Trustees vow to battle ruling on group homes

By Arlene Funke staff writer

Canton officials will continue their legal fight against the establishment of group homes for mentally ill in the

The township board Tuesday gave the go-ahead to appeal a recent decision by the Michigan Court of Appeals. The state appellate court ruled July 18 that there is no limit on the number of group homes for mentally ill the state can place in a community.

The case now will be appealed to the Michigan Supreme Court. The deadline for filing an appeal is Aug. 4, said Supervisor James Poole.

"I think we should continue," Poole said. "If the (state) supreme court turns it down, it's over and done with."

As outlined in a letter to the board from attorney C. Gerald Hemming, the Michigan Supreme Court has certain guidelines in determining if it will hear the case.

These include: If the legal ramifications would have broad appeal and "major (legal) significance;" if the decision of the appeals court is "clearly erroneous," or if the lower court decision is "in conflict" with other deci-

THE CASE began in 1981 when Canton filed a lawsuit against the state Department of Social Services (DSS). The suit was prompted by fears that Canton was becoming a "dumping ground," with too many small group homes housing adults who formerly lived in large, state hospitals.

According to state law, the DSS can license homes for up to six persons who are aged, developmentally disabled, physically handicapped, emotionally disabled or mentally ill. The homes hope to give more individualized care to patients and help ease them back into the community.

Canton officials said they were most concerned about group homes for mentally ill.

Wayne County Circuit Court Jidge Victor Baum ruled in 1982 there were an excessive number of the group homes in Canton. The state DSS appealed the ruling to the court of

"It's an ever-changing situation," Kelley said.

So far, the township has spent an estimated $10,000 in legal fees for the lawsuits, according to Finance Director Mike Gorman. The estimated cost for the appeal is $5,000, according to Canton's chances of winning the appeal are "slim," said trustee Robert Padget, the only board member voting against the appeal.

"I quite frankly don't think we stand a chance," Padget said.

Padget said he would prefer to channel energy and funds into changing the state law governing placement of group homes in the community. Supervisor James Poole and Treasurer Maria Sterlini also called for a lobbying

James Richard Lapradd of Westland is carried off by Plymouth Township firemen after his motorcycle collided with a car on Joy Road at I-275 Tuesday morning. Lapradd was attempting to pass on the right side of the road and tried to Residents await decision on disputed liquor license group of Forest Trails homeowners are all waiting for one thing: a decision from the state Liquor Control Commis-

Odish wants to build a party store on Sheldon south of Joy. The Forest Trails group doesn't want a party store there.

Earlier this year Odish petitioned the LCC for a Specially Designated Distributor license to sell packaged liquor at the proposed site. The LCC denied the request because of unfavorable recommendations from the Canton Township board and local residents and the lack of a site plan for the store.

Much of the opposition to the store was due to its proximity to Gallimore Elementary School.

Residents were worried that a party store located that close to the school would become a youth hangout and

ALTHOUGH THE property is zoned commercial, property owners near the site felt, "This establishment would not be in keeping with the residentialchurch-school development which is already well established in this area."

Other objections, noted by residents, included possible negative effects on nearby property values, and the "adequate number of existing establishments" in the area.

The township's unfavorable recommendation came after members of the Forest Trails Homeowners' Association spoke out against the project at meetings of the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education and the township board.

However, after the LCC denied the liquor license application, Odish requested an appeal. He first submitted a site plan for the store. LCC investigators also measured the distance from the proposed location to the school and to Canton Calvary Church on Sheldon

The LCC determined that the proposed store would be 642 feet from the school and 505 feet from the church. State law requires that such a store be

AN APPEAL hearing was held at LCC offices in Lincoln Park last Thursday. Court reporter Renette Wilson said five people spoke at the hearing. All five objected to the proposed store, Wilson said.

A spokesman for the LCC in Lansing said it will be several weeks before a decision on the appeal is reached.

Robert Olson of Realty World in Canton, who helped Odish purchase the property, said, "We had so much disappointment in our meetings with the school hoard and homeowners' association. They didn't want to hear what we had to say. It's just a tough thing."

Attorney Norman Farhat, who represents Odish, says his client do know what will happen if the LCC denies the appeal.

Transcripts from the hearing will be sent to LCC offices in Lansing this week. A spokesman said commissioners may decide next week whether or not to grant a license to Odish, but official notification would take several Paul Towshack has a dream that many may aspire to, but few have the courage to admit.

Part of his dream is the same as most Americans in their middle 20s, to make enough money so they don't have to worry anymore. But the other part of his dream is what many would call too idealistic.

"I want to be a professional writer," Towshack, 26, said. "I want to make enough money so I don't have to do anything but write. I guess my goal is the same as anyone else's and that is to make some money at my craft. My craft just happens to be writing.

Towshack was born and raised in Canton and graduated from Plymouth Salem High School in 1976. Ever since he was a youngster he wanted to be a writer. He even traveled to California to make his fortune, but as it turned out, he lost what money he had and was forced to return to Canton, without any money or a job.

"They wouldn't give him his old job back at Farmer Jack's, so he went down to Houston to get a job," said his mother, Harriet, who waits for the day her son can come home "He really misses it here. 'Mom,' he said, 'I'd like to be home vesterday.

TOWSHACK ADMITTED that there is nothing he would rather do than come back to Canton, but he still enjoyed his journey to the West.

"I enjoyed my trip to California," said Towshack, who visited Los Angeles. "I was there for about four or five months. It's a very cynical town. Everyone is a budding star or singer or writer just waiting for the their big break. It's nothing for someone to blow into town and not make it and leave a few weeks later.'

Towshack works as a produce manager at Kroger's in Houston, supporting his wife and two children and working on a host of short stories, lyrics and even a novel if he ever gets the time. He spends about 25 hours a week writing now

"It's hard to be a longshoreman during the day and James Joyce at night," he said. "When I come home, my creativity is dissipated. It's gone

This job is too physical to write when I finish. I write when I can; when I feel like it. But it isn't enough.'

Towshack said he enjoys writing lyrics and has finished a short story he wants to send to publishers when he gets the money. He is also working on an "erotic story" he hopes he can sell to Playboy or Penthouse.

