Jeffrey Bushbacher, 31, of Westland was sentenced to three to 10 years in prison after he pleaded guilty to robbing a Canton store Sept. 10.

Bushbacher was shot twice by Canton Police before he was arrested for the armed robbery of the Dairy Mart store on Warren Road.

He was charged with assaulting an officer, but those charges were dropped by the Wayne County prosecutor's office in exchange for

Bill Sharpe of Canton worked on his first political campaign at 11 years of age and later wrote speeches for Hubert Humphrey.

Campaigner turned coach still pitches for changes

By Diane Gale staff writer

When Bill Sharpe of Canton was 11 he worked on his first political campaign. By the time he hit his late teens he was batting for Hubert Humphrey.

Today he's interested in acting and the arts. Politics and acting are blood brothers, Sharpe said. The big difference is that actors are "more up front about what we're doing," he said.

Sharpe, 40, pokes fun at politics as much as he lauds them. He harps on the importance of public service as much as a government

Sharpe wrote a couple of Humphrey's speeches, which were rewritten by other more seasoned workers, but his main responsibility was promoting Humphrey in communities he was about to ap-

"He's the man in 1948 who said it's time to get out of the shadow of state's rights and get into human rights," Sharpe said.

Humphrey was a left wing, liberal, moderate. And today he'd probably be considered a conservative Democrat."

Humphrey's philosophy stayed the same, but the issues changed. "He was probably one of the last great gladiators and he was one of the last honest men in politics, Sharpe said of the man who served as Lyndon Johnson's vice president, U.S. Senator and mayor of Minr.eapolis.

IN A quick-witted, long-winded dissertation — that is characteristic of a good Irishman, he said — Sharpe tells of his own political

It started when he was 11 and began working on a campaign for a Missouri congressional contender.

When he was 15, Sharpe said, he ran the campaign headquarters for a local Missouri representative race. He worked on other campaigns as a teen.

OTHER SAVE the tree programs are underway

Township attorneys are reviewing a woodlands ordinance that would require builders to count the six inch or larger trees that would be removed.

The number of trees that are taken down would have to be replaced. Novi and West Bloomfield have similar ordinances and builders complain that it restricts development.

"This ensures that there will be as many trees planted as the number that are taken down," said Canton

The purpose of a proposed woodlands ordinance is to make you stop and think before you cut down a tree

The proposed ordinance requires builders, especially, to count and replace the trees they plan to remove.

"Canton was a real prosperous farm community at one time and there weren't that many trees to begin with," said Canton superintendent Tom Yack. "Some parts of the community don't have any trees at

The ordinance, which is in the writing stage, is expected to call for special efforts to identify and save certain trees. And anything over six inches tall would be saved.

Permits would be required before the trees could be leveled.

Prison escape triggers security investigation

By Kevin Brown staff writer

The recent escape of two inmates has sparked an investigation of security at Plymouth Township's Western Wayne Correctional Facility.

While minimum security inmates have been known to walk away from work details near the prison, the es-capes on Christmas Eve were from the part of the prison thought to be the most secure.

The escapes were the first from that secure area in four years, said warden Lucia Burke.

"We are examining our security systems and tightening them up," said Ralph Morgan, administrative assistant to Burke.

Yet, Morgan said, the investigation won't be finished until the two prisoners - Frank Schanault and Bruce White - are interviewed by the Michigan State Police, who are conducting the investigation of prison security.

"The process probably won't be complete until we get a chance to get at these prisoners," Morgan said.

CURRENTLY, the inmates are being held at the Bristol, Va., city jail. It was in nearby Wytheville, Va., that local police caught the pair Dec. 29 after they boarded a bus. Because they now face federal charges stemming from the escape, and from the kidnapping of a Dear-born Heights woman, it's unclear turned, said Morgan and FBI special agent Hank Glaspie.

But Wayne Beaman, U.S. marshal for western Virginia, said that later this week, "We're sending them your way. They'll be heading toward De-

'ALL THESE systems working together should keep track of all pris-oners at all times," Morgan said. "We have to evaluate all systems to see what failed and what didn't fail." Currently, the inmates are being held at the Bristol, Va., city jail.

If one of your New Year's resolutions is to chill out, the Plymouth Community Ice Sculpture Spectac ular is the place for you.

From the wee hours of Thursday Jan. 11, through Sunday, Jan. 21, downtown Plymouth will be transformed into an ice kingdom of koala bears in trees, reindeer, penguins, dragons, seahorses, cars, ships - you name it.

Ice carvings fashioned by wellknown artists from throughout the United States and Canada are expected to draw nearly half a million visitors to Plymouth.

As of this morning, shipments of 400,000 pounds of ice began arriving in Kellogg Park; and professional and student sculptors went to work, chisels and chainsaws in hand. Artists will continue carving Tuesday and Wednesday.

Beginning at 5 a.m. Thursday, street sculptures will be placed atop bunting-draped pedestals lining Main Street, Penniman, Ann Arbor Trail, Forest and streets throughout Old Village.

From 9 a.m. until 12:30 p.m. Saturday, 60 student carvers from Michigan, Illinois, Montana, Texas, Florida, Colorado, Indiana, Ohio, Pennsylvania and New York will ompete in The Gathering in Kellogg Park, said Pam Kosteva, executive director of the festival. Saturday's competition has been

Health police state expected in 1990s

Don't ask me how I got here. Probably some kind of out-of-body experience induced by reading too many retrospectives on the '80s and proections of what the '90s will be like. But here I am, crouched in a corner of the basement, late in the afternoon of Dec. 31, 1999 - a fev hours away from the 21st Century. Upstairs in the family room, the two-way smellevision is blaring loudly. You can't turn it off. It's controlled at the transmission point, the headquarters of NFTV - Nice Fam-

Here in the basement, with the environmentally certified furnace humming in concert with the radon onverter. I feel fairly safe.

IN THE CORNER, covered with a tarpaulin and sprayed thoroughly with black-market Odor Eliminator, is a small, artificial evergreen tree hung with colored balls and tinsel. It used to emit a fragrance similar to nine that could be detected by the smelleviewers, but I think the washing and spraying over the years have

My wife's upstairs, spraying the family room with a cheap perfume that she picked up at the local drug store. It's supposed to smell like marijuana smoke and, if it works, it will mask the odor of the Kools that I bought from a pusher down in the corridor last week. If it doesn't well, the Tobacco Enforcement Agents will be kicking down the door

I don't know why I'm taking this chance. I've gotten used to the Health Patrols and the Environmental Police. The fireplace has been sealed off for years and the last of the cholesterol-laden bacon grease was taken to the hazardous waste dump in '94.

He just announced that, as part of the battle against AIDS, condom dispensers will be made mandatory in every home effective next week. And he has outlawed the sale of sugar salt and oat bran, substances, he says, that are bad for you.

Many need help all year

During the holiday season, it was a leasure to pick up a paper and read about warm hearted, charitable people reaching out to help those less ortunate. Church groups, unions, schools, business, neighbors, and our staff here at the Social Security office, were all busy helping to make Christmas just a little merrier for

However, it seems that once the holidays are over, we often forget that the disadvantaged still need our homeless, the mentally ill, battered women and children, the unemployed, the disabled, the elderly, may have special needs for assistance all year. I hope the Observer & Eccentric readers now will hink about how we can help the needy year 'round.

