm pretty close with them, especially my mom. She's the best and worst critic I have," Akey says.

But why give up the parties, the good times of a college student?

"Oh, you get real scared just before you go on and then you step out on that

"You fire your first joke and they smile. You crack your second and they chuckle. Your third makes them laugh right out loud. And when it is all over, they stand up and applaud."

Bill Akey of Livonia plays the part of a laughing aristocrat in "She Stoops to Conquer," opening Friday at the Bonstelle Theater.

Saturday in Garden City

It's 'Pinocchio' for the deaf

The National Theater of the Deaf, headquartered in Connecticut, will present its adult version of "Pinocchio" this weekend in Garden City.

The story, a comedy about a hapless boy adrift in a callous and wicked world, is called "The Wooden Boy or The Secret Life of Geppetto's Dummy." This performance is sponsored by the student activities office of Schoolcraft

The showing will be at 8 p.m. Saturday in O'Leary Auditorium, 6500 Middlebelt in Garden City. Tickets are available in advance at the Schoolcraft College student activities office at the campus, on Haggerty Road north of Six Mile, or at the door. Persons with hearing problems are advised to get reserved seat tickets in advance.

Tickets are $3 for students, senior citizens and the hearing impaired, and $5 for the general public.

THE THEATER group, now in its 11th year, was formed partly to show that deaf people can make artistic contributions - but the emphasis is not on providing entertainment for the deaf. The performances are intended to be entertaining for both deaf and hearing audiences.

"The ability of deaf people to sense and communicate things by means other than verbal is fantastic," says David Hays, a Broadway scenic designer who was involved in the first production for the group.

"Because of their reliance on sources other than the human voice, actors are communicating with audiences with a kind of depth and intensity we have never seen before. This is happy, joyful work."

The Saturday performance is part of the troupe's 24th national tour. NTD has also traveled through Europe and Asia and has had two Broadway runs.

For more information on tickets, call the Schoolcraft student activities office at 591-6400, ext. 380.

Sawdust in his shoes, burros in elevators -it's all a clown's life

By CRAIG PIECHURA

"Schnozzola" is funny. 'Nose" isn't, says Irvin Romig. Standing up isn't funny. Falling down is.

Romig - known professionally as "Ricky the Clown" - will offer other insights into clowndom when he appears Sunday at Southfield's Burgh Romig's personal collection of circus pictures and clown memorabilia is on display at the museum through Nov. 25. Admission is free at the musuem, on Berg and Civic Center Drive.

The pratfalls of a clown are a guaranteed laugh-getter, but all that falling down can get you down, Romig

If you're in your 20s or 30s you probably were one of the faithful "Lulus" who watched Ricky, his donkey, Bambino, and his trained llama, Fonda, on Channel 7.

He was on TV from 1953 to 1964, hosting shows called "Tip Top Fun" and "The Ricky the Clown Show" in the '50s and later subbing for ailing kiddie TV hosts Johnny Ginger, Soupy Sales and Sagebrush Shorty.

When he started for WXYZ in 1953. Ricky was paid $100 a week, plus $25 expense money for his Sicilian donkey. But says it gave him big exposure for other jobs. It must have. He had to bring his donkey up in an elevator to WXYZ's old studio high atop the Maccalees building.

Tales from Ricky the Clown

pened to move to Southfield. Romig explains that kiddie host Johnny Ginger called in sick many times at the last minute complaining of a migraine headache. That sent the director scrambling to call Ricky who had to dash over to the station to fill in as host of the kiddie cartoon show.

FINALLY, Romig decided it'd be a lot less hectic if moved out of Troy and into a home just down the street from WXYZ-TV's then-new Broadcast House.

You can't miss Romig's home on 10 Mile. A wooden likeness of his Ricky the Clown alter-ego serves as a mailbox advertising that Romig can be hired for parties

Back in Ricky's heydey, television was live and Romig tells of tricks played on him by stagehands.

There's the time Ricky the Clown was supposed to take a bite out of a Hostess Twinkie and found the stagehands had substituted a wooden Twinkie for the real one. Ricky outfoxed everybody by bringing the Twinkie up to his lips and then telling his young audience he just remembered he hadn't eaten his dinner yet and would save that yummy Twinkie for dessert.

Today, Romig mainly works bar mitzvahs, birthday parties and conventions. February is always a good month, he explains, because of all the blue and gold Cub Scout banquets.

He also works a handful of small circuses in the state, including the Macomb County Sheriffs Circus, the Lansing Hospitalitier Circus and the Shrine circus in Flint.

In the past Romig spent 20 years with the Shrine Circus and traveled with the Ringling Bros. Circus from 1949-51. He even had a part in the movie "The Greatest Show on Earth."

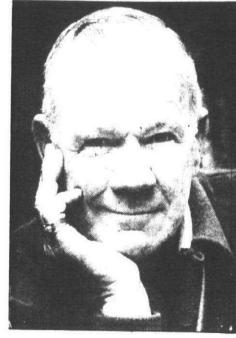

To mix a few circus metaphors, it could be said that while Romig wasn't exactly born in a suitcase, he does have circus sawdust in his shoes. Big, black clown shoes, to boot.

His mother, Elizabeth, was a wire walker and one of the bareback riding Rooneys. His father, Carl, was a performing cowboy and animal trainer. The couple joined forces in marriage to produce a small circus called "Romig and Rooney" and a family.

