New cable agreement on tap

A proposed franchise agreement with Omnicom, soon to become Continental Cablevision, is expected to offer customers more, as it goes head to head with new competitor Ameritech.

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW

Canton Township residents like Margaret and Gary Ellul, who have been unsuccessful in getting a cable TV hookup, may find Larry King in their homes sooner than they think.

The Elluls moved into Brookside Village No. 5 last month and have been told by Omnicom operators that the subdivision is wired, but hookups cannot be made yet.

Margaret Ellul said the operator told her husband to call back every week or two until a hookup can be

"I really don't think it's going to be in the next few weeks," she said

But the township board is expected to approve a franchise agreement in November, clearing the way for Continental Cablevision's purchase of Om-

The new contract holds Continental to higher standards in terms of customer service than Omnicom's contract did.

For example, Continental must "perform standard installations within five business days after an order has been placed, no less than 95 percent of the time.

Limits are likewise placed on the maximum number of hours that may elapse before Continental responds to complaints of "impairment or degradation of signal quality" (24 hours) and loss of service (12 hours).

Service appointments must occur within a maximum four-hour block of time, and installers must "make a reasonable concerted effort" to phone customers if they will be late.

Canton Township also benefits from the contract in that it requires Continental to pay the township government 5 percent of gross revenues. up from 3 percent in the last contract.

County executive blasts tradeport opponents

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW STAFF WRITER

Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara said Tuesday that Wayne County Commissioner Bruce Patterson, R-Canton Township, has succeeded in blocking a plan to dramatically expand Willow Run Airport.

Asked if Patterson has torpedoed the project, McNamara said, "I think that's true. He's been very instrumental in misleading people to the point that he has caused a torpedoing.

The plan to make Willow Run a "tradeport," which requires approval from state government, could have more than doubled the size of the airport, increased takeoffs and landings, and attracted large cargo aircraft.

But the project, McNamara said, is dead "until someone like Mr. Patterson either becomes enlightened, or is replaced."

McNamara believes that a Willow Run tradeport would bring many jobs to western Wayne County, but other people, including Patterson and Canton Township Supervisor Tom Yack,

"We don't need a runway extension to produce jobs," Yack said. Instead, he added, Wayne County should pave igan Avenue if it is interested in new jobs. "I can guarantee," Yack said, that manufacturing jobs would be created on Haggerty within six months of the paving.

Many of Yack's campaign contributions come from builders, developers and business owners, but he said that doesn't buy spe cial privileges for anyone.

"All anybody is looking for is access," he said, and they already have that because "I've always had an open-door policy. Builders, developers, business

Class action certified in Wayne County tax suit

People who sold property in Wayne County since 1990 moved a step closer to recovering a real estate transfer surcharge cents per $1,000 of value.

Wayne Circuit Judge John Kirwan on Monday certified the suit of Peter Macuga and TACT (Taxpayers Allied for Constitutional Action) as a class action

"Plaintiffs have established that the class is so numerous that joinder of all members as individual plaintiffs is impracticable," Kirwan said as he ruled in TACT's favor.

It means people who weren't part of the original 1991 suit may get up to $6.5 million in refunds if the court finds the tax was unconstitutionally levied. TACT's attorney, Peter Macuga II of De-

Neither Kirwan nor the appeltral question: whether the surtax should have been submitted to a vote of the people as required by the 1978 Headlee amendment to the Michigan Constitution. Passed by the Wayne County Commission in 1981, the surtax amounts to $40 on the sale of a $100,000 home. Pochmara discovered the tax in 1990 when he sold an east side suburban home and filed suit the next year.

In August, the Michigan Supreme Court ruled 6-1 that a oneyear statute of limitations began running in 1990. One justice wanted to make the suit retroac tive to 1981, since which the county has collected an estimated

Kirwan said Macuga had established that all legal tests for certifying a class action had been passed, adding:

"This court finds that the representative parties will fairly and adequately assert and protect the interests of the class.

"The plaintiff, David Pochmara, who in fact sold real estate during the time in question and paid the tax, is an appropriate person to represent all bers of the class.

The University of Michigan-Dearborn is offering a new certificate project in nonprofit leader ship starting in the winter 1996. The new certificate program is part of the master's degree program in public administration.

"The program offers graduate students and practicing professionals a human-service oriented graduate program that's responsive to the needs of nonprofit organizations and associations throughout southeast Michigan and throughout the county," said Seth Hirshorn, associate professor of public administration at UM-Dearborn,

The UM-Dearborn nonprofit leadership certificate, endorsed by the Michigan Society of Association Executives, is consistent with the certification process established by the American Society of Association Executives. To complete the program, students must earn 20 credit hours from eight courses including an assess ment seminar and an internship if no prior experience in nonprofit administration is evident.

Communications is a priority

ownship officials have yet to make a final decision to create a separate communications department. They should move ahead with the proposal to improve the flow of information and further open the doors of township hall to the public.

10A(C)

Currently, communications from the township to the public and the media are decentralized, meaning they come from various departments when there's a need or when the public or the media makes requests.

With a growing community and a myriad of issues and questions about those issues, there's a need for someone to take charge of providing information on a timely basis to the public.

With a busy government, someone needs to be ultimately responsible for ensuring that all requests for information are met and that no one is shuffled away.

Already, the township has a cable television show, as well as a newsletter for the public. But a communications department must go further in its attempts to reach all facets of the public and to ensure access to all requested information.

Under the current system, it appears that occasionally the left hand doesn't know what the right hand is doing, or township officials don't realize when there's a need for information to be disseminated to the public and the media.

Residents have complained to the media that they can't get answers to their ques-

The lack of communication between a local government and its residents/taxpayers plays a large role in how much credibility that government and its elected officials have.

More work needed

I'm sure that almost anyone, even a developer of commercial properties can understand that no homeowner wants to see a 26 foot rear wall of a supermarket rising like a prison wall and block the morning sun from his or her back yard. Nor do homeowners want to hear delivery trucks roaring through and backing into a loading dock with that annoying "peeppeep-peep" to indicate reverse. How about that wonderful aroma of trash bins right behind the fenceline, not to mention increased traffic in and around the sub, and the safety of our many children in the homes bordering the proposed strip? I could go on and on about the hazards and irritations that the shopping center would bring, and for what? It would be another strip mall full of the same kind of businesses that Canton has enough of, or worse, it would sit half or two-thirds empty because the location and competition would not make it profitable enough to stay open This would be the futile destruction of one of the last remaining undeveloped land parcels north of Palmer, in the eastern half of the township. Must we continue to pour concrete on every available bit of earth left in southeast Michigan?

Canton Township has tried in vain to urge the owners of the property in question to change their zoning to residential. This is a land use that the homeowners could live with. Even a more gently planned commercial development might at this juncture be deemed tolerable. But the developers in their infinite wisdom have chosen not to exercise social responsibility by designing a strip mall which will by its rear view and close proximity devalue the property and destroy the goodwill of its neighbors.

I urge Canton Township not to adopt the plan for Cherry Hill Court as it is now proposed. Much work needs to be done before the development plan of this parcel will be compatible with a residential neighborhood. Pamela L. Heinowski, Canton

Due to a Planned Unit Development created in the early 1970s this developer has the right to develop his property under the ordinances in place in 1972. In other words, the township is supposedly bound to a 23-year-old contract. This is ridiculous! How could they have had the insight 23 years ago to know what would fit in today? Did they know of the traffic problems at the intersection of Cherry Hill and Lilley? Did they know the surrounding area would be primarily residential and preferred residential by the township? Did they know two other grocery stores (Ford-Canton Center and Ford-Haggerty sites) would be

Historic commission, society not to be confused

eople often confuse Canton's Historical Society and Historic District Commission. However, while their missions clearly overlap, these two groups pursue different aspects of historic preservation. The organizational structures also differ.

State Senate bill opens door for school abuse

he Republican-led state Senate last week passed, on a 21-16 party-line vote, and sent to the House a grab bag of far-reachng changes in the state's School Code

Like most products of the legislative process, the bill was a mixture of the sensible and the outright dangerous. On the sensible side, Senate Bill 679 would lengthen the school year from 180 to 195 days by adding one school day to the calendar for each of 15 years beginning in 1997. It stands to reason: The more days in school, the more kids learn. The school year has been set at 180 days since the farming families insisted on having the kids out of school to help in the fields during summer. It's time for a

It also got rid of the archaic distinctions between "classes" of school districts and provided for more uniform treatment.

