State considers home for 6 retarded adults

By DARLENE STINSON

Six mentally retarded adults will move from a state institution to a colonial home in the Canton Country Acres subdivision under a proposal before the Michigan Department of Social Services.

The home would be run jointly by the Northville Residential Training Center, an institution for retarded adults, and Alternative Services, a non-profit corporation based in Royal Oak.

The state is considering a similar proposal of Pyramid Human Services to construct two homes in Canton for mentally retarded youths. Those homes would be located in the vicinity of Herbey and Geddes and on Maben west of Canton Center.

Experts in the field of mental retardation say the proposals meet a goal of the Michigan Department of Mental Health to to deinstitutionalize the mentally retarded and provide more normal living enrvironments.

NRTC OFFICIALS have proposed an existing home on Roundtable, located south of Palmer and east of Morton Taylor, for the adult foster care center.

Laima Starwas, community placement director for the state institution, said the house was selected "because it's in an area where you and I might want to live."

Six residents of the Northville Residential Training Center on Seven Mile Road will be selected to reside in the new home, according to Ms. Starwas.

The selections will be made jointly by NRTC officials and Alternative Services.

Although Alternative will oversee daily operations of the home, the state institution will provide back-up services such as speech therapy, and nursing care to adult residents of the home.

Alternative will staff the home on a 24-hour basis and provide individualized programming on self-care. According to Ms. Laimas, the residents will either work during the day or attend special education classes of the Wayne County Intermediate School District.

Michigan's mandatory special education law provides for the training of all mentally retarded citizens up to the age of 26.

ARTHUR MACK, executive director of Alternative Services, proposes a Canton home for high-functioning retarded, similar to a facility his organization operates in East Lansing.

According to Mack, some mentally retarded adults have progressed from group homes to independent-living situations.

He said residents of the proposed Canton home will be either all men or women. The house, which the Michigan Department of Mental Health will lease from private owners, includes four bedrooms and a family room.

Tom Kennedy, a consultant with the Michigan Department of Social Services, said his agency will conduct on-site inspections of the home and an examination of Alternative's operations before making a decision on the application.

He expects the review process will take 17 to 20 weeks.

A zoning statement has been requested of Canton Township as part of the application's review. However, township planner Jim Kosteva says that municipalities wield little power in the review process.

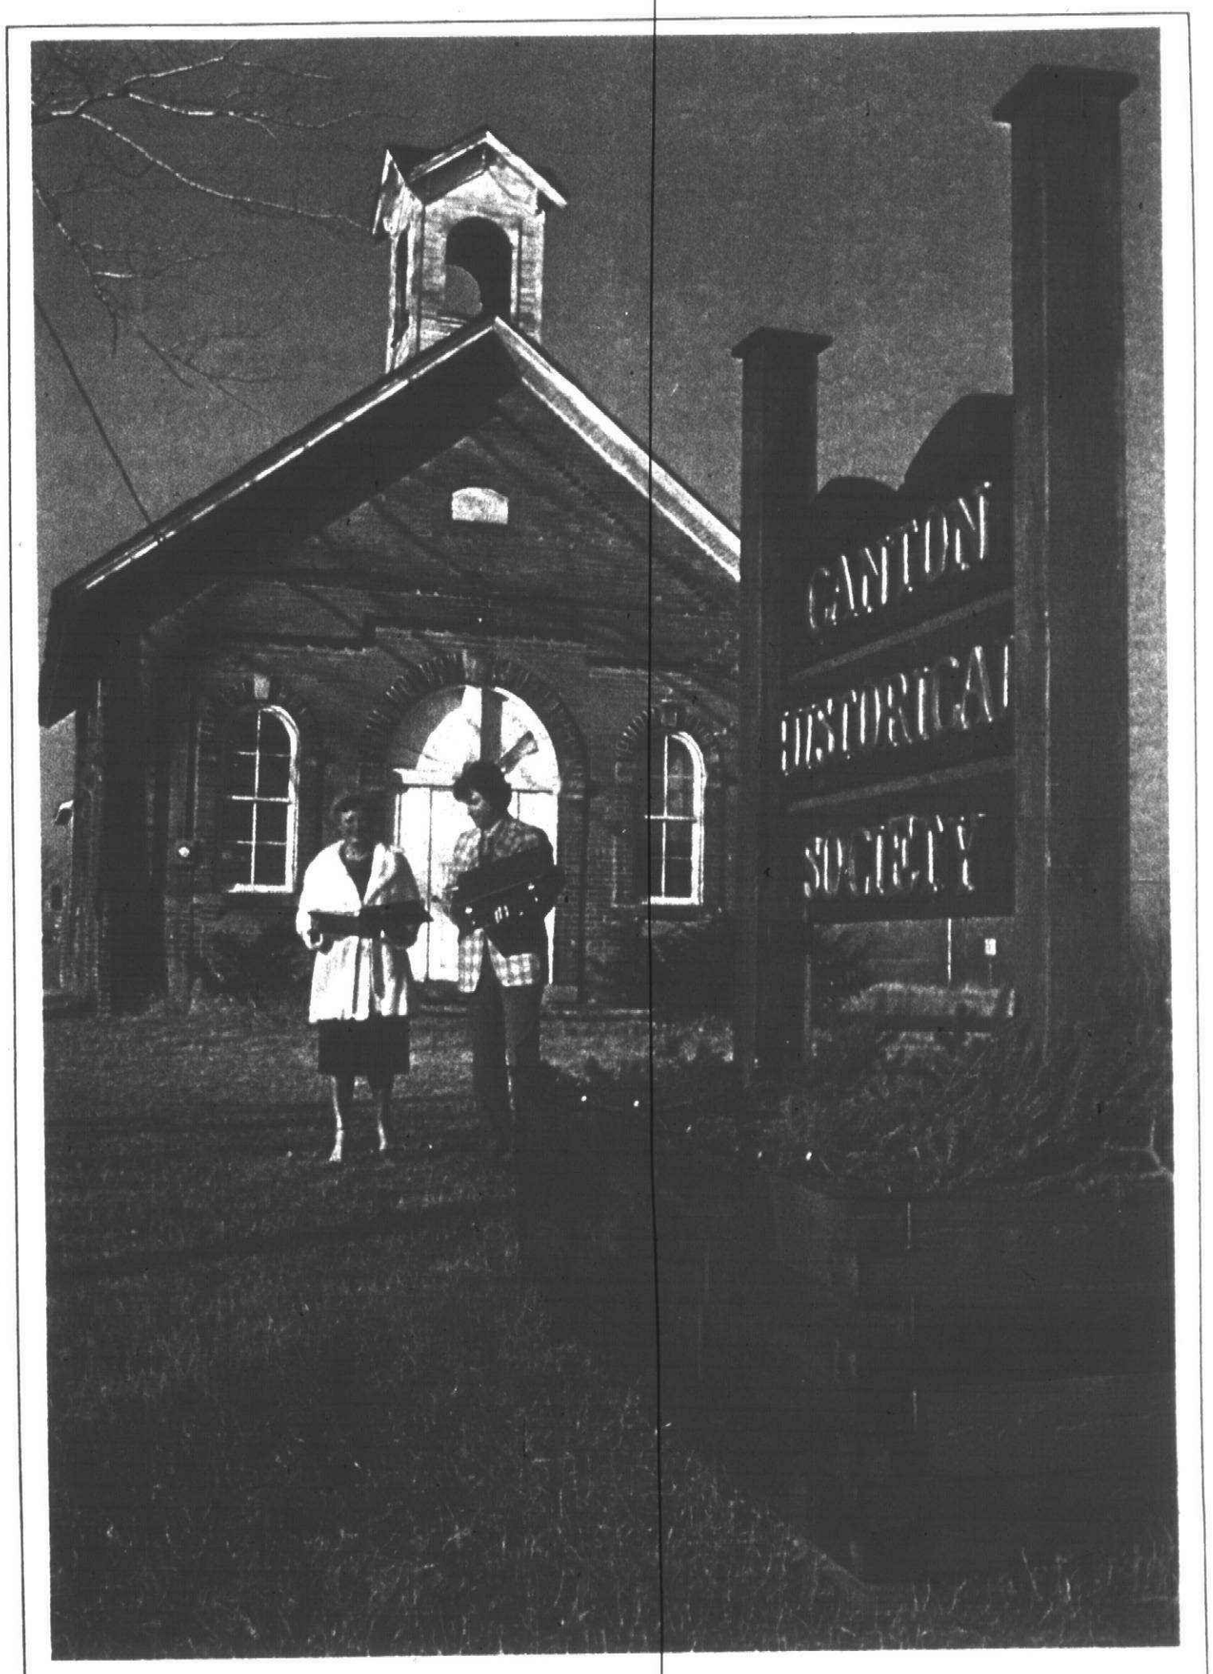

State zoning law specifies that such homes are permissible in residential areas. According to Kosteva, the township must notify homeowners who live within 1,500 feet of the proposed home and verify to the state that no similar facilities exist in the immediate area.

"Everything I've heard about the program indicates that it's very positive for the development of the mentally retarded," said township Supervisor Noel Culbert.

He said township officials were notified last November that proposals for mentally retarded homes in Canton could be forthcoming. The supervisor said he informed presidents of some homeowner groups.

"There's really nothing we can do about it," said Culbert. According to the supervisor homeowner presidents had similar reactions.

According to Mack, Alternative Services currently operates eight group homes for the mentally retarded, including facilities in East Lansing, Royal Oak and Holt.

A plan for history

Discussing plans for renovation of the Canton Historical Society building at Canton Center and Proctor are Lillian Hauk, president of the historical society, and Bill Tesen, president of the Canton Rotary Club. Rotarians have donated $4,000 to the society for historical projects. The sign in front of the building was made by Bart and Bonnie Berg. (Staff photo by Gary Caskey.)

Experts applaud homes

Retarded face better life

By DARLENE STINSON

Michigan's mentally retarded citizens have never faced a rosier future, say experts in the field.

They base their optimism on a revolutionary change in the education and care of the mentally retarded.

A major goal of the Michigan Mental Health Department involves the transfer of mentally retarded clients from state institutions to small group homes or foster families.

Three proposals before the Michigan Department of Social Services for group homes in Canton Township coincide with the state's growing drive for deinstitutionalization.

Pyramid Human Services, a non-profit organization based in Ann Arbor, has proposed the construction of two homes for mentally retarded boys on Maben and on Herbey.

Alternative Services, a Royal Oak organization, has proposed the establishment of a group home for mentally retarded adults in the Canton Country Acres subdivision.

"THE THINKING and direction has really changed," said Frank Schuch, director of community placement for the Plymouth Center for Human Development, the agency designated to monitor the Canton homes for retarded boys.

"Years ago, the thinking was that we should put these people in institutions where they would be cared for, for life. There were a number of myths, such as the mentally retarded can't learn.

"But that's not true. They just learn at a slower rate. And environment is a very important factor determining how much and how fast they learn."

Schuch and two staffers of the Northville Residential Training Center (NRTC) — the agency which would monitor the Canton home for retarded adults — say the retarded learn better in the more natural environment of a group or foster home than in institutions.

For children, the most desirable environment is living with natural parents, says Schuch. But when family problems prevent that living arrangement, the best alternative is a group home or foster care by families trained in care for the mentally retarded.

For adults who would normally live away from their parents, a good environment is a group home for the retarded, say Laima Starwas, community placement director for NRTC, and Denise Horvath, NRTC education coordinator.

The most normal environment possible is the goal.

A state institution with hundreds of residents and rotating staffs cannot provide the individualized attention and consistency which the retarded need in order to learn, the three say.

THEY ARE encouraged by Michigan's mandatory special education law, which requires training of the retarded from birth to age 26. Schuch says a growing number of community programs makes it easier for natural parents to keep retarded children in their homes.

A 1972 Michigan law provides for the licensing of group homes for the retarded. Schuch, Ms. Starwas and Ms. Horvath all predict that state residential institutions for the retarded may someday become obsolete as more group homes are established.

According to Schuch, a consent judgement signed by federal district court Judge Charlies Joiner requires the Plymouth Center for Human Development to transfer at least 450 of its 550 residents to group or foster homes by March 31, 1983.

The consent judgement resulted from a lawsuit filed against Plymouth Center by a parents' group alleging mistreatment and abuse of some of the institution's residents.

Despite a mounting campaign to place the retarded in group homes, Ms. Starwas and Ms. Horvath acknowledge the vehement opposition to such homes in many communities.

"They don't understand mental retardation as opposed to mental illness," Ms. Starwas said of some homeowners' fears.

Ms. Horvath said potentially dangerous persons would not be placed in group homes.

"The mentally retarded are no more dangerous than ordinary people," she said. "Anyone could be dangerous, I could pull out a knife right now."

THE NRTC STAFFERS say many of their clients have been institutionalized since childhood. Many residents are anxiously awaiting placement in a group home, they said.

"They are the only members of our society who are institutionalized without a hearing," Ms. Starwas said.

Bond issue tops agenda

A $22 million decision is expected to be made tonight by the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education.

The school board is expected to make a final decision on a bond issue to handle student growth, and to set an election to seek voter approval of borrowing that money.

The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the administration building at 354 S. Harvey, Plymouth.

IN RECENT months the school board has been looking at proposed bond issues ranging from $12 million to more than $25 million.

The final decision apparently will be in favor of a borrowing almost $22 million for new construction and renovations to existing buildings.

If approved by voters, the $22 million would cost Plymouth-Canton voters an estimated 2.6 mills the first year to repay the loan. The amount of millage needed for debt service would decrease in future years as current debts are paid off.

The board is expected to set March 27 as a special election day for the bond issue proposal and for voter approval of an earmarked one-half mill for annual maintenance costs.

THE BOND ISSUE expected to gain approval will include $8 million to renovate Central Middle School, some $8 million for energy conservation and renovations, almost $5 million for a classroom wing at the high schools, $500,000 for bus purchases, and $500,000 for portable buildings.

Central Middle School is in such poor condition that two weeks ago the school board, in a straw vote, decided to invest $8 million in renovations regardless of how the building would be used.

After voting against grade realignment, though, it is very likely Central will be used as a high school. Although a decision on the type of high school has yet to be made, some of the options discussed in the past include: a prep

Group to study regional police

The Canton Township board has authorized Police Chief Jerry Cox to form a study committee on regionalization of some police services.

Representatives from five communities served by the 35th District — Canton, Plymouth, Plymouth Township, Northville and Northville Township — will serve on the committee.

The committee will study the feasibility of regionalizing recordkeeping and communications.

"It is felt that a significant amount of money could be saved by the elimination or reduction in duplication of equipment and services," said Cox in a letter to the township board. "It is not unrealistic to believe that the figures reflecting the money saved could be in the area of $500,000."

Cox also endorsed the idea of building a central courthouse for the five communities. Court facilities are now in Canton, Northville and the city of Plymouth.

Judge James Garber of the 35th District Court proposed forming a committee to study building a central court to save money.

At last week's meeting, board members appointed Clerk John Flodin and Trustee Robert Greenstein to serve on that committee.

