Water bill hike may be halted

A stormy protest over high water bills has led to a proposal by Supervisor Noel Culbert to abolish a June 1 rate hike and phase in the increased rates over a one- or two-year period.

Culbert said he will present his proposal to the township board at Tuesday's regular meeting.

If the idea is approved, residents who have already received bills for the June-through-August period will receive a credit equaling the difference between the rate established June 1 and the phased-in rate.

Culbert said the credit would be applied toward next quarter's water and sewer bill.

The rate increase, which took effect June 1, totaled 45 cents per 1,000 gallons to bring the total rate to $1.83 per 1,000 gallons.

THE BILLS, which were mailed Oct.

5 to citizens living north of Ford Road, apparently averaged more than $100.

Residents of nine subdivisions have pledged to attend Tuesday's township board meeting to request more time to pay the bills, according to Vickie Briden of Windsor Park.

The township board meeting is scheduled for 7 p.m. Tuesday at the administration building on Canton Center near Proctor.

Ms. Briden said residents plan to ask the township board to extend the time period for paying the bills and drop all late penalties "because the bills are for such high amounts of money."

According to Ms. Briden, approximately 40 residents gathered in the home of Maria LaGrow in Windemere subdivision last week to discuss the course of action they should take to protest the bills. She said citizens learned of the meeting "through word of mouth."

Supervisor Culbert said he personally will vote to waive the late charges for the Oct. 5 bills.

"I want people to know that there is sympathy at township hall," Culbert said of the high bills. "We're not ogres here. We're not getting a percentage of the bills."

According to Culbert, the June 1 rate increase was recommended by the Seidman & Seidman accounting firm to cover depreciation of the water and sewer system as well as payments on the township's $7.2 million water and sewer debt.

CULBERT CALLED the rate increase necessary, but blamed himself and other township officials for their failure to notify residents of the action.

He said a policy to phase in the rate increase would "give residents time to adjust and prepare for future (water) conservation."

"It was in the newspapers," Culbert said of the rate increase approved last spring. "But I think it went in one ear and out the other. I don't think the township did a very good job of announcing the increase to people."

Culbert said the township should have notified residents of the rate increase either through letters or notifications on the bottoms of last quarter's water bill.

According to Carol Quinn, clerical supervisor of the water department, the bills mailed to residents Oct. 5 are the first which reflect a full quarter of water usage at the higher rates. The bills for the June-to-August period

Master plan still in works

In 1975, township officials began work on a generalized plan for the development of Canton Township.

Four years later, the zoning ordinance that is needed to implement a revised master plan is still not ready for passage. The revisions mandated by a change in administrations and philosophies have not been approved.

Planning commission chairman Robert Padgett admits that no one can say for sure when the final master plan and zoning ordinance will be adopted.

The commission has scheduled a second hearing on the proposed master plan revisions for Monday, Nov. 12 at township hall. Padgett hopes planners will give final approval to the plan after the hearing.

BUT THE ZONING ordinance and map, which is needed to carry out the master plan's intent, will not be ready for the public hearing stage until at least January, Padgett said. He hopes the planning commission will submit its recommendation on the ordinance to the township board by February or March.

Dinner theatre takes a twist

By TIM RICHARD

Dinner theatre tends to be either a mature comedy or a mystery, with a small cast.

So it was unusual when Schoolcraft College announced it is offering a near absurdist play called The Real Inspector Hound. The playwright is Tom Stoppard, an Englishman best known for Rosencrantz and Guildenstern Are Dead, a clever new look at Hamlet.

Not that there isn't plenty of old-fashioned mystery and comedy in The Real Inspector Hound, offered Nov. 2, 3, 16 and 17 in the college's Waterman Campus Center.

IT'S A PARODY of Agatha Christie's The Mousetrap, says college theater instructor Larry Rudick, who is technical director. There is an old house called Muldoon Manor, glooming weather in which the house is cut off from civilization, and radio reports of a homicidal maniac on the loose.

Mysteries abound: Who is the madman? Who is the killer? Who is the corpse? And who is the real Inspector Hound?

Standard mystery fare, you say, until you toss in the absurdist element. On stage are two drama critics, Moon (Joseph Rohatynski Jr. of Livonia) and Birdboot (Christopher Lindblom of Livonia).

In the first act they merely comment on the drama, the actresses and the politics of being a critic. In the second act they step into the stage drama.

"It goes to the level of a play within a play," explains director Dale Feldpausch. A part-time Schoolcraft instructor, Feldpausch, of Farmington Hills, has an MA from the University of Michigan.

One tip: Listen very carefully to the critics.

LADY CYNTHIA Muldoon is played by Kelly Norman of Northville, and her attractive houseguest, Felicity Cunningham, is played by Tammy Bezrutch. The highly observant servant, Mrs. Drudge, is portrayed by Phyllis Jo Counts of Canton.

The person who appears at first to be Inspector Hound is played by Larry Wilkin. His four-legged sidekick is Mistydale's Lady Christabelle, a purebred basset hound.

The wheelchair-bound Magnus, who claims to be a half-brother of Lady Muldoon's late husband, is portrayed by a cigar-chomping Scott Muzinski of Livonia. Simon Cascogne, who demonstrably loves women, is played by Marc Harlow of Livonia.

Main courses for the 7 p.m. dinners are roast beef and baked chicken. The play begins at 8:30.

Tickets at $10 may be purchased in advance at the college bookstore in the northeast corner of the campus at 18600 Haggerty, Livonia. Ticket information is available by calling the bookstore at 591-6400.

Cable TV firms seek new market for wares

By CRAIG PIECHURA

Cable television and pay TV are coming from the boondocks to the city to sell their hard and soft wares.

Subscription TV no longer means putting a community antenna in outlying areas where people are plagued by poor reception. Nor does it mean charging people for a clearer picture of network broadcasts.

With offers like first-run movies and the capability of two-way communication with police and fire stations, as well as with game show hosts, consumers are willingly paying $15 to $25 monthly for expanded home entertainment and communication.

Communities all around metropolitan Detroit are presently being besieged by cable salesmen trying to secure exclusive franchises to string up cable in those cities.

All that competition for franchise rights is paying off for both the consumer and the municipalities involved.

"TEN YEARS ago you could say 'Here's our package,'" explains Weston Croft, regional manager of Cox Cable Communications, which is installing cable service to St. Clair Shores, Grosse Pointe Shores and Fraser.

"Right now communities are sitting back and waiting for the offers to get better. It's outright vicious competition. But it's best for the city because you end up getting the most interested people that way."

Canton Township granted a cable franchise in 1972, said Clerk John Flodin, but the firm never got off the ground and its exclusive 15-year franchise was rescinded by voters. He says business activity in cable has skyrocketed recently.

"The longer you hold out, the better the offers get," says John Flodin, clerk of Canton Township. "It's just like the last lawyer has the best chance. What happened here is somebody would offer us something and everybody else would one-up the other (firm)."

One example, Flodin said, is that three competing cable firms all offered to pay the township 3 percent of the monthly service fee paid by cable subscribers three years in advance, an estimated sum of at least $20,000.

The firm that won the bid, Maclean-Hunter of Rexdale, Ontario, promised also to pay Canton Township 5 percent of the monthly Home Box Office (HBO) fee paid by cable subscribers. HBO is the most popular option among cable subscribers, according to industry spokesmen.

Cable TV franchises must be approved by municipalities because the firms have to secure public right-of-ways to install cables on utility poles or underground.

Maclean-Hunter was granted a "non-exclusive" franchise with Canton, meaning other companies can install cable in Canton if they agree to pay the service fee to the township.

But Clerk Flodin doubts if there is enough business in Canton Township to support another firm.

WHILE NO CITY in metropolitan Detroit is viewing cable programs yet, St. Clair Shores is farthest along. Cox Cable Communications of Atlanta, holder of a 15-year exclusive franchise to provide cable TV service to St. Clair Shores, started stringing cable two weeks ago in the east side city.

Weston Croft, general manager of Cox Cable's regional operation, said "We should have an operational system in December and start taking on customers in January."

In addition to Canton Township, Maclean-Hunter also has city council approval to provide cable TV in East Detroit. Roseville has granted exclusive cable TV rights to Continental Cablevision of Lansing.

Plymouth has contracted with Omnicom of Plymouth, financed by a group of cable TV executives who decided to go independent. Omnicom has also approached the communities of Farmington, Farmington Hills and Novi. Cable was tabled for the time being in Farmington.

6 Star Cablevision, Inc., of Englewood Cliffs, N.J., is already operating

Short Takes

Fundamental discussions

Both Canton Township and the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools will hold hearings on the budgets they have devised for the coming year.

A special budget hearing will be held Monday night by the school board. The hearing on the operating budget for fiscal year '79-80 will begin at 7 p.m. Monday in the Plymouth-Canton High School little theater, Canton Center Road just south of Joy.

The regular meeting will begin after the budget hearing, at which the board is expected to vote on final adoption of the proposed budget.

A hearing on Canton's upcoming 1980 general fund budget is scheduled for 7 p.m. Tuesday at the township hall on Canton Center Road south of Cherry Hill Road. A public hearing on the use of revenue sharing money is also scheduled.

Class reunion

Was it a meeting between township officials and disgruntled mobile homeowners? Or was it alma mater time for a group of attorneys? At the recent meeting called by Canton Supervisor Noel Culbert, five of the attorneys who represented various groups were members of the same law school class at University of Detroit. Culbert is including himself in the count, since he was one of the law students who attended the university. According to the supervisor, "it was just a coincidence." Seems like a lot of trouble just to have a class reunion...

Bibliophiles unite

The first shipment of new books for the Canton Public Library (which is scheduled to open this spring on the third floor of township hall) have just arrived. Members of the Canton Public Library Board are delighted with the new books, which include adult and children's reading material. Head Librarian Deborah O'Conner, however, says she could do with a little help getting books unpacked and shelves ready. She's asking anyone who wants to volunteer for a variety of tasks to call her at 397-1000, ext. 277. The board members also ask residents to attend their meetings scheduled for 7:30 p.m. most Wednesdays on the third floor of township hall.

Reform of water system needed, argue area reps

A call for reform of the Detroit Water Board was issued last week in Plymouth by two state lawmakers.

Speaking at a town hall meeting in Plymouth Township last Tuesday, Reps. Thomas H. Brown, D-Westland, and Robert C. Law, R-Livonia, said that suburban representatives have managed to get a reform bill passed in the state House of Representatives.

Brown represents Canton Township and part of Plymouth Township.

The town hall gathering, the 12th in a series sponsored by state lawmakers, also included Rep. Roy Smith, R-Ann Arbor, whose district includes the city of Plymouth and part of Plymouth Township.

The forum was held in conjunction with the Bradbury Park Homeowners Association and more than 50 residents attended. Also present were Plymouth Township trustees Barbara Lynch and Gerald Law.

LAW SAID THE reform bill passed the House because of cooperation of state representatives from western Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties. The bill was approved on a reconsideration vote on Oct. 16 and sent to the State Senate.

Brown explained the bill does not attempt to take away the system from the city of Detroit but rather would give better representation on the board to suburban communities.

"Presently the Detroit Water Board is made up of seven members," said Brown, "all of whom are appointed by Detroit Mayor Coleman Young. Four are from Detroit and three are from the suburban area but all serve at the will of Mayor Young."

Law said: "This has caused serious problems in the past when appointed members of the suburban area questioned decisions of the board or of the Detroit City Council in cost management and rate setting."

"A good example was a couple of years back when Livonia Mayor Ed McNamara challenged the decisions of the board and was promptly 'booted' off of the board by Mayor Young."

BOTH LAW AND BROWN attended a meeting of local mayors and supervisors last month to discuss the water rate problem.

At that time the lawmakers promised to do all they could to see the legislation would be implemented.

Attending that meeting were McNamara, Canton Supervisor Noel Culbert, Plymouth Township Supervisor Tom Notebaert, and Westland Mayor Tom Taylor.

"In researching the status of the Metropolitan Water System," said Law, "we found out that in 1966 some 45 percent of the service of this system was being done within the city of Detroit while 55 percent was being carried out in suburban areas."

"In the 10 year period since that time, 1976 survey results showed that the Detroit system carried out just more than 10 percent of the activity while the suburban areas encompassed almost 90 percent of the total activity of the system."

Based on those figures, said Law, he believes it is clear the suburban areas need representation and equity demands representation be given to the thousands of suburban residents so served.

Of the $19.5 million profit the Detroit Water System made in 1977, Law added, the city of Detroit generated only $510,000 in profits with the balance generated by the suburbs.

"Much of the system in place today was built with federal and state monies," said Brown, "and, therefore, equity demands that taxpayers throughout the region have an input into that system."

Some 96 suburbs surrounding Detroit receive their water from Detroit and 78 communities also tap into the sewer system run by the Detroit Water Board.

Cozy Cafe is robbed

A Plymouth youth, charged with allegedly breaking into the Cozy Cafe, 15 Forest Place, awaits an Oct. 25 examination before 35th District Court Judge Dunbar Davis.

Frank Ramirez, 19, of Plymouth, was arrested on the roof of the local restaurant Oct. 18 after he was discovered by Plymouth police.

Police said $125 was missing from the cafe and has not been recovered.

Ramirez was released on a $5,000 conditional bond.

Police say this is the third time the restaurant has been broken into this month. The first incident occurred on Oct. 12, but nothing was discovered missing. The second break-in happened on Oct. 14, when $80 was taken.

According to Det. Sgt. Ralph White, entry was gained from a second store window in all cases.

Salem-Flint cage game to be aired

The girls basketball encounter between Plymouth Salem High and Flint Northern will be broadcast tomorrow night by WSDP, the student-operated radiostation at the Plymouth Centennial Educational Park (CEP).

Broadcast time will begin 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at 88.1 on the FM dial.

This Friday WSDP also will broadcast, beginning at 8 p.m., the Salem Rocks football game against Edsel Ford. Play-by-play and color commentators will be Ross Rhinehart and Kevin Krolicki.

On Saturday night, starting at 7:30, WSDP will broadcast the football game between the Plymouth Canton Chiefs and Garden City Panthers. Dave Meador will do play-by-play with John Matthews as color commentator.

WSDP WILL continue its coverage of news and information with its news magazine show, "Parameters."

Parameters, featured each Wednesday at 6 p.m., is hosted by Debi Johnson and Bret Julyk.

A new topic is featured each week based on material from different sources. Parameters takes a look at the Plymouth-Canton area and attempts to bring a new perspective to the community.

Service needs donations of tools

Senior citizens have uncanny program for repairs

By ARLENE VANDERLEUN

Perched in the middle of Wayne County's financial whirlpool is an island of optimism — a man who manages to turn disadvantages into positive results.

Harley Trumbull, 40, of Canton Township, heads up a minor home repairs service for Wayne County senior citizens. Working out of a drafty, former cannery on county property in Westland, Trumbull has had to overcome a bare bones budget, a large territory and a small staff.

The federally-funded home repairs program is just one of several services coordinated through the Wayne County Office on Aging. A good many of the programs are housed in "J" building, on the sprawling county land complex at Michigan Avenue between Merriman and Henry Ruff.

Others include hot meals, a day care center where seniors can gather for planned activities, periodic medical screening and crafts projects. The center at "J" building also takes applications from seniors for low-cost prescription medicine.

Overseeing the senior citizen services is the Wayne County Office on Aging, which receives most of its funds from the federal and state governments.

Staffing for these county programs have been hard hit recently by Wayne County's financial pinch and by changes in guidelines for federally funded projects.

Some county workers face a threat of "payless" paydays. In addition, there has been a cutback in funding from the federal Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA). A large number of county employees had been paid with CETA funds.

Guidelines which went into effect Oct. 1 forbid CETA employees from being on a payroll more than 18 months. In addition, the focus of CETA now is on special projects which provide job training.

The home repairs program started out modestly in the basement of "J" building a couple of years ago and eventually moved to its present quarters in a former cannery on Henry Ruff, south of Michigan Avenue — an unused county building which Trumbull spied as being more suited to his needs.

"He (Trumbull) outgrew the basement," said Joan Dida, another county staffer at "J" building. "I think it's wonderful what he's doing."

The large, open spaces in the former cannery are used to measure and cut wood and glass. Tubs, bins and bags contain concrete, paint and other supplies. Former refrigerators have found a new life as storage cabinets for tools, etc.

"They have let me have a free hand," said Trumbull. "We don't throw anything away," he added. "I'm not afraid to ask, to beg."

The project remains modest. This year's budget for salaries (Trumbull and a secretary) and materials is about $57,100. That's up about $9,000 from the year before.

Many donated tools and implements are repaired or fixed up and then put to use.

Currently, the program is open to Wayne County seniors who are 60 or older and who either own or are buying a home. Excluded are residents of Detroit, Van Buren Township, Belleville, Sumpter Township and Romulus, which have their own programs.

Also ruled out are seniors who have persons under the age of 60 living in the home.

Doing the work is a full-time person and nine part-time, senior citizen "handy persons," mostly between the ages of 69-77.

Their territory is most of Wayne County, where they perform a variety of minor home repairs for their fellow senior citizens. Typical jobs include building and installing new steps, fixing cement, building ramps for wheelchairs and adjusting or installing faucets.

In spite of the low-key approach, the program seems to be working.

An office bulletin board is filled with letters from grateful seniors, such as the Westland woman who was helped with an unspecified "emergency." And the Grosse Pointe whose letter praises "Fred, Slim and Tom" for cleaning her clogged drains.

In the past year, the program has taken on about 700 new jobs. Trumbull expects there will be about 200 on the waiting list by spring, when outdoor work won't be hampered by cold weather.

Cement work will have to wait until spring, and wood work is about 3-4 months behind.

"If we can get (some of them) this year, it would keep the problem from getting worse," said Trumbull.

"We have what it takes (ability)," he added. "If we had the money and the workers, the amount of work we could do would be astounding."

DiVitto said persons who want to donate tools or machines (lawn mowers, etc.) may arrange to do so by phoning the county's minor home repair service at 326-9440. They should specify that the donation is for the home chores program.

Contract goes to MERC

Law judge will hear dispute

The difference over the proposed contract for Plymouth-Canton teachers will be taken to a hearing Nov. 9 before an administrative law judge of the Michigan Employment Relations Commission (MERC).

That agreement was reached last week between attorneys for the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education and the Plymouth-Canton Education Association (PCEA).

The decision to go to a MERC law judge for resolution of the difference followed the school board team's rejection of binding arbitration as a way of settling the difference.

John Ryder, president of the PCEA, has expressed hope that the compounding issue can be settled at this step and a contract then can be put before teachers for ratification.

School Supt. John M. Hoben also expressed hope that the intervention of the administrative law judge will result in a final settlement.

Meanwhile Ryder has asked for and been granted permission to make a statement to the school board at tonight's meeting. The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Plymouth Canton High School Little Theatre.

Ryder explained that he wants to "use this opportunity to express some of our views and disappointments directly to the board."

Two other members of the PCEA negotiating team, Tim Cotner and Donald McKinley, also are expected to speak to the board tonight. The PCEA has invited its membership to attend the meeting.

HOBEN EXPLAINED that he understands the MERC judge will be asked first to hear two unfair labor practice charges, one filed by the board against the union and the other by the union against the board.

"My understanding is that if both sides agree to drop the charges, the judge then will be asked to hear the single issue of compounding and the decision he renders will be binding on both sides."

Both sides had agreed on Sept. 9 to a proposed contract settlement offered by fact-finder George Gullen Jr.

The board believed the agreement to provide for salary increases as follows: 9 percent the first year for teachers at the top of the schedule and 8 percent for all others; and 8.5 percent for both the second and third years.

The union believed the salary would be applied according to Cost-of-Living Allowance (COLA) which was contained in the third year of the previous contract.

The COLA language would provide for compounding as follows: a 4 percent improvement and COLA of 4 to 5 percent for those at the top of the schedule, and all others 3 percent improvement and COLA of 4 to 5 percent the first year; 3.5 percent improvement and COLA of 4 to 5 percent the second year; 3.5 percent improvement and COLA of 4 to 5 percent the second year.

IN A SEPT. 13 letter to attorneys for both sides, Gullen had written:

"On several occasions during bargaining and mediation sessions in which I participated, the representative of the board of education stated that there was no problem with continuation of the COLA language."

"When the case came for fact finding the union did present the salary improve improvements in terms of a percentage improvement and a minimum/maximum range of COLA increases in percentages. There was no issue on the COLA language at fact-finding."

In his clarification opinion on Oct. 2, requested by both sides, Gullen wrote:

"The issue is complex because while salary adjustment was expressed in a percentage for each of the three years of the contract, the parties had agreed in our fact-finding sessions held on Sept. 8, 9 that the formulation as expressed in the COLA language of last

Inc., of Brighton. "We kind of put them all off for the moment," said Smith. "We're in the process of reviewing our ordinances and the FCC rules so we'll be ready. This whole area is so new that we're still gathering ourselves up by the shoestrings."