"It seems like they are the only magazines that would buy it," he said, laughing. "There is nothing wrong with writing commercial stuff as long as it's good. And it doesn't become a

Plymouth Canton High School writing teacher Barb Masters remembers Towshack as "one of the best writing students I ever had."

Another teacher recommended that Towshack talk to Masters about his writing, and he was devastated by the

"He came in with this story that was just dreadful," Masters said. "He wanted the Pulitzer Prize right there because everyone was telling him how great he was. He was angry because I was critical of his work. But he has always had a good eye for detail and makes very good observations.

Towshack remembers the conferences with Masters very well.

"She was the first person to pull the chair out from under me and step on my chest and say, 'Look, this is crap,' " he said. "She was great. She taught me to be exact. Be succinct."

Masters also introduced Towshack to the works of Joyce, Ezra Pound and T.S. Eliot. She believes that

Builder/author loves old, abandoned houses

Arthur Wood Landry loves old houses the way other people love prize race horses, diamonds or rare jade.

"I feel an old house has a lot to say Somehow an old, abandoned, empty house is a sad thing to see . heart reaches out for those old houses When I pass one (along the road), I have to go back. God, when they tear them wn, it hurts. I hate that." A former Bloomfield Hills resident, now living in Chebovgan. Landry, long an expert rennovator of old houses, has taken his love a step further.

His first book, "Restoration of Old Houses," will be out about Aug. 1. It is published by Sterling Publishing of New York, and the soft cover book sells

It is based on his own experiences, first working on the restoration of some 200 houses in this metropolitan area and continuing with the many he has done in and about the Cheboygan area where he has lived since 1974. Landry took all of the photographs and did all of the diagrams for the book.

LANDRY grew up in Bloomfield Hills, attended St. Hugo grade school, Shrine High School and the University of Detroit. He said it took a while for him to do what he had always wanted to do, learn carpentry.

"I had always loved old houses and if they were run down and abandoned, I houses - I wanted to stay small, now loved them even more.

As soon as he had his carpentry skills in good shape, he said, "I learned how cause things have changed recently. to become a plumber, an electrician, a heating man and do dry wall and plaster. There isn't a job in an old house l He went up north to find a quieter

It was Fisher who helped Landry find his first house to restore in Cheboygan - a run-down, four-bedroom structure which he bought for $6,000 at no money down and $75 a month.*

Frisbee enthusiast.

The summer picnic gear would hardly be complete without it. You wouldn't think of not seeing one at the beach. And it's not enough that people play with them; dogs are into the act too. The Frisbee has come a long way from .

Just as no one fully understands what makes a Frisbee fly, no one is sure of its origins. Many claim the origin of the Frisbee is the Frisbie Pie Co. of Bridgeport, Conn. Shortly after World War II, so the story goes, Yale University students are said to have tossed empty pie tins across the campus, yelling "Frisbie" in an attempt to warn fellow students of the pie tin's path.

Other stories link the first flying disc to Elihu Frisbee, another Yalie, who, in 1827, flung a collection plate across campus to protest compulsory chapel attendance.

The toy as we know it today was developed in the early 1950s by inventors around the country who were experimenting with a new synthetic material plastic. One inventor, a building inspector named Fred Morrison, designed and produced the Pipco Flyin' Saucer in his basement.

Morrison sold his discs on the county fair circuit. Actually he sold "invisible strings" and discs were slid along the "string" to prove its existence. When someone bought a "string," the disc was thrown in as a bonus

In 1957, Morrison sold his saucer to the Wham-O Manufacturing Co., which also began to market another plastic toy - the Hula Hoop. Within a few months, the "Pluto Platter," a flying disc complete with cupola, portholes and the names of the planets inscribed around the rim, appeared on the toy scene. In 1958, the "Sailing Satellite" emerged; coincidentally that was the year in which the United States lauched its own satellite, Explorer I. IN 1959, Frisbee became a registered trademark of Wham-O, but like NASA's space program, Frisbees did not really take off until the mid-1960s. The International Frisbee Disc Association was formed in 1967 to promote appreciation of the Frisbee at all levels — from recreation to competition — and, in the early 1970s, organized competitions for field events began. The Frisbee earned its greatest respect in 1977 when the venerable Smithsonian Institution began its annual Frisbee Disc Festival, the world's largest non-competitive disc event. That year, the festival opened with former astronaut Michael Collins, the director of the National Air and Space Museum, flinging out the first Frisbee. Held each Labor Day weekend, the festival is

International Institute shows display of universal symbols

Seventeen universal pictographs in more than 250 different ethnic forms highlight a new exhibit at the International Institute of Metropolitan De-

The exhibit, which opened this week and runs through May 1984, is designed to give "a total ethic folk tales," according to Cyril Miles, a Highland Park Community College art teacher who helped coordinate the exhibit.

"We selected 17 universal pictographs," Miles said. "Of course there are 2,017 we could have selected, but we chose ones that appear to have the most common universality, that give you a sense that the human beings over there are looking at images similar to what we are looking at over here, that we have something in common.

The 17 universal symbols include the sun, moon, stars, trees, fish, birds, the cross, triangle and

New trees need good water supply

LET'S GO BACK to the SEMTA board. The Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority essentially runs a bus system in the suburbs, along with a couple of commuter trains whose last pickup point is Royal Oak.

SEMTA doesn't even serve Detroit. Detroit has its own bus system, D-DOT, and Young won't agree to merge it with SEMTA.

