Pilot error likely cause of crash

The National Transportation Safety Board says it's likely that the pilot of a medical helicopter caused the Dec. 1, 1994, crash in which a Canton nurse was killed along with the pilot and a doctor.

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW
STAFF WRITER

The pilot of a Midwest Medflight helicopter that crashed Dec. 1, 1994, killing three people, including Canton resident Jan Nowacki-Tobin, probably caused the crash by shutting down the wrong engine and failing to safely execute an engine-out landing, according to a report from the National Transportation Safety Board.

The crash killed the pilot, Richard Elliott, 42, Dr. Terry Racicot, 37, and nurse Nowacki-Tobin, 43.

"The NTSB determines that the probable cause(s) of the accident was the pilot's failure to obtain/maintain a successful auto rotation. Factors were a loss of engine power of one engine for undetermined reasons, and the pilot's shutdown of the wrong engine."

Elliott had been flying one of Midwest Medflight's Agusta 109 helicopters from St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor to McPherson Hospital in Howell. There was no patient aboard.

"The flight had been airborne for two minutes when the pilot requested landing permission stating, in part, 'I'd like to proceed inbound ... single engine landing, please,'" according to the NTSB report. "He canceled this request immediately and reported '...I'm going down at this time.'

"He then contacted the dispatch where he had departed and reported the position of his intended landing. After this radio call, 23 to 25 seconds passed before his last communication indicating an imminent crash.

"Witnesses reported that the helicopter was nearly silent just prior to ground impact and that there was no engine noise at all after impact. Subsequent investigation revealed that neither engine was operating at the time of the accident; however, damage to the rotor system indicat-

Developer says he'll work with Canton

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW

The dispute between township officials and developers of a 680-acre subdivision/golf course/park over how nice everything should be is finished, according to one of the developers.

Steve Friedman, the principal owner of the Selective Group, which has partnered with Phoenix Land Development to take on this 10-year project, told the township board April 2 that the dispute is over.

"We're not here to fight them," he said after his presentation to the board members. "We're here to work with them. If you've got to be here 10 years you might as well enjoy it."

Although planning commissioners effectively forced Friedman to reduce the number of houses planned for the development, the developer said "we're not losing sleep over it because we think you're going to let us make a lot of money on these large lots."

Planning Commissioner Melissa McLaughlin, who is also on the board of trustees, isn't as sure as Friedman that the unpleasantness is over.

"I hope they finally believe us when we tell them what we're thinking about, but I'm not placing any bets yet," she said.

Great care must be taken with how this development proceeds, McLaughlin said, because "the impact is going to be pretty substantial on the community. Time taken now will pay off in the future for everyone."

"This is probably going to be the last large parcel developed (in Canton) and we have got to do it right," said Supervisor Tom Yack.

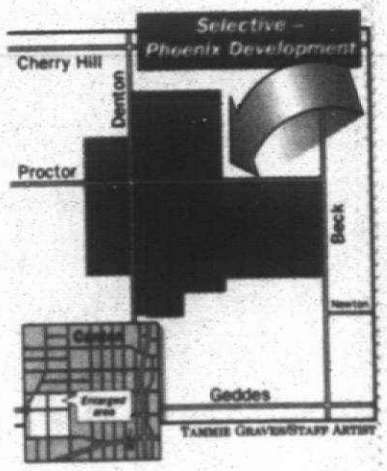

The development, called Central Park, is tentatively scheduled to feature detached and attached condominiums, as well as single-family homes on a variety of lot sizes. Of the 680 acres, 250 are devoted to open space, including a nine-hole golf course that would supplement nearby Pheasant Run, regulated wetlands, uplands and a park by Denton Road that would be given to the township for soccer or softball fields.

The catch is that it would be the township's responsibility to pay for development of the park and the golf course.

"It's anticipated that the township is going to be footing the bill for this nine holes," Friedman said. If township officials decide not to develop the golf course, the area would be left as open space, Friedman said.

Planning commissioners had criticized Friedman in late March on density and on the appearance of the houses.

"This is redundancy throughout," said commission Chairman Vic Gustafson when shown samples of styles. "This is more of the same. There is no newness. There is no creativity."

Photojournalist remembered by staff

World-renowned photojournalist Arthur Emanuele will be remembered for his warm smile, big heart and his tenacity for always getting the story, and telling it visually.

A legend in news photography, Emanuele, 75, died of heart disease last Friday at his Brighton home. A 58-year veteran of the photography profession, Emanuele worked for the last 27 years at the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers.

Before joining the O&E in January 1969, Emanuele worked for the Associated Press, Cleveland Plain Dealer, the Detroit Free Press, and the Akron Beacon Journal.

He worked full time in the Observer's Livonia photo department until suffering a heart attack last month.

A celebrated veteran of the news business, Emanuele was honored last year with induction to The International Photography Hall of Fame and Museum in Oklahoma City, Oklahoma. The museum commemorates the history, science, art, people, events and places that have shaped photographic destiny.

Also last year, Emanuele was honored with a lifetime achievement award by the Detroit Chapter of the Society of Professional Journalists.

In February, his colleagues at the O&E honored him with a special achievement award for his dedication to the news profession and to suburban news photography.

"Although Art was trained in a different photographic era he always kept up with technical advances. He was the consummate news photographer. Armed with cell phone, beeper and police scanner, Art was often the first one on the scene of a breaking news story," said Observer Managing Editor Susan Rosiek.

Four residents seek 2 school board seats

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

Voters in Plymouth-Canton Community Schools will choose two trustees from a field of four candidates in the June 10 election. Those who returned election petitions by the April 8 deadline include incumbent Jack Farrow, former candidates Jeff Phillips and Paul Schrauben, and Elizabeth Givens. The winners will serve four-year terms.

Givens is a newcomer to local school politics, but has been active in the school district for 15 years.

A Canton resident, Givens has served on the Plymouth-Canton Community School Council as president and vice president; on the School Improvement Team for the high schools; district goals committees; and on the superintendent search committees.

She's also been involved with PTO groups at Eriksson Elementary; Lowell and East middle schools.

Givens said she is running because of her "broad experience and understanding of the issues," adding that "communication among parents, teachers and administration is vital to the best possible education for all children in the district.

"My goal as a member of the school board is to continue to work for what is best for our children, just as I have as a volunteer," said Givens.

Givens and her husband Dave have two children who graduated from the district, and one who is a freshman at Canton High School.

"My children have had an excellent experience in the Plymouth-Canton schools," she said. "By the time my youngest graduates, we will have had kids in PCCS for 18 years. At the same time, my kids have also experienced international school, private school, home schooling and high school by correspondence due to our travel."

Liz and Dave Givens work in media and publications for SEND International of Farmington, which takes them all over the world to gather video, photos and written material.

Liz Givens earned a master's degree in communications from Temple University in Philadelphia, Penn.

Schrauben and his wife Sara have lived in the community for seven years, and are the parents of a 3-year-old and an 18-month-old.

Schrauben was elected president of the Leadership Canton alumni group. He serves on the school district's citizens' finance committee and on the education sub-committee for the Community Development Committee of the Canton Chamber of Commerce.

Formerly an examiner with the Office of Thrift Supervision, United States Treasury Department, Schrauben is a stay-at-home father. He decided to run last year because through Leadership Canton, he realized the board was making decisions that will impact his children.

"I carried that through with the finance committee and by attending board meetings," said Schrauben, who earned a triple major in business administration, economics and political science at Aquinas College.

As a board member, Schrauben would make long-term planning a priority in budgeting, student housing and other areas.

"Thinking ahead helps," he said. "I think it's important to keep that in front of people. You don't just do it once. It's a continual process."

Schrauben also would examine, if elected, what happened to the need for teacher training, textbooks and instructional materials. Voters defeated a 2.3-mill tax increase last year that would have funded the items.

"They were supposed to be priority items. Well what happened to them? If we needed text books last year, we still need them this year."

Schrauben says he'd make a good board member because he has a vested interest. "It's important to me that we maintain quality education and improve it in any way possible so my kids get the possible education they can get."

Schrauben says his strengths are "my ability to be organized and focused when it comes to issues; my willingness to take a leadership role; and to make decisions and be accountable for the decisions I make."

Candidates Jack Farrow and Jeff Phillips will be interviewed for a story in Monday's Observer.

ed that RPM was extremely low at the time of impact."

"This is a bit of a surprise and a little difficult for us to swallow in view of our working relationship with Rick and confidence in him," said Midwest Medflight President John McCabe at a press conference Tuesday.

Elliott was up to date in all his training requirements, McCabe said, and had practiced auto rotation within six months of the crash. Auto rotation is a procedure whereby a helicopter may be safely landed in the event of engine failure.

Elliott "was a very well-organized, caring person who put a lot of energy and focus into his work," McCabe said.

Mike Tobin of Canton, whose wife Jan died in the crash, worked as a paramedic for Huron Valley Ambulance and knew Elliott well.

At a memorial ceremony last December, Tobin said, "The aircraft failed the pilot. The pilot didn't fail the pilot. I have no doubt in my mind. When Rick flew his aircraft, he flew it by the book. He knew the aircraft better than anyone else."

The aircraft was owned by Metro Aviation and leased to Midwest Medflight. Metro Aviation was responsible for maintenance of the helicopter and was the employer of Elliott.

Nowacki-Tobin was a flight nurse and St. Joseph Mercy Hospital employee. She left behind her husband and two children, Jennifer and Philip. On Dec. 1, 1995, Nowacki-Tobin's family, friends and co-workers gathered on the grounds of the St. Joseph hospital complex to pay tribute to her memory and to a life dedicated to the service of others.

Man found dead

Canton police found a 23-year-old township man dead in the cab of his pick-up truck Sunday, April 7.

The man was lying face down on the seat. The truck was parked with the keys in the ignition outside the house where he lived with his parents.

The body was discovered by the man's father.

Manager tricked

The manager of the Agape Christian book store on Ford Road believes a customer defrauded him of $70.97 by returning three stolen Bibles for a refund.

The police report said a 20-year-old Agape clerk exchanged the three Bibles for a customer who said his daughter had a "bad reaction to the ink."

The manager later found inventory stickers on the Bibles, which are routinely removed whenever a Bible is sold.

Fumble

A purse snatcher foiled himself Saturday afternoon when he dropped the handbag he swiped from a woman in the Meijer parking lot.

According to the police report, the man grabbed the purse from the woman's shopping cart.

"She yelled at the suspect as he ran away and was unable to hold onto the purse," the police report said.

The man fled in a 1978 Oldsmobile.

Colleague Bill Bresler recalled the time when a small plane crashed in downtown Plymouth.

"I was about an hour away, but I raced to the scene only to be told by a police officer that I was too late — Art had already been there. I took some pictures anyway and went back to the lab to print. Art had already come and gone.

"As it turned out, Art had the best pictures and they used his in the newspaper," said Bresler.

"We'll all miss his enthusiasm and his dedication to his profession, and all the little things that made him very special," said Rosiek.

A tradition Art established was to send staffers and other special people a Christmas card telling in pictures what the year had been like for the Emanuele family.

Art is survived by his wife, Betty (Bozenka) Bacik Emanuele; and son, Dr. Milan Art, a psychology consultant for the Livonia Public Schools. Other survivors include sisters, Elena Glasier of Beverly Hills and Rose Elsner of Mifflin, Ohio; and brothers, Bert of Grosse Pointe, a retired Free Press photographer, and Victor of Memphis, Tenn.

Services are scheduled at 11 a.m. Friday in Peace Lutheran Church, 13 Mile, one block east of Southfield Road in Southfield. The family will be at Harry J. Will Trust 100 Funeral Home, 37000 Six Mile, just east of Newburgh Road in Livonia until 8 p.m. Thursday. Burial will be in Rural Hill Cemetery, Northville.

Memorials may be sent to the Detroit Metro News Photographers Association, P.O. Box 1150, Brighton, Mich. 48116. Money will be used to establish a scholarship fund for student photographers.

Arthur Emanuele, photographer

Although still active when most at his age in his profession had retired, Art was always looking ahead to the next assignment. And whether it was a football or baseball game or special presentation at the local fire station, or a breaking news story with a barricaded gunman, every assignment was important to him.

Fondly remembered: Art Emanuele was 'a class act,' in the words of Garden City's Jim Plakas.

Art always made a few "extra" prints and made sure that his subjects would have a special picture to keep. The practice endeared him to many members of the community.

Margaret Miller, now retired in Sarasota, Fla., worked with Emanuele when both were at the Associated Press in the late 1940s and early 1950s and again while she was with the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers. Miller was Community Life editor from 1966-82.

"Art was determined to do the very best he could all of the time. He felt he knew what was needed, and he did, and was determined to do a credible job. Art was, of course, a super loyal person. Once you knew Art, he would do anything for you and for his company — a trait demonstrated at both the AP and the Observer. Art would always do a good job for his fellow employees and for his company.

"Art knew so many people and had so many experiences and contacts that he could in places and get pictures that other photographers could not."

Miller recalled the time the Super Bowl was played at the Silverdome. "We were planning our coverage and so I checked with Art for advice, and he said, "Oh yes, I've covered lots of Super Bowls; I can do that."

"Art did know a lot of people," said Bresler, a staff photographer covering Plymouth and Canton.

"I had just bought a new car — a Chrysler product, and it was a lemon. Art told me I should call Lee Iacocca, who was head of the company at the time. I kept saying, yeah, sure, Art. Well, one day I was in the photo lab and Art made a phone call. He said: "Lido, my friend, I've got a boy here that bought one of your cars and he's having trouble. Will you take care of him?" Art handed the phone to me and sure enough it was Iacocca," said Bresler.

"He was never without a smile," said Madonna University President Sister Mary Francilene. "Art was a true friend of Madonna University. Whenever there was an event at our university or an activity sponsored by Madonna, Art wanted that photo assignment. Just as he felt close to us, we loved this man with the gentle personality and will remain forever one in spirit with God and with each other."

One of Art's many special awards was a lifetime achievement award from Madonna University.

Others also had fond memories. "He was just a great guy — a great human being, in my opinion," said former Garden City Mayor Jim Plakas. "I knew him 30 years and I was always delighted to be with him. I loved to hear about his experiences. He was a class act."

Plakas recalled one assignment Emanuele was on at city hall when Plakas made a request.

"I had a collection of photos on the wall in my office. I told Art I wanted picture of the two of us," said Plakas.

Then-city manager Jon Austin snapped the photo of the two, which today hangs on the wall of Plakas' home office.

"Art had that great Emanuele smile. I'm smiling, too, but I don't look as good as Art," Plakas said. "He was one of the best photojournalists I had the pleasure of meeting. But more importantly he was a good man and a good friend. He was never without a smile. He'll be sorely missed."

For a number of years, Emanuele did freelance work for Garden City Hospital, especially the annual employee awards program.

"I'd say, 'I'll back you up with my Polaroid.' He always got a kick out of that," said hospital personnel director Mitch Nimmoor. "I got a kick out of Art. Most of the people here knew him. He'd talk to people in the hall — he went back a long way with them."

Nimmoor recalled how Emanuele always swore by this Canon camera — refusing to use imported camera equipment on patriotic grounds.

"He was really proud of his new Nikon after the company bought them, but he always had his Canon with him for backup," he said. "Art was really set in his ways. His gruff manner belied a soft, sensitive person."

Emanuele was not able to photograph the hospital's service awards this year due to illness, but he made sure he had a replacement cover the assignment.

"He said he'd never let me down," Nimmoor said.

Born in Cleveland, Art enjoyed a very exciting and colorful career in news photography before joining the O&E.

He started his photography career at the Akron Beacon Journal. Then he went into the Army Signal Corps Photographic Unit and was assigned to the small Pentagon unit out of Honolulu on Gen. Douglas MacArthur's staff. He followed MacArthur throughout the Pacific, including the China-Burma-India area.

Art and his wife, Betty, had a passion for travel. In the last few years, their trips were mainly to northern Michigan and Toronto, with a few overseas to Sweden and Finland. But throughout their marriage the couple traveled to Russia, Africa, Egypt, India, Brazil, Czechoslovakia and Italy.

He attained the rank of master sergeant during World War II and spent most of his time in the South Pacific with the Signal Corps Photographic Unit. He served for a brief time with his brothers, Victor and Bert.

Upon Art's return from the service, he teamed for a short time with Jack Knight at the Akron Beacon Journal. He later went to the Cleveland Plain Dealer and Associated Press and eventually transferred to Detroit, where he remained for the rest of his career.

In Detroit, he worked at the Detroit Free Press, the Macomb Daily, WXYZ-TV as a still photographer, at WKBD-TV as an assistant news director, and in 1969 he joined the Birmingham Eccentric. He transferred to Livonia in 1974 when the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers merged operations.

In a self-published book "The 'Art' of Photojournalism — 50 Years of News Photography," Art discusses the early years of his career and some of his best assignments — which were many.

They included covering the Japanese surrender aboard the U.S.S. Missouri. As a member of MacArthur's staff, Art had an opportunity to meet many foreign dignitaries.

Another important assignment was the day Victor Reuther was shot. Art was off that day, but he found out about it and instead of going to Reuther's house where the other photographers were camped out, Art went to Henry Ford Hospital and photographed the labor leader coming out of the ambulance.

Art led an interesting photographic life. He photographed nine presidents, starting with Franklin D. Roosevelt. He was on Iwo Jima and with Ernie Pyle when he was shot. He photographed Gen. George Marshall; the late Lucille Ball and Desi Arnaz at Desilu Studios in California; the late Jackie Gleason and Nat King Cole; and sports legends Lou Gehrig, Babe Ruth, Bob Feller and Gordie Howe.

Art underwent open-heart and bypass surgery in 1983, calling it "the day they saved my life." Until a few years ago, he was a sky diver and sky-diving photographer. His sky-diving photographs were among some of his favorite pictures.

Art captured his share of awards throughout the years. His work has been recognized by the Michigan Press Association and the Michigan Press Photographers Association. One of his photographs was exhibited in the World Press Photo Exhibit in 1964-1965 in The Hague, Netherlands.

He had been president of the old Cleveland Newspaper Newsreel Cameraman Association in the 1930s, a board member of the Detroit Press Photographers Association, chairman of the Ohio News Photographers Association, president of the Michigan Press Photographers Association, and chairman and founder of the Detroit Metro News Photographers.

Art devoted most of his free time to community and charity work. He was a supporter of the Easter Seals and St. Jude's Hospital and the Michigan Humane Society.

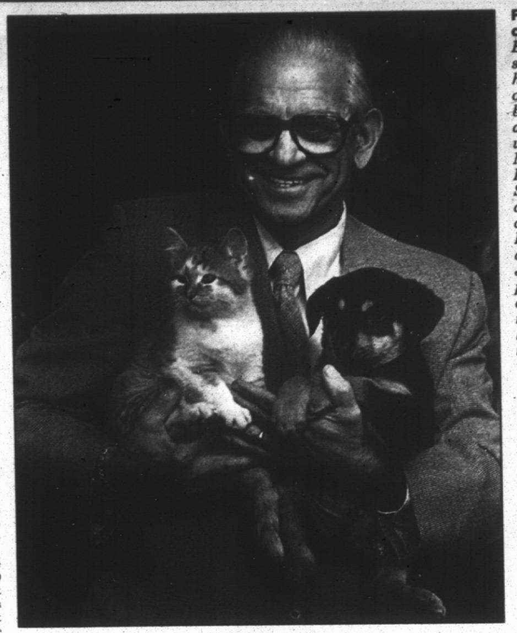

In the book tracing his dad's career, his son Milan wrote: "Dad has been in photojournalism for over 50 years. Newspaper work is in his blood, and he plans on staying with it until his last breath."

He did.

Staff writers Susan Rosiek, Casey Hans, LeAnne Rogers, Emory Daniels, and Leonard Poger contributed to this story.

Hall of Fame: Last year, Art Emanuele was inducted into the International Photography Hall of Fame, a fitting finale to a distinguished career.

Friend of charity: Art Emanuele spent most of his free time on charitable efforts, and the work of the Michigan Humane Society was a favorite cause. The Easter Seals and St. Jude's Hospital were also grateful recipients of his generosity and time.

