Changing image of once-rural township

Yack wants quality

By Diane Gale
staff writer

Canton has an image problem.

And Supervisor Tom Yack says the answer is to dress up eyesores, offer more recreation, build pricey housing, enforce stricter landscape requirements and preserve the rural flavor on the west side of the township.

"This has to be a community people want to live in and developers want to develop," he said.

A RESPECTED school district is a main drawing card and Yack says developers tout the Plymouth-Canton district "as top notch."

Some developers postponed projects, he says, waiting to see whether the recent school millage would pass. And when voters pushed the millage through in June it became a harbinger of construction to come.

"Developers have an idea that Canton is blue collar," he said. "We're not blue collar. We're one of the highest educated communities in the county.

"The typical profile of a Canton couple is they are both young, both professional and they're looking for good schools," Yack said.

The Observer recently asked Yack to draw a picture of what lies ahead. His vista includes a recreation center, road improvements and one house per acre on the west side.

Here's what else he had to say:

What eyesore do you receive the most complaints about?

- The stockade type fencing along major roads is a top concern. He suggests erecting evergreens along the easement to buffer the brown zone.
- Concerns about road maintenance and construction is the only issue that would drive Canton to become a city. Canton is responsible for all services except roads. Wayne County is responsible for roads.
- Some residents have a gripe with the name. Canton Township sounds too harsh, especially compared to sing-song community names, like Auburn Hills.

Residents have complained about strip malls, what can you do to curtail them?

Canton at the crossroads

Farmers a dying species

By Diane Gale
staff writer

Duane Bordine says the tranquil feeling you get watching the sunrise over a corn field will be shattered soon and forever replaced by "wall to wall houses."

Bordine, 46, is a lifelong Canton farmer who rents 120 acres at Ford and Ridge roads.

"THEY WANT $15,000 an acre and as soon as there's water and sewer I'm gone," says Bordine looking at the future development that will follow the pipelines.

"You won't be able to wake up in the morning and smell the plowed earth or see the pheasants walking across the field," he says. "I was out one morning cultivating and three little foxes were playing hide-and-seek in the corn field.

"Once you have encroachment of developments and paved streets, you do away with pheasants and wildlife."

Bordine says there are eight farmers left in the township with more than 50 acres of land.

Longtime Canton farmers Jack and Sandy Suddendorf estimate there are 15 commercial farmers in the township.

Speed disputed in accident

☐ Carnes remembered as outstanding player, 1D

By Keith Postler
staff writer

Timothy Ott, 19, who survived a motorcycle accident that killed his companion, a promising hockey player from Plymouth, disputed claims that the cycle was traveling at speeds in excess of 100 miles an hour.

Ott, a passenger, was thrown from the Suzuki motorcycle and landed some distance away, sustaining only cuts and bruises. He was not hospitalized.

The accident happened shortly after 2 a.m. Sunday when the motorcycle, being ridden by Neil Carnes, 18, collided with a Firebird on Ann Arbor Trail near Haggerty Road in Plymouth Township, according to police and witnesses. Carnes was dead at the scene.

Plymouth City Police were following the motorcycle shortly before the crash, said Commander Michael Gardner. He said officers clocked the motorcycle at 72 to 75 miles per hour on westbound Plymouth Road near I-275.

He said officers had their lights and sirens on while following the motorcycle, however, he refused to call the incident a chase.

He said the patrol car lost sight of the motorcycle twice, the second time was shortly before the crash occurred.

Ott, of Canton, said that he and Carnes had been at a party in Farmington Hills prior to the accident.

PLYMOUTH TOWNSHIP Police Chief Carl Berry refused to comment on the crash, saying that the investigation is still continuing.

Police did say that Carnes' motorcycle was eastbound and the Firebird, which was being driven by Gary Selix, 19 of Wixom, was westbound. Selix was not held responsible for the accident, police said.

Ott said the accident occurred after the Firebird turned onto westbound Ann Arbor Trail near Brownwell Street. He said that because of the rate of speed the motorcycle was traveling, Carnes could not keep it in the eastbound lane. The motorcycle crossed into the westbound lane and collided with the Firebird just behind the driver door, Ott said.

According to the police report, Ott reportedly told the owner of the motorcycle, who later arrived at the accident scene, that the motorcycle had been traveling 110 miles per hour before the collision occurred and he tried to get Carnes to slow down.

"That's a bunch of bull," Ott said when reached by telephone. "I didn't say that. I didn't tell anybody that. I don't know how fast we were going. I know we were going fast, I'm not trying to say we weren't, but I don't know how fast."

A report from the Wayne County Medical Examiner is expected within a week, Berry said.

School seeks to build activity center

By Keith Postler
staff writer

Plymouth Christian Academy needs to raise $500,000 by the end of this year so a new activity center can be built by next fall, said PCA superintendent Roland DeRenzo.

Increased enrollment, plus the need for an expanded sports/civic building, has been the catalyst behind PCA's fund-raising efforts that began in May, DeRenzo said.

The new facility will be primarily a gymnasium, housing senior sporting events and physical education programs, banquets, rallies and other civic events. PCA's new activity center will be open for community use, DeRenzo said.

"It will be open for community use, as our facilities have been in the past," he said. "We see the activity center providing availability for civic and public groups who may need to utilize it."

Once the new activity center is built, PCA's old gymnasium will be converted into two floors of classrooms.

PLYMOUTH ATTORNEY John F. Vos III was chosen chairman of a special grants committee to lead the fund-raising efforts for the new facility. Vos, who recently mailed 450 annoucements of the fund-raiser to local businesses, hopes to raise $50,000 by the end of this year.

DeRenzo said that PCA will receive $250,000 from its sponsor, Calvary Baptist Church and parents of PCA students and hopes to raise another $150,000 in contributions from parents and other school boosters.

"Ideally, we'd like to raise about $600,000; $500,000 to build the new center and $100,000 to outfit it with equipment," DeRenzo said.

Vos described PCA's drive as a fund-raising effort for "alternative education."

"If parents want something different for their children, PCA offers an alternative Christian education," he said.

Plymouth Christian Academy first opened its doors in the Plymouth Community in 1976. It has had more than 200 graduates, with 90 percent going on to higher education. The middle school and high school academic programs have received formal accreditation by the University of Michigan. PCA offers an alternative Christian education program for students in kindergarten through the 12th grade.

Parents push for annexation

By M.B. Dillon
staff writer

A group of Canton residents wishing to annex their subdivision to the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools is discovering just how difficult that's going to be.

Homeowners in the Greenbrook Village Subdivision in southeastern Canton want to send their children to nearby Hoben or Field Elementary rather than Walker — an elementary school in the Wayne-Westland school district 40 feet off Michigan Avenue in an industrial area.

So far, residents seem to be the only ones enthused about the plan.

"We don't have the sense that we have any allies," said Greenbrook Political Action Committee chairman Denise Shimokochi, who pulled her son out of Walker and is sending him to private school.

"Everyone has their own political agenda they have to take care of. In Plymouth-Canton, it's a head count problem. Wayne-Westland doesn't want to give up the state aid they'd lose if we left. Everyone is looking out for themselves," she said.

About 60 elementary school students and an undetermined number of older children would be affected.

Residents circulated annexation petitions and delivered them to the Wayne County Intermediate School District in time for a July 12 meeting, where the WCISD was to consider the annexation. The intermediate district has the power to approve annexation requests. Local districts may provide input, but have no vote.

When residents asked to attend the meeting, we were told, "No, it was a closed organizational meeting," said Shimokochi.

"They said, 'We'll discuss it at the meeting, but it's not an agenda item. We'll review the petitions and the committee will set a date for your hearing."

Under the Open Meetings Act, public bodies can't close meetings unless litigation, land purchases or personnel matters are being considered.

Greenbrook residents later were told their petitions were invalid because they didn't contain signatures of two-thirds of subdivision property owners and residents, as required by the state school code.

JOYCE WILLIS, administrative assistant for WCISD Superintendent William Simmons, confirmed that the petitions were invalid but said the July 12 meeting wasn't closed.

"We follow the Open Meetings Act. All of our meetings are open to the public," said Willis. "I can't imagine how that could have gotten started."

The WCISD won't take further action unless more petitions are submitted.

Shimokochi says that as soon as school starts and people are back from vacation, petitions will be circulated again. She doesn't anticipate there'll be problems getting enough signatures this time.

"We're getting calls from people in adjacent areas asking, 'How can we get to be part of the geographical area being considered?' " said Shimokochi.

"We're going after quality education," she added. "We're Canton residents and want to be part of a unified community. We're not Wayne or Westland residents; their district has other problems."

If annexed, Greenbrook residents would be assessed about 6 mills less than they are now.

Officials from the two districts aren't rallying to Greenbrook's cause.

"School boundaries rarely line up with city and township boundaries, which is unfortunate," said Richard Egli, Plymouth-Canton community relations director.

"We don't take in all of Canton. They're in Wayne-Westland. If we were to do that (recommend the annexation), there are other Canton residents who'd want to be included."

Wayne-Westland Superintendent Dennis O'Neill said he's sympathetic with residents' concerns, but that his board "would testify in opposition. We're in-formula and certainly one of our concerns would be the loss of state aid.

Hearings scheduled on railroad safety

Residents concerned about rail safety will have a chance to voice their concerns at two public hearings scheduled by state Rep. James Kosteva, D-Canton.

The first will be at 7 p.m. Monday, Aug. 7, near Saginaw at the Tittabawassee Township Community hall in Freeland. The second will be at 9:30 a.m., Monday, Sept. 11, in the Wayne City Council chambers, 3355 S. Wayne Road in Wayne.

Freeland, a rural community west of Saginaw, was the site of a CSX train derailment July 22. About 3,000 Freeland residents were evacuated after tank cars carrying toxic chemicals for Dow Chemical Co., Dow Corning Corp., Chevron Corp. and DuPont Corp. caught fire.

The families finally were allowed to return home last weekend.

CSX lines and trains carrying hazardous materials traverse the Plymouth-Canton area.

"I'M INTERESTED in taking a look at the recent derailments and past accident reports to see if there is further need for legislative oversight in this arena," said Kosteva, who chairs the House Rail Safety Subcommittee.

"The recent derailments have also given us cause to reflect on the human impact cost that needs to be considered."

The past five months have seen three CSX derailments in Michigan. A fourth occurred outside Windsor, Ontario last month.

The Rail Safety Subcommittee held hearings last summer in an effort to determine how to handle chemical spills caused by derailments.

"We'll be taking testimony from residents and concerned citizens, and we hope to have representatives on hand from Dow Chemical, the Michigan Department of Natural Resources and from CSX," said a spokeswoman from Kosteva's office.

"The officials will give testimony as far as their concerns, and field questions."

The hearing will be held in conjunction with the House Conservation, Recreation and Environment Committee.

Difficult task

Attendance poor at theater meeting

By Marie Chestney
staff writer

An arts group trying to save the Omni Theatre found out Tuesday just how hard their mission might be.

The Arts Alliance Group invited 200 local businesses to a breakfast meeting to test local support for running the theater as a non-profit performing arts center.

To survive, the center would need both corporate and governmental backing to help pay the $87,000 yearly cost to keep the building open and running, said Victoria Hardy, partner in a Detroit-based firm hired to do a $9,000 feasibility study on turning the Omni into a performing arts center.

Of the 19 who came to the meeting, 10 represented local businesses; the rest had ties to the local arts community.

"I THOUGHT there might be more interest," said chamber of commerce president John White. "But I don't think the small- to medium-size companies are reachable. Large companies will do this as a community goodwill-type of thing."

Robert Bishop, a member of both the arts alliance and the Livonia City Council, viewed the sparse attendance differently.

"This is a fast-track process we're on, and I don't see that the lack of attendance means a lack of support. We need to draft a preliminary budget and define the level of corporate support and take it to them. Up to this point, it's all speculation."

At the end of the one-month study, Hardy will give the city facts and figures on running the theater on a non-profit basis and recommend whether it should be done.

"WE HAVE to consider if the building is in good-enough shape to do this without a lot of extra cost," Hardy said. "And if so, would it be used enough on a non-profit basis for the theater to pay its bills? And if we need a subsidy, can we ask business for support?"

The study will be one of the tools used by the council in deciding whether to rezone land around the theater for a K mart warehouse-type retail operation.

Louis George, owner of the theater and the 23 acres of land around it, has agreed to donate the theater to a non-profit organization if the city will approve the rezoning from manufacturing to commercial. K mart would then build a 150,000-square-foot Makro retail store on the site at Farmington and Plymouth roads.

BISHOP SAID he expects the council will vote on the rezoning by mid-September. If it passes, Mayor Robert Bennett has threatened to veto it. Bennett has consistently opposed more commercial growth along Plymouth Road.

Hardy said she has studied a lot of old theaters and rarely finds one in as good condition as the Omni Theatre.

"It's a difficult thing for me to imagine, tearing down a theater that is in such good condition."

If the city denied the rezoning, Hardy suggested that Louis George might still donate it to the city.

"There's always the possibility that George will donate it no matter what happens to the rest of the property," she said. "It would cost more to tear down than to operate it for five years."

She said the theater could be best used for a non-profit center.

"It's too small for a commercial operation and too big for today's movie theaters."

Police aim high at new gun range

By Diane Gale
staff writer

If you hear gun shots ringing out in the Sheldon and Michigan area there's no need to take cover.

Canton is constructing an outdoor police firing range and special operations training course on three acres. The cost: $12,000.

Firing practice by police officers has already begun.

IN RETURN, the township plans to save overtime costs by not having to send officers to ranges in other communities, said John Santomauro, Canton public safety director.

When Canton officers used Westland's range it was charged $450 a day and the department used it four days a year. Township police also used the Van Buren Township range for free until it closed.

Officers from Canton Township, Plymouth, Plymouth Township, Westland, Michigan State Police, City of Wayne, Redford Township, Northville, Northville Township and Van Buren Township are expected to use the range.

Labor for construction is being donated from the other police departments, Santomauro said.

"And we're asking the other departments to help maintain it," he said.

However, there won't be a direct users charge to the other communities.

The public will not be allowed to use the range for liability reasons and because, Santomauro said, other police departments have booked it.

Officers will be assigned to use the range year round to similate all types of weather conditions they might encounter while on patrol.

IN ADDITION to the firing range, the area will also include a permanent training facility for Michigan Special Operations Training, "a three week, highly intensive special operations school for police," Santomauro said.

"It will probably be one of the most physically demanding police schools in the state," he said. "Both of the facilities (range and school) are a cooperative effort to departments to consolidate cost effective training sites."

Course instructors will be from the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department, as well as, Ann Arbor, Canton, Van Buren Township and Northville Township police "who are seasoned special operations people," Santomauro said.

The firing range, behind the township's Department of Public Works facility on Sheldon, was approved last October by the Canton board of trustees.

2 men face trial in heroin bust at mall

By Tedd Schneider
staff writer

Two men were bound over for trial Monday on charges stemming from a July 17 undercover drug bust at Westland Center.

Ali Youssef, 21, of Dearborn and Jamal Ahmad Hazime, 19, of Dearborn Heights waived preliminary examinations before 18th District Court Judge Gail McKnight. Arraignment in Wayne County Circuit Court was set for 9 a.m. Monday, Aug. 14.

Youssef and Hazime are charged with possession with intent to deliver more than 50 grams of heroin. If convicted, they face a maximum sentence of 5-20 years in prison.

Both men pleaded not guilty to the charges.

A 23-year-old Livonia man arrested by police at the same time is undergoing a 90-day evaluation at the Psychiatric Intervention Center in Westland. Police will seek charges against the third man following the evaluation, said Lt. Jack Gruska of the western Wayne County Drug Enforcement Task Force, which is based in Canton.

Lawrence Strauss, attorney representing Youssef and Hazime, said his clients waived their right to an exam "based on the facts.

"THE JUDGE wasn't going to dismiss the case today based on the testimony of police officers," Strauss said.

McKnight did however approve a request by Strauss for reduction of bond from $250,000 to $25,000, 10 percent cash, based on the defendants' clean records and family backgrounds.

Both men posted bond Monday.

The three were arrested at the mall, Wayne Road at Warren Road, after discussing the sale of eight ounces of heroin with undercover police officers from the drug enforcement team. Two were arrested in the parking lot and one was arrested inside the mall as shoppers passed by unaware.

The men were arrested before police made the buy, though. After the arrests, police seized five ounces of heroin and a late model Toyota Supra.

Police were led to the mall after officers arrested a man in a Canton Township apartment where they found four ounces of cocaine, valued at $3,000, Gruska said.

THE MEN had planned to sell the heroin for $32,000, Gruska said.

Heroin, which almost disappeared from the metropolitan Detroit area in the early 1980s, has made a comeback in the last several years, Gruska said.

Usually, a kilo of heroin nets dealers $175,000-$220,000, more than 10 times the price of a kilo of cocaine.

The Western Wayne drug team is supported financially by Northville, Northville Township, Plymouth and Bellville. Police departments supplying officers include Canton Township, Westland, Garden City, Livonia, Van Buren Township, the city of Wayne and the Michigan State Police.

Changing the image of a township

Yack seeks quality projects

• The master plan says there will be no commercial development west of Canton Center. The township has no control over property currently zoned commecial.

What can you do to ensure quality projects?

• Zoning ordinances give the community some control over what's done to certain properties. Stricter landscaping requirements are on the horizon.

• Another new ordinance dictates what building materials can be used. Yack says the township has to be cautious, because ordinances that are unreasonable breed lawsuits.

• The community has to assume development will continue. And Yack predicts Superior Township in Washtenaw County will be the next hot spot.

What will Canton look like in five years?

• I believe we'll have some kind of recreational facility. I can't think of many communities of our size that haven't found a need for that kind of facility.

• Canton will see road improvements and Ford Road intersections will be a main focus.

• More industry will gravitate along Michigan Avenue, as well as the Haggerty and Ronda area.

• If sewer and water capacity is beefed up, Yack predicts, the east side of I-275 will draw commercial development.

• He recognized that the farming community is waning but, he says, the upside is that some farmers have been waiting for developers to come to their door to turn their land into assets.

• In an effort to preserve the township's fading rural flavor, Yack says, developers will be forced to maintain 25 percent open land in projects west of Canton Center.

• And residential development west of Canton Center will be lower density.

• A beautification push will include tree planting programs.

• Define the Canton historical district — 22 acres surrounded by Ridge and Cherry Hill.

• More commercial development will be concentrated between Sheldon and I-275.

What do residents comment on the most in terms of development?

They say there's a lack of quality development. But then that poses another problem. How do you define quality? For instance residents complain about strip malls, but the mall on Lilley and Sheldon gets regular kudos.

A lot of development issues are subjective, and he said he wants to know how residents feel.

What recreational opportunities do residents want?

How would you like the township to beautify the community?

Canton at the crossroads

Canton Center
Ford Road

SURVEY - SURVEY - SURVEY - SURVEY

Canton is a developing city at the crossroads. Businesses are moving in at a rapid rate. Developers are eyeing property west of Canton Center Road with visions of subdivisions dancing in their heads.

But what kind of community should Canton be? Should it be another Livonia? Another Southfield? Should the township plan a downtown area? Should more recreation areas be developed? Should it try to retain its rural character?

There are lots of questions. We're asking Canton residents for some answers. We'd like to hear what residents would like to see their community become. Include your name and telephone number if you choose. Don't feel obliged to do so.

The Observer will publish the responses during August as part of a month-long project called "Canton at the Crossroads." We will be looking at development and social issues Canton faces as it grows.

Farmers being pushed aside

BILL BRESLER/staff photographer

According to the Michigan Agricultural Statistics Service, there were 334 farmers in Wayne County in 1987, the most recent year for which figures were available. That includes anyone with $1,000 in agricultural sales in one year.

Farmers are fighting off financial threats from high taxes, too, Bordine says, because the tax bill is a certainty and whether the crops will come in is a gamble.

THAT THOUGHT is on George Skorina's mind, too.

The retired accountant, who at one time farmed 20 acres, has downsized to seven acres on Gyde Road.

During his first year of farming his taxes were $200 and now they range between $5,000 and $6,000.

He sells his produce at Canton's Farmer's Market in the K mart parking lot on Wednesdays and Saturdays.

"I plan on staying here the rest of my life, unless taxes get so high it's too hard," Skorina said.

Trying to find people to work the farm is another big strain, says Bordine, who plants sweet corn, pumpkins, soybeans, peppers, tomatoes and mush melons.

He predicts that eventually, the bigger time farmers, will leave the township.

"Not as long as you've got greed in the United States, you'll never stop it."

Bordine plans to hold on to the farming tradition by plowing land close to where he rents now, put up a roadside stand and possibly rent another piece of land. He guesses all that will come to pass within five years.

If all the farmers are eliminated, he asks, where are people going to get their food?

"You put a subdivision on prime farm land and that's out of production. You move closer to Ann Arbor and that's out of production. And your great-grandchildren won't have anything to eat, or the Chinese will have to sell it to them."

Duggan: Deputy exec growing with the job

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

A doting daddy, handy with video camera. A political coalition builder.

Call it the mellowing of Michael Duggan.

Duggan, chief of staff for Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara, said he's lost none of his passion for his job during its hectic first 2½ years. It's just that family responsibilities and a new sense of maturity may have softened Duggan's hard-charging approach.

"Most days, I'm home by 6," said Duggan, deputy Wayne County Executive. "I want to spend more time with my family."

A behind-the-scenes type not immediately recognizable by most county residents, the Livonia resident is well-known to county insiders. While respected, his relationship with other county officials sometimes turned prickly, especially during the early days of the McNamara Administration.

Duggan had been point man for a number of key McNamara Administration proposals, arguing the administration's case for budget reform before often-skeptical county commissioners and state legislators.

In retrospect, Duggan said he was as tough as he needed to be in carrying out a tough assignment.

"EVERYTHING HAS been a struggle," he said. "You don't appreciate how many people you have sniping at you."

"With the solvency package, we had outstanding support from the governor and even from Republicans, yet it was still difficult."

In the process, he earned a reputation as an astonishingly quick study, with easy mastery of complex details but something less than patient with those who took longer to grasp an issue's intracacies.

If feathers were unduly ruffled, Duggan said, he's sorry. "Hopefully, I'm maturing."

Those who have seen him in action agree Duggan is maturing and that family life has been a key.

Duggan, 30, has seen his family grow since the days when he headed McNamara's 1986 election campaign.

Just before the McNamara team took office, Duggan married the former Laurie Maher. The wedding represented the union of two of the Detroit judicial community's most respected judicial families. Duggan's father is U.S. District Judge Patrick Duggan, his father-in-law is Michigan Appeals Judge Richard Maher.

The couple are parents of a one-year-old son, Michael Edward Duggan Jr., called "Eddie" by his dad. The family also includes 9-year-old Mary, Mrs. Duggan's daughter by a previous marriage.

Duggan himself admits becoming a husband and father has given him new priorities.

"I'M ONE OF those parents with a VCR who goes around taping everything," he said. Eddie's day-to-day growth and replays of Mary's soccer games are among the family's video treasures.

Being a family man also means clearing out time for family vacations. A week in Florida in February marked the first time off Duggan has had since assuming his appointed post.

Still, Duggan estimates he averages between 50-60 work hours a week. His six-day work week includes half-day Saturday sessions in his downtown office. "That's just to clear off my desk," he said.

From the start, Duggan has been able to count on strong support from McNamara. An attorney, with a law degree from the University of Michigan, Duggan has argued the county executive's case in Michigan Appeals Court in the jail control lawsuit between McNamara and County Sheriff Robert Ficano — an unprecedented step akin to having John Sununu, President Bush's chief of staff, argue a case in federal appeals court.

Duggan's role in representing the executive in court was itself the focus of a minor county controversy. The greater controversy — the executive's bid to wrest jail control from the sheriff — was based upon financial need, Duggan said, not politics.

"I didn't think at the time Bob Ficano appreciated how great our concern was to bring the budget into balance," Duggan said. "I believe he does now."

Nonetheless, the as-yet undecided suit sent a political message to other county department heads, underscoring McNamara's commitment to a balanced county budget.

"It showed that if we were willing to take the jail away (to balance the budget) we were willing to do almost anything," Duggan said.

As deputy county executive, Duggan heads a mostly 35-and-under staff that also worked on the 1986 county executive's campaign — but for candidates other than McNamara.

Assistant county executive for administration Melvin "Butch" Hollowell was drawn from the campaign of Democratic primary runner-up Samuel Turner. Turner himself was appointed the county's chief legal representative for civil cases before resigning to become a Wayne County Circuit Court judge. Executive assistant Carol Steffani was drawn from the campaign of former county commission chief John Hertel. Assistant county executive for criminal justice Bryan Amann, a more recent addition, headed Ficano's campaign for county executive.