Logically, then, Detroit shouldn't have four seats on the SEMTA board. It should have zero seats. Instead, Commissioner Carter is proposing De-

Recall folks have an edge at the polls

PHIL MASTIN, D-Pontiac, according to the people who are gunning for him, isn't going to survive his first year in the state Senate. William Faust, D-Westland, the Senate majority leader, has a better chance of finishing his fifth term, but he is getting edgy. If his enemies are successful in collecting enough signatures to order a recall election, Faust says they can get more votes than I can.' Another 10 legislators who are targets of intensive recall manuevering are wondering about their political careers. The entire Legislature has been tiptoeing on eggshells ever since the state powers-that-be dropped the twin bombshells — the income tax increase and the bigger-than-ever state budget. Tuesday the people against Mastin turned in some 27,000 signatures to the secretary of state's office. If, as it appears, there are enough valid signatures, Mastin will face a recall election this year. More elections are expected in other areas of the state as other circulators turn in their petitions. THE WHOLE business has unnerved Democrats so much that they are looking for ways to blunt the Faust said he generally has opposed recalls and suggests that changes be made in state law to make it tougher to order a recall election, saying, "I don't think it was the intention of the framers of the constitution to allow legislators to be recalled for one vote. The intention was to recall when there was gross mismanagement.

A former legislator, U.S. Rep. David Bonior, D-inal wrongdoing. There is some sympathy for the idea that the recall is being misused. The recall was intended, say students of the state constitution, to be used when an official seemingly violates the public trust by gross mismanagement, misfeasance or malfeasance of office. The recall allows removal of that official before the next election.

BUT FEW recent recalls have been based on anything but dissatisfaction with a particular tax levy or spending program.

In Faust's home district, for example, citizens have ordered two recall elections - one which successfully removed four Wayne-Westland school board trustees who approved an 8-percent salary increase for teachers and a futile attempt to recall city officials.

In such elections, there is a surfeit of dissatisfied voters who are upset with taxes and government ingeneral and cast a recall vote based more on smoldering anger than on the merits of the issue. An organized "anti" group is able to get out a strong

It is difficult to get voters who are content with their legislators to express themselves in such a special election. Consequently a smaller percentage of voters than usual decides for the majority who will stay in office.

BUT IN THE case of the tax increase, target legislators have a good case to plead. There simply was no other way to keep Michigan's state government running and to avoid disasterous chopping of services - which would have taken years to recover from - without a temporary, sizable tax increase.

Michigan is not alone in seeing revenues dwindle during a worldwide recession. This year eight other states increased or extended personal income tax levies, nine states enacted temporary or permanent increases in sales taxes, eight states instituted or hiked business taxes, 13 states increased gasoline taxes, six states increased cigarette taxes, four states boosted liquor taxes, and three states increased severance taxes on natural gas, oil or coal Approving a tax increase was not in any way mismanagment. Voters tempted to sign a recall petition should consider this before ordering an expensive election.

LIKE A GOOD many other people, Lynn Pierce dislikes disposing of newspapers and magazines in the trash. She would like to save her newspapers for some group that is collecting them as a fund-raiser. Or, give her magazines to some institution where they would be read and enjoyed.

Going rate for used newsprint, graded "saleable scrap," is one cent a pound or $20 a ton. Some buyers may pay a little more. A few years ago, when it was being used in the manufacture of insulation, the price went up to two or three cents per pound.

The cost of newsprint has spiraled in the past 10 or 15 years.

Newsprint, like this page, costs 25 cents per pound.

Lynn would like to have the names of groups or individuals who would have a use for the magazines or newspapers. If you give us a call, we'll pass on the information.

member of the local Civitan Club.
Joe wrote (in part): "A kind of simplistic innocence (don't you believe it) radiates from his captivating smile when Michael chooses to be 'on' — and that is almost always. Kissing the Blarney Stone is a waste of time and effort for the man who obviously invented it. But our primary concern here is not the character himself (or deficiency thereof) but rather Mike's contributions to the club and the larger community through the past decade. "From the outset, Mr. C. made clear to all his abiding interest in both the responsibilities of, and rewards to be gained from, the gifts of our American citizenship and the democratic process. He continually prodded members and others, whenever the opportunity was provided, to register to vote and to discharge that franchise as the occasion demanded. Mike sees a strong bond between voter confidence in the local, state, and national governmental units and the degree of meaningful involvement citizens in general are willing to contribute to the ongoing processes designed to maintain integrity in government."

Joe goes on to mention many of the Civitan projects Mike inaugurated for residents of the community from students to senior citizens.

He concludes with: "Club cheers to Mike, this affable, overgrown boy; this protagonist of friendship and service; this gentleman mature but always young, a person possessed with sensitivities he often chooses to mask. We know you as a friend and confidante, a doer, and a lifter of spirits. Another fit personification of the Civitan Creed."

SENIORS GOLDEN West is the name of the tour planned by the Plymouth Family Y Travelers for the first week in October.

Katie Garard, Molly Zornow, Wade Garard, Kevin Rucinski Jeff Zornow work on their arts and crafts for the student art booth at the Plymouth Community Arts Council's artists and craftsman show, Saturday, Sept. 10 and Sunday, Sept. 11. They have been taking special art classes from Dorothy Simescu. They gather on her shady lawn for instruction. Any student in the Plymouth-Canton community may display their arts and crafts in the booth. They receive 90 percent of their sale price with 10 percent going to the PCAC. For information call the PCAC office, 455-5260, between 9 a.m. and noon Wednesdays.

Donna Feldvebel is preparing for her first Fall Festival artist and craftsman show. The Plymouth Community Arts Council, sponsor of the annual two-day show, has a selection committee which carefully screens applicants. The committee was enthusiastic about Donna's painted wooden figures.

Each of the hand-painted, dated and

Each of the hand-painted, dated and signed pieces is reminiscent of the late 1800s. Some may be hung on a wall, and the ones with bases add a country touch to a mantle or shelf. They vary in height from 10 to 12 inches.

A wheeled baby carriage is topped with a colorful umbrella. She makes teddy bears, rocking horses, teen-age figures in sailor suits and middy blouses.

Donna's husband, Paul Feldvebel, cuts out the figures with a scroll or band saw. He sands them and stains the bases. She does the painting.

THE FELDVEBELS furnished and decorated their Canton Township house in a country motif. Donna began making the wooden figures as a decorator touch for her own home.

She stained wooden band boxes and painted designs on the covers. She looked through old pictures and books for ideas for her art work.

"My first arts and crafts show came about accidentally. Some friends were involved and they suggested I take some of my things," she said. The band hoxes and figures sold — and she increased her output.

With 1-year-old daughter Nicole to care for, her hobby fits nicely into her schedule.

