The Canton Connection

RUMORS THAT members of Detroit's infamous drug-peddling ring, Young Boys Inc., have been operating out of Center Stage were squelched last week by Canton police. Police Lt. Larry Stewart said that youths who have attended Center Stage "teen nights" have informed police that Young Boys members have been selling drugs at the popular nightclub, but the reports are "unsubstantiated." "There's always a problem with drugs when there's young people," Stewart said in confirming that some drug-related incidents have occurred at Center Stage. "But it's not the place for drugs. They can buy them at high-school basketball games for that matter." Stewart said Center Stage draws a racially mixed group from a large geographical area to its teen nights.

EASTER SEALS got a big boost in its recent fund-raising drive from the Skatin' Station, 8611 Ronda Drive, Canton. The rollerskating rink sponsored a skateathon March 31 and April 1 that raised a whopping $34,500 for the charity. The amount raised in Michigan was second only to the $36,000 raised in the Budick Open golf tournament. In addition to the skateathon and such accompanying activities as a pie-eating contest and basketball game, the Skatin' Station served as an anchor site for WDIV-TV's Easter Seals telethon.

CANTON'S EMBATTLED treasurer recently received a bit of good news from the Municipal Treasurers Association. Maria Sterlino was notified that she will be awarded the Certified Municipal Finance Administrator designation at the association's annual conference in Cincinnati this summer. Sterlino said the award, which will consist of a plaque and certificate, is the result of her completing the Michigan Municipal Treasurers Institute program at Michigan State University. Sterlino, who is the subject of a Canton Merit Commission investigation for her statement that township administrators "are guilty of serious violations of the law," will be one of only 17 treasurers in the U.S. and Canada to receive the award this year.

TEEN-AGERS will get an opportunity to learn about skin care, make-up techniques and hairstyles at a program being hosted Thursday by the Canton Public Library, 1150 Canton Center Road. The program, "Grooming Tips for Young Adults," will be from 7 to 8:30 p.m. and is open to persons from 12 to 18 years of age. The program will feature Linda Levy, an Estee Lauder representative, and Daniel Harris, a hairdresser from Emile's Salon of Southfield. Further information on the program may be obtained by calling the library at 397-0999.

TOOTSIE ROLLS will be handed out this weekend to persons generous enough to donate money to Knights of Columbus representatives taking part in their annual statewide drive to raise funds to assist the mentally retarded. The drive, to be held April 13-15, will feature the K of C members dressed in colorful hats, carrying canisters and wearing aprons emblazoned with the slogan "K of C help the mentally retarded." According to Ronald Fournier, Grand Knight of the Knights of Columbus Canton Council, the Catholic men's fraternal society collected $625,000 throughout the state last year. About $1,200 was raised in Canton during last year's drive, he added. The local funds were donated to Our Lady of Providence School in Northville.

Canton taps lands for athletic use

Recreational activities — including softball, golf, soccer and even miniature golf — were given a boost last week by the Canton Township Board of Trustees.

The board at its meeting last Tuesday.

• Approved private developments for a softball complex and a miniature-golf course.

• Authorized the purchase of state land to be used for expanding the township golf course and creating neighborhood parks.

• Accepted an offer from the Plymouth-Canton School District to use district land for a soccer field.

THE SOFTBALL complex will have 12 diamonds and a control building and will be located along Michigan Avenue between Beck and Belleville roads. It will be developed by Aaron Jade of Bloomfield Hills.

land use

While the 51-acre site is located in an area zoned for industrial use, the board unanimously approved the softball complex for "special approval use." Under such a use, the site later could be developed for industrial purposes, said township Planning Director James Kosteva.

"The use will bring many people to Canton which may create interest in ancillary businesses," Kosteva said in recommending the board approve the complex. "The use may also reduce the need for publicly provided facilities."

Jade told the board the complex will be developed in two phases. The first phase, to include eight diamonds, the control building and a gravel parking lot, is expected to be complete by spring 1985. The second phase, which will include the last four diamonds, landscaping of the parking lot and final landscaping, is expected to be ready by 1986.

THE MINI-GOLF course will be located on Joy Road between Ronda Drive and Lilley Road in what is now part of the Skatin' Station parking lot. The 4.8-acre facility will be owned by Aaron Lynch, who also owns the Skatin' Station.

Mahalak rebounds after attack

State Rep. Edward Mahalak, D-Romulus, was recuperating steadily over the weekend at University Hospital in Ann Arbor after suffering a heart attack last Monday. The 62-year-old veteran lawmaker was listed in good condition.

Mahalak — listed as critical Wednesday — was transferred from the intensive care unit Friday night.

Mahalak's district includes half of Canton Township, Romulus, Belleville, Wayne and all of Van Buren Township.

No surgery is scheduled for Mahalak, who has no history of heart trouble. He was hospitalized for a gall bladder operation last November.

Mahalak was able to get up for about 10 minutes Thursday, according to a staff member in his Lansing office. While he was still on oxygen and being fed intravenously, "His progress is encouraging. There are signs of improvement each day," she said. "His spirits are excellent."

MAHALAK EXPERIENCED chest pains at his Romulus residence Monday and asked his wife Dolly to take him to University Hospital, where he was admitted.

Mahalak is chairman of the House appropriations subcommittee on transportation. He participated in a 12-hour legislative session on the income tax and appropriation bills that was adjourned at 2 a.m. Sunday morning, the day before his attack.

One of Mahalak's transportation bills was among those considered.

Hitting highs and lows of stock market

By Marie Chestney

Ken Wood and his teammates know well the dizzy highs and crashing lows which can go with playing the stock market.

The game, which is a real-life simulation of a lot of different stocks which happened to be on the rise, Wood's team was not only No. 1 in the Stock Market Game at Lowell Middle School, but it was between fourth and fifth place among the 147 schools now playing the game statewide.

Just a couple of weeks into the game, Wood's team had parlayed the $100,000 make-believe cash it had on hand into an investment worth close to $140,000.

If dusty roads in Canton prove to be as hot an issue this summer as they were last, residents may find an especially sympathetic ear on the Wayne County Road Commission — if County Executive William Lucas' latest appointment is approved by the Board of County Commissioners.

Canton resident Dale Smith, 43, was named Friday as the county executive's eighth nominee to fill one of two remaining seats on the Wayne County Road Commission. So far, only the appointment of Detroit's Janice Frazier has been confirmed.

See related story on page 5A

Smith, full-time financial secretary for UAW Local 900 in Wayne, was contacted a week and a half ago by County Commissioner Milt Mack, whose district includes Canton.

"He called me and said they wanted an active Democrat from out this way, and also someone with labor," said Smith, a Mayfield, Ky., native who has lived on Alton in the Holiday Park subdivision since 1967.

"I was surprised. I never dreamed of it or anything. I'd been keeping up with what's been going on in the papers, but I hadn't really thought about it (serving the road commission) till they called me."

Smith asked "for a couple of days to think about it."

"I decided well yes, I would very much like to get involved. I think maybe we could do something. I'd give it 100 percent."

If confirmed, Smith would earn about $10,000 per year serving the road commission, a body Lucas is seeking to abolish. Under his plan, the commission would be consolidated with county government.

SMITH DOESN'T mind the fact his post could be abolished.