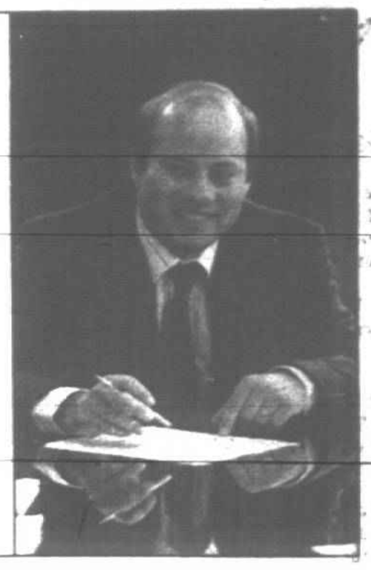
"We've built a good, dedicated staff here," Duggan said. McNamara, though, is looking for even more coalition building as 1990 approaches. Strengthening what Duggan termed were already strong ties with the area's black leadership is a priority, he said.

McNamara is expected to run again, though he hasn't yet announced, and Duggan is a likely choice to head the re-election campaign and retain his post in a second McNamara administration.

Beyond that, Duggan isn't speculating on his future. His mother, Joan, is a former Livonia mayoral candidate. But whether he'll follow her on the campaign trail someday he isn't saying.

"Right now, I feel I have the best job in the world," Duggan said, surveying his third floor office in the historic Wayne County Building.

"I remember I used to come to this building when my dad had an office here. If anybody had told me then that (County Executive) Bill Lucas would switch parties and run for governor as a Republican, that Ed McNamara would run again for county executive, that I'd be his campaign director, and that, eventually, I'd have an office in this same building — I wouldn't have believed it."



As deputy county executive, Michael Duggan is known as a hard-charging achiever who serves as Edward McNamara's right-hand man and chief of staff. But the Livonia resident balances his county duties with those of husband and new father.

UM-D, Oakland are winners in budget war

By Tim Richard
staff writer

Two commuter universities found they did fairly well when the dust settled on the 1990 legislative budget battle.

"Relative to the others, we did OK," said Oakland University president Joseph Champagne. OU got an overall increase of 4.6 percent, and its per-student aid will rise to $3,712 compared to $3,600 in the current year.

"The mood here is almost glee," said Steve Waasko, news service chief at the University of Michigan-Dearborn. UM-D was boosted 5.1 percent overall, and per-student aid will reach the "floor" of $3,300.

THE STATE Senate had sought to adopt an enrollment-driven formula for aiding the 15 public universities.

Politically, it was Sen. William Sederburg, R-East Lansing, chair of the appropriations subcommittee on higher education, versus House appropriations chair Dominic Jacobetti, D-Negaunee, and Gov. James J. Blanchard, who had favored flat percentage increases for everyone, regardless of enrollment growth or shrinkage.

"We made tremendous strides in breaking a decade-long mindset," said Sederburg, who favored a formula based on several student factors.

Blanchard had recommended a flat 3.5 percent increase in his $1.18 billion college budget. The House raised the numbers but retained the flat-rate method.

"We came out in-between," said Sederburg. "We kept the Senate philosophy — we wanted to bring the five lowest schools up to $3,300 per student."

Jacobetti held out for not penalizing U-M, Northern Michigan and Eastern Michigan. In the end, they got the lowest increases, 4.5 percent, while Saginaw Valley got the most, 8.9 percent.

A POLITICAL problem was Sederburg's desire to bring Central Michigan to a floor of $3,300 per student in state aid.

Central is in the district of Senate majority leader John Engler, R-Mount Pleasant, Blanchard's probable 1990 Republican opponent.

"In previous years, it was known as John Engler's school," said Sederburg. "No way would the House go along with an 8 percent increase for John Engler's school."

But the House this year agreed to a larger dose of aid for Central.

CHAMPAGNE praised Sederburg's "wholeheartedly positive" effort toward formula funding, but added, "Absolutely, the state has to put more money into higher education."

He said higher education got less than a 5 percent increase, hardly equal to the consumer price index and 1-2 percent below the higher education price index, a measure of the things colleges buy. The university presidents asked for 5.5 percent plus more for problem spots.

"The lower schools only are being brought up. We (OU) are achieving our success by holding back on enrollment."

Champagne hoped Blanchard would notice OU had increased tuition only 7.2 percent for residents and 8.2 for non-residents.

In contrast, UM and Wayne State raised tuition 9.6 percent, Michigan Tech 9.48 percent, and Ferris State 9.55 percent.

Blanchard has threatened to veto the appropriations of universities whose tuition increases he considers excessive but wasn't specific.

Waasko said UM-D was "very pleased with what Sederburg was able to do. he was very supportive of Chancellor (Blenda) Wilson's effort."

UM campuses in Dearborn and Flint receive separate appropriations from the Ann Arbor campus. UM-Flint got a hefty 6.7 percent boost.

HERE IS WHAT selected universities will receive in the budget for the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1 unless Blanchard uses his veto:

• OU — $33.8 million, up 4.6 percent; per student aid $3,712.

• UM-Dearborn — $16.6 million, up 5.1 percent; per student aid at $3,300 floor.

• UM-Ann Arbor — $253 million, up 4.5 percent; per student aid $7,931.

• Wayne State — $174 million, up 5 percent; per student aid $7,931.

• Michigan State — $214 million, up 4.7 percent; per student aid $5,682.

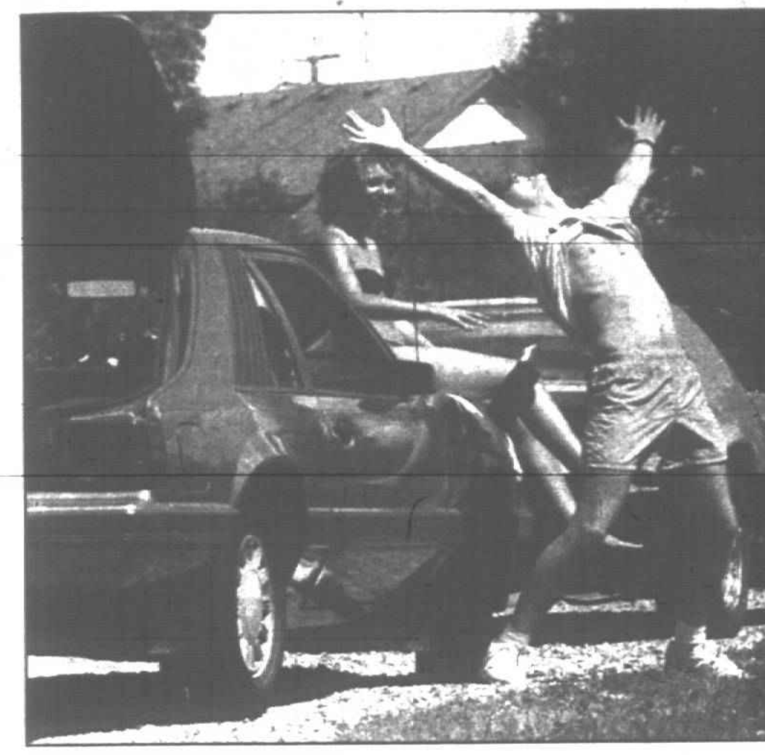
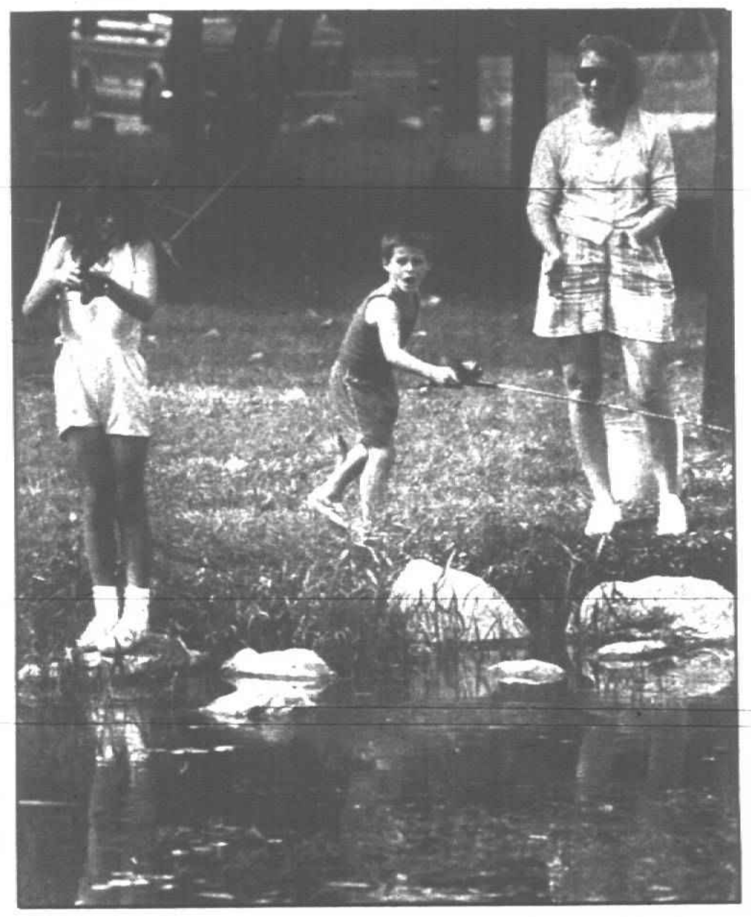
Hines Park: Getaway for quiet summer day





Hines Park can be a pretty terrific place to spend a quiet summer afternoon. Families, vacationers and workers from nearby companies slip away to the park each day for sun bathing or an outdoor lunch. Above, Rob Anderson of Novi welcome the sun, much to the amusement of Westland resident Heidi Haas. At left, Erica D'Angelo, 8, and her brother Jamie, 7, try their hand at fishing while their mother, Barbara, looks on. The family lives in Salem Township. The park is also a nice place for a quiet conversation, as the pair on the right shows. Many people stop off in the park for a few relaxing moments before beginning their drive home. The rambling Wayne County-owned park stretches along Hines Drive, extending from Plymouth Township, through Livonia and Westland, to Dearborn Heights.

Staff photos by Jim Jagdfeld and Chuck Heiney

By Mary Rodrique
staff writer

It was a perfect afternoon for a stroll in the park — hot and sunny with miles of soothing greenery.

Yet Edward Hines Park was not teeming with people. A couple here, a sunbather there and a few joggers thrown in for good measure.

Serious minded bicyclists pedaled at fast pace. Walkers in clipped rhythmic fashion made their way along winding Hines Drive. An energetic Irish setter gave his master a brisk workout.

Dotted sporadically between the trees, their cars parked along gravel paths, workers on lunch break and moms with kids took a breather from daily routines.

Tammy Clark of West Bloomfield and David Weakland of Perrysburg Township, Ohio, both employees of Fretter's Appliance main store in Livonia, stretched out for some sun on a yellow blanket.

"IT'S CLOSE to work, it's scenic," said Clark. "We come to the park sometimes when it's not too hot or humid."

Added Weakland: "We enjoy nature."

Just down the road a stretch Jim Craig of Livonia and Mary Kowalski of Redford Township were heading back to their car and the office. Both work at MicroTech in Livonia.

"We don't come out here much at lunch time — this is the first time this year," said Craig, swishing around the remainder of a McDonald's Coke. "Today's a nice day and we like the outdoors."

Nankin Mills, with about a half dozen cars parked along its hairpin gravel roadway, was one of the more crowded spots.

Under one tree Jim Hutchings of Plymouth, who works at Crestwood Dodge in Garden City, was lunching with wife, Cindy, and month old son, Evan.

"We brought him out for lunch today," said Cindy. The couple was eating carryout from Little Caesar's Pizza.

"We like the park to relax," her husband added. Little Evan seemed oblivious to his surroundings, bundled in an infant carrier on top of the picnic table next to his parents. He is their firstborn.

Just a stone's throw away, buddies Jim Radford of Livonia and Dave Hennicken of Westland chatted. Radford, who works for United Parcel Service, was on vacation. Hennicken, employed by Ram Chargers in Livonia, was on lunch break.

"I COME HERE every now and then," said Radford. "I drive through here. It's an easy way to get to work — no stop lights. You can watch the seasons change."

Hennicken said he purposely seeks out the more secluded areas of the park.

"It gets nuts around Inkster Road," he said.

Two bikini-clad sunbathers were working on suntans in a bright treeless area, music box at their side.

"I just got a 9 to 5 job. I start Monday so I have to get a tan while I can," said Carolyn Byndas, of Westland.

Her friend Rose Toarmina, also of Westland, is home for the summer from the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor. She takes advantage of the rays when she can.

"I work for my parents at their ice cream store, Mickey's Dairy Twist on Wayne Road," she said. "I work all different shifts."

"We were out here at 11:30 all alone, then it started filling up," said Byndas, a student at Henry Ford Community College, Dearborn.

"We got kicked out of one space already by the guy mowing lawns."

Across the roadway a grass-cutting machine was shearing the hilly landscape.

Closer to the roadway, sitting on top of another picnic table under a large shady tree were two Stu Evans Lincoln-Mercury workers downing a fast food lunch.

"This is the first time I've been out here for lunch," said Bob Basler of Redford Township. "It's kind of a nice day out. If I didn't like my job, I'd probably stay here. But I like my job, so I'll go back soon."

Down at Merriman Hollow, Cheryl Hoskins and her 4-year-old son, Stevie, walked down from their Westland apartment complex to enjoy the park. Seated at their picnic table was Ron Jones, also of Westland, who Hoskins described as a "park regular."

"I JUST came down from Hawthorne Apartments where I live," Hoskins said. "There isn't much up there, just a swimming pool. (Jones is) here all the time."

His skin already deep bronze, Jones said he enjoys soaking up the sun. About 20-feet away, his car stereo blared rock music.

"It smells down here, don't you think," Hoskins said. "It smells like frogs or something."

If indeed frog odor was in the air, it didn't seem to bother anyone much. With Stevie at her side, Hoskins seemed content to stay put.

Just another day in the park.

Firefighters take part in crash rescue training

By Amy Rauch
staff writer

In a serious automobile accident, knowing how to quickly and safely remove victims from their cars could mean the difference between life and death.

Spreading that knowledge to fire departments nationally is exactly what members of the New York City Fire Department are trying to do.

John Vigiano, 50, captain of New York City's Fire Department and his colleagues Captain Tom Fitzpatrick, 42, also from the department and Captain Dave Smith, 27, of the Grand Rapids Fire Department, met with area fire departments Thursday.

The trio set out to teach the safest ways to remove car-crash victims from their vehicles.

"A department that hasn't had any training until now can reduce the time it takes to get the victim out by 50 percent, cutting the time from 40 minutes to 20," Fitzpatrick said.

"From the time of the accident, we try to have the victim on the operating table within 60 minutes. A reduction of 20 to 25 minutes can make a difference in whether they survive."

THE TRAINING was offered by Schoolcraft College and the Livonia Fire Department.

The college recently introduced a fire service training program, according to Doug Baier of the Livonia Fire Department. Baier is a trainer for the program.

Fire departments from Livonia, Westland, Plymouth and Plymouth Township, Canton, Van Buren, Paw Paw, Ann Arbor, Clinton Township and Groveland Township spent Thursday morning in the classroom portion of the training at the Livonia Fire Department.

Then it was time for the hands-on part of the training. Thirty-five people from the 10 fire departments met at Livonia Towing, where they used 10 different cars donated by the company to practice extracting dummies from the vehicles.

Each extraction, called an evolution, was a different car crash scenario.

Jim Montgomery, 28, from the Livonia Fire Department practiced removing a car from the "victims" of a rollover accident. In the scenario, the driver was trapped by his seatbelt and gasoline was pouring into the car, he explained.

"In Livonia, I can't say it's an everyday occurrence, but we use it on a regular basis. We had two rollovers on I-96 where we had to do this exact evolution."

PERIODICALLY, EXPERTS like the ones from New York City's Fire Department come to Livonia to train the department. But the Livonia Fire Department doesn't just wait for those times.

"In Livonia, we are training every single day, every duty day," Montgomery said. "Before you try it out on a human."

"The enthusiasm of these people is tremendous," Vigiano said. The program has been very successful, he said. "We've seen an improvement in the last five years that's been tremendous."

It used to be that this kind of training would focus on removing the victim from the vehicle. But not anymore. Now, rescue workers are taught to remove the vehicle from the victim, according to Smith.

"The training is to make them aware of ways (to remove the victims) and not to further injure them or aggravate their injures."

"Twenty-five percent of all injuries are caused by taking the people out of their cars," said Mike Muscat, 24, of the Westland Fire Department.

The focus now "is to remove the vehicle from the victim, not the victim from the vehicle."

Overall, it's a real learning experience, he said. In the scenarios, "you learn by their (other department's) mistakes and they learn from our's."

Castle kings

John Marasich, above, hoists the winner's trophy from Saturday's sand castle building competition in Hines Park as teammate Paul Denkhaus looks on. Marasich and his teammates from Tiseo and Associates of Farmington Hills were winners in the castle building contest, sponsored by the Wayne County Parks System. Below is their entry. The event, co-sponsored by the Detroit chapter of the American Institute of Architects was open to design professionals. Sand sculptors gathered at the park volleyball courts to craft their wares. Though only three teams entered, castle-builders went all-out to design the most elaborate and ornate sand sculpture. It was the second annual event. An estimated 40 people participated. Last year's winner, The Warlords, a group of former U-D students, finished second. Castles were judged on the basis of concept, originality and execution. The Farmington Hills firm will keep the winner's trophy for one year. Despite the hard work, the sand sculptures had a short life span. Most were destroyed less than two hours after the event's completion.

Derailment

Keep CSX on the track

WE READ WITH great interest about the derailment of a CSX Transportation Inc. train carrying chemicals for Dow Chemical Co.

Although it wasn't the same train that weekly travels through Canton and Plymouth carrying chemicals, the names are the same.

The CSX train was on a run from Port Huron to Midland when the derailment occurred near the small rural community of Freeland in Saginaw County. Hundreds fled the scene and approximately 40 people were treated at area hospitals for exposure to the fumes from burning rails cars.

It was the second such derailment involving CSX and Dow this year. On April 25 the so-called "Death Train," which travels from Midland to Texas, derailed near Milford. The derailment wasn't serious, there weren't any injuries and there was only a minor chemical leak.

That's the train that travels through the Plymouth-Canton area.

THAT'S WHY we think something should be done now in the Plymouth-Canton area. Officials from Canton and Plymouth should get together and determine if such an incident could happen here. What is needed is a committee composed of officials, police, firefighters and citizens.

That group should look at the causes of derailments in the state and then look at conditions in the Plymouth area to see if there are any potential problem areas.

That committee should be looking at the human factors involved. One of our reporters recently took a ride on the CSX train that carries chemicals for Dow. During that ride, the reporter was told that many derailments are caused when a train attempts to stop when an auto tries making it across the tracks after the warning signals have been activated.

We've all seen that happen. Some driver thinks he or she just doesn't have the time to wait for the train. They head across the tracks, usually risking only their own lives.

But when it's a chemical train, it's different. They're risking the lives of many of the nearby residents.

AND WHILE the regulation of trains and the rail beds they travel on is in the hands of state and federal officials, the enforcement of traffic ordinances is up to local officials.

Also, a program is being used to catch such offenders. A state trooper rides on a train and videotapes those who are playing dodge 'em cars with the train. Local officers are then called in to track the offender down.

That's where Canton and Plymouth could have some effect on train safety.

Another area that local communities can have some effect on is train speed. We think that officials could look to regulating them, if they prove to be a problem.

Track conditions should also be looked at. State officials have given the CSX tracks in the Canton and Plymouth area a clean bill of health. And while we're sure that has some significance, we think local officials should monitor the conditions of the tracks.

OVERALL, WE'RE suggesting that Canton and Plymouth not hide their heads in the sand. Officials should start looking at ways to monitor train safety.

A Freeland can happen here. And now's the time to make sure it doesn't.

Lucas lesson:

Revise nomination standards

WE AGREE with the Senate Judiciary Committee's rejection of William Lucas as the nation's civil rights chief.

But we disagree with a confirmation process that leaves political nominees, like Lucas, dangling like a worm on a hook before so many angry piranhas.

The Lucas nomination process has been an ugly, noisy spectacle. There are lessons we believe both the president and Congress should learn to restore a sense of balance and fairness to future nominations.

Given the amount of public humiliation faced by political nominees and given the fact that most could probably earn much more money, with much less aggravation, in private sector jobs, it's a wonder we can attract any men and women of quality into our federal government.

If relatively minor past transgressions and unproven allegations can be trotted out for public consumption — as they were in the Lucas case — the confirmation process becomes less a test of the nominee's background and qualifications and more a target shoot for politicians eager to make points with home constituencies through a display of righteous, though selective, moral indignation.

IT'S FAIR to ask: Are members of Congress holding political nominees to standards they themselves wouldn't be able to meet?

What is needed, both from the Oval Office and Capitol Hill, is a "good faith" nomination standard.

Nominees should be selected on the basis of broad adherence to the principles of the department they are tapped to head, as well as their experience in the field and demonstrated administrative skills.

And they should be judged precisely according to those standards.

That said, the Lucas nomination should still be rejected. Lucas lacks experience in handling civil rights cases, his tenure as Wayne County executive was disastrous and his commitment to civil rights goals is sketchy at best.

The goal here isn't to save Lucas but to assure a better quality of future nominees.

Adoption of such a good faith standard would make the confirmation process more like a job interview and less like a stay in the public pillory.

Quality of life

Towns that plan will win out

REMEMBER LAST Nov. 8 when voters of the state of Michigan approved passage of Proposal D?

Well, some communities across the state are about to reap their local share of its benefits.

Friday is the deadline to request a chunk of the first year's grants of nearly $16 million from the state Department of Natural Resources' new Quality of Life recreation bond program — launched as a result of the vote.

No tax increase is involved. The bonds will be repaid from the state's general fund. The program is expected to run about five years.

A number of our local communities want in on the action, but it's only those who have thought ahead about their needs that have a chance.

For one thing, a master plan for parks and recreation is a must, so communities such as Troy and Garden City are out of luck.

For another, they must have some money of their own available, since the state will fork over $6 for each $1 spent by the local communities.

Projects will be awarded on the basis of the community's commitment to parks and recreation and the merit of the individual project.

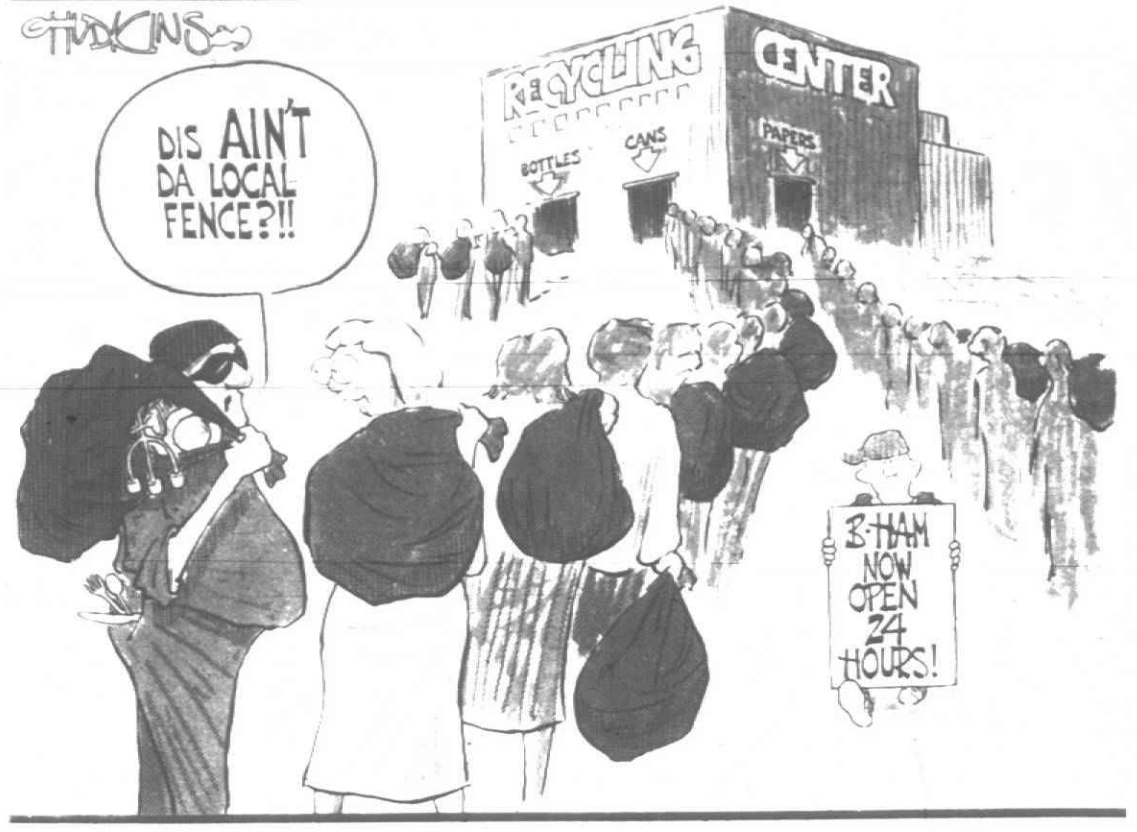
WHAT, IN FACT, are communities asking for? Across the Observer & Eccentric area, it ranges from:

- An historical theme park in Rochester Hills to a community center in West Bloomfield.
- Development of a day camp facility at a park in Farmington Hills to new athletic facilities at a park in Southfield.
- New equipment and/or facilities to renovate parks in older sections of Livonia and Farmington to Canton's bid to develop 50 acres of passive recreational land to include an amphitheater and a man-made lake.

