Fight for senior housing ends in victory

After many let-downs, Canton Township has finally been approved for a federally subsidized senior citizen

The U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) has approved an apartment complex to be built on four acres of land at the southwest corner of Ford and Sheldon roads. Canton bought the parcel for $285,000 for the project.

"I've gotten the best news I've had," Supervisor James Poole said at the Canton Township Board of Trustees

eeting Tuesday evening. /
"And, that's that we've gotten the senior citizen housing project approved," Poole told a group of about 25

"Right now just sit back and enjoy the news for awhile," he added.

DIANNE NEIHENGEN, Canton seno ior citizen coordinator, thanked the board for buying the land "because that started the ball rolling.

The land was purchased by a previous board," Neihengen said. "It was a prime piece of property and by buying it they made a commitment to senior citizen housing.

Jack Ryan, an active community to Terry Carroll, who resigned as Canton's grants coordinator earlier this year. He is working for Garden City.

By God, if it wasn't for Carroll we wouldn't have gotten this," Ryan said.

Poole also complemented Carroll, U.S. Sen. Carl Levin, D-Michigan, U.S. Rep. William D. Ford, D-Taylor (whose 15th District includes Canton), Wayne County Executive William Lucas and Canton's lobbying firm for being instrumental in HUD's approval.

The government's go-ahead especially was welcomed after a disappointing situation last year. Canton's site had senior, gave credit for HUD's approval been ranked as the second priority for projects by HUD's Detroit and Chicago offices. However, HUD's central office in Washington, D.C., rejected the project and approved applications ranked one, three, four, five and six, Poole said.

the brakes on student parking and the brakes are squealing.

This fall student parking has been limited for the first time at the Plymouth Centenntial Educational Park

Parking permits have been issued and only students with permits are allowed to drive to school.

The result has been some disgruntled students and parents who feel the method of awarding permits was un-tion by one set of parents and by high school students. The board asked for patience in implementing the new controls and directed the CEP administration to review student parkers and revoke permits from any students who lied on the applications.

The board said it would evaluate the procedure at the end of the school year to see what improvements can be made. But trustees insisted that the controls were necessary and would re-

THE PROBLEM is that only about 580 parking spaces are designated for students while some 1,100 applications were received for student permits.

Roland Thomas, board president, said in the past five to six years problems with students driving and parking at the CEP increased to the point where something had to be done.

Sylvia Stetz, parent and former school trustee, spoke up to appeal her daughter's denial of a parking permit. Stetz said her daughter is taking six classes, works in the evening, and needs a car to get to school and back.

Stetz noted that 5-6 years ago when there was no parking restrictions at the CEP there were 1,000 more students than now are enrolled at both high schools. She said she believed the present criteria in granting permits weighed heavily towards students involved in extracurricular activities.

What standards are there to determine student driving? Is safe driving considered? Are students being allowed to drive to school who are within walking distance? The Canton lot can't be used by students and at times it's half-

"If driving is a privilege than how is make sure it's as fair as it can be."

High school administrators have put it decided who is the privileged child who can drive?

Thomas said he and Trustee Elaine Kirchgatter spent 40 minutes Monday talking with CEP administrators about the student parking issue.

"With the economy improving, the number of students driving is increasing. Last year there were many cars parking on the grass and all over, creating a significant problem. Over the past two-three years there has been an increase in accidents at the park."

Thomas added that parents and stu-Monday night an appeal was made to dents, particularly students walking the Plymouth-Canton Board of Educa- along the shoulder of Joy Road, complained last year about unsafe conditions because of students driving. As a result, Canton Township Police and Plymouth Township Police have advised the schools to restrict the number of students driving to the CEP.

Another concern, said Thomas, was that students were circling the parking lots trying to find a place to park and were ending up late for class.

Thomas said the district surveyed other school districts and geared its restrictions toward existing practices elsewhere. As examples he cited: Garden City High, 1,500 student body and 292 student parking spaces; John Glenn, 2,000 students and 105 permits; Farmington Harrison, 1,050 students and 250-300 spaces; North Farmington, 1,400 students and 350 spaces; Farm

THOMAS ADDED that the admini tration considered building a new park ing lot behind the schools but it would cost $105,000 for 120 spaces.

Trustee David Artley said it was difficult to take away something which had been unrestricted. "How do you restrict parking and do it fairly? Driving is not a right but a privilege. Student parking last year was a definite problem area having a ripple effect."

Trustee E.J. McClendon said he felt it was time that parking had to be controlled and he felt building an additional lot was not the best step now How do we justify taking $100,000 from education to build more parking? What educational activity should we kill to put in the lot? That's what we are looking at.