Award winner: Art Emanuele receives a citation from Madonna University President Sister Mary Francilene at an exhibit of his photographs. He won many awards during his long career.

When the clock strikes noon on Patriot's Day, Monday, April 15, the world's eyes will turn to Massachusetts, where the Boston Marathon will be run for the 100th time. Among the 37,000 runners will be nine fired-up athletes from Canton Township.

Barbara Basinski, 39, will be running her 10th marathon in the running mecca. "Just to be part of the 100th Boston is exciting," said Basinski. "I'm not looking to do any specific time. I just want to be there and be part of it. I'm very excited."

Basinski qualified with 10 minutes to spare in 3 hours, 35 minutes at the Columbus Marathon. Patient coordinator for Tri-County Orthopedics at Botsford, Basinski is being sponsored by her employer.

The Redford Roadrunner has come a long way since her twenties, when she smoked a pack a day. "I started running with some friends of mine when I lived in Traverse City. I smoked for 14 years and quit when I turned 30. Running was an outlet for me, and it just blossomed. I started doing races."

Basinski qualified for, and ran Boston in 1995.

Nicholas Augustine, 45, of Canton trained all by his lonesome.

"During the winter, it was a little rough. You get to appreciate 35- and 40-degree days pretty rapidly," he said.

Augustine qualified with a 3:08 at the Free Press Marathon.

"I ran Boston three years ago, and when we were there, it was announced that the 100th running was going to be something special.

"We made reservations then. The problem I ran into was I got a back injury. So it cut into my training."

Augustine rebounded. "I feel much better. We're pretty excited about it. We're going to make it a family mini-vacation.

"The whole family is going," he said "Boston has so much history. We'll go out there and cram the kids full of the historical thing, and then run the race, and get out of town as quick as we can."

This will be marathon number 20, and Augustine's third trip to Boston.

"If you run marathons, you sort of identify Boston as a premiere, world-class event. It's the race to get into for an amateur person. Boston has so much tradition.

"Fifty years from now, I can say I was there for the 100th time. I've thought of that when I'm running at 6 a.m.," said Augustine, who works in finance for Hayes Wheels in Romulus. "It's sort of an encouragement to think, 'I can make it through this,' said Augustine.

Jack Hamilton, who trains with the Canton Road Running Club, says running Boston is a dream come true. He looks at Boston as "just an opportunity to take part in the festivities. It's something I've wanted to do, and I've never been close to it before."

Boston will be Hamilton's sixth marathon.

The marathoner has been running "somewhat seriously for six or seven years, on and off since high school."

Hamilton ran track for Hazel Park High School, and competed at Central Michigan University for a year before quitting to take a job to pay his tuition.

Running is in the Hamilton genes. Hamilton and his wife Bev, also a runner, have a daughter, Sarah, who's enjoying a successful running career at the University of Michigan.

Hamilton works in environmental planning, handling wildlife and wetland issues for ANR Pipeline in Detroit.

Summit hooks folks on fitness

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI
STAFF WRITER

With small kids, Kathy Fordell of Canton had no choice but to sign up for aerobics classes at 6 a.m. It was the only time she could go.

"I got hooked," she said. But that wasn't enough. She got so hooked she decided to teach aerobics and fitness and to leave her career in retail buying behind.

That decision led her to the Summit on the Park community center where she is now the fitness coordinator. "This became my career when I started working at the Summit," she said, adding she still teaches at other fitness centers in the area.

Fordell and nine other instructors are at the Summit waiting for residents and non-residents, pass holders and non-pass holders to sign up for aerobics and fitness classes.

"Most people's primary goal is to lose weight," she said. But to be honest, there's more to health and fitness than that.

That's why Fordell is an aerobics believer. That particular form of exercise, she said, improves your cardiovascular system and burns fat and calories.

But Fordell will admit that to be the true shining example of health you also have to tone your muscles. You do that with strength training ... weights.

"It's especially important for women because it also builds bone density," she said.

Fordell encourages residents to participate in the classes, each of which are designed for specific fitness levels. And men shouldn't be shy either.

"I think once men get in it and the word spreads, then they start coming," Fordell said. "At first they think aerobics is dancing. But the moves are much more athletic than dance moves."

Though armed with a degree in retailing, Fordell is completely happy with her choice for a second career. "It's so cool when someone comes up to you and says, 'I'm starting to wear clothes I haven't worn in years. I'm feeling great.' It's fun to see these people progress and change."

Classes are geared to teens, senior adults, adults and even kids. The classes are co-ed. Fordell encourages every participant to get a physical from their doctor before signing up. "There are few people who can't do the exercises," she said, adding the aerobics, however, are low-impact.

Fordell has nine other instructors who also teach the classes. Each instructor, including Fordell, is certified either through the American Council on Exercise or the Aerobics and Fitness Association of America. That means they all return for continuing education to maintain their certifications. Each instructor is also certified in CPR.

Participants do not need to be residents or annual pass holders. Spring classes begin the week of April 29 and end the week of June 24. The registration deadline for these nine-week classes is Tuesday, April 23. Summer classes begin the week of July 8 and end the week of Sept. 23. The registration deadline for these 12-week classes is Tuesday, July 2.

A community wide registration is scheduled 6-9 p.m. April 15 and 16 at the Summit. On April 17, you can register at the Summit 8:30 a.m.-5 p.m. or use the after-hours drop box at the front desk. The cost for the spring classes for residents is $22.50; $26 for non-residents. The cost of the summer classes for residents is $30; $36 for non-residents.

Road construction

Clock ticks, officials squabble

BY BETH SUNDRLA JACHMAN AND RALPH ECHTINAW
STAFF WRITERS

The 1996 road construction season hangs in the balance, and the state has submitted a proposal to start it. But county and regional officials are concerned that the state's plan isn't going to work.

On Friday, Michigan Department of Transportation officials asked the Federal Highway and Transit administrations to accept the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments' Transportation Improvement Program for 1996 and assurances that agreements for 1997 and 1998 would be worked out.

"We reviewed the SEMCOG TIP and believe that the programs and projects contained in 1996 are consistent with the goals and objectives for the state and do not conflict with other state programs," state Transportation Director Bob Welke said in a press release.

But the federal government requires three-year plans, and county officials are concerned that the federal government won't accept a one-year plan with conditional plans for the next two years.

"It sets a real bad precedent," said John Roach, public information manager for the Wayne County Department of Public Services.

Bob Morris, legislative representative for Wayne County, said he doesn't think federal officials will approve a one-year plan.

But, all the county can do is wait. "It's up to SEMCOG and the state to work out an agreement," he said.

"There's some possibility that the federal government would accept something like that if we were closer to agreement," Paul Tait, deputy executive director of SEMCOG, said.

The problem comes when contracts are awarded while funding is uncertain. The spring construction season is about to start, and many contracts are ready to go, Morris said. "The clock is ticking there's no question about that," Morris said of the 1996 construction season.

If there's no agreement, "those (1996) projects are definitely on the shelf," he said.

The fight between the state and SEMCOG over road money started heating up in January when MDOT told regional officials road construction plans would have to be modified to meet reduced federal funding levels. MDOT also made its own projects a top priority.

Local and county road officials met on Feb. 20 to approve a new three-year plan, which meant delaying many county projects. That plan was forwarded to SEMCOG.

On March 7, SEMCOG voted to challenge MDOT by agreeing to the state receiving the lion's share of the road funding in 1996 in return for giving local roads a better break in 1997 and 1998.

On March 21, SEMCOG members authorized hiring a lawyer to sue for a larger share of the road funding.

Then came the federal deadline and MDOT's current proposal.

"While we work toward resolution of the investment issue facing us in 1997 and 1998, we need support from federal authorities to continue our efforts," Welke said in a press release.

But as work to resolve the fight over road funding continues, SEMCOG officials see the need for a gas tax increase to fix roads in southeast Michigan.

"There's not enough resources to do all the transportation projects that are absolutely essential for southeast Michigan," Tait said.

SEMCOG hopes to go after the tax increase after the November election. "Our goal is to have a tax in place before the start of the construction season," Tait said.

MHS project aims to find homes for animals

The three Michigan Humane Society shelters are hoping to find homes for animals during a 36-hour Adoptathon scheduled for Saturday, May 4, and Sunday, May 5.

"We hope to find homes for hundreds of deserving animals," Michele Mitchell, the society's community relations director, said. "And we've got some great prizes for some lucky people."

Students in grades 2 through 8 are invited to visit any MHS shelter and enter to win a pizza party drawing for their entire class.

Adults may enter to win one of three overnight stays at the Ritz-Carlton in Dearborn. No purchase is necessary to enter and you need not be present to win.

The Adoptathon kicks off national "Be Kind to Animals Week," a week set aside each year to celebrate and honor animals. The Michigan Humane Society, which is one of the nation's largest sheltering societies, is hopeful that anyone who is considering adopting a companion animal will do so at a humane society shelter on May 4 or 5.

"We have one of the best adoption packages around," Mitchell said. The adoption fees include sterilization, a 10-day health guarantee, age appropriate vaccinations, and training tips.

Adoptathon hours are 9 a.m. May 4, to 9 p.m. May 5, at the Michigan Humane Society Westland and Rochester Hills shelters; and 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. each day at the Detroit shelter. For more information, call (810) 852-7420.

Filing deadline nears for judicial ballot

ELECTION '96

Voters will select judges to the Third Judicial Circuit in Wayne County, probate court, the state Court of Appeals and justices to the state Supreme Court this year, and filing deadlines for the August primary are approaching.

Fourteen judgeships will be on the ballot for the Third Judicial Circuit _ 12 regular terms and two partial terms. Terms of the 12 regular terms end Jan. 1, 2003, and the two partial terms end Jan. 1, 1999. The salary for circuit judges is $109,257.

Candidates can put their names on the ballot by filing petitions signed by registered voters. A minimum of 5,000 and a maximum of 20,000 signatures are required.

The filing deadline is 4 p.m. May 14 at the Mutual Building Fourth floor, 208 N. Capitol, Lansing. The primary election is Aug. 6. The general election is Nov. 5.

In addition to filing petitions, candidates must file two copies of the affidavit of identity, which is a three-part form, and an affidavit of constitutional qualification. These forms as well as the petition forms can be obtained at the Wayne County Clerk's office in the City-County Building on Jefferson in Detroit.

Circuit court is the court of general jurisdiction including felony cases arising in Wayne County outside of Detroit.

Three judges will be elected to the probate court. Nominating petitions must be filed by 4 p.m. May 14 at the Wayne County Clerk's office on the second floor of the City-County Building in Detroit. The salary for probate court judges is $104,507. Terms filled this year end Jan. 1, 2003.

Probate court judges have jurisdiction in matters relating to estates, name changes, and other family matters.

Three judges will be elected to the state Court of Appeals, First District, for terms that end Jan. 1, 2003. Candidates need a minimum of 3,423 signatures and a maximum of 13,691 and must file by 4 p.m. May 14 at the Mutual Building, Fourth Floor, 208 N. Capitol, Lansing. The annual salary for Court of Appeals judges is $114,007.

Voters will also select two justices to the Michigan Supreme Court, but those candidates to appear on the general election ballot in November are selected at nominating conventions held by the two political parties. Candidates without party affiliation must file qualifying petitions by 4 p.m. July 18 in Lansing. Supreme Court justices are elected to eight-year terms.

A candidate for a judicial seat must be a qualified elector, licensed to practice law in Michigan and at the time of the election be less than 70 years old.

Voters will elect judges to the Wayne County circuit and probate courts along with the state court of appeals and the state supreme court.

Special festivities are planned to mark 'Drinking Water Week'

Did you know that every day in the United States, we drink about 110 million gallons of water?

Or that the Detroit Water and Sewerage Department, one of the nation's largest water utilities, provides water to 123 southeast Michigan communities, to a population of more than 4 million people?

Or, were you aware that DWSD's water rates are the third lowest among the 20 largest cities in the country?

These facts will be part of a presentation by a member of DWSD's Speakers Bureau during Drinking Water Week, May 6-11.

Speakers who address the topic of water treatment will be in full force during that week to promote the importance of quality drinking water.

Presentations include the showing of a video and a question/answer session. In addition, special group tours will be held at the Northeast Water Treatment Plant, 11000 East Eight Mile, Detroit, one of five water treatment plants in DWSD's system.

DWSD Director Stephen F. Gordon emphasized the importance of Drinking Water Week.

"Although DWSD offers speaking engagements and plant tors throughout the year, it is only dring the month of May that we have "bragging rights.' This is when we make a push to show and tell or customers how important it is to constantly provide them with the best quality water possible," he said

Additional Drinking Water Week festivities will be announced at a later date. In the meantime, it is important that groups requesting speakers or plant tours make their arrangements now. Bookings are made on a first-come, first-served basis.

To arrange for a speaker, or, or both, call the DWSD Public Relations Division today at (313) 224-3834.

Ford Road

DDA is a wise mechanism

Imagine a Ford Road with more traffic signals, realigned driveways to the corridor's shopping centers, new sidewalks and lighting.

Ford Road is in no way Canton's downtown. But it is the township's major corridor for shopping and dining. It is also the foremost entrance to Canton. As such, it should be a thoroughfare that is not only aesthetically pleasing, but safe for motorists driving through the area, for shoppers stopping at various locations along the roadway, and for pedestrians.

An expanded Downtown Development Authority district is likely the best method for achieving some of these goals. The proposed expansion was an integral recommendation from the Ford Road Task Force, which completed its work in 1994. Suggestions for improving the appearance, retail mix and traffic and safety features on the corridor also were part of the task force report.

Township officials are right to continue working on the effort to expand the DDA though the issue should be brought forward from the township board study session level to be discussed at a regular board meeting that some residents attend and which is cablecast for the public.

To leave Ford Road in its current state would be a mistake. Anyone who drives the state-owned thoroughfare knows that. Ask any resident how he or she shops safely along Ford Road. Most have their own methods, especially to avoid making left turns across often-gridlocked traffic.

As proposed, the expanded district would run from west of Canton Center Road to the township's eastern border. It also would take in an area east and west of Lotz Road, past Lotzford.

It is unlikely businesses along the corridor will collectively stand up and offer to improve their facades and signs, and to close some of the innumerable driveways that plague Ford Road. And there are other needs, particularly road improvements, that can't be accomplished by the businesses, but need township and/or state involvement. The most obvious vehicle to accomplish some of these needs is with tax increment financing.

As with the first DDA project from Morton Taylor to Sheldon Road, tax dollars from the property owners within the district would be captured to make improvements. In turn, the township general, police and fire funds would feel the pinch.

It will be a tough decision on how to balance the loss to these funds and whether it is worth subsidizing improvements on Ford Road. As time wears on, the rest of Canton indeed would subsidize police and fire services to the corridor. Astute and realistic planning could help make the pinch more palatable.

An expanded DDA will not come easily. Township officials will have to negotiate the capture of funds with other taxing units, such as Wayne County. The local public schools are exempt from the capture process.

An expanded DDA district appears the only viable method of making infrastructure, safety and aesthetic improvements on Ford Road.

Warm up to spring activities

Here's hoping area residents will warm up to a few outdoor activities to raise money for some very good causes. WalkAmerica '96 , the March of Dimes' largest fun-raising event, is Sunday, April 28. The Southeast Michigan Warm-Up Magic Ride and Magic Walk is set for 7 a.m. to noon Saturday, May 4.

It's time to get up and out of the house. And if the weathercasters are right, temperatures should start warming up in just a few days.

Here's hoping area residents will warm up to a few outdoor activities to raise money for some very good causes.

The Southeast Michigan Warm-Up Magic Ride and Magic Walk is set for 7 a.m. to noon Saturday, May 4 at the Canton Township Recreational Complex.

The event raises money to prevent child abuse and neglect. In 1993, 5,464 cases of abuse and neglect were reported in Wayne County. It costs Michigan taxpayers an average of $850 million annually to treat child abuse and neglect, according to Magic Ride organizers.

The event is sponsored by the Child Abuse Prevention Council of Out-Wayne County. The event is a bicycle-walking fund-raising tour.

Registration is 7-9 a.m. the day of the event. Preregistration is $25. On-site registration is $35. April 25 is the preregistration deadline.

Money is raised by participants who get pledges. For more information contact the council at (313) 721-5901.

Several local communities will participate in WalkAmerica '96 on Sunday, April 28.

The 20-kilometer walk benefits the March of Dimes Campaign for Healthier Babies. WalkAmerica is the March of Dimes' largest fund-raising event. In metro Detroit more than 15,000 Detroiters walked, raising $1.3 million. In 1996, 17,000 walkers are expected to raise $1.5 million.

The walks in this area are Sunday, April 28, in Farmington Hills, Ann Arbor, Detroit, Troy and Auburn Hills. Every route has checkpoints offering entertainment, refreshments, snacks and first-aid. Walk hot line is (810) 423-3200.

Not only are the causes good, but walking, running and riding a bicycle are great ways to get in shape after this long, cold winter.

LETTERS

Hope for a lasting peace

As we landed in Belfast, my fear of safety for my son began to surface again. I remembered my visit in August of 1993, the last of the bloodiest months of the 25 years of "the troubles." British foot soldiers circled each other back-to-back as they walked down the Falls road, while other soldiers standing on top of the lorries aimed their weapons at passing pedestrians. I myself was placed in the sights of a young soldier while waiting for a light to change behind a lorry. I'll never forget the paralyzing fear as I looked up at the man who had my life in his hands.

The fear on both sides was again evident to me as we left Amsterdam bound for Belfast. Our bags were suspiciously searched and as I set off the metal detector, I was placed against a wall and thoroughly searched for weapons. I asked for a cigarette after they realized it was only a decorative pin on my sweater. When we passed through customs in Belfast, I was menacingly questioned by a British customs official. He reluctantly handed me back our passports after I satisfactorily answered his questions.

As our family drove us into central Belfast, I could still see the neighborhood divisions, the loyalist flags waved over red, white and blue painted curbs _ green, orange and white Irish waved on the other side of the Falls road. Fire-bombed houses and restaurant shells scarred the neighborhoods. Crosses scattered along city streets brought to mind children caught in the crossfire of riots _ all signs of violence past.

There was a nervous tension in the air due to the recent bombings in London. Change has not happened soon enough from some and the "dogs in the street" on both sides almost guarantee impending bloodshed. Roadblocks have once again been randomly set up by the local police, the Royal Ulster Calvary (RUC) _ which consists mainly of Protestants. Identifications are checked and cars searched on the Falls road. There are still separate social gathering clubs and as I learned, jobs are still given preference to Protestants over Catholics.

One evening, as a visiting British band had patrons dancing to Motown music, "the soldier's song" was intermixed into the chain of melodies, glances were exchanged as some stopped and stood at attention, while others continued dancing, not noticing the change. The same evening, not far away, a club lost electrical power, members continued visiting while emotional songs of freedom and cigarette smoke filled the still air late into the evening. I climbed on the window sill to witness a scene that will affect me forever.

The Bill Clinton pastry, made famous by the president's November visit, as a reminder of the recent attempts at peace. During the tree lighting ceremony, Catholic and Protestant children sang together in the square. People were touched and thankful for the efforts on both sides. They viewed this as hope for a future of peace and change.

We didn't find any leprechauns in Northern Ireland on our visit. We did however, see the remains left of the magic from 18 months of the peaceful cease fire. There weren't as many foot soldiers patrolling the neighborhoods as there were in August of 1993.

Bills were posted for peace rallies held in February. Our family and their neighbors pray for peace. Children still play in the streets without the constant lorries passing. And my son enjoyed the attentions of local female admirers and learned how to play schnooker and handball.

St. Patrick's Day falls on Mother's Day in Ireland this year. As a day of festivities is planned, there is a hope that the anger which possesses some on both sides will continue to be held at bay, and mothers who have lost children on both sides will remain strong in their peaceful prayers.

We will always remember Ireland as a place of rolling green beauty with kind people everywhere and we look forward to visiting family again to find a complete and lasting peace and a united country.