Considering the dangerous public policy embedded in the rest of the bill, I suppose we should be grateful for small favors. The Senate bill opened the door for hundreds $5,300 per pupil in general tax money, the same as any other public school. Sen. Gary Peters, D-Bloomfield Township, saw the point of the exercise: "We're allowing private schools to convert to state charter schools and drain the school aid fund. All the charter schools in Oakland County were previously private schools."

Ever since the Michigan Constitution prohibited spending public tax money on private and religious schools, it has been a right-wing objective to send kids to religious schools and get the rest of us to help pay the bill. The original argument for charter schools was that they might help provoke reform in an otherwise sluggish nopolistic public school system. But it's now clear that school reform is nothing more

KAREN MEIER

When to fret and not to fret

dults fret over everything — jobs, spouses, children, mortgages, the national debt, flossing. Everything in an adult life is so serious and so packed with consequences, fretting is required. Even when it comes to parties.

Vanished are the togas, car stuffing contests, kazoos, and Doritos. Now it's artistically cut vegetables, delicately blended dips arranged on crystal platters, and fish-shaped soaps in little baskets on the bathroom counter. These all take fretting, both on the part of the host and the

I was a guest at a party recently and I, being an adult, was duly fretful. From the very moment I saw the invitation addressed to "Ron and Karen," I fretted. "Ron and Karen," it said; that's it. No Tony. No Carmen. No Joe. No Jack. It was a party for adults. I hadn't been to one of those in quite awhile.

I fretted quietly and endlessly for the next 10 days. Baby-sitters, pantyhose, gifts, fashion sense. I didn't have any of them and time was running out.

The day of the party finally arrived. I did the only thing that made sense. I cleaned all day. You see, I just refuse to leave the house a mess, especially if I'm going to a party. There I'd be, in someone else's very clean house, and mine? Still dirty? I'd fret. How could I live with myself? How could I ever again say to my children, "Finish"

'Tis the season for greeting cards

When Community Hospice Services decided to try its hand at selling greeting cards it asked the children in its children's bereavement program to lend a hand, a request that had some colorful results.

BY SUE MASON

The crayon sketch is typical of an eightyear-old a dark blue sky, a leafy green tree, a bright yellow sun. Blue, purple and orange flowers poke up from the grass and a purplefaced child flies a bright red kite.

The drawing is a bit different than the ones Jason Harvey usually does. Good at copying things, he tends to favor drawing houses and trees. This drawing, however, shows the things he liked to do with his grandfather, Chester Harvey.

"It's dedicated to my grandpa," said Jason quietly. "It's the things me and grandpa did. I'm good at making copies of things and usually do houses and trees, but a house doesn't move and I like movement."

"His grandpa raise my husband (Chester Jr.) alone and he would have pulled down the moon and the stars for the kids," added his mother Belinda.

Jason's drawing was one of three selected by the staff of Community Hospice Services for a line of holiday and all-occasion greeting cards the agency is selling this holiday season.

Prompted by requests for holiday cards, CHS decided to try out what has become a popular fundraising tool for charities. Some 50 youngsters who had been involved in the children's bereavement program were invited to submit designs for

he contest

There were 13 entries and the winners included Christmas designs by Nicholas Fitzer of Westland and Barbie Haugh of Grosse Ile and the all-occasion card by Jason, a Dearborn Heights resident.

The winners received gift certificates to the Disney Store and a framed copy of the cards, while McDonald's gift certificates were given to the other children who entered, said primary care nurse Cara Gillem who worked on the project with public relations coordinator Mary Letters and Yvonne Strand, the director of social services.

A first try

"This is our first year doing this, and we may open it up to a larger group next year," Gillem said.

Not certain how well the cards would be received, CHS has only 180 packs of 12 cards for each design available at $12 per pack. A portion of the cost is tax deductible and proceeds benefit the children's bereavement program, Gillem said.

The cards are available at the CHS offices in Westland, 32932 Warren Road, Suite 100 and Plymouth, 127 S. Main St. They also are being sold at Aunt Clara's Cookie Cupboard and Little Professor in Plymouth and Stylemasters in Garden City.

"They're carrying the cards and many other businesses are displaying posters," Gillem said. "We're

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN SPECIAL WRITER

The ancient pottery of Korea, Thailand, Japan and China heavily influences the work of Garden City potter Judy Buresh. Just as potters ground and mixed their own glazes hundreds of years ago, Buresh creates her own colorations based on glaze chemistry studies at Western Michigan University. Even though she keeps a journal of all glaze mixtures, a number of factors influence the outcome at any given time.

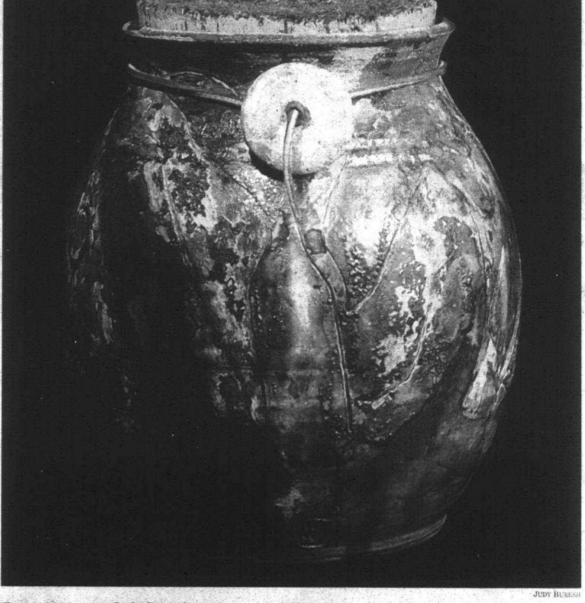

"I have different recipes. It's always different. A glaze will not always work well on white and terra cotta. The firing temperature and kiln atmosphere, even the humidity in the air and where they're placed in the kiln, will affect glaze application and outcome," said Buresh, known for her interior glass-bottom bowls and platters.

"I studied glaze chemistry and learned the way the ancient Chinese potters mixed their own glazes. For the glass bottoms, I mix glaze chemistry and molecular weights to get that glossy surface and extra flux to get it to pool in the bottom and behave like glass. The kiln's heated slow and cooled even slower for a 48 hour cycle to prevent it from shattering.

Buresh's work is evolutionary. She constantly experiments with new formulations and concepts in her Rising Moon Pottery studio then perfects those that succeed and discards the rest. Her latest success is a derivative of a deep blue bottle used to package ginseng ice tea.

"I recycle a lot of glass in my glazes. There's cobalt in this glass. Cobalt is very expensive right now,' said Buresh. "Everything's from somewhere in nature from the clay dug out of the earth to the feldspar, quartzite, copper, and volcanic ash used in the glazes.'

Buresh's thrown vessels and hand built tiles colored with cobalt as well as other minerals and gems are part of the artwork on exhibit in the fifth annual New Morning School art and fine crafts show Saturday, Nov. 11 to benefit the nonprofit pre-K through 8th grade parent cooperative in Plymouth.

Her latest work from the "Desert Adobe" series contrasts rich turquoise and aquas against a white-gray background. While still on the wheel, Buresh adds a very energetic application of glazes onto the raw clay. (Usually, a pot is not glazed until after the first firing.) Embellishments of amethyst, Italian marble beads, Chinese turquoise, and Tibetan trade beads bought at gem and mineral shows, characterizes the work.

Buresh's tiles are new, too. She is presently doing a tile installation for a fireplace and kitchen in Phoenix, Ariz., home and another for a doctor's home in Plymouth. Also in the show will be Buresh's wheel thrown miniature vases, some of them with hand-stamped designs, perfect for displaying in groups on shelves, or for holding single flowers on windowsills. Many collectors buy them for dollhouses.

"Even the miniatures, I try to instill some kind of character. I'd like to think my work is inspired by work from the ancient past and the traditions that exemplify that work It's labor intensive. I don't do funky things. I do work meant to be of lasting beauty that can be passed to generations.

Prices range $4-$5 for the miniatures to $300 for her large Buffalo Jar embellished with cork from Portugal and a stone from Russia that looks like a fiery opal.