South Oakland officials have scheduled a cable TV workshop at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 8, in Oak Park council chambers.

The meeting is open to the public as well as politicians. Conducting the workshop will be Harold Horn, executive director of a Ford Foundation center supervising cable television. Hazel Park, Ferndale, and Madison Heights have already heard presentations from cable TV companies interested in servicing those communities. No franchises, however, have been granted by any south Oakland communities. Maclean-Hunter is scheduled to make a presentation to Ferndale Oct. 29.

Maclean-Hunter already has its foot in the door with local subscription TV. In October 1977 the Canadian firm's Michigan subsidiary established Metro Home Theater, Inc., a pay-TV service available only in certain Detroit-area apartment buildings.

They aren't to be confused with National Subscription Television's ON-TV, available throughout the tri-county area. ON-TV, of Troy, began broadcasting movies and some sporting events over Channel 20 on July 1 and already boasts 15,000 local installations.

Evening programs, such as last Thursday's Thomas Hearns fight, are sent over the air with a scrambled signal, not through a cable. No municipal approval is needed by the pay TV outlet.

Based on early offers, it appears cable TV will offer a wider variety of programming than ON-TV and at a lower price.

St. Clair Shores Clerk George Kaufman says Cox Cable promised to initially offer 24 different channels, including the popular Home Box Office, at a monthly rate of $14.40 plus an installation fee of $15 per TV.

ON-TV's monthly rate is $22.50 and $49.95 covers installation of an antenna and the unscrambler.

In addition to carrying all the local TV stations, Cox will feature 24-hour satellite programs from "superstations" such as Channel 17 Atlanta and WGN-Chicago; live shows from Madison Square Garden in New York and live coverage of the U.S. Congress.

While first-run movies like "The Deer Hunter" may attract customers to cable TV, industry observers say the broader implications of two-way cable communication are "genuinely mindblowing."

Master plan update

The township for certain types of use, such as farming, single-family residential or commercial. The zoning map and ordinance defines the various zoning categories and designates specific zoning for individual parcels.

A master plan was adopted by the planning commission in 1976. But a zoning ordinance was never adopted and now revisions to the original master plan must be made.

Padgett attributes the delay in approving the revised master plan and zoning ordinance to changes in the township administration and differing philosophies on how Canton should be developed.

He said the Robert Greenstein administration (1974 to 1976) and the Noel Culbert administration (1978 to the present) put less emphasis on commercial and industrial development than the administration of Harold Stein (1976 to 1978).

"Since 1976, in essence, various groups and bodies have come close to finalizing a draft (of the zoning ordinance). But when you have changes in characters, you have changes in ideas.

"And those changes in Canton have been drastic in terms of philosophies," he said.

Terms of two planning commissioners — Padgett and Bart Berg — expire this Dec. 31. Both men were appointed by former Supervisor Stein.

Padgett said a possible change in appointments could result in more delays on zoning ordinance work, if the new appointees bring in new ideas on zoning matters.

FOUR YEARS OF work on the master plan and zoning ordinance has resulted in more than just confusion concerning the future course of development.

The delays have also cost the township money.

Padgett estimates that 50 to 60 percent of the planning commission's time has been devoted to the master plan and zoning ordinance during the last two years. Planners, who are scheduled for two regular meetings a month, have met every Monday "with rare exception" during the past two years to discuss the two issues, Padgett said. Most of the special meetings have been devoted to the master plan and zoning ordinance.

The special meetings alone have cost the township approximately $4,300 a year. The seven planning commissioners receive compensation of $25 each for every meeting they attend.

The sum does not include payment to the planning consultant firm of Wade, Trim for its work on the master plan or the amount of time spent by the township's full-time planner on the issue.

Only one public hearing is legally required for passage of a master plan. But Padgett said the Nov. 12 hearing was scheduled to give residents an opportunity to air their views on changes made in the master plan following a hearing held last August.

He said the changes were made at the request of citizens who attended the hearing.

According to Padgett, the major revisions involved a reduction in the amount of multiple-zoned land on Ford Road and an increase in commercial zoning. Some of the land zoned for office use on Michigan Avenue was changed to commercial as a result of the hearing.

finder to decide relating to COLA."

Later, in the same opinion, Gullen stressed that both "parties told the fact-finder that there was no problem with the COLA language or the association's expression of the salary increase factors," noting that the PCEA had expressed the salary increase in terms of COLA compounding.

"There being no disagreement, there was no issue for the fact-finder to discuss and make a recommendation as to its application to the recommended settlement."

In that opinion, Gullen suggested the COLA compounding be agreed upon as it was in the last contract or that both sides go to binding arbitration.

The school board rejected Gullen's opinion as being based on subjective opinion rather than fact and directed its attorneys to seek another method of resolution with the PCEA representatives.

After rejecting arbitration, the two sides then agreed last Wednesday to appear Nov. 9 before a MERC administrative law judge to try and settle the difference.

DON'T GAMBLE ON YOUR HEALTH

When you gamble with your health the odds are always stacked against you. And the stakes are always high because your health is far more valuable than any amount of money.

If you or your loved ones are suffering from headaches, backaches, nervousness, shoulder pains, leg or arm aches, bursitis, stomach trouble or any of a number of other painful ailments, it is time to stop gambling with your well-being.

Put the odds in your favor with a visit to the Grassam Chiropractic Life Center.

You will learn from your chiropractor that disease and dysfunction occur in the body when the body is unable to operate properly due to a misalignment of spinal vertebrae causing interference to normal nerve supply. Dr. Grassam will perform simple, painless spinal adjustments to restore the spine to its normal working condition and restore normal nerve supply. This procedure is administered with much skill and dexterity after a careful examination is made of the area involved.

If you suffer from ill health, don't wait any longer, call 422-7800 today. A complete chiropractic examination at the Grassam Chiropractic Life Center will help you hit the health jackpot.

"Make up your mind to be happy. Learn to find pleasure in simple things. No one has everything and everyone has something of sorrow intermingled with the gladness of life. The trick is to make laughter outweigh the tears.

"Don't take yourself too seriously. I walk about every day and it is surprising how few people are smiling or looking happy. Try smiling, you'll like it.

"You can't please everybody. Don't let criticism worry you. Since hate poisons the soul, do not cherish enmities, grudges. Avoid people who make you unhappy.

M-14 opening is planned for Oct. 31

After a year's delay, the M-14 freeway to Ann Arbor will open to traffic Wednesday, Oct. 31.

The nearly 12 miles of new highway runs from the I-96/I-275 interchange in Livonia to Ford Road (M-153) in Washtenaw County.

The road will open for traffic following ceremonies at noon Oct. 31. The ceremonies, coordinated by the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce, will be at the Beck Road interchange.

WARREN COX, Michigan Department of Transportation district engineer in Southfield, said drivers shouldn't expect the freeway to be open until late afternoon next Wednesday.

"We have to get all those dignitaries off the road and make sure it's safe," Cox said.

Completion of the $34.6 million freeway was delayed a year by a concrete shortage and poor soil conditions "that required some additional work," Cox said.

The new freeway, which was about 73 percent federally funded, varies between four lanes and six lanes. There are 23 bridge structures along the new route and interchanges at Gotfredson, Beck and Sheldon, besides I-96/I-275.

When the new M-14 opens Oct. 31, completing a freeway link between Livonia and Ann Arbor, the old route — Ann Arbor Road — will lose its M-14 designation. The new M-14 is identified by the dotted line in the map at left.

Manson prosecutor's book is must reading for lawyers

By SHIRLEE IDEN

An old Chinese proverb says "the palest ink is better than the finest memory."

Vincent Bugliosi, the California attorney who put Charles Manson behind bars, contends his habit of writing everything "on that yellow legal pad" has helped him both as an attorney and as an author.

Bugliosi, who was an assistant district attorney in Los Angeles County when the Manson family came to trial for murder, successfully prosecuted the bizarre group and then co-authored the best-selling "Helter-Skelter."

His latest book, "Till Death Do Us Part," written with Ken Hurwitz, tells the story of his most disturbing murder case and how he managed to get a conviction in a case with no hard evidence, no confession, no murder weapon.

It is based on a case that began in Los Angeles in 1966 when a man named Henry Stockton was found dead from multiple bullet wounds in his burning home.

A second murder, 16 months later, involved another shooting. This time 22-year-old Judy Palliko was gunned and bludgeoned to death in the parking lot of her apartment complex.

"Till Death do Us Part" tells the story of how Bugliosi and the Los Angeles police pursued their investigation, connected the murder victims with their murderers and persuaded a Los Angeles jury to vote for the death penalty, albeit on circumstantial evidence.

BUGLIOSI is especially proud of the comment of famed criminal lawyer F. Lee Bailey, who said the authors have "written a crime book that should be read by every lawyer and every judge in America."

A graduate of UCLA Law School in 1964, Bugliosi spent eight years as a prosecutor for the Los Angeles District Attorney's office. During that time he tried close to 1,000 felony and misdemeanor cases, always writing prodigiously on that yellow legal pad.

Of 106 felony cases, he lost one. Today he lives in Los Angeles with his wife, Gail, who he says has "more common sense than I have," and two children, Vincent, 13, and Wendy, 15.

No born attorney, Bugliosi, a Minnesota native, said: "No one plays tennis in northern Minnesota, but I did."

"I won championships that were never before won that far north. Tennis was my life, but I had enough sense to know I didn't want to be a tennis bum."

The young Bugliosi listed the things he liked and didn't like and what he could and couldn't do.

"I didn't like math and I didn't want medicine or salesmanship," he said. "I like words and drawing inferences and so I decided I was only qualified to be an attorney."

THE UNIVERSITY of California at Los Angeles (UCLA) Law School agreed he might be right and he was accepted, though he questions whether he would be today.

Bugliosi said law schools are tougher to get into and out of today and the profession is getting overcrowded.

"I've taught in law schools and I lecture in them from time to time," he said. "I see from 30-35 percent of the students are women and they seem to do better because they are conscientious."

"But what's difficult to understand is how most of those students work so hard in law school and then come to court unprepared."

As to whether the proximity to the Hollywood fantasies have rubbed off on his own courtroom conduct, Bugliosi admitted he emotes and acts in front of a jury.

"But I don't think I have show business qualities, you have to show emotion, but I depend on hard work," he said.

And further, he contends, television cameras in the courtroom are a mistake.

"PEOPLE'S LIVES are at stake in the courtroom and I'm opposed to allowing cameras in. Participants in the courtroom drama should be concentrating on what they're doing. In one case, where cameras were allowed, they said one lawyer was wearing make-up."

Now working in a private criminal practice, Bugliosi said it's that criminal lawyer, not the best-selling author or hard-hitting prosecutor, who's the real Vincent Bugliosi.

He did say he might someday write a novel, particularly since his two most dramatic cases have been treated in his first documentary books.

"I'm just a trial lawyer who had two interested cases," he said. "A Los Angeles reporter approached me to write a book about the Manson case and, since there was no serious work being attempted, I did."

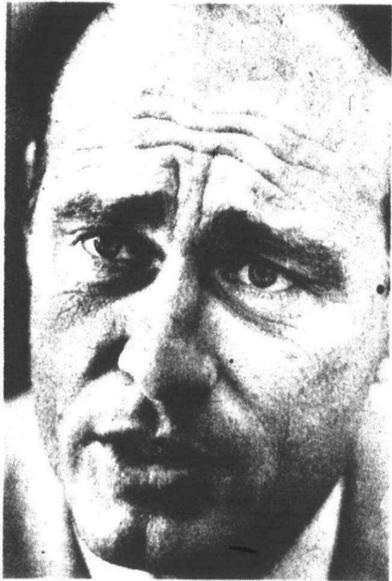

He said the first publisher he approached wanted a quick, sensational book, so he changed publishers. The success of "Helter-Skelter" was a surprise to both its authors and the publisher.

"They wanted a second book and there was only one other murer case out of 21 I handled that would lend itself to a book," he said.

Bugliosi said his own legal temperament is mercurial and his personality undergoes marked changes when he enters the courtroom.

"MY WIFE is constantly amazed. I walk around the house noticing nothing but when I get into a trial, my senses are heightened and I have intense awareness."

Bugliosi contends that he would not, as a criminal lawyer, defend a client

Double trouble awaits Plymouth Salem

By BRAD EMONS

One "bad" basketball team will be slinging its way into Plymouth Salem's gym Tuesday night.

The UCLA of Michigan prep girls' basketball, Flint Northern, riding the crest of a 33-game winning streak, will bring in its nine-shooter against Bob Blohm's Rocks, now sporting a 9-2 mark.

PAMELA MCGEE
She boards

Northern isn't just impressive — they're awesome. The Flint squad's biggest test so far this season came against Alpena last Tuesday night. Northern came away with an 85-47 victory.

On Wednesday night at Flint Northwestern before a sellout crowd, Northern romped to a 79-32 win over an 8-1 team in a supposed battle for first place in the Saginaw Valley Conference.

"I think we have more depth this season," said Northern coach Dottie Kukulka, who directed the Vikings to the state Class A title last season.

"We have only three starters back," she said, "but I feel we can play nine girls at any time."

This is the first and only time Flint Northern will venture into the Detroit area.

"We're looking forward to meeting Plymouth Salem," said Kukulka. "We haven't scouted them, but I know they are well coached and we have a lot of respect for them."

Flint Northern girls hold long win streak

"It's a good experience to play games like this. It happens all the time in the state tourney."

Kukulka, who formerly coached in the Detroit Catholic League, relies on overpowering board strength and blazing speed from her cagers.

Salem has faced the Houle sisters of Belleville and the Jones sisters from Dearborn Edsel Ford, but may never see a combo like the 6-foot-3-inch senior McGee twins — Paula and Pamela.

"They're good outside shooters for their size," said Kukulka. "They blend well as a team."

The Northern coach said her team runs a series of multiple offenses and defenses with the McGees leading the way.

The twin all-stars may be two of the top five players in the country. Kukulka receives "eight to nine" letters a day from interested colleges. "The recruiters are starting to hound me," she said.

For instance, the McGee sisters were contacted last week by Stanford, Miami of Florida, Indiana and Tennessee.

Paula and Pam have only played approximately 2½ quarters a game thus far in contests. Paula currently leads the Saginaw Valley Conference with a 20-point average.

Other sharpshooters for the Vikings include multi-talented Judy Tucker, a 6-0 junior, and guard Leteia Hughley, also a junior at 5-8.

"WE EXPECT our girls to play two or three different positions," said the Northern coach. "The girls indirectly have competed against each other over the years."

"I'm fortunate that we have four girls who analyze the game."

"We practice five times a week an often for one-hour the day of the game. I like to rotate the players in and out to keep them sharp, because we constantly change things."

Kukulka does not participate with her team in a summer program, but her players attend camps and play against one another in the Mott Foundation Summer League.

The McGee sisters also participated in Billie Moore's AAU Summer Camp at UCLA this past summer, sharpening their skills against all-star calibre talent.

Blohm and his Salem staff will try to figure out a way to contain the defending state champs. The Salem coach did not get a chance to scout the Vikings.

"We're going to have to make them shoot from the perimeter," said Blohm, "and we must be able to control the ball."

"We have to get our best opportunity and do what we do best. We must get our fair share of second shots and contain them defensively."

"I'm looking forward to it. I look at it as a nice challenge."

Salem will go with its usual starting lineup — Nan Horwood and Eileen Moore at the guards, Patty Weidman at center, and freshman Jacque Merrifield and senior Cheryl Sobkow at the forwards.

Tip-off is scheduled for approximately 8 p.m. Plenty of seats are available.

Rocks edge Trenton, 7-0

Defense sets up showdown

By BRAD EMONS

Defense. That's what set up Plymouth Salem's Suburban Eight League title showdown this Friday against unbeaten Dearborn Edsel Ford.

The Rocks ran their record to 6-1 overall and kept its state Class A playoff hopes alive with the hard fought 7-0 win.

A goal-line stand in the second quarter turned the game around for Salem. "You can't ask for better defense," said Salem coach Tom Moshimer. "Trenton is a super offensive team and we held them off."

"They're the best team we've played. They have a great young team and a fine coach."

The loss dropped Trenton to 4-3 overall and 2-2 in the league.

"I thought we outplayed them," said veteran Trenton coach Jack Castignola, "but we didn't win the game."

"Salem is a fine team and has a great head coach and a great coaching staff."

Castignola would not speculate on who might be the stronger team — Salem or Edsel Ford.

"We played both teams in different kind of conditions," he said. "We played Edsel on a thick, muddy field." Salem should be primed for the battle. The Rocks will be hosting Edsel Ford on its home field. It will be only the second home game this year for Moshimer's squad.

SALEM TALLIED the game's only score when senior halfback Craig Stack scooted around left end untouched from five yards out with 7:20 left in the game. Brian Lewandowski's extra point made it 7-0.

Quarterback Jim Anderson started Salem's TD drive on the Trenton 46. The key play came when Anderson hit end Ron Schultz on a slant pass, good enough for 20 yards and a first down to the Trenton five.

But it was the Salem defense which made most of the noise.

With Trenton standing on the Salem one-yard line on fourth down, the Rocks' defense held when Trojan fullback Jeff Whijeside was jarred short of the goal line. He fumbled the ball and linebacker Jeff Powers, a senior co-captain, pounced on it with 8:45 to go in the first half.

"We had the kid (Whijeside) stopped," said Moshimer. "He fumbled, but he wasn't going to score."

With 22 seconds left in the first half,

Trenton attempted a 31-yard field goal which landed short of the cross bar. The Trojans had marched down to the Rocks' 16-yard line, but couldn't find the first down marker.

In the first quarter, Trenton's Dave Malloy punted deep into Salem territory

'You can't ask for a better defense.'

and got a break when the ball hit a Rock player as Mark Henderson recovered at the 25, setting up the goal-line stand.

"WE JUST had bad field position in the first half," said Moshimer. "We got some breathing room in the second half."

Salem ran only 10 offensive plays in the first two quarters and made just five first downs for the game.

On Salem's first possession, Moshimer uncharacteristically called a passing play which went for 11 yards. Then, with Salem holding the ball on its own 20-yard line, Anderson attempted a pass to Schultz late in the game, which was just missed.

"That was a hell of a gamble on third down," said the Salem coach. "We sent a man in motion tonight to make them adjust."

"Were not going to change what we been doing so far. I'm concerned with our slow starts, but we'll just have to work on it."

Trenton made a last-ditch charge when Castignola substituted starting quarterback Kevin Kolcheff with Tom Stackpole.

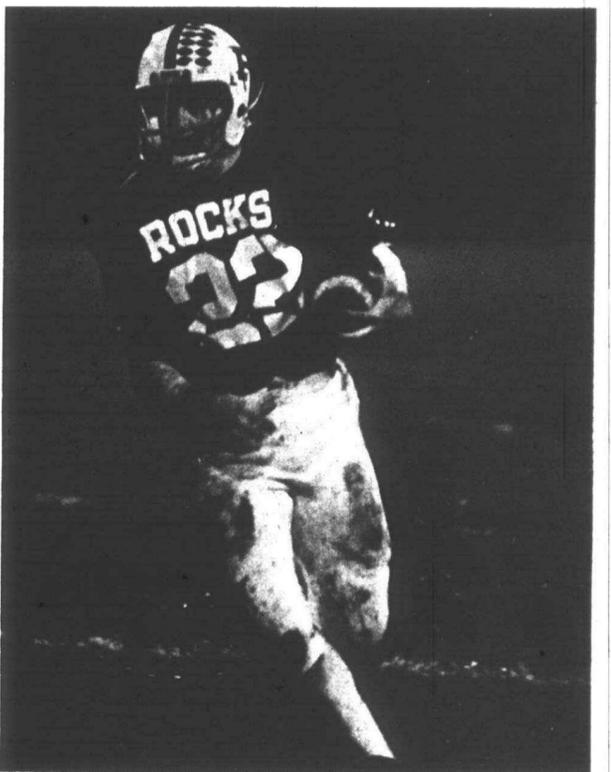

With 6:59 left, Stackpole hit offensive end Phil DeSana with a 45-yard bomb down to the Salem 35.

The Rocks, however, held when Anderson, knifing up from his safety spot, broke up a fourth down pass.

With 1:09 to go, Anderson intercepted a tipped pass to seal the victory for the Rocks.

Trenton outgained Salem in total yardage, 208-0. Anderson hit five of seven passes for 53 yards. Salem lost three fumbles and Trenton gave up two.