Short Takes

A goose of a name

Dozens of geese-lovers apparently reside in Canton Township. They responded with indignation to a group of geese photographs in the Jan. 17 edition of the Canton Observer. Staff photographer Gary Caskey caught the geese strolling along Phoenix Lake. The residents who telephoned and wrote the Observer office didn't object to the pictures. But they pointed out with indignation that the creatures are called Dark Canada geese — not Dark Canadian geese as reported. One woman asked to see the birds' Canadian citizenship papers. We stand corrected.

The big bucks

"Two hundred thou, baby," is the way Canton Trustee Robert Greenstein describes the township's cable TV policy. A letter of understanding which requires Omnicom of Michigan to pay the township $200,000 in advance franchise fees will be attached to Canton's cable television ordinance. Township board members last week agreed to publish the ordinance — a required step before final franchise approval is granted. But Greenstein and other board members insisted that a pledge from Omnicom for $200,000 advance franchise fees be placed in writing. "Let them have a check for $200,000 up here on the night we approve that ordinance, and I'll vote for it," Greenstein said.

Politicking?

John Wiltsie, a member of Canton's Economic Development Corp. (EDC), plugged the merits of former Supervisor Harold Stein before the township board last week. Stein's term on the EDC had expired, and Wiltsie wanted the township board to reappoint the former supervisor despite the fact that Stein had not applied. Wiltsie referred to "political problems" between Stein and the present board as a possible reason for a decision against his reappointment. Trustee Robert Greenstein — Stein's political enemy in the 1976 and 1978 elections — insisted that everyone on the board likes the former supervisor. But the board voted 6-1 to replace Stein on the EDC with Mitch Howard. Trustee Eugene Daley, a Stein running mate in the 1976 election, cast the lone dissenting vote.

Kathy Spencer of Canton has broken into the traditionally male field of auto repair by buying her own tune-up shop. (Staff photos by Gary Caskey.)

Car ownership woes don't pique Kathy Spencer

Some women worry about being cheating when they take their car in for a tune-up because the shop manager will figure they don't know anything about automobiles.

That's not a problem for Kathy Spencer. She owns and manages a tune-up service franchise.

Ms. Spencer, a Canton resident, is one of the few women in the country to operate a Precision Tuning franchise. Her service opened earlier this month at the corner of Middle Belt and Warren in Westland.

In addition, Ms. Spencer, in partnership with her husband Bob, owns the area rights that will allow her to set up more Precision Tuning facilities throughout Wayne and Monroe counties.

Only two other women manage the tune-up franchises scattered throughout the country. At last count, there were 106 stores.

According to Ms. Spencer, the shop performs only tune-ups. "The price ($34.90 for any car) is competitive because we do exclusively tune-ups," she says.

Although Ms. Spencer admits she is not an expert in maintenance of the entire car, she is qualified to perform tune-ups.

She attended an extensive course sponsored in Texas by the parent company which taught her how to use the equipment utilized for auto tune-ups.

The electronic equipment used by Precision Tuning, according to Ms. Spencer, is capable of diagnosing car problems that can't be solved by a tune-up.

"We don't refer people to anyone in particular if there are other problems, but we do tell them if they should see their mechanic," she says.

The new store is capable of handling between 18-26 cars a day in the manager's estimation. She says business has been picking up steadily since the opening day.

Although some customers have expressed a bit of surprise when they realize the shop is managed by a woman, "most could tell I was the boss.

"Some men have asked me how I know so much about it," Ms. Spencer says.

In the next three years, Ms. Spencer is committed to either setting up or selling several more franchises. She says she plans to move on to each new shop as it opens in order to train personnel. Her first franchise employs two mechanics.

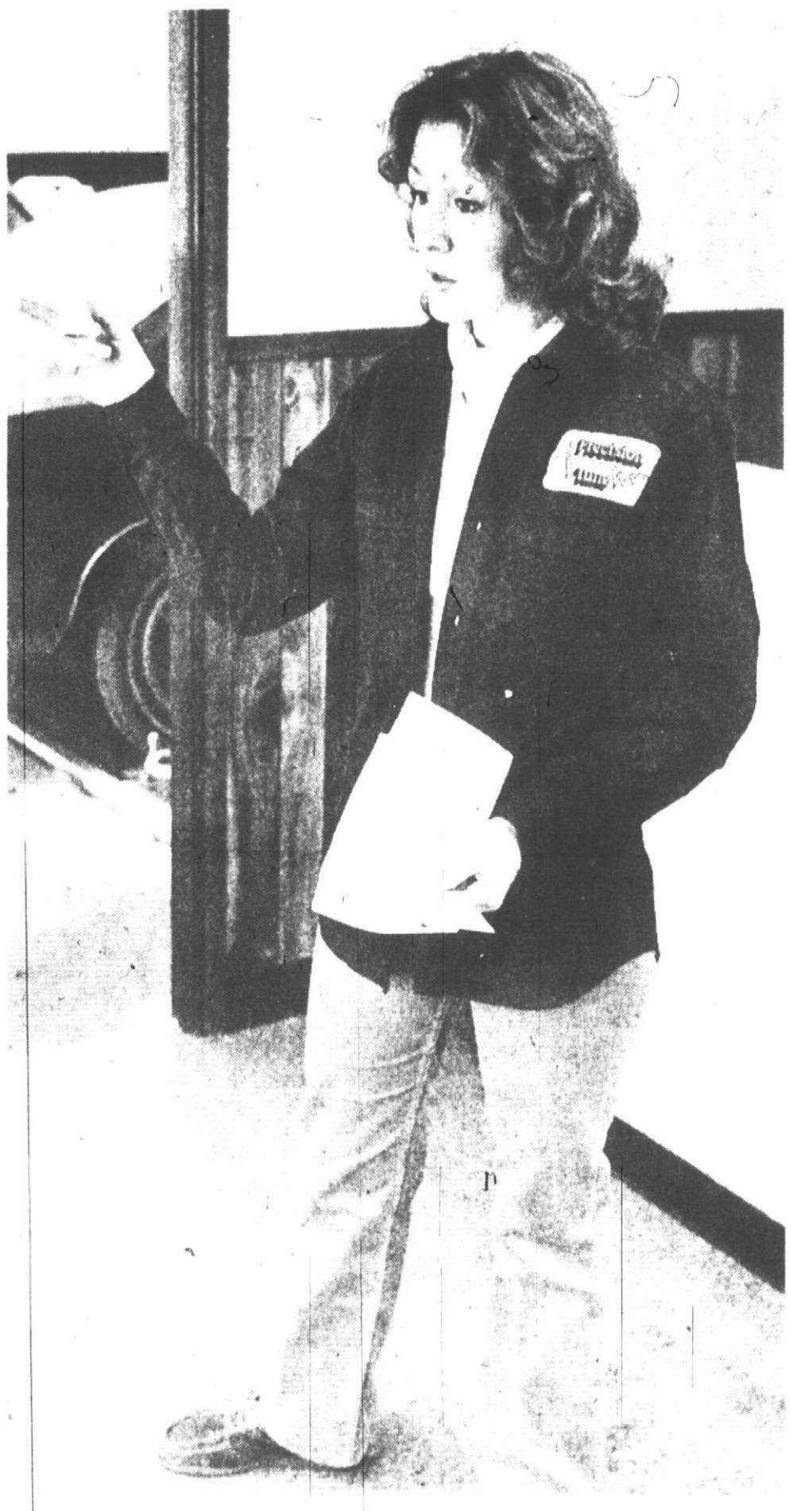

She has not decided where the franchises will be located, but is inclined to rule out Canton unless the sign ordinance now in effect is relaxed.

"It's very important to have the signs to identify us," she says.

In the meantime, even one shop is placing great demands on Ms. Spencer's time. Her husband, a General Motors Co. employee, travels extensively.

In addition, the couple has two children. "I'm fortunate that my grandmother lives with us and takes care of them.

"And I try to take every opportunity to be with them."

Explaining procedures to customers is one part of Kathy Spencer's busy day.

Officials invite zoning views

Township planners are expecting hundreds of property owners to attend a Feb. 7 hearing on land use.

The hearing, scheduled for 7:30 p.m. in the auditorium of Plymouth-Salem High School, will focus on a proposed zoning map and ordinance which reserves thousands of acres west of Canton Center for agricultural purposes.

The zoning documents carry out the intent of Canton's master land use plan. Revisions to the 1976 plan were approved by the planning commission last November. The zoning map and ordinance defines land use designations and indicates the zoning of specific parcels.

"People should really turn out for this hearing," said Canton planner Jim Kosteva. "This is a significant document. The hearing is the residents' primary opportunity for comments on land use in this township. People should be put on notice."

Planning commissioners, who have been working on the zoning documents since 1976, hope to make a recommendation on the map and ordinance at their Feb. 11 meeting, Kosteva said.

They are hoping for township board approval of the documents by March 4. The township tax board of review which meets in mid-March, is expected to lower property assessments on some 5,000 acres of agricultural land if the map and ordinance are approved.

ZONING OF LAND west of Canton Center for agricultural and five-acre residential uses are a primary feature of the proposed documents.

"The old (1966) zoning text said agricultural land use is a holding zone," Kosteva said. "This one is based on a master plan that states an intention to preserve 5,000 acres of agricultural land."

Kosteva admits that planners will have to rewrite the zoning ordinance if the proposed purchase of farmers' development rights is defeated by voters a second day. Legally, landowners must be reimbursed for their lost ability to develop their land.

The township board has pledged to place a development rights proposal on the ballot by May 1981. Voters narrowly defeated a proposed four-mill tax ($4 per $1,000 assessed property valuation) for the development rights program in November 1978.

Other features of the proposed zoning map and ordinance include:

- Lower density in single-family residential areas, particularly near I-275.
- An increase in the amount of industrially zoned land, especially in the northeastern corner of the township.
- An increase in the number of parcels zoned for apartments along Michigan Avenue.
- A break-up of commercial zoning districts along Ford Road with parcels zoned for apartments and single-family homes.
- Three specific types of classifications for commercial use — local commercial (convenience stores), community commercial (such as Harvard Square shopping center and Kmart) and regional commercial (such as the Center State entertainment complex.)
- Inclusion of some township board policies, such as landscaping requirements, in the zoning ordinance.

According to Kosteva, adoption of the zoning ordinance will make the job of township planners easier.

The current zoning ordinance, which was adopted in 1976, includes numerous addendums and revisions. The proposed ordinance incorporates the revisions under the proper zoning topics.

school for college-bound students; an alternative school for students who cannot cope with the largeness at the Centennial Educational, or a center for business and co-op students.

Central no longer will be needed as a middle school because the district will be renting Lowell Junior High from Livonia Schools.

THE $8 MILLION for energy conservation and maintenance-type renovations includes the cost of adding air-conditioning equipment to schools which will be switching to Extended School Year (ESY) scheduling.

The current thinking of the board in its growth plans is to drop ESY scheduling at Pioneer Middle School but expand it in the near future to five elementaries — Allen, Bird, Farrand, Fiegel and Smith. The cost of air conditioning for each building ranges from $95,000 to $125,000.

The portable buildings will be used to house students as population bulges shift from grade to grade, but will be primarily located at elementary and middle school sites. Some also may be used at the CEP, depending upon the construction schedule for the classroom wing.

When the board decided against moving the ninth grade back to the middle school level it also became committed to building more classroom space at the CEP where the student population is expected to peak at 6,000 in 1987-88.

A classroom addition of about 30 rooms will be needed at the CEP, with the cost estimated to be between $4.5 and $5 million.

The school board also is considering including $500,000 in the bond issue to buy buses as a way of relieving the operational budget for the next couple years.

Off the Walls

The call of labor

By NANCY WALLS SMITH

Lately my husband and I have been tossing back and forth the idea of me going back to work. That is, he's been tossing the idea at me, while I've been throwing it right back to him like a hot potato.

Granted, it would be nice to have some extra money for little frivolities like paying off our Visa card (they have a lien on one of our kids) or maybe going really wild and buying "ground round" instead of hamburger.

But I'm just not sure if the work-a-day world is ready for the likes of me, and vice-versa.

FOR STARTERS, what would I wear? I've got a closet full of mini-dresses, mini-skirts, and spiked heels. Even if these delightful little numbers were still in style, I think those adorable clusters of broken veins on my legs, brought on by two hefty pregnancies, would tend to distract from the overall effect.

If I could throw together an outfit that doesn't make me look like I've just stepped out of a time machine for the '60s, I still don't think I'm psychologically competent to endure the rigors of a job interview. Or a typing test! Ye gads!

I think I'd rather spend a month marooned on a desert island with an unruly 3-year-old than take a typing test. Wouldn't it be nice if they would just take your word for it that you can type. Now who would lie about a thing like that?

It's not as if you could fake your way through a job once you were hired. They would tend to get suspicious once you started turning in letters and invoices made out in long-hand.

And if I did happen to stumble upon the kind of job that I would like — one where I could hide away in some quiet little room all day and type my heart out without deadlines, pressure or some ominous boss looming over my shoulder — who would take care of my kids?

I know I'm making excuses, but the prospect of re-entering the real world of offices and grown-ups after spending the better part of the last few years in my bathrobe is a very scarey thing. I don't think I can even remember how to be cordial before 10 a.m.

AND WHAT about all of those office machines and routines that have come about since my departure? Do secretaries still bring coffee to their bosses? Oh, I hope not. I do well to make myself a cup of Sanka in the morning.

Then I usually stumble around the house in my sleepy, groggy state looking for a soft quiet spot in which to collapse with my morning paper. I don't think they want sleepy stumblers in many offices.

Years ago, after I had quit working to have our first child, I went through a tremendous guilt trip about not bringing home a paycheck. I suspect most every lady who decides to stay home goes through something similar.

Now I hear ladies talking of guilt about leaving their kids while they go back to work. I think if we'd just quit reading all of those magazine articles about what we would, should and could do if we were perfect, we'd all be alot better off.

Meanwhile, to work or not to work remains an issue at our house. I have a feeling this is one I'm not gonna get out of.

Perhaps I should place an ad: "Freelance Writer for Hire. Works Best in Bathrobe."

Books & TV to be linked

"Books and TV: Partners for the Family" is a new project being undertaken by Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

The goal of the project is to link and promote critical television viewing and more reading.

A joint committee of parents, librarians, and school district staff has followed up on the suggestion by Tom Yack, school board president.

The project aims at promoting reading for enjoyment and using television as a springboard for widening the scope of reading, according to Bee Green, director of libraries for the school district.

Because children spend far more time in front of the television than they do in school, the committee hopes to limit and direct viewing time.

Plans are being made for distributing information on recommended TV programs and on books which will relate to the viewing.

"We hope that eventually more students will find themselves 'turned on' to books as often as they turn on the TV," said Ms. Green.

Committee members include parents Connie Roessler, Jeanette Wines and Marilyn Worth, and staff members Jan Elston, Carol Tate, Carita Bergelin and Florence Beier.

Among the projects under consideration are monthly TV suggestions to parents, informing teachers about library books and related TV programs, planning for TV programs on the cable when it is installed in Plymouth-Canton, presentations for PTO meetings and publishing information in local newspapers.