In addition to pottery, the New Morning School show will offer jewelry, painting, hand-blown and stained glass, steel garden sculpture, kaleidoscopes, basketry, wear-able art, Christmas collectibles and decor. Show chairperson Leslie Stolaruk scouts art shows all year round in search of artists to invite to the Celebration of the Arts.

"We have a lot more people this year and a lot of new people. There are fieldstone bird houses, tree skirts made from antique linen and lace, and for the first time hand woven scarves, coats and wearables Also, framed dimensional sculpture made from hand made paper, polished stones, fossils and fibers," Stolaruk said. "In terms of quality and variety, the choices for holiday gift purchases are endless, anywhere from $10 to $15 items up to $100. The show's so eclectic. There's some thing for everybody. It transcends everybody's taste.

Not to be missed are paintings by Tom LeGault of Plymouth, little people soft sculpture by Marianne Akers of Livonia, hand made children's apparel by Diana Licht of Petticoats in Plymouth, whimsical ceramic animals by Eric Evans of Willis, architectural photography by Kristen Cooper of Plymouth, wearable women's art by Denise Sheldon of Livonia, hand painted silk scarves by Celia Block of Farmington Hills. and decorated vine deer by Sharon Kozma of West Bloomfield

Tis the season for witchcraft, ghosts, hallucinations, bloody knives, death and murder - so it seems Schoolcraft College has chosen an opportune time to under-take the challenge of William Shake-speare's, "Macbeth," which opened on

As a student production, one doesn't expect the play to have the polish and power of a seasoned troupe of performers. Few of the large cast have classical stage training, and some are making their stage debut. Nevertheless, Schoolcraft's "Macbeth" is a satisfying evening of theater.

One patron was heard to say, "Gee, I actually understood everything." No doubt this was due in part to a new "acting edition" of Macbeth by professor James Hartman, show director. Hartman's new script updates archaic terms of 16th century England without damaging the integrity of the bard's majestic

The play is based on history (with a certain amount of dramatic license by Shakespeare) and is set around 1040 in Scotland. "The Tragedy of Macbeth" is the full title. And, indeed, Macbeth is your classic tragic figure. Not content with his status in life, this brave and courageous general succumbs to ambition and envy. Macbeth murders Dun-can (King of Scotland), takes the throne, kills others to maintain it, and is tormented by his guilty conscience to his ly brings the beauty and splendor of Shakespeare's words to life with skill beyond his age and experience. He expertly portrays the pain, the guilt, the rotting of Macbeth's soul as he contemplates the horror of his actions. While Taylor is blessed with a rich voice, one might wish for stronger gestures to reinforce Macbeth's powerful character.

Beth Anderson likewise is very good as Lady Macbeth. While she could be more devious and conniving in her opening scene, she is soon in full bloom as she exhorts Macbeth to do the dastardly deed. She is particularly good later when filled with remorse, she goes mad in the "Out damned spot! Out I say! scene as she tries to wipe the imaginary

Dream to visit lost city of the Incas comes true

The Observer/THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 2, 1995

For decades I had nursed the dream: Machu Picchu, lost city of the Incas, on an isolated mountain top in Peru. 8,000 feet up in

The dream started in high school with a required term paper. We needed multiple sources, and 'National Geographic' magazine had done a piece on how the In can ruins had survived an earthquake that devastated the Spanish structures built on top of them. Encyclopedias provided the rest. The term papers procedural drudgery was designed by an English teacher, but it fed the dream.

The dream had to wait: college, a job, better pay, higher priority trips to Europe and the Middle East. By the 1980s, the time was ripe for us, but the Shining Path 6525, in Fort Myers Beach, Fla., rebels had other ideas. Until the and picked June, still in the dry last year or two, Peru wasn't safe season. By accident we chose the

For us, 1995 was The Year. In January the "New York Times" business page reported Peru, under President Alberto Fujimori, had a 12 percent growth rate, highest in the world, ahead of China and Malaysia. Investment

In March the Detroit Institute of Arts exhibited Peruvian treasures from the tombs of Sipan. That's on the coast, not in the Andes, and the Moches pre-dated the Incan culture of Machu Picchu. But the point was that Peru was home to a string of cultures for 3,000 years. That realization keeps a modern suburbanite from getting too smug.

Back then, we relied on Hiram Bingham, the Yale pro-IIS senator until the New Deal washout) who discovered the ruins in 1913. Bingham believed he had found the "lost city," the place the Incas used as their hideout after Spain's Francisco Pizzaro conquered them in the early 1530s. Bingham gave the buildings fanciful names.

Later explorers located the real lost city. Machu Picchu turned out to be a sanctuary built during the 15th Century and abandoned before Pizzaro's conquest. Our Peruvian guide told us that it wasn't even really lost; the private property owner and the locals knew of its weed-covered presence long before Bingham spread the word through the National Geographic Society.

It's now a highly protected national park and a stunning rebuttal to business people who sneer at government and professors.

Our group was about a dozen people ranging from college students to retirees. They had the same occupations as people we had met on other journeys, but their conversation was different They didn't talk about London, Salzburg, Athens and Jerusalem. They had been to Kenya, the Galapagos and on a week-earlier jungle cruise on the upper Amazon in Peru and Brazil.

Our tour started in Cusco, capital of the Queacha tribe whose empire stretched 2,500 miles along South America's Pacific coast from Ecuador to Bolivia and Chile. Inca isn't the name of the tribe: it's the name of the rulers. But nearly everyone uses "Inca"

The bulk of Peruvians are racially mixed, but there are great numbers of Incas. Their features are absolutely beautiful, often reminiscent of the Sioux Indians of our Dakotas. Even more ironic than Allen's clever twist ending is the reaction that the film has received from some women's organizations. They see Linda's dumb blonde as a stereotypical slap in the face to birth mothers everywhere and call for a boycott of the film.

Testament Records Sampler — Various artists

Twenty-three tracks, spread over 73 minutes this is the sort of collection that fans of roots blues and black folksong will fawn over; and with good reason. What a great compilation!

The comprehensive liner notes from famed blues producer Pete Welding, the founder and owner of Testament Records in 1963, are chock full of insights and inside information, and make an enjoyable read. He tells us that Bill Jackson, s first signing, was a songster along the lines of Mance Lipscomb and Jesse Fuller. Jackson's version of "Titanic Blues," with superb guitar playing and vocals, points to a man who deserved wider recognition. Welding also writes of blind street singer Connie Williams, an alumni of the same school for the blind that Ray Charles later attended. He normally played accordion, but, as his version of "One Thin Dime" demonstrates, in a the Rev. Gary Davis kind of ragtime style, he was a first-rate picker.

"First-rate" is certainly the operative word here, as one can easily glean from the roster here. J.B. Hutto & The Hawks check in with a wicked "Pet Cream Man." Otis Span plays a wonderfully blue Nobody Knows My Troubles," Mississippi Fred McDowell is joined by the Hunter's Chapel Singers on an inspired version of "Jesus On The Main line" and comes back later to shake it down with "Goin' Down South.

Johnny Shines checks in with a rockin' "So Cold In Vietnam," an ironic combination of hot rhythm with heartbreaking lyrics, then comes back in the program with a killer version of "Hootoo Snake Doctor Blues," a song dripping with the ghost of Robert Johnson.

Flint's Dr. Isiah Ross, the fondly remembered one-man band that was such a presence hereabouts 20 years ago, plays "Cat Squirrel," a song I recall first hearing from Jethro Tull in the ate 60s. John Wrencher's classic "I'm going to Detroit" is here, too.

Eddie Taylor (on a classic Chicago-style "Peach Tree Blues"), Robert Nighthawk (with a "Sweet Black Angel"-sounding "I'm Getting Tired"), Johnny Littlejohn (on a standup version of "Dust My Broom") and Billy Boy Arnold ("Pleading and Crying") share space with lesser known, but rarely ess impressive players, like John Lee Granderson who offers a gracious "A Man For The Nation" from a compilaton of songs written after the assassination of John F. Kennedy). Eddie Lee "Musright" Jones, The Chicago String Band, Jimmy Walker & Erwin Hefler, Ruby McCoy (with a superb Delta-style "Black Mary"), Johnny Turner & Blues With A Feeling and others.

This is most decidedly not a collection that will appeal to those blues fans who think the blues was made to rock with a volume knob. This is raw and this is real. This is the music that ultimately gave birth to rock 'n' roll, but as Fred McDowell once said, "I do not play no rock 'n' roll, y'all. Just the sweet and natch'l blues." And that's all you're going to find here.

