CHAMPION golfing awards went to threesome Tim McCurley, John Johnson and Bob Dates, who took top honors in the fifth annual Canton Festival Golf Tournament at Fellows Creek Golf Course recently. They won by one stroke over the second place and third place teams of Paul Deedler, Dave Seger, Bill Seger, David LeClaire Sr., David LeClaire Jr., and Dan Reitmeyer. Both of these teams finished with 7-under 65s. Two other groups were tied with 6-under 66s. The new champions combined eight birdies and an eagle with two bogies for their 8-under par 64 score. The long drive award went to Bill Seger and the closest to the pin contest was won by Gary Palis.

FOOD, FUN and frolicking with family and friends are usually associated with holidays. But the American Red Cross reminds people holidays may also be a time for accidents and illnesses to occur. Such unexpected happenings necessitate the need for blood and blood products. The Red Cross is requesting blood donations.

Family dies on airliner

A Canton family of five apparently died Sunday when an Air India plane crashed into the Atlantic Ocean off the southern coast of Ireland.

None of the 329 passengers is thought to have survived. Officials suspect a bomb is responsible for the disaster.

P.K. Jacob, his wife Aleykutty, daughters Jessie, 13, and Jhansy, 11, and son Justin, 8, were on the flight from Toronto to London, England. Mrs. Jacob is a nurse at Ann Arbor's Veterans Administration Hospital. Her supervisors received the news late Sunday that she was among those on the plane that crashed, said Pat Allyn, nursing coordinator and Dorothy Jenkins, chief of nursing service at Veterans.

"She started here in March 1981 and worked in the intensive care unit as a registered nurse. She usually was in charge wherever she was on the 12-hour afternoon or midnight shifts," Allyn said.

"HER CO-WORKERS are very upset. She was an excellent staff nurse. We will miss her a lot," Allyn said.

The Jacobs were enroute to India to visit Mrs. Jacob's mother who was ill. "Her mother had some problems with her sight. The family was going to make arrangements for her, and maybe bring her back to the U.S.," Jenkins said.

Mrs. Jacobs was expected back to work in a couple of weeks.

Mrs. Jacobs received her diploma in 1967 from Karyam Hospital in Mylapore, Madras, India. Her husband owned a Canton travel agency and a taxicab service.

The Jacobs were among 11 Michigan residents thought to have died in the plane crash.

Canton Care inspections detect faults

By Diane Gale staff writer

Canton Care Center, a nursing home plagued with repeated Health Department violations, has failed to correct problems during a probationary period, according to Ron Styka, state assistant attorney general.

Canton Care, 43825 Michigan Ave., was issued a six-month temporary license Nov. 30. Although the license expired May 30, the home is allowed to operate until other action is taken by the health department, which could include the issuance or denial of another license.

"Investigators from the Department of Public Health visited the facility while in its six-month probation period and found they were not living up to the management plan (probationary agreement)," Styka said.

A DECISION by the health department is expected this week, Styka said.

Styka declined to be specific about what changes the home failed to make as outlined in the management plan. Some stipulations are as follows:

- applying physical restraints only when absolutely required;
- providing sufficient closet space;
- limiting fecal and urine odors;
- offering bedside stands and other furnishings "that are clean and in good repair";
- adhering to rehabilitation programs;
- ensuring all staff members are trained for assigned duty;
- administering therapeutic diets, including those for diabetics;
- repairing the roof exhaust fan, kitchen freezers and the refrigeration system;
- instituting a second floor nursing station;
- constructing a holding room for dirty linen separate from the clean linen;
- eliminating four beds from four separate overcrowded rooms by providing another room.

• and cleaning the kitchen ceiling.

"Not all (of the stipulations) have continued to be a problem," Styka said.

In December 1984, Styka said some of these conditions had already been met. And, last week, he said additional improvements had also been made.

IN AUGUST 1984, health department inspection reports from a registered nurse, sanitarian and dietitian cited many "human dignity" violations. The inspectors reported a patient's hands were tied to the bed rails while the patient tugged and pulled to reach an open bed sore, approximately two to three inches in diameter.

The reports said another patient sat in urine and with a puddle of urine on the floor for about two hours. They said other patients remained in their own urine and feces for extended lengths of time, food was refrigerated inadequately and rehabilitation ordered by a physician wasn't carried through.

Shortly after the reports were issued, Ingham Circuit Court Judge Thomas L. Brown ordered the home closed in September 1984.

In March 1984 health department officials said the home seemed to be making progress by complying with the conditions of the management plan.

Canton Care, known as Dion Memorial Nursing Home before November 1984, has been in violation of meeting minimum health department standards since 1975. In 1980, the health department director at the time declared the home should be denied an operating license. Appeals by owners of the facility have kept the doors open.

If the health department cited conditions that could cause an immediate threat to human life, the home would be closed due to an emergency situation. Canton Care has not reached this point, Styka said.

Brian Suter, Canton Care owner, failed to return Observer phone calls.

Stray dog killed by police officer

By Deb Sherman and Diane Gale staff writers

A stray dog was shot at nine times and killed by a Canton officer who was trying to apprehend him last week.

Canton police Cpl. Robert Van Lith tried to catch the Shepherd mix for about 45 minutes before the shooting, said Larry Stewart, acting police chief. The dog was limping and weighed about 90 pounds. The officer was unavailable for comment last week.

"Van Lith said he was going under the assumption that the dog was possibly involved in a bite situation, but he was trying to apprehend (catch rather than shoot) the dog," Stewart said.

Police received a few calls about the stray, and officers tried to capture it for several days, Stewart said. The dog was described as aggressive and without identification tags.

The Michigan Humane Society is investigating the case to determine if correct actions were taken, according to David Wills, executive director. The evaluation is expected next week.

AFTER THE INCIDENT, it was learned the dog was not involved in a bite case, Stewart said. The officer may have needed to shoot nine times, because he had to avoid aiming at the dog's head. When an animal is suspected of biting a person, the brain is need-

Residents' craft is the draft

By Gary M. Cates staff writer

A handful of residents meet once a year to train for a job they hope to never perform. To carry out their duties would signal the start of World War III — literally.

The residents are members of the Livonia/Plymouth/Canton Selective Service System board, otherwise known as the local draft board.

Although currently inactive, the board would be responsible for hearing draft deferment appeals in the event of a national emergency or war.

"The mere thoughts of having the board put into action are something we don't look forward to," said William Brown, a Plymouth Township resident and board chairman.

In 1980, under President Jimmy Carter, the Selective Service System (SSS) was reinstated — having been eliminated since 1974. Men born after 1959 were required to register for the draft and a skeleton SSS staff was created.

As the sparse staff was established, procedures were set for selecting volunteers to serve on the local review boards.

"Like everyone else on the board, I read the story about it 3 1/2 years ago and applied," said Brown, a retired Michigan State Police sergeant now working with the Department of Social Service's child protective services division.

"When we did it, we thought something was imminent. It's kind of hard to hold up the desires now, when nothing

Arson programs smoking

By Deb Sherman staff writer

The Fire Department set two Canton houses and two cars on fire Thursday night.

Firemen confined the fires to specific areas in the houses and promptly put them out. Friday morning, the police and fire departments began arson investigations. The houses were abandoned and the cars came from a junk yard.

The fires were part of an eight-week Fire/Arson Investigation Course at Schoolcraft College for police and firefighters.

Force Five, which includes the fire and police departments of Canton, Plymouth, Plymouth Township, Northville and Northville Township, participated in the arson investigation exercise.

Canton police Cpl. Bill Lenaghan, co-coordinator of arson investigation, said arson is a growing problem in Canton especially in vehicle cases.

"The western and far-southern rural areas of Canton is a good place to drop off cars and sometimes they're not found for a while," Lenaghan said.

"They're almost always reported stolen."

Arson is an easy crime to commit and difficult to prove, Lenaghan said.

FORCE FIVE is trying to change that. Twenty policemen and firefighters divided into three groups to conduct separate investigations to determine the cause of the fires. They collected evidence from the houses and took pictures during the simulated incidents to show technicalities involved in admitting court evidence.

Team investigators were not present when the house was set on fire, but it was videotaped. Each team is scheduled to see the tape to compare the reports they made from the simulated incidents.

"This is a police/fire concept of learning to work together in fire investigations," said Canton fire Sgt. Donald Adams, assistant coordinator for the project.

"Arson is a specialized crime, and we need specialized investigators to do the work — including the prosecutors," Adams said. "What Force Five is saying is, you burn it, we're going to know it. We might not get a conviction, but we're going to hurt your pocket book as bad as we can. We won't leave the scene until we establish a cause."

THE FIRE DEPARTMENT is understaffed, Adams said. But joining the two forces will improve the efficiency and quality of arson investigations.

Adams said arson isn't a priority for the justice system.