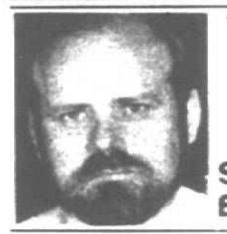
In a state blessed with natural beauty surrounded by the Great Lakes, open areas and family recreation facilities drive right to the heart of our quality of life.

Attention to local needs is particularly important in urbanized southeast Michigan where booming development and the problems it brings has slowly pushed parks and recreation lower on the scale of priorities.

The Legislature, by putting it on the ballot, and the voters, in approving the bonds, have recognized that.



Avoid the pig snouts when rating teachers



Steve Barnaby

THINK HOT DOGS when pondering national educational standards. That's right, hot dogs, just like you buy at the ball park or hockey game.

Education and hot dogs have a lot in common.

Michigan, you see, has higher hot dog standards than most other states and certainly more than the most vaunted national standards.

We've managed to do away with most of those rotten byproducts which haunt other hot dogs around the nation. Something akin to nutritional value comes into the vocabulary when talking our dogs. Not so with those full of pig snouts and ears.

National education certification — now that is even more frightening than a bad hot dog.

But that's the thinking of some bureaucrats out there in the great hinterland of red tape and paper clips. The plan — certify teachers by some weak-kneed national standard.

THANK HEAVENS, a lot of heat will be raised over this issue by the teachers' unions, mostly for the wrong reasons, mind you. But anything which will kill off this crazy idea is good enough.

Southfield associate superintendent Roger Allen calls it a "significant step." I guess agreement would be in order if you count backward steps as significant.

In very few circumstances does centralization work. In education it never works. Education is the last bastion of local autonomy. It also is the reason that our education system is as strong as it is.

Local school boards aren't beholden to some narrow-minded pencil-pusher, securely lodged in a Washington office.

This whole argument comes under the competition ethic. We all know that properly guided competition makes this country thrive. Misguided regulation makes it suffer.

That's not to say that all regulation is misguided or all competition is on a fruitful route. But that's an argument for another day.

It certainly is true that some states have higher standards than others. Standards can change from one district to another. But implementing a national standard will only serve to deflate the educational quality in many states.

> Michigan has a higher standard than most. Many southern states have a lower standard than most. A national governing board, as is the nature of national regulating groups, would probably come out somewhere in the middle.

MICHIGAN HAS a higher standard than most. Many southern states have a lower standard than most. A national governing board, as is the nature of national regulating groups, would probably come out somewhere in the middle.

Or even worse, it could perpetuate regulations which would force the lowest common denominator on the entire nation.

For a country of government bureaucrats who take pride in maligning communist countries for their mistaken bent for centralization, our national leaders certainly never seem to miss a chance at a hunk of central control for themselves.

No, when it comes to education, I'd trust just about any local school board member over say a Jesse Helms or Newt Gingrich type any day of the week.

I'll take my education without pig snouts please — just like my hot dogs.

Hoben won't return calls

To the editor:

"Certainly there is an awareness out there that wasn't there before. I hope we'll continue to have that type of communication and they stay involved," said a quote of Dr. (John) Hoben in the June 15 Observer, after the millage was passed on June 12.

That's not the communication I got when contacting Dr. Hoben and Shirley Spaniel's offices. I began calling June 8 about problems at Fiegel School and concerns about bond purchases. I tried daily for a week and could only voice my concerns to their secretaries. I could not get an appointment to see either one so I said I'd settle for a phone call. I received none until after my sixth call to Dr. Hoben's secretary, whom I vented my frustration on. These are our children in these Plymouth-Canton schools — and we pay our taxes to educate them. The least they can do is have the courtesy to listen, instead of being rude and ignoring my calls, my concerns as a parent, taxpayer and voter.

After apologizing to Dr. Hoben's secretary — it's not her fault. But, she was the only one they would let me talk to. Shirley Spaniel did call me and I explained about the problem at Fiegel she said she was not aware of. And some concerns regarding bond purchases made — items the principal stated she purchased. I have questions regarding bond money being used for textbooks. It was stated that bond money bought an HBJ Reading Series, and there are other stated bond purchases that I had questions about. At a PTO Council meeting Dr. Hoben had said bond money had to be spent on the items specified in the bond issue.

Mrs. Spaniel said she would have her secretary get the master list and check Fiegel's purchases. I asked her when she would call me back with this information so I could settle this in my mind once and for all. She said to give her a week, she was very busy, that she would definitely call me by June 23.

The CREW committee found communication was one of the major complaints of the district, it was said that they would work on improving communication. It seems to me we just got lip service. I am very offended at the treatment I received. I have given Mrs. Spaniel the benefit of the doubt and waited over a month. Have I gotten a phone call? No. Am I surprised? No!

'Junk mail' column series was biased

To the editor:

I am writing regarding the rather biased series of articles being written by Ms. Dorothy Lehmkuhl concerning "junk mail."

Newspapers need extensive paid advertising in order to be profitable. Therefore, isn't it a little unethical to attack a competing advertising medium (mail) without acknowledging this conflict of interest?

Many individuals enjoy the freedom of shopping by mail in the comfort of their home. For others, such as senior citizens and invalids it can be their only direct link to a variety of goods and services.

It seems Ms. Lehmkuhl took the easy way out in writing her column rather than spend the time and effort researching the subject so she could inform and help her readers.

Here are just a couple ideas gleaned from articles written by more energetic columnists:

To the person complaining they purchase from one catalog and then receive catalogs from other companies.

Tell Ms. Lehmkuhl, most catalog order forms have a box you can check advising you do not wish your name to be shared with other advertisers.

To the people who wish to have their name removed from mailing lists.

Tell Ms. Lehmkuhl, to have them write to: Direct Marketing Association, Inc., Mail Preference Service, 6 East 43rd Street, New York 10017.

The association will tell their members to remove the individual from their mailing lists.

In closing, I would like to comment on her support of a tax to dispose of unwanted mail. Would it not be a good idea to also apply this to newspapers? The volume of newspapers discarded daily vastly exceeds unwanted mail.

Perhaps there should be a limitation on the number of advertising pages in the newspaper?

Yogurt business is newest retail trend

TRENDS.

I usually call my friend who lives in California to track them. For whatever reason, they seem to start there and eventually wend their way to Detroit and its suburbs.

So generally, I was lying in wait for the cookie nooks, the video stores, the muffin shops, the oatbran muffins in muffin shops, the oatbran in everything including cookies, the soft yogurt parlors. Somewhere in there, car telephones and facsimile machines came along.

In case you hadn't noticed, we're in the heat of the soft yogurt rage right now.

It may not be spreading at the rate video stores once did — that's of course before the biggies came in and knocked the smaller ones off the block.

But, almost.

Case in point, on Walnut Lake Road near Inkster on the West Bloomfield/Bloomfield Township border, a soft yogurt parlor has just replaced the defunct video store.

AND LAST SUMMER, it was a lineup on every torrid night (and there were a lot of them — remember?) at the TCBY on Orchard Lake north of Maple in ever-trendy West Bloomfield.

Now, there's seldom even a wait because of the invasion.

Soft yogurt is in — everywhere. Besides the shop in every mall, soft yogurt machines recently were added to your regular ice cream store, to the concession stand at your swim or country club, even to your neighborhood supermarket.

Now, you can move down the aisle spooning or licking the soft creamy stuff while you shop — by paying for it ahead at the deli counter when you're buying your luncheon meats and cheeses.

And for many of those trends you put in your mouth you can now "fax" out for — and have them waiting — unless, of course, you'd rather phone ahead from your car!

What you put in your mouth is not the only obvious out-on-the-street trend. Sure, there are still joggers. But they have been joined, perhaps outnumbered, by the race walkers, the bikers (helmets on — a healthy trend toward safety), and most recently, the roller bladers.

In fact, the height of trendiness was one of my neighbors spooning it up in a soft yogurt shop outfooted in the newest aerobic trend — roller blades — on which he had skated over.

For those who choose the inside in which to exercise, aerobics are a trend in themselves. First it was aerobics, then low-impact aerobics, now it's high-low aerobics. Costume-wise, you used to see the legwarmers that dancers wear. Well, no more. It's shorts-length or knee-length tights topped by a muscle shirt — and let those calves just hang right out. I guess they don't need to be kept warm after all.

SO WHAT'S NEXT?

Well, some months ago, I called my California friend for what was hot.

Fast food sushi bars, she said.

So I sat back and waited.

Luckily I didn't invest 'cause I'm still waiting.

Bloomfield Hills-based trendologist Alan Teitel's predictions for fall — for what is "new and now" — include: squatty heels, tea dancing, costume watches ("Say goodbye to your Rolex and Piaget") and winter whites.

My predictions for fall would be in a different mode: recycling — including those soft yogurt containers; running — for mayor of Detroit; rahrahing — for a third consecutive Big 10 championship and Rose Bowl victory for a team from the state of Michigan.

And a raw fish bar at that Walnut Lake/Inkster storefront.

Conceptions may drop when abortion funds cut

Tim Richard

THE FIRST post-A debate has occurred in Lansing, and it came out a compromise.

Proposal A, if your memory goes back to 1988, did away with Medicaid-paid abortions. Government had been paying for about 18,500 a year at a cost of $6 million, but voters said "No more."

Most of that debate had to do with "a woman's right" versus "a baby's right," and little of it had to do with what happens to our state budget if Proposal A passes.

Until two weeks ago.

A CONFERENCE committee that included Sen. R. Robert Geake, R-Northville, was trying to achieve compromise on the House and Senate versions of the Department of Social Services budget.

The Blanchard administration reasoned that with fewer abortions, more babies would be born on welfare, and Michigan would need $10 million more to support them. Later DSS chief Patrick Babcock came up with a figure of $8.6 million.

The House of Representatives guessed it could cost $7 million.

The Senate, through Geake, said zero. It won't take any more money to put additional babies on welfare because the welfare birth rate won't increase.

They finally compromised on $3.5 million. Actually, however, the issue won't be decided by Blanchard, Babcock, Geake or anyone else in government. It will be decided by the number of women who get pregnant when neither they nor the fathers have incomes.

BOTH SIDES — "pro life" and "pro choice" — agree that women on welfare will continue to have abortions, even without government money.

They agreed the abortion rate will drop 20 to 25 percent. The money will come from somewhere because rarely are folks on welfare totally without cash. And without government subsidies, doctors will reduce the prices of abortions.

Pro-choice people assume more babies will be born. I've never read why they make that assumption.

Geake, who is in the pro-life camp, cited Georgia. He could also have cited Ohio.

The numbers, interestingly, come from the Guttmacher Institute, financed by Planned Parenthood, one of the leading pro-choice groups.

After the federal government in 1977 decided it wouldn't pay for abortions, Ohio and Georgia withheld state aid for abortions.

In 1978 Ohio found that the number of induced abortions among welfare-eligible women dropped to 2,600 (rounded off) from 4,000 the year before. But were there 1,400 more births? No, the number of live births fell from 6,200 to 5,900.

In 1978 Georgia showed 1,200 abortions compared to 1,500 the prior year. Were there 300 more births? No, the number of births dropped by 29 to 6,829.

Why? Well, the guess is that eliminating government-paid abortions not only reduces the number of abortions but also the number of conceptions. In other words, couples get more careful about conceiving.

PRO-CHOICE people see the DSS debate as irrelevant because they're concerned with an individual woman's right to choose, whatever the statistical results. Pro-life people are concerned with the soul of a fetus and don't care if it costs $20 million more in state support of welfare babies.

You'll notice I take no sides in their debate. My field is the effect of government money on human behavior, not legalistic and theological ruminations.

The issue, as I said, will not be decided in the appropriations committee room in the State Capitol basement. This isn't like road building, where you spend the available money and then the road stops. It isn't like school budgeting, where you hire teachers until the money runs out.

The issue will be decided in bedrooms. But my notion is that Michigan humans are similar to Ohio and Georgia humans, and that couples will tend to be more careful now that there are no more freebies at the abortion clinic.

In a couple of years, we'll know for sure.

College planning should be discussed early

Doc Doyle

Q: My son is going into his senior year. I am concerned because he hasn't taken any time to seriously study which college to attend after he graduates next year. I am worried because his senior year will be starting in another month. We have talked about it but not really investigated college selection. We will talk to his counselors about this issue. However, he does have a 3.5 grade point average so I guess he will be able to attend any school he wants. This is the first child we have going to college and I think it is time my husband, my son and I sat down and made some decisions.

A: You should have sat down in his freshman or sophomore year and began discussing colleges — you are considering one of life's major decisions.

Why students wait till the senior year is mind-boggling but not untypical of many.

On the other hand, some students' decisions are literally made for them. Consciously or unconsciously, these will be going to the parent's alma mater, their brother or girlfriend's institution, where their buddy will be attending or the site of the great football team; it is hoped to an institution that offers a curriculum in line with their goals.

PLEASE SIT down now and discuss specific issues with your son. As a family, the first factor you need to consider is based on economic determination.

How much money do you have available for your son's education? Costs range from approximately $1,600 at a community college to $12,000 at a private liberal arts college to $17,000 at an out-of-state quality institution.

If money is tight, as you indicated in your letter, you should consider a community college and save on room and board. Your son will receive as fine a first two years of education (if he selects the right teachers) as he would at any of the institutions in the state of Michigan.

Indeed, many large major institutions use graduate assistants to teach the first two years — the tried and true professors teaching upper grades or graduate school.

IN MY opinion, the size of the school is a critical issue. Some students literally get emotionally lost in a major university where 20,000 to 30,000 students are running around.

On the other hand, some students can't stomach the small liberal arts schools of 1,000 students and tend to feel the students are pumped out of the same mold with little diversification in thought or ideas.

The idea that a 3.5 grade point average will get your child into every school is a misconception. Some major universities and colleges in the state could fill an enrollment with 3.6 or 3.7 if that were the only criteria used for college entrance. Institutions tend to look for a solid academic background, but also for a well-rounded person who will contribute in many ways.

Since your son is not sure of his chosen profession but does know he prefers business courses, determine, with the assistance of his counselor, which schools offer quality business/accounting programs.

Remember, however, that 50 percent of all college students change their curriculum by the end of their sophomore year. This is why colleges put students in a general liberal arts type curriculum the first two years and then focus on the student's major area the last two years.

NEXT, YOU must make some college visits. After you have narrowed your choice to a few specific schools, call the admissions office and set up a tour to visit each campus.

Do this now — this August — don't wait until school starts. Your son will be up to his ears in classes, activities, taking the SAT or ACT, etc. Talk to some campus teachers, review their curriculum, visit the student union, find out their job placement record for business majors.

Next file two or three applications to different institutions if your son is not positive of his choice. However, don't fill out 15 applications. You waste the college admissions officer's time and high school counselor's time by applying to institutions that your son may not want or even qualify for.

Open and honest communication with your son is critical. Help your son think this issue through, but preserve his sense of self-esteem and confidence by allowing his to be the major force in the decision-making process. And start thinking and studying about a college or career choice for siblings early on. Don't wait until their senior year.

Parks provide summertime fun

Plymouth-Canton area children don't have to travel far to find a place to play. Parks and playgrounds are easy to find close to home.

Whether it's the spacious park land along Edward Hines Drive or a smaller neighborhood playground, families know where to go to play.

Griffin Park in Canton is a busy spot these summer days. The Canton Recreation Complex behind the township's Administration Building also attracts its share of fun-seeking athletes.

Those facilities operate basically from dawn to dusk, said Bob Dates, Canton recreation supervisor. They close at 10 p.m.

Griffin Park can be reached either from Canton Center Road or Sheldon. It's north of Cherry Hill, although there's no access for cars on Cherry Hill.

The park includes playgrounds, tennis courts, a picnic pavilion, volleyball court, basketball courts, softball fields and baseball diamonds.

GRIFFIN PARK'S a good place for Diane Dreffs of Whitmore Lake to visit. She's the therapeutic recreation director for Canton and Plymouth.

Dreffs was at Griffin Park recently with a group from Camp ABLE, a six-week program for mentally and physically disabled children. She has some ideas about what makes a park a good place to visit.

"One that keeps their interest," said Dreffs, 22. A park with plenty of open space is ideal for playing games. Swings and jungle gyms are nice touches.

For her own use, Dreffs likes a park with picnic areas and grills.

Dates also has some ideas about what makes for a good park or playground.

"A lot of people like an active park." Those visitors like parks full of people playing baseball, tennis or other games, he said.

Others prefer a more passive, peaceful park with trails and picnic areas.

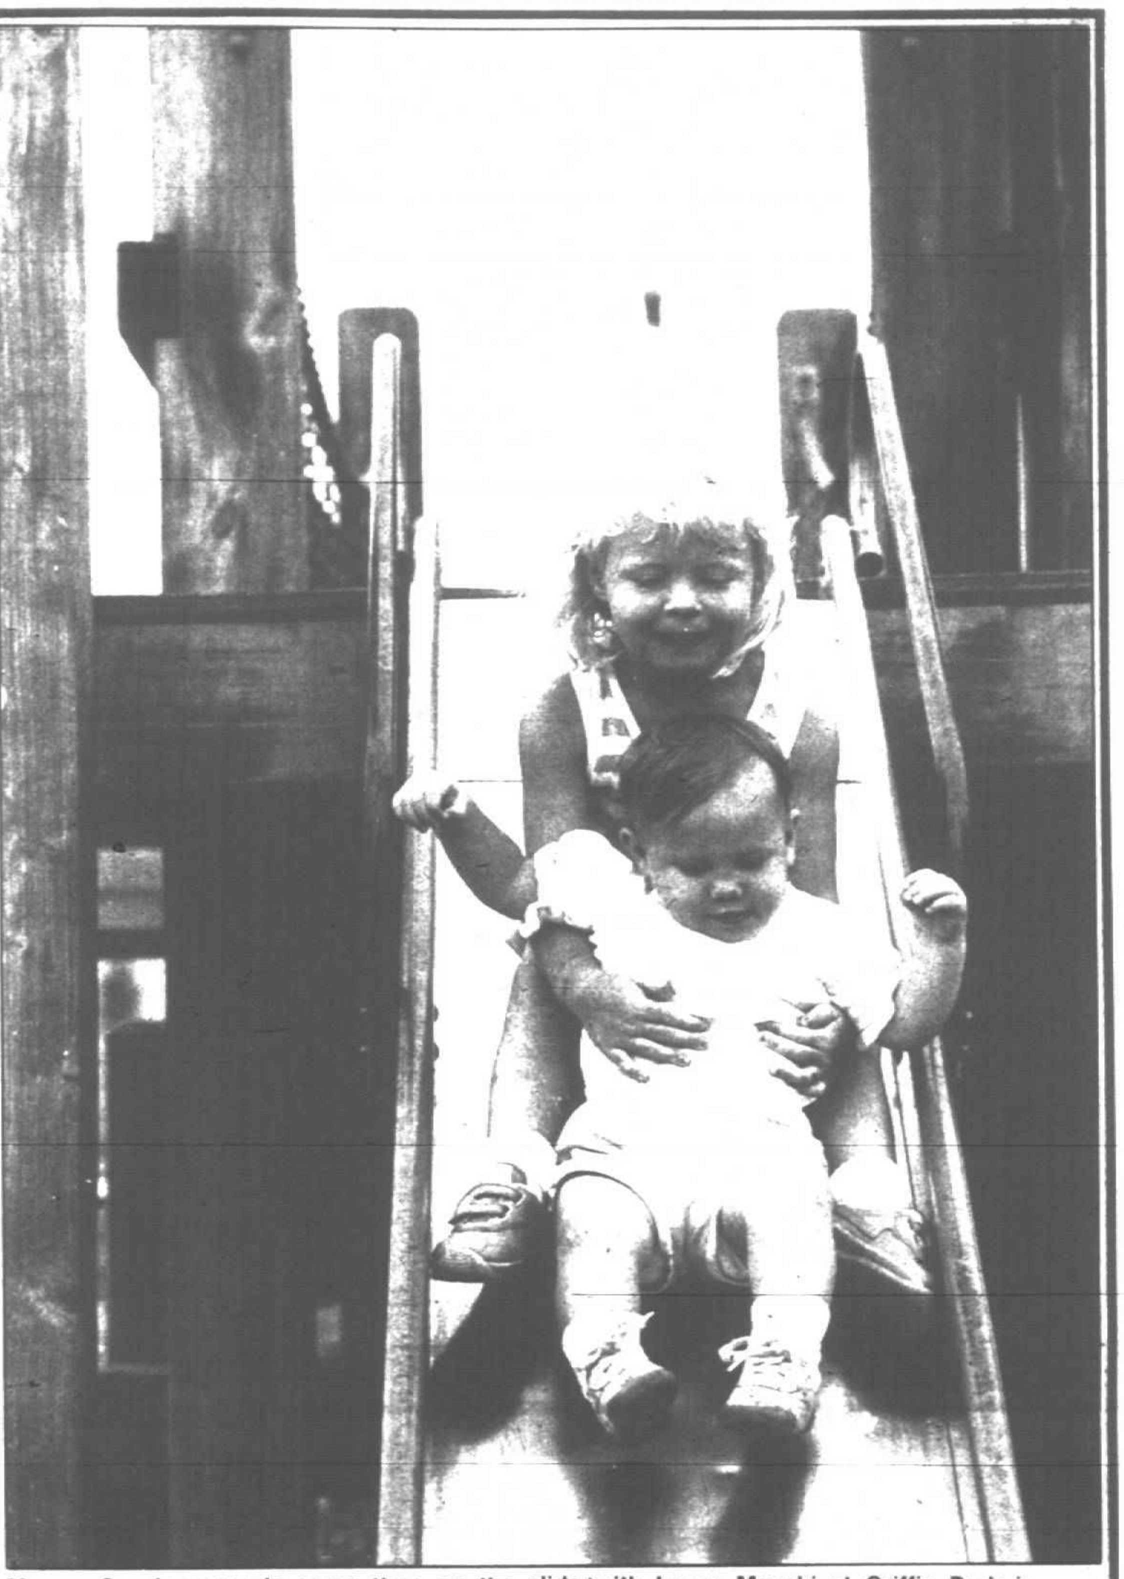
"Both ideas are good," Dates said. "It just depends what you like."

Canton Township also is home to Flodin Park, named for longtime Canton clerk John Flodin. Flodin Park is on Saltz, between Sheldon and Lilley.

Many homeowners' associations in Canton have neighborhood parks, Dates said. Those aren't owned by the township, although they are used by the Parks and Recreation Department for supervised playground program in the summer.

"We really could use more park land," Dates said. Canton has many young families who enjoy visiting parks.

NOT TOO far away, Plymouth Township Park, on Ann Arbor Trail at McClumpha, provides plenty of room to play or just to sit and daydream.



Megan Gourley spends some time on the slide with Laura Moyski at Griffin Park in Canton.

The park is closed from sundown to 8 a.m. It includes baseball diamonds, covered picnic pavilions and a playground. In the winter, many children go sledding at the park.

Plymouth Township Park is home to the play sculpture created by artist Peter Rockwell and his assistant. Rockwell came to Plymouth in 1986 to create the whimsical sculpture.

Janisse Lahti Larsson and Dennis Larsson have been working professionally as artists for a number of years. The Larssons live in Northville Township.

By Julie Brown
staff writer

The next time you go into a restaurant, take a good look at the walls. Chances are, you'll see some art work.

That art work may have been created by Northville Township residents Dennis Larsson and Janisse Lahti Larsson. Their work is displayed throughout the country, from Palm Beach to Hanover, N.H.

"There's a lot of restaurants we've worked on," Dennis Larsson said.

They're working on chalk drawings for Olga's restaurants in the metropolitan Detroit area. That project will include approximately 10 to 15 drawings per restaurant.

THEY'RE ALSO doing 50-some paintings for The Summit Restaurant in Detroit's Renaissance Center. Janisse is doing most of that work. The project is scheduled to be completed by late September.

"It's going to be a beautiful place," Dennis said.

The largest painting will be 80-by-30 feet. The paintings will show various facets of Detroit's architecture.

The River Bistro in Detroit's Westin Hotel includes six 16-by-3-foot paintings the Larssons did. Those colorful, upbeat paintings have a look you'd find in a Paris cafe.

"They're fun kind of paintings," Dennis said. "They're very different from anything you'd see in Detroit."

THE LARSSONS grew up in the Detroit area. He's a graduate of Livonia Bentley High School, and she's a graduate of Livonia Stevenson High School.

Both attended the University of Michigan, where they studied art and design. Graduate work took them to the University of Uppsala, north of Stockholm in Sweden.