"Whatever is best for Wayne County, we should be looking at that. A lot of things that have gone on haven't worked. If this will stop payless paydays and put Wayne County back in the black, then great," said Smith, an active Canton Democratic Club member.

Dale Smith

Smith expects to be interviewed by county commissioners sometime in the next week or two, however "nothing is definite yet," he said. "I don't know (what chances of confirmation will be). I'm hoping 100 percent."

Smith said that since assuming his union post three years ago, he's been responsible for finances related to property and buildings, and for dues and income for Local 900 — comprised of 4,400 Ford Wayne Assembly Plant workers, 800 laid off workers, and 1,000 retirees. He earned 19 years seniority with Ford in air tool repair at the Wayne assembly plant.

Smith isn't entirely satisfied with the way Canton has been serviced by the road commission.

CANTON STILL has a "lot of roads and streets that are gravel and dirt and that need paving (Paving) would help bring more industry and people into Canton," Smith said.

Smith said Canton's Democratic Club regrouped 17 or 18 months ago, and will take an active role in the township's general election in November.

Fifth in a series of articles on problems caused by drunk drivers.

Bar owners are in business to push drinks and make money and don't much care about customers who might stagger out of their place at midnight.

If you believe that, you haven't talked to a bar owner lately.

For starters, there's the problem of legal liability. Dogging every owner of a Class C liquor license is the threat of a civil lawsuit which might be filed if a customer should have an accident following a drinking bout at his establishment. If the drinker kills or injures someone while driving home, the last bar to serve that drinker can be sued.

"Civil lawsuits put restraints on bars and restaurants," said Plymouth police officer Bob Henry, who coordinates a police task force against drunk drivers in Plymouth, Northville, and Plymouth, Canton and Northville townships.

Bar owners going to bat

"They are most careful because of that. They are careful in asking for I.D. In fact, we have more problems with party stores than we do with bars."

BUT BAR owners talk of a deeper responsibility to customers, a responsibility which goes way beyond the threat of a lawsuit.

Tom Booth, general manager of the Steak and Ale Restaurant at I-275 and Ann Arbor Road, called it a "moral responsibility to get guests safely home."

"It's a really big responsibility - to serve liquor," he said. "You can put someone in a state where they can kill someone. Taking care of our customers is a big priority to us."

Added Chip Falcsan, owner of the Box Bar at 777 West Ann Arbor Trail: "I would like to see more public awareness of the drunken driving problem, but sometimes it takes a real tragedy to wake people up. Class C places take some of the heat, and rightly so. They need policing. If you don't police us, a lot will be served who shouldn't because we want to get the money."

The Observer asked the management of three local establishments — the Steak and Ale, the Box Bar, and Sheehan's on the Green, 39500 Five Mile — how they spotted and dealt with a customer who has consumed too much. Here are their answers.

STEAK AND ALE
A sign on a wall inside the Steak and Ale reads: "Friends don't let their drunk friends drive." Printed underneath the sign is the phone number of a Plymouth cab company.

Also scattered on walls inside the restaurant are signs reminding employees of a promise they signed the

the drinking driver

day they were hired. "We ask that you maintain a high level of awareness about customers who may be drinking excessively, bringing all potential problems to management's attention immediately."

Underneath is printed management's promise in return: "We commit to personally handling any and all liquor-related problems with our guests."

"If someone drinks four drinks in one hour, management wants to know," said Booth, a Canton resident. "We might not necessarily do anything, especially if the person doesn't show visible signs of intoxication. But we want to know so we can watch him."

Why the band is not available

To the editor: I would like to address this letter to your readers rather than try to reach the co-chairman of the 4th of July Parade put on by the Jaycees.

Every year they have a different parade chairman and every year they are given the explanation of why the PCEP Marching Band cannot participate in their "big parade" and every year it just doesn't seem to get through.

Consequently, for the information of your readers, the reasons for the non-participation of the band are:

All 175 uniforms have to be turned in at the end of the school year and accounted for, cleaned and repaired for the next season.

Many students attend music camps over the summer and are unable to come home.

Many other students have family vacations planned many miles away from here and can't come home for one day.

The band director, James Griffith (his name spelled as the letter writer spelled his name) has employment away from the area for the summer.

The last, and most important reason, is that the reputation of the PCEP Marching Band has taken years of hard work and the effort of many people to build it to where it is today - one of the best in the state of Michigan.

A small, scattered number of band members that would show up would undoubtedly be unbalanced instrument-wise and would do a great disservice to the reputation of the band as strangers to our town would assume that small group was the same band they had heard about that wouldn't be fair to any of the former or present band members.

As a former band parent, I resent every year the crybaby tactics of the Plymouth Jaycees trying to imply our band is less than patriotic because they won't drop everything to rush back to Plymouth to march in their parade. I'm sure your readers will be able to comprehend these reasons and understand what a few people seem unable to do.

(Don't most kids come "out of the woodwork" the week before school to get ready for it? That's when band camp is held!)

Group lobbying Pursell on upcoming MX vote

When Congress votes this spring on whether to fund continued MX missile production, U.S. Rep. Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth, may play a decisive role. Pursell is one of 26 congressmen who appears undecided on the issue, says Gloria Pappas of Plymouth, a member of the Peace Center at the Newman House at Schoolcraft College and active in western Wayne County anti-nuclear power groups. "And with a very close vote expected," she said, "Pursell and a handful of other hold the keys to the most important weapons policy decision of 1984."

Production of the first 21 MXs began this year after a narrow House victory (217-208) for President Reagan's MX request last November. Since that vote, MX opposition has continued to build, Pappas said.

MANY CONGRESSMEN who voted for the MX last year in exchange for administration promises of a U.S.-Soviet arms control agreement are reconsidering their support. Now that negotiations have ceased, said Pappas, an agreement is no more likely today than it was last November.

And with the federal deficit soaring above $180 billion, many members are eyeing the Pentagon weapons requests more critically. In addition, all the Democratic presidential candidates have stated their opposition to the MX.

The May MX vote will be in the form of an amendment to fiscal year '85 Department of Defense authorization bill. The amendment, if approved, would halt MX production by deleting from the authorization the $3.2 billion the President has requested to build 40 more missiles. If the amendment passes, she said, it will be the first time a nuclear weapon already in production has been stopped.

Pursell will face heavy pressure from the White House to vote for the MX, said Pappas, but a large coalition of religious, labor, environmental, and arms control groups will urge him to vote against the MX.

Snapperettes Cheerleaders keep school spirit at a peak

Starkweather Principal Carol Nichols congratulates kindergartners awarded for good citizenship at a school assembly.

MOVE OVER, Michael Jackson. Starkweather's Snapperettes perform a "Thriller" dance routine that would knock your groove off.

Comprised of 15 fifth and sixth grade students and directed by teacher Karen Huddas, the Snapperettes are the Plymouth-Canton school district's only elementary school cheerleading squad.

The group does dance routines and cheers for school assemblies, the Canton Country Festival, Plymouth's student artfest, and marches in the Memorial Day parade.

Monday, Snapperettes entertained at one of Starkweather's citizen award assemblies - held monthly to build morale and honor students with "good citizen" and "improved citizen" awards.

"You have to go when the spirit says go!" "You have to fight when the spirit says fight!" "You have to win when the spirit says win!" "Go! Fight! Win!"

That Snapperette cry sounded loud and clear at a Starkweather all-star basketball game Wednesday, in which fifth and sixth grade boys challenged the "all-star" teachers. The Snapperettes are planning to energize fans and players at the school's next athletic event - a softball game.