Vote by mail to deliver true democracy

BY SEN. ALMA WHEELER SMITH
GUEST COLUMNIST

GUEST COLUMN

In the last three decades, Americans have witnessed a striking decline in political participation. This retreat has taken many forms: decreased turnout in elections, dissatisfaction with the major political parties, and falling support for government institutions.

People today are a third less likely to attend a public meeting on town or school affairs, and half as likely to be a member of a union. We must take bold action to reverse these trends.

While many measures should be pursued, the single most effective of these would be the creation of a vote-by-mail system.

Voting is the most obvious measure of citizen participation in a democratic government. Sadly, citizens seem to cherish the American flag, a symbol of democracy, more than they value the vote, the actual exercise of democracy.

This withdrawal marks a disturbing trend, since democracy by its very nature is intended to make the People synonymous with government. However, citizens have dug a yawning chasm between "We the People" and our governing institution.

The current governor received the votes of only 32 percent of the eligible Michigan voters; the president, 24 percent. In fact, the problem is so critical that it seems almost dysfunctional to deny one disturbing fact: America can no longer hold itself up to the rest of the world as the standard of true democracy.

In an effort to define this problem better, I recently undertook two separate actions. First, I conducted a review of the extensive literature on this topic. The academic studies offer a wealth of insight into this problem. However, I felt it was critical to go beyond the academic perspective to solicit ideas from those closely involved in a variety of Michigan-based, grass-roots efforts. So, second, I mailed surveys to leaders of community groups around the state to seek their input on citizen disenfranchisement and how we might remedy the problem.

The ideas that these people returned were startling for their quantity and thoughtfulness. I compiled them, along with the findings of my academic research, into a report entitled "Project 100: Reconnecting Michigan Citizens with their Government." After months of study, I offered this report to begin a discussion that we must have. Genuine democracy depends on a reversal of citizen disaffection and withdrawal.

Of course, while the discussion must continue , I am also anxious to move forward with specific, concrete efforts. Among the 22 specific proposals in "Project 100," I have suggested holding fewer elections with more issues decided at each, automatic voter registration, public service campaigns to demonstrate how citizens can and do affect their government, and reforming the civics curriculum taught in schools.

However, one suggestion has justifiably received more attention than any other. This is the report's first suggestion to be introduced as legislation. It is SB 888, which would create a vote-by-mail system in Michigan.

In its recently completed election to fill a vacant United States Senate seat, the state of Oregon proved that vote-by-mail can both save taxpayers money and dramatically increase citizen participation. In Oregon, ballots were mailed to every registered voter. Voters then had the option of returning the ballot by mail or dropping completed ballots at their municipal clerk's office. It was the first major statewide election in United States history to be conducted primarily by mail.

Three stunning statistics emerged. First, by not having to open polling booths on election day, the costs to both the state and the municipalities were substantially reduced. Second, although drop-off sites were available, six out of seven voters who chose to return their ballots did so by mail. This underscores people's preference for the convenience of voting by mail.

Third and most important, turnout was extraordinarily high. Some 66 percent of those who received ballots voted.

This is substantially higher than the 51 percent of registered voters that voted in Michigan's 1994 regularly scheduled U.S. Senate election. This is more than double the turnout from a similar Michigan special election in 1993.

SB 888 would require that ballots are mailed to voters three weeks in advance of "election day." This would give voters adequate time to study their ballots, review information about the candidates, and read ballot proposals carefully before casting their vote. As in Oregon, Michigan's voters would have the option of returning their ballot by mail, or dropping it at sites designated by local clerks, as long as the ballot is received by the clerk by election day. This system is easy, and it works.

Some have expressed concerns about potential fraud in a vote-by-mail system. Here in Michigan, we already have a limited vote-by-mail — the absentee ballot.

There has been very little difficulty with frauds, and Secretary of State Candice Miller recently called our system "beyond reproach.' Furthermore, the Oregon experience indicates that concern for fraud is vastly overstated. Very few allegations of election law violations were made, and none were substantiated.

SB 888 would create such a system in Michigan. I urge all concerned Michigan citizens to contact their election representatives to encourage support for this legislation. No single reform can do more to revitalize our democracy.

When it comes to fishing, call me a socialist

TIM RICHARD

Got my new fishing license with trout stamp over the weekend. Still $20.70. Gov. John Engler's proposed 20 percent increase hasn't passed the Legislature and can't take effect until April of 1997.

Got trout fever. It made me ponder how lucky we Michiganians are to have cheap access to woods, lakes and rivers, despite Engler's policies. Sure, an angler needs a license to drive, a license for the trailer, a license for a motorized boat, a state park pass so you can use a public boat launch, a license to fish and the need to satisfy a law on personal flotation devices. But it's still relatively cheap.

Consider Peter Essick's article, "A Passion for Trout," in the April issue of National Geographic magazine. He opens with a description of a trout census while diving in chill Oregon waters, then winds up visiting a private club in England:

The pinnacle of privilege is the 24-member Houghton Club in Stockbridge, owner of 14 glorious miles of the Test (River).

Turn the brass knob, ease open the green wooden door marked PRIVATE, and perhaps a member will pour you a glass of port from the dimpled crystal decanter on the sideboard...

I'm invited to fish with the Honorable Anthony Samuel, a member of 37 years. More precisely, since I'm not a member, I'm invited to watch.

The scene is irresistible . . . Samuel, in tattersall shirt and black knit tie, is aiming a small brown fly at a feeding trout...

Samuel glances back. "So sorry you can't have a go," he says. And continues casting . . .

"In America it is very different," according to Conrad Voss-Bark, former fishing correspondent for the Times off London who meant I shouldn't be offended.

"Here fishing rights can be bought and sold like commodities. You might say rather wickedly that Americans have a socialist system of fishing; with the Brits, it's capitalist." . . .

For years I've thought of myself as a capitalist and pal of the insurance companies. But if Michigan's system of natural resources access is socialism, let's preserve it.

Engler would like to raid the Natural Resources Trust Fund, claiming we have enough public land.

A lot of riparian owners would like to block further acquisition of public boat launch sites. No one who heard him will ever forget the guy who said at a public hearing in Oakland County, "If you don't own property, you don't need a boat."

Engler himself never has said it, but a pal of his advocates selling off the state parks and letting "market forces" mete out natural resources. Those of us who wear checked flannel shirts rather than tattersall and black ties have reason to fear that.

European business climate underscores success here

PHIL POWER

'Why should we hire people,' European businesses say, 'when it costs us so much to pay for all the costs associated with employing them?'

Returning to Michigan after a trip to Italy is a real eye-opener.

Our streets are wider, the traffic more law-abiding, the smoking far less. When lines are called for, people actually stay in the queue, relatively politely. The weather is warmer.

Moreover, there exists in Michigan today a real sense of economic optimism entirely lacking in Italy and the rest of Europe.

Fueled by the expected retirement of nearly 250,000 hourly and salaried workers during the next 10 years, the Big Three are expected to hire up to 120,000 replacement workers in Michigan between now and 2003. In Europe, by contrast, unemployment is at historic highs — often in double digits — with no serious prospect of coming down in the foreseeable future.

The solution most often mentioned by European politicians is to cut the work week, on average already shorter than the American 40-hour standard. The idea is to spread available jobs over a larger number of people, regardless of the increased cost per hour.

Talk to European business types, however, and you discover the cause for long unemployment lines: Very high costs to employers for everything associated with hiring somebody, from long vacations to high social security taxes, from the virtual impossibility of ever firing a worker for cause to high-cost government-run health care systems.

"Why should we hire people," European businesses say, "when it costs us so much to pay for all the costs associated with employing them?"

And to judge from the wave of strikes in France and the general political climate elsewhere, in no European country does there exist enough political will to reduce sharply the costs associated with hiring people. An international lawyer from Michigan with an extensive client base in Europe put it this way: "I don't see European business being internationally competitive for the foreseeable future. Their costs of employment are just too high, while their productivity gains are far too low."

By contrast, the University of Michigan study that produced the 129,000-new-hires estimate has provoked a feeding frenzy of activity by state government to find ways to get local youth ready for auto jobs that can pay up to $43 per hour.

"The auto industry is very concerned about the ability of our basic educational system to produce the people necessary for the new auto jobs," according to U-M Professor David Cole, author of the study. Manufacturing plants are increasingly automated, requiring workers to be highly skilled, well-motivated and competent to work in self-directed teams.

Gov. John Engler promptly proposed a new Michigan Auto College, an on-line consortium led by U-M, to offer two-way video courses for potential auto employees. He also proposed spending $4.5 million for a bunch of Jump Start Institutes in communities with major auto plants to provide hands-on training for current auto employees and to help applicants qualify for new auto jobs.

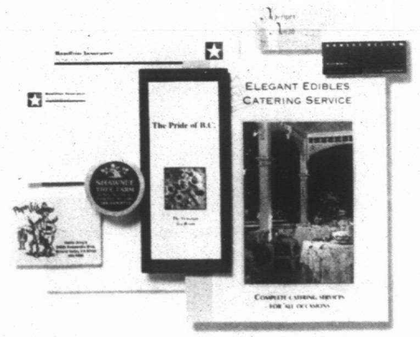

He also wants to spend $500,000 to set up an Internet site to offer a virtual auto plant tour for students, teachers and parents. As Professor Cole says, "We must replace the social stigma of factory jobs. They are now knowledge jobs and demand more intellectual capacity than ever before."

Returning home to America is striking. In Europe, old states with ossified political systems seem unable to cope with the realities of today's global competitive economy. In America, government and industry seem hot to change the old assumptions and adapt new ways of preparing young people for new, productive jobs.

Maybe that's why they called it "the New World."

Plymouth state trooper receives lifesaving award

Michigan State trooper Patrick J. Boyd, of Plymouth, has received the Michigan State Police Lifesaving Award.

Boyd, who serves at the Ypsilanti State Police Post, received the award for saving the life of a man who was involved in a traffic accident.

Boyd was on duty when he heard radio traffic about a car fire at an apartment complex. He went to the scene and saw that several cars had been involved in the accident. One was on fire.

Unable to see inside because of the smoke, Boyd attempted to put out the fire. Realizing there were people inside, Boyd opened the door, unbuckled the victim and dragged the man to safety. The man was semi-conscious and disoriented. He was taken to the hospital and released.

The State Police Board of Awards recognized that if it were not for Boyd's quick response, the victim would not have survived the accident.

He joined the State Police in 1990 and was assigned as a trooper to the Ypsilanti Post. He transferred to the Southeast Criminal Investigation Division as a detective.

He and his wife, Madelyn, have three children.

Firm receives state help; building to be renovated

A Plymouth Township firm, Vico Products, has received a $3 million tax exempt bond issue from the Michigan Strategic Fund, State Rep. Gerald Law, R-Plymouth, has announced.

The project includes financing of building renovations and the acquisition and installation of machinery and equipment.

"At least 15 more jobs are available due to the bond issue," said Law. "It's because of projects like this across the state that Michigan is experiencing its lowest unemployment rate in decades."

Vico manufactures products including steel fasteners for anchor pins, staked studs, caliper pins, wheel bolts and related products. It employs 100 workers.

The Strategic Fund, an agency of the Michigan Jobs Commission, can issue Industrial Development Revenue Bonds to finance projects for manufacturers, solid waste/cogeneration companies and certain non-profit corporations. Financing lessens the cost of borrowing because interest paid to the bond buyer is exempt from federal, state and local taxes.

Purr-fectly gracious cat

ur old cat slept on our bed last night, right up close to us. She wanted to crawl under the covers, but she graciously settled for what she got. The night before, she was nowhere to be found. And that's how it is this time of year when the weather can't make up its mind, when it threatens rain, snow, and robbins all in a matter of a day or two. When it's cold, she'll seek refuge, but when the spring warmth makes itself known, she'll hightail it for places where we are not. And last night was a seek refuge night and Sparky snuggled in.

She purred and padded around the longest time. That probably should have annoyed me, but it didn't. It was well after midnight, after all, and I was tired from the previous activity-filled, nonstop 18 1/2 hours. But Sparky's presence and need for warmth didn't make me grumble, instead it made me think.

It made me think what this poor cat has been through over the years.

When she became our cat, our marriage was new, as a matter of fact, I think we were probably considered newlyweds at the time, having said our vows only a year before. And Sparky, then a six-week-old kitten, was living in Carla's brother's apartment in East Lansing. (You remember Carla; she's my childhood friend who just this past December had twins, which made her a mother of five like me.) Anyway, way back

Bidding benefits scholarship fund

■ When Dan Stall hollars sold for the very last time next weekend, organizers of Madonna University's eighth annual "Around the World' Dinner Auction will be hoping they reached their goal of raising $300,000 for scholarships.

So ... you're looking for a new ring. Something big, with plenty of diamonds. Hmmm. Would you consider a 13.6 carat aquamarine and 3.23 carat diamond ring. I hear it once belong to Jane Mansfield.

Hey, maybe you need a nice western outfit, including gray leather boots, matching shirt, leather vest, gray jeans and belt and of course, a Stetson hat. I hear Scott Colburn and Don and Mary Lou Andrew have just what you want ... well, sort of.

You can buy them, but you have to be the highest bidder at Madonna University's eighth annual "Around the World" Scholarship Dinner Auction Friday, April 19, at Burton Manor in Livonia.

"We've been so blessed with the auction," said Sister Mary Lauriana Gruszczynski, vice president for advancement at Madonna. "As this auction is a Catholic institution, we want students to come here and do have money set aside for students who need help. Of our 4,300 students, we have 500 who are needy for scholarships and it endows the scholarship program, so the money will be there for years to come."

Last year, the auction raised some $250,000 for the Madonna University Endowed Scholarship Fund. This year's goal is $300,000. The university annually awards 10-15 scholarship of between $1,000 and $2,000 to students to students in need and who have at least a 3.25 grade point average

"With tuition less that $6,000 a year, Madonna University continues to be the most affordable independent college in Michigan," said Sister Lauriana.

The benefit kicks off at 5:30 p.m. with the silent auction, featuring a mystery basket section, featuring 50 adult gift bags and 24 children's gift bags, provided by Jean Hildebrant, general manager of Livonia Mall.

Dinner will be at 6:30 p.m. followed by the live auction at 9 p.m. The master of ceremonies will be Joe Weaver, retired editorial director of Volunteers work year-round to make the auction a success and Sister Lauriana admits that a lot has been learned since the first one eight years ago.

"We know a lot more now and we have many more gifts this year, many with a higher value," she said. "And we have a lot more table sponsors."

STUDY SESSION - TUESDAY, APRIL 2, 1996

Topics For Discussion

1) Central Park Planned Development District
Presenters: S. Friedman, Selective Group; J. Goulet, Township Planner; A. Machnick, Municipal Services Director

2) Proposed Expansion of the Downtown Development District
Presenters: T. Yack, Supervisor; A. Wolosewicz, Planning Dept.

3) (Proposed) New Fire Headquarters
Presenters: J. Santomauro, Public Safety Director; D. Dundon, Architect; & Fire Headquarters Study Committee

The Study Session was called to order by Supervisor Yack at 7:05 p.m. who stated no board action would be taken on the three items for discussion.
Present: Bennett, Burdziak, Kirchgatter, LaJoy, McLaughlin, Shefferly, and Yack
Absent: None

1) Central Park Planned Development District
The project incorporates 680 acres of land west of Beck and south of Cherry Hill. Revised plans were introduced in March and a formal review of the project has begun. The project is comprised of 930 units including condominiums and single family homes, a 11 acre golf course extension to Pheasant Run, incorporating nine holes and a 41 acre park site west of Denton road, along with considerable natural area to the south of the site and intermittent through the development, connected by pathways. Steve Friedman, Selective Group, addressed the Board and noted the following improvements.

1. Condominiums in the center of the development - entrance has been redesigned to allow two entrances/exits.
2. Redesign project entrance providing views of the golf course
3. Modification of some lot sizes and expansion of others (currently underway) which will eliminate some of the lots adjacent to Denton Road, to create larger open spaces, and elimination of an entrance off Denton Road
4. Proposed plans to incorporate one school district within the development
5. Improved internal pathways system, clubhouse locations and park development
6. Uses of open space and signage

Other items discussed:
1) Construction time line, 2) Denton Road improvements, and 3) Road Maintenance Agreement

2) Proposed Expansion of the Downtown Development District
A map of the proposed expansion was presented. A total of 378 acres including vacant acreage was determined to be available for development in the expanded district. The current district is 33.6 acres. An approximate real value of $500,000 per acre was established. Factors which could influence the type and rate of development of DDA parcels includes wetlands and property location in proximity to commercial centers of the Township. Expansion of the district would provide a mechanism for implementing suggestions compiled in the Ford Road Task Force Report.

3) (Proposed) New Fire Headquarters
The current headquarters was built in approximately 1954. The Fire Headquarters Study Committee, formed in 1995, assessed needs (current and future), considered site/location, identified public safety concepts, selected an architect, and explored funding. The committee has recommended the following improvements to meet current and future community needs: Fire Headquarters building, public safety addition and garage addition, site improvements, traffic signal (Canton Center and Proctor), Proctor Road improvements, parking lot improvements, Civic Center access drive improvements, engineering/architectural fees. Total estimated project cost: $3,623,000.00.

The session concluded at approximately 9:30 p.m.
This is a synopsis of the study session minutes and a complete copy is available at the Clerk's Office upon request.

then when Sparky was a kitten, and we all were childless, we visited Carla's younger brother, David, then a student at MSU. And David and his roommates were, and understandably so, more concerned with getting to class on time and finding a clean fork to eat with than caring for a litter of kittens that their resident, I'm-not-quite-ready-to-be-a-Mom cat presented them with one fine day in the fall of '82.

So during our visit in the middle of the state, Sparky's plight came to our attention. My husband and I, starry-eyed newlyweds, discussed what we personally could do to better things, and the next thing, boom, we were cat owners. When the evening came to an end, we gathered Sparky up. We made the long trip home that cold October night in our two-door Chevette with a kitten burrowed into a towel in a box which sat on my lap. She had found safe, warm refuge.

We have pictures of Sparky in her early days. Me holding her in front of our Christmas tree. Ron working on some papers at the desk and Sparky walking across everything. Ron and I sitting on the couch, Sparky draped across our laps. She was a good, quiet cat, afraid of the outdoors but a fan of patches of sunlight streaming through the window.

In those days both Ron and I worked outside our home. As a high school teacher, my workday ended in the late afternoon and Sparky would always be there to greet me in her cat way which sometimes meant something as friendly and overt as a rub against my legs but most often was a subtle, almost imperceptible movement at the end of her tail as she lay in a patch of sun in the living room.

And then one day when she was a little more than a year old, I didn't go away in the morning to teach anymore. I stayed home and kept staying home. And I brought a new "creature" home, a creature with no fur that made a lot of noise and frequently smelled funny and couldn't move itself, it had to be carried from one place to another. Sparky couldn't believe her world had been turned upside down like that. The new creature seemed to take up a lot of attention and time. And then once Sparky became used to Tony, our first born, and the two would seek each other out for companionship, another "creature" was brought home. And this one made noise and didn't move about and smelled funny and wore pink a lot.

And the years went by, and every now and then a new creature, furless and at first immobile, came into Sparky's world. She put up with this in a most gracious manner. Even though she had every right and lots of opportunity to become annoyed with these creatures, she always maintained her gentle way. Even when she would be enjoying a patch of sunlight and a wobbly new walker would stumble over her. Or when the small curious hands of a toddler would try to figure out the mysterious movements of her tail. Or when passage was blocked to her food and water dishes located in the basement all on account of the unsteady creature with no fur who hadn't quite figured out stairs. All of these she had to put up with time and time again.

And so – the poor cat.

In her old age, we can at least offer her refuge in the middle of a cold night. And be gracious about it.

Introducing... HAP Senior Plus

...the new alternative to Medicare supplements that gives you the option to pay ZERO health plan premiums.*

Here's how HAP Senior Plus works.

Through a special agreement with the Health Care Financing Administration (HCFA), Health Alliance Plan is paid a set amount to manage your health care. In return, HAP Senior Plus agrees to provide for all of your health care needs. That includes hospitalizations, physician's services, outpatient care, home health care...and more. HAP Senior Plus even covers preventive care, immunizations and routine physical exams.