"They'd rather (let insurance companies) pay it off than investigate. The insurance companies are getting off from the litigation because of the economics," Adams said.

In 1982, Canton property owners alone reported more than $500,000 in losses from "suspicious fires," not including vehicles, Lenaghan said. The number of cases has been increasing since then and the costs are going up.

Lenaghan said if there is a conviction in 10 percent of the arson cases, the department is doing "fantastic." He said the situation is beginning to change because more departments are starting to use the police/fire approach for investigations. State police started this training program in 1979.

Children experience the farm life at camp

Camper's joined together in a roundup after lunch in anticipation for the upcoming games.

By Deb Sherman staff writer

For most kids, fun begins when school ends. This summer, some 65 youngsters from as far away as Ypsilanti head to find their summer fun on a 60-acre farm in Canton.

Last week, Jim Fraser's Real Life Day Camp launched its 37th summer-camp season featuring hayrides, horseback riding, riflery, archery, arts and crafts, swimming, hiking and animal care.

Camper's range from 6 to 14 years old. Nursery camp is also available for children from 2 1/2 to 6.

Fraser said horseback riding is the most popular activity. The staff also teaches horsemanship, which includes caring for the horses.

"There are a lot of city folks here," Fraser said. "This is the closest some of these kids have ever been to animals. We want to give them an awareness of animals and how to take care of them and the environment. We want to have a moral influence on the children, but we don't preach religion or anything."

The camp charges $75 a week per child.

"We're not aiming toward the rich — it's for working people. I don't know of anything comparable (in price)," said Fraser.

CAMP WOULDN'T be complete without a pool, Fraser said. A five-acre camp in Dearborn Heights, also owned by Fraser, has a pool and a trampoline where the camper's commute every week by bus from the Canton site.

However, most of the camp time is spent on Canton's farm with the horses, geese, guinea hen, chickens, donkeys, pigs and lambs.

Fraser's son, Don, who grew up on the farm, and Mary Ann, Don's wife, work on the staff. Mary Ann is a certified teacher and operates the nursery school.

"I think the social development aspect is very important and learning to have empathy for peers because there are all kinds of kids from different backgrounds here," Mary Ann said.

Fourteen-year-old Debbie Mazur of Livonia is the oldest camper at Real Life Camp. This year will be her last after spending the last three summers there.

"My dad makes me come (to camp) because he wants me out of the house for the summer," Mazur said giggling. "But I like it here, it's fun."

Kurt Skeen, 9, of Farmington has been going to the camp for three years. He said his favorite activity is horseback riding. His riding skills are improving, he said, as he got off one of the largest horses.

Chris Wetzel, 13, of Northville is beginning her sixth season at Real Life Camp. She said the most important thing she has learned at the camp, aside from horseback riding, is understanding how to get along with the younger kids.

David and Joey Lapham of Dearborn, who have been going to Real Life Camp for four years, said they've learned how to take care of animals and how to work with tools.

"We learned how to use a compass and how to use the tools to build our forts in the woods for our overnight this summer," David said.

Radical Ambient Dudes (RAD), also known as brothers David and Joey Lapham, hang out at their tree fort. The sign warns other groups of campers to beware.

Camp owner Jim Fraser tells about activities. Joey Lapham peers through his sunglasses while he practices target shooting with a BB gun.

Draft board hopes never to perform job people on the local boards. We save a significant amount of time by having people ready to adjudicate deferment claims — you can't teach them how to do that overnight," Topoli said.

"In the second World War it took almost one year to get the local boards in place," Brown said. "Now, 48 hours after a national emergency, draft notices would be sent out. Within 10 days of sending the notices we would start hearing the appeals."

The system is structured so that appeals of local board decisions would be handed at the state level within 10 days, and national appeals 15 days after the state decision.

"It's not an appeal system that will drag on like the courts, if you don't win at the national level, then you're in," Brown said.

At the same time draft notices are sent, Topoli would begin emergency hiring of SSS staff for the area office. The staff would assist the local boards with the administrative work.

"It's a big task because it would have to be done right away," Topoli said.

ONE OF the jobs the SSS doesn't get involved with is enforcement of draft registration, although the system does keep track of who should be registered and turns the names of non-compliers over to the FBI.

Since 1980, more than 13 million young men have registered for the draft — representing seven year-of-birth groups, 1960 to 1966.

"Failure to register is not a victimless crime. Each man who does not register increases the draft vulnerability of those who do register," according to Thomas K. Turnage, SSS director.

"A strong inducement to comply with the law, followed by prosecution if necessary, is imperative.

"Our Active Compliance Program ensures that the young men of this nation are treated in a fair and equitable manner," Turnage recently reported to Congress.

Through the compliance program, non-registrants are identified and informed of the requirement. The non-registrants — found through driver license, Social Security and other governmental information — are sent a registration form and return envelope.

"More than 750,000 registrations have been received as a direct result of the compliance letter mailings," according to Turnage.

Those who fail to comply after the mailing are referred to the Department of Justice.

AS OF January 1985, SSS reports 98.4-percent compliance with the registration requirement. Of those who failed to comply, 18 have been indicted.

A recent SSS newsletter states that 10 of the 18 have been convicted, with some being sentenced up to two years in prison. Of the remaining eight, four are awaiting trial, two registered after indictment, one registered during trial and one was dismissed on a pretrial motion.

The most notable case is that of the U.S. vs. David Wayne. Wayne of Los Angeles was charged with refusal to register and pleaded not guilty.

A U.S. district court dismissed the case after the government failed to disclose documents Wayne requested for his defense. The government claimed executive privilege.

Government attorneys appealed the case to the 9th Court of Appeals in 1983, and the lower court's decision was reversed. Wayne appealed to the Supreme Court to rule on the question of selective enforcement.

In March of this year, the high court ruled Wayne's case wasn't one of selective enforcement and remanded the matter back to district court for trial.

A more local case, U.S. vs. Daniel Ruit of Dearborn, has been on hold awaiting a decision in the Wayne case. Ruit also requested large amounts of documents and data.

EVEN THOUGH most young men are required to register, many would be eligible for draft deferments.

According to Brown, deferments can be granted for a variety of reasons including being a minister or ministerial student, conscientious objectors, and hardship cases.

Another exemption, recently amended, applies to those who had a father or mother die in the military service. Prior to the change, according to Brown, the exemption was for those whose father or sibling died in service.

In the event of a draft, those seeking deferments would appear before local boards.

"They can be assisted by someone but cannot have that person talk for them," he said.

"We, as the board, can restrict the audience — or even shut the whole board down if the audience gets too disruptive."

Besides being required to register by law, Topoli believes young men should register out of a feeling of patriotism.

"It's kind of like paying the rent, this is a nice place to live and registering is a small price to have to pay," he said.

There also is an opening on the Livonia/Plymouth/Canton board. Topoli said interested persons should be at least 18, a U.S. citizen, and a resident in one of the three communities.

Persons interested in serving on the volunteer board should contact the state SSS director, Paul D. Frakes, at Box 12056, Lansing, MI 48910.

Police officer shoots and kills stray dog after chase ed for examination to test for rabies, he added.

"We try to apprehend all of the dogs rather than shoot, but when you have to resort to shooting of animals, the brain of the dog is what they examine for the rabies virus," Stewart said.

Van Lith did not violate police policy, and the department is not investigating the case, he said.

While trying to catch the dog, Van Lith had it cornered in a small fenced area near Warren and Canton Center roads. The officer was chasing on foot and without his dog stick, which is a pole with a noose attached to the end.

The Canton animal control officer was off duty at the time of the incident. A tranquilizer device may have been used in place of the gun. However, the tranquilizer may only be used in the presence of a veterinarian, Stewart said.

"We don't equip every car with tranquilizer guns, and trying to have a veterinarian go with him is certainly not practical either. "After the dog was cornered, he came running after Bob (Van Lith)," Stewart said.

"Not only to prevent the dog from getting away, but to protect himself from being attacked, he fired at the animal. But, that didn't put the dog down. There were nine shots (in total) fired altogether.

After the animal was seriously wounded, "rather than let the dog lay there and suffer by bleeding to death, he used two other shots to put the dog out of its misery."

Canton bowler rolls in tri-city women's hall of fame

By W.W. Edgar staff writer

In appreciation for her many years of service in the development of women's bowling, Leota J. Begin has been honored by the Tri-Women's Bowling Association.

At the group's annual meeting, she was inducted into the Tri-City Women's Association Hall of Fame. With this ceremony, she became the second woman to be so honored.

Bowling for 40 years, the Cantonite helped to organize the association 25 years ago and has served in almost every capacity to help make it one of the best women's groups in Michigan.

Aside from the local groups she also has been active in the Michigan State and the Women's International Association. Not satisfied with the services she rendered to those groups, she also organized the local Queen's Tournament that is growing each year and has been active on the national bowling scene, too.