The privilege of donning Starkweather navy blue sweaters and blue and gold skirts doesn't go to just any 10-, 11- or 12-year-old. Prospective Snapperettes must audition.

This year's survivors included: Wendi Crandall, Tracey Wilson, Stephanie Murphy, Jennifer Jones, Amy Carter, Michelle Boslain, Stacey Carr, Kim Reeves, Rhonda Bowling, Lisa Metcalf, Kristina Bessler, Kelly Ciesielski, Angela Glover, Parul Mantani and Amy Peck.

Huddas has been a savior of sorts for the Snapperettes.

There have been cheerleaders at Starkweather for many years. But for a while, they were unsupervised, and the girls did it themselves.

"Last year I decided to get involved about 'Taking control of your life.' They needed some direction," said Huddas, a resource room teacher at Starkweather.

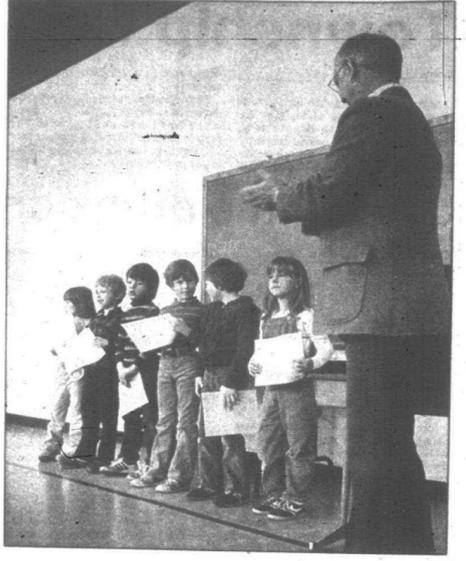

Since last year, Huddas has worked with the girls two hours per week - for which she isn't paid - while the cheerleaders invest additional time during recess and other free periods to practice.

"I just really enjoy working with them - I'm going to miss them. I just hope they can pick up somewhere else," added Huddas.

Starkweather is slated to close at the end of the school year and students will be transferred as part of the district's plan to accommodate shifts in enrollment and population.

"It's kind of sad this time of year. We're looking forward to a new situation, but you always feel bad we are going to be closing," said Huddas.

The Snapperettes already are at work choreographing a "farewell to Starkweather."

Starkweather School's Snapperettes, the only elementary school cheerleading squad in the Plymouth-Canton district, will be disbanded in June when Starkweather is expected to close.

Snapperettes lead a school assembly in the Pledge of Allegiance.

Joining the drunk driving fight

At the Steak and Ale, the waitresses and bartenders are required by a signed statement put in their personal file to tell a manager about a potential problem drinker. But at what point does a potential problem turn into a legitimate problem?

ALL THREE managers interviewed agreed that a tough question to answer because there's a different answer depends on how much a person weighs, how much he has eaten while drinking, how far apart the drinks were spaced. An answer can start emerging when a drinker walks or talks or acts.

If someone has had up to eight-nine drinks, we tell them that's enough," Booth said. "If someone orders 10 shooters — his aim is to get drunk and we don't want him here."

For their own protection, some three-four customers are cut off from liquor at the restaurant every night, Booth said. And the customers don't take the cut-off lightly.

Most get very defensive. A man's ego is so high he can't take another man telling him he can't hold his liquor. They get upset. They don't like to admit they are drunk and it's hard to win an argument with a drunk. But we try to tell them as diplomatically as possible.

Market whizzes on the rise

With plotting and cunning, and a keen eye on the daily newspaper stock ratings, the team was far above Lowell's second-place team which still hadn't gone much beyond the initial $100,000 given to them to start with.

AND THEN came the crash. Let's let teammate Leonard Bove, a Lowell sixth grader in Louise Douglas' business education class at Lowell, tell what happened.

"We bought a lot of different kinds of stocks which were rising," Leonard said, jumping to his team's defense when it was noted Wood's team was dead last among the eight teams participating in the Lowell game. All team members are students in Douglas' two business classes.

"We made between $30,000 and $40,000 dollars and we were fifth place in the whole state. We were happy, thinking we had good stock."

"And then we found out Ken Wood wrote down the wrong number on the computer card sent to EMU and the stock was given to another school. We went down the drain because of a wrong number."

And then Leonard added words which helped explain the meaning behind the game.

"Common sense tells you not to mess with money. Money is man's best friend."

THE LAST-PLACE team's first plunge into the world of high finance turned out to be a disaster.

But the disaster was

the drinking driver

"IT DEPENDS on size, weight, speed, emotional strain, medication, drugs, these are all factors which come into play."

Falcian agreed it was a "daily problem" for Class "C" businesses to have to cut someone off from his supply of liquor. And, like Booth, he also agreed it was a tough situation.

"Some take it well, but most don't. You can't reason with a drunk and the fact they have had too much to drink shows they have lost their judgment. They'll say, 'I'm spending money, I can do what I want.'"

Businesses which catered to younger people seemed to have more problems with drunken customers, Falcian believed. But he added, "A drunk is a drunk and it cuts across all social and economic lines."

Falcian said he thought the mixture of liquor plus inexperience at driving was lethal to those under 23.

Larry Sheehan described his Plymouth Township bar and eatery as a "neighborhood" place where the "regulars" know they will be asked to switch to coffee or Coke if management thinks they've drunk too much.

And he's happy his place is small enough that he can keep tabs on his customers.

Due to waitress shift changes, Sheehan said he found it "impractical" to count customer drinks.

"We're going to get very involved politically with elections for Canton to try and elect more Democrats in November. Things are getting rolling." The club now has at least 50 members, he said.

Last January, Smith journeyed to Washington as a regional delegate with the UAW National Community Action Program, (CAP). Smith and others met with area congressmen to discuss labor issues, get updates on pending legislation, and drum up support for presidential candidate Walter Mondale.

Smith is the father of Valerie, 24, of Plymouth, Keith, 21, who lives in Vermont, and Scott, 16, still at home.

The board voted 5-1 to purchase of the parcels. I'm concerned about purchasing land made available because of someone else's misfortune," Treasurer Maria Sterlini said, in voting against it.

Mahalak recovering from heart attack

Canton Treasurer Maria Sterlini visited Mahalak in the hospital Wednesday.

"I got in to see him and send regard for the whole community because no one else could get in — I was very fortunate. He's one of the greatest leaders we've had," she said.

"I JUST decided to go over there and let him know we all care and extend the best for him."

"He said he's coming along." Mahalak has been so supportive of this community and so helpful — kind of like my right arm in Lansing. He's been such a strength for all of us.

Gov. James Blanchard called Wednesday and expressed get well wishes to Dolly Mahalak, she added.

Due to waitress shift changes, Sheehan said he found it "impractical" to count customer drinks.

Labor blesses road appointee

Wayne County executive William Lucas has proposed an eighth nominee for the job of county road commissioner. Dale Smith of Canton Township, an officer of the UAW Local 900 in Wayne.

Ernest Nagy, publisher of Mellus Newspapers, was Lucas' severest nominee for the road commission, which runs the road commission division of county government.

THEY CONTENDED that Nagy was extremely anti-union and replaced striking editorial staff members with non-union employees during a negotiation impasse in 1978.

