Cans of Raid are standing in a neat row on the kitchen floor, a brand new bicycle sits in the garage and a swing set was erected this year in the backyard. Pulivelil K. Jacob, 44; Aleykutty, 39, their daughters, Jissey, 13; Jancey, 10; and their son Justin, 8, left the home neat and in obvious preparation for their return from a six-week visit to India. NEIGHBORS, FRIENDS and relatives are grief-stricken about the disaster. They say the Jacobs were de-Christians, hard workers and yout 'good people.'

"He (Mr. Jacob) was attending a Bible school in Michigan to become a minister," said Mrs. Jacob's brother, Thomas Alex of Bronx, N.Y.

"He wanted to be a Christian minisand they wanted to preach ter the gospel," Alex said. "They were very nice people, both of them loved each other. They were an ideal couple.

Poole's defense costs approved

unable to contact her to get her consent to serve on the committee

By Diane Gale staff writer

Canton Township's Board of Trustees Tuesday approved hiring an attorney to defend Supervisor James Poole in a lawsuit filed by the township clerk, Linda Chuhran.

Chuhran, who has hired an attorney at her own expense, is suing Poole for interfering with her powers as clerk. Chuhran, who initially filed the suit without an attorney, said she believed it was unnecessary to take the issue to the courts. She said the court action is an effort to define the law, "and what she is responsible for" as clerk.

Trustees have expressed adamant opposition to the suit, stating Chuhran should have confronted them with any problems before filing. The clerk said she believed she had no other choice, 'due to a lack of communication" at township hall. A closed meeting was held before Tuesday's board meeting to discuss the pending litigation.

TRUSTEE STEPHEN LARSON presented the resolution to hire the attorney, stating the board has an obligation to defend the supervisor, and all other board members, in lawsuits incurred while performing "lawful duties."

"As long as a lawsuit is pending there cannot be any compromise," Larson said. "I know we need clarification on how the Michigan Township Act involves the (Canton) township but, while the lawsuit is out there, we can't do anything to prejudice that.

Poole's legal costs, at $100 per hour, may reach a limit of $5,000 before additional board approval will be needed, according to the resolution. Trustees Loren Bennett, Robert Padget, John Prenickzy, Treasurer Gerald Brown, Larson and Poole voted in favor of the resolution: Chuhran opposed the measure Chuhran said at the meeting: "I retained my own attorney today at a cost of my own, and based on that I can't support this resolution," Chuhran said.

See letter to editor Page 12A

"I don't think it's necessary for this to go to this extreme.

"I think it could be discussed and we would not have to go to an attorney,' she said. "If the line of communication was such that this could be discussed in-house, this would not be necessary."

BENNETT RESPONDED, "Are you suggesting that a board member performing or carrying out the responsibilities of office should stand responsible for legal fees?"

Chuhran, who is seeking a temporary restraining order against Poole and no monetary damages, said: "I have no further comment.

Poole said he has met with Brown and Chuhran twice a week, and "if , so this that's not communication stuff about lack of communication doesn't hold water.'

In a written statement previously made, Poole said: "It does not make me happy, but I do not mind being sued by someone who is wrong, does not have their facts correct, does not know or . . . The real shame is tell the facts that the taxpayers have to pay the hill "

Several days before Farmington Hills resident Shashi Gupta and her two young children planned to leave for a trip home to see family in Bombay, India, she stopped by East Middle School to say goodbye to her supervisor.

"She was so anxious to go there," said Harounne Alameddine, coordinator of the Farmington School District's bilingual department, in which Gupta, 35, worked as a teacher for the past two years.

Despite the excitement of returning to her native India with her children, Gupta, a Hindu, expressed concern about the political tension in her homeland since the assassination of Prime Minister Indira Gandhi last year, Alameddine said.

"SHE HOPED that when she goes there everyhing would be OK," Alameddine said, adding he told her not to worry, all would be well.

Gupta and her children, 10-year-old daughter Arti and 6-year-old son Amit, were among the 329 passengers aboard the Air-India Boeing 747 that rashed into the sea Sunday off the coast of Ireland. All passengers are presumed dead.

The Gupta's were among the American residents aboard the Air-India flight. Including the Guptas, 21 of the 28 were from six families in southeastern Michigan, including Canton Township, Troy and Sterling Heights.

"No one really expected this," Alameddine said. "All of this is uncalled for. I'm still numb. I feel completely heartbroken. We're helpless. We can't do anything about this."

Echoing similar sentiments, Farmington School

District Superintendent Lewis Schulman called the jetliner crash and presumed loss of the Guptas a tragedy

ON HEARING THE news about the Air-India crash, Alameddine, a family friend, said he tried to call Sudhir, Gupta's husband, at their home on Birchcrest Way.

"We heard it through the news," Alameddine said. "I tried to call but it was busy so I went to the house

There Gupta, who was to join his family in Bombay in two weeks, was among friends who had heard of the tragedy, Alameddine said. Gupta is a technical director for the Mercier Corp. of Birmingham.

