Dual-metering could be curb to sewer bills

By DARLENE STINSON

Implementation of a dual-meter system could keep soaring water and sewer bills closer to earth, according to finance director Mike Gorman.

Gorman's report on possible ways to curb high bills — which averaged more than $100 for the June-to-August period — will not be submitted to the township board until later this month.

If township attorneys and engineers rule favorably on the idea, Gorman says he will recommend implementation of the dual-meter system for homeowners who are fed up with high bills.

He believes residents would save enough on water and sewer bills under the system to recoup an estimated installation charge of $15 to $200 within six months.

UNDER THE SYSTEM, two meters would gauge the amount of water used by a household.

Only the meter for inside water consumption would be used to compute both water and sewer bills. An outdoor meter would be used for the computation of water bills only.

Township officials say the system more accurately reflects the amount of water which runs from household taps, down the drain and into sanitary sewers.

Under the present one-meter system, homeowners are charged for water and sewer costs on all gallons used inside and outside a house. Critics say sewer charges are unjustly levied on outdoor water consumption, since water used outside does not enter sanitary sewers.

Gorman says the dual-meter system is working well in two Oakland County communities — Avon Township and Waterford.

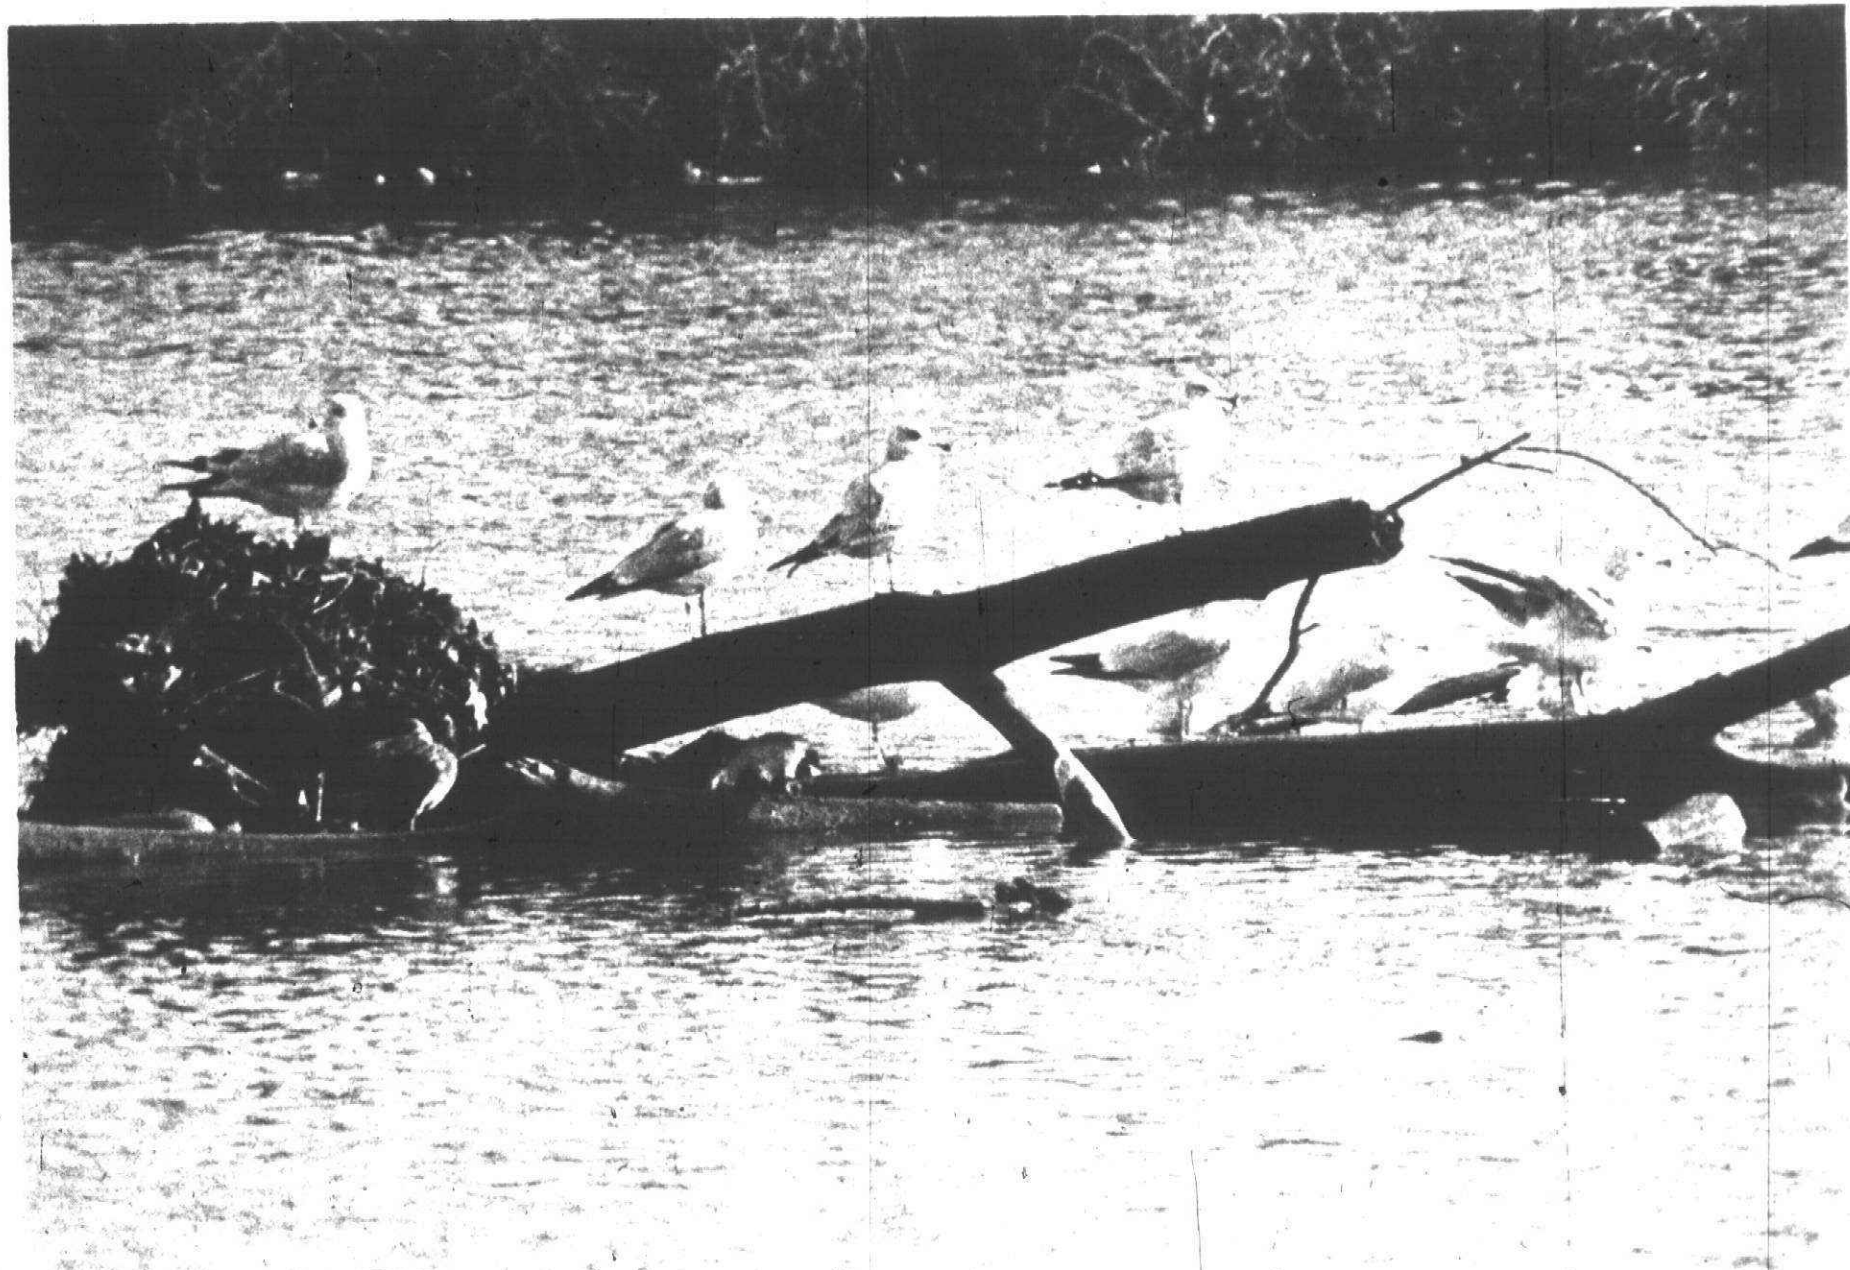

But township officials may have to bump heads with Wayne County in order to implement the system in Canton.

"The indication we got was that they don't want it," Gorman said of the Wayne County Department of Public Works.

The rate structure established by the county discourages use of the dual-meter system for all except high water-consuming industries, Gorman said.

SUPERVISOR NOEL CULBERT says he thinks "the county is full of it." He has asked attorney Dave Berry for an opinion on Canton's legal right to

Come on in — the water's still fine

There are those who say winter's delayed arrival is strictly for the birds, and these gulls at Newburgh Lake would be the first to agree. They have had several extra weeks this year to enjoy a stretch of water that usually is turned to ice by now. Photographer Steve Fecht caught a bevy of gulls sunning themselves during one of the warm days that closed out 1979.

Has Iranian crisis created patriotic youths?

Is patriotism just another way of saying "I'd fight for my country if I had to?"

Some military recruiters nationwide are saying that the Iranian crisis has sparked this type of renewed patriotism in America's youths, bringing them into recruiting offices.

As yet, they have no figures that could show such a catalytic effect. However, they say emotions are ripe for a revitalization in military enlistments.

According to locally interviewed students at Plymouth Salem High School, they're not so sure.

What is clear is that students in the states are becoming more aware of national interests as well as becoming more questioning of this country's foreign policy.

"There's been no big influx into this office," says Sgt. Mike Richardson, a Navy recruiter in Plymouth. "But some appear willing to join just to go over there."

Richardson says enlistments tend to drop around the holidays anyway. But based on figures from last year at this time, the numbers have been steady over the past two months and have not dropped.

RICHARDSON SAYS "the Iranian thing" always comes up in discussions with youths at the recruitment center on Penniman Avenue and in the schools.

"Some are becoming more aware of (American) foreign policy and think the only way they can help is through the military."

One young man, who had been inquiring into military service, was swayed by a song the words of which protest this country's reliance on mid-eastern oil.

After hearing the song and the words "Take your oil and shove," he contacted Richardson and said he was ready to "sign up."

"The possibility of (military) involvement hasn't turned them off," he adds. "It takes something like this to bring out a young person's pride in this country."

SGT. DALE HORNER, an Army recruiter in Plymouth, also sees more interest in national events in the young but not to the point of increased military enlistment as yet.

"Many tell me if they were in the military they would back the commander in chief's decision (to use military intervention)," he says. "If the draft started tomorrow, I think the young people would say yes — that's OK."

But as yet, he adds, young people's interest in the military today is still to gain training in some marketable skill.

Rob Pulkowski, a senior at Plymouth-Salem, says military action "would be appropriate" if the hostages in Tehran were killed.

"I don't think we should sit back — that would make us look weak."

He adds he'd favor a military draft but only if war was declared.

"If it was fighting for my country, I think I'd go."

But he makes a clear distinction.

"I think I'd go to Iran, but if it was something like Vietnam — I'd say see you in Canada."

Quoting one of his teachers, he adds: "Iran is like a little kid kicking you in the leg. You don't want to kill him, but you don't want him to keep doing it."

GEORGE MCGINNIS, also a senior at Plymouth-Salem, says the crisis has brought out an hawkish but emotional response from some high school students.

"Some students say send us to Iran, we'll fight anything for this country. But it's an emotional reaction based on what has been programmed into them."

McGinnis adds that starting a war "is not appropriate in any case."

He says warring is merely an economic reaction to create jobs and rid a nation of surpluses.

"In a sense, we're responsible. We set up the shah."

Library lease settlement appears likely this week

By CAROLINE PRICE

The Canton Township Library Board, already beset by the question of when a local library can be opened, is reconsidering where to put it as well.

The board has been placing ads in local newspapers asking for alternate sites in which to begin a local library. Although the third floor of the township administration building had long been slated (and was in fact designed) for a library, disagreements over a proposed lease for the facility have led to the tentative search for greener pastures.

A meeting between lawyers representing the library board and the township board of trustees was scheduled during the weekend in an attempt to iron out the lease differences before the subject comes before the township board Tuesday night.

Library board director Douglas Ritter said he believed a recent meeting held with Treasurer James Donahue has cleared up most problems with the lease between the two boards.

But, Ritter added, the search for other sites has not been abandoned.

A proposed lease that would have required the library board to pay the township 25 percent of the utility and maintenance costs was tabled last month by the township board.

TRUSTEES SAID a state law prohibits the subsidy of a library by a municipality and expressed concern that free rent could be construed as a subsidy.

Ritter said he personally assumed "we would be paying a lease of maybe $5 a year" when plans to start a local library had become an actuality after voters approved a one mill tax levy last year.

Although head librarian Deborah O'Connor has been stationed at the third floor since August and has used a storage room to hold books that have been collected, the library board has not paid the township any money toward the third floor's use.

Ritter said the library board is currently only using a small section of space and "is not being subsidized any" (Continued on page 4A)

Short Takes

Canton what?

There appears to be a number of people in the world — including former residents — who don't know that Canton is a township, not a city.

The other day a member of our staff was in a Toys R Us store, where she was filling out a refund slip. She crossed out the line marked "city" and wrote "township" over it, since she lives in Canton Township, not Canton City. "Canton is a city," the clerk announced. Our staffer was further rebuked by her friend, a former Canton resident, who also insisted Canton is a city. The clerk said her brother lived in Canton and she knew it was a city, while the friend said Canton had been a city for two years. Although our staffer was feeling somewhat confused by this time, she bet her friend a lunch that Canton was indeed a Township. Needless to say our staffer won the bet.

Happy New Year, Baby

We wanted to take a picture of the very first baby of the year born to a Canton resident. Only one problem: we need to find the very first baby of the year. We turn to our readers for help in this quest. If you had, saw or know the very first baby born to a Canton resident in 1980, call us at 459-2700. There are no prizes, other than the satisfaction of knowing you can embarrass some infant with this picture when he or she reaches adulthood.

Meetings, anyone?

The Canton Township Board of Trustees holds its first meeting of the year beginning 7 p.m. Tuesday at the Township administration building. Agenda items include discussion of a lease of the third floor to the Canton Library Board, discussion of the police reserve program and appointments to the Township Planning Commission.