"We believe Nagy lacks the sensitivity and compassion to meet to the needs of the people of Wayne County," said Don Kummer, administrative officer of the Newspaper Guild Local "We believe he would bend and break public law and policy for his own benefit."

"Yes I do," Nagy replied. "As a member of the Road Commission dealing with a number of unions would you be able to deal with them fairly and impartially?" asked Commissioner...

LUCAS HAS been trying to appoint three road commissioners since he took office in January 1983. The three commissioners in office at the time fought Lucas' efforts to replace them in a series of court battles which took a year to resolve.

A circuit court judge and an appeals court panel ruled that Lucas had the right to fire those road commissioners and replace them with three new ones. The state supreme court refused to consider arguments that Lucas did not have the authority to oust the old commissioners.

Lucas at one time proposed an "interim" board of commissioners. The county commission refused to approve them. Opponents said there was no provision in the county charter for interim appointees.

The executive also named three permanent members — Janice Frazier, a businesswoman who has been on Lucas' staff for a year; Curt Bolter, Brownstown Township supervisor, and Maryanne Banks, a Romulus councilwoman.

A LUCAS AIDE said the executive will continue to push until he has three members approved to run the road commission.

Lucas' press secretary. "It's all just politics. The commissioners are just playing games. In the meantime, they're holding up the effective performance and activities of the Road Commission. Frazier can't serve by herself," Johnson said.

The vote Thursday to reject Nagy was 12-0. Commissioners Joseph Jurkiewicz (D-Taylor) and William Szurek (D-Livonia Park) abstained. They serve areas which include communities in which Mellus newspapers are circulated — Allen Park, Ecorse, Lincoln Park, Melvindale, Southgate and Taylor.

JOHNSON said that Lucas talked to Nagy and became "satisfied that Nagy's handling of that labor matter wouldn't affect his performance as a road commissioner."

"That (the problem in 1978) should not have been a major factor in his approval or rejection for the position," Johnson said. "He's demonstrated his civic commitment."

"Yes I do," Nagy replied. "As a member of the Road Commission dealing with a number of unions would you be able to deal with them fairly and impartially?" asked Commissioner...

Jesse Owens gets belated honor

Far back in the paper where only the smallest of type is used, a four-line item appeared the other morning, and it brought back memories of the most provocative moment in the history of the Olympic Games.

It read "The officials in Berlin, Germany, have agreed to the renaming of the entrance into the stadium as the Jesse Owens Boulevard."

It was simple enough. But, officially, it was Germany's apology, after all these years, for the snubbing Owens received when Adolph Hitler refused to appear on the official stand to present Owens with the four gold medals he had won in the greatest burst of ability shown during the games.

The present generation may not recall Jesse Owens, but he was a black athlete who attended Ohio State University and by the time of the Olympic Games was looked upon as the world's fastest human.

AT THE time there was plenty of discussion around the athletic world concerning the entrance of black athletes to the big games.

In fact the discussion became so great and widespread that the late Willis Ward, a former judge of Probate Court who was one of the University of Michigan's black athletes, refused to make the trip after being named to the American team.

Owens went to Berlin because he was eager to have an Olympic Gold Medal among his trophies. He succeeded in winning four of them and proved to the world that he was one of the fastest humans. He appeared in all the sprints, but also competed in the broad jump. And he won the top medal in all of them.

But when it came to the moment of the presentations and the colorful ceremony, Hitler was nowhere to be found. Hitler snubbed the most outstanding athlete in the games and the world received with horror the news of the snub.

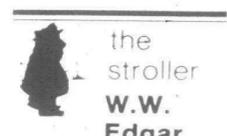

And it left a lasting scar on Owens.

Several years ago Jesse was one of the honored guests at the annual sports dinner at the Meadowbrook Country Club and The Stroller had the privilege of talking with him for some time during the evening. It was in this atmosphere that Owens with a choke in his voice confided that Hitler's snub had hurt him terribly. And he carried that hurt to his grave several years ago.

There never was a finer gentleman than Jesse Owens and as an athlete he left his mark on the athletic world.

ONE OF the unforgettable moments The Stroller had with him was at the Big Ten track championships in Ann Arbor and it still provokes a laugh.

He had just finished his turn in the broad jump (now referred to as the long jump) and poked himself up out of the pit. Noticing the late Ralph Young, one of the officials on the sideline, he said to him "Mr. Young I wish you were an inch taller."

the stroller W.W. Edgar he used Young's height as his mark for the big leap and had just missed a new and better mark.

"If you had been an inch taller," he added, "my leap would have been a great one."

That was Jesse Owens, and he richly deserves the honor, belated as it may be, of having Germany apologize to him by renaming the entrance passage into the Olympic stadium as the Jesse Owens Boulevard.

Goodbye, laundry; hello, employers

It's difficult to tell what's going on in the real world as I sit here hidden away in my humble hovel, but I suspect that a new phenomena is emerging that is worthy of consideration.

I am referring to the influx of women in their mid-30s who are somewhat gingerly approaching the job market. In other words, there's a bunch of terrified ladies out there looking for work.

We female "baby boomers" who chose to stay home and raise a family are just about done boozing with our children. Now much thought is being given to emerging from our cocoons of domesticity and once again joining the ranks of the employed.

When one has been at home taking care of house, husband and children for a decade, just thinking about applying for a job is enough to give you hives.

Reading the want ads can bring on severe palpitations, and actually going on a job interview can be an excruciating experience.

This may be hard for most people to understand, but when your job skills are about as outdated as a manual typewriter in the computer age and your wardrobe consists mainly of blue jeans and casual tops, you tend to feel a tad underqualified for big business.

Even "little business" seems threatening. When I went on my last job interview, I felt like my face was twitching so badly that I must have looked like a pinball machine in action. I also kept forgetting how to breathe which made my sentences run together with an occasional gasp for the sake of survival.

It was rough. When the interview was nearing an end, the gentleman I was talking to said, "My you certainly were 'wired' when you first arrived!" I wanted to explain to him that I'm really only a spastic wreck on special occasions, but it seemed a feeble excuse.

Needless to say, I didn't get the job. Too bad, too. I was so proud of myself for at least staying semi-coherent throughout the interview.

I'm not asking for much. I have no aspirations of overthrowing the boss and becoming head of the company. Just put me in a nice little corner with a typewriter and tell me what you want done.

I can type like a fiend and I have a quick mind — at least I used to 10 years ago. I don't think it has atrophied.

Nancy Walls Smith

beyond repair. So, all you employers out there, if you're being besieged by ladies with faces twitching and hands trembling, don't worry — they'll calm down after a while. That's what transitions are all about.

Be still, my beating heart!

crime watch

MOTORCYCLE season has arrived, at least for thieves. Three motorcycles were taken in two separate incidents in recent weeks. In the first incident, on Tuesday, March 27, a Dearborn man told police that someone stole the trailer attached to his car and the motorcycle in it while he was shopping at K mart, at 5725 Sheldon Road.

front door to the Lilley apartment and took $107 in cash and coins, $176 in checks, $100 in costume jewelry and two jewelry boxes, valued at $50.

ONE CROOK got less than he or she bargained for when striking a house on Queensway recently. The resident of the house told police that someone entered her garage and took a microwave oven. The microwave oven, however, was valued at only $25. The resident said it didn't work.