> 'So often art is mystified. Everybody has a talent. It's just that ours shows.'
> — Janisse Lahti Larsson
> artist

They've been working professionally as artists since 1974 or so, and also sold some work during their student days. The Larssons, parents of 8-year-old Kirsten and 3-year-old Trevor, recently returned to Michigan after having lived in Vermont for 13 years.

Dennis designed the family's Vermont house and much of the its furnishings. Metropolitan Home magazine named him one of its personal style winners and featured the family's house in 1988.

MOST OF Janisse's work is painting. One project she completed involved painting animal scenes on doors of examination rooms at the Shriner's Hospital in Tampa, Fla.

"I just tried to keep the color real soft," she said.

The manatee, for example, was painted in its natural soft gray shades.

"I just tried to make all the art work real pleasing and not frightening," she said.

Both have done illustrative work, including signs for various businesses. During those years in Vermont, they did various graphic work projects.

Playgrounds provide summer fun for kids morning. She works at Children's World, on Sheldon in Canton, and came to the park with a group of children from that center.

"The kids like climbers and stuff, things they can run and jump on," said Campeau, a 19-year-old Canton resident. The children also like the swings designed to look like horses.

The kids at Children's World enjoy visiting Plymouth Township Park and Griffin Park, she said. She too has some ideas about what makes a park the ideal place to be.

"Some place kind of quiet, with lots of trees and shade," Campeau said. "I'd rather go and sit by the pond."

The city of Plymouth also includes a number of parks. Kellogg Park, at Ann Arbor Trail and Main Street, is at the heart of downtown. The park is closed 10 p.m. to 5 a.m.

"Everybody thinks of downtown, they think of Kellogg Park," said Tom Willette, assistant recreation director for the city of Plymouth.

Kellogg Park doesn't have any playground equipment, although it does have a fountain in the center of the park, some comfortable benches and plenty of trees. Kellogg Park is the site of such popular events as the Plymouth Fall Festival and summer concerts presented by the Plymouth Community Band and the Plymouth Community Arts Council.

Close to home

Nearby communities have a lot to offer

Parks seem to bring out the kid in all of us.

Visiting a park or playground is an enjoyable way to spend part or all of a day. What follows is a summary of popular playgrounds and parks in nearby communities. Perhaps you'd like to take some time to explore the metropolitan area's all-time favorite playgrounds.

Farmington /Farmington Hills:

You don't have to be a child to play in the parks in Farmington/Farmington Hills.

Farmington City Park, Shiawassee at Power, is made up of 18 acres along the Upper Middle Rouge River. In addition to baseball diamonds, the park offers two play areas with swings and slides and an 860-square-foot covered picnic shelter.

Sports fans can take advantage of the two soccer fields and two baseball diamonds in Pioneer Park, on westbound Farmington Road, north of 13 Mile Road, Farmington Hills. The 15-acre athletic park also offers a picnic area for players.

THE TWO baseball fields, named in memory of civic activists Sandy Friedman and Jim Ellis, double as additional soccer fields in the fall. Although many leagues use the facility, it's open to everyone. As with all of the area's parks, Pioneer is open from dawn to dusk.

Family-oriented programs are offered during late summer and early fall in Heritage Park on the grounds of the Eleanor Spicer estate, on west Farmington Road between 10 and 11 Mile roads, Farmington Hills.

Spicer's arts-and-crafts-style house was built in the 1920s and has been designated a historic residence. Designed by architect Marcus Burrowes, it will reopen as a visitors' center in late fall.

Scattered across the 211-acre estate are play and picnic areas, as well as 3.3 miles of nature trails.

Nature classes are conducted 10 a.m. to noon the third Saturday of each month throughout the year. Classes are open to everyone of at least elementary school age. As with all of the park's organized activities, there is a fee. For details, call the Farmington Hills Parks and Recreation Department, 473-9570.

People who aren't residents of Farmington or Farmington Hills will be charged an additional fee.

CHILDREN AGES 5-8 can bring their teddy bears to breakfast 9-10:30 a.m. Saturday, Aug. 5. The same age group can attend a back-to-school breakfast 9-10:30 a.m. Saturday, Sept. 9. Call for reservations.

It's tea time for girls ages 4-7 Saturday, Aug. 12. They're encouraged to dress in the best of mom's or grandmother's cast-off clothes.

From mid-September through October, hayrides will be offered through the trails at Heritage Park.

Westland:

The city of Westland has 17 city parks and the always-popular Hines Park, which winds through the northern portion of the community. The hidden jewel when it comes to entertaining youngsters, however, is Tattan Park, on Carlson just south of Ford Road.

IT'S LITERALLY a children's park, with a merry-go-round, rocking horses, Tot Town and a seven-house play area. Developed in the late 1970s, the park has a rustic appearance with split-rail fencing to set it off from its 110-acre neighbor, Central City Park. It also has a pavilion that is used for many of the city's parks and recreation department summer programs.

It's a short walk over a wooden bridge to Central City Park. That park offers tennis courts, a baseball diamond, a physical fitness trail with exercise stations, and a small lake where "small fry" have been known to catch one or two fish. The lake also attracts wild ducks and Canada geese, neither of which oppose free handouts from park visitors.

If it's hot outside, a session of open swimming at the Bailey Recreation Center's outdoor pool can provide a cool-off to end the excursion.

For information, call 722-7620.

Garden City:

Garden City has nine parks, in addition to the county's meandering Hines Park. City Park, on the northeast corner of Merriman and Cherry Hill, is the best bet for spending a day communing with nature or just having fun.

YOUNGSTERS CAN enjoy playing on the playground, stocked with swings, a jungle gym, slide and merry-go-round. Children can then cool off over lunch in the picnic grove or at the pavilion. The picnic area comes complete with grills, a good invitation to an afternoon or evening barbecue.

There are also always-important restrooms, ball diamonds and horseshoe pits, not to mention swimming and wading pools. The pools have open swimming 1-3:45 p.m. and 5:30-8:15 p.m.

For information, call 525-8846.

Livonia:

Livonia has 57 developed and undeveloped park sites within its boundaries, not to mention a portion of Hines Park that includes Newburgh Lake. It's one of its earliest developed parks that bring in children.

At one time, it was called Veterans Park, but in the early 1980s was renamed John Stymelski Park in honor of a man who had contributed many years of work to the city's Memorial Day parade.

The park, on Stark between Schoolcraft and Hubbard, is full of the things that keep children playing.

FOR THE YOUNGER set, there are the standard swings and slides, plus such play toys as the climbing rails and merry-go-round.

While it doesn't have permanent restrooms, parents will be glad to know that there are portable toilets at the park. More permanent facilities are across the street at Ford Field, site of baseball diamonds and the Eddie Edgar Ice Arena.

For information, call 261-2260.

Redford Township

Redford Township has three major parks, numerous small recreation areas set up for ballplaying and two Wayne County parks — Lola Valley and Bell Creek.

The standout when it comes to entertaining youngsters is Capitol Park, a "hidden" park site in terms of finding it. Capitol Park is at Capitol and Hemingway, between I-96 and Plymouth Road. To get there, it's best to take Beech Daly south to Capitol, head west on Capitol and keep driving to the park.

The sprawling park offers one of the best baseball diamonds in the area, according to township parks and recreation staffers. It offers six tennis courts for budding Chris Everts, a concession stand and a children's play area for the swings-and-slides set.

Restrooms are available and plans are to add a pavilion for picnicking in the near future. For information, call 937-2727.

Sandra Wensley takes time to do some reading at the Canton Public Library. Many children have spent enjoyable hours reading at the library this summer.

Youngsters pay close attention to the happenings at the final celebration for the "Reach for the Stars" program. The celebration party was held the afternoon of Thursday, July 27, at the Canton Public Library.

Readers meet for fun-filled celebration

SOME TALENTED amateurs gave a topflight performance recently at the Canton Public Library.

Librarians took to the stage for the grand finale session of the "Reach for the Stars" summer reading program. The celebration party was held the afternoon of Thursday, July 27, at the library.

Musical talents were among those featured. Judy Teachworth, department head for youth services, played the guitar and led the youngsters in song. She was accompanied by children's librarian Sheryl Mase-Brookens, who played the autoharp.

"We really like to do it," Teachworth said. "We've had a lot of experience with the little ones. It was a lot of fun."

The "Reach for the Stars" program is for children in first through eighth grade. The Canton Public Library also has a summer "Read-to-Me" program for preschool children.

SEVERAL HUNDRED school-age children attended the celebration Thursday, July 27. Several other children's librarians, including Jennifer Myers and Cathy Frys, also contributed their time and talents to the program.

The program included a puppet show, songs, stories, refreshments and other fun. Several other activity sessions have been held this summer as part of the summer reading program in Canton.

This summer, a total of 754 children signed up for the summer reading club, with an additional 383 preschoolers in the "Read-to-Me" program.

"This was our most successful," Teachworth said of the summer pro-

THEY'VE BEEN working for a number of years with designer Ron Rea. Rea and his partner, Dave Peterhans, have a design firm, Peterhansrea, in Birmingham.

Dennis has done photography. He has done tile work, including some used for directories and other signage, and welding.

"You name it, we do it," he said.

That's why designers hire the Larssons.

"If they can come up with an idea, it can be executed," he said.

Dennis Larsson, 42, has done painting and drawing. His background also includes approximately 17 years of experience in woodwork. He got into woodwork because he needed to know how things go together.

"You don't just design it and let it go," said Larsson, who designs and constructs furniture.

LARSSON AND several others, including Rea and Peterhans, plan to open a furniture store in Birmingham later this year.

"We're in the mood to do things that please us and interest us," he said.

The store, specializing in one-of-a-kind pieces, will be for people who see furniture as art.

THE LARSSONS' work starts when a client or designer comes to them in need of something for a certain environment.

"What art we do is specifically for a specific place," Dennis said.

Although much of their work appears in public places, it's not really corporate or commercial.

Their work is in some ways similar to that done by artists during the Depression. The government paid artists of the 1930s to do work for public places. The Larssons are hired by clients or designers to do work for such settings as stores, restaurants, hotels and offices.

"There's not too many people doing that," Dennis said.

REA'S CONCEPT is that original art should be related to the total environment.

"Part of that environment is the art work," Larsson said.

They stay away from poster art in office settings, and try to make an office suitable for the person occupying it and the work done there.

WORKING TOGETHER can be a challenge for the Larssons.

"At times, it's fun," said Janisse Lahti Larsson, 39. "At times, it's difficult."

Dennis Larsson handles most dealings with clients. At times, that forces him to take on a "boss" role, which isn't easy.

"Very frequently, you have differences of opinion as to how something should be done," he said.

If a restaurant is scheduled to open on a certain date, their work must be completed on time.

"That puts a lot of pressure on you," Dennis said.

Their work also must be within a reasonable price range.

Party time arrives at Canton's library

gram. More children participated than did in earlier years. The children who can read on their own read more books than in years past.

This summer, the independent readers read some 6,681 books.

"I think they like to read," Teachworth said. Children also enjoy attending the summer activity sessions at the library.

Various contests were held as part of the "Reach for the Stars" program, with winners' names posted at the celebration party.

"That encourages them, I think, to be a part of the library," Teachworth said. She and the other librarians are already planning next summer's program.

Children who read a certain number of books, or had a certain number read to them, received "Eager Reader" coupons from Hardee's. The children also received certificates noting their achievement.

"So there are a lot of incentives for them to come in and read," Teachworth said.

Church grows in faith, size

By Julie Brown
staff writer

Things are moving right along at the First United Methodist Church of Plymouth.

A major expansion project is under way at the church, on North Territorial west of Sheldon in Plymouth Township. Construction work started last November.

"It's proceeding quite well," said the Rev. John Grenfell Jr., the pastor. He and others at the church hope to be moved into the new administrative office wing at the end of the first full week of August.

The project includes construction of a new sanctuary for the church. The old sanctuary is to be turned into a fellowship hall.

New administrative offices, a choir room and library are to be included, with a new parlor and kitchen. The building will be barrier-free.

The present office space, parlor and kitchen areas will be used for classroom space.

The general contractor for the project is T.H. Marsh Co. of Livonia. Project cost is approximately $3.2 million.

PLANS FOR the expansion started some five years ago. A future planning task force looked at the need for expansion. That was followed by a three-year pledge program designed to raise money to finance the project.

The First United Methodist Church of Plymouth has just over 1,400 members. The church has been in Plymouth more than 160 years; members have worshiped at the church on North Territorial since 1972.

Grenfell and other church leaders anticipate the work being done some time next spring. There's some talk of being in the new sanctuary by Christmas this year, but that's not a certainty.

"You know how building programs go," Grenfell said.

Dealing with the construction has required a certain amount of patience and flexibility on the part of the staff and church members.

"We're in the throes of all of that," he said. Even so, it's rewarding for the worshipers to see the work continue day after day. A dedication service is planned when the project's completed.

"Certainly, there's an excitement about it," the pastor said. "I think when we're all through, we'll have a building that'll be very attractive to the community."

The construction work is continuing at the church. "It's proceeding quite well," said the Rev. John Grenfell Jr., pastor at the First United Methodist Church of Plymouth.

Heart patients need exercise

Barry Franklin

Although cardiac rehabilitation programs generally provide heart patients with risk factor education and counseling, mid-to-moderate exercise therapy remains a key component.

Unfortunately, due to the claims of a few overzealous enthusiasts, heart patients who embark on physical conditioning programs often do so with unrealistic expectations. Consequently, there is a need to clarify the benefits and limitations of exercise therapy for patients who have had heart attacks, bypass surgery, or balloon angioplasty.

Doctors now realize that regular aerobic exercise offers numerous benefits to the cardiac patient. It decreases the heart rate at rest and at any given level of exercise. As a result, anginal symptoms (chest pain) may be reduced.

Research has also shown that exercise training increases the cardiac patients' capacity to take in and utilize oxygen — often by as much as 20 to 30 percent. This improved oxygen transport capacity gives the patient more energy, thereby reducing fatigue.

EXERCISE ALSO has favorable effects on selected "risk factors" associated with heart disease. For example, elevated blood fats such as cholesterol and triglycerides can be reduced by a moderate exercise program, particularly when there is a concomitant weight loss. Moreover, the "good" form of cholesterol, called HDL, can be increased with as little as 8 to 10 miles of walking per week.

A recent analysis also revealed that exercise by itself — independent of weight loss and other factors — can significantly reduce resting blood pressure in moderately hypertensive persons. Average reductions were about 10 millimeters of mercury for both systolic and diastolic blood pressure.

Additional benefits of regular endurance exercise include decreases in body weight, fat stores, and stress levels. Cardiac exercisers also report increases in self-confidence, particularly in relation to physical tasks, an improved sense of well-being, decreased depression and anxiety, and more pep and zest for life.

ON THE OTHER hand, there are limitations to the benefits of exercise therapy. Unfortunately, we have no good scientific evidence that regular exercise increases either the size or number of arteries (called collaterals) feeding the heart muscle. Exercise also does little to improve the puming capacity (termed the ejection fraction) of a damaged heart. Furthermore, a physical conditioning program will not necessarily prevent heart disease from worsening.

In summary, regular exercise should be part of a comprehensive cardiac rehabilitation program for heart patients, which also includes vigorous efforts at smoking cessation, blood pressure control, and dietary modification. It's important, howver, to put the benefits of exercise into proper perspective.

August features lunar eclipse

The last half of August features two eclipses — only one of which is visible to us.

Full moon is at 11:07 p.m. on Aug. 16. The moon is opposite the sun, as seen from the earth, and is fully lighted. In fact, the moon is exactly opposite the two, and it will be totally eclipsed as it passes through the earth's shadow. This is a lunar eclipse, an eclipse (covering) of the moon.

The earth always casts a shadow. It always points away from the sun and out into space. When the moon is opposite the sun, as the moon is during its full phase, it usually passes above or below our shadcw and remains lighted. But should things line up precisely, the moon will pass through the shadow, and the light of the sun, streaming past the earth is blocked.

Many eclipses are partial; the alignment is close, but not exact. The moon will pass through a part of the shadow and only a portion of the moon will darken. This month, however, the alignment happens to be quite precise. This wil produce a total eclipse; the moon will be totally covered and should darken considerably. The last total eclipse visible from our area was in 1982.

THE ECLIPSE officially begins at 8:24 p.m. when the moon enters the penumbra (pen UM bra), the faint outer shadow of the earth. Because this part of the shadow is very faint, no change in the moon will be noticed to the casual observer.

At 9:20 p.m. the moon begins to enter the umbra, the darker part of the shadow. During the next hour the moon will darken from left to right until it is completely in the shadow.

Totality will begin at 10:20 p.m. The moon will be totally within our shadow for the next one hour and 36 minutes. The darkest "phase" of the eclipse will be at 11:08 p.m., when the moon is near the center point of the eclipse. The top part of the moon is nearest the central part of the shadow and should appear slightly darker than the rest of the moon.

During totality, the moon probably will not disappear from view, as the sun does during a total solar eclipse. Enough sunlight streaming past the earth will be refracted (bent) by our atmosphere and will illuminate the moon, but with an eerie red glow. (Sunrises and sunsets are red because our atmosphere refracts the sunlight's spectrum. This same effect colors the moon red.)

It is not possible to predict how "dark," or how red, the moon will be. Each lunar eclipse appears differently. The more dust and pollutants we have in our atmosphere, the redder the moon. In December 1963, volcanic eruptions on the earth caused more light than usual to be blocked by our atmosphere, and the moon disappeared from view during totality!

TOTAL PHASE ends at 11:56 p.m. as the orbit of the moon begins to carry it out of our shadow. The moon will be partially eclipsed again, getting light from left to right, from 11:56 p.m. until 12:56 a.m.

The moon will still be eclipsed by the fainter penumbra until 1:52 a.m., but for all intents and purposes the show is over at 12:56 a.m. The next total eclipse won't be visible from our area until December 1992.

An eclipse of the moon is totally safe to observe. Best views of the eclipse will be through binoculars or with a telescope at low power, although there will be plenty to enjoy if you just go out and watch with the naked eye.

One week after the total eclipse of the full moon, the moon is at Last Quarter phase (officially at 2:40 p.m. on August 23). Look high in the southeast, about 45 minutes before sunrise on the 23rd, and locate the moon in Taurus. Below and to the left of the moon is the beautiful Pleiades (PLEE a dees) star cluster. This is the "shoulder" of Taurus. The bull's "eye," the orange-red star Aldebaran (al DEB a ran), is located below the Pleiades. On the morning of the 24th, the moon forms a triangle with the Pleiades and Aldebaran.

The Voyager 2 spacecraft will have its closest encounter with the outermost planet of the solar system, Neptune, on Aug. 24 and 25. (Because of the high eccentricity (oval shape) of Pluto's orbit, Pluto is actually closer to the sun than Neptune and will remain so until 1999.) While this event is certainly not visible to us, it is interesting to make note of mankind's involvement with an object that is more than 3 billion miles away.

Launched in 1977, two Voyager spacecraft were sent on a mission to examine the planets Jupiter and Saturn. After these encounters the spacecraft would both cruise the empty blackness of space for all eternity. A meeting with Pluto is not possible.

LOOK FOR the moon, high in the east before sunrise, on Aug. 26. The bright star to the right of the moon is Jupiter.

The moon is near the "heads" of the Gemini twins on the 27th. The star to the left of the moon is Pollux and above Pollux is Castor. On the 28th the moon is located below Castor and Pollux.

Mercury is at maximum elongation (greatest apparent distance) from the sun on August 29. It will be 27 degrees east (left) of the sun in the evening sky, but it is close to the horizon and very difficult to see.

The second New Moon of the month is at 1:44 a.m. on Aug. 31. But, unlike the new moon of Aug. 1, this time the moon is located nearly exactly between the earth and the sun and there will be a partial solar eclipse. The bad news is: this eclipse is not visible from our area. It occurs at midnight, at which time the sun is not in the Michigan sky. To see this eclipse, you need to be in southern Africa, Madagascar or the Indian Ocean.

An excellent aid for learning constellations and keeping up to date with the sky is the monthly "Sky Calendar." a one year subscription is $6. It is available from Abrams Planetarium, Michigan State University, East Lansing, 48824.

Students need homes

Exchange students Nikodemus Asplund and Maria Berron are eager to become the newest young ambassadors from Sweeden and Spain when they arrive in the Detroit area next month to attend high school for a year.

The two students were selected for an academic year abroad by Educational Foundation for Foreign Study, a non-profit student exchange program based in Cambridge, Mass. Local EF Foundation International Exchange coordinator Bob Gurney has been working to find homes for Nikodemus and Maria.

"In addition to being a good representative of Sweden, Nikodemus is eager to learn about American customs and become fluent in English during his exchange year.

Seventeen-year-old exchange student Maria Berron said she is also going to take advantage of this opportunity, and study and learn as much as possible while living with an area family.

Area families interested in welcoming Nikodemus or Maria into their homes can call Gurney at 895-0400.

Southfield law firm fights software battle

By Philip A. Sherman
staff writer

At what point does an idea take on qualities so explicit and exacting that it becomes like no other and can be copyrighted?

A Southfield lawyer is about to take that question, long fought in the music industry over song lyrics and sound-alike refrains, and in literary disputes over plagiarized passages, to trial.

This time, though, the battle for what now is called "intellectual property" will be fought over similarities between products developed by two competing computer software firms.

Ashton-Tate of Torrance, Calif., is suing Fox Software, of Perrysburg, Ohio, for copyright infringement of its dBase program. dBase is a database that allows users to enter almost any type of information into the program and then store, sort and recall it in a variety of ways. Foxbase does the same thing in much the same way.

STANLEY WITKOW, general counsel for Ashton-Tate, says Fox Software pretty much lifted dBase, renamed it Foxbase and is now marketing the program as its own. Ernie Brooks, a principal with Brooks & Kushman, the Southfield law firm representing Fox, says Fox didn't copy the program — it merely used the same computer language to create Foxbase that Ashton-Tate used to create dBase.

Two key points will be at issue in the trial if the case gets that far (each side thinks the other doesn't have a case and would be better off settling out of court).

Brooks says one can't copyright a computer language any more than one could copyright Spanish, and therefore Ashton-Tate's suit is dead from the start. Witkow and Ashton-Tate don't quibble with the fact that a language shouldn't be copyrighted, but they say Foxbase has even adopted the "look and feel" of dBase, that the similarities are far greater than the differences, and hence the lawsuit.

"THEY CREATED a product that uses the same commands; it implements the dBase programming language that we created," Witkow said. "It emulates the look and feel of our product, the screen emulation and the order of command structure."

Brooks says the look and feel of the two products are not all that similar but adds they do operate in a similar fashion. "That was an objective — it was a design criteria," Brooks said.

Tom Lewry, who is working on the case with Brooks, agreed. "Somebody who knows how to use dBase can sit down and use Foxbase," Lewry said, adding that was done on purpose so users with dBase files could use them on Foxbase.

Brooks is basing much of his case on the history of the development of dBase. According to Brooks:

- U.S. Government employees at Jet Propulsion Laboratories in California developed a computer data base program called JPLDIS in the mid '70s.
- Wayne Ratliff created Vulcon software in 1978 and based it on JPLDIS. Ashton-Tate took a license from Ratliff in 1980 and began marketing Vulcan under the name dBase II.
- Ashton-Tate bought the rights to dBase from Ratliff in 1983.

Brooks practices patent and technical law cases in general because, besides his law degree, he has undergraduate and graduate degrees in engineering. He's handling this case in particular because a client in Toledo, who knows a member of the Fox corporate board, recommended him.

AROUND THIS time, Brooks says David Fulton and Richard LaValley entered the picture. Fulton is the founder and former chairman of the computer sciences department at Bowling Green State University; LaValley is an attorney and certified public accountant.

Before he founded Fox Software with LaValley, Fulton also founded and managed DACOR Inc., which designed and implemented systems software for corporations and wrote several business-oriented computer languages, according to Brooks.

"They were writing applications, used dBase, found it had bugs and recreated the program as Foxbase, as a perfected version," Brooks said.

That's where the differences between the two programs are apparent, Brooks says. Fulton used the same language to create Foxbase but added several enhancements he thought users would find useful, in addition to being compatible with dBase, Brooks said. For example, Brooks and Lewry said Foxbase runs much faster than the newest Ashton-Tate release, dBase IV.

ASHTON-TATE, IN prepared material, says Fulton went beyond that point and built into Foxbase the same look, feel and operating sequences as dBase.

By way of example, Ashton-Tate has distributed printouts of computer screens, one with a dBase command sequence, the other printout allegedly showing the same command sequence in Foxbase. The printouts appear identical.

Brooks says Fulton sent a copy of Foxbase to Ashton-Tate prior to 1984 and asked if they wanted to buy it. "They weren't hiding it," Brooks said. "In 1984, Fox marketed it as Foxbase II. The only complaint from Ashton-Tate was 'don't use the Roman numeral II.'

"In 1986, Tate started to work to buy Foxbase because it (Foxbase) reached a level of development they didn't have. Negotiations fell apart in '87, but there still was no claim of rights infringement," Brooks added. The lawsuit was filed by Ashton-Tate in November 1988.