Flow, River of My Soul - Single Gun Theory

"Energy never dies" is the moto of Australia's Single Gun Theory. Unfortunate they should ntion energy, because it's sore lacking on their newest album, Flow, River of My Soul" Nettwerk/I.R.S.). The two women and one man who make up the band have been working together for almost a decade, reportedly to cult audiences and critical acclaim in Australia. Singer Jacqui Hunt is talented and pleasant to listen to, but her soothing voice can't distinguish most songs from the next, or more importantly, beg for a second listen. The provocative imagery of the name Single

Gun Theory is the opposite of their generic "mood" music. Mixing odd soundbites with programmed beats and New Age-ish instrumentation. the sound is pretty but languid. A typical track begins with some unwieldy snippet of dialogue such as "Consider the probable reality that all time is simultaneous," and then a very-artificial drum track starts up over looped female voices chanting in the background.

In surprising contrast, "motherland," the last song with vocals, has both personality and gentle hooks suitable for the average lite-rock radio stahooks suitable for the average lite-rock radio sta-tion. And the opening track "transmission," al-though brief, is just lively enough to set the listen-er up for a disappointment. There is hope — the majority of these songs prove far more interesting if the listener takes a break between each one or puts other discs in on "shuffle." But after a few tracks like "decimated," "phenomena," and "metaphysical," most people won't want to bother: they'll either be rubbing their crystals contentedly or enjoying a light nan.

Band surprised by promotional push

The Observer/THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 2, 1995

The Presidents of the United States of America are convinced that their record company, Columbia Records, is conspiring to create a false sense of security for the band.

Wherever they go - the Detroitarea included - the quirky first single "Lump" is played on the radio.

"I'll never forget driving into New York on our first promotional tour and turning on (precedent-setting radio station) Z100. Within five minutes they played 'Lump.' I thought 'Oh my God. This is insane,'" said three-string "guitbassist"/vocalist Dave Dederer during an interview from his Seattle home

"And then we were in France during a promotional tour and we turned on FUN radio, the big station in France, and 30 seconds later the song came on. I'm thinking that these peo ple (record company executives) must be orchestrating this to impress us."

"Lump" has captured a big per centage of the votes from alternative rock listeners making it a Top 5 track at alternative radio stations nationwide. A video for "Lump," shot in Seattle and directed by Roman Coppola, is an MTV Buzz Clip.

While the music in "Lump" upbeat, Dederer sees it as a somber song. (With lyrics like "Lump sat alone in a boggy marsh/Totally motionless except for her heart/Mud flowed up into Lump's pajamas/She totally confused all the passing piranhas" it's hard to think otherwise.)

"There's no definite idea of what it's about. It's just the way the words play off each other. It's not a very goofy song. It's about a sort of disaffectd, unconnected woman. A young slacker who's not very in touch with herself or any other people."

Founded on the premise that good time is the only kind worth hav ing, The Presidents of the United States of America didn't become a "real band" until eight months ago, according to Dederer. Vocalist/two-string "basitarist"

Our Lady Peace explores spiritual issues

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO STAFF WRITER

Our Lady Peace guides its listeners through fairly omnious waters on its debut album "Naveed" (Relativity).

The album's first track "The Birdman," a story of betrayal by someone who seemed to be trusted, sets the mood. "Hopelessly a man starts to feed your day/Once he was there you never looked back/How did you think that his words might just fade away/ He seemed harmless enough so you let him in and now you'll pay," vocal-ist/songwriter Raine Maida sings siren-like.

Despite lyrics like those, Maida insists the darkness is underlain with optimism - starting with the album's title.

"Naveed is an ancient Middle Eastern term for bearer of good news, encompassing the distance between mysticism and reality," he said. Spirituality is an important part of Maida's life and therefore comes through on "Naveed." "Everyone needs something to believe in and it keeps you going. I never try to hit people over the head with what I feel," he explained.

Raised a Catholic, Maida said the

Muskie's Urban Pier a lot of fun

BY JUDITH DONER BERNE

For Barbara Hickman, the recent transformation of Acadia into Muskie's Urban Pier means she has a restaurant to go to and entertain customers at a minimum of four times a week.

"I eat here almost every day," said Hickman, interviewed in the parking lot as she headed back to work at her company, Pattern Guild and Products in Auburn Hills.

She not only likes the food the Delmonico steak ("I'm very particular about my steak"), the burgers ("great"), salads ("wonderful") and rolls ("good") - but "I like the staff, they're very friendly.

Hickman, who lives in Clarkston, also wanted to talk about the desserts ("top notch"). Her particular favorite, Grandma Muskie's apple pie, is made with crumb topping, walnut crust and warm caramel sauce ($3.25).

"The place is a lot of fun." Although general manager Brion Russ and chef de cuisine Jeff Stefani weren't there to hear her, they would be excited.

Because "fun" is what they, partners Charles and Bruce Becker, and executive chef Brian Polcyn determined was lacking at Acadia.

"It wasn't that it wasn't a good restaurant," Clarkston resident Russ explained. "It was a little too ambitious for the area" which is attuned to events going on at The Palace of Auburn Hills just across the road.

Muskie's "is more of an every day type restaurant. Still, we tried not to lose people who liked Acadia. We wanted to be affordable and comfortable."

So since Muskie's opened in mid-August, prices are lower, portions larger and atmosphere, bolstered by lots of neon, is more

"Hospital green" walls of Acadia have given way to earth tones, linens came off the wooden tables, and deer heads and mounted fish were installed to give it "an Up North, lodge-like feel," says Russ. The reworking came from the original interior designer, Ron Rea.

Mounted TVs, billiard tables and the still-open kitchen give you lots to look at. And a more recognizable, more extensive menu - bar food, pizza, pasta, fresh fish and seafood and "Steaks n' Stuff" - invokes regional cooking from around the United States.

Comfortable: "Hospital green" walls of Acadia have given way to earth tones, and mounted fish were installed to give Muskie's Urban Pier "an Up North, lodge-like feel.

For instance, here's what chef Jeff, a product of the Oakland Community College culinary program, four years under two different chefs at Too Chez in Novi and a couple of years under Polcyn, might order.

To nibble on: Pepper-Jack Stuffed California Chile rolled in stone ground corn meal, roasted and served with black bean sauce ($3.95) and "Detroit" Style Chicken Wings that "are definitely not from Buffalo" ($4.95).

- WHERE: 3880 Lapeer Road (across from the Palace), Auburn Hills, (810) 373-7330
- HOURS: Lunch, 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday-Friday; Dinner, 410 p.m. Monday-Thursday and 4 p.m. to midnight Friday-Saturday. Bar open
- weekends until 1 a.m. Open Sundays and extra hours when there is a Palace
- MENU: Casual American cuisine with many dishes wood grilled. Vegetarian friendly.
- Children's menu.
  PRICE RANGE: Moderate.
- RESERVATIONS: None. CREDIT CARDS: All majors. Drinking and smoking: Sixteen mostly imported beers on tap. Bar is in smoking section, roughly a third of the restaurant.

For a light entree: Spicy Fusilli and Shrimp, large spiral spaghetti tossed with fresh chopped basil, feta cheese, black olives and Italian-style ham ($8.95).

For a heavier entree: Either the Grilled Baby Back Ribs with smoked jalapeno BBQ sauce, half a slab ($6.96), full ($11.95) or the 14-ounce New York Strip, wood seared with natural sauce ($17.95). By the way at lunch the ribs would be $5.95 and $8.95 and you'd have to settle for the 10-ounce Delmonico at $8.95

For dessert: It's the Strawberry Tall Cake, that's billed as "too good to be called short." Fresh strawberries layered with yellow sponge cake, served with strawberry sauce and whipped cream ($3.95).

But Leslie Bey of Lake Orion wouldn't be having any dessert. She said it was all she could do to make a significant dent in the multiple slices of meat loaf in BBQ gravy and swoop of mashed potatoes that came alongside ($8.95)

"It's very good. It's just a lot," the first time diner said. She planned to take home the leftovers for another night's meal.

Children are made welcome. Muskie's "Guppy Menu" features a choice of four meals at $2.95 including beverage: macaroni and cheese, chicken fingers with fries, 'Lil Muskie Burger with fries and cheese pizza with or without pepperoni.