As an HMO for people with Medicare — HAP Senior Plus covers most services 100%. There are no deductibles or coinsurance bills to pay.

HAP Senior Plus gives you coverage options.

Select the Zero Premium Option and for some services, like doctor's office visits, all you have to pay is a modest office visit charge of $10. But that's all you pay. Everything else is covered in full. And there's no monthly premium — ever.

Or if you want, you can select the Rx Option and add important prescription drug benefits and reduce your office visit charge to $5.

Here's what HAP Senior Plus covers.

HAP Senior Plus gives you all the coverage you have now with your Medicare and Medicare supplement plans. But it goes even further and covers preventive care, immunizations and even yearly physical exams. Here's a partial list of the services covered for in-network care:

- Hospitalization, including:
  - Semiprivate room,
  - Regular nursing services
  - Inpatient physician and surgical services
  - Outpatient hospital services
  - Inpatient drugs and medication
  - Radiology and lab services
  - Rehabilitation services
- Skilled Nursing Facility Services
- Emergency Services
- Physician Services

Writer is efficient in style, conduct

Dear Lorene,

I enjoy your column. I have always wondered how my writing would be analyzed. I am a 43-year-old woman and right-handed. I am a single parent of two children, teenagers now. My hobbies include reading the Bible and Bible study materials, spending time with my kids, exercising to stay healthy and gardening. I am finishing up a degree in accounting, but my real love is in the artistic, creative field. I have always been a shy person and I wonder if my handwriting reveals that. In spite of that, I feel that I can be an adventurous person. I enjoy new experiences even though I am fearful of them. I am thinking of joining a church when I finish school and have more time in order to do things that are important and fulfilling to me.

Thank you.

C.S.,
Plymouth

Today's writer is efficient in both style and conduct. She often takes a direct approach in speech and action. Efficiency is a high priority and her directness tends to increase her efficiency, whatever the task.

A glimpse into her past might help us understand this busy young woman better. Growing up, she may have been a bit of a rebel. Possibly, part of the reason she is a shy person now is the fact that she has been dominated by someone with a much stronger personality than her own. This has left her somewhat indecisive and reluctant to test her own will. Also the fear of failure at times may cause her to procrastinate rather than move ahead.

Her feelings of good-self-esteem seem to fluctuate. This can cause her to be inconsistent in dealing with others.

With maturity, however, she is learning that it is not necessary to remain chained to her past. Seemingly, she has freed herself from some of this emotional baggage. She seems to know that she is the architect of her own destiny and is becoming a more independent woman.

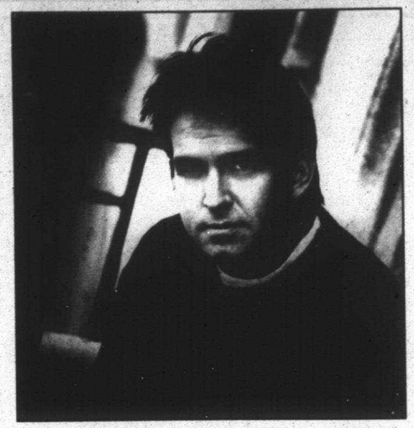

Her good intellect can propel her into new and original situations. Her mind often works ahead, solving problems. She enjoys learning and analyzing new information. She wants to understand each step and needs reasons before arriving at her conclusions.

The writer knows how to make very good use of her time. She has set her riorities and knows how to implement her planning. On occasion, she may still experience ambivalent feelings as to whether to do for others or for herself. She seems to be searching in the right places for her answers.

When confronted with new challenges, she tends to put on the brakes. She needs time to check out everything until it all meshes for her.

Ostensibly, she has a quality for good taste and a desire for culture and refinement in her life. She also has creative talents which I think she will find most rewarding when she has the time to pursue them.

If you would like your handwriting analyzed in this newspaper, write to Lorene C. Green, a certified graphologist, at 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia 48150. Please write a few paragraphs about yourself, using a full sheet of white, unlined paper and writing in the first person singular. Age, handedness and signature are all helpful. Due to the volume of mail, personal replies are not possible. However, objective feedback is welcome.

I enjoy your column. I have always wondered how my writing would be analyzed. I am a forty-three year old woman and right-handed. I am a single parent of two children, teenagers now. NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING
PLYMOUTH CHARTER TOWNSHIP
PLANNING COMMISSION

TO AMEND TEXT: AN ORDINANCE TO AMEND PLYMOUTH CHARTER TOWNSHIP ORDINANCE NO. 83 BY AMENDING ARTICLE XXXII DEFINITIONS, OF SAID ORDINANCE RELATED TO CHURCHES AND LARGE SCALE CHURCHES, AND TO AMEND OTHER ARTICLES TO PROVIDE FOR LARGE SCALE CHURCHES TO BE LOCATED IN THE C-2, IND AND PUD DISTRICTS, SUBJECT TO SPECIAL CONDITIONS.

DATE OF HEARING: April 17, 1996
TIME OF HEARING: 7:30 P.M.
PLACE OF HEARING: PLYMOUTH TOWNSHIP HALL
42350 ANN ARBOR ROAD

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Planning Commission of Plymouth Charter Township proposes on its own motion to amend Article XXXII, Definitions, as follows:

I. Section 32.2, Definitions, presently has no definition of large scale churches.
Section 32.2 is hereby proposed to be amended to add a new definition as Section 32.2.18.a. as follows:
18.a. CHURCH, LARGE SCALE: A religious institution with a seating capacity of 1,500 people or more in its sanctuary or main area of assembly. A large-scale church may also be characterized by any one or more of the following features: region-serving accessory facilities such as high schools, colleges and seminaries; parking for 500 passenger vehicles or more; one or more buildings 100,000 square feet in floor area or greater; or other features. Large-scale churches are distinguished by their large size of assemblies and resultant traffic surges, large off-street parking lots, retreat and conference centers, and major institutional character. Large-scale churches have negative impacts on single family residential areas because of scale of buildings, parking, traffic and frequency of use, which are different from smaller churches which have traditionally been compatible with single family areas. Because of these impacts, large-scale churches are more compatible with non-residential districts subject to conditions, which minimize the impacts.

II. Section 32.2.18, Definitions, presently reads as follows:
18. CHURCH. A building for the sole purpose of holding religious services.
Section 32.2.18, Definitions, is hereby proposed to be amended to read as follows:
18. CHURCH. A site used for the regular assembly of persons for the conducting of religious services and accessory uses thereuith. Such accessory uses may include rectories, living quarters for church ministry and other members of the religious order who carry out their duties primarily on the site, religious education classes, day care, outdoor recreation facilities (unlighted), religious office space, youth centers and others. Rescue missions, tent revivals and other temporary assemblies are not included in this definition.

III. Section 5.2.1, AG Agricultural District, Uses Subject to Special Conditions, presently reads as follows:

CHARTER TOWNSHIP OF CANTON
1996-97 ACTION PLAN
30-DAY PUBLIC COMMENT PERIOD
FY 1996 CDBG PROGRAM

On April 10, 1996 and for 30 days thereafter, public comment will be accepted on the 1996-96 Canton Charter Township Action Plan. The Action Plan is part of the Consolidated Plan (mandated in 24 CFR Parts 91, 92, 570, 574, 578 and 968 (August 5, 1994/Proposed Rules, which replaces the Comprehensive Housing Affordability Strategy (CHAS). The document plus the Action Plan will be available for public inspection during regular business hours in the Office of the Clerk, 1150 S. Canton Center Road; and the Canton Public Library, 1200 S. Canton Center Road. Comments received during the review period will be answered in writing and appended to the Plan. The Consolidated Plan must be submitted to the Department of HUD no later than May 15, 1996.

The 1996-97 Action Plan does not deviate from the 1995-96 Consolidated Plan. The Plan maintains the housing rehabilitation program as the only direct intervention housing program for Canton Township, and funds the program adequately to rehabilitate three owner-occupied single family detached homes during 1996-97. Canton Township will support applications by outside agencies to the Department of HUD for non public housing funds to alleviate the housing/support needs of low and moderate income residents and others who meet relevant federal criteria for housing need. Canton Township will not support the loss of subsidized housing units in Canton. There are no homeless in Canton Township supported by census data and the problem will not develop during the Plan period. Canton Township certifies that it will affirmatively further fair housing and that it is in compliance with a residential anti-displacement and relocation assistance plan as required and provided under Section 104(d) of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974.

On March 21, 1996, The Canton CDBG Advisory Council adopted the following projects and funding levels for the FY 1996 Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) Program for recommendation to the Canton Board of Trustees for approval at the regularly scheduled Board meeting of April 9, 1996. The FY 1996 allocation is $432,000, subject to any rescission as provided by Congress. The funding level for each project in the event of rescission shall be reduced proportionately, with the exception of the community center and Volunteer Coordinator which shall remain as funded. In addition, $2,035 in additional funds recaptured from the FY 1995 CDBG program shall be added to FY 1996 construction contingency when made available. The increase is shown in parentheses following the approved allocation for this project, as well as after the official total FY 1996 allocation at the end of the paragraph following.

FY 1996 CDBG projects: Community Center seniors center and handicap-accessible building elements, Year Five of 5 year allocation (Total $750,000), $150,000; Program administration, $86,000; First Step, $26,500; Child and Family Service Adult Day Care, $4,000; Growth Works, $10,500; Salvation Army summer day camp, $14,000; Volunteer Coordinator, $6,500; Dial-ride, $1,000; Northwestern Community Services, $2,000; Recreation Building Renovation, $70,000; Housing rehabilitation, $21,000; Harrison Drain improvements, $10,000; Construction contingency, $30,500 ($32,535). ARTS COUNCIL CELEBRATES WITH OPEN HOUSE

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN
SPECIAL WRITER

The Plymouth Community Arts Council is celebrating the completion of the first phase of renovations to its new facility with an open house April 20, sandwiched between performances by the children's theater group Whistle Stop Players April 19-21.

This marks a new beginning for the 27-year-old arts organization, which has been struggling for several years to obtain a building capable of housing an educational and performing arts center. Founded by Joanne Winkleman Hulce and a handful of supporters, the arts organization is finally realizing its dream of enhancing the quality of life for people in the community through the arts.

Free mini art workshops and demonstrations will reveal an up-close look at the bright art classrooms finished on March 8. Visitors can meet the teaching staff while creating pottery, paintings, sculptures and cartoons. View the works available to take home from the Art Rental Gallery then attend one of the children's theater productions of "Wrangling' West," an environmental musical by Annette Cantrell Epstein.

"It's a whole new era we have entered. I think the opportunities are limitless with a multi-use facility," said Joanne Winkleman Hulce.

"It's something that the community will gain great benefit from. We're always looking for people interested in the arts to come in and enjoy the facility."

Excitement filled the air over the new handicapped-accessible classrooms and theater space during a recent meeting with Hulce, executive director Randy Lee, vice president Stella Greene, arts education adviser Mary Mack, and theater director Jennifer Tobin.

In addition to art classes, future plans include monthly exhibits featuring Michigan artists, a display of 200 works by students form the 13th Congressional District (April 22-27), a kite painting contest for kids (May 11), a jazz evening with Heidi Hepler and Michele Ramo (June 15), two sessions of a performing arts camp (June 24-28 and July 15-19) and a trip to view the 168-piece exhibition of works by French Post Impressionist Paul Cezanne at the Philadelphia Museum of Art (June 21-23).

"Before we had senior citizens who were unable to attend our art classes because they couldn't get their wheelchairs up the stairs. Now we can hold two art classes simultaneously," said Mary Mack. "We want parents, kids, and grandparents to come in for 20 minutes to sample a variety of our art lessons. Hopefully, there will be someone who's never tried an art class before who will be encouraged to do so."

The Whistle Stop Players will offer four 45-minute performances spotlighting two separate casts of about 30 children each from Plymouth-Canton Schools and Northville Christian, St. Matthew, New Morning, and Our Lady of Good Counsel.

Playing members of a group named THE (Try Helping the Environment) Club, the children (ages 5-14) travel to the Southwest to find out how they can help Mother Earth survive. At the Big R (Respect) Ranch, they meet Old Man Pete, who tells them how the Native Americans were moved to reservations and the animals killed to put in railroad tracks. They meet the Lakota Tribe and learn about change, honor, respect and caring for the earth.

"Earth Day is April 22, so the musical is a perfect way to celebrate. We need be reminded that the future of mankind and this planet depends upon our present actions," said artistic director Jennifer Tobin.

Purchased in 1994 for $244,000, the building, dedicated as the Joanne Winkleman Hulce Center for the Arts, is scheduled to be renovated in two phases.

Previously, the PCAC was divided. Offices were in a second-floor space on Main Street, and the Art Rental Gallery was on the second floor of the Plymouth Dunning Hough Library. Phase One of the renovations to the former Jehovah's Witness Kingdom Hall on Sheldon Road was funded by a $50, 000 Michigan Equity Grant to the PCAC and th city of Plymouth. Matching funds of $90,000 were raised through a Capital Campaign Drive. Presently, the PCAC is looking for community groups to rent the facility for activities such as recitals.

"There is so much going on and so many plans. Because our performing arts area is set up for so many different configurations, we're offering it to other groups. We'd like to see it as a hub for the arts in western Wayne County," said Randy Lee.

Founded in 1969, the PCAC began as a five-year pilot program for the purpose of supplementing arts curricula in the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools. Phase Two of the renovations begins Sept. 1.

CHILDREN'S THEATER

'Pinocchio' good family entertainment

BY LIBBY PRYSBY
SPECIAL WRITER

Marquis Theatre, 135 E. Main Street, Northville, presents "Pinocchio," 2:30 p.m. Thursday and Friday April 11 – 12, Saturdays and Sundays through April 28. Tickets $6.50. Call (810) 349-8110.

The "nose knows" and so does the audience that "Pinocchio" is good family entertainment. And speaking of the nose, the main character, played by Irene Hublick, does a really good job of putting on a long, long nose when required during the performance. As the story line goes, Pinocchio's nose gets longer every time he tells a lie.

Hublick is one of a handful of talented adults who work with equally talented children to bring this adaptation of a children's classic to life. Another adult who gives an outstanding performance is Jackie Marns of Canton who portrays Gepetto. His foreign accent makes him believable and lovable as a toy maker and Pinocchio's father/creator. One area child who really stands out in this happy, little production is Lindsay Fortune of Farmington Hills who plays "Jeremy Cricket." Fortune gives an excellent performance with exaggerated expressions and movements while serving as Pinocchio's caretaker, a job given the cricket by the beautifully-costumed Blue Fairy, played by Heather Place of Northville.

Another Farmington Hills resident, Michelle Roberts, plays "Candlewick," the ruffian who leads Pinocchio astray and convinces him to forget school and escape to Pleasure Island. She is very convincing as a "bad boy" with solid movements and a strong voice.

Other area children who add to this fine production include Lauren Fisher and Teresa Martilotti of Farmington Hills, Kate Comben and Colleen Law of Livonia, and Sarah Kipperman of Bloomfield Hills. These are but a few of the youngsters who make up the Children's Chorus. They appeared as dolls, students, toys and citizens of Pleasure Island and tie the show together.

Another aspect of this production of note is the extraordinary costumes, created by Inge Zayti and Linda Pelhman. The cast members came alive as dolls, animals and soldiers with the realistic, creative and elaborate costumes.

Although this is a superb production overall, one thing could have been avoided.

"Pinocchio" is primarily geared for an audience of children. Because of this, the pushing and shoving between the Fox, played by Joseph French, and the Cat, played by Laurie Boloven of Northville, should be kept to a minimum. It isn't.

MARQUIS THEATRE

Works explore impact of rape

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN
SPECIAL WRITER

Statistics from the Southeast Michigan Anti-Rape Network indicate one of three females, and one of eight males, will be sexually assaulted in their lifetimes. In recognition of the nationwide observance of April as Sexual Assault Awareness Month, the third annual Rape Survivor Art Exhibit continues through April 28 at Urban Park-Detroit Art Center on the third floor of Trapper's Alley, 508 Monroe in Detroit's Greektown.

"Creative Expressions" opens with a reception unveiling this year's artwork 6-9 p.m. Friday, April 12 at the gallery. Along with painting, sculpture, collage and assemblage there will be speakers, a dramatic, performance, and a wall of writings by survivors of sexual assault and their significant others. An empowering voice for the survivors and their family and friends, the exhibit is meant to be an educational experience for the viewer about the devastating impact of rape.

Presented by the Southeast Michigan Anti-Rape Network, a six county coalition devoted to the treatment and prevention of sexual assault in our communities, it consists of First Step (Western Wayne County Project on Domestic Violence and Sexual Assault) in Canton Township; Haven, Pontiac; Assault Crisis Center, Ypsilanti; Rape Counseling Center, Detroit; Turning Point, Mt. Clemens and LaCasa/SARA, Howell.

"We're providing clients from these centers, the survivors, a safe place to express their feelings. To express what it feels like. It's a very powerful exhibit. We hope people will come down and see it," said Karen Lang of the Rape Counseling Center, City of Detroit Department of Police.

The thought-provoking exhibit was the brainchild of Kent Baumkel, formerly a sexual assault counselor at First Step. The idea for the multimedia show came after seeing an exhibit evolving from a project produced by Livonia photographer Carlos Diaz and Casa de Unidad in southwest Detroit where inner city children were given cameras to photograph their environment.

"Creative Expressions is a chance for people to have their say. It gives them certain freedom or liberty to express their feelings about what has happened and because this topic is still a verboten subject it gives them a means to talk about it, to educate the public about the impact of sexual assault," Kent Baumkel said.

"Produced with Justice Department funds, there's everything from papier mache to sculpture made with found objects, and a very strong piece on stalking." Cyndy Weeks, a graduate of Our Lady of Mercy in Farmington Hills, created the stalking artwork titled "Just Like the Ivy, He Clings." A professional artist, the 30-year old Weeks earned a BFA from Center for Creative Studies College of Art and Design in Detroit. A survivor of stranger rape, Weeks shortly thereafter endured a 4-year long domestic violence situation which ended in stalking that included breaking down the front door and throwing rocks through her apartment windows.

"As far as reclaiming myself, it's been a rough road. My art is the only thing that's kept me alive," Weeks said. "Art therapy is a way to express yourself. It's safer than verbally." Creating imagery is a non-threatening way to express rage and guilt - two of the responses encountered in the acute stage of the rape trauma syndrome.

STREET SCENE

Ministry prefers new songs to old

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO
STAFF WRITER

Ministry bassist/vocalist Paul Barker seems slightly disappointed in the crowds at the first few shows of the band's U.S. tour. While the tour is in support of Ministry's latest album "Filth Pig" (Warner Bros.), the crowd is looking to hear older material.

"I really want to make sure we play as much new material as possible. The fans aren't as interested in that as the old classics, and that's really a drag," said Barker, whose band plays the State Theatre in Detroit on Thursday, April 11, and Friday, April 12.

Being a music fan, Barker understands where the audience is coming from.

"Obviously when a band has been around a long time and has a history, people don't necessarily want to hear the new material. They want to hear the old (stuff). If they become fans later on, they'll go back and dig into the history of the band, whereas the band in a live situation may be tired of it."

One old song that fans won't hear is the Ministry's 1994 synth-disco hit "Halloween."

"The problem is the version that I played with Al (Jourgensen, Ministry singer/guitarist and co-founder) is far removed from the recorded single version. It's much more stripped down, less bouncy – a darker interpretation which we thought was really funny at the time. That whole thing is really kind of depressing, and I don't want to live in the past, but it's the albatross that the band has to drag around with them."

• Misc: The Black Crowes are in the studio mixing "Three Snakes and One Charm," their follow-up to "Amorica". The release date is tentatively set for summer.

"Pervert," Charm Farm's debut record for Mercury, is due in stores Tuesday, April 16. "Destruction by Definition," the Hollywood Records debut by the local ska-flavored punk band The Suicide Machines, is due in stores Tuesday, May 21.