A week from Monday (Jan. 14), The state legislature's standing committee on Towns and counties will hold a public hearing on proposed House Bill 5347, which would protect mobile home owners from certain rental practices. The hearing is scheduled to begin at 1 p.m. in the Canton Township administration building.

DNR repeats threat of construction ban

New construction in the Plymouth, Northville and Novi areas may be banned by the state unless the county can show the present sewer system to be adequate.

That appears to be the meat of a three-page letter from the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) sent to area officials in response to concerns raised last October by Northville Township Supervisor Donald Thomson.

The letter, written by William Bradford, chief of the DNR's municipal facilities branch, drew mixed reactions from local officials — mostly because the officials were having difficulty interpreting the letter.

Thomson, for instance, noted puzzling contradictions: "I can't really tell if the state is ordering a ban or if it is just threatening one."

Bradford asserted that until Wayne County can show the adequacy of the present system, the state will not approve "additional local increases for the areas of Novi, Northville, Northville Township, and Plymouth Township which are tributary to this interceptor."

PLYMOUTH TOWNSHIP Supervisor Thomas Notebaert said he had not given the letter "much thought" since it arrived over the holiday season.

"But I don't get too concerned by what the DNR says. They seem to adjust their thinking to whatever response is required," said Notebaert.

The supervisor said Plymouth Township is awaiting completion of a sewer system evaluation study "to find out just where we stand."

Bradford indicated the DNR is prepared, if necessary, to order "a ban on construction of any new sewers serving new developments."

Thomson repeated, however, that he doubts construction will be banned. "I've a hunch the county will just say the system is adequate without any real evidence and planners and engineers will just go on approving more houses."

William Mosher, engineer for Northville Township, said the DNR letter was ambiguous and vague.

"They are trying to say, I think, that they are not disinterested in the sewer problem here but that they are not about to do anything about it right now."

Mosher said he did not interpret the DNR letter as meaning a construction ban.

Thomson argues that the sewer system's capacity already may have been exceeded. And, he adds, even if not exceeded, the used capacity is too great to squeeze through the admittedly small sewer through Northville Township.

Overflows already have occurred, Thomson asserts, and this pollution endangers the health of township residents.

Other officials, however, contend capacity in the system is not being exceeded.

County board ousts Manning

By TOM LONERGAN

Richard Manning couldn't develop a coalition between Detroit and the out-county, and so the Redford Township commissioner was replaced last week as chairman of the Wayne County board.

The 27-member board elected Detroit Commissioner Samuel Turner, 53, to the top county post by a 14-9 vote.

Three Detroit commissioners abstained and downriver Commissioner William Sullivan was absent. Fourteen votes are required to elect the board chairman.

Clemens Bykowski, another Detroit, was elected vice-chairman of the board, defeating Thomas Presnell, D-Westland, also by 14-9.

MANNING, D-Redford, received only one Detroit vote — Commissioner John Korney's — and all but two out-county commissioners' votes.

Turner picked up 12 Detroit votes plus unexpected support from Commissioners Alex Pilch, D-Dearborn, and Ervin Steiner Jr., R-Grosse Pointe. Pilch and Steiner usually vote with the out-county bloc of western Wayne and downriver commissioners.

A coalition was key to Manning's re-election attempt because Detroit enjoys a 16-11 board majority over out-county commissioners.

Two politically powerful UAW leaders split over the choice for chairman.

Barden Young, director of UAW Region I-E in Taylor, supported Manning while Robert (Buddy) Battle III, director of UAW Region I-A in Detroit, supported Turner.

In an interview after the vote, Manning said the out-county area was "outgunned." His attempts at coalition building did not work, he added.

Last year, Manning received Detroit support in return for out-county support of Detroit Commissioner Loretta Young as vice-chairman. Manning also named Turner as chairman of the board's Ways and Means Committee, the most powerful county committee that handles all money matters and is comprised of the entire 27 commissioners. Turner also chaired ways and means in 1977 and 1978.

SEVERAL PLANS Manning proposed during the past year to address the county's fiscal crisis were sharply criticized by other commissioners and the county's major union, the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees.

Those plans included a four-day workweek proposed by Manning in August and massive layoffs and service cuts, proposed when the county, third largest in the country, missed its first payroll ever in October.

Neither plan was adopted as the county ended the 1979 fiscal year with an $18 million deficit after operating through most of the year under a hiring freeze. The county's $281 million budget for 1980 is already reportedly more than $4 million out of balance.

However, Manning said criticism of his proposals wasn't the main reason for his defeat.

"It was not so much that as it was the rather sharp division between Detroit and out-county," he said.

That division has been brewing for a number of years and is expected to become sharper as the county board votes on its own reorganization later this year.

STEINER'S SUPPORT of Turner was "a last minute switch," according to Manning. The Grosse Pointe Republican switched for "reasons I'm not aware of," Manning added.

The board's only other Republican, Mary Dumas of Livonia, had no explanation for Steiner's switch. "Don't ask me," she said. "I'm not responsible for his actions."

Steiner left Thursday's county board meeting before it was completed and was unavailable for comment. He reportedly has his eyes on the chairmanship of the board's public works committee, a post now held by Presnell.

The board of commissioners chairman makes all five committee assignments as well as naming committee chairs and vice-chairs. Manning had split committee chairs between Detroit and suburban commissioners. His predecessor, a Detroit, had named all Detroiters to committee chairs.

PILCH SAID Friday he told both Turner and Manning before Thursday's vote that he wants to be appointed ways and means committee chairman.

Pilch acknowledged that some of his suburban colleagues were upset with his support of Turner.

"But hell, they haven't gone along with me on things of vital interest to the county," he said.

Pilch tried to drum up county support last year for changing state laws allowing tax abatements to commercial and industrial businesses. Pilch wanted the state law changed so the county would have a say in granting such tax breaks.

Ford Hospital considers local branch

By TERI BANAS

One of the largest hospital complexes in the Detroit area has brought its search for a satellite facility in western Wayne County to Plymouth Township.

Henry Ford Hospital has been eyeing a site in the western end of Plymouth Township for more than a year now to build an ambulatory-emergency unit that models the Fairlane satellite in Dearborn.

The project originally was projected at $9.1 million at a site between the M-4 Freeway and Beck Road, according to Jane Eckles, a hospital spokesperson.

Like the Dearborn center, it's expected to encompass 70,000 square feet and deal only with out-patient care. All in-patient work will be referred to the hospital's downtown center on West Grand Boulevard.

As yet, Ms. Eckles said the plan is still in the looking stage and cannot be realized until the Comprehensive Health Planning Council of Southeastern Michigan (CHPCSM) lifts its ban on hospital expansion.

However, since Ford received the go-ahead to become a Health Maintenance Organization (HMO) provider last April, it is required to provide immediate service to its members throughout the Detroit area.

Ford Hospital is now a member of the Health Alliance Program, which is the largest HMO program in Michigan.

PRESENTLY, THE hospital has branches in the southern and northern suburbs with centers in Dearborn and West Bloomfield.

It now needs to establish centers in the western and eastern ends of Detroit.

Ms. Eckles said a growing HMO population in the Plymouth-Canton community offers the right spot for a center in Plymouth Township and another spot is eyed in Warren for HMO members east of Detroit.

According to Township Clerk Esther Hulsing, population growth in Plymouth Township soared throughout the '60s to its present population of about 25,000. She said the population count was about 17,000 in 1970.

Joann Caccavale, a CHPCSM planner, said Ford submitted an application for a Plymouth Township health care facility last February. However, it was not reviewed because of the moratorium.

The ban was enacted following revision of the state public health act which called for a cutback on the number of beds in the southeastern Michigan area to curb spiraling health care costs.

Caccavale said the Ford application will be reconsidered after the ban is lifted in April.

Meanwhile, Ms. Eckles said the $9.1 million projected cost is still "tentative" and reflects construction costs of early last year.

However, she added the M-14/Beck Road site is "seriously being considered" but its exact acreage is not known. She said hospital authorities will not begin to move on purchasing that land until their application is resubmitted and accepted by the CHPCSM later in the year.

Ms. Eckles also said hospital authorities are working with a local Plymouth realtor to secure the site.

The Michigan Public Health Department recently approved plans for a satellite for Oakwood Hospital in Canton Township.

But Ms. Eckles said that construction has not affected Ford's plans for a satellite of its own in neighboring Plymouth Township because Oakwood "is a different kind of facility that would not serve a HMO population like Ford. Services will not be duplicated."

"This is putting a HMO facility in an area presently not serviced by one," she added.

Ms. Eckles said the Ford satellite will be geared to preventive medicine with basic medical specialties such as internal medicine, pediatrics, dermatology, optometry, dentistry, allergic medicine, obstetrics and gynecology. It will also include a lab, pharmacy, optical shop and 24-hour emergency service.

Car slides on B'ham bridge

A car driven by Samir Saha, 37, of Canton Township slid and rolled down the embankment of the Adams Road bridge in Birmingham Wednesday.

Saha sustained minor injuries and was taken to William Beaumont Hospital, according to Birmingham fire department officials.

Bloomfield Township police investigated the accident. The bridge is at the border of Birmingham and Bloomfield Township.

A township police report said the overpass, which crosses the Grand Trunk railroad tracks, was "ice covered and very slippery" at the time of the accident.

The report said Saha was driving northbound on Adams about 9:01 a.m. Wednesday when he lost control of the car on the overpass.

The car hit the curb on the west side of Adams and rolled over down the embankment, according to the report.

New system could curb sewer bills

implement a dual-meter system for residents.

"If Dave Berry gives the go-ahead, we'll probably go through with it," Culbert said. "The county doesn't want it because they'd get less revenue."

According to Gorman, a recommendation to implement the system will hinge on more than a favorable opinion from Berry, however.

Engineer Robert Wade has been asked to estimate the impact of the proposed system on water consumption. Gorman said water consumption increased by 30 percent in Avon and Waterford after the two-meter system was established.

A substantial increase in the number of gallons used in Canton could make the township's water pressure problem even more severe. The Michigan Public Health Department imposed a moratorium last fall on additional water line extensions in Canton because of low pressure. Construction of a new water main in Livonia is expected to cure the water problem.

Gorman was instructed by the township board last fall to research various methods that would reduce the bite of water and sewer bills on residents.

Board members charged Gorman with the task after hundreds of residents protested the high amount of their bills.

According to Gorman, the bills could go even higher unless some action is taken by the township. Canton has been paying Wayne County 23 percent more for sewer services under a rate hike which took effect Jan. 1. According to the finance director, the township may pass on all or part of the increase to residents.

GORMAN SAID establishing a dual-meter system and shortening the billing cycle from three months to two appear to be the only feasible methods for reducing the bite of residential bills.

"Other suggested measures, including a rotation of billing ledgers so no area receives high summer-quarter bills every year, was found "administratively impossible," Gorman said.

Under the dual-meter proposal, residents would have the option to install a second meter at their homes.

Gorman said the township would install the meters for an up-front cost to residents of approximately $100. Additional plumbing work would cost homeowners an extra $5 to $100, depending on whether professionals or residents performed the work.

than fighting for one's country.

The crisis in Iran, according to Eades, has brought three distinct reactions from his peers.

Some are indifferent. Others have a general hatred brewing that say "let's get in there are protect our authority." And others "look at it objectively."

"I like to see myself in the third category as a humanitarian. The best way to resolve the crisis is with rational thinking and with as little sentiment as possible."

Library site search is yet to be dropped

more than the recreation department which also uses the third floor for functions.

Treasurer Donahue, who met with the library board, said the use was "probably a subsidy" but was not unduly disturbed.

"They haven't tied up the floor. We're still able to use the area. I'd feel a little chintzy if we charged them rent for that time," Donahue said.

The treasurer said he had been appointed several months ago, at a meeting he had not attended, to serve as a negotiator for the lease.

He was not aware of it until recently. He said the differences over the lease were minor and said he believed it would be approved Tuesday.

"I THINK the problem was simply that the township board was caught by surprise that negotiations were going on and we didn't know anything about them," Donahue said.

According to the treasurer, lease negotiations started about 18 weeks ago and involved Clerk John Flodin, Supervisor Noel Culbert and library board members.

Donahue said he had no problem with giving the board free rent if an awaited legal opinion says it is allowable.

"Both sides agree the 25 percent of utilities and maintenance is fair," he said.

Ritter said the board chose not to wait until after the meeting to advertise for alternate sites because the library board is anxious to open a library as soon as possible and feared no agreement could be made on a lease.

"But I for one think everything is going to work out fine," Ritter said.

The library had originally been scheduled to open this month. It is now scheduled to open in the spring because the millage money approved by the voters could not be given to the library until after December tax collections. Thus, the library did not have funds with which to buy necessary books and equipment.

Monday's Commentary

On cutting off noses. . .

Once upon a time, two children were playing in a lot that had not yet become a Canton Township subdivision.

The younger of the two children was named Library Board. The other child also had a strange name. His name was Board of Trustees, although friends called him Trustee.

On the whole, the two children played well together, except for an occasional argument. Trustee was a cautious sort who was always asking his father the lawyer for advice. But he did have moments of childishness and impetuosity.

Library, being the younger of the two, was more inclined to leap before he looked. Although he had a tendency to lose his temper when he didn't get his own way, older people would overlook his tantrums because he meant well.

One day, Library decided he wanted a baseball mitt in the worst way. He asked his Grandpa and Grandma Voter if they would buy him the mitt, and offered to let them use it any time they wanted.

When his grandparents agreed to buy the mitt, Library ran out and asked all his friends if they would like to form a baseball team because he was going to get the mitt. He asked his friend Trustee to be the pitcher.

Trustee agreed, but warned Library that he had many other clubs and teams that he also belonged to, and they took much of his time.

Library got all the members of his team together and set up a date for the first game. Unfortunately, he got a letter from Grandma and Grandpa Voter saying they hadn't received their social security check yet and the mitt would have to wait.

"But you promised," Library said.

"Yes," his grandparents answered, "but you ran out before we could tell you that you would have to wait a bit."

So Library had to change the date of the big game for a later time. Although the big game had to wait, the new team held practices and hired a coach, even though Library did not have a baseball mitt. The team got some balls and bats donated by friends.

The big game was scheduled to be played on the empty lot that might someday become a subdivision. The lot was owned by Trustee's parents, the Constituent family.

Shortly before Library's mitt was to arrive in the mail, Trustee told him his parents said he had to agree to do such things as mow the lot on a regular basis if he wanted to use it.

"But nobody said I would have to do anything in order to use the lot," Library protested. "Next thing I know, you'll be telling me I can't use it at all."