Donna Hay Feldvebel said, "I have lived here all my life."

She was graduated from Plymouth Salem High School in 1975 and attended Eastern Michigan University. She received her degree in fashion merchandising at Western Michigan University. She said her first training in sketching and water colors was from Heinz Dittmar, her art teacher in high school.

The Huo family ripped out of Canton on a Thursday morning at 5:45 a.m. and visited friends, Niagara Falls, Toronto, and returned about 9 p.m. Saturday night. Now with that timing, Dad can still take care of business, (because nobody can take a chance on sluffing off these days) and still take care of family because nobody can take a chance on sluffing off on family these days).

The Huos - Jason, Phoenix, Li-chun, David and little George - arrived at their motel around 11 a.m. They spent the remainder of the day visiting with some old friends and enjoying a delicious meal, then off to bed early for the big day ahead. The first description Li-chun gave me was "incredible," then she tried to elaborate with "beautiful, big, very loud," etc. etc. but came right back to "incredible." Something they remember was how far away from the falls they really were but still got wet because of the tremendous amount of water crashing down. They viewed the falls from the walkway just like in Superman, and also got to take the elevator ride to the top of a tower to take another look at the "incredible" sight! City councils and township boards in 14 western suburbs are taking two weeks to ponder: · Should they abandon the "super sewer" idea and deal with the city of Detroit for sewage treat-

· Or should they sue the state for blocking federal aid to the 60-mile long super sewer project? Representatives of the western Wayne and Oakland county suburbs - from Van Buren to Commerce townships - got a look Tuesday at what it would cost to go through with the $298 million super sewer, known formally as the Huron Valley Wastewater Control System, versus splitting it and sending the northern communities' sewage to De-

Duane Egeland, director of the Wayne County Public Works Department, summed up the situation by saying that dealing with Detroit "would be worse for the south, but not for the north."

EGELAND, WHO has guided super sewer plans for more than a decade, said two weeks of study have shown that splitting super sewer in Van Buren would result in higher costs for the southern com-

But the communities from Van Buren northward including Canton and Plymouth townships would find some advantage to dealing with Detroit. The capital cost would be 5-10 percent lower than the Huron Valley system, and operating costs - at least initially - would be cheaper in Detroit's Egeland met with representatives of the 14 suburbs, gathered as a Rate Review Committee, Tuesday morning.

"After considerable discussion about whether the state Department of Natural Resources and Detroit could follow through," he said, "they decided to go back to their councils. Committee members didn't feel they had authority to to make the decision."

SOME SUBURBS are itching to file suit against DNR, which announced July 1 it would withhold 75 percent aid to the full super sewer project. DNR cited claims by Detroit that it some of the northern suburbs were legally obligated to send their sewage into the Detroit system by way of two Rouge valley interceptors. DNR has also been under political heat from outstate Michigan communities who want federal aid for their projects and don't want to see the Huron Valley project soaking up more than $200 million in

Some suburban officials want to seek a declaratory judgment in circuit court holding that they are not, in fact, obligated to deal with Detroit for sewerage services.

Egeland, who reports to Wayne County Executive William Lucas, said Lucas was holding off on a suit until the communities decide what they want to do. Lucas personally favors super sewer. "He'll do whatever the communities want to do," Egeland

COMMENTED Canton Supervisor James Poole: "The real tragedy is that improvements are needed, and if there is a long court battle, all monies will be forfeited, and everyone loses."

Added Plymouth Township Clerk Esther Hulsing "I think the supervisor (Maurice Breen, who is on vacation) has been leaning in the direction of suiing Detroit to determine if they have the capacity to handle the northern arm.

"The township would really like an honest answer on Detroit's capability to handle the sewage ather than evasiveness.

"We've got some turnaround," Egeland said of the DNR and Detroit positions. "We looked at this (sending northern outflows to Detroit via the Rouge) before. But it had been dropped because, first, there was no capacity in Detroit and, second, DNR said it would be 125th on the priority list and not eligible for any federal grants. County board puts limits on lawyer fees Wayne County commissioners have adopted an ordinance to restrict county officials' hiring of outside legal counsel.

When signed by County Executive William Lucas, the ordinance will make it tougher for officials to sue anyone - particularly the executive and County Commission itself, which will control the purse-strings.

OVER THE years, elected officials such as the sheriff, prosecutor and clerk have frequently brought suit against the board.

For example, Lucas as sheriff hired outside legal counsel to sue the board for laying off his patrol and investigations unit. The $269,000 bill from attorney Dennis Nystrom, now Lucas' chief of staff. still is unpaid. The new ordinance apparently would enable the executive and commission to prevent a sheriff from starting such a suit.

The work of Commissioner Milton Mack, D-Wayne, the new ordinance will require any elected officialor department head to obtain approval from Lucas and be budgeted by the commission before hiring outside counsel. They would have to show evidence they were refused service by the prosecuting attorney (an independent, elected official) and the corporation counsel (a Lucas appointee). THE COMMISSION will hold a special meeting at 2:30 p.m. Thursday to consider another ordinance Lucas is almost certain to veto - establishing a county hospital. While it's generally popular among suburban commissioners, the ordinance is under stiff attack by Mack and Commissioner John Hertel, D-East Detroit, who contend it violates the new county home rule charter which took effect this year. The ordinance, introduced by Commissioner Kay Beard, D-Inkster, allows commissioners to nominate a pool of 10 persons from whom the executive would pick four for a board to govern the hospital. A fifth would be the executive's own selection.

The five must include a licensed physician, an aftorney, a union representative and a health care professional other than a physician.

The Huron Valley Wastewater Control System, known as super sewer, would begin in Commerce Township in Oakland County and proceed generally south through Canton and Van Buren Townships in Wayne County and southeast to a

No break for co-signer

I co-signed an automobile loan for my brother. He doesn't itemize deductions on his tax return but I do. Can I deduct the interest?

As a cosigner, you wouldn't normally be able to deduct the interest, unless your brother defaulted on his loan and you took over his payments.

In the fall of 1978, I bought 200 shares of Chrysler preferred stock. I received dividends through September of 1979 but none since then. What is the reason?