BILL CRIMMINS of Trenton led all rushers with 69 yards in 23 carries. Anderson paced Salem with 50 yards in 12 tries.

Craig Stack, Salem's senior halfback, scored the game's only touchdown midway through the fourth quarter as the Rocks edged league rival Trenton, 7-0. (Staff photo)

Fouls pile up but Chiefs still triumph

By SCOTT ADLER

The Plymouth Canton varsity girls' basketball team saddled Western Six League rival Northville Mustangs with a 74-39 loss in a foul plagued game last Thursday in Northville.

The Chiefs picked up 29 personal fouls, 19 of those were whistled in the second half, and gave the Mustangs 33 free throw opportunities. Canton was fortunate that Northville shot as poorly from the free throw line as it did earlier this season. The Mustangs hit only 12 shots from the charity stripe.

"We definitely fouled way too much," said Canton coach Mike McCauley. "They didn't bring the ball up the court where we didn't foul them in the second half. Thirty-three free throws is three times too many shots to give up."

Despite all the fouls in the second half, the Chiefs still played well offensively, scoring 40 second-half points, the biggest offensive output this season.

After falling behind 6-4 at 5:10 of the first quarter, the Chiefs were all over the court on both offense and defense, scoring 21 straight points and holding Northville scoreless for more than eight straight minutes. With two minutes left in the first half, Canton led 28-

10 and the game was never again in doubt. The Chiefs held a 34-12 advantage at the half.

In the third period, the Mustangs shot 12 times from the free-throw line and hit only five while the Chiefs put up four free throws and hit two.

The ball did not move up and down the floor in the fourth period without a whistle from a referee.

"Our defense was good in the first half," said McCauley. "But we got a little carried away in the second half. I've never seen so many fouls. We are going to do something about that."

Again it was a good balanced scoring attack that aided the Chiefs in their seventh straight victory. Their record now stands at 9-3 overall and 5-0 in the league. Northville dropped to 3-7 overall and 2-3 in the league after the first round of play. It was Canton's 28th straight league victory in the past three years.

Jean Timlin and Cindy Sovine led the way for the Chiefs with 12 points apiece. Pearlle Cunningham and Diane Durocher had 10 points each for Canton.

The Canton junior varsity was victorious, 28-22, over the Mustang reserves. The Chief charge was led by Sue Gerke with 13 points and Vicky Skeen with 11. Their record now stands at 5-7 overall and 3-2 in the league.

The Canton freshmen fell to cross-campus rival Plymouth Salem 38-30. Sarah McKenne led the winners with 16 points while Lisa Cavell and Janine Carpenter had 15 and nine points for the Chiefs.

Canton netters finish 2nd

Plymouth Canton made a gallant effort for the Western Six League girls' tennis title Tuesday afternoon, but came up one point short.

Northville, with an 8-0 league mark during the regular season, took the team title with 18 points. Canton, 7-1 in league duals and 9-3 overall, finished with 17.

Waterford Mott, Walled Lake Western and Livonia Churchill all tied for third place with four points apiece. Farmington Harrison placed last with just two.

"It was a very exciting day," said Canton coach Carol Michaels.

The meet came down to just two teams — Canton and Northville. Both schools had every player in the finals.

With the two teams tied, 3-3, only the No. 1 singles match remained.

Northville's Holly Sixt gave her team the title with a close 6-3, 6-7, 6-3 victory over Canton's Joan Keiser.

"That was a very good match," said Michaels.

At No. 4 singles, senior Kathy Kidston of Canton won the final by defeating Sherry Robbins, 6-3, 7-6.

Senior Pam Schipani and teammate Eileen McGlenn gave Canton its second league crown with a thrilling 6-7, 7-5, 7-5 win over Lynn Herald and Stephanie Colovas at No. 1 doubles.

Canton's third medal was grabbed off by Sheryl Smith at No. 3 singles. She beat Lisa Gejoff of Northville, 6-2, 6-2.

IN THE OTHER singles final, Eve Engelmeyer of Northville won the No. 2 singles title by beating Lori Smith of Canton, 6-0, 7-5.

Canton's Barb Rupprecht and Ann O'Connell lost their first league match of the season in the final at No. 2 doubles, dropping a 6-2, 6-1 decision to Jenny Missel and Kim Hubbard.

At No. 3 doubles, Northville's Debbie Spade and Jana Holloway beat Canton's Lisa Schlotz and Heather Hawkins for the crown, 6-2, 6-2.

In the reserve league doubles final, Canton's Pam Kang and Julie Gusterson belted Emily Smith and Sue Kormanis, 8-4, in a pro set.

Julie Swain Canton won the singles tourney, beating teammate Kris Harrison in the final, 8-7.

Swain beat Varlarie Marchand, also of Canton, 8-3, in the semifinals while Harrison tripped Nadia Naszradi of Northville in the other, 8-5.

"I thought we ended the season on a positive note," said Michaels. "We have a good bunch of kids who are hard workers."

"We have basically a young team. The girls are excited about next season. I think we should have a good season."

Michaels, an assistant coach at the start of the season, took over midway through the campaign when head coach Cindi Burnstein took a leave of absence.

Before this season, Canton had never won more than two dual matches.

This year's team made up for last time.

Salem harriers lose twice

The Plymouth Salem cross country team ended up on the losing end of a double-dual meet, with losses to Belleville 23-38 and Dearborn 21-40 last Thursday on a flat Lower Huron Metro Park course.

"We expected to beat Belleville," said coach Scott Dunson. "And in that way I'm disappointed. They really ran well (Belleville) and they sure will surprise a lot of people at the league meet."

Paul Hess led the way for the Rocks with a finishing time of 16:01. Second for Salem was Jeff Hartell with a 16:16 followed by John Wall at 17:36. Chris Whittaker finished at 17:43 and Mark Litvian rounded out the top five at 17:51.

Dunson is looking forward to the Suburban Eight League meet, Tuesday, Oct. 23 and feels that his team should finish fairly high.

"We should come in pretty well at the league meet," said Dunson. "If our three-four-and-five men come in with a good race."

"We should do better at the league meet because it's at Cass Bendon and we're very familiar there because it's our home course. That was the first time any member of our team ran the Metro Park course and that slowed us up quite a bit."

The Rocks' record now stands at 3-4 in dual meets.

Canton football story will appear Oct. 25

By W.W. EDGAR

One of the biggest changes that has occurred along the bowling front in the past several years is the bowlers approach to the game.

There was a time when they never discussed lane finishes. They knew it was shellac and let it go at that. At times, there were rumbles that the shellac was too thick or piled up in the middle, but they learned to make the most of it.

The all-stars, fellows like Joe Norris, prided themselves in "finding" an alley. To them the finish made little difference. They adjusted their style to meet conditions.

For the most part this has changed now. The bowlers have been reading about the various finishes and now they blame the low scoring on the treatment of the lanes. They never think of adjusting their delivery in an effort to find their "groove." They just approach the foul line and throw.

As a result, the scores are low in many cases and the howling is beginning to be heard from some of the all-stars. This is especially true of the women all-stars who are having trouble at Beech Lanes on Wednesday nights. But few of them are trying to adjust their delivery. They just throw — and complain.

ONLY ONE 700 series was reported during the past week and it came from an unexpected source.

Bowling in the BGR League at Wonderland, Jerry Collins broke the barrier with a 736 gained on games of 274, 232 and 230.

In the Senior House league, Alexa Kassel showed the way to the women with a 612 that included a 235 opener.

In the Men's Traffic league, Tom Hay was high with a 696 due mainly to a 274 in his first game. Right behind him came Dave Karaska with a 690 and the Frendua Con struction team posted a 3172 with a middle game of 1126.

BOB LA RUE profited by a 256 opening game to turn in a 652 series to ace the Junior House league at Woodland Lanes. His closest rival was Mack Taylor with a 636. In the Bowling Belles loop Colleen Anderson showed the way with a 228 in 563 and Myrtle Mitchell set the pace for the Jacks and Jills with 548. Other pacemakers included Jill Behrens with 536 in the Star Lites, Sarah Coutts with 467 in the Keglerettes.

In the Saturday prep circuit, Barb Harding, with a 111 average, turned in a 195.

SANDY WOLTER and Kim Jones, staged a great battle for top place in the Ladies Classic at Westland and when the final pin fell they were deadlocked at 627. Behind them came Mary Lou Schneider with a 256 in 597 and Pat Mayles with 254 in 594.

In the Junior House league, Rick Paslaski showed the way with a 286 in 678. Ed Lochmayer turned in a 649 and Charlie Hines at 648.

THE MOST CONSISTENT bowling of the week was done by AlTromeur in the Sunflower Men's league at Super Bowl. He showed the way with games of 218, 205 and 215 for 638.

Next to him was John Valvet with a 246 in 596. In the Canton Classic, Jerry Cole Jr fashioned a 246 in 615 and Mark Hall had a 233 game.

LARRY MATAKEL, aided by a 233 opener, set the pace in the Moose League at Garden Lanes with a 613 and beat his nearest rival, Bill Macek by 18 pins.

Chief swimmers downed, 64-19

State power Northville handed Plymouth Canton its first Western Six League girls' dual swim meet loss of the season Thursday, 64-19.

No exhibition races were held because of Northville's five-lane pool.

The loss dropped Canton to 2-1 in the league and 3-4 overall. The Mustangs, ranked eighth in the state coaches poll, remained unbeaten in league duals.

The Chiefs could not manage a first-place finish in the meet.

But diver Chris Wennerberg, who placed second, set a school record with a total of 188.2. Canton teammate Ellie Wagner finished third (179.7).

Transfer student Tarja Tuominen gained second place for the Chiefs in both the 200- and 500-yard freestyle events.

Kim Massey managed to garner second in the 100-yard breaststroke and third in the 200-yard individual medley.

The Canton team of Kris Burns, Mary Reardon, Debbie Dickinson and Massey took second place in the 200-

Burns got second in the 100-yard backstroke while Reardon placed third in the 100-yard butterfly with a time of 1:17.3.

Janet Powell gained third place for the Chiefs in the 50-yard freestyle.

In the 400-yard freestyle relay, Wennerberg, Lissa Potter, Carrie Lewis and Kelly Salyer took third place.

"I wish we could have done better," said Canton first-year coach Mark Griffith. "We got nosed out in a few races."

"Northville is one of the better teams in the state. They were third last year."

Salem-Dearborn

Dearborn handed Plymouth Salem its third straight girls' swim meet loss with a 102-70 victory Thursday night.

The Rocks are now 0-2 in the Suburban Eight League and 5-4 overall. Senior Sharon Ross and sophomore Terri Eudy were both double victors for Salem.

Ross won the 200-yard individual medley (2:26.2) and 500-yard freestyle (5:45.15). Eudy captured the 50- and 100-yard freestyle events with times of 26.48 and :58.56 respectively.

The other Salem first was recorded by Natalie McClumpha in diving. She had a winning total of 198.75. Teammate Patty Larson took second (177.35).

Linda Wochna of the Rocks managed to place second in the 100-yard backstroke (1:10.33) and third in the 100-yard butterfly (1:14.32).

Senior Renee Lakatos gained a pair of third-place finishes in the 200-yard freestyle (2:19.7) and 100-yard backstroke (1:12.12).

Salem's 400-yard freestyle relay team of Nancy Lazarus, Corinne Cabadas, Eudy and Lakatos placed second with a time of 4:06.8.

Cabadas gained third in the 100-yard breaststroke with a time of 1:19.9. Sue Evans was second in the 100-yard butterfly (1:13.35).

Salem will travel to Trenton Thursday for its third league dual.

Crespo lifts CMU squad

Central Michigan University freshman Becky Crespo, a graduate of Plymouth Salem, recently teamed up with Flint senior Kellie Serges to win the Ball State (Ind.) Invitational No. 1 doubles crown as the Chippewas took the team title.

CMU won three individual titles and two of three doubles matches to gain the championship in the six-team field. Bowling Green (Ohio) was second followed by Eastern Michigan and Ball State.

Rocks beat Trenton, 34-24

Horwood powers Salem cagers

Nan Horwood scored 16 points to propel Plymouth Salem to a 34-24 girls' Suburban Eight League cage victory Thursday over Trenton.

Salem is now 9-2 overall and 4-1 in the league, trailing Livonia Bentley by one game.

"It was not a work of art, but we won," said Salem second-year coach Bob Blohm. "We had a lot of good scoring opportunities early, but we just couldn't get the ball to fall.

"We missed the uncontested shot, especially in the first quarter."

Salem led after one quarter 4-2. The Rocks then outscored the Trojans 12-5 in the second period to take a 16-7 half-time lead.

"Our defense in the first two quarters was excellent," said Blohm. "The ball never really got inside on us.

"We went with our basic man-to-man defense and stuck with it."

In the second half, Salem outscored Trenton 18-17.

"Trenton did a lot of switching defensively," he said. "They tried a half-court trap, zone press and played some man-to-man."

"When they played Bentley it was the same kind of game."

Blohm praised the play of Horwood, a senior guard, "who played both ends of the floor" along with senior forward Cheryl Sobkow.

"We didn't get any momentum and did not have a lot of intensity," said Blohm. "I thought Patty Weidman did an excellent job in the second half blocking shots."

Sobkow was Salem's next high scorer behind Horwood with seven. Sophomore guard Eileen Moore added six. Salem hit just 11 free throws of 12 for 50 percent.

Salem will now prepare itself for state power Flint Northern Tuesday at home. Northern, defending state Class A champions, come into the Salem gym with a 33-game win streak.

Oakland Hills rated high

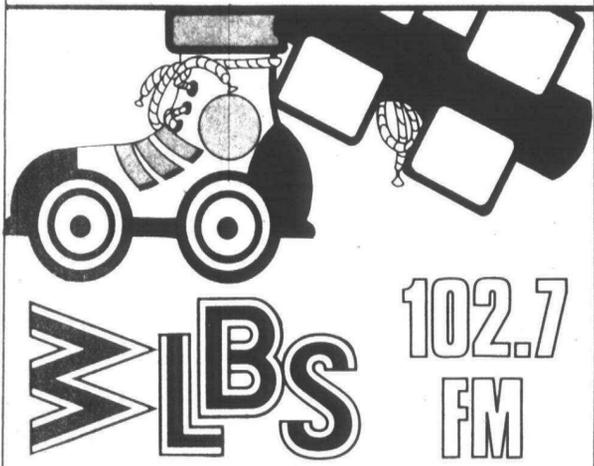

The fabled South Course of Oakland Hills Country Club has been ranked in the second 10 of the 1979 Golf Digest America's 100 Greatest Golf Courses.

The ranking was determined by a panel of 20 national selectors and 100 state selectors, and by the editors of Golf Digest.

Panelists were asked to look for challenging layouts requiring both power and finesse. They were advised to look for balance of design and proper course maintenance.

Rosen is back to watchdog center

By SHERRY KAHAN

David Rosen, who for a brief period held the title of acting director at the Plymouth Center for Human Development, is now back at the troubled institution with a new title. He is not called a troubleshooter, although troubleshooting will be part of his job.

He has been designated a master by U.S. District Judge Charles Joiner.

The term, Rosen explained, is a legal one describing a person appointed to be an arm of the court in a particular situation. In this case, he was named to carry out a long list of instructions given by the judge.

His appointment and the necessity for carrying out the court instructions were agreed upon by both parties involved in a suit against the Department of Mental Health.

Filed in February 1978, it was brought to end abuse and neglect of residents at this institution for the mentally retarded. Agreeing to this method of settling the case were the plaintiffs, the Michigan Association for Retarded Citizens, the Plymouth Association for Retarded Citizens and a number of individuals.

Also consenting were the defendants, officials of the Michigan DMH, including ironically, David Rosen. He was named because he served as Plymouth's acting director during the months when the center was trying to straighten out the abuse situation.

AS MASTER, Rosen has been separated from DMH, and has been placed on detached service to Judge Joiner. "He is my only boss," said Rosen.

Prior to the latest decisions by the judge, there had been indications that the center was improving. However, the final report of the court-appointed monitors was critical of some aspects of care given to residents. Some parents of residents continue to maintain there has only been modest progress in the treatment of residents.

Rosen's primary job at the center will be to preside over the gradual movement of residents into the community. Mental health experts are beginning to question whether a large institution is the best place for the mentally retarded. As a result, efforts are being made to move these individuals into smaller residential units within the community. Rosen became familiar with this aspect of work for the retarded when he was director of the Macomb-Oakland Regional Center for Developmental Disabilities. That institution pioneered in developing services for the placement of the mentally retarded.

However, disapproval has been shown in some area localities over the issue of bringing the retarded into the community. Rosen was asked if he thought it would be difficult to carry out Judge Joiner's instruction that the population of Plymouth Center, now about 580, be trimmed to 100 by 1983.

'We have already been inspecting . . . We are making sure that the program plans developed for the residents are adequate and being carried out.'

— David Rosen, Plymouth Center master

"It's not going to be easy," he said. "The homes they go to will have to provide quality care. That is where my office comes in."

He added that care providers would get support services from state and local agencies. He believes the state is sincere in its intention to develop appropriate community placement, noting that the Macomb-Oakland facility placed more than 800 retarded people in the community between 1971-78.

In the past, he said, there had been some shortcomings in case management, monitoring and auditing of home programs for the retarded.

Should one of the present homes prove not to be up to quality standards, his responsibility will be to see that the state withdraws its support of that home.

ROSEN WAS ASKED for some of the specific steps he was planning to take to improve the Plymouth facility. Instructions from the judge were somewhat vague in some cases, he said.

"Defendants are required," he added, "to provide for the residents of PCHD such adequate habilitation as will afford a reasonable opportunity for them to acquire and maintain such life skills as are necessary to enable them to cope as effectively as their capacities permit."

Is he dropping in on the institution's eight residential units to check on care given to residents?

"We have already been inspecting," he said. "We will have the staff do this regularly. We are making sure that the program plans developed for the residents are adequate and being carried out."

These plans are written for each residents. They are designed to give attendants guidance on how to handle the resident's individual problems and meet his needs, such as learning to brush his teeth or some other skills. Staff members are supposed to refer to them in their dealings with the resident.

HE NOTED that if he found residents improperly cared for, "I have the power of the court to do something."

He added that he could not fire anyone, but the DMH could be called into court for contempt if Judge Joiner's order for quality care is not carried out.

"That's not a threat," he said. "But it is something that could happen if there is not conformance with the judge's order."

Rosen said he had been "bouncing like a ping pong ball" in recent months in various DMH positions, and is now commuting to the center from his home outside Lansing.

"Plymouth is a great challenge," he said. "The objectives of the consent decree can be met. People here want to do the right thing."

Your ideas Committee

Input to your State Legislature Representatives: Bob Law, Chairman Tom Brown Jack Buckley Ray Smith Senator H. Robert Grange

Question of the week:

Each week a member of the Your Ideas Committee discusses a question of importance to local residents. This week State Rep. Thomas Brown, D-Westland, discusses the question:

Are you in favor of an elected county executive for Wayne County?

Wayne County's financial and structural soundness is being questioned by the State of Michigan. The debate is over whether to have an elected executive or an appointed manager. The county's deficits have risen to $22 million by the end of this fiscal year.

While the Michigan Legislature has been working with the county, the major issue is reorganization of county government. The governor has vetoed a $5.5 million appropriation for Wayne County until reorganization is accomplished. The governor insists on a county executive and a reduction in the bureaucracy. Do you agree?

To discuss the issue, phone Brown from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. Oct. 27 by calling 422-0750.

Monday's Commentary

Realtors respond to 'don't buy now' column

Editor:

Aside from the fact that Mr. Tim Richard — er Tim Richard (proper noun) has obviously little knowledge of basic economics or the historic values of real estate, he is correct in his recent editorial comment that the real estate market has softened.

Historically, as at present, when our economy is forced to slow down by the federal government, tight money policies are initiated to hopefully curb inflation.

The housing industry is one of the first markets to be affected by tight money controls.

Yes, conventional mortgage interest rates are high, currently 13 percent. However, Mr. Richard failed to mention the fact that homeowners are now offering private financing to purchasers at interest rates of nine and one-half to 10 and one-half percent.

Private financing coupled with the softer market prices of homes does make it an excellent time to invest in a home, contrary to what Mr. Richard has stated.

As long as our federal government allows inflation to be a principal factor in our economy, it will never be a bad time to purchase a home. Nationally, housing values have doubled within the past ten years; in the Plymouth-Canton communities home values have doubled within the past six years.

If Mr. Richard feels that he can realize a better rate of return on his investment capital in banks and savings and loan associations than he can in real estate, then I wish him well. Mr. Richard also stated that "a 20 percent down payment is utter madness." It seems as though he is unaware that a qualified buyer can purchase a home with considerably less than 20 percent equity; in the case of a veteran purchase, no money at all... zero!