Trustee said, "I'll have to talk to my father the lawyer again." But Library stormed off before Trustee could talk to his father the lawyer about it and decided to look for another lot on which to play the big game.

It wasn't so much that Library minded mowing the lot or filling any of the other conditions; he was just afraid the big game would have to be postponed again if Trustee's father, the lawyer, changed his mind.

Library, however, discovered that it was very difficult to find lots that weren't already subdivisions or whose owners didn't want him to pay a lot of money in order to use it. Library didn't have much money and didn't think Grandma and Grandpa Voter were inclined to give him more.

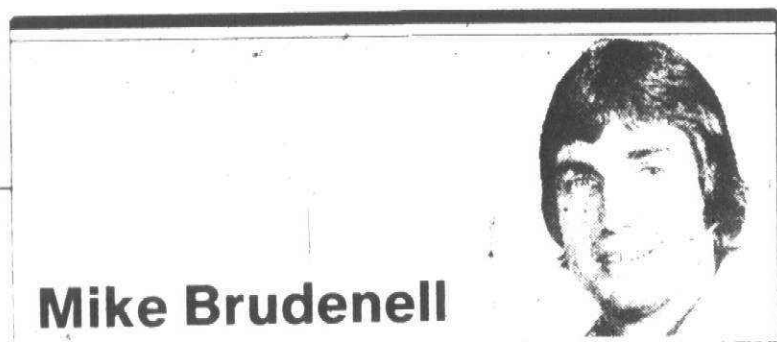

"I'm just gonna take my mitt and not let anyone play with it and really show those guys," he muttered.

That night, however, Library thought about the whole matter. He realized his mitt wouldn't do him any good if he didn't have a place to play. He remembered that Trustee hadn't actually said he couldn't use the lot, only that he would have to doublecheck with his father the lawyer.

So Library went over to Trustee's house and the two children talked. They agreed that it was not unreasonable to check out a situation before they made a decision.

With that decided, the children agreed to talk about it again and work out a reasonable agreement.

And, as far as we know, they lived happily ever after.

Mike Brudenell

Slug it out with the Soviets and you'll probably end up with a bloody nose. Talk to them and you'll discover just how cheap talk can be. But ignore them . . . now you've hit a nerve.

One of the best weapons America — and the rest of the responsible world — has to fire at Russia over its invasion of Afghanistan is to ignore the Moscow Olympics next summer. Call it a boycott of peace-loving nations, the terminology doesn't matter. The message carries the sting.

"Sorry, cannot attend Olympic Games in Moscow. Previous engagement."

Before I become a target of every amateur athlete and sports follower in the country, let me finish. I'm not being some sort of political killjoy. A few weeks ago I would have tackled Fort Knox to get together enough money to be part of Russia's Greatest Show On Earth — the Olympics.

WHEN A NUMBER of African nations boycotted the 1976 Olympic Games in Montreal (for reasons good and bad) I cursed for days. How dare they mix sport and politics, I said. What about those athletes who had spent years training for one event? Doesn't anyone care about them?

Well I cared and I still do about athletes who are exiled from sport because of the dirty doings of their country's leaders. But I'm also sick of watching the same bully beat up the weak. And if thousands of athletes must forfeit their day of glory to embarrass and humiliate a heavy like Russia, so let it be.

Don't think a mass boycott of the Moscow Olympics wouldn't be worthwhile. The Soviets have prepared methodically to make these Games the most spectacular and successful in modern history. Their athletes have trained fanatically and will be at a peak come next July. A huge haul of gold medals is expected by the Reds.

THE SOVIET GOVERNMENT has spent hundreds of millions of dollars on building new stadiums and revamping old facilities for its sporting extravaganza. Officials are expecting to recoup most of the money invested in the Games from television rights and the heavy spending of tourists during the two-week-long competition.

The country is hoping for good press from the hordes of foreign journalists who will cover the athletic events and day-to-day drama connected with any Olympics.

Imagine the turmoil and confusion in the Kremlin if word got around that no one — or only a few familiar faces — were going to show up for the party.

Don't order the duck soup

Craig Piechura

You're probably up to your eyebrows with end-of-the-decade assessments about the meaning of the 1970s and beginning-of-the-decade predictions about what the 1980s hold in store.

I read some of those articles and watched a few wrap-ups on TV. We're still too close to the subject to get a good, overall perspective. Consequently, it all becomes a blur. All I can remember seeing is Vietnam, Watergate, John Travolta, Guyana and Ayatollah Khomeini.

But this isn't one of those articles that puts down articles that assess the past and predict the future. Not at all.

THIS IS a column about the present. About waitresses, for instance.

I'm talking about that underlooked, aproned segment of society that serves us life-sustaining substance and otherwise.

True, some waitresses are hard to like. Like the woman who explains that she can't take your food order because "There's already a stack of orders before you up there."

Hungry and puzzled, you insist that surely one more piece of paper on the cook's spindle won't hurt.

Waitress apologizes and explains she's just upset because she wants to kill her boyfriend. Waitress points to boyfriend in corner booth.

And then, because of the long wait, she doesn't even charge you extra for the blue cheese dressing on the dinner salad. Now if that doesn't restore your faith in mankind, I hope your eggs are cooked wrong.

Unfortunately, the public usually treats waitresses with all the dignity afforded a Jack in the Box intercom. People stop talking when a waitress leans over the table, patronize her, or ignore her like she was a sheet of Lucite.

Please, don't get me wrong. I don't want to encourage the rehearsed "Hi, I'm Stephanie and I'll be serving you your drinks this evening" trend. I just want a few civil words at dinner and believe waitresses deserve the same. Even though the price is fluctuating, they're worth their weight in gold.

THIS ALSO IS a column about Hamtramck and the closing of Dodge Main.

In the wake of the plant closing, Hamtramck's new mayor Robert Kozaren wants to turn the city into a permanent ethnic festival with roots — sort of a Slavic Disneyland. While the ethnic markets and restaurants won't employ the 3,000 laid-off workers, it's a start.

That brings us to another course — dinner.

Help the city of Hamtramck's economy right now by patronizing some of the establishments in the city.

Go to the Yemans Cafe. You can't miss it if you take Joseph Campau south to Yemans and head east a half block. If you pass the boarded-up Federal's you've gone too far.

The restaurant has all the intimacy of a bus station in Krakow. There's a picture of Franklin Delano Roosevelt over the cash register. Order the beet soup and pierogi. Don't order the duck soup. It's too sweet and it's made with raisins. No soup should have raisins in it.

Besides, if you order duck soup the waitress will make you eat it by either sweetening it up or souring it down. You still won't like it. But, behave yourself. You're out of your element.

If the setting sounds a little too stark, try the Under the Eagle Restaurant located a little farther south on Joseph Campau.

It's a spotless restaurant where the waiters and waitresses have to wear peasant costumes for the tourists from Southfield and Warren. The cornish hen is good, so is the pork or the kielbasa and kraut.

Remember, stay away from that duck soup. If you must know, it's made with duck blood in addition to the raisins. I'd hoped you wouldn't ask.

After your meal at Under the Eagle, you can walk around the corner to a bar on Jacob street called Lilly's.

It looks like any other shot-and-a-beer bar in Hamtramck. But looks are deceiving. The place is currently vying with Bookies Club 871, for the title of punk rock headquarters in metropolitan Detroit. It's the home base of the Mutants, a rock 'n' roll band. Lilly's son happens to be a Mutant.

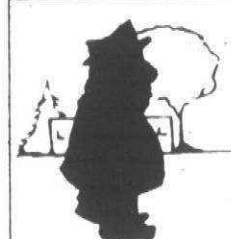

IF ALL THAT sounds like too far a journey into the subculture for one evening, at least try a place a little closer to home.

Go to the Village Bakery on Coolidge, just north of 11 Mile, in Berkley.

Order a hot pastry to go. Take it home or eat it in your car with a newspaper spread over your lap. Read the newspaper before you buy the pastry unless you don't mind greasy news.

Cost of the pastry is $1.19 which leaves you enough change for a fruit bread and a custard éclair.

Now, after meeting all those nice waitresses in all those fancy bistros who has time for pompous polemic about the past and future? Heartburn is now.

The old country store

It was drawing close to midnight. The clock was ticking off the final seconds of the old year and the end of another decade when the conversation took an unusual turn.

Instead of wondering what the new year and the new decade had in store for us, the question was asked, "What do you miss most from past years and what would you like to see restored in the days ahead?"

It didn't take The Stroller long to state his wishes for the one thing he misses most from his past is the old-time small town country store.

Born and raised in a community of 3,500 souls, he somehow can't become accustomed to shopping in our modern supermarkets. Sure, the articles are well displayed and within reach and a fellow has a wide choice. But, somehow, they lack the warmth of the old country store in many ways.

FOR INSTANCE, there is no pot bellied stove in the center of the store. There is no pickle barrel from which to garner the ever popular pickled cucumber. But most of all The Stroller misses the tub of brine that contained one of his favorites — a salt mackerel.

No one knows how the tradition started but in our little house it was the custom on a Sunday morning to have a salt mackerel for breakfast. Mackerel never was mentioned at any other time. But a Sunday would not have been complete without the mackerel.

Well The Stroller remembers his mother arising at daybreak to get in to the kitchen to soak the mackerel before she placed it in the pan. But when it was served a short time later it really was a dish.

Then, for one reason or another, it has gone in to the limbo of forgotten things. It sure would be a treat to have the salt mackerel again become a tradition on a Sunday morning in 1980.

THEN THERE WAS the old-time coffee grinder at the end of the counter.

This was quite a machine. First, you purchased the coffee beans at one of the counter then walked down to the machine, and then twirled the wheel until the coffee was ground to your liking. This was a lot more fun than we have today where the coffee, in various grinds, is placed before you on the shelves.

There was more to the old country store than just shopping for food. It was the center of activity that included the latest gossip on all the folks from one end of town to the other.

On any visit to the store you could find out what families were having trouble, whose daughter was getting married and who was being sent from one job to another.

There was another feature of the old country store. In times of misfortune when any member of a family was sick, it was the owner of the country store or his wife who paid the first visits and saw to it that there was enough food in the house to carry over the rough spots.

You don't find that today. There is a coldness as you stand in line at the supermarket waiting your turn with the cashier. You are fortunate if the cashier even speaks or bids you the time of day. You are just another person in the line that seems to carry on most of the day.

It sure is a far cry from the old-time small town country store where you knew the owner and his family and they knew you, too.

You can peer in to the future all you want. The Stroller would like to turn back for a time. And if he suffers the fate of Lot's wife in the Bible story, who turned to salt when she turned back, he hopes there's a mackerel with it for his Sunday morning breakfast.

250 benefit from gifts

from our readers

Editor:

Now that Christmas is over and before we get too far into the new year there are so many children and adults in the Plymouth-Canton area that I must thank for all the support they have given to the needy families in the community.

I'm writing about the success of the Plymouth-Canton School District Clothing Bank. To you in the community who have donated and taken time to bag and transport your good used clothing to us, we "thank you," very much.

During the last school year we were able to help approximately 250 children and their parents. Due to the high cost of living and the status of the job market it is possible that we are going to have more families qualify for help.

THIS CHRISTMAS most of our schools followed the practice of Farand School by providing mitten, sock and or underwear trees in their classrooms rather than exchanging gifts with each other.

The principals, teachers, secretaries, librarians and other staff members organized this and we thank you and your students. Because you cared our kids will be able to wear socks that match and have no holes, underwear that fits properly, and they will have little fingers that are nice and warm when waiting at the bus stop or walking to school.

I thank all the caring children and members of the Geneva United Presbyterian Church and the Divine Savior Church for also collecting these much-needed items.

The students at Geer School donated mittens and socks but they also donated their pennies, nickels and dimes which totaled $11.67. We purchased a ham and potatoes for one of our families and they thank each of you. To the six students at Gallimore School who used the monies they received singing Christmas carols to buy items of clothing for our kids, we say thank you.

Each school in the district has a Parent-Teacher Organization that has been very supportive of the clothing bank. They have provided funds, contacted their parents for special clothing needs and provided us with workers, thank you.

For the last two years the board of education office personnel have adopted one of our families for Christmas rather than exchanging gifts. This year it was a mother and four children. They provided a turkey, all kinds of groceries, gift certificates, toys, etc. I'm sure they know a Santa Claus really exists.

I feel it is very important that all of you be aware of the caring community that you live in. Santa Claus doesn't come to the Plymouth/Canton Community once a year - he never leaves the area as long as we at the Clothing Bank have your support.

With the winter months upon us, keep the Clothing Bank in mind if you, your neighbor or friend has a fire in the home. We help all families in such an emergency. Call me at 453-2534 day or night for such an emergency.

market watch

John Vernier

While modern technology has altered our lives in many ways, it has also had a tremendous impact on the securities markets.

Thanks to today's rapid means of communication, information that once took weeks or months to reach the investment community is now available almost immediately.

The worldwide news gathering facilities of the American Press and TV and radio have been responsible for expanding investors' concerns and considerations. Events occurring halfway around the world, even though they may not have any direct bearing, might cause an emotional response that can disturb the level of security prices.

The mechanics of the execution of buy-and-sell orders has greatly improved through the introduction of the computer.

WHILE CHANGES have taken place in several different areas, it is most notable in the over-the-counter market.

There are hundreds of companies whose stock is not listed for trading on any stock exchange. Rather, the trades are made between dealers.

This type of transaction is called over-the-counter trading. Since there is no central market place involved where representatives of the interested parties can gather at one spot to exchange their bids and offers, trading tended to be haphazard.

The computer has solved that problem.

Today, brokerage firms from all over the country have terminals leading to a central computer which stores all the information necessary to maintain markets in most of the stocks traded over-the-counter.

Mechanically, today's over-the-counter market is every bit as efficient as the listed markets are. There is a plan to even tually combine the listed markets with the over-the-counter market, and have just one over-all stock market. And, of course, the computer will be the basis for that facility.

THE MODERN stockbroker has tools at his fingertips which allow him to offer much more information and efficient service to his clients than was ever before possible.

He has a desk unit that will supply him with the latest information regarding current prices and quotations for most stocks — both listed and over-the-counter.

It will provide him with other statistical information about each company, such as price to earnings ratio, current dividend rate and yield, and highs and lows for the past year.

It will also supply current information concerning the general market, such as the market averages, the stocks most actively traded, the number of advances and declines, and totals of new highs and new lows.

The broker also has at his disposal a news recall device.

The writer is with Manley, Bennett, McDonald & Co. in Plymouth.

Labor leaders will attend U-M conference

More than 1,000 labor leaders, union members, educators and students are expected to meet at the University of Michigan Jan. 18-19 to discuss the major issues confronting organized labor during the coming decade.