Social Security may be able to help. Nationwide each year there are estimated thousands of people who are unaware they may be eligible for Social Security benefits. Supplemenal Security Income pays cash bene fits to people of all ages who are in need. SSI is paid to individuals who are aged: blind or disabled at any age (even children) with low income and resources. In some cases, people who are unable to work due to deression, alcoholism, drug addiction, and learning disabilities can qualify for monthly SSI disability benefits. Social Security benefits are paid on the work records of wage earners who are retired, disabled, or deeased. The family of the worker can also be entitled to monthly cash benefits. The dependents include (but are not limited to) spouses, children under age 18, disabled "children" over age 18, divorced spouses, and even disabled survivors. In the spirit of giving this season let us extend a hand up, rather than merely a hand out. Be aware of possible sources of assistance. Rip lawmaker on abortion

At the risk of offending a lot of people, I have to say that Livonia voters have to be the dumbest voters in the state, or the least enlightened So far I got your attention, but I doubt if the Observer will publish my observations, because I am against state Rep. Lynne Bankes, who they support because she is proabortion and has always supported LIVONIA WAS once described as a mecca for churches because it had more churches per mile than any other area. In fact it was creating a problem, and local officials have stopped, or at least slowed down the building of churches.

This does indicate, though, that is basically a Christian community, whose members are supposed to believe in the viewpoint that a fetus is a human being and it is sinful to abort the baby, except to save the mother's life. Specifically it is a violation of the Fifth Commandment "Thou shall not kill."

There are various forms of religious chastising that address this. such as excommunication etc., for consenting mothers and necessary

It is unbelievable to me that this Christian community would support Lynne Bankes, who is pro-abortion and further a Republican that goes against her party which opposes abortion. Where are your marbles?

BANKES HAS discreetly avoided revealing her position on abortion. She floods you with superfluous mail, paid for by you the taxpayer, with never a word about her position on abortion in an attempt to make you believe she is a doer. In reality she has accomplished little, except to ensure herself a nice pension when she is finally voted out-My question to you, voters who fit in the above mold, why do you con-

supported abortion from the day she entered office and continues to support abortion? Her record speaks for Are you dumb, or not enlightened? Give her a call or write and tell her maybe you made a mistake in

He's tired 'carrying' the weight

Just about this time of year, I begin getting envious of folks like Oprah Winfrey and Tommy La-Sorda blabbing on the airwaves about how successful they were with their diets.

One would almost be led to be-lieve that this "miracle" of weight loss could be just as successful for millions of us, and like Oral Roberts, all we would have to do is send these diet doctors a monthly paycheck and, yes, we too can look and feel just like

Personally, I doubt very much that Oprah gets a chance to eat potato skins enveloped in sour cream presently featured on the menu of her Chicago restaurant, Eccentrics, or, for that matter, does Tommy LaSorda really get to eat a plate full of spaghetti and meatballs, not to mention the salad and garlic bread.

It's a fact that on the average day there are 101,280,321 adults on diets. (Source: "On the Average Day" compiled by Tom Heymann, Faucett/Columbine books. That's over 100 million folks just like you and me who are searching for miracle cures to help them lose weight. I wouldn't be surprised if that number is far greater right after the holidays,

Now you name it and I've tried it as far as diets are concerned. Thank goodness I'm 6-foot-6 because I frequently hear the old adage, "You carry it well." Well, I'm tired of "carrying it well."

DON'T YOU THINK it's about time folks like you and me stopped blaming our big bones and finally fessed up to the real reason why we need to watch our caloric intake? We love to eat. Period. No ifs, ands or buts . I can't imagine life with Coke, without chips, meatloaf without potatoes and pie without ice

Sure, I could blame my avoirdupois on the fact that I try each recipe before printing. My problem, I try the whole recipe. There's no doubt that in my pext life. I want to return as a wine taster who has the willpower to spit out each and every taste.

Speaking of taste, why do dieters like you and me have to put up with plain salads at most of the Detroit area restaurants? Why does broiled fish taste better when it's garnished with a calorie-ladened lobster cream sauce? Why does Goo-Good Crunch ice cream taste so much better than "lite" artificially flavored ice

Because, dear folks, we have the gift of taste. Granted, there are times we taste too much of one thing and the bottom line works out that instead of tasting, we end up eating the whole kit and kaboodle. If you can't tell by the fire in my writing style — yes, I'm on my diet again. With a little luck, I'll be able to change my thought pocesses and be able to switch from going on a diet to maintaining a healthy eating regimen, continuously. I have this problem of falling off whatever I get "on."

SO, INSTEAD OF relinquishing my weekly food budget to Lean Cuisine, I'm taking on a new outlook and will begin tasting less. I hereby pass along the bowl of carrots and celery firmly implanted on the shelf of my fridge for a new outlook on life. I'm like an alcoholic around booze, an addict around cocaine, since the food will be there to tempt me at every interval, I'm going to skip this diet train and re-educate my eating habits.

From now on, just a taste should suffice. If it's that good, there will be even better stuff to tast tomor-

Yes, ladies and gentlemen, you too can join the ranks of "tasters anonymous." All it takes is one heck of a lot of willpower. Send no money but remember, "The Shadow knows" how many times you've tasted.

Deli's dishes healthy delights

By Anne R. Lehmann special writer

ROW UP IN a Jewish home and chances are you will become well acquainted with foods that are home-cooked, plentiful and, at times, even inspiring.

That's what happened to Morris Goodman, owner and proprietor of Sara's Glatt Kosher Deli, a restaurant he named to honor his late mother.

Since its humble beginnings on 10 Mile and Coolidge roads three years ago, this Southfield eatery, now in the New Orleans Mall, has grown into a bustling establishment catering to everyone fromn Hasidic Jews to sharply clad businessmen. For orthodox Jews who observe the strict religious dietary laws of kashruth, and for whom McDonald's is not an option, Sara's offers an opportunity to grab a quick burger or enjoy full-service dining. Many people also are turning to kosher foods and meats because of health concerns, recognizing that the close supervision of these products generally results in superior quality.

The fact is that Goodman, who is at work by 7:30 a.m. and rarely leaves before 10:30 p.m., has always been ready, willing and able to feed the masses. "I love to cook, feed and eat," he says. Goodman spent his six years with the National Guard as a cook

THE BEARDED, aproned father of three began his career in the kitchen when he was 14 years old, working as a busboy at Lou's Deli. Over the next 21 years he learned the ropes alongside his older brother Marty, who now owns the Detroit chain of Lou's Delis. "Food was a focal point in our family, and although my mom never taught us formally, we gleaned a lot by being around her," he recalls.

The food business has remained a family affair. Goodman's four younger sisters, wife and teenage son all help out. Consequently he has named many of his 40 combination sandwiches for them, as well as for longstanding and loyal employees

What makes Goodman's work particularly challenging is that his restaurant is glatt kosher. The term "glatt" applies to beef. What it means, ac-cording to Rabbi Elimeilech Silberberg of West Bloomfield's Bais Chabad Torah Center, is that the meat is unquestionably kosher because there are no lung adhesions in the animal. He says, "If there is an adhesion it can still be deemed kosher based on the judgment of the specially designated gener-

Only two out of 10 cows are glatt, Silberberg says. "The theory is that it's a healthier animal."

But the real challenges of running a truly kosher restaurant are keeping the menu interesting despite dietary laws, and assuring financial viablity despite the many hours it must be closed for holiday and Sabbath observances.

Farmington finally has a fine-dining restaurant.

Though this little city has a charm not unlike Plymouth or Rochester and has valiantly redeveloped its downtown, it had been overlooked as a site for a good restaurant. Until

Just six months ago, Marco Conte and his family opened the restaurant in the Village Commons building on Grand River east of Farmington Road. They soon found out how right their choice of location was. Business has been so good that they already anticipate expanding the 80seat dining room.

Conte's parents, Ann and Enzo, are no strangers to restaurateuring. For more than 30 years, they operated Rina's restaurant in Detroit. At Marco's, Enzo does most of the cooking. Two other children, Roberto and Tina, help out where needed. Marco himself started working at Cafe Cortina 10 years ago at the age of 15 and was general manager by the time he left this summer.

Though Italian cooking is its specialty, Marco's atmosphere is a far cry from the red-checked tablecloths you might expect. It is modern, with deep lavender walls, glass block di-viding the entrance from the dining room, black accents and beautiful Venetian masks hanging on the terior of his restaurant with an art deco flavor to defy the stereotype, but sprinkled Italian touches - such as the masks - throughout.