Chrysler was forced to stop paying all stock dividends in 1979 when it accepted $1.2 billion in government-guaranteed loans. The company can't resume dividends until it has repayed its debt. However, each preferred share is accumulating $2.75 in dividends annually. Chrysler will be able to start paying accumulated and current dividends soon, but you must own the stock to collect.

I have had a tax-sheltered annuity with a large insurance company for two years. When I transferred the money to a money-market fund recently, I was charged a $400 withdrawal penalty. Can the company do this even though I am over 59% years old?

Yes. Almost every insurance company has a withdrawal charge, regardless of your age, if you haven't been in an annuity plan for a certain number of years. Normally, the penalty is less for those 59% and older than it is for younger people. In the case of your insurance company, you have to be 59% and have participated in the plan for at least five years to escape the penalty — roughly 6 percent of the amount withdrawn. Those under 59% have to be in the plan 25 years before they can withdraw all their money without charge.

I recently discovered an error on our 1978 tax return and filed an amended return that will result in a refund of $20,000. Does the Internal Revenue Service pay interest on this amount?

Yes. The interest rate is the same as that imposed on taxpayers who pay their taxes late. For the period from April 15, 1979, when your original return was due, through January 1980, the IRS will pay you 6 percent; for February 1980 through January 1982 it will pay 12 percent, and from late February onward it wil pay 20 percent. The interest is not compounded.

Under the new tax law, up to $1,500 a year in dividends from most utilities is tax-free on a joint return if they are reinvested. Do any mutual funds pass along this benefit to their shareholders?

No. The law reguires investors to own utilities stocks directly to take advantage of the dividend exclusion. But a type of mutual fund called a tax-managed trust or fund offers a similar tax savings. Generally, when a fund reinvests dividends, it buys more securities for its portfolio and issues additional fund shares to investors, who must pay income tax on these shares each year.

These trusts, however, do not distribute additional fund shares when reinvested dividends expand their portfolio; rather the net asset value of each outstanding fund share increases. Investors pay no tax until they sell their holdings, when they may be able to use favorable capital-gains rate. Many of these trusts invest heavily in utilities, though not for tax reasons. Their performance varies with the state of the s

Car owners can save on insurance

Many car owners feel they are paying more than they need to for auto insurance. Unfortunately, many consumers aren't aware of auto insurance discounts for which they may be eligible, says the Southfield Automotive Information Council (AIC).

AIC has compiled the following list of tips on how to keep auto insurance costs under control:

• If you own more tha one car you can insure them for less under one policy with the same comcreased premiums.

If you are an unmarried college student, living at least 100 miles away at school, your family's auto insurance policy may be eligible for a discount since you will not be driving the family car often.

 If you are a woman, 30 to 64 years of age, and the sole driver of your household, you could be eligible for lower insurance rates because women in this age group generally have better driving records.

 If you car pool to work or commute by train or bus you could qualify for a cut in your insurance rate since you don't drive to work each day.

The Plymouth Canton Elks did ev-erything they had to do in their last two games to storm to the Redford-Adray Connie Mack baseball championship.

Distance run helps Gans promo S'craft

Two major hip operations during the past year can't stop Mary Gans.

The enthusiastic and diligent Schoolcraft College athletic director has already embarked on a new challenge.

Gans is driving his motor home this weekend from Hart Plaza to the Mackinaw Bridge in support of the 1984 U.S. Olympic team and Olympic Training Center. The event, called "Let's Win the Games Again," is being sponsored by Miller High

He put together a 12-person cross country team of Schoolcraft students, alumni and friends to run a 301.4 mile relay.

"They'll all be wearing Schoolcraft shirts," said Gans, the endless promoter. "We thought we'd get a little publicity and help the training center.

"What's unique is that we may be the only group going all the way, but we decided to make it a fun thing."

Seven of the 12 will accompany driver Gans for the entire trip, which is scheduled to end at 2 p.m. Sunday on the bridge. The other five runners will join the group at various stops along the way.

AS ALWAYS, Gans has made the proper arrangements.

"We'll make a lot of pasta and juice," he promised. "The high carbohydrates."

Besides making room and food arrangements, Gans also landed a sponsor to donate shoes, shorts and shirts for the team - Wilson's Cheese Shoppe of Pinconning.

"They're sponsoring us because they thought we're a special team," added Gans.

The event is divided into 32 legs ranging from five to 14 miles. Overnight rests are included.

And Gans has recruited a mixed bag of runners. Livonia's Jeff Bristow, a Schoolcraft cross country runner the past two years, will run the 10.3-mile openings leg.

Adding to the impressive list is Westland's George Hudock, who was second in last weekend's Baccardi Run downtown for Sickle Cell Anemia with a time of 25:10. He is joined by fellow Westlander Tobin Jones, winner of six road races so far in 1983.

GANS' SON, Russ and Tom Allen, both of Northville, are fit and ready to go. They are joined by Schoolcraft English instructor Mike O'Toole, Jeff Mongrain and Greg Young, both of Livonia; Joe Queen, Garden City; Margo Kaziak, Plymouth; and Ellen Henry, Farmington Hills.

Some of the team runs for fun, others run to win. Some even run to prepare for the tri-athlon. Gans, however, is the driving force. He attacks this job like all the others — nothing less than 110 percent. The native New Yorker brought soccer to Schoolcraft and turned the site into a mecca for western Wayne County Gans helped start the Wolverine Tournament, held traditionally over the July 4 weekend, and turned it into one of the biggest amateur events of its kind in this country. This year's tournament attracted almost 200 teams, some coming from as far away as Kansas City.

SCHOOLCRAFT also houses countless soccer leagues and because of the hospitable Gans, makes its athletic facilities readily available to the community.

You name it. Schoolcraft has hosted national and international sports exhibitions; wrestling, fencing and judo tournaments; swim and gymnastic meets; AAU All-Star basketball games, and tennis tournaments. (I've probably left something

Gans' constant promotion and love for Schoolcraft should serve as an example for other public

Schoolcraft can boast about its athletic plant and the way it's made available to the public.