Titled "The 1980s: Plight or Prosperity?" the conference will be the largest gathering of its kind on a college campus in more than 15 years, according to U-M students coordinating the event.

"It is a serious effort to bridge the gap between working people and the students by creating a forum on the role the labor movement will play in shaping America's future," explains Douglas Fraser, president of United Auto Workers (UAW), one of the conference co-sponsors.

Prominent labor leaders from across the country will be among the speakers, according to the student organizers: William Winpisinger, president of the International Association of Machinists; Martin Gerber, international vice president of UAW; Gloria Johnson, national treasurer of the Coalition of Labor Union Women.

THE CONFERENCE will include general sessions and workshops on such issues as inflation and unemployment, plant closings, the impact of energy shortages and pension investment control. Other sessions will address the special needs of women, minorities and workers in the south.

The conference offers organized labor "a chance to expose and involve people in some of the serious problems it faces, including the growing anti-union campaign, the threat of plant shut-downs and the need to build alliances among labor, minorities, women, environmentalists and other citizens' groups," says Mark Finkelstein, U-M student and a conference coordinator.

"It offers students an opportunity to link themselves with political activity taking place outside the university to improve community well-being and effect social change."

Advance registration of $5 may be sent to SEED, 4120 Michigan Union, Ann Arbor, Mich. 48109. Call (313) 668-0425 for further information.

Schools honored for goal-base plan

The goal based approach to curriculum used by Plymouth-Canton Community Schools has been selected for the promising program bank of the Wayne County Intermediate School District.

An award of up to $300 comes to the district with the honor.

The purpose of the goal-based approach to curriculum is to provide targets stated in clear and concise terms which can be used in curriculum development, program evaluation and instructional improvement.

The Plymouth-Canton school district is at the half-way point in developing goals for 12 instructional programs, according to Dr. Michael Homes, assistant superintendent for instruction.

The Wayne County award will be used to prepare a brochure and handbook on the goal-based approach for use here and in other school districts.

GOAL-BASED materials are completed in language arts, physical education, music and foreign language.

Each building principal has developed a plan with the building staff to make sure children benefit from better classroom instruction as a result of the goal-based approach in all these four areas.

Social studies and skills-for-living goal-based materials are nearing completion, Homes added.

Next for intensive goal-base work are math and science.

The four remaining areas of instruction, which also will be guided by the goal-base approach, are industrial and business education, art and health.

THE SCHOOL BOARD will receive a complete administrative progress report on goal-base curriculum at its regular meeting on Jan. 28.

The approach was introduced in Plymouth-Canton at a districtwide workshop held in September, 1977.

Principals, teachers, school board members and parents learned at that time about the 12 instructional areas and course and program goals developed in a successful project in Oregon.

Teachers and parents have continued their involvement in work on implementing goal-based curriculum here, along with building principals and central administration.

Goal-based curriculum clarifies the purpose of education, explained Homes.

Children's farm at Kensington

By LEM MESEE
Outdoors writer

Outdoors

A new children's farm — smaller and less commercial — will be opened at Kensington Metropark in warm weather.

It will be operated by the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority itself rather than a private company.

Don Beem, HCMA's chief of resources, said it would have fewer animals and a smaller overhead than the Children's Farm and Village, which was closed down last month after HCMA purchased some of the assets of the private operator.

Children's Farm and Village Inc. leased 100 acres at the north end of the 4,300-acre metropark in Milford Township of Oakland County and was to pay HCMA a percentage of the revenue with $25,000 a year guaranteed.

"It just didn't work out. It never showed a profit," said Beem.

"They had to develop the farm first. That was never a break-even operation. They needed the rides to go with it."

Children's Village ran afoul of the zoning ordinance of the township. The fight went to circuit court. In a consent judgment last April, the parties agreed on a restricted number of rides.

But before even those rides could be put in, said Beem, a homeowners group attacked the operation in another court case, and the company was unable to expand even to the limits of the consent judgment.

The firm gave up and asked HCMA to purchase its assets. It kept the sleighs, a swan boat, a fire engine and the animals. HCMA acquired the steam engine, pens, the restaurant and other buildings for $550,000.

All the lawsuits have been dropped, said Beem, except for one by state Attorney General Frank Kelley, who challenged HCMA's legal right to enter into a lease agreement.

HCMA staff will study until March what to do next with the property, Beem said. One question is who should operate the farm (the naturalists?) and the restaurant.

While the state grants concessions to store operators at state parks, HCMA runs the boat livery, beach bathhouses and food stands at metroparks.

An exception is Kensington's cross country ski rental and instruction, which is run by Raupp Campfitters.

BUILD YOUR own snowshoes? It can be done, and you can learn how at a workshop at 7 p.m. Friday in the nature center of Oakwoods Metropark.

Minnesota Vern Schmidt will bring frames and supervise the tying of them in this four-hour session. He uses a Chippewa Indian design which is easy to walk on in wet or dry snow.

Advance registration and a full deposit are necessary. Call the nature center at 782-1255 to make arrangements.

Oakwoods is six miles south of Metropolitan Airport. The entrance is off Willow Road, which runs between Interstate 75 and US-24 in Huron Township.

KENSINGTON Metropark's nature center has three programs this week.

Tuesday at 7 p.m. naturalist Steve Horn will lead an evening winter walk, utilizing baited areas along the trails to bring mammals into view. Dress for the weather.

Saturday at 1:30 p.m. the program will be on wildflowers in winter. The walk will last 90 minutes.

Sunday at 9 a.m. a nature cross-country ski tour will be led by naturalist Dave Moilanen. Meet in the nature center parking lot.

Vehicle entry permits are required at both Kensington and Stony Creek, but there is no charge for attending a nature program. Call the nature center in advance at 685-1561 to register.

Grote called contender for state

Schoolcraft College President C. Nelson Grote is apparently among the top candidates under consideration for state superintendent of public instruction.

The Northville Record reported Wednesday that Grote may be one of five or six "finalists" for the state post.

Grote said last week he is "an apparently serious candidate" but has not been notified if he is among the finalists.

"I can't verify that I am one of six candidates for the position," Grote said. "I don't know how many candidates they are considering."

"There are a lot of rumors, but as far as anything official, the only thing is that I am an apparently serious candidate in the eyes of the selection committee," Grote said. "But like everyone else, I'm in the dark."

The Michigan State Board of Education has set a March 1 deadline to fill the superintendent's seat, formerly held by John Porter. Eugene Pazlov is acting superintendent. Grote was nominated for the job last spring.

FINALISTS WILL be named soon and interviewed in open meetings, according to a spokesman for the state board of education.

Grote, who has been Schoolcraft College president since 1971, believes he has a good chance at the state's top education post.

"To the best of my knowledge, I am the only post-secondary person being considered," he said. "The committee is looking for someone with broad experience. The fact that I could relate to both the K-12 and higher education programs might work in my favor."

Grote also has extensive experience on accreditation teams set up by the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

Ladislav Dombrowski, administrative secretary to the state board of education, said the board "had drawn up a list (of superintendent candidates) on which they would do more checking."

Dombrowski said he didn't know if there were five or six finalists.

Before assuming the Schoolcraft presidency, Grote was academic dean at Morehead State University in Kentucky. He worked for the Kentucky State Board of Education for two years and has also taught high school.

"A community college president is in many ways like the superintendent of schools," Grote said.

"We levy taxes, have a locally elected board and have experience with labor relations. On the other hand, community colleges are an accepted part of higher education."

Salem notches 6th win after whipping Harrison

By BRAD EMONS

Plymouth Salem's basketball team hasn't lost any of its intensity or aggressiveness from 1979.

The Rocks won their sixth straight of the season and first of 1980 with an 84-39 blitzing of Farmington Harrison Friday night.

It was evident from the outset that the Hawks could not cope with Salem's aggressive man-to-man defense. It was more like a defensive clinic held by the Rocks.

"Their defense is right there," said Harrison coach Mike Teachman, whose team slipped to 3-2 overall. "They (Salem) were just too aggressive for us."

"They got every loose ball and had how many three-point plays? That just shows how strong they were."

Every Salem player scored in the game. On the other hand, Harrison was held without a field goal in the second half.

"One of the things we wanted to do was to get better defensively," said Salem coach Fred Thomann. "We wanted to do a better job since the last game."

"I was real pleased again. We had good defensive pressure from the start and did not give up much."

Salem struck like lightning from the opening tap. Only 16 seconds had elapsed in the game and the Rocks already had four points on the board.

THOMANN'S TROOPS marched out to a 24-14 first quarter bulge as sophomore forward Scott Bublin connected for nine points.

The Rocks then began forcing numerous turnovers against Harrison.

For the game Salem had 19 steals.

A drive by Harrison senior forward Brian Burgess cut the Salem lead to 28-20 with 6:34 left in the half. But the Hawks could come no closer.

Salem answered with a 25-9 spurt as senior guard Rob Neu had 10 points in the second quarter and center Howard Monk added nine.

Monk had 15 of his game-high 18 points in the first half as Salem led, 53-29.

"Our early shot selection was good," said Thomann.

"They (Salem) came out and played very hard and we went out and played half hard," said Teachman. "Our inside people didn't come out and meet the ball."

"Now we have to regroup with two league games coming up."

In the third quarter Salem continued its assault, outscoring the Hawks, 19-3. Both coaches went to their benches early in the second half.

Salem outrebounded the Hawks, 37-25, as sophomore Mike McBride had eight and senior Jim Anderson added seven.

SALEM RECEIVED balanced scoring from Neu (14), Anderson (13), Bublin (11) and junior guard Mike Sharp (eight).

The Rocks hit 32 of 66 shots for 48 percent. Harrison was held to just 10 field goals.

Guard Goran Vasovski paced Harrison with seven points.

Teachman said "it looks like it" when asked if Salem deserved its No. 10 state ranking in a recent Detroit Free Press poll.

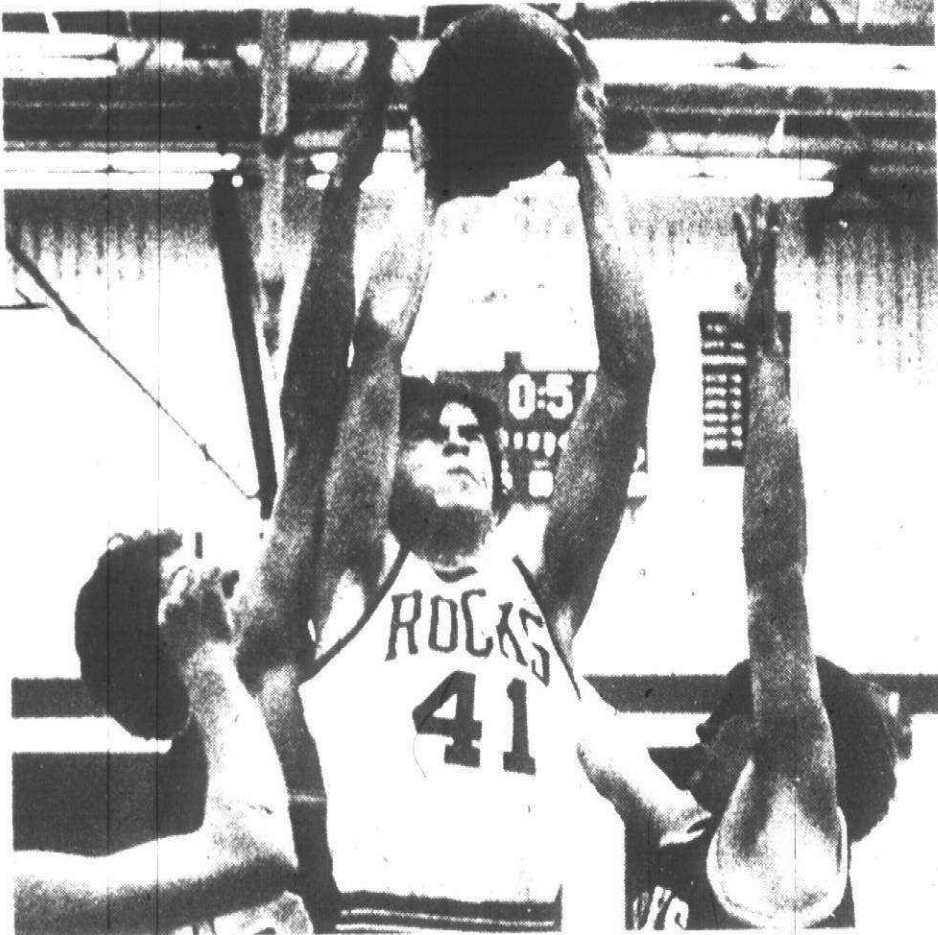

The Rocks will now travel to Ypsilanti for their biggest test of the season Tuesday night.

"It's an evaluation type of thing," said Thomann. "We have to deal with Ypsi on the defensive boards."

"We've got to get pressure on them," Harrison will play Livonia Churchill Tuesday at home in a Western Six League game. The Hawks will then host Plymouth Canton at home on Friday.

Brian Burgess, Harrison's leading scorer, finds the going tight as he tries to drive around Salem defenders Scott Bublin (30) and Howard Monk (42). Burgess scored just six points as Salem routed the Hawks, 84-39, for their sixth straight win. (Staff photo by Gary Caskey)

Salem spikers in rebuilding season

By BRAD EMONS

Coach Cathy Himes hopes a cast of new faces will brighten the future of her Plymouth Salem volleyball team.

"The Rocks are coming off a 9-13 record with a brand new look. Most of the players performed for the junior varsity last season."

"We're in a rebuilding year," said Himes. "Out of 11 players we have only two seniors."

"We have the skills, but lack playing experience."

Salem finished third last year in the Suburban Eight League and must replace Monette Recto, lost to graduation and now on a four-year volleyball scholarship at Ferris State.

Expected to fill that role is senior captain Dana Harter, who played last season on the varsity, but not as a starter. She is also a good hitter, according to Himes.

Another veteran back is junior Cheryl Sobkow, entering her third year on the varsity. She was a standout for the Rocks on the basketball court and will lead the spiking department for Himes.

"Cheryl is one of our top spikers," said the Canton coach, now in her third season. "She's a kill-shot artist."

Junior Mary VanDusen will move up from the reserve squad to give Salem strength in the defensive and placement hitting specialties.

Himes is optimistic about a pair of underclassmen — freshman Sandy Fausett and sophomore Carol Ross, who saw action last season on defense in the back row.

"THIS IS a really, really young team as far as court experience is concerned," said the Salem coach. "If we work together it can be a promising season."