A CLERK at Kinney Shoe Store, at 44508 Ford Road, told police he came up $19.23 short after making change for a man he described as sloppy and glassy-eyed. The 17-year-old employee said the culprit was seen standing in front of the store around 5 p.m. March 29 before entering when the store became busy. The clerk said the man gave him a $20 bill to pay for an 82-cent pair of shoelaces and then said he only had given the clerk a $2 bill after the clerk gave him $19.18 in change. The man then asked the clerk for four $10 bills in exchange for two $20 bills and then offered to pay for the shoelaces with a $1 bill.

ABOUT $20,000 worth of items were reported taken in a burglary sometime during the March 30-April 1 weekend of a home on Argonne Court. Police said entry to the house was gained by forcing open a kitchen window. Reported taken were a full-length mink coat, two diamond and gold rings, three watches, a pair of opal earrings, 16 sets of cufflinks and tie clips, a 35-mm camera and an AM-FM cassette unit.

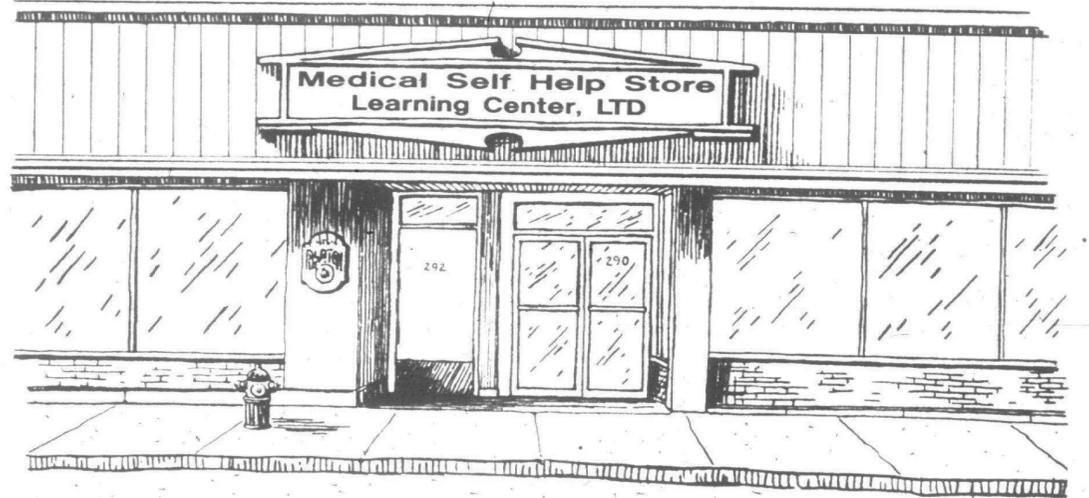

When the exchange was over and the man had left, the clerk discovered the shortage. The employee described the man as black, between 25 and 30 years of age, 5 foot 10 inches, 150 pounds, with a short Afro-style haircut and a goatee, and wearing a red nylon jacket, plaid belbottom pants and beat-up shoes.

FIVE OTHER break-ins were reported to Canton police over the past two weeks. Homes on Sheldon, Glevegoe Court, Geddes and Ford and an apartment on Lilley were struck between March 27 and last Tuesday. Police said the front door to the Sheldon home was forced open and a color television set, valued at $700, was taken. On Glevegoe Court, a doorwall was forced open and stolen were a 35-mm camera, jewelry and coins. The house on Geddes was vacant and entry was made by breaking a door window, police said. Taken were a vacuum cleaner, valued at $75, and a telephone, valued at $25. Some $500 in damage to windows also was reported at the Geddes house.

A HALF DOZEN residents reported thefts from their garages over the past couple weeks, according to Canton police. The garages — two located on Kingsbridge and the rest on Walnut Ridge Circle, Iron Gate, Heritage and Worthington Court — were either left unlocked or entered by means of electric garage door openers. Items taken included four snowblowers, two toolboxes, two sets of tools, a portable heater, a chainsaw and an air compressor. The total value of the missing objects was about $4,000.

POLICE WERE called in April Fool's Day morning to investigate a cash shortage situation at Center Stage, at 39940 Ford Road. The owner told police about $1,500 was missing from his office, which is closed to employees and patrons. He said, however, that a Center Stage employee was observed in his office the night before and may have been responsible for taking the money. The employee denied the charge.

Let's start the party!

Gourmet hors d'oeuvres are simple to make.

Hors d'oeuvres.

For a hostess planning a party, that word can be a little overwhelming. Entertaining with flair demands more of a dazzling start than cheese and crackers. But with today's busy schedules, hors d'oeuvres may be the first casualty of a party.

Hors d'oeuvres don't have to be time-consuming and tedious to prepare. The key to appetizers that look—and taste—like you fussed for hours is to use prepared food as a starting point.

Chef Rene

European-trained Rene Arend, product development chef at McDonald's Corporation, suggests using his newest creation, Chicken McNuggets, as a party starter. "Lightly breaded boneless chicken is very subtle—but flavorful—and a party favorite when served with quick homemade sauces," he says.

Chef Rene was born in Luxembourg and trained in Strasbourg, France. His European training has made him an expert in elaborate party planning. Designing high-quality recipes that can be prepared quickly in McDonald's® restaurants developed Chef Rene's skill in maximizing kitchen efficiency.

Sauces can add that gourmet touch to hors d'oeuvres. Start with 20-piece portions of Chicken McNuggets and serve with a variety of sauces.

The sauce is everything

Chef Rene believes "la sauce c'est tout"—the sauce is everything. "Sauce-making is the most important phase of cooking," he says. "A sauce gives your food the taste and appearance you want, and that personal touch makes your cooking different from everyone else's."

In preparing sauces, Chef Rene holds there is a secret to sauce creativity. "The one simple step required as you cook is to taste your own cooking—often. Then you add spices according to your personal taste."

As to the art of seasoning sauces, Chef Rene says, "you shouldn't be able to identify the spices used; spices only are added to enhance the flavor."

A tart and tangy cranberry sauce with a hint of orange adds a delightfully festive flavor to tender chunks of chicken. To add an international flair to your party, serve a taste of India—curry sauce. Or serve cheese fondue, an all-time favorite for elegant party giving. These quick and easy sauce recipes were specially created by Chef Rene to make your hors d'oeuvres table tempting and delicious, but simple to prepare.

Enjoy your own party

"Party giving should, above all, be enjoyable," says Chef Rene. "Practice creative efficiency by selecting recipes that allow you to serve your guests the best, without a great deal of effort. These sauces can be made ahead of time in minutes, with Chicken McNuggets as your starting point. You spend less time in the kitchen and more time entertaining—the goal of all outstanding hosts and hostesses."

By combining Rene's cooking and yours, hors d'oeuvres can set your party off to a great start!

Rene Arend: The people's chef

Rene Arend, a gourmet chef who has pleased the palates of famous people like Sophia Loren, Elizabeth Taylor, Cary Grant, Queen Elizabeth of England and the King of Belgium, now brings his gourmet touch to more than 11 million "guests" a day in McDonald's restaurants around the world.

Chef Rene, McDonald's product development chef, was born in a northern Luxembourg village. He took three years of intensive kitchen and restaurant training at the College Technique Hotelier de Strasbourg, where he graduated first in his class.