• Best picks for the week: Golden Smog, a temporary hybrid of Soul Asylum, Wilco, Run Westy Run, plays the Majestic, 4140 Woodward Ave., Detroit, on Thursday, April 11, (313) 833-9700 ... Howard Jones plays an acoustic show at 7th House, 7 N. Saginaw, Pontiac, on Friday, April 12, (810) 335-8100

The Vigilantes of Love and the Gufs, frequent visitors to the Detroit area who just released its debut album for Atlantic, play the Blind Pig, 206-208 S. First St., Ann Arbor, on Wednesday, April 17, (313) 996-8555.

If you have any questions or comments for Christina Fuoco, you can write to her care of The Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia, MI 48150, or via e-mail at cfuoco@aol.com, or you can leave her a message at (313) 953-2047 ext. 2130.

Disney delivers a 'Peach'

By John Monaghan
Special Writer

It's no surprise that Roald Dahl's stories remain so popular with kids. From "Willy Wonka" to "The Witches," he had a wicked way of simultaneously grossing out and delighting young readers. Now that his first generation of fans are grown up and raising their own kids, his influence seems stronger than ever.

Film versions of those previous books are still favorites on video. "Willy Wonka and the Chocolate Factory" will even be rereleased in theaters this spring to commemorate its 25th anniversary.

Now comes "James and the Giant Peach," an adaptation of Dahl's 1961 book from the producer/director team of Tim Burton and Henry Selick. Unlike the fascinating misfire that was "Nightmare Before Christmas," this animated feature offers not only eye-popping animation but characters you can really care about.

The animated story is framed by live action, beginning with 10-year-old James (Paul Terry) living with loving parents on the coast of England. When Mom and dad are killed off-screen by a runaway rhino, the boy is placed in the care of his miserable aunts Sponge and Spiker (Joanna Lumley and Miriam Margolyes).

One day a giant peach appears in the backyard. The aunts charge admission to see it while James discovers that the fantastic fruit is actually hollow, filled with friendly, boy-size insects. When the peach breaks loose and rolls into the Atlantic, James and his pals set sail for New York City, which his parents promised he'd someday visit.

"James and the Giant Peach" resurrects the puppet animation technique that brought Rudolph and Santa to life in TV Christmas specials. In a move that may upset purists, the filmmakers have used computer-generated enhancements to make the figures move more fluidly.

Bo Hewitt/The Walt Disney Company

Peach-mates: A lonely boy named James finds some unusual new friends and unexpected adventures when he climbs inside an enormous peach and sets sail for New York City in Walt Disney Pictures' "James and the Giant Peach."

Selick has also fleshed out his characters. Where the problems of "Nightmare's" Jack Skellington were hard to grasp beyond simply advancing the plot, we feel for the good-natured, bug-loving James, dealt a blow by circumstance, subsisting on the crumbs at the bottom of a potato chip bag.

Retaining the English flavor of the story gives the movie a storybook feel. The vocal work is primarily British, including David Thewlis as an earthworm and Simon Callow as a violin-playing grasshopper related to Disney's Jiminy Cricket in species only.

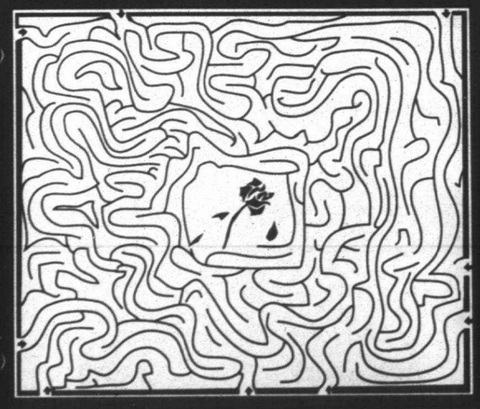

The voices of the American actors are a bit more brassy, including Richard Dreyfuss' take on a blustery centipede. Susan Sarandon does a fine Marlene Dietrich impression for the beret-wearing spider with spikey boots on her eight long legs.

The filmmakers have created some incredible set pieces. Blown off course by the centipede's navigation, our heroes land in a frozen world littered with the wrecked hulls of sailing ships. Consider this the closest that Disney will ever come to a movie version of "Rime of the Ancient Mariner."

In an amazing underwater sequence, James and the insects battle skeletal pirates, leftovers from "Nightmare Before Christmas" and Disneyland's Haunted Mansion. Then there's a horrifying mechanical shark, but I've given away far too much already.

Novel paints vivid picture of crime in Detroit

BY VICTORIA DIAZ
SPECIAL WRITER

"Cold Medina," by Guy Hardwich (Dutton, $22.95; 344 pages)

Let's just say I'll be very surprised if the Detroit Chamber of Commerce or the mayor's office offers author Guy Hardwick a key to the city anytime soon.

Some people I know never go into Detroit after dark. Some never go alone. Some just never go.

Probably, most are like me. I go whenever the occasion arises and, if my car doors are locked when I hit the expressway, I really don't think much more about it.

After reading this set-in-Detroit crime novel, I'm thinking more about it. What Nightly. news reports and daily newspaper stories don't manage to do over the years, this novel has somehow done, and I find myself in kind of a state of super-alertness as I drive about the city. Some people, of course, would insist that this is a good thing, and I figure it's about time I came to my senses. I'm not so sure.

It's hard to say exactly why Hardwick's debut novel has had this very real effect on me. The writing is marred now and then by Hardwick's tendency to lapse into a stream of rather flatly-written, choppy sentences to get us from one place or situation to another. And a good deal of the violence in the story comes off as rather absurd, simply because it's so excessive in nature (at one point, one character takes a bite out of another during a fight, then spits "the meat" onto the floor).

Perhaps what's at the core of the novel's effectiveness is Hardwick's subtly-convincing portrayal of the very human weakness of ordinary cops who find themselves in the nightmare heart of something close to chaos. the fact that Hardwick is a Detroit native adds considerable weight to his words.

"Cold Medina" (slang for a new drug that threatens to decimate the streets of Detroit) begins big. A black drug dealer known as Big Money Grip ("he always packed a large wad of cash") is brutally murdered in a dark, shadowy corner of Belle Isle. His killer, who soon strikes again, will quickly be dubbed The Handyman. He doesn't just snuff out the lives of his victims; he also chops off their hands and later, we will learn, squirrels them away in his refrigerator.

Who would do this? And why? Police Inspector Tony Hill, head of Detroit's Special Crimes Unit, together with his partner, the "wickedly handsome" Jim Cole, are soon on the case. Both are African-American cops, as is most of the police force, and when blonde hairs are found on the corpse, racism enters the ugly picture. With this discovery, the already fast-moving story switches into high gear.

Hardwick's perceptive treatment of this explosive issue is probably the novel's main strength. It's also what keeps propelling this story relentlessly forward, and finally, what lends much credibility to this work of fiction.

Hardwick's deftly-drawn pictures of such spots as Belle Isle, 1300 Beaubien, Indian Village, a "distribution point" in a pristine Livernois-Outer Drive neighborhood, the tombstone-gray city morgue, Palmer Woods, Mexican Village, the Chaldean community, and one I-94 overpass will sharpen the picture even more, especially for Detroit area readers.

Dan Young is only 28 years-old, but he has already achieved a great deal in the basketball coaching profession.

In his two years as varsity coach of the Chiefs, Young has compiled an impressive 41-7 record, including a sterling 22-2 record this season.

Under the guidance of Young, the fundamentally-sound Chiefs swept all three basketball titles in the Western Lakes Activities Association (Western Division, WLAA top seed and WLAA playoff champs). His team also captured the Class A district at Novi before falling to No. 1-ranked Detroit Pershing in the regional.

Young's 1995-96 Chiefs scored some impressive victories this season, including a season-opening overtime victory over Wayne Memorial.

"Our philosophy is defense, rebounding and playing as a team," said Young, who has been named Observerland Coach of the Year.

Young, who led the Chiefs to a 19-5 record in 1994-95, including WLAA and district crowns, is a Canton graduate.

He spent two years as an assistant at Western Michigan University under head coach Bob Donewald. In 1991-92, the Broncos went 21-9 and made the NIT. In 1992-93, WMU finished 17-12 and second overall in the Mid-American Conference.

His first varsity high school coaching stint came during the 1993-94 season when he lead Brighton to a 13-8 record and a Kensington Valley Conference co-championship.

Not only are Young's efforts recognized, but also the performers on the court.

This year's All-Area team consists of three repeat players on the first-team - Lorenzo Guess, Ron Hunter and Albert Jones.

Introducing the 1995-96 All-Area basketball team as selected by the Observer sports staff.

Lorenzo Guess, junior guard, Wayne Memorial: One of the state's premier players, the 6-3 point-guard marked his third varsity season by leading the Zebras to a 23-3 record and spot in the state Class A semifinals.

He averaged a team-high 17.4 points, 6.0 rebounds and 4.2 assists per game. He made 165 of 331 field goal attempts (49.8 percent) and 33 of 94 three-point tries (35.1 percent). He made 7.18 percent of his free throws (71.8).

He also surpassed the 1,000-point mark this year.

"He's our heart-and-soul, our leader," Wayne coach Chuck Henry said. "For three years he's been our leading scorer and rebounder.

"He's a very selfless player, intent on getting the ball to the open man for an easier shot. He's a warrior ondefense and his practice and game performance is the same."

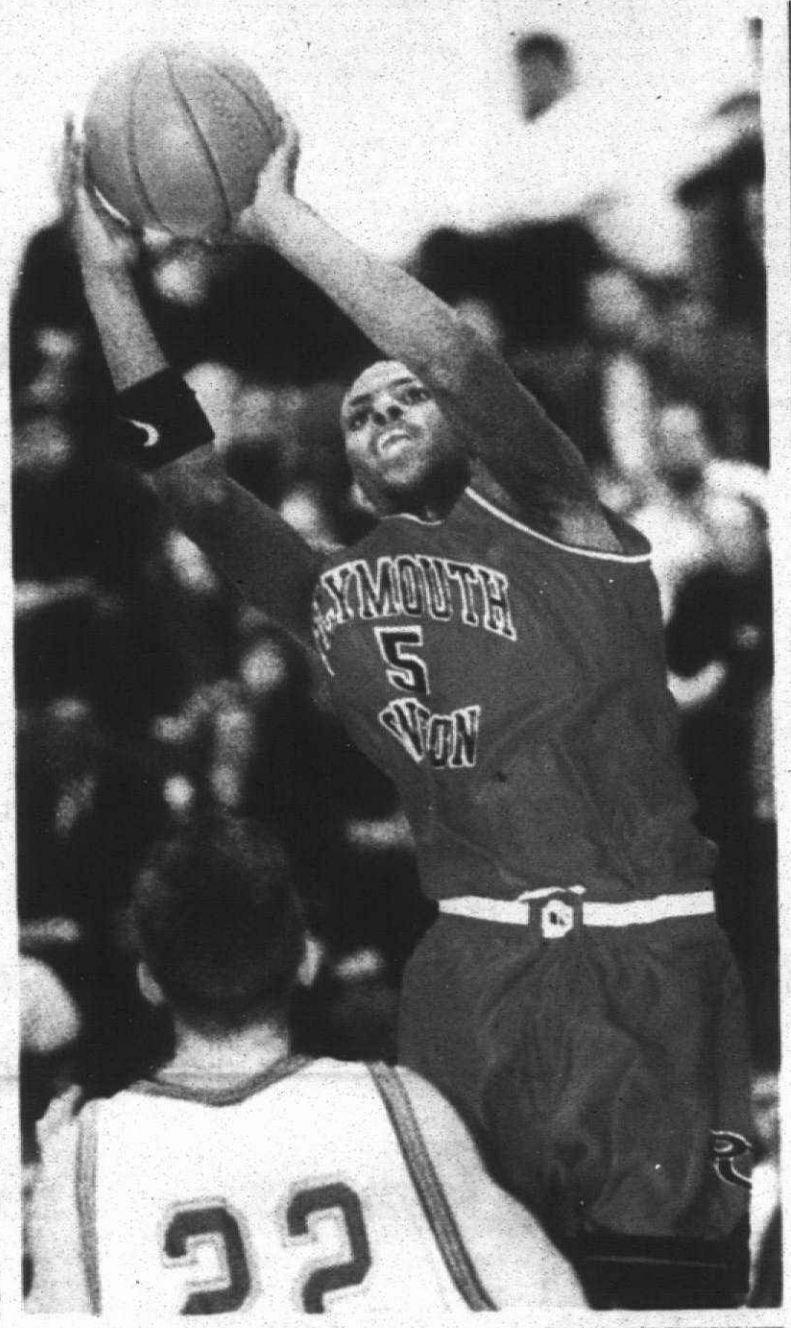

Guess was also a first-team All-Observer selection last fall in football. He is a three-year starter at quarterback for the Zebras.

Guess also excels on the academic side, ranking 24th in his class with a 3.8 grade-point average.

Ron Hunter, senior guard, Plymouth Canton: Hunter is a repeat selection to the All-Observer first team. He averaged 18 points per game with a career-high 30 against Detroit Pershing in the Class A regional semifinal loss at Southfield Lathrup.

The 6-4 Hunter averaged eight rebounds per game and made a school-record 58 percent of his field-goal attempts. He was equally adept at driving to the basket or shooting from three-point range, making a team-best 37 percent from beyond

Salem sweeps Ypsi; Canton loses twice

BASEBALL

There's nothing like a double-header sweep to take the chill out of a freezing spring day.

Ask any player from Plymouth Salem who was there Tuesday when the Rocks swept Ypsilanti by scores of 4-3 in an eight-inning game and 11-1 in a second-game mercy.

It may have been barely above freezing as the game was being played but it kept warming up in the Salem dugout while the Braves had to be feeling a wind chill factor close to zero.

Salem put the chill on Ypsilanti even after spotting the Braves, 0-2, a 3-0 lead before the contest was three innings old. After that, however, Rocks' hurlers put enemy bats in the freezer for the rest of the afternoon.

Starter Ryan Andrzejewski gave up four hits in three innings, striking out six and walking only one. Winner Tom DeMetsenare (2-0) allowed only two hits over the final five innings, walking one and fanning three.

Three straight doubles netted the Braves a pair of runs in the second and another double knocked in the third run in the third.

Salem started heating up its bats in the home half of the third, though. A wild pitch and an RBI single by Tim Sisler cut the gap to 3-2 and Ryan Rumberger's groundout with a man on third tied the score in the fourth.

Reliever Craig Fuller checked Salem from the fifth through the seventh but Keith Boughner worked his way to third with two out and scored on a wild pitch to end the game.

Sisler went 3-for-4, Rumberger 2-for-4 and Danny Heitzmann 2-for-2 in the first game.

The victory seemed to ignite the Rocks for the second game as they sizzled for five runs in the first and went on to mercy the Braves after five innings.

Rumberger had an RBI double, Eric Jones a two-run single and Andrzejewski a two-run double to take the pressure off Boughner, who squared his record at 1-1 with a five-hitter. Dan Grosshans was the loser for Ypsilanti.

Salem added two runs in the second on a Rumberger single plus a passed ball, got an RBI double from Heitzmann in the third and sewed the game up with three in the third on an error plus a two-run double by Jerry Robinson.

Robinson, Rumberger and Heitzman went 2-for-2 in the game while Andrzejewski and Jones went 1-for-2.

Brother Rice 7-3, Canton 5-0: It's hardly an auspicious start, losing your first three games. But all things considered, it's hardly doom and gloom time.

Although Plymouth Canton lost twice last Saturday to Birmingham Brother Rice at Canton, Chiefs' coach Scott Dickey wasn't all that displeased. For one thing, the team Canton faced happens to be ranked No. 1 in the state.

And while the baseball tradition at Canton is impressive, consider that the Warriors have won state championships twice in the previous four years.

"Obviously, I'm not happy being 0-3, but we're playing pretty well," said Dickey. "We did a great job pitching, well enough to win. Basically, what we didn't do is field the ball very well, which goes against our grain.

"And against a team like Brother Rice, you make errors and you're not going to be very successful."

In the first game, the Chiefs did get enough offense for the win, and the pitching wasn't too shabby. Anthony Pastor started and was tagged with the loss, giving up three earned runs in six innings. He allowed seven hits and three walks, striking out three. Marc Hazzard pitched the final inning.

John Wright paced the Canton offense with two hits that drove in three runs, one a three-run double in the fourth inning. Jason Bricker added a double and an RBI in the fourth as well.

In the second game, the Chiefs' pitching again sparkled, but the offense was a no-show. Canton managed just three hits, "and they were scattered," said Dickey. "We didn't really threaten."

The hits belonged to Bricker, Kurt Richards and Jason Pennebaker. The Warriors, meanwhile, made the most of their opportunities, taking advantage of Canton errors to score two unearned runs off of starter and loser Jason Mortiere. He went 6.7 innings, surrendering four hits and just one earned run while striking out six.

Two of the Warrior runs came in the seventh. Pennebaker relieved Mortiere to get the final out of the inning.

Canton will play at Western Lakes Activities Association rival Livonia Franklin Monday.

Offense key to PCA's hopes

BY NEAL ZIPSER
STAFF WRITER

PREVIEW

If there's one thing the Plymouth Christian Academy softball team rarely lacks, it's enough offense.

The typically-potent PCA offense will be alive and kicking again this season as the Eagles return several of their leading hitters from last season. Mix them with numerous promising newcomers, and the Eagles should score their share of runs.

Case in point was PCA's season-opening 19-4 victory over Ypsilanti Calvary Christian last week.

Second-year coach Mary Harmsen liked what she saw in the victory from her team, which finished 14-9 last season and in fourth place in the Michigan Independent Athletic Conference.

The Eagles may need all the runs they could generate this season, because the success of a grueling 27-game schedule may ride on the left arm of freshman Lisa Larew. The southpaw takes over for the graduated Katie Martin as the PCA's ace hurler.

Against Calvary Christian, Larew looked impressive. She faced 21 batters, allowing only three hits while walking two and striking out three.

"She has very good control and the speed will pick up as she progresses," Harmsen said. "She doesn't get rattled. She does things that you can't teach."

Larew will receive help on the mound from senior Lisa Erickson - PCA's leading returning hitter. The clean-up batter who hit just over .400 last season is the starting shortstop.

Junior Kim Rinzema solidifies the middle of the PCA infield. The third baseman who hit .400 last season will bat third and play all over the infield when necessary.

The Eagles are strong up the middle in the outfield, also. Senior Carrie Whittaker, PCA's lead-off hitter, will use her speed in centerfield.

Junior catcher Rebekah Pugno may have the hardest shoes to fill. The first-year varsity player will try to fill the void left by Karin Reed, who was a mainstay for the Eagles behind the plate and was the team's leading hitter last season with a batting average well over .400.

"I think offensively, we'll be alright with Rebekah," Harmsen said. "Karin was a very good defensive catcher and that's where we'll see what happens. Rebekah played a very good first game and had only two passed balls."

Pugno and Erickson displayed their offensive abilities in the season opener. Erickson knocked in three runs with three hits and Pujno drove home three with a pair of hits.

The corners of the infield will be taken care of by a pair of freshman with Carrie McCoy at first base and Elizabeth Pujno at third base.

Whittaker will be flanked in center by more first-year varsity players. Junior Kelly Dahlman will patrol left field with freshman Sarah Lorion and sophomore Sally Carter splitting time in right field. According to Harmsen, this season's outfield will be faster than last year's.

"At first the youth was a concern, but we have a good blend of chemistry - especially in the infield," Harmsen said. "The key will be to keep Lisa at shortstop as much as we can and not have her on the mound. We're still trying to develop a third pitcher which will help, especially with the bigger schedule."

The Eagles added four games to their schedule this season and will compete in the expanded MIAC. The league was divided into two divisions with PCA added to the upper division.

The Eagles will have to contend with perennial powers Southfield Christian and Oakland Christian, along with Warren Bethesda, Allen Park Inter-City Baptist and Taylor Baptist Park.

Harmsen said that the team's goal is to finish at least third in its division. And that seems quite possible if PCA can keep the runs crossing the plate.