While the menu is more traditionally Italian, it offers a few surprises too, including a delicious sirloin dish in which thinly sliced sirloin is wrapped around mozzarella cheese, flavored with parmesan cheese, gar-lic, salt, pepper and parsley, and simmered in tomato sauce. Another interesting entree was a broiled whitefish with seasoned peppers - an Italian touch to an otherwise

Among three veal dishes is a veal piccante which was OK, though not wine, garlic and lemon was good, but the veal was a little on the tough side. A grilled shrimp with artichoke hearts was excellent.

The 16 pasta dishes include an excellent linguine with calamari (squid), clams, mussels and shrimp. Clams seem to be a popular addition to Marco's pastas. There are three other entrees featuring pasta and clams as well as another with shrimp in the sauce. Still, there are meat sauces on a ravioli and a spaghetti. Seasonings in the sauces seem to be on the light side. They aren't overpowering, though they are evi-

Kosher deli's dishes are healthy delights

THE DIFFERENCE between kosher style and truly kosher is dramatic. A kosher-style deli can serve food seven days a week and will feature thick meat sandwiches, cheese blintzes, Ruebens, things that are not permissible in a truly kosher estab hment because of the orthodox prohibition against mixing meat and meat and non-dairy products, although some tofu-based products have made it possible for him to offer such unique items as "cheese cake" and "ranch dressing." "The kosher food industry is undergoing a revolution," Goodman says. - ite months of the year.

After the hustle-bustle of December, I always look forward to January as I finally have a chance to stay home and tackle some projects that have been put off for months.

Closets, drawers and even the dreaded basement (A.K.A. the 'wreck" room) will soon come under my careful scrubbing and scrutiny. On those days when I turn into a human Dust Buster, the last thing on my mind is fixing dinner. But it still is something that must be done as growing children and husbands nev-

Somewhere a child lies crying

Somewhere an old man shivers in the dark

Somewhere a family's dreams burn to the ground

Somewhere somebody needs help.

Because somewhere is closer than you think.

January skies feature 5 easily seen planets clude: a meteor shower, the earthwill be closest to the sun, and an eclipse of the sun will occur but it will not be visible from our area.

All five of the naked eye planets will be visible this month. Mars and Saturn will be in the pre-dawn sky, Jupiter will be in the evening sky. Mercury and Venus begin the month in the evening sky but both move rapidly into the pre-dawn sky by month's end.

The amount of sunlight we receive will increase by only 49 minutes in January. On Jan. 1 the sun rose at 8:01 a.m. and set at 5:10 p.m., allowing for a possible nine hours and nine minutes of sunlight. On the 31st these times are 7:47 a.m. and 5:45 p.m. for a possible nine hours and 58 minutes of sunlight

For many people, January is the beginning of a new year. But in primitive Rome the new year started with the first day of spring. Ancient Persians began their year with the first day of autumn. Many other skywatchers divided their year into two parts - at the end of summer's heat and the end of winter's cold.

The custom of celebrating Jan. 1 as New Year's Day goes back to the Roman Julian calendar. The month was named in honor of their god Janus, the keeper of the gates. He had two faces; one looking back to the past, the other forward to the fu-

IT WAS ALSO the Julian calendar that introduced the leap year. Since the earth takes 365% days to orbit the sun, the calendar is off by one day after every four years. Julius Ceasar decreed that every fourth year would have 366 days to keep the calendar in line with the seasons.

While the Julian calendar was a vast improvement over other calendars, it too was off by 11 minutes and four seconds each year, which adds up to one day every 128 years.

By the year 1582 the calendar was off by 10 days, so Pope Gregory revised the calendar by dropping those 10 days and introducing another correction. The Gregorian calendar was not adopted by everyone at once. It wasn't until another 170 years had passed that England accepted it in 1752. By then it was necessary to drop 11 days from the callarge number of people who started a riot, demanding the return of their 11 days. (Monthly rent and bill paywere suddenly due 11 days

Even the Gregorian calendar is off by 28 seconds a year. At that rate the discrepancy will add up to another full day - but not for 1,500 years.

VENUS WILL present a most impressive view through a telescope for the next week. It is close to the earth and will appear as a backlighted crescent.

The moon was at First Quarter phase at 7:40 a.m. on Jan. 4. The moon is one-quarter of its way around the earth.

skywatch Raymond E.

Earth is at perihelion (closest point to the sun) at noon on Jan. 4. We will be 147,099,880 km (91,403,627.81 miles) from the sun. Obviously our proximity to the sun is NOT responsible for our seasons. We are dealing with some of the coldest temperatures of the year in January when we are closest to the sun. Our seasons, and corresponding changes of the temperature, are due to the tilt of our planet's orbit around the sun, rather than our distance from it. When are we farthest from the sun? In July, of course, when our temperatures approach their highest.

Venus was 20 degrees from the sun on the 5th and still will be an easy object to spot in the west southwest after sunset.

Saturn was in conjunction with the sun on the 6th. The planet is located behind the sun, as seen from the earth, and is not visible. By the end of the month it will be possible to glimpse Saturn in the morning sky.

THE MOON formed a triangle with the star Aldebaran (Al-DEB-aran), the "eye' of Taurus the bull, and the Pleiades (PLEE-a-dees) star cluster, the bull's "shoulder." on Jan.

On Jan. 8 the moon will form a broad triangle with Aldebaran and Jupiter, the bright "star" below and to the north (left) of the moon. The meon will be just four degrees from Jupiter on the 9th.

Full Moon will be at 11:57 p.m. on Jan. 10. The moon will be fully lighted by the sun and will form a triangle with Castor and Pollux in Gemini. Castor is the star above Pollux.

Venus will be only 11 degrees from the sun on the 12th and will be difficult to see unless you have an unobstructed view of the horizon. In only two weeks Venus will be visible in the morning sky, rising before the

Rocks break Ypsi's unbeaten streak

staff writer

Ryan Johnson and Jeff Gold were sophomores playing on the varsity basketball team when visiting Plymouth Salem got blown out by Ypsilanti

They were back on the same court Friday night, but it was a much different result this time

The Rocks were the underdogs once again, but nobody had that impression of them after Salem trounced the Braves 78-58 and removed Ypsilanti from the ranks of the unbeaten.

"This is the first time in Salem history that we've beaten them on this floor," coach Bob Bro-

"It's a tremendous feeling to come in here and do that — and that's a good basketball team."

Not only did Salem, 3-1, have the memory of its last visit to Ypsilanti as motivation but also a December loss to Southfield in its last game before the holiday break. The Braves are 5-1.

"WE WANTED to come out and play our game," said Johnson, who scored 14 points and hauled in six rebounds. "The intensity was there,

"I wouldn't say we were at our peak, but I'd say we played four quarters of basketball. We played Salem basketball and came out with the W.

Salem's game was the same as Ypsilanti's run and gun - but the Rocks were better at it this Junior forward Jake Baker had the big night for Salem with game-high totals of 22 points and 17 rebounds.

The 6-foot-5 Baker headed an impressive rebounding effort, which allowed the Rocks to run the break. He had 12 defensive rebounds, and juniors K.C. Kirkpatrick and John Hoffmeyer had six apiece at that end of the floor.

'We're a good breaking team," Baker said. "I think we surprised them last year, too. We beat them by 20, but I think they figured they just didn't play well.

"WE WERE hungry for a win. We came out intense and were scrapping for every loose ball. Nobody was holding back.

The first of two triples by Baker put the Rocks in front for good at 10-9, and then Salem took off. racing to a 20-11 lead at the end of the first quarter as the Rocks heated up the break.

Baker's jumper midway in the second quarter gave Salem its biggest lead, 31-15, before the Braves, with triples by Wendell Rodgers and Ivan Davis, closed to 35-28 at halftime.

"They're a real fast team, and we were beating them at their own game," Gold said. "I was worried at first if we could stay with them.