Who ever said you couldn't get something for nothing? Imagine buying a home today for $60,000 without investing a dime, and then selling that same home in 1985 for $120,000. Not a bad return, eh Tim?

Mr. Richard also said that housing was only second to oil as the leading cause of inflation. Housing is not a cause, it is a beneficiary. It is one of the soundest investments anyone can make.

From our readers

If Mr. Richard is looking for a leading fuel to inflation's fires, maybe he could investigate government deficit spending, especially in the social security system's general fund.

Our present social security system is currently four trillion dollars in debt. This is equal to about 75 percent of everything owned by the American people today.

How has the federal government been paying for all of this debt? It's been running its printing presses day and night, that's how. Our government has been pumping new money into our economy, thus devaluing the worth of our dollars by the second.

Editor:

In response to the editorial by Mr. Tim Richard, "Contradicting the Realtor," in the Oct. 11 Observer. I would like to make a few comments as a citizen and as a Realtor.

It appears to be that Mr. Richard is throwing the blame of higher interest rates and higher home prices on the realtors. I don't think that he has done enough research to understand that realtors don't control these two variables.

The market (buyers and sellers-supply and demand) and the government dictate to us what we can and can't do.

He speaks negatively of 12 and one-half percent interest rates on loans for homes. I venture to guess that he is more than happy to have at least one credit card in his billfold and is willingly paying 18 percent interest on those. Credit cards are a convenience; why not advise the public not to use them?

Gasoline is a necessity. With prices going up, why not tell people to stop buying gas?

Car prices are ridiculous; why not tell people to stop buying autos?

Food prices are at an all-time high; why not tell people to stop eating?

Perhaps these examples are a little exaggerated; but so is Mr. Richard's outlandish advice: "don't buy now." I would like to know what Mr. Richard's credentials are to advise the public to remain in apartments and trailers, both economically unfeasible for investment and income tax purposes. However, don't take the advice of a "realtor" — er Realtor (trademark), by all means consult a CPA.

Does Mr. Richard own a house? Would he be willing to sell his house to a buyer for less than market value and on a land contract at his present interest rate? Of course not!

He bought his house for an investment and that is exactly what he has. Would he have listened to his own advice when he bought his house? No matter what the rates had been then, they were probably higher than what they had been five years before he bought.

And, as Mr. Richard says, we work strictly on commissions. The reason for this, instead of a salary, is that we offer a service. Realtors spend their own time and money to market a house and don't get paid until the transaction is closed. If it doesn't close, no income. Would Mr. Richard care to work strictly on a commission basis instead of the security of a salary? I think not.

It might behoove Mr. Richard to read the real estate section of his own newspaper to see how many realtors buy ad space and help pay his salary.

Would he like us to stop the ads and let him work on commission by how many papers he can sell because of his editorials?

I also don't think that Mr. Richard realizes the amount of time, experience and education that it takes to become a realtor. Just as I wouldn't tell people not to read his work if the price of your publication went up, I hardly think that he has the right to advise the public not to buy homes because rates and prices are up!

In closing, his last statement: "save and invest." I would like Mr. Richard to tell the public what to invest in. A house is the public's greatest hedge against inflation. However, don't take the word of a realtor, ask any homeowner.

Runner snaps at dogs on loose

Editor:

As a middle-distance runner who must do most of my running in the heavily populated area around my home, I have found it compelling to sit down and write a letter about a problem encountered by increasing numbers of runners — dogs.

Dogs that may be considered perfectly friendly and lovely creatures by many do not present themselves as such to mailmen, delivery boys or runners.

Without elaborating upon the psychology of a dog's mind, I will simply state that this class of people who pass across or near a dog's "territory" on a regular basis are viewed by many dogs as people to harass or attack.

According to city and township ordinances, those dog owners who allow their dogs outside either unchained, not fenced in, or not on a leash (at any hour of the day or night) are in violation of the law. There is good reason for such a law; their dogs are a harassment and a real danger.

Every runner I personally know has been harassed by dogs. I have been harassed on a weekly basis for months. This culminated last week in my being harassed each time on four consecutive training runs. I have experienced dogs jumping on me, nipping my legs and, in general, causing me to halt my running until their owners intervened. A most distressing aspect is the fact that most of these incidents occurred while the owners were outside with their dogs and yet were unable to control them.

In case non-runners are wondering, dog harassment is the prime reason why most runners take to the streets instead of the sidewalks. In addition to the other hazards presented by sprinklers, cars parked across sidewalks, children playing, and toys, which make sidewalks virtual obstacle courses for the longer distance runners, the danger of dog attack is more real when running across what most dogs regard as "their territory."

I want to emphasize I am not a dog hater. I am a former dog owner and I love dogs. But as a runner I have discovered a negative side to dogs. Unfortunately, it is this negative side I experience almost exclusively now.

Dog owners, please keep your dogs restrained as you are legally required to do. There is good reason for this. By not doing so, many of you have already caused many runners intense psychological distress, forcing us to be constantly on the defensive and introducing into our runs a pervasive element of fear. By not doing so you may someday cause a runner to experience the pain and psychological trauma of a dog bite.

As a word of warning, I might say that if that should happen you will have no defense should the anguished — and angry — victim legally retaliate to the full degree of the law.

The Stroller TV has a price

By W.W. EDGAR

By W. W. EDGAR

It all seemed so nice sitting there in the comfort of the living room watching the members of the Pittsburgh Pirates celebrating their victory over the Baltimore Orioles in the World Series.

It seemed all the nicer when The Stroller realized he was viewing a scene that is denied the public even if they were at the game.

As he sat enjoying these scenes — even the president of the United States coming in to congratulate the new champions — The Stroller had to admit that television is a wonderful thing.

And the nicest part is that you don't have to purchase a ticket, or become a victim of the ticket scalpers, to get to these hilarious celebrations.

Even when The Stroller was toiling as a sports writer at these fall classics he had to fight and push his way to get into the dressing room, and then sometimes was dowsed with champagne.

But now here he was in his own living room, late at night, enjoying the crowning of a new champion of all baseball.

As the celebration concluded, at least for the TV camera's eyes, The Stroller just sat there for a moment and then a serious thought struck him.

WAS ALL THIS really free? Didn't it have a price?

It sure did. And The Stroller couldn't help thinking that the screen had changed the lifestyle of most families. In fact, the tube has a high price for its entertainment.

This sudden thought came when The Stroller wondered what he would do on the winter evenings that lie ahead, when there are no sports events to watch on the screen.

What about the old-time Canasta games we enjoyed with the neighbors several evenings each week? And the friendly visits that tied us together as a neighborhood.

They're gone now — mostly because of TV. Folks don't go visiting any more.

Even the weekly and monthly get-togethers have passed into the limbo of forgotten things.

There was a time in our neighborhood when we would get together at least once a month for a Sunday dinner and then converge on one of the homes for a fine evening of cards or just pleasant conversations.

IN THE FALL of the year it was fun to sponsor such things as corn roasts or doggie roasts late Saturday nights at the end of our one-way street. What fun it was to sit there, listen to the strumming of the banjos, and enjoy the smell of the roasting corn.

But they, too, are just a memory now. In their place has come the Saturday night specials on the tube. Folks stay home to watch the movie on the living room screen.

The tube has changed our life style so much that — would you believe it? The Stroller has never met, or spoken to, the members of the family only three lots down the street. What's more, he wouldn't recognize any of them on the street if they passed by or even at the super market.

IT HAS GOTTEN to the point where no invitation to any kind of an affair can be accepted until after checking the TV guide to learn what programs are scheduled for that time. If it is a favorite program, the invitation is turned down and the evening spent at home.

TV free? Don't believe it. It has a high price. It has ended the old time family get togethers, the neighborhood parties, the Saturday night sing-along at the end of the road while the corn was roasting and the hot dogs were sizzling.

Maybe the singing was out of tune. But it was fun and we all looked forward to gatherings.

No more. The TV tube has ended all that.

And The Stroller can't help asking, "Is it worth it?"

Is there a conflict here?

Editor:

When is the critical time to have a "conflict of interest?"

At a recently held planning commission meeting, a township board member responded to an inquiry concerning his outdoor free standing sign. His comments were that his partners voted to erect the sign and he lost two to one. The sign went up and is highly visible; not what he wanted at all.

The topic comes before the citizens, concerning possible conflict of interest. He responds by saying his brother "just shares office expenses."

The Indian always said, "White man speaks with forked tongue." Will the real martian please stand up?

Off the Walls Time marches on

By NANCY WALLS SMITH

Upon close inspection in the bathroom mirror this morning I discovered something new to brighten my life. I have wrinkles!

Oh, I know I'm not exactly withered and wizened as of yet, but those little crinkles around my eyes, so optimistically referred to as "laugh lines," weren't there last year. I'm going to have a cut down on my laughing.

I guess I can live with a few little wrinkles, but as of late I am also noticing that gravity is no longer my friend. I fear I've reached a "pre-sag" state. I should have appreciated my firm, taut skin while I had it. I have a feeling it ain't coming back.

That famous line, "You aren't getting older, you're getting better," comes to mind, and I'm wondering, "better at what?"

I'm certainly not as good at holding in my stomach as I used to be. And my muscle tone can only be referred to as pathetic.

I suppose this is that point in my life where I should be developing new and vigorous exercise programs to help to regain and maintain my youth. A normal person would.

But thinking back on all the boring discussions I've been subjected to on the topic of jogging, discussions which go into great and lengthy detail on how far they ran today as compared to how far they ran yesterday and the distance planned for tomorrow, I just can't bring myself to take up an activity that I have been loathing for so long.

Having spent many long evenings stifling the urge to scream, "Who cares!" I now feel it has become a personal point of pride that I do not become involved with the likes of jogging shoes and pedometers. I think I'll leave that to my more ambitious friends.

I must confess that in a momentary panic over aging I did go so far as to dye my hair. I've always been one of those ladies who is blessed with more than her share of gray hair. Those lovely silver strands started to appear when I was only in my teens, so as they slowly began to overtake and replace my original very dark brown tresses it was such a slow process that I really didn't give it much thought.

I just assumed that everyone could tell by looking at my that I was "pre-maturely" gray. A few weeks ago I was talking to a lady, whom I had never met, at a garage sale. When I turned in the direction of my young son and said, "Come on, Jason, it's time to go," this kind lady thought she'd help me to get Jason's attention and said to him, "Your grandmother is ready to go now." Do I have to tell you I was depressed? I'm only 32 years old!

So I rushed to the drugstore, bought some color in a bottle and rushed home to put it on my head. Maybe I over reacted. Now I've got a head full of brown hair, but I don't like the color. God had given me a color that had perfectly matched my skin tone and my eyes, and for some reason he decided that a generous dose of gray was called for.

I think I'll go back to that original color, and the next time someone calls me "grandma," I'll just deck her! It's easier than fussing with all those bottles and plastic gloves and yucky stuff.

So it's come to gray hair, wrinkles, and skin that wants to droop. If this is what age 32 has to offer, I just know turning 40 is going to wipe me out completely. And I've only got seven years and three months to prepare for it. Perhaps a few laps around the block wouldn't hurt after all.

Our counties: futile, fruitless

"Your assignment for the next week is to cover a meeting of the Wayne County Commission and write a story," said the graying journalism instructor.

Little did the student know that within hours, before his very eyes, a tale of incredible incompetence would unravel.

Even the most novice of observers, as was he, couldn't help but notice the reckless abandon with which this antiquated form of government was legislated.

Tucked away on the 13th floor of the City-County Building was the auditorium in which this small group hacked away at spending county tax dollars.

Those were the days of a guy named Paul Silver, who waxed eloquent about nothing in particular to the glee and/or consternation of his colleagues.

The student reporter came away without a story and a sick feeling in his stomach.

NEXT ASSIGNMENT: "I want you to cover the Oakland County Commission in Pontiac this week," said the balding editor to the kid reporter.

Sprawling across the expanse of a once farmer's fertile field was the Oakland County government complex, resplendent with circular auditorium in which the county legislators not so eloquently debated and debated and debated.

The young reporter wrote his first column, indignantly protesting the inane way in which a group of legislators hacked away at spending millions of tax dollars and wondered why no one really cared.

Today that reporter, now an editor, watches a county government struggle.

Threatened strikes, uncertain paydays and political chicanery continue to hamper the process.

Lawyers, doctors, insurance men and housewives vie for the honor of election to county government and spend a minimal amount of time at the endeavor.

County fights with county over paving borderline roads, and they rarely get paved. County fights with state over reorganization, and services go neglected. The sheriff fights with the county executive who, in turn, fights with the commissioners. One part of a county wants to secede from the other part and form its own county. The list goes on and on.

AND NOW WE learn that tomorrow Wayne County employees may be paid in scrip, meaningless promissory notes, because a state governor and county politicians are unable to agree on how best to make county government work.

It's sick. Worse yet, it's futile. In truth, county government has outlived its usefulness in large metropolitan areas. The borders of jurisdiction make little sense. Community needs are overlapping and integrated.

Fan edits 'ultimate' book about American's 'glue'

By CRAIG PIECHURA

Forgive Harry Okrent, Southfield attorney, if he overdoes the proud parent routine in the months to come.

All that fatherly gushing is the result of son Daniel Okrent, 31, becoming co-editor of a literate, lavishly illustrated book brazenly called "The Ultimate Baseball Book." Okrent also has become president of an independent book production firm.

Okrent, who now lives in Worthington, Mass., wrote the introduction to the 352-page book and the captions next to 600 black-and-white and 200 color photographs, while co-editor Harris Lewine supervised the artwork.

Published on Sept. 24 by Houghton Mifflin, the book has drawn raves from critics such as Christopher Lehmann-Haupt, book reviewer for the "New York Times," who called it "a wonderful potpourri composed of a long historical text, a collection of first-class essays and enough illustrations of players, teams, bubble-gum cards and other memorabilia to stuff the attics of the Hall of Fame."

The author's father is giving out selected copies of his son's 7.5 lb., $30 "coffee table" book as presents to a few friends who appreciate baseball. But the senior Okrent says his wife Gizella is one person who can't understand the hubbub.

"My wife doesn't understand the book," Okrent said. "She doesn't understand how anyone could be that wrapped up in the sport. But then she doesn't know a baseball from a bat."

Harry Okrent says his son was "always a bigger baseball nut than I ever was," with the father preferring to follow University of Michigan basketball and football. Dan admits as much, saying while some people count sheep to fall asleep, "I count infielders in the early '50s."

But author Okrent says like many old-timers, his dad's eyes mist up when he sees pictures of faded glory guys such as Tris Speaker in the book. And "the shared experience" of the nation's pastime is what "The Ultimate Baseball Book" is all about says its author.

"BASEBALL IS our great cultural glue," says Dan Okrent, "because of the nature of the shared experience. I remember when I was in a Maine resort hotel on my honeymoon. The Red Sox were on TV, like they usually are, and there were two people in the lobby watching the game. There was an 80-year-old man and an 8-year-old kid, and they were arguing over Dwight Evan's merit as a rightfielder. Is there another topic those two could've discussed intelligently?"

In researching the book, Okrent said

'The owners feel they own the game. They don't. Fans own the game.'

—Harry Okrent

he was impressed with the "seamless history of baseball" and decided to "cover the entire waterfront of the sport." Considering the number of books written about baseball annually, Okrent was asked if it wasn't a little bit presumptuous to call his the "ultimate."

The editor said that while it may sound egotistical, his book is "incomparable." He says it provides historical statistics, standings and commentary but, primarily gives readers "capital 'W' writing, writing with style to it."

Instead of hiring old sportswriters to crank out "the same old stories and baseball cliches," Okrent says two Pulitzer Prize winners — Red Smith and Tom Wicker — were among the writers commissioned to do original pieces appearing in the book. Other heavyweights writing for the book include Robert Creamer, senior editor of Sports Illustrated magazine, Esquire's Roy Blount Jr. and John Leonard, culture correspondent for the New York Times.

"Nowhere in the description of anybody does the phrase 'all-time great' appear," Okrent says proudly. "Nor will you find 'junior circuit' and the usual tried-and-true phrases that often pass for sportswriting."

BEFORE BECOMING the boy wonder of the New York publishing world, Okrent tried his hand at sportswriting one summer in 1968 at the Farmington Observer newspaper, now part of the Observer & Eccentric Newspaper chain.

Okrent says one summer behind the reporter's notebook convinced him that his future was in fiction.

"I was too embarrassed to ask people embarrassing questions so I ended up making things up," is Okrent's assessment of his brief career in community journalism.

The day after graduating from U-M in 1969, Okrent headed for New York where he immediately landed a job as editor at Alfred A. Knopf book publishers. In 1974 he was named editorial director at Grossman Publishers and, at the age of 29 was named the youngest editor-in-chief ever at Harcourt, Brace, Jananovich, Inc. Okrent founded his own book packaging and production firm in 1978.

During his nine-year stay in New York Okrent, resisted pressure to change his allegiance and root for the Yankees.

"I have only two passions in the sport," Okrent says. "I love the Tigers and hate the Yankees. . . In '77 I went to 32 games at Yankee Stadium and rooted for the opposing team every time. The Yankees won 30 of the 32 games, thanks to me. I've felt very guilty about that ever since."

For "reasons of inheritance," Okrent lists Tiger Stadium as his favorite ballpark, with Chicago's Wrigley Field and Boston's Fenway Park in second and third place with newcomer Arlington, Tex. stadium ranking fourth.

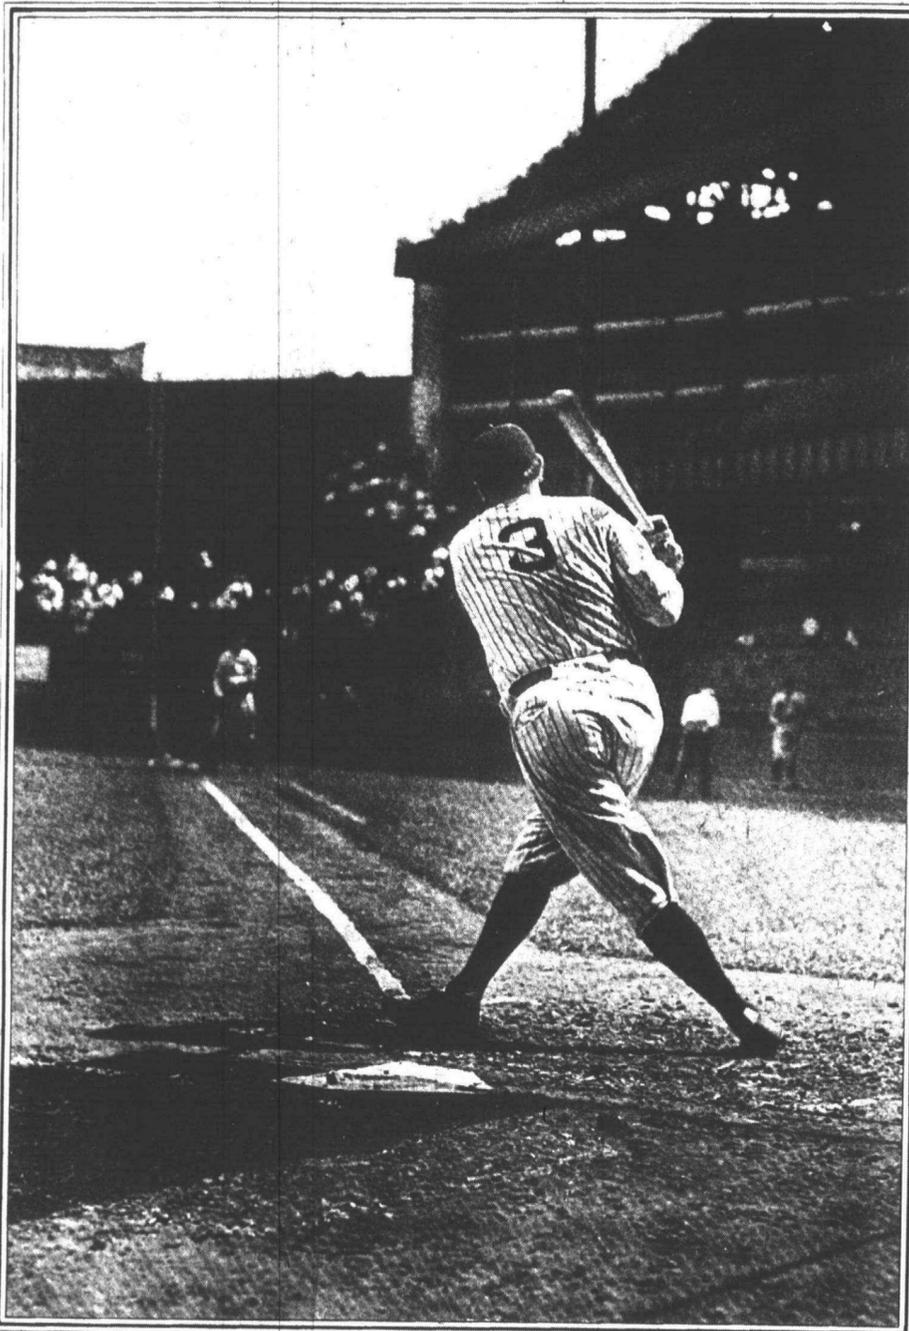

Okrent's favorite ballplayer? Another local name — Willie Horton, now playing for the Seattle Mariners.

