GOLDEN YEAR: Dunbar Davis, the former 35th District judge after whom the Dunbar Davis Hall of Justice is named, is among 99 lawyers who are members of the State Bar of Michigan marking their 50th year in the practice of law in 1987.

Davis started his legal career in the year Franklin D. Roosevelt was inaugurated for his second term, the year the dirigible "Hindenburg" blew up in Lakehurst, N.J., and the year Joe Louis won the heavyweight boxing title.

SINGING SANTILLAN: If you tuned into the Tiger game on national television Saturday, you may have heard a Canton resident singing the American and Canadian national anthems. Dr. Dennis Santillan was accompanied by Ontario's Chatham Concert Band. The Dearborn eye doctor "has one of the most beautiful voices you've ever heard. We're making another Frank Sinatra out of him," says local recording studio owner Bruce Young.

POSTER CONTEST: The Canton Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring a poster coloring contest as part of Fire Prevention Week this week.

The first and second place winners in the two grade levels (grades 1-3 and 4-6) will receive $50 U.S. Savings Bonds provided by Bob Evans Restaurant, Community Federal Credit Union, Draw-Tite, Inc. and Modern Insurance Agency. Students should talk to their teachers and principals about their class participating in the contest, said Frank McMurray, who is directing the contest for the chamber.

McDonald's of Canton, through owner Bob Card and assistant Nora Pawlus, is providing the refreshments at the open house awards ceremonies at 3 p.m. Friday, Oct. 23, in the Canton Township Administration Building.

RED OCTOBER: Residents are invited to Canton Public Library tomorrow (Tuesday) at 7 p.m. to share their reaction to Tom Clancy's book, "The Hunt for Red October." All are welcome.

CLOSE UP: Local high school students have been invited by the Close Up Foundation to send students to Washington, D.C., for an intense look into the workings of the federal government. Both Plymouth Salem and Plymouth Canton high schools, which have participated in past years, have been invited. Students spend a week questioning various Washington journalists, members of Congress and experts on both foreign and domestic issues.

REMINDER: The issuing of the commemorative Plymouth-to-Plymouth balloon mail is being bought by some families to serve as a reminder of promises made to each other to live drug-free lives.

The balloon mail is a fund-raising effort for Straight, Inc., a drug rehabilitation center for young people with its Michigan headquarters in Plymouth. Among the early purchasers are some who are buying the balloon mail covers for each member of the family. The mail is then delivered from Plymouth, Mass. The four-color cover will be framed and hung on the bedroom wall of each young person in the family. The framed cover serves as a reminder of the contract agreement made earlier never to use drugs.

Fire Prevention Week

Area fire chiefs offer tips on playing it safe

By Doug Funke
staff writer

This is Fire Prevention Week.

So what are you doing to prevent fires around your house? Have you talked to your children about escape plans in the event of fire?

When was the last time you checked the batteries in your smoke detectors?

Have you considered activating the detector manually so young children know when to leave the house should it sound on its own?

Do you have the number of your fire department right by the telephone so precious time isn't lost during emergencies?

In Canton, it's 981-1111; in the city of Plymouth, 911; and in Plymouth Township, 911 or 453-2545.

Do you know what to do in emergency fire situations?

You're frying food on an oven burner and a grease fire develops. Do you:

A) Pour water on the frying pan.

B) Grab the frying pan and throw it into the sink.

C) Cover the frying pan and turn off the burner.

The correct answer is C — cover the pan and turn off the burner. Water and quick movements involving the pan could cause a fire to spread.

True or false — If your clothing catches fire, run quickly so the wind effect will put it out.

Answer — false. Stop, drop and roll. Running will fan the flames.

True or false — A professional cleaning of a fireplace chimney is recommended every year.

True.

The theme for Fire Prevention Week this year is "Play It Safe, Plan Your Escape." That means discussing and practicing a plan of action with your family.

"Sitting down with kids, (talk about) where to meet, two ways out — the whole ball of wax," said Canton fire Capt. Art Winkel.

"I want to urge the parents to take the time with children to go over home fire escape plans," said Larry Groth, fire chief in Plymouth Township. "Children can't do it alone. It takes the parents to help."

"The biggest thing regarding prevention is to install smoke detectors in the home and make sure they're functional," said Al Matthews, fire chief in the city of Plymouth.

All three fire departments will host open houses this week. Firefighters will give tours, pass out informational pamphlets and try to answer specific questions.

Canton's two stations, at Cherry Hill and Canton Center roads and on Warren just west of Haggerty, will receive visitors from 2-8 p.m.

The city's station, at Main and Church, will take visitors 8 a.m.-5 p.m. and Plymouth Township's two stations, at Ann Arbor Road and Lilley and on Wilcox west of Haggerty, will take visitors 1-8 p.m.

Nov. 4 vote set in waste site dispute

By M.B. Dillon
staff writer

Canton Township residents may find out next month whether 200 acres of prime industrial land off Michigan Avenue will become the site of a $10 million solid waste landfill.

The township board and planning commission have rejected Wayne Disposal-Canton's proposal for the property, traversed by Lilley Road south of Michigan.

About 2,000 people live in the immediate area, including residents of a mobile home park 1,400 feet to the east.

—THE FIRM is petitioning the Wayne County Solid Waste Plan Implementation Committee, which by law can force communities to accept landfills.

Comprised of representatives from county and local governments, the solid waste industry, labor, consumer and environmental groups, the committee is expected to vote on the application Nov. 4 at a time and site yet to be set.

At a lengthy public hearing Wednesday, committee members listened to landfill operators, township officials, residents, waste haulers and recycling advocates.

Michael Miller, Wayne Disposal's manager of planning and development, urged the committee to act, saying, "It is important we do something about waste disposal now. We have only four years' remaining capacity in Wayne County."

Miller said the proposed landfill would:

County unveils new anti-drug program

By Susan Buck
staff writer

Wayne County Prosecutor John D. O'Hair will bring professional athletes to the Silverdome Tuesday to initiate an anti-drug campaign at metropolitan high schools.

Centennial Educational Park student representatives and advisers will attend the news conference that will kick off "A Big League Challenge: Crackdown of Drugs" — a four-county program that will challenge high school students to score points based on various anti-drug programs in existence in their schools.

THE LURE OF meeting and being photographed with the pros also is an incentive.

"We're hoping to have Isiah Thomas from the Detroit Pistons, Dave Lewis from the Detroit Red Wings and Eddie Murray from the Detroit Lions at the conference,' said assistant prosecuting attorney John Thompson, who is spearheading the project.

"The nice thing about this program is that no public tax money is being used. Businesses and services in the metropolitan area have contributed $50,000."

Twenty-five schools in Wayne, Oakland, Macomb and Genessee counties will participate. The seven schools scoring the most points in the competition will be declared winners.

And to the winners come the irresistible spoils.

These include awards of merit, tickets to Pistons, Red Wing and Lions games/practices, games that will be specifically dedicated to the winning schools, and radio and/or television interviews.

'The nice thing about this program is that no public tax money is being used. Businesses and services in the metropolitan area have contributed $50,000.'

Somber speech of death, war enlivens students

By Doug Funke
staff writer

What did students at Centennial Educational Park get out of a talk last week by the father of a young American engineer killed in Nicaragua last spring?

A personal account of history in the making. And a realization that planet Earth isn't always a friendly, secure place.

"It makes us aware what's going on in the world," noted Monica Niroola, a Plymouth Salem High junior. "If kids care, I think the future will be better."

Dr. David Linder spoke of his son Benjamin, who was murdered April 28 while helping to build a dam.

Linder appeared in the Detroit area to encourage travel to Nicaragua and to raise money for completion of the dam project, said Jim Salczynski, a Plymouth Canton High teacher who arranged the campus visit.

LINDER matter-of-factly described his son's violent death — shot in the head at close range — to a packed auditorium, then showed slides of his son's experiences in Nicaragua.

Several other students who heard the talk offered comments afterwards.

"I haven't totally understood what was going on. He more or less helped me," said Jim Riemenschneider, a Canton High senior. "It showed his son was killed for a positive cause but he was killed."

RACHEL THIET, a Salem senior, is active in the campus organization Plymouth and Canton Students for Peace.

"I always like to take the time to share and interact with people who have first-hand experience in Nicaragua," she said. "It inspires me more because each time, I come closer and closer to the truth."

Thiet said she hopes to visit Nicaragua some day.

Sara Golightley, a Salem junior, said she was saddened by the senselessness of the violence.

Kathy Schlegel, a Salem junior, had similar thoughts. "I think it's kind of upsetting we can't go somewhere else and trust them."

"Everywhere you go, you have to be careful what you do, who you talk to, what you say just to survive," said Amy Schlabach, a Salem junior.

Salczynski set-up Linder visit through a friend.

"I think the overall purpose is basically to give a more well-rounded view, to hear all sides of the issue,"

What David Linder told CEP students

- "Ben's concept of revolution was to empower people to be in control of their environment."
- "Contras, by policy, try to destroy everything that's good, everything that's productive, in an area."
- "The gun is very much part of their daily life."
- "War is a cruel reality."
- "Things have to change there. There's too much death."

Planned landfill upsets families

Phyllis Herig was one of the residents testifying Wednesday against the Wayne Disposal-Canton landfill proposal. Herig examines a Juniper bush on her property, the proposed site of Wayne Disposal's landfill near Lilley Road and Michigan Avenue.

years' waste disposal.

- be set back from Michigan Avenue to accommodate industrial development, and
- provide 25-30 jobs, energy recovery capability and a recycling center.

ODORS AND dust would be minimal, as paved roads in the landfill would be cleaned regularly. Groundwater quality would not be endangered, as clay on the site is 60-80 feet deep, Miller said.

An action committee would determine a final use for the land, which would be contoured to a height of 100 feet. Possibilities include revegetation and recreational uses, he said.

As incentives to Canton, Wayne Disposal has promised free dumping, royalties on energy sales and the establishment of a citizens advisory committee.

"We need land for waste disposal . . . but we've discussed the renumeration being offered, and it's totally unacceptable to the board," said James Poole, Canton supervisor and implementation committee member.

Both Poole and committee chairman Milt Mack expressed concern about how the above-mentioned provisions could be enforced.

Dave Nicholson, director of Canton's community and economic development department, strongly opposed the plan, saying "we need to plan for something better for the future and the economy of the county."

Approving the proposal would establish the "southern belt of I-275 as a landfill area," discouraging major developers from locating nearby.

Vacating Lilley, which would end up garbage-covered, "is totally unworkable." It would deny access to school buses and emergency vehicles, Nicholson said.

GARY DELL, spokesman for Canton Hills — a subdivision of custom homes 1,700 away from the proposed landfill — opposes adding to "an unusual concentration of dumps" already in the area.

The sub's 100 families say the landfill would violate both the Wayne County Solid Waste Management Plan and the township's master land use plan.

Increased traffic, dust, litter, noise and odor would detract from the quality of life, and the landfill would pose a danger to drinking water and Willow Run Airport traffic, they said in a letter.

"Canton need not bear the brunt of becoming a landfill center for the whole county, nor should any community just because the land is suitable," said Dell.

Phyllis and Henry Herig live near Michigan and Lilley on acreage "that's been in the family for over 100 years," Phyllis Herig said. White-tailed deer, great-horned owls and red-tailed hawk live among the maple, oak and aspen trees, wild rose, raspberry and wild carrot plants that grow in what used to be the Herig family nursery.

"It's unbelievable there, it's so pretty. But if we don't sell, we will be in the dump area.

"We care about the land and the beauty of that area," Herig said.

"Wayne-Disposal has made offers to buy our property. We've held out hoping there wouldn't be a landfill there. We can see their side, but we hope our side is seen too. We don't want a blighted, depressed area."

Commercial haulers urged the committee to OK the landfill.

They complained of escalating dumping costs, the lack of landfill space and monopolistic firms pushing smaller operators out of business.

"Hauling costs are up 150 percent in the last year and a half. It's imperative we have a landfill here. The location is ideal," said the owner of a family hauling business.

Father tells son's story

Salczynski said. "Over the summer, I think we were inundated by Ronald Reagan," Oliver North and George Schultz. To be accurate, I think you need to hear all sides."

The CEP often hosts guest speakers throughout the school year.

Linder said afterwards he didn't really know what he accomplished with his talk.

"Here was a person who followed his star, then got killed," he said of his son. "I hope other people follow their star."

Drug program begins

Tentative plans also include a visit from one of the pros who will address the students at assembly.

"I think more kids are exposed to more things that they used to be," said Dan Riggs, Plymouth Canton High activities director and football coach, who is organizing the CEP project.

LOCALLY, ABOUT 30 CEP students along with four staff members will travel to the Silverdome Tuesday.

Four members of the two student councils, who are juniors, will be representatives. They are: Lisa Heinrich and Nick Paramucha, who will represent Plymouth Canton High, and Lisa Foust and David Neilson, who will serve as Plymouth Salem High representatives.

"I think that it would be a good idea if we could win this," said Heinrich. "If a big sports guy came, it would be a real to-do" for students.

A student representative who has been in the Aftercare Program at CEP for five weeks also will be involved in the competition. Aftercare is a four-year-old CEP drug rehabilition program, which has aided 175 students since its inception, said Mary Vertrees, program co-director.

The Aftercare student rep also is involved in Growth Works, a Plymouth-based job counseling agency. He hopes that the competition will inspire other schools to initiate programs like Aftercare, as well as educate teachers.

"I don't think teachers really know which kids are chemically dependent," he said. Because teachers are often unable to recognize a chemically dependent student, they enable him to continue his habit, he said.

Teachers may be reluctant to take responsibility and get involved, he added.

According to Thompson, the Drug Enforcement Association will provide special training for counselors and teachers from participating schools.

New school lunch service starts soon

Thanks to a $23,000 expenditure OK'd by the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education, students at Plymouth Salem High School soon will be welcomed to "The Grand Market Place" at lunchtime each day.

"It's a new concept in school lunch service designed to eliminate long lines" and to give students more choices, said school food service officials.

Equipment bought from Canton's Miesel-Sysco Co. is expected to pay for itself within a year. "The Grand Market Place" is offered at Plymouth Canton High School.

Menu selections include "The Wild Pizza," "The Delicatessen," "Bun Appetite," "Main Event," "Green Stuffs" and "Sweet Sensations."

Fruits, vegetables, rolls, snack items and baked goods complement the entrees.

Copier cost questioned

Paying the bills is usually routine business for Plymouth-Canton school board members. But a charge of $32,775 to repair 43 copy machines is "outlandish," administrators and trustees agreed.

"I don't know how I can justify spending almost $1,000 per machine," said school board member Roland Thomas.

Part of the problem is that school staffers are using copiers "as a print shop. They're not designed for that purpose," said Superintendent John Hoben.

"There should be guidelines on what should and shouldn't be copied," trustee Jeanette Wines said. The district's print center is under used, she added.

Thomas Rose, director of purchasing, said 70 percent of copier costs result from routine maintenance.

"Handcuffed" into paying this bill, board members asked Hoben to examine whether more copier maintenance couldn't be handled in-house.

Rocky road

Car hit by thrown rock

There's nothing like a rock crashing through your windshield to get your attention.

"It gets your attention real quick," said Geoffrey Fogarty, 48, of Plymouth.

Fogarty is a supervisor at Action, a company near Schoolcraft and the Southfield Freeway that cleans paint tanks so they can be refilled with fresh paint.

ON TUESDAY, he left work and was driving west on the Jeffries Freeway toward Plymouth.

As he approached the Inkster overpass in Redford at about 5:20 p.m., Fogarty said something hit the windshield.

"I just grabbed the wheel and prayed," he said.

That "something," according to Fogarty, was a rock some three inches in diameter that shattered his windshield and sprayed him with shards of glass.

He kept control of his Monte Carlo, pulled to the side of the freeway and called Redford police.

Fogarty said he was just driving and not paying attention as he approached the overpass, so he doesn't know who might have been up there.

However, Fogarty's positive the rock didn't fall, but was thrown off the overpass.

"It hit right on the driver's side. Somebody knew what they were doing."

County, state legislators 'far apart' on debt

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

State and county officials are "far apart" on plans to eliminate Wayne County's debt, a key legislator said.

"We're quite far apart," state Sen. R. Robert Geake said last week. Geake, R-Northville, is a ranking member of the senate appropriations committee.

"Both sides agree on the magnitude of the problem but we don't agree on what to do about it," Geake said.

Wayne County owes the state an estimated $60 million in health care debts. It also owes as much as $200 million in total debt, according to county estimates.

THERE HAS been no agreement on plans to reduce Wayne County's indigent health care payments, said Geake, whose district includes Livonia, Redford, Plymouth and Canton. The state-mandated indigent health care program is generally considered the biggest source of county debt.

We're trying to provide too much care for too many people," Geake said. Somewhere, you have to separate people who are poor because they lack education and job skills from people who are indigent because of drug and alcohol abuse problems.

Speculation centered on whether a debt-reduction plan could be adopted before Thursday, Oct. 1, when the state's new fiscal year began.

County officials said they were lobbying legislative leaders, including Geake, but are generally keeping mum.

"We won't make any announcement until we have a plan we're confident will pass in the state Legislature," said deputy county executive Michael Duggan, who has been involved in the debt-reduction talks. "We're not going to announce something that could fail."

WAYNE COUNTY Executive Edward McNamara is proposing two measures to balance this year's county budget — a parking fee increase at Metropolitan Airport and a surcharge on traffic tickets.

Rep. James Kosteva, D-Canton, said he has concerns about both proposals.

"With the traffic tickets, we have to be careful we're not taking away from libraries which also receive money that way," Kosteva said. "With the parking fees, I think the city of Romulus should also be considered. In the past all money raised at the airport went to the airport, not downtown." Romulus doesn't receive a dime.

'Both sides agree on the magnitude of the problem but we don't agree on what to do about it.'

— R. Robert Geake, state senator

A variety of other fund-raising methods have also been proposed. A $1-per-person airline landing fee increase and a lottery surcharge have been discussed, sources said.

"They have a slew of ideas, but I don't know if there's any one they're really pushing," Rep. Richard Young, D-Dearborn Heights, said. "The airline fee would go into the transportation fund, and I don't think that's what the county wants. The lottery charge probably wouldn't make the state too happy. Sales are down as it is."

"Of all the proposals, I think the surcharge on traffic tickets has the best chance," Young said.

LOCAL LEGISLATORS generally agreed indigent health care should be addressed. Some, however, questioned whether the county was doing enough on its own to cut red ink.

"I know the executive has ruled out new taxes but I don't think you can close the door on any option," state Sen. William Faust, D-Westland, said. "I think he (McNamara) should appoint a blue-ribbon committee to see what can be done."

Aside from Geake, most western Wayne legislators said they met only once with the county executive's staff.

"We met about a month or so ago and at the time they seemed pretty vague," Rep. Gerald Law, R-Plymouth, said.

"If he (McNamara) thinks all you have to do to get something passed is talk to the governor, he doesn't understand how the legislative process works," Rep. Lyn Bankes, R-Livonia, said.

BUT MOST local legislators said they believed the state should offer some assistance to its largest county.

"It isn't right for the state to make Wayne County the only county that has to pay for indigent health care and then say the county is on its own," Bankes said.

McNamara has said his proposals don't constitute a "bail out" and representatives were cool to the prospects of having to pick up part of Wayne County's debt.

"It has to be a good, strong financial plan with fiscal responsibility," Rep. William Keith, D-Garden City, said.

Said Rep. John Bennett, D-Redford, "I think we have a duty to help Wayne County, but not if we're going to have to pay the bills."

The county executive does have some supporters in Lansing. Among them, is state Sen. George Hart, D-Dearborn, whose district includes Garden City.

Whatever comes out, I'm supportive of Ed McNamara," Hart said.

Jail cells sought despite money woes

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

New cells could be ordered today for the Wayne County Jail.

But the order could replace a long-running jail space controversy with a new dispute over how the county would pay for the new cells — including a potential tax increase.

A representative of county executive Edward McNamara said he intends to ask for the space in an appearance today before Wayne County Circuit Judge Richard Kaufman.

"I intend to go in there and ask the judge to order the space," deputy county executive Michael Duggan said. "We can't wait for the county commission."