'But we wanted it more; we wanted it a lot more. We had slow first quarters in other games, and we wanted to turn that around. In this one, we Rob Wilson drained a pair of key shots in overtime, enabling Plymouth Canton to square its record at 2-2 with a 62-60 win at South Lyon Friday.

The Chiefs earned their victory because they "played a solid defensive game," said coach Dave Van Wagoner. Canton also benefited from some poor South Lyon free-throw shooting. The Lions converted just 14 of 28 from the stripe; Canton made eight of 10.

Brett Howell's 14 points was high for the Chiefs. Tony Coshatt had 12 (and 12 rebounds), Kevin Holmes chipped in with 10 and Daryl Magreta

The 25-year-old Briggs spent three months overseas and was an instant hit with the basketball-crazed country.

He led his underdog Anejo Rum 65 team to the finals of the Reinforced Championship Series before losing (four games to two) to the favorite, San Miguel Beer, which was led by former Alabama star and NBA player Ennis Whatley.

Briggs, who also played collegiately at Baylor, became the darling of fans who regularly jammed into Arena in Manila for the championship series.

the attention would be a gross under-statement. His crowd-pleasing antics won the people over.

"I'm the type of player who has a lot of different parts to my game, said Briggs, who was nicknamed 'Goldfish" and "Red."

"I'm not a dunker. I think that kind of surprised them."

Briggs was constantly written about in the nine different newspapers and magazines which cover the

"Once people heard I was in there. they started coming in from everywhere off the street," Briggs said. They had to close the restaurant because I was causing a disturbance.

"The imports (one American per team) are just as important as acsenators. Basketball players are the most popular over there.'

Briggs made nearly $27,000 (tax TO SAY BRIGGS didn't enjoy all free) during his three-month stint. He was also given a free two-room condo in Greenhills (20 minutes outside Manila), maid service, a car and a driver, an errand boy and a gym shoe contract.

Plymouth Salem chalked up a sweet victory in boys swimming Thursday night, and senior Ron Orris enjoyed sweet revenge in a roundabout way. The Rocks, who lost the dual meet with Novi last year, handed the Wildcats their first loss of the season, 89-82, in the loser's pool. Salem is 1-1, Novi 3-1. In the 500-yard freestyle, Orris broke former Novi swimmer Jon Cohen's pool record of 4:39.0 by winning that race in 4:37.95. "Ron took a little pride in breaking one of Cohen's records," Salem coach Chuck Olson said.

When they went head-to-head in the dual meet last year at Salem, Cohen, one of the top swimmers in the state along with Orris, edged his Salem rival in the IM

ORRIS ALSO won the 200 freestyle Thursday with a 1:49.32 time, and Pat McManaman recorded a careerhigh 240.05 diving points to capture first place in that

The Rocks finished with victories in the last two events, taking the lead and victory away from Nori.

Salem's Mark Erickson won the breaststroke in 1:09.16, and teammate Brian Keppen supplied a key second place finish in 1:09.35, enabling the Rocks to pull in front for the first time, 79-78.

WITH ONLY the 400 freestyle relay remaining, Salem needed only to win that event to earn the team victory, and the Rocks did just that. Chris Caloia, Eric Bunch, Joe Pawluszka and Orris touched at 3:28.42.

"We're still not swimming as well as we should be," Olson said. "We did a little better in spots, but we worked out this morning and maybe they were a little

"I keep telling them to watch Ron — just do as he does," Olson said, tongue-in-cheek. "He is something to watch in the water.

"But a win is a win," he said. "I was wondering if we were going to get one before the middle of the season."

Salem has dual meets this week with Ann Arbor won two of three dual meets Salem whipped Garden City 54-24 and Northville 39-16, but defending state champion Temperance Bedford defeated the Rocks 50-13.

The 125-pound Stopa pinned his Garden City and Bedford opponents in 1:30 and 2:31, respectively, and won by decision (4-2) against Northville. Steve Burlison, wrestling at 160, had a 33-second pin in the Garder City match and added a pair of decisions in the next two; 6-2 and 3-1.

In the 189 division, Brian Burlison started with back-to-back pins in 2:00 and 27 seconds and won by 8-0 decision in the Bedford dual.

Salem's Julian Sell (130), Jeff Coleman (140) and Pete Israel (171) won two matches each, defeating Garden City and Northville wrestlers. Sell had two pins, in 14 seconds and 1:41. Coleman won by void and 2-1 decision, and Israel also had two pins, in 1:12 and 5:15.

In the Garden City match, Dan Bonnett (112), Charlie Apigian (152) and heavyweight Ken Coker registered pins, which took them 2:45, 1:12 and 0:37, respectively, to achieve.

Salem's other winners against Northville were Chad Wilson (119) and heavyweight Scott Breithaupt. Wilson recorded a pin in 3:08, and Breithaupt needed just 19 seconds to pin his opponent.

The Rocks will be host for a tri-meet Tuesday against Plymouth Canton, Ann Arbor Pioneer and Ann Arbor Huron, Salem visits North Farmington for a dual meet Thursday.

Once a fourth-round draft pick of the San Antonio Spurs. Briggs has been a gypsy of sorts. He had brief stints in both Dallas Mavericks' and Detroit Pistons' training camps. He also had a cup of coffee with the Rockford Thrillers (Ill.) of the Continental Basketball Association.

Briggs hooked up with Anejo Rum 65 after 43-year-old player-coach Robert Jaworski, a legend in Philippine basketball, was given Briggs' name by former University of De troit and NBA players Earl Cureton and Terry Duerod.

"My agent got me a tryout so I went to Philadelphia to meet him (Jaworski)," recalls Briggs. "They weren't sure about my game, but they looked at some of my videotapes I brought from Baylor and the fated attempted military coup by pro-Marcos forces (Nov. 29 through Dec. 8).

"The whole thing (coup) started right behind where I live" Briggs said. "They moved us (the team) to an international hotel where we stayed for 10 days. Two games were delayed. I saw some shooting, but nobody killed. When I got back some

But because he was a celebrity, Briggs was able to pass freely through military blockades in and around Manila.

"I NEVER had to wait in line for anything," he said. "It was always, 'Mr. Briggs, come right this way. People were real nice. I got invited into peoples' homes. I had no problems or worries. It's a country where you are either rich or poor."

With a break of more than a month, Briggs is waiting for the next

Thanks to Our Carriers!

Thanks and a trophy to these twelve terrific young men--our Carriers of the Year

1 hroughout the year, these twelve Observer & Eccentric carriers have delivered their hometown news twice each week in all kinds of weather. They have done a super job in keeping their collections organized and settling their accounts promptly. We select carriers who have exceptional collection records, carriers who have been Carrier of the Month. Their length of service, their diligence, character and commitment to their work are all qualities that we consider when the time comes to honor these special carriers with a trophy and a dinner.

ADVERTISING

There are two basic types of advertisements in The Observer & Eccentric Newspapers:

These ads are found in the main sections of the paper and are billed at a column-inch rate. We will provide layout, typesetting, and copywriting if you wish, at no additional charge. Photographs and additional artwork are available

Our representatives are happy to visit your place of business and discuss a marketing strategy with you, along with information pertaining to deadlines, contract rates, research data, and upcoming special supplements. Our display telephone numbers are:

> 644-1100 in Oakland County 591-2300 in Wayne County

Monica DiCola heads our Retail Advertising department in Oakland (644-1100 ext. 348) and Mark Lewis is our Wayne County Retail Manager (591-2300 ext. 469).

These ads are found in the Classified sections of the papers and are placed in columns under the appropriate classification for the item that is to be bought or sold. They are billed at a line rate. Our Classified telphone lines are open daily from 8:00 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday and from 8:00 a.m. until 5:00 p.m. Friday.

> 644-1070 in Oakland County 591-0900 in Wayne County 852-3222 in Rochester/Rochester Hills

Our computerized classified phone system will route your call to one of our ad takers. We suggest that you jot down what you would like to say before calling and have your Visa or MasterCard ready if you plan to use one of them.