Along with her work in these groups, Begin has helped other associations and has worked closely with the Detroit Women's Bowling Association.

She has been honored by having the top award in the Queen's tournament named the Leota J. Begin Award. This was the first of its kind for the growing event.

Begin also helps organize the women's main group in the area, and has made possible the Tri-City Mixed Doubles tournament that boosts the rivalry among the women bowlers.

She has been bowling for 40 years and when the women's ranks grew in the area tennis game, she was one of the first to start action for the organization of the Tri-City group. She has served in most of its offices and has been an officer of many leagues.

Rape case dropped against Canton man

A rape charge against David Cushman of Canton was dismissed Thursday after the woman who accused him failed to appear at his trial in Wayne County Circuit Court, according to Canton police Detective Rene LeBlanc.

The woman, 18 years old and from Canton, said she was forced at gunpoint into a car in the K mart parking lot at Ford and Sheldon roads in Canton last March.

The woman told police she was walking to her car when a man approached her and asked her if she wanted a ride. She said she refused and the man got out of the car and said he had a gun.

The woman gave police a license plate number which was the same as that of Cushman's 1976 silver Oldsmobile Cutlass. He was arrested at his Canton residence within an hour after the woman said the incident occurred.

Prior to Thursday's court date, the defense attorney requested Cushman take a polygraph test. Cushman passed the test, which involved questions about the gun, LeBlanc said.

The woman, who lives near Joy and Sheldon roads, had agreed to take a polygraph test then declined to have it administered.

Cushman was bound over for Wayne Circuit Court trial from 35th District Court where he entered a plea of not guilty to the first degree criminal sexual conduct.

WHEN "EVERYTHING HURTS"

If you have arthritis, you may have experienced episodes of pain that were more than flares of joint discomfort. During such episodes, the pain was continuous and present in every bone and joint.

How should you respond when such pain strikes? First, increase your daily rest time, apply heat to the joints in the form of moist towels, hot showers, or paraffin baths. Third, in so far as possible, attempt to minimize physical and emotional stress.

Your physician may increase your aspirin dose to tolerance, or initiate additional medicine to supplement your regular anti-inflammatory medication.

In addition, he or she may inject steroids in several joints at the same visit, or undertake repeat injection in a single joint at several consecutive appointments. The pain takes precedence over arbitrary limits on injection therapy.

Once pain control is achieved, a return to normal therapy usually proves satisfactory.

WHIPLASH

Whiplash injuries can result from a sudden backward and forward whipping movement of the neck, caused by an auto collision, a fall, a powerful slap on the back, or even a violent sneeze. The ligaments and muscles controlling the spinal segments are stretched or sprained allowing the vertebrae to slip into abnormal positions. Nerves are then "pinched" or irritated, giving rise to headaches, nausea, dizziness and other pain.

SPINAL DEGENERATION

WHEN YOUR SPINE IS INJURED IT BEGINS TO DEGENERATE.

Almost everyone has had at one point in their lives some strain, pull, fall or injury that involves their spine.

These traumas cause your vertebrae to be altered from their normal position. This can happen without spinal pain. From that initial injury, your spine begins to degenerate as time passes.

The spine goes through four phases of degeneration. These phases can be determined with x-ray and are pictured below.

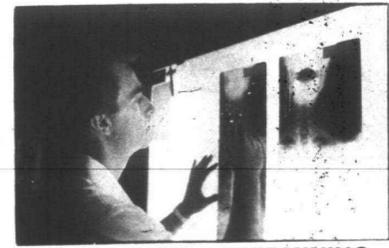

UNDER EACH PICTURE ARE THE LENGTH OF DEGENERATION & THE TIME REQUIRED FOR CORRECTION (EXAMPLE: PHASE II, 20-40 YEARS OF DEGENERATION, 1 1/2 to 2 1/2 YEARS TO CORRECT)

The only means of stopping the degeneration is to move the vertebrae back to their original position. This is done with chiropractic spinal adjustments.

If the degeneration progresses to the latter phases, it may not be correctable. A simple x-ray can detect degeneration and chiropractic adjustments can halt and many times reverse the process.

The adjustment technique Dr. Mashike uses is low force resulting in safe recovery without pain. Don't neglect your spine, it's your lifeline.

Next week we will discuss the effects of degeneration on the nervous system.

Hot air balloon photo contest to fly

The Observer Newspapers once again will sponsor a color photo contest in conjunction with the 1985 Mayflower Hot Air Balloon Festival.

As in past years, the winning entry will be published in full color on Page 1A of the Plymouth Observer and Canton Observer in the fall.

The contest is sponsored by the Canton and Plymouth Observer newspapers with co-sponsors being Quicksilver One Hour Photo, 1313 Ann Arbor Road in Plymouth, and the Mayflower Hotel.

A major change in the competition this year is that the contest will be for color prints instead of slides as in past years. As with slides, the prints entered will become the property of Observer and Eccentric Newspapers and will not be returned.

Anyone wanting to retain a personal copy should have an extra print made before submitting their entry for the contest.

All entries should have the name, address and phone number of the photographer placed on the back of the print. Persons are advised to keep the negative of their entry on file so it can be submitted if they end up a winner.

Photographs must be taken in the Plymouth-Canton area during the three-day festival, Friday through Sunday, July 5-7.

The deadline to submit entries is 5 p.m. Friday, July 19. Entries may be mailed or delivered in person to the Observer Newspapers at 489 S. Main, Plymouth. Questions may be directed to Marybeth Dillon Ward, editor of the Canton Observer, or to Emory Daniels, editor of the Plymouth Observer, at 459-2700.

The first-place winner, in addition to having his/her photo printed on Page 1A of the Canton and Plymouth Observers, will receive a weekend for two in the Mayflower Hotel, $25 cash, a 16-by-20-inch framed copy of their entry, two rolls of film and free processing from Quicksilver.

The second-place winner will receive a framed 11-by-14-inch enlargement of their entry, a roll of film and free processing from Quicksilver, $25 cash, and free Sunday Brunch for four in the Mayflower Meeting House.

Third-place winner will receive an 8-by-10-inch framed enlargement of their entry, a roll of film and free processing from Quicksilver, and Sunday dinner for four at the Mayflower Hotel.

Honorable mentions will receive free processing for one roll of film from Quicksilver and a meal pass for two offered.

"In our other contests we have eliminated from consideration readers who use prints rather than slides. In the past year, our papers have successfully used color prints for our page one color reproductions and so it is now possible to switch to a print competition. Hopefully, even more of our readers can be involved this year."

Law seeks to put check on licensing

By Deb Sherman
staff writer

The Department of Licensing and Regulation, which presently regulates over 40 professions, is proposing to prohibit from administering any new licensing programs for two years if legislation co-sponsored by Rep. Gerald H. Law, R-Plymouth, is passed.

The bill proposes placing a temporary moratorium on new occupational licenses and requires an evaluation of present licensing acts every 10 years by a proposed joint committee.

"The main reason for having licenses is for consumer protection, but the state simply can't investigate all of the complaints that are coming in because there is a lack of personnel. The complaints are snowballed. We can barely check on malpractice complaints," said Law, vice chairman of the Committee of State Affairs.

LAW SAID the moratorium would give the department time to review all of the groups presently licensed and make an evaluation of whether they do in fact protect the consumer. Law said regulation of some groups, such as massage parlor operators, should be abolished so more attention could be afforded to the more critical areas, such as health and public safety.

"But, once we give someone a license under the due process of the American democracy, we can't just take it away," he said. "The problem is that too many groups are coming to State Affairs wanting licensure and we're trying to deal with each individually — we just don't have the personnel to handle the paperwork involved," Law said.

State employees have been cut, and they're not being replaced. Law said state employees have decreased from 70,000 to 50,000 over the last five years. As a result, the more licenses granted, the less protection the consumer is actually getting.

"Doctors are able to hold on to their licenses for years after wrongdoing because there are so many complaints and so few people to investigate," he said. "There really isn't any consumer protection in licensure anymore."

A LICENSE SHOWS the operator has completed the education and the bare requirements necessary to obtain the license, Law said.

"But a license holder could be the worst operator in the world," he added.

The offer is being made to encourage participation in the Child Identification Program which urges parents to have their children fingerprinted and photographed.

Free fingerprinting is done on a periodic basis at the Plymouth Police Department.

The free ID Photos will be offered from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. tomorrow and Saturday, June 29, to anyone 16 or younger accompanied by an adult to Quicksilver, 1313 Ann Arbor Road between Main and Sheldon in Plymouth.

Store-made cones: new handle on ice cream

By W.W. Edger
staff writer

Some months ago, Mrs. Kris Umstead, a resident of Canton, had a hunch that if she offered something different in refreshments in the new Churchtown Square in Plymouth, she could make a success of the venture.

So she set about baking her own ice cream cones right in the shop when they became the first tenants in the attractive commercial center on Main Street.