Food for equity

Those of us who belong to the female gender have come a long way. We can vote. We get equal pay for equal work, or at least we have a law that says we do. We can have our own credit cards. We may even get drafted.

But the minute we set foot in a restaurant, it's welcome back to the world of the unenlightened.

It all begins the minute a female sets foot in an eatery.

"Right this way, honey," says the motherly type as she leads the way to a table. We try to ignore this overly-familiar address, since food, not a fist fight, is on our mind.

Then comes the menu. Although we have never heard of a restaurant crass enough to refuse a menu to a woman, we do know of one that has different menus for men and women.

The restaurant happens to be La Fontaine, an expense-account extravaganza in the RenCen.

After happening in one evening, we perused the menu only to discover something missing. There were no prices listed after the various offerings.

We at first assumed it was a case of "If you have to ask how much, you can't afford it."

As it turned out, however, the male members of the party did have menus with prices. This practice is apparently a method to allow a woman to pig out without feeling guilty about how much her appetite is costing her companion.

A minor (or major, depending on how one looks at it) scene soon resulted in menus with prices for all.

PROBABLY THE worst practice, however, is the scenario in which the male consults the female for her choice of entree, then repeats it back to the waiter or waitress. Presumably, the food purveyor can hear the woman say what she wants, but must feign deafness until the order is relayed by the male in the party.

We never could figure out why this practice goes on. It seems incredibly silly and time consuming. It gets worse when the man decides the woman doesn't really want what she tells him she wants. At one forgettable time, we attempted to be a waitress, and witnessed such conversations as:

"I want the dover sole."

"You don't want that. (To the waitress) She'll have the prime rib."

"But I (whine) really want the dover sole."

This creates a problem for the waitress, who doesn't know whether to give the poor woman what she really wants, or to follow the man's order and no lose out on the tip.

We have also observed this type of argument go on over whether the woman should have another drink.

But the fun doesn't end with the meal. There's still the check to get through.

We have noticed that more traditional couples often feature the man taking the check with the woman passing him some crumpled up bills under the table.

When the woman is paying and makes no bones about it, things get more complicated.

We have thrown out our handy-dandy credit card (after the check was set before a male companion) only to have the waitress take the card, come back with the form that needs to be signed, and set the whole mess (with relish) back in front of the male.

It would seem that a feminine name stamped on the plastic might serve as some subtle hint. It seldom does.

About the only advice we can give in answer to these practices is to throw scenes. Loud ones. The restaurants won't change. But they won't forget you either.

Middle school isn't dependent on grades

(The author, Douglas Koch of Canton, is a professor of management and organization sciences at Wayne State University and once was a candidate for the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education. His wife is a teacher in the school district. Other readers may use People Podium to express their opinions, in 600 words or less, by writing the Plymouth Observer, 461 S. Main, Plymouth 48170)

By DOUGLAS KOCH

I am writing to express my view on the current debate revolving around our school board's responses to enrollment increases and the pressure on the upper grades.

My support for the proposed K-6, 7-9, 10-12 alignment was expressed last year during the school trustee campaign. I hope that my friends and acquaintances at the middle schools will be with me while I state the case as I see it.

It is my strong feeling that the middle school philosophy is an expression of the awareness, the dedication and the effort which is evident in the administration and faculty of these schools. It is not dependent on the ages or grade level of the students.

I have to believe that these proven professionals will always be first concerned with the growth and change needs of children at those critical stages, regardless of the particular line of demarcation.

In fact, to many parents it is true that ninth graders still need the special support which is given by the middle school staff. This is particulary true when one realizes that the present high schools are seriously overcrowded and any increase in their physical capacities will not relieve the administrative and control problems.

I am sure that many parents wonder whether good education is viable when so much effort is and will be needed to simply keep track of and counsel 6,000 or more almost-adults in one small piece of property. The good-old-Central overhaul seems of dubious value.

People's Podium

("People's Podium" is designed to promote an exchange of views. Please type, hold to 600 words and mail to: Editor, Observer Newspapers, 461 S. Main, Plymouth, 48170)

The fact that a change to a junior high structure would result in a substantial decrease in the proposed bond issue seems icing on the cake to one who is always willing to pay a bit more to maintain our quality school system. It seems that many less supportive taxpayers will look negatively as a proposal which is millions more costly with no perceived increase in quality.

It is true that some program adjustments will be needed for the sixth and ninth grades but these can be dealt with. I know that our elementary staff will gladly seek insight into the middle school philosophy so they can do as good a job with the sixth graders as I have evidenced.

One other matter needs mentioning and that is the vacillation of the school trustees on this issue. I am sure that the difficulty of the choices has led to this appearance of indecision. However I would strongly suggest that, if it is hoped that the bond election vote will be affirmative, the trustees on their final choice show more agreement so that the voters may have a few less doubts about increasing their tax burden.

Stroller breaks long vow and gives Olympic opinion

the stroller

W.W. Edgar

Years ago when The Stroller was taking his first steps along the journalistic trail his wise old editor called him in for a briefing and told him some of the pitfalls to avoid along the way.

"One of the first things I would advise you to follow is never express your own opinions in your writings." He stressed this warning by saying, "No one gives a damn about what you think. Your job is to write about what others think."

Over the years The Stroller has followed that advice. He even went so far as to refrain from picking the winners of football games in advance. And when he covered the horse racing events at the old Fairgrounds, he refused to select the winners for the next day's card.

BUT NOW THE Stroller is being forced to go against the advice of the old editor who long since has gone to his reward.

And the reason is the current hullabaloo over the proposed boycott or the cancellation of the 1980 Olympic Games in Moscow.

For the past few weeks he has been asked many times for his opinion. Even one of the popular radio stations called him in the early morning hours to ask what he thought of the proposed boycott.

All of these requests, no doubt, were levelled at The Stroller because he has spent so much time along the sports trail that he surely would have some feelings on the matter.

He has. And now — for the first time — he is going to express his opinion — hopeful that his old editor, if he were living today, would forgive him.

After listening to both sides of the argument from such good friends as Doug Roby, former president of the U.S. Olympic Committee, and Probate Judge Willis Ward, who refused to compete in the 1936 games in Berlin because of Hitler's actions, The Stroller now feels that the games should be boycotted in accordance with President Carter's wishes.

Whether the games should be cancelled is another matter. The Stroller feels that the athletes from other nations should not be penalized just because the United States is engaged in a cold war with Russia.

It is our fight. If we want to use the games as a weapon in the cold war and feel that the boycott would help bring about some peace with Russia, then boycott the games.

THE STROLLER feels the boycott would serve two purposes.

First, it would tell the world how we feel about the Russians.

Second, we could find out how many friends we have around the world by the other countries that would follow suit.

Just finding out which countries really are our friends would be worth the effort of organizing a boycott of the games. The results may be most surprising.

Sure, you are going to hear cries that a boycott would be very unfair to the athletes.

No doubt the athletes have worked long and hard preparing for the once-in-a-lifetime event. But their feelings should not be placed ahead of the welfare of the country.

So, with that feeling, The Stroller, disregarding the advice given him years ago by his old editor, casts a solid vote for a boycott of the games.

It's time to stiffen our backs

Editor:

I would like to ask two questions.

Is it time for our country to finally stiffen its back and defend our rights abroad, or isn't it?

And if it is about time, then isn't it also about time that we all begin to think of our nation ahead of ourselves? But yet when President Carter calls for draft registration, we still have a group of Americans who feel called upon to frantically demonstrate against such measures.

Whoever reads this letter, please understand one thing: The draft, or even registration for it, is NOT the MAIN thing that these demonstrators oppose. The American system requires something of these men that they are unwilling to give. It requires COMMITMENT. Commitment is the main thing that these men are so opposed to.

Two hundred and four years ago one man unintentionally predicted what is happening now. He said, "What we gain too easily we esteem too lightly." Today's would-be draftees, myself included, have been brought up in a candy-coated country. We are the richest, most sophisticated nation the world has ever known, and we take it for granted.

We didn't have to fight for our wealth. We hardly had to work for it. We inherited it. So now we've come to claim this wealth as our RIGHT. But this right is only REALLY ours if we EARN it — if we PAY for it. The price to be paid is commitment. That means putting the good of our country ahead of our own personal well-being.

Our armed forces are vital to protect our nation as well as her many interests around the globe. Our young men are needed to keep our forces ready. Hence it becomes our responsibility to offer our services if we are needed. In other words, if you want to dance to the music, you've got to pay the piper.

The men I'm writing about don't like to hear words like "responsibility, duty, patriotism." But, hopefully, there are enough good men around who do hold such things valuable so that we'll be able to preserve our nation's honor, wealth, and prestige for future generations.

CURT FLETEMIER

Daniel's Den

By Emory Daniels

What's a middle school, anyhow?

The hottest debate in Plymouth-Canton Community Schools now is whether middle schools would be destroyed by introducing a seventh-ninth grade alignment.

The school board tentatively has decided against a seven-nine grade alignment. Tonight the school board is expected to make a final decision on a bond issue, a vote that also will finally put to rest the realignment debate.

At the heart of the debates is the middle-school philosophy. Everybody talks about a middle school, but does everyone know what a middle school is?

That's a good question because, in spite of the hours of talk about middle schools, there never has been a clear definition yet of what makes a middle school different from a junior high.

Tom Yack, board president, has been quoted as saying a middle school is "a state of mind." In saying that, Tom means that many of the things done in Plymouth Canton middle schools also are being done in junior highs elsewhere.

The main question to ask in this debate, then, might be: "Are there things done in the middle schools that cannot be done in junior highs?" Or, "Are there things done in middle schools that also can be accomplished in junior highs?"

THE CONCEPT of the middle school developed in the late 1950s and early 1960s.

At that time, psychologists and educators had discovered that children were maturing faster and reaching adolescence at an earlier age.

Because of this change in maturity, educators suggested that a new approach was needed for adolescents in the middle years of life.

In 1965, Robert J. Havighurst wrote: ". . . We no longer treat the child's mind as a storehouse of knowledge but rather as an instrument for learning. Consequently, the new approach to the teaching of such subjects as mathematics, science, history and geography is to teach the child to "think like an expert." That is, to think like a mathematician, historian, etc.

"IN AWARENESS of these changing growth patterns, the middle school idea is based on the concept that the preadolescent in today's society is capable of more mature behavior than was thought possible 30 years ago."

The move toward middle schools in this country started in the 1950s, and by 1967-68 there were more than 1,100 middle schools in the United States.

Edward L. Davis, an education professor at Towson State Coll ege in Baltimore, conducted some research to determine the differences between junior high and middle schools.

Davis found some of the claimed advantages of middle schools could not really be found. He also found some of the middle school advantages also existed in junior highs.

One clear thing Davis found was that middle schools put much less emphasis on activities better left for more mature students, such as varsity sports, marching band, cheerleaders, honor society and dramatics.

Davis also found the middle schools did slightly better than junior highs in providing for independent study and in use of flexible scheduling and team teaching.

The problem here is that independent study, flexible scheduling and team teaching are approaches used by school districts willing to be innovative. Middle schools also are tried by innovative districts. Davis' study does not answer the question whether innovative districts with junior highs are just as "modern" as innovative districts with middle schools.

On the negative side, Davis found junior highs offered stronger counselling services to students than what was found in middle schools.

WHAT I FOUND most helpful in looking at the differences between middle schools and junior highs is some information published in a brochure by Grosse Pointe Public Schools, which also embraces the middle-school concept.

The brochure defines the difference this way: "A middle-school program is designed to recognize the uniqueness of the growth stage spanning the transition from childhood to adolescence. The junior high has evolved into exactly what the name implies — a junior high school.

"A middle-school program is designed to foster the intellectual, social and emotional growth of children without snatching their childhood from them."

That district claims the middle-school program emphasizes these elements: A child-centered program; learning how to learn; creative expression; belief in oneself; student responsibility for learning; student independence; flexible scheduling; student planning in scheduling; variable group sizes; team teaching; a self-pacing approach, with students learning at different rates; student self-direction under expert guidance.

JUNIOR HIGH is said to emphasize these elements: A subject-centered program; learning a body of information; mastery of concepts and skills; competition with others; teacher responsibility for learning; teacher control; the six-period day; the principal-made schedule; one teacher for a class; a textbook approach, with all students on the same page at the same time; and adherence to the teacher-made lesson plan.

Again, the problem is that many of the middle-school elements could be employed in school buildings with grades 7-9 just as they are now for grades 6-8.

I'm convinced that all the middle-school elements for sixth-graders can be obtained in the elementary level and could point to examples in other districts where it has.

My own opinion is that the argument comes down to quality versus price. Apparently, at least four members of the school board believe voters are willing to spend $5 million or more to retain the middle-school system. Yet voters were not, and will not be, given the chance to spend a dollar to retain modular scheduling and other amenities at the high schools.

When growth hurt the high school programs, hardly a murmur of protest was heard. Now that growth threatened to hurt the middle schools, a $5 million solution is being offered.

On the surface, that may look like discrimination, and it probably is. But one important difference must be recognized. Middle-school parents vote — high school parents do not.

And, in my opinion, the difference in voting habits best explains the decision against grade realignment.

Retarded face better chances

NRTC involves community education on mental retardation.

"Historically, mental retardation was viewed as a social stigma. It was viewed as an imperfection in the family.

"But they are people, and we need to accept them as people. They want love and affection just like anyone else, and they don't want to just sit around watching TV.

"The focus used to the on their limitations," said Ms. Horvath. "Now it's on their potential."

According to Ms. Horvath, approximately 270,000 mentally retarded persons currently reside in the State of Michigan. Only 2 per cent live in institutions for the retarded at the present time.

Revenge sweet for Salem wrestling squad

Rocks stay unbeaten

Plymouth Salem's wrestlers took revenge in a big way Thursday night.

The Rocks won their eighth straight dual match without a loss by trouncing Dearborn Edsel Ford, 50-11. Last year the Thunderbirds handed Salem a 44-10 defeat.

Rock coach Ron Krueger was concerned about the Suburban Eight League match going in, but his team again showed why they are currently ranked No. 4 in Class A by the Michigan High School Wrestling Coaches Association (MHSWCA).

Salem recorded four pins on the evening and won 10 of 13 matches. Krueger's troops now have only five teams in the way of perfect dual-meet season before the Suburban Eight League meet Saturday, Feb. 9 at Trenton.

Salem heavyweight Greg Gattoni scored one of the most impressive victories against Edsel Ford. The burly senior came from behind in the third period with a seversal move to beat Dean Ledford, the Schoolcraft Invitational champ, 5-2.

Gattoni was beaten by Ledford in a controversial match in Schoolcraft event. But he made sure this time who was the better wrestler.

At 128 pounds, Salem's Mark Ross and Edsel Ford's Kelly Carmichael battled to a 2-2 tie. It was the third meeting between the two with each grappler getting a victory. Ross, with a record 30-4-1, beat Carmichael six times last season.

JIM SCHULTZ lifted his record to 30-2 with the quickest pin of the night at 1:06 in the 7-pound weight class. Teammate Jeff Brown, now with 112 career victories, also wasted little time with his opponent, gaining a pin in 1:50.