Classified ads are also available in display format for Real Estate and Automotive clients and are billed at an inch rate. To arrange for a classified display ad, call:

Leah Marlana Murray is a veteran of the Detroit auto show. She enjoys the work because of the "most interesting people" she gets to meet.

Aging didn't creep up on me, it jumped me from behind.

One night unbeknownst to me while I slept - they invaded. First the mouth, then the eyes, and they worked their way up to my forehead. All the while I'm in sweet slumber, wrinkles were robbing me of my youth.

I can name the day - Oct. 12, 1989. I'll never forget it. I sat down to put my makeup on as I've done every morning for roughly 20 years. I don't mean I abuse my makeup, I mean . . . oh, you know what I mean . . .

I looked into my mirror and screamed in horror. Not only had wrinkles taken up permanent residency like some early squatters refusing to leave their land, the skin under my eyes had changed. Little bumps appeared on that ever so tender, darkening (even as I write) tissue.

"Not now," I lamented. I would truly be the matron of the circuit now.

. lady

The circuit I speak of is the auto show. Yes, this year, 15 years after it had been my biggest dream, I was going to be an auto show girl. (Can you be one of the girls when your daughter is as old as some of these babes?) I have to say that timing has never been one of my strong points.

My goals had changed over the years, but mother love stepped in and con-

"Do you come with the car?" (How clever.)

'Do you get dizzy up there?"

(So witty.) "Are you wearing underwear?"

(Yes, but you'll never see it.) Those are some of the questions (and unspoken answers) that routinely bombard models at auto shows like the North American International Auto Show being held through Sunday, Jan. 14, at Cobo Hall in De-

For most of us, the models stand on pedestals, symbols of glamour and untouchable beauty.

Gorgeous women all, they sing the praises of Pontiacs, the fineries of Fords, the beauties of Buicks and all the other vehicles at the Detroit Auto Show.

They are also hard working young professionals bound together by a common thread of ambition, determination and good looks:

People often tend to view the models as window dressing and - even they admit air heads "People think we have no brains," Sonna

All are graduates of the John Roberts Power modeling school in Southfield and are working at the Detroit Auto Show. And all are veteran auto show models.

AT THIS point, it would be dramatic to say they have the battle scars to prove their to their feet, from standing all day on three-

And in reality, modeling IS glamorous.

"You get to meet the most interesting people," Murray said. For her, that includes late night TV talk show host David Letter-

Recently, Murray won the title of Miss Auto Show in New York, one of the nation's largest shows. Her prize included a guest shot on Letterman's show. It was a great break for Murray, an aspiring actress.

John's brush with a celebrity came in a different fashion.

"At one show, this guy kept coming up to me," she said. "I though 'Is he trying to put the make on me?"

She politely brushed him off, but later noticed that people flocked around the man asking for his autograph. The man was Chicago Bears football star Walter Payton.

By Greg Kowalski staff writer

How do you become an auto show model? First, of course, you have to be model material. That doesn't necessarily mean you have to be a "beanpole" fashion model type, but you have to have looks, charm and You're born with looks, but the other qualities are refined at modeling schools.

Several are in the metropolitan Detroit area. These include the John Roberts Power modeling school in Southfield, which is supplying several models for the North American International Auto Show now through Sunday at Cobo Hall in Detroit.

The schools, which often also serve as modeling agencies, charge in the area of $50 a week for a course that runs four to seven months. Once a model graduates, he (there are plenty of male models) or she becomes part of the agency's roster.

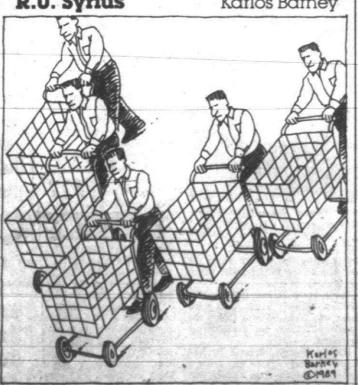

APPROXIMATELY 30 auto shows take place nationally each year. Generally, the automakers call the schools/agencies to acquire models.

The models go to auditions - or "cattle calls" as they unflatteringly say - which

One Man's Budget Guide to London

First of two parts

By Micky Jones special writer

Are you ready for a winter vacation, one that doesn't include sandy beaches or snowy hills? Have you been avoiding a trip to Europe because of all those stories you hear about sky-high prices?

How about a low-cost winter vacation in London, typically considered one of the world's high-priced travel destinations? You don't need warm sunny days to enjoy most of London's attractions.

From now until early April, you can do London for half the cost of a similar trip in June or July, and you won't be standing in long lines of summer tourists from all over

I recently spent several days in London at a cost of less than $70 a day for accommodations, meals city transportation and entertainment. Including air fare from Detroit, it is possible to have a week in the Royal City for between $800-$900, or two weeks for $1200.81 200. $1,200-$1,300. A one-week vaca-

THE MOST convenient flights are on Pan American and British Airways which don't require a change of planes. British Airways quotes a fare $20 higher than the others, but says it makes up the difference with free movies, free drinks and lower taxes.

American Airlines requires a plane change in Dallas, Continen-tal in Newark. On TWA, you change planes, and sometimes ter-minals, in New York. Northwest flies into London's less-convenient Gatwick Airport instead of

— lan McCulloch

When Echo and the Bunnymen split from singer Ian McCulloch a couple of years ago, the band name claims that they would be back with a new singer. Anyone familiar with McCulloch's distinctive vocals may find this hard to imagine and we still await for those results. Of course, the death of their brilliant drummer Pete De Fritas in a car accident has not helped their cause.

Well, for those of you who mourned the passing of the original Echo, grieve no more. For no matter like the latest Echo and the Bunnymen record.

It's a curious thing that happens when a dominant singer leaves a band. Their first recordings sound like a continuation of the old band. Morrissey, former lead singer of the Are they trying to prove that they were the reason for the original ticularly appropriate time to reevaluate what is happening in your life. Are you happy now? What would you rather be doing? The next 10 years will seem to roll by even faster than the '80s . Will you look back on them with pride or regret?

Remember that your present environment is only a result of your past decisions. You have decided whether to enter into and/or remain in relationships; to take a job and keep it or not; to clean up after yourself as you

While there are always circumstances in life which are beyond control, you still control how you react to those situations. You may not' have asked for all the work you get on your job, but you can decide whether to let it get you down or to take it in stride and just do the best you can. If someone in your family is ill, you can help to the best of your ability, without ignoring the problem nor by being a martyr. There are al-

If you don't like the way your life is now, start making decisions which will lead you in the direction you want to go in the future. I'm not suggesting walking away from responsibilities already incurred - you still need to honor them. Neither am I recommending a "me first" attitude. However, there are always options within your environment which will give more meaning to your life.

A 45-year-old former student of mine captured the essence of my philosphy. Here are excepts of a letter she wrote me: "I think the biggest change I experienced was a change of attitude. I began to see myself as an intelligent person with interests that went beyond scrubbing and polishing. I stayed home for six years because I was always going to clean the basement. (Never did.) I solved the problem by calling it one large storage area and went off to

Warhol exhibit teamed with films

By Jill Hamilton special writer

If anyone tells you that there is no culture in the Midwest, send them to

Ann Arbor - the sooner the better. Big Art Productions will kick off the new year with a tribute to one of the most controversial artists of this century: Andy Warhol. The produc-tion, called "Warhol: The Factory Years - a night of films and music," will attempt to recreate what happened at Warhol's infamous fac-

The show will start at 9:30 p.m. Friday, Jan. 26, at the Halfway Inn in Ann Arbor with a screening of Warhol's "Vinyl." The film has been described as "a black-humored takeoff on Anthony Burgess's novel "A Clockwork Orange" and features Gerard Malanga and the debut performance of Edie Sedgwick. "Vinyl" is the film which made Sedgwick an underground cult figure in New

Following the screening of "Vinyl," Big Art will present two silent short films of their own. The show will continue with the Warhol film "Empire." "Empire" gained instant notoriety when it was first shown in the 1960s because the original film ran for seven hours and consisted solely of footage of the empire State Building as viewed from a window in the Time-Life building, 40 floors and 16 blocks north lage Voice" claimed that "Empire" will become "The Birth of a Nation" of the New Bag Cinema. Somewhat luckily for the audience, this restored print of "Empire" will run only 48 minutes.