"He was so damn strong that he checked his swing in '65 and a piece of the bat flew off toward the mound," Okrent said of Horton. "To me this is a lot more impressive than a home run that hits the light standard."

Despite the high price tag of the book, Okrent said as a fan, he wants the book enjoyed by fans, not experts and certainly not owners of baseball clubs.

"The owners feel they own the game," Okrent says angrily. "They don't. Fans own the game."

Okrent entertains dreams of buying the Tiger team and promises to hire free agents if he sells enough books.

The Warming Oven by Emily Watson

It's that time of year again.

As the holiday season approaches with its attendant whirl of shopping, partying and entertaining, a little advance planning can be the difference between a sparkling relaxed hostess and a harried, frazzled one.

An afternoon in the kitchen can produce a mouth-watering array of canapes, enough hot hors d'oeuvre for your holiday entertaining. Freeze them now and pop them into the oven at party time.

These recipes were selected because they can be prepared in advance and freeze, then re-heat, very well.

TUNA BALLS

7-oz. can tuna, undrained
 3/4 cup soft bread crumbs
 2 tbsp. finely chopped onion
 1/4 tsp. salt
 Dash of pepper
 Dash of oregano
 1/4 cup mayonnaise
 1/4 cup grated cheddar cheese
 1 tsp. lemon juice
 3 tbsp. evaporated milk
 Cornflake crumbs

Combine all ingredients, except cornflake crumbs, and blend well. Shape into one-inch balls. Roll in cornflake crumbs. Place on baking sheet. Bake in 375-degree oven for 10 minutes. Cool. Package and freeze. To serve as an appetizer, unwrap, place on cookie sheet and heat until crispy in a moderate oven.

Insert a toothpick in each and accompany with tartar or barbecue sauce for dipping.

TOASTED MUSHROOM ROLLS

Finely chop 10-ounce can drained mushrooms, stems and pieces. Sauté in two tablespoons butter or margarine. Combine two teaspoons cornstarch with one tablespoon cream, then blend into cooked mushrooms. Stir cook until thickened. Add one tablespoon chili sauce, one teaspoon lemon juice, dash of bitters and tabasco, salt and pepper.

Cut chilled sandwich loaf into thin slices. Trim crusts. Spread with butter or margarine, then with mushroom filling. Roll each slice and secure with toothpicks. Wrap and freeze.

To serve, brush outside of rolls with melted butter. Sprinkle with a little curry powder. Brown under broiler. Serve hot.

COCKTAIL PUFFS

1/2 cup boiling water
 1/4 cup butter or margarine
 1/2 cup all-purpose flour
 2 eggs

Heat oven to 375 degrees. Have cookie sheet ready.

In saucepan, heat water and butter until butter is melted. All at once, add flour and beat hard until dough forms a ball in the center of the saucepan. Remove from heat. Let stand 5 minutes. Add one egg and beat until mixture is well blended. Add the second egg the same way. The mixture should be very stiff. If it is not, then let it stand 10 minutes before shaping it.

Drop by teaspoonsful, in rounds, on a cookie sheet about one inch apart. Bake until the puffs are lightly browned and very light — about 20 minutes. Test by taking one out of the oven. If it falls and is soft rather than crisp, the puffs need longer cooking.

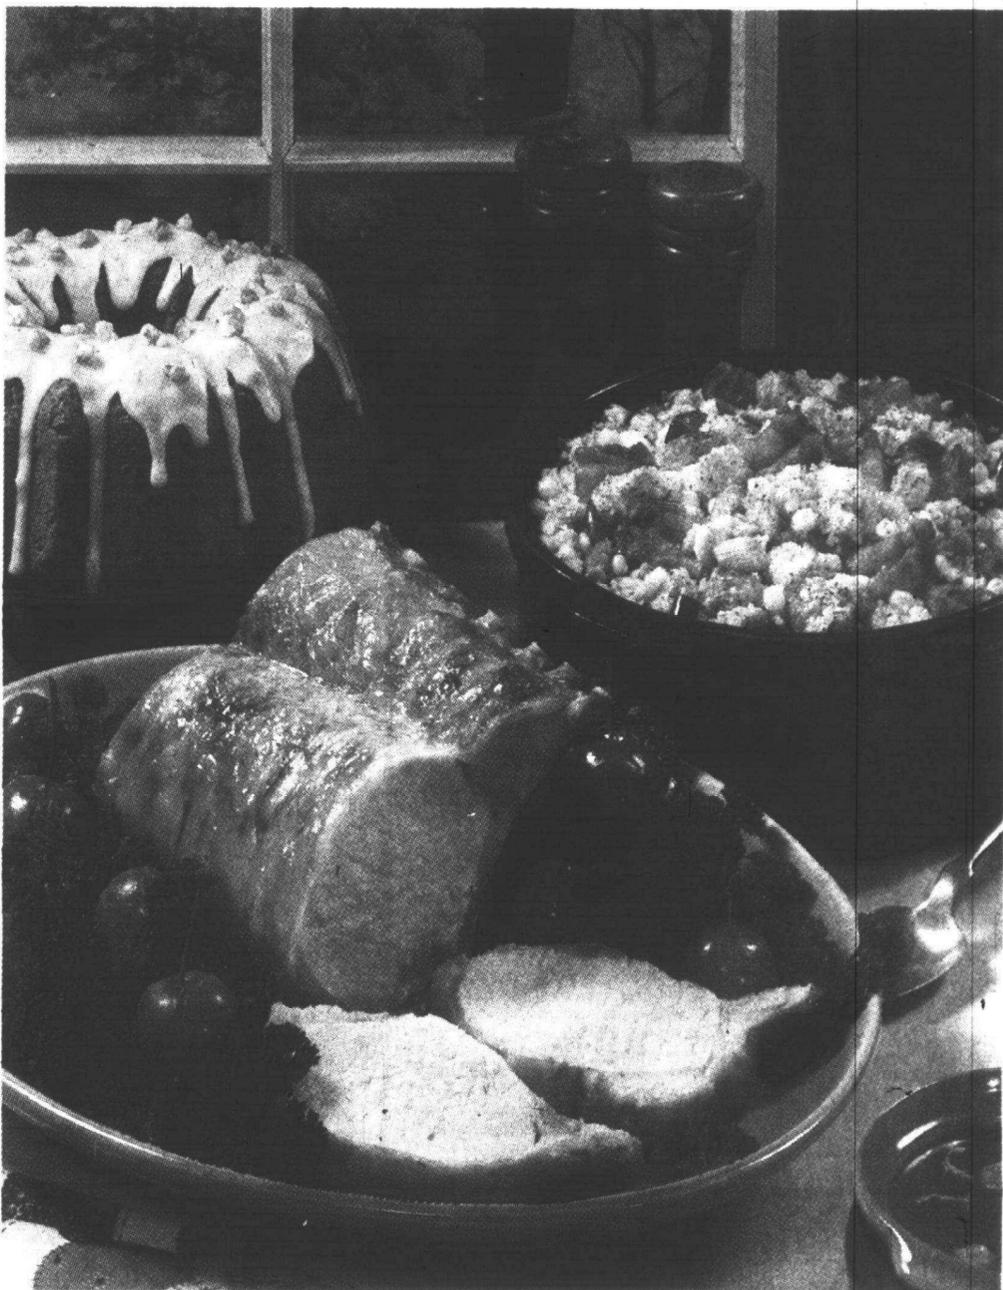

Cool, make a slight slit and fold back the top. Spoon in one of the following fillings.

Wrap well, freeze. Preheat in a moderate oven to serve as hot appetizers.

CRAB PUFFS: Grind one cup cooked crab meat in food chopper or blender. Add 1/4 cup finely chopped sautéed mushrooms, salt and pepper to taste. Fill cocktail puffs.

DEVILLED HAM PUFFS: Blend together 4 1/4 ounce can devilled ham, 2 tablespoons finely diced celery, two hard-cooked eggs, chopped; 1/4 teaspoon curry powder and one tablespoon mayonnaise. Fill puffs.

CHEESE PUFFS: Blend 1/4 pound Danish blue cheese with 4-ounce package cream cheese and about one tablespoon cream. Fill puffs.

Salute Autumn with America's Best

After months of spiraling food prices, the current excellent supply and attractive prices of all pork cuts are indeed reasons to celebrate. It's a pleasure to ease budget tensions with fresh loin roast, chops, steaks and ribs as well as smoked hams and shoulder rolls.

Pork is a fitting addition to autumn celebrations.

An appropriate partner to pork in a salute to autumn, its harvest of fine foods and its colorful displays, is corn meal. This native food is recognized as one of the major contributions to America's culinary arts.

While savoring corn meal's old-fashioned goodness and full-bodied taste, modern consumers also appreciate its convenience and economy.

For a meal as colorful as the season, bring to the table a handsome pork roast accompanied by a casserole brimming with Double Corn 'N Bacon dressing. The pork, accented with a rosy spiced crab apple sauce and garnish and the hearty dressing make a complementary partnership that boasts preparation convenience.

The roast, which requires little or no attention, shares the oven with the dressing. In a final crowning tribute to fall, end the meal with a warmly-spiced, apple-walnut harvest cake.

Autumn signals more hearty meals, and you'll be in step when you serve a Bountiful Pork and Vegetable Medley, a homey and braised entree. It is doubly delicious since both cubes of pork and pieces of smoked sausage combine with a bevy of fresh vegetables.

Corn meal again offers the perfect accompaniment, this time as Country Cheese 'N Chive spoon bread, a delightful adaptation of a traditional American creation.

Turn to Page 2C for recipes for Loin Roast, Spiced Crab Apple Sauce and Garnish, Corn and Bacon Dressing, Apple Walnut Harvest Cake and Browned Butter Icing.

Bountiful Pork and Vegetable Medley

2 pounds boneless pork shoulder, cut into 1-1/4 to 1-1/2-inch cubes
 1 pound smoked pork link sausage, cut into 2-inch diagonal pieces
 1/4 cup flour
 2 teaspoons salt
 1/4 teaspoon pepper
 2 tablespoons lard or drippings
 1 large onion, sliced
 1 tablespoon paprika
 1/2 cup water
 4 to 5 medium carrots, cut into 1-inch diagonal slices
 1 pound fresh green beans, broken into 2-inch pieces
 1 can (8 ounces) tomato sauce
 2 red peppers, cut into 1/4-inch strips

Combine flour, salt and pepper; dredge pork cubes and reserve excess flour. Brown pork cubes in lard or drippings in Dutch oven; stir in onion and cook slowly 2 minutes. Pour off drippings. Combine reserved flour and paprika; sprinkle over meat and onion and toss lightly to combine. Add water, cover tightly and cook slowly 1 hour. Stir in carrots and green beans and continue cooking, covered, 30 minutes. Stir in tomato sauce and red peppers; place sausage on top of meat and vegetables and continue cooking, covered, 15 minutes or until done. 6 to 8 servings.

Country Cheese 'N Chive Spoon Bread

3 cups milk
 1 cup enriched corn meal
 1 teaspoon salt
 1 cup (4 ounces) shredded Swiss cheese
 3 eggs, separated
 2 tablespoons chopped chives
 1 teaspoon baking powder
 Dash of pepper

Combine milk, corn meal and salt in heavy 3-quart saucepan; bring to a boil over medium-high heat, stirring occasionally. Reduce heat; cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, about 1 minute or until thickened. Remove from heat; add cheese, mixing until well blended. Stir in egg yolks, chives, baking powder and pepper. Beat egg whites until soft peaks form; fold into corn meal mixture. Pour into lightly oiled 1-1/2-quart casserole; bake in moderate oven (350°F.) 1 hour. Serve immediately. 6 servings.

Savory Sausage Scrapple

1 pound fresh pork sausage
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 1/4 teaspoon pepper
 1 can (5-1/3 ounces) evaporated milk
 1-1/2 cups water
 1 cup enriched corn meal
 2 to 3 tablespoons lard or drippings
 Syrup, if desired

Brown sausage in large frying-pan, separating into pieces. Pour off drippings. Sprinkle salt and pepper over meat. Combine milk and water; add to sausage. Heat mixture to boiling; slowly stir in corn meal and cook 5 minutes, stirring constantly. Place corn meal mixture in a greased 8-inch round cake pan; cover and chill until firm (overnight, if desired). Unmold and cut into 6 or 12 wedges. Brown wedges on both sides in lard or drippings. Serve hot with syrup, if desired. 6 servings.

Hearty harvest fare with pork

PORK LOIN ROAST

4- to 6-lb. pork loin roast
Spiced crab apple sauce and garnish

Place roast, fat side up, on rack in open roasting pan. Insert roast meat thermometer so the bulb is centered in the thickest part. Make certain bulb does not rest in fat or on bone. Do not add water; do not cover. Roast in a slow oven (325 degrees) until the thermometer registers 170 degrees. Allow 30 to 35 minutes per pound for a center loin roast; 35 to 40 minutes per pound for a half loin; 40 to 45 minutes per pound for a smaller blade or sirloin roast.

NOTE: Have the butcher loosen the chine (back) bone by sawing across the rib bones. When roasting is finished, the back bone can be removed easily by running the carving knife along the edge of the roast before the meat is placed on the platter to be carved.

SPICED CRAB APPLE SAUCE AND GARNISH

2 tbsp. cornstarch
1 tsp. sugar
½ tsp. ground cardamom
½ tsp. salt
1 jar (16 oz.) spiced crab apples
1 cup orange juice
1 tsp. lemon juice
1 tsp. grated orange rind, if desired
¼ cup golden raisins, plumped

Combine cornstarch, sugar, cardamom and salt in saucepan. Drain crab apples; stir syrup into cornstarch mixture. Add orange juice, lemon juice and orange rind (if desired); cook, stirring constantly until thickened. Reduce heat and cook slowly 2 to 3 minutes. Remove from heat and stir in raisins. Garnish platter with crab apples and serve sauce with fork. Yield: 2 cups.

DOUBLE CORN 'N' BACON DRESSING

1 pan corn bread, cooled and crumbled (recipe below)
6 cups soft ½-inch bread cubes
1 can (16 oz.) whole kernel corn, drained
2 tsp. sage
1 tsp. crushed thyme leaves
½ tsp. salt
¼ tsp. pepper
1 bouillon cube
1½ cups boiling water
2 cups sliced celery
6 slices bacon, cut in ¼-inch pieces
1 cup sliced green onions

Shopper survey

Plan before you shop. Make a list. Shop once a week, and check food ads.

These are all suggestions often given as ways to stretch the food dollar.

Are consumers practicing these hints? A recent look at shopping patterns indicates that many consumers are. Fifty-five percent of the consumers prefer to shop once a week. Two out of three use a shopping list and one out of three clip newspaper coupons. Fifty-seven percent of those who shop more than one supermarket do so to take advantage of specials.

Calling all kitchen klutzes for contest

Even if your crepes fall and come out like tire re-treads, you can still be a winner in the kitchen.

Nominations are now open for 1979's "Grand Klutz of the Year" award. The winning Klutz can be a woman or a man. The only qualification is that her or his cooking must be a disaster.

Nominations (that tell all) may be sent to Grand Award Contest, Kitchen Klutzes of America (KKA), Box 5250, Flint 48505.

Last year's winner was Jessie Moore of Montrose, Mich., who fried her husband some eggs in two-year-old bear grease that she mistook for bacon grease.

KKA is an organization of bad cooks that was formed in January 1978 by Joy Gallagher of Flint. The group has grown so rapidly that Ms. Gallagher has resigned her position as food editor of the Flint Journal to devote full time to it.

You may become a card-carrying, registered member by sending a long, self-addressed envelope stamped with 30 cents postage to the above address.

You may also subscribe to the KKA's newsletter for $12 a year. A sample copy of the newsletter will be included with the membership card.

The card includes the group's motto: "Sorry I burned the tossed salad," and the official KKA prayer:

"Grant me the serenity to accept the fact that I am a Kitchen Klutz; the courage to march into any potluck with my latest disaster borne proudly on a silver platter; and the wisdom to tell anyone who makes a wide remark to go stuff a green banana up his nose."

Ms. Gallagher is pleased to form the organization by letter from a minister's wife, Ms. [Name], who complained that her husband's cooking holiday every time she [Name] returned

'Wildlife Chef' has recipes

Cooks who are puzzled about what to do with wild game will find help in a book published by the Michigan United Conservation Clubs (MUCC).

"The Wildlife Chef" contains 400 recipes for cooking wild game and fish, as well as tips on field dressing, care of big and small game and fish, freezing and other aspects of the preparation of game and fish dishes. Special sections are devoted to breads and desserts, sauces and stuffings, camp cooking and edible wild plants of Michigan.

Copies of "The Wildlife Chef" may be obtained for $3.95 a copy, postpaid, by sending a check or money order to MUCC, Box 30235, Lansing, 48909.

Here are just two examples of the recipes to be found in the book:

PHEASANT CACCIATORE

2 pheasants
½ c. olive oil
1 large carrot, diced
¼ lb. butter
1 large can Italian style tomatoes
1 green pepper, seeded and diced
¾ c. dry sherry or white wine
2 large cloves of garlic, diced
1 box (7 oz.) fresh mushrooms, diced
1 can tomato paste
2 large ribs celery, diced
1 medium onion, chopped
½ t. oregano (optional)
salt and pepper to taste

Cut pheasant into serving pieces, place in deep baking dish or roaster. Sprinkle over it the garlic, celery, carrot, mushrooms, onion, green pepper.

Dot with butter, sprinkle with salt, pepper and oregano. Mix tomatoes with tomato paste and wine and spread all over the pheasant. Pour olive oil evenly over all. Bake in 450-degree oven 1½-2 hours or more until pheasant is tender and the tomato gravy is reduced to just short of being dry. Turn the pieces several times during baking. If the juices don't seem to be cooking fast enough, or the pheasant browning enough, turn oven heat up to 500 degrees near the end of the baking period.

BRUNSWICK STEW

2 pounds meat (disjointed rabbit, squirrels or partridges)
¼ c. oil
1 medium onion, chopped
1 diced lemon
1 c. tomatoes
1 c. lima beans
1 c. corn
salt, pepper

Brown meat in hot oil until brown, along with onions. Add 1 cup water and tomatoes and cover. Simmer until tender. Then add rest of vegetables and cook 10-15 minutes until done. Salt and pepper.

Autumn vegetables add color to menus

With school again in session, trying a few extra minutes to meal planning. The many good things growing in Michigan, including carrots, celery and cabbage, are great for adding extra touches to your fall menus.

Colorful additions may be soup made with carrots, onions, rice and vegetable stock. Another colorful dish is carrots glazed with honey and spices. If you're canning, try pickled carrots for a different treat this winter.

Carrots are the second highest volume fresh vegetable crop in Michigan, according to the Department of Agriculture. Weight watchers often choose celery for a snack because a whole pound contains only about 82 calories. Celery may also be used in salads, stews, chop suey and soups.

This fall, try moving celery off the relish tray by making celery fritters, baked celery ring or braised celery.

Cole slaw, sauerkraut and New England boiled dinner have long been favorite cabbage dishes. For a change of pace, try cabbage soup or French fried cabbage. Or stuff cabbage rolls with cheese combined with rice, vegetables, ham or corned beef.

Expectant mothers need proper diet

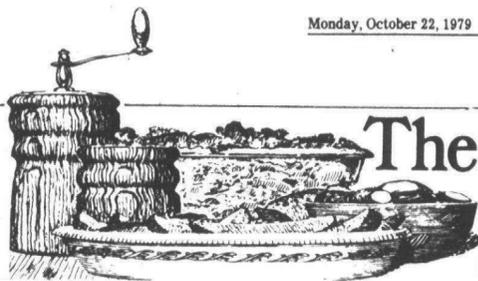

An expectant mother should spend as much time and energy in choosing her diet as she does in selecting the layette, fixing the nursery and organizing the home.

A mother needs to eat right to maintain her own health, and the nutrients in the food she eats are the ingredients that build the baby's brain, bones, skin, muscles, organs, blood, teeth and every other tissue.