County commissioners declined to set aside money for the new jail space last week, tabling the matter indefinitely. Commissioners said they were uncertain how the estimated $6 million project would be financed.

It's no secret we have no money," commissioner Milton Mack, D-Wayne said. "I think we'd all like to have the jail space, but we'd like to have our roads repaved and new sewers built, too."

Commissioner Kay Beard, D-Inkster, said she would have liked to see a financing plan before approving the project.

"We have to get direction from the county executive, that's his job," said Beard, whose district includes Garden City and Westland.

Executive's staffers, however, said they believed financing plans were already clear.

"We do have the money," Duggan said. "It's a matter of using the U.S. Marshal's office and the other sources."

Sources include the sale of the former Wayne County General Hospital, estimated at $7.5 million, a continuing contract with the U.S. Marshal's office to hold federal prisoners at the jail plus a hoped-for federal grant targeted toward curtailing drug-related crime.

Commissioners, however, said they weren't sure where the county would find money to operate the new cells once they were built.

A tax increase looms as a possibility.

"I think the commission was generally opposed to endorsing a court-ordered millage," commissioner Susan Heintz, R-Northville Township, said. The feeling is that thing should be decided at the ballot box.

McNamara, however, has opposed raising county taxes.

The jail dispute began in the early 1970s when county jail prisoners sued the county, claiming the jail was overcrowded.

Recently, the dispute has centered on the lack of prisoner recreation space.

Salem wreck survivors relate narrow escapes

(Part I)

Reader interest in the Salem Wreck columns I wrote a few weeks ago prompts me to provide additional information that has come my way.

Kim Szczodrowski of Plymouth, who read the articles, phoned to say that her grandmother, Mrs. Earldia Tucker of Detroit, has a scrapbook of clippings about the tragic event. Mrs. Tucker, who was born in Ionia, has made the scrapbook available to me.

Much of the new information comes from articles in the July 20, 1907, issue of the Detroit Journal, published on the same day the accident occurred.

THE JOURNAL reported that the excursion train from Ionia was just rounding the curve at the 10-foot gully known as Van Sickle Cut just west of Plymouth, when it came in sight of the freight train coming the other way. Both trains were traveling at about 45 miles per hour.

The engineers of both trains shut off steam and applied their brakes. Immediately after the trains collided, said the Journal in language typical of the period, "There was hasty stampede, the terror-stricken people fighting with one another to get out of doors and windows, while from the pile of wreckage came the cries of those who were pinned down by heavy timbers, suffering untold agonies from broken bones and mangled flesh, and with no hope of being extricated until a wrecking train arrived from Detroit."

In spite of this dire prediction, many were pulled from the wreck before the wrecking train arrived. Survivors who were uninjured, assisted by many farmers who came from nearby fields, went to the assistance of those trapped in the wrecked cars.

"With their bare hands or improvised tools they set to work to raise the heavy timbers under which human beings were lying," the Journal reported, "and one after another was released until, when the wrecking train arrived from Detroit, nearly 20 bodies had been extricated, besides a number of wounded people. The dead were nearly all crushed beyond any hope of recognition, and their clothing was literally torn off them."

THE BODIES were lined up along the embankment and covered with canvas. Passengers were able to identify some of the dead and these were placed in a separate spot with tags bearing their names affixed to their clothes.

The greatest loss of life was in the first five of the 11 coaches. Most of those killed were men who were passengers in the smoking car directly behind the passenger train locomotive.

Most of the 800 people on the excursion train were Ionia employees of the Pere Marquette Railroad and their families, although numerous others took advantage of the excursion. The Journal reported that of the 150 or more children on the excursion train, it was believed that all had escaped. Ninety percent of the dead and injured were residents of Ionia.

Describing the scene, a staff correspondent of the Journal said two of the passenger cars lay across the track on top of the wrecked freight engine. The demolished passenger engine lay on the opposite of the track and partly on top of the freight engine.

Engineer L.B. Alvord and fireman Charles Knowles of the excursion train jumped just before the crash. Alvord suffered a sprained ankle. Knowles died of a fractured skull.

Conductor E.J. Pixley was among those missing at the time the correspondent filed his report. The crew of the freight engine also jumped. None was killed, although engineer Wilson Rogers was scalded and bruised.

UNDER A NEWSPAPER subhead titled "Hairbreadth Escapes," the Journal reported that Mrs. David Otto of Ionia told of sitting by a window in one of the cars.

"She saw the freight engine come flying up the side of the track after being derailed. She remembered that someone had told her that in case she was in an accident of this kind, to stand up. She was quick to realize the situation and jumped into the aisle of the car. The crash came and she saw a portion of the engine's tender come crashing through the side of the car where she had been sitting. She escaped with a compound fracture of the right leg."

Another passenger, Miss M.E. Jensen, was in the back of the smoking car with three young lady friends. She was thrown out of the window of the passenger car and through the door of a freight car where she was found later, uninjured.

The paper reported that Mrs. John Fitzgerald of Ionia wandered about looking for her son, who was killed, "but no one ventured to tell her the truth, because she was in a delirious condition, and it was feared the shock would make her permanently insane."

Soon after the wreck, farmers gathered from the surrounding area, bringing food and water, and assisting in getting the dead and injured from the wreckage. The Journal reported that five Plymouth doctors "did heroic work in dressing the wounds of the injured . . . The dead were taken to Plymouth and the injured to Detroit."

The last body removed from the wreck was that of Conductor Earl J. Pixley of the excursion train. It was said to be merely fragments.

(More about Conductor Pixley in my next column).

GOP seeks end to tailpipe emissions law

By Tim Richard
staff writer

At least three Republican state senators want an end to the 1980 law requiring vehicle emissions tests.

They reported a bill out of the Senate Judiciary Committee last week, over the objections of two Democrats, the Commerce Department and two auto companies, to kill the emissions test law.

"This sunsets it on Dec. 31, 1987," said Sen. Rudy Nichols, R-Waterford, author of the bill and chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee. "This is what the Legislature intended to do."

What makes his bill necessary, he said, is that Attorney General Frank Kelley found a legal defect in the title of the original law that allows the state to continue enforcing the law beyond the end-of-1987 sunset date.

OPPONENTS FEAR the federal government will use the 1972 Clean Air Act to stop industrial building in southeastern Michigan if the state doesn't act to control tailpipe emissions.

The law applies only to Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties. It requires motorists there to have $10 tests at certified stations to show their vehicles aren't emitting too many pollutants.

"I felt from the beginning that to control emissions was a pittance, compared to catalytic converters and unleaded gasoline," said Nichols, who was elected to the Legislature in 1982.

Nichols said that if the federal embargo is applied, Michigan will have until next August to renew the emissions test law.

Voting to send his SB 420 to the Senate floor were Republicans Richard Fessler of West Bloomfield and Dan DeGrow of Port Huron. Opposed were Democrats John Kelly of Detroit and Jerome Hart of Saginaw.

BUT LARRY Tokarski, spokesman for Gov. Jame Blanchard's Commerce Department, said, "The economic climate will be adversely affected. This could be devastating."

Tokarski said the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency could put an embargo on $1.75 billion in highway construction alone if southeastern Michigan pollutes the air. Some 9,000 jobs could be affected, he said.

John Amberger, executive director of the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments, said local governments' No. 1 concern is preventing economic sanctions by the federal government.

Amberger said business' attitude is, "Let's not cause people to think there may be economic sanctions. If there are, we don't want to invest here."

Dale Robertson, representing the Greater Detroit Chamber of commerce, said southeastern Michigan's business image would suffer from "publicity" if the EPA applies sanctions.

DICK ALLEN, former Republican state senator and now Blanchard's state business ombudsman, opposed the bill, saying its passage "would cause business to be concerned."

Dennis Neuner, representing the Secretary of State's office, opposed the bill, citing the investments garages and repair shops have made in testing equipment.

Dick Augenstein, representing the Michigan Manufacturers Association, said business is "terrorized by the infamous EPA," and asked continuation of the test law.

Spokesmen for General Motors and Ford Motor Co. indicated on cards the two auto makers opposed the Nichols bill but declined to speak.

Legislators offer rival speed limit bills

By Tim Richard
staff writer

In the State Capitol, Sens. Doug Cruce of Troy and Richard Fessler of West Bloomfield sit cheek by jowl on the Senate floor.

But they are pushing rival versions of a 65 mph speed limit bill that the Senate will take up this week.

"Cruce's bill has tougher enforcement on fines," a Cruce aide said. "It's simpler and in compliance with federal regulations. Fessler's bill jeopardizes federal highway funds."

Fessler replies, "We've gone a step further and a step better."

HERE'S AN outline of the differences between their bills:

● Day and night — Cruce's bill provides a 65 mph speed limit on affected roads. Fessler calls for a 65 daytime speed and 55 at night — "a true compromise," in his words.

● Kinds of roads — Cruce's bill affects only rural interstate freeways with "I" numbers. Fessler's affects non-interstate roads built to freeway standards — specifically US-23 in the Ann Arbor-Flint corridor, US-131 (from southern Kalamazoo County to Grand Rapids) and US-127 (Jackson to Lansing).

The language of Fessler's bill applies to "highways or parts of highways upon which a maximum speed limit is not otherwise posted or fixed." Fessler said the federal government "missed some" roads in designing its regulations and is confident Washington will rewrite the rules to accept his bill's definition.

● Fines — Cruce's bill sets minimum fines, seeking stiff enforcement. Fessler's sets maximum fines, allowing judges leeway to charge less.

● Points — Cruce's bill was amended in committee to incorporate Fessler's point system: one point for driving one to 10 mph above the speed limit, three points for six to 10 mph and five points for more than 15 mph above the limit. Fessler said his version makes the point system uniform for all roads, making the law more understandable to drivers and police.

● "Sunset" — Cruce's bill has a sunset (expiration) date of April 1, 1989. Speed limits would drop to 55 unless the Legislature renewed the law. Fessler's bill has no sunset.

The bills define "rural" interstates as those "outside an area designated by federal law as an urbanized area with a population of 50,000 or more." Thus, few if any interstates in the metropolitan Detroit area would be affected.

THE CRUCE bill is numbered SB 135, Fessler's, SB 437. Cruce's bill is likely to be taken up first.

Either could be amended on the floor to incorporate the other's ideas. The result could be a mixture of both bills.

Gov. James Blanchard said for the first time last week that he was willing to sign a speed limit bill without a ban on radar detectors — if it contained enough provisions to ensure freeway safety and provide stricter enforcement.

If Blanchard accepts the new proposal, Michigan motorists may get to rev their engines by Halloween said Rep. Curtis Hertel, chairman of the House Transportation Committee and a key member of the negotiations.

"I think it's time to get moving on it," said Hertel, D-Detroit.

Blanchard wants to tack a $5 surcharge on all speeding tickets in the state — a so-called ticket tax. The revenue would be funneled into a highway traffic safety fund controlled by the Legislature and used to hire more troopers and buy more radar units.

Alcohol, drug talk open at Brighton

Brighton Hospital's series of community education programs on chemical dependence continues on Tuesday, with a discussion of the effect of alcoholism and drug abuse on the family.

The free program begins at 7 p.m. in the hospital's chapel. Reservations are not required.

Brighton Hospital is on East Grand River, just off the Kensington Road exit of I-96 freeway in Livingston County.

"This evening's program will be very helpful to those who are concerned about the drinking and drug use of a parent, a child, or someone else close to them," says Ellen Ayers, director of counseling services.

Ayers said many people who attend the education series realize that a loved one has a problem with alcohol or drugs but are not sure how to get help for the person and for themselves.

A member of the hospital's clinical staff will be on hand to answer questions from the audience and explain services available for the chemically dependent person, the family and friends.

For other information and a schedule of education programs, contact the hospital at 227-1211, Ext. 276.

Schroeder says U.S. must face up to debt problem

STEVE FECHT/staff photographer

Colorado Congresswoman Patricia Schroeder was given a standing ovation after her speech Friday at a fund-raiser for Wayne County Executive Edward H. McNamara. Gov. James Blanchard (right) introduced Schroeder.

By Susan Rosiek
staff writer

One week ago today, Congresswoman Patricia Schroeder tearfully announced that she would not seek the Democratic nomination for president. But despite that decision, she's still speaking out on the 1988 campaign and two of her favorite issues — the federal deficit and the American family.

"We must get the debt off our back and stress off the building block of our nation — families," said Schroeder, 47, in Detroit Friday as the featured speaker at a fund-raiser for Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara.

The longest-serving woman in the U.S. Congress, Schroeder, who represents Colorado's first district in the U.S. House, told the audience of more than 900 in Detroit's Westin Hotel that 1988 must be a time for the nation to face up to its problems.

"WASHINGTON has been running and hiding from adversity," said Schroeder, who has been in the House since 1972 and is known as a Pentagon critic and sponsor of a bill that would create a national parental leave policy.

In her travels throughout the nation, Schroeder said she has found that people are concerned about the deficit.

"A few years ago Americans were being asked whether they were better off now than four years ago. In America today, people are asking: 'Is America better off?' "

"Costs for education, housing and care for the elderly are out of sight," said Schroeder, adding that the next president must face up to the burgeoning national debt.

SCHROEDER SAID the United States must take steps to "level the playing field" when it comes to defense spending and international trade.

"There must be a rendezvous with reality or there won't be a rendezvous with opportunity," said Schroeder, who advocates "burden-sharing" with our economically developed allies such as Japan, Germany and Great Britian.

"We subsidize services provided by our allies," said Schroeder, a Harvard-educated lawyer and the first woman to serve on the House Armed Services Committee.

"We're competing 100 percent against the Soviets in defense and 100 percent against our allies in trade. All the Yankee ingenuity says you can't compete 200 percent."

SCHROEDER ALSO has campaigned vigorously for for a nationwide parental leave policy.

She is the author of the family and medical leave bill of 1987 which would provide 18 weeks of unpaid leave for parents after the birth or adoption of a child and/or for care of a sick elderly parent. Schroeder, the mother of two, pointed out that more than 100 other nations provide some type of parental leave.

Schroeder's bill is in a House committee. She expects the House to pass some modified version of the bill which then will "put pressure on the Senate to do something."

Schroeder criticized the tax reform act of 1986 as detrimental to families.

"If you decided to raise thoroughbreds rather than children, you'd be better off under the new tax reform."

"To relieve the stress from the building block of society which is the family, we must start with our tax code and, secondly, the family medical leave act.

ALTHOUGH SOME political leaders would like to think of the family in nostalgic terms, she said the reality is that more and more families are headed by single heads of households, and two working parents are becoming the norm rather than the exception.

When asked about her decision not to run for president, Schroeder said it was "too late to be a sacrificial lamb."

On whether she'd accept a spot on the Democratic ticket as vice president, Schroeder said: "Only if they let the vice president do something."

Mushy veggies now 'in'

A funny thing happened last week while cleaning the basement. I came across an article written by me on Monday, Dec. 29, 1986, detailing what's not in for 1987.

With culinary trends lasting about as long as a lunch hour, here's an updated list to help you make it through the remainder of this culinary year. One thing to remember, however: "Out" is worrying about what's "in" while "in" is not worrying about what's "out."

First off, I think it's about time people started appreciating mushy vegetables. The tender-crisp stage is "out" because chewing made so much noise that we are finding relief in the silence of mashed potatoes.

Helping achieve this effect is an old "in" appliance, the microwave. More than half of American homes have one, which in turn means a complete generation of young cooks don't taste for doneness, they listen for the beep.

About the only restaurateurs not yet to discover nuked cuisine are the Chinese. Another great "in" will be the re-emergence of Schezuan foods. Once the "in" food during the Nixon Administration, it has since fallen out of grace with the Republicans. Look for these fiery cuisines to make a triumphant comeback.

Continuing to be "out" is Paul Prudhomme dishes, especially blackened redfish, mainly because there's hardly a redfish left.

While we're on the subject of notable chefs, I am happy to announce that traveling chefs who charge $400,000 for a 90-minute demonstration in an elbow-to-elbow-sized cooking area are out. The hippest cooks now invite local talents into their home for small afternoon "tea-seminars." You pay through the teeth but your friends will envy you like an ounce of Beluga caviar sitting on the deli shelf.

People like Alice Waters tell us to eat some formerly unknown edible green like Arugula and mache and everyone turns into Euell Gibbons. Trust me, folks, there is no connection between edible and tasty.

While eating at counters "a la diner" is catching on, it baffles me why I have to pay $5 for a malted because I'm at a glitzy new diner instead of the drugstore.

Fast meals for fast times will never catch on as far as I'm concerned, but I am noticing quite a resurgence in pizza. Duck sausage and goat cheese are losing out on pizzas to what really counts: pepperoni.

new Taste editor

New assignment

ETHEL SIMMONS, entertainment editor of the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, has been named editor of Taste, the Monday food section. She will continue to cover entertainment, in addition to her new duties.

In December, Simmons will mark her 25th year with the O&E.

The Taste section includes food-related feature articles and columns by staff writers and special writers, including Chef Larry Janes. Also appearing in the section are items on new products, cooking calendars and other topics.

Simmons said she plans to step up reader involvement in the section.

"For instance," she said, "For the Thanksgiving holiday, we are asking readers to submit their favorite poultry stuffing recipe. We also will be asking for holiday dessert ideas."

"But regardless of the season, we will always welcome story ideas," she said.

Story ideas and recipes to be considered for publication should be sent to Taste, Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, P.O. Box 3503, Birmingham 48012.

Potatoes have gained in popularity, and maybe it's because of the strong promotion by the National Potato Board. The Michigan home-grown potato ranks 10th nationally, making it something of a celebrity. The Michigan Potato Board, the Michigan Celery Promotion Cooperative and the Michigan Onion Committee mostly direct their sales pitches to the wholesale industry, but each association offers free literature consumers may request.

Spuds are special

Boosters promote Michigan products

By Sharon Dargay
staff writer

RUSSELL RUSSET, tanned and wearing a foil jacket with yogurt accents, looked the parts of both star and spud as he rolled out of his bin onto the dining room table.

Women drooled over his nutrient-dense, potassium-filled body.

Men admired his USDA grade No. 1 rating and humble beginnings as a mere tuber.

Small fries contemplated his shoestrings and dreamed of ketchup.

"For a starring role in a casserole, snack bag, or roast accompaniment. In a ricer, saucepan or steamer. Mashed, dehydrated, canned or frozen. Steamed, in salad or smothered in sour cream, the winner is — THE MICHIGAN-GROWN POTATO!"

Ah, marketing!

It's the reason you may be eating more potatoes these days.

Or why you prepare leg of lamb year-round.

And it may be why milk has replaced Kona in your mid-morning coffee break.

The folks who make celebrities out of roots, "hoofers," fruits and fish are commissioned by state government or hired by independent producers to spread the word about Michigan agriculture.

THEY'RE CALLED the Michigan Pork Producers Association, Dairy Council of Michigan and Michigan Celery Promotion Cooperative, among other titles.

They're funded by growers and herders to wage big-budget campaigns — complete with banners, public apearances and broadcast commercials — or manage with meager, on-a-shoestring operations.

Most make their strongest pitch toward the wholesale industry.

A few are strongly oriented toward the consumer.

But all of them have free recipe booklets and tip sheets available to you.

"The National Potato Board has done such a good job getting out the word on the nutritional value of the potato," said Kathy Gingrich, administrative assistant for the Michigan Potato Board.

Michigan's potato output ranks 10th nationally. Crops are grown mostly in the Bay City, Munger and Hastings areas.

"We don't have the budget it takes to promote to consumers. The beef industry needs to promote to consumers because so many people are getting away from red meat. We're trying to be more oriented toward the retail-wholesale side of the industry," she noted.

They're funded by growers and herders to wage big-budget campaigns — complete with banners, public apearances and broadcast commercials — or manage with meager, on-a-shoestring operations.

"We're in about the same place as potatoes," added Duane Frens, general manager of the Michigan Celery Promotion Cooperative. "The bulk of our promoting is not at the consumer level.

"Price has little to do with how much celery people use. The only thing that dictates whether people buy celery is if they eat a lot of salads and if grocery stores feature it.