Steelers, Lions clash

he regular season wound down for both the Plymouth-Canton Steelers and the Canton Lions football clubs Saturday. The Steelers collected victories in the varsity and junior varsity games, winning each by 12-0 margins; the Lions won the freshmen game, 13-6.

Andy Kocoloski led the varsity Steelers, scoring both touchdowns in their triumph — the first on a 28-yard scamper to end the first half. The defense, led by Kocoloski, Todd Lawler, Ian Winter, Jay Lukasik, Tom Alberty, Aron Burg and Bradley Wells limited the Lions to 90 yards in offense and forced two fumbles.

The Steelers finish 6-2 in the National Division; the Lions final record is 5-3 in the American Division. Both placed second.

The junior varsity Steelers reached the playoffs with an undefeated record (7-0-1), thanks to their 12-0 blanking of the Lions. Jordan Robertson scored the first Steeler TD on a 5-yard run after Chris Trott blocked a Lion punt at the Lion 10. Chris Hardy's 4-yard scoring toss to Charlie Haeger finished the scoring.

Haeger finished the scoring.

The Lions lost one touchdown due to a penalty and had two other drives halted by the Steelers, one on a quarterback sack by Marshall Tucker and Bradley LaValee and the second on a fumble recovery by Tucker. The JV Steelers meet the Redford Raiders in the first round of the playoffs at 2 p.m. Saturday at Central Middle School.

The freshmen Lions gained a measure of revenge for the losses of their JV and varsity counterparts by besting the Steelers 13-7 Saturday.

The win improved their division-leading record to 6-1-1

Chad Fuller got the first Lion TD on a 4-yard run in the second quarter. Scott Hewitt's point-after-touchdown gave the Lions a 7-0 lead. A Steeler fumble on the ensuing kickoff set up the next Canton score. David Thomas tossed a 29-yard pass to Fuller to put the Lions into position; Thomas scored the TD on a quarterback sneak, making it 13-0.

The Steelers narrowed the gap to 13-7 just before halftime, getting a touchdown from Daniel Taylor on a pass play with 29 seconds left. That, however, was the final score for either team. The Steelers finish 2-6, while the Lions head into the playoffs.

EMU puckmen unbeaten

astern Michgan University's hockey club kept its record perfect (7-0-0) with a pair of wins last weekend — both sparked by junior Tim Vosnick, from Canton.

The Eagles, now 3-0-0 in the Central States Collegiate Hockey League, bombarded Marquette University 14-2 Friday and stopped Wisconsin-Whitewater 10-7 Saturday. Both games were at the Plymouth Cultural Center.

Vosnick led the scoring parade, netting four goals in the win over Marquette and six more against Whitewater.

The Eagles host the Kent State Golden Flashes Friday and Saturday at the Cultural Center. Both games start at 7:30 p.m. Tickets are $5 for adults, $3 for students (with ID) and $2 for senior citizens. ### Eagles end first season he Eastern Michigan women's soccer team will conclude its first season at Valparaiso University at 1 p.m. Friday.

The Eagles take a 4-8-1 record into the match after collecting a win, a loss and a tie last week. They lost to the University of Michigan 4-0, played Siena Heights to a scoreless tie, and battled back to beat Toledo 2-1.

Both goals in the win over Toledo last Saturday were scored by freshman Michelle Fatute (from Livonia Stevenson), the first on a direct kick just outside the penalty box that tied the game at 1-1, the second on a penalty kick at the 70:15 mark.

The goals were the first two for Fatute this season. The Eagle scorers are led by junior Amy Westerhold (Plymouth Canton), with seven goals. Junior Andrea Zawislak (Churchill/Schoolcraft College) has two.

In the scoreless tie against Siena Heights, sophomore keeper Jennifer Mansfield (Redford Union/Schoolcraft) made five saves.

Other local players on the Eagle roster are junior defenders Becca Raymor (Canton/Schoolcraft) and Danielle Priebe (Churchill/Schoolcraft), and junior midfielders Teresa Morelli (Livonia Ladywood) and Robin Lawson (Schoolcraft).

The team is coached by Paul Scicluna, a Livonia native who has also coached at Redford Catholic Central and Livonia Stevenson.

Strong 2nd half lifts Salem

At this stage of the state tournament, there's no such thing as easy. Plymouth Salem played steadily enough in its regional semifinal against Birmingham Seaholm to prove it had learned that lesson.

Two teams attaining peak performance met in the second regional semifinal Wednesday at Plymouth day at Plymouth Salem. Birming-ham Seaholm was 18-2, having won 15 straight matches. Salem was 18-3, with six wins in a row.

The only question was: Whose peak was higher?'

Salem's, apparently. The Rocks fought off a determined bunch of Maples, repelling one comeback while netting three second-half goals in a 3-1 triumph.

The win propels Salem into Saturday's regional final opposite an old nemesis: Livonia Stevenson, which defeated Livonia Franklin 5-0 in Wednesday's first regional semifinal at Salem. The two teams clash at the same place, at noon Saturday. The second-ranked Spartans (18-

The second-ranked Spartans (18-0-2), co-champions of the Western Lakes Activities Association (with Plymouth Canton), beat the Rocks 3-0 on Sept. 20 at Salem. The two teams met in last year's district opener, with the Spartans registering a 3-2 win in overtime on penalty kicks.

"We'll have to play our very, very best," said Salem coach Ken Johnson of the upcoming showdown. "If we play our best, it'll be a very good game. The fans will get their money's worth, that's for sure."

The Salem fans got their admission's worth Wednesday — in the second half, anyway. Seaholm was "a good team — very feisty," said Johnson. The Maples offside trap did just that in disrupting the Rocks' offensive efforts in the first half, forcing a half-dozen calls against them.

What their trap didn't spoil, Maple keeper Chris Glime did. Three times he ranged far out of the net to knock the ball away from onrushing Rocks.

But Seaholm could not get any offense of its own going. "I did not get the offense that I wanted to tonight," said Maple coach Ken Hammond. "But (Salem) have a very strong lineup. And they played a very good game." The scoring drought ended with 25:26 left in the match. The Rocks, adjusting better to Seaholm's trap, sprung Ronny Mashni through toward the Maple goal, where he was obstructed by Glime.

2nd-place finish at region makes Rocks a Class A qualifier

Second best: Salem's Scott Pengelly was second in the Class A regional at Buhr Park, helping the Rocks qualify as a team for the state final.

BY RICHARD L. SHOOK STAFF WRITER

Sometimes you overachieve. And sometimes you just achieve.

Put Plymouth Salem's boys cross country team in the latter category,

The Rocks scored 73 points last Saturday at Buhr Park in Ann Arbor, good for second place in the Class A regional behind Ann Arbor Pioneer's 59 points. Saline was third with 132.

All three schools qualified to send their teams to the state championship meet this weekend at Saskatoon—that's a golf course in Grand Rapids, not a big city in Saskatchewan.

"We had three individuals qualify last year, not our team," said coach Geoff Baker. "We got the team (qualified) this year and we're pretty excited about it. We've got three freshmen, a sophomore and three seniors."

Scott Pengelly was second in the regionals, clocking 16:13 and beating out teammate Jared Biniecki by just two seconds to give Salem two of the top three finishers.

"Scott was second in the state last year," Baker said, "and Jared was 32nd. Our third runner, Andrew McDonald, who graduated, was 42nd."

Highest finisher among the frosh trio was Nick Allen, 13th in 17:09. Freshman John Little was 22nd in 17:28 while sophomore Japbir Gill was 33rd at 17:43. Freshman Jake Gray was 54th in 18:09 while Jason Barylski finished 57th at 18:17.

X-COUNTRY

"I don't think we have a shot to win (the Class A championship)," Baker said. "But we're looking at a top 10 finish if everybody runs up to their potential and maybe a little bit better.

"Which would be great! We're moving in with some pretty good company up there.

"Both of our top runners are really running well for the time of year. We've never been an early team. We've always set our sights on the end of the season."

And the end of the season is this weekend. The states.

Canton finishes 5th

Canton's boys cross country team just missed fourth place, the Chiefs' 166 falling three points shy. Canton was hurt by illness for the regionals.

However, Ian Bedford did qualify for the state meet, clocking 16:56 for a seventh-place finish in the regional.