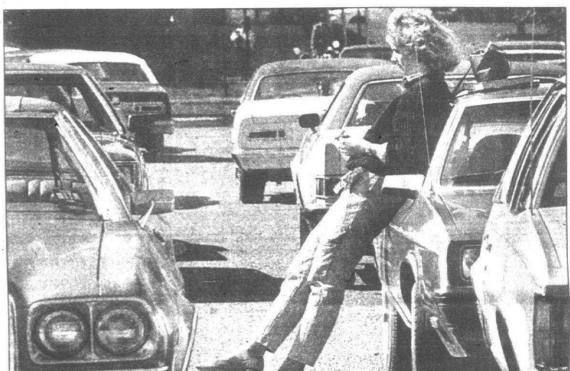

The safety of students is utmost in the minds of high school administration," commented Kirchgatter. "There has been some accidents in the past which could have been avoided. We as a board will be evaluating the procedure by which stickers are issued to Trustee Dean Swartzwelter said the problem was more than a student one as there is a shortage of parking at major activities during evening hours. "If there is such a big demand, maybe we should start charging for parking at major events and putting the money aside for parking, or borrow to build the lot and pay for it with parking reve-

"In 1990 or beyond we likely will be moving the ninth graders back to the CEP, and then there will be even more events out there. It's a real problem when you want to drive someplace and there's no where to park. For those who don't get a permit, it becomes a real problem for them and for their parents," added Swartzwelter, suggesting that a plan should be derived now, not

Canton Care overcomes reams of health violations

After ten years of closure threats and legal battles with the Department of Public Health, a nursing facility in Canton Township appears to be headed in a different direction.

Appeals to circuit court have kept the home operating.

In December 1984 the facility was given another chance. Brian Suter, Dion's administrator for 11/2 years, was given a six-month temporary license.

Construction of a ramp, to allow wheelbound residents access to various levels in the building, was a major roadblock for the facility. Styka reports it has been built.

The defense attorney for Charles Fisher - charged with suffocating his wife with duct tape in their Canton Township home - attacked the credibility of the prosecution's key witness and criticized Canton police for suppressing evidence during a preliminary examination Monday.

By Diane Gale

Attorney Daniel Burress also used to the pre-trial exam to point to a romantic relationship the victim and her cousin.

The case was returned Friday to 35th District Court before Judge James Garber for continuation of the preliminary examination as ordered in August by Wayne Circuit Judge Richard Kauf-

Judge Kaufman ruled Burress incorrectly was denied access to evidence during the preliminary exam and should be allowed to cross-examine witnesses in light of the new informa-

BURRESS REQUESTED dismissal of the case because Fisher was "denied a speedy trial" and because "evidence was withheld" which interferred with the preparation of a legal defense.

Despite "understandable" inconsistencies "dealing with a lot of details" in testimony from Manuel Mercado (the victim's father), Judge Garber said there was enough evidence supporting the first-degree murder charges. Fisher will stand trial at an undeter mined date in Wayne Circuit Court for the July 1984 death of his wife Ella

Marie Mercado-Fisher, 31. Mercado prodded Canton police to seek a warrant against Fisher and also is requesting Argentinian courts to prosecute his step-father for contributing to his mother's death in January 1984, Burress said.

'You have made a series of efforts to go to prosecution on this case, and you told them if they didn't go to prosecution that you would go to the media," Burress said. "This is the second member of your family you have accused of murder. You have accused your stepfather of murdering your mother. Is that right?

Mercado responded: "Yes."

DURING THE continuation hearing, Burress said despite court orders by Judge Garber and Judge Kaufman, he still was denied letters from Canton Police Lt. Larry Stewart to Mercado regarding the investigation.

He was given these letters Monday morning.

Stewart said he was involved in the case at the onset, and became less active in the investigation after January when he was named acting police chief.

Copies of letters he had written to Mercado were kept in a separate correspondence file rather than in a file compiled with information about the Fisher case, Stewart said. Burress also questioned Stewart about a report filed with Canton Police citing a "suspicous" man in a van near the Fisher's home the day Mercado-Fisher was attacked. Stewart said information was taken by telephone, and no other follow-up as far as he knew was made in connection with the Mer-

the Plymouth-Canton YMCA's Tae Kwon Do class demonstrations during the recent Plymouth Fall Festival. Both the Observer and the Fall Festival Board virtually ignored the group's n its schedule of events in the special Fall Festival supplement. And because the group did not appear on the bandstand in the park, Omnicom Cable TV videotaped only a portion of the dem onstration on Thursday night. They then cut that tape into small segments and used them as filler material between their live broadcasts. (Omnicom is scheduling more of the event to be shown at a later date.)

According to Janet Luce, director of the YMCA, all of the necessary infornation was given to the Fall Festival Board last spring. Also, according to Luce, the reason the group was forced to perform far down Main Street at the edge of the Festival area was because the board feared "someone might fall off the bandstand," and get hurt. Obviously neither Luce nor the board bothered to check with the instructor of the class about this. If they had, they would have learned that members of the class are often required to perform within a 12-foot square area. They were no more likely to fall off the bandstand than were any of the danccould well argue there had been a violation of the Open Meetings Act. A CLOUDIER case occurred last week in a meeting of the Special Committee on Governmental Integrity of the Wayne County Commission. This committee was to recommend a special factfinder to check out suspicions of conflict of interest, within County Executive William Lucas' administration, over multi-million-dollar contracts for renovation of the Old County Building.