She now bakes two kinds of cones. She specializes in a rich chocolate cone that is made to look like a breakfast waffle that has been folded. With that, she bakes a waffle cone — just plain — and then uses a special ice cream called Haagen-Dazs that is imported from New Jersey.

WITH COMPLETE faith in her hunch, she opened the ice cream parlor last December. Realizing the dead of winter was a rather poor time to attract ice cream cone lovers, she opened anyway. The faith in her hunch is now proving successful.

Each day as the weather warms, the business seems to improve, she said.

The waffle cone — the chocolate type is something new — is helping to prove her faith.

She also serves ice cream in a chocolate waffle dish that holds a gracious portion of the ice cream.

While the chocolate dish is attractive, it is the cone baked right in the shop that proves interesting.

MUCH THE same happens with the chocolate dish. It is baked in a manner to give the customer all the ice cream that ordinarily would fill a dish on the kitchen table.

With these two specialties, she also had a hunch that chocolate candy would be a treat. However, she does not make the candy in the shop.

Another oddity came into being when manager Bacheider said her only experience came when she served as a cross guard during the school year. But she likes the change.

WHILE BUSINESS is good now, the women are looking for an increase when the old Kroger Store, now idle, is rented again and attracting a flow of people to the grocery market.

"There is a bit of a secret in baking the waffle cones," she said. "The baking is simple. It is the folding or rolling that makes the difference and eliminates all chance of leaking."

Hold the pickles

The world record for hamburger consumption was set back in 1979 by Alan Peterson of Longview, Wash. In half an hour, he managed to wolf down 20 1/2 hamburgers (weighing 3 1/2 ounces each, for a total of 4 1/2 pounds of meat) plus buns.

A SALUTE TO THE ALL-AMERICAN HERO

Salute your graduate, the All-American Hero, with a party that's sure to be a pleaser. Whether it be a grammar school, high school or college graduation, invite a crowd and plan to serve the best to make your graduate feel like a hero for the day. This menu of sandwiches and refreshing beverages is bound to satisfy any guest from the nibbler to the gobbler!

The fun usually begins after the graduation ceremony, once the diploma's in hand. But preparing the food for this feast can be fun too, especially if you have a few extra hands to help in the kitchen! Party Pinwheel Sandwiches add an elegant touch to the occasion and are so simple to make. Best of all, they can be made ahead of time and frozen until the big day. Thin lengthwise-cut slices of bread are spread with a festive filling mixture of sour cream and onion soup mix and rolled. Be sure to try all four variations to please your hungry crowd!

Super 'n Swift Sandwich, overflowing with favorite deli meats, is the hero sandwich at its best. Layers of four distinctive tasting dry sausages are complimented by a unique dressing brushed over cut sides of the bread. Hard salami, made of selected cuts of beef and pork, has a tangy, smoky flavor with hint of garlic. Genoa salami, made of all pork, contributes a tangy taste similar to that of aged cheese. Peperoni, made of chopped beef and pork, has a prominence of red pepper from hence it gets the name. Originally made only in summer months but now made year long, summer sausage has a smoky flavor with selected spices for enjoyment all year 'round.

Hollowed-out round loaves of bread hold a surprise in Merry-Go-Rounds. Onion soup mix provides the perfect blend of seasonings for a simple bread spread made with sour cream and a hint of mustard. Sliced tomatoes, lettuce, deli ham, turkey deli breast, roast beef, Swiss cheese, green pepper rings and shredded carrots are layered into the bread round for a colorful striped sandwich wedge.

No celebration is complete without a toast to the graduate! Celebration Spritzer is an attractive summer punch combining lemon flavored iced tea mix with NutraSweet, cranberry juice cocktail, pineapple juice and bubbly club soda or sparkling white wine. Float the Fruity Mint Ice Mold in your punch bowl to keep your beverage cold even in the hottest summer weather.

For a different refresher, serve Fruited Tea Cooler, a Sangria-like beverage, that blends lemon flavored iced tea mix with NutraSweet, lime juice, club soda and lots of fresh fruit slices. The iced tea mix, sweetened with NutraSweet instead of sugar or saccharin, delivers that great tea taste that you've come to expect.

So bring on the graduates and throw them a party, they won't soon forget—a festive sandwich party that takes little time to prepare so you can spend most of your time praising your all-American hero!

PARTY PINWHEEL SANDWICHES

- 1 envelope Onion Recipe Soup Mix
 - 1 pint (16 oz.) sour cream
 - 2 loaves unsliced white or pumpernickel bread, sliced lengthwise (8 slices each)
- Festive Fillings*

Blend onion soup mix with sour cream; chill. Trim crust from bread; flatten bread with rolling pin.

Spread one filling mixture evenly on 8 slices of bread; roll, starting at narrow end, jelly-roll style. Wrap in waxed paper or plastic wrap and chill. To serve, cut into 1/4-inch slices. Makes about 10 sandwiches.

*Festive Fillings—Choose Any Two:

Blue Cheese Walnut Filling—Combine 1 cup sour cream mixture, 2 oz. crumbled blue cheese and 1/2 cup finely chopped walnuts.

Fruity Curry Filling—Combine 1 cup sour cream mixture, 3/4 teaspoon curry powder, 1/2 cup raisins, 1/2 cup finely chopped apple and 1 tablespoon milk.

Ham and Cheese Filling—Use 1 cup sour cream mixture. Top each prepared slice with 1 thin slice deli ham, then Swiss or American cheese. Place quartered dill pickle across end of bread; roll up starting at olive end.

Wine, Cheese 'N Olive Filling—Combine 1 cup sour cream mixture, 3/4 cup shredded cheddar cheese and 2 tablespoons red wine. Place 3 ripe olives across one end of each prepared slice; roll up starting at olive end.

FREEZING/THAWING DIRECTIONS: Tightly wrap pinwheels in waxed paper or plastic wrap, then heavy-duty aluminum foil; freeze. To serve, partially thaw frozen rolls; unwrap and cut into 1/4-inch slices. Continue thawing at room temperature for 1 hour.

SUPER 'N SWIFT SANDWICH

- 1/4 pound hard salami
- 1/4 pound Genoa salami
- 1/4 pound summer sausage
- 1/4 pound peperoni
- 2/3 cup olive oil
- 1/3 cup stuffed green olives, chopped
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 2 tablespoons grated parmesan cheese
- 1 tablespoon minced parsley
- 1 teaspoon lemon juice
- 1 loaf Italian bread (about 15 in. long), sliced lengthwise
- Leaf lettuce, tomato and onion slices

Combine oil, olives, garlic, cheese, parsley and lemon juice in glass jar. Shake and let stand several hours or overnight. Spoon over cut sides of bread. Layer meats, lettuce, tomatoes and onions on bottom half of bread. Top with remaining bread half. Slice and serve. Makes about 8 servings; 1 cup dressing.

MERRY-GO-ROUNDS

- 1 envelope Onion Recipe Soup Mix
- 1 pint (16 oz.) sour cream
- 2 tablespoons prepared mustard
- 2 loaves unsliced round bread (about 9-inch diameter)
- 2 tomatoes, sliced
- 4 cups shredded lettuce
- 1/2 pound Deli Ham
- 1/2 pound turkey deli breast
- 1/2 pound sliced cooked roast beef
- 1/2 pound sliced Swiss cheese
- 2 green peppers, cut into rings
- 4 carrots, shredded

In medium bowl, combine onion soup mix with sour cream and mustard; chill.

Cut thin lengthwise slice off top of each bread; reserve tops. Hollow out center of each bread, leaving 1/2-inch shell. Spread 1/2 cup mixture into bottom of each shell; top with tomato and lettuce. Into each shell, evenly layer ham, turkey, roast beef, cheese, green pepper and carrots; top with remaining 1/2 cup mixture. To serve, replace reserved tops and cut into wedges. Makes about 12 servings.

CELEBRATION SPRITZER

- 3/4 cup Lemon Flavored Iced Tea
- Mix with NutraSweet
- 4 cups water
- 3 cups cranberry juice cocktail
- 3 cups unsweetened pineapple juice
- 3 cups club soda or 1 bottle (4/5 qt.) sparkling white wine
- Fruity Mint Ice Mold*

In punch bowl, combine all ingredients except club soda; chill. Just before serving, add club soda and Fruity Mint Ice Mold. Makes about 20 (5 oz.) servings.

*Fruity Mint Ice Mold:

In ring mold or bowl, add water to cover bottom; partially freeze. Arrange sliced orange, lemon, lime, strawberries and mint leaves; freeze in place. Fill with water and freeze.

FRUITED TEA COOLER

- 3/4 cup Lemon Flavored Iced Tea
- Mix with NutraSweet
- 1-1/2 quarts water
- 1/4 cup lime juice
- 1-1/2 cups sliced fresh fruit
- 1 cup club soda, chilled

In large pitcher, combine all ingredients except soda. Just before serving, add soda. Serve with ice. Makes about 8 servings.