"THEY KNEW about it (Foxbase) in '84 and '87 and didn't do a god-damn thing," he added. Brooks contends Ashton-Tate filed the lawsuit because its newest product, dBase IV, isn't selling well among computer users and that they want to slow down sales of Foxbase, which Lewry says are doing very well.

The case presently is in discovery. Witkow said he didn't know when it would go to trial. "It depends on whether Fox is willing to settle," he said.

Brooks also isn't sure when it will go to trial but hasn't written off a settlement — from Fox's vantage point. "There doesn't seem to be any gracious way out for Ashton-Tate," he said.

The battle for what now is called 'intellectual property' will be fought over similarities between products developed by two competing computer software firms.

Friedman expands beauty business in strip mall

By Janice Brunson
staff writer

Tamara Friedman, Soviet emigre turned American entrepreneur, envisions a beauty institute aimed at good health, not pampered indulgence, a comprehensive center amid plush decor.

"Instead of 'let's go shopping' or 'let's go to lunch,' I want people to say 'let's go to Tamara's,' " Friedman, 41, of West Bloomfield, said.

Tamara Friedman: "Women are used to caring for others. Being cared for is a change for most."

This week Tamara's Institute de Beaute moved from cramped quarters on Northwestern Highway in Farmington Hills to an adjacent strip mall Friedman and partner Stan Finsilver are currently developing.

The Courtyard, designed by J. Wolf & Associates of Southfield, offers 18,000 square feet of retail space, 7,000 of which will house Friedman's expanded institute. Other merchants include a hair salon, a boutique and an art gallery. Two spaces have yet to be let.

Based on Friedman's concept, patrons may spend the entire day shaping up and shopping without ever leaving the building.

LOCATION has served Friedman well.

In 1981, with Michigan's economy in a severe recession, Friedman and husband Eugene, both of whom left the Ukraine with twin daughters in 1975, paid $135,000 for a "smelly" building on an acre of land in the then-relatively undeveloped area of Northwestern Highway just south of 14 Mile.

Less than five years later, they paid $300,000 for an adjoining acre. Michigan's economy had substantially improved, and the location is now a major artery for traffic and shopping.

The idea of the strip mall emerged three years ago. After two years of frustration, the couple entered into a partnership with Finsilver, a West Bloomfield developer and contractor, to build Courtyard, a $2 million project.

"It's pretty scary. We're talking about hundreds of thousands of dollars. But I always wanted my own building," Friedman said.

Within the institute, 1,000 square feet of space is partitioned for a toning salon employing muscle stimulation by means of electrical current. A dietician and nutritionist will staff the salon that has yet to be named.

Other tenants include Linda Hayman Gallery of Southfield, which has leased 5,000 square feet fronting Northwestern, an area formerly occupied by Friendman's institute. A hair salon and a boutique will lease some 3,000 square feet, and another 2,800 square feet remain available.

"We could easily lease 100 percent but we are choosy about the tenants. We want businesses that complement each other," Friedman explained.

"Simple elegance is how interior designer Renee Garno describes the interior of Friedman's new quarters: corals and peaches draping pickled rosewood, marble and polished ceramic tile.

A posh lunch room allows for special offers like the Mother/Daughter Champagne Treat that, for $220, buys massage, makeup treatment and lunch for two, or Tamara's Day of Pampering for $170 that includes a light luncheon.

"WOMEN ARE USED to caring for others. Being cared for is a change for most," she said, in describing her institute modeled after luxury European spas Friedman recently visited.

"The way I felt there is how I want people to feel at my spa, like a princess who is well cared for." Friedman is "hooked" on European-styled health and beauty treatment, a system she said is based on natural products that purify the body.

"The difference in treatment is unbelieveable. There, it is to cure. Here, it is to pamper." She wants her patrons to "feel" the difference.

Friedman's new center features European-styled body detoxification and skin remineralizing, a new line of French lotions prepared from mineral and seaweed oils, a muscle toning program employing electrical stimulation and a hydro tub. There is also a small health food bar.

Each patron receives a consultation. "Only when we know everything about them and they trust us" does treatment begin, including massage and facials, waxing, permanent makeup (tattooing) and scalp therapy, makeovers, manicure and pedicure and exercise, all aimed at purification and good grooming.

Friedman is preparing a pamphlet on how to apply health and beauty tips because "education, education, education is the key to my success."

Joining Friedman is her "newest partner," daughter Gabriel, 20, a graduate of West Bloomfield High School. Gabriel's twin, Edita, a student at Michigan State University, aspires to be a doctor, a goal that once was Friedman's.

Friedman admits developing a strip mall is "pretty scary," but she says she's always wanted her own building.

Bartering instead of buying

By Mary DiPaolo
special writer

Fred Detwiler traces his work in the business of bartering to organizing a radio station party on a shoestring budget.

Detwiler was told the employees could have a party so long as he didn't spend any money.

"I was also told I could trade anything I wanted in order to get what I needed. We did a lot of one-on-one trades with other businesses, such as swapping commercial air time for restaurants and printing services when we needed them," Detwiler said.

It didn't take him long to find out that air time wasn't the only commodity he would be able to barter. "Once I got going, restaurants were asking me to get them alternative advertising services and vice versa. The idea to start a trade exchange took off from there."

As president of the Michigan Trade Exchange, Detwiler's operation, which began in 1978 and is based in Oak Park, now has several offices through the state and in Ohio.

"We now exchange products and services for business owners throughout the country and have just begun trading on an international basis."

Acting primarily as marketing agent and clearinghouse, members of the exchange trade items such as concert tickets, condominium vacations, and college tuition. Participating companies are issued a membership card for a one-time fee to obtain products and services from any of the 10,000 card holders. Members are charged a $425 fee to join the exchange.

Account credits and debits are issued as members provide or receive goods and services through the exchange network. For tax purposes, transactions are treated in the same manner as cash deals.

"Unlike the one-on-one trade situation, a member may get tires from someone one week and be providing his or her service to someone else the next," Detwiler said. He sees his organization as helping businesses move inventory, conserve cash and generate new business.

BUT TRADING goods and services isn't always practical for all business owners.

"I can think of 100 items I'd like to obtain on trade, but I can't think of a single person who'd want what I have to offer," says Walter Sundquist, owner of Heeney-Sundquist Funeral Home in Farmington.

"There are lots of products and services out there that would never be considered as part of a trade situation. It's like anything else that people may 'need' but aren't necessarily willing to trade for."

Sundquist adds that trading may also pose a problem for firms that offer goods and services involving large cash outlays. "I have a business associate who manufactures customized conveyor systems for industrial applications. If someone out there needed one, it sure would take quite a bit to get back the equivalent value of products or services."

Customer satisfaction is another issue to consider before taking the step to barter.

Detroit, not Smyrna, is critical test for UAW

By Dan McCosh

auto talk
Dan McCosh

The UAW's resounding defeat in Smyrna, Tenn., which is where they make Nissan automobiles these days, touched off a lot of hand-wringing about the fate of organized labor in general and the UAW in particular.

It wasn't the first defeat for the UAW in its effort to expand its membership to include the so-called 'transplants,'' those auto production facilities owned and operated mainly by the Japanese on U.S. soil. The majority of Honda workers in Marysville Ohio, for example, turned down the UAW even after four members of the powerhouse crew founded what must have been the smallest UAW local in history. So far, the major inroads in organizing have been in plants co-owned by the Big Three, such as the GM-Toyota California venture.

Of course, the greater Smyrna metropolitan area has never been a hotbed of union activity anyway, one reason why Marvin Runyon, the former head of Ford manufacturing who directed site selection for the Nessan plant, chose the place to begin with.

Local culture puts the UAW in the same pot with big business, big finance and other evils of Up North that had them falling asleep in Detroit City and dreaming about the cotton fields back home for years. Now the benevolence of a company that brings wages at least comparable to the industrial North without the long bus ride seems sent from heaven.

The Japanese scare their children with comic books showing hulking UAW members swinging wildly at Toyotas with sledgehammers — an incident that in reality was the work of an overenthusiastic car dealer in Livonia but has since become a major symbol of the American auto worker with his back against the wall.

All of this is not to say the UAW will have an easy time organizing a plant that pays at least lip service to modern personnel practices. It's fascinating to listen to the UAW's pitch about promising higher wages — arguably, the UAW never did accomplish that goal for its members.

What it did was reduce the gap between highly trained craftsmen and unskilled assembly line workers. Historically, the strongest issues that prompted organizing efforts in the U.S. auto companies were mainly practices such as calling in workers two and three times a day for a couple of hours and lack of any uniformity in personnel policy. This was compounded by blatant corruption in plant-floor management, likely making union dues seem a little cheaper than kickbacks.

Arguably the main reason most plants, union and non-union alike, subscribe to more uniform labor policies today is because of the ultimate threat of union organizing.

But this is an abstract idea to a younger generation that never experienced the bad old days and seems to have a stronger faith in the essential fairness of modern management than their fathers ever did.

Curiously, one of the larger-scale tests of current attitudes toward unions doesn't seem as likely in Tennessee as back in Detroit, where Chrysler has announced an 8-percent cut in its white-collar workforce — the first major-league cutback most of this generation of workers has experienced.

That the cuts will come mainly from the non-UAW side is a point that could easily raise more interest in signing up than any pitch stemming from a Smyrna motel room ever could.

Bartering, not buying

"I never worked with an exchange network before. But I was badly burned the last time I traded services with another business," an Oakland County business consultant said.

"The exchange was fairly straightforward; they were going to provide custom-designed clothing for a television special I was hosting, and I was to provide them with the equivalent value of consulting services.

"It didn't take long to realize that their work was inferior, yet I felt obligated to continue our arrangement in hopes that things would improve. Of course, they didn't, and now we're involved in a lawsuit so I can recover the damages I sustained."

Detwiler says there are no guarantees when entering into a swap agreement with other businesses. "Any customer runs the risk of selecting a bad apple, although our exchange attempts to screen potential members beforehand."

He suggests persons investigate prospective trade partners beforehand. "All it takes is a few phone calls to others that have had past trading experience with the firm."

Some musts for cover letters

Mary DiPaolo

Business owners and managers would be wise to make good use of resumes as valuable employee screening tools.

I was recently asked to review several cover letters and resumes to help select interview candidates for a senior sales position.

Of the four dozen packages that had been submitted, only a handful were given serious consideration. Here are some do's and don'ts of successfully evaluating submitted applicant information as part of the employment screening process.

Screen cover letters and resumes from a purely appearance standpoint. Regardless of the desired position, a sloppy-looking package of documents should never be acceptable.

One package we received contained 12 corrected errors on the cover letter alone. Even though the applicant was highly qualified for the position, her resume and cover letter were filed in the wastebasket.

Other "file 13" documents included those that were copied (and badly, I might add), handwritten or "decorated" with water marks, coffee stains and makeup.

Read cover letters that have passed the appearance test. A well-written cover letter clearly states the applicant's interest and purpose for writing, highlights important information that may be included in the resume and requests an interview indicating the candidate will call for an appointment.

IT SOUNDS easy enough, but a majority of applicants tend to use cover letters as a means to say everything else. If the cover letter is unclear, too long, or worse yet, reads like a form letter applicable to any position in any organization, it signals a communication problem.

Cover letters must be addressed to a specific person within the organization, must be one page in length and must use appropriate language. "I would very much like to be hired by your company as soon as possible" not only sounds desperate but could be stated more professionally.

In the book, "High Impact Resumes & Letters," the authors point out that resumes are "one of the most imitated, plagiarized and misunderstood documents individuals produce and use." For a list of evaluation techniques for small business owners and others involved in the employment screening process, call MarkeTrends at 474-1149.

Let goals determine size of your savings finances and you

Sid Mittra

Recently I was intrigued by a conversation I had with Lynn Stone. Lynn claims that she has been saving on a regular basis but has never done so to reach a predetermined goal. Savings without a purpose is like travel without a road map. If you don't know where you're going, how would you know when you have arrived?

Goal setting

You may use Table 1 to set your goals. The table not only specifies the amount of savings needed to finance each of the stated objectives but also commits future savings to these objectives.

Savings required

The next step is to calculate the amount of savings required to achieve a specified goal. This task can be accomplished using an inflation-adjusted, after tax multiplier, presented in Table 2.

For instance, if the objective is to save $50,000 at the end of 10 years to finance a child's education, and if 4-percent interest can be earned on monthly savings net of inflation and taxes, then the monthly savings required to achieve this objective is $340.26. Monthly Savings Required = $50,000/146.9 (from table) = $340.36.

Note, this is after inflation return on your money. If, for example, the inflation rate is 6 percent and you can get an 8-percent return on your money, you are actually getting a 2-percent increase, not an 8-percent increase.

I hope that if you are a saver without a specific goal, this column will help you start saving in a more organized fashion.

Tinkerer presents new putter to President Bush

By Amy Rauch
staff writer

If you take a swing at a golf ball every now and then, Bruce Woolsey's new putter might bring a smile to your face, like it did to President Bush's last week.

Woolsey, owner of Bob's Speedometer and Automotive Service in Farmington, is a tinkerer on the side. Recently, he came up with a golf putter he thought could help anyone, including the president.

Woolsey, 43, and his wife, Diane, 41, met with Bush for about eight minutes July 25. "He asked how the putter worked," Woolsey said. "He took a couple of strokes with it, then picked it up and smiled."

Called the "Woolzie," the putter is made of a clear plastic with two red lines. One line is drawn across the top; the other, on the side closest to the ball, is perpendicular to the first line.

Golfers would line up their ball with the line on the putter. They can look at the putter and simultaneously see both the ball and the flag, which are reflected in the clear plastic prism.

"By looking down through the top surface, this putter will allow you to line up your putt as good or better than Jack Nicklaus," Woolsey said. "There are so many people who miss a one- or two-foot putt."

WOOLSEY HAS been working on the putter for about two years.

His father-in-law saw Bush on national television in a golf tournament about a month ago. Bush said he needed help with his putting. "He suggested I try to get a hold of Bush," Woolsey said.

So Woolsey contacted U.s. Rep. William Broomfield, R-Birmingham, who, in turn, contacted the White House. That was June 21.

The Woolseys didn't expect to hear whether they could present the putter to the president for at least three months. But a telephone call July 24 sent "everything into a complete tailspin," Diane said.

It was Broomfield calling to say the president wanted to meet with them the following day.

The Woolseys headed out to Twelve Oaks Mall in Novi to buy new clothes for the trip. "It's not every day that you meet the president," Diane said.

Bruce wanted a new suit, but was told it couldn't be tailored until the end of the week. Then he told the tailor he was meeting with Bush the next day. The tailor said he was a Republican; the suit was tailored within an hour.

Diane had the same experience in a shoe store. When Diane asked the salesman for a certain style in her size, he told her none were left. That's when she told him she was meeting with the president. The salesman said he'd check again, and came out with seven boxes of shoes.

Ironically, Woolsey got his idea for the putter while shopping for shoes at the mall a couple of years ago. Trying on a pair of shoes in a three-way mirror, he thought it would be nice to be able to put a mirror on a putter.

WORKING WITH a piece of metal and a mirror at home, Woolsey tried to put his idea into action. "It worked great, but it looked like a real mess," he said.

Then he tried the same idea with plastic instead. "I remembered my college physics and that at a 45-degree angle, the surface becomes a mirror."

Once in Washington, the Woolseys had to turn the putter over to the Secret Service for inspection. They met Bush in the Oval Office, where they were carefully monitored by the Secret Service during their brief visit.

"I was very nervous," Bruce said. "I took four showers that day."

"I told them I wasn't nervous, I was scared to death," Diane said. "But he was a very down-to-earth man, very understanding. He tried to put us at ease."

Sitting on Woolsey's desk at Bob's Speedometer and Automotive Service are a presidential tie clasp for him and a stick pin for Diane. The president also gave them golf balls with the presidential seal and signature on them.

Woolsey, a once-a-week golfer for 15 years, said the putter was made for golfers who have trouble putting. "That's why I invented it. I was not a good putter," he said.

WOOLSEY HAS a patent pending on the putter in the United States Canada, Korea, Australia, Canada and the Soviet Union.

He plans to manufacture the golf club and have it on the market by Christmas. The plastic version will sell for $80. Its glass twin, made of the same kind of glass used to make eyeglasses, will sell for $200.

Woolsey has tinkered with a lot of inventions, but hasn't patented any. He hopes this idea will take him a long way, possibly to a full-time business selling the putter.

"This, we feel, will launch us into an entirely new business," he said.

The Woolseys would like to present the putter to Johnny Carson, Lee Iacocca, Gov. Blanchard and a few professional golfers.

But they'll be keeping their eyes on Bush. "Every time we see him golfing from now on, we'll be looking for what he's using," Bruce said.

Carnes was notch above other players

By Dan O'Meara
staff writer

Coaches in the Quebec Major Junior Hockey League were asked to rate the circuit's top prospects for a newspaper survey last season.

One coach no doubt infuriated a good many players and hockey fans with his reply but apparently spoke his mind:

"The only one in this league I see playing in the NHL is Neil Carnes," he said.

The prospects for future stardom, however, were snuffed out early Sunday when Carnes, an 18-year-old Plymouth resident, was killed when the motorcycle he was riding collided with a car in Plymouth Township. He was to be buried today.

Carnes, who was drafted by the Montreal Canadiens in the third round of the 1988 amateur draft, had played for the Verdun Canadiens and most recently the Laval Titans.

Team officials, a former teammate and a sports writer who covers junior hockey remembered Carnes as an outstanding hockey player, possessing the talent that would soon put him in an NHL uniform.

"I FELT IF Neil kept going the way he finished the season, with one year in the American (Hockey) League, he could play for our big team," said Andre Boudrias, assistant general manager and director of scouting for the Canadiens.

Carnes, who would have turned 19 later this month, had been invited to preseason camp with the parent team this fall but was expected to return to Laval. If he didn't make the NHL roster this year, Carnes would've had to spend another season in junior hockey but, undoubtedly, would have stepped up to the AHL and possibly the NHL after that, according to Jean Pierre Charest, assistant GM for the Titans.

Charest said the death of Carnes, who played center and helped Laval make the Memorial Cup playoffs after being traded to that team late last season, will leave a void on the club's roster.

"We were counting on him for almost 50-60 goals for us," Charest said. "He always came up with big goals — winning goals, tying goals, overtime goals — so it was real bad news for us.

"We had a pretty good team, but he was the one who gave us the push. Of the guys we had last year, he was the closest to being a professional."

The 5-foot-9, 185-pound Carnes was said to have the necessary skills to make the grade as an NHL player, especially the crucial skating ability. He was remembered for having an excellent shot, and Boudrias said he was one of the best body checkers in the league.

"WE FIGURED he had the skating that is good for the NHL," Verdun GM Jacques Lemaire said. "Even though he was a small guy, he was stocky and very strong for his size."

Catherine Grace, who knew Carnes and reported on junior hockey for the Montreal Daily News, recalled a playoff game last season that demonstrated how fast and strong Carnes was with his shot.

"He hit the puck so hard it went through the net," she said. "The officials couldn't find the hole, so they disallowed it.

"After the game, the team owner went down and found the hole. That's how strong (Carnes) was. That's what Neil could do when he put his mind to it.

"He was just so strong. He could muscle his way down the ice, set himself up and blast it right through," she added."

In his first season with Verdun, Carnes scored a team-leading 88 points on 31 goals and 57 assists in 61 games.

HE PLAYED in just 14 games with Verdun last season, refusing at first to report because of the club's losing ways and then being sidelined by a knee injury. Carnes had three goals and 11 assists for the Canadiens but contributed nine goals and 24 assists after being traded to Laval and appearing in 31 games for the Titans.

All-star football

Eric Ruth (Livonia Stevenson) and Plymouth's Lee Krueger (Redford Catholic Central) leave the field Saturday after the East defensive unit forced the West to punt in the annual high school all-star football game in East Lansing. The East, which included five Observerland players, won 31-26. See story on Page 3D.

Meath, Stabnick help Hawks win nationals

The Under-19 Michigan Hawks last weekend became the first Region II girls soccer team to win a national championship.

The Hawks, who won both the state and Region II titles last month, continued their successful season Sunday, winning the United States Youth Soccer Association's Athena Cup in Uniondale, N.Y.

Troy goalkeeper Brooke Gillespie recorded a shutout and fullback Natalka Litkewycz scored the only goal the Hawks needed as they beat Revere Travel of Kerney, N.J., 1-0 in the title game.

Knowing they were the first Region II team to win a national title made the weekend even more enjoyable, said Amy Trunk, one of the Hawks' top offensive threats.

SHE HOPES this gives Region II — generally regarded as the country's weakest region — more respect.

"It's great," said Trunk, who will be a senior at Farmington High. "No one was expecting us to be anywhere near good. They thought we'd be real bad because the Midwest usually is not very good.

"We had a lot of chemistry. We have played a lot together and that helped. We really know what everyone's going to do."

The Hawks defeated the Phoenix 71 of Cline, Texas, 5-4 in a shootout in the semifinal round.

The Hawks and Phoenix were tied 3-3 at the end of regulation and 4-4 after two overtime periods.

Michigan Hawks player

Hawks coach Paul Dugan, who took an under-16 girls team to the Final Four in 1985, said Gillespie's play in the shootout was the difference.

GILLESPIE, WHO will attend Boca Raton College in Florida in the fall, made a save on the fourth Phoenix player in the five-player shootout, deflecting the ball over the net.

Troy's Christine Lamb converted the fifth goal in the shootout for the Hawks, assuring the team a spot in the finals.

"Brooke came up big in the shootout," Dugan said. "She almost got the first one — it went through her hands — and the fourth shot she deflected over the top of the net."

Margaret Kopmeyer, Caeri Thomas, Trunk and Jacquie Silagyi were the other goal scorers in the shootout.

Shannon Meath, Trunk and Silagyi scored for the Hawks during regulation, and Kopmeyer notched the only goal in overtime on a penalty kick to keep the teams even.

THE HAWKS won the Little Caesars Ilitch Division regular-season title with a 10-0 record and have lost only two games the entire season. They outscored their opponents 45-1 in the regular season play and 20-0 in five Region II playoff games.

But before Sunday, no one had heard much about the Hawks nationally.

"I told them 'We're in the greatest position,'" Dugan said. "'If we lose, so what. We're not supposed to win anyway. If we win, that's great.'"

Members of the Hawks include Gillespie, Bonnie Boyle (Troy), Silagyi (Troy), Carrie Maier (Farmington), Patty Boyle (Troy), Thomas (East Lansing), Susan Gibson (Farmington), Lamb, Lisa Yderstadt (Grand Blanc), Meath (Canton), Jennifer Misaros (Farmington), Trunk, Rose Hally (Livonia), Kopmeyer (Bloomfield Hills), Julie Stabnick (Plymouth) and Liz Brooks (Troy).

Fast-rising Indy driver got break with local outfit

Dan O'Meara

NOBODY HAD TO tell Scott Pruett how to find Livonia, nor the Observer building at the corner of Schoolcraft and Levan.

He knew the way. "In fact, it's a lot like home around here," the up-and-coming Indy-car driver said.

Pruett spent the last three years driving for Jack Roush Racing, located down the street from us newspaper folks.

The 29-year-old Pruett graduated to a full-time spot on the Indy-car circuit this year, and he will line up alongside the big names in his sport Sunday for the Marlboro 500 at Michigan International Speedway.

Pruett was in the Detroit area last week to promote the race and paused one afternoon to discuss his budding career with the Observer sports staff. And it was more than appropriate for him to do so in the same neighborhood where he got his start.

Though he had been racing since he was 8 and had won 13 amateur and 10 professional go-cart titles, it was Pruett's connection with the Roush team that got him to where he is today.

"THAT WAS my first major break into the big time," Pruett said. "That was my biggest move to that point. Jack played an integral part in helping me with my career, as well as Ford Motorsports."

After he and former Olympian Bruce Jenner made an impressive showing as co-drivers at Elkhart Lake, Wis., in 1986, Pruett was introduced to the Ford people and subsequently Jack Roush.

Pruett won four championships — a pair of IMSA GTO titles in 1986 and 1988, the SCCA Trans-Am crown in 1987 and the IMSA GT Endurance title in 1986 — during his stay with Roush Racing.

But the transplanted Californian who now lives in Dublin, Ohio, was ready to move up late in 1988 and made three Indy-car starts. The Marlboro 500 will be his 10th this year, and his best showing to date was second place in the Detroit Grand Prix.

"I think Jack was proud" when he graduated to the Indy-car level, Pruett said. "He knew what my ability was, and he said up front he was not interested in fielding an Indy car.

"When the time came for the next move in my career, he gave me every bit of encouragement."

THOUGH HE has yet to win an Indy-car race, Pruett, who became the Truesports Racing pilot last November, is fifth in PPG Cup Points, ranks fifth in earnings at $472,017 and istied with such notables as Emerson Fittipaldi and Rick Mears for most finishes (7) this season.

Furthermore, Indy-car racing has not disappointed Pruett, who brought high expectations to this level. The ultimate experience was racing at Indianapolis where he finished 10th.

"Everyone said it would be frustrating, exhilerating, exciting," he said. "It's more than you could ever put into words."