"Any advertising we'd do also would help California and Florida as much as ourselves. Some celery is sold sleeved, but a majority is still naked. The consumer doesn't know if it's from Michigan or California."

MICHIGAN RANKS third in celery production, behind California and Florida. Most of the state's crop is grown on the west side of the state, where it was first introduced to American palates in 1856.

The cooperative, which shares a Hudsonville office with the Michigan Onion Committee, courts supermarket and restaurant buyers instead of consumers, spending most of its promotional budget on advertising to industry.

But all three associations — potato, celery and onion — offer free literature.

Consumers may write for a one-page fold-out brochure on potato nutrition, preparation tips and recipes to the Michigan Potato Industry Commission, 13109 Schavey, Suite 7, DeWitt, Mich. 48820.

Stalk Talks, the Celery Cooperative's newsletter, lists nutritional information. It also offers a selection and recipe guide. Write to Michigan Celery Promotion Cooperative, P.O. Box 306, Hudsonville, Mich. 49426.

The Michigan Onion Committee is at the same box office as the celery cooperative. It offers two-color brochures that detail the therapeutic value of onions, list household uses (try rubbing onion juice on itchy feet to help soothe athlete's foot) and recipes. Three other pamphlets detail kinds of onions, nutritional facts and recipes.

More groups provide free information

Here's a list of what other groups offer:

● Michigan Carrot Committee, 514 Clinton, Grand Haven 49417.

The state ranks third in carrot production, with home-grown varieties available July through November.

The committee offers a fold-out brochure with recipes and usage tips, recipe cards and a one-page nutritional guide.

● Michigan Pork Producers Association, 3775 Forest, Suite 2, Lansing 48910.

"We have a wide array of information, mostly nutritional and recipes," said Pam Shafer, office administrator. "We're trying to stress that pork is much leaner than it used to be and it's a good buy."

Michigan ranks 12th in pork production, behind Midwest states like Iowa, Kansas and Illinois.

The association's newsletter is circulated monthly to producers.

A coloring book features Wilbur the pig and his pal, Farmer Brown. "Short Snoots," also for young readers, offers word puzzles, recipes and riddles.

Other items include recipe cards and color brochures with recipes for restricted diets, microwave preparation, the grill, and nutritional information.

● Michigan Bean Commission, P.O. Box 22037, Lansing, 48909.

Six different recipe booklets are available for free. The commission's "Michigan Bean Cookbook," costs 50 cents.

Michigan ranks first in the nation in dried bean production.

● Michigan Fish Producers Association, P.O. Box 336, Manistique 49854.

"We've seen a rise in consumption of fish. The only fish we produce commercially in Michigan is whitefish," said Bill Scarbrough, executive director. "I think the biggest problem we have is convincing the public that fish doesn't necessarily have an odor when it's cooked."

The group offers recipe booklets and selection tips.

● Michigan Asparagus Advisory Board, P.O. Box 23218, Lansing 48909.

"Every inch of Michigan asparagus is green, delicious and nutritious," says the board's pamphlet. It offers seven different recipes.

● Michigan Plum Advisory Board.

The group is at the same address as the Asparagus Board and offers a brochure with recipes, nutritional information and serving suggestions.

● Michigan Cherry Committee, P.O. Box 30285, Lansing 48909-7785.

Cherry soup and cherry won tons are among the recipes listed in the committee's seven-page color brochure. A nutrition guide and recipe folder also are available.

● Michigan Beef Industry Commission, 815 Coolidge, Suite 307, Lansing 48912.

Consumers interested in the group's color brochures, "American Beef Cookouts," "Microwave Magic" and "Food Guide for the First Five Years," must send a note indicating the title of the brochure they want.

A self-addressed, stamped envelope is required for smaller pamphlets including "Twelve Myths About Beef," "Best of Beef Recipes 1987," "The Weekend Athlete, diet guide" and "Meat Nutri-Facts." Write to the commission for a complete list.

● Michigan Apple Committee, 18105 Schavey, Suite 5, DeWitt 48820.

"This year, if the crop is as expected, we'll be No. 2 in apple production — behind Washington and with New York a close third," said Pat Burke, administrative director. "Almost all of the orchards are family-owned. Apples are one of the state's biggest crops."

The group supplies banners, posters and stickers to producers. It also offers apple-usage charts, "Know Your Apple," cards and eight different recipe sheets to the public.

● Michigan Sheep Producers Council, 17544 Northrup, Detroit 48219.

"I've heard that Washtenaw County is the biggest sheep-producing county in the country. Texas is the No. 1 state," said Bill Blake, marketing director.

'We have a wide array of information, mostly nutritional and recipes.'
— Pam Shafer
Michigan Pork Producers Association

"But we're still living with a lot of old wives' tales — it's looked at as an Easter meat or that it has an awful odor when it's cooked.

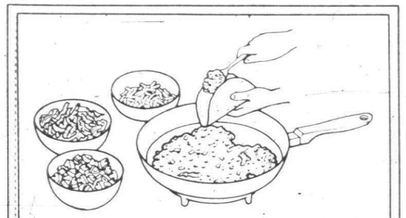
"We've got to do things to dispell them. We do a lot of things in terms of consumer education."

Blake demonstrates lamb preparation for groups and has a variety of booklets available.

● Dairy Council of Michigan, P.O. Box 3194, Farmington Hills 48333.

Consumers may choose one of eight information booklets available from the council. Subjects include fast food, calcium, woman's guide to nutrition, bone disease, imitation foods, "supermarket survival," weight control and nutrition myths.

A recipe booklet, "Let's Entertain," and flyer on the four food groups also are available by writing to Irene Cameron at the council.



Spoon meat mixture into taco shells, using a tablespoon. Then tacos are ready to top with cheese, tomato and lettuce.

Youngsters enjoy making own tacos

Kids love Mexican food. With its lively flavors, serape-bright colors and contrasting textures and temperatures, Mexican food makes any meal a fiesta.

Tacos, those spicy south-of-the-border treats kids like so much, make an ideal Mexican cooking adventure for youngsters. As much fun to assemble as they are to eat, tacos provide children with the opportunity to learn the correct handling and preparation of ground beef, the foundation for kid-pleasing recipes.

Ground beef, like all ground meat, is perishable and requires special care. Teach youngsters these ground rules as you work together in the kitchen:

● Store ground beef in the coldest part of the refrigerator. Freeze it if it will not be used within a day or two.

● Thaw frozen ground beef overnight in the refrigerator. Thawing at room temperature allows bacteria to grow in thawed portions while the interior is still frozen.

● Wash hands, cutting boards, utensils, counter tops and everything that has been used for ground beef preparation before reusing. Use hot, soapy water to wash and hot water to rinse.

Spicy Tacos, created with smallfry tastes in mind, are an easy-to-prepare version of the south-of-the-border classic. Key to their lively flavor is a peppy combination of onion, chili powder and richly seasoned barbecue sauce.

First step in preparing the taco filling reads: "Brown meat, drain." Adult cooking coaches will need to translate and teach beginners to follow this easy procedure:

● Heat skillet over medium-high heat until hot.

● Crumble meat into skillet.

● Brown meat, stirring occasionally.

Plan to assist youngsters with draining drippings from the skillet, which will be too heavy for children to lift easily.

Mushy vegetables are quietly in

Something that will always be "in" for the are restaurateurs who wan smoking. OK, I'll admit to taking a drag here and there at times, but I honestly think that in a restaurant, a smoker is a patio appliance.

Since we're on the subject of restaurants, would someone please let the word out to the few brain-dead waiters (and waitresses) who announce themselves? When you look at the alternatives, I do suppose it's better than "Good evening. I'm not Bruce."

The list could go on an on. I haven't even approached the issue of tri-colored pasta, pesto and prosciutto. What's happening next in the wonderful world of food is anybody's guess. Here are a few "in" recipes to keep you busy. Who knows, they'll probably be "out" by the time 1988 rolls in! Bon appetit!

PORK AND CASHEW STIRFRY
1 lb. pork, cubed
2 tbsp. oil
A scant dash of schezuan peppercorns
2 tbsp. soy sauce
2 carrots, grated fine
½ cup cashews
2 tbsp. brown sugar
1 tbsp. cornstarch and water, mixed

In a wok over high heat, swirl oil and add pork. Stir fry until brown and done. Sprinkle with peppercorns and soy sauce, then add carrots and cashews. Stir fry for two minutes, add sugar, mixing till it melts. Push to one side, then add cornstarch mixture, stirring until it sears. Serve with rice.

CAESAR SALAD
1 bunch romaine lettuce, washed, torn and chilled
½ cup olive oil
2 tbsp. wine vinegar
the juice of ½ lemon
1 dash worcestershire
1 small clove garlic, minced
1 coddled egg
1 small anchovy, mashed
1 tsp. dijon-styled mustard

Prepare lettuce and set aside. In the bottom of a wooden salad bowl, combine garlic, egg, anchovy, mustard, worcestershire and lemon juice. Stir in vinegar and whisk in oil. Season with salt and fresh ground pepper. Add lettuce and toss gently with croutons and parmesan cheese.

MICROWAVED MEATBALLS IN GRAPE SAUCE
1 lb. hamburger
2 eggs
½ cup seasoned bread crumbs
1 cup chili sauce
1 cup grape jelly

Combine hamburger with eggs and breadcrumbs. Roll into meatballs of equal size and place in a circular fashion on a microwave-approved roasting dish. Cook meatballs until done on high power for about five to six minutes. Remove and set aside. In a separate bowl, combine chili sauce with grape jelly. Heat on high power until warmed through. Add meatballs to sauce and heat on high power until warm.

Take care to avoid kitchen fires

Lois Thieleke
home economist, Cooperative Extension Service

Fire! No one wants to hear this, especially if it's your kitchen on fire.

Burns, fires, cuts and falls are among the most common kitchen accidents. The kitchen is often the center of more activity. Therefore, it is also the place where most household accidents can occur. Unfortunately, most of these accidents happen around dinnertime. With all the activity, no one is paying attention and the burners are set too high.

Estimates are that 20,000 individuals receive hospital emergency room treatment each year for injuries just from fires involving gas and electric kitchen ranges. Leaving the stove unattended is often the cause of a fire. Burns are received when you are trying to put the fire out.

Avoid wearing long, loose sleeves when tending the stove, as they are too easy to ignite. Don't turn your back against the range while it's on. Get into the habit of never leaning on the range, on or off.

Keep curtains and dishtowels away from the range area. A draft could blow them onto the burners and start a fire. Use pot holders, not towels or paper tissue to remove pans from the range. They also could come too close to the burner and ignite, or you may drop them inside the oven. You could have a fire and no dinner left.

THE RANGE is not a storage bin for food that you're hiding or that the cupboard won't hold. Storing food inside the oven can cause serious problems if you forget and turn the oven on. Instant fire.

Neither should the top of the stove be used as a storage rack for paper, cloth or plastic. Don't store cookies or other food items above the range. You want to keep the children from climbing on or reaching over the range.

Match pan and burner sizes. If you put a small pan on a large burner, the exposed part could cause a fire or a burn. A larger burner doesn't make the pan heat faster; it's just a waste of energy.

Get sturdy, stable pots and pans with tight handles. Avoid plastic utensils that can melt, pots with loose handles, pot that are too heavy to move easily when filled with food, and pots that are too small or shallow for deep frying. The grease can spill and ignite easily.

Always turn handles to the side of the range to reduce the risk of hitting them and spilling the hot contents.

If there is a grease fire in a pan, turn off the burner, cover the pan with a lid or other flat object. Don't try to pick it up and carry it anywhere. This only fans the flame and makes it burn more fiercely. If a grease fire starts in the oven, close the oven door and turn off the heat. Keep the door closed.

LEAVE THE PAN or teakettle on the burner for a minute or two after turning off the electric burner. After pouring a cup of hot water from a teakettle, put the tea kettle back on the burner. This will help prevent putting a hand or garment on the element that is still hot enough to burn.

Don't use the oven or top burners to heat the room. This can cause a fire and probably damage the range's thermostat.

Pay attention to what's happening and what you are doing in the kitchen. Check your fire safety procedures and ask yourself: "Am I practicing and teaching my family good kitchen safety rules?" Don't think it will never happen. Take precautions so it doesn't.

What's your recipe for turkey stuffing?

It may be too early to think about Thanksgiving — unless you'd like to share your family's Thanksgiving recipe for stuffing to serve with the bird.

The Observer & Eccentric wants to hear from you, telling us what your favorite stuffing recipe is. We will print some of the most interesting recipes.

It seems everyone prepares stuffing in a traditional way — traditional, that is, for their own family. These recipes often are nostalgic ones carried down from grandparents to parents to children and grandchildren. When families move, they take these recipes along with them.

Send us your favorite recipe, and we'll print as many as space permits. Please mail by Saturday, Oct. 31, to: Taste, Observer & Eccentric, P.O. Box 3503, Birmingham 48012.

● CHOCOLATE CHUNKS
A chocolate chip cookie from David's Cookies has been added to bakeries at seven Great Scott! supermarkets. The Chocolate Chunk Cookies contain chunks of Lindt Bittersweet Chocolate. Currently, the cookies are at grocery stores in Birmingham, Bloomfield Township, Southfield, Farmington Hills and Rochester Hills. Entrepreneur David Liederman also makes ice cream and french bread. The complete David's line will be expanded to all Great Scotts' in the near future.

● NO-WORRY BREAD
A new bread-baking thermometer has been introduced by Elva Ashley. The device tells the correct water temperature in vivid spectral color, using easy-to-read space-age thermo-crystals. (In bread baking, water temperature that's a little too high will kill the yeast about to be dissolved.) The "bookmark" thermometer clips on to whatever page or recipe the cook wants to remember and becomes a convenient index marker. It will be available in specialty stores within several months, retailing for $3.95.

● FROZEN YOGURT
New Yoplait Soft-Frozen Yogurt is made with real fruit and has only 90 calories per serving — half the calories of premium ice cream. Yoplait's is the first nationally available frozen yogurt that's soft and ready-to-eat right from the freezer. The yogurt is available in five flavors, including strawberry, raspberry, mixed berry, cherry and banana. Six individual squeeze-to-eat pouches come in each box.

● BIRTHDAY FLAVORS
Five new ice cream flavors have been developed by London's Dairy, to celebrate Michigan's Sesquicentennial and the dairy's 50th anniversary. These "Made in Michigan" products, from the dairy in Port Huron, include Ryba's Mackinac Island Fudge, Tin Lizzy Classic Michigan Cherry Crisp, Michigan Blueberry Cobbler and Michigan Apple Pie. Chatham's, Hamady, IGA, Seven-Eleven and smaller independent grocers carry the Sesquicentennial flavors.

● SCHOOL FLAVORS
Official school ice creams are being produced by Country Fresh, McDonald and London Dairy, working together with a single flavor house. For Michigan State University, there's Spartan Mint Fudge Ice Cream with fudge pieces and green mint in white chocolate ice cream. For the University of Michigan, there is Michigan Maize n Berry, a combination of blueberry sauce and graham crust in cheesecake flavored ice cream. Country Fresh president Delton Parks, an MSU graduate, has declared both ice creams will be treated equally at the company's Livonia and Grand Rapids plants. The flavors were introduced in mid-September.

● LOW-CAL BUNS
Weight Watchers hamburger and hot dog buns have been introduced by Nutrition Products Marketing of Heinz U.S.A. Each bun is equivalent to one bread exchange on the Weight Watchers program and has only 80 calories, about one-third fewer than regular buns. The buns are being test-marketed in the East.

Score apples with fork, cre ate circular design

AP — Use the tines of a fork to score the apples around the outside surface in a circular pattern for this recipe.

ORANGE-GLAZED BAKED APPLES
6 large baking apples, peeled and cored
½ cup snipped pitted dates
1¼ cups orange juice
4-serving-size pkg. instant vanilla pudding mix
½ cup dark corn syrup
1 tbsp. lemon juice

Fill apples with dates; place in a 10-by-6-by-2-inch baking dish. In a small bowl stir orange juice into dry pudding mix; stir in corn syrup and lemon juice. Pour mixture over apples, coating each well. Bake, uncovered, in a 350° oven 45 minutes or until apples are tender, basting several times with the orange mixture. Serve warm. Makes 6 servings.

Nutrition information per serving: 276 calories, 1 g protein, 71 g carbohydrates, 1 g fat, 86 mg sodium, U.S. RDA: 44 percent vitamin C, 10 percent iron.

SEMCOG: yes to road taxes

By Tim Richard
staff writer

More road cash, yes. Legislative control, no.

That was the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments' comment on a package of road-funding bills reported out of a joint House-Senate committee chaired by Sen. Richard Fessler, R-West Bloomfield.

Fessler sought to require the Michigan Department of Transportation to build four freeways — including three in southeast Michigan, but SEMCOG's Executive Committee turned thumbs down on the idea.

The introduction of line-item projects damages the transportation planning process, which requires that projects be developed in a cooperative fashion," said SEMCOG committee chairman Milton Mack, D-Wayne, a Wayne County commissioner.

"This action takes the process out of the hands of local elected officials and into the Legislature, bypassing the planning process," said Mack. The SEMCOG executive committee, meeting in Novi last week, agreed unanimously in a voice vote.

FESSLER'S line-item demand for four trunklines wasn't going anywhere anyway. It was dropped from the package, which goes to both chambers of the Legislature this week.

His original bill had specified four projects: a north-south trunkline in the Haggerty Road corridor serving western Oakland County; an east-west trunkline serving southern Wayne County; completion of the Davison Freeway in Detroit; and an improved M-20 between Midland and Big Rapids.

But SEMCOG leaders, representing 130 local units in the seven-county region, endorsed an even more important Fessler idea — a special fund for areas impacted by high economic development.

The SEMCOG resolution noted the fund would be controlled by a board appointed by the governor, speaker of the House and Senate majority leader. The board will be under the control of the Michigan Transportation Commission and will award funding grants for road improvements in the areas of economic development, capacity improvement, trunkline takeover and rural road support," the resolution said.

It would be funded to the tune of $50 million — $30 million from user fees and $20 million from auto-related sales taxes. The economic development fund would be part of an overall $118-million increase in road funds.

SEMCOG ALSO endorsed:

● Higher fuel taxes to help state county and local roads. The current formula expires Oct. 30.

● Local option traffic impact fees, allowing local units to assess major developers for traffic improvements beyond roads immediately adjacent to their properties. These could include freeway interchanges, special turning lanes and turn signals.

● Higher user fees — title transfer, vehicle registration, drivers' licenses and truck registration. If used, the local fees would raise $76 million statewide.

In other business, the SEMCOG executive committee passed a resolution urging the state Department of Natural Resources to adopt rules to speed up the permit process for use of state wetlands. The compromise position asks a balance between economic development and concern for environmental protection.

GOP leaders take on Robertson forces

By Tim Richard
staff writer

Local Republican state senators are lining up behind their leader's efforts to undo the work of followers of evangelist Pat Robertson in the GOP structure.

A politically explosive bill facing a vote Tuesday in Lansing would allow Senate Majority Leader John Engler and House Minority Leader Paul Hillegonds to appoint 10 members apiece to the 101-member Republican State Committee. Both are supporters of Vice President George Bush.

"I support the majority leader," said Sen. Richard Fessler, R-West Bloomfield.

"I'm supporting the Engler bill," said Sen. Rudy Nichols, R-Waterford.

Ditto from Sens. Doug Cruce, R-Troy, and R. Robert Geake, R-Northville.

THE REPUBLICAN State Committee, governing body of the party between conventions, was taken over in 1986 by supporters of Robertson, who last week announced his candidacy for president, aided by backers of U.S. Rep. Jack Kemp of New York.

The RSC amended the national convention delegation rules to end a longstanding policy of naming elected officials as at-large delegates to county conventions. About 1,200 officials were ousted.

In general, Michigan elected officials tend to be Bush supporters. The Robertson people tend to be newcomers interested in right-wing Christian issues.

Lori Packer of the Robertson campaign called the Engler-Hillegonds bill "stuffing the ballot box." The effort is deepening the gulf between the Bush and the Robertson-Kemp people.

BUT GEAKE IS telling his northwestern Wayne County Republican friends this explanation.

"State law and national Republican rules give nominated and elected officials at-large delegate seats at county conventions.