"Ian had a great year," coach Mike Spitz said. "He led the team every race. I can't say enough about him." Canton's next highest finisher was junior Sanjay Sharman (17:36), while Evan Crocket (17:50) was 39th. Shawn Moore (17:55) wound up 44th and Ryan Portray (18:02) was 49th.

The Chief did go undefeated in their division of the WLAA and were third in the league meet. "A decent year," Spitz said.

When we say we screen our doctors, it's not a slogan and it's not just some routine examination, either. This is a procedure we take very seriously. After all, your health is at stake here. So, before any doctors become Blue Care Network doctors, before they ever examine one single patient, they must first survive a very detailed examination themselves. Here's what it takes. First, all doctors (personal care physicians and specialists) are reviewed against very specific written criteria. (Quality of care is what we're measuring here.) In addition, an on-site inspection is conducted by specially trained staff and results are reviewed by Blue Care Network doctors in the area. Patient satisfaction surveys are conducted by a professional, independent research company. Here, we ask patients to evaluate their doctor's technical skills as well as the basic level of service and care. And, Blue Care Network works with its personal care physicians to ensure that quality standards are met.

. Finally, Blue Care Network itself is reviewed for quality by a national industry watchdog association.

of going through this process all over again every two years for as long as they're with us.

Now, that is a tall order to fill. But if we're going to take the guesswork out of selecting a doctor, we should try our hardest to provide you with a sizable list of quality personal care physicians and specialists. It's as simple as that.

Antlerless permits available If you haven't received the 1995 antlerless deer permit you applied for by now you likely won't. Successful applicants should have been notified by Nov. 1. If you weren't notified don't despair. The Department of Natural Resources has nearly 50,000 lefto ver antlerless permits that will go on sale Saturday on a first-come. first-served basis at more than 1,500 license dealers throughout Michigan.

There are two types of leftover permits available: general, which can be used on public or private land; and private, which must be used only on a specific parcel of 40 acres or more of huntable land under one owner.

Leftover permits are available in 51 management units, the majority in the Upper Peninsula. (See related chart.) Leftover permits for management units in the Lower Peninsula are for private land only, with the exception of units 250 and 251, located in the south/ central area of the state.

Any deer hunter may purchase a leftover permit regardless of whether they have already been issued an antlerless permit or not. Hunters must apply in person and must have already purchased a deer hunting license.

Hunters and anglers are urged to report their success. Questions and comments are also encouraged. Send information to Outdoors, 805 E. Maple, Birmingham, MI 48009. Fax information to (810) 644-1314 or call Bill Parker evenings at (810) 901-2573.

Sung Dynasty (960-1279) when purple clay was first discovered in the Yixing region of China. It flourished in the Ming and Qing dynasties (1573-1911) when master potters gave each teapot its distinctive finish. Today's Yixing teapots are even better than those of earlier eras, because the artisans produce replicas of old pots as well as innovative, new designs so that each teapot maintains its own character and "flavor." Yixing ware has the unusual ability to absorb the flavors of the tea so that the teapot becomes more seasoned with use. (The fired clay contains small air pockets that provide insulation.) The Print Gallery in Southfield has a beautiful selection of Yixing ware teapots from $28 to $34.

Taking the thorns out of blackberry picking blackberry picking? Let me tell you, those prickly thorns are sure stubborn and try their best to keep you from the lush fruits. As a child in southern Ohio, our family went: "blackberrying," and I remember the outings just as I remember having a cloth soaked in kerosene tied around my ankles to keep the chiggers off! Margaret Miller of Birmingham has pretty much licked some of those probems associated with "blackberrying." "I love blackberries, but I didn't like the prickers and they grew all over, spreading runners underground, and I ust couldn't handle that," she said. Five years ago she found a source for hornless plants, and the original ones in her garden have been replaced. Margaret doesn't remember which mail-order company she used, but you might want to try Hartmann's in Grand Junction, phone (616) 253-4281.

This name was given to me by a gensery, 7130 Platt Road, Ypsilanti 48197 (call (313) 572-0060). He suggests that "Chester" is a good thornless variety, and although they no longer sell plants, they do have a U-pick farm, open Aug. 20 to Oct. 20 each year where their specialties are red raspberries as well as

Going strong

When Margaret planted the new dormant eight- to 10-inch-tall plants in the spring, she enriched the soil with Canadian peat, which keeps the soil soft, and used Rapid-Gro. A few berries were the result the first year, but since then there has been an abundance of fruit.

'They haven't stopped since.' This year they were even better, and she attributes it perhaps to the hot weather. A yield of two gallons resulted from seven plants.

This variety of berry produces new plants by runners on top of the ground. Since she feels she has enough for her own and her family's needs, she shares these new plants with friends and neighbors. I now have a plant in my garden and anticipate the time when I can enjoy them from my own back yard.

Margaret explained that the plants, which like plenty of sun, won't bear very many fruits the first year, but there will be plenty the second year. After picking the berries she cuts off the ends of the branches where they grew, then and throughout the fall she cuts old dead runners to the ground "as I see them - a little bit here and a little bit there." All this has to be destroyed and not left around the plants so that disease is prevented

The new shoots are left to grow to produce the following year. She winds these shoots around tomato cages that are used to support the plants, but a row of double wires or a wooden tepee or trellis would work just as well.

Each year compost or manure is worked in the garden in the spring, and she fertilizes the whole garden, which contains vegetables, herbs and flowers, with Rapid-Gro twice each year. These plants need to be kept well watered, but the effort is worth it.

Margaret's husband always made the ielly from the harvest. He is now deceased, so this is the first year she has made the jelly. She shared a jar with me, and it is delicious

This generous lady likes to try lots of new plants and has a relaxed attitude about gardening.

Planning

"I don't think about anything growing or living with me. I'm not a fanatic about analyzing things: If it grows, it

She recently read about a new type of blackberry that grows upright like a bush that she would like to try. Her thornless blackberries are proof that they like what she does. Although spring is the best time to plant berry crops, you might wish to consider growing them as you plan next year's garden.

The book "Movable Harvests: The Simplicity & Bounty of Container Gardens." Chuck and Barbara Crandall (Chapters, $19.95 paper, $29.95 hard), has a section relating to growing berries. It recommends several "erect types" of blackberries; "Alfred" and "Raven" are

The information about growing berries is given in a simple, clear way as are the directions for growing all types of warm and cool season vegetables, fruits and herbs. This book is about growing in many different kinds of containers and explains what types to use, soil, fertilizing, diseases, pests, etc., and recommends suitable varieties for this kind of culture.

BOOK BREAK

'Final Account' surprises even this jaded reader

Home alone one Friday evening, I settled

Robinson's "Final Account" (Berkley Prime

Crime, 1995). Critics

on the book jacket call the author an "expert plotter" and "one of the most underrated

writers of British mysteries today." Sure enough, after the first chapter, I rose to make sure all the doors and windows were locked.

Set in Yorkshire, on a farm turned Yuppie estate, "Final Account" begins with the investigation of a brutal murder. A headless body, crouched in a posture of supplication, has been found on the floor of an old stone barn. Spots of flesh, blood and brain form expressionist patterns on the whitewashed walls.

A robbery? Not likely. A thorough examination of home and property reveal no missing valuables. The macabre scene looks more like an execution. But Monogrammed cufflinks on the victim's shirt sleeves identify him as Keith Rothwell, successful accountant and devoted family man. Known for his quiet, unassuming manner, Rothwell hardly seemed a candidate for murder and mayhem. Neither his well-bred, somewhat overbearing wife nor his bookworm of a daughter can explain the reason for their personal tragedy.

Enter Chief Detective Alan Banks, the intrepid protagonist of Robinson's seven-book mystery series. Banks grew up in a working class neighborhood. As a police officer, he's tough and unrelenting, yet as a man he's far from twodimensional. Passionate in the pursuit of justice, he also needs a gentler outlet for his emotions. Unfortunately, a floundering marriage with Sandra, who spends more time organizing exhibits at the local art gallery than at home, fails to fulfill his needs. Banks soon finds relief in music, listening to everything from New Orleans jazz to Khachaturian, and the attentions of a beautiful, young Pakistani violinist. Human na-

The country French look, seen in plates, gifts and fabrics, is tres popular for a lively, informal touch cor with a French accent speaks a universal language of welcome.

Country French has a timeless look that has found wide appeal. This can be seen at La Belle Provence in Birmingham, a shop that specialzes in French country decor, design and gifts.