A dessert party is the best kind for any occasion

Whether it is a graduation, wedding, family reunion, or no occasion at all, a dessert party makes for a sweet celebration. A fantasy come true, a dessert party appeals to the young and the young at heart. It's an easy way to entertain a large group since much of the work can be done ahead. And for the party giver on a budget, it is an economical alternative to a full meal. Because the dessert party is not bound by any rules, the timing can be flexible. Mid to late afternoon seems to work well for a weekend party. On a weeknight, invite guests for 8:30 or 9 p.m. and suggest they eat lightly. Or, schedule the party following an activity such as a concert, softball game or movie. The menu is limited only by the imagination, but the most irresistible dessert table appeals to both the eye and the palate. Guests will want to sample most, if not all, of the confections. So, you'll want to include variety in texture, color and flavor and keep portions small. It's also a thoughtful idea to include at least one "light" dessert. A watermelon boat filled with fresh summer fruits or a tart lemon mousse are refreshing as well as easy-on-the-budget. The number of desserts depends upon the number of guests. If the guest list numbers 20 or more, plan on eight to 10 desserts. For a small group, three or four choices will be ample. Regardless of the number, select recipes with an eye toward convenience.

Choose one really spectacular dessert to serve as the "star" of the table. Surround the "star" with a supporting cast of easy sweet treats. The quickest desserts combine something homemade with a ready prepared food. Ice cream, for example, is a budget buy throughout the summer, and it can be paired with homemade toppings and an assortment of cookies.

Save more time by using convenience food products to create impressive "made from scratch" desserts. Old-fashioned shortcake, filled with summer's ripest fruits and topped with softly whipped cream, is made extra easy with complete pancake mix. The mix contains most of the basics, so few ingredients are needed to prepare luscious cakes, cobblers and dessert crepes.

Because shortcake is best served warm, measure ingredients in advance. Just before guests arrive, mix and bake. Accompany the warm cake squares with sliced peaches or nectarines, budget buys during June and July.

- SUMMER SHORTCAKES
4 1/2 cups fresh sliced peaches or nectarines
1/4 cup sugar
2 1/2 cups complete pancake and waffle mix
1/2 cup water
3 tbsps. margarine, melted
1 tsp. vanilla
Non-dairy whipped topping or sweetened whipped cream
Combine peaches and 1/4 cup sugar; mix well. Cover; chill about 1 hour.
Heat oven to 425 degrees. Grease 8-inch square baking pan. Combine remaining 1/4 cup sugar, pancake mix, water, margarine and vanilla; mix just until dry ingredients are moistened. Form dough into a ball; knead 8 to 10 times. Press into prepared pan. Bake 18 to 20 minutes or until wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean. Immediately remove from pan; cool on wire cooling rack about 15 minutes.
To serve, slice warm shortcake into 8 servings. Cut each serving crosswise into 2 layers. Place 1/4 cup peaches over each bottom layer; top with remaining shortcake layer and additional 1/4 cup fruit. Dollop each with whipped topping; 8 servings.
- FRUITED CREAM PUFFS
1 pint vanilla or strawberry ice cream
2 1/2 cups sliced sweetened strawberries
Heat oven to 375 degrees. Bring water and margarine to a boil. Add pancake mix, stirring vigorously until mixture leaves sides of pan and forms a ball. Remove from heat; add eggs, 1 at a time, beating well after each addition. Drop batter by tablespoonfuls, 2 inches apart, onto ungreased cookie sheet. Bake 25 to 30 minutes or until golden brown. Remove from cookie rack; cool completely on wire cooling rack. Slice tops off cooled cream puffs; fill with small scoop of ice cream. To serve, top each cream puff with 1/4 cup strawberries; 10 filled cream puffs.

Space shuttle cooking is a little out of the ordinary

The Space Shuttle has opened an entirely new era in space flight and includes a new system of feeding the crew. Shelf life, storage temperature, volume and weight have been primary considerations in developing the food system for the Shuttle. But so have nutrition, variety and palatability. Even in orbit, it should be hard to take shrimp cocktail, beef steak, rice pilaf, broccoli au gratin and butterscotch pudding. They were on one of the dinner menus during Columbia's first flight. A recent Journal of the American Dietetic Association reveals fascinating details of the Shuttle food system and the Shuttle Galley to be installed when Operations Missions begin. Connie R. Stadler, a registered dietitian at Technology Inc., Houston, was team dietitian for the challenging job of providing a safe and nutritious food supply for Columbia that could be manipulated with ease in the low-gravity environment. Although individual menus have been designed for each astronaut on all previous U.S. manned space missions, preassembled standard menus providing three meals and supplying 3,000 calories per person per day will be used on all Shuttle flights. When Shuttle is fully operational there could be up to one flight per week. The logistics involved in processing, testing, packaging and storing the food aboard the spacecraft make individualized menus impossible when turnaround time is so short. During all previous manned missions, crew members were required to make final menu selections from three to six months before launch. To accommodate individual food preferences during flight when a standardized menu is used, a pantry selected and approved by the crew for each mission is provided to supplement the menu. The pantry's main purpose is to serve as a contingency food supply in case of emergency but, on a normal mission, pantry items may be exchanged for menu items if a crew member prefers.

Microwave a quick sandwich

A hot sandwich from the microwave can become a quick, easy meal. Use the following guidelines from the Banquet Foods Test Kitchens to help you prepare sandwiches with ease.

- Most sandwiches can be microwaved on high or full power. A sandwich with a delicate ingredient such as eggs, should be prepared on a lower power setting. Check your oven manufacturer's cookbook for the exact setting.
- When heating a whole sandwich, wrap in microwaveable paper towels to prevent the top from drying out and the bottom of the sandwich from becoming soggy.
- Using dry or day old bread or buns in the microwave will not only freshen them but will also help prevent sogginess.
- Heat sandwiches just until they feel warm to the touch. Overheated bread or buns will become rubbery and tough very quickly.
- Sandwich fillings can be made quickly in the microwave to melt cheese, heat toppings and the bun.

Phone workers honored for saving child's life

Treva LaBelle of Canton and Edith Magnone of Plymouth were honored last week for saving the life of a 12½-month-old Lambertville child on March 18.

Lillian Lynch, general manager of operator services for AT&T Communications' Central Region, presented the Lifesaver Award to LaBelle and Magnone in the west office at the operator services center on Ann Arbor Road in Plymouth.

Operator LaBelle won't forget the call she got at work March 19 at about 8:40 a.m. A woman, sounding hysterical, said her grandson had stopped breathing.

Keeping the woman on the line, LaBelle immediately called the Lambertville Fire Department and then instructed the woman on cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR).

In the meantime, Magnone, a service assistant, went to LaBelle's assistance. When the customer said the baby (Michael Tschappat) was going into convulsions, Magnone instructed LaBelle to tell the customer to turn the baby on his side and put a spoon in his mouth to prevent the child from swallowing his tongue.

LaBelle continued CPR instructions when, suddenly, the baby began to cry. Moments later, the rescue squad from the Lambertville Fire Department arrived on the scene and credited the LaBelle's and Magnone's quick actions for saving the baby's life.

The next day, the customer called AT&T Communications, called LaBelle's and Magnone's extraordinary service to the company's attention. The award, established in 1984, honors operators in the five-state Central Region territory who use unusual initiative and thought while on the job to save a person's life.

LaBelle and Magnone are the first two Lifesaver Award winners in Plymouth, and the second and third in Michigan. LaBelle is an operator in the Plymouth center and Magnone a Plymouth service assistant. Also attending the ceremony were Charles Thomas, area manager of operator services, Detroit, and John Dave, district manager of operator services, Plymouth.

AT&T Communications is the AT&T entity responsible for long-distance and international services.

Model hopes competition leads to modeling contract

Plymouth model Jailey Philpot hopes to become a superstar covergirl during "Look of the Year" competition on the island of Mauritius in the Indian Ocean this week.

The winner will walk away with a $200,000 modeling contract. Philpot, 13, a student at Fairlane Christian School, recently received a two-foot trophy from her eighth grade graduating class for getting all A's on her report card.

She is a musician, with seven years of piano study, an athlete on the track team who won two first-place ribbons at a recent meet, one in high jumping and one in hurdles, and a licensed amateur radio operator.

Philpot was discovered at the Look of the Year Model Search Contest held at Fairlane Town Center, sponsored by the John Casablancas Model Management and Career Center, Plymouth. Casablancas, president of Elite Model Management, said the competition was the most extensive model search ever conducted.

The Look of the Year will award $1 million in Elite modeling contracts during award ceremonies June 26. "Advertisers are always looking for fresh, new talent," said Casablancas. "The Look of the Year provides the very best from around the world. THIS IS the third year of Look of the Year competition. The international pageant began June 15 and will end June 30.