It would behoove such a special committee as it undertakes such a sensitive probe, itself to be above suspicion — especially since Commission Chairman John Hertel of Harper Woods appointed himself and two members of his faction to the special committee Three problems arose

First, the special committee's meeting was not listed when the commission's agenda of meetings for the week was

Well, the Open Meetings Act allows candidates to request that an application remain confidential (the committee has no right on its own to keep them secret), but requires that "all interviews by a public oody for employment or appointment to a public office shall be held in an open meeting pursuant to this act."

Third, the committee discussed its rec ommendation behind closed doors. THAT PROCEDURE was indeed un-

Chairman Donald E. Petersen of Ford Motor Co. told a congressional subcommittee the first step to solving the national trade problem is for the federal government to balance its budget.

This should put downward pressure on interest rates, which will benefit the domestic economic climate," Peterson told a subcommittee of the Joint Economic Committee.

"Equally important, budget reductions will improve our international competitiveness and trade osition by reducing the demand for foreign capital, thereby leading to a more competitive exchange rate for the dollar."

FAVORING export stimulation over barriers to imports, Peterson outlined the rest of his program: . "The United States must continue to insist on improved access to overseas markets for U.S. products - equal to the access we accord our trading

In the East, various departments of major industries serve corn at their annual clambakes. They're located on the edge of town, and the bake is something special.

First, a huge hole is dug for the fire. An iron cover is placed over that, and then the food is placed row on row, with such foods as chicken, fish, potatoes (both Irish and sweet), then clams and corn until the mound of food reaches four to six

Indians built flourishing trade lines

Our awareness of the pre-history of America has been given an exciting new dimension with the arrival of 'Ancient Art of the American Woodland Indians," now on display at the Detroit Institute of Arts.

The public finally has a wonderful opportunity to see ancient native craftsmanship and appreciate its relationship to the vast system of trade and ancestor veneration found over most of the country east of the western prairies.

The exhibit's 4,500 year coverage is divided into three periods. The Late Archaic (3000-1000 B.C.); the Wood-lands (1000 B.C. to A.D. 900); and the Mississippian (A.D. 900-1500)

These divisions reflect changes in settlement and social patterns, from small groups of egalitarian, semi-nomadic hunters and gatherers to large socially stratified agricultural towns Accompanying this were parallel developments in artistic motifs and their use in trade and funeral practic-

Some of the bannerstones resemble bone segments, while others suggest butterflies, birds or abstract human-forms. They are simple, direct and beautifully modern.

Because hunting societies are always threatened by starvation, regional trade alliances were made which opened the way for the sharing. of resources when food shortages oc-

The trade networks also led to the movement of raw materials such as copper from the upper Great Lakes, marine shells from the Atlantic and Gulf of Mexico and soapstone from the central Appalachians. As the centuries passed, objects fashioned from these substances made their way throughout the country. Since these early peoples were constantly at the mercy of nature, they sought to control their world by achieving a spiritual balance among the polar forces of the universe. Representations of falcons and eagles from the upper world and those of fish, snakes and ducks from the underworld, with humans mediating in the middle, form the ancient Indian

These images were handcrafted in clay, stone, copper, mica, shell and wood and buried with the bones of family or clan members. This ritual unified the relatives and increased their status depending on their generosity. More importantly, it facilitated the journey of the dead to the resting place of the ancestors

THIS JOURNEY was crucial, for if the dead spirits were to remain among the living, disease and bad luck would follow. Even today, the apache and Navajo people burn the house and belongings of the deceased to keep the contaminated "death stuff" from bringing harm to the liv-

How elaborate the burial was depended at first on how successful a person was in conducting trade. As larger agricultural settlements evolved, the elite consisted of those whose spiritual powers were seen as descending from the sun, thus causing good corn crops.

Their mounds were large temple shrines, such as Cahokia and Etowa, full of relics and having marble or sandstone human figurines guarding the entrance.

Other more egalitarian cultures provided common burials to all. Since this burial complex absorbed so many artifacts there was a continuous demand for the workshops to produce

Most of us know that Indians used pipes to send offerings of smoke to enlist the aid of the Great Spirit for any important undertaking, be it war, peace or spiritual questing.

The animal effigy pipes in this show are the earliest surviving stone pipe artifacts beginning about 400

EACH ANIMAL is depicted in a characteristic pose howls, the raven, cardinal and owl perch, the falcon listens and looks and the beaver could be gnawing at a tree

These creatures continue to have spiritual meaning for Native Amerians today. They represent the essential relatedness of all living things. Black Elk, the Oglala Sioux holy man, said it this way, "The four-leggeds and the wings of the air and the mother earth were supposed to be relative-like ... through them we send up our voices and get help from the Great Spirit."

The catalogue for the show contains expert photographs by Dirk Bakker and well written chapters by David W. Penney, David F. Brose and A Brown concluding with a fine overview by Penney.

Penney, DIA curator and organizer of "Woodland," said the purpose of the show was to demonstrate the aesthetic qualities and the diversity of Indian culture and to correct the 19th century idea Americans had that ancient Indians were simply a race of mound builders. I think it accomplished all three goals.