"He was extremely emotional," Alameddine said. Gupta had taken his family to Toronto where they boarded Air-India Flight 182.

ALAMEDDINE SAID Gupta told him that the last thing his wife said before leaving was "I'm going to write to Mr. Alameddine.

By early afternoon Monday, Gupta was on his way to New York City where he would catch a plane to Ireland, Alameddine said. From there Gupta was expected to fly to Bombay to be with his wife's parents.

"Her parents were waiting for her," Alameddine said, adding a big party was awaiting their arrival. Gupta joined the school district's bilingual staff two years ago and worked with Indian students, helping them adjust to the United States as well as adapt to the school studies, Alameddine said.

In addition to extending the program, PL 98-543 raised the entry grade level maximum from GS WG-7 to GS/WG-9 and also provided limited appeal rights during the first year of appointment. ### Gala on Hines Drive

AMILY use of Hines Parkway is growing That's what Wayne County, its parks and recreation department and its sheriff want. "The number of bicyclists who use the parkway never ceases to amaze me," said Vic Chiasson, chief of recreation for the department, after last Sunday's partial closing of Hines Drive to motor vehicles.

"The public is surely appreciative," said Chiasson, adding that the next partial closing will be Sunday, July 14, when the section from Newburgh Road east to Ann Arbor Trail will be closed to motor vehicles.

Last Sunday's closing was from Newburgh Road west to the outskirts of Plymouth.

THE IDEA for partial closings was hatched when Chiasson listened to public comments at an earlier Activities Day. The parks and recreation department is starting with the western end and working eastward.

A full-scale closing of the 20-mile parkway is scheduled for September About 85 walkers hiked a mile to qualify for the Blue Cross/Blue Shield "Walk Michigan" drawing. Winners will receive a trip for two to the Straits of Mackinac Labor Day weekend for the bridge walk A "baby crawl" drew only a couple of entrants, Chiasson said, so folks organized an impromptu baby stroller grand prix. "The weather cooperated, the number of families was significant, and I was real pleased," Chiasson

But how can you find something to do that everyone will enjoy? Greg Givens, Oakland County 4-H Program associate, suggested that bicycling is an ideal family activity. "These days, almost everyone has a bike. Kids want one almost as soon as they're able to walk, and adults are buying more bicycles than automobiles each year. Bicycling can be a fun way to

Use care with those fireworks

With the Fourth of July just around the corner, the Plymouth Fire Department reminds residents to exercise caution when using fireworks.

"In Michigan during 1983, there were 356 reported fires caused by fireworks which resulted in property loss of approximately $286,600," according to Al Matthews, acting fire chief.

During 1982, there were 8,500 firework-related injuries requiring hospital emergency room treatment, acording to the U.S. Consumer Product Safety C

'Not all 'D.O.T. Class C' labeled fireworks are legal in Michigan for use by the consumer," Matthews said.

"The only fireworks devices which may be sold at the retail level and used by the general consuming public are restricted to the following:

"Toy paper caps, wire sparklers (size No. 14 or less), flitter sparklers, toy snakes, toy smoke devices, toy trick noise makers, cone fountains and cylinder fountains. Fireworks other than those noted are illegal for sale and use, unless proper permits are obtained from the local governing body

"FIREWORKS devices which send a projectile into the air, spin, twirl, or mit an audible report (excluding toy paper caps and toy trick noise makers) are illegal." Matthews said.

If a person is unsure whether a firework is legal they should contact their local fire department, as some communities have ordinances which are more restrictive.

Matthews offers the following safety tips when using fireworks: Make sure the fireworks are legal for use - check against state law and municipal ordinance. Check for a manufactureer's label on all fireworks and instructions for proper use - illegally manufactured firworks rarely have either. Carefully follow the instructions

 Provide adult supervision for children and do not allow very young children to handle fireworks.

 Light only one device at a time. · Ignite fireworks only outdoors and away from buildings and combustible materials. Do not attempt to alter the device or use in a manner not intended.

GOP moderates are alive and well

TO HEAR conservatives talk about the nation is swinging into right field. The government-hating politics of Ronald Reagan and U.S. Rep. Jack Kemp are attracting majority support, they say, and the middle of the road doesn't exist.

When Spence Abraham, Michigan Republican state chairman, does his polling, he makes folks classify themselves as 'conservatives'' or "liberals" His data has no place for "moderates.

It's odd to hear that kind of talk in Michigan. A history professor acquaintance of mine used to say that you can't understand Michigan politics unless you grasp the fact that there always have been two Republican parties - moderate and conservative.

Michigar Republicans have been in the moderate camp most decades, as when they nominated Hazen Pingree, Chase Osborn, George Romney and William Milliken for governor and supported Teddy Roosevelt, Dwight Eisenhower and George Bush for presidential nominations.

THERE WAS, to be sure, a predominance of conservative rhetoric at the GOP's leadership conference last weekend in Grand Rapids. But in April there was a different kind of conference when the moderates met at Bay City.

Who's in these groups?