Jeff Vojcek, Salem's 100-pound freshman, won his 15th match of the season with a 7-0 decision over Edsel Ford's Wally Clem.

Jerry Valchine, recent winner at 140 pounds in the North Farmington Invitational, continued his assault with a pin against the Thunderbirds' Brian Bender in 3:54. Valchine increased his mark to 31-2.

At 7 pounds, Salem's Rob Price decisioned Phil Bain, while teammate Jeff Powers (187) took care of Tony Paputa with a pin in 1:32.

Salem grapplers Jim Bielak (157) and Stan Snider (200) both won by void.

Krueger played chess with the Thunderbirds when he switched senior Scott Piper, who wrestles normally at 157, to the 169 pound class after Ford's Dennis Filiski was moved up. Piper took care of his opponent with a 13-7 decision.

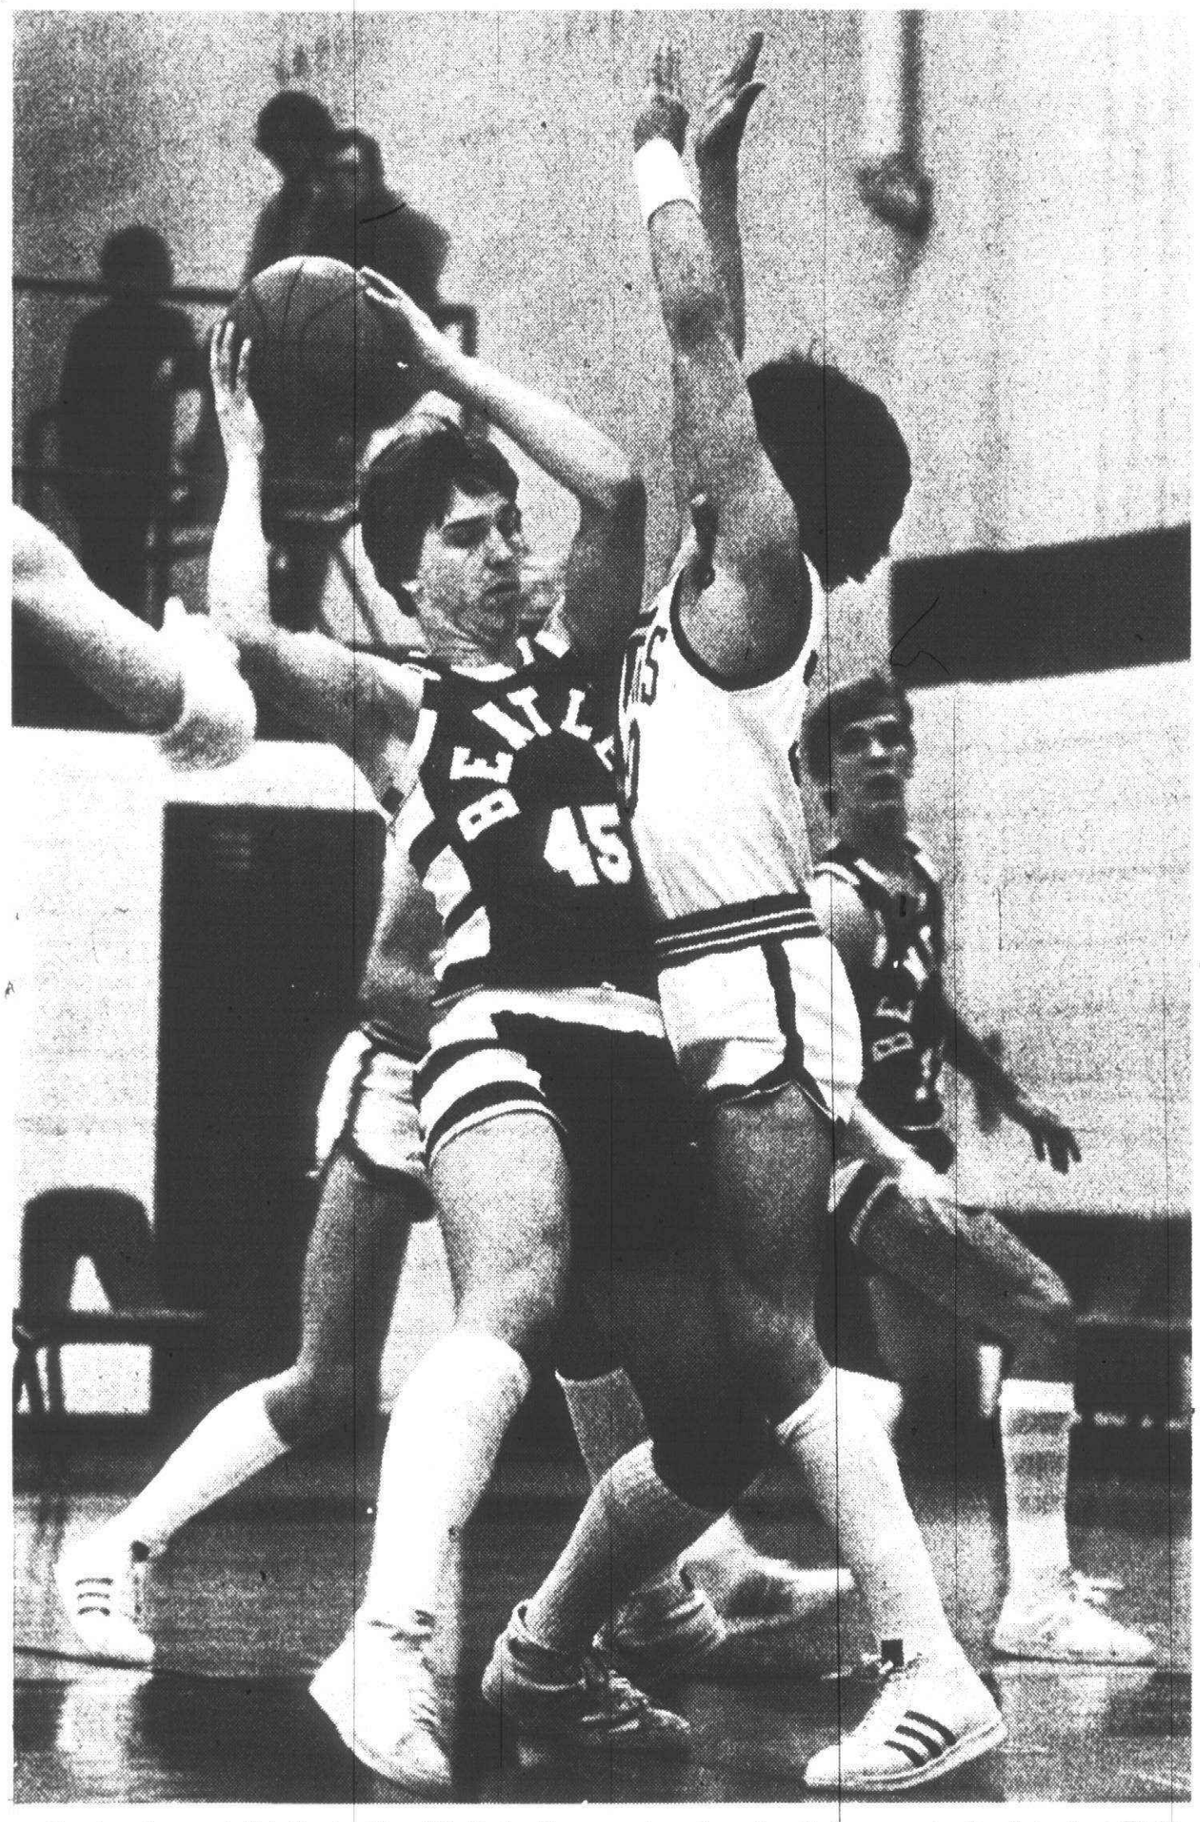

In a close match at 121 pounds, Salem's Jeff Dunson was nipped by Terry Bender, 15-14. At 134 pounds, regular Bruce Bachman was sick for the Rocks. His replacement, sophomore Bruno Genrich, was pinned in 5:11 by Romy Fakury.

The Rocks will try to make it nine in a row Thursday at home against Livonia Bentley in a 6:30 p.m. match. Salem then travels to Walled Lake Western to meet the host team, North Farmington and Howell at 5:15.

Salem cagers outmuscle Bentley for Sub 8 lead

By BRAD EMONS

The battle for the Suburban Eight League basketball lead resembled a street brawl Friday night.

When the bell finally sounded, Plymouth Salem came away with a hard fought 47-39 victory over Livonia Bentley.

Salem now stands alone with a 5-0 mark in the league. Bentley slipped to 4-1.

It was a defensive struggle all the way with the officials letting the game become a tooth-and-claw affair.

The Rocks never trailed in the game dominated by turnovers and rough play.

Both Bentley coach Jim Komula and Salem coach Fred Thomann credited tough defense with the low score.

"Our defense did a heckuva job," said Thomann, whose team upped their overall mark to 10-1.

"Both teams played with a lot of intensity. This is a tremendous rivalry which has been rekindled. It was an emotional game."

Salem appeared to have the struggle well in hand with 2:09 to go when center Howard Monk hit two free throws to give the Rocks a 41-31 lead.

But Bentley refused to fold and made a comeback in the final minute.

AFTER CRAIG Evans converted two free throws to cut the Salem lead to 41-33 with 1:37 left, teammate Kurt Thorderson then hit a jumper with 1:01 remaining after stealing a Salem pass.

Bentley immediately signaled a timeout. Salem forward Jim Anderson, inbounding the ball under the Bulldog basket, threw a pass away, giving the ball back.

Anderson then fouled Bentley reserve guard Greg Diggs who hit two free throw, slicing the lead to 41-37 with 59 seconds left in regulation time.

Salem stalled the ball until Leigh Langkabel was fouled 17 seconds later. He upped Salem's lead to six, 43-37, but Thorderson hit another basket at :29, narrowing the margin to four again.

The Bulldogs then followed with a full-court press and Evans stole a pass and appeared to sink a layup, but Thorderson came flying across the rim, accidentally tapping the ball in the cylinder. The shot was disallowed by the official.

He was also called for climbing over Monk's back, who paraded to the other end of the floor and converted two free throws, upping Salem's lead to 45-39 with 21 seconds left.

Monk led all scorers with 23 points. Thorderson paced Bentley with 12 and Evans added 11.

Komula said "both teams played very hard."

"The officiating was a factor," he said. "They let it go. It was not so much one-sided, but in the key situations we got some very bad calls.

"Both teams played tough defense. It was the intensity of a tight game."

Salem took a 12-6 first quarter lead with Monk getting six points. The Rocks led 24-20 at halftime, despite the turnovers and poor shooting.

"We played racehorse in the first half and then worked to change the tempo in the second half," said Thomann.

"We then went too slow in the second half. Bentley came out and played man-to-man in the whole first half. It's something we didn't expect."

Komula then adjusted in the third quarter, ordering his team to pack in on 2-3 zone defense.

In that period, the Rocks outscored Bentley 5-3.

"We just didn't deal with the tempo of the game," said the Salem coach. "It wasn't pretty, but there was a lot of action.

"We've prided ourselves on defense from the start of the season and it's something we've built around."

Effective on the defensive end for the Rocks was Anderson, who led with 10 rebounds. He also had five assists.

Salem will travel to Belleville Tuesday at 7 p.m. in a Suburban Eight League game. The Rocks won in the first meeting at home, 59-51.

Chief grapplers tie

Plymouth Canton wrestling coach Dan Chrenko said that when his team met Western Six League defending champion Walled Lake Western on the mat it would be close. And he couldn't have been more correct.

The Chiefs tied the Warriors from Walled Lake 28-28 at the Canton gym Thursday to even their league records at 2-1-1 each. The Chiefs have now gone eight straight dual meets without a loss.

"It was an exciting meet," said Chrenko. "As a team, we wrestled pretty well. I'm really proud of the kids for staying in there and fighting."

Senior Steve Basar (heavyweight) came up against Budd Wescott in the final match with the Chiefs leading 28-25 but lost a tough match 8-5.

"Basar fought for all he was worth," said Chrenko. "He did all he could to stop from getting pinned in the last minute. He saved us the match."

Freshman Todd Bartlett (100) lost a close 4-0 decision to Eddie Mieu. At 107 pounds, Tom Holloway was pinned in the third period by Niel Fenzel.

Tom Harreld turned in an excellent performance by mauling Tim Napier 15-0 at 114 pounds. Harreld had Napier on his back five times but couldn't get the pin.

Brett Haarala (121) pinned Bob Wescott at 3:16 of the second period, and Kevin Santilli lost a rough match to Jim Atwell, 5-1, in the 128 pound weight class.

TIM RACER (134) decisioned Nick Gagola 5-4 and Dave Bennett (140), after missing the last match with the flu, came back and pinned Bruno Martin.

Sophomore Steve Hamblin whipped Aldo Buttazzoni 13-4 and, according to Chrenko, "looked very sharp."

Bob Mullen (157) was defeated by Carlo Castigllioni, 9-5 and Dave Vaughn was defeated by Angelo Buttazzoni. Buttazzoni was an all-league football selection.

Paul Mooney (187) won a major decision over Joe Bauer, 21-10, while Don Page (200) was pinned in the second period by Rich Richardson.

"We weren't going to give up," said Chrenko. "This just shows what the league meet is going to be like. It was a great night for wrestling.

"I think we're even going in (to the league meet)," added Chrenko. "It will be the emotion that carries us through."

The Canton junior varsity defeated Walled Lake Western for the first time in seven years with a 34-18 win.

Churchill shooters freeze Canton

Livonia Churchill took advantage of Plymouth Canton's cold shooting and came away with a 51-38 Western Six League victory Friday night.

Both teams are now 3-2 in the league. Waterford Mott is in first place with a 5-0 mark.

Brian Kersten led all scorers with 19 points. The Churchill forward also grabbed 14 rebounds.

"Credit their kids," said Canton coach Craig Bell. "They played a tight, aggressive 2-3 zone defense.

"They shut off our inside game very well and allowed us only one shot."

The Chiefs were unable to break up the stiff Charger zone hitting only 12 of 49 shots from the field for 24 percent.

Meanwhile, Churchill connected on 19 of 38 for 50 percent. Kersten hit eight of 10 shots.

"The key was that our defense shut them down to 12 field goals," said Churchill coach Fred Price. "We took away their offense and we jammed up the middle inside to the point where we took away their game."

Canton opened up the game with a man-to-man defense, but Churchill came out blazing with a 17-8 first quarter lead. The Chargers maintained that nine-point lead until intermission.

In the second half Churchill controlled the ball and kept Canton away from the boards.

"WE STEPPED up our pressure defense but they didn't turn over the ball," said Bell. "We had to keep shooting and went cold."

Dave Visser was the only Canton player in double figures with 13. Ron Schueneman supported Kersten with 12.

The loss dropped Canton to 5-6 overall. The Chiefs will host Northwest Suburban League member Redford Thurston Tuesday at 8 p.m.