But it hasn't been easy, either. Pruett, who started 11th and finished sixth in his most recent race at Toronto on July 23, has received his baptism under fire, which serves to underscore the success he has had in his rookie season.

"It's the toughest year of competition I've seen," he said. "Ten teams can win any given weekend. You have to work for every little bit out there.

"It's tougher than I thought it would be. Physcially, it's more demanding to drive. It takes more strength to drive those cars and push for every little bit."

THE NEED TO gain a competitive edge in such a tight arena has caused the drivers to give increased to physical conditioning. In an age when the racing machines are so

Podrasky earns bronze at Sports Fest

By Steve Kowalski
staff writer

While southerners reacquainted themselves with hockey last month at the U.S. Olympic Sports Festival, the players got used to the ice.

The humidity outside the State Fairgrounds Arena in Oklahoma City, Okla., made the ice "a little bit sloppier," said Chris Tancill, one of five Observerland players competing in the Festival.

"It made for a different game of hockey," added Tancill, a 1986 Livonia Stevenson graduate currently attending the University of Wisconsin. "The ice tended to be sticky and chippy."

Said Mike Jorgensen, also a Stevenson graduate, of '87: "The ice was just bad."

Players stayed in dormitories on the University of Oklahoma campus, but played games and practiced nearly 45 minutes away in Oklahoma City.

The Oklahoma Blazers, a minor league hockey team, played at the State Fairgrounds in the 1970s, but there had not been a hockey game played at the Fairgrounds since at least 1982, said Todd Schoenthaler, a sports writer at the Daily Oklahoman.

Though they didn't have kind things to say about the ice, players interviewed couldn't have spoken higher about the people they met and experiences they had.

The West team beat the South, 5-1, to win the gold medal in front of 3,286 fans at the Fairgrounds. The North team, featuring local stars Pete Podrasky and Jorgensen, settled for the bronze, beating the East, 7-3 Sunday.

Following is a capsule look at four players' experiences at the Festival. A fifth, David Burke, formerly of Redford Union High and sophomore defenseman at Cornell (N.Y.) University, was unavailable for comment.

PETE PODRASKY
Plymouth Canton High

When Podrasky boarded a jet bound for Michigan Monday afternoon he was wearing a bronze medal. But he also picked up a cold while in Oklahoma.

Guess which one he wanted to get rid of?

The 21-year-old defenseman with one year of eligibility remaining at Northern Michigan University was a member of the bronze-medal winning North team. When reached by phone Monday night in Marquette, Podrasky said he was a bit under the weather, but the medal more than made up for any ill effects he was feeling.

North finished the tourney at 2-1-1.

"I've got the medal hanging in my room right now," said Podrasky, who will remain in Marquette until school begins. "It's pretty heavy. I was always curious to see what it's like. I've seen the ones in the past Festivals but this one (seems like it's) three times the size and twice the weight."

Podrasky picked up an assist in the bronze-medal round when the North team beat the East Sunday, 7-3. As one of the North's most experienced and versatile defensive players, Podrasky earned the bronze.

But did he deserve the cold?

"I don't know why I've got the cold," Podrasky said. "It's probably because of the air conditioning down there. It's so hot outside but it seems like they turn the air conditioning down to freezing level inside all the buildings."

This was Podrasky's first Olympic Festival appearance and he looks forward to playing in next year's event in Minneapolis, Minn.

"If I get asked to go next year, I'll jump at it," he said. "Hopefully, people who pick the (1992) Olympic team liked the way I played this year. This is something I'll never forget. The people in Oklahoma ran a class act. No matter what they did, they had to do their best. They were as friendly as they can be down there."

BILL PYE
Plymouth Canton High

For Pye, a junior-to-be goalie this fall at Northern Michigan, the 14-day odyssey was an experience he won't forget, even though his team (the East) was winless in four games and failed to garner a medal.

"It was a good experience," said Pye. "I can still play in two more Festivals so this was just a starting gate for ('92) Olympic hopefuls. We had all close games. They just didn't work out our way."

Pye played in two of the four games, with both appearances coming against the North team. Pye played well in the opening game, losing by a 4-3 count to the North.

The East lost the next two games, 7-5 and 6-3, respectively, before losing to the North, 7-3, in the bronze-medal round with Pye in goal.

Pye said what he'll remember most were the Opening Ceremonies, held at the University of Oklahoma before more than 76,000 fans.

"Just being there was sort of like the Olympics," he said. "(Former) President (Ronald) Reagan was there. Bob Hope spoke and Florence Griffith-Joyner ran around the stadium with the torch. It was kind of neat with all the different athletes there."

CHRIS TANCILL
Livonia Stevenson High

Tancill, who will be a senior next winter at the University of Wisconsin, was one of the East's offensive threats, scoring a pair of goals in the bronze-medal game against the North.

Still, the East finished the tournament at 0-4.

"Maybe our guys weren't prepared as much as the other teams. That may not be true, but I hope it's true," Tancill said. "When you get in a tournament like that, there isn't a player you can't count on. It wasn't a question of talent."

Tancill said it was a thrill being involved in the Opening Ceremonies and standing "right next to (former) President (Ronald) Reagan and Florence Griffith-Joyner. It really made you feel important."

Tancill will be spending the rest of the summer in Madison, Wis., getting ready for the 1989-90 season. He scored 20 goals and had 23 assists last winter for Wisconsin, an NCAA quarterfinalist.

His only regret about playing for Wisconsin is the Badgers play in the Western Collegiate Hockey Association, and rarely play close enough to home for his family to watch.

He'll be home later this summer for his sister Leslie's wedding, but isn't sure the next time he'll be back.

"I wasn't even home last Christmas," he said. "That's one of the negative factors of Wisconsin, compared to playing at Michigan or Michigan State. I could see my family more."

MIKE JORGENSEN
Livonia Stevenson High

Jorgensen had only one minor complaint about his stay in Oklahoma. The folks who sew the players' names on the back of his North jersey spelled his name wrong.

"I said 'No biggie, it happens all the time,'" said Jorgensen, who will be a sophomore at Ferris State University.

Being a member of the North team meant Jorgensen was entitled to a bronze medal. Jorgensen's flight out of Oklahoma left Sunday, however, and the medals weren't distributed until Monday.

Ferris State coach John Perpich, who also coached the North team, is holding the medal for Jorgensen until this weekend when Jorgensen can pick it up in Big Rapids.

"I can't wait to see it," said Jorgensen. "It's a pretty prestigious award. We should have had a gold or silver, but I'll settle for the bronze. I might get it framed."

The North finished the tourney at 2-1-1, but would have played the West in the gold medal round if it had beaten the South Friday instead of tying.

With three years of collegiate eligibility remaining, Jorgensen hopes to be invited to future Festivals. This one was full of new experiences as well as a handful of surprises.

"There was even an air hockey team out there," Jorgensen said. "I couldn't believe it. It's just an exhibition sport and they were having demonstrations."

"It's hard to believe this could happen to a guy you played with for three years," said Andrew McKim, the team captain at Verdun. He and Carnes were the only constants on the Canadiens roster during their stay there. "It could have been me, him, anybody.

"I know the parents and both brothers. It's really sad because I know his father was really proud of him."

Lemaire and Canadiens scout Eric Taylor, who spotted Carnes in the midget ranks, had planned to attend the funeral services today in Plymouth. Lemaire said he learned of the accident from Michelle Lapointe in the Canadiens public relations department.

"It's something that can happen, and nobody knows when it can happen," he said. "It's sad when it does. There's always a lot of risk in what kids are doing."

It was well known that Carnes wasn't happy in Verdun because of the team's perennial last-place status. Accustomed to winning, he wanted out and asked to be traded, and Lemaire, after he became general manager, eventually worked out the deal that sent him to Laval, a playoff contender.

"When he had the injury, he started to worry whether he could make it in the NHL," Lemaire said. "When he had that and the team was losing, he didn't like it.

"I SAID: 'You come back and give us a chance, and if you don't like that, I'll try to find you a team that has a chance.'

"We had certain problems in Verdun, but he wasn't the main man in it," he said. Others complained about "ice time, this guy doesn't like that guy, the usual things," he said

McKim said Carnes' unhappiness in Verdun stemmed from his desire to win, and Carnes was not afraid to speak out publicly or confront management on that issue.

"He had a tough attitude, and he wanted to win," McKim said. "With the situation we had in Verdun, we weren't winning.

"Neil said what was on his mind. It didn't matter what the consequences were. He didn't beat around the bush, and sometimes it got him in trouble.

"It was frustrating for me; it was frustrating for him," he added. "But with the situation the way it was, it was good that someone spoke up."

Despite the apparent disgruntlement, McKim and management figures agreed Carnes, who drew the spotlight as the highly touted player in Verdun and Laval, was committed to hockey and did his job on the ice.

"WHEN THE team is not going well, it's hard for one guy, even though he's a good player, to carry the team all the time," Lemaire said. "When the team is not winning and somebody is unhappy, it's because he wants to win."

"He was a typical strong-headed guy who wanted to do this for a living," Boudrias said, "and it's not easy to become a hockey player. He had to carry the team in Verdun, and he had a lot of pressure on his shoulders."

Canadian Challenge tearing up DRC track

By Ray Setlock
special writer

Born and bred in Ontario, Canada, racehorse Canadian Challenge is making a name for himself in the United States, most notably at Livonia's Ladbroke DRC.

Owner Greg Mellon of Livonia is modest about his horse's success, but Canadian Challenge's achievements speak for itself.

The three-year-old has won four races so far this season and has chalked up 11 victories over a two-year span.

Mellon is presently awaiting word on whether his nomination of Canadian Challenge in the $35,000 West Virginia Stakes will be granted.

"If Canadian Challenge is picked to run in the race, then I will look at his competition and decide whether or not to take the trip down there," Mellon said. "I also have to make sure my jockey, Gary Bain, is available."

Mellon acquired Canadian Challenge in a claiming race earlier this year.

THAT IS WHEN Mellon's trainer, Dennis Dickson, began to train the 1,300-pound horse.

"Canadian Challenge is a real businesslike horse," Mellon said. "He is not a people horse. He'd just as soon keep to himself."

Following the racing season, Canadian Challenge will retreat to Dickson's Farm in Milford for a period of rest.

"That's part of the training process," Dickson said. "Canadian Challenge trains real hard and needs to rest his legs."

Canadian Challenge begins his daily workout at 6 a.m. Jogging kicks off the early morning conditioning, followed by a trot and some stretching.

"It's not an interesting life, but you must remember these horses are athletes," Dickson said. "If there is not a good mixture of conditioning and rest, then the horse will not be a success."

Lakers garner first-place finish

The Lakers won their last two regular-season games to grab first place away from the Spartans in the Metro Summer Hockey League's Bakes Conference.

Finishing with a 6-2-3 record, the Lakes edged the Spartans, who were 7-4.

Dan McKay and Tony Guzzo scored two goals apiece Monday as the Lakers beat the Wildcats 9-6 and gained a one-point advantage over the Spartans. Bryan Krygier had three assists for the Wildcats.

Larry Pilut scored both of his goals in the first period Sunday night to help the Lakers gain a 3-1 lead en route to a 7-4 victory over the Falcons. Pilut also had a pair of assists, and Jamie Ciesilski had a goal and one assist for the losers.

Alan Carnes scored two third-period goals Monday night to give the Broncos an 8-6 win over the Huskies and a one-game lead over the Falcons in the Eagle Conference.

The Broncos (7-2-1) and the Falcons (6-3-1) played late Tuesday night in the regular season finale to decide first place in the conference.

hockey

CARNES, WHO broke a 6-6 tie in the final 2:13, led a third-period comeback that saw the Broncos recover from a 5-3 deficit after two periods, outscoring the Huskies 5-1 in the third.

Carnes finished with three goals and three assists, and teammate Mike Stahley had two goals and two assists. Pete Joelson scored twice for the Huskies.

Krygier, Michael Krygier and Joe Ahmet scored two goals apiece Sunday night as the Wildcats posted their first win, a 9-7 victory over the Huskies.

Bryan Krygier also had five assists, Michael Krygier and Ahmet two each. Rob McDonald and Joelson had two goals for the Huskies, and McDonald also assisted on a pair.

In another Sunday encounter, the Bulldogs got two goals apiece from David McIntyre and Brian Beaufait to beat the Wolverines 9-4. Chris Riffle tallied a goal and one assist for the losers.

The post-season playoffs began Wednesday night and continue tonight with the Eagle Conference games at 7 and 8:30 p.m. in Wayne Arena. The semifinals are 6 and 7:30 p.m. Sunday at the Plymouth Cultural Center, and the league final is slated for 7:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Football all-stars put on good show

By C.J. Risak
staff writer

Out-of-season all-star games are usually prescribed for insomniacs. Yawns assured before the game's half over, followed by fitful sleep long before the predictably boring conclusion.

But there are always exceptions, which is what Saturday's ninth annual Michigan High School All-Star Football Game proved to be. There was more action than drudgery (a refreshing change from the seventh and eighth "classics"), much of it traceable to surprising sources — local ones at that.

The biggest of the surprises, of course, was the final score: East 31, West 26. The result ended the West's two-game win streak — the West had three victories in the last four meetings — and established new scoring records, for one and two teams (both previous bests came in the West's 25-22 win in 1982).

THAT PART had to please game chairman Tom Moshimer, Plymouth Salem's football coach. After all, as he explained after the East had rolled to a 31-13 halftime lead, "The game is designed that way. The defenses are handcuffed. They can't blitz, so they can't put any pressure on. The game's designed to put points on the board."

Which is why, after West running back Tony Jackson scored on a 7-yard run with 5:02 left in the third quarter, his team got the ball back. To try to keep the game from becoming a runaway, there is a 12-point rule. If a team still trails by 12 points or more after scoring, it gets the ball back.

The rule didn't benefit the West. The closest it got after the first quarter was the final margin, and that came with just 2:11 left when Mike Nadlicki bulled his way into the end zone from 4 yards out.

BUT DENNIS EDWARDS, the defensive back from Rochester Adams, grabbed the West's ensuing onside kick attempt and the East's offense ran out the clock.

What made this game memorable weren't the final moments, however; it was the opening ones, which produced a bevy of trick plays and points.

The West drove 72 yards on nine plays to open the game, including a wingback reverse pass from Ty Hallock to Robert Oginsky to the 1 (Hallock dove over on the next play).

Then the East unloaded a shocker of its own.

Bob Gould, listed as the team's punter, circled around on a flanker reverse and lofted a long pass to end Bryan Wauldron, from Farmington Harrison. All Wauldron had to do was hang on to the ball; no defender was in the vicinity. He did, and when Zoran Djordjevic booted the extra point, the East was ahead 7-6, a lead it never lost.

"THAT PLAY never worked in practice," said Birmingham Brother Rice offensive tackle Marc Milia. "But it fooled them completely today."

Milia and a couple of other Observer & Eccentric-area athletes who toiled on the offensive line for the East — Redford St. Agatha's Mike Boyle and Troy's Mike Ostrander — deserved credit for opening holes in the West defense so the running game could produce 172 yards.

And the guy who was most grateful was Bobby Johnson of Southfield. Johnson is listed as 5-foot-8 and 180 pounds, but he doesn't look nearly that big. Still, he was plenty big Saturday. He rushed for a game-high 69 yards on 10 carries, including a 13-yard touchdown scamper with 4:13 left in the second quarter that put the East up 31-13.

UNLIKE MANY of his all-star mates, Johnson isn't headed to a big-time university. "I'm not real big on name schools," he said after his superb performance. "All these guys around here are saying, 'I'm going to Michigan' or 'I'm going to Notre Dame.' I didn't want to go someplace where I'll have to depend on a tutor to pass a class for me."

Johnson is headed to Elon College, an NAIA school in Greensboro, N.C. "I liked it. I liked it better than all the other schools I visited. It had everything I wanted."

What Johnson wanted in Saturday's all-star game was plain enough: "I just wanted to go out and do my best. I wanted to give 100 percent, like in every other game."

He wasn't alone. Another guy bent on giving his best, a guy who also wasn't highly recruited for football, was Redford Catholic Central noseguard Lee Krueger, from Plymouth.

KRUEGER WAS both disruptive and destructive. He's headed to Wisconsin, but he'll have to walk on to play football. His athletic grant is for wrestling.

The 6-2, 205-pounder grappled his way to 4½ tackles against the West, including 1½ sacks. Just as important, he rattled West centers Nick Roush and Mike Morrison into a pair of fumbled snaps in the first quarter, both recovered by the East and resulting in 10 points (a 7-yard run by Joe Youngblood and a 22-yard Djordjevic field goal).

"I didn't let anybody down," Krueger said afterward. "The West was picked to win. We were determined to beat 'em."

Youngblood's run put the East up 14-6 with 3:23 left in the first quarter, and Djordjevic's field goal made it 17-6 with :38 remaining in the first. The two teams traded long scoring plays in the second quarter, Antoine Stevens speeding 48 yards for an East TD to make it 24-6 and the West's Jim Clement retaliating with a 61-yard scoring pass to Oginsky to make it 24-13.

Johnson's TD run capped the wide-open first half, and ended the East's scoring. It was enough.

Miller tries to buck history

By Brad Emons

football

It's been quite awhile since a Michigan State University player has stuck with the Detroit Lions.

But Farmington Harrison High product John Miller hopes to be an exception to the rule. It's been 18 years since the last MSU player, tackle Jerry Rush (1965-71), donned the Honolulu Blue and Silver uniform.

The odds aren't quite in Miller's favor, a free agent fighting for a job at safety. But No. 44 is determined to make the Lions coaching staff sit up and take notice.

"You wonder to yourself, 'Do you have a chance?' or are you just a look squad guy," said the 6-1, 192-pound Miller. "But you go through that at any level."

Miller proved himself as a do-it-all performer at Harrison. He did it again at MSU, leading the Spartans to a Rose Bowl title before earning All-Big 10.

BUT THE KNOCK on Miller is lack of speed. He doesn't ring up impressive statistics at the NFL combine workouts. He was bypassed in the April NFL draft.

"I may look bad one-on-one, but 11-on-11, in a team situation, I think I can make all the right plays," Miller said. "I'm not an impact type player. I'm the kind of player that grows into the system."

Miller believes performing well on special teams is an avenue to the NFL. Former Kansas City Chiefs head coach Frank Gansz is the man Miller must impress.

"I played all the special teams my freshman and sophomore years at State, and my senior year I took over the punt return unit," he said. "They're leery of my speed. I may be the slowest guy on paper, but I guarantee I won't be the last guy down the field. Kickoff returns is where a guy can make a name for himself."

Miller believes his football experience at MSU has prepared him for the pros.

"I PARTIALLY lucked into things because this system is similar to the one at MSU," said Miller. "You have to learn more, but the terminology is almost identical to State's.

"And I don't think this (training camp) is any more demanding than State's camp. I figured I couldn't have it any harder than at State. George (Perles, the head coach) was very demanding when it came to running and staying in good shape."

Miller also believes Harrison prepared him for his new challenge, but in a different way.

"There's a lot to be said about the school and the coaching staff," said the Lion hopeful. "John Herrington (the head coach), Bob Sutter and Bob Sallow (the assistants) developed me as a person off the football field. They molded my life and have done a lot of good things for me and my family.

"They've been out to practice, and they'll always be great friends of the family. They're almost like my second fathers. They've done a lot for the community, and I can't say enough about them.

"And they just keep having great teams. It's amazing. They told me the other day they'll always love you, whether you make it or not."

MILLER IS A GOOD bet to stick through next Friday when the Lions open their exhibition season, Saturday, Aug. 12, at the Silverdome against the Cleveland Browns.

The word around training camp is that the Lion coaching staff is willing to give Miller a good look.

"There's not a lot of feedback and sometimes it gets frustrating," said Miller after Tuesday's morning practice at Oakland University. "You just have to keep working your butt off and hope they'll notice.

"You have to keep the attitude and pick yourself up by the shoulders when you get down, even if you keep having bad practices. But so far I think I've had a productive camp. I think I've been at the right spot at the right time."

Miller's game plan is to make the right decisions and play consistently.

"Frank Gansz (special teams coach) told me the other day that you have to be heady and this game is 70 percent in the head, it's heart and determination," Miller said. "If I do the right things, speed won't hurt me."

But the man Miller must impress above all is head coach Wayne Fontes, who happens to be an MSU grad.

Miller: 'Tony embarrassed MSU'

By Brad Emons

football

John Miller is hoping to make noise in the Detroit Lions' training camp, but this week he's gained more notice regarding comments made about former Michigan State teammate Tony Mandarich.

The eccentric Mandarich, a No. 1 draft pick of the Green Bay Packers, has been source of controversy ever since his senior year at MSU.

The mammoth 6-foot-5, 320-pound offensive tackle blasted the NCAA after he was slapped with a three-game suspension for violating rules last season. He also complained about being overlooked for the Outland Trophy, has made a challenge to fight heavyweight champion Mike Tyson, and since moving to a body building haven in Venice Beach, Calif., has taken on a callous attitude toward the Packers.

(Mandarich and the Packers are far apart in contract negotiations.)

He was also the subject of an in-depth piece in Sports Illustrated, which caused plenty of reaction, most notably from Miller, who first made his comments over the weekend to a Detroit television station.

Miller reiterated his feelings Tuesday during the Lions training camp at Oakland University.

"IT'S FUNNY, but I talked to my girlfriend the other day, and a lot of people in East Lansing are talking about it," Miller said. "I guess the CBS affiliate up there picked up the feed from Detroit."

Miller makes no bones about Mandarich's escapades during the past year.

"I won't cut Tony down as a person, but his actions have been embarrassing. The things he's done has affected a lot of people.

"He had been a real role model. There were a lot of little kids who looked up to him, but he's just made a mockery of everything. He's had plenty of opportunity, but he's just out for the fast buck."

Miller said he noticed a change in Mandarich's attitude during the latter stages of the 1988 season.

"We were good friends all season, but the last two or three games he didn't seem to be the same kind of guy," Miller said. "I think he got too big for football. Tony left a lot of friends. He just packed up and left. He was a big part of the campus."

MILLER ADDED that MSU "did Tony a a big favor."

"They gave him a scholarship, they gave him a chance, he went there for free," said the Lions hopeful. "Kirk Gibson always said the he owes the university a big favor, and I feel the same way toward MSU. Tony should not try to embarrass the school in the press."

It may be interesting to see if the two MSU players ever meet on an NFL field.

If Mandarich ends his holdout with Green Bay and Miller makes the Lions squad, the two could literally bump heads Sunday, Oct. 29, in Milwaukee, the first of two meetings between the teams this season.

Pruett thrives on Indy circuit highly developed and finely tuned and there are so many quality outfits, the stamina of the individual can sometimes be the difference.

That's why the 5-foot-8 Pruett, a trim 148 pounds, finds it necessary to associate the word athlete with race-car driver — something previously frowned on as being a non-athletic occupation.

Pruett maintains a year-round workout schedule, following "an intense Nautilus and aerobics program." He has built himself up in the last year through weight lifting and plenty of road work — running on two legs and not four wheels.

"I think we're seeing more of that auto racing

trend," he said. "The competition is so close and demanding. You're in the car for 2½ hours. It's hot and your level of concentration has to be on all the time.

"Form that aspect, the better shape you're in physically, the better you'll be able to compete."

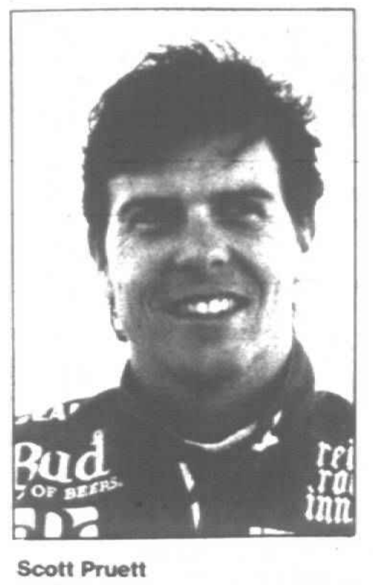
Being competitive in Sunday's race is certainly on Pruett's mind since his past experience as a Trans-Am driver means he's more at home on road courses than oval surfaces.

(The MIS track) is one of the most forgiving ovals we'll run on," Pruett said. "It allows you to run two abreast, and there's really two turns instead of three or four like Indy.

"WE RAN practice laps there a couple weeks ago and ran 216 (mph). So we were actually pleased with that, and it should get better as the time gets nearer.

"I think we should run strong. It's only my fourth oval with an Indy car, but from testing there lately I think we can run strong."

And, past performance being the barometer, Pruett knows how to find the finish line just as he did his old stomping grounds in Livonia.



Scott Pruett back in Livonia

Paragon tumbles

A costly call early in the second half turned the tide against Livonia Paragon in Sunday's Great Lakes Men's Soccer League semifinal, which Flint Bud Light won 3-1 at Bicentennial Park.

With the game tied 1-1, Paragon defender Russ Gans was called for a hand ball inside the penalty area seven minutes into the second half. Bud Light's Chris Larson converted to make it 2-1.