A day's diet during pregnancy should contain two or more generous servings of meat, poultry or fish totaling six to nine ounces; one egg, four or more cups milk; two or more half cups or one piece fruit; two or more one-half cup servings vegetables; and four or more servings of bread or cereals.

Information on pregnancy and diet may be obtained by sending a stamped self-addressed envelope to "Eating for Your Baby to Be," Dept. MM, National Live Stock and Meat Board, 444 North Michigan, Chicago, Ill., 60611.

Flaming dishes, a sure-fire hit

The Happy Cooker

by Elayne Susan Stulberg

Scouts honor — one need not be a practicing pyromaniac or an arsonist to enjoy flaming dishes at the dinner table. This spectacular manner of food presentation has been around as long as the first distillation of spirits.

Unfortunately, many people feel that flaming dishes are esoteric feats of magic best left in the hands of a skilled chef or waiter. However, with a few simple rules your expertise will match that which is found in the finest restaurants.

Of prime importance to successful flaming is that spirits contain at least 20 percent alcohol. The greater the alcohol content, the greater the flame. For this reason it is wise to stay away from cooking wines. The alcohol content is low and the quality does absolutely nothing to enhance any recipe.

Remember, when you cook with spirits, the alcohol is burned off and only the flavor remains. So, to cook with anything less than you would consider drinking is a waste of time.

Novices may be hesitant about breaking open a new bottle of wine or brandy for cooking purposes. Be assured that they need not be rare, expensive collectibles. Also, such minute quantities per recipe are required that expense need not be a factor.

When you have rehearsed the techniques in today's column, have a private showing for your immediate family. After tasting their applause, you will feel confident enough to present the show to guests. And make no mistake about it — it is a beautiful show in which you are the STAR with the recipe playing an important supportive role.

Just don't upstage your presentation; one flaming dish per meal will do.

HERE ARE SOME simple rules to assure your success on your initial try:

- If the flambeed dish is an entree, plan on an appetizer, salad or soup to keep diners busy as they observe you at your work.

- Study recipe thoroughly. You must be able to accomplish table cookery without reading as you prepare the dish. After all, who would dream of attending a stage play where the star emotes while reading lines?

- You will find it easier if you warm spirits slightly, before adding them to recipe. Set a small glass with spirits into a container of hot water for a few minutes. As you gain more confidence, you may simply add spirits directly to food and ignite.

- Use long fireplace matches for igniting.

- If you have been cooking with a lot of fat, pour off excess before attempting to flame. Otherwise, smoking and burning may spoil the flavor of the recipe.

- Spirit amounts should be exactly as stated in the recipe. This is one time when "If a little is good, a lot will be better" does not apply. Too much will overpower and too little will do nothing for flavor.

- Chafing dishes are lovely but not essential unless you intend to do a good deal of table cookery in your home. You may use any good frying pan and some type of portable burner which uses liquid heat or sterno.

- Another practical idea is to have a serving cart or cloth covered bridge table nearby to hold all necessary utensils and ingredients.

Well, so much for helpful flaming hints and on with the recipes.

APRICOT DUCKING FLAMBE

2 dressed ducks, 3 lbs. each, split lengthwise
4 firm apricots
¾ cup apricot jam
1½ tsp. brandy
¼ cup apricot-flavored liqueur

Slash duck skins in diamond pattern to ¼-inch depth. Place, skin sides up, in broiler pan. Plunge apricots into boiling water for a moment. Remove, and peel off skin; slice two apricots thinly and arrange over duck surface. Roast in preheated 400 degree oven for 40 minutes or until preferred state of doneness when fork tested. Transfer to chafing dish or heat-proof platter and keep warm.

Mix jam and brandy, in kitchen, in top of double boiler. Bring ducks and jam-brandy mixture to table. Spoon mixture over ducks. If using chafing dish, allow ducks to cook over low flame for a few minutes while you slice remaining apricots to garnish finished recipe. Pour liqueur over all and ignite. When flame dies, serve ½ duck with garnish per person. Serves 4.

NOTE: Peaches, peach jam and peach-flavored liqueur may be substituted in this recipe as long as above amounts are adhered to.

SHRIMP SUPREME

¼ lb. butter or margarine
2 lbs. extra large (or jumbo) freshly-cooked, shelled shrimp
8 oz. can of mushroom slices, drained (or equal amount of fresh sliced mushrooms, sauteed in butter)
1 tsp. minced parsley flakes
Salt and pepper to taste
¼ cup dry sherry
¼ cup cognac
1 pt. heavy cream

Melt butter in chafing dish at table. Add shrimp and cook over low flame only until heated through. Stir in mushrooms and sprinkle with seasoning and parsley. Add sherry, stirring to blend all.

Pour cognac over ingredients and ignite. When flame dies, add cream, spooning mixture from bottom of pan over shrimp. Serve individually, on toast points, or over white or wild rice. Serves 6.

ZIPPY MUSHROOMS

2 lbs. medium-sized mushrooms, caps only
3 tbsp. olive oil
¼ tsp. garlic powder
2 oz. anisette

Rinse, remove stems and dry mushrooms. Reserve stems for another use. Heat oil in chafing dish (at table) and add mushroom caps and garlic powder. Cook caps only long enough to heat through while still retaining their crispness. Add anisette and ignite. Serves 6 as an entree accompaniment.

WELL-LIT CARROT PUREE

8 large carrots
Salt and pepper to taste
2 tsp. heavy cream
2 tsp. minced onion
1 tsp. minced parsley flakes
1 tsp. brown sugar
2 tsp. slivered almonds
¼ cup curacao

Wash, scrape and slice carrots very thin. Cook covered in small amount of water until tender. Drain, add salt and pepper and mash. Stir in heavy cream, onion, parsley and brown sugar, blending well. Stir in nuts.

Transfer to chafing dish or heat-proof platter and bring to table. Pour curacao over all and ignite. When flame dies, serve directly from pan or platter. Serves 6.

PEACH SAVORY

6 ripe (but firm) peaches
¼ cup brown sugar
3 tbsp. clarified butter (if you do not clarify, make certain to watch carefully so that butter will not burn)
¼ cup peach-flavored brandy
3 tbsp. shredded coconut

Plunge peaches into boiling water for a moment. Remove, peel skin, pit and slice peaches.

Take peaches and all ingredients to table. Light alcohol heat on cooking unit. Place chafing dish on top and heat brown sugar and butter until bubbly. Add peach slices and stir gently for 4-5 minutes. Pour brandy over fruit and ignite. Spoon syrup over fruit until flame dies. Add coconut and serve warm over vanilla ice cream. Serves 6.

CHOCOLATE CAFE

2 oz. chocolate mint-flavored liqueur
2 oz. chocolate-flavored brandy
2 oz. anisette (optional)
4 lumps sugar
1 tsp. vanilla
Sprinkling of cinnamon
1 cup strong coffee (double strength would be ideal)
2 cups sweet hot chocolate

In a brulot pot, small heat proof pitcher or chafing dish, combine spirits, sugar, vanilla and cinnamon. Heat through, stirring until warmed and ignite. When flame dies, add coffee and hot chocolate.

Blend and cook over low flame for a few minutes. Pour into demitasse cups and serve immediately. Quantity sufficient for seconds. Serves 6.

The artichokes are in!

by Vivian Byrd

A few years ago, when she was much less experienced with out-of-the-ordinary foods, a woman acquaintance of mine (no, I can't tell you her name, she's still embarrassed about this), was served artichokes vinaigrette at a dinner party.

Others around the table began peeling away the leaves one at a time. My friend did the same. She was munching away more-or-less happily for a short while. Then, simultaneously, she became aware of accumulations of discarded leaves on other plates and a similar buildup in the back of her own mouth.

Mortified, but keeping her cool, she quickly excused herself and disposed of the problem in the bathroom.

THE CORRECT way to eat an artichoke, which she quickly mastered, is to grasp the leaf tip with the fingers, scrape off the fleshy part between the teeth, then discard the tough stringy remainder. Start with the outer leaves and work inward to the small leaves that cover the choke, the hairy center growth.

Pull the cone out with the fingers and scrape the choke out with a spoon. Eat the heart with a knife and fork.

Artichokes are in season from October to June, generally more available in spring and fall when the plentiful supply cuts the price, making them more attractive to shoppers and grocers more likely to stock them.

Just last week, the first shipment of this fall's crop arrived in area grocery aisles, a little earlier than usual. They are expected to be priced about 49 cents each through the month of October.

In the U.S., they are grown in the southwest, California mostly, but some in Arizona. Mexico also ships artichokes to the U.S.

THE FRENCH have cultivated artichoke plants since the beginning of the 16th century. "Larousse Gastronomique," a cooking encyclopedia, devotes nearly four full pages to them, an indication that they are highly valued.

The French also enjoy baby artichokes, a size not usually marketed here. When quite young and tender, they are eaten raw with just a little salt.

Some cooks are intimidated by this odd-looking vegetable. However, it is relatively simple to prepare and has great versatility. Artichokes can be boiled or baked, served simply with a sauce or stuffed with other vegetables, meat mixtures, or breadcrumbs mixed with olive oil and garlic.

The hearts can be removed and used in any number of ways.

BASIC RECIPE

6 artichokes, prepared as shown below
7 to 8 quarts boiling water
1½ tsp. salt per quart of water

To prepare artichokes for cooking, first snap off the stem and break off any small leaves around the base. With a sharp knife, make a cut across the bottom. The bottom should be flat. To prevent discoloration, rub any cuts with lemon juice.

Lay the artichoke on its side and slice about three-quarters of an inch off the top. Trim the points of the remaining leaves with scissors.

Boil 35 to 40 minutes in a large pot. They are done when the leaves come out easily. Remove from the pot and drain upside down.

Served hot with melted butter, lemon butter or Hollandaise sauce; or cold with vinaigrette dressing, mayonnaise or a mustard sauce.

LEMON BUTTER

With a wire whisk, combine ½ cup (1 stick) melted butter and 1½ tablespoons lemon juice and a dash of ground black pepper. Serve in a small container alongside the artichoke or gently spread the top leaves, pull out the leaf cone, remove the choke and pour the sauce inside the vegetable.

MUSTARD SAUCE

2 tbsp. Dijon mustard
3 tbsp. boiling water
½ cup salad oil or olive oil
Salt and pepper
1 to 3Tbsn. lemon juice
1 tbsp. parsley

Put the mustard in a small bowl. Beating with a wire whisk, add the water by drops. Add the oil a little at a time, beating the mixture into a creamy sauce. Add lemon juice to taste, salt, pepper and parsley.

HERBED STUFFED ARTICHOKE

½ cup dry bread crumbs
¼ cup grated Parmesan cheese
½ cup chopped parsley
¼ cup chopped chives
1 tsp. grated onion
½ clove garlic, grated
4 tbsp. softened butter

Prepare the artichokes using above directions for boiled artichokes, but do not boil. Press the stuffing down well within the side leaves and into and across the top. Arrange in a casserole that can also used as a serving dish, with about an inch of water in the bottom.

Dribble olive oil over the artichokes, cover and bake in a 350-degree oven for 1½ hours, or until the leaves pull out easily. Stuffing should be sufficient for four artichokes.

Comments or recipes you would like to share are welcomed, and should be addressed to Vivian Byrd, The Eccentric, 1225 Bowers, Birmingham, MI 48012. Please include full name, address and telephone number (for checking details).

It's not Williamsburg, but, then, maybe it's better

'Through the wooden doors, Congleton may be seen working on a lightweight buggy. Curved pieces of hickory wood hang over his head, drying. Congleton makes buggies for farmers who can afford to keep a fast trotter in the barn next to their team of work horses or oxen used for heavy hauling.'

— From Bettie Waddell Cannon's "All About Franklin."

Franklin's Buggy Works, a blacksmith shop which was owned by George Congleton from 1849 to 1876. It still stands at 32760 Franklin Road. (Photo by Allen Schlossberg)

By BETTIE WADDELL CANNON

Travelers scuff through leaves fallen from 200-year-old oaks on their tour of the main street of this village.

They eat lunch in the parlor of an 1840 Greek Revival house, or stroll into the old graveyard, or sip new cider beside a river from which water powered the machinery of settlers and farmers.

This place is not Williamsburg or Old Sturbridge Village, but the closer-to-home Franklin Village, Michigan's first historic district, in southeastern Oakland County.

You can take the same nostalgic walking tour, after driving out to the village, west of Telegraph Road, east of Orchard Lake Road, between 13 and 14 Mile roads.

Park the car at the Franklin Cider Mill, which is open seven days a week, at 14 Mile and Franklin Road. Ignore, for now, if you can, the pungent smell of cider and the spicy fragrance of doughnuts cooking. You will return later to partake of these delights and to buy apples and grapes, comb honey and sausages.

Walk south across 14 Mile into the village and you enter Southfield Township. The township, like all those in Michigan, is six miles square and contains 36, one-mile-square sections. The original village of Franklin encompassed sections five and six, and began as two large farms. Although the cider mill, once a flour mill, influenced Franklin's economic and social life for 150 years, it is not in Franklin at all. It is across township boundaries in Bloomfield Township.

THE INTERSECTION where you stand was once the busiest in Franklin. Two mills, a distillery, a cheese factory, and blacksmith and shoe shops were located here. On the southwest corner was an early tavern, later a post office, made of logs. The tavernkeeper sold whiskey to weary settlers who were making their way into their bush-filled acreage.

In the 1850s, farmers stopped at the village taverns after delivering wagon loads of wheat to the grist mill. Legend has it that sometimes they stayed two or three days.

Just a few steps south, on the corner of Evelyn

Court, stands one of the oldest structures in Franklin. It was the home of Peter and Amy Van Every when they came to Franklin to build the mill in 1837 — the year Michigan became a state. South across Evelyn Court is the home of Franklin's first well-digger, who was also a justice of the peace. One of his court cases involved his brother's wife, who was accused of disturbing the peace.

The red frame building south of this spot is the Franklin Hotel and is thought to have been a stage stop until the early 1900s. The hotel once was a battleground between "wets" and "drys" in Franklin.

In what is now Gorbacks' Photography Shop, Elijah Bullock, the second settler in Franklin, also established a tavern. It is the oldest building in Franklin and was a barber shop in the 1800s complete with a singing quartet on the front veranda.

Walking south, you find the village green on your right. This used to be farmland. A historical marker placed there in 1960 by the grandson of original settlers marks the place. South of the green is a gray frame house, now the village offices and police department.

This house was owned in 1866 by Daniel Broughton, who, it is said, eloped one snowy night with the daughter of Peter Van Every, mill owner. You may go into this building. Your tour should continue going south and uphill on Franklin Road. Just above the Broughton House is the site of Franklin's first log schoolhouse which held 29 scholars its first summer session in 1828. The children, often missed recess when they were caught walking the wooden fence around the graveyard.

Go through the large wrought iron gates to your left on Scenic Highway and enter the 150-year-old cemetery. It was built on a sandy ridge to make it easier for men to dig new graves; the cemetery holds ancestors of many Southfield and Franklin people who still manage the cemetery.

Walk back to Franklin Road, cross the street and retrace your steps north through the village. Atop the hill is the historic Franklin school.

AT THE FOOT of School Hill, the place for many wild sled rides on past winter days, is the little red schoolhouse built in 1828. Picture the road as a sandy lane deeply rutted from heavy grain and lumber wagons pulled by teams of horses.

North of the school are two pleasant, narrow streets — German Mill and Carol. Though none of the houses are open to the public, it is worth a walk into the quaint part of the village. These small homes are typical of those built in the 19th century by tinsmiths, coopers, millers and other tradesmen who served farmers of the time. At the foot of German Mill are the remnants of an old mill race and the footings of another flour mill.

Between German Mill and Carol Streets on Franklin Road is a large brick house built in 1901 on the site of the first brick house in Oakland County, which was destroyed. The two-story grocery store a few steps north was originally built as the Macabees Lodge Hall and had meeting rooms upstairs.

Ahead is one of the most interesting sections of the village. The Franklin Tea Room is housed in the former George Congleton House, which was built right next door to the Congleton Blacksmith Shop and Buggy Works. This was common practice in rural villages but later ignored by modern-day workers who insist on the separation of work and home.

The former blacksmith shop was destroyed by fire recently and is being reconstructed on old lines. It is to be re-opened in November as a gift shop. The tall building next door, now a beauty salon, once was a billiards hall and was built in 1914 by the last Van Every to live in Franklin.

The next structure on your tour is the Van Every Mansion. It was from this house that Lovinia Van Every eloped with Daniel Broughton.

NOW FOLLOW your nose to the cider mill. Step inside the dim, heavy-beamed building. Cider is pressed from apples while you watch, and you can buy cider and hot doughnuts and go out back to see the over-shot water wheel turning the waters of Franklin River.

Perhaps, as you enjoy the scent of apples, the sound of the river still steaming by and the sight of fellow travelers, you will take time to reflect on this bit of local history.

Bettie Waddell Cannon of West Bloomfield is the author of "All About Franklin: From Pioneers to Preservation," recently published by the Four Corner's Press under the sponsorship of the Franklin Historical Society.

Ms. Cannon is a freelance writer who has worked for 18 months researching and writing this local history.

The book tells the story of Franklin people and includes settlers of 1824, the farming families of the 1850s, the tradesmen who served them, and the suburban residents of the 20th century. Newspaper accounts, ledgers, diaries, government records, oral histories and interviews were used to compile the 150-page book.

TRAVEL LOG of Iris Jones have been used to warm food and how this bell system was once used to alert servants to Miss Elizabeth's needs."

WHILE WE FOLLOW the litany attentively, we hear others whispering to the docents behind us. They are not allowed to comment on the murder, but they all roll their eyes to heaven when they acknowledge that Miss Elizabeth's adopted daughter was acquitted. Miss Elizabeth was a popular old lady in Duluth.

Wyness knew Miss Elizabeth all his life, from the day he followed his landscaper-father to the gardener's house on the edge of the flowerbeds at age 6, through the days of the horses and the ice house, to the moment when house became a museum.

He and his wife live in the small house at the edge of the garden; it was small at least by turn-of-the-century standards, although most of us would be pleased to live in it. Every day he ties back plants, weeds the gardens, and otherwise cares lovingly for the estate that has always meant life to him.

For the tourist, the house is more likely to signify death.

Its fascination goes beyond the gardens and the chandeliers, to the house as a setting for murder. Oddly enough, a murder mystery film was produced in this house and is shown regularly on late night television. It is called, ironically, "You'll Like My Mother."

DULUTH, Minn. — Robert Wyness is part of the people experience — a slim gray-haired man who has lived in the gardener's house at the Glensheen mansion since he was 6 years old.

His father was a gardener for the wealthy Fisk family in Boston, when the owner of this house, a mining magnate called Chester Congdon, lured him here to these gardens on the edge of Lake Superior. Wyness remembers the horses, and the ice wagons of the-old days. He also remembers the murder that ended the private life of this house two years ago.

MURDER is part of the human experience, too. Unfortunately, it can give to this elegant mansion a morbid fascination a tourist might not otherwise feel when touring an old house.

MISS ELIZABETH, the last surviving child of the original owners, was murdered in her bed in the upstairs bedroom two years ago. There, on that staircase, her nurse was bludgeoned to death with a brass candlestick.

Miss Elizabeth was in her 80's. Her son-in-law was convicted of the murder and her adopted daughter cleared of a charge of conspiracy. Duluth residents followed this trial with horror and fascination, but the tour guides in the mansion are not allowed to talk about it. This naturally makes everyone even more curious than they were to begin with.

The house was willed to the University of Minnesota at Duluth and has been open to the public since July 1979. More than 37,000 people have walked its elegant carpets since then. To compound the unreal feeling you carry with you through the mansion, your tour guide might very well be Vera Dunbar, who was Miss Elizabeth's business secretary and knows hundreds of details about the house.

"In this room you see the marble, vases and lamps imported from the Middle East." In this front hallway, there is a Persian rug that once belonged to a monarch. See how the hot water pipes under the kitchen sink

LOUISE SNIDER

Stingy plot works for 'Starting Over'

This seems to be an age of statistics. Sometimes the most trivial information is given numerical status as if, somehow, it's an important parameter of our civilization. For example, the number of third-down conversions quarterback Bunk Roundpaw made when he played on his home field and the temperature was below freezing. See what I mean?

Well, I've unearthed a statistic just as meaningful: The number of times Jill Clayburgh has played a woman whose life was determined by some fateful event at Bloomingdale's. Twice. In "An Unmarried Woman" her husband leaves her for a woman he met at the shirt counter. In "Starting Over" (R) her lover gets an anxiety attack and starts to hyperventilate while shopping for a sofa. She quickly grasps the import of his indisposition. He feels guilty about setting up house with her; he is still in love with his ex-wife.