In the conservative camp are Abraham; Richard Headlee, the 1982 gubernatorial standard bearer; John Engler, state Senate majority leader; and most of the local state senators - Bob Geake of Northville, Rick Fessler of West Bloomfield, Rudy Nichols of Waterford and Doug Cruce of

In the moderate camp are Congressmen Carl Pursell of Plymouth and Paul Henry of Grand Rapids, state Sen. Harry DeMaso of Battle Creek and a fairly new batch of suburban state representatives - Lyn Bankes of Livonia, David Honigman of West Bloomfield, Shirley Johnson of Royal Oak and Judith Miller of Birmingham.

WHAT ARE their philosophies? At the risk of oversimplifying, I would say: Conservatives see government as an enemy. "Get government off our backs Es -1 Tim - Richard and out of our pockets.

Moderates see government as a positive tool of economic progress, See Alexander Hamilton's "Report on the Manufactures.

Liberals see government as the regulator of private greed and as the successor to church and family in taking care of the needy. In liberal conversation, "corporation" is a dirty word.

HOW CAN YOU tell them apart in Michigan?

 Balanced budget amendment: Conservatives back it by way of a federal constitutional amendment. Moderates abhor the con-con

• State tax hike of '83: Conservatives opposed any increase. Moderates saw the need but would have preferred a smaller hike for a shorter period. (The question never came to a roll call vote.)

· Equal Rights Amendment: Conservatives shun it. Moderates favor it, just as moderate Gov. Chase S. Osborn was for the women's vote back in 1910.

• Urban sprawl: Conservatives never use the word and support Michigan Townships Association bills. Moderates want to preserve cities, sometimes including De-

 Death penalty: Conservatives favor enthusiastically. Moderates will either vaffle or oppose it Rarely will you find a Michigan Republican politician in either camp 100 percent. But most have one tendency or the

The point is that moderates have been flourishing in Michigan Republicanism for the better part of a century. If conservatives think the moderates have evaporated, they have another thought coming.

from our readers Resident knocks Chuhran's lawsuit for essay help

To the editor:

As a resident of Canton Township, I am shocked and disgusted at the immature behavior of our government officials.

I am speaking specifically about our township clerk, Linda Chuhran. I find it utterly ridiculous that she deemed it necessary to sue supervisor James Poole in order to get him to listen to her. This is just a totally mindless way of handling the situation

Ms. Chuhran obviously has no regard for the way the government of Canton is supposed to function. Instead of voicing her complaints to the Board of Trustees. she went right over their heads and took matters into her own hands. I'm sure the trustees didn't appreciate being informed of the lawsuit by reading it in the newspa-

For years the Board of Trustees has existed for the purpose of making sure things run smoothly in the government of Canton. If a problem arises, they are there to help rectify it. What gives Ms. Chuhran the right to totally disregard the role of the Board of Trustees in this matter?

IN THE recent past, the controversy centered around former treasurer Maria Sterlini and her sometimes questionable actions

It really makes me wonder what the governments of other communities must ink of Canton Township. I'm sure Canis the butt of many jokes in the city halls of Plymouth, Northville or Livonia.

I certainly hope this kind of thing is not going to continue until our next election four years from now. If people who are elected to these offices cannot get along and do their jobs without being involved in these power struggles, they shouldn't be there This type of behavior is surely going to make a lot of people, myself included. shamed to be a part of Canton.

Once elected, Michigan's governor can choose to vacate his office at will, but there are only three legal methods of removing a governor against his will - an impeachment, a recall election, or a determination by the majority of the state supreme court that the governor is unable to govern

discover Michigan

The state Constitution says a determination request to the Supreme Court must be made by the president pro tempore of the Senate "and" the speaker of the House of Representatives.

The high court is charged with determining not only if an inability to govern exists but "if and when the inability ceases." Such determination "shall be final and conclusive," the constitution says. The rules of succession call for the Lt. Governor to succeed the governor followed by the elected Secretary of State Canton and the elected Attorney General.

Part-time legislature is here

IN ADDITION to hustling petitions fo the death penalty, Oakland County Prosecutor L. Brooks Patterson has taken to the stump to promote a part-time Legis-

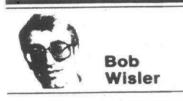

State Rep. Tom Power, R-Traverse City, and other outstate legislators have started a petition drive to put a part-time egislature proposal on the ballot. Needing 376,000 signatures, they think they can make it by the November 1986 election.

Patterson, eloquent as usual, spoke to the Livonia Chamber of Commerce recently to promote the idea. Patterson sugested that there are now too many people n the Legislature who don't know enough about business and about people and too many lawyers.

The prosecutor thinks that part-time legislators should spend more time with 'the people" back home and less time with other legislators.

AGREEING WITH the prosecutor is order to spend time among constituents not always easy, but this time we disagree back home, learning what their problems more on the fine points of his argument. are and attempting to help them. After all, the real business of the Legislature isn't solving problems but getting re-elected.

Patterson is on target in saying that if you have a Legislature which is titled 'part-time" with reduced part-time pay, the members thereof will worry less about being re-elected. They won't mind losing a $16,000-a-year part-time salary so they will spend their time getting things done rather than politicking and socializing.