Forced to pressure for the game-tying goal, Paragon's defense was caught out of position with 18 minutes remaining in the game and Larson iced the triumph with his second goal of the game, after taking a pass from Jeff Sierra.

It was the third-straight year Paragon, which finished third in the GLMSL regular season standings, has been ousted in the league's semifinals.

Carl Hopfinger opened the scoring with a goal for Bud Light. Paragon's Dave Conway tied it before halftime.

But despite a strong effort, Paragon failed to finish its scoring chances. And that put them out of the playoffs.

Bud Light, regular-season runner-up to the Redford Marauders, plays the winner of the Marauders-Birmingham Cobras semifinal for the GLMSL championship at 6 p.m. Sunday at Bicentennial Park's Field No. 1. The Marauders meet the Cobras at 7 tonight at Bicentennial.

Walter's pays tribute to ex-star

Brad Emons

JERSEY NO. 21, draped along the fence just inside the Walter's Appliance dugout during last week's Livonia Collegiate Baseball League, certainly provided inspiration.

It was once worn by the late Bob Foust, a Westland firefighter who died last spring in a drowning accident.

Manager Mike Keller thought it was only proper that this summer season should be dedicated to Foust, a former standout on the Walter's team.

And what a way to pay tribute to Foust.

Walter's will be making its first appearance in the prestigious All-American Amateur Baseball Association Tournament. The tourney, marking its 50th anniversary, is special because it brings together 22 collegiate-age teams (20 and under) from all over the country for nine days of play, Aug. 12-19 in Johnstown, Pa.

Walter's, the third-place team in the Livonia League during the regular season, surprised the four-team field, earning the trip by sweeping through three playoffs games by a combined score of 31-10.

IT WAS AN emotional night for Mike Keller after his team clinched the playoff bid.

But if there was ever a deserving coach, it's the man they call "Stick," whose tall, thin frame often have him mistaken for a basketball or volleyball coach.

But even in the glee and excitement over Friday's 7-2 playoff championship win over Hines Park Lincoln Mercury, Keller paid his respects to a ballplayer he truly loved and admired.

"Now we can give Bob's jersey to Bob's parents," said Keller, still a young man (35) who has toiled as a coach and manager in the league for more than 10 years. "From the beginning of the season our goal was to go to Johnstown.

"I'm really holding it inside. I always dreamed this day would come. The feeling was so strong even though I didn't show a lot of emotion that night."

It's tough to predict how Walter's will do next weekend in Johnstown.

Past history says the representative from the Livonia League belongs somewhere in the middle of the pack, a notch below the powerhouses from Baltimore, New Orleans and Detroit.

BUT KELLER will be getting some help.

He is allowed to take three other players from the other teams in his league to fill his 18-man roster.

As of Tuesday, the selections were Little Caesars second baseman Art George, the league's batting champion, who prepped at Redford Thurston High before going on to star at the University of Evansville; Hines Park left-handed pitcher Derek Darkowsk, a Canton High product who performed well during the spring at Michigan State, and right-handed pitcher/infielder Chris Kloc of Caesars, another Thurston grad.

"George gives us speed, and he led the league in hitting," Keller said. "Defensively he's one of the better second basemen in the league, if not the best. He can also DH (designated hitter) for us.

"With some rest, Darkowski can be effective. He'll help our pitching staff. Kloc has been there before and he can play the field also."

Pitching is what makes or breaks you at Johnstown.

The Walter's staff has not really had a stopper this season, according to Keller, but everybody has chipped in at one stage or another during the season.

RANDY BUCHLER, the star of the playoffs (he won twice), is coming off a stellar week of pitching, but Keller won't underestimate the talents of Joe Mackiewicz, the Redford CC product and Kalamazoo College junior (he won game No. 2), lefty David Houghtby, a Livonia Stevenson High grad from Henry Ford Community College; Steve Owens, the former Churchill High ace who has been effective out of the bullpen, and lefty Kevin Walker (ex-RU and Henry Ford CC), another reliever.

"Everybody will be a starter and reliever in Johnstown," Keller promised. "I'm ready to go. Two weeks of preparation will go by just like that."

This latest Walter's team has some intangible qualities which may provide an upset or two in the AAABA tourney.

"In past years we've always had a leader, but on this team everybody chips in," Keller said. "Everybody just goes out and does their job. They do whatever it takes."

BUT BEFORE Keller loads up the van and cars, he'll present the league championship plaque to his team sponsor, John Mistak.

"We'll have him mount it on the wall of his Livonia store," Keller said. "He's been the backbone of this team. John always said, 'Stick, whatever you need, you've got it.' Without 'Wally,' we wouldn't be out here. He's the kind of sponsor you like, just a nice guy."

Mistak was naturally thrilled about the playoff results.

For years he's played second fiddle to one of the AAABA's founding fathers and head honchos, another appliance dealer from Dearborn named Mike Adray.

But this season, they may have something different to talk about in Johnstown, namely "Wallyball."

But regardless of the results or how Walter's performs, my recollections of the 1989 season will be that yellow and marooned-trimmed jersey, No. 21 hanging on the fence.

What a nice way to cap off a season.

Hines Park gets another chance in NABF tourney

Area sandlot fans will be given a chance to view post-season action this weekend at Livonia's Ford Field when the National Amateur Baseball Federation will stage a five-team regional.

Two teams from the Livonia Collegiate Baseball League, Hines Park Lincoln Mercury and Duffy's Plumbing, will vie for honors in the double-elimination tourney along with representatives from the Detroit Adray League, the Northern Michigan College League (Cheboygan) and the Macomb Community College League.

The regional champion will advance to the NABF finals, Aug. 11-14 in Dayton, Ohio.

According to Gary Gray, Livonia League director, starting times are 2, 5 and 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday, 2 and 5 p.m. (if necessary) on Sunday.

Loss deflates Boyle Chevrolet

Patricia Boyle Chevrolet's under-19 girls softball team couldn't help asking "What if?" after being eliminated from the Midwest Regional last Saturday in Ann Arbor.

The team battled the eventual tournament winner, Boon & Darr, for 18 innings in its first game before dropping a 1-0 decision when an error allowed the winning run to score.

Boyle Chevrolet managed only one hit in its next game and was knocked out of the tournament with a 6-1 loss to C&S Machine of Benton Harbor.

"We just didn't hit," Boyle coach Dave Brubaker said. "Had we beaten Boon & Darr, we would have been in the driver's seat.

"Anything could have happened, but we would have had the toughest team out of the way. The girls came back an hour and a half later, but they had nothing left."

THE FIRST game, which took 3:20 to complete, was decided when a fly ball dropped between the Boyle second baseman and right fielder with two outs. Each player thought the other was going to catch it, according to Brubaker.

Ironically, good defense had enabled Boyle Chevrolet to remain in contention and extend the game that far.

In the 12th inning, the Ann Arbor-based opponent had a runner at third with one out. Right fielder Lisa Rockafellow made a diving catch and still threw the runner out at home plate.

In the 14th, Boon & Darr had runners at first and second with no outs. Kelly Coulson made a putout in center field and, with a perfect throw to third, got the lead runner trying to advance. Another flyout ended the inning.

In the 15th, an opposing batter tried stretching a double into a triple, but left fielder Melissa Tisdale, after going to the fence to retrieve the ball, cut the runner down at third.

Boyle Chevrolet also had its chances. In the 18th, Lisa Bielenda hit a one-out single, but the game ended with two strikeouts.

KELLY FORBES, a tournament addition from Whitney Investments, was the losing pitcher. Boon & Darr had 13 hits and three walks, and Forbes struck out nine.

Dawn Terrase, while allowing seven hits by Boyle Chevrolet, fanned 15 and also walked three. Bielenda and Missy Bosscawen had two hits apiece for Patricia Boyle, which ended the season with a 16-12 record.

Forbes had the team's lone hit in the second game, while C&S had nine off Baiardi and losing pitcher Shannon White, who entered in the top of the fifth inning with the score tied 1-1. Coulson drove in Boyle Chevrolet's only run with a fielder's choice.

Boon & Darr and the runner-up team, a Wisconsin ballclub, advance to the national tournament in Sioux Falls, S.D., on Aug. 12-13. Foster Oil of Richmond was third in the regional.

Boyle Chevrolet ended its league season last Thursday by sweeping a doubleheader from Whitney Investments, beating Forbes 4-2 in nine innings in the opener at Optimist Park in Waterford. Boyle finished 13-5 in the league.

Forbes, who also lost an extra-inning game to Harper Woods Regina in the Class A final this year, will attend the University of Michigan on a softball scholarship.

BAIARDI WAS the winning pitcher, scattering eight hits and walking two. Forbes, who struck out nine, allowed six hits and one walk.

In the ninth, Jenny Kennedy led off with a single, which was followed by Tisdale's run-scoring triple. Kim Supron, who gave Boyle Chevrolet the early lead with a two-run single in the fourth, followed with an RBI single. Kennedy had two hits in the game.

Boyle Chevrolet did all its scoring in the first inning of the nightcap. With the bases loaded, Supron hit another two-run single, and Bielenda knocked in the other run with a base hit.

White got the pitching victory in the 4½-inning game that was called because of darkness. She gave up four hits, walked two and fanned three.

Records tumble in Redford runs

By Tom Henderson
staff writer

It was a night of records Saturday at the sixth Redford Roadrunner Classic at Veterans Park in Livonia.

A deluge of last-minute entries pushed the combined field for the eight-kilometer and one-mile runs to more than 1,500, an all-time record by 300. And records were shattered by the first man, first woman and first wheelchair racer.

But the best performance of the night may have been turned in by Jim O'Neill of Holland, Ohio. O'Neill finished the 4.97-mile loop in 25:48, good for 16th place overall and an average of approximately 5:12 a mile.

O'Neill broke the American record for 51-year-olds by 31 seconds, won his division by more than three minutes over Bob Paklaian of Troy and was the second runner over 40 to finish. Wally Herrala of Ann Arbor beat him by 10 seconds, but was running in the 40-44 group. O'Neill would have won the 17 and under division, competing against the local high school stars.

JOE SCHMIDT of Ann Arbor didn't set any records, but he was beaming as though he had at the awards ceremony, despite having finished second after leading for the first four miles. He beat his fourth place time of a year ago, came within a second of the old course record with his 24:24, and made himself the favorite to win a $500 bond.

The male and female with the best combined times from the Trenton 8K in June, the Roadrunner Classic (last Saturday) and the Allen Park Five-Miler (this Friday) win the Triple Crown, plus the bond.

Don Johns of Ypsilanti, who captured the Trenton race, skipped the Classic to run in the Olympic Sports Festival in Oklahoma City, making him ineligible for the Triple Crown. And Van Savell of Ann Arbor, who won the Classic with a blistering 24:08 and a withering final-mile kick, didn't run Trenton.

"I took it out too hard," said Schmidt, who was alone at the one-mile mark, hitting it in 4:36.

How did he know it was too hard? "There were good enough runners in the race, I shouldn't have been alone. That's when I knew I went out too hard. But at that point, you just gotta keep on going and hope no one catches you."

HE WAS STILL alone at the two and three-mile mile marks. But at four, he could hear footsteps.

"The guy who won it — I don't know who he is, I haven't seen him around — he just came up and went by me," Schmidt said.

The unknown runner was Savell, a medical student at the University of Michigan, whose studies limit his appearance at local races.

Kathy Hadler, a former All-America at Tennessee running out of Ann Arbor, was more in competition with herself and her own course record than she was with the other women in the field. Only a physical breakdown could have stopped her.

Hadler led from the start and cruised to a 27:14, well ahead of her record 27:55, set a year ago. Ann Boyd of Ann Arbor tied the old record in finishing second.

"I knew Ann was a good runner," Hadler said, "she's really coming along. So, I tried to run like a scared rabbit. I didn't want to discredit her. I probably should have taken it easy. I need a break from so much racing. But I'm pleased with today's run."

BOB FITCH was beaming heartily at the post-race party. Fitch, of East Lansing, buried the wheelchair field with a time of 19:50.

"It's the first time I've averaged under four minutes a mile," said Fitch, who credits a new three-wheel racing chair for his best season ever.

Fitch, 38, was 3½ minutes ahead of Charles Patten of Belding.

Pat Ford of Linden was the top woman wheeler, finishing in 28:48.

THE ONE-MILE is considered non-competitive. Though a clock keeps time, times aren't recorded and winners usually aren't given trophies. This year was an exception.

Duane Zemens, 27, of Detroit won the mile in 5:23. It provided a nice finish to a bad day; earlier he had attended the funeral of his father. Race officials decided to award him a trophy (actually a glass beer pitcher) after he razzed them at the awards ceremony.

"I never won nothing in my life," he said. "This is the first time I've won a race."

FROM NEAR and far they came. From the Detroit area, of course. And from Holland (Michigan) and London (Ontario) and Oregon, Ohio.

Lindsey is a 5-year-old diabetic. Her daily insulin shots, diet restrictions and constant blood monitoring only provide day-to-day control over the disease. They do not cure it. So Lindsey, along with 11 million other Americans, still faces the long-term risks of diabetes — like heart disease, blindness, stroke, amputation and kidney disease. The complications of diabetes will account for an estimated 150,000 deaths this year alone.

But thanks to your contributions to the Juvenile Diabetes Foundation, Lindsey and millions like her have something more to look forward to. In the past decade, JDF research has made great strides in isolating the causes and conditions of diabetes, bringing us closer to a cure. At the same time, diabetes increases by 6% every year. And in ten years the number of diabetics will have doubled.

So you see, your help is needed more desperately than ever before. For more information on the warning signs of diabetes and its treatment and what you can do to help call JDF at (313) 569-6171.

Folk music trio: songs old, new

By C.L. Rugenstein
staff writer

IT'S BEEN SAID that the more things change, the more they stay the same.

Fans of the Peter, Paul and Mary trio of folksingers will have a chance to see for themselves how the group has changed yet remained the same since they rode the crest of social protest movements in the halcyon days of the '60s and '70s.

The group is scheduled for a concert at 8 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 10, at Meadow Brook Music Festival on the Oakland University campus in Rochester Hills.

Some of the songs will be Peter, Paul and Mary classics like "Puff the Magic Dragon." Other songs will be very old, and some, like "With Your Face to the Wind," will be very new.

IN ALL, promises Mary Travers, it will be "two and a half hours of a lot of music that deals with a lot of subjects — some absolutely frivolous, some absolutely serious."

Old fans returning with a second generation, their children, "will find some meaning, even if nothing else but having a moment together as a family," Travers said recently in a phone interview.

Mother of two daughters, one with a daughter of her own, Travers seems pleased with the presence of some very young, new fans in Peter, Paul and Mary audiences.

"It's lovely to look out at the audience and see a father hug his little boy during a song from the father's college years," Travers said, "and to see that the son knows the words."

> 'A Peter, Paul and Mary concert is not about politics. It's about the human condition.'
> — Mary Travers

Many of the children learned the trio's songs at camp or nursery school.

"IT'S NOT UNUSUAL to hear a baby cry, or see some little toddler who can't make it past six songs because they fall asleep," she said. But, "That's OK because we sing 'Puff' early."

Though she downplayed the group's influence in earlier civil rights and anti-war movements, ("It's important to know that being a hero is not a permanent job," she observed.), their commitment to issues that deal with "the fundamental rights of people" is as strong as ever.

Travers noted that the self-indulgent grab for affluence and influence in the '80s is giving way to an awareness of urban problems, and individual responsibility to do something about it.

"Certainly America spent a lot of time staring at its own navel," she said, but now, "People are saying, 'Gee, we're going to have to address those problems.'"

The plight of the homeless, poverty, an alarming rise in the illiteracy rate, and the recent setback in affirmative action are some national problems Travers touched on.

"SOME OF OUR new songs address the issues," she said.

One new song, "With Your Face to the Wind," is a solo written and performed by Peter Yarrow. He wrote it for the Wellness Community — "It's like a hospice," Travers said — in California.

"William McBride," by a young Australian, is an anti-war song set in World War I. And "No Easy Walk to Freedom" deals with apartheid.

Travers was arrested for her part in an anti-apartheid demonstration she participated in, with her mother and daughter.

But Travers stressed that activism is not what Peter, Paul and Mary is all about.

"A PETER, PAUL and Mary concert is not about politics. It's about the human condition," she said.

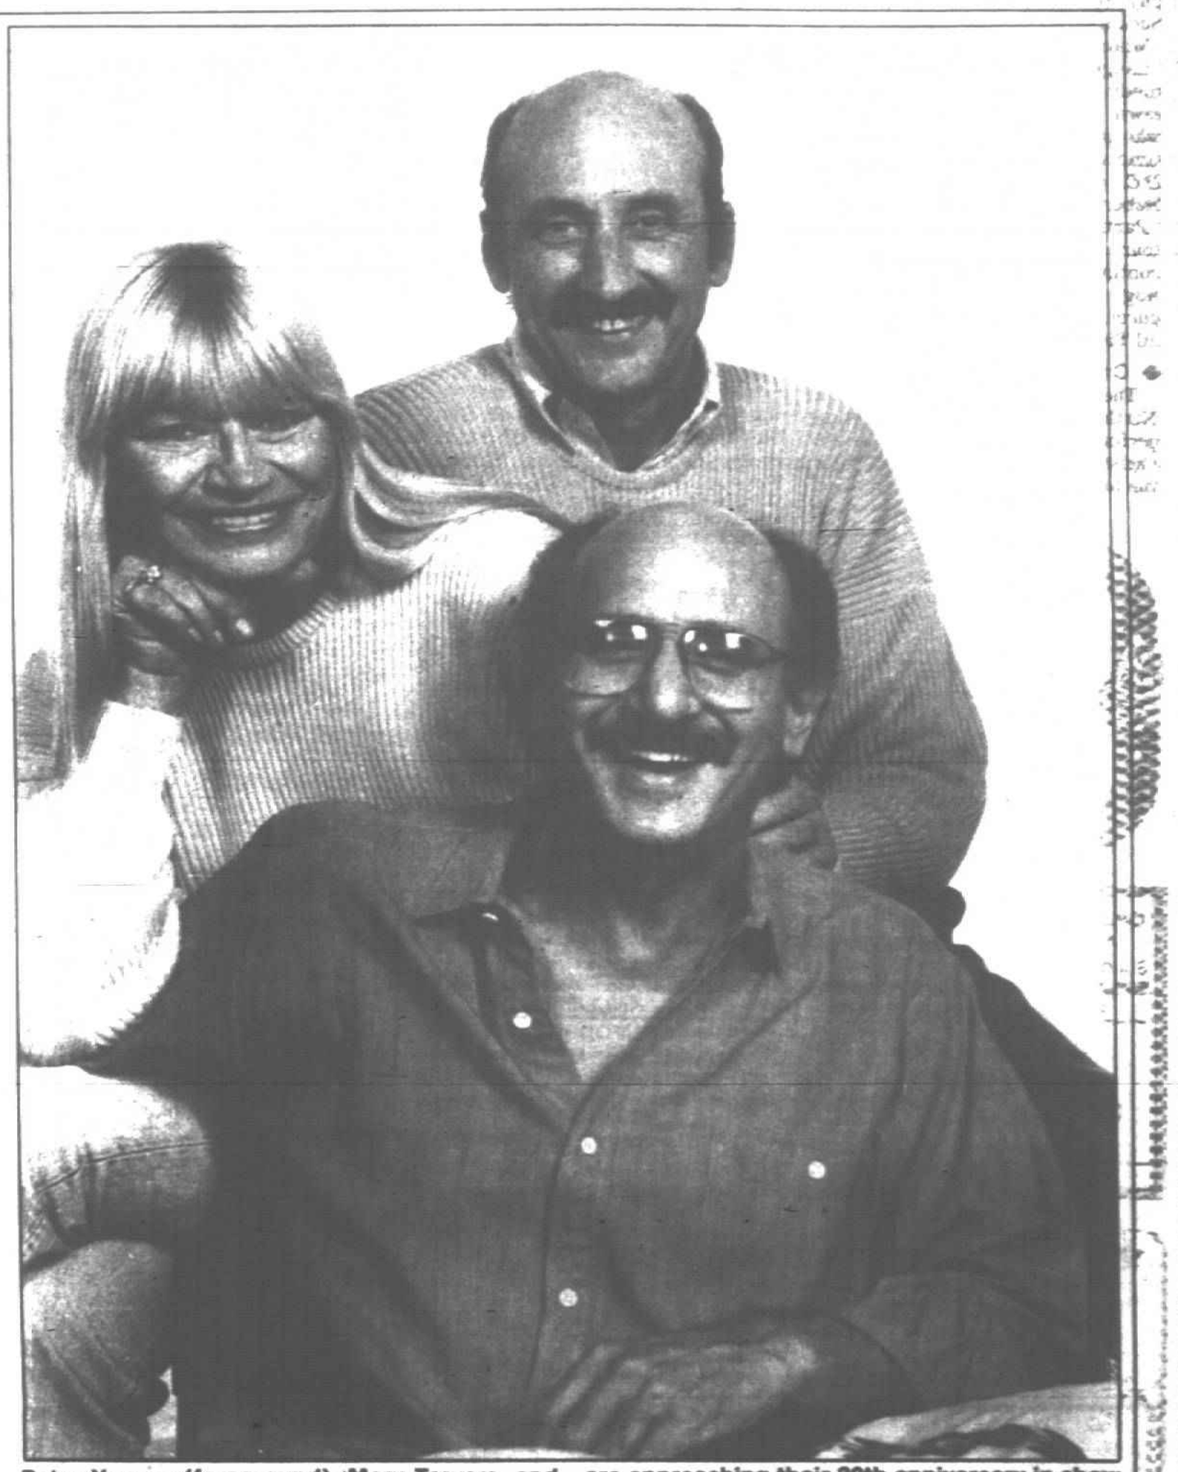
Not all stories, like "The Golden Vanity," about a man who reneged on a promise "have to apply in a literal fashion." They're done in the purest folk tradition — the enjoyment of a good story told in song.

"No Easy Walk to Freedom" was the title of the group's last recorded album, in 1986.

There's no new album in the offing, though Travers said she and partners Yarrow and Noel Paul Stookey (who is originally from Birmingham) have enough material for one.

"We're doing 60 concerts a year together now, and 30 as solo performers," she said, so finding time to do the recording is a problem. "At the end of summer, in September, we sit down and plot out our time for the following year."

Hopefully they'll find time to record a few more songs to be immortalized.



Peter Yarrow (foreground), Mary Travers, and Noel Paul Stookey, who is from Birmingham, are approaching their 30th anniversary in show business as folksingers Peter, Paul and Mary.

Standard Federal builds with art in mind

By Joan Boram
special writer

This is a building with beauty and brains — and it flaunts it. You could describe the exterior as Aggressive Modern if it weren't tempered by a touch of Babylonian ziggurat.

Dominating the sloped 26-acre site on the corner of Big Beaver and Lakeview, in Troy, the 450,000 square-foot, six-story Standard Federal Headquarters is enhanced by a water retention area that utilizes grasses and wildflowers to add to the natural beauty of the land.

"The building was designed from the inside out," said David Swanson, senior project architect of Grand Rapids' WBDC Group. "The building draws on the latest interior and exterior design concepts to create a comfortable, efficient and cost-effective environment.

"At the same time, the design is flexible enough to anticipate and quickly adapt to new technologies as they arise. The facility was designed from the inside out to fit the bank's style of operations."

Believe it or not, the first floor is designed around a mortgage. An "adjacency study" done early in the planning stages led to the actual prototype for the design of the building.

The study was undertaken to determine which departments and key operations of the bank depended on one another in order to function efficiently. As a result, the first floor matches the route a mortgage travels from start to finish.

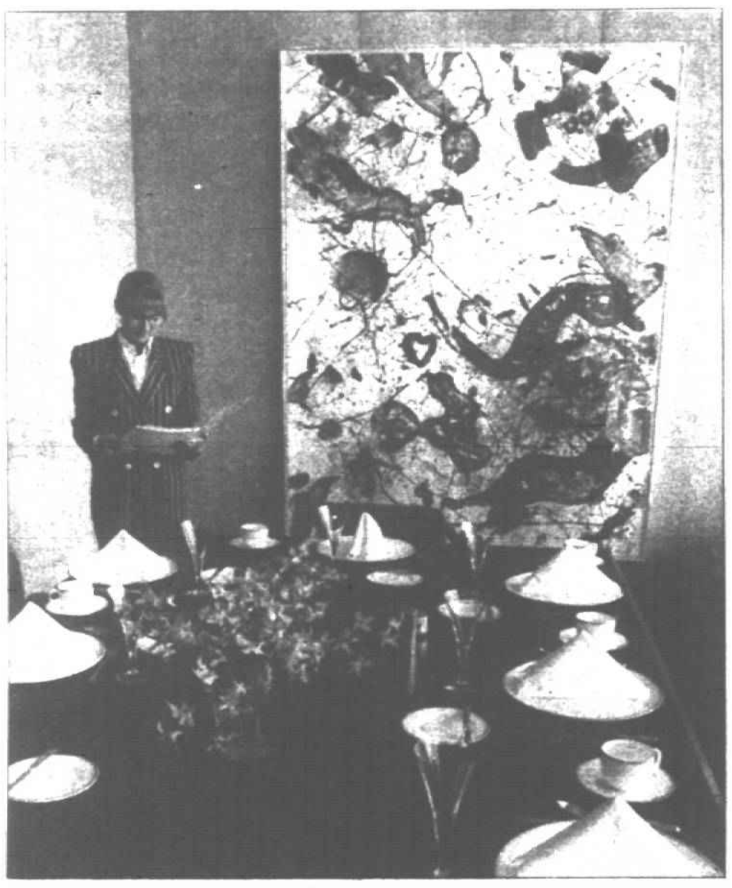
THE BUILDING is more than a mortgage factory, however. It is also home to a fine art collection, so it was designed to accommodate both mortgages and abstract expressionism.