Sixty finalists will be judged by a panel from the fashion, entertainment and modeling industries. The judges have included Julio Iglesias, designers Kenzo and Azzedine Alaia, and Elite models Carol Alt, Kim Alexis and Kelly Emberg.

Philpot won the competition at Fairlane and received an all-expenses-paid trip to Acapulco to compete in the North America Look of the Year.

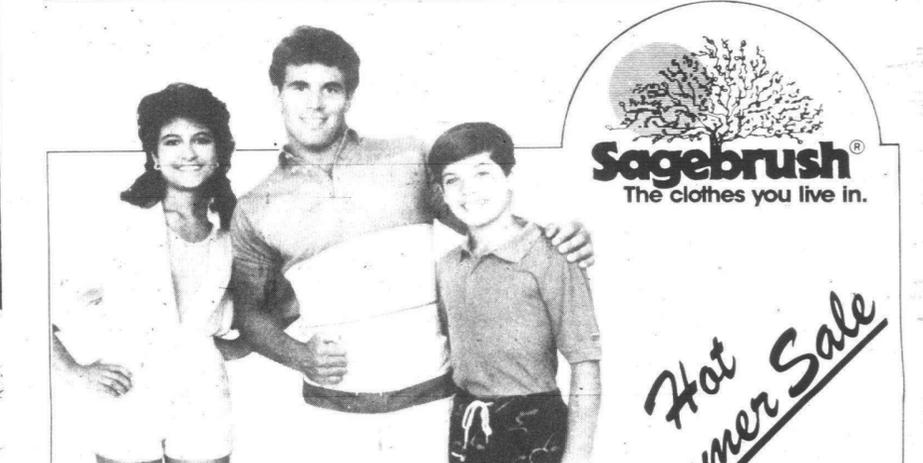

Philpot won that contest and qualified for the finals at Mauritius. She also attended a model hunt held at the John Casablancas Center in Plymouth, where Elite agents suggested that she spend two weeks in New York this summer for testing.

Bernadette (she uses only her first name), the director of the Casablancas Center, said New York is looking for girls who are at least 5 feet, eight inches tall and have well-proportioned bodies, long legs, long necks and photogenic faces - or what she calls "New York potential."

"If all goes well for Jailey, she may be the next Kim Alexis or Kelly Emberg," said Bernadette. "Jailey is not just beautiful, she is a whiz kid, scholastically," she said.

Old college gang acts like teen-agers

Given the movies' view of our culture, apparently no one grows up easily — or well — these days.

"St. Elmo's Fire" is "The Big Chill" for adolescents, with an engaging young cast hanging out for an hour and a half feeling sorry for itself. Self-pity is not a noble emotion, particularly when emitted by a group that has a lot going for it.

The self-pity and the immaturity of "St. Elmo's Fire" spoil what might have been a pleasant film. "Hi-Jinks Among the Freshman Class" is my suggested title, but I find it extremely difficult to believe these characters are college graduates. Georgetown University, no less.

The film begins with a flashback to graduation as the seven close friends and lovers of undergraduate days are struggling to grow up in their various employments during the first year after graduation.

SORTING OUT who was doing what to whom, or dreaming about it, takes a little doing. In this corner, decorating their incredible Hollywood-style apartment/barn/loft are the set-piece lovers: Alex (Judd Nelson) and Leslie (Ally Sheedy). She's content to live with him, but he wants to get married. I don't know who is supporting whom (psychologically as well as financially), but someone had a bundle to afford that apartment.

Meanwhile, back in his 19th-century angst, Kevin (Andrew McCarthy) pines for the love of Leslie while he struggle to express the true meaning of life, when he's not writing obituaries for the Washington newspaper where he works.

Wendy (Mare Winningham), the welfare worker, is also forlorn. She has two men to contend with, her father, Mr. Beamish (Martin Balsam), who is overly protective, and Billy (Rob Lowe), the wild and carefree saxophone player.

Balsam plays the role with a vague aura of wonder at how he got involved with all these self-destructive teenieboppers and with a convincing air of dyspepsia.

Billy is an interesting character. He's married to Felicia (Jenny Wright) because they had a kid. He doesn't seem to know she's alive until he sees her with another guy. As far as Wendy's lost love for him, Billy's out to lunch. He's really most interested in Julie (Demi Moore), the friend in the fast lane, snorting coke and swinging with her boss.

BUT WAIT, there's one more: Kirbo (Emilio Estevez), the would-be law student and waiter at St. Elmo's, the bar where they all spent their undergraduate days. He spends much of his time chasing an older gal, a med student, Dale (Andie MacDowell), who really isn't interested.

The only thing to be said for Kirbo is that his self-destructive tendencies are directed outside the group whereas everyone else is picking at a friend or two. If these guys are buddies, I'd hate to see what they do to the opposition.

Meanwhile Columbia Pictures is gearing up for a big summer at the box office with a music video featuring the film's stars along with rock singer John Parr, as well as a single and a soundtrack album, all due out the week before the national release of the film on Friday.

Music videos and heavy emphasis on record albums match the teen age interest level the film maintains throughout. It probably will be successful with that crowd, although "St. Elmo's Fire" lacks the style, humor and maturity of Rob Reiner's recent success, "A Sure Thing." And Reiner's characters are only freshmen.

The most mature moment in "St. Elmo's Fire" comes when Billy explains the great symbolic meaning of the title.

His explanation is sophomoric.

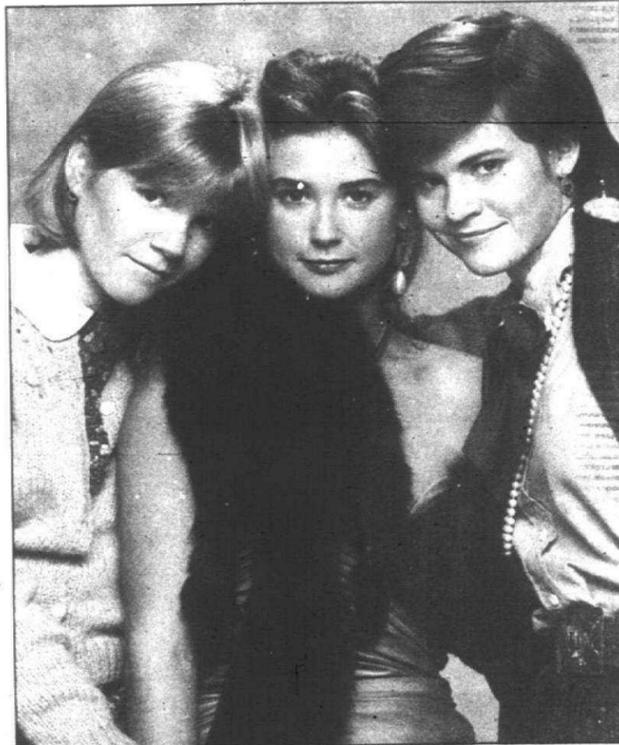

Portraying graduates of Georgetown University, who examine how their lives have changed since college, are Andrew McCarthy (left), Emilio Estevez, Judd Nelson and Rob Lowe.

Area preps: high caliber

By Brad Emons
staff writer

THIS WAS THE baseball year when father met son, Salem beat Canton and Thurston defended.

Farmington Harrison got off to a slow start this season, but picked up steam in the district and regionals, advancing to the state Class A semifinals before losing to Jenison, 9-1.

Harrison, which featured second baseman Ken George, got by dad Jim George and his cinderella Livonia Stevenson team in the regional, before upsetting Plymouth Canton, which advanced to the final by beating defending state champion Walled Lake Western.

ALTHOUGH CANTON was state-ranked much of the season, it was neighbor Plymouth Salem which won the Western Lakes Conference with a 12-1 record.

Redford Thurston, meanwhile, couldn't defend its Class B state crown, but played well enough to repeat as Northwest Suburban League champs.

Redford Catholic Central also enjoyed a big year, racking up 20 victories, but played second fiddle to Birmingham Brother Rice and Class A champion Harper Woods Bishop Gallagher in the Catholic League.

Area coaches gathered recently to rehash the season and select the top individual talent in the area. Many votes were close. Here are the results:

PITCHERS

Mark Coburn, senior, Plymouth Canton: A transfer from Redford Bishop Borgess, Coburn was the Chiefs' ace in '85, posting a 7-2 record with three saves.

In 63 innings, the lefty struck out 65 batters, walked only 20 and had an earned run average of 1.00.

The all-Western Division pick used a variety of pitches, according to his coach, Fred Crissey.

"Mark can change speeds and throw strikes," Crissey said. "He's a gamer."
Coburn has a full tender to Kansas City Community College.

Steve Irwin, junior, Westland John

all-area baseball

Glenn: The hard-throwing right-hander with a sweeping curve went 6-3 this season with a 1.89 ERA.