THERE ARE pitfalls even there, however. With people paid part-time wages, you will get more rather than fewer lawvers (they will be looking in Lansing for clients), business owners who can afford to be away from their primary job and employees whose companies and agencies like to have a say in deciding how state government is run.

Worse vet, you might get people who will be part-time legislators at full-time pay. Any state Legislature worth its salt knows how to create a compensation commission which will be glad to boost a

Open Meetings Act necessary

The state Open Meetings Act is continually being challenged by governmental bodies. This guest column shows how the editor of the Garden City Observer views his city's challenge and explains why the act is a necessity.

by Leonard Poger Editor, Garden City Observer

GARDEN CITY is asking for an opinion from the Michigan attorney general on whether the City Council violated the state Open Meetings Act in early April when it approved a $260,000 out-of-court settlement with a dog kennel owner.

If past practice is any guide, the attorney general's office will take a while to review the act, past opinions and court rulings before coming up with an opinion. The crux of the dispute is whether the council is required to ratify or approve in a public vote and meeting a decision made in an earlier closed session. The Open Meetings Act flatly says, "All decisions of a public body shall be made at a meeting open to the public." The state ject to the lawyer-client relationships Legislature didn't grant a special exception to the Garden City Council.

Art of auctioneering is the rhythm

By Penny Wright special writer

The essence of an auction? Plymouth auctioneer John Whalen replies, "Speed.".

Speed is one of the most important things about an auction. Speed promotes spontaneity, excitement and keeps things moving. "Take a chant. You couldn't get the speed by saying '10, 15, 20.' What helps with the speed are the fillers to get the rhythm going." He illustrates with a tongue-twisting-sing-song:

'Ladies and gentlemen, we have a cup, a white one, and a beauty, what are you going to give for it, tell me what you're going to pay for it, here we go, 10, 15, five, five, want to bid 15, 15, what about 20, 20, can we make it 25?"

"There is a lot of showmanship inof automobiles, tractors and farm equipment that passed through her husband's hands over the years.

'When it reached the point where we could no longer sell in front of the house, I suggested he go to auctioneering school.

Whalen, a Foodland manager in Livonia, followed his wife's suggestion and enrolled at the Ruppert School of Auctioneering in Decatur, Ind.

"Up until the day I arrived, I insisted shouldn't be there. Once at the school, I didn't want to turn back," he said.

He admits there was more to learning the art of auctioneering than he thought.

Hours of classwork along with onthe-job training as apprentice to seasoned auctioneers were requirements for certification. Whalen has continued to learn through seminars and profesfull time, sometime in the future,' Whalen said. He noted the profession has evolved over the years into a recognized career. Vocational schools around the country provide in-depth training to potential auctioneers. Professional organizations such as the National Auctioneers Association and Michigan State Auctions Association promote continued education, professionalism and business integrity. WHALEN PREDICTS within a year or two, Michigan will follow the lead of Ohio and Indiana and begin requiring licenses for practicing auctioneers. "Such a law will help weed out unprofessional auctioneers. It's like any profession; if you abuse the system, you won't last." Cathy believes the concept of auctions is changing. Though the auction is

ITEMS MOVE more quickly at auction due to competitive bidding, he observed.

"Competitive bidding at auction can't be beat. Human nature responds to the gambling aspect of bidding. It often reaches the point, when two people are bidding, that the object becomes unimportant and the bidding becomes a personal thing."

Whalen said, "At auction, the limit is what a person is willing to pay. The seller often gains because more people are bidding." In one-to-one selling (pri-vate treaty), the buyer often will negotiate the price down.

Buyers can get bargains at auctions. "My main objective is to sell the merchandise for as much as I can and as fast as I can. If I feel we're going into a lull, I snap off an item and sell it real cheap. is the The bottom part. "Some items go for more, some for less.

(P,C)18

THE WHALENS say auctions are more popular in other states. They believe people in Michigan aren't as auction oriented.

Whalen makes every effort to change the trend. "I'll try every way possible to sell something to a new auction-goer. Once you break that ice, they get a this-isneat look and you're rolling."

He listed some tips for auction-goers: Come early to look over the merchandise, plan ahead and decide what you will pay for an item, and pay attention

Whalen confided that the first number mentioned in his sing-song generally is the approximate value of the item. He works down from that price to give people time to get ready, then starts going up in the bidding.

ONE WEEK at Lake Huron and it didn't take long to lure the birds back to the feeding station with whole wheat bread crumbs

It was interesting to watch the parents with their young birds, now almost full-grown. The parents' patience was remarkable.

A brown thrasher was showing her offspring how to whip through the sand with her beak, in search of food. The doltish youngster just sat, paying no attention to its parent's efforts, wouldn't even look in her direction until she came close by Then it opened its mouth to be fed.

A blackbird left its kid under a low branch and told it to stay there. The parent came to the feeding station and crammed its mouth with crumbs. Every time the adult returned, the youngster had wandered out into the open. The parent was determined not to feed it until it was back under the branch. It took a lot of patience and time to get it under cover.