"EMPIRE" IS A silent film and will be accompanied by a live performance of The Plastic Oniki Band. Oniki's band is promoting their recent excellent debut album, "Shonen Blue." The Plastic Oniki Band includes Yuji Oniki, formerly of Dreaming In Color, and Matt Smith of the Volebeats and will feature a percussionist instead of a drummer. The band's sound is evocative and atmospheric, similar to the quieter moments of the Velvet Underground.

The hour-long live set will continue with various other films superimposed over one another in the same manner in which Warhol presented films during his years at the factory.

Big Arts's timing could not have been better. Though Warhol's death was almost two years ago, people remain fascinated by the controversial artist. Books written about Warhol, his art, the factory years and the Warhol entourage continue to infiltrate the best seller list. His autobiography and his private diaries remain top sellers.

John Cole and Lou Reed, two founding members of The Velvet Underground, recently opened their tribute performance piece called, Songs for Drella."

The show has been selling out in ew York and has enj views in publications like "Rolling

THE MUSEUM OF Metropolitan

Art has been presenting a retrospective of Andy Warhol and continues the process of the restoration of his films. The Detroit Institute of Art will begin a Warhol exhibition in March. Oniki calls the Big Art presentation, "sort of a preview" of that Big Art has scored quite a coup by getting their hands on "Vinyl" and Empire." The films have only recently become available for national distribution and demand for them has been especially fierce.

Big Art Productions was formed several years ago by a group of friends, then students in college, who also happened to be artists, film makers, and musicians. They began experimenting with various combinations of sound and visuals and became known for presenting multimedia events that combined the elements of each of their various art

Perhaps the most successful Big Art effort was a production that they staged a few years ago at the Alley Door. The "happening" included films, murals and sculpture by Big Art members and featured the music of Yuji's former band, Dreaming in Color. The event drew a crowd of several hundred people and received favorable media coverage.

Future plans for Big Art include a production combining theater and music on Feb. 7 at the Heidelberg. This show will feature a perform man Beckett play, "Krapp's." Following the play, The Plastic Oniki Band will play a live set.

"I DON'T WANT TO sound too 'arty,' but, we're looking for an audience that wants to pay attention,' Oniki says, "instead of one only interested in guzzling beer."

For those who like their movies simple and action-packed, preferably starring Sylvester Stallone vs. various small countries and think that a good band is one that plays a lot of songs that include the phrase, "yeah, babe," and tops off the evening with an extented sing-along oversion of "Louis, Louis," perhaps Big Art won't be your cup of tea.

Those, however, who like a little challenge with their evening's enter-tainment will be delighted with Big Art's latest projects. Their cutting edge creativity is helping to redefine the boundaries of art and music.

So forget what you've heard. New York and Los Angeles don't have a monoply on culture; culture lives in the suburbs of Detroit.

Warhol: The Factory Years will start at 9:30 p.m. Jan. 26 at The Halfway Inn on the campus of the University of Michigan in nn Arbor. Admission is $4. Big Art will present the Beckett play, "Krapp's" with The Plastic Oniki Band Feb. 7 at the Heidelberg in

Designer smooths path for buyer

special writer

Anyone who has built their own home knows that the anguish sometimes can outweigh the celebrity.

After all, who knows going in the difference between three- and sixpenny nails, or why 220 wiring is preferred over 221? Then there's cabinetry to consider and skylights, plumbing, pipes, flooring, appliances, electricity, insulation

With literally thousands of decisions to make during the course of construction, it is not uncommon for the new home buyer to become intimidated and anxious about making the right selections to complete the project

With changes and upgrades expensive and time consuming, new home buyers may want to consider hiring an interior designer at the blueprint stage to help alleviate the potential for mistakes and assist in pulling the initial components of the house to-most people building their "For first home, it can be the most traumatic experience of their life," said Barbara Goodman-Krass, owner of the Colorworks Studio of Interior Design in Farmington Hills. "In some cases, it's worse than getting a divorce

"If the home buyer and builder are not communicating correctly, there can be tremendous problems, almost to the point of a Mexican standoff. We can cut down on the miscommunication and help people make the right choices."

PRIOR TO ground breaking, the new home buyer must decide the location and size of everything from fireplaces to shingles. Is there room for a whirlpool? And if so, how large? A furniture layout must be confirmed

The builder must also know the location of all sinks, tubs, showers, toilets, faucets and shower heads Flooring choices need to be specified with regard to type, material, size, shape and color "There's just so much to consider that people are oftentimes overwhelmed," said Goodman-Krass, who has been in the business since 1976. "People are getting it from all sides. If they make a mistake, it may cost them twice as much to correct when the house is finally complete.

new home buyer can come up against, Goodman-Krass is offering "builder-designer package" as an option for buyers.

The package gives the new home buyer professional design assistance from the start of the project, and the builder works with a liaison who guides what the buyer wants and what the builder is willing to pro-

The package can be mortgaged or paid for as an extra in much the same way a buyer selects a custom trim package

THE ASSISTANCE of an interior designer would help save time and money for all parties concerned, said Terry Nosan, vice president of Nosan/Cohen Associations, a residential builder in West Bloomfield.

Nosan/Cohen recently agreed to offer the package in conjunction with Colorworks.

The job of building a house requires a lot of coordination, and to us, time is money," Nosan said. cause the buyer can't get with their interior decorator until next week, and we need to know their decision program like this, and we believe it will help tremendously in educating the buyer as well as making sure there is enough lead time to get all the materials before they're ready to be installed."

A Nosan/Cohen house usually falls into the $200,000 to $400,000 range.

ALTHOUGH COLORWORKS may be one of the first to offer a formal plan, area builders and designers, particularly in the high end of the market, have worked together in a similar fashion for a number of

"That's how we've worked most of our homes since we started," said Gerry Brody, vice president of the Brody Group, Bloomfield Hills.

"If you have a builder and an architect, that's only two parts of the puzzle. You need an interior decorator to make sure the flow of the home and furniture relate to the designer at the outset, or working with the builders themselves, a new home buyer tends to get the best product available."

Making the most from a compact design An exact rectangle provides the greatest economy in home construction. There are no inside corners to turn, stock lumber lengths may be utilized, and a straight gable roof can be built.

The house can be constructed on either a crawl space foundation or a slab foundation. The bath is compartment style, virtually providing the accessibility of two full baths with only one tub to purchase, and the tub area is totally separated.

The living room is adequate for family living. The kitchen is a good size and includes an eating area that is suitably sized. Laundry facilities are tucked away behind bifold doors near the kitchen area.

The house has three bedrooms; the master bedroom includes a walk-in closet and direct access to the compartment bath.

All W.D. Farmer plans include construction details for energy effi-ciency and are drawn to meet FHA and VA requirements. For more information, write to W.D. Farmer, P.O. Box 450025, Atlanta, Ga. 30345.

Office design in tune with tenant needs

By Dale Northup special writer

Every once in a while a building comes on the scene that transcends the stereotypical glass boxes that line our business corridors.

The Raleigh Officentre by Rossetti and Associates of Detroit is a case in point. Set back from Telegraph at at 10 Mile Road in Southfield, it commands the attention of motorists with its crisp horizontal lines.

The windows appear to be stretched between the support columns. Corner windows on the top three floors at the north end of the building contribute to the visual continuity. The spandrels are clad in glass and separated from the windows by a sill creating the illusion that the building is taller than its six

The vertical and horizontal members of the facade are covered with eight-inch square clay tiles that lend the appearance of brick when seen from a distance. The south end of the building, which is the first phase of the 300,000-square-foot project, steps up and out on the upper four floors and rests on prominently visual columns.