"We knew when we designed the building that art was an integral part of the project." said Swanson. "The stage was set from the beginning. The building itself is a form of art; it portrays Standard Federal. Anticipating an art program, we planned a building that would provide for art within art.

"We used neutral colors, relying on rich materials, like granite, and designed vistas and curtain walls that didn't merely accommodate, but required, art.

"And, of course, the emphasis was on light. Natural light makes the art look better, makes the building look better and provides employees with a pleasant working environment. This is a people-oriented building, it was designed for people and their comfort. The bank's management knows that if people come first, innovation and productivity will follow naturally."

Swanson even went so far as Cold Springs, Minn., in the middle of winter to make certain that the walls without art got the most interesting granite. Granite with less "character" was used on walls for which art was planned to avoid visual confusion between art and wall.



An untitled lithograph done by Sam Francis last year, 84 by 60 inches, brings color and excitement to an executive dining area.

THE ART COMMITTEE included Joel Mettler, director of corporate design, Ford & Earl Associates and Thomas R. Ricketts, chairman and president of Standard Federal. They were advised by Phyllis Fenton of Fenton Fine Arts, Fort Worth, Texas.

"It took us one and one-half years to put the collection together." said Fenton. "I visited galleries around the country, and, of course, I visited important local galleries. The committee would review slides that I brought with me. We had certain rules — no realistic pictures, no Warhol, no Lichtenstein, all abstract impressionism."

As in other areas of life, rules were made to be broken. A large Warhol silkscreen, "Indian head Nickel," hangs in the loan deptartment — a visual pun. There are other examples of representational art — Christo's lithograph/collage, "Wrapped Automobile" and Lakeman's acrylic, "Containers," of paint-spattered cans. A Lichtenstein hangs in the employee cafeteria.

Employee reaction wasn't universally favorable from day one. One picture in particular, the George McNeil acrylic, "Dorian Disco," was very controversial. "People thought it was violent, that it didn't belong in a bank," said Fenton. "I explained to them that McNeil is 82 years old, that he had seen "Saturday Night Live," TV programs showing music and photos in popular magazines. He had never actually seen a disco. The contorted faces, the gyrating bodies flying around, are not depictions of violence, they are what McNeil imagines a disco must look like."

"Dorian Disco" is hung at the top of an escalator and it almost appears to be in motion as you enter into the scene from below. Among bank employees, it is now one of the most-popular pictures in the collection.

EACH MORNING at 7:45, Fenton gives a one-hour seminar for employees willing to skip breakfast for the sake of art. "I try to select pictures that dare getting unfavorable comments and I encourage people to nominate a picture for the tour."

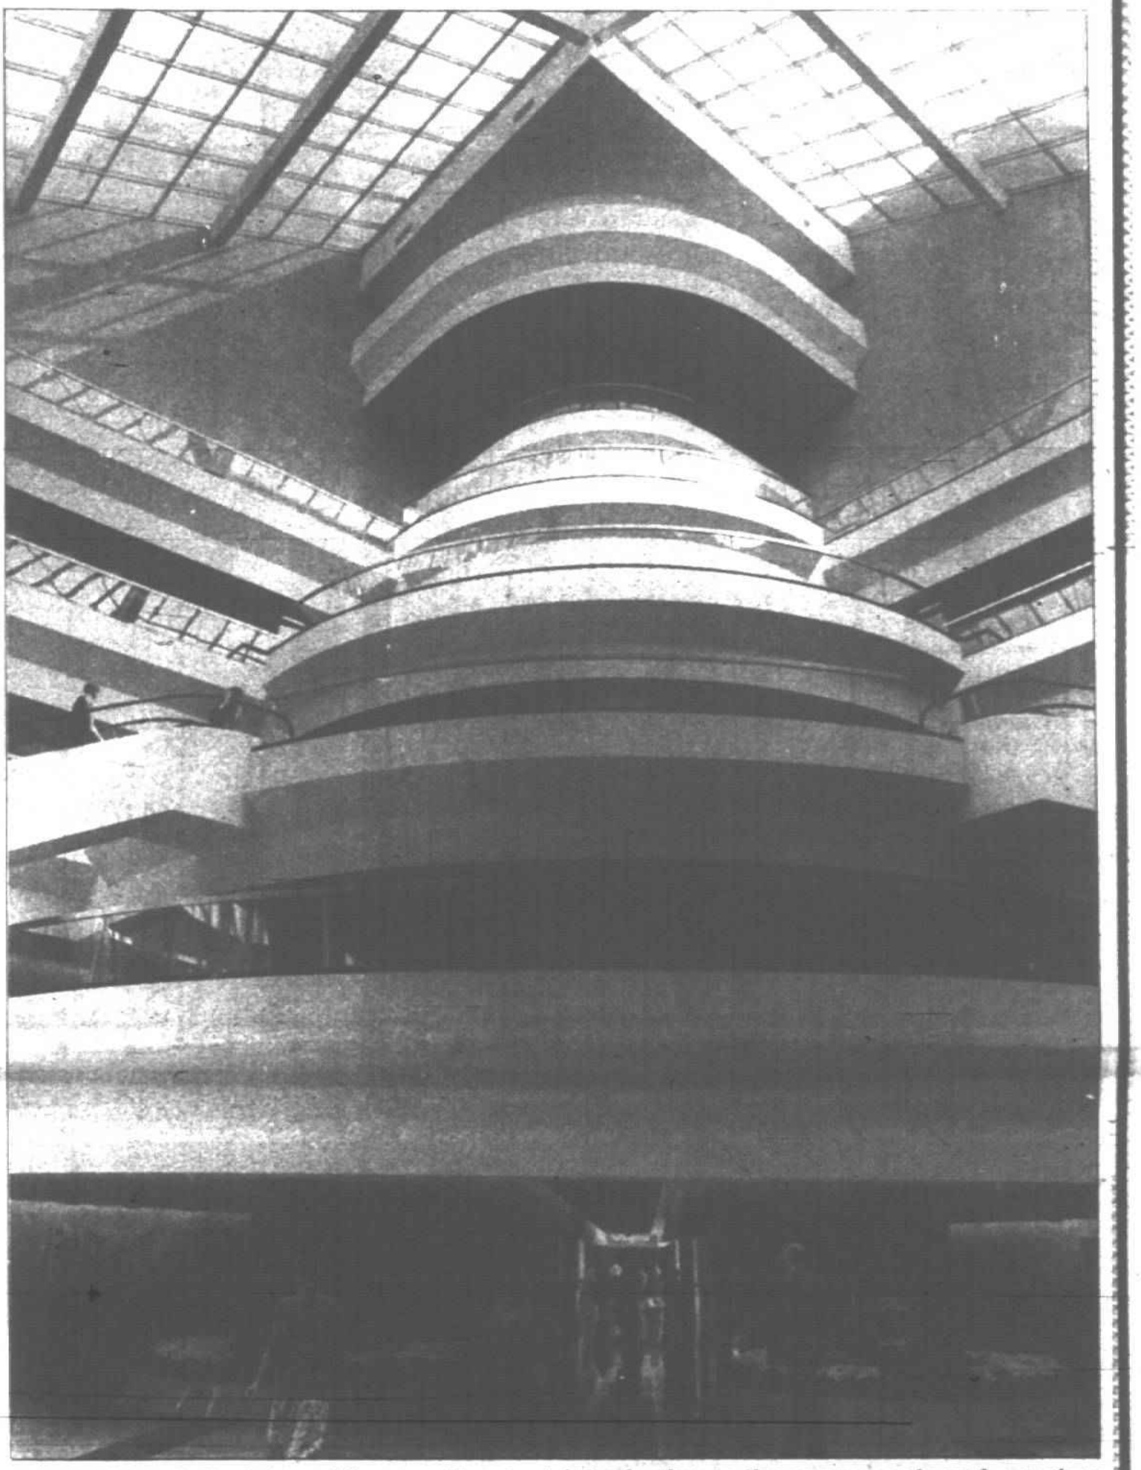
It's been a rewarding experience, both for Fenton and for employees. "Last week, an employee told me that he went to the Detroit Institute of Arts for the first time in years and that he even took his grandchildren with him. You overhear snatches of conversation between executives, comparing the Motherwell to the Stella, or, 'Ill meet you by the Obuch' and you really feel good."

"Collection" is not a popular word with Fenton. "It's institutional, and it has an elitist image. This is the employees' home for the better part of the day. I want them to be comfortable with the art, not think of it as a museum."

For the same reasons, Fenton insists that there be no signs identifying the picture or its artist on the wall, a la museums.

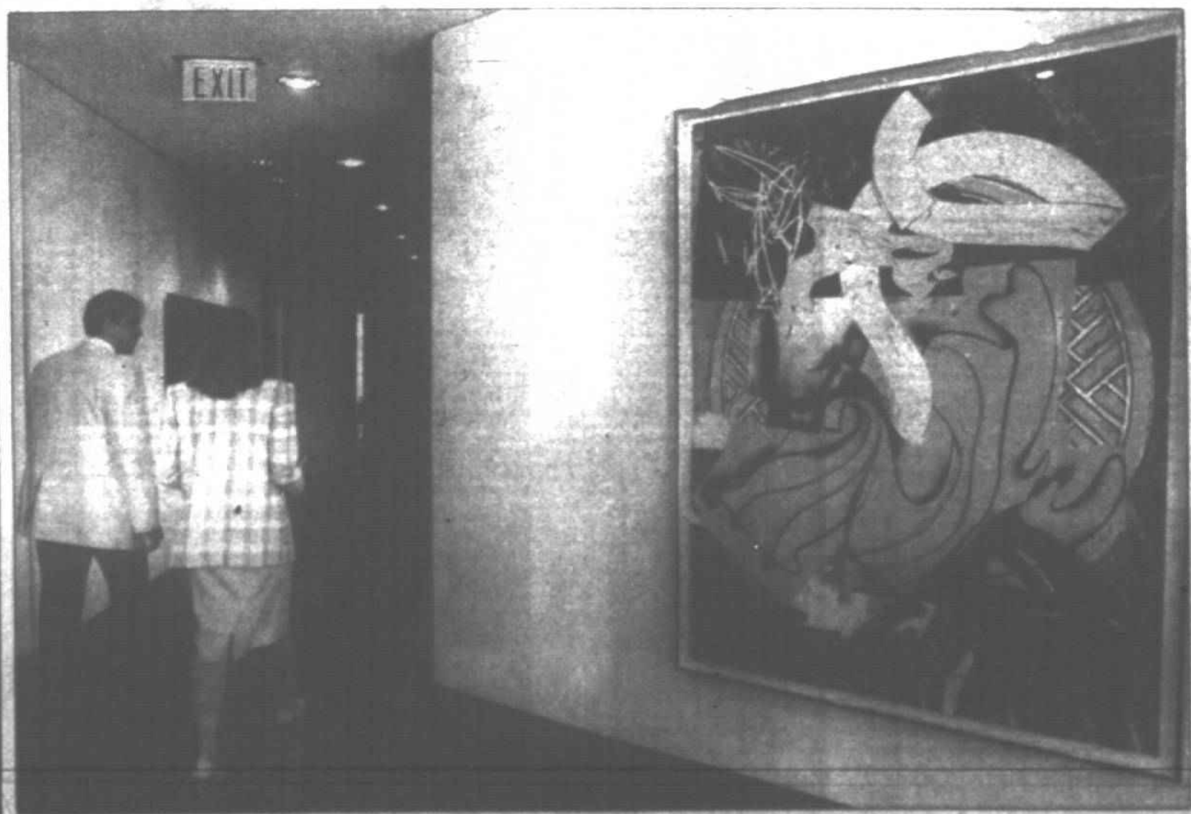
Late this year, Standard Federal will invite all artists represented in the collection to visit the building to meet employees and see how their pictures are displayed. Guided tours for the public are in the works.

For all its strident insistence on technological gee-whiz, space station architecture and please-God-no-flowers art, there is a Gilded Age opulence about Standard Federal's headquarters. Somehow, you just know that J.P. Morgan would have felt right at home here.

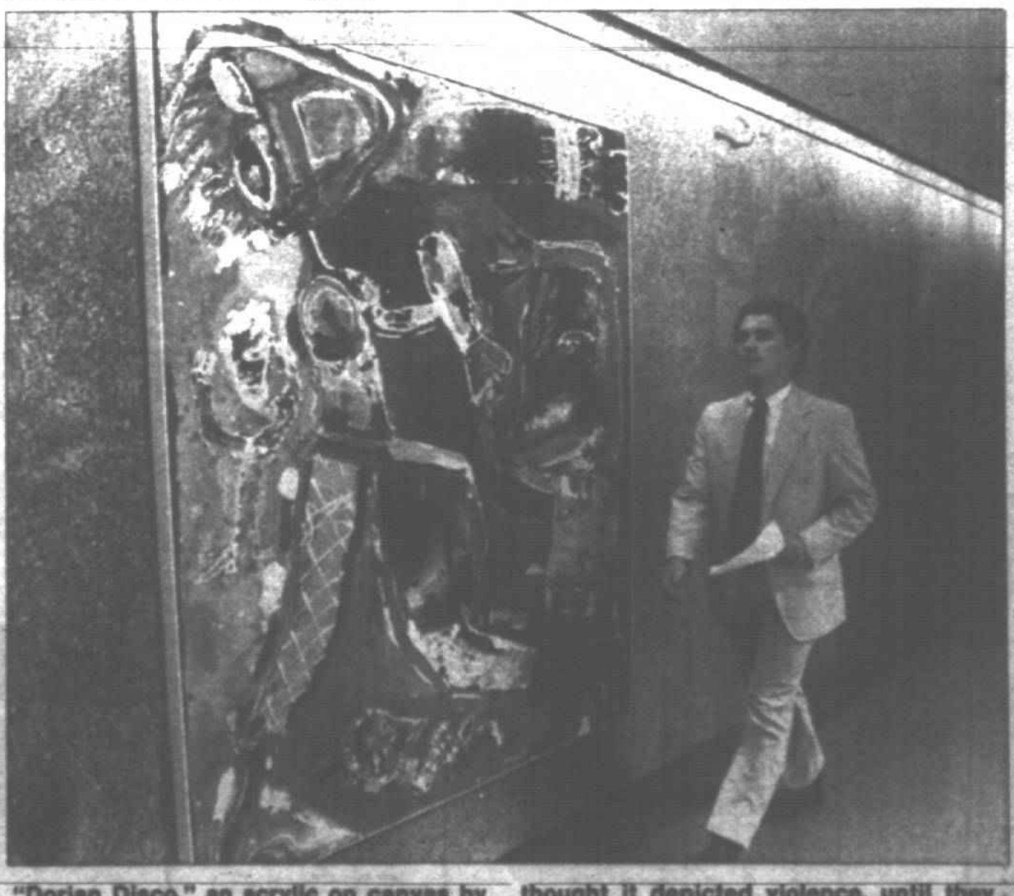


A stroll through the lobby of the new Standard Federal building in Troy provides an awesome introduction to the scope, scale and grandeur of the financial center.

Staff photos by Jerry Zolynsky



"Ahab," a 78-by-58-inch mixed media print by Frank Stella with a red background flecked with black, is a striking part of Standard Federal's high-powered art collection.



"Dorian Disco," an acrylic on canvas by George McNeil, drew controversial comment from employees until the story of the painting was told to them. They thought it depicted violence, until they learned the 84-year-old artist was painting his impression of a disco as seen on "Saturday Night Live."

What to do when inspiration fades

> 'Professional artists do not require inspiration to work out a decent piece of artwork. And, indeed, many commissions are 180 degrees from inspiration. A professional artist knows that if he or she is going sign the work, it has to be worthy of their signature and indicative of their ability.'

Many times in drawing or painting artists begin their work in an emotional high. Inspired to the nose holes, they begin an "incredible work" — probably their best — but soon find themselves with half a drawing and no inspiration whatsoever.

Let's look at the meaning of the word inspiration: "to breathe life into." So when you lose your inspiration, your idea suffocates and the artwork falls dead on your easel. Inspiration excites the mind to create the work of art. As this inspiration fades, your creativity lessens and the work dramatically suffers. The strokes of brush or pen become tentative and halting. You doubt your choice of color, question your shading and soon abandon the work altogether.

Here is where the amateurs and the pros separate. Like the stone amateur that I am in golf, when I hit a ball into the woods, I fall over stiff in the fairway. A better player or pro would confidently walk into the woods to better plan his next shot.

PROFESSIONAL ARTISTS do not require inspiration to work out a decent piece of artwork. And indeed many commissions are 180 degrees from inspiration. A professional artist knows that if he or she is going sign the work, it has to be worthy of their signature and indicative of their ability. Every single week at least one of my students looks at me with eyelids at half mast and asks, "Can I be done now?" The "push" required when inspiration is gone only comes from years of experience and technical skill. This is why art lessons are so critical for students hopeing to excel in the field of art. Few works done by a student at home with the usual domestic distractions can be rendered before the inspiration lifts, however; the teacher's technical knowledge should help the uninspired student push his or her work to completion.

So when faced with a commission, seek to be inspired. First, consider the object of the commission. Remember the word, "consider" means to take thought of. Perhaps your commission is of something that appears to be boring. If so, your careful consideration of it may somehow spark your interest and thereby initiate creativity. Next, appreciate the object of your commission if it is inanimate. Study it closely for its basic shapes. If it is man-made, look for the craftmanship or technology within its construction. If it is of nature, take thought of the power that fashioned it, and automatically it will increase in your opinion. Don't seek to copy, seek to recreate.

Here's a question: How do you shade something like a glass of wine?

A. Glass and chrome are a little difficult to draw because there is no definite color. All you really see is the reflections of light and surrounding shapes and colors. In the example of a glass of wine, that portion of the glass holding the wine would appear to be the purple color of the wine. But the reflection of light and objects around it highlight and shade its smooth surface.

So, even though the wine is purple, its color is secondary to the reflections on the outer surface of the glass. Anything wet or glassy or even chrome must have a strong white highlight to appear shiny. Where you see only the glass, the surface reflects the whites, grays and surrounding colors. It is interesting that in drawing shiny objects that the white must be surrounded by black or dark colors in order to make the white appear bright and sparkling.

One easy trick to help in drawing shiny objects is to always place the darkest darks right next to the lightest lights. One of our lessons at the Art Store & More is to draw a name or logo on black mat board then color the letters so that they look like chrome. The colors that appear to give the best chrome effect are: non photoblue at the top tinting to white in the middle of the letter. Here, white stops with a very clean line and black begins. As black moves down to the base of the letter, it gradually fades into a slate gray or bluish gray. Try this at home on your own with black paper and colors pencils.

Photography hits milestone year

Monte Nagler

Today, I'd like to provide some food for thought about the 150th anniversary of photography and what photography means to us today. Let's begin by stepping back through time.

When we remember the Vietnam War, photographic images immediately form in our minds - perhaps the little girl fleeing from the destruction of napalm bombs or the haunting shot of the execution of the Viet Cong guerrilla.

Many of us remember pictures of President Dwight Eisenhower visitng our troops in Korea and the inspiring flag raising over Iwo Jima toward the end of World War II.

Turn your thoughts to World War I and pictures of soldiers in odd shaped helmets huddling in muddy trenches come to mind.

And who can reflect on the Civil War without recalling photos of the many dead sprawled over the now lovely hills of our eastern states?

But think of the War of 1812 or the Revolutionary War and what comes to mind? Paintings and drawings. We can't relate as well to these occasions because, of course, photography didn't then exist.

Our backward journey through time using America's involvement in war as a yardstick is a good way to illustrate the significance of the photographic image as we note this anniversary.

For the past 150 years, photographs have been used to inform, inspire, entertain, document or shock us in ways that no other medium ever could or ever will do.

Through photographs, we can travel to distant lands we can otherwise only dream about. Scenes we would never have known about if it weren't for photography can be etched in our minds.

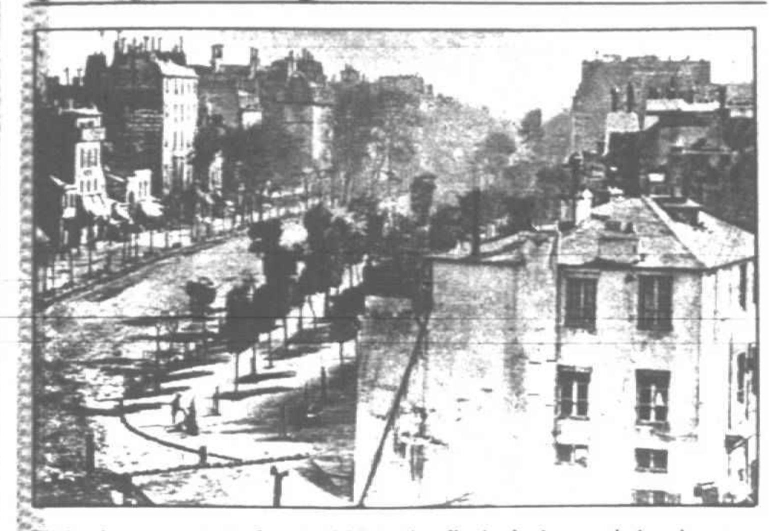
We are able to share special moments with celebrities and athletes. And we have shared the sorrows of people just like ourselves who have lost loved ones in a plane crash or other disaster. And all of this is possible through the wonder of photography.

Think for a moment during this milestone year for photography and imagine how difficult and unsettling life would be without photographs. What else can evoke the emotions without the use of a single word?

Whether it's the well-known image of John-John saluting a farewell at President Kennedy's funeral or an old, tattered picture of a favorite relative that has meaning only to a few, photographs touch us in ways no other medium can.

And we as photographers can touch people, too. We have the ability to make visible what others can only sense. We can move people and stir emotions in a way that is unique.

Take a moment to appreciate how very fortunate we are to have photography play such a vital role in our daily lives.



This daguerrotype from 1839 is the first photograph to show a human being. Look closely and you'll see a man getting a shoe shine in the lower left hand corner of the picture. All other activity on this busy Paris street was moving far too quickly for the camera's very long exposure to catch.

Sentimentality has its place

I'm a sentimentalist. I like being surrounded by things that have given me pleasure. Family pictures, cards from friends and family are very dear to me. Notes from friends that remind me of the special relationship are all things I treasure.

I don't put them into a box where I might leaf through them on a cleaning spree. My tables have photos in frames, antique as well as lucite and crystal. Our bookshelves in the library have photos perched atop books.

The Knollwood Frame Shop in West Bloomfield made a collage of snapshots and notes, mounting them and encasing them into a lucite frame. The piece is 20 by 30 inches and covers a small, wide wall in my library.

TRACING YOUR family tree is becoming a popular thing to do. One of my clients is fortunate enough to have photographs of her parents, grandparents and great-grandparents — aunts and uncles as well. What a wonderful collection of photographs made more than a century ago. Many of the pictures were made in Russia and Poland. The originals were reproduced and are being framed at Knollwood Frame Shop.

We selected four different styles of frames and mats to complement each other. In total, 20 photographs are being framed. They will go up the staircase and the upper hall. I can't think of a painting that would surpass the pleasure this treasure will give to my client's children and their children's children.

Art competition

The Bank of Commerce has begun inviting Michigan artists to enter its sixth art competition, bank president David J. Harris announced today.

As in the preceding competitions, Heritage '89 is open to artists 18 years of age or older. Heritage '89 welcomes works in two dimensional media submitted by Oct. 20.

"Once again we are asking our artists to reflect on our state's ethnic roots and heritage," Harris said. "We are proud to continue this unique and productive program that has attracted and benefitted so many fine Michigan artists."

The bank has acquired over 30 artworks in the five previous contests started in 1981 and proudly displays them in several branch offices. The five most popular paintings were reproduced in fine lithographic form and have been offered to the public since 1987.

IN HERITAGE '89, a process of slide review will be used to select 40 works, which will then be evaluated in their original form. Then 18 finalists will be chosen and invited to the opening receptions of the two month-long exhibits. First, on Nov. 28, at the Bank's main office in Hamtramck, followed by an exhibit in the Warren City Hall opening on Jan. 9, 1990.

Nothing is faster or more permanent than the new INSTAPPROVAL™ mortgage approval from the Ross Mortgage Team!