Once I added some shredded dry cheese to the crumbs. The brown thrashers loved the cheese and wouldn't touch the crumbs until it was gone.

There wasn't a blue jay around this year. But a couple of male red winged black birds were regulars. They weren't too friendly toward each other. The chipmunk was back as well as those little red squirrels with their bushy tails. They are about six inches high, when sitting, and can leap amazing distances from branch to branch when they're up in the trees. These are full-grown adults. Must get a squirrel book and find out what kind they are.

volved." he adds with eyes twinkling

JOHN WHALEN appears to have his auction showmanship under control. Sporting an honest smile, homey drawl and attired in Western-style boots, he has successfully wooed auction audiences into buying thousands of dollars worth of merchandise.

Surprisingly, Whalen is a newcomer to the profession of auctioneering.

"He was always selling things - for as long as I can remember," laughed Cathy Whalen. She ticked off a long list sional conventions.

NOW IN HIS third year of auctioneering, his part-time auction business is a family affair.

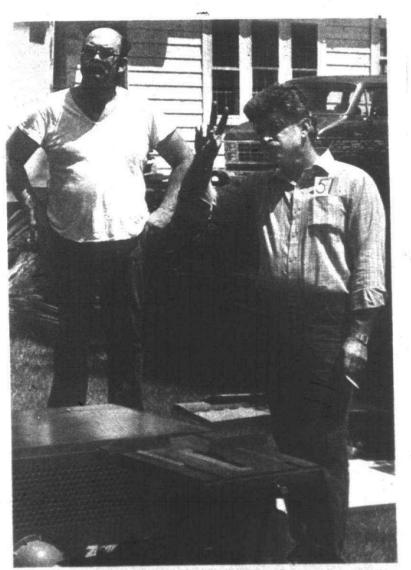

In addition to recording auction transactions, Cathy Whalen handles the details of conducting a sale including appraisal, advertising, settling up and bookkeeping. Their children, Ann and Tom, have auction assignments that often keep them working alongside their parents for long hours.

"My plan is to get into the business a selling method dating back to ancient Babylon, she said some people still associate auctions with bankruptcy proceedings or charities.

"I think more people are recognizing anybody can use auctions to sell items quickly," she said.

At the recent Bissey auction in Wayne, John Whalen sold out a diverse array of tools, appliances and household miscellanea in quick succession. He noted garage sales that day at neighboring homes were far from sold out.

Ann Whalen holds up items from a box of odds and ends as her father auctions them off. Sorting through odd lots for treasures is an exciting feature of sales for auction habitues.

In the deepest sense, true heroism is demon strated by the man who lives up to his personal obligations and his highest responsibilities in a consistent and exemplary manner. He meets the challenge of moral temptation with the integrity that comes from spiritual courage.

SYDNEY HARRIS, in his book "On The Contrary" puts it this way: "Being a man has little to do with stalking deer in a woods or shooting ducks in a blind; these are ..., not

But continuing to work when you are tired. assuming duties when you would rather loll, making sure the nest is safe and warm and that the future holds promise of continuity and growth - these are the unrelenting demands modern society makes upon its grown men. How well and how willingly we measure up to these demands - non-heroic in a dramatic

Big is the word for Wayne County It is the third largest in the country, is the home of the world's largest industrial corporation (GM) and the largest industrial labor union (UAW), and is anchored by the country's sixth largest city (Detroit)

It is the builder of, 160 miles of expressway, maintainer of 4,380 miles of county roads and creator of 4,450 acres of public parks.

It is bounded on the west by Washtenaw County at Napier and Rawsonville roads, on the north by Oakland and Macomb counties at Eight Mile Road, on the southeast by the Detroit River, and on the south by the Huron River and Monroe County. Drained by the Rouge River system, Wayne County is relatively flat. The land slopes in a southeasterly direction toward the Detroit River from a high point of 980 feet above sea level on the Maybury Sanitorium property west of Northville to a low of 570 feet at Pte. Moullie, where the Huron River enters Lake Erie.

Excellent for agriculture, the soil is a mixture of of sand, silt and clay lakebed sediments left by a series of glacial lakes. These were formed 18,000 years ago. Underlying this are great beds of salt formed early in geologic time

Youth soccer clubs war for local talent

Brad

Emons

OUTH SOCCER is beginning to show its ugly side. Ten years ago the sport was played for fun and exercise, but now parents have ruined the sport like they did little league baseball and little league hockey

Winning is everything these days, and it's no more evident than in Livonia, where soccer is becoming big business.

Drive past Bicentennial Park any weeknight or cruise by Schoolcraft College on a weekend and you'll get the picture - soccer galore and more How popular is soccer in this area

When the sixth annual Wolverine VI Tournament is held Fourth of July weekend at Schoolcraft, nearly 230 teams and 4,000 players from across the Midwest and Ontario will participate. Last year an estimated 12,000 attended the three-day extravaganza.