"It has a warmth to it. We can make it as ophisticated as we choose or as relaxed," said Cynthia Seidner, design consultant at the shop, 185 W. Maple.

"Classic is always in style. There's nothing trendy about it."

The style is charming, with a romance and sentiment attached to it. Bright colors and vibrant patterns make up mix-and-match arrangements that say warmth, coziness and

"The vivid color is the thing that's so attractive to people," said Jennifer Tobias-Turner, who with Leslie Benser Luciani owns La Belle Provence. "The French seem to know how to get these really bright yellows and blues.

"You can dress it up or dress it down."

One example of the French style is to combine iron, cloth and silk _ perhaps a chair with a large plaid design placed near a table with iron legs, with the table draped in a fabric of another design. The lively look is relaxing and invit-

Unlike other styles, people are buying the accessories first, he said. More and more brides are putting them on their gift list.

"It's handcrafted, one of the very few (products) painted fully by hand," Janssens said in explaining the popularity of Quimper. The Quimper president advised that the look goes best with informal settings.

"It has to be a country home," he said. Quimper works are coated in a glaze made of water and glass ground as fine as flour. Among the wide variety of the pieces are round plates bearing fins at top and bottom to give them fish shapes, a bowl with a tall handle made up of two long goose necks that meet at the top, and plates of all sizes adorned with colorful peasant men and women. A cookie jar is derived from the shape of a covered pot from another century that was kept next to the fireplace and used to store leftovers. Slender, fish-shaped Christmas tree ornaments ture, Inspector Banks learns, is more complex than it appears.

Especially with regards to the enigmatic Keith Rothwell. The fastidious accountant who provided luxuries for his family but demanded nothing for himself, whom associates describe as a "man with a hole in the middle," wasn't so selfless after all.

The murder victim, it turns out, had been leading a double life under an assumed name and a separate address. Fun-loving and risk-prone is the way a former girlfriend describes his alter ego.

With the help of a computer expert to crack Rothwell's accounting files, Banks uncovers incriminating correspondence with foreign financial institutions. Further investigations reveal that the victim was knee-deep in money laundering and tax evasion, especially for a Caribbean dictator.

Rothwell, it seems, had been a Walter Mitty success story, that is, until his duplicity caught up with him. Either he knew too much, speculates Inspector Banks, or he'd been helping himself to

The setting then switches from pastoral hamlet to London and the international crime scene. Fast-paced action alternates with brooding introspection. An undercover operation masquerades as police bungling.

Robinson ultimately weaves the diverse threads of his plot into a truly unpredictable pattern. Even a jaded mystery story reader like me was surprised by the ending. "Final Account" - a good book when you're home alone.

Reflections surround us constantly in our everyday lives.

Have you ever noticed the reflected images in the exterior glass of a modern office building, that polished oil tanker you passed on the way to work, or even a pair of sunglasses? How about color ful, abstract reflections in an oil spill puddles after a rain, or a breathtaking reflection across a still lake in early morning?

Reflections abound. If you tune your photographic vision their way, you'll have many marvelous opportunities to give added dimension to your photo-

With building glass and metal surfaces, the reflected image will nearly always be distorted into a surreal, dreamlike quality

Mirrors, on the other hand, provide the truest reflections. Mirror reflections can be so lifelike it may be hard to distinguish between the actual scene and the reflected one. A photographer can often use this effect to his advantage to produce some surprising results.

When photographing mirror reflections, study your composition carefully and get in the viewfinder only what you desire. You may even want yourself in the picture for an unusual self-portrait. Use a small aperture to get as much depth-of-field as possible. This is necessary to keep both the reflected image and the scene surrounding the mirror in Another effect can be obtained by holding a purse-size mirror next to your lens. If the mirror is held at a right angle to the lower half of the lens, it will split the scene and you'll obtain a dou-

Water, as artists and photographers have long known, is the greatest source of reflection, offering a great range of photographic possibilities.

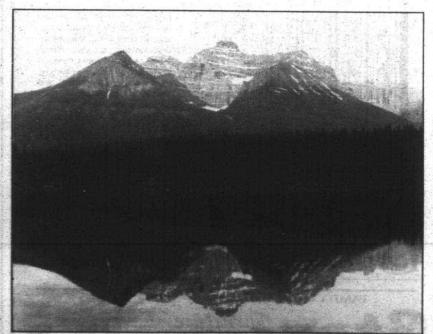

On a calm, clear morning, a body of water can become an enormous mirror reflecting almost perfect images of clouds, mountains, trees and boats. Just after dawn is the best time to find glass-smooth water, before the warming air stirs up breezes.

Water can also fragment reflections. Slight surface undulations can result in an image with soft overtones while pronounced ripples can produce an abstract scene or even a collage of reflect-

Don't limit yourself to reflections that you happen upon. You can create your own, too. Mix up a batch of soap bubbles and you'll be surprised at the reflected pictures you'll be able to capture on film. Or take a piece of crinkled aluminum foil and tape it to a sheet of stiff cardboard. Place brightly colored subjects in front of it and photograph the reflections in the aluminum to obtain dazzling photographic effects.

So reflect for a moment on the many reflections you encounter daily. You'll be glad you did!

Winter preparations: Bob and Shirley Schacht of Livonia work together to winterize their property. Guards placed over gutters when leaves fall are later removed to allow for better water drainage.

Act now to assure a snug house

By Doug Funke Staff Writer

Is your house ready for winter? Most aren't, say remodelers and professional home inspection service

They rake the leaves, bring the hoses in and figure they're done," said John Newmyer, a Walled Lake remodeler and president of the Michigan Remodeling Association.

"I doubt very many look at gutters, clean windows and look at the (hydraulic) closer on storm doors," he

"I think people think about it when things get real cold, then decide to wait until next year," said Rick Bowling, owner of an Amerispec Home Inspection Service franchise in Ply-near as important to people as main-tenance on a car," said Steven Tarnow, owner of Preferred Building in West Bloomfield.

"There's a lot of little things that can make your house more comfortable in winter _ and work better," Tarnow

Let's start with the roof, perhaps the most important part of the house cause it protects everything inside

"Roofs should be cleaned off," Newmyer said. "Better to do it with a leaf blower than a broom. You're not knocking granules off shingles.

"A lot of lawn maintenance companies will do that for you," he added.

"If you let them on the roof, check that they have workers comp and liability insurance."

While you're on or near the roof, clean the gutters and downspouts. Remove leaves, twigs and silt.
"If gutters are full of leaves and water turns to ice, it can actually push under shingles and drip inside," Tarnow said. "You want to get water away from the house and make sure no ice dams or icicles form that may cause damage."

If downspouts aren't connected to a water through at full blast before disconnecting the hose for the season. Remove and clean downspout extenders, if possible, to make sure lines are clear all the way through.

Walk around the outside of the ouse and look for low spots around the base of the structure.

"Sixty percent of (basement) leaks are due to how the lot drains," Bowl-ing said. "Make sure soil slopes away from the house."

Some fill dirt and raking now could make a difference come the spring

You can keep an eye out for other things while you're walking around looking at drainage.
"People should check to make sure all the lights are working; Check curity," Tarnow said. "Look at the (electrical) line from the pole to the house and meter to make sure the covering isn't worn."

Don't touch, if you see a problem. Contact Detroit Edison or Consumers

Drain hoses before storing them in the garage or basement. Don't stop there, however.

"You want to drain the pipe,"

Newmyer said. Turn off the water shut-off valve inside the house near the outside hose connection, then open the outside valve for water to drain before shutting it for the season.

Don't forget about that lawn sprinkling syst

"Have it turned off and be blown out," Tarnow said. "Really, pipes aren't buried that deep. Water will freeze, expand, and you don't want a surprise (break) in spring."

Lubricate the garage door.
Inside the house, check the tension at the hydraulic closer on doors after replacing screens with storm windows. An adjustment may be necessary so the door shuts properly and won't be damaged or blown away by strong winter winds, Remove screens from casement windows, Newmyer advises "Screens seem to collect more mois-ture on windows," he said. "That damages the integrity of the paint job and, in turn, damages the window."

If you're going to clean windows, clean the sash and frame, too. Weatherstrip doors. Caulk and reglaze windows, but make sure that the temperature is warm enough for the sealant to take hold.