Phase two, according to Marsha Fisher of Farbman/Stein and Co., rental agents for the building, will be identical in the reverse. The two buildings will then be connected with a semi-circular pedimental cap. An open pedestrian plaza below will provide a visual link with the parking lot behind the buildings. As part of the same link, a concave-glass facade above provides a pleasing entry. Two convex glass entries add to a subtle play in spatial gymnastics.

Tenants are occupying the first phase; phase two will be begun in the RALEIGH IS being developed by Redico of Troy. Other projects include the Ameritech building. Top of Troy and the Yolkswagen building, all in Troy. Rossetti and Associates designed these buildings also, and they represent a longstanding relationship between the architect and client.

Every commercial client is interested in the leasibilty of functional office space, but Redico also has a sensitivity to design, both of which satisfy the needs fo the tenants. Jason Horton, vice president for development of Redico, says it is important for the developer to create a building that is pleasing to the prospective client. This is accomplished by a sense of identiity that Raleigh

The old credo, "form follows function," continues to play an important in commercial architecture Algis Bublys, project manager for the building, says there is considerable competition in the office market, so it is important for the developer to create a quality product Some of these features include desired square footage per floor, accessiblity of elevators, lobby features, and exterior landscaping.

The elevator cores of each building are directly behind circular lobbies sheathed in glass that provide a visual connecting link on the first three floors each side of the plaza The buildings are totally connected above the lobbies on floors four through six

The function of the building does indeed dictate form. Raleigh satisfies the function with a simple form complemented by good elements of design and further augmented by a productive collaboration between architect and client to mark a building that will continue to grow with

"We in the transportation industry are the most envied businessmen on earth. No other activity of an industrial nature is as much discussed or so frequently in the public consciousness Somehow, it is a fundamental human trait to be excessively proud of a handsome, worthy conveyance and to communicate that pride to the neighbors.

- C.W. Matheson, general sales manager, Dodge Brothers (1930) BVIOUSLY. Matheson came from an era preceding the Environmental Protection Agency, intense international competition and the ever changing stresses which envelop the global automotive marketplace of the 1990s.

Yet, if you ask Roger Smith, Donald Petersen and Lee Iacocca if they can relate to the enthusiasm and pride exhibited by this early industry executive, we would guess that they would

After all more than 1,000 automotive executives who will descend upon Detroit's Cobo Hall for the 1990 North American Internatinal Show now in progress realize the technological scope of the automotive industry has been driven by the forceful, can-do attitudes which transcend mere public personas.

For every John Dodge and Henry Ford on the automotive horizon, there was a C. W. Matheson who translated the research design preparation and quality of the final product into sales for a hungry motoring public.

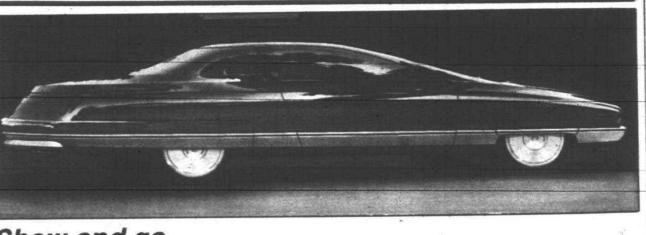

The 2nd North American International Auto Show, sponsored by the Detroit Auto Dealers Association (DADA), shares many common traits with pre-"Motor City" automotive shows of the early 1900s.

THE GOAL THEN, as now, was to create interest in an ever-changing industry, to inspire the curious spirit of potential automotive customers, and ultimately, sell them a car.

The pioneer and founding fathers of Detroit's automotive shows was a bicycle salesman. William E. Metzger

IM AND Ann Barrett, in need of a minivan for their expanding family, took a little different approach to shopping for

This was our first time entering the family-car market." said Tim. a 29year-old print production coordinator. Neither Ann nor myself knew what to look for so we figured the auto-show (in Detroit) was the best place to start. It contained all the information we needed under one roof."

Actually, the Barretts shopping method is rather common. More than 70 percent of the surveyed attendees of the Detroit Auto Show (now officially known as the North American International Auto Show in Detroit) buy vehicles within the following year. according to a 1988 survey by John Gilmore & Associates Ltd. For the Barretts, however, it only took one month to buy that minivan This year the Barretts plan on taking part in another trend - going back to the auto show for its entertain-

ALTHOUGH WE ALREADY own a new van, we had such a good time last year we'll be back for the 1990 show," said Ann Barrett, 29, a contract administrator.

And the Barrett family's latest addition, 10-month-old Hannah, won't need a sitter when her parents head down to Cobo Hall. The 1990 show will attract even the littlest Barrett. In fact, the 1990 auto show is continuing the family-event tradition established by the Detroit Auto Show, appealing to little folk, teenagers and adults alike, according to David Fischer, co-chairman of the 1990 show.

'The auto show in 1990 is the best entertainment $5 can buy," said Bob Thibodeau the other co-chairman There will be dance acts. magicians computer-simulated rides and more.

OH YES. THERE WILL be cars galore - enough to satisfy the discriminating tastes in the family. The entertainment is the added bonus that puts the auto show over the top in terms of family amusement.

Singers, dancers and magicians among the many ways auto displays draw crowds. Chevrolet displays will leature the Rhythm Brothers, a male tap-dancing duo: the Marauding Miners. a "unique act of three male singers and dancers." according to Gale & Rice's Sue Auten: Mark Sweet a comedian and magician, and a contemp rary, all-female dance group known as the GEO Dancers.

The Toyota display will include the Team Toyota dancers, who perform on two turntables in the MR2 and Celica display. The Celica will also be the focus of Toyota's 16-foot-high, threelevel walk-up display with a nine-foothigh turntable, highlighting the Celica's appeal to sports-oriented and funloving lifestyles. Among the celebrities attending the auto show will be Debbye Turner, who rhay be seen Jan. 6 packing her 1990 Miss America crown toward the Chevrolet Crovette display. Auto racing enthusiasts will have the opportunity to meet their heroes in the flesh - from the good ol' boys of the NASCAR Winston Cup series to the cosmopolitan stars of the Formula One circuit.

Familiar names include NASCAR's

Bill Elliott and Geoff Bodine. NHRA 1989 Pro Stock champion Bob Glidden. SCCA competitors Tommy Kendall and Dorsey Schroeder, and Formula One's Alessandro Nannini. As an additional bonus, some of the cars that compete on the world's most challenging courses will be on hand.

Burgeoning technology nuts will be impressed by the high-tech Si in the Lincoln-Mercury display. This wonder of modern technology actually interacts with members of the audience, functioning as conversationalist stand-up comic and dancer

The challenge for most auto display personnel, according to Fischer, is successfully mingling family entertain ment and automotive marketing

A MT. RUSHMORE replica, for example, served as a curtain for an unusual unveiling - the 1989 introduction of the Dodge Dakota pickup, said Tom Kowaleski, Chrysler's manager of product public relations. The facade of Mt. Rushmore split in the middle between the faces of Lincoln and Washington, allowing a laserlight and fog-enveloped Dodge Dakota truck to emerge.

Another concept getting attention these days is interactive displays exhibits that encourage participation or that expand on product imagery.

At the 1989 Jeep Wrangler display. show goers were encouraged to hunker down behind a simulated steering console. Looking through the windshield, the "driver" would "see" the road and "steer" the vehicle over, around and

QUALITY CARE PRESIDENT'S AWARD.

Today's auto show has a colorful past sailed across the Atlantic Ocean in 1895 to witness the world's first automotive show held in London.

While in Europe, Metzger learned first hand about the pioneering work of Gottlieb Daimler (co-inventor of Mercedes-Benz), who had developed an internal combustive engine in 1887. Fascinated by the potential of this new technology, Metzger sold his bicycle shop and pursued the "horseless carriage" concept full-time.