No earthshaking event here, just a stingily plotted film with as much impact as the Bloomingdale statistic. "Starting Over" is your old romantic triangle given a hip facade because it involves a divorced male. Burt Reynolds is the man in the middle — torn between his new love (Clayburgh) and his attachment to his ex-wife (Candice Bergen).

Reynolds, his macho swagger tucked away, is a discarded husband. Since one assumes that a professional actor should be capable of projecting a variety of personalities, I'm not sure why his toned down image should stir anyone to exalted remarks about his acting, but it has.

Actually, Bergen is much more of a surprise and a delight in her comic performance. She has embraced the single life so that she can express herself and develop her career as a singer and songwriter. She scores a hit with a pseudo women's lib song which she sings in an abominably flat, caterwauling voice.

The film is at its best in moments like these when it pokes fun at our cherished characteristics, such as the popular taste for bad music or tolerance of unctuous psychology. When Charles Durning and Frances Sternhagen, as Reynolds' psychiatrist brother and sister-in-law, project those "We share your suffering, we understand your hurt" looks, you just want to punch them out.

Those are the high points of the comedy; the rest gets low marks for wit. Clayburgh gets dunked in a tub of water. Reynolds get accosted by a blind date. (It might have been funny if the date were really blind, but that would have been a Monty Python production, not an Alan J. Pakula one.)

Even so, the film might have been passable if it preserved some truth in its characters. When Clayburgh, as the insecure, dowdy school teacher is shown charming the wristbands off a handsome pro-basketball player — about two feet taller and 10 years younger than she — that's stretching credibility too far.

Most people probably won't mind the cuteness, because "Starting Over" has a strong cast and a smart look. It's a hodge podge of conservative values masquerading as risqué, and that's usually a winning combination.

Jill Clayburgh as Caterina Silveri, a famous American opera singer, in "Luna." The 20th Century production opens Oct. 26 in the Detroit area. Barry Matthews debuts as her son.

Dance troupe on TV

The Nikolais Dance Theater documents the choreography and performance of "Aviary," a dance piece created by Alwin Nikolais. Performers in the multi-media theater include Gerald Ott (left). The hour-long program will be on Channel 56 at 9 p.m. Wednesday.

DSO in Orchestra Hall birthday concert

Antal Dorati will conduct the Detroit Symphony Orchestra at Orchestra Hall in a birthday concert at 8 p.m. Tuesday in celebration of Orchestra Hall's 60th anniversary.

The occasion will mark the first time the full orchestra has performed at Orchestra Hall before a live audience in more than 40 years.

The program includes Haydn's Overture to "L'isola disabitata," Beethoven's Symphony No. 7, and Brahms' Symphony No. 1.

Dorati and the symphony musicians are contributing their services for this concert in honor of the hall's birthday. Proceeds will be divided between the Detroit Symphony Orchestra and Orchestra Hall.

Birthday cake and champagne will be given to the audience after the concert to commemorate Orchestra Hall's first program, on Oct. 23, 1919. The hall was quickly acclaimed an acoustical marvel and became a favorite place to perform for many artists.

Tickets are $15 for general admission. Patrons tickets are $25. Patrons may list $10 as a tax-exempt contribution.

Tickets are on sale at the Orchestra Hall box office, 3711 Woodward. Box office hours are noon to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. The telephone number is 833-3700.

Glimpses

NEW RELEASES

THE AMITYVILLE HORROR (R). James Brolin and Margot Kidder look for a "dream house" and find a nightmare.

AMERICATHON (PG). Wild, but maybe not too wild, tale of giant telethon to erase the national debt as U.S. goes broke in 1998.

BEYOND THE POSEIDON ADVENTURE (PG). Sequel about the upended ship with adventurers after the "spoils," while more passengers are found wandering about. Can you believe it?

THE CONCORDE — AIRPORT '79 (PG). Latest entry in "Airport" series is the silliest yet. All-star cast can't save this.

THE DEER HUNTER (R). An emotionally gripping and violent film about the lives of three friends from a small steel town as they are affected by the Vietnam war.

DRACULA (R). A scary and very sensual remake of "Dracula" with Frank Langella in the title role he played on Broadway.

ESCAPE FROM ALCATRAZ (PG). Clint Eastwood and director Don Siegel team up again to create a tense, taut drama from the conventions of the prison escape film.

THE IN-LAWS (PG). Hilarious comedy with Peter Falk and Alan Arkin as near-relatives who not only plan a wedding but ripoff the U.S. Mint.

LOST AND FOUND (PG). George Segal and Glenda Jackson are paired again in romantic comedy about a "fractured" couple who meet in the Swiss Alps and decide to yodel on through life together.

THE MAIN EVENT (PG). Barbra Streisand is a perfume manufacturer who manages a retired boxer, Ryan O'Neal, in comedy about the fight game.

A MAN, A WOMAN AND A BANK (PG). Caper movie doesn't cut much of a caper as engineer and computer expert team up to rob a bank.

MANNHATTAN (R). The inhabitants are somewhat frayed, but the Big Apple looks glorious in Woody Allen's witty peek at the pairings and partings among New York literati.

MONTE PYTHON'S LIFE OF BRIAN (R). Totally irreverent, completely zany story tracing the life of Brian Cohen, a peasant born at the same time as Christ.

MOONRAKER (PG). James Bond (Roger Moore) in space adventure with Lois Chiles for company and Richard Kiel (the metalmouthed "Jaws") for challenge in most spectacular of the 007 films.

MORE AMERICAN GRAFFITI (PG). George Lucas's very successful continuation of "American Graffiti" examines the lives of seven of the original characters and their problems in the troubled '60s.

MR. MIKE'S MONDO VIDEO (R). TV film is collection of bizarre events in continuing, exploitive, downgraded rip-off of "Mondo Cane."

THE MUPPET MOVIE (G). Anyone who doesn't like this movie is probably in need of immediate CPR. A host of stars make cameo appearances but none outshines Jim Henson's laughable, lovable muppets as they head for Hollywood.

NORTH DALLAS FORTY (R). Fine performances from Nick Nolte and Mac Davis as pro-football players in film that takes hard look at the commercialism of the game.

THE ONION FIELD (R). Joseph Wambaugh's powerful drama of a shoot-out and the consequences for the policeman involved.

PEPPERMINT SODA (PG). Charming account of two adolescent sisters growing up in Paris in 1936.

RICH KIDS (PG). Tender, funny film about the effects of divorce on children and about the friendship of two intelligent 12-year-olds.

The VIEW from CANTON CENTER

WHEN THE MICHIGAN Art Education Association has its fall conference in the Troy Hilton, the official title of the meeting will be "A Gathering of Friends."

The four-day meet, Nov. 1-4, will have a special meaning to area residents as the friends of the late Martha Laible Stilec pay tribute to the young art teacher who died in February in an unusual automobile accident. Two years ago at the MAEA conference, Martha was named Michigan Art Educator of the Year by her peers.

Her family has been invited to attend the Saturday evening banquet at the conference. Charles Stilec, Martha's husband; Bea and Graham Laible, her parents; Mary and Craig Mauro of Manasquan, N.J., her sister and brother-in-law; and Richard Laible of Hillsdale College, her brother, plan to be there. Her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William Hartmann, will be unable to attend because Mr. Hartmann is recuperating from surgery.

by ELLIE

Following the banquet, John Prusak will show the film, "Reflections," which he dedicated to Martha. During the conference T-shirts and book bags will be available in the lobby. Proceeds from the sale of these will go to the Martha Stilec Memorial Fund.

THE FUND was established in the spring. Martha taught at Wildwood Elementary School in the Wayne-Westland Schools. The memorial fund will be self-perpetuating and will provide art scholarships to seniors graduating from Wayne Memorial and John Glenn high schools. The money can be used by the recipients to buy art supplies or to continue their educations in art.

The first two scholarships were presented in June. Donations still are coming into the fund which is being administered by the Wayne-Westland Board of Education.

Martha was a graduate of Plymouth High School. When she died, she was on the last year of three-year grant she had received to instruct film making to her students at Wildwood.

THE CONFERENCE brochure lists the two other familiar names.

Theresa Ohno will be the instructor Friday afternoon in a three-hour session on basketry. The workshop will be suitable for art teachers of students from the seventh to 12th grades.

In her class, Mrs. Ohno will instruct basket construction from reeds and wood splints.

Wilma Halliburton of Folkways Gallery has a three-hour session Saturday afternoon. Her "Mosaics All Around" will deal with the use of mosaics in and out of the classroom and creating mosaics as an individual or community experience.

LYNDA BLUNT of Jo Ann Lane, Plymouth, is chairing the seventh annual arts and crafts show which will be from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 20 in the Farmington Community Center.

Lynda will be among the 40 juried exhibitors featured in the show. Her field is custom country painting and ole painting.

Other artists and craftsmen from the area who are participating are Ms. Ohno, baskets; Evelyn Gilbert, baby's breath, strawflower arrangements, ribbon roses and Christmas arrangements; Sharron Davy, band boxes, and Carol Buckley, handmade, painted denim.

Visitors to the center at 24705 Farmington Road, between 10 and 11 Mile Roads, will be able to buy light lunches and baked goods. Free parking is available.

JANET RICHWINE opened her home Sunday afternoon for the Business and Professional Women's Club membership tea. Janet is president of the club.

Elaine Love, membership chairperson, chaired the formal tea which attracted 40 guests. She and Gerrie Wireman poured at the tea table with its colorful arrangement of autumn flowers.

The guests included representatives of all facets of the business community — women who own their own businesses, women in management, and who worked in other capacities. Ten members of the club were on hand to welcome the guests and discuss the work of the BPW.

MARGARET BAUDE of Maple Avenue, Plymouth represented six chapters of the PEO Sisterhood when she attended the 54th biennial convention of the International Chapter PEO at Disneyland Hotel, Anaheim, Calif.

She was among more than 1,400 delegates representing chapters in the United States and Canada.

Ms. Baude said Dr. Daniel G. Aldrich Jr., chancellor, University of California, told the women they were ahead of their time. The PEO members have been doing something about education for women for more than a century.

Judy Morgan's grey flannel slacks and navy blazer were from Sacks of Forest Avenue. Bill Hall's grey fine line pin stripe suit from Lent's was a designer double-breasted by Adolfo of Italy.

'Symphony of Fashions' orchestrated by league

"Symphony of Fashions" the annual autumn luncheon and parade of fashions arranged by the Plymouth Symphony League, had a new theme this year.

The 250 women who gathered at Meadow Brook Country Club Wednesday saw designer models in lush velours, wools and knits. From the elegant to the casual, every item was provided by hometown shops. The Symphony Leaguers made their point: "Do your shopping, for the whole family, in your local stores."

With Connie Heidt at the piano providing background music for the models, Aiden Broderick commented on the fashions. The majority of the models were Symphony League members and their children.

Because it was an innovation — the first time so many shops had been involved in the show — merchant cooperation was responsible for its success. Those who did not participate in the fashion show itself, added to the excitement by providing valuable prizes.

THE LIST of shops who supported the event includes: Armbruster Bootery, Accent Bin, Beautiful People, Claire Kelly, Geneva's, John Smith, Lent's, Minerva's Dunning's, New Gal in Town, Pendleton Shop, Reflections Boutique, Sophisticats of Plymouth, Van Dam's, The Shoe Attic, Kay's, Sacks of Forest Avenue, In the Meantime, O & D Bush Jewekers, Audette Office Supplies, Bed N' Stead, Beitner Jewelry, and Bluford Jewelers.

Life of colonists portrayed by Schaws

The history of the United States may be dull to some students, but not to Donna and Bob Schaw of Plymouth Salem High School.

Their particular interest is the Colonial period. With the aid of a friend, Kathy Benson, they recently helped bring the period alive in Bob Kroeger's history class with a display of Colonial costumes and artifacts, either authentic or faithful reproductions.

The collection came about as a result of the Schaw family's hobby. All four, Donna, 17, and Bob, 15, and their mother and father, Penny and Dick, are members of the Crowns Colonists.

THIS IS A FAMILY group created by their cousin, Albert Mille of Howell. Mille grew tired of belonging to a Civil War skirmish unit and decided to start something unique.

He drafted his mother and father, Al and Lucille Mille of Wayne, and his sister, Beth, as members. The group set out acquiring and making Colonial artifacts and costumes for display at historical meetings at Greenfield Village and Fort Wayne.

Their goal was to display how a Colonial family lived and worked.

Mrs. Schaw was leading a Plymouth Girl Scout troop in 1976, and called on her cousin to present his display in West Middle School as a Bicentennial salute to scouting.

It looked like so much fun, the Schaws decided to join their cousins.

SINCE THEN, the group has grown to 12 members. The youngest is 3-year-old Becky Mille, who wore Colonial costumes even before she was out of Pampers.

Friends of Beth and Donna have become members, and on occasion the Schaws have taken along guests such as Venezuelan and Chilean exchange students.

Also members of the troupe are a Labrador retriever and a St. Bernard.

The Crowns Colonists generally set up their displays at Greenfield Village about twice a year, and visit other meetings as time permits and as invitations come in.

They have visited Michigan's Fort Wayne several times, and have been at Old French Town Days in Monroe. They also have been at Fiddler's Green.

in Ohio, and last month they went to the Feast of the Hunter's Moon in Lafayette, Ind.

EACH FAMILY MEMBER has made such things as his own wooden spoon. The group has also made a set of four hand-sewn tents, and in theory they sleep in these as they camp out. Not always, though, confesses Donna. It seems that these tents provide very little protection against mosquitos.

The Schaws have an authentic broad-axe and fireman's axe in their collection. Other items they have made or bought from others who share their interest in history. Donna is acquiring a collection of wooden Colonial toys.

Looking at the collection, it appears that the Colonists had some good ideas. One is a tasting spoon, grooved down the middle and with a bowl at both ends. To take a taste, the Colonial lady would let the soup run down the spoon to the bowl she was holding. She never tasted from the end that went back in the pot, and the soup also cooled down a little in traveling down the spoon.

Another good space-saving idea is a plate called a "trencher." Made of wood, it has a bowl on one side for soup. Turn it over, and the other side is a flat dish.

The Schaws have a flintlock musket reproduction in curly maple. This was made by their cousin, who also uses antimore Cleaners, Natural You Salon, and Pat's Fabric.

Also Plymouth Furniture, Plymouth Hilton, Plymouth Book World, Saxton's Garden Center, Stitch 'n Tyme, Jerry's Bicycles, Miller Kaminsky Interiors, The Mayflower, Me and Mr Jones, Clothes Tree Plus and The Willow Tree.

Proceeds from the event will go to the support of the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra.

ALL OF THE SCHAWS wear costumes to which a great deal of thought and research has been given. Donna has become a real expert in this department, although it's Mrs. Schaw who does the sewing.

Father and son wear the working dress of the 1700s, loose-fitting and loosely-woven clothes of cotton. Buttons are made of wood or from deer antlers.

rs. Schaw also has a working dress, a simple cotton blouse and skirt, although it is embellished with an embroidered "pocket" a portable pocket.

Donna wears what would have been a ball gown of the Colonial times. It is made of silk and taffeta, with wide panniers.

Mrs. Schaw is also an expert at quilting, and Donna takes along a rug she has been hooking for the past three years.

At the various exhibits, the Schaws talk to many people about Colonial times and crafts.

"Many people tell me that they are interested in learning these crafts today," commented Mrs. Schaw.

Donna Schaw's ball gown dates back to the late 18th century. Bob Schaw wears typical male work clothing of that era. (Staff photos by Gary Caskey)

Utensils are from the 1750s to the 1780s.

VD meeting coming Oct. 24

A conference on forming a coalition to take action against venereal disease will be held Wednesday, Oct. 24, in Detroit. Interested persons and representatives of organizations are invited to attend the meeting, beginning at 8:30 a.m., in the board room of the Comprehensive Health Planning Council, 13th floor, 1200 Book Building. It will continue until 12 noon.

The meeting is being sponsored by the United Community Services of Metropolitan Detroit and the American Social Health Association.

Conference organizers, Richard F. Huegli and Dr. Max T. Lichter, point out that venereal disease has reached epidemic proportions across the country, especially in Southeastern Michigan and especially among adolescents.

VD affects newborn children as well as innocent adults; it affects the wealthy as well as the poor; and its consequences affect the entire community.

The UCS board has recommended that a coalition for action be formed, and that it should be community-based and reflect a broad spectrum of groups.

Speakers at the meeting will include E. J. McClendon, School of Public Health, University of Michigan; and Dr. Thomas Chapel, director, Social Hygiene Clinic, Detroit Department of Public Health.

Donald Clough, executive director, American Social Health Association, will discuss the national picture, and Dr. Lichter will talk about the local situation.

Joseph Lughermo will moderate an audience discussion period.

Annual dinner dance at Hilton Oct. 26

Area residents will have an opportunity to dine and dance Friday, Oct. 26 with "Plymouth's finest" when the Plymouth Police Officers Association has its annual dinner dance in the Plymouth Hilton.

There will be a sit-down dinner and entertainment. The Santini Band, featuring vocalist Kim Gimbaugh, has been engaged for dancing.

PPOA president Mike Gardner says planning for the party has been a "total group effort." Barb Carpenter is taking reservations at $20 for a couple. She can be reached at 455-4799. Festivities will begin at 8 p.m.

Athletic equipment boxes on school playing fields, the bike racks at Growth Works, the sign on the back of a baseball scoreboard and other charitable contributions have been made possible with proceeds from the annual dinner dance.

Bazaars

FIGEL PTO

The Fiegel Elementary School PTO will sponsor a Christmas bazaar at the school on Joy Road east of the expressway from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 1.

Persons wishing to donate crafts to the sale, or those who would like to have a craft table of their own can call 397-0250 or 397-1184.

PLYMOUTH FIRST METHODIST

United Methodist Women of First United Methodist Church of Plymouth will have their annual Christmas Boutique from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Friday, Nov. 16 in the church on North Territorial west of Sheldon Road. Admission and parking are free. Babysitting provided for 25 cents per hour.

There will be 43 tables of crafts. Coffee and doughnuts will be served from 9:30 until 11:30 a.m. Lunch will be served from 11:30 to 1 p.m.

CHERRY HILL METHODIST

The women of Cherry Hill United Methodist Church, Ridge Road south of Cherry Hill, Canton Township, will have a bazaar from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 10.

There will be dolls, doll houses, crafts, pottery, and other items.

Lunch will be served. There will be six varieties of homemade soups, homemade cookies and old-fashioned homemade ice cream as well as tea and coffee. No admission charge and free parking.

MT. HOPE CONGREGATIONAL

Mt. Hope Congregational Church, 30330 Schoolcraft, Livonia will have a Hidden Treasures Bazaar from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 27.

There will be Christmas crafts, a pastry shop, plants, cannery, and a White Elephant Boutique.

Luncheon will be served from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. Coffee will be served all day.

THE NATIVITY OF THE VIRGIN MARY

GREEK ORTHODOX CHURCH

Two-day bazaar at the church, 39851 Five Mile Road west of Haggerty Road in Plymouth Township, will run from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Thursday and Friday, Nov. 1 and 2.

An array of Greek delicacies, a Christmas shop, crafts, imports and a specialty shop are planned. There will be prizes, and a continuous luncheon with Greek specialties will be served beginning at 11:30 a.m. both days.

Lamaze method of childbirth classes begin

Couples who are expecting a baby in January, February and March 1980 should make arrangements now for classes in the Lamaze Method of childbirth offered by the Plymouth Childbirth Education Association.

The seven-week classes teach the techniques of relaxation, breathing and psychological preparation for childbirth. Lamaze is the leading method of educated birth today.

The Plymouth association offers both day and evening classes throughout the western metropolitan area in Plymouth, Canton, Livonia, Westland, Garden City, Wayne, Farmington Hills and Novi.

The association also offers classes in preparation for Cesarean childbirth for couples who anticipate such a delivery, as well as a two-part series in newborn care.

For further information and registration materials, call 459-7477 during regular business hours, Monday through Friday.

Wheat-weaving class Nov. 3

The Scandinavian art of wheat-weaving will be taught at the Plymouth Historical Museum at 9 a.m. Saturday, Nov. 3.

Barbara Wessell was one of the craftspersons demonstrating in the museum during the Plymouth Fall Festival. Registration for the three-hour workshop will be limited. Persons wishing more information or to register should call Barbara Saunders, 455-8940.

Reservations will be taken on a first come-first served basis.

The Herb Lady adds her zest to meals, life

By LORRAINE McCLISH

Blossoms from the chive, thyme and sage, rose buds and marigolds are everyday cooking items that can be found in Caroline Jamison's kitchen.