After holding several professional positions in Europe, Chef Rene arrived in the United States to work at Chicago's Drake Hotel. In 1962, Rene moved to the Whitehall Club, an exclusive Chicago dining club, where he met a frequent patron, McDonald's founder Ray Kroc. Kroc admired Chef Rene's culinary talents and experience and was convinced that a fine chef could make important contributions to McDonald's.

"At first," Chef Rene says, "I wasn't interested. I told Mr. Kroc, 'I am not a hamburger man.' But Ray Kroc's persistence and his idea of broadening McDonald's menu intrigued me. 'Why not,' I asked myself, 'apply my training to reach millions of people?'"

Chef Rene joined McDonald's in 1976. He directs food research, development and technology in McDonald's Oak Brook, IL, kitchens. He is responsible for the development of McDonald's menu items.

"It took the first few years to get used to such a company," Chef Rene confides, "but, little by little, I see the fruits of my labor and I get more confident. It is very satisfying to know so many people enjoy my recipes every day, and it is a challenge to develop new ideas to please them."

Chef Rene's personal taste and expertise in sauce making has been adapted to products found on McDonald's menus. His newest creation, Chicken McNuggets, is offered with a choice of mustard, sweet-and-sour or barbecue sauce, or with honey.

Chef Rene has compiled a collection of basic sauce recipes in a cookbooklet, "Creating Your Own Secret Sauces." Single copies are available free of charge by writing to Chef Rene's Sauces, McDonald's, P.O. Box 11189, Chicago, IL 60611.

"The important basics found in this booklet illustrate how fast and easy sauce making can be," said Chef Rene. "I want to put to rest the common misconception that making sauces is difficult."

Chef Rene's special sauces

Curry Sauce

1 cup prepared mayonnaise
1 tbl. curry powder
1 tbl. catsup
1/2 tbl. chopped chutney
1 tsp. applesauce

Add curry powder to mayonnaise and mix well. Add remaining ingredients to the mixture; again mix well. Make this sauce one day ahead to allow the curry to blend with the sauce. Makes about one cup.

Fondue Sauce

8 oz. white wine
1 lb. Swiss cheese
1 tsp. corn starch

Melt Swiss cheese into wine. When melted, add cornstarch mixed with water and bring to a boil. Serve hot.

Whole Cranberry Sauce

1 cup sugar
1 cup water
1 lb. fresh cranberries
1/2 tsp. grated orange rind

In saucepan, boil water and sugar for 5 minutes. Add washed cranberries; boil over low heat for 5 minutes, without stirring. Add orange rind. Cool to set; store in refrigerator. Makes about 2 cups.

Green Herb Dipping Sauce

1 bunch parsley
1/2 bunch watercress
3/4 cup fresh cooked and drained spinach
salt and pepper
1 bunch fresh dill
1 bunch chives
2 cups mayonnaise
1 cup sour cream

Chop all herbs very fine, mix all ingredients well and serve on side.

Floridian salad is served with a tangy bacon-mustard dressing.

2 crisp salad ideas to brighten meals

Having crisp garden salads with bright dressings during the winter and spring months is a treat. Florida now ships several types of lettuce, from iceberg to leaf, Bibb and Boston. Along with radishes and other crisp vegetables, there are plenty of ingredients for good salads right now.

Our photo recipe shows a crisp Floridian salad with a tangy Bacon-Mustard Dressing. The salad ingredients are prepared and refrigerated ahead of time; all you need to do is make the bacon dressing a few minutes before serving. It's an old-fashioned sweet-and-sour dressing, with the crumbled bacon stirred in at the last minute to retain texture. When this salad is served with a bowl of fresh tomato or corn chowder and some crusty bread and cheese it makes a satisfying meal.

Florida Spring Salad with Creamy Green Dressing is another bright idea. Again, the greens are washed and chilled ahead of time (wrapping the greens with damp paper towels assures crispness). An herb-y dressing - which can also be made ahead - is done in the electric blender with an egg yolk added for creaminess; the green color comes from a blending of sliced scallions.

FLORIDIAN SALAD WITH BACON-MUSTARD DRESSING
 6 cups Florida lettuce in bite-sized pieces
 2 cups sliced Florida radishes
 1 1/2 cups sliced Florida cucumbers
 1 tsp. dry mustard
 Water
 4 slices bacon
 2 tbsp. flour
 1 tbsp. sugar
 1/2 tsp. salt
 1 Pinch ground black pepper
 2 tbsp. cider vinegar

Place lettuce, radishes and cucumbers in a large bowl; toss gently. Cover with a damp paper towel and refrigerate until serving. In a custard cup combine mustard and 1 teaspoon warm water; set aside for 10 minutes for flavor to develop. In a small skillet fry bacon until crisp. Remove bacon and crumble; set aside. Remove fat returning 2 tablespoons to skillet. Over medium heat stir in flour, sugar, salt and black pepper. Gradually stir in 1 cup water; waiting until water is absorbed after each addition. Remove from heat; stir in vinegar and reserved mustard mixture. Cool slightly. Stir in reserved bacon. Four over lettuce mixture just before serving; toss gently. YIELD: 4 to 6 portions 1 cup dressing.

FLORIDA SALAD WITH CREAMY GREEN DRESSING
 6 cups Florida lettuce in bite-sized pieces
 1/4 cup cider vinegar
 1/4 tsp. sugar
 1/4 tsp. salt
 1/4 tsp. celery seed
 1/4 tsp. tarragon leaves, crushed
 1 pinch ground black pepper
 1 egg yolk (at room temperature)
 1 cup vegetable oil

Place lettuce, radishes and cucumbers in a salad bowl; toss gently. Cover with a damp towel and refrigerate. In the container of an electric blender place vinegar, sugar, salt, celery seed, tarragon, black pepper and egg yolk; cover and whirl until combined. Remove cover from blender; With blender at high speed, slowly dribble in oil; whirl until combined. Add scallions; blend just until smooth. Serve over reserved salad.

Chicken for the whole family

When we eat chicken at our house, Windy and Rico don't take a back seat. The resident dogs love chicken parts as much as my wife dislikes the skin. So a recipe from a colleague was made to order.

I had doubts about combining yogurt and chicken, but then once I browned our sour cream and fried eggplant. Yogurt chicken turned out a pleasant surprise on two fronts: dietwise and palatable. Skinless chicken means less calories. No salt is good news for those watching their blood pressure.

But if you're not on a special diet, a little salt and black pepper can be stirred into the yogurt before applying it to the chicken. Some minced garlic can be added, too.

I look forward to trying flavored yogurt. The corn-flake crumbs take the place of the skin - or flour - and brown evenly.

I had a package of cut-up chicken, which I bought on sale, in the freezer that needed to be cooked. My wife usually doesn't like Windy and Rico chicken wings, but we decided they deserved a treat. We don't feed them from the table, but often spice up their dog food.

When it's chicken for all at home, no one is disappointed.

Brush yogurt all over chicken. Thoroughly dredge chicken in crumbs and place meaty sides up on cookie sheet. Bake in 350-degree oven 45 minutes. Serves 3-4.

OPENING DAY, rather than the equinox, makes spring official for Tiger fans. One longtime booster waxes lyrical over the event.
Better Times
There's nothing can reanimate When winter's old and gray. There's nothing makes us realize There's hope for better days It's when the lads once don their caps. The diamond's shades of green, The timeless crack of hickory bats. This ritual of spring And some do congratulate. And youth is shared by all We've made it through, though spring comes late. In time to hear "Play ball!"