Youths in western Wayne County are playing soccer in record numbers, but unfortunately the policing and governing of youth leagues is far behind, leaving the job to soccer clubs and parents with self-serving interests.

THE U.S. YOUTH Soccer Association is the national governing body with the Michigan State Youth Soccer Association (MSYSA) its subsidiary These organizations have jurisdiction over state, regional and national tournaments, but rarely get involved on a local level. This is only the start of the problems.

Children in these parts nave become semi-free agents, with youth soccer clubs and leagues bidding aggressively for their services.

During the past two months, this sports department has been under siege from various clubs with announcements about registration and tryouts for the fall season.

We're definitely in competition with other clubs," admitted Ruth Dober, secretary of the Livonia Youth Soccer Club (LYSC), incorporated in 1977

The LYSC sponsors a team for each age group in the Bonanza League, which was formed to develop the elite talent. LYSC members also play in the Great Lakes Soccer League.

THEIR CHIEF competitor is the Livonia YMCA, which started in-house leagues during the early 1970's and has since sent teams into the Western Suburban Soccer League and Bonanza.

Further competition for players has evolved with the advent of open teams, which participate in Bonanza. Even a Dearborn Heights-based club called Vardar has gotten into the act, recruiting players from as far away as Dearborn.

Recreation departments run youth soccer programs in Garden City and Plymouth-Canton, but Livonia has stayed clear, letting the Livonia Y and LYSC run its own show using city-owned fields

The fierce competition among these clubs in procuring players has reached the ridiculous stage in my opinion. Trying to outdo each other, youth soccer clubs have resorted to using display ads in the newspaper to announce tryout times for greater They've also resorted to going to the

T WAS THE year of the change-up in Observerland softball.

Tracy Lectka, a junior, catapulted Livonia Franklin to the state finals with a deceptive variety of pitches, the most devastating being a pokey change of pace.

Though the Pats, champions of the Northwest Suburban League, lost the title game to L'Anse Creuse, they clearly established themselves as Ob serverland's top team and a bonafide state-power

There were two state powers in the area; the other being Livonia Steven-son. The Spartans, champions of the Western Lakes, were ranked among the state's top 10 most of the year - their biggest nemisis being Franklin.

Lectka out-twirled Stevenson fire-baller Lisa Bokovoy three times this season - the last time coming in the state district tournament.

Other teams illuminating the area diamonds this season were Garden City, who, speaking of change-ups, went from 0-13 last year to 16-4 this year. Plymouth Salem, a perennial area power under coach Rob Willette. finished second in the Western Lakes with a 19-5 record.

Observerland coaches gathered recently and selected the 1985 All-Area Softball Team

PITCHERS

Lisa Bokovoy, senior, Livonia Stevenson: There has not been a more dominant figure on the area softball scene the last three years than this young woman. In her three years, she has tossed 10 no-hitters and two perfect games, racking up a 52-9 won-lost record. She has a career ERA of 0.80 with 490 strikeouts in 410 innings. This season she was 15-4 with a 0.41 ERA. She fanned 181 in 118 innings. She also was an asset at bat, compiling a .390 career average (.349 this season). She will attend the University of Kentucky on a volleyball scholarship.

Tracy Lectka, junior, Livonia Franklin: A direct contrast in pitching style Bokovoy, but no less effective. to Where Bokovoy is overpowering, Lectka is crafty, sneaky. Lectka compiled a 22-3 record with a 0.67 ERA. She struck out 168 in 178 innings (through The true the state regional finals). measure of Lectka is her performances in clutch situations — like the four shutouts she fired in state tournament play. She also helped her team with her glove and bat (.368)

CATCHER

Jill Phillips, senior, Livonia Franklin: A prototype catcher, big, strong, a team leader. Phillips gave Franklin many clutch hits (25 RBI) and occasional power. She hit .308 with a double, two triples and a home run. In 26 games, she didn't yield a passed ball and she gunned down 12 of 20 attempted base stealers

INFIELD

Chris Bruce, senior, Redford Thurston: Bruce just missed making firstteam All-Area last season and her .554 batting average made her a lock this year. The solid fielding first baseman knocked in 21 runs with five doubles, six triples and four home runs. She was a three-year starter for Ron Lectka's team.

Carolyn Smith, senior, Livonia Franklin: If Lectka was the heart of the Franklin team, Smith had to be the guts and glue. She is perhaps the best all-around softball player in the area. She made only one error in 27 games at second base. She hit .421, scored 27 runs, knocked in 16 more and stole 23 bases. She struck out only once in 102 at-bats. She will be attending the University of Detroit on a softball scholarship

Joan Frysinger, senior, Livonia Stevenson: For two seasons, this 6-foot shortstop has covered the left side of the Stevenson infield like a blanket. In 15 games, she made but two errors. She was also one of coach Lee Cagle's most consistent hitters with a .311 average More importantly, she carried a .535 on base percentage.

ing in the state finals, but it was filled with many triumphs along the way.

news department because our Sports Shorts feature, where these items belong, apparently doesn't meet their needs.