Also voted first team all-Northwest Suburban, Irwin pitched 48 innings, striking out 84 and walking 27. He also had two saves for the Rockets.

Coach Norm Hoene of Glenn will be delighted with the return of the talented junior, whose brother Jim was an all-Mid American Conference player at Eastern Michigan University.

CATCHER

Ed Turek, senior, Catholic Central: Turek led the Shamrocks with 24 walks and 35 RBI in 30 ballgames.

He batted .416 with 10 extra base hits — six doubles, one triple and three home runs.

Turek was voted all-Catholic in both baseball and football.

At CC, he was also voted the school's outstanding scholar-athlete.

INFIELDERS

Chris Kloc, junior, Redford Thurston: Kloc played first base and pitched for the Eagles, excelling in both areas.

He collected 25 hits in 71 at-bats this season for a .352 average. Kloc also doubled seven times and scored 20 runs.

As a pitcher he went 7-2 with a 2.19 ERA, making All-Northwest Suburban honors.

"Chris is an outstanding defensive player," said Thurston coach Emil Majeski. "He can play any position on the baseball field."

Bob Chwalk, senior, North Farmington: Chwalk, like Kloc, played both first base and pitched.

In 55 at-bats, the 6-foot-4 senior collected 23 hits for a .418 average. His on-base average was .508, striking out just six times.

"Bob is a consistent player who made only one error all year," said North coach Irv Horwitz. "He also won three ballgames for us as a pitcher."

John Stoitsiads, senior, Livonia Churchill: Stoitsiads played second base primarily for the Chargers, batting .437 with 31 hits, five homers and 25 RBI.

Salem; Mike Kesson, Salem; John Stoitsiads, Churchill; Mark Coburn, Canton; Chris Kloc, Thurston; and Ed Turek, Catholic Central.

He also scored 26 runs and collected 13 extra base hits.

The first team all-Western Lakes Conference pick was called "a tremendous competitor" by his coach, Herb Osterland.

"John hits with power and has good foot speed," said the Churchill coach. "He was an extremely tough hitter in the clutch."

Stoitsiads was also an All-Area football player. He is headed for Northwood Institute.

Brian Smolinski, junior, Farmington Harrison: A shortstop, Smolinski became one of the area's most-feared hitters.

He hit .411 with 35 hits, including eight homers, three triples and seven doubles. He also swiped 17 bases and tied teammate John Miller for the RBI lead with 19.

"Brian is the best player in Harrison history and has a year to go," said Hawks' coach John Herrington. "He has great range in the field and excellent power at the plate."
"Brian holds almost all the Harrison ofensive records, except stolen bases, which he should break next year."

Dave Dziobak, senior, Redford Thurston: The shortstop was dubbed "Mr. Smooth" by coach Majeski.

A starter on last year's state championship club, Dziobak enjoyed a big senior year, batting .403 with 29 hits, 18 RBI and 24 runs.

He struck out only three times and collected 10 extra base hits.

Dziobak was also team captain and team MVP, along with reaping all-Northwest Suburban League honors.

"Dave is an outstanding defensive shortstop with an excellent arm," Majeski said. Sporting a 3.86 grade point average, Dziobak is a merit scholar who will attend Wayne State.

OUTFIELDERS

Ken Gendjar, junior, Livonia Churchill: In only his first year on the varsity,

Brian Smolinski Harrison

Gendjar sported the area's highest batting average (.467), collecting 35 hits in 75 plate appearances.

The speedy center fielder, scored 25 runs.

Steve Irwin John Glenn

knocked in 11 and swiped five bases. Gendjar was voted team MVP and carries a 4.0 grade point average.

Blood was spilled, bones cracked, bruises sustained. Tears were shed, pride salvaged. And a good time was had by all.

The Observer & Eccentric Girls High School Soccer Classic, in its third year, reached a new level of intensity Friday night as the Eccentric (Oakland County) All-Stars snapped a two-game losing streak with a 4-4 tie against the Observer All-Stars (Wayne County).

The game, played on Oakland County turf for the first time at Troy Athens, attracted 332 fans. They saw a spirited contest.

The Eccentric team, coached by Athens' coach Tim Storch, took a dead-serious approach. The squad played as if it had something to prove. The message was this: We can play a little soccer here in Oakland County, too.

THE ATMOSPHERE in the Observer camp was, to say the least, a bit lighter. The team met just once in preparation of the game. Seven of the players, the Livonia Stevenson contingent, had graduation services and an all-night party on the eve of the contest.

The first half was a direct reflection of the teams' pregame mental set. The Eccentric team came out on fire and dominated play. They outshot Observerland 7-5 and outscored them 3-0.

"No. 1, they have a very good passing team," said Observerland and Stevenson coach Norene Divens. "They played together very well. It was obvious that they had practiced together a few times. We only got together once and nine girls showed up."

Storch said his team took advantage of two things in the first half: the wind, which was at Eccentric's back, and Observerland's three-man defensive wall.

"It is very, very hard to succeed with three people in the back on a wide field like this one," he said. "We had luck attacking and penetrating the spaces. We used the wide field to our advantage."

CINDY WASS, from Athens, scored the game's first goal, taking a long pass from Marian's Kate Ferguson.

Unfortunately for Eccentric, Wass, a 35-goal scorer, injured her right ankle on the play and was taken to the hospital. Preliminary diagnosis indicated tendon damage and a possible fracture.

"The key for us was losing Cindy Wass," Storch said. "Without her out there, we had to do a lot of different things."

Her loss wasn't an immediate factor, however. Three minutes after the first goal, Troy's Emily Riemer fired a shot that Observer goalie Kim Owings mishandled. Marian's Betsy Clement fired the rebound into the goal.

"Soon after, Liz Suttie scored on a penalty kick, bouncing it in off Owings, and Eccentric took a 3-0 lead into halftime.

"I WASN'T worried," Divens said. "I knew we could come back and I told the kids that at halftime. We had many opportunities to score in the first half, five I can think of off hand, and we just missed."

It was a much more inspired Observer squad that came out in the second half as evidenced by a 13-2 shots-on-goal edge.

Eccentric goalie Lisa Riker appeared unbeatable until Observer was awarded two penalty kicks (again, the intensity factor comes into play; both teams played an aggressive game).

Paco Divens, who played goal much of the game, has never missed a penalty kick in her three-year high school career. She was dead perfect on her two chances Friday — bringing Observerland back into contention.

All-stater Mary Kay Hussey, playing in her third Classic, had done everything but put the ball in the goal for Observerland. She was robbed by Riker three times, misfired on a couple and hit the post once. Finally, with 9:20 left in the match, she took a pretty pass from Stevenson teammate Danielle Montroy and tied the game, making a pretty move around an Eccentric defender.

Cindy Wass of Troy Athens streaks in for the Eccentric All-Stars' first goal, but paid the price, going down with an injury on the play. The Observer All-Stars' Danielle Montroy of Livonia Stevenson trails the play during first half action.

LESS THAN a minute later, Suttie made a couple of nice moves through the Observer defense and drilled a 25-footer into the top right corner past Divens. Eccentric 4, Observer 3.

Again, Observerland called on an all-stater to take charge. Mercy's Annette Ruggiero, last year's Classic MVP who played a flawless match, lofted a high, arching shot from 20 yards that got behind Riker.

The game. No losers. Very appropriate.

"I don't consider this a victory," Storch said. "But, I'm certainly not disappointed. We've been blown out twice in this series, so personally, I'm very pleased with the outcome. But, the girls realize that when you blow a three-goal lead you can't feel too good."

The heroes for the Eccentric side were many. Co-Most Valuable Player Award went to Birmingham Seaholm's Katie Andese, who helped Eccentric control the tempo of the game in the first half. Carol Grenn was outstanding on defense, stealing a couple of goals from Observerland with goal-mouth saves.

Suttie, with her two goals, and Emily

Riemer, with her numerous fast-break chances, were also standouts.

For the Observerland, Stevenson's Lisa Broccardo was named co-MVP. She almost single-handedly shut down the Eccentric fastbreak in the second half. Ruggiero and Hussey more than lived up to their all-state status, and Mercy's Margaret DeMattia gave Observerland some strong midfield play in the second half.

Hussey, bruised and exhausted, turned to a reporter afterward and said, "This is a great game. Don't let anyone take it away."

Coaches miffed at '86 schedules

Nobody said administering a 12-team athletic conference would be easy. Some initial headaches have already been sustained by Western Lakes Activities Association athletic directors.

The Western Lakes will sport a new alignment next year with the additions of North Farmington, Livonia Franklin and Westland John Glenn, and the elimination of Livonia Bentley. Instead of two five-team divisions, the WLAA will feature a pair of six-team divisions.

The league's AD's met in late May to begin hammering out schedules for the 1986 prep sport's season. All seemed well until the baseball schedules were drafted.