As for the Western Six League race Bell said "we still think we have a chance, but need help from other teams."

Buckeye adjusts to role

Ellinghausen yearns NCAA trip

By BRAD EMONS

"Whoever wins the Big 10 has a good shot of winning it all."

That's the way former Plymouth Salem star and Ohio State forward Jim Ellinghausen perceives things at the halfway mark of the college basketball season.

The 6-foot-7, 205-pound reserve forward and his Buckeye teammates hope they'll be a part of NCCA finals at Market Square Arena in Indianapolis when March rolls around.

Plymouth flavor

Ellinghausen attended Salem High School and Haas was a student at West Middle School before transferring to a Northern California high school his sophomore year. (Staff photo by Gary Caskey)

Now a senior, Ellinghausen's role is to come off the bench and give Ohio State a lift. He is the first forward off the bench, usually spelling starters Jim Smith or heralded freshman Clark Kellogg.

Ellinghausen, a business education major, described his role with the No. 4 ranked Buckeyes: "My job is to play defense, do some rebounding and shoot the ball when I get the opportunity. I have confidence in my shooting."

In approximately 10 minutes of work a week ago Saturday in a 75-74 overtime loss at Crisler Arena to Michigan, Ellinghausen connected on both shots he attempted from the floor in the first half and grabbed two rebounds.

He is currently averaging four points per game with a season-high 12 in a win over Stetson.

Holding onto the Big lead is really going to be a challenge, according to Ellinghausen.

'Playing here means a lot to me.'

— Jim Ellinghausen

"WINNING THE championship will depend on how much we improve from here on out," he said.

"We've come pretty far but have a long way to go. The league is really balanced. Minnesota and Michigan have been surprises. The team with the best road record will probably win it.

"If we play defense, rebound and get our fast break going we should be right there."

Ellinghausen was playing before family and friends on his visit to Ann Arbor.

"It's a special feeling when I play against Michigan," said Ellinghausen. "It means a lot to me since I played high school ball near there."

After four years of playing in the Big 10, Ellinghausen has undergone some changes along with the league. He started as a freshman under Coach Eldon Miller four years ago. He was then forced to a reserve role and has stayed there ever since the arrival of players like All-Big 10 center Herb Williams(6-11), Smith (6-9) and Kellogg (6-9)

"All the players seem bigger now," Ellinghausen said. "In my first year I was starting as a 6-7 center. A lot better players have also come in.

"I've adjusted to the situation. At first it was hard to accept when I wasn't starting, but I've gotten used to it."

The former Salem All-Stater has put on added weight to combat his huge foes.

"THE BIG 10 has always been a physical league," he said. "The refs pretty much let things go away from the ball. They let us play."

In four years Ellinghausen has seen rabid fans whoop it up all over the country.

"Before the season our fans expected a lot, but they're pretty good. They really get excited. Michigan State's fans last year were probably the loudest. It got pretty wild down in Louisville this year.

Chief gymnasts flip Farmington

Plymouth Canton defeated Farmington in a girls' gymnastics meet Thursday night, 84.40-67.85.

Laurie Beale paced the Chiefs, now 2-2 overall, with first place finishes in the vault (8.0) and floor exercise (8.05). Her all-around scored was 29.45.

Teammate Laura Michalik also came through for Canton with a second place finish in the uneven parallel bars (6.3), tying Beale. She also took second in the vault with a score of 7.9 and gained third in the floor exercise (7.65). Her all-around total of 27.70 was good enough for second place.

Katy Heaton of Canton took first in the balance beam (7.25) with Beale grabbing second (7.1) and Michalik fifth. Heaton was fourth in vault (7.2) and uneven bars while garnering second in the floor exercise (7.65). Her third place all-around total was 27.25.

Sue Purdy was Farmington's top finisher. She won the uneven bars with a score of 6.65.

Canton performer Sheryl Korsnes took a pair of fifth places in the vault and uneven bars. Kelly Harvey also gained sixth in the floor routine (6.35).

"It was an adequate performance," said Canton coach John Cunningham. "We were not up to par.

"We've finished the tough part of our schedule and I'm looking forward to the rest of the season. I'm very optimistic.

"We're going to be more flexible in the future."

Canton will travel to Livonia Clarenceville Wednesday for a 7 p.m. meeting.

Belleville swimmers impress Salem coach

By BRAD EMONS

Belleville proved its swim superiority Thursday night by dunking Plymouth Salem, 100-72, in a Suburban Eight League dual meet.

The Tigers remained undefeated in duals while Salem slipped to 0-2 in the league and 4-3 overall.

"Not only is Belleville a good dual meet team, but they also have a shot at state," said Salem Coach Chuck Olson.

Despite the loss, Salem did accomplish something. The Rocks now have the distinction of scoring the most points so far this year against the Tigers.

"I thought we swam pretty well even though Belleville didn't have its strongest lineup," said Olson.

"Hopefully we'll get our front line guys going, but this league is very tough."

The Rocks managed two individual first place finishes — Kirk Albert in the 100-yard butterfly (:56.17) and Bruce Harwood in the 100-yard backstroke (1:03.0).

Albert, a senior co-captain, also took second in the 50-yard freestyle (:23.80) with teammate Dave Hopper gaining third (:24.29).

Paul Neschich turned in a fine performance for the Rocks placing second behind Harwood in the 100-yard backstroke with a clocking of 1:03.72.

"NESCHICH has been dropping his time every meet," said Olson. "That's going to help in the future."

Other Salem second place finishes were recorded by Russ Shaffer, 200-yard freestyle, 1:55.29; Joe Rudelic, diving, 213.65; Shaffer, 500-yard freestyle, 5:12.26; Jeff Stella, 100-yard breaststroke, 1:05.95.

The team of Neschich, Paul Perkowski, Steve McKenna and Jeff Kleinsmith gained second in the 200-yard medley relay with a time of 1:48.18. Teammates Gary Workman, Brian McAninch, John Thompson and Jeff Boczar took third with a clocking of 1:50.22.

Mark Schofield won two races for Belleville — the 200-yard individual medley (2:09.35) and 100-yard breaststroke (1:05.17).

Pat McClelland, performing some difficult dives, won the competition by totaling 260.85 points.

Salem third place spots were won by Dave Stella, 200-yard individual medley, 2:14.70; and Doug Kleinsmith, 100-yard freestyle, :52.83.

Kleinsmith teamed up with Tim Harwood, Hopper and Shaffer to take second place in the 400-yard freestyle relay with a time of 3:32.56.

Salem will travel to Livonia Stevenson Tuesday at 7 p.m.

Jeff Kleinsmith of Plymouth Salem swims a leg of the 200-yard medley relay. He and his teammates placed second against Belleville.

Ypsilanti downed the Rocks in the opener, 15-5, 11-15, 15-7. Salem then bounced back in the nightcap to beat Dearborn Heights Robichaud, 15-5, 15-9.

The Rocks had trouble attacking Ypsi and was unable to sustain any effective sets, according to Coach Cathy Himes.

Salem, 4-2 overall, will host Trenton Monday at 7 p.m. in a Suburban Eight League match. The Rocks then travel to Livonia Bentley Wednesday at 7 p.m.

CANTON-WALLED LAKE WESTERN

Plymouth Canton raised its Western Six League record to 3-1 with a 15-5, 15-9 victory over Walled Lake Western Wednesday night.

The Canton junior varsity also won its first match of the season.

Canton will travel to Waterford Mott Monday at 6 p.m.

Barr tabs coaching staff

When the American Bowling Congress issues its new record book, some place should be found in it for John Hurley, the king of the sharpshooters at Westland Bowl.

During the past two seasons he has registered more 700 games than anyone else in the metropolitan area, but that's not his claim to a record now.

What concerns him is the fact that he's registered 43 consecutive 600 series in league play and figures that to be a record until the ABC tells him otherwise.

Hurley started his streak last season and finished the schedule with 30 series above 600. With that as a base, he's added 13 more up to this week.

If any one has done better, let him step forward.

SCORING FELL OFF a bit in the Wonderland Classic this week with the result that only one of the league's sharpshooters broke the 700 barrier.

John Wodarski turned the trick when he linked games of 255, 225 and 238 for 718. At that figure he far outdistanced the field as his nearest rival was Rob Jall with a 246 in 684.

The high scoring came in the team series where the Westland Sports group posted a 3,131 on games of 1131, 929 and 1071. The team is captained by Gordie Cantwell.

BUD Le BLANC JR. will long remember the frown he drew from Lady Luck at Woodland Lanes. Bowling in the first of three leagues each week, he strung 11 strikes in a row, only to have the No. 10 pin stand on his final ball.

That left him with a 299 — the highest game he has bowled during his five-year career. His previous high was a 257. Not bad for a 19-year-old.

The big score came in his first game. He followed with games of 216 and 170 for a 685.

In the Jacks and Jills loop, Pat Johnson set the pace with a 594 and Linda Harvison had a 561 and Grace McAdam a 220 game.

In the junior house league, Mark Wolfe was top man with a 566. Debbie Hardy had a 224 in 582 to lead the Keglerettes loop. Norma Ray was right behind with a 213 in 574.

ELVIRA TOEPFER, the long-time bowling queen of metropolitan Detroit, demonstrated her skill Wednesday in the Ladies Major League at Beech Lanes. She rolled a 256. It was the high single game of the all-star league.

THE VINCO LEAGUE came up with another close finish at Garden Lanes when only 14 pins seperated the top five bowlers.

When the firing ceased, Jack Hymes was out in front with 625 and Larry Coy Jr. was only one pin behind. Harry Totalian and Ed Hackman were tied for third place with 615 and Doug Gybines was fourth with a 611.

IT WAS MUCH the same at Merri-Bowl when Larry Oster and Lee Leonard staged q great duel before Leonard won with a 656, four pins more than his rival.

Leonard was far out in front after two games but Oster closed with a 266 and made it a real battle.

Meanwhile, Lawrence Keeton shared the spotlight. He is a 147 average bowler and found the range for a 247.

CHRIS KOZIAL showed the way in the boys division of the Track B division of the Plymouth High 45-15 league at Super Bowl. He came through with a 587 and Dawn Klempert shot to the front for the girls with a 539.

FOR THE FIRST time this year there was a deadlock for first place in the Bel-Aire Classic. Randy Ortwine and Phil Horwitz tied at 648.

In the Parks and Recreation league for beginners, Tanny Smith with a 103 average, fired a 205. Aric Parnes, with a 48 average went 100 pins over in each of the last two weeks. Both of these young bowlers graduated from the Learn to Bowl school.

What kind of father lets his kid work for nickels & dimes?

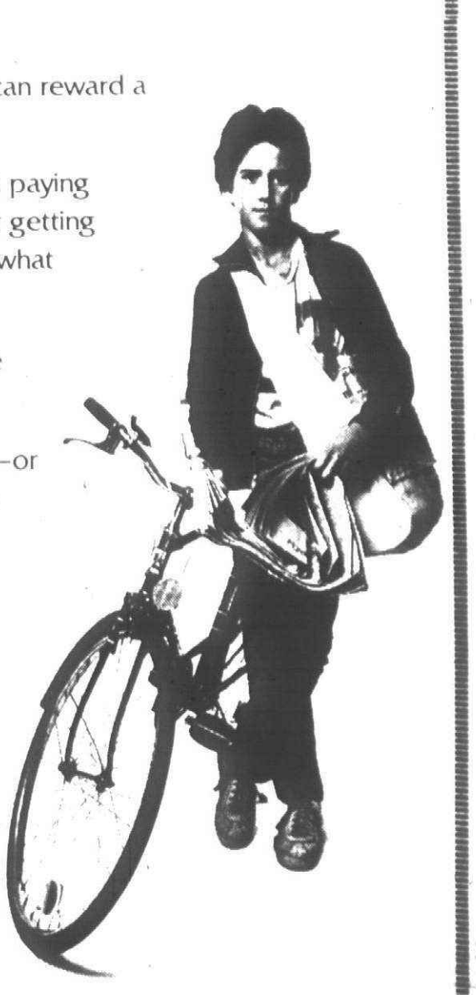

A father who realizes that a newspaper carrier route can reward a youngster with much more than spending money.

It can teach the sweet satisfaction of self-reliance and paying your own way. It can teach a lot about people, about getting along with fellow workers, about bosses, and about what you owe customers and what they owe you.

It can teach pride, responsibility and hanging in there doing what has to be done and doing it right.

If you'd like this for your youngster, suggest that he—or she—call our circulation department and ask about a newspaper route.

Oh, and about the money. In this job the nickels and dimes very quickly add up to real dollars.

D-day: 18 days before expulsion

Expulsion from high school still faces 842 students unless they produce immunization forms within the next 18 days.

The 842 students must turn in the forms to the school nurses before Feb. 15 to avoid exclusion from classes at the Plymouth Centennial Educational Park.

In line with state and county rules, all students in grades 9-12 in Plymouth-Canton Community Schools must have completed all required immunizations to remain in school after Feb. 15.

STUDENTS WHO are unable to get the shots in time from a family physician may get free immunization from the Wayne County Health Center on Merriman Road just north of Michigan Avenue.

The center is open from 8:30-11:30 a.m. and 12:30-3:30 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 4-8 p.m. on Wednesdays. No appointment is necessary.

Parents may submit an immunization waiver which will allow the student to remain in school. This is a statement signed by a parent or guardian that the child has not been immunized because of religious conviction or other objections to immunization.

Students who face expulsion have been notified by letter and in school. The school district has notified students and parents of the immunization requirement through individual letters, school newsletters, newspapers, and announcments at the schools.

A free immunization clinic held at the CEP in November resulted in 502 students completing the required immunizations.

SHOTS ARE required for diptheria, whooping cough, tetanus, polio, measles and rubella.

Questions on the immunization program should be directed to Patrick McLogan, director of the immunization program, through tne county health department, 729-0210.

Questions about student records on immunizations should be directed to Plymouth Canton High, 453-3100, ext. 332, or to Plymouth Salem High, 453-3100, ext. 275.

Originally some 2,200 students (half of all high schoolers enrolled) faced expulsion but this number has dropped to the current 842.

The VIEW from CANTON CENTER

by ELLIE GRAHAM

FRIENDS OF DAVE and Ellie Strang were on hand Sunday when the Rev. David Strang was installed as pastor of St. Philip's Lutheran Church, Ypsilanti. The Rev. Dave was pastor of Epiphany Lutheran Church on Five Mile for several years.

He and Ken Untener of St. John Seminary used to have a television talk show. Dave also had his own radio program, "Beginnings," on WCAR.

When he left Epiphany, he became pastor of Reformation Lutheran on the east side of Detroit.

For the past five years, Dave has been out of the ministry as Ellie pursued her career. She was director of nursing at the Holzer Medical Center in Gallipolis, Ohio.

They lived in Gallipolis and Dave's first job was station manager of radio station WMPO — up the river in Middle Port, Ohio. (The station is known as "wonderful Wampo.")

Later, he was director of development at Rio Grande College in Rio Grande, Ohio.

Their return to Michigan and to the ministry is a source of satisfaction to the Strangs' many friends in this area.