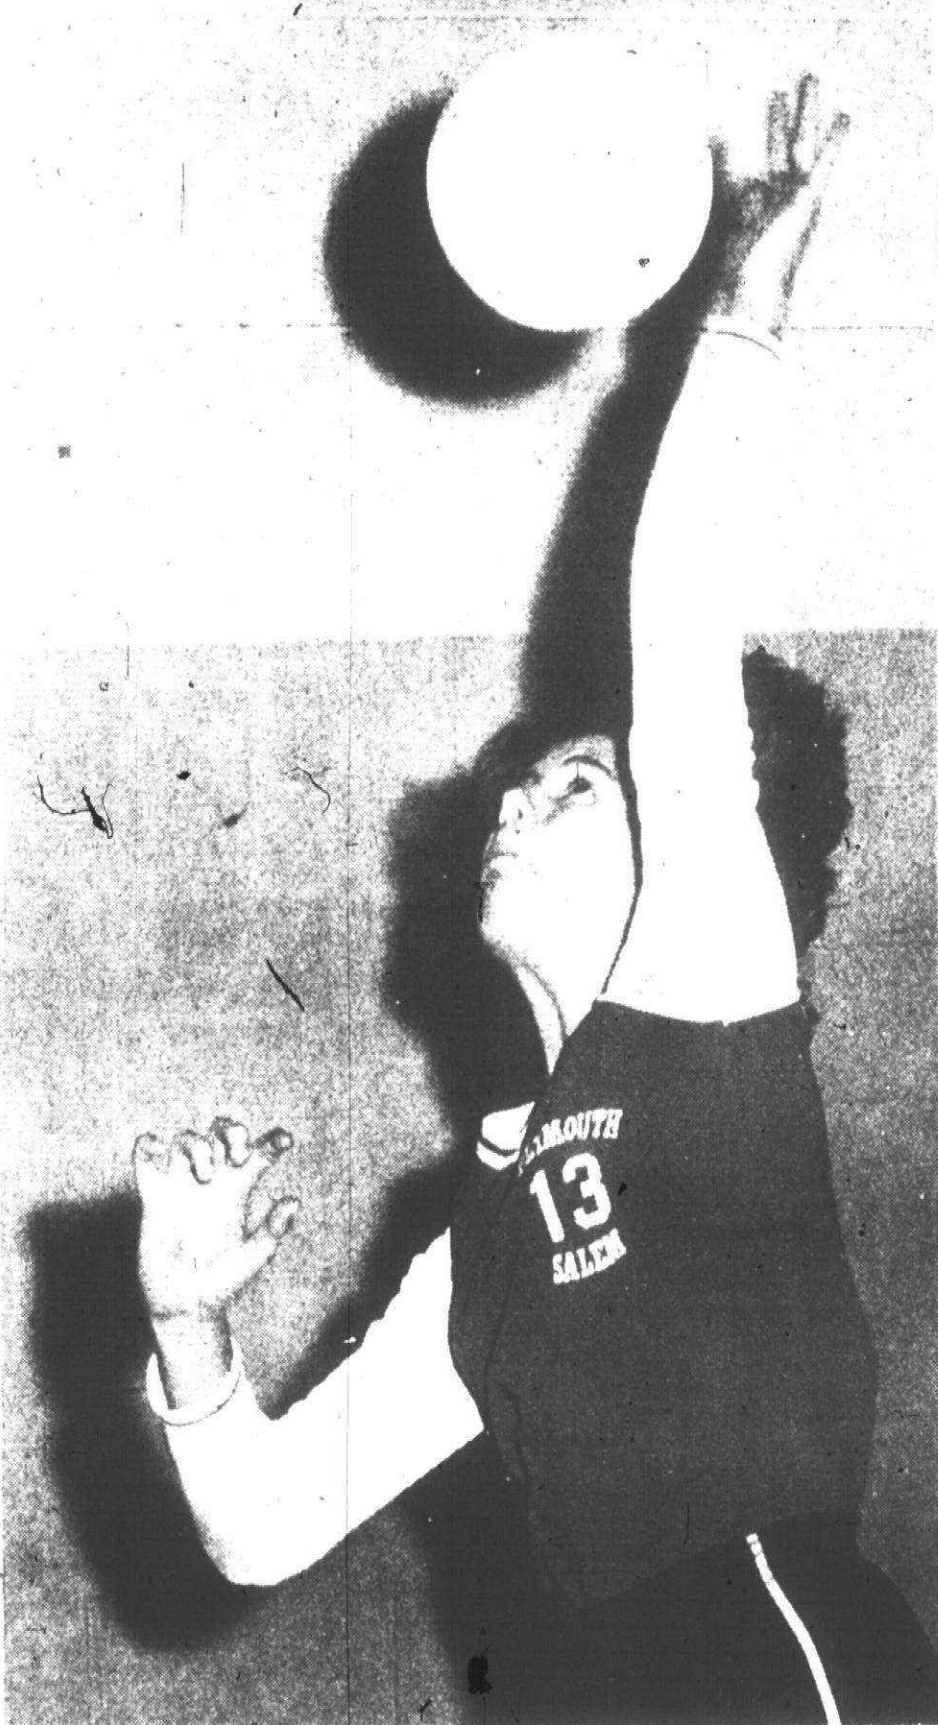

"After the first few games I look for us to pick it up. I can't really project how we'll do until we get into some game situations and get the experience."

Salem opens up its season Monday, Jan. 14 at league favorite Dearborn.

"Dearborn has a solid team and its bad for us to open up the season with a league game," said Himes. "We're shooting for the league, of course."

The Rocks are looking for their first league title under Himes. They finished second in 1978. Dearborn Edsel Ford, the second place team last year lost most of its starters. Livonia Bentley is the defending champ.

Salem will reveal its squad Tuesday at 6:30 p.m. in the annual Blue-White scrimmage.

Himes is looking toward the future in preparing her squad. She might have what she wants in 1981.

Mott dumps Chiefs in overtime, 61-55

Waterford Mott handed Plymouth Canton its first Western Six League basketball loss of the season Friday with a 61-55 overtime victory over the Chiefs.

Mott, now 5-1 overall, outscored Canton 8-2 in the extra period to post the win.

The two teams tied in regulation time, 53-all.

Canton, 2-3, overcame a seven-point fourth quarter deficit to send the game into overtime. But the Chiefs went cold in the extra stanza despite winning the opening tap.

"We just couldn't hit the shot in the crucial situations," said Canton coach Craig Bell. "Mott plays tough in its own house. They deserved to win."

Canton tightened up its defense in making the comeback.

"They (Mott) went with a four-corner delay and we caused some turnovers," explained Bell.

Mott opened the game with a man-to-man defense but quickly switched to a zone once it gained the lead.

Waterford took a 31-22 halftime advantage by outscoring the Chiefs 19-10 in the second quarter.

Tom Schaefer paced the winners with 22 points. The Mott forward was supported by center Dave Miller's 11 points.

Dave Visser played a fine offensive girls, two schools with two, and one had one. Plymouth Canton had none. How can this be?

Canton went undefeated it's conference for the third straight year, posted a 17-4 overall record and beat three schools (Thurston, John Glenn, Churchill) that are recognized by a total of ten placements in the Observer's all-area teams.

It's time to either get serious about selecting mythical teams or to report the selections for what they are.

TOM M. SOVINE
Canton

Editors note: The process of selecting All-Area teams was explained in "Brad Emons writes" Monday, Sept. 17. Each individual coach decides his or her own honorable mention choices within reason. The top 15 players are selected on a secret ballot by the coaches.

Reader questions all-area

Sports Editor:

The all-Observer girls basketball teams as reported in the Canton Observer Dec. 27 leaves me in shock and disbelief.

If the purpose of honorary teams is one of recognizing the best basketball talent, the Observer's teams were at best a miserable failure.

In the name of good reporting, you owe it to your readers to indicate how the teams were selected. This was not done.

Upon analyzing the selections, it appears the coaches did a political job. It's unfortunate that their personal egos are so enormous; especially at the expense of deserving girls.

I find it hard to believe that Plymouth Canton didn't land one girl on any team and on the honorable mention list. Out of the 13 schools listed in the Dec. 27 Observer, one school had a total of five girls recognized, five schools had four selected, four schools had three

One of the strangest chapters in the history of bowling is the fact that the format now used by the professionals on their tour is one that was resented for years.

It is now referred to as the "stepladder" format where the four finalists bowl one game against an opponent and then advance.

In the old days it was referred to a "one-game knockout" and the bowlers frowned on it. They claimed it wasn't worth their time to enter an event in which they could be eliminated in one game.

Now, with thousands of dollars at stake, they have changed their minds and the one game knockout or the stepladder, as the pros call it, has helped to make the game more popular than ever.

ONE OF THE most successful events in the western suburbs during the holiday period was the holiday doubles sponsored by the Super Bowl in Canton. It drew 204 entries and was bowled in two divisions.

In the opening division, in which only two games were bowled, Sandra and Christopher showed the way with 844. Roger and Mae Mark were next with 834 while Don Davis and Jonathon Sterling finished third with 806.

In the top division, Peg and Charles Cruz were high with 1455 for three games. Next in line were Tom and Michael Dunlap with 1378 with Gerald and Tom Truillard in third with 1340.

SCORING TOOK a queer twist at Plaza Lanes over the holidays. Two of the best examples were furnished by Mike Tinkham and John Dodge in the Waterford men's league, and the Mixers.

Tinkham opened his series with 148, then soared to 279 only to slump to 146 in the final for a 573 series.

Not to be outdone Dodge, bowling in the Mixers League, opened with a 155. He followed this with 265 only to fall back to a 115 in the final for 535.

THERE WAS SOME good scoring at Garden Lanes. When the firing ceased Joe Buzanowski, of the St. Linus League, was high with a 263 in 664. His nearest competitor was Don Gavin with a 597.

In the other leagues Dora Bramlett showed the way in the ladies classic with 585 and Mark Hefner paced the St. John Bosco loop with a 645.

THE LADIES took over the spotlight at Westland with some of the best bowling of the year.

Mary Porter made the best assault on the pins with games of 211 and 248 in 651. Betty Hoener was right behind her with games of 233 and 230 in 643.

Mary Lou Schneider landed third with the most consistent performance. She put together games of 214, 214 and 203 for 631, while Etta Strong placed fourth with 210 and 211 in 611.

ARLENE HOLLADAY lead the women in the Kings and Queens league at Woodland Lanes. She posted counts of 203, 213 and 198 for 614.

On the men's side, Dick Shanahan was high with a 251 single.

In the Saturday morning junior league, Mike House posted a high game of 233. He has a 157 average.

In the Ford League, Howard Behr was top man with a 221 in 633. Next came Sal Vitace with 610 and Ed Barnes with 604. Terry Odom posted high single with a 235.

THE EYE OPENERS at Super Bowl found Betty McDougall out in front with a 242 in 605. Linda Uherek was next in line with a 218 in 577 and Del Zealewski had a 204 in 552.

Keith Bozyk of Canton Township has earned a trip to the Joe Louis Arena Feb. 9 before the Detroit Red Wings-Philadelphia Flyers matinee hockey game.

The Canton youth placed second recently in the Metro Detroit AMC/Jeep Dealers Skate, Pass and Shoot contest held at the Beech Woods Arena and co-sponsored by the Southfield Parks and Recreation Department.

Bozyk scored 195 points in 51 seconds to finish second in 7-8-year-old age group. Craig Johnston of Southfield took first with 195 points in 49 seconds.

Both players now advance to the state finals at Joe Louis Arena.

More small Chevrolets are being built now than ever before. That means immediate delivery is now possible on a great selection of the small cars America wants. When America wants them most.

There's more than one way to get good gas mileage. In fact, Chevrolet has a whole lot of ways. So you can choose the model and style that best suits your driving needs. And still be comforted by the fact that, whatever combination you pick, you'll get impressive gas mileage. Remember, Compare the "estimated MPG" to that of other cars. You may get different mileage, depending on how fast you drive, weather conditions, and trip length. Chevrolets are equipped with GM-built engines produced by various divisions. See your Chevy dealer for details.

You don't have to get a foreign car to get good gas mileage. Chevy's got it.

Joke about it if you like, but there's more to Toledo than 3-2 beer. (Photos by Micky Jones)

Live from Ohio Toledo

By IRIS SANDERSON JONES

TOLEDO, Ohio — A funny thing happened to me on the way across the Michigan-Ohio border. The first three strangers I met said hello to me on the street. I grew up in a small town so I remember a time and place when people did that, but I didn't know that people did it any more.

Toledo is a "people experience." There's Esther Lindsay of the Wolcott House in Maumee, who will tell you that Toledo was nothing but swamp when Maumee thrived nearby at a curve of the Maumee River. The Indians called the river Miami of the Lakes because Miami means mother and this is the biggest river to empty into the lakes.

According to Mrs. Lindsay, the name was changed to Maumee because "those Kentucky and Virginia boys came up here during the War of 1812 couldn't say Miami."

There's Phil Skeldon, director of the Esther Lindsay will deliver a historical account at the Wolcott House which may surpass your expectations. Seen here is the Indian Room.

Toledo Zoo, who gets a warm, funny look on his face when he talks to the orangutans. Phil's father was also the director of this zoo, so he grew up here and he's willing to take a little kidding about the letters T and Z missing from the sign out front, leaving it to read — OLEDO OO.

There's Dave Faust, the newcomer from Columbus, who runs the Top of the Town, on the top of the Fiberglass Tower downtown, and then there are restaurateurs like Frank Unkle and George Mancy, and the foot-tappers over at Tony Packo's place across the river.

EVERY ONE of them is surprised to learn that the people of metropolitan Detroit seldom go to Toledo for fun.

If you've been driving around it instead of through it on your way down Interstate 75 the past few years, consider it as an unexplored nearby city to visit on a cold winter weekend.

You'll miss some of the good weather stuff like Crosby Gardens, a cruise down the river, the metroparks and even the outdoor exhibits at the zoo, but enough indoor activities remain to fill up a couple of blue-sky, snow-on-the-ground days.

START A TRIP by driving across the Maumee, following the river east to the lake, where the Port Authority has built a small observation deck where you can watch the ships being loaded. By following Front Street, you'll come to Big Lucas, the famous high-skyline Toledo loading crane. Watch for a small sign leading you up a few stairs to a rooftop.

On your way back into town, note Tony Packo's place, "the home of the Hungarian hot dog," and mark its location for your last stop of the night.

Corporal Klinger of "M*A*S*H" talks about Tony's a lot, and everybody in Toledo gets there once in a while for beer and music under the tiffany lamps. The restaurant walls are covered with hot dog buns that have been signed by such celebrities as Jimmy Carter and Burt Reynolds.

Save your daylight meal, or at least time for a drink, for the Top of the Town, because you can see the whole city from there on a clear day. Straight down is the heart of the downtown city, on the site of what was once Fort Industry, and signs of inner city revitalization where Owens Illinois is building its new world headquarters beside the river.