"Many of us who are state legislators relied on those rules and did not run for precinct delegate, to allow newer members of the party to be elected.

"We made room for a lot of new precinct delegates, many of whom are Kemp and Robertson delegates, which is fine with me — I want new members in the party regardless of who they happen to support for president."

But then the Kemp and Robertson people on RSC changed the rules to take away the right of the Republican public officials to vote at our own county conventions.

"Now we want to use our votes in the Legislature to change the rules back. What's wrong with that?"

CRUCE SAID people overlook the fact that "longtime party builders are summarily disenfranchised" by the new rule. "A lot of experience and devotion are going down the drain."

Like Geake, Nichols said he declined to run for precinct delegate because "I presumed I was a delegate at-large. I should have a say in the party's decisions," said the second-term senator, noting that he had worked six or seven years in the party before being elected five years ago.

Fessler said the issue came up only last week. He didn't know whether Engler would be able to lure enough Democratic votes to support the bill. But Fessler said he would support Engler.

THE PROPOSAL, was written as an amendment to a minor election reform bill.

Engler of Mount Pleasant said Tuesday the plan could "put some balance" on the RSC.

Party leaders declined to take up the bill Thursday. Floor leader Phil Arthurhultz, R-Whitehall, announced it would be taken up Tuesday.

Englef said he wants to "talk to legislators to see what kind of support there is for it."

It's uncertain how the proposal would fare in the Democrat-controlled House.

Hillegonds said Bush would benefit from the size of the committee is increased. He acknowledged that critics would label the move politically transparent, but he said that wasn't his main purpose.

"I'm a Bush supporter, but more than anything else, I'm a House Republican leader who wants to win seats in the next election. What's going on in the party right now detracts from that effort," the Holland legislator said.

HILLEGONDS said the rift in the party was widened at the Sept. 15 state committee meeting when the Robertson-Kemp coalition prevailed in a delegate dispute.

The coalition barred some 1,200 officeholders and unsuccessful nominees, most of them Bush supporters, from being seated as at-large delegates to the Jan. 14 county conventions.

Attorneys for the nominees are preparing a lawsuit to fight the decision, saying party officials told them they'd have at-large status.

The delegates to the county conventions will select about 1,800 attendees for the Jan. 29-30 state convention, at which Michigan will select the first 77 national convention delegates.

WHAT ARE MY CHOICES?
You have rheumatoid arthritis and initial therapy with aspirin or similar drugs has failed to give you relief of pain and return of joint function. What is next?
Your doctor likely will add to the drug schedule you are on already; the physician will choose from a gorup of medicines called remittive agents. This group includes the drugs gold, penicillamine, azathiaprine, methotrexate, and sulphasalazine. These medications are known to return inflammed joints to a normal state, and in some instances, even reverse the damage the inflammation caused.
These excellent drugs are not used when rheumatoid arthritis is first diagnosed because 1) medications don't always work, and 2) they are far more likely to cause serious side effects than the anti-inflammatory drugs used as first line therapy.
The remittive agents are added to, rather than replacing other medication because they attack inflammation at a different point from first line drugs. One medication, in doses low enough to avoid toxicity, may be insufficient to stop inflammation. However, the cumulative medication effect often will succeed.

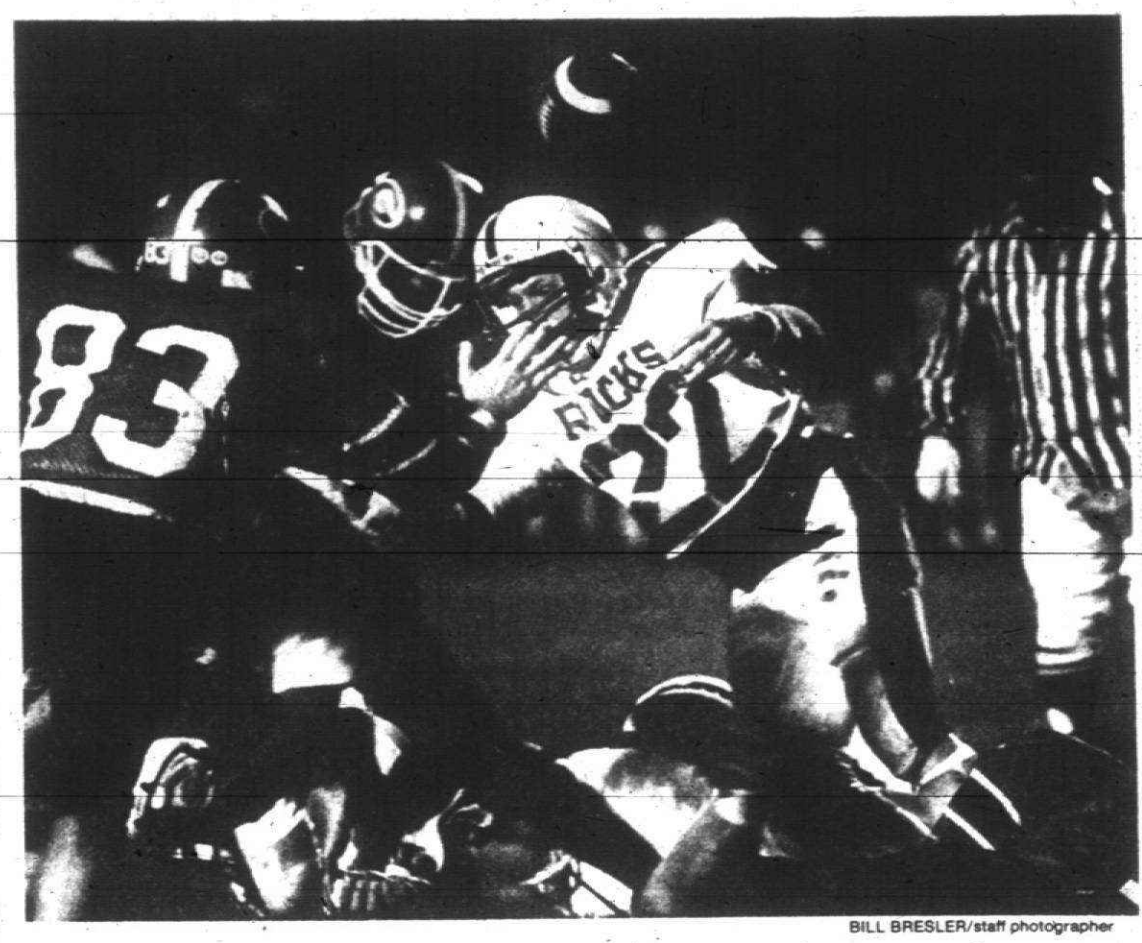
New Glenn backs overpower Salem



BILL BRESLER/staff photographer

The football pops loose from the grasp of Plymouth Salem's Doug Prater in Friday's game with John Glenn. The host Rockets defeated the Rocks, 14-3, in a key Lakes Division battle.

football

Bryant Satterlee and Tim Fassett aren't quite the Pony Express yet, but the two proved Friday that they can carry the mail, leading Westland John Glenn to a 14-3 homecoming football victory over Plymouth Salem.

Glenn coach Chuck Gordon shook up his backfield lineup after last week's 14-9 upset loss to Livonia Stevenson, giving the 6-foot-2, 190-pound Satterlee and the 5-11, 160-pound Fassett their first starts of the season.

And the two seniors delivered, responding to Gordon's call.

Satterlee rushed for 113 yards in 20 carries, including a 7-yard touchdown run early in the fourth quarter to clinch it for the Rockets, now 4-1 overall and 3-1 in the Western Lakes Activities Association.

Fassett added 95 yards in 19 carries.

"We had to get more production out of our running game than we were getting," said Glenn coach Chuck Gordon. "We're into the tougher part of our schedule now and we had to get more accomplished.

"THIS WEEK our practices were heated and spirited. Our pride and character were really tested this week. I think we responded to that challenge for a week, but we still have a long ways to go."

The victory by Glenn sets up a showdown Saturday with Lakes Division leader North Farmington.

Meanwhile, Salem coach Tom Moshimer could not fault his team entirely. He threw plenty of compliments Glenn's way.

"They're just too big for us up front," said the Salem coach, whose team is 3-2 overall and 2-2 in the Lakes. "I'm proud of the way the kids played, but we gave up a lot of pounds.

"It was a smart move on their part going with Satterlee. I was impressed with him on the junior varsity as a tailback two years ago. They're both (Satterlee and Fassett) are hard runners. They fight for everything. We did a good job of containing them on the off-tackle plays, but they just fought us off with a lot of determination."

SALEM SCORED first with only 1:27 left in the first half on a 37-yard field goal by Don Koontz.

On the ensuing kickoff, Glenn's Brian Wolf returned the ball 45 yards to the Salem 44, but the play was called back because of a clipping penalty.

With the ball moved back all the way to the Glenn 20, quarterback Clint Straub directed a last-minute drive resulting in a 7-yard touchdown pass to 6-6, 247-yard tight end Jeff Graham with only eight seconds left.

Straub, working the sidelines and clock to perfection, connected with wide receiver Pat Pettit three straight times — 40, 6 and 9 yards — to set up the score.

"We gave them the big play in the first half," Moshimer said. "We gave them not only a 7-3 lead, but we gave them momentum. But their quarterback threw well an Pettit was just too quick for us."

Glenn controlled the ball much of the third quarter, mounting a 16-play, 68-yard drive, but the Rockets coughed the ball up when Salem's Ryan Johnson recovered a fumble at his own 14.

BUT SALEM HANDED the ball right back on the very next play when Pettit, playing safety, knocked the ball loose with Chris Lovett recovering it at the 17.

Satterlee then scored three plays later.

"Those things happen," said Moshimer, whose team also turned the ball over on two other occasions. "We made a few mental errors and our offense sputtered, but we went against a very good football team.

"It's tough playing them when they're coming off a loss."

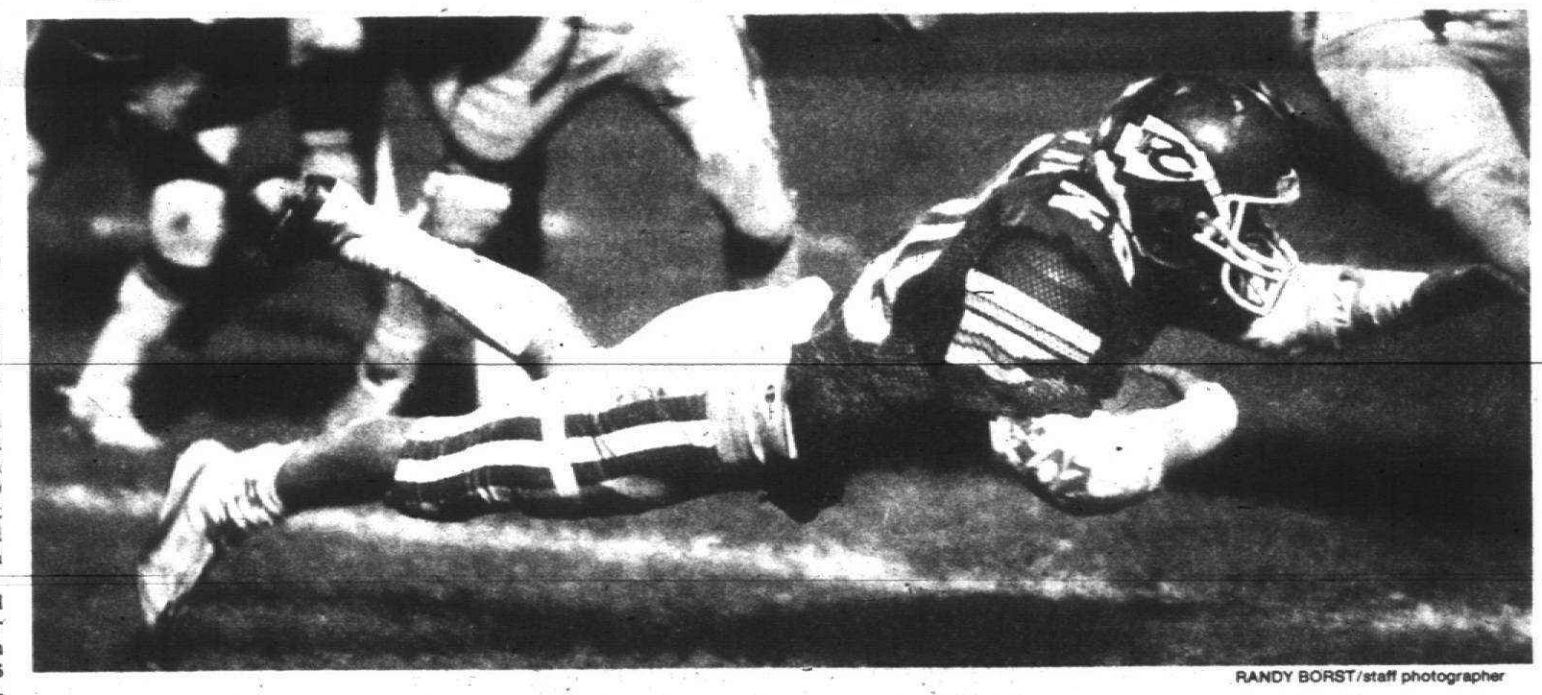
Glenn outgained Salem in total yardage, 261-148.

Running back Garrett Bowie led the Rocks with 103 yards in 17 carries, but Salem got little else offensively.

It was Glenn's night — particularly Satterlee's and Fassett's.

Harrison ground assault grinds down Canton

By Dan O'Meara
staff writer



RANDY BORST/staff photographer

Canton running back Joel Riggs dives for extra yardage after being tripped up in Friday's game with Western Division-leading Farmington Harrison. Riggs' was the team's top rusher, but it was not a productive night for the Chief offense as Harrison won 35-0.

As one would expect of a football team ranked No. 1 in the state, Farmington Harrison has many offensive weapons.

The Hawks chose to use the ground troops Friday to march past outmanned Plymouth Canton 35-0. Air cover wasn't needed as the Harrison juggernaut amassed 343 yards rushing.

"We didn't throw the ball well early, and the ground game was going so well we just kinda sat on the ball," Hawks coach John Herrington said.

Harrison, the top-ranked outfit in Class B, has been equally adept at taking apart opposing defenses with its passing game en route to its 5-0 record. But the blustery wind that blew threw Centennial Educational Park was another reason for both teams to avoid the pass.

Quarterback Millard Coleman had two passes that would have gone for long gainers dropped by receivers in the first half, and he ended up 2-of-6 for 30 yards. On this night, the sophomore had more yards rushing (37 on six carries) than he did passing.

"WITH THAT cross-wind up there, we weren't sure where the ball was going," Herrington said. "We really didn't need to use (Coleman's) arm tonight.

"But the great thing is somebody always is able to step in and give us a lift."

That player was tailback Aaron Yaverski, who had another strong game playing in place of the injured Rick Witte. He was the workhorse in the Hawks' offense, slashing and bulling his way to a game-high 178 yards on 21 attempts, and his 71-yard sprint for a touchdown was the game-breaker.

Yaverski was the rushing leader, but he didn't do it all. Fullbacks Rich Esker and Rob Bruhn combined for 63 yards and scored the other TDs on short plunges, Esker from 2 and 1 yard and Bruhn from 3. Plus, sophomore Matt Conley came on to add 41 yards late in the game.

"They have very good balance — and you know they execute," said Canton coach Bob Khoenle, impressed by Harrison's overall play.

"THEY'VE got a lot of things going for them. They have tradition, they've been successful and they have a great program. Out of that comes good execution."

Besides being an underdog, the Chiefs, who slipped to 1-2 in the Western Division and 2-3 overall, were further handicapped when 10 players, including quarterback Neil Hubert, missed the game for disciplinary reasons.

Furthermore, center Jerry French was out with a leg contusion, and Canton's game-breaking threat, halfback Roger Trice, went out early in the second quarter with an ankle injury.

"We won't pretend that we beat their best," said Herrington, "but we did what we had to do."

To its credit, Canton held the Hawks, who have scored no less than 31 points in any game, to one of their smaller halftime leads, 14-0.

HARRISON went 71 yards in 11 plays to score the first time it had the ball, but the Chiefs forced two punts and survived a fumbled punt before the Hawks could score again.

Harrison recovered the punt at Canton's 12-yard line, but the defense held and Steve Hill missed a 27-yard field goal attempt.

The Hawks, however, had good field position too often and finally capitalized. Starting at the Chief 44, they capped another drive with Bruhn's TD with 2:10 left in the half.

"We really thought the kids, up to halftime, did a pretty good job," Khoenle said. "We didn't move the ball, but defensively our kids didn't do too bad.

"BUT WE never stay at the same level," he added. "We're most consistent at being inconsistent."

Compared to other Harrison opponents, the Chiefs were hanging in at halftime, but that changed quickly when Yaverski raced past all defenders on the first play of the third quarter. Suddenly, it was 21-0 when Hill booted his third of five point-after kicks.

The Hawks, who lead the division with a 3-0 record, scored early in the final period following their longest drive of the night — 80 yards in 12 plays, running the ball all the way.

Reserve quarterback Rob MacDonald, who was 2-of-2 passing for 32 yards, threw an 18-yarder to Bryan Wauldron for the final TD with 3:28 remaining.

Best league foes little challenge for Rocks

By Brad Emons
staff writer

girls basketball

It's becoming business as usual for the Plymouth Salem girls basketball team when it comes to games in the Western Lakes Activities Association.

The state-ranked Rocks seem to take the best of what the league has to offer, chew them up and spit them out.

It was semi-close for a quarter Thursday before the Rocks went on to smash host Westland John Glenn, 72-51.

Ironically, Glenn entered the game with a 6-1 record, but left the floor feeling more like a 1-6 club.

Salem, meanwhile, raised its record to 7-1 overall and 5-0 in the WLAA with the convincing win.

Coach Fred Thomann got another sterling performance from All-Stater Dena Head, who matched a career-high with 35 points. Head also grabbed 14 rebounds, blocked five shots and made several nice passes that led to scores.

EVEN MORE ENCOURAGING was the play of junior point guard Jill Estey, who tossed in 16 of her 18 points during the first three quarters of play.

Estey, who teamed up with Head to harass Glenn's backcourt, also came up with several steals and assists.

"Jill's been doing that all season, but the only thing she hasn't been doing is finishing the score," Thomann said. "Tonight she scored her share, but we still need her to pull up and hit that jumper off the glass."

Glenn made a couple of three-pointers to stay within four after one quarter, 16-12, but the Rockets found themselves trailing 39-22 at the half as Head scored seven straight points in the final 1:17.

The Rocks then outscored Glenn 19-7 in the third quarter to take a commanding 58-29 advantage before coasting home.

"We had some tremendous passing series," Thomann said. "We were getting the ball to the open player and getting it up the floor, but if we had just finished more, we would have had more on the scoreboard."

GLENN COACH Pat Bennett, whose team gave Salem a scare in one of three meetings last year (all losses), anticipated a little closer game.

"I feel there's always a chance with the kind of dedication and desire this team has — especially playing at home," he said. "But Salem is a phenomenal team. They play great defense and they run the floor well.

"Our kids gave a good enough effort. They gave all they had."

Salem all but stopped Glenn's perimeter game, although Christina Hoffman broke loose for a team-high 14 points. Beth Wilson added 11.

"Our defense is better with Dena on the perimeter," Thomann said. "She anticipates well. She gets you steals and gets you into the open court."

Not only encouraged by the play of Head and Estey, Thomann also got a lift from Shelley Bohlen, who came off the bench to score six points.

"She (Bohlen) is going to help us and our ballhandling on the perimeter with Sovine (Stacy), and McBride (Keri) is getting better."

But it's hard to tell how much the Rocks have improved since their Great Lakes Tournament loss to Livonia Ladywood. Right now the rest of the Western Lakes teams are no match.

Chiefs hand Harrison its 90th straight defeat

Plymouth Canton won its fourth straight in girls basketball Thursday, walking over winless Farmington Harrison to remain unbeaten in Western Division contests.

The Chiefs, who improved to 3-0 and 5-4 overall, whipped the Hawks by a 63-15 margin. The defeat, which dropped the losers to 0-3 and 0-8, was Harrison's 90th straight, a losing streak covering five seasons.