Their son, David, graduated from high school last year and daughter, Christi, will graduate in June.

"Who else but Dave would give up five years of his career for his wife's career?" mused a friend.

THE COMMUNITY Arts Council is looking ahead to the 1980 Plymouth Fall Festival.

The selection committee met last Wednesday to discuss the Artist and Craftsman Show. Joan Englehardt is chairing the group again this year with her committee intact from last year.

These are the women who screen participants for the show.

GORDON SHERMAN and Frances LaCombe had high scores at the Jan. 24 party bridge games in the Plymouth Cultural Center.

Margaret Swartz is vacationing in Florida so Frances and Carl Peters have been handling the games and reporting the scores.

JOANN SZILAGYI, a hotel and restaurant administration student at Michigan State University, will participate in a 50-hour dance marathon Feb. 15-17.

The dance marathon is a traditional event sponsored by Delta Tau Delta Fraternity to benefit the Michigan Chapter of the National Multiple Sclerosis Society. It will be in the Merridan Shopping Mall in East Lansing and is backed by the Miller Brewing Co.

Last year the fraternity raised over $40,000 for MS.

JoAnn, a 1977 graduate of Plymouth Salem High School, is planning on dancing the entire 50 hours. If you are interested in sponsoring JoAnn, make your check payable to M.S Dance for Strength and send it or drop it off at the Plymouth Observer, 461 S. Main Street, Plymouth 48170.

Contributions may be for a lump sum or as a pledge for a certain amount for each hour danced by JoAnn.

JoAnn's parents are Bob and Betty Szilagyi of Sheridan Avenue, Plymouth. JoAnn is a junior at MSU.

NANCY DIETRICH of Plymouth is doing her first Livonia Mall Antique Show and Sale this week. The show opens Wednesday and runs through Sunday in the mall on Middlebelt at Seven Mile Road.

Nancy has had a booth in the big Ann Arbor Antique Mart for 10 years. She does not operate a shop but does a series of shows each year.

She specializes in American primitives and all her pieces have been cleaned and finished. Farm tools, wooden planes, pulleys, bits, and even single trees have been stripped and finished. She has a wide selection of fruit jars, milk and soda pop bottles, wire kitchen utensils and two completely refinished buggy wheels.

One of her favorite collections is kitchen items which were giveaways at stores and bear the store's name. There are pancake turners, egg beaters, egg separators, etc. She also has handouts from coal companies, all of which are collectors items.

THE LT. RICHARD Koch Scholarship is awarded annually to a student majoring in criminal justice at Madonna College. Lt. Koch of the Wayne County Sheriffs Department was a Plymouth resident who died a year ago Jan. 26.

His uncle, Frank J. Koch of Farmington Hills, died Dec. 14, 1979, and all memorial tributes to Frank Koch have been added to the Richard Koch Scholarship Fund. Persons interested in contributing to the fund can write to Sr. Mary Lauriana, Madonna College, 36600 Schoolcraft Road, Livonia, Mich. 48150.

Chiefettes to present 'Night in the City'

The Plymouth Canton High School Chiefettes will present their annual variety and dance extravaganza this weekend.

Performances are scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Friday, Feb. 1, and Saturday, Feb. 2, in Plymouth Salem Auditorium, Joy Road west of Canton Center Road.

Advance sale tickets may be bought for $2 from members of the group. Tickets will be $3 at the door.

The show will open with "The Night Chicago Died" featuring guest performers billed as "18 of Canton High School's finest male students."

The program will include acts by students. There will be the illusionists Bob Schinker and Jill Honeycutt, twirlers Marilyn Ryan and Selena Horte-Miller, and a brass ensemble composed of several members of the Centennial Educational Park Marching Band.

The C&S Dance Club has prepared "Chorus Line" and a duet, "Ready or Not."

FISH members—the quiet Samaritans

Canton Observer Suburban Life

By BETTY MASSON

You've just moved into your new colonial in Canton Township. The furniture arrived from St. Louis as scheduled and your husband was even able to hang up the curtains in the baby's room before he left for a meeting in San Diego.

Although there's snow on the ground and you haven't had time to meet the neighbors, things are looking pretty good.

Then the baby gets a fever. He's coughing and throwing up, when he's not screaming and holding himself rigid. It's Sunday. No doctors' offices are open, and you haven't any idea of where to go for emergency treatment,

Where can you go for help?

In Plymouth and Canton, there is a group of neighbors who work together to meet situations like this. It's a volunteer group called FISH. And it's listed in the telephone book under FISH of Plymouth (453-1110).

Within a short time, you can be in touch with a FISH volunteer, who will not only arrange to take you and the baby to the hospital, but also will provide a baby-sitter to take care of your 3- and 4-year-old while you're away.

FISH TAKES its name from the symbol by which the early Christians identified themselves. It was created in England in the 1960s, and in less than 15 years, the concept has spread worldwide.

Plymouth's chapter began its work in 1972, through the efforts of Nancy Kauffman and Fran Carmine, who were members of the church and society committee of First United Presbyterian Church of Plymouth.

While FISH membership is not limited to Christians, it is based on the principal of "witnessing faith through action."

Each chapter is autonomous, but each operates in much the same way. An answering service takes care of calls to the FISH number. The volunteer who is appointed "Fish of the Day" checks with the answering service at least four times a day, and when help is needed, contacts other volunteers to provide their services.

Volunteers indicate what they are willing to do: provide transportation, or babysit, clean house or provide companionship for the elderly in an emergency. Most calls are for transportation, to and from doctors' offices, hospitals and clinics, and occasionally, grocery shopping.

FISH IS NOT set up to provide care or help in other than emergency situations. When long-term help is needed, FISH members do have lists of agencies which can provide this type of assistance.

FISH works closely with groups such as the Salvation Army to ensure that efforts to help are not being duplicated.

Plymouth currently has about 130 volunteers, including retired persons, housewives, students and a few businessmen who volunteer their services on weekends. Members are often recruited through churches and clubs, but anyone interested can get information on how to join by calling the FISH number, or by writing to FISH, P.O. Box 384, Plymouth 48170.

Volunteering need not be time-consuming or a burden. Right now, the group needs more individuals to act as Fish of the Day, a commitment which involves only staying within reach of the telephone 24 hours once a month.

For those who provide transportation, such as retirees George and Mel (it is a FISH policy that members give out only their first names), the rewards more than make up for the cost of gasoline, which they bear themselves. "But if it ever does become a problem for our volunteers, I'll put the arm on my buddies," promised George.

"What do I get out of driving an elderly widow to Ann Arbor to have her heart valves checked?" said George. "Well, when I get up in the morning and shave, I look at my face in the mirror and I feel pretty good."

Mel agrees. "I feel good when I get home from a call. I discuss my experiences with my wife, and it makes both of us feel good."

Although FISH is chiefly concerned with meeting a one-time need, this rule has been stretched, as when a young boy needed physiotherapy treatments in a Detroit hospital. Fish volunteers drove him three times a week for a year, and saw him "graduate" from a wheelchair.

EVEN THOUGH volunteers donate their services, FISH does have sosme expenses. The cost of the answering service, the mailing of newsletters and schedules, and food for the needy runs between $120 and $150 a month.

For this, help comes again from the community. Individuals contribute, as well as organizations. These include the Women's Club of Plymouth, the Woman's Association of First United Presbyterian Church of Plymouth, First United Presbyterian Church, St. Margaret Guild of St. John Episcopal Church, First United Methodist Church, Divine Savior Catholic Church in Canton, and Geneva United Presbyterian Church in Canton, and the Lions, Rotary, Optimists, and Kiwanis.

Other churches provide help by collecting food for FISH. St. John Neumann Catholic Church in Canton does this once a month.

Rita operates the FISH food cupboard, and she is the one who is called when, for instance, a father decides to leave, taking his week's wages, and the family is left penniless.

She is called on an average of once a week to help someone in Plymouth or Canton who needs food.

The cupboard contains canned and boxed goods, and Rita augments these with fresh foods. A local firm contributes dairy products free of charge.

IT WAS RITA who started the wheels in motion to bring help recently to a young father who had been deserted by his wife. He was left with three small children and, to look after them, he had to quit his job. Because he had no money, he had to move into a two-room apartment with a relative, who already had health problems of her own.

FISH members believe that both he and the young mother with the sick baby have found the Plymouth-Canton area a good place in which to live because of the help they've received.

Says FISH'S current chairman, Dominic, who was himself helped by FISH in an emergency, "I get a good feeling out of helping people . . . Originally, I did not intend to get as involved as I am, but I've lived here for seven years, and I realize you have to contribute to a community, not just materially, but with your time as well."

A PROGRESSIVE DINNER

French Country-Inn Style

In just one evening you can play host to eight hungry travelers in your own establishment, and visit two other fine inns yourself.

It's all part of the fun of a progressive dinner where the cost and work of preparing food is shared and participants visit each other's homes to sample the fare.

When the theme is French country-inn style food, the party can begin with an appetizer at a seaside inn — Salmon Camembert Pate served with a dry white wine. The main course is Alsatian style, White Bean Choucroute Garni. Serve it with a green salad, thick crusty bread and a full-bodied burgundy.

The French Golden Apple Tart for dessert can be accompanied by rich French-roast coffee.

SALMON-CAMEMBERT PATE

1 can (7¾ ounces) salmon
8 oz. Camembert cheese
⅓ cup unsalted butter
¼ cup chopped shallots or green onions
2 tbsp. coarsely chopped parsley
¼ tsp. garlic powder
¼ tsp. dried basil thyme, crushed
Pinch of dried basil, crushed
Crackers
Fresh vegetables

Drain salmon thoroughly and flake. Remove rind from Camembert and cut into chunks. Place salmon, cheese, butter, shallot or green onions, parsley, garlic powder, thyme and basil in food processor. Process until smooth and blended.

Place in serving dish, cover and chill. Serve with crackers and vegetables. Makes about 1⅔ cups.

WHITE BEAN CHOUCROUTE GARNI

2 lb. sauerkraut
4 oz. salt pork, cubed
1 medium onion, sliced
1 clove garlic, minced
1 medium golden delicious apple, cored and diced
2 medium carrots, scraped and cut in 1-inch chunks
2 cups dry white wine
1 bay leaf
Freshly ground black pepper
1 lb. boneless pork or smoked pork chops cut in 1¼-inch cubes and browned on all sides
2 lb. Polish sausage or assorted precooked sausages, cut diagonally in 1-2-inch chunks
4 cups cooked Western dry great northern beans or navy beans

Drain sauerkraut and rinse under cold, running water. Drain well. Saute salt pork in large oven-proof or Dutch oven until crisp. Add onion and garlic to skillet; saute until tender. Stir in apple, carrots, sauerkraut, wine, bay leaf and pepper. Cover and bake at 325 degrees for two hours. Stir in cubed pork; cover and continue baking 30 minutes. Add sausages and beans, stirring to combine. Return to oven and bake an additional 15 to 20 minutes, until beans and sausages are heated through. Makes about 10 servings.

TO COOK BEANS: Wash 1½ cups dry beans. Cover with 4½ cups cold water and let soak overnight. Or, for quicksoak method, bring beans and 4½ cups hot water to boil; boil three minutes. Remove from heat, cover and let stand one hour. Drain and rinse beans; discard soaking liquid. Add 4½ cups hot water. Boil gently with lid tilted about one hour or to desired tenderness. Drain beans.

FRENCH GOLDEN APPLE TART

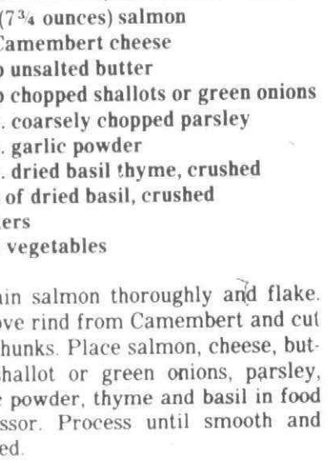

6 cups cored, peeled and thinly sliced Golden Delicious apples
¼ cup apricot preserves
6 tbsp. sugar, divided
2 tbsp. orange-flavored liqueur
2 tbsp. butter or margarine
¼ cup golden raisins
1 tsp. grated lemon peel
¼ tsp. cinnamon
¼ tsp. nutmeg
Tart shell
2 cups cored and sliced Golden Delicious apples
1 tsp. lemon juice
Glaze

Place 6 cups sliced apples in saucepan. Cover and cook over low heat until soft, adding water if necessary to keep from sticking. Stir in apricot preserves, ¼ cup sugar, liqueur, butter or margarine, raisins, lemon peel, cinnamon and nutmeg.

Continue cooking, stirring constantly, until mixture resembles thick applesauce. Spread in baked tart shell. Toss two cups apple slices with lemon juice and one tablespoon sugar. Arrange slices overlapping in circle over filling. Sprinkle with one tablespoon sugar. Bake at 375 degrees 25 to 30 minutes until apples are tender. Glaze tart while still warm. Serve warm with whipped cream, if desired. Makes 8-10 servings.

TART SHELL: Combine 1½ cups flour and 3 tbsp. sugar. Cut in 6 tbsp. butter or margarine. Add one egg yolk, ¼ tsp. vanilla and 2-3 tbsp. cold water, mixing with fingers to form a smooth ball. Roll out and line a 10-11-inch tart pan with a removable bottom. Prick thoroughly. Bake at 400 degrees 10 to 15 minutes until lightly browned.

GLAZE: Heat ¼ cup apricot preserves with 1 tbsp. orange-flavored liqueur just to boiling. Spoon over baked tart while still warm.

The Warming Oven

by Emily Watson

"Let's sing a song of glory to Themistocles O'Shea,
"Who ate a dozen oysters on the second day of May."

The quote is from "The Man Who Dared" by Stoddard King who is best remembered for his "There's a Long, Long, Trail Awinding." The ditty obviously was written back in the days when everyone believed oyster eating must be confined to the months with an R in them.

Maybe it is a hangover from those times when oyster suppers were annual late winter events in rural churches throughout the land. Somehow, this seems to be the oyster season, even though they are approved eating 12 months of the year.

Baked, broiled, fried, scalloped, pan roasted or raw on the half shell, these delicate morsels can be prepared to suit any taste. And if you're an oyster lover, you'll enjoy them all.

OYSTER PAN ROAST

(one serving)

8 fresh oysters
1 tbsp. butter
1 tbsp. chili sauce
1 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
Few drops lemon juice
Celery salt to taste
¼ cup oyster liquor
Paprika
½ cup cream
1 piece dry toast

Place oysters, butter, chili sauce, Worcestershire sauce, lemon juice, oyster liquor and seasoning in a deep pan. Cook for about one minute, stirring continuously. Add cream and when mixture comes to a boiling point, pour over toast which has been placed in a soup bowl. Serve immediately.

FRIED OYSTERS

(Six servings)

Butter and cooking oil
3 eggs
3 tbsps. heavy cream
36 to 48 oysters
Flour
Cracker crumbs
Salt and pepper

Melt plenty of butter with oil in heavy skillet. Beat the eggs lightly and combine with the cream. Dust the oysters with flour; dip into the egg mixture; then roll in cracker crumbs. Let stand for a few minute before cooking. Cook in skillet until brown on both sides. Cook quickly and never overcook. Serve on hot platter with lemon wedges.