The exhibit is free and runs until Nov. 10. For information concerning related events, call 833-1432.

The Lard and Lady of Glentrium Castle are determined to save their ancestral home in the Scottish Highlands. They have opened it to visitors and she's writing a book about the castle's ghosts.

Plotting to save the castle

Editor's note: The MacPherson name is spelled both with and without a capital "P. depending on the branch of the family

By Carmina Brooks special writer

The Laird and Lady of Glentrium Castle came to Michigan last week to meet their American cousins. Their home is a 14th-century castle on a 5,000 acre estate in the heart of the Scottish Highlands.

Interviewed in the Barclay Inn in Birmingham Euan (pronounced You-an) and Sandra Macpherson were celebrities among MacPhersons from the USA, Great Britain and Canada attending a threeday clan gathering held in Greenfield Village.

Macpherson is the fourth laird (a landed propri etor) of Glentrium whose ancestral castle sits 1,000 feet above sea level with a private game preserve.

Lady Sandra (pronounced Zandra) properly speaking, the Lady Glentrium (pronounced Glen-troom) is a trained nurse who met and came to love her titled Scottish chieftan, a psychologist, as they worked in the same hospital They now have two children, Katrina, 13, and La-

THE MACPHERSON family castle is a 15-bedroom granite structure. The ground floor features a grand dining room and an ancestral museum. Original parts of the castle were built in the 14th centubut early in the 19th century a fire destroyed much of the old structure and Macpherson's great grandfather rebuilt the castle as it stands today.

Any respectable castle has its ghosts and Glentri um is no exception

Lady Sandra did not anticipate when she married her Scottish chieftan that the spirits of warriors long dead in ancient battles would invade her bedroom, but she claims that is what happened.

The castle ghosts had always been warm and friendly until the night she saw an army march to battle through the walls of her bedroom. She was frightened, she said.

From his wife's description of her vision, Macpherson identified the army from family history. He said, "In 1386 the clans Macpherson and MacIntosh joined together to own and control all the territory in the heart of central Scotland for 50 miles. They had many enemies including the Camerons who brought 400 men to fight a bloody battle waged on a flatland just below the castle Glentrium. The Camerons were put to flight and their chief was chased to a nearby mountain where he was killed. To this day, that particular hill is named after him

The days of the clan blood feuds in Scotland have long since passed, but like the legendary mountain boys of Kentucky, the Campbells once feuded with the Macphersons.

"History has given the wrong impression of Scot Highlanders who are really a peaceful people," Macpherson said. "Most of the feuds of the Middle Ages were the result of economic pressures. Cattle was taken to survive and this caused wars.

THE CASTLE has another ghost who heralds her visits by first appearing in the form of a seagull "to draw our attention " explained Lady Sandra. "Then she comes later in her proper form."

The Laird himself doesn't see ghosts. His, only explanation of why his own ancestors appear to his wife and children and not to him is because "I am a complete sceptic."

Then seven years ago something happened to soften that scenticism.

When his son was three years old he saw the ghost of a young woman while father and son were "Lachlan kept saying, 'Daddy, daddy, See the lady!' I could see by his eye and finger movements that he was obviously observing something I could not see," Macpherson recalled. This lady ghost has been identified as Jane, a great, great, grand-aunt who appears to the chil dren. A painting of Jane as a young woman hangs on a castle wall and the likeness to their daughter Katrina is remarkable, Lady Sandra said. In her physical life, Jane lived to be an octogenerian in a home on the estate about two m''es from the castle. The house caught fire and Jane burned to death. She is buried in the nearby private cemetery where the boy first saw her.

Macpherson said, "Since I have become less skeptical and more sensitive, now when I visit other castles, I can sense an atmosphere, sometimes a feeling that is cold and unfriendly.

Could it be the ghosts of Carnerons or Camp-

THE MACPHERSONS are reticent to fully discuss their family ghosts. It isn't because they are embarrassed by them, but because Lady Sandra has written a collection of six tales soon to be published about the family's experiences with the ghosts. She also hopes to sell television rights to the

"They are not fiction. They actually occurred. she said.

Lady Sandra is also the author of cook books including "Dinner in a Scottish Castle" soon to be available in local book stores.

"The old Highland estates of long and proud tradition are now being sold to non-Scottish people, Laird Macpherson said. "This is sad. We are the last family household of the Macpherson chieftan still living on the original estate.

"Trying to keep a thousand years of family history alive and maintaining a castle today is very dif-ficult," he continued. "But we will succeed because we must keep this for our son."

For that reason the Glentrium Castle is open to international tourists.

Feelings of Scottish identity are increasing and Glentrium receives visitors from America and Europe every year, Macpherson said.

This is the first time we have come to meet our American cousins who are members of the Mac-Pherson clan. We feel an enormous warmth and kindness. The clan association is part of our heritage and provides great enjoyment and close friendships.

Tourists who are lucky enough to share a few days with the Macphersons in their castle can search through old documents in the museum, one which traces the family tree back to the 11th centu-

They can look at old mortgage contracts, photographs, stage coach timetables and relics of family travels including some from the Napoleonic wars.