And knowing Gans, he's always thinking of the future in trying to give Schoolcraft even more

BECAUSE OF the growing interest in women's soccer, Gans plans to start a club team in the fall at Schoolcraft.

And through Gans' hard work and promotion, Schoolcraft is reaping the benefits through its own athletic accomplishments.

The women's volleyball team, behind the coaching of O'Toole, finished second in the country with four of its players gaining athletic grants to Division I schools

Both the men's and women's basketball teams are greatly improved. The reason is recruiting.

"I thought they (the Wolves) were a good team. They worked the ball well and had two good chances to score."

Young then appraised the other side. "They have the aggressiveness, quickness and experience," said the Livonia native, who plays for Alma College. "They did a lot of switching up front. It's something we weren't used to. It's a different system that works

Puck program features top players

With temperatures hovering in the 90s, ice becomes an attraction to many.

But to drink from (as in iced tea). Not to shoot from (as in ice hockey).

But, try to convince more than 100 guys that have been streaking along the iced surfaces at the Plymouth Cultural Center and Beech Woods Arena in Southfield, firing a hard-rubber black nodule toward a figure wrapped in so much clothing that he is unrecognizable.

Yes, hockey fans, the sport does indeed have a summer season. And it's not just pick-up, see-whocan-outscore-who contests. This hockey is first-

THE PROGRAM IS known as the Michigan Summer Hockey Conditioning Program (MSHCP). Players come from both Division I and II college programs, Junior A, Junior B, high school and some Midget leagues. Ages range from 15 to 28.

Playoffs are now in session for the six-team program. The championship game will start at 9:30 p.m. Sunday, preceded by a consolation contest at 8

The program is the brainchild of organizers Lou Issel, Dave McGuigan and A.J. Baker. Baker serves as director. "I put together a team last year of Ann Arbor players for the Detroit Skating Club league in Bloomfield Hills. issel said in explaining his in volvement. "That league has since moved down to the Ice Box in Brownstown. So, we decided to form our own program."

NO TRYOUTS WERE held. Those playing in the league were issued invitations.

We had a pretty good handle on who was good or not," Issel said. So, the trio signed up some 100 players - cost for each was $85 - and divided them among six different teams, with high school and Midget players mixed in with the older, more experienced per-

This age mixture has proven to be a most rewarding experience for Issel.

"The most encouraging aspect for me and some of the other older guys is watching the younger kids develop," he remarked.

THE PROGRAM is truly international, with one player (Jim Hakansson) and a coach (Matts Karlson) hailing from Sweden.

Title IX is the law forbidding sex discrimination in education. The action was taken by the MHSAA, claiming to speak on behalf of all high schools in Michigan, in anticipation of a possible finding by OCR of discrimination mainly in MHSAA's practice of scheduling major sports for girls and boys i different seasons, with girls almost always playing in the nontraditional season. A hearing is set for today at 3:30 p.m. in Judge Charles Joiner's Federal District Court in Ann Arbor

"THIS WAS A NASTY and frivolous thing to do," said Marcia Federbush, coordinator of a large statewide group of parents, stu-

The group filed a comprehensive complaint in March, 1982, with Michigan and U.S. civil rights agencies against the MHSAA, five representative school districts, and the Michigan Department of Education. The complaint alleged that the MHSAA discriminates in its seasonal disparities for boys and girls, in its inadequate representation of women and minorities on its prestigious decision-making committee, and in various other policies and its findings.

"NORMALLY, IN MUCH LESS serious matters than this," Feder bush continued, "the Representative Council insists on polling the entire membership for an opinion. Here, C.E. Cleven of East Grand Rapids, president of the council, whose school district was charged in the complaint, led the Executive Committee in an act likely to have devastating repercussions, without approval of the membership."

Caribbean a hot summer bargain Some fares cut in half

If you don't mind the 90-degree heat we've been having the last couple of weeks, you might be a prime candidate for a summer vacation in the Caribbean. It is probably not as hot there now as it has been in the United States lately, and you always enjoy the heat more when you are relaxed and on va-

The Caribbean is a good buy in summer. Delta Air Lines offers four days and three nights in the Bahamas for $325, eight days and seven nights for $437, both per person double occupancy and including round-trip air fare. You can get similar bargains through Delta for San Juan, Puerto Rico; St. Croix, St.

Thomas and other places. Other airlines offer good bargains too. Check your travel agent. The Caribbean Tourism Association reports that air-fare reductions of up to 54 percent make the summer-fall season a bigger bargain this year than ever before. Pan American slashed fares to destinations such as Jamaica, Barbados, Trinidad, and St. Martin. Other carriers soon followed suit, including American, Eastern, Air Canada.

New Yorkers can get unrestricted one-way fares not usually available in other parts of the United States: $129 to Montego Bay midweek. But there are enough bargains to go around. Eastern Airlines and Delta Air Lines probably fly more flights to the Caribbean from Detroit than any of the other airlines.

IF YOU GO, you should know that 1983 is the 10th anniversary of the independence of the Bahamas, so a lot of activities are going on under their proof the islands of the Bahamas offer reg- 1345 Avenue of the Americas, New ular cruises, beach parties and enter-

If you are visiting Busch Gardens in Tampa, Fla., ou might be interested in taking a safari into the 60-acre plain where the African animals roam. I took this safari, on the back of an open, flat-bed truck, and highly recommend it to travelers who don't mind the discomfort or a little bouncing around and are thrilled by the idea of getting an insider's look at wild animals. You'll never get this close to them again, unless you go to a game park The safari costs $30 per passenger. It leaves from the World of Wildlife at 1:30 p.m. Saturdays,

You must be 12 years old or older to take this tour. Persons 12 to 15 years must be accompanied by an adult. You can make reservations only by writing to the Dark Continent, Zoo Education Department, P.O. Box 9158, Tampa, Fla. 33674 or by telephoning (813) 985-3614.

Erie Metropark to get wave pool

Lake Erie Metropark will be the site of a wave

The Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority awarded a contract for $217,635 to George A. Odien Inc. of Detroit to put in water and sewer service, according to John C. Hertel, Wayne County commissioner who serves on the HCMA board. The work will include 6,600 feet of water main and 3,200 feet of sewer.