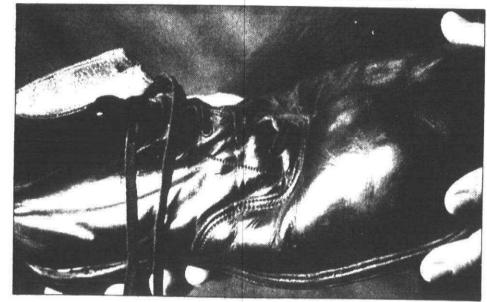

It wasn't long after Irvin was born before he was doing stunts like standing up on the back of a horse and riding around the ring.

BUT IT WASN'T the greatest job on earth for a youngster, Romig re-

"It was too much work with my dad," Romig says. "When I was young I had to work so hard — as a truck driver, the groom (for horses), the assistant in the act. And then you had to help put the riggings up in every

Many people regard circus people as drifters and troublemakers, Romig says, which is far from accurate.

'Whenever you had trouble it was not the circus performers who caused it, but some roustabout who helped put up the tent. But the next day in the newspaper it would say 'Circus man arrested.

"A man who works in a factory might get in a fight and you wouldn't hear people say 'Get that factory out of town' but let one thing happen around the circus and they'd run you out of town on a rail."

Asked how today's circus compares to the circus he and his parents were a part of, Romig says they've tamed the Big Top and added a lot more glitter.

"They had more wild things in those days, he says. There were stallions and Roman chariot races around the ring. Today, it's more like a musical show with so many dancing girls in skimpy costumes.

"Now that's fine for the daddies but the kids don't care for that. I always thought the circus was for kids.'

Romig says his act is geared toward youngsters and for that reason he has always tried to lead a good example for impressionable youth. His sentiments echo the creed of Clayton Moore, who played the Lone Ranger on TV.

"When I was on TV I was considered a square," he says, drawing an imaginary box in the air. "But I'd been brought up going to church and reciting the Golden Rule. That's been my luck in life.

'Sunday I never miss church. I'm no Holy Joe, but when you're a kiddie performer I feel you'd better toe the line and follow what you represent. And if you don't represent that, you don't belong there."

Artist series opens at U-M this weekend

Philip LeStrange returns to the University of Michigan this weekend to portray the role of Harry Van in Robert E. Sherwood's Pulitzer Prize-winning "Idiot's Delight."

"Idiot's Delight," directed by U-M lecturer James Martin, opens the U-M Guest Artist Series in the Power Center for the Performing Arts. This comedy plays through Sunday, with an 8 p.m. curtain daily through Saturday and a 2 p.m. matinee Sunday.

LeStrange comes to U-M after completing the national tour of Paul Giovanni's "The Crucifer of Blood" with Paxton Whitehead.

Since his last appearance at Michigan, he has appeared in a film and made several commercials for the U.S. Olympic Committee.

HE APPEARS in "Idiot's Delight" as a song and dance man who manages an all-girl revue, "Les Blondes," and is detained, along with an unusual assortment of characters, in an Alpine resort hotel because of the onset of a second world war. Written before the actual outbreak of World War II, Sherwood's dark comedy is a statement on any war.

"Idiot's Delight" is followed by Shakespeare's "Richard III" starring Nicholas Pennell, playing in the Power Center Nov. 28-Dec. 2; "Eden" by Steve Carter, directed by guest artist Mel Winkler, playing Feb. 20-24; and John Vanbrugh's "The Relapse" playing April 16-20.

Season subscriptions are on sale at the Professional Theatre Program ticket office in the Michigan League, weekdays 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. and 2-5 p.m. Tickets for individual shows go on sale Tuesday, Oct. 9, and also are available at all Hudson's ticket outlets. For more information, call 764-0450.

Wine

Richard Watson

A tough time with the cork?

The dramatic moment arrives.

The guests are assembled. The meal prepared, the call to dine given — and then the host prepares to open the wine. This he must do with dignity and authority.

The bottle is addressed and the cork attacked.

It is at this point that we all have had some trying frustrations. The wine helix (screw) tears the center out of the cork or pushes it into the bottle. The cork won't budge. It tears. It breaks or some other misfortune occurs.

This most vicious tool in our kitchen repetoire needs taming and control. And a solution exists. But first - know the enemy. It comes in many shapes and sizes.

Of recent origin is the pressurized cartridge that forces CO2 or gas into the space between the bottom of the cork and the top of the wine. The theory behind this device is that the pressure build-up in that small region will be sufficient to force the cork out of the bottle . . . before the bottle itself explodes. It sometimes works.

But when the bottle has a weak point the outeome can be more messy and dangerous than sim-

The corkscrew used by waiters, while highly compact, can easily tear a weakened or dry cork This one is highly dependent on its users' skill. Entering at the slightest off-angle can mutilate and even break the cork.

The device with two arms that lift out and up as the helix enters the cork works well only when the bore is wide and deep enough. An expensive version of this type is generally required to find a fully dependable one.

Until recently the most dependable for me has been the double-whirlybird, the item with the elongated verticle handle, a helix and two wooden blades or turners on top. One handle forces the helix into the cork, the second counter-turns it out via leverage.

While often doing great damage to the cork this tool usually works well and I wouldn't want to operate regularly without one close by.

ABOUT FIVE YEARS ago a new device came into the scene, the only one that does not penetrate the body of the cork. Very simple in concept, it consists of an open handle and two exactly opposite blades extending down. The two blades slip via a twisting hand motion between the cork and the neck bottle. Once fully inserted, a sharp turning twist brings out the undamaged cork. This tool, the Ah-So, works better than any I know on weakened corks and is excellent on all, with two exceptions. If the cork is too tight the prongs, or blades, won't go in (then try the helicopster). If it is too loose the cork splashes down into the