Tony Packo's Restaurant on a Saturday night, where the crowds and entertainment are lively and the hot dog buns on the walls are photographed.

If it's clear, you can see all the way to the lake, all the way up the river in the other direction to Maumee and on up the valley towards Fort Meigs and the site of the Battle of Fallen Timbers.

It's a great drive upriver through historic sites, and the remains of the old canals, on a spring day.

FOR A WINTER'S day, reserve your afternoon for the Toledo Museum of Art and the Wolcott House. The museum was founded by glass magnate Edward Drummond Libbey at the turn of the century with an unusual bequest. The money he bequeathed to the museum was left on condition that half the interest would be spent annually on new works, so the collection is wide and varied.

It is the best place to see the products of Toledo's glass industry, historic and modern. Toledo is the glass capital of the world, with four major glass companies on its corporate list. Disappointingly, tourists can't visit any of them, but at least you can see the superb collection of antique and modern glass in the permanent glass exhibit at the museum.

The elegant cut-glass punch bowls are not being made in Toledo now, but glass studio art is thriving with the museum's encouragement.

Another unusual aspect of the museum is The Peristyle, a large theater that offers regular musical events to the city.

Flying TWA?

You cancel out, kiss $20 goodbye

The Society of American Travel Writers has issued a consumers' alert about airline cancellation penalties which went into effect Jan. 1.

Trans World Airlines (TWA) has received special tariff permission to charge $20 cancellation penalties on all excursion fare tickets, as well on any changes in excursion tickets that require the rewriting of a ticket.

American Airlines and National Airlines have filed for CAB (Civil Aeronautics Board) approval of similar penalty charges and other airlines are expected to follow suit.

ACCORDING TO the TWA rule, no penalty will be charged when changes in an excursion ticket can be accomplished by use of a revalidation sticker, or when changes are made because of illness, death or the upgrading of a ticket to a full-fare flight.

The latter will, however, carry the $20 penalty if it is subsequently cancelled. Revalidation stickers can usually be used for flight, date or carrier changes.

Travel agents handling the changes will be required, by law, to charge the $20 penalty for tickets rewritten by them.

ONE ASPECT OF this new TWA rule is that it may penalize travelers who follow airline advertising advice and book ahead to avoid increases.

Several airlines have suggested in their advertisements that you should buy your ticket now because the price will probably go up soon. If you do, be sure plans are firm or you may end up paying that $20 surcharge if you cancel or have your ticket rewritten.

THE $20 PENALTY could be a significant portion of the fare on short flights. For example, the TWA V Class fare from Washington, D.C., to New York is only $26. Under new rules, a traveler would get only a $6 refund if he or she cancelled the flight.

Super saver fares, the widely used discount fare, currently allows for purchase and/or changes seven days before a flight without penalty.

The 1980 Eurail map, issued by the Eurailpass committee annually, is available to travelers planning to use the European rail system.

For the first time the map includes main lines in the Republic of Ireland, newly admitted to the Eurailpass group. This brings to 16 the number of countries whose railroads honor the unlimited mileage rail tickets.

The first-class Eurailpass and the second class Eurail Youthpass allow a person to ride an unlimited number of miles for a fixed price within the time limit for which a ticket is bought.

It is good in Austria, Belgium, Denmark, Finland, France, Germany, Greece, Ireland, Italy, Luxembourg, the Netherlands, Norway, Portugal, Spain, Sweden and Switzerland.

For a copy of the new 1980 Eurail map, write to Trains, P.O. Box M., Staten Island, New York 10005.

Now that you have spent all your money on Christmas, you probably don't have $4,000 sitting around to spend on a week's vacation, but it's fun to think about how you would blow that kind of money if you had it.

World Wide Villa Vacations, a division of Vincent Travel and Tour Associates in Canada, offers a Millionaires Holiday in Florida for that price. It includes a deluxe Fort Lauderdale condominium, a private 60-foot yacht and a Lincoln Continental for a week.

Airfare and food are extra, but you can include up to six people in that $4,000 price tag.

Jane Fonda stars as a no-nonsense newscaster who follows an ex-champion cowboy into the Nevada desert in "The Electric Horseman."

Redford, Fonda team well in mod western

"The Electric Horseman" (PG) is a beguiling movie with two winsome stars (Robert Redford and Jane Fonda) at their sexy, charming best; some beautiful western scenery; good supporting performances (especially, by John Saxon), and an apple-pie, American story about the little guy fighting corruption and giant corporation.

Redford plays Sonny Steele, an ex-rodeo champion who shills for a breakfast cereal. During a major promotion in Las Vegas, he's dressed in a lighted cowboy suit and given a champion horse to ride, equally lit and decorated.

When Sonny discovers that the once-spirited racehorse has been drugged to stay calm and manageable, he simply rides off with the horse — out of the neon lights and into the mountains.

Jane Fonda is a television reporter (a near-replay of her "China Syndrome" role) who tracks him down. She eventually rallies to his cause, and the two of them strive to outwit the corporation, the police and everyone else who is hunting them.

SYDNEY POLLACK has deftly directed this film. It has the light touch and simple, positive values that made Frank Capra's films (such as "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town") so popular and appealing.

When the tired travelers trek into the sunset, leading the horse they have saved from drugs and exploitation, and singing "American the Beautiful," it has to be one of the corniest, most ironic and most engaging moments on film — it's Redford and Fonda as a Saturday Evening Post cover.

The VIEW from CANTON CENTER

LEE FIDGE of Plymouth Township did it again!

She picked all four winners in the New Year's Day bowl games — plus — the winner of the Gator Bowl on Friday night. She chose Houston, Oklahoma, Southern California, Alabama and North Carolina. As usual, in bowl selections, her husband, Tom, was the loser.

This year he has to keep the Fidge copper polished until Dec. 31. Last year, he had to keep the wild bird and animal feeders refilled during the cold weather months.

VOLUNTEERS who use their personal automobiles as part of their community service projects should keep track of those miles.

As of September 1979, the Internal Revenue Service increased the allowable mileage deduction for the use of a personal car while performing volunteer work from 7 cents to 8 cents a mile. As income tax return time rolls around, don't forget to report those extra miles you have rolled up.

FRANCES PETERS and Thomas Kenyon had high scores at the Dec. 27 party bridge games in the Plymouth Cultural Center.

Frances is a regular at the Thursday afternoon games. Tom Kenyon was home for Christmas vacation with his parents, Mary Ellen and Bob Kenyon of Brownell Street, Plymouth Township.

Tom lives in Portland, Ore. where he is a CPA with Price Waterhouse. He is a 1968 graduate of Plymouth High School and earned his degree at Eastern Michigan University. He is planning to return to Michigan where he will work on his master's degree at the University of Michigan.

WE MUST HAVE some Easterners in the community who would be interested in a communication from the Maryland Department of Economic and Community Development.

The State of Maryland is extending an invitation to all Michigan oyster shuckers to vie for the title, Michigan Champion Oyster Shucker. The winner will receive a free trip to the national finals in Leonardtown, Md., next October.

"In case the shuckers want to put their style up against a real world champion," the communique continues, "Maryland is bringing in Cornelius Mackall, 31, of Prince Frederick, Md. He won the 1976-77 world championship in Galway, Ireland, opening 12 of the tasty mollusks in less than one minute."

The champion will demonstrate his skills at all three local contests in this area. There will be two preliminaries and a final.

The first will be at 5:30 p.m. Monday, Jan. 21 in the Gandy Dancer restaurant, 401 Depot Street, Ann Arbor. The second will be at 5:30 p.m. Tuesday, Jan. 22 at River Crab on the St. Clair River, two miles north of St. Clair. The third will be at 5:30 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 23 at Charley's Raw Bar & Seafood in the Pontchartrain Hotel in downtown Detroit.

Anyone wishing to enter the contests can call Loretta Harris in Detroit, 963-1244. The Chuck Muer seafood restaurants were chosen because they have raw oyster bars and sell about 7½ tons of fresh seafood per month.

Linda Koelsch, a native of Maryland, may want to try her hand at her home state's oyster shucking contest. Ron and Linda Koelsch moved to their Elm Street home in Plymouth, Mich. in October. They came from Plymouth, Minn. They have three sons, Chris, 11, a student at West Middle School, and Ehren, 9, and Adam, 5, who attend Smith Elementary.

SOME OF YOU may have met Steve Fecht who filled in for photographer Gary Caskey during his recent vacation. Steve, a senior at Central Michigan University, has worked for us between semesters for a couple of years.

This is just a bit of trivia, but I thought it was interesting. Steve said the favorite TV shows among the students at CMU are "The Muppets," "M*A*S*H," and "The Rockford Files," in that order. "And some of them like 'Dallas' but they get so mad at JR they turn it off."

TONIGHT'S THE NIGHT for area Girl Scouts to sign up for the annual swim instruction series which begins Jan. 12 in Central Middle School.

A parent should accompany her daughter to registration which will be from 7-9 p.m. in the scout room of First United Presbyterian Church, Church Street at Main, Plymouth.

This will be the only opportunity to sign up for the program. The fee is $15 for 10 lessons.

Registration day was erroneously printed as Sunday in Thursday's newspaper. It is tonight — Monday.

The old Thompson farm house on the hill on North Territorial is long gone. Dr. and Mrs. Gary Hall live in the home near the spot. They now enjoy the "good elevation" which made for "excellent air drainage, which is good for the health" back at the turn of the century. (Staff photo by Gary Caskey)

Trunk reveals 1909 success story

BY BETTY MASSON

We may think that concern for clean air is a modern development, but a yellowed newspaper article found in the bottom of a trunk reveals that it was a consideration even in the early 1900s.

The article, from the New York Tribune Farmer of Sept. 30, 1909, is an account of the career of a Plymouth farmer, Thomas Thompson. So successful was Thompson, he was chosen "Farmer of the Year," and thus won nationwide recognition.

Written by N. A. Clapp of Northville, the story extols the beauty of Thompson's choice of location, on a hill on N. Territorial Road. Here, Clapp said, there was good elevation, making not only for good land drainage, but also "excellent air drainage, which is conducive to good health."

Clapp felt that farming had other virtues.

"It is becoming very popular for men who can command a sufficient amount of means to buy either a farm for a home or a suburban home in which to raise their families.

"The healthfulness of a properly arranged farm home surroundings and the freedom from alluring influences for children seem to be more and more appreciated."

IN THOSE DAYS, living on a farm also meant that it was an advantage to have a lot of children to help with the work.

Thompson had 10, and it was in a trunk owned by his second daughter, 95-year-old Stella Nelson, that the article turned up.

Mrs. Nelson lived in South Lyon all her married life. Her daughter, Mrs. Bess Neifert of New Hudson, found the clipping when her mother moved to a nursing home.

Mrs. Neifert is passing along a copy to the Plymouth Historical Museum as an excellent description of what farming was like at the turn of the century.

THE FARM, which Thompson called Fair View Farm, covered some 133 acres about one-quarter mile east of Beck Road. The original farmhouse was torn down and a large brick home was built on the site in 1928. It was known as the Horton Farm, and the house is now occupied by Dr. and Mrs. Gary Hall.

Although the farm passed out of the Thompson family in 1911, Mrs. Neifert and her mother have driven by often to recall the good old days. So have two cousins who live in the area, Laura Hicks of Northville and Doug Bolton of Northville Township. Their mother was the eighth child, Elberta.

According to Clapp, their grandfather was born "of parents of limited means" in Durham, England in 1847.

He worked on farms in England and "imbibed a love for farm life."

When he was 21, he "resolved to cast his lot in America."

He worked for farmers in the Rochester area and seized his opportunity, when "in the panic of 1873 and for a few years following, the prices for farm products were low and money was hard to secure." Thompson was able to run several farms on shares.

He spent two years in Washtenaw County "studying the capabilities of farms and the advantages for markets, as well as for social advantages."

According to the article, Thompson bought his farm in around 1884 for $3,000 down and a mortgage of $4,900. "By good management, the debt was lifted in a few years and improvements were begun."

Thompson practiced crop rotation, using first clover, then corn, oats and wheat and clover again. In another rotation, barley came after corn, and then clover again.

THE ARTICLE notes that at the time many farmers had given up growing wheat because it was unprofitable. Thompson differed and considered it a good money crop. Furthermore, he found the straw almost indispensable.

In 1906, his books showed that he got 40 bushels to the acre; in 1907, 29; and in 1908, 35.

In 1908 he had 55 bushels of oats from nine acres; 190 bushels of barley from four acres; and 99 bushels of peas from three acres.

The large crops of clover and grain were fed to a herd of dairy cows and young cattle, the horses, a small flock of sheep and "quite a large number of swine."

Manure was "handled in a manner to get the greatest possible benefit from it." Thompson used commercial fertilizers "when conditions seemed to indicate that they could be profitably used."

To give some indications of the economics of farming in those days, the writer pointed out that Thompson kept 15 cows. Milk from the dairy was taken to the creamery in Plymouth. It was separated and the cream was sold. The skim milk was taken home to feed the calves and pigs.

THOMPSON ESTIMATED that his net income from the farm "during the excellent year of 1908 was $1,800 over and above expenses."

The average income from the cows was about $80 each, or $1,200 a year. Hogs sold from the farm brought in $760, and the income from 25 sheep was between $150 and $200.

Other sources of income were sales of wheat, poultry and apples from eight acres of orchard.

"It is no wonder that Mr. Thompson refused an offer of $90 an acre for his farm during the last winter," concludes Clapp.

The writer calculated that the $1,800 net profit was more than 12 percent return on the value of the plant and its equipment.

"The safety of the investment makes farming one of the best business ventures in which a man of the right tastes and executive ability can engage," he said.

He laid much of Thompson's success to his careful keeping of records. "I was told that any item in regard to any crop, the purchase or sale of any crop or part of it, or any stock during the 25 years that he has occupied the farm can be looked up and the exact results of the transaction known if necessary."

He described the farm house as being very large, "much larger than most farm houses." There was a porch on the east side, looking over the village of Plymouth, on the south, looking across the farm; and on the west, looking towards the barns.

The barns were "among the largest and best in the country." The main cattle barn also held hay and grain and the whole basement was stables.

There was also a horse barn containing an area for the storage of farm machinery.

ACCORDING TO his descendants, Thompson sold the farm in 1911 and moved to one on Seven Mile Road in Northville, near the present site of the Fish Hatcheries.

The family also owned a farm on Six Mile Road and Pontiac Trail. This was looked after by a son, with a daughter going along to look after the housework.

Farm life, as Mrs. Nelson recalls it, and as Mrs. Hicks learned from her mother, was hard work, but fun, too. The oldest child, Gladys, had to help her father with the work of the farm, while Mrs. Nelson was delegated to help her mother in the house. She became the seamstress of the family.