Karen Boluch scored 15 points and hauled down as many rebounds to pace Canton, which held quarter leads of 15-0, 26-6 and 50-10.

Sophomore Susan Ferko added 11 points and 12 rebounds for the Chiefs, Heather Miller tossed in 10 points and Amanda Bell and Michelle Fortier added nine apiece.

"Everybody got lots of court time," Canton coach Rob Neu said, "and, when everybody gets a chance to play, everybody is working on their game and getting a little better."

Darcy Pinzl and Lesley Devine had six points apiece to lead the Hawks. Canton was 6-of-17 shooting free throws, Harrison 1-of-3.

Rocks regroup for a pair of victories; Stevenson is next soccer

Plymouth Salem coach Ken Johnson was in much better spirits Thursday.

After his team suffered a 1-0 loss to Livonia Churchill earlier in the week, the Rocks bounced back with a 6-1 victory Wednesday over Walled Lake Western and tuned up for their showdown with Livonia Stevenson by defeating state-ranked Troy 3-1 Thursday.

Salem, 5-1-1 in the Western Lakes and 9-2-1 overall, faces Stevenson in a key Lakes Division contest at 5 p.m. today at Centennial Educational Park.

Dennis Reynolds scored two goals and assisted on the other by Mike Ulaszek to lead the Rocks against Troy.

"Tonight was a big test," said Johnson, adding Reynolds played his best game in the last half dozen. "We need him because he's a senior and a striker."

SALEM HAS found it difficult to score many goals lately, but its play against an improved WLW outfit and No. 8-ranked Troy was encouraging in that regard.

"(Reynolds) is the guy who can win that long charge with the defender and get that shot off," Johnson said. "We need Reynolds in form to make that charge up the middle."

Reynolds broke a scoreless tie late in the first half, and Ulaszek made it 2-0 early in the second. Reynolds, on a throw-in from the corner, threw the ball back away from the goalmouth, instead of setting up a teammate for a possible header. That caught the defense off guard, and Ulaszek let the ball bounce once and scored with a line-drive kick.

The Rocks went up 3-0 when Reynolds took a pass from Don Koontz, who got his second assist, drew out the goalkeeper and kicked the ball into the net just before the keeper dove at his feet.

Most of Troy's seven shots-on-goal came late in the game when it was pressing and finally averted a shutout Salem had 15 shots.

JOHNSON lauded the play of defenders Ulaszek and Donovan Nichols. The Rocks also used four mid-fielders in a 4-4-2 lineup, pulling Jeff Gold back from a forward position, and the strategy seemed to confuse the Troy defense, Johnson said.

Randy Balconi was the star of the WLW victory, scoring four goals and picking up an assist.

Salem led 2-0 at half, Balconi scoring both goals with assists from Marc Lipke and Tim Stahl. Balconi's assist set up Matt Setlak's goal early in the second half, and he scored the next two as the Rocks increased the lead to 5-0.

The Warriors got on the scoreboard at 29:00, and Koontz capped the Rocks' scoring Joe Cosenza also had two assists and Greg Christensen one.

Return home suits Salem runners fine

A more demanding course meant for slower times, but the final result stayed the same for Plymouth Salem's boys cross country team Thursday.

After two straight meets on flat courses, the Rocks survived the ups and downs of their home course to hand North Farmington its first defeat, 21-38.

Salem is 2-0 in the Lakes Division and 3-2 overall; the Raiders are 1-1 and 5-1. The Rocks were second in the Schoolcraft Invitational and North sixth.

"You can tell we were back at Cass Benton (Park)," Salem coach Geoff Baker said. "The hills took their toll on them, and the times were a little slower.

"But I was pleased with the way we ran today. We have to continue to train and be ready for all terrains we might fall on."

Doug Vergari paced the winners with a first-place time of 16:42, and teammate Bill Atwell also ran a strong race, finishing second in 17:11.

"Both are on a good pace like last year when they peaked at the conference and state meets," Baker said.

North grabbed the next two spots to keep it close momentarily before the Rocks placed runners in the Nos. 5-7 spots to wrap up the win.

The Raiders trailed 3-7 when Tom Harnden and Jeff Simpson crossed the line together with identical times of 17:41.

But Salem's Brendon Masterson, Dave Hamway and Scott Stryker weren't far behind, finishing with 17:59, 18:00 and 18:07 times to complete Salem's team scoring.

boys cross country

North's Jim Nader was eighth (18:08), but the Rocks took the Nos. 9-13 places, too, with Jason Drury and Al Rye acting as blockers. Daye Gerts and Jeff Black also scored for the Raiders. They came in 14th and 16th with times of 19:14 and 19:34.

CANTON 23, NORTHVILLE 33: Cross country is a team sport. Plymouth Canton proved that again Thursday at Cass Benton Park.

As is often the case in cross country, one team might have the best individual talent, but the other has the most talent.

Northville's Jon Frisbee took top honors by posting a 16:56 time, but the Chiefs captured seven of the next nine places to corral the Mustangs.

Canton's one-two combination Jay Swiecki and Al Byrnes was near the top again, grabbing the Nos. 2 and 3 spots and turning in 17:25 and 17:34 times.

Team depth proved decisive as the Chiefs' Bob Beebe placed fifth (17:55), Matt Hall sixth (18:13), Chris Way seventh (18:15) and Jim Gallagher 10th (18:28).

Canton, Salem girls run to wins

Regular improvement is what cross country coaches look for in their runners, and Salem's John Gravlin liked what he saw Thursday.

"All the girls ran some of their best times for Cass Benton Park," he said after the Rocks trounced North Farmington 17-40. "As the weather gets cooler, we expect those times to come down even more.

"We're thin in numbers but we're consistent. And, if we can avoid injuries, we're going to be someone to be reckoned with."

The Rocks captured the top four places, with Jenny Sample and Kim Mishler breaking 22 minutes to finish first and second. Sample was clocked at 21:32, Mishler 21:51.

Salem's Shannon Donnelly was third (22:29) and Traci Thomas fourth (22:40) to give the Rocks a solid start. Thomas also was 19th at the recent Schoolcraft Invitational, but she was inadvertently omitted from the official list of results.

"The top two runners are in top shape, and their times will fluctuate," Gravlin said. "Other than the top two, there were real signs of improvement.

"Sample is still cruising," he added. "She and Mishler are looking to have some top 10 finishes at the big meets down the road."

Beth Cunningham completed the scoring for Salem, 1-1 in the Lakes Division and 3-2 overall, with a seventh-place finish and 23:20 time.

North was led by Donna Chuba and Lisa Rives, both of whom finished in 22:51 and gave the Raiders, 0-2 and 3-3, fifth and sixth places.

Tracy Mitchell was eighth (23:31), Sonia Singh ninth (23:35) and Sandra Schmidt 12th (25:12).

CANTON 15, NORTHVILLE 48: The Chiefs nearly had a perfect score as they whipped the Mustangs and ran their record to 7-0 in dual meets.

Lori Penland broke 20 minutes to take first place and lead the Chiefs. She was timed at 20:49.

The top five spots belonged to Canton, with Linda Schendel finishing second (21:21), Cindy Spessard third (21:44), Sherry Figurski fourth (22:14) and Cathy McCabe fifth (22:21).

Adrienne Garrow filled the role of blocker, taking seventh place in 22:47, and Sherri Sweeny (23:34) rounded out Canton's top seven.

Western no challenge to Canton swimmers

Coach Hooker Wellman got a chance to see what his swimmers could do in other events and gave others varsity experience Thursday as the Plymouth Canton girls sank Walled Lake Western 134-33.

Veterans like Kristy Brugar and Val Gildhaus were out of their normal element, but came away with victories nonetheless.

Gildhaus was the team's only double winner, winning the butterfly in 1:18.1 and breaststroke in 1:18.4. Brugar turned in an excellent time in the backstroke with a 1:10.2 finish.

Wellman also was pleased by the diving performance of Amy Van Buhler, who won that event with 154.10 points.

"She had a good high degree of difficulty tonight," he said. "She didn't hit all her dives, but when she does she'll be a 170- to 180-point scorer.

"IT'S VERY unusual for a first-year diver to have the difficulty in her routines that she does."

Others with first places for the Chiefs, 2-0 in the Western Lakes and 2-1 overall, were Chris Lang, 200 freestyle (2:19.6); Melinda Wiltrout, individual medley (2:38.2); Amy Sabo, 50 free (30.50); Tami Santamauro, 100 free (1:08.7); and Sarah Schmitz, 500 free (6:14.1). Lang competed in the 200 free for the first time, and Wellman also was impressed by Schmitz' time in the 500 free.

Canton's Lori Engelhuber, Cheri Woodward, Erica Carson and Renee DeBell won the medley relay (2:19.5), and Cassie Cummins, Danielle Dickinson, Kelly Rische and Nicole Drake won the freestyle relay (3:59.7).

The Chiefs are host to Farmington Mercy Tuesday.

Coach brings nations together

By Brad Emons
staff writer

Livonian Dennis Nazelli doesn't work for the government, but he's an international ambassador in his own right.

Henry Kissinger might be proud of Nazelli's accomplishments, particularly in the field of international basketball.

The founder of the non-profit organization Young Athletes Abroad, Nazelli plans to expand his international basketball exchange program next summer. He has plans to send as many as 125 girls and boys (grades 8-12) to his overseas basketball camp in Stockholm, Sweden.

Following the six-day international camp, run by Nazelli and coaches of the Swedish Basketball Federation, American players will be drafted to form competitive teams to enter the International Cup, a four-day tournament in Stockholm which will draw teams from Sweden, Finland, Germany, Holland, Canada, the United States and possibly the Soviet Union.

The camp in Stockholm is to foster better understanding through basketball," said Nazelli, who was recently named an assistant women's coach at Schoolcraft College. "They're going to sleep in the same rooms as the foreign kids. This isn't a tour. They're going over there with a mission — to play basketball and to make contacts."

'We want kids, boys and girls, who have a desire to travel overseas, to use their interest in basketball as the "passport" to share this wonderful educational experience.'
— Dennis Nazelli basketball coordinator

NAZELLI, who works full time for the Detroit News circulation department, spends much of his free time organizing trips.

"This is what I do for fun," he said. "Right now I'm getting a lot of interest all over the state. I've spoken at a lot of camps."

Nazelli emphasizes that Young Athletes Abroad does not select participants based on their ability.

"We want kids, boys and girls, who have a desire to travel overseas, to use their interest in basketball as the 'passport' to share this wonderful educational experience," he said.

There are no tryouts for the 16-day tour and the cost per player averages about $600.

"We give each individual four or five fund-raising projects with a goal of about $150 for each project," Nazelli said. "When you're resourceful and you have contacts sympathetic to the cause, you can keep the cost down."

YAA is willing to take coaches and their entire teams abroad.

LIVONIA LADYWOOD'S team made a trip to Scandinavia two years ago.

Area players who have made previous trips with YAA include former Miss Basketball Emily Wagner of Ladywood, Rose Obey, Sibobhan Groleau, Carey McGlinch, Kristin Hellman, Derek Williford, Mike Nettle, Caryn Shannon, Jan Herberholz, Jenny and Colleen Clinton, Steve Ditchkoff and Chris Nazelli.

Nazelli returned recently from a 12-day trip of Scandinavia, taking a group of Michigan college all-stars, members of the Sandy Sanders Summer League in Ann Arbor, to play against the Swedish, Finnish and Turkish Olympic teams. Michigan's Glen Rice and Terry Mills were on the squad along with former Catholic Central High all-stater John McIntyre, now at Missouri. (The trip was sanctioned by both the NCAA and the Amateur Basketball Federation of the U.S.)

They finished with a 2-6 record.

Nazelli is also in the preliminary stages of organizing a similar trip for Michigan collegiate women's players in late August with hopes of luring the Spartak Club of Leningrad to compete as well.

THOSE PLAYERS OR coaches interested in making a trip with YAA should contact Nazelli by mail or telephone as soon as possible.

An organizational meeting will be held early this month to elaborate on the tour details, costs, fund-raising activities and tour features.

To correspond, write: Dennis Nazelli, 19785 Purlingbrook, Livonia 48152 or call 477-6709.

Calls cost Mercy shot at victory

girls basketball

Farmington Hills Mercy girls basketball coach Larry Baker has endured tough losses before. Few, however, have been tougher to swallow than the 52-51 setback at Birmingham Marian Thursday.

Consider:

Mercy led by three points with just under five minutes left to play. A foul call was made directly in front of the Marlins' bench. Mercy assistant coach Jim McKey reacted in anger to the call and was assessed a technical foul.

Hazel Olden hit two free throws, then Mary Rogers drained both technical foul shots to put Marian ahead.

Later, Rogers hit two more free throws with 35 seconds left to give Marian a three-point lead, 52-49. Mercy's Jan Herberholz scored a quick basket, and the Marlins forced a turnover with 12 seconds left.

With the final seconds ticking away, Herberholz drove to the basket. She was knocked to the floor before she could release a shot. No foul was called.

"This really hurts," Baker said. "We told the kids that if we could play them tough in a 32- minute game we would win it. We figured we would have more poise in the end.

"We were put in a hole (by the technical foul), then we worked to get the last shot and a chance to win the game. Our kids didn't choke, the referee choked.

"When my kid is on the floor, entangled with one of their kids, there has to be a call. Even if the call was against us, I would accept that rather than no call at all. It's just real hard to explain to the team. They played well enough to win."

On the night, Marian hit 17 of 18 free throws to Mercy's five of 13.

Mercy, now 4-4 on the season and 1-1 in the Catholic League, got a 19-point effort from Herberholz. Jennifer Slosar added 13 and Patty Chapp scored 10.

Marian (7-1, 2-0) got 12 points each from Kathy Phillips, Olden and Jennifer Shasky. Rogers scored 10 points, hitting all eight of her free throws.

CANTON 63, HARRISON 15: Plymouth Canton won its fourth straight Thursday at the expense of the Hawks, who fell to 0-3 in the Western Division and 0-8 overall.

The Chiefs, who improved to 3-0 and 5-4 overall, were led by Karen Bolitch with 15 points and 15 rebounds.

Sophomore Susan Ferko added 12 points and 12 rebounds for the Chiefs, and Heather Miller tossed in 10 points.

Darcy Pinzl and Lesley Devine had six points apiece to lead the Hawks, who have now lost 20 consecutive games.

STEVENSON 52, FARMINGTON 45: The host Spartans put three players in double figures and got help from reserve Nicole Broccardo Thursday to defeat Farmington.

The Falcons, who played with a depleted roster due to continued illness and disciplinary suspensions, dropped to 0-3 in the Lakes Division and 3-5 overall. Stevenson's is 1-2 and 4-4.

Annette Stepleton paced the winners with 12 points and six assists, and Kristin Hellman and Sue Zatorski scored 10 apiece.

Rocks have title within their grasp golf

Quality depth was the difference for Plymouth Salem Thursday, and it may have been enough to catapult the Rocks to the Western Lakes Activities Association's Lakes Division golf championship.

Five Salem golfers finished in a five-stroke pack at the par-35 Brae Burn, which was a key element in their 216-221 win over North Farmington.

Windy conditions pushed scores high. Leading the Rocks was Chris Braidwood with 41. Dan Kriesche shot 42, Greg Speaks and Jeff Jagacki had 44 each and Mark Bodley carded a 45.

North's Larry LaPorte earned medalist honors with a 39, but the closest the rest of the Raiders could come was six strokes behind. Rob Wentz and Erica Zonder shot 45 apiece and Scott Mullman and Tom Seremet finished with 46.

Salem's win kept it perfect in the division at 4-0. With only a match with Livonia Stevenson remaining, a Rock win would clinch the title, a loss would give the winner of the upcoming North Farmington-Farmington (both 3-1) match a share of the crown. A year ago, Salem and Farmington were co-champs.

The Rocks are 7-3 overall.

PLYMOUTH CANTON'S record slipped to 1-7 overall and 0-5 in the WLAA's Western Division with a 204-223 loss to Livonia Churchill at Brae Burn Thursday.

Chris Trim and Shawn Dudash paced the Chiefs with 43. Ian Corkovich had a 45 and Jeff Allen and Mike Toutant scored 46 each.

Kevin Wallow paced Churchill with 40.

Churchill dunks rival

Livonia Churchill made four state qualifying cuts Thursday in a 95-77 girls swimming victory over Western Lakes Conference foe Northville.

The Chargers are now 6-0 in dual meets.

Audra Martin figured in three of the four state qualifying times for host Churchill.

She captured the 200-yard individual medley (2:21.75) and 100 butterfly (58.9). The foursome of Martin, Beth Marcy, Angie Neville and Ann Vanderlaare also won the 200 medley relay with a time of 1:56.85, also qualifying for the state meet Dec. 4-5 in East Lansing.

Cathy Ankenbrandt captured the 50 freestyle with a time of 25.88, also a state cut. She added a first in the 200 freestyle (57.64), and anchored the winning 400 freestyle relay (4:06.6), which also included Marcy, Katie Hamann and Barb Turner.

Earlier in the week, Churchill dunked Redford Union 121-40, winning 10 of 11 events.

RUS ONLY WINNER was diver Ann Jacobson (161.90 points).

Recording individual firsts for Churchill: Lisa Rozelle, 200 freestyle, 2:22.06; Michelle Berry, 200 IM, 2:45.8; Martin, 50 freestyle, 26.1; Ankenbrandt, 100 butterfly, 1:09.6; Turner, 100 freestyle, 1:01.7; Stacy Tomasewski, 500 freestyle, 6:13.4; Marcy, 100 backstroke, 1:11.9; and Kim Patrias, 100 breaststroke, 1:26.6.

Same crime, different punishment

SEVEN DEATHS, SEVEN DEALS

What started as a homicide in Detroit triggered an investigation into the inequities and injustices being committed in the courts throughout the state of Michigan.
Records showed similar crimes did not receive similar punishment. And proved punishment rested more on a judge's philosophy than on the crime committed.
Within days after the publication of a story that documented this information, the Michigan Supreme Court made some changes.
Changes that wouldn't have occurred if a few reporters at a Detroit newspaper hadn't been looking for a story.
It's an example of how individual rights can be protected when the public is kept informed.
It's an example of how a free press works in a free society. And what could go on without it.
To get printed information on the role of a free press and how it protects your rights, or to discuss any free press issue, call the First Amendment Center at 1-800-542-1600.

Judges' sentencing: Fits the killer not the crime

Stricter guidelines for sentencing

If the press didn't tell us, who would?