When completed sometime in 1984, there will be a bathhouse, food service building and drinking fountain at the park, located where the Huron River flows into Lake Erie near Gibraltar. Until now, the region's only wave pool has been one at Waterford Oaks in the Oakland County park system.

The pool will use wave-making machinery manufactured by WaveTek Automated Swimming Pools of Mansfield, Ohio. Its electrical control system will provide 15 minutes of waves and 10 minutes of calm water The 1,572 Lake Erie Metropark is under development but open to the public for picnicking, shore fishing, marina and sanitary facilities. No drinking water is available.

Lake Erie Metropark is one of 12 operated by HCMA, which serves Wayne, Oakland, Macomb, Livingston and Washtenaw counties.

Weeds may be culinary delicacies

Think again before trashing that unsightly weed growing between the cracks of your sidewalk. It's And with a little preparation, that spreading cluster of paddle-shaped leaves could be gracing your dinner plate this evening. Strange notion? Not so. According to Ellen Weatherbee, most of us are overlooking the food potential of our own weed-choked yards.

WEATHERBEE, AN authority on edible wild plants, teaches courses on the subject at the University of Michigan and, more recently, at Schooleraft College. Interest in her courses is so lively that many of her Ann Arbor students drive to Livonia to take the Schoolcraft course. (The edible plants course will be offered 7-9 p.m. four Wednesdays beginning Sept. 21. Weatherbee also will teach a course called the Fall Hiker. Registration information is available from the college's community services office at 591-6400, Ext. 409.) She bubbles with enthusiasm when she speaks of the mouth-watering delights of wild plants. To the knowledgeable, back yards, roadside fields, railroad embankments and construction sites can be treasure troves of edible delicacies. This summer, berries of all kinds are available for picking, along with wild rice, pokeweed, watercress, sheep sorrel and lambs quarters. "All of these plants can be fixed in a very fine

SHE IS CO-AUTHOR with botanist James Garnett Bruce, of "Edible Wild Plants: A Guide to Col lecting and Cooking" (1979, Macmillan Co., New York, 127 pages).

The book details the collecting process and the preparation of edible wild plants native to the Great Lakes region. Recipes bear such exotic names as purslane gumbo, sumac chicken and pawpaw pudding.

Weatherbee started eating wild edibles during graduate school days in Ann Arbor. "My mother and father could never understand why I ate weeds. They insisted we had enough money to buy fresh regetables," she recalled.

Wild edibles are available year around, Weatherbee said. This fall, collectors will find a host of fruits and nuts and a second crop of nettles. During winter, tubers — underground roots or stem structures — will provide tempting fare. "It's an obnoxious time to be digging for plants," she admitted, "but the harvest is worth it."

Herbs are a specialty

6 tomato plants led to a horn of plenty

By Tom Panzenhagen staff writer

"It's a pretty standard vegetable garden for someone who lives in the country, but I don't think you'll find one like it in the city," said Molly Hudson, who maintains a thriving vegetable garden at her Wimbleton Road home in the heart of Birmingham.

Her garden grows cucumbers, squash, eggplant, broccoli, lettuce, peas, carrots, beets, raspberries, peppers "that could kill you, they're so hot," and more herbs than you can shake a garden hose at.

"You can grow a lot of food in the city," Hudson said. "This garden feeds my family, my mother's family, several of my friends and my mother's friends."

Herbs are a specialty. Hudson has dills, opal, large sweet basil, fine leaf, lettuce leaf, lemon and bush basil, pineapple and honey-dew sage, parsley, sorrel, chervil, bronze fennel, bayleaf, rosemary and a host of others, all of which are used in Hudson's gourmet cooking creations.

THE COOKING came first, then the garden, Hudson said. Then this year Hudson formed a partnership with Yvonne Gill, former owner of Tweeny's Cafe in Birmingham. Together they publish "The Food Enthusiast," a newsletter circulated among gourmet cooks nationwide.

Hudson experiments with many of her garden products - "sometimes you have to experiment with the herbs to find out what they are," she said - before writing about how to prepare them in the newsletter.

She said the newsletter "offers a cooking class by mail. It gives ingredients, recipes but also explains methodologies of how to prepare foods.

It progresses beyond the level of written recipes and gives (readers) access to a teacher when they don't have a teacher."

Hudson said Gill's 25 years of experience in the restaurant business is an invaluable addition to the success of the newsletter.

"I realize it's not an inexpensive subscription," Hudson said of the newsletter's cost of $29 per year for 12 issues. "But it's a quality product with an upscale format, and it's typeset and illustrated, too.

Molly Hudson stands in the center of her garden which helps feed her family, her mother's family and friends. It also offers fresh resources and ideas for the national newsletter she publishes along with Yvonne Gill, "The Food Enthusi-

HUDSON'S GARDEN "started with six tomato plants; then, in 1977, we dug the predecessor of the big vegetable garden and planted an herb garden and wildflowers," Hudson

A raspberry patch, various perennials and a kitchen herb garden followed.

"Owning a garden is like owning a sailboat," Hudson said. "As soon as you get one, you want one that's bigger."

The garden won't grow bigger anymore, however. Hudson, who works for Campbell Ewald advertising, is being transferred to New York City in the fall.

"I'm happy about the move," said Hudson, whose husband, Arnold Rosen, already lives in New York - near 57th Street and Third

As an example of the variety of herbs, here are some of the types of basil which Molly Hudson grows in her garden. They include large sweet, opal, lemon, fine leaf and piccolo verde fino.

"The city's impossible," Hudson said, explaining that she would not try to grow vege tables in town. Instead the couple are looking for a country home in rural sections of New Jersey or Connecticut, where she can start another garden.

The transfer date will allow her ample time to harvest this year's crop.

"IT'S MY IDEA of the best time to move because I can get the most out of this gardening season and be in a new place to get the most out of the new planting season."

Although Hudson will be leaving her Birmingham garden behind, she won't be uprooting quite all of it.

"I have heirloom flowers, iris and peonies, that belonged to my mother and my grand-mother, who came from Illinois," Hudson said. "I'll take divisions of these flowers to the East Coast with me."