They can sit after dinner in a Scottish castle before a huge fireplace and hear haunting music that survives the centuries plucked from the strings of a Gaelic harp, while the ghosts of Castle Glentrium listen and silently applaud.

Music Guild opens 34th season

Cranbrook Music Guild celebrates its 34th year with the opening of its sixconcert season with the Arden Trio of New York City on Tuesday, Oct. 15.

Cranbrook House, the setting for the series, adds an old world aura to the chamber music presented in the paneled oak library. The house, originally the residence of Cranbrook's founders Ellen Scripps and George Booth, is built in the style of an English manor house with many of the original furnishings still in evidence.

One of the prime attractions of this series will be 20-year old Ana-Maria Vera, French pianist on Tuesday, Nov. 12. Her recent appearances include the Cleveland Symphony Orchestra, the Berlin Festival and the Prague Chamber Orchestra in Copenhagen.

When she was nine, she performed with the Boston Pops and the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra and later played at Kennedy Center and the White House. Her program will include the B Minor Sonata by Liszt which she has recorded for Philips Records.

The Arden Trio came together while the members were piano students at Yale. Their Carnegie Hall debut was followed by concerts in 40 cities.

On Tuesday, Dec. 17, the University of Michigan-Flint Chamber Singers will sing Medieval and contemporary music. The 20-member costumed group will have a colorful backdrop with Cranbrook House already decorated for the holiday season.

THE THREE concerts in the new year will be Tuesday Feb. 11, the De-Vos String Quartet: March 11, Timothy Miller saxophone; and April 15, the Cleveland Duo.

The DeVos String Quartet is composed of principals from the Grand Rapids Symphony Orchestra. They recently gave a joint concert with the New World Quartet and have performed extensively in Michigan.

Miller, saxophonist and graduate student at University of Michigan, is this year's winner of the Betty Brewster Scholarship. His performance on March 11 is the annual Young Artists Concert, a tradition with the Guild.

Stephen and Carolyn Warner, the Cleveland Duo, are both violinists with day, 5200 Woodward Ave., Detroit.

It's an epidemic of people who can't read.

Believe it or not, 27 million Americans are functionally illiterate, about one adult in five. Forty-seven million more are able to read on only the most minimal level. Together, that's almost 75 million Americans...one third of our entire population.

The solution to this problem is you...when you join the fight against illiteracy. So call the Coalition for Literacy at toll-free

THE OBSERVER recently published a photograph of the Centennial Educational Park's National Merit Scholarship semifinalists. Six students appeared in the photograph, but the words beneath the picture indicated seven CEP seniors were semifinalists.

The seventh was missing from the photograph and unnamed Heather Bodell, the missing NMS semifinalist, was not available > for a very good reason. She is spending the year in Germany, Last spring, she and Janet McKeon were selected to receive Congress-Bundestag Youth Exchange Heather Bodell

Scholarships to live and study in Germany for a year. I ney, along with several other students from Plymouth Canton and Plymouth Salem high schools, applied for the scholarships last fall

It wasn't easy. Applications included 12 questions to be answered in paragraph form as well as a 500-word essay on the challenges facing U.S.-West German relations. A committee of teachers at each high school reviewed the applications, interviewed the students and selected one student to represent each school. These applications were sent to Washington, D.C., along with thousands of others from across the United States to select the semifinalists. These students went through an extensive interview process in their home states

FIRST, EACH student had a personal

a group session of five students worked together to hypothetical social relations problem. Only 16 of the Michigan semifinalists were selected for the scholarship. Among them were Heather, from Plymouth Salem, and Janet, from Plymouth Canton High

The scholarship is sponsored by the U.S. Congress and the West German Bundestag, After a few days in Washington, the 426 winner from the United States left in July to live and study in West Germany for one year. They attended a summer language school for a few weeks, Heather living with a family near Frankfurt, and Janet with a family near Zurich. Then they joined their 'permanent families' - Janet in Munich and Heather in a small town outside Braunschweig, near the East German border

They will visit Berlin and attend sessions of the West German congress. They will stop in Washington on their way home next July to make a presentation to the U.S. Congress.

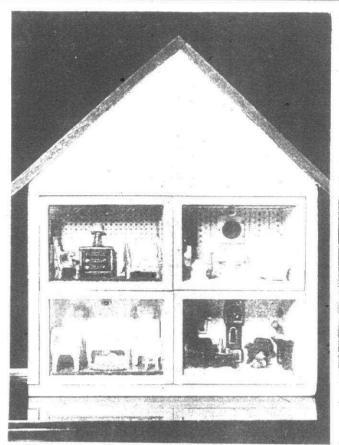

Heather's parents are Timothy and Diane Bodell and Janet's, Jim and Shirley McKeon, all of Plymouth Township.

The above clears up the mystery of the missing seventh NMS semifinalist. Heather Bodell missed the Observer photographer because she is in West Germany

SPECIAL OLYMPICS is a project near and dear to the hearts of Plymouth-Canton Civitans. And now the whole community can help them in a fund-raiser. For every 16 ounce Citrus Hill Select Frozen Concentrate can top collected, Wayne County Special Olympics will receive 25 cents. And for each 25 cents earned in the Plymouth-Canton area, the local club will receive 121/2 cents for its own Special Olympics program.