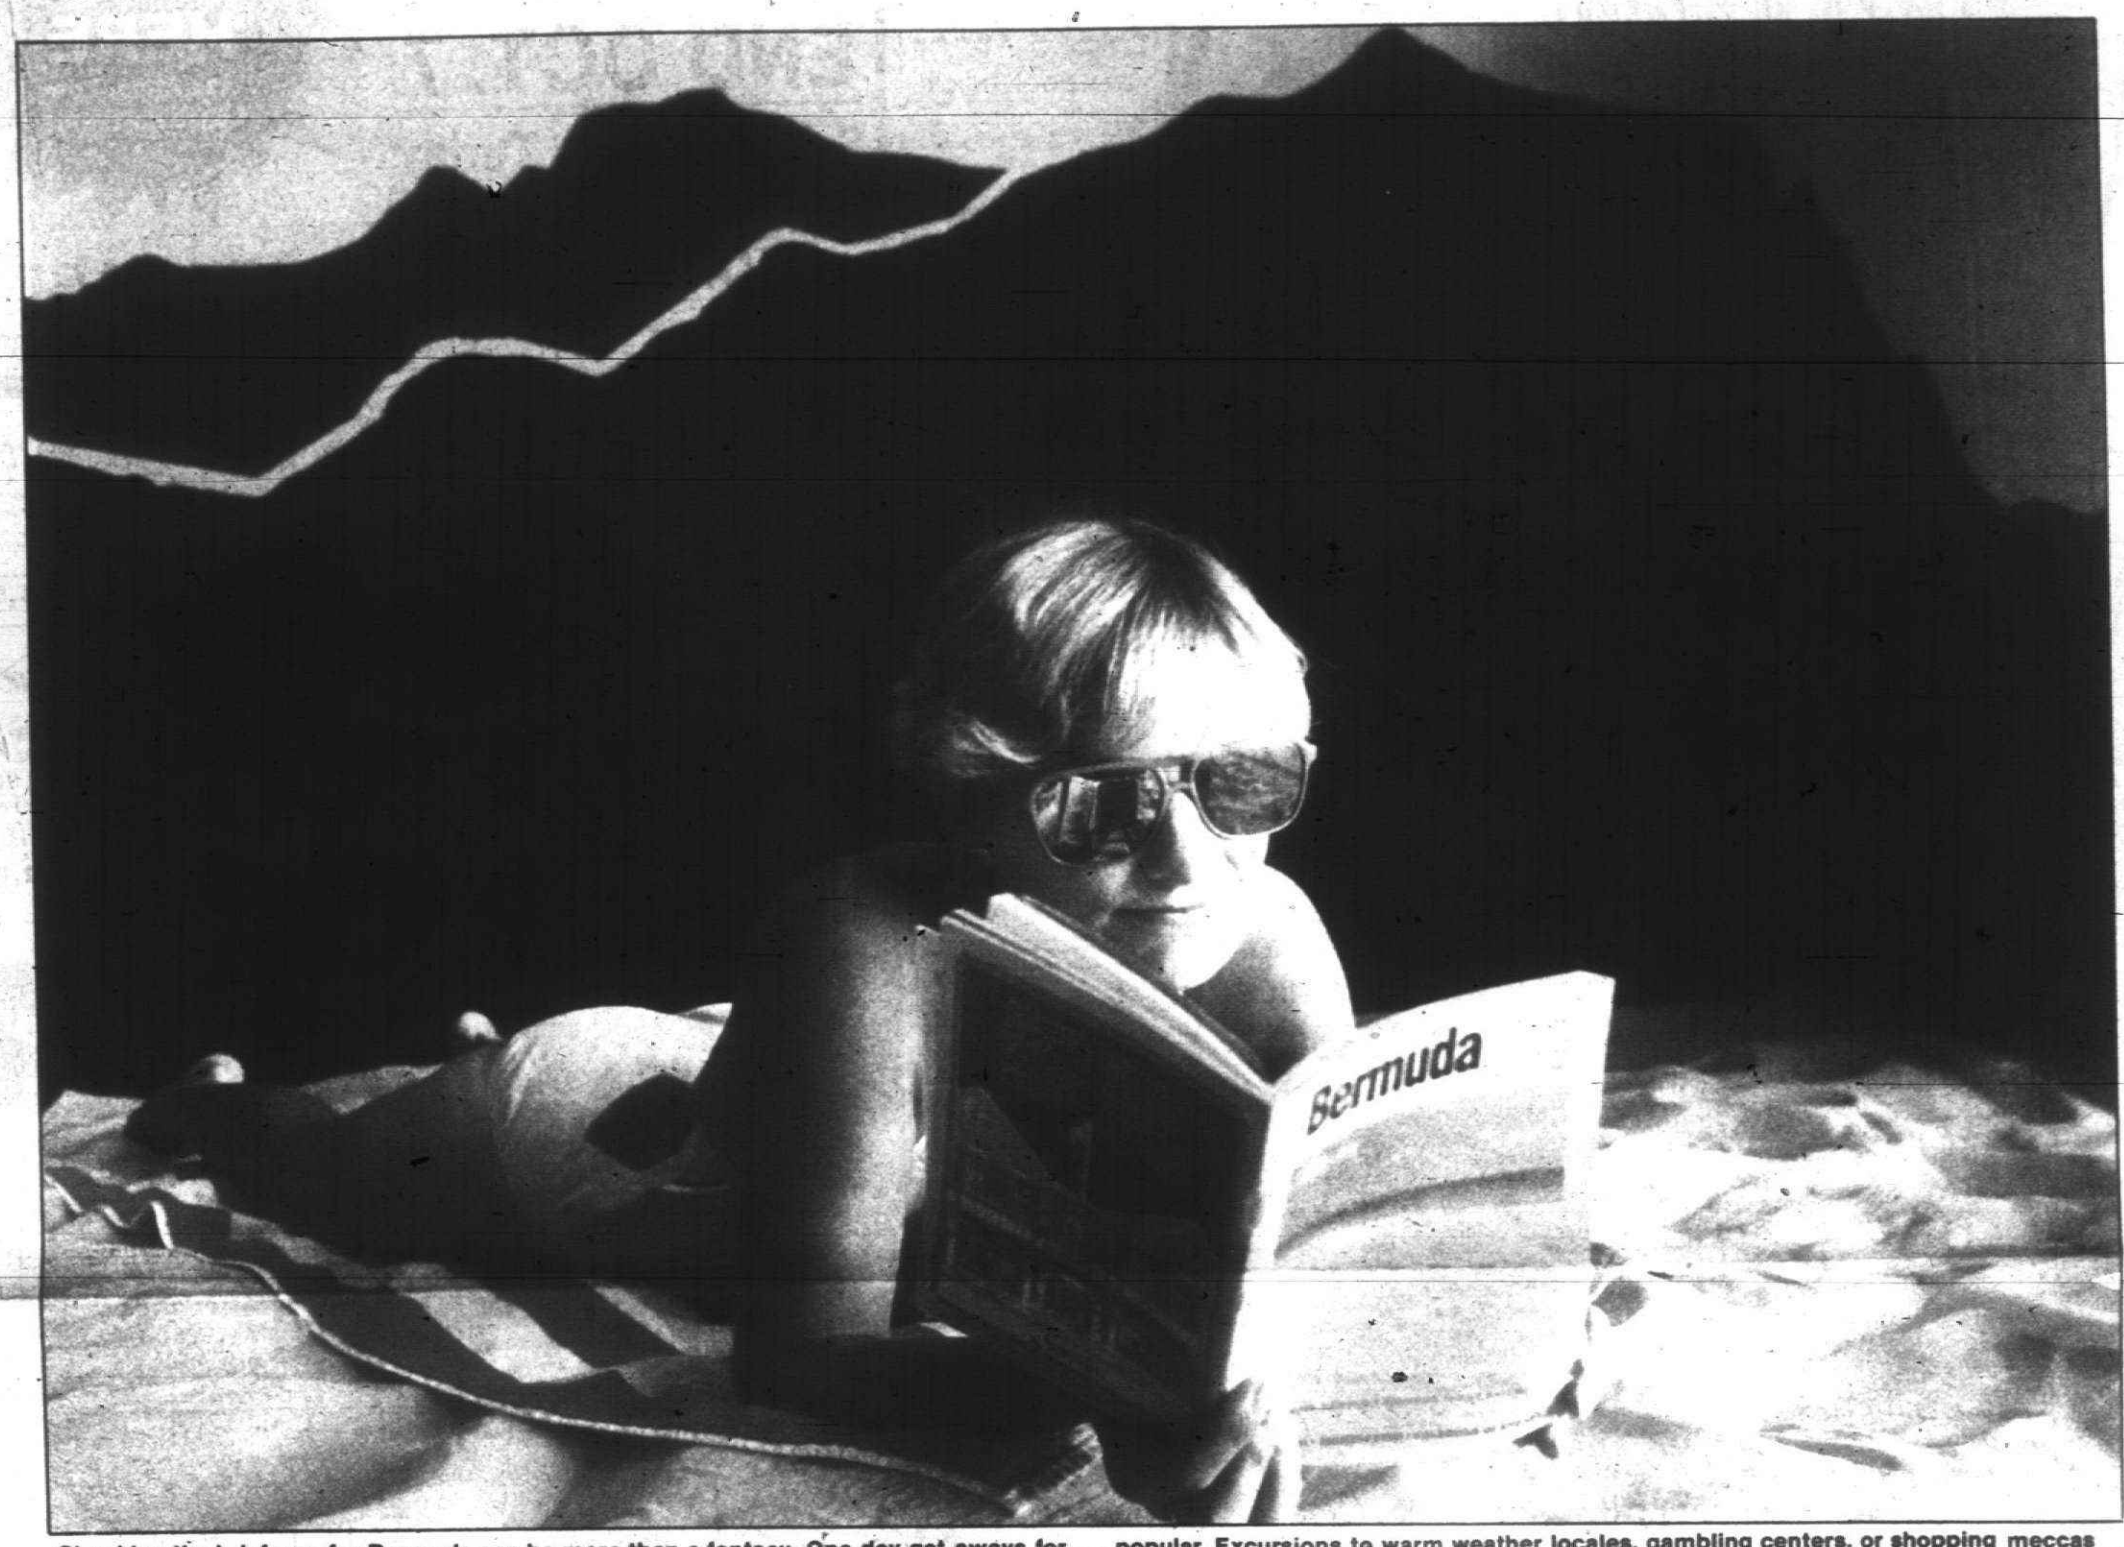
Bow and arrow

One of man's first hunting tools has certainly come along way from a branch with a vine strung from one end to the other and arrows made of pointed sticks. Today, bows are constructed of Fiberglas, graphite and plastic, with strings made of heavy duty Dacron. For more on the bow and arrow and the sport of archery hunting, turn to Page 3D.



Shucking the briefcase for Bermuda can be more than a fantasy. One day get-aways for people who can afford the cost but not the time for a more traditional vacation are popular. Excursions to warm weather locales, gambling centers, or shopping meccas top the list.

ONE DAY TRIPPING

'It's an indulgence. You leave the airport at 7 a.m., you're in Nassau by 9:30 and by 11 you're on the beach.'

—Michael Fayne president Hamilton, Miller, Hudson, Fayne Travel Corporation in Southfield

By Rich Perlberg
staff writer

What do you call it when you wake up at 3 a.m., fly to a distant location, do your business from the moment you land until the moment you depart, return home at 2 the next morning, and head into work the next day?

Some people call it vacation.

"It was worth it for us, even with the crummy weather," said Jill Ruffles, a Birmingham travel agent who with her husband mastered the above schedule for a one-day jaunt to the Bahamas last winter.

The one-day vacation is turning into an attractive diversion for winter- and work-weary Michigan residents who can afford the cost of a traditional vacation but not the time.

Destinations vary, but generally fall into one of three categories: a warm-weather haven, a gambling center, or a shopping mecca.

"A LOT OF people want to get away, but they can't afford to take more than one or two days off," said Ruffles who works at Adams, Lincoln and Woodward Travel Inc.

Even though the one-day vacation can mean a taxing schedule, the one day at the beach far away from demanding phones and pressing deadlines outweighs the loss of sleep.

As a one-day tripper put it, "It really feels good to be able to say I was in the Bahamas yesterday."

The popularity of the trips has been "phenomenal," says Michael Fayne, president of Hamilton, Miller, Hudson, Fayne Travel Corporation in Southfield, which is a major wholesaler for such trips. "The demand far exceeded what we expected."

The one-day trips were the brainchild of Fayne's brother, vice president Ronald Fayne. They have been attractive not only to individual travelers, but also for all sorts of groups including clubs, unions and other employee groups. Charters of 175 to 350 people are not unheard of for a quick trip to a Carribean beach. One group of husbands flew down to play golf; a week later, their wives took the trip to gamble.

"It's an indulgence," explains Fayne. "You leave the airport at 7 a.m., you're in Nassau by 9:30 and by 11 you're on the beach."

ONCE THERE, host hotels offer a buffet dinner, which is part of the package cost and, for those who

How to travel with friends

We want to vacation with another couple, but we all like to do different things. We get up early; they sleep late. We like country western music; their ideal of a musical instrument is the harp. We two men like casual dressing dining; the women like to dress up. My wife likes gardens, his wife shops. Will it work?

You are friends at home in spite of all those differences. It will work if you recreate the flexibility you have in your life at home.

First time out, pick a resort where you can be together in a home base; pick it in a setting where you can each follow your own interest by day and come back together at night.

As I read your letter I pictured a harp-playing country-western musician in the middle of a big garden, with shopping just outside the gate. My mind immediately said "Nashville, Tenn." and I was back at the Opryland Hotel, where that picture is a reality.

IMAGINE READING your morning paper on a small balcony overlooking a huge conservatory, acres of greenery under a glass dome. Your wife is walking in the garden below.

RECENT RELEASES:

"Big Shots" (D) (PG-13) 95 minutes.

Far-fetched adventury story of suburban adolescent who teams up with homeless city kid. They confront violence and outwit adults in their search for homeless boy's father. Reviewed by Jeff Limatta.

"Near Dark" (C) (R) 95 minutes.

Dark thriller about family of modern vampires roaming the Bible Belt. Unsuspecting farm boy joins them and ultimately causes their destruction. Special effects, violence and gore make this almost scary. Review by Kathy Guyor.

"The Offspring" (*) R.

Vincent Price and terror move to the suburbs.

"Slaughterhouse" (*) (R).

Something unusual in slaughterhouses with — for good reason — a cast of unknowns.

"Summer Night" (C−) unrated 94 minutes.

Lina Wertmuller's clever but inconclusive appreciation of bourgeoise decadence fails in this talky drama about a very rich lady who kidnaps terrorist chieftain to recover ransom. She falls for him too easily and pedestrian sexuality messes up neat kidnapping. Sometimes tongue-in-cheek gets caught in teeth.

"Matewan" (A) (PG-13) 132 minutes. The history of a West Virginia mining town's tragic struggle to organize labor is authentically portrayed in a 1920s setting. Despite mining company might, the people of Matewan are torn to change when Joe Kenehan (Chris Cooper), a union man, arrives. Strong performance by James Earl Jones as "Few Clothes" Johnson. Simple and direct dialogue with cinematography to match highlight this human drama. Reviewed by Jeff Limatta.

STILL PLAYING

"No Way Out" (B) (R) 115 minutes

This taut espionage thriller is well-done, but the movie goes one way while the unsupported, unexplained ending goes another. Kevin Costner and Gene Hackman star, with an excellent performance by Sean Young.

"La Bamba" (C+)(PG-13)

This maudlin, cliched, "show biz" story tells of Ricky Valens' early success and tragic death in the plane crash that killed Buddy Holly and J.P. Richardson. Music is good, but forget the story.

"Robocop" (B) (R) 110 minutes

Interesting film about corporate struggles to mechanize police forces of the future. Detroit, as usual, gets bad rap as crime capital. Excellent performance by Peter Weller in title role, but film is longer than it need be, and it is marred by excessive violence. But, hey, that's life. Number one at the box office.

"Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" (A+) (G)

She's back to celebrate her 50th birthday and delight another generation.

"Stakeout" (A−) (R)

Entertaining, well-done police adventure with Richard Dreyfuss and Emilio Estevez as unconventional cops on night-shift stakeout for major criminal. Story twists and turns in clever ways, with plenty of comic relief and good dialogue, but more gore than necessary. $50 million in the till and still going strong.

"Dirty Dancing" (B−) (PG-13) 105 minutes

Well-done and entertaining show biz cliche. Rich, idealistic young girl (Jennifer Grey) falls in love with working-class dance instructor (Patrick Swayze). Music, dance, and dialogue are good, but plot has more trite twists than Chubby Checker in the Peppermint Lounge.

"The Fourth Protocol" (A−) (R) 120 minutes.

Thrilling spy story stars Michael Caine in convoluted plot that makes sense. Good photography and excellent pace.

"The Rosary Murders" (C) (R).

Bobby Laurel's Detroit production about a killer of Catholic priests and nuns would have been better without some of its shocking horror and darkness. Early on you're clued in to whodunit, but not the whydunit. Donald Sutherland and Charles Durning star. Reviewed by Victoria Diaz.

"The Curse" (R)

H.P. Lovecraft's novel, "The Colour Out of Space," was the source for this gothic horror film.

"Hamburger Hill" (C+) (R) 110 minutes

Brutal Vietnam battle scenes are disordered, confusing and repetitious — just like combat — but that doesn't make an effective film. Good photography and touching scenes between soldiers awaiting combat is not enough to save this movie.

"Thou Shalt Not Kill . . . Except" (F) Unrated

Four Marines, Vietnam vets, obliterate a "Manson-like" cult in a disgusting display of violence. Poorly produced, low-budget film makes one appreciate television. Not worthy of the big screen or the price of admission. Reviewed by Jeff Limatta.

"Fatal Attraction" (A) (R) 110 minutes.

Michael Douglas as a family man whose one-night stand turns into a nightmare at the hands of a psychotic woman (Glenn Close) in this suspenseful thriller. Riveting performances and a strong story build to an explosive, nerve-shattering conclusion. Reviewed by Kathy Guyor.

"Hellraiser" (*) (R) 94 minutes.

Horror-flick with Andrew Robinson and Ashley Laurence welcoming a former lover back from the grave.

"Kandyland" (*) (R)

Smalltown girl finds excitement as an exotic dancer.

"Lady Beware" (C+) (R) 105 minutes.

Modern thriller with pretty girl stalked by sexual pervert. Old story with unusual plot twist and scrappy heroine make this slightly better than average. Reviewed by Kathy Guyor.

Professor Dan grades the movies

A	Close behind - excellent
A-	Still in the running for top honors
B+	Pretty good stuff but not perfect
B	Good
B-	Good but notable deficiencies
C+	Just a cut above average
C	Mediocre
C-	Not so hot and slipping fast
D+	The very best of the poor stuff
D	Poor
D-	It doesn't get much worse
F	Truly awful
Z	Reserved for the colossally bad

"The Pick-up Artist" (B) (PG-13) 80 minutes.

Pick-up artist Jack Jericho (Robert Downey) meets his match in Randi Jensen (Molly Ringwald). Good performances, especially by Ms. Ringwald, don't fully overcome weak direction. But it's still cute and entertaining.

"The Big Easy" (B+) (R) 95 minutes.

Exciting, well-done cop show with Dennis Quaid as Cajun Lieutenant on New Orleans Police Force. Good music track.

"The Big Town" (C−) (R) 105 minutes.

Small town gambler ventures to Chicago to explore limits of his passion for women and crap-shooting. Fair performances by Matt Dillon as "Cully the Arm" and Diane Lane as a tawdry night-club dancer in this 1957 nostalgia piece with classic "oldies" on the music track. Old story with new faces make it hard to lay money down on this one. Reviewed by Jeff Limatta.

"Disorderlies" (I) PG

Greedy nephew hires "The Fat Boys" to nurse rich uncle (Ralph Bellamy) to an early grave. Comedy.

"Nowhere to Hide" (*) (R)

Amy Madigan is in big trouble when her husband, a Marine Corps officer, is murdered after discovering a military scandal.

"The Outing" (*) (R)

Four kids, a magic lamp, a haunted house and ancient evil.

"The Principal" (B−) (R) 105 minutes.

Jim Belushi, the principal of inner city high school, uses unorthodox methods to combat moral decay of faculty and students and thereby discovers his own identity. Suspense, drama and a believable plot. Reviewed by Jeff Limatta.

"Too Much" (*) PG

A girl and her robot playmate in an adventure about the true meaning of friendship.

"Wish You Were Here" (C+) (R) 92 minutes.

I was there and wish I wasn't. In spite of fine performance by Emily Lloyd, this British comedy of young, rebellious girl in conventional 1950s town is unpleasant and largely unentertaining. The dialogue is so British it needs subtitles but it's still playing. Go figure that out.

STILL PLAYING

"Beverly Hills Cop II" (B+) (R)

More of the same as "BHCI" and maybe even more fun.

"Hollywood Shuffle" (A−) (R)

Robert Townsend's sharp wit and good humor stick it to everybody in this satire on the black actor's chances in Hollywood.

Lance Henriksen, Jenette Goldstein and Bill Paxton, who previously joined forces in 'Alien,' reunite in 'Near Dark.'

1-day jaunts can be fun

One day shopping excursions to places like New York City are appealing to day trippers. Check with your favorite travel agent about Christmas shopping in Manhattan.

wish, a discount on a day room. Free of charge are changing rooms, but those aren't always necessary.

"I'll tell you," said Fayne, "from the moment the plane takes off, there's a line-up in the rest room. People change into their suits right on the plane."

Other popular excursions are gambling jaunts to Atlantic City and Christmas shopping trips to Macy's and environs in New York City.