Don't mistakingly caulk over weep holes at windows: Be sure condensation, rain and snow have somewhere to drain, Bowling said.

Then there's the mechanicals.

Clean or replace the furnace filter. "I change my filters once a month," Tarnow said.

"I use a reusable filter, put it in the undry tub, rinse it out, put it in. Humidifiers also should be cleaned, filters checked. If you don't have a humidifier, moisture can be added to a house that's shut tightly during winter by placing small containers of water near heating ducts. Remove the fuses at the air conditioning compressor outside the house if you want to save a couple dollars per month on your electric bill, Bowling suggested.

But don't use air conditioning for at least 24 hours after reinstalling the fuses in spring to avoid damaging the unit

Test smoke detectors. Change batteries if necessary.

ROBERT M.

Q. I am concerned about the numbering on the outside of our condominium units since they are very difficult to observe at night and I am concerned that if there is an emergency, emergency vehicles such as the police and fire department will not be able to readily find our unit. The association has refused to take any corrective action because it does not want to spend the money. The developer was apparently remiss in this matter. What can we do?

A. The association should be put on notice that the numbering system at your condominium is apparently dangerous and a potential safety hazard. Perhaps the insurance carrier for the association ought to also be notified as it may implore the association to take some corrective action. In any event, the association may be incurring potential liability in the event of an unfortunate casualty, and the association should not embark upon an pennywise and pound foolish attitude since it may come back to haunt the board and the association as a whole.

Q. We are interested in buying an expensive residential lot in a multi-dimensional project that includes boat docks, various condomini-ums and single family homes. The lot prices are extremely expensive, and we are talking about a site condominium in northern Michigan. Do you have any suggestions?

A. There are a number of major developments that are going up of a mixed use variety, i.e., single family. homes, site condominiums, marinas and various amenities. As in the case of any purchase, you should not only be concerned about the individual unit that you are purchasing, but the overall development and attendant restrictions that may be imposed upon you individually in regard to the community association.

Also be concerned about whether you have an absolute right to participate in various amenities such as a clubhouse, boat dock rights and the like or whether they are optional and can be revoked by the developer. As in any purchase, particularly of a complex nature involving interlocking arrangements between various associations, you are well advised to have an experienced and knowledgeable attorney assisting you before you become bound by a purchase agreement.

NEW HOMES

Covington Square emphasizes family homes

described as a subdivision with a strong family orientation by the three builders there, is nearing its completion. Fewer than a third of the 142 lots are available.

Pricing - ranches start at $162,900, colonials at $170,900 the Plymouth/Canton schools and location have proven popular.

"It seems more like a family neighborhood with kids, back-yards, bikes, sidewalks," said Gregory P. Primeau, owner of Primeau Homes.

"You're off Lilley Road, not a high-volume road," said Salvatore LoPiccolo of LoPiccolo Homes.

"There's great access. Ford Road, (I-)275 access. It's easy to get here," Primeau added.

"There's a lot of kids due in part to the Plymouth/Canton schools, which are much sought after," said Stephen J. Taglione, president of Heritage Residential Group.

Other factors bring in prospective buyers.

"Value for square footage, quality of my model is the same as $350,000 houses I'm building in other communities," LoPiccolo

"We really wanted to catch the first move-up person looking for more amenities than the house they had, but have a pocketbook to contend with," Taglione said.

LoPiccolo offers four basic floor plans ranging in price from $162,900 for a 1,400-square-foot ranch with three bedrooms and two baths to $190,900 for a 2,475 square-foot colonial with four bedroom and 21/2 baths.

The on-site model, a colonial of 2,350 square feet, features a living room, dining room, kitchen/eating nook with island, family room with fireplace and sloped ceiling and first-floor laundry.

The master upstairs has a separate tub and shower, dual sink vanity, walk-in closet and studio ceiling. Three other bedrooms, two with a unique ceiling orientation, share a second full bath.

Cost of the model, with extras like air conditioning, landscaping and optional master bath plan, is $218,808.

All of LoPiccolo's plans include as standard features fireplace, two-car garage, range and dishwasher, and basement. All except a colonial plan also includes first floor laundry as standard.

Exterior materials are brick and vinyl.

Primeau also offers four floor plans. A 1,500-square-foot ranch with three bedrooms and 21/2 baths carries a base price of $166,990, a 2,385-square-foot colonial with four bedrooms and 21/2 baths $190,990.

The model under construction, the large colonial, features a living room, family room with fireplace and sloped ceiling, dining room, and kitchen/eating nook with island on the main level.

Upstairs, the master will have separate tub and shower, walk-in closet and cathedral ceiling. Three other bedrooms, one with cathedral ceiling, and a second bath are upstairs.

The model, with extras, will cost about $195,900.

All of Primeau's plans include the same standard features as LoPiccolo. Brick and vinyl siding are exterior materials. Heritage's four plans range from a 1,700-square-foot ranch with three bedrooms and two

The property tax rate is expected to shake out at about $31 per $1,000 of state equalized valuation. That means the owners of a $190,000 house in Covington Square would pay nearly $3,000 the first year.

Hot small business takes Express to success

Tech Express Corp. of Livonia has been on a fast track to success over the last two years. Last month, the company was named one of the "50 Hottest New Small Businesses in America" by Entrepreneur magazine.

Husband and wife owners John Damrath III, 33, and Tammy Damrath, 34, started the company, which provides architectural and engineering services, out of their Livonia home in 1993.

Financed with an initial investment of $15,000 from 401(k) savings, the owners project 1995 sales to exceed $1.2 million.

"We knew that if it did work, it could be huge. Companies who are cutting their staffs and sending work out - and sometimes they only have a staff of one to begin with - they have work for us," said John Damrath.

Tech Express, at 16801 Newburgh Road, does half of its business in new properties and half in remodeling. It specializes in gasoline and convenience store design and does restaurants, car washes and multi-purpose structures, said John, a civil engineering graduate of Ohio State University

Staff grows

The Tech Express staff has increased and now includes 20 architects, engineers, computer-aided design operators and other personnel. "If someone calls, there should always be someone to take their call and help.

"We got a call last week to send someone down to Miami to measure two sites. Our guy arrived the same day, measured the next morning, flew back and we had the drawings done and sent back to the clients within two days.'

John said that just as he was driven to start his own business, he was motivated as a hockey player to become a coach. He sees himself as the "coach" of the team at Tech Express. "The coach can't skate, but he can put the right people on the ice who can," explained John, who organizes his employees into selfdirected work teams, trying to let these teams make decisions that only involve him when necessary. He looks at all of the drawings, but he tries to push most decisions back to the teams.

faster than Email. But E-mail's growth has been steady, so much so that in the coming year the total volume of E-mail will surpass snail mail.

This year, some 85 million pieces of mail will be delivered by the U.S. Postal Service. In 1996, some 95 million pieces of E-mail will cross through the wires. A lot of that may be listsery discussion groups contributing to the total but the result still is pretty im-tion that the number of online users, each with a unique E-mail address, will result in E-mail addresses being depleted much like ZIP codes and telephone area codes are being used up.

The projection is that under the present scheme all addresses will be used up by the year 2020. But a developed and will be in place a decade or more before the depletion point, so the future is rosy.

What is troubling, though, for beginning and experienced Internet users is the length and complexity of some E-mail addresses. mpuserve, especially, has long, involved addresses.

One solution has been to enter addresses (very carefully) into an address book so you only have to type a short nickname and the complicated E-mail address is automatically entered. Pine users address book with Eudora but

This method produces a type of Address Book for Eudora that is fairly functional. Not great, but functional).

There is another solution to complicated E-mail addresses available to all users regardless of software. One person who developed this solution and now makes it available is Jon Zeeff of Ann Arbor, president of Branch Inter-

In the past, only Web sites hosted on their own servers could use separate domain names, i.e., oeonline.com. As a result, many companies that cannot afford to set up their own servers had to host sites on shared services using long names, using the format http://www.your-service-providfile.html, such as http://oeonline.com/(tilde mark)emoryd rchive.html. Branch Internet Services has invented "Virtual Host" software "aliased" to a single server so that sites hosted on machines with this capability could shorten their www.you.com, such as http:// www.emory.com. For as little as $40 a month, Branch's unique Internet Image Service, the first of its kind, allows companies and individuals to appoint their own registered domain names to their WWW sites or E-mail accounts, regardless of their service provider.