Benedict tosses shutout for improving Madonna

COLLEGES

The Madonna University baseball team was three innings away from sweeping a four-game series over visiting Indiana University-Purdue University Indianapolis.

But the Crusaders still had a successful Easter weekend, capturing three-out-of-four to improve to 13-15 overall. Madonna opened the series with a pair of shutouts Friday, 2-0 and 5-0, and took Saturday's opener 10-2, before dropping the nightcap 5-2.

In the 2-0 shutout, Joel Hillebrand and Mark Serra combined on a one-hitter. Serra (2-1) picked up the win, hurling the final four innings of hitless ball while striking out three.

Catcher Delano Voletti (from Redford/Dearborn Divine Child) had the big hit - a two-run triple in the fourth inning. Rightfielder Pete Quinn (Redford Thurston) had two of the six Madonna hits.

Craig Benedict (Plymouth Canton) pitched a four-hit masterpiece in Friday's nightcap to record his first victory of the season after four losses. Benedict struck out two without a walk.

Eric Marcotte (Plymouth Canton), Tim Kasubowski and Kevin Foley had two hits apiece. Marcotte also knocked in a pair of runs. Kasubowski, Foley and Jeff Gutt (Dearborn/Redford Catholic Central) had the other RBI.

The Crusaders belted 15 hits to continue the onslaught of IUPUI on Saturday with a 10-2 victory. Lead-off batter Kurt Wilczynski was the hitting hero, as the third baseman went 3-for-4 with three RBI.

Quinn and Kasubowski also had a good game at the plate, each smacking two hits and knocking in a pair of runs. Marcotte added two hits and pinch hitter Edward Roman chipped in with a two-run single.

Jason Dubey evened his record at 1-1 by pitching the first six innings. Dubey threw the first six innings, surrendering only one unearned run on three hits. For his effort, Dubey was named the NAIA Great Lakes Section Player of the Week.

The Crusaders led 2-1 in the fourth inning of the final game against IUPUI, and it appeared Madonna might even its record at 14-14. But IUPUI scored the final four runs of the game to escape with a 5-2 victory.

Mike LaPointe and Jason Renkiewicz (Livonia Churchill) each went 2-for-3 to lead the seven-hit Madonna attack.

Bob Mason (0-2), the second of three Madonna pitchers, took the defeat. He surrendered three runs in just 1/3 of an inning. Jason Carter (Livonia Churchill) pitched the first five innings, allowing two runs on six hits. Joel Fabris pitched the final 1 2/3 innings of scoreless ball.

Shaffer feted in Lady Crusader sweep

Madonna University third baseman Dawn Shaffer was rewarded for leading the Crusaders to a 9-0, 12-11 sweep of Albion College Saturday.

Shaffer was named the NAIA Great lakes East Section Player of the Week for batting .700 (7-10) with one double, one triple, one home run and five RBI. She also had one walk and stole four bases. She capped her week by going 2-for-5 with four RBI in the doubleheader at Ford Field.

In the nightcap, Madonna (14-7) spotted the Britons a 6-0 first-inning lead, before scoring nine unanswered runs. Shortstop Michelle Birchmeier (from Redford Thurston) belted a homer in addition to a single and knocked in four runs. Right fielder Jeanie Baxter (Redford St. Agatha) was 3-for-4 with one RBI.

Catcher Stacey Piontkowski joined the 10-hit parade by going 2-for-2 with two runs scored and one RBI. The Crusaders also received an RBI-triple from Shaffer and an RBI-double from Jamie Heins.

Lynda Weichel pitched the first 5 1/3 innings for Madonna and allowed 10 runs - only three were earned, however. Shanna Streng pitched the final 1 2/3 innings and survived a seventh-inning rally by Albion to improve her record to 6-6.

"This year's even is also shaping up to be a huge success and we hope to raise $50,000 for athletes with mental retardation."

the arc (22 of 60).

His coach, Dan Young, said Hunter likely will walk on as a football player at Michigan State University. Hunter was a first team All-Observer choice last fall as a receiver in football.

"Ron had an outstanding season," Young said. "Not only did he lead us in scoring and rebounding, but he made significant improvements in his defense. He always played big in the big games."

Albert Jones, senior guard, Westland Glenn: The 6-1 Jones ranks third all-time on the Glenn scoring list with 985 points (behind Darin Armstrong and Steve Hawley).

He averaged 20 points per game, including a game-high 33 in his final outing against Wayne in the district.

Jones, a three-year varsity starter, is also Glenn's all-time leader in assists and steals.

"He was a real competitor and team leader for three years," Glenn coach Mike Schuette said. "His hustle is going to be missed.

"He was most effective when the ball was in his hands and he was tough to cover one-on-one. He could dish or shoot when penetrating to the hoop."

Schuette said that Wayne State has shown interest in Jones.

Chris Misiak, senior guard, Redford Catholic Central: Before considering what Misiak did, it's important to know what he didn't do: Commit turnovers.

Misiak had only 25 miscues in 24 games, which is even more remarkable when considering he is a point guard. Misiak also was a threat to score, averaging 12.5 points per game while making 48 percent of his field goal attempts, including 40 percent from three-point range (53-134). Misiak, headed to Wayne State University on a full-ride basketball scholarship, had a high game of 23 points.

"Chris made us hard to press and he could score," CC coach Rick Coratti said. "He is a real-good all-around athlete, one of the best I've coached."

Marc McDonald, junior guard, Redford Catholic Central: McDonald put on some dazzling shooting displays, usually in big games. Four times he surpassed 30 points, including 39 in the Shamrocks' loss to Detroit Cooley in the Class A regional final at Dearborn. He had 29 in CC's Catholic League championship victory over Orchard Lake St. Mary's.

McDonald made a school-record 85 three-point shots, converting 44 percent of his attempts, and averaged 20.6 points per game. He shot 49 percent from the field (including two-point attempts) and 78 percent from the free throw line.

"He's definitely a scorer, but he's becoming more of a complete player. His ballhandling and defense have improved," Coratti said. "(Former Catholic Central all-staters) Greg (Wendt) and Mac (John McIntyre) could shoot it, but Marc is right there."

Jerome Ross, senior guard, Redford Bishop Borgess: Ross averaged 16.5 points and five assists per game for the Spartans, who were Catholic League Central Division co-champions. A two-year starter, Ross also was assigned to guard the opponents' top scoring guard.

The Associated Press first-team Class C all-state player has a 3.8 grade point average.

"Jerome is an outstanding young man, a hard worker," Borgess coach Roosevelt Barnes said. "I thought he was the best two-way guard in the Catholic League. I think he's going to make somebody a real good collegiate player. He's an outstanding student-athlete and an intelligent basketball player."

Jameel Wooden, senior guard, Wayne Memorial: Nobody in the area could be more explosive than the 6-1 Wooden, who averaged 13 points and made 46.5 percent of his shots from three-point land (57 of 132).

"Jameel epitomizes the streaky shooter," Henry said. "When he's in rhythm, he's better than anyone I've ever had."

Wooden played his best games down the stretch, including a game-high 24 points against Southfield-Lathrup in the Class A semifinals and a team-high 20 in a 78-65 quarterfinal win against Lansing Everett.

"He's got incredible range," Henry said. "He's very athletic and has very good offensive skills."

Wooden, who can also leap with the best, is being recruited by several junior colleges including Kalamazoo Valley, St. Clair and Henry Ford.

TREADING ON THIN RUBBER
Car owners should adopt the habit of inspecting their cars tires for wear every few weeks. Most tires have tread-wear indicators built into them. They appear as bars of hard rubber across the treads when the treads have been worn down to 1/16 of an inch on the tire's surface. In the event that these indicators show up on the tire in two or three different places less than 120 degrees apart around the circumference of the tire, it is time to purchase replacement tires. Ideally, drivers will not allow their tires to wear to the point where the indicators appear. Because minimal tread compromises handling and braking power, tires should be replaced prior to the absolute need to do so. Car owners should also be in the habit of inspecting their tires for unusual wear patterns.
Sometimes an unusual wear pattern on your tires can indicate the need for an alignment. At HOLIDAY CHEVROLET, INC., we keep a large top-quality parts inventory to save you time waiting for a repair. We have been in business over a decade, and we are in the top ten CSI category compared to all other Chevy dealers. State could crack down on illegal gaming

TEN-PIN ALLEY

AL HARRISON

When did mystery games first appear on the bowling scene?

Perhaps it was Adams and Eve when they threw rocks at a few sticks and then counted up how many had fallen down. At any rate, the game has been a traditional part of the bowling scene as it gives al bowlers an equal chance to win something even though their skills cannot match those of the higher average bowlers in most leagues.

Now, it is rumored that the L.C.C. is at it again. A so-called crackdown of illegal gaming in any establishments where liquor is served. Have these people nothing better to do?

It is likely that this State of Michigan agency is sending undercover agents into many of the local bowling centers to see if gaming laws are being broken. If this happens, and it very well might, it should be a rallying call for all bowlers to actively take part in the democratic process and holler to the legislators to change our laws if they are not right.

■ Many bowlers have developed a magnetic personality lately. This is due to some therapeutic products which have come upon the scene to help ease the aches and soreness that often go along with any type of physical activity such as bowling.

They are a series of magnets produced and marketed by Nikken, Inc. that have shown remarkable results in this sport. Some of the local pro shops are stocking them, such as David's Rite Line Pro Shop at Cloverlanes in Livonia. David Mahaz, the proprietor uses them and has bowled better because he has felt better, more energy and less fatigue.

Scotty Laughland, the super senior from Windsor has been using them and he is feeling good and bowling great. Other area bowlers of note who are now using magnets anywhere from the feet on up are Gene Stus, Bob Chamberlain, Bob Stempien, Kairi Jeffries, Mitch Jabczynski, Mike Calloway, Joe Gouiaina and Tom Reno. Ron Lancaster of Westland has experienced a lot of relief from the old ailments and is bowling better than ever since he has been sleeping on a magnetic mattress pad and using the magsteps, which fit inside the shoes. If they only come out with a magnet which will induce the bowling ball to hit the pocket more often, I will be first in line to get one.

■ Tom Pawlowski of Garden City bowls in the Mayflower Senior Men's Classic and last week he brought in a now ball, just drilled and not yet thrown. He started with a 225, then a 215 game and then finished off with a 277.

The new Ball was the 'T2' by Brunswick, which he received a few days earlier from entering the Pro-Am at Taylor Lanes for the PBA Greater Detroit Open when it comes here in June. Needless to say, Tom was happy with the new ball.

French students head home

By M.B. Dillon
Staff Writer

'It was fun. It was like having a brother, but I'm really not related. There was one bad thing that was kind of funny. Every night, he snores so loud.'

—Brad Cooley

It was a sad and tearful scene at Eriksson and Fiegel elementary schools last week, as 50 French and American students bid each other farewell.

The students, who hail from the towns of LeChesnay and Crepy-en-Valois, visited the area with the French Back-to-Back program. Plymouth-Canton families hosted the children from March 18-April 4.

When they weren't in class, students visited Lansing and toured the state Capitol and Michigan museum, took in the Shrine Circus and the Ann Arbor Hands-On Museum; toured Fort Malden, a Ford Plant and Sugar Bush Farm, and walked through downtown Plymouth. They bowled, roller skated and played baseball.

Thirty-one Plymouth-Canton students and teachers will travel to France in June to complete the exchange. Even so, it seemed no one wanted to say goodbye as the buses were loaded Thursday.

Sureka Carrier, from the island of Mauritius in the Indian Ocean, was the students' translator. "It was a very exciting experience. The people here are very friendly. We have spent two-and-a-half weeks, really fantastic," said Carrier, who was hosted by Damen and Sharon Albert and their children.

Benedicte Demathieu, 10, said in French, "The houses are very beautiful here. And what is fantastic is you don't have any fences."

Marine Boucaux, 11, lights up when she's asked a question in English. "The welcome is very warm. Everything is big sizes here," she said.

Gail Jenks said they had great fun as her daughter, Nicole, 10, and Thomas Mouillard, 10, got to know each other.

A memorable moment arrived when Thomas saw his first Coke machine. "He wanted something to drink, and we gave Nicole a dollar to feed into the machine," said Gail. "Thomas was amazed. He took the pop, and then hugged the machine saying, 'I love you I love you!' He'd never seen a Coke machine before."

"Thomas took pictures of cars and mailboxes. He was amazed at the sizes of things."

Brad Cooley, an Eriksson fifth-grader, got to know several French students. Julien Boulanger stayed with his family.

"It was fun. It was like having a brother, but I'm really not related," said Brad. "There was one bad thing that was kind of funny. Every night, he snores so loud."

Brad and Franc Guliao had no problem communicating, although Franc and a reporter did. Asked whether he had a good time, Franc looked at the questioner with a confused look on his face. Brad came to the rescue. "America, amusement?" he asked. Franc nodded, and Brad said, "Yeah, he had fun."

Blandine Burruel, 16, grew so attached to the Lincoln family she was sobbing uncontrollably before boarding the bus at Eriksson. Shelby, Thaddeus, Kelsey and Pam Lincoln welled up as Blandine hugged dad, Chris Lincoln. "Blandine says she wants to live with us," said Pam. "She calls us mama and papa. This is really tough."

Mom Ellen Kolarik says she'll remember the laughs they had. "We took the kids to Frankenmuth, and out of everything Marine could have taken a picture of, she took pictures of the inside of the hotel room," she said of the family's French guest.

Eriksson Principal Judy Ireson said she watched "wonderful friendships being created that will probably last a lifetime. Wonderful teachers and a translator came with them. They were absolutely delightful and fit into our staff beautifully."

From all reports, the experience at Fiegel was every bit as memorable.

HARTMAN & SILVER FOOT & ANKLE CARE

Michael A. Hartman, D.P.M. & Joseph E. Silver, D.P.M.

Podiatrists generally agree, a person's feet must not be neglected. Proper foot care is just as necessary to good health as care of the eyes and teeth.

Podiatrists, the specialists that treat foot and ankle ailments, are aware that many painful foot afflictions which people suffer from are often easily treated once they are properly diagnosed. Perhaps that is the reason that Michael A. Hartman, D.P.M. & Joseph E. Silver, D.P.M. are recognized as our areas leading pediatric physicians and surgeons.

The doctors will take a thorough medical history and a podiatric exam in order to determine any foot disorders. Improper foot alignment can cause knee, hip or back pain which may be alleviated or helped by a simple office procedure. They specialize in diagnosing and treating all types of foot disorders, from corns, ingrown nails and plantar warts, to bunions and heel spurs. Also a special concern, is the care and treatment of the foot of each individual, whether it is the abnormal alignment in a child's foot, the nagging pain from day-to-day activities, or the arthritic or special problems of the elderly or diabetic patient.

This information has been brought to you in the interest of better foot health through the courtesy of HARTMAN & SILVER FOOT & ANKLE CARE located at 906 South Main in Plymouth, phone 455-3669 or in Westland at 6149 Wayne Road, phone 722-1570.

PLYMOUTH PHYSICAL THERAPY SPECIALISTS

Physical therapy has been around for thousands of years. Early Chinese and Roman civilizations used massage, water and heat to restore movement and relieve pain, and also as preventive health care. Physical therapists today are highly trained specialists promoting beneficial human health through a variety of programs. Physical therapists must complete a 4-6 year college degree that emphasizes the biological and medical sciences. After licensing, physical therapists practice health care in hospitals, clinics, private practices, schools and industries, and also offer services to athletic teams or sport teams.

Your physical therapy evaluation will include your history and observation of your posture and movement. Other tests may include muscle strength, range of motion and more. Your physical therapist will then plan a treatment program geared to meet your individual needs. Treatment can include mobilizing stiff joints and tissue, exercise, stretching, heat or ice, as well as other modalities and education. The goal of physical therapy is to restore or achieve optimal movement and function and to relieve pain.

Through evaluation and individualized treatment programs, your physical therapist can treat your existing problems and provide preventive health care for a variety of needs. This information has been brought to you in the interest of better health through the courtesy of PLYMOUTH PHYSICAL THERAPY SPECIALISTS located at 9368 Lilley in Plymouth Township. For further information or an appointment, call 416-3900.

Get rundown on marathon

O&E ONLINE

EMORY DANIELS

This Monday, April 15, is the annual Boston Marathon which this year is a special happening because 1996 is the 100th anniversary of the world's oldest annual marathon.

The official Internet site of the Boston Marathon can be visited at http://www.boston-marathon.org. Users should plan on stopping for awhile to read marathon news, events, runner information, the history of the marathon, and pick up some tips on watching the race.

I visited the Boston Marathon site maintained by the Boston Herald.

This site has a huge database on the race that also features information on runners registered for the marathon.

An easy searchable tool allows users to select a state and city of interest and see which runners from those cities are signed up to run. Information given is runner's name, age, sex, Bib number, city, state, and citizenship. You can search on each one of these categories. When I visited I learned which runners had signed up to date from Livonia, Westland, and Plymouth. Look for runners from your hometown when you visit http://www.boston.com/sports/marathon/runners/search.htm.

Sunday, April 21, is Earth Day '96. Point to http://envirolink.org/eathday and wade through acres of information on events.

This site also has a search tool so you can easily learn about Earth Day events near your city.

Speaking of spring, as we were, all of us green thumbers will want to visit Joyce Schillen's home page and learn step-by-step information on how to raise successful seedlings and how to create a garden with style. Point to http://www.odsnet.net/Business/GardenPages.

And with the arrival of spring and April we once again experience the re-emergence of the eternal optimists among us who are tuning in their radio stations daily to check out how our Tigers are doing "so far."

Fans will want to visit the Fastball site maintained and developed by Cox Newspapers which is loaded with information on all teams. Point to http://www.fastball.com/ and plan to spend a while if you enjoy baseball.

Another one-stop baseball site with multiple links for each of the 28 major league teams can be accessed at http://www.gnat-net.net/~hotrod/baseball.htm.

Users wanting to add to their collection of bookmarks may want to visit any of the following:

■ The Toronto Star Online at http://www.thestar.com/. The Web site of Canada's largest newspaper, the Toronto Star, presents news, entertainment and information plus searchable classified ads and career information and an e-zine which contains games, puzzles and sports information.

Detroiters also may want to check out the Windsor Star's new Web page at http://www.southam.com/windsorstar/.

■ "Child Safety on the Information Highway" is the title of a web document produced by the U.S. National Center for Missing and Exploited Children. The guide discusses the benefits and risks for children and teen-agers who have access to online information. This guide also gives tips to reduce the risks. Point to http://www.missingkids.org/information_superhighway.html.

At the bottom of the document, you'll find a section called "My Rules for Online Safety." You might want to use all or parts of this text as the basis of an agreement with each child. Ensuring that children understand their own set of responsibilities is an essential part of their introduction to the Internet.

■ Automotive Q&A at http://www.geocities.com/MotorCity/1069 allows users to talk online with an ASE certified master mechanic. Submit your automotive questions to Tony Brunelle and he'll answer you, for free.

■ The Biographical Dictionary at http://www.tiac.net/users/parallax/ allows users to leaf through searchable pages and find biographical information on more than 18,000 notable people from ancient history to the current time. Find out when the person was born, his or her profession, positions held, literary and artistic works, awards won, etc. A useful resource.

■ The Political Correctness Page at http://www.bergen.gov/~eritha/political/ provides users with a politically correct search engine to search for the truly politically correct expression. There are also 10 guidelines to politically correct speech. A not so useful resource.

Spring cleaning includes your yard

BY MARTY FIGLEY
SPECIAL WRITER

Well, it has finally arrived! Spring, that is. With our cold winter weather sometimes it seemed as though the air could never get warm again. But here we are, aching to run out into our gardens and prepare them for the coming season.

Take a stroll through your property and make note of what needs to be done. Rake up the matted tree leaves that were left on the ground because they will smother the grass as it wants to grow. While you're about it, remove twigs, stones and other debris that accumulated during the winter. Right away your property will look neater.

While the grass is still dormant, edge the garden beds to define their outline.

If the grass is tall enough it can be mowed and fertilized. A pre-emergent product to prevent crabgrass and other unwanted weeds can also be applied. However, don't use a preemergent if there are bare areas in the lawn that you want to reseed. When you do reseed keep the seeds moist until the young grass is established.