Herbs hang drying on racks; a mortar and pestle is there for use, not for show; fresh chopped tarragon is ready to be mixed into butter.

The Bloomfield Hills woman who is known as "The Herb Lady" finds art, history, medicinal powers, fragrance and an added zest to cookery in herbs and spices that has become her hallmark.

And they all come from her spacious garden filled with "only useful things," she says. "If a plant isn't fragrant, flavorful or decorative it isn't here."

When she sets a table, herbs are the stars of her show. A black cloth, stark white china, crystal and heavy silver, with maybe one large red blossom as a centerpiece, is her favorite setting to complement the design of her food plate, always decorated with fresh herbs.

THE HERB lady of suburban Detroit has given herb luncheons for the past ten years, always accompanied by a lecture to spread the word on the magic a little spice can do with common foods.

Special interest groups get tailor-made lectures, stemming from her store of knowledge that runs from the lore of the Indian medicine man to modern day crafts where flowers are pressed into acrylic to form coasters and hot plates.

Book clubs might learn of herb references made in the Bible or by Shakespeare. Art clubs might learn the way a Colonial garden was laid out with its carefully chosen herbs brought from Europe for soothing the stomach or making a poultice.

On a tour through Mrs. Jamison's garden, she points to juniper berries to flavor wild game, lemon mint sprigs that will decorate and flavor a glass of iced tea, doisiana salvia which smells like an entire fruit salad tansy to keep the insects away, or the medicinal peony that was once used to cure "the falling down sickness."

Her love of herbs extends to fashioning them into decorative wreaths, pressing them into note paper, extracting Vitamin C from the rose hip, making potpourris, and even deterring moths.

FOR THOSE WHO are not acquainted with what herbs and spices can do for a dish, Mrs. Jamison has an easy and quick suggestion she says is a good convincer.

Sizzle a couple of chicken breasts in butter with some tarragon just long enough for them to lose their pink. The difference in taste will prove the magic of herbs.

We pass along a few more of her suggestions:

It is the opinion of many that the best eating in the area is found at potluck dinners.

At church events, athletic dinners, scout doings, and club socials, when the participants march in with their homemade dishes, everyone is in for dynamite dining.

One of the organizations that has an especially tasty social affair every year is the Women's Club of the Livonia Family Y. It's a salad luncheon. A few weeks ago about 25 women turned up to lay down their offerings.

"Not one salad was the same," reported an incredulous Jan Bundy, a former president of the organization. She then tried to recall a few of the dishes the women had fallen upon so eagerly.

There was a spinach salad; one with cauliflower, kidney beans and green beans; another with peas and Spanish peanuts, and one with raw mushrooms. Salmon and tuna also floated in on plates.

"I enjoyed it," said Kathy Simmons. "I've been going for four years. Everyone's favorite seemed to be spinach salad."

The Observer was able to obtain copies of several recipes through its undercover investigative reporters. But it did not come up with the one for spinach salad.

Mrs. Simmons was willing to supply hers, however, which is at the end of this article.

SHE DESCRIBED the salad table as "an overwhelming sight" with its various colors and promise of good eating.

"I wanted to try each one," she continued. "You find your plate piled up like a mountain."

Of additional pleasure to Mrs. Simmons, a vegetarian, was the chance the salad luncheon offered to acquire new recipes. Each salad maker is asked to bring a copy of the recipe for those who might want it.

"I couldn't believe the variety," announced Peggy Downs, a newcomer. "My favorite was peas and pecanor. Food is a good way to break the ice for people like myself who were coming to their first meeting of the club."

"I'm not working now and the club is a good way for me to meet more women in the area."

away from their dependency on meat and potato meals, and this makes a good topic of conversation for a new comer.

Here are several salad recipes: PEA AND PEANUT SALAD

Mix uncooked frozen peas (one package) and 1/2 cup of Spanish peanuts. Add chopped onions, a little lemon juice and some grated cheese as desired. Mix well with mayonnaise.

SPINACH SALAD

1 package fresh spinach
1 pound fresh bean sprouts or alfalfa sprouts
5 ounce can of sliced water chestnuts, drained
2 hardboiled eggs
8 slices of crisp bacon (optional)

Add to this a dressing made of 1 1/2 tablespoons minced onions, 1/2 cup of oil, 1/4 cup of ketchup, 1/4 cup vinegar, 2 teaspoons sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon pepper and 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce.
Let the dressing sit overnight in refrigerator before using.

SALMON GARDEN MOLD

2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
3/4 cup of cold water
1 can condensed cream of celery soup

1 cup mayonnaise
2 tbl lemon juice
1 tbl mustard
1 1/2 oz can salmon
2 hard-boiled eggs
1/2 cup chopped seeded unpaired cucumber
1/4 cup chopped green pepper
2 tbl. chopped onion

Soften gelatin in water. Heat soup to add gelatin mixture and stir until dissolved. Stir in dressing, lemon juice and mustard. Chill until partially set. Fold in drained and flaked salmon, cucumbers, green pepper, onion and chopped hard-boiled egg.
Pour into 8x12 or 9x13 inch pan and chill till firm. Serves eight.

GREEN SALAD
Mix a large package of cream cheese

Salads, salads fill Y table

(at room temperature) with one package of dream whip. Place in 9x13 cake pan and set aside.

Mix two large packages of lime jello with 3 cups of water, one cup chopped nuts, 1/4 cup chopped celery and one large can drained crushed pineapple. Set in freezer to firm up.

As it begins to harden add the cream cheese mixture.
Whip cream cheese with spoon or beater. Add boiling water to jello. Add whipped cream cheese and 7-up. Let partially thicken and stir in fruit.

Assembly line cookery

By ARLENE VANDERLEUN
Somehow it's hard to get excited about cooking for one, especially if you've just arrived home after an exhausting day at the office.

And then there's that dreary prospect of leftovers — eating the same meal days in a row. And how do you s-r-e-t-c-h that ever-shrinking food dollar?

means simultaneously preparing several recipes which use the same or similar ingredients, then whisking the finished product together.

Very simply, assembly line cooking

Gourmet meals come in big batches, too

By MARGARET MILLER
Gourmet cooking for a crowd seems almost a contradiction, but it's not only challenging but feasible, says an expert cook who has been proving it at church meals here for years.

Kristine Ritter has undertaken projects like hearty chowder for scores or a sidown gourmet dinner for a few dozen at the Livonia church her husband, Bill, serves as minister.

In the process, she has come up with quantity recipes and cooking shortcuts guaranteed to make the traditional church dinner far from humdrum.

Partakers of the tasty fare served on special occasions in Newburg United Methodist Church have for 10 years not only been putting their stamp of approval on Kris' gourmet recipes but also helping her carry them out.

"That last chore is a necessity, because gourmet cooking for a crowd often requires many hands, this cook said.

"Last year, for instance, we had English trifle for dessert at the Dickens Dinner, our youth choir put on as a fundraiser," she said.

"The kids actually made them. So I needed a recipe that would be adaptable to my giving directions to other people in the preparation."

ENGLISH trifle is made of prepared pound cake, frozen strawberries, pie filling, strawberry Jell-O, powdered sugar and whipping cream.

And thus it fulfills another of Kris Ritter's requirements for fare suitable to impress a crowd.

"I like to be able to substitute prepared items when I am preparing for a crowd," she said. "Pound cakes and pie shells can be home baked when you are serving just a few, but a recipe to be used for a crowd should be adaptable to use purchased foods."

She also tries to choose foods that can be cooked the day before the big dinner and, because church dinners have a habit of being delayed, she needs foods that won't be ruined if there's a delay in serving.

FUNDAISERS being what their name implies, she tries for menu items "relatively economical" as well as not too complicated to prepare. She wants attractive combinations of color and texture and insists on a well-balanced meal when feeding a church crowd.

"I guess what I really want is to serve the kind of foods you don't normally associate with a church dinner," she said.

The English trifle and Harvest chowder have been popular for big meals at Newburg.

Both are listed here in quantities that will serve 35 or 40 hungry church folk.

ENGLISH TRIFLE

Serves 40

- 4 pound cakes
- 4 10-oz. pkgs. frozen strawberries
- 4 pkgs. pie filling
- 8 cups milk
- 4 4-oz. pkgs. strawberry Jell-O
- 6 cups water 4 8-oz. cartons whipping cream
- 1 cup powdered sugar

Arrange slices of pound cake in four large serving bowls, using about half the pound cake. Cook the pie filling, using the milk. Cool and set aside. Make Jell-O, using the six cups of water. Set aside and cool. Layer the strawberries into the bowl, using half of them. Top with half the Jell-O and then half the pudding. Repeat with the remaining pound cake, strawberries, Jell-O and pudding. Whip the cream, adding the sugar, and spread over the top of each bowl.

HARVEST CHOWDER

Serves 35

- 3 cups chopped onion
- 3 cups chopped carrots
- 7 1/2 cups diced potatoes
- 3 cups water
- 6 tbsp. chicken bouillon granules
- 6 8-oz cans whole kernel corn
- 3/4 lbs. bacon, cooked and crumbled
- 1/2 cups flour
- 1/2 c butter
- 9 cups milk
- 9 cups shredded Cheddar cheese

Bring to a boil onion, carrots, potatoes and water. Turn down heat and simmer for 15 minutes. Add bouillon granules, corn and bacon and simmer 10 minutes longer. Melt butter in second pan, add flour and cook together over low heat for one minute, or until bubbly. Add milk and bring to a simmer, stirring constantly. When thickened, add to vegetable mixture. Just before serving, add cheese. Do not boil after cheese has been added or it will curdle.

Carrots and cabbage fine salad ingredients

Carrot and cabbage salad is a good make-ahead dish for fall. For the vitamin conscious, carrots supply Vitamin A and cabbage is rich in Vitamin C.

Carrot and Cabbage Salad

- 1 package (3 oz.) lemon flavor gelatin
- 1 t. salt
- 1 c. boiling water
- 3/4 c. cold water
- 2 T. vinegar

1 c. grated carrots
1 c. finely shredded cabbage
Dissolve gelatin and salt in boiling water. Add cold water and vinegar. Chill until thickened. Fold in carrots and cabbage. Pour into a 3-cup mold or individual molds. Chill until firm. Unmold. Serve with crisp lettuce and mayonnaise. Makes about three cups or six servings. Note: Mixture may be chilled in serving bowl; do not unmold.

ished product into a one-serving plastic container and into the freezer.

Presto! You have a variety of one-serving main courses waiting to be defrosted and heated. Simply toss a salad, add a piece of fresh fruit for dessert and the meal's ready.

For example, brown a two-pound package of ground beef with chopped onions — then divide the meat into separate pans and go on to whip up a batch of spaghetti sauce, chili or any other hamburger favorites.

All it takes is a little advance planning, a surprisingly short preparation time, lots of small plastic containers, and plenty of room in your freezer.

THIS TRIO of cream soups brings together cheese, milk and vegetables for a meal that has protein, vitamins and minerals. But the best thing is the speedy preparation time — about one hour, start to finish.

Each soup uses the same base. Prepare the following for each recipe, then add vegetables of your choice. Yield: 2-3 servings of each.

1 cup boiling water, in which two chicken bouillon cubes have been dissolved.

1 small onion, chopped fine

Butter or margarine

1-2 tablespoons cornstarch, mixed with small amount of milk to form thickening.

Milk to taste, 2-3 cups, depending on thickness desired

Cheese to taste, mild or medium cheddar, cut in small chunks

Celery stalk and top, or dash of celery salt

Garlic salt.

Sautee onions in butter until golden brown; add water with bouillon cubes melted, allow to simmer for a few minutes.

Add cornstarch thickening and immediately lower to medium heat; begin pouring in milk and toss in celery stalk and top (it gives good flavor).

Add chunks of cheese. When liquid reaches desired thickness, add vegetables of your choice, cooked and drained.

Cream of broccoli...1 package chopped frozen broccoli, cooked and drained, or 2 stalks fresh broccoli, cooked.

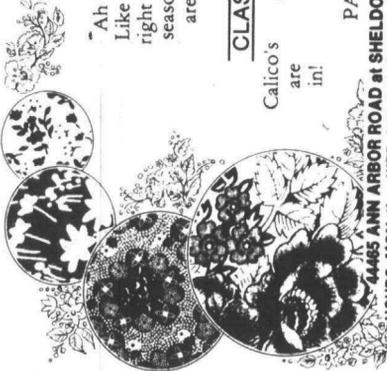

Cream of vegetable...1 package frozen mixed vegetables, cooked and drained, or 1 1/2-oz. can, drained.

Corn and potato chowder...2 medium potatoes cooked in skins, then peeled and cut into chunks, and one can cream style corn.

Other variations: cream of celery and cream of cauliflower

Marching band moms prepare a delicious feast

By BETTY MASSON

An army marches on its stomach, according to Napoleon.

It's a piece of advice that the Plymouth Centennial Educational Park Bands subscribe to, much to the delight of Plymouth residents.

The first Plymouth Marching Band banquet was going to be a first class banquet, a catered affair. But no hall or dining room in the area was big enough to hold the 250-300 persons expected to attend.

It was decided to settle for "second best," a potluck dinner in the school cafeteria.

Plymouth and Canton Township parents turned the second best into one of the best meals of the year, combining talents to produce meals fit for a gourmet evening spring.

Maybe Napoleon was right. Marching does take a lot of energy, and marching band mothers have to be better cooks.

This spring the band put out a "PCEP Marching Band Cook Book" which reveals some of their great cooking secrets.

HERBED SPINACH BAKE

(Cynthia Lattin)

- 1 — 10 oz. pkg. frozen spinach (chopped)
- 1 cup cooked rice
- 1 cup shredded sharp American cheese
- 2 eggs, slightly beaten
- 2 tsp. soft butter or margarine
- 1/2 cup milk
- 2 tsp. chopped onion
- 1/2 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
- 1 tsp. salt
- 1/4 tsp. rosemary (crushed) or 1/4 tsp. crushed rosemary leaves

Cook and drain spinach. Mix with rice, cheese, eggs, butter, milk, onion, Worcestershire sauce, salt and rosemary or thyme. Pour mixture into 10x6x1 baking dish.

Bake at 350 degrees for 20 to 25 minutes or until knife inserted halfway between center and edge comes out clean. Cut in squares. Serves 6.

OH LA LA POTATOES

(Mary Rose Hausman)

- 6 medium size potatoes
- 1 cup cheddar cheese (shredded)
- 6 tsp. butter
- 3/4 cup sour cream
- 3 green onions, chopped
- 1 tsp. salt
- 1/4 tsp. pepper

Cook potatoes in skins and cool. Peel and crumble with fork. Combine cheese and 4 tsp. butter in large saucepan. Heat and stir until cheese is almost melted. Remove from heat and blend in sour cream, onion, salt and pepper. Fold in potatoes. Spoon into greased 2-quart casserole and dot with remaining 2 tsp. butter.

Bake for 25 minutes in 350 — degree oven.

PORK CASSEROLE

(Marlyn Carl)

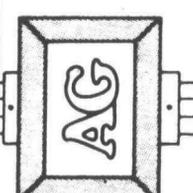

- 1 lb. pork, cut into cubes
- 1 cup onions
- 1 cup celery
- 1/2 cup green pepper
- 1 can cream of mushroom soup
- 1 can chicken rice soup
- 1 can water
- 3/4 cup dry rice (not instant)

Brown meat, onions, celery and green pepper. Add soups and water. Sprinkle in rice and stir. Bake at 325 degrees for 2 hours.

Whipping up a quick dessert

By NANCY AUSTIN

Virginia Liogghio is a very busy lady.

The long-time Garden City resident not only owns a florist shop, she also is a member of the Garden City Chamber of Commerce and is the Business and Professional Women's Club.

At home, she loves to give parties, which often average about 50 people. "I love to have people over," she said. "By the time I have invited my family and friends and my husband's family and friends and a few extras, I have a house full."

Mrs. Liogghio added that she enjoys having the parties in the summer when she can use her large backyard for entertaining her guests.

"I usually do everything ahead of time if I can," she said. "Most of my parties are on Sunday, so after I come home from work Saturday night, I prepare as much as I can for Sunday. Doing things ahead of time makes it so much easier."

Making desserts is one of her specialties, and she goes for the kind that is easy but still scrumptious. Here are some of her favorites:

ELEANOR'S DESSERT

Mix together:
1 cup flour
1 cup chopped pecans
1 stick butter, softened
Bake in 9x13 pan at 375 degrees for 20 minutes.

Mix together:
1 8 oz. package cream cheese, softened
1 cup confectioners' sugar
1 1/2 cups Cool Whip
Spread carefully over flour and butter mixture.

Mix together:
1 pkg. of Vanilla and 1 pkg. Chocolate Instant Pudding with 3 cups milk
Spread over flour, butter and cream cheese mixtures. Cover with Cool Whip

Swedish, kosher styles combine in savory blend

By JEANNE WHITTAKER

When Helene Cherrin was a little girl growing up in Malmö, Sweden, she often watched, wide eyed and excited, while her mother covered the family dinner table with starched white linen cloths and platters of delicacies smothered in savory sauces.

Today, Helene is teaching the secrets she learned at her mother's elbow to an eager gaggle of students, who gather each week in her Bloomfield Hills kitchen to create savory kosher gourmet delights. The two hour classes, she said, are always topped off with an enthusiastic tasting session.

Helene calls her cooking expertise a hobby, a lifelong avocation which has numerous rewards. Brought up on whole grain breads, unenriched flours, fresh fish, veal, and unadulterated cream, she bakes her own breads and pastries, then freezes them for later use.

"I really watch what I buy," she said. "I bake my own bread, rolls and pastries. I seldom buy a cake. It's just as easy to bake on a rainy day and keep it in the freezer."

The Cherrin cooking school is the result of encouragement she received from friends and guests, who wax enthusiastic after one of her dinners. She said she finally succumbed, she said to their requests a year ago when all three children were finally in school.

To her surprise, she explained, she found that she didn't have to advertise for students. Word of mouth quickly brought and eager roster of 12 students to her door. The curriculum she offers includes four two-hour classes and a menu of assorted delicacies such as a sandwich torte, a variety of fillings for stuffing tomatoes, pastries, salads, casseroles, and a Swedish potato and anchovy dish called "Johnson's Temptation."

"BEFORE I started my classes," she explained, "keeping kosher was no problem. I was brought up kosher and that's the way we live. However, when the classes started I discovered that I had a problem. So, I decided to base my classes on fish dishes which allows me to use cream and butter gator, which I couldn't do if I used meat. So much Swedish cooking calls for cream and butter."

Helene admits that she has made concessions to accommodate the American way. Reflecting for a moment she noted that instead of butter she frequently substitutes margarine.

"And I use very little salt. Instead, I will use leeks, which are a cousin to the onion. Salt is very bad for your body."

Ingredients for the recipes, she said, are all readily available in local markets, with the exception of Pearl Sugar. Frequently used to decorate Swedish-style cookies and cakes, the sugar is imported from Sweden.

"It's like little beads," she said. "And, besides being pretty, it doesn't melt at high temperatures. My mother ships it to me."

She is hoping, she said, to convince a local Swedish club to publish a cook book in the not too distant future.

"So far they haven't decided to support the idea. But, I am hoping that they might adopt the idea as a means to raise funds for the club."

THE CHERRIN HOME is a handsome, Swedish-reminiscent, modern tri-level filled with open space, sparkling crystal and glass accent pieces and huge plants. The kitchen is a bright, spotless area that opens onto both the living and hallway areas. Inside, broad expanses of counter space provide ample work space for as many as a dozen student bakers or display space for her own confections.

"I love to entertain. In the summer we entertain outside around the pool. But, in winter, we have sit down dinners for no more than eight. I feel it's important that I have time to enjoy my guests. A party takes three days of preparation before, and it's three days after before everything is cleaned up and put away. Entertaining takes time."

A major difference between her native Sweden and the U.S., she said is in the amount of time hostesses are willing to spend in the kitchen.

"I teach very simple things because I've discovered that women don't like to be in the kitchen. Frankly, I don't either. If it's a main course and a side dish that you are planning to serve, it shouldn't take over a couple of hours to prepare."

Another difference, she notes, is that she is more prone to serving family and guests fish and veal.

"As a child we had fish three times a week. When we were married my husband had no idea what fish was. Our children are really continental eaters. I very rarely make hamburgers."

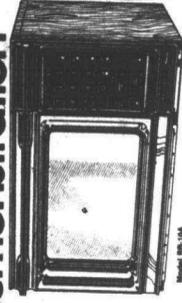

Family favorites, she said, include Swedish meat balls, which are served in a rich, creamy sauce, with a sweet and sour cucumber salad as the side dish. Another favorite is a fillet of sole casserole, which she teachers her students.