Trips to the islands have been particularly intriguing to people 35 and younger, a fact not lost on Fayne who says that while the trips are not very profitable, they are a great marketing tool for attracting future customers.

Trips cost from $100 to $120 and are restricted to certain days of the week. Fayne suggests booking the trips through your favorite travel agent.

Or, you can look into your local parks and recreation department. Troy's department, for instance, jumped on the day-trip bandwagon last year with a trip to Atlantic City, a departure from more traditional destinations such as Greenfield Village.

LAST YEAR'S success prompted an encore. The department is booking reservations for a one-day Christmas shopping trip to New York City for early December. For an extra $20, you can even ride a shuttle bus to and from the airport.

The shopping aspect of trips to New York is a big draw, but the schedule leaves flexibility for sightseeing and even play-going.

And there is one more plus to the single-day vacation. "You don't have to pack," said Ruffles. "Except to bring your bathing suit."

Friendly trips are planned

On the other side of the conservatory, within sight, is your friend who slept late. His wife is browsing the shops in the hotel 100 feet away while waiting for him to get his act together so you can all go to the Opryland USA Home Park.

You can have fun together in the park, but here too you can each follow your own interests. You hit the bluegrass music show, and let your friends choose among the many other stage presentations.

By night, sit together in the hotel's courtyard and listen to Lloyd Lindroth play western and other music on his electronic harp. He plays Top 40 music, new music, old music, and your friends won't even know when he plays "Rocky Top" or "Rollin' In My Sweet Baby's Arms."

WHAT WORKS about this resort setting is that you are all in one place, but each of you can follow your own interests by day and come together again at night. This particular destination is casual enough for you to find a restaurant where the women can dress up and the men can go without a tie.

Flexibility like that is available in several kinds of resort destinations. Rent a two-bedroon condominium through the Chamber of Commerce on Marco Island, and you can cook your breakfast and then spread out to beaches, touring, shopping, museums and the like.

Let one couple pick the evening entertainment one night, the other couple the next night. Don't always try to do things together.

Book a short cruise, maybe a weekend on Premiere Cruise Lines from Florida to the Bahamas. This lets you swim and sun while your friends tour. It allows you to eat a casual deck lunch while your wife eats in the formal dining room.

THE PROBLEMS that occur when friends travel together are usually related to three things: money, too much togetherness and the need to compromise constantly so that you all do the same thing. Here are some rules from people who have done it successfully:

Talk every detail over before you go, and don't hold anything back. How will the money be handled? If you drive, fill the car with gas at your own expense before you leave — that had nothing to do with your travel costs. Keep track of what you spend on gas and tolls on the road, including a final fill-up after you get home. Those on-the-road and final fill-up costs are your transportation costs and should be divided between the two couples.

Other costs can be handled one of three ways. One: Put a set amount in a pool and refill it when it's empty. Two: You pay for one meal, let the other couple pay for another meal and don't worry about whether you come out even. Three: Each of you meticulously pay your own expenses. Remember, money can lose you friends if somebody says, "They are not paying their share."

You also should discuss responsibilities if there are any. Don't assume the other couple wants to save money by cooking lunch; check it out. Don't say, "I'll bring the cake, you make the cookies," until you are sure the other couple wants to take anything.

Gary Sandor of Utica points to the ideal target for nabbing a deer during the archery deer season, which runs through Nov. 14. After two-week break for firearms season, the bow starts up again Dec. 1 and continues to Jan. 1, 1988.

Archery's appeal is at high point

By Bill Parker
staff writer

In this day of high-powered firearms one of man's earliest and most useful weapons often is overlooked.

It is believed by many experts to have been man's first machine. The first tool with the ability to store energy. The bow and arrow.

When early man roamed the earth the bow and arrow was a very primitive weapon.

The bow usually was constructed of a green branch. A thin vine would be strung from one end to the other until the branch was slightly bent. This style of bow is known today as a recurve or long bow.

The arrows used then were made of a long, straight stick notched at one end and pointed at the other.

Since the days of the early recurve the bow and arrow has come a long way.

Today, limbs of the bow are made of Fiberglas, wood or a combination of graphite and plastic. Strings are made of dacron with a heavy wax base, and the arrows usually are made of aluminum, although wood and Fiberglas also work well.

And the list of accessories is endless. Many of today's archers use sights, weights, balancers, silencers, finger tabs, forearm guards, burger buttons (a button on the bow that adds to the accuracy of the arrow's flight), even scopes. The quiver, or instrument used to carry the arrows, is made of plastic and attachs to the bow.

AROUND 1965 a new style, the compound bow, hit the market. Up until that time the recurve was the only style available.

"With a recurve or long bow, the further you pull the bow back, the harder it is to pull," explained Tom Featherstone, president of Michigan Bow Hunters, a statewide organization founded in 1947 to promote and preserve bow hunting in Michigan.

"On a compound bow, wheels have been added to both ends. About halfway (through the pull) the wheels turn over and reduce the pull weight 50 percent.

"It used to be quite a job to pull back a (bow with a heavy pull weight). The compound has made that job much easier. It opened the field for people that didn't hunt with a bow."

Compound bows made a big hit in Michigan around 1972-73, and the impact on bow hunting was felt immediately.

According to statistics of the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, there were 68,540 licensed archery hunters in Michigan in 1970. By 1975 that figure had nearly doubled, jumping to 120,700.

The whitetail deer is the animal most Michigan archery hunters seek although some also hunt bear, turkeys, rabbits, squirrels, even pheasants and partridge.

Bow fishing is also a popular pastime of archers. In Michigan there are special regulations governing the use of a bow and arrow to fish, but carp, suckers, gar and bow fin are all legal takes.

The Great Lakes Bow Fishing Championships are held annually in Saginaw Bay. Last year a world record was set when 250 two-man teams harvested 72,000 pounds of carp in two days.

THE POPULARITY of archery hunting took another huge leap forward in 1977 when the DNR passed the two-deer law. This law allowed hunters to take one deer with a bow and arrow and one deer with a gun. Before that, hunters could only take one deer, either with a bow and arrow or a gun.

By 1980 the number of licensed archery hunters in Michigan had increased to 204,550. Last year there were 226,970 licensed archers in Michigan, and the state set a national bow record harvesting 57,960 deer.

The archery deer season in Michigan begins annually Oct. 1. The season is 76 days long running initially through Nov. 14. The season takes a two-week rest for firearms deer season, resumes Dec. 1 and continues to Jan. 1.

Doug Merithew, president of the West Bloomfield-based club, the Detroit Archers, will be one of those hunters in the field this year.

"The first half of the season is the perfect time of year to be in the woods," said Merithew. "The weather is warm, the colors are beautiful, and there isn't an army in the woods like it sometimes seems during the firearms season.

"Hunting with a bow you have to get much closer to the game than with a gun. You have to be much more patient. It's a waiting game, and much more challenging (than hunting with a gun) in that respect."

Featherstone agrees. He feels the challenge of bow hunting is the drawing card of the sport.

"The bow is a short-range weapon. It's self-limiting, hand-held, hand-drawn and hand-released," said Featherston.

"It's a challenging sport. It's not so much how far you can shoot but how close you can lure the game in."

"That is an incredible challenge. The national average range of a shot by a successful archery hunters is just 18 yards."

If you're an archery hunter and have yet to bag a deer, don't feel frustrated. The average success rate across the nation is one deer in seven years.

Wonder what the success rate was with a branch bow?

Caruso rises on the market

'We decided to treat (the record) like a national release and not take "no" for an answer. Fortunately, we haven't had to take "no" too often.'
— Mike Caruso, bass player

Members of Caruso include brothers Mike Caruso(left), Dave Caruso, Joe Caruso and Rob Caruso. The group will play Monday, Oct. 19, at Rumorz in Westland.

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

OK, shoppers. This "In the Face" T-shirt is currently for sale.

Yes, this 50 percent cotton blend, comfortable tee comes in cream and sells for a mere $8.50. But wait, there's more.

This neat two-tone, one-square inch Caruso button goes for only $1.50. Act now, and add $1.50, and you can have an 8-inch-by-10-inch, black-and-white autographed photo of Caruso with the correct spelling no less.

No, this isn't the Home Shopping Network. This is a rock'n'roll band whose marketing skill is only surpassed by its music.

Merchandising the band is paying dividends. Caruso is a five-member group on the verge of making it big.

WHICH, OF course, is the claim of every band in the Western Hemisphere. Except, in Caruso's case, there are some definite signs that commercial success could be at the next light.

- "In the Face," a four-song extended play record, is the best-selling disc at Harmony House by an unsigned Detroit band, according to Sandy Bean, distribution director at the record outlet.
- "London," a track off the recently-released EP, has received air play on WLLZ-FM, which in itself is a considerable feat for any area band.
- "Caruso," the band's first album, sold out the 6,000 copies that were made.
- Caruso has opened for the likes of Corey Hart, Joan Jett, Rick Springfield, UB40, Burton Cummings and John Cafferty.
- For the fourth consecutive year, the pop group has been nominated by the National Association of Campus Activities (NACA) for an award in the contemporary music category. Other recent nominees include the Del Fuegos and the Bangles. This year, Caruso's on the ballot with the Georgia Satellites.

SO TO GO along with the T-shirts, posters and buttons is some fine music. Which is all part of the master plan, according to Mike Caruso.

"We meet once a week in our organization," said Caruso, 29, the bass player and oldest member of the group. "We said, 'What are we going to do with this record?' We decided to treat it like a national release and not take 'no' for an answer.

"Fortunately, we haven't had to take 'no' too often."

The band's main goal, obviously, is to say yes to a major record deal. Mike Caruso said the group's being shopped around to major labels on the West Coast.

Now it's a waiting game.

"The major labels wouldn't call you up and say, 'Hi, I'm CBS records,'" Mike Caruso said. "It's pretty much who you know in this business."

THE CORE of the band are the four Caruso brothers, who are from Trenton: Dave Caruso, keyboards; Rob Caruso, drums; Joe Caruso, guitar, and Mike Caruso, bass. Lee Thomas, the lone non-brother in the group, is on guitar.

Mike Caruso can't exactly pinpoint when they actually became a band in brotherhood.

He recalls playing for family by the fireplace during the holidays when they were younger.

"Then we got a P.A. system, lights and we made a rock show out of it," he said.

Currently, Caruso's rock show can be heard in a number of venues in the area, including Rumorz in Westland and Jagger's in Waterford Township. The band has proved popular on the college circuit as well.

Ohio, Illinois, Florida and Texas have also been stops on Caruso's rock'n'roll journeys.

The band's music is hit-oriented and commercial, Mike Caruso said. Perhaps that can be traced back to the music they enjoyed on CKLW-AM during their youth.

Like the music which was played on the "Big Eight," Caruso believes "In the Face" has crossover potential. Dave Caruso penned the material for the EP, though Mike Caruso said all the band members contribute in the songwriting department.

THE EP, which is on NuBeat Records, was made possible by some outside financing. The promotional budget is handled by the band, which is bolstered by the sale of T-shirts, buttons and autographed pictures with the correct spelling ("If nobody gets it, I guess it's an inside joke," Mike Caruso said. "Rob's got real bad handwriting").

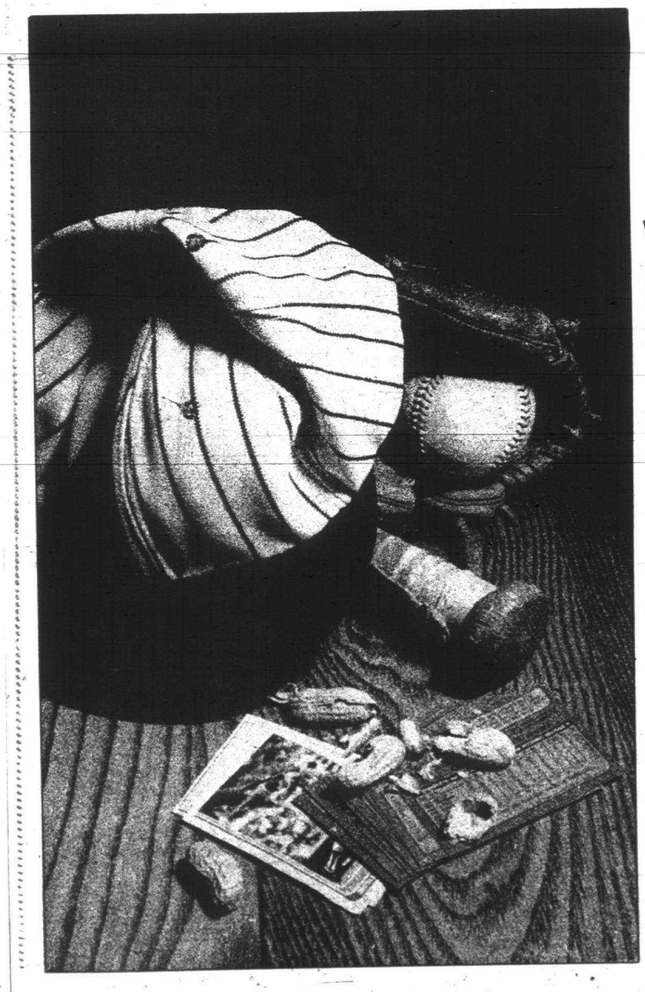
But business doesn't shadow the business of making music, according to Mike Caruso.

"We're primarily musicians," he said.

Caruso will appear Monday evening, Oct. 19, at Rumorz, 450 Merriman, south of Ford Road, Westland. Cover is $3 (Those who have a Caruso VIP card receive $1 off). For more information on playing dates or obtaining a VIP card, call 671-7625.

WORLD SERIES CONTEST

West Bloomfield entry is winner



By Richard Lech
staff writer

Steve Grigorian of West Bloomfield is the winner in the Street Scene World Series Contest.

Grigorian will receive the first prize, a Louisville Slugger baseball bat with his name inscribed on it.

He was one of four entrants to get 19 of 20 questions right in the trivia quiz, which appeared in the Sept. 24 issue of Street Scene. The four names were placed in a hat, and Grigorian's name was picked first.

Grigorian missed only the first question, which asked what contribution Pat Sheridan made to the Kansas City Royals in the 1985 American League Championship Series. Grigorian guessed "two home runs in one game" but Sheridan hit two for the series, in different games.

Grigorian, a Tiger season-ticket holder, said he guessed at a few of the questions, but he also did some extensive research to nail down the right answers. He even called his brother-in-law in Cleveland, a big Boston Red Sox fan, to get the correct answer to Question 20 (see below.)

HARVEY CHAPMAN of Farmington Hills finished second in the drawing and will receive an offical Detroit Tigers cap. He missed Question 12, guessing Jack Morris as the former Garden City resident instead of the correct answer, Walt Terrell.

Jerry Chwalek of Livonia finished third and will receive a Detroit Tigers coffee mug. He also guessed Morris instead of Terrell.

Gerald Stulberg of Birmingham also got 19 correct. Stulberg missed the first question, guessing that Sheridan hit two home runs in the first game. He will receive a Detroit Tiger yearbook.

We'd like to thank all of you who sent in entries. For your enjoyment, here is the Street Scene World Series Contest one more time — this time with the answers.

Steve Grigorian will receive the first prize, a Louisville Slugger baseball bat with his name inscribed on it.

1. Wayne Memorial High School graduate Pat Sheridan played a key role in the 1985 American League Championship Series, helping the Kansas City Royals make it to the World Series. Yet the following spring he was cut by the Royals and signed by the Detroit Tigers. What was Sheridan's major contribution to the Royals in the championship series?

We were looking for "hit two home runs in the series." But we accepted any answer that was technically correct, that said something Sheridan actually did during the series. For the record, he hit a pinch-hit home run in Game Two to tie the score and send it into extra innings and hit a homer in the seventh and deciding game.

Some of our contestants suggested he got a game-winning RBI, but that was not the case, according to an account of the series published in Street and Smith's Official Baseball Yearbook for 1986.

Steve McCatty, former pitcher with the Oakland Athletics, was the answer to Question No. 13 in the Street Scene World Series Contest

2. This one-time Detroit Tiger World Series star later opened a business in downtown Rochester. Name the player and the type of business he started.

Mickey Lolich once operated a doughnut shop in downtown Rochester. He later moved the business to Oxford.

3. Two Tiger batting champions were residents of Garden City at one time or another. One played in the 1968 World Series; the other managed in the 1982 series. Name them.

Norm Cash played in the 1968 World Series and won the 1961 American League batting title. Harvey Kuenn managed the Milwaukee Brewers in the 1982 World Series and won the batting title in 1959. Both lived in Garden City at one point or another.

4. What Southfield High School graduate boomed home runs in the first two games of the 1982 World Series?

Ted Simmons for the Milwaukee Brewers.

5. Although he was a 10-game winner for the Tigers in 1984, this Lathrup Village resident did not pitch in either the Championship Series or World Series.

Juan Berenguer.

Paul Hogan, the old croc man himself, surfaces in the video stores as "Crocodile Dundee." Hogan inspired Americans to say "G'day" and "slip a little shrimp on the barbie."

If you consider the lines were uttered by Hogan in a commercial for the Australian Tourist Commission, we're down to searching for one memorable line in 90 minutes' worth of movie dialogue.

Hogan possesses a certain rough charm that makes you want to like this movie against your better judgment. Too bad the movie's saddled with a collection of gags that have been used, abused and discarded by others.

There's the triumph over the mugger gag with Australian outdoorsman Dundee pulling out a blade slightly smaller than a machete to match the bad guy's stiletto. To quote an old college prof of mine, "Freud would have had a lot to say about that."

Dundee makes his initial appearance in the movie lugging a stuffed crocodile into a hole-in-the-wall bar and ordering a drink for himself and the future piece of luggage.

Hogan possesses a certain rough charm that makes you want to like this movie against your better judgment. Too bad the movie's saddled with a collection of gags that have been used, abused and discarded by others.

OUR DAUNTLESS Aussie falls for Sue Charlton (Linda Kozlowski), the reporter who interviews him in the outback for a New York newspaper and persuades him to come to the United States — at the publication's expense. Dad owns the paper, of course.

She's engaged to an editor, Richard Mason (Mark Blum), a man so insipid he makes the stuffed crocodile look intriguing. Of course, Dundee wins her and a sequel. From the start of the movie, viewers know that it's just a matter of time on both counts.

"Hannah and Her Sisters" takes a look at the lives of three sisters, their husband, lovers and friends. It's probably the most accessible movie Woody Allen has written. Hannah (Mia Farrow) acts as the emotional center of her extended family. She puts up with bickering between her ex-vaudevillian parents (Maureen O'Sullivan and Lloyd Nolan), who put her in the position of raising her two younger sisters. Hannah has just enough self-respect to prevent her from becoming the family doormat.

Her sister, Lee (Barbara Hershey), continues in a stifling relationship with a reclusive artist, Frederick (Max Von Sydow), until she becomes involved with Hannah's husband, Elliot (Michael Caine.) Elliot's an act-first-think-later sort who has plenty of fleeting second thoughts about his situation. Elliot comes too close to being Caine's Alfie in middle age.

MEANWHILE THIRD sister Holly (Diane Wiest), an actress searching in vain for a job, indulges in cocaine and self-doubt. In the meantime, she uses family get-togethers to ask Hannah for loans to help her get started in a new money-making scheme to tide her over until she starts getting acting jobs. Some of the schemes come close to succeeding before Holly drops them.

Hannah's ex-husband, Mickey (Woody Allen), obsessed with his health, discovers he really has something to worry about when his doctor tells him his hearing loss may be caused by a tumor. Allen tones down his Nervous-Norvis character just enough to suggest a slight mellowing.

'Forum' — a funny way to go

University of Michigan School of Music Musical Theater program students will present Stephen Sondheim's Tony-award winning comedy, "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum," Thursday through Sunday, in the Lydia Mendelssohn Theater. This is the first time since its inception in 1982 that the musical theater program has performed in Mendelssohn Theater.

According to program director Brent Wagner, the decision to stage this show at the Mendelssohn is a "step up for the program and its students."

"The musical theater program at U-M is experiencing tremendous growth, both in popularity and in the talents and capabilities of its students," Wagner said. "In 1984 there were only 14 students in the program and this year, we have almost 50.