THESE PEOPLE are seeking preferential treatment and it's about time they learn that they carry no more weight than the little league baseball people, the swim club people and the junior hockey people.

I've tried to be as accommodating as possible, but no matter what I do, nothing ever seems to be satisfactory.

The pressure on this sports department by the youth soccer people is enormous, but can you imagine what pressure is being placed on these kids, some as young as eight years old?

The competition for players has harbored bad feelings among these clubs. Several complaints were lodged last year through this newspaper against the Vardar group, but I get the feeling that it goes beyond a few tournaments. The bad blood runs deep.

So what's the solution?

I'm inviting the soccer people to write letters to the editor to express their opinions about the state of youth soccer in this area - pro and con.

PETE SCERRI, the successful boys soccer coach at Livonia Stevenson, told me last fall that soccer will become a better game when today's generation of players becomes the coaches and the referees of tomorrow.

He says there are not enough qualified Americans coaching or officiating at the present time

When more qualified coaches are groomed, the less parents become involved and the better off the sport is.

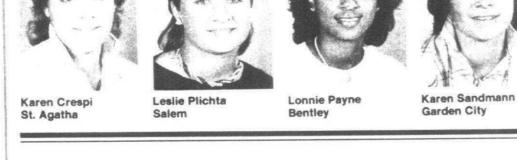

That's not to say that parents are not qualified to coach their own kids, but looking at the established elite youth programs in baseball, hockey and swimming, many continue to coach long after their sons and daughters have grown up.

The people covering the sport should keep pace as well.

I'll be the first to admit that I never played organized soccer. It wasn't available when I was growing up

BUT I'VE TRIED to get out and watch summer tournaments, cover high school games and follow the pros worldwide via television.

One thing I've learned, however, over the years Youth soccer, especially in this area, needs to straighten up its act.

Traveler's discovery: land of Lewis and Clark

This is the second in a series of articles about the Portland, Oregon, am standing on a hill watching the mighty Columbia River flow into the Pacific Ocean. There are a lot of comantic scenes associated with the junction of these two great waterways: the annual migration of salmon to their spawning grounds upstream, John Jacob Astor and the fur trade, the Lewis and Clark Expedition.

I am standing on the ground, but many of my compatriots have climbed the 125 foot Astor Column here on Coxcomb Hill above Astoria and are standing on the observation platform that gives a long glorious view in both directions. The column is a copy of the Vendome Column in Paris and the Trojan Column in Rome

The scenes on the side of the Astor Column tell the story of this northwest coast of Oregon. From its

Highway 26. FORT CLATSOP: It was raining when the Lewis and Clark Expedition came down the mouth of the Columbia in 1805. It rained for all but 12 of the 106 days they spent in a wooden fort called Fort Clatsop.

The original fort, two low log buildings facing one another across a 10-foot path, crumbled slowly as the area was settled during the 19th and 20th centuries. In 1955, several local organizations rebuilt the fort from a sketch the explorers had made on a piece of elkhide and from detailed accounts left in their notebooks.

It was notebooks and maps that busied Lewis and Clark during those long four months of drizzly rain, and provided information for the fur traders who came a decade later with John Jacob Astor.

Fort Clatsop is now a National Memorial operated by the National Park Service. Summer visitors can see the film recreating the Lewis and Clark Expedition of 1805-06, and watch craftsmen making tallow candles and

The town of Seaside is exactly what its name implies, a seaside village with a glorious sand beach as well as two or three streets of tourist shops and restaurants centered on the four blocks of Broadway. In Ansel Adams' eyes, America's wilderness is its most precious national treasure. Through photography, he immortalized the unspoiled beauty of Mt. McKinley for all to see.

Some things never change. But one great American tradition has changed-U.S. Savings Bonds. Now Savings Bonds pay higher variable interest rates like money market accounts. That's the kind of change anyone can appreciate.

Just hold Savings Bonds for five years and you get the new variable interest rates. Plus, you get a guaranteed return. That means you can earn a lot more, but never

Art play Artist tries variety of media

By Mary Klemic staff writer

Audrey DiMarco may have gotten started in art "as a lark" years ago, but she couldn't be more serious about it today

The Livonia resident has won art awards and shown her work at Bloomfield Hills, Farmington, Rochester, Livonia, Detroit and Lansing. Recently, the Birmingham Bloomfield Art Association (BBAA) awarded her second place in its 50th anniversary competition, the display of which will run through Saturday, June 29 at 1516 S. Cranbrook, Evergreen and 14 Mile roads in Birmingham.

DiMarco is an instructor at the Bar-bizon School of Fashion Merchandising and for the Visual Arts Association of Livonia (VAAL). She speaks excitedly about her artwork, which fills her house

"I don't think I chose it, I think it chose me," DiMarco said. "It seems I'm almost driven. I have to paint. It's a wonderful, satisfying thing. I love pushing the paint around. It's an extension of playing with mud when I was a kid."

DIMARCO MAKES portraits and abstract artworks in a variety of media. She doesn't favor one medium över another. One work may have as many as 15 layers of paint. She paints in oils, acryllics and pastels, and makes collages out of wood and tin.