Eddie Edgar is looking forward to his first opening game. He covered his first Tiger game in 1924 at Navin Field. Is he enthusiastic? You bet. A few days ago, he said he was going if he had to walk. At 86, that is dedication.

JUDGE GLADYS Barsman of Plymouth, as a member of the International Institute's patron committee, joins government officials and International Institute board members in festival planning.

DEBRA LYNN Rogers, a sophomore at Western Michigan University, has joined Alpha Phi, national honor society. She is secretary of the pledge class. Debra graduated from Plymouth Canton High School in 1982 and was captain of the varsity cheerleading squad. Her parents are Dwight and Cookie Rogers.

APRIL LEWIS has been accepted by Alpha Psi Omega honorary dramatic fraternity at Eastern Michigan University. She'll be going to Nonington College in England for the fall semester where she will major in drama and dance. April graduated from Plymouth Salem High School in 1980.

DOROTHY SHAFER had high score in Thursday's party bridge games at the Plymouth Cultural Center. Carl Peters was runnerup.

CLB SCOUTS in Pack 293 at Bird School are carrying on the pack tradition. The cubs are taking orders in their neighborhoods for geraniums. They will deliver the potted plants May 4 and 5, in time for Mother's Day weekend. White, red and salmon blooms are available. Orders can be placed by telephone by calling 459-7359. Geraniums are $1.75 per pot. They always have good healthy plants. I saved mine this winter - put them upstairs in a north window. They had to crane their necks a little to get to the light, but they have bloomed all winter. It was cool up there and they weren't watered as faithfully as they should have been.

THE MICHIGAN Youth Band includes several area musicians. They are David Cleveland, Andrew Dahlke, Warren Kaercher, Beth Lewis, Matt Rupert and Debbie Pallas.

THE SENIOR Golf League begins play at 9:30 p.m. Monday, May 7 at Brooklane Golf Club. Five Mile at Sheldon Chuck Childs organized "The Silver Duffers" last summer and the turnout was excellent. For information about the league, call Chuck, 453-0503. All seniors, beginners or pros, are invited to join for fun, fellowship and good exercise.

Ruth Jacobs stocks the museum gift shop with handmade items but she also has toys like the brightly painted bird that flaps its wings and chirps.

Handmade thimbles are works of art

Dona Douglas' porcelain bisque thimbles are collector's items, yet practical. Each hand-painted thimble is a miniature work of art. Each is decorated with a hand-painted scene - birds, flowers, barns, seasonal landscapes. Once in a while you see them at craft sales, in an exclusive gift catalogue or shop. The nearest outlet is the gift shop in the Plymouth Historical Museum.

When she started making thimbles in 1977, she was full of enthusiasm, hoping they would be a salable item. She never dreamed that the time would come when she couldn't keep up with the demand.

Making a thimble from scratch involves pouring liquid porcelain into a mold, firing it in a kiln. It comes out like rough cement. Lips are taken off, the top is etched, it is hand-burnished until it is satiny to the touch. Then comes the painting.

"I love detail. I enjoy painting them. No two were alike in the first 480 I made," said Douglas.

THE THIMBLES were in Wayside Gifts in 1978. Dona had grown up in Plymouth. Although she and her husband, Harold, moved away, Wayside was one of the first shops to carry her thimbles.

The thimbles went from Michigan to Ohio and Indiana. Soon they were sold all over the country. There was a mail order business when the thimbles appeared in collectors catalogues.

"We made thimble racks for a number of years. I was making 12 thimbles a day, seven days a week and we couldn't keep up," she said.

After being away for 10 years, Dona and Harold Douglas and their family moved back to Plymouth. They had decided to slow down the thimble business and relax. Dona has other hobbies. She enjoys painting on canvas and doing freehand drawing. She enjoys doing calligraphy and having time to do some volunteer work at the historical museum.

She still makes thimbles, and when Ruth Jacobs saw them, she wanted some for the museum gift shop.

Jacobs specializes in offering exceptional home crafts in the shop - old crafts of dollmaking, tinmithing, and wood working. Bruce Richard's beautiful Shaker boxes show the pride of craftsmanship.

"I decided to go on my own again, just go to art fairs, and have them at the museum," said Dona Douglas. She says she has some standards that are consistent sellers. She paints nine varieties of birds, flowers, squirrels, two barn scenes - summer and winter - and the landscapes. She has been painting cottontails suitable for Easter giving.

The museum gift shop is open from 1-4 p.m. Thursday, Saturday and Sunday.

Candy tastes good, and light films offer that same pleasure

Popular, successful films make money because they provide an entertaining hour or two of excitement and relaxation. They provide escape from the humdrum monotony of daily living.

'Romancing the Stone' is the story of prissy, retiring New York romantic novelist Joan Wilder (Kathleen Turner). Through a successful writer, her personal life largely is limited to fantasies such as those she writes.

'Romancing the Stone' is all too predictable, easy and self-conscious. 'Romancing' is all too predictable, easy and self-conscious. Douglas tries too hard to be cool, indifferent and macho.

'Romancing the Stone' is rated PG mainly because of... well, I'm not sure any more what 'parental guidance' means at least in terms of the movies.

'Anne Frank' production shines

The play "Anne Frank" by Meyer Levin, presented by the Actors Alliance Theatre Company, continues at 8:30 p.m. Fridays-Saturdays and 6:30 p.m. Sundays through April 15 at Lycee International, Evergreen and 13 Mile roads, Southfield. For ticket information, call the box office at 642-1326.

By Cathie Breidenbach special writer

With an excellent cast and restrained fine directing, the Actor's Alliance Theatre Company's production of "Anne Frank" makes her poignant story come alive for another generation.

More than 20 years ago, Anne's diary was required reading in many English classes and the war-baby generation knew her as a friend. Seeing the theater-in-the-round revival of "Anne Frank" by the Actors Alliance Company is like meeting a never-forgotten old friend after many years. Surely those learning her story for the first time will find it as memorable.

The play tells of eight people, Dutch and German Jews, cooped up for two years in a secret attic in Amsterdam. Outside their hiding place, Nazi madness goose-stepped through Europe rounding up Jews for the concentration camps.

Young Shirleyann Kaladjian is a radiant Anne. She captures the effervescent 13-year-old who is part precocious kid with a mouth that gets her in frequent trouble, part ardent idealist and all adolescent. Kaladjian is a sophomore at Wayne State who succeeds in looking, sounding and moving like a girl on the leading edge of adolescence.

NOT SINCE "Watch on the Rhine" at the Attic Theatre has David Fox had a part that showcases his centered calm as well as his role as Mr. Frank. He plays with uncommon sensitivity men whose essential decency goes so deep that not even global catastrophes sway them from a sure knowledge of what is worthy and what is not.

Director Yolanda Fleischer seems to cast with a sixth sense that knows which actors can make characters come to life. She gets solid performances from Carol Lempert as Margot and Hamid Dana as Dr. Dussel, as well as from Carl Knisely as Mr. Van Daan and Karen Moore as Mrs. Frank.

Peggy Thorpe is fine as the materialistic, bickering Mrs. Van Daan and Michael Mendelson is convincing as Peter, the young man who feels hemmed in by adults as he struggles to grow up and to understand what being Jewish means to him.