Slowly remove the mulch from the plants as the weather warms _ don't be too hasty.

Shrubs that bloom on new wood, such as potentilla, oakleaf hydrangea and clethra, can be pruned now, if they weren't in the fall. Late winter or early spring is best, so prune promptly or you may sacrifice some blooms. Wait until spring-flowering plants such as azalea, lilac, viburnum, mock orange and forsythia finish blooming before pruning. They bloom on old wood and need the rest of the year to form new growth for the next season.

General pruning directions are to remove all the dead wood, those branches that cross and may rub together, and selective branches to keep the plants in shape. If you have to constantly prune to keep a plant in bounds, it is probably located in the wrong place. A good book will help teach proper pruning times and methods. I especially like "Pruning & Training Plants," David Joyce and Chris Brickell (Simon & Schuster), and "A Practical Guide: Pruning," Peter McHoy (Abbeville Press).

As you are shaping up the shrubs be on the lookout for weeds and as soon as you see one, remove it! If you do, it won't have time to go to seed and produce more weeds.

Ideas in bloom

CULTIVATING SKILLS: As the GardenPlace™ at Target takes root, you'll notice the garden theme sprouting everywhere. From perfect perennial beds to effortless outdoor entertaining, Target home and garden consultant Debra Fritz abounds with ideas to cultivate the skills of any garden lover. For example, for outdoor entertaining, think of your outdoor living space as an extension of your home. Choose furniture that is both functional and pleasing to the eye. If direct sunlight is a problem, find a large umbrella that blends with your furniture and shades the entire space. Fill the area with some of the same inviting items you use in your home, such as colorful throw pillows, and a baker's rack displaying favorite dinnerware. Using an assortment of galvanized metal containers, cluster floral bouquets of varying heights around the seating area. Galvanized metal lanterns hung with raffia create a romantic ambience.

The shrub, flower and vegetable beds need to be cleaned out, especially if you left some leaves in them during the winter. A child's rake or one such as the Adjust-o-rake with tines that can be made wide or narrow will make this chore go fast. If you didn't remove the dead annuals (flowers and vegetables) they need to be taken away now. There seems to be two schools of thought about cutting down all the flower stalks of perennials. Some people like the silhouettes such as grasses and tall sturdy plants make in the wintertime, while others like to cut and remove all the perennial stems and foliage. Anyway, it's time to trim them and carefully clear out the browned and dead parts. Don't disturb the new growth or roots.

When new spring growth is around three to six inches tall, many perennials can be divided. I like to divide my tarragon when it is just about three inches, because the roots get so tangled, and you may prefer to divide when the plants are very short. We must always keep in mind that a cold snap might arrive and be prepared to protect our plants. Most people wait until around Memorial Day to set out new plants so you might want to wait a while to divide.

Before actually digging into the soil, check to see if it is ready to be worked. If a shovelful crumbles when you let the soil drop off your shovel or spade, it is dry enough to be worked. If it remains in a solid lump, give it some time to dry out a little.

This is a good time to have the soil tested to find out the pH level. Your County Extension agent will give directions. In Oakland County call (810) 858-0902; in Wayne County, (313) 494-3011. These are the "hotline" numbers that you should save. They are staffed by competent people who can answer all manner of gardening questions.

COVER STORY

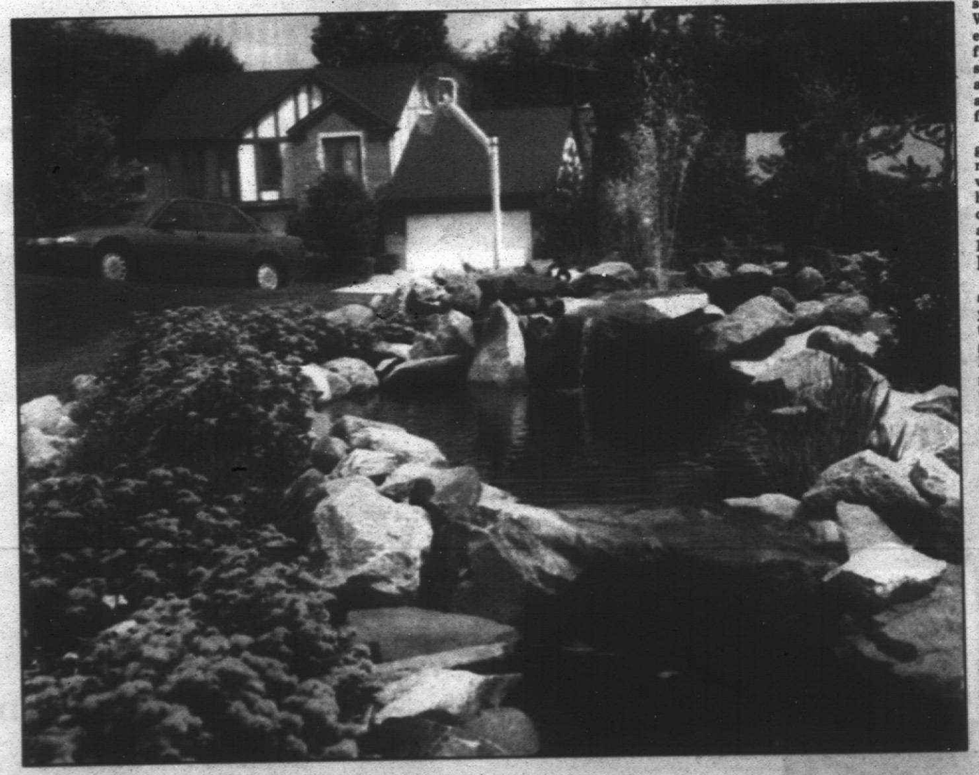

CREATIVITY BLOOMS IN GARDENS

STORY BY MARTY FIGLEY · SPECIAL WRITER

On the cover: A cascade of water begins in the fountain pond to connect the series of ponds at the home of Jack and Mary Lou Susami. Flowering annuals add a bright note while field-stone surrounds each pond

In containers: Many different kinds of containers overflow at Eric Hofley's residence in Birmingham.

Fountain treat: A view from the largest pond, looking up to the "fountain pond" created by Jack Susami.

Each garden that I visit always amazes me with the ingenuity and thought that the gardener has used in planning, planting and caring for his or her creation. It is so refreshing to see gardens that don't "follow the book" yet are done very nicely to suit the land on which they are built.

Two very different approaches to gardening illustrate just what I mean.

Many different plants grow on a small suburban lot, 50 by 100 feet, in Birmingham. The owner, Eric Hofley, began his garden just last year and has accomplished much in just one season.

He began by tearing down a porch and replacing it with a deck at the back of his home. He then built a raised bed from landscape timbers and abutted it close to the new deck, leaving space in between for roses to climb on the adjoining trellis. The trellis adds a vertical element to the garden.

He then removed all the sparse grass in the back yard and simply turned over the soil, brought in topsoil and compost and added sulphur, cottonseed meal and green sand. This mixture was worked into the soil to raise the pH level that was indicated by the soil analysis he did. Wood chip paths edged with grapefruit-sized cobblestones meander around the yard and around a center flower bed.

"Like any good gardener, I like to recycle things, so when my neighbor had some broken concrete I used it for another raised bed," Hofley said.

Harmony

Hofley looked for sunny places in the yard and positioned the new deckside garden in that place. Here he planted low ground covers toward the front, ajuga, Silver mount, geraniums and many rock garden plants such as Orostachys inwarenge (Dunce caps), which has silver foliage as do several of the other plants. He felt that the alpine plants would look appropriate with the broken concrete. A young Japanese maple and a blue oat grass center this garden. Coreopsis Moonbeam "winds through the oat grass" and harmonizes well there.

The property has a row of hemlocks at the back, which serves as a perfect privacy fence. Walking from the garage to the deck, or into the back yard, visitors are guided through an arbor that he also constructed.

This gardener also makes trough gardens, after he saw them in England and "fell in love with them."

"They were a little difficult at first, but now I store all the ingredients together so I can make them more quickly."

Many containers are filled with plants, such as thyme in a strawberry pot and sedum in another, and geraniums with ornamental grass. He uses Fafard No. 52 soil for all the outdoor containers, which he buys at Telly's in Troy. For regular pots he adds water-absorbing crystals that allow the soil to retain moisture. For the trough gardens he combines chicken grits with the soil (one part of each), which he buys at Uncle Lukes in Troy. He finds that these sharp pieces guarantee sharp drainage.

He also took advantage of a bad pruning job that was done on a large hornbeam by pruning all the green branches off and using the one-half- to one-inch branches to form a twig structure in the shape of an obelisk. Eventually clematis vines will cover this structure, as they will on the row of hemlocks.

Eric and his brother, Jonathon, will release the premier issue of Michigan Gardener, a magazine that focuses on Michigan gardening, in May. Copies can be picked up free at more than 200 locations in the tri-county area. Look for it at your favorite garden center.

Ponds

In Livonia, Jack Susami has constructed a seies of ponds on his suburban lot, starting with a small, pre-formed pond.

"The thing grew, slowly but surely," he said.

After the family visited Ameriflora in Columbus in 1992 and saw ponds and a waterfall, Susami said, "Wouldn't that be wonderful? I'm going to do that next spring," and he began to fulfill his dream.

He then constructed a "fountain pond" eight by eight feet in size and 36 inches deep, which is joined by a waterfall to another pond 22 inches deep, which spills over another waterfall to a stream that connects to the large pond, 12 by 24 feet in size and dug 25 inches deep. A filter system takes up six inches, leaving the pond depth at 19 inches. This large pond replaced the original pre-formed pond.

"Because the kids like to catch tadpoles the pond is only seven inches deep at the edges with a 12-foot wide shelf."

The six-inch space in the large pond is taken up with the underground filter system, a series of PVC plumbing pipes with holes drilled, which is connected to the pump inlet. This is then topped with six inches of pea gravel. The water is recycled to provide a continuous flow.

At the upper end of the fountain pond a patio of paving bricks holds a cafe table and chairs where Susami and his wife, Mary Lou, enjoy morning coffee. Along one edge Junipers have been planted and will soon provide a privacy screen. He plans to add a trellis above the bricks to provide shade. A bench has been placed at the end of the series of ponds so the family can enjoy the fish such as Koi, resplendent in a variety of colors such as orange, red, black, copper and gold; Shubunkins, colored a mottled mixture of red, blue, brown, black and white; and Fantails, with shiny red bodies. They are fed Koi food "sometimes" in the summer. The Koi add another dimension to this pond experience as they enjoy being petted.

Susami has devised a form of treated lumber to anchor the pond to the ground. The ponds are all lined with commercial pond liner and are edged with field-stone boulders. Annuals such as ageratum, impatiens, alyssum and moss rose add color to the scene, which he says is his recreation. Situated strategically throughout the landscape is a weeping spruce, Japanese lace purple-leaf maple, and "my favorite, a slow-growing tri-colored beech."

"The frogs croaking in the spring is music to my ears," Mary Lou said. "I love sitting on the patio with morning coffee."

The family has enjoyed the dragonflies, garter snake, many birds and other wildlife that visit. They once saw a blue heron. In the winter a bubbler keeps an area from freezing, which guarantees fresh water for the fish. Sometimes mourning doves stop by for a refreshing drink.

Susami has planted hardy water lilies to provide shade for the fish, which live in the water year round. When I asked about maintenance, he said, "The hardest job for the pond is cleaning the matted leaves from the bottom in the spring."

On deck: An alpine garden abuts the deck; the trellis is ready for climbing roses in Hofley's garden.

INVITING IDEAS

It's time to hold a spring garden party

BY RUTH MOSSOK JOHNSTON
SPECIAL WRITER

When I was very young my Aunt Ruth Manheimer lived in a beautiful mansion with elegant gardens in Ossining, N.Y. My memories of her home revolve mostly around her gardens, and my cousin Raymond, who had to be 11 years my senior, taking me by my small hand through the gardens showing me all there was to see. This perfect setting for a garden party has always stuck in my mind. Wouldn't we all love to have a setting like that to entertain? Well, it wasn't Versailles, but in my mind's eye it came very close.

I have always loved gardens — all types: my dad's little rose garden at our home in Detroit, the well manicured gardens throughout villages in England, and my own herb and vegetable garden here in Franklin. Although my setting is a far cry from my Aunt Ruth's, it never curtailed my garden party mentality. Every spring, I find myself humming Ricky Nelson's Golden Oldie "Garden Party."

Garden parties can be most versatile — from elegant, to down-home country — flower, vegetable or herb. Ask guests bring photos of last year's garden to pass and share, as well as gardening tips. If you are doing a hatted affair, ask each guest to wear a hat decorated with their garden favorites, or make hats a party project. Buy inexpensive straw hats from your local discount store, have glue guns, and an assortment of artificial flowers and vegetables available so guests can decorate their hats.

Make your party a blueprint for garden planning. Scatter seed catalogs on tables for guests to browse through, pass around paper and pencils, and draw mock-ups of garden plans. Review the mock-ups as a group, and share suggestions for making them better.

Smith and Hawken have a source book (catalog) for gardeners that is a real beauty. They offer plants, bulbs, flower presses, trellises, gardening tools, gardening clothes, great furniture for your garden or sun room, iron fencing panels, and a horticultural hot line — (415) 389-7608 — to answer any questions regarding the selection or care of any plants sold in their catalog. Enjoy floral beauty

Take a walk in our garden. We've assembled some flowers you might enjoy as drawn by our staff artist Tammie Graves. The information on these plants comes from The Guide to Garden Flowers by Norman Taylor, (Houghton Mifflin Co., 1958), Michigan Wildflowers, by Helen V. Smith, (Cranbrook Institute of Science, 1961) and Michigan Wildflowers in Color, by Harry C. Lund, (Altwerger and Mandel Publishing Co., 1991.

The gladiolus is a popular garden plant derived by selection and hybridization from a few South African species. There are over 2,000 varieties. Plant bulbs 4-6 inches deep in rich, well-drained garden loam in late May, in full sun. Space 8-12 inches apart and stake the tall varieties if in a windy place. Plant a second or third lot of bulbs at 10-day intervals if bloom is wanted until frost.

The Michigan lily is an erect perennial that is found in meadows, low woods, thickets or bogs. It flowers from late June to August. Smith writes that garden wildflowers should be grown under conditions that are similar to those where they grow wild and should be grown in a naturalistic setting, "in clumps, never in formal rows."

The pansy is an annual or best treated as a biennial plant. It grows 6-8 inches and flowers June-July. There are over 50 varieties. Seeds should be sown in late July a quarter inch deep in a soil of half rich loam and half

My favorite seed catalog is Sheperd's (call (408) 335-6910). They also publish cookbooks, two volumes on recipes from kitchen gardens, "Recipes from a Kitchen Garden" and "More Recipes from a Kitchen Garden." Each book is priced at $11.95, or buy both for $21.50 plus $2.50 shipping and handling. To order books, send the check to Sheperd's Publishing, 7389 W. Zayante Road, Felton, Calif. 95018.

Party centerpieces could be beautifully cut flowers from your local florist representing flowers to come from your garden. Instead of a tablecloth, use colorful pages from old seed catalogs taped together to form a tablecloth.

Serve a huge, leafy green salad loaded with fresh vegetables, topped with a light fruity vinaigrette, bread with herb butter. A light puree of vegetable soup would be a perfect addition to this simple menu. Don't forget a fruity dessert, and your garden party will be complete.

Puree of vegetable soups are some of my favorites. They're easy to do, and everyone seems to love them.

RUTH'S CAMOUFLAGED CREAM OF MUSHROOM SOUP

2 tablespoons light olive oil
4 medium large sweet onions, chopped
8 cups mushrooms, cleaned, stems removed, and sliced
12 cups chicken stock (homemade or prepared)
1 cup chopped spinach
Salt to taste
Pinch cayenne pepper

In a large heavy stock pot, heat oil over medium heat, add onions and saute until well browned. Add the mushrooms and saute for eight minutes. Add the chicken stock and cook on low for 45 minutes. Add the chopped spinach, salt and cayenne pepper, seasoning to taste. Remové the soup from the heat — in small batches, puree the soup in a blender, food processor or Vita Mix and process until the soup is smooth. Continue to process in small batches until all the soup is pureed. Place back in the stock pot and reheat if necessary. Serves 8-10.

Coming clean: Windows that sparkle do more to showcase a house for sale than other preparations, some real estate agents maintain.

Smart agents jump start sales

By Doug Funke
Staff Writer

Just because this is a sellers market _ more buyers than houses available for sale _ doesn't mean that every listing is a quick sell.

Some houses wither on the vine.

"It's languishing because it's not clean, in poor condition or so overpriced that no one looks at it," said Joan Knittel, associate broker with Century 21 Row in Livonia.

Smart agents and their clients don't just wring their hands and complain. They do something.

"I just had one where the sellers were asking too much money," said Ruth Malach, a Realtor associate with the Michigan Group in West Bloomfield.

"I must have done six market analyses. They turned down one offer because they thought it was too low. A second came in at about the same price. I said, 'Does this tell you something?'

"I stayed with them until midnight Saturday and was there again at 9 a.m. on Sunday," Malach related. "I told them, 'This house is selling this weekend to this buyer. I'm not letting go.'

"Finally, they (sellers) said, 'Ruth, I guess you were right.'

Malach said she will jump start a listing that hasn't sold for six weeks by removing it from the multi-list, trying to get sellers to agree to a price change, then relisting.

You have to price realistically for location. You have to make it attractive to the buyer in price so they can overlook the railroad tracks," associate broker Century 21 Row in Livonia.

Joan Knittel

"Generally, it's all tied to pricing," said Mary Williams, a Realtor associate with Prudential Great Lakes Realty in Farmington Hills. "If it's priced right, it will sell.

"If a seller wants to stay with a price, they must change the property, if possible," Williams said. "They have to freshen it. It has to sparkle. Paint, carpeting is generally going to do an awful lot."

Mike Baker, a sales associate with Re/Max Crossroads in Canton, has experienced listings with a decor problem.

"I have a house now in Plymouth. (pause) What's happened is some sellers have gotten into a mindset that they can put their house on the market in any condition and it will sell," Baker said.

But it isn't true.

"Buyers for the last four or five years have been quite fussy about mechanicals and decorating in a home," he said. "They want to move in without picking up a paint brush.

"When a house is showing a little below average _ they haven't updated floor coverings or the kitchen _ buyers just say, 'Next.' Even in this market.

"You can't change location," Baker said. "You can drop the price and change the condition of the house with paint, floor covering. Put lighter colors in."

Some Realtors won't bother listing or showing a house if it's shabby, Malach said. "When I take a listing, I go through and tell them (sellers) what I think needs to be done and I call a handyman.

"When you go into a house that needs carpeting, has holes, needs painting _ is that a turnoff?" Malach asked rhetorically. "If I can't look at a house and say, 'Isn't it pretty,' I can't sell it."

Sales strategies sometimes must be expanded.

"You need to move to target-marketing, exposing it to a target group that would be interested to moving into the community," Williams said.

"Send mailings out to neighborhoods one or two notches (in price) below the property you're marketing to entice buyers to move up. Except first-time buyers. Go to apartments."

Networking with other agents, "getting the word out," helps, too, Williams said.

Malach said she finds open houses fruitful.

An undesirable location _ on a major road, near electrical transformer lines _ can be a tough nut to crack.

"You have to price realistically for location. You have to make it attractive to the buyer in price so they can overlook the railroad tracks," Knittel said.

"It has to be in tip-top shape, clean, very-well maintained," she added. "Clean windows will do more to sell a house than a lot of other expensive things."

Knittel recalled selling to a buyer who specifically wanted to be on a main road because the constant buzz of traffic made her feel more connected with the world.

"The only way to accommodate for that _ location, location, location being key _ is by price and exposure, target-marketing," Williams said.

But the good news is that sooner or later there's usually a buyer for every kind of house.

"I tell people, 'After all, you bought it. There will probably be someone else,'" Knittel said.