The third child was a daughter, too. She was named Isabel, and was followed by William, John (who died young, probably before 1909), Virginia, Walter, Elberta, Myra and Thomas.

Besides Mrs. Nelson, three others survive. They are William Thompson, 87, of Highland; Walter Thompson, 85, of Palo Alto, Calif.; and Thomas Thompson, of 82, of Medford, Oregon.

Except for the two brothers who went west, the rest of the family stayed in Michigan, and there are Thompson cousins in Highland, Brighton, New Boston and South Lyon, as well as in Northville.

Thompson himself became an invalid; both of his legs had to be amputated, possibly because of diabetes, speculates Mrs. Hicks. He and his wife left the farm, and lived on Main Street in Northville until his death in 1927.

But the family has remained close, and both Mrs. Neifert and Mrs. Hicks reported finding many, many letters and postcards from brothers and sisters among their mother's possessions.

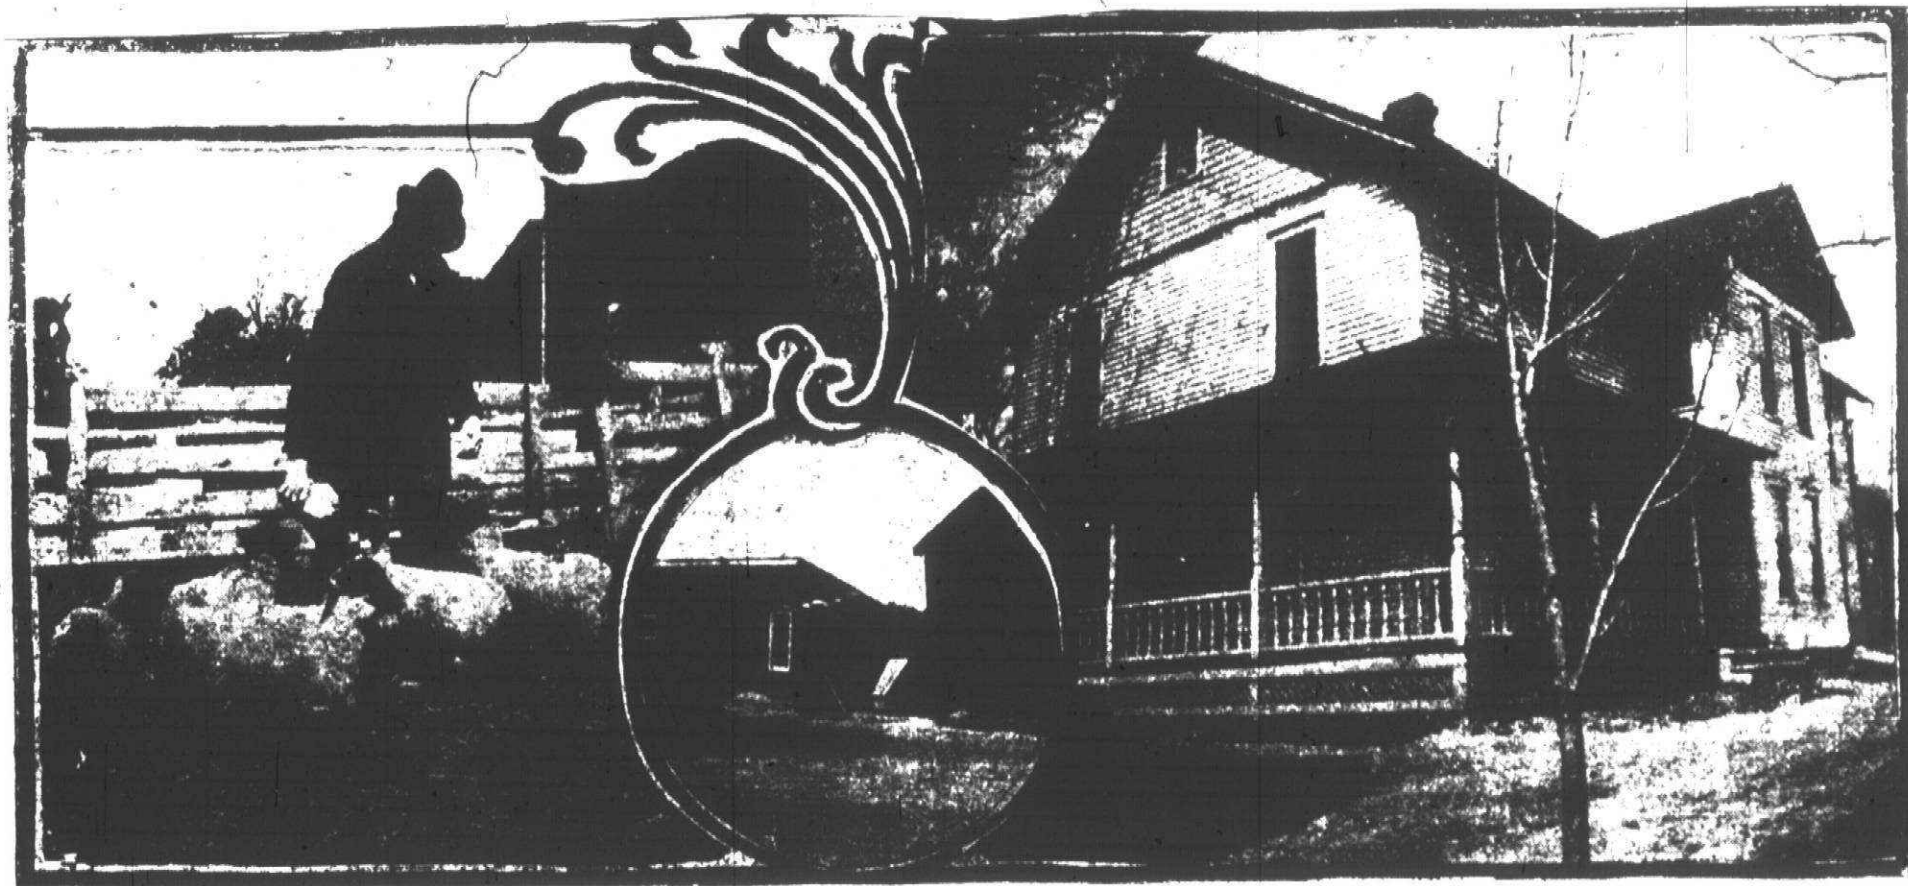

For the surviving children and the cousins, the "good elevation" on North Territorial will always have a special place in their memories.

Soapy marker really cleans up

The problem isn't getting them into the tub, it's getting them to put soap on their bodies.

Somehow the purpose of a bath becomes subverted when transmitted from adult to child. One wants cleanliness as a result of the time spent soaking. The other wants only to splash the walls, wet the floor, create waves and make noise in this ultimate of chambers.

One way to overcome this basic division of intent is to join forces and create a recipe for tub-time bliss.

In a one-cup measure, put  $\frac{3}{4}$  cup water and about 40 drops of food coloring. Fill the remainder of the cup with Ivory Flakes (Ivory Snow works if the flakes are not available). Mix these together until there are no lumps and a thick paste is formed.

Scoop out some of the mixture and place in one opening of an empty plastic ice cube tray. If this is unavailable, a small paper drinking cup will do. Press the soap paste down firmly until the cube is filled to the top.

There should be enough for three to four of the same color cubes. Make other batches of the mixture in different colors. The cubes will need to dry for several days before they harden and can be removed from the tray or cup.

These markers now can be used in the tub to draw with — right on the body. Faces, scenes, words can all be scribbled onto arms and legs. Then when it's washed off, you're left with cleanliness — and a bathtub ring.

Patricia Boardman has taught elementary school and conducted workshops and lectures on education. While attending Oakland University graduate school, she became interested in photography. She and her husband have two daughters and live in Farmington Hills.

Vegetarian cooking seminar scheduled

A series of four classes in vegetarian cooking will offer ways to beat the high cost of meat and at the same time reduce the intake of saturated fats.

"You may not be a vegetarian, but you still are welcome to enroll in the classes," said John Swanson and his wife, Sheryl, who will conduct the seminar. They are residents of Canton Township.

Both are firm believers in the health benefits of a vegetarian diet. They also are aware that inadequate knowledge of vegetable protein sources may lead to nutritional deficiencies.

John Swanson, health education specialist and program coordinator for "Better Living Seminars," has a master's degree in public health. He has been a vegetarian for 14 years. Sheryl Swanson has been a vegetarian all her life. She is a certified cooking school instructor for the Public Health Association of the Seventh-Day Adventist.

THE COOKING school will avoid all pseudo science, assures Swanson. The program will be scientifically and nutritionally sound, he says.

"Vegetarian cooking can be delightfully delicious as well as nutritious. People are amazed when they discover how appetizing a vegetarian meal can be," says Mrs. Swanson. "you may add variety to your family menu by replacing some meat dishes with low cholesterol vegetarian entrees, and make meals more interesting by learning attractive ways to serve vegetables and salads."

The series will be divided into four sessions. Classes will begin at 7 p.m. Monday Jan. 14 and continue at the same time each evening Jan. 16, 21 and 23. Classes will be in Dickinson Junior High School cafeteria, 18000 Newburgh Road, Livonia.

Persons interested in the series should write to: Better Living Seminars, PO Box 574, Plymouth, MI 48170, or they may call 261-0894 or 459-0894, between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Lucille Ball tells why we've got to keep Red Cross ready for big disasters.

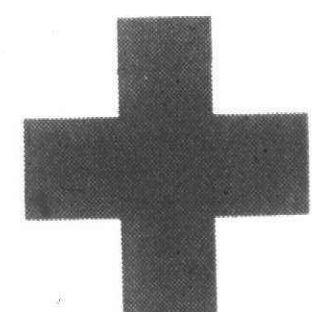

"When Clara Barton started American Red Cross back in the 1880's, its big job was to aid people during major disasters.

"Over the years, Red Cross has taken on lots of other jobs... jobs right around home. We see Red Cross helping the elderly and the homeless. Aiding veterans. Teaching life-saving - and health care. Collecting blood.

"But never forget that right along with all these important neighborhood jobs, Red Cross's vital national job has never changed.

"That's why Red Cross is there when there's a hurricane, a tornado, or other disaster, even when it's half a continent away.

"And that's why we've got to keep Red Cross ready... all over America."

Keep Red Cross ready.

The Warming Oven by Emily Watson

Gather 'round the fondue pot

One of these days the snows will come. The cross country skiers will go into action and the snow shovelers and the those fortunate owners of snow blowers will be out in full force. The ponds and lakes will freeze and skaters will be skimming over the surfaces.

Typical Michigan winter resulting in typical hearty winter appetites.

Your skaters and your skiers will hail the aromas issuing from the fondue pot and the informality of fondue dunking. The Swiss fondue can be served with French bread, vegetable or fruit dippers. Try cubed Italian bread and vegetables with the Italian fondue. French bread cubes, vegetable or fruit pieces or canned cocktail frankfurters go well with the campfire fondue recipes which appear on this page.

The Cheese enchiladas with its black olive garnish may be south of the border in origin but they warm northern palates.

FONDUE COMES from the French word "fondre" which means to melt, and the French-speaking part of the Swiss Alps is credited with the origin of fondues. The Swiss are great dunkers. They dunk their bread into their breakfast chocolate or coffee. They dunk sugar into their after-dinner coffee. But the fondues are the greatest dunking dishes of them all.

There are a few tips on fondue-making and eating. Always spear the bread from the soft part into the crust. Dip into the fondue with a turning motion to coat all sides. And keep twirling the fork as you remove it from the pot to avoid dripping.

Hold it over your plate until cool enough to eat in one delicious bite. The fondue may separate and become rubbery if allowed to cool. So keep it bubbling. Adding warm wine, a little at a time, should restore it to the right consistency.

Beef fondue and potatoes and dab serve their turn in the fondue pot.

BEEF FONDUE: Cut beefsteak into bite-sized chunks, about one-inch square, allowing 1/2 pound per person. Heap cubes on wooden board or platter. Put peanut oil in chafing dish to depth of two inches. When oil is gently boiling, it is time to begin. Each guest spears a piece of steak with a fondue fork and holds it in the boiling oil until it is cooked to their preference.

These can be dunked in a variety of sauces and condiments: Finely chopped Bermuda onions, sour cream with horseradish, chutney, chili sauce, prepared steak sauce, Russian dressing, or mustard mayonnaise.

POTATOES AND DAB
Potatoes boiled in their jackets
3 tbsp. oil or melted butter
5 tbsp. vinegar
2 onions, finely minced
Salt and pepper

Hot boiled potatoes are brought to table in a bowl. Each person takes a potato and peels it on his plate. Cut into bite-sized chunks, each piece is dabbed into the combination of very hot sauce in the fondue pot: butter, vinegar, onions and salt and pepper.

The sauce may be varied by adding chives instead of onions, bits of bacon, and a touch of oregano or thyme.

The Happy Cooker

by Elayne Susan Stulberg

These hearty sandwiches make an entire meal

Necessity is often the mother of invention in the kitchen.

In the case of England's John Montague, fourth Earl of Sandwich, the desire to eat while playing cards meant that he had to have food that could be held in one hand.

During a 24-hour card marathon, he requested that slices of bread with meat in between be brought to the gaming tables.

We have come a long way since that fateful day in 1772 when John Montague unwittingly invented the sandwich. It's a safe bet to say that today it's our most popular finger food.

Sandwiches have gone far beyond the wildest imagination of their innovator.

They encompass an infinite variety of flavors, textures and even colors. Sizes vary from the gigantic submarines, heroes and dagwoods to the dainty, decorative tea sandwiches.

All that is needed is a bit of creativity, imagination, a steady hand and some interesting pantry staples or leftover meat or poultry.

The idea for a sandwich column evolved last week. Tracey, the 19-year-old daughter home from Michigan

State for the Christmas holidays, is a creature of habit. Glancing at the clock and noting it was 11:36 a.m., she suddenly announced, "We will be eating lunch in exactly 24 minutes. What would everyone like?"

Before her sister or brothers could reply, she said, "Hey, I have a great idea." With inspiration from the opened refrigerator, she explained, "Let's take all the leftovers from the last few days and make submarine sandwiches."

And within the next 24 minutes, she proceeded to put together some of the worst sandwiches any of us had ever tasted.

So, forgive me if this column is somewhat self-serving. In addition to readers, it's aimed at my daughter.

Below are a few examples of hearty sandwiches which can be considered for an entire meal. They are especially welcome following the month of holiday parties and fancy foods we have all devoured.