This growth has been stimulated by the success of two of our recent productions, the world production of 'A Wonderful Life' and last year's 'Love Life.'"

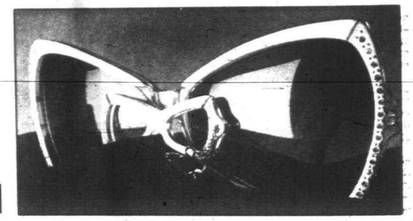
Fiorucci unisex frames allow the wearer to bear the designer's name at just below eye level.

Ways to be framed

Eye wear can fit the mood



For evening wear, the eyes can match the ears with this lively combination. Rhinestone studded frames adorn both the glasses and earrings.

Winged eyeglasses with rhinestone-studded temples transform a 1980s model secretary into the 1950s prototype, a la Ann Southern in the TV show "Private Secretary."

Round wire-rimmed or tortoiseshell spectacles turn a mild-mannered Wall Street broker into John Lennon.

Thick, high-tech European lenses with gold and silver accents can make any woman movie star material.

If you want to frame your face elegantly without making a spectacle of yourself, simply take a look at the fall fashions, say local opticians.

ALMOST ANYTHING goes.

Feminine-chic for women. Fraternity-prep for men and college students. Square, triangular, round. Metal and plastic with leather, lizard, enamel, gold or silver trim.

"Before, everything was unisex," noted Kim Glasby, manager of Bloomfield Optical Center in Birmingham. "Now, they're bringing back a more classical, feminine look for women."

For men, styles are still conservative — thin wire rims, metal rimless or "carbon" frames with a tortoise shell appearance ($45-$180). Porsche-Carreras ($130-$250) — with interchangeable lenses — project the masculine, aviator image.

Bolle ($36-$120) — designer of aviator and cat-eye shapes — makes the best lens for sun protection, Glasby said.

> 'Glasses are more like jewelry.'
> — Carol Schwark, optician, 20/20 Vision in Rochester

NERD-SUNGLASSES — for both sexes — are on their way out, while Annie Hall-type frames are still very "in."

Women shop for eyeglasses the same way they shop for clothing. A new fashion each season and for every occasion.

"Glasses are more like jewelry," said Carol Schwark, optician at 20/20 Vision in Rochester.

"You wear a different pair for a wedding than you do a baseball game," added Danna Haba, a Utica optometrist. "A lot of women buy separate frames to match different outfits."

FALL COLORS are as varied as the hues of autumn leaves — green, blue, burgundy, khaki, red, white, grey, black.

High-tech, heavy frames (Silhouette $60-$150) with gold or silver trim make the glasses stand out as prominently as chunky jewelry. Lifts at the temples add the winged touch.

Sunglasses are even more daring. For designer safari treks, try reptile (crocodile, python, alligator tail) or leather accents ($150-$200).

Some companies even provide incentives to buy their brand. Ultra offers a designer clock (yes, it's a clock, not a watch) necklace with its triangular-shaped black rhinestone-studded frames and matching earrings with its white and rhinestone style (both $170). Rhinestone-studded eyeglasses (not sunglasses) also are perfect for evening wear.

Laura Biagiotti's trendsetting angled frame with marbelized bar has remained every bit as popular as when it was first manufactured, said Schwark. Her frames start around $90.

ON A MORE practical note, sportsmen (and women) may want to spend an extra $40 for snow, sea and landscreens — coatings for lenses designed to filter out 100 percent of ultra-violet light, 80 percent of infrared light and 90 percent of distracting blue light.

Computer operators can add the $40 cost to their bill for CRT coatings that are said to absorb 95 percent of ultra-violet light and reduce eye strain. The coatings come in three colors: blue for amber screens, violet for green screens and gray for black and white screens.

If you play your cards right, you may screen out harmful rays and look like a star on the silver screen.

Anchored in a foggy bay, sailors Paul and Betsy Marti — on the cruise of a lifetime — find friendships as much with other boaters as with beluga whales and various types of sea life.

HOME at SEA

Sea life far from serene but sailor has no regrets

Paul Marti, 38, recently set off on the trip of a lifetime with his wife, Betsy. Marti, who teaches history and geography at Rochester High School, plans to sail around the world. From time to time on his epic journey he will be pausing to pass on his experiences to Street Scene readers.

CIRCUMNAVIGATION -a journal

A fair breeze gently carried the sun-drenched sailboat onward, ever closer to the night's anchorage.

The happy crew whiled away the hours lying in the sun's warm glow, reading, relaxing and watching the historic scenery of the St. Lawrence River unfold before them.

In the galley the day's fresh catch baked in the oven, filling the cabin with promises of another sumptuous feast. Sailing, indeed life, couldn't be better!

YES, THAT'S the way I pictured it too. My dreams are always optimistic. The reality was different.

July 26, 1987, 13:30 hours: The wind blows hard out of the northeast, a Labrador current wind, cold and biting, brewed to test the determination of boat and crew. In the cockpit, dressed in foul-weather gear with layers beneath and stamping my feet for warmth, I fight the wheel, forcing my boat, Keema, into the four-foot waves.

The outside temperature is 56 degrees, and the water is a frigid 42 degrees. Every wave brings a bone-chilling spray across the deck. Low, dense clouds obscure the coastline as we slowly plod eastward.

In the galley, Betsy struggles to keep her footing, juggling jars as she prepares another peanut butter and jelly dinner. Seven more hours until we make port, and the pounding ends.

Yes, sometimes reality is just a tad different than what dreamers conjure up in their dens on snowy nights. Living with and enjoying the reality of life on a small boat is a practice in adaptation.

ALTHOUGH all our days are not like that cold Sunday in July, few of them are like the daydreams of winters past. Now 10 weeks into our journey we chuckle at the dreams as we adapt to the reality of cruising life.

One of the basic realities is that we are on a voyage that when completed will have covered more than 29,000 nautical miles. For you math majors, it won't take long to realize that at an average speed of five knots we have a lot of sailing time to log. In my planning I have broken the journey down into nine major legs. All of these legs are subdivided into shorter passages and the time allotted to complete each segment.

Leg One is from Detroit to the Panama Canal, approximately 5,200 nautical miles. Since we took that first step 10 weeks ago, we have covered more than half of that distance. From Lake St. Clair to New Jersey's Barnegat Bay, we sailed the coastline of the great peninsula formed by the St. Lawrence River, the Gulf of St. Lawrence and the Atlantic Ocean. Ten states and five provinces claim shoreline in this historic portion of Canada and the United States.

It has been during this first passage of lakes and great rivers, ocean gulfs and open sea that we have come to terms with life afloat.

LET ME preface the realities by saying that I'm loving it!

So far, no regrets. It's been an opportunity to see and learn about so many new places.

The people of the United States and Canada have been friendly and helpful all along the coastline. The coast itself is spectacular, from the bustling shoreline of Toronto to the lonely bluffs of the Gaspe. There is an endless array of landscapes and lifestyles to explore.

We have been very fortunate so far. Along this coastline so often shrouded in fog and buffeted by adverse winds, we have passed with no major problems or damage.

Along the way our days are spent mostly in passage-making. When looking for an anchorage for the night, we prefer anchoring out to sea over marinas for several reasons. Cost is a factor: We have paid from $5 Canadian to $28 U.S. to tie up at a marina for the night.

Serenity also is another reason for anchoring. Floating in a quiet bay, the stars above . . . well, it's beautiful, and free. Also, the lack of marinas in some of the remote regions of eastern Canada leads to a lot of nights off the hook.

Consequently, it's just the two of us, and that also takes some adjustment. Thirty-one feet of boat keeps you quite close 24 hours a day.

What we don't have and do miss are our families and friends. We've had to become better friends to take the place of our extended families back home. For a good relationship, the closeness is a real challenge. For a shaky one, I'd suggest a big dinghy.

Of course, we are not totally alone. There are the new friends we have met along the way. People from all parts of the United States and Canada are part of the migratory fleet making its way toward southern waters. The floating community is helpful and friendly, and like ourselves usually anxious to share an evening's conversation and sometimes to cruise together for a while.

We currently are anchored just a few yards from four other Michigan couples, including Case and Mary DeLange from Southfield and Dick and Diane Weaver of Troy. All of us have separate cruising goals but share the camaraderie of the sailing life.

NOT ALL OF our visitors, however, are homo sapiens. One of the true delights has been the variety of the sea life. On July 16, some 100 miles east of Quebec City, we spotted our first whale, a beluga. Belugas are small as whales go, 15 feet long and about 3,000 pounds, and white in color. For the next few weeks whales visited every day.

They spend their summers in the St. Lawrence River giving birth to their young and delighting the tourists with their antics. Besides the numerous belugas, the St. Lawrence is alive with the great whales. As these gentle giants swam past Keema, dwarfing us in size, I gained a new respect for them and made a promise to help support efforts to save the whales for future generations.

Seals also abound in these waters, and these clowns of the sea are curious and playful. Along with the dolphins that play in our wake, the seals, whales and occasional sharks keep us scanning the waters, knowing we are never alone.

Aug. 1 was an important day for us. Early that morning, before the sun had hit the horizon, Keema entered the Atlantic Ocean. Now, for the first time, we were in the open sea and heading south — 7,784 miles from Metro Beach!

Betsy was asleep. Alone on the deck, I looked at the seascape. This is my home for the next two years; I hope we become good friends.

AUGUST HAS been a delight and also frustrating; a delight in the beautiful towns and harbors of Nova Scotia and Maine; strong, southwesterly winds have provided the frustration. Many hours have been spent listening to the rumble of our diesel auxiliary.

We made our way south, past Cape Cod and to the highlight of East Coast ports. On Aug. 19, a perfect summer's day, we completed our sail down Long Island Sound and entered the East River and the waters of New York City.

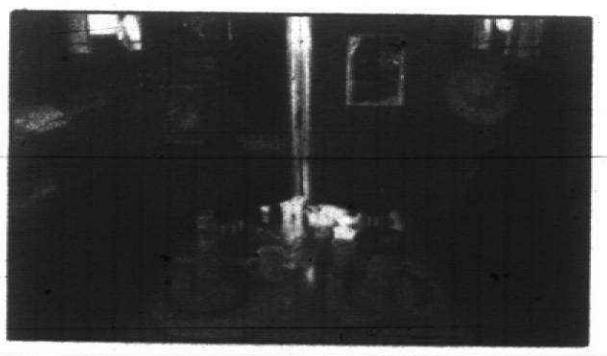
It was mid-morning, and the city was teeming with life. Work boats, tour boats and pleasure boats all shared the busy waterway. That afternoon we sailed by the Statue of Liberty, the refurbished guardian of the harbor and symbol of our country. I must confess my arms were bristling with goose bumps as we gazed upon Miss Liberty.

A few more miles down the coast and into Barnegat Bay marked the end of the first segment of our journey. More than 2,500 miles of voyaging are behind us. We have adapted to the confines of a small boat and are coping with the moods of wind and sea.

It has not been perfect, for there have been times when the comforts of home and the companionship of family and friends have been sorely missed. But it has been a challenge of navigation, of self-reliance and of sense of humor.

Next we head south along the coast to the waters of the Caribbean and the open passages of winter.

"Enjoying the reality of life on a small boat is a practice in adaptation."
— Paul Marti



Sumptuous seafood feasts are the exception, not the rule, aboard the Keema, where peanut butter and jelly dinners are far more common.

designing ways

Eve Garvin

FIRST OF all, I would like to say that in mentioning a source, it is only after I have made numerous inquiries that I have gone with the response which was the most graciously proferred, in detail and with courtesy. This does not mean that other sources are not given consideration, but I must point out that it is impossible to mention every source.

I promised you that I would keep you informed as to the where and how in the design world. Well, let me tell you what just worked for me. I love to entertain and cannot bring myself to part with all the serving pieces I have acquired over the years. My large home had a room for these things but my new kitchen cupboards in my apartment are bulging. My breakfast room is quite roomy so I decided that a long cabinet would work well there.

I used an upper cabinet which is 12 inches deep. Consequently, this does not extend too far into the room. I have 13 feet of wall in length. I opted for four three-foot uppers finished in a medium oak.

The top is antique white mica with radius corners. Hand-painted porcelain Delft blue knobs were added for interest. The cabinet is hinged to the wall four inches above the floor so that it looks like a piece of suspended furniture.

My breakfast room is country French so I chose a cathedral door, (curved raised panel). I added a wood spool gallery along the entire length of the piece and covered the wall above with a collection of Royal Copenhagen plates and tiles.

In shopping cabinet companies, I found Modern Counter Top in Royal Oak had both the best price and delivery.

Here's another tip. I have been shopping to outfit a "pied a terre" — a little getaway — in Sarasota, Fla. The place I found with incredible bargains is Pace, located on East 14 Mile Road, east of the Oakland Mall. Would you believe, for example, a place setting for eight, suitable for the microwave, at cost of about $24? Would you believe stainless flatware with enamel handles, service for eight, at total cost of about $19? Believe it — at Pace.

Q. I want to buy a piano for my children, but do not know how to place it. We have our sofa on one wall and a chair on either side of the fireplace. My living room is wide and recessed. I have another short wall on which I have a lounge chair. Where could I possible put a piano?

A. If you are planning on buying a spinet or console type piano, shutter your windows and place the piano in the window.

organizing

Dorothy Lehmkuhl

Q. I never had trouble staying organized while I raised my family, had a big house and helped my husband with his business. Now that my husband is dead, my children grown and I've moved into a condominium, I can't even keep up this small place. I just don't understand.

A. My heart goes out to you because, like most people, you're probably not aware that depression can affect organizational abilities.

Our environment is a reflection of our internal anxieties. In other words, what is in us controls our environment, not the other way around. When you experience emotional turmoil, your thinking may be fuzzy. When you aren't thinking clearly, it may be difficult to concentrate enough to stay organized. Being disorganized can be depressing. Hence, the Catch-22 situation comes full circle.

Depresssion is a wide grey area, which ranges from being a little "down" once in a while to the other extreme of causing an almost comatose state. Trying to accomplish difficult work when you are depressed might be compared to beating your head against a wall, or to an insect lying on its back, flailing its legs and going nowhere.

Even the most "up" person is only human and will have off days. Avoid tackling projects difficult for you when you feel down. Instead, catch up on reading, do extra exercise or work on tasks you can do almost automatically. Then the next day get back to the harder stuff. This technique accomplishes two things: First, it provides a brief mental rest and, second, after making a conscious choice of which work to do, no guilt will be associated with what was not accomplished.

To summarize, concentrate on recapturing your mental health when you are depressed instead of trying to tackle your organizational problems. If you were organized before, physical order will return naturally with more concise thinking.

Dorothy Lemkuhl welcomes comments and questions from readers. These can be sent to her in care of this newspaper, at 36251 Schoolcraft Road.

Her struggle a Classic tale

By Mary Rodrique
staff writer

IN SOME respects it's a showroom like any other. Sales staff are available to assist customers through the myriad of European and American made goods that are carefully displayed for maximum visual effect.

But in this showroom, customers are urged to sit on the toilets, kick off their shoes and try out the bathtubs.

"At first, people are a little shy. But you wouldn't buy a couch without sitting on it. When you're spending that kind of money, you want a personal feeling of what you're buying," said Pat Andrew, owner of Classic Baths in Birmingham.

On the corner of Adams and Lincoln, the year old boutique is the latest business acquisition for Andrew. The showroom is an extension of her Highland Park based wholesale plumbing and heating firm.

AN ARRAY OF GLOSSY bold colored sink basins on pedestals, looking like exotic giant sea shells, is the first display visitors encounter.

Half of the 5,700-square-foot showroom is devoted to German designer Villeroy & Boch, for which Andrew is the exclusive Michigan distributor. The remainder of space is filled with Kohler bath fixtures, including an artists edition from the Wisconsin based manufacturer.

Color schemes range from raspberry with green (a favorite with designers, Andrew said, though it's not to her taste) to almond or bone and a lot of gray.

"We have the only showroom set up like this in Michigan," said Andrew. "If people want something a little different, they're going to find it here."

Bidets, though not big sellers, are in part responsible for the European feel here. Whirlpool baths, also in abundance, are hot right now.

"It's a nice business," said Andrew. "It's been steadily growing."

FOUNDED IN 1932 by her father-in-law, W.T. Andrew, and later operated by her husband, Gordon, who died in 1973, Andrew has successfully steered the company by herself for the past 14 years, acquiring two industrial supply companies and employing 75 workers in all.

The business has grown from annual sales of $9 million in 1973 to $18 million today.

Classic Baths is the frosting on the cake. Though she gets to the showroom maybe once a week, Andrew said it's her favorite part of the job.

"Before we weren't going after the luxury plumbing. We're now positioned so we can serve that market," she said.

Plumbing contractors and interior designers steer clients her way. Other customers, with home building plans in hand, wander in to visualize how a particular set up will fit into their plans.

ALL OF THE STOCK is kept in the Highland Park warehouse, so the entire showroom is devoted to displays.

"On Saturdays it's a zoo here," she said. "People are always coming in. Some are just looking. It's a complicated process. (Buying bath fixtures) is not something you do every day."

Andrew is modest about her success. She would rather discuss challenges than hurdles. And there have been some.

"Sure, there have been stereotypes along the way," she said. "But once you get past that, it's OK. Women in business are much more accepted today."

ANDREW IS GROOMING one of her three daughters, Judy O'Neill, to follow in her footsteps.

"The business will continue to be family owned and owned by women," she said.

"There are always offers to sell. I wouldn't give it up. It's too much fun. What else would I do? It's a good business for a woman or a man. You meet lots of friendly people."

Though she spends as much time as necessary on the job, mostly at the Highland Park office, Andrew said she clearly is not a workaholic.

"I enjoy other things too."

They include bicycling around downtown Detroit — she lives in a riverfront apartment near Joe Louis Arena — riding the new People Mover, visiting Trapper's Alley and playing golf.

Classic Baths is open Monday through Friday 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Thursday until 7 p.m. and Saturday 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Color trends, design discussed at seminar

"Color Trends and Design," an informative interior decorating seminar, will be held at 7 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 6, at Somerset Inn, Troy.

The seminar will emphasize family lifestyle as the key consideration of good decorating. It will focus on the latest trends in decorator colors, fabrics and room designs.

The program will be presented by individual owner-decorators from Decorating Den, a national interior decorating franchise.

There is no admission charge, but reservations are suggested. Call 559-5370.

Superlative Living In The Hills of West Bloomfield

NEW lavishly large 1, 2 and 3 bedroom terrace ranch dwellings of unsurpassed size that are utterly extraordinary — up to 2,800 square feet and every amenity: private entries, attached garages, fireplaces, cathedral ceilings, designer kitchens with separate breakfast areas, master bedroom suites with dressing area, double vanities, double closets and walk-in closets too, in-residence laundry and storage, full carpeting, central air conditioning, patio or balcony.

Truly resort-like recreational facilities include: oversized pool in a spectacular wooded setting, a manor home like clubhouse — ideal for private parties — tennis courts and, of course, a 24-hour manned gatehouse with package reception services. There is even a private lending library. All on over 130 incomparable private acres for estate-like living.

Unquestionably the standard for beauty and luxury. For their size, design and breathtaking setting, YOU MUST SEE the 1, 2 and 3 bedroom terrace homes of ALDINGBROOKE.

Travel Maple Road to Drake Road; turn north and drive through the woods, to the summit of the hill, and enter ALDINGBROOKE through the manned gatehouse on your left.

Note: Limited number of furnished short term executive rentals available.

GRAND OPENING

Saddle Creek
The New Breed
"I never saw anything like it. Handsome, distinctive buildings on terraced land, full of intriguing angles and architectural detail. A complete change from that old 'tow-house' look.
Every apartment has its own private entrance, unusual layout, and surprising extras like a washer and dryer, vertical blinds, full kitchen with dishwasher, and plenty of closet and storage space.
Some even have cathedral ceilings, oversize patio, and a large eat-in kitchen.
I look out onto lush woods and ponds, a jogging path, swimming, tennis and a comfortable clubhouse with exercise and aerobic rooms.
It's not just a place to live, it's a place I love coming home to. You'll see what I mean."
Sandy Kearns