What you're doing at the moment is the most important thing," the artist said.

Emotion is important in art, according to DiMarco. "You must be willing to relax with your work and go with your emotions," she said. "You must get emotionally involved with your work

'I don't think I chose it, I think it chose me. It seems I'm almost driven, I have to paint. It's a wonderful, satisfying thing. I love pushing the paint around. It's an extension of playing with mud when I was a kid.'

Livonia artist

DIMARCO NOW is working on her hands and knees in her basement, using sponges and brushes and rollers and everything," on an abstract artwork that at last count featured 10 layers of paint. In the near future, she would like to spread out 15 canvases in her basement and paint as she listens to a recording of Stravinsky's "Rite of Spring

"I'm constantly experimenting with new media," DiMarco said.

The former Westland resident wishes she had more time for her artwork. She starts one art project before finishing another.

"Many times I try not to have any preconceived ideas. I think that first spontaneous emotion is what I need," DiMarco said. "I find that if I take a break, I do better when I go back to it."

THE ARTIST tells her students that "the first rule of art is, there are no rules. To me, everything has been done on earth and everything can be done," she said.

DiMarco once developed a way to paint pastels over oil on a raw canvas, something she was told couldn't be done

"I thought there has to be a way," she said. "If somebody says you can't do it, I have to find a way."

DiMarco has a creative family. Her mother wrote and sold stories, and her "mathematically inclined" husband has won awards for his photography.

PAINTING IS something DiMarco "always had to do," since she drew her own cutouts at the age of 4.

"I just have to keep painting," she

Audrey DiMarco works on a new abstract work that already has 10 layers of paint. It is one of her many art experiments.

DiMarco first exhibited her artwork 18 years ago at a friend's suggestion.

"She said, 'Why don't you enter the show at the gallery?'" DiMarco said. "It turned out to be a national show and I got in."

DiMarco went on to study at the Center for Creative Studies in Detroit, Eastern Michigan University and the BBAA, and worked as a fashion illustrator

"At the time I wanted to be a fashion illustrator. I learned enormous speed, she said. "I do paint rather fast. It's so exciting, I just jump right in. I love it so much

The variety of DiMarco's work includes abstractions, raised canvas collages and representational still lifes.

ARTISTICALLY, the three-person swing creature was the most impressive. The movements of the three mimists were smooth and effective. Other mime sections were less invigorating. The snapping clam-creature was the favorite among the crowd.

It was difficult to hear Professor Windbag, master of ceremonies for the hourlong Zoopha journey. His attempts to get audience participation seemed to fail. But the majority of viewers clapped whenever they saw people around them applauding.

The costumes were creative and colorful. The mime movements were, at rare instances, quick and wellrehearsed. A few taped children's songs played for creature-solo mime skits were too long and unexciting.

There wasn't any break dancing at all despite the fact break is a vital part of the show's title, and break dancing was included in the show's description. The alphabet was touched upon because the creatures called out in the vowel sounds, A.E.I.O.U.

It's important for today's generation of children's television viewers to see live drama. Even though the caliber of the show wasn't up to par, the audience responded well

The brewing storm had distorted the sound, and parts of the show were rather long. Still, the children seemed to be attentive. Sounds of laughter bubbled consistently above the wind.

If not all eyes were watching the stage, they were taking in the rows and rows of other children who had filled three quarters of the Baldwin Pavillion.

A 35-minute show extended to fill a full hour, "Zoophabreaks" was an entirely acceptable production. The audience began to leave rather quickly as big raindrops started to fall several minutes before the show's conclusion.

Americans keep their cameras busy

By Monte Nagler special writer

The latest edition of the Wolfman Report, which has just come out, contains some interesting facts and figures on the 1984 photographic market. Read on and see if you have contributed to the numbers.

The report indicates that over 12 billion pictures were taken in America last year - that's 135 photos per household. Of these, 130 were color and only five black and white. C'mon you black and white shooters - get clicking!

Still camera sales for 1984 totaled almost 16 million cameras of all types. Thirty-five mm cameras are the market favorite with 2.6 million reflex units and 3 million lens/shutter units.

These are the cameras that use optical viewfinders instead of through-the-lens focusing systems and often incorporate such features as automatic flash, automatic film advance and automatic focus-

They're sold at prices averaging less than $150 and offer amateurs an almost foolproof camera at affordable prices.

to decline as only 60,000 8mm cameras were sold nationally in 1984. However more and more photographic companies such as Nikon, Canon, Pentax and Fuji are entering the video market and a record-breaking 500,000 video cameras were purchased last year. How about dollars spent? According to the Wolfman Report, the Gross National Photo Product, the basic indicator of total photographic activity, reached a record $16 million for 1984. That'll buy a lot of film. In shopping, Americans preferred their local camera stores for cameras but opted for the drug store for photo-finishing. Drug stores accounted for over 30 percent of the 3.4 billion dollars spent for photofinishing. In a reflection of changing preferences, the once-