Citrus Hill-Special Olympic collection boxes are in Danny's, Farmer Jack's, Stan's Market, Great Scott!, and Spartan's main office in Plymouth, as well as Kroger and Meijer's in Canton. Save the entire can top, drop it in one of these boxes, and the local Civitans will receive credit. The club is planning to place canisters in schools and churches, too.

Janet Cavanaugh's "wee house," on exhibit at the Plymouth Historical Museum, is just three inches high from base to roof peak.

Pam Anderson's Shell Shop brings memories of winter vacations and shell huntings on a Florida Island.

Lil Griffin was awarded Best of Show at the Michigan State Fair for her four-storied Victorian house

Special exhibit features works of miniaturists

The fall exhibit in the Plymouth Historical Museum displays the works of area miniaturists. They are members of the National Association of Miniature Enthusiasts (NAME). They have their own branch of the national association, The LITTLE Club, working at the local level with the Little Experience shop, 1049 S. Main, Plymouth.

LITTLE stands for League of Interested Tiny Treasure-Loving Enthusi-

Miniaturists usually work on a scale of one inch to one foot or 1:12. But among the houses on display at the museum is a model that measures about three inches from base to the peak of Janet Cavanaugh of Redford Township used a scale of 1:1728 for her four-room house and the furnishings. Her peddler's wagon, with all its paraphernalia, was built on a 1:12 scale. The Ramblin Man's Store was a winner at the Michigan State Fair.

LIL GRIFFIN used a 1:24 scale on her four-story Victorian house that was named best of show at the State Fair.

Pam Anderson's Shell Shop brings back memories of shell gathering on a Florida island during winter vacations. It was built on a 1:12 scale. The rattan chair was bought at Frank's Nursery.

"You can buy a miniature of almost anything," said Anderson, who arranges seasonal exhibits at the Plymouth Historical Museum. Doll house scale. Anderson had difficulty in furnishing her daughter Amy's doll house, which is in the display of miniatures, because it is not to the standard scale.

The Lundby doll house was manufactured in Sweden by a company that also made furniture and appliances in the 1:16 scale. The Swedish company went bankrupt, and the only American company that manufactured the offscale furniture went out of business. Owners of Lundby doll houses cannot find furniture to fit.

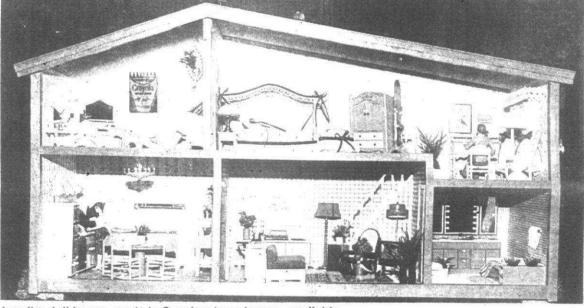

Anderson suggests that the Swedish doll houses and their furnishings will increase in value as they become collector's items.

The hand-painted furniture and accessories had a definite Scandinavian look. Kitchen appliances have perfect details, the dishwasher pulls out, and refrigerator is complete with shelves and bins.

THE HISTORICAL Museum is open 1-4 p.m. Thursday, Saturday and Sun-Admission is $1 for adults, 50 day. cents for youths 11-17, and 25 cents for children 5-10.

The miniatures exhibit features houses, rooms and outdoor scenes. It includes a teddy bears picnic and a fishing scene, a green house, flower shop, dining room and nurseries.

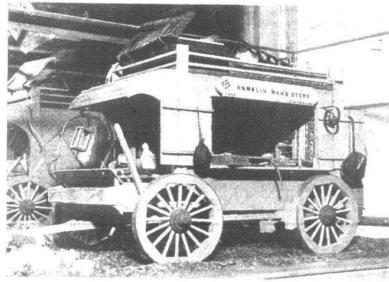

One exhibit shows how to make a miniature project from start to finish

Lundby doll house, made in Sweden, is no longer available.

The peddler's wagon was a winner at the Michigan State Fair. The wagon and all the items aboard are built on a 1:1

conference

A leading self-motivational speaker and two women "success stories" will headline the Women in Sales conference Saturday, Oct. 12, at Mercy College in Detroit.

Sponsored by Professional Women in Sales, the event will feature Ira Hayes, Ruth Jeffries and Stephanie Tanton as keynote speakers.

Hayes — the "ambassador of en-thusiam" as he's been tagged — has been featured at more than 4,000 national and international conventions and motivational rallies with audiences ranging as high as 18,000. The author of two book, "Yak, Yak, Yak" and "Success, Go for It," he is the past president of the National Speakers Association and is recognized as one of the mostpopular motivational speakers in the country today.