The Happy Cooker

by Elayne Susan Stulberg

Casseroles can be elegant with a gourmet flair

Far be it for this writer to criticize an authority like Webster's dictionary.

However, I must take issue with them in their definition of "casseroles." They state that a casserole is "a mold of rice, mashed potatoes, etc., baked with a filling of vegetables and meats."

However, I have always looked upon the casserole as a simplified method of preparing and turning out one dish, or an entire meal, with the thought that anything oven-baked and including more than one ingredient can safely be called a casserole.

It can be simple, hearty, nutritious fare or distinguished and imaginative with a gourmet flair. Believe it or not, elegance is readily available in casserole cookery.

With a bit of foresight, a few oven-proof baking dishes and some-simple-to-prepare recipes, you can ready an entire meal. At the proper time, you may set the casseroles in the oven to bake together for an all-in-one-meal.

ONE OF THE BEST time and labor saving devices often employed by the working homemaker is the casserole meal. The trick to this method is to plan your entree first.

Whatever oven temperature is used for the entree will determine what foods accompany it. Select vegetables and desserts that can be baked at the same temperature for approximately the same amount of time.

If you are planning dishes which must be browned in the oven, do not attempt to include any foods that produce steam as they cook.

If you own double ovens, set foods which require browing in one and those requiring steaming in the other. Also, try to omit any fresh green vegetables in casserole cooking. They retain much more of their flavor, vitamins and color if they are cooked quickly on your range top.

Custards and puddings, baked and stewed fruits and upside down cakes are grand dessert choices since they bake well with oven meals. Also, if you feel like giving your family an extra treat with dinner, bake some bread a long with the meal.

ANOTHER BOON for the busy or working homemaker is to bake food in the casserole in which it is to be served. You will save extra washing of pots and pans this way.

And best of all, most ovens have automatic "timed" cooking clocks. While operating instructions differ from model to model, the meal can be placed in your oven long before cooking must start. All you need do is check your particular model's directions, set the clock for the time you wish foods to start cooking and the time you wish to have it shut off. You may leave home safe in the knowledge that you will return to a delicious, fully prepared meal. At dinnertime, you need only set the table, make the coffee, and if you desire, prepare a salad.

1-HOUR OVEN DINNER FOR 6
VEAL PARMESAN
OVEN-BROWNED POTATOES
CORN AND LIMA BEANS IN CREAM
TOSSED GREEN SALAD (optional)
BAKED APPLE SCALLOPBEVERAGE

VEAL PARMESAN

6 thin slices of boneless veal (approximately 3½ pounds)
¾ cup all-purpose flour
2 eggs beaten with
½ cup water
1 tsp. salt
¼ tsp. white pepper
1 tsp. garlic powder
1¾ cups Parmesan cheese, grated and mixed with
¾ cup dry, fine bread crumbs
1 large onion, diced
4 tbsp. oil
15 oz. can tomato sauce
6 slices Mozzarella cheese

Rinse veal; pat dry with absorbent paper. Pound thin to approximately ½-inch thickness. Roll in flour, then in egg-water mixture, and in bread crumbs-cheese to which salt, pepper and garlic powder have been added. Set veal aside.

Heat onion and oil in a pan and simmer until onion is soft and transparent. Remove with slotted spoon, leaving as much oil as possible in pan.

Fry veal, without crowding, over medium heat until browned on both sides. Place in baking dish. Add tomato sauce to remaining oil in frying pan and simmer for a minute or two, scraping any crusty parts and stirring; add sauteed onions and stir to blend.

Completely cover veal with sauce and top with cheese slices. Cover baking dish tightly and bake at 325-degrees for 1 hour.

OVEN-BROWNED TATERS

Peel and cut 12 small-sized potatoes into bite-size. Brush a shallow baking dish with melted butter or margarine. Dip or brush potatoes with it. Sprinkle with salt, pepper, and paprika. Bake uncovered, on top rack at 325-degrees for 1 hour.

Vic Caputo cooks

It's quite a jump from parochial school and seminary training to becoming one of local television's most recognizable celebrities.

But that is precisely what Vic Caputo did when he joined Channel 2. Three years of seminary education and training in Berrytown, N.Y. followed local studies at Detroit's old St. Joe and St. Catherine.

Area viewers are quite sophisticated and are aware that the tube doesn't lie. It picks up every nuance, sincere or otherwise. And one characteristic that consistently comes through with Vic is that he really cares.

As a native Detroiter, he both identifies and feels deeply about our city and its people. Besides, explained his exuberant wife, Sandy, "He is just a nice, intelligent, good human being." No arguments from this writer, Sandy, because I am in total agreement.

Initially, Vic came to our attention 12 years ago with his late night talk show on Channel 2. Following that, we enjoyed his 6 and 11 p.m. newscasts and commentary co-anchored with Jac LeGoff. And this writer had the pleasure of meeting Vic when he interviewed me on an early morning show which he co-hosted with Beverly Payne on TV2. More recently, he has been doing a daily show, "Good Morning, Detroit," which airs Monday through Friday, 7 to 8 a.m., on which he interviews guests and discusses current topics.

ITALIAN MEAT LOAF

Combine: 2 eggs
½ cup Italian style bread crumbs
16 oz. can tomato paste
½ cup chopped onion
¼ cup finely chopped green pepper
¾ tsp. salt
Dash pepper
Add: 1½ lbs. ground beef

Mix well and pat ½ mixture into an 8x8-inch baking pan.

Combine ½ cup Italian style bread crumbs, one 12-ounce carton ricotta cheese, 3-ounce can chopped mushrooms, drained; one tbsp. parsley, snipped; and ¼ tsp. oregano, crushed. Spread evenly over meat mixture in pan.

Top with remaining meat, patting smooth. Bake at 350 degrees in oven for one hour.

Remove from oven; arrange three slices Mozzarella cheese, cut diagonally into halves, in overlapping pattern on top of meat loaf. Return to oven for approximately one minute or until cheese begins to melt. Let stand for 10 minutes. Serves eight.

CORN AND LIMA BEANS IN CREAM

Partially defrost one frozen package of corn and one frozen package of lima beans. Defrost only enough to break into sections. Place in a buttered 2-quart casserole. Gently stir in one can, undiluted, Cream of Mushroom Soup. Cover and cook on lower rack in 325-degree oven for 1 hour.

Arrange ½ apple slices on top of crumbs. Sprinkle 1 tbsp. lemon juice and ¼ tsp. cinnamon. Repeat procedure, using half of remaining crumb mixture on top of apples. Then arrange remaining apple slices, lemon juice, and cinnamon. Cover top with remaining crumb mixture. Spoon hot water-vanilla over all. Bake, uncovered, at 325 degrees for 1 hour.

BAKED APPLE SCALLOP

24 macaroons (plain, crisp wafer type) finely crushed
4 tbsp. melted butter or margarine
¾ cup brown sugar
4 large apples, peeled, cored and sliced
2 tbsp. lemon juice
½ tsp. cinnamon
Sprinkling of granulated sugar (optional)
¼ cup hot water mixed with
1 tsp. vanilla

Blend crushed macaroons, butter and brown sugar. Grease 1½-2 quart casserole and pat ⅓ crumb mixture on bottom.

"I am planning a party and would like to do something different. What cookbook would you recommend devoted entirely to Mexican cuisine?" writes Ms. A. G. Greene of Bloomfield Hills.

"The Cuisines of Mexico," by Diana Kennedy is a favorite of mine and virtually a culinary tour of Mexico with nearly 200 recipes. It also contains a marvelous section on creative menus which will assure your Mexican party success. Feliz Tiemto De Fiesta (or happy party time).

Mrs. Barbara Bryant of Troy has a bet going with a friend. She asks, "How many ears of corn would be needed to yield 3 cups kernels."

Twelve average size ears would give you three cups. Hope you won your bet!

Louise Snider

Dustin Hoffman does a stunning portrayal of the divorced father in "Kramer vs. Kramer" — but the question is whether the image is a dated one?

Top-rated film suffering from pseudo-honesty

One of the films that appears on the top 10 lists, and with good reason, is "Kramer vs. Kramer" (reviewed here Dec. 31).

Were I to compile a top 10 list, it would certainly be on mine.

Outstanding performances, astute direction, a story that touches the lives of the audience; a contemporary social issue (divorce and an ensuing custody case), unique perceptions of everyday situations — all these are among its considerable merits.

However, "Kramer vs. Kramer" does have one quality which, in light of the praise it is receiving, does deserve further consideration — it's near-honesty. Near-honesty hooks us because it presents what we would like to think of as an honest statement, but it doesn't go so far as to offend us. Near-honesty lies somewhere between grim reality and palatable assumptions.

"KRAMER VS. KRAMER" scores some fast and undeserved points with audiences by using this approach in several areas. One is in the convenient way it establishes the character of the father (Dustin Hoffman), by making him an art director in the cutthroat world of Madison Avenue advertising agencies. Thus we immediately discern that he is ambitious and competitive.

The Madison Avenue image may be authentic, but it's also a cliche, and a dated one at that, something we might expect in films of the 50s.

Why can't an engineer or a salesman or a plumber be competitive and ambitious? In a film which purports to deal with real life, why is the male lead part of a specialized, east coast glamor industry?

ANOTHER CLICHE the film capitalizes on is the notion of the inept male in the kitchen. An important early sequence shows Hoffman bungling as he prepares French toast for his son and himself.

He tries to scrunch a slice of bread into a coffee cup to moisten it. If he's that dumb, how does he solve problems on the job?

The helpless male in the kitchen is as big a myth as the helpless female with anything mechanical.

His whole plan for managing to look after his son leaves doubts about his common sense. Why doesn't he hire a housekeeper or a babysitter? Why doesn't he take his son to a restaurant once in a while instead of pushing TV dinners on him? He doesn't do these things, because by exaggerating the domestic problems, it makes the character's evolution as a caring father more dramatic and admirable. Unforturnately, it also makes him stupid.

FINALLY, THERE IS the contemporary mystique (Is it becoming a cliche?) of the wife (Meryl Streep) leaving her husband and child in order to find herself. This adds a certain piquant immediacy to the film, as compared to the familiar, dull problems of the female as a single parent.

The film has enough going for it without varnishing the truth. Streep could have found herself without becoming the well-adjusted, loving parent now ensconced in a responsible and very high paying job — pretty good for someone without experience. Hoffman would have been acceptable and believable without being a kitchen clown who evolves into the perfect father.

Audiences can handle the ungilded truth. They live it every day.

Justin Henry won accolades of his own as the young son torn between mother and father in what may be 1979's top movie.

Byrd's Kitchen

by Vivian Byrd

A lovely presentation

Looking for something special to serve someone special? Or to several someones special?

Pork tenderloin could be just the thing. Cooked up sweet with cream and rosemary or piquant with wine and mushrooms, or just wrapped in bacon and broiled, it makes a lovely presentation.

A smaller tenderloin feeds one amply; some of the larger ones will serve two. Recently it seems the markets more often have larger ones. There are no bones, so calculate the amount of meat usually consumed by each member of your household and purchase accordingly.

Broiled tenderloin can be served attractively whole on a platter along with fried apples. When the dish includes a sauce, try slicing the meat crosswise (the grain is lengthwise) into medallions and spoon the sauce over them.

All of these dishes fall into my favorite homeside meals category. Let me know if you like them.

BROILED PORK TENDERLOIN

For each tenderloin take two slices of bacon and cross them. Place the tenderloin at the center on top of the bacon. Wrap the bacon around the meat, overlapping the ends and secure with toothpicks. Sprinkle well with freshly ground black pepper. Broil in the oven or over charcoal for 10 to 12 minutes, depending on the size or your taste in doneness.

PORK TENDERLOIN CHAMBERS

4 pork tenderloins
Flour for dredging
4 tbsp. butter
3 tbsp. oil
¼ cup brandy, optional
1 cup heavy cream
1 tsp. salt
¼ tsp. freshly ground pepper
½ tsp. dried rosemary
1 tbsp. fresh chopped parsley or ½ tsp. dried parsley

Rub the rosemary into the tenderloins and dredge them with flour. Don't be concerned if some of the rosemary gets lost in the process. Heat the butter and the oil in a skillet large enough to hold the tenderloins at once, preferably. I use a large electric skillet for this but a large pan on a burner will work just as well.

Cook slowly over medium heat until nicely browned on both sides. Actually, since tenderloins are rounded, you have to cook on at least three sides. Be careful not to overcook as they will be stringy and dry. When just tender, pour off most of the fat, reserving about 2 tbsp. of it.

If you use the brandy, at this point flame the meat with the brandy and remove it to a platter. Mix 2 tbsp. flour with the fat in the pan and brown lightly. Add the cream and stir until thickened slightly. Add the salt and pepper. Pour the sauce over the tenderloins. Mashed, parslied or paprika potatoes are good with this.

JOAN'S SAUTEED TENDERLOIN WITH MUSHROOMS

(Joan tells me this recipe is just as good made with veal tenderloin, or with veal or pork chops.)
1½ to 2 lb. veal or pork tenderloin, cut into ¾-inch pieces. A heavy 10-inch skillet
2 tbsp. butter
1 tbsp. cooking oil
1 8 to 10-oz. can of mushrooms, stems and pieces
½ tsp. tarragon, thyme or mixed herbs
½ tsp. salt
Pinch of pepper
Small clove of mashed garlic
2 or 3 tbsp. finely minced scallions
¼ dry white wine

Dry the pork (or veal) with paper towels. Heat the oil and butter in the skillet. Saute the meat over high heat until it has browned lightly on all sides. Lower heat and continue cooking, turning occasionally, until meat has stiffened when pressed with your finger. This takes about 7 to 10 minutes.

Drain the mushrooms and add to the meat. Sprinkle on the herbs, salt and pepper, add the garlic and scallions. Mix, then add the mushroom juices and the wine. Reduce by half over medium high heat (boiling). Can be served at once or set aside and reheated when needed. Letters, comments, etc., should be adddressed to Vivan Byrd, the Eccentric Newspapers, 1225 Bowers Street, Birmingham, MI 48012.

Spaghetti pie helps save time

Spaghetti Pie Milanese is a great time and money saver for these busy days.

SPAGHETTI PIE MILANESE

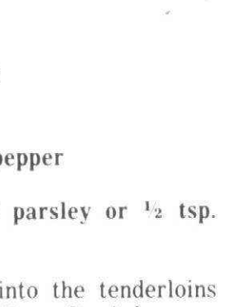

1 pkg. tangy Italian style spaghetti dinner
2 eggs, beaten
3 tbsp. chopped parsley
1 cup (4 oz.) shredded natural low moisture part-skim mozzarella cheese
1 cup chopped peeled eggplant
½ cup celery slices
½ cup carrot slices
¼ cup chopped onion
3 tbsp. margarine
1 can tomato paste
1½ cups water
Grated Parmesan

Prepare spaghetti as directed on package; add eggs, grated Parmesan cheese and parsley. Layer half of spaghetti mixture in greased 9-inch pie plate; top with mozzarella cheese and remaining spaghetti mixture. Bake at 350 degrees 12 minutes. Saute vegetables in margarine until crisp-tender. Stir in herb-spice mix (from spaghetti dinner), tomato paste and water. Bring to a boil; simmer 8 to 10 minutes, stirring occasionally. Cut pie into wedges; serve with sauce. Six servings.

travel log

Iris Sanderson Jones

It was cold and cloudy, so to the moon we went

I just turned left into infinity, an experience I would haye missed if my eyes had blinked as we passed Wapakoneta, Ohio.