"I TELL you, I'm very upset by this," said Plymouth Canton baseball coach Fred Crissey. "And I'm not just speaking for myself or for Canton. I guess I'm the voice of all 12 coaches. There's no way we can continue to compete on a state level without being able to play people outside the area."

"All we have left (under the new schedule) is two dates. This means we have to drop a tournament out of our schedule or drop a rivalry game that we've built up over the years. We're very limited."

The solution offered by the coaches was to have a crossover (Lakes Division vs. Western Division) games Monday, Wednesday and Friday early in the season. Then play intra-division games in a series of double-headers. The double-headers would open up dates on the schedule for tournaments and non-league games.

The athletic directors said the coaches' proposal came to them too late to be given full consideration.

"We tried to follow the wishes of the baseball coaches," said Livonia Stevenson AD Roger Frayer. "I understand that some of the baseball coaches have traditional rivalries and tournaments they play outside the area. I was a baseball coach, too. I've been in the same situation. I had to drop tournaments from my schedule. It's sympathetic. But the conference has to be the top priority."

FRAYER SAID the schedule is supposed to be in place for two years, but he added that he wouldn't be against

"Ken's a very coachable player and possesses excellent foot speed," Osterland said.

Tom Moore, senior, Plymouth Salem: A three-year starter, Moore was instrumental Salem's championship season. He batted .366 overall with 26 hits, including three homers, in 71 at-bats. Moore also knocked in 16 runs and scored 16 runs. He also had four game-winning hits and batted .410 in league play.

"This is the most talented player on a very talented team," said Salem coach John Gravin. "Tom was the player we looked to for leadership. He has great speed and great hands."

Crissey indicated that he might try to swap a home date for a double-header. For example, if Canton has a scheduled home-away series with Farmington, Harrison, Crissey will propose playing a double-header at Harrison, thus opening up a home date on Canton's schedule.

"To be a state contender, or to get state recognition for your kids, you need to get exposure," Crissey said. "You can't do that if you don't play outside the area."

RON HOLLAND, athletic director of the Farmington public schools, doesn't exactly agree with that.

"There are those who would argue that we have one of the toughest baseball conferences in the state right here. You have your hands full with your own conference schedule, you don't need too many more challenges," he said. "There are those who would say that you can't get any better competition than what you have in your own conference. You get through your league and you'll be prepared to go on."

Backing that argument up is the fact that Observersland has placed a team in the final four of the state tournament every year since 1974.

Crissey, though, uses Harrison Junior High as a point of contention for his argument. Smolinski had the least amount of at-bats of those players selected to the 1985 all-state team. He had 35 hits in 87 at-bats. He was being judged against players with close to 200 at-bats.

"The way it is, we'll be lucky to play 20 games a year," Crissey said. "You get teams like Bishop Gallagher playing 50. How can you expect to compete?"

BOTH HOLLAND and Frayer said that teams have the option of scheduling double-headers on crossover games, with the second game not counting on the league record.

The new WLAA alignment will look like this: North Farmington, Livonia Stevenson, Plymouth Salem, Walled Lake Central, John Glenn and Farmington will comprise the Lakes Division while Livonia Franklin, Farmington Harrison, Plymouth Canton, Walled Lake Western, Norville and Livonia Churchill will form the Western Division.

Trainer led Stevenson in hitting with a .375 average (37 for 72). The first team all Western Lakes pick also collected 11 RBI, eight walks and stole five bases.

"When Brian did well, we did well," said Stevenson coach Jim George. "He's a fine example to our younger players because he always works to improve his game."

"Brian was a pleasure to coach and was a big reason why we won 15 games this year."

Darnell ups record to 7-0-1

By Brad Emmons

Steve Darnell is paying his dues as a young professional boxer. "No showery!" the 20-year-old Livonian inquired in the dressing room after his fourth-round KO of Carl Vinson.

"That's a sin I can't go back out there (into the crowd) like this. I'm going to have to take one at a motel down the street."

Darnell was part of a five-bout card put on by Gold Circle Productions Thursday night at Roma's of Bloomfield Hills.

The win vaulted the junior middleweight's pro record to 7-0-1, four of those victories resulting in knockouts.

"Most of my knockouts have come from shots to the body," Darnell said. "I got him (Vinson) in his own corner and hit him with a straight left to the solarplexus. I heard a thump and then it was over."

"It was nice when he went down. I thank God he went down."

Vinson, a 30-year-old Detroit, looked better than his 2-2 record, especially in the early going of the scheduled six-rounder.

Darnell took a number of shots in the first round and was partially stunned by a Vinson right in the second round.

"I SAID to myself, 'Oh no, he's been training for this fight,'" Darnell said. "I was thinking that I'd have to go the distance."

But the momentum quickly turned in Darnell's favor. He landed a series of punches that Vinson couldn't handle.

"I'm in debt right now so I'll go wherever my manager (Bloomfield Hills businessman Mario Corrad) wants me to," Darnell said. "I've got to keep on going."

HINDY, Art Marderosian (of Livonia) and Mary McDonald work with Darnell, who splits his time training between the Maplewood Community Center in Garden City and the Coleman Young Center in Detroit (where he has sparring with Tommy Hearn).

"We try to get Steve as many fights as possible," Hindy said. "But the more he wins, the tougher it gets to find better opponents."

But before he finds a tougher opponent, maybe they can find Darnell a nice hot shower.

Darnell doesn't get much rest. He'll take to the ring again as part of a Thursday night card at Wyandotte's Yack Arena, facing Donnell Jennings (3-1-1) of Hammond, Ind.

"He's hungry and he's been improving," said Darnell's trainer Bud Hindy. "He's learning every week. He's a colorful fighter."

Darnell's record is 7-0-1, four of those victories resulting in knockouts.

Up, down, Phillips is all-American

By C.J. Rieak
Staff writer

It's funny where those twists and turns — or, in this case, ups and downs — of life can lead.

Rob Phillips was on the Garden City East track team in 1982. He ran the half mile and was a high jumper. A year later, as a freshman at Adrian College, Phillips was "messing around" with the hurdles at practice.

"Coach (Ron Labadie) asked me if I'd like to try them," Phillips recalled.

AND THERE you have it. A seemingly innocent suggestion, not unlike those made by dozens of coaches every year, except that this one was more than a bit successful.

At last month's NCAA Division III championships at Denison University in Granville, Ohio, Phillips set all-America honors in the 400-meter intermediate hurdles. The junior finished seventh in 53.5.

Phillips' adaptability to the intermediate hurdles wasn't so surprising, but his rapid success was. He ran the event twice as a freshman before dedicating a greater part of his workouts to it as a sophomore and this year.

"I ran the open 400," Phillips said, "so I had the distance down. And I ran cross country in the fall, so I had the endurance. All I needed to do was get my form down, get a feel for the race."

HIS ABILITY in the high jump — Phillips qualified for the Class A state meet as a Garden City East senior and has cleared 5-5 — was no real aid to him in the hurdles.

"Being a high jumper, at first I was leaping over the hurdles instead of gliding over them," he explained. "That caused me to land off balance."

With the help of Adrian hurdler Bob Banks, also an NCAA qualifier, Phillips soon had that problem licked. As a sophomore he had a best time of 54.9. The Division III qualifying mark for this season was 54.2, which made Phillips' goal obvious.

"My main goal was just to make it," Phillips said.

Phillips also was fourth in the high jump (6-2) and ran on the 1,600 relay, which finished first (3:19.6), and the 400 relay, which was third (44.7), at the MIAA meet.

JUST MAKING the NCAA championships should have been the icing on Phillips' season. The closest he'd ever been to competing in such a major event was the state high school finals. It was a whole new experience.

"I got there and found out I had one of the top 10 times (in the country)," he said. "I had that feeling, the butterflies. What awaited him was 'getting kind of tired of track before I made nationals.'"

Banks, who was competing in his third nationals, helped settle Phillips down and reset his goals.

Phillips qualified by running a 53.7 on an April 27 dual meet. The following weekend at the Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association (MIAA) track championships, he finished first in the intermediate hurdles in 53.8.

Triple ignites Caesars past Livonia Adray

By Robert McElhany

A pitching duel between Redford Little Caesars' John Rogers and Livonia Adray's Rick Rozman suddenly turned into a hitting contest between two Livonia Collegiate Baseball League (LCBL) teams Wednesday night at Redford's Capitol Park.

But the biggest hit of all belonged to Caesars' Mike Hackett, who helped break up the pitchers' duel in the fourth inning with a three-run triple, keying a five-run outburst which helped Caesars to a 7-5 victory.

Rogers and Rozman each held the opposing team in check during the early going. Rogers gave up one unearned run on two hits through four, while Rozman surrendered only one run on one hit through the opening three innings.

Both hurlers, however, experienced problems in the later innings.

ROZMAN WORKED himself into a jam in the fourth, walking Don Taylor and Dan Michaels to start the inning. Ty