NAEA president

Art education has a top defender

Robert Curtis, Wayne-Westland art instructor, shows a sample of a student's artwork. Curtis believes that art should be a basic and important part

By Mary Klemic

'You gotta have art" is more than a slogan to art teacher Robert Curtis. It's a personal motto, one that he thinks everyone should share 'Art is one of the areas that's the first to go when schools have budget problems, and yet we know it should be thought of as one of the core subjects, said Curtis, who has taught at John Glenn High School in Westland for the past 15 years. "Through the arts, we're going to keep some of the humanistic qualities," he said. "And it also helps in practical approaches. You can't just teach someone how to use a specific tool. Art teaches you to look for creative alternatives to using those tools."

CURTIS, AN art instructor for Wayne-Westland schools for the last 23 years, was voted president-elect of the National Art Education Association (NAEA) at the annual NAEA convention in March.

The first art teacher chosen for that post. Curtis will serve as NAEA president from 1985-87.

"I'm really hoping in three or four years to make some kind of impact on the importance of art education in the schools," the Dearborn resident said

'Art is one of the areas that's the first to go when schools have budget problems, and yet we know it should be thought of as one of the core subjects.'

The NAEA is a professional, nonprofit organization that represents art educators at every level of instruction. from pre-primary to adult education. It works to bring quality art education to students. In existence since 1947, the NAEA is the only national association especially for art educators at every educational level. Its national membership, totaling between 8,000 and 9,000, is comprised of museum personnel, art coordinators. supervisors and others.

Curtis holds a bachelor of science degree in design from the University of Michigan and a master's in education degree in art from Eastern Michigan

HE DESCRIBES art as, "fun" but says some have the wrong ideas about the subject in the schools.

"I've always loved doing it," Curtis said. "I think the students are exciting. The tough part is that it's still looked on as a thing to get rid of.

"Some people think that for kids to use their hands, it's not really pushing them to use their minds. And part of it is the fact some have made the arts playtime for the kids. "I've been in the Wayne-Westland schools all the time I've been teaching," he continued. "For the most part, they've been very, very good about support of the arts. They're one of the few school districts that are."

But there is other support for the arts, Curtis says. As an example, he points to the national report, "A Nation At Risk," that was critical of the U.S. educational system.

"It never said, 'Throw out the arts,'" Curtis said. "Almost every other study has put the arts in the basic corps.

Help for the arts may come from the state legislature, Curtis believes.

"It's not going to come from the local districts," he said. "West Virginia and South Carolina have mandated arts in the elementary schools. It has been at tremendous cost to the state, but they recognize the need.

"I don't think they're going to get rid of the arts, even in the worst times. "We are living in a visual society," books, portfolios and my brief case. Behind me would be the enormous campus. I would put everything down, then turn around and with a sigh of relief, wave goodbye.

But, as it turned out, I was so glad to graduate I didn't even turn around. I did, however, manage to catch a last glimpse as I changed lanes on the expressway

As a matter of fact, my drawings are still rolled up in a tube somewhere in my attic. Even though I walked away with a degree in art, I was unhappy with my ability to do color drawings. Oil seemed too slow and watercolor seemed to loose. Colored pencils were very weak and felt tip pens streaked or bled too

I would be walking on the overpass to the this technique even in cartoons for magazines. Then a printer friend of mine invited me to a show where different art suppliers had their products displayed. Pantone showed many works of art using their felt tip markers. It was then I realized that my own drawings seemed to be a better use of the medium. I asked one of the representatives if I could show them my work and they liked them so much that they sponsored me for one year.

What a dream come true - draw all I want, ising any materials I want and it was all supplied by the company. Here is one of my favorite techniques for a realistic use of felt tip pens and color pencils.

Find a picture full of detail and color. Then on drawing paper do a light pencil sketch. One of the best papers for this is "Drawing series No. 400" by Strathmore. Now reduce all your shading at this point, merely outline as many shades and shapes as you can see. This stage is very similar to a paint-by-number painting.

NOW TAKE a very fine line felt tip pen and carefully outline, using the appropriate color. Pilot's "razor point" is my favorite. They are only about 90 cents and come in good range of colors. For example, you would use a blue pen for a blue jay or fish. Brown for a deer or shack and black for just about anything. Give this ink about 10 minutes to dry and then erase your pencil lines with a kneaded eraser or a white rose eraser.

Now pick out a color which is close to the main color of your subject. If, for example, you are drawing a butterfly you would notice his color ranges from black and brown in shadowed areas to almost white or light yellow in highlighted areas. His base color is yellow. Make him all yellow with whatever marker

Be creative. become poet with camera

Did you know there is a very powerful and meaningful language spoken by everyone, young and old, rich and poor, from all parts of the world? What I'm referring to is the language of the photographic image. And just as a knowledge of basics is essential to communication and understanding in any language, so is this true in photography. For example, we all know about grammar in the English language.

We know where the period and comma belong. Similarly, in our photography, we should all know the basics, such as how to set the shutter speed and how to correctly set the aperture. But as creative photographers, we have to go a step beyond this. In short, we must learn to become poets without cameras. You see, a poet makes grammar a secondary thing. What is primary to him are the words flowing from his creative

Learning the right colors

I'll tll you a secret if you don't tell. When I was sponsored by Pantone I constantly had to go buy markers by other manufacturers because they were so limited in their browns and tans. So I recommend felt tip pens by Design. They come in a terrific assortment of colors and they are only about $1.65 each.

One other good aspect is thay you can buy them in a set of 12 for about $20 and with that comes a tiered base so the markers are not rolling all over the place. The best assortments to buy first are the No. 330-1, the pastels wood tones and gray tones. Any of these will be a good start.

AFTER YOU have base colors of vellow, black and orange, the butterfly should look good but rather two dimensional. Any artwork without highlights and shading appears very flat. Now the next step moves you very close to real ism depending on how well you look at

Change every color with color pencils. By that I mean where there is yellow make it light yellow by using a white pencil and where there is dark yellow or brown use a tan or brown color pencil. Every color must be highlighted and shaded with color pen-