The Infinity Room is part of the Neil Armstrong Air and Space Museum built under a moon-shaped concrete dome on a small hill beside Interstate-75.

I was traveling with a friend who has the same eagle eye and the same love of exploration that took Armstrong to the moon.

It is a cold and cloudy day and the F-5D Skylancer plane that Armstrong flew for NASA just barely shows its sharp lines above the end of the runway.

The runway-shaped walk leads past landing lights and gentle lunar-looking hills to the eerily lit dome rising full-moonlike above a slight hill. Concrete roof lines spread high geometric curbs along the hill line.

The sign at the entrance reads, "Please do not walk on the building."

Armstrong and museum manager John Zwez are both natives of Wapakoneta, which was chosen as the obvious site for the exhibit by Ohio Gov. James Rhodes in 1972. It's one of about 50 air and space museums in North America.

Not a large collection, it is distinguished and well displayed. The building was built around the balloon, the Toledo Two, and the small yellow Aronca Champion in which Armstrong learned to fly.

The plane hangs tail down against an end wall, with a bicycle tucked under a wing. Armstrong rode the bicycle to flying lessons because he wasn't old enough to drive.

The ramp leading to the Space Flight Gallery, where Armstrong's space suit and the Gemini VIII space capsule is displayed, is only a warmup for your trip into infinity.

As you walk through the darkened sound tunnel towards the video room, the voices begin amid familiar audio crackle.

"Retro one . . ."

"Looks good, Apollo Six . . ."

IT IS HERE, beyond the moon cameras and the seismic equipment used to record earthquakes on the moon that the lighted arrow leads you left towards the Infinity Room.

"It's to give the children a concept of infinity," Zwez says, as lights flash red and then blue and then red-and-blue into an eternity of mirrored walls.

We turn left again into the Astro-Theater. There is someone saying, "Oh,wow,look at that." I know it's me; we are under a revolving dome of stars. There, above us, hanging in space, is the moon.

A moon-landing craft curves by overhead. The Big Dipper swings by as pictures of the moon landing make patches of color against the nearest stretch of starred sky.

In the darkness, I breathe unevenly with awe and delight as I follow Armstrong into space. He bounces across the surface of the moon like a kid.

His craft takes off for Earth. As it splashes down on the nearby screen, the planet rises in swirls of blue and white in a universe of stars overhead.

"We're late," a voice says into my ear.

"What?"

"We've been here two hours. We're late."

If you don't want to be late don't visit the Neil Armstrong Air and Space Museum. It's one small step for the traveler, but you might have trouble returning to earth.

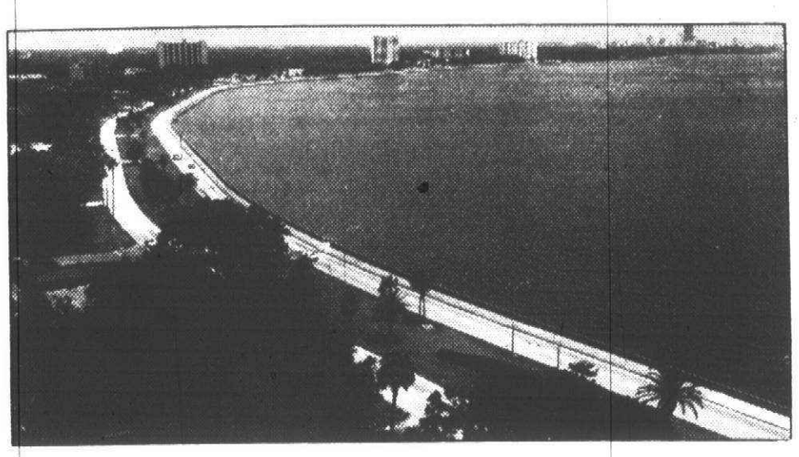

What to do and where to go when plans are up in the air

BY IRIS SANDERSON JONES

To paraphrase an old nursery rhyme, some like it hot, some like it cold and some like it, best of all, 100 years old.

For those who like their travel hot, there are several news items from Florida. The gigantic polar bears have left Central Florida's Circus World for a stint with the Barnum and Bailey Circus. They have been replaced by 17 male lions, including a cat that rides a cycle around the center ring.

Three popular Florida attractions are reopening after major expansions. Southern Crossroads and the Living

Forest, Cypress Garden's first expansion in 42 years, are now open. So is Sea World's $6.5 million Florida Festival, which features ethnic and regional food and art and one of the most elaborate shopping centers around.

On the west coast, the $12.5 million Timbuktu complex at Busch Gardens is now completely open to the public.

That's good news. Now for the bad news, most of it thanks to the devastation wrought by Hurricane Frederick.

Certain parts of Gulf Islands National Seashore near Pensacola are closed, as are the many recreational facilities in the Fort Pickens area, which won't reopen until March.

The Perdid Key area is open but the road is damaged. There is a temporary surface on the road along Santa Rosa Island. National recreation areas there are closed because of badly damaged boardwalks.

There's more. The "Ding" Darling National Wildlife Refuge has a portion of its drive-through observation route closed to the public until March.

That may seem to wipe out a lot of the west, but, of course, Tampa is very much open, and you can always stuff yourself on the Cuban delicacies in Ybor City, where you can also watch Cubans rolling good hand-rolled cigars.

IF YOU LIKE IT cold, you can keep on looking for snow and you can keep calling the Snowline at 357-2600 for information about snow conditions in the 11-county metropolitan region.

The Southeast Michigan Travel and Tourist Association tapes ski information on that line. They had 4,000 calls over the Christmas holidays.

The United States Ski Association sponsors the 1980 National Cross Country Championships Jan. 25 through Feb. 1 at Bretton Woods Resort in Bretton Woods, N.H. If you are tired of waiting for snow in Michigan, the Championship trails range from five to 50 kilometers over rough White Mountain terrain.

The competition started on Jan. 25 with the men's 30 km and the women's 10 km. The men's 15 km, followed by the women's 7.5 km event was Jan. 27 and men's and women's relays will take place Jan. 29. The final contest Feb. 1 is the men's 50 km and the women's 20 km.

This is the last major event in which Olympic hopefuls will compete before the winter Olympics in Lake Placid.

Compared to that rarified event, more than 1,000 skiers wil have the opportunity to exhibit their sking techniques at the single longest cross-country event in the U.S., the Hennessy Cognac American Ski Marathon.

It is a 60-m trail through the Green Mountains of Vermont starting Feb. 2 in Ripton, Vt.

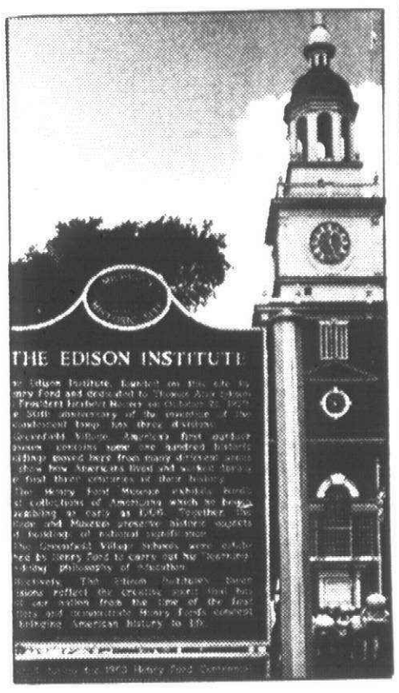

THE CANADIAN GOVERNMENT Office of Tourist has sent updated information about travel services between Montreal and the Lake Placid Olympics. This replaces the information given on page Dec. 31.

They will now use Hawker Siddeley 748 prop jets to do 18 runs a day from Montreal's Dorval Airport to Saranac Lake, N.Y., for a cost of $135 Canadian. Make reservations by contacting Receptrou, 4 Place Ville-Marie, Montreal, or by dialing 1-514-871-9639.

Morgan Dawson Voyages, Inc. has a $155 package that includes return train fare, one night in Lake Placid and one Olympic event ticket. Their address is also 4 Place Ville-Marie, Montreal. or call 1-514-871-0212.

Charter bus transportation will also be announced at a later date.

If you'd the be cold closer to home, consider the Winter Carnival in Chicago through Feb. 9. The Hyatt Regency Hotel, part of the Illinois Center Complex, is offering a flat rate of $59 a night, single or double occupancy, on an availability basis, during the festival.

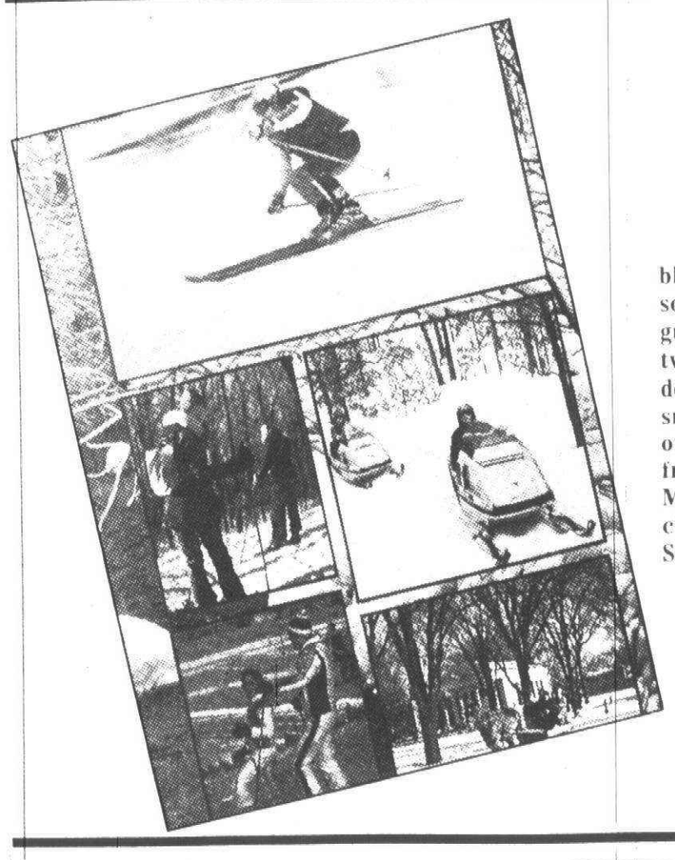

AND SOME LIKE IT in the pot nine days old. Or maybe a century or so old. If you like your pleasures in old historic places, you might like to consider a new book titled "Restored Towns and Historic Districts of America: a Tour Guide," by Alice Cromie. It's a Sunrise book published by E.P. Dutton and is available in hardcover or paperback.

Mrs. Cromie says that there is a restoration and preservation boom in America today. "More and more civic and history-minded persons are joining brganizations to save ur national heritage, and this effort is being made on national, state and individual levels."

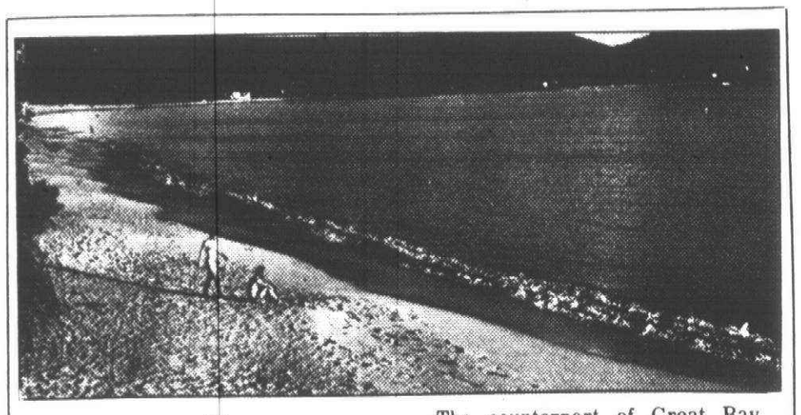

The book includes great mansions, plantations houses and museums as well as nationally known restored villages such as Shakertown and Greenfield Village.

Winter fun

The snow finally hit the fan that blows colder temperatures to southeast Michigan, making the guide at left handy indeed. Between its covers is information for downhill and cross-country skiers, snowmobilers, tobogganers and other wintertime activists. For a free copy, write to the Southeast Michigan Travel and Tourist Association, American Center Building, Suite 350, Southfield 48034.

For that all-over tanning

The path ambles down the hill through flowering hedges to a sign that reads, "Through this gate pass the most beautiful trespassers in the world."

Trespassing is against the law in St. Maarten except when one must cross private property to get to one of the island's beaches. Public access to St. Maarten's entire shoreline — known as the Queen's Walk — is guaranteed to visitor and resident alike and you can put your towel down anywhere.

There's a beach for every one of St. Maarten's 37 square miles. Some are lined with stately palms, others hidden by rock formations. A few are accessible only by boat, so you will need a bit of guidance in choosing the stretch of sand suited to your mood of the day.

THE MOST POPULAR is cosmopolitan Great Bay beach in Philipsburg, the tiny capital of Dutch St. Maarten. Great Bay beach runs parallel to Front Street, the location of Great Bay, Seaview and Pasanggrahan hotels, of scores of duty-free shops and open-air restaurants. The bay is sanctuary for small boats and the water is gentle and shallow and a good beach for children.

The counterpart of Great Bay beach on the French side is the graceful crescent in the town of Grand Case, pronounced Cahz. It is bordered by tbe main street and by small houses and French shops.

At the end of town, hidden by palms and seagrape, is Petit Plage, serene and secluded. Here is an unobstructed view of the nearby island of Anguilla.

Back on the Dutch side, just outside of Philipsburg is Little Bay beach and hotel of the same name. There's a beach bar and snorkeling rental hut. Chaise lounges dot the sand — but non-hotel guests may be charged a nominal fee for use of towels, beach umbrellas, lounge chairs and facilities.

At Simpson Bay beach, visitors may stop for lunch or drinks at the Simpson Bay Beach Hotel or quaint Mary's Boon, a picturesque guesthouse. Mullet Bay beach on Mullet Bay serves the 172-acre resort which is the largest on the island. The facilities here ae part of the hotel and they include restrooms and changing facilities.

The most directly accessible beach by car is Maho, between the Concord and Caravanserai hotels.

FOR TOTAL PRIVACY Le Galion is the official nude beach. Close by is another isolated stretch of coast, Orient Beach, for sunbathing in the buff.

Both are in French St. Martin. For doing things au naturel on the Dutch side, there's Cupecoy beach. Tiny crabs dart across the sand into small caves and under rock formations that have been chiseled and burnished copper by time.