The Meyer Levin script used for the Actor Alliance production is actually the original one sanctioned by Otto Frank. It was later suppressed in favor of the version that ran successfully on Broadway and capped the Pulitzer Prize.

The Broadway version minimized the Jewishness of the story, presumably to stress universal truths. The script by Levin preserves the Jewishness of the people waiting out the war in the hiding place.

THEY LIGHT a menorah and say Hebrew prayers around the Hanukkah table. Margot, Anne's older sister, talks of migrating to Palestine when the war is over because she feels nowhere else will ever again feel like home.

The Levin script gives these people the dignity of knowing who they are at a time when Hitler's madness was trying to rob Jews all over Europe of their dignity.

The resilience of the characters and their story far outweighs moments when the script is too preachy and the occasional lines sound too stiff and literary for anyone to say.

Fleischer respects her characters without making them goody-goody martyrs, and she avoids theatrical effects that would have shifted the focus of the quiet story. Life in the cramped hiding place demanded daily discipline, compromise and sacrifice. Day followed dreary day punctuated only by air raids and fear of capture.

"Anne Frank" reminds us that although human dignity and goodness is all too vulnerable in a callous world, it speaks anew to each generation.

Michael Mendelson is Peter and Shirleyann Kaladjian is Anne in "Anne Frank" at the Actors Alliance.

Actors breathe life into Shaw drama

Performances of the Meadow Brook Theatre production of "Candida" by George Bernard Shaw continue through Sunday, April 15, on the Oakland University campus near Rochester. For ticket information, call 377-3300.

By Cathie Breidenbach special writer

The solid directing of Terence Kilburn and the fine cast in George Bernard Shaw's "Candida" make this squeaky-clean Victorian love triangle interesting to modern audiences. Even though times have clearly changed since Victoria's day, Shaw's satire keeps its cutting edge, and his wit still entertains.

In the play, a callow young poet named Eugene Marchbanks is smitten by Candida, an "older woman" who happens to be the wife of the parson, the Rev. James Morell. Joey L. Golden plays the 18-year-old poet, Marchbanks, with boyish exuberance. He's a shy, eccentric fellow in love with love.

The English are historically fond of eccentrics as long as they're harmless. Marchbanks is a likeable oddball, although he doesn't seem enough of a man to woo the capable Candida away from her husband. In fact, he's a silly boy.

For that matter, all the men in the play are silly boys who depend on the good sense and compassion of Candida and the organizational talents of Miss Proserpine, the Rev. Morell's secretary.

WILLIAM WRIGHT as James Morell is a respected clergyman, an eloquent speaker or a moralistic windbag, depending on point of view. He sees the world with the cheerful optimism common to small boys and good Christians. Candida is the rock that supports his universe.

Barbara Barringer has the necessary presence as an actress to play Candida, another woman of great presence. Even when her would-be lover confronts her husband, she handles the situation with calm good sense and kindness.

The social critic in Shaw couldn't resist a chance to take potshots at the follies of men. In "Candida," Shaw takes his digs at clergyman and socialists, as well as at industrialists who get rich on the suffering of others and on self-important men who think they run the world.

Shaw knew better. He must have been a closet feminist. If he were writing today when feminism is more accepted, he'd be making barbed comments about self-important feminists making fools of themselves.

"Candida" is the most often produced of Bernard Shaw's 29 major plays, perhaps because he tempers his barbs and clearly enjoys his characters. In addition to the three who make up the lovers' triangle, "Candida" has three thoroughly engaging minor characters.

MARY BENSON who plays the Rev. Morell's secretary is a delight. She takes the stereotype role of skinny spinster and creates a comic personality to remember. The prim and proper lady who gets tipsy on champagne is now a hackneyed dramatic situation if there ever was one. Benson infuses the scene with wonderful nuances and makes it rise above stereotype.

We're counting on you.

Can anyone beat Stevenson in WLAA?

The 1984 girls softball season kicks off in earnest this week. Observerland, as always, is deep in talent. Here is a composite of the teams in the Western Lakes Conference.

LIVONIA BENTLEY

- Head coach: Robert Dean, third year
- Last year's overall record: 14-7
- Losses to graduation: Kim Archer, All-State shortstop who batted .600

- Promising newcomers: Connie Allen, freshman shortstop; Mari Anne Brager, junior center fielder
- Dean's '84 outlook: "We are a young team with four returning letter winners. We're looking forward to bettering last year's record and developing into a championship team."
- "We have a spirited, aggressive, young team with an established battery in Mary Ellen (Mauder) and Laurie (Day). We seem to have considerable batting power potential."

LIVONIA CHURCHILL

- Head coach: Pat Solarz, second year

- Losses to graduation: Eight seniors, including two starting pitchers
- Leading returnees: Patti Schmidt, senior center fielder; Beth Compton, junior third baseman

LIVONIA STEVENSON

- Cagle's '84 outlook: "With a strong, experienced battery and because we're strong up the middle, we feel we're the team to beat. We played summer ball and that should help, too."

ra Darby, sophomore infielder, and Kris Ingersoll, sophomore infielder.

• Sommerville's '84 outlook: "We're shaping up, but this will mostly be a rebuilding season. We only have one returning starter and lots of sophomores. There are a lot of good athletes on this team with a lot of experience."

Plymouth Salem and Plymouth Canton had their share of collisions during the 1983 softball season. The two are at it again this year, only their collision courses may be aligned toward Livonia Stevenson.

Coaches can ease spring sports mess

And you thought the madness only happened in March.

No way. The spring high-school sports scene is the definitive in sports madness as the 21 Observerland schools compete in six sports — baseball, softball, girls track, boys track, girls soccer and boys tennis.

One look at our "Week Ahead" feature will give you an idea of what we're up against this spring. There will be, on the average, more than 100 sporting events happening throughout Observerland per week for the next eight weeks.

And we intend to bring you each and every result. But, to accomplish this monumental task, we need the cooperation of the coaches. So Observerland spring-sport coaches — pay attention.

OBVIOUSLY, WE cannot physically attend every game, match or meet. So to get the results in the paper, coaches should give us a call. The Observer sports desk can be reached by calling 591-2300 before 5:30 p.m., or 591-2312 after 5:30 p.m.

Here are the best times to call in your results:

- Tuesday: To report results of weekend, Monday and Tuesday contests, call 591-2312 between 5:30 and 8:30 p.m. Or, from 9-4 p.m., call 591-2300. Calling at these times will ensure the results get into Thursday's paper.

sure the results get into Thursday's paper.

• Thursday and Friday: To report results of Wednesday, Thursday and Friday contests, call 591-2312 between 5:30 and 8:30 p.m. From 9 to 5 p.m., call 591-2300. Calling at these times will ensure the results will get into Monday's paper.

• Monday: Do not call after 5:30 p.m.

• Wednesday: Do not call.

Note: Results phoned in after 5:30 p.m. on Tuesdays and Fridays will not get into the next edition of the paper. Results may be phoned in until 10 p.m. on Thursdays.

Also coaches, please be patient. If the phone is busy, as it will probably be on occasion, please call back. If we don't hear from you, your results will not get in the paper — and when that happens, only one party gets hurt: the athletes.

We pride ourselves on bringing you the most comprehensive coverage of high-school sports. We can't be successful without the cooperation of the coaches. We sincerely appreciate your efforts.