In 1899, Metzger formed a partnership with Seneca, G. Lewis of the Fletcher Hardware Company. Together, they organized The Tri-State Sportsman's and Automobile Association for the exhibition of sporting goods and automobiles. Securing the Light Guard Armory, the humble beginnings for today's billion dollar extravaganza, Detroit's first auto show was under way.

Without the benefit of tradition, building attendance demanded creativity. Apparently, Metzger had a little P.T. Barnum in him. African game trophies were lent to the show. while Lewis' company provided the cutting edge in fishing tackle and hunting bows.

And, to keep the cynics happy, Metzger's old cycling colleagues provided bicycles while local farmers displayed handcrafted "engineless" carriages to round out the show. Metzger "lack of horses and livestock."

The automobile industry was repreented by two steam Mobiles and two Waverly electric vehicles. Using metal rollers, Metzger displayed the power and efficiency of his products. Common to today's consumer public, the national audience was not easily im-

BUT, METZGER WAS elated. Like all visionaries, he realized the horseless carriage was an evolving science. The former bicycle salesman and future father of the Cadillac Motor Co. knew that the seed had been planted

To realize how large the automotive tree has become, in 1900 there were only 8,000 vehicles in the United States, the same number vying for highway space during today's Detroit rush-hour commute.

The DADA formed in 1907, pooling the resources of enterpreneurs who would become synonymous with the automotive industry. Names like Ford, Oldsmobile. Buick and Cadillac were all represented at Beller's Beer Garden, the 1907 version of Cobo Hall.

The early DADA Auto Show programs featured more advertisements for wooden wheels, livestock, bicycles, land parcels and clothing than it did automotive lineage. But, as the shows evolved, so did the industry.

Leading up to the World War I years, the automotive aftermarket made its presence felt in the advertising pages. Firestone, Cameron and compound sold tires, engines and ac cessories. Show attendees also were offered a full-line of motoring garments to protect them from the motoring hazards of open cabs.

The evolving technology of the combustion engine lent itself to the entrepreneurial whims of the Wright Brothers as they explored air travel at Kitty Hawk. Military planners injected the power of this technology into World War I in the form of tanks, planes, jeeps and transport vehicles.

Spoken wooden wheels gave way to rubber tires and steel rims. Candle burning lamps gave way to headlights. The horseless carriage design gave way to independent frames accompanied by spring suspension. Advances in sheet metal and pain technology were displayed as manufacturers attached components independently from the vehicle frames.

Two-cylinder engines evolved to four, six and ultimately eight-cylinder engines. And, with the impact of Henry Ford's assembly line, care manufacturers could produce 4,000 vehicles in a week instead of a year.

And, the launching pad for all of these innovations took place at the Detroit Auto Shows. In fact, the competitive fires of the world's automotive companies spurred great secrecy as leading up to World War II. Listen to Walter J. Bemb, an Honorary Life

"We would move our display cars" into the show auditorium under wraps and those wraps would stay on until the opening gun sounded," Bemb recalled. "You risked your neck if you tired to lift the covering off of a competitors' vehicle."

The automotive industry slumped during the depression and dedicated itself to the effort of helping win two World Wars. Due to these interruptions, there were 17 years where no Auto Shows took place.

But, with the renewed vigor, confidence and prosperity of the post-World War II era, young families purchased vehicles as fast as the manufacturers could produce them. During the 1950's, engineers created bolder designs, as vehicles were emblazoned with brighter two-tone paints, tail fins, and more powerful engines.

At that time, the DADA competed with New York and Chicago for eventrecognition and prestige. The Detroit Auto Show's home during the 1950's was at the State Fairgrounds, at Woodward and Grand River. Due to its lack of display space, the National Auto Show was held in New York.

There's a bright future for auto paint

ENRY FORD'S adage "any color you want, as long as it's black" - has been laid to rest.

Since the all-black Tin Lizzies of the automotive industry's infancy, a rainbow of colors has exploded upon the scene. making the highways, byways and auto shows of the world a Technicolor affair

"Cars are what people are or what they want to be," said Robert S. Daily color marketing manager at Du Pont Automotive Products' Finishes Division "As a result we are seeing a wider range of colors that range from somber tones to more flamboyant

Those who attended the 1989 North American International Auto Show in Detroit witnessed the flowering of these new shades, a trend that will be continued into the 1990s. The Quasar Blue of Ford's Splash and the Bright Lime of Pontiac's Stinger concept vehicles appeal to the sport-minded baby boomer while Honda's palette for its Acura boasts a bright teal, a honeyblend color or a distinct canyon "blaze" red

ALTHOUGH THE RANGE of colors available on new cars is greater than before cost cutting in the mid-80s has actually reduced the number of paint options for consumers. Subtle changes in color have been replaced by a broad representation of the spec-

Whereas automotive companies once offered as many as 18 color choic-carmakers today offer between eight to 12 colors. The narrowing of choices better enables carmakers to coordinate car interiors and exteriors. Daily said.

"What we are saying is a common car platform with several different nameplates is usually offered in eight common colors," he said. "Each different nameplate may have one or two extra colors that are exclusive to that particular car.

New technologies. environmental concerns, automotive cost consciousness and aerodynamic automotive designs are stimulating the rapid changes in automotive finishes. Vividpoint inhe came about partly because of the increasing use of plastic body parts and the environmental hazards of paint by-products such as volatile organic compounds (VOCs) solvent

VOCS ARE REQUIRING the paintindustry to change paint application methods to reduce hazardous waste. The need for paints that can be cured at a lower temperature is necessitated by the expanded choice of plastic, composite and other metal-substitute ma-

The industry is responding with several alternatives, the most prevalent being water-based paint systems. Waterborne basecoats reduce pain solvent emissions from assembly plants while resulting in more durable, longlasting and true-to-color finishes when used with state-of-the-art clearcoats. Waterborne basecoats also cure at lower temperatures required by metal-al-

"Waterborne technologies are opening up a new realm of color options and effects for auto designers and colorists," Daily said. As an example. Du Pont's waterborne finish technology produces metallic finishes that are brighter, more reflective and more flattering to aerodynamically styled automobiles than traditional high-solid Waterborne paints combine durability and aesthetics with cost effectiveness and environmental and ener gy conservation," Daily said.

'New coatings chemistries and latest state-of-the-art technology will be setting the color pace for the '90s. said Brian Stewart, assistant manager. PPG Industries Troy-based Advanced Color Styling Center for Automotive and Industrial Coatsings.

"It is our responsibility as color designers to create new and exciting aesthetic effects through the use of new technology and accurate color forecasting." According to Stewart, this is accomplished by studying color trend information from the fashion industry

STEWART ADDED THAT color stylists in workshop sessions in such associations as the Color Marketing Group and the International Color Authority also are used in establishing color directions. These associations consist of many stylists from a wide variety of industries that deal specifically with color for their products. At these workshops, they discuss and share color trend information and rk out a published color palette that serves various industries with a bases for future color direction

Car colors usually are decided three to four years in advance. Because of this enormous lead time, industry specialists like Stewart and Daily are forced to predict public tastes

"Generally I look to the world of high fashion.' said Daily. "That's where new ideas and new trends seem to start. We also have an experimental factor, relying on staff creativity to produce new colors that might spark future trends

What will be fashionable in the 1990s?

to the automotive color palette." Stew art said "True greens absent from the marketplace for almost 20 years, riding in on the crest of greener blues. There also will be a continued popularity for redder blues pushing their way right through violet

Daily forsees a continuation of the '50s retro look turquoise pinks and

"We'll be seeing a lot more Europe an and Japanese imports with colors appealing to North American niches he said. "The Japanese market will continue their obsession with all things American, and carmakers will respond by offering cars with more pronounced colors rather than the traditional white. European colors for the most part, will be somewhat livelier than the somber tones of the past Increasing use of waterborne paints will give added glamor to traditional