CORNEB LIVER COMBINATION

Russian dressing*
12 slices corn bread

3/4 lb. thinly sliced corned beef
3/4 lb. chopped chicken liver

Spread each slice of bread liberally with Russian dressing. Top half of the bread with corned beef and spread chopped liver over it. Top with remaining 6 slices of bread. *RUSSIAN DRESSING: Blend together 3/4 cup mayonnaise, 1 mashed hard boiled egg, 1/4 cup ketchup, 1 tbsp. sweet pickle relish.

NOTE: If you do not wish to prepare your own corned beef or chopped liver, both may be purchased, fully prepared, at any delicatessen. Recipe yields six sandwiches.

TRIPLE DECKER HAM, CHICKEN AND CHEESE

18 slices rye bread
1 cup Russian dressing
(see previous recipe)
12 lettuce leaves
1/2 lb. boiled ham
1/2 lb. sliced chicken breast
(or turkey breast)
6 slices Swiss cheese

Spread 12 bread slices with Russian dressing and top each with lettuce. Evenly distribute ham slices on top of 6 lettuce leaves. Place remaining 6 lettuce bread slices on top with lettuce side up. On top of lettuce, place slices of chicken and top with Swiss cheese. Spread remaining 6 bread slices with dressing and set on cheese slice. Cut in half and secure with fancy paper-tipped toothpicks. Yields 6 sandwiches.

SMOKED SALMON SPECIAL

12 slices pumpernickel bread
8 oz. pkg. cream cheese
1 lb. smoked salmon,
sliced paper thin at market or deli
2 lg. Bermuda onions, very thinly sliced

Spread 6 slices pumpernickel with thin layer of cream cheese. Top each with equal amount of smoked salmon and onion. Cover with remaining 6 bread slices. Yields 6 sandwiches.

CLUB SANDWICH

Approximately 1 cup mayonnaise
18 slices white bread, toasted
12 lettuce leaves

12 large tomato slices
12 slices cooked
white turkey or chicken
1 lb. crisp cooked bacon slices

Generously spread mayonnaise on one side of 6 slices of toast. Top with 6 lettuce leaves and place tomato slices on each. Set 2 slices of turkey on top of each. Spread mayonnaise on both sides of 6 more slices toast; set on top of turkey and place a lettuce leaf on each. Evenly distribute bacon among the 6 sandwiches. Spread remaining toast, on one side only, with mayonnaise and cover each sandwich. Cut into fourths and secure each wedge with paper-tipped toothpick. Yields 6 sandwiches.

TUNA SUBMARINES

One 7-ounce can tuna fish, drained and flaked
1 1/2 cups finely chopped celery
2 tsp. chopped green pepper
1/2 cup mayonnaise
(or to suit your taste)
1 loaf fresh French bread
6 lettuce leaves
1 lg. onion, thinly sliced
6 tomato slices

Combine tuna, celery, green pepper and mayonnaise and blend thoroughly. Cut bread loaf in half, lengthwise. Place lettuce along bottom half and spread with tuna mixture. Arrange onion slices over tuna. Top onions with tomato slices. Cover tomato with top of bread loaf. Cut into six portions, using tomato slices as guide for size of each portion. Yields 6 sandwiches.

NEXT WEEK: SOUP MAKING

NOTE: In the recipe for Banana Nut Bread in last week's (Dec. 31) column, the instructions should have read two teaspoons rather than two tablespoons of baking soda and the recipe uses two 8x5 or 9x5 loaf pans. We're sorry for the inconvenience caused by the errors.

Byrd's Kitchen

by Vivian Byrd

Fettuccine — plain and fancy

Fettuccine, a narrow flat pasta, green or white, combines well with a variety of sauces, hearty, delicate and any number of stops in between.

Pasta dishes generally (and, to my taste, fettuccine particularly) work equally well as the main event or on the side. Lightly tossed with butter and freshly grated Parmesan or served more elegantly with a scallop and parsley sauce (see below), the reception is always enthusiastic.

Try this tomato sauce on white or green fettuccine, spaghetti or vermicelli. It is a snap to make. Alone, it combines with pasta for a delightful side dish. You might try using it as the tomato base for meat sauce, then add the other ingredients from the current recipe you are using for meat sauce.

TOMATO SAUCE

2 tbsp. olive oil or 1 tbsp. each olive oil and vegetable oil
1/2 cup finely chopped onions
2 cups Italian plum or whole pack tomatoes, coarsely chopped but not drained
3 tbsp. tomato paste
1 tsp. finely cut fresh basil or 1 tsp. dried basil
1 tsp. sugar
1/2 tsp. salt
Freshly ground black pepper

In a 2- to 3-quart saucepan, heat the oil until a light haze forms over it. Add the onions and cook them over moderate heat for 7 or 8 minutes, or until they are soft but not browned. Add the tomatoes, tomato paste, basil, sugar, salt and a few grindings of pepper. Reduce the heat to very low and simmer, with the pan partially covered, for about 40 minutes. Stir occasionally. Press through a sieve (fine) or put through the food processor. Taste for seasoning and serve hot.

Linda S. Giuliani, a free lance home economist from Plymouth, created this vegetable sauce for pasta. It will appear in the cook book she is currently writing but has not yet titled.

Linda also does cooking demonstrations in gourmet specialty stores, cooking classes and in homes.

MUSHROOM ZUCCHINI SAUCE

1/2 cup unsalted butter
2 garlic cloves, crushed
2 cups zucchini, diced (about 3 medium zucchini, unpeeled)
2 cups sliced mushrooms (about 1 lb.)

Quickly saute garlic in butter in medium saucepan. Do not let garlic turn brown as the flavor will be ruined. Add mushrooms and zucchini. Quickly warm the vegetables throughout. Just warm, don't cook. The vegetables should be at the tender but crunchy stage. Takes about 3 minutes. Spoon over hot pasta; sprinkle with freshly grated Parmesan cheese and fresh-chopped parsley.

MICROWAVE: Melt butter in 2-quart microwave casserole dish, on HIGH. Add garlic and set for 1 minute on HIGH. Add zucchini and mushrooms, and microwave on HIGH for 2 minutes, or until warmed throughout.

For a meatless, but delicious supper, try whipping up a batch of fettuccine al burro, a rich pasta dish with a butter, cream and cheese sauce.

FETTUCINE AL BURRO

8 tbsp. butter (1 stick) softened
1/4 cup heavy cream
1/4 cup freshly grated Parmesan cheese
1 lb. fettuccine, homemade or from the store

Cream the butter by beating vigorously until it is light and fluffy. Beat in the cream a little at a time, then add the grated cheese a few tablespoonsful at a time until 1/2 cup is beaten into the sauce. Cook the pasta to package directions. Drain, then toss with the sauce in the still warm cookpot or in a previously warmed casserole (250 degrees in the oven) until every strand is coated with sauce. Season generously with salt and pepper. Serve the extra grated cheese with the fettuccine.

A very satisfying seafood and pasta dish is Green Fettuccine with Scallop and Parsley Sauce (Gourmet Magazine, January, 1980, reprinted by permission). The silkiness of the cream, the fresh piquant flavor of parsley and the mild sweetness of the scallops combine well for a dish fit for your most honored guest, or to make your family feel quite special indeed.

GREEN FETTUCINE WITH SCALLOP AND PARSLEY SAUCE

In a stainless steel or enameled skillet, cook 1/4 cup firmly packed fresh parsley leaves, minced, and 1 shallot, minced, in 1/2 stick (1/4 cup) butter over moderate heat, stirring, for 5 minutes, or until the shallot is softened. Add 1/2 cup dry white wine and reduce the mixture over moderately high heat, stirring, to about 6 tbsp. Add 3/4 lb. sea scallops, cut horizontally into 1/4-inch slices, and cook the mixture over moderate heat, stirring, for 1 minute. Add 1 cup half-and-half and 1/2 cup heavy cream and simmer the mixture for 2 minutes. Remove the skillet from the heat, stir in 1 cup freshly grated Parmesan cheese, 1/2 cup firmly packed fresh parsley leaves, minced, and freshly grated nutmeg, salt and pepper to taste, and keep the sauce warm.

In a kettle, bring to a boil 7 quarts water with 2 tbsp. salt and 1 tbsp. olive oil; add 1 1/2 lbs. green fettuccine, and cook for 2 to 7 minutes, or until it is al dente. Drain the fettuccine in a large colander; transfer it to a heated platter, and toss it with 2 tbsp. softened unsalted butter. Spoon the sauce over the fettuccine, sprinkle the dish with 2 tbsp. minced fresh parsley leaves, and serve it with freshly grated Parmesan cheese. Serves 4 to 6.

After a hard day at work or play, who needs to spend hours in the kitchen? Twenty-Minute Tuna Delight is fast and easy on the budget. With a microwave oven, even this short time is cut in half.

One can of tuna combines with wholegrain oats and sweet and sour ingredients to serve three to four people. Serve it over a bed of rice or canned chow mein noodles.

20-MINUTE TUNA DELIGHT

1 6 1/2 to 7-oz. can tuna, drained, flaked
1/2 cup quick oats, uncooked
1 egg
1/4 cup finely chopped onion
1 tsp. garlic salt
1 medium-sized green pepper, cut in strips
1 tbsp. vegetable oil
1 8-oz. can pineapple chunks
1/2 cup heavy syrup
1 chicken bouillon cube
1/2 cup boiling water
2 tbsp. firmly packed brown sugar
1 tbsp. soy sauce
1 tbsp. cornstarch
1 tsp. vinegar
1 medium-sized tomato, cut into chunks

Combine tuna, oats, egg, onion and garlic salt; mix well. Shape to form 12 balls; saute tuna balls and green pepper in oil in 12-inch skillet 3 to 4 minutes or until green pepper is tender, stirring frequently. Drain pineapple, reserving syrup. Dissolve bouillon cube in boiling water; add reserved syrup, sugar and soy sauce. Dissolve cornstarch in vinegar; stir into bouillon mixture. Add bouillon mixture and pineapple to skillet; cook over medium heat, stirring frequently, about 2 minutes or until sauce is thickened.

Add tomato; continue cooking about 1 minute or until tomato is heated through. Serve over rice or chow mein noodles.

Microwave oven directions:

Omit vegetable oil. Cook tuna balls and green pepper in 8-inch square baking dish at HIGH about 4 minutes, stirring after every 2 minutes of cooking. Add pineapple and cornstarch mixture; cook at HIGH 4 to 5 minutes or until mixture is thickened, stirring after every minute of cooking. Add tomato; cook at HIGH 1 minute.

Planning menus can be rewarding

Planning and preparing meals for one or two can be a most exciting and enjoyable experience. Delicious and delightful dining starts with basic planning. If possible, prepare menus for a week at a time.

Consider planning combinations. Crunchy foods are good accents for softer foods. Bright colors such as a red tomato wedge or a bright green sprig of parsley dress up an otherwise colorless dish.

Following a good menu plan, develop your weekly shopping list. If you shop at one supermarket, organize your list to follow the layout of the store.

Also check the weekly food ads to see specials that will fit into your menu plan. This is a good way to save dollars on your food bill.

Remember to shop for your freezer as well. Buy meats when they are on sale. Package for the freezer in two-portion servings. Even if you have more than two for dinner, you can thaw a couple of packages.

Molasses tricks

Molasses helps make everyday cooking more flavorful and nutritious. Try these tricks.

MOLASSES MILK — Stir 1 tbsp. light molasses into a glass of milk. Nice color and tangy flavor.

BARBECUE BASTE — To every half cup of bottled barbecue sauce, add 1 tbsp. dark molasses, then use as desired.

NEW ORLEANS-STYLE SPAGHETTI SAUCE — To every cup of prepared spaghetti sauce, add 1 tbsp. dark molasses.

TAFFY FROSTING — Stir 1 tbsp. light molasses into canned vanilla frosting, and use on spice cake.

Brakes take lots of tests

Trying to stop two tons of steel moving 55 miles an hour may sound like a job for Superman.

But millions of people do it effortlessly every day when they apply brakes in their automobile.

This performance and reliability didn't just happen. It reflects detailed refinement of brake systems resulting from millions of hours of development and testing programs that almost never stop.

"Chrysler Corp. engineers are conducting brake tests in some part of North America almost every day of the year," said Gayle Smith, manager of brake engineering.

The tests are conducted over routes in typical big city traffic in Detroit, New York City, Los Angeles and Phoenix. Or they're conducted in such colorful-sounding places as Pike's Peak in Colorado; the Peter Pot area in the Smoky Mountains; WaWa, Ontario; the Jerome grade in Arizona; and at a former airfield in Florida.

"ALL THIS is in addition to component testing in our engineering laboratories and at our Chelsea Proving Grounds. Test cycles may be as brief as one hour or up to several months. Around-the-clock testing in some areas is a regular part of the program," Smith said.

The heavy test schedule isn't because brakes are radically different, Smith said, but because systems must be tailored model to model, and there is no substitute for on-road experience.

The goal of the engineers is to see that all cars perform to acceptable standards.

Brakes must perform under extreme weather and temperature conditions, in response to a variety of demands by all kinds of drivers, in a variety of situations.

Engineers evaluate characteristics such as pedal effort, durability, noise levels, wear of linings, fade and stopping distances.

The test route near the proving grounds mixes suburban driving and back roads. On the Detroit city cycle, prototype cars may be equipped with future model brake systems.

LA'S CLIMATE and traffic brings about severe temperatures and frequency of brake use for evaluation of new brakes and linings and brings out noise and rapid hot wear. New York offers its own special big city challenge.

Phoenix offers a metropolitan environment with high temperatures and different temperatures at high altitude evaluations that can't be reproduced at the company's proving grounds.

Auto Show Miss

Jane Meneely, 23, of Farmington Hills was named "Miss 1980 Detroit Auto Show." She will reign over the show at Cobo Hall. The auto show will begin Jan. 12 and run through Jan. 20. The show will begin with a charity preview Friday night. Money from the preview will go to the Boys' Club of Metropolitan Detroit, the local Easter Seal Societies and the Northeast Guidance Center for Emotionally Disturbed Children.

A trip down Pike's Peak puts its own special burden on brakes. The Peter Pot area in the Tennessee Smokies is regarded as a good country run of moderate severity, which often ends with a run to nearby metropolitan areas such as New York or Washington, D.C.

Brake tests are worked into the extreme cold weather testing in WaWa, Canada, and northern Ontario, because of the likelihood of sub-zero temperatures that might influence brake characteristics. The abundant snow there also helps engineers design against the possibility of snow packing into systems beneath the car.

"DRIVERS DON'T need to make a panic stop more than a few times in the life of their car," Smith said. The person who does is probably "over-driving."

Brake engineers are always searching for the system that gives the best controlled stop for all drivers. Testing includes near destruction to assure integrity of the system.

"As reliable as brakes have become, they can't overcome certain laws of nature," Smith said.