His address at the luncheon is expected to be both "stimulating as well as practical," noted a Professional Women in Sales spokeswoman, "because he will describe the fundamental techniques that illustrate his belief that enthusiasm and success are skills you

JEFFRIES AND Tanton will lead separate workshops, but they also will work together in the general session, each presenting her own point of view on issues critical to women.

'Moving Up in the Organization." She will address the qualities and skills necessary to move from a "strictly sales" environment to corporate positions with broader managerial responsibilities. Some of the topics to be discussed are dealing with technical and administrative subordinates, moving beyond first-level management and profit and loss orientation

Jeffries is a branch manager for Motorola Information Systems which sells computers to Fortune 500 companies in Michigan and northwest Ohio. Before becoming a sales manager five years ago, she was in Motorola's computer and data processing service sales divi-

Gout's pain drugs helped

Gout has spelled intense pain to sufferers since the dawn of mankind. It. inflicted itself on the ancient Romans and brought agony to our own parents.

But today gout may be controlled, ac-cording to Independence Health Plan. Gout affects the joints and kidneys as a result of the buildup of uric acid in the tissues. Uric acid salt forms needlelike crystals in one or more joints, creating extreme pain and inflamation The buildup normally is due to unusually high production of uric acid or slower elimination of it than is required. Contrary to popular thought, gout is not caused by over-indulgence, though overweight people with gout tend to have greater difficulty than those with normal weight. Although it tends to run in families, it is not always hereditary.

Over a million people are victims of this type of arthritis today, but recently-developed medicines provide relief. Older medicine such as colchicine were developed by the ancient Egyptians and used until a few years ago. Howev-er, side effects were often painful.

New medicines have been developed to aid the body in producing less uric acid or to eliminate it faster.

Live Aid recently called attention to the famine in Ethiopia. Last Sunday's Farm Aid concert focused on farmers in distress. This Sunday, 20 Livonia churches have banded together for CROP Aid - a walk against hunger that exists in all parts of the world. The CROP walk will begin at 1:30 p.m. at St. Matthew United Methodist Church, 30900 Six Mile, Livonia. Anyone interested in joining the march has only to show up at the church to do so. For more information or to make a contribution, call Carol O'Connor, 357-5018, or the Rev. Ron Carey, 261-6950. Shown here are marchers who participated in last year's musical/drama by Paul Patton at the group's historic playhouse, 38840 Six Mile, Livonia. It's the story of four people in their 30s who relive the antics and the agonies of their eighth-grade class in 1965. You remember 1965. Johnson was in the White House, the astronauts were still circling the earth and American servicemen were in Vietnam. Thirteen-yearold Beny Hopkins was in junior high, but he would rather have been in Vietnam or dead. He was among other things, a nerd, the resident "cootie" and the last one to be picked for the baseball team. Though better times were to come for Benny, at the time he was no match for the "frats" and "greasers" of his day. They appreciate Homer Wolke

To the editor:

We'd like to take this opportunity to recognize Homer Wolke, and to thank him for his time and effort spent as chairman of the Senior Men's Club of Canton. Homer has been chairman since the group's formation in 1980. We hope to see him on Wednesday afternoons, relaxing and enjoying the club he worked so hard to create.

Greg Dingens, scholar-athlete

HERE ARE SCHOLARS. There are athletes. And nary the two should meet. How could they? Athletes are prodigious physically, able to coordinate hands, feet and body with amazing dexterity. Scholars are adept mentally, able to conquer intricate problems with incredible ease.

The two have been considered separate entities for eons. Eggheads can't throw a baseball a lick. And jocks are forever epitomized as big, burly and empty-headed.

On our college campuses the stereotypes prevail, feeding off what students perceive scholarship athletes to be, an image that often is accurate: a poor kid with mediocre grades who wouldn't be here if he was average-sized.

Student-athlete has become to many, including college administrators, a contradiction in terms.

THEN ALONG comes someone like Greg Dingens, and a belief that was accepted as a law of nature suddenly crumbles like a Tokyo skyscraper under Godzilla's foot.

Dingens doesn't like stereotypes (but who does?). He doesn't fit any, either Dingens plays football for Notre Dame. He stands 6-foot-5, weighs 257, and starts at defensive tackle. Sounds like a candidate for Big Time Wrestling or some other such cerebral profession.

But the Bloomfield Hills native and Birmingham Brother Rice graduate is nothing of the sort. Instead, he is a candidate for a Rhodes Scholarship, the most prestigious of academic

A senior, Dingens is in Notre Dame's preprofessional program in the College of Arts and Letters. His major is modern history. He carries a 3.77 grade point average. His career goal, at present, is to become a orthopaedic surgeon.

And his primary reason for enrolling at Notre Dame was not to play football. It was to get an

"EVERY SCHOOL that recruits you will say academics are important, that they want you to get your degree," Dingens said. "That's just lipsyncing at most schools. I looked for a school with a commitment to academics. I thought they had that at Notre Dame." The conflict between academics and athletics is heading for a showdown. College presidents are becoming increasingly involved in the NCAA and the governing of athletics. Scandals, from drugs to recruiting violations to throwing games for gamblers, have cast dark shadows on otherwise highly-respected institutions.

Fewer athletes earn their degrees each year. Critics claim many are exploited by universities, who recruit them, coddle them for four years without regard for their academic achievement.

Dingens doesn't buy that. Not entirely, anyway. "I don't think there's that much exploitation of athletes," he said. "I believe that most major universities give you an opportunity to get a

"The opportunity is there. I don't think there are major college programs that discourage going to classes.

BUT AT THE SAME time, Dingens admits, 'Most colleges are passive in their encouragement. They take the attitude that You're here to play football, then get an

"But a lot of guys would never get an opportunity for a college education otherwise." Dingens' committment to academic, as well as athletic, excellence takes tremendous selfdiscipline. Football fills his afternoons, from 'about two in the afternoon to 8:30 at night.

Book work and classes take up the rest of Dingens' day. And yet, as hectic as the schedule is, it could all be worthwhile if he becomes the first Notre Dame football player to earn a Rhodes

"I'm in the process of applying for it now, Dingens said. Colleges who believe a student of theirs is worthy of one of the 32 Rhodes Scholarships awarded each year start an involved process that includes a series of interviews at the school, state, district and national level.

SHOULD DINGENS win a Rhodes Scholarship, he'll spend his two years at Oxford, England, studing modern history. He'll either get a deferral to attend medical school at a later date, or may change his career plans. "This is the kind of opportunity that only comes once in a lifetime," Dingens said. "Who knows, after I do go over there and study I may change my mind (about med school). A Rhodes Scholarship could open a lot of doors for me." Studying vs. sports, athlete vs. scholar, two opposing forces attracted to the same goal college - for different reasons. And for far too many of our college-level athletes, that conception remains too true.

Greg Dingens is the exception. "Opportunity" is the best word to describe this scholar-athlete, a man who has earned all he's received, who has made the most of his chances.

College student-athletes need to know about Greg Dingens. They need to know how he's used his cost-free four years of education. They need to know that college isn't a stepping stone to professional sports; rather, it's a bridge to a better world — toll-free.

Rocks send Churchill packing

Salem's Dena Head (No. 43) threw up the little highway robbery on Churchill's Julie road block and Suzie Balconi performed a Scruggs Tuesday.

If somebody had a choice between guarding Plymouth Salem's Dena Head and going to Siberia, they might've checked the condition of their winter

The Rocks' 5-foot-11 center put a chill into Livonia Churchill as she scored 25 points Tuesday night, leading host Salem to a 56-36 rout over the Chargers in a Western Lakes game.

It was the second 25-point performance by Head in as many games. She scored the same number last week in Salem's win over Livonia Stevenson.

On this night, Head was too much for the Chargers to handle as she drew fouls, rebounded and played some tenacious defense. From the line, she was 7-

Canton 'steals' one from John Glenn

By Brad Emons staff writer

There may be a warrant out for Beth Frigge's arrest if she ever returns to the Westland John Glenn gymnasium.

It was a case of highway robbery as the pint-sized senior point guard came up with 12 steals in leading Plymouth Canton to a surprisingly easy 44-26 Western Lakes Activities Association (WLAA) girls basketball victory over the Rockets in a battle of unbeatens.

The win may have raised a few eyebrows around the WLAA.

"This puts us in a nice position," said Canton first-year coach Rob Neu, whose team is 6-0 overall. "We beat two good teams on the road (Churchill and Canton), and now we're coming home. (Canton faces unbeaten Livonia Franklin tonight).

Frigge, who led all scorers with 13 points, was simply larcenous in the victory, robbing a shaky Glenn backcourt

"Beth plays so hard," Neu said. "She has great quickness, and she recognizes everything on the floor. She makes good decisions and does a great job of establishing the tempo."

Ex-Rock hammering at Hillsdale

The interception Jeff Hubert made that started Hillsdale College on its way to a 21-7 triumph over Wisconsin-Whitewater Sept. 14 — and eventually led to Hubert's selection as Great Lakes Intercollegiate Athletic Conference (GLIAC) defensive player of the week - was made four days before the game

"It was an easy read," said the senior strong safe-ty from Plymouth Salem. "When the play's developing, I can tell what's coming. In this case, the quarterback didn't look people off. The receiver ran a curl pattern right in front of me, and I just stepped in front of him."

Read and react, read and react - that's what Hubert must do each and every play as Hillsdale's strong safety. He has the size (6-foot, 200-pounds) necessary to play the run like a linebacker, but he must be able to play pass defense with equal profi-

Against Whitewater, Hubert's primary responsibility was to help cover receivers running shorter patterns in the flat. If there were none in his area, he would pick up backs coming out on patterns.

WHAT THE WHITEWATER quarterback didn't know was how well Hubert knew his job. "Curls and outs seem to be big pass patterns in

You do that three or four times a week, and you get pretty used to it."

So when the Whitewater quarterback launched his errant aerial, Hubert gladly grabbed it and scampered 35 yards for the game's first touchdown Hubert also knocked down two other passes and had seven tackles in the game.

Last Saturday, the Chargers improved to 2-0 with a 23-7 win over Ashland College. And once again,