Be careful when buying Mexican time shares

REAL ESTATE QUERIES

ROBERT M. MEISNER

Q: I read with interest your recent article on time shares in Mexico. I wanted to inform you and your readers that one's interests can literally go down the drain at the whim of the time share facility in Mexico. This happened to me when I was advised by a time share in Puerto Vallarta that the time share facility had been sold and that they would no longer honor my time share certificate, which was to be good until the year 2012. It appears that the time share, along with their U.S. affiliates, who allowed us to transfer our time share week to another facility, no longer wish to honor our ownership in these time shares.

They refuse to supply me with the names of all of the other owners of the time shares who have been duped so that we may proceed with class action suits, international boycotts and sanctions, or other appropriate steps to regain our ownership or be compensated for this thievery. I am advised that there are members/owners from every state in the U.S. and Canada, perhaps 1000 or more. Since Mexico wants to do business with the U.S. and other countries, the Mexican government should be able to intervene in this affair to enforce this agreement or provide compensation or not allow the time share facility in Puerto Vallarta to operate at all until they have made good on these certificates of purchase. I hope to make this public through the media and other sources to warn people no to buy any "time shares" or other properties in Mexico at all because the rule of law is not enforceable in Mexico.

A: I have reviewed the materials which you sent me and appreciate your frustration in dealing with a time share situation in Mexico. Several readers have also advised me of the fact that they have not been able to obtain refunds on time share deposits, even though it was represented to them that there would be a cooling off period of three days before their time share agreement became enforceable. There is a consumer protection agency in most Mexican cities. I would suggest that you write the city is question, care of the Consumer Protection Division of the Mexican government. I would also suggest that you write the Mexican Consulate here in Michigan to express your frustrations. It is also obvious that you need to retain the services of an attorney who is prepared to bring a class action suit against those persons responsible, both here in the United States and/or in Mexico for what appears to be a fraudulent transaction. Obviously, people who are interested in buying time shares should be aware of the fact that the time share entity may dissolve and/or refuse to honor your time share certificate in the future. This is unfortunately a black mark on all time shares and one would think that the time share industry would want to insure that this kind of situation will not be wide spread in order to minimize the negative impact that it has on all time share arrangements.

FHA's programs can help you obtain affordable mortgage

BY DAVE MULLY
SPECIAL WRITER

Editor's note: This is the second of a three part series on the advantages of FHA financing.

Last week I touched on some general FHA information including the maximum you can borrow depending on which county you live in and some of the old myths regarding FHA financing. Today and next week, I'll be going over some of the various programs FHA offers and their advantages.

You do not have to be a first time buyer to get an FHA loan and their are not limits on how much income you earn. By comparison, a Community Home Buyers program is a conventional loan which has income limits and requires that buyers may not have been homeowners for the last two years. Additionally, on a Community Home Buyers loan, you would need to prove that at least the first three to five percent of the downpayment was your own personal savings. On an FHA loan, your downpayment may be a gift from a relative or your employer. Other advantages are that the loan is assumable, the closing cost and downpayment are lower and it's easier to qualify.

If you currently have a loan that is assumable and the rate is lower than market rate when it comes time to sell your home, this could end up being a big selling advantage. You may attract potential buyers who could assume your loan at the lower-than-market interest rate and end up saving a lot of money in interest. The sale would be considered a formal assumption which means the home buyer would still have to qualify for the loan through the lender that is currently servicing the loan.

The downpayment on FHA loans is usually 3 percent of the sales price and, as state earlier, is can all be gift funds. None of it has to be personal savings. This alone could make home-ownership possible for many people who cannot come up with the downpayment themselves but can properly document a gift downpayment. Of course, the lender is still looking for applicants to have stable income and a decent credit history. With lower closing cost and zero point FHA loans, you can get into a home with less total money than other types of loans.

FHA loans are processed directly through local lenders approved by the Detroit HUD office, so approval is a quick and simple process. Some lenders are much better at FHA loans than others. Please call for some references if you're interested. Also keep in mind that lenders set the interest rate and points, not FHA.

FHA qualifying is easier than conventional loans for several reasons. In addition to those already mentioned, income and debt qualifying ratios are more flexible. FHA loan ratios and 29/41 while conventional loans are typically 28/36. This means that with FHA, your new house payment can be as high as 29 percent of your total gross monthly income and the total of your new house payment and other monthly debts can be as high as 41 percent of your total gross monthly income. By comparison, a conventional loan requires a lower total debt-to-income ratio of 36 percent. The more favorable FHA ratios could end up helping you qualify for the loan or allow you to buy a nicer home.

Next week, in the last of this three part series on FHA financing, I will talk about the popular FHA adjustable rate program, the 203k rehabilitation loan, and explain more about the FHA MIP insurance premium required on all FHA loans.

Q: We have had some problems in the past paying our bills on time and are afraid that this could hurt our chances in getting a mortgage. We want to buy a home soon but we don't want to get our hopes up until we know we will be approved. How flexible are banks when they review your credit?

A: Your first step should be to make an appointment with a reputable lender and find out right away just how your credit history will be looked at. Tell them you want a requalification or a pre-approval. There is normally a minimal charge to do this. They will pull your credit history from a credit bureau and ask some questions about your income, assets and debts. At that time the loan officer should be able to determine if your credit is acceptable or not. If not, don't stop your credit search there. There are many lenders that allow for bad credit. can get approved. Write Dave Mully at P.O. Box 485, Novi, MI 48376-0485. Mully is president of Mortgage Search.

NEW HOMES

Birchwood Park plays up family amenities

You can hear the exuberant voices of children and see them playing at Keith Elementary School from the models of Birchwood Park in West Bloomfield.

The subdivision, a partnership between several members of the Nosan/Nosanchuk Family and the Silverman Cos., is family-friendly in several other ways.

Sidewalks. Lots that average a third of an acre in size. Supermarkets nearby.

"We give them a nice package in a house that's relatively maintenance free," said Terry Nosan of Nosan Enterprises. "From a design point of view ... there's no reason to object to this product.

"We did it for package price," he added. "In the metro area for houses this size, it's an excellent package."

Four floor plans, all two-stories, are available.

They range in price from $196,900 for 1,900 square feet with three bedrooms and 2-1/2 baths (Ashland II) to $244,900 for 2,860 square feet with four bedrooms and 2-1/2 baths (Wilton II).

Standard features in all plans include fireplace, two-car garage, first floor laundry, range and dishwasher in the kitchen, choice of ceramic tile or oak in the foyer, and basement.

Air conditioning is an extra at $2,950.

Exterior materials are vinyl siding and brick with some wood accents.

Two models have been constructed in the first phase of 62 lots.

The Wilton II has a two story foyer, living room, dining room, kitchen with island, eating nook with 10-foot ceiling, family room with 10-foot ceiling, library, and a mud area with its own exterior entrance between the laundry room, garage entrance and half bath.

All four bedrooms are on the second floor.

The step-up master has a cathedral ceiling, two separate vanities - one with a dressing area - separate tub and shower and a walk-in closet.

Three other bedrooms and a full bath are upstairs.

The Birchwood, 2,460 square feet, has a living room, dining room, library, kitchen/eating nook with standard-size ceiling, family room with sloped ceiling and mud area with separate entrance.

The master has a cathedral ceiling, two walk-in closets, vanity with dressing table and separate tub and shower.

The base price is $219,900. A second floor deluxe option fancies up the master suite, flattens the ceiling in the family room and adds 240 square feet to the house for an additional $8,000.

The Birchwood is the best selling plan in the sub, Nosan said.

"I think it's value - dollar per square foot," he said. "It's got all the basics, the same rooms as the Wilton, except the rooms are just a little smaller."

Fran Prohow is the sales representative at Birchwood Park.

"The school is a real big selling point, the sidewalk is a selling point," she said. "Who the builder is is a big selling point.

In demand: This Birchwood model at Birchwood Park, with four bedrooms, 2-1/2 baths and plenty of elbow room, is especially popular.

"They (prospects) love the mud rooms," Prohow added. "There's a closet there. They like the second entrance and that the kids aren't coming through the foyer."

Location also is a draw, she said.

"It's nice to be a little away from anything, but close. You don't have traffic to deal with like Orchard Lake Road," Prohow said.

Birchwood Park, serviced by city water and sewers, is within the Walled Lake school boundaries.

The property tax rate is currently $28.31 per $1,000 of state equalized valuation, half of market value. That means the owners of a $220,000 house in the subdivision would pay just over $3,100 the first year.

'My wife and I checked around quite a bit. For what you get at Birchwood, you have to pay much more elsewhere. I do a lot of work at home. We're doubling our space. We can all stretch out.'

Gary Griffin

Dan and Debbie Pitsos built the Ashland II and selected a fourth-bedroom option for a $9,000 premium.

"Even though it's their smaller model, it's spacious," Debbie said. "Windows are really nice. It's open, it's airy, it's peaceful."

Pitsos, who's gone through four new home builds, said she was impressed with materials, quality of construction and finishing work of the model. And value for price.

"I think you get good house for the money," she said.

Gary and Corky Griffin, along with children Sam and Alice, will live in a Birchwood model.

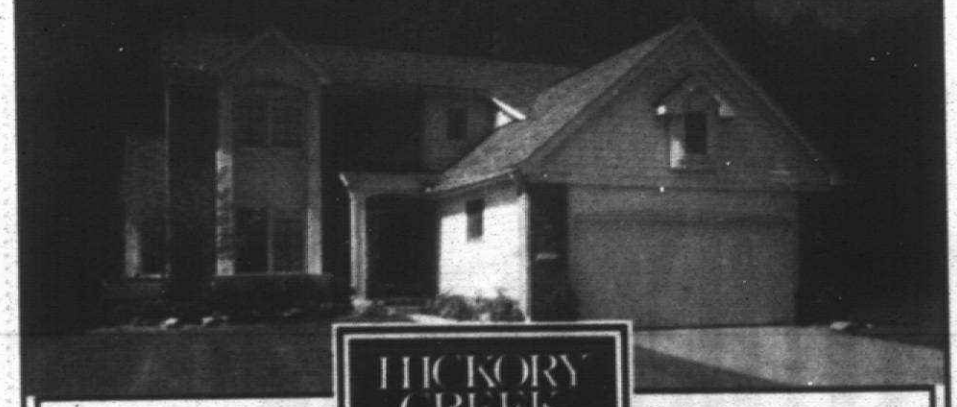

"My wife and I checked around quite a bit," Gary said. "For what you get at Birchwood, you have to pay much more elsewhere.

"I do a lot of work at home. We're doubling our space. We can all stretch out.

"We like the area," Griffin said. "The area seems to be building up. I've heard good things about the Walled Lake school system."

The sales office at Birchwood Park, (810) 363-0610, is open noon to 6 p.m. daily.

Midwest has most affordable housing in United States

BY JOHN D MCCLAIN
ASSOCIATED PRESS WRITER

WASHINGTON (AP) _ Lower prices and falling mortgage rates boosted the affordability of homes in many areas in the nation during the final months of 1995 and reinstalled Lima, Ohio, as the least expensive market.

"Housing affordability improved across the country in the fourth quarter as interest rates fell from about 8 percent in the third quarter to below 7.5 percent by the end of the year," said Randy Smith, president of the National Association of Home Builders.

The association released its quarterly Housing Opportunity Index on Wednesday with Lima, a small city in northwest Ohio, at the top of the list. But it also showed that the metropolitan areas of Kansas City and Minneapolis _ both with populations over 1 million also offered good buys.

In fact, 13 of the 25 most affordable markets were found in the Midwest in the Home Builders survey of 525,000 sales of new and existing homes in 192 metropolitan areas. The Northeast and South each had six.

The West had 18 of the least affordable markets, including 11 in California. Four more were in the Northeast and three in the South.

Lima, which was ranked fourth in the third-quarter index, last held the top spot in the fourth quarter of 1994. It replaced Kansas City as No. 1 in the latest list a year later.

The survey found that affordability improved in many other U.S. markets, the Home Builders said. In fact, the nation had a 63.4 reading on the index, up from 61.3 from July through September and suggesting greater purchase opportunities.

The index measures the proportion of homes sold in a specific market that a family earning the median income could afford. The median is the midpoint, meaning half the families earn more and half earn less.

The index also takes into consideration differences in property taxes and insurance rates.

The drop in rates during the fourth quarter would mean a monthly savings of $35 on a $100,000 fixed-rate, 30-year mortgage. In addition, the Home Builders said, the median price dipped to $117,000 from $118,000 in the third quarter.

But after falling to a two-year low of 6.94 percent in mid-February, rates began rising, reaching 7.83 percent in mid-March before falling back to 7.69 percent last week.

Analysts say that for every percentage point increase in rates, 250,000 to 300,000 families are priced out of the market.

Regionally, the most affordable housing markets were Lima in the Midwest; Binghamton, N.Y., in the Northeast; Baton Rouge, La., in the South; and Billings, Mont., in the West.

The least-affordable markets were Chicago in the Midwest; New York in the Northeast; Laredo, Texas, in the South; and San Francisco in the West.

San Francisco also was at the bottom of the national list, a position it has held since the Home Builders began the quarterly surveys in early 1991.

Lima had an 86.2 on the index. That meant that a family earning the median income of $38,600 could have purchased 86.2 percent of the homes sold during the quarter. The median price was $67,000.

San Francisco, on the other hand, had a 21.4 ranking, meaning a family earning the median income of $58,800 could afford to buy just 21.4 percent of the homes sold. The median price was $276,000.

Nothing dispels blahs like paint

Nothing dispels the kitchen blahs faster than a fresh coat of paint.

Paint is the easy, affordable answer if you want to give the kitchen a new look but hesitate to delve into a costly, time-consuming remodeling project.

So says Shari Hiller, the well-known color maven and home fashion consultant of Dutch Boy Paints.

"A fresh coat of paint can do wonders for a tired kitchen," explains Hill. "It can brighten a dark room, and make a great big space appear cozy. It can lend richness, drama, and depth. It can make simple paces important, and can add great personal style.

"Unless you've repainted before, it hard to believe just what a change a few hours with a gallon of paint and a brush can bring to a room. You may find that painting walls is enough, but if you want more of a change, take a paint brush to the cabinets as well. With some today's fancy finishes, such as sponging, rag-rolling or combing, even battered old cabinet doors can look so good that you won't want to replace them."Painting Is easy

But can you really do it yourself?

Nancy Craig, a color expert for Martin-Senour Paints, says yes.

"It's hard to imagine somebody who can't use a brush or roller," she says. "And, actually, some of the new painting techniques that create such dazzling effects are even easier. Take sponging, for example. The cloud-like effects it creates on walls, cabinets or pieces of furniture are fabulous, and yet it's hard to make a mistake. You apply a solid-color base coat, dab a sponge dipped in paint of another color onto the surface, allowing some of the background to show through. Then, if you don't think you've got enough color, let the first layer dry and sponge on some more. Waiting for the various layers to dry is almost the hardest part of the process, I think."

"Combing, which involves the removal of wet paint from a freshly painted surface, to create stripes is a bit more difficult than sponging," she adds.

"But I feel that with relatively little practice, the average person can achieve highly professional results."

She feels that sponging and combing are great.

"They produce a very luxurious look," comments Craig. "Squint a little bit, and I think it's easy to see an heirloom where you just had a tired cabinet before."

A new 16-page booklet that tells how to select colors and use the proper painting techniques is free from Dutch Boy. Call 1-800-828-5699 and ask for Dutch Boy's Easy-Does-It Painting Interiors booklet. Free product literature is also available from Martin-Senour, 1-800-542- 8468

Lawyers Title sells insurance to sellers and buyers to protect property ownership interests.

"We like to know who the most active people are," said Tony Alcala, regional sales manager for Lawyers Title. "We do business with everyone on the list."

Lenders also find the reports useful.

"My understanding is ...it's a chance for them to compare how they're doing with competitors," Alcala said. "There's a high level of competition with this size lenders."

Most of those institutions have been in the top 10 for years.

"A lot of it, you'll notice, is they're the big ones with longevity in the market area," Alcala said. "They have the resources to do marketing, get the attention of consumers to come in. They have technology."

When an additional 6,500 jumbo mortgages _ each more than $250,000 _ are added, the grand total for Oakland, Wayne, Washtenaw and Macomb counties last year was 170,159 mortgages for $21.2 billion, Lawyers Title reported.

Most of the jumbos were for commercial properties.

During 1994, 188,451 mortgages of $250,000 or less were issued in Wayne, Oakland, Macomb and Washtenaw counties with an aggregate value of $13.1 billion.

In 1993, a big year for refinancings, 259,500 mortgages with a value of $19.1 billion were recorded in the four-county survey area.

Insulation is environment friendly

Most homeowners recognize that the need for insulation in order to increase home energy efficiency has never been greater. That's because heating and cooling costs are rising, higher insulation levels are being mandated by law and concerns about protecting the environment continue to grow.

Although installing fiber glass insulation is relatively simple, some of these homeowners have tended to shy away from this project because the fibers can cause skin to itch and can create airborne dust.

Schuller's new ComfortTherm insulation is changing all that. The popular gold fiber glass found in homes and commercial buildings nationwide, has taken on a different look and feel.

It's now encapsulated with a high-tech poly wrap system which is so user friendly that it will encourage many previously reluctant DIY'ers to take on an insulation project.

Poly Wrap Offers More Than Comfort

Besides handling comfort, the poly vapor facing is superior to traditional kraft paper facing in three important ways.

First, the poly facing is twice as resistant to moisture vapor penetration as kraft. This means the wall cavity stays dryer, which reduces the possibility of wall damage and also maintains the thermal efficiency of the insulation.

Second, the ComfortTherm facing is Class A rated, and has a fire hazard classification of 25/50. So while general building practices call for installing gypsum board over insulation to maximize fire protection, ComfortTherm may be left exposed if local codes permit. This is in marked contrast to traditional kraft-faced insulation, which can not be left exposed.

Third, the poly facing and the triple-reinforced flanges by which the wrapped insulation is stapled to the wall studs are tougher and more resistant to tearing than kraft.

ComfortTherm batts are pre-cut to fit standard 8 ft. wall cavities for fast and easy installation. The precision factory cut assures a better fit in the wall, compared to hand-made cuts from long rolls, which are more likely to leave gaps and cracks through which air can pass.

Factory cuts also save time and reduce potential itch and dust generation from jobsite cutting.

The new batts are available in R-11, as well as the high-performance values of R-13 and R-15. Higher R-values mean greater insulating power.

All three values of batts fit into standard 2 in. x 4 in. stud walls. The R-13 and R-15 batts provide higher performance because they are made of high-density fiber glass. Although they cost more initially, their cost will be recouped in lower utility bills.

The R-11 batts are recommended for interior walls as sound-control insulation, because fiber glass is a very effective material for absorbing sound. The resulting reduction in noise levels will further add to living comfort.

For more information on Schuller's new ComfortTherm insulation, see your nearest dealer, or contact the Product Information Center, Schuller International, Inc., P.O. Box 5108, Denver, CO 80217. Or call 1-800-654-3103.

30-year rates on mortgages drop

WASHINGTON (AP) _ Thirty-year, fixed rate mortgages averaged 7.69 percent this week, down from 7.81 percent last week, according to a national survey released Thursday by the Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corp.

It was the lowest since March 7, when rates averaged 7.38 percent. Rates had fallen to 6.94 percent on Feb. 15 _ a two-year low _ before rising to 7.83 percent on March 14.

On one-year adjustable rate mortgages, lenders were asking an average initial rate of 5.62 percent, up from 5.60 percent last week.

Fifteen-year mortgages, a popular option for those refinancing mortgages, averaged 7.19 percent this week, down from 7.32 percent a week earlier.

Khayyam has distinctive look

The distinctive flair of the 3420 square foot Khayyam is sure to catch your eye. A wrap-around porch, covered and railed, frames the unique minaret style front of this two-story beauty.

Step inside the spacious entry, that extends to the second level, and a roomy coat closet and half-bath are immediately available for your guests. To the left is the stairway to the second floor, and to the right is the living room with a bay window following the contour of the porch. This allows a great view of the frontal landscape.

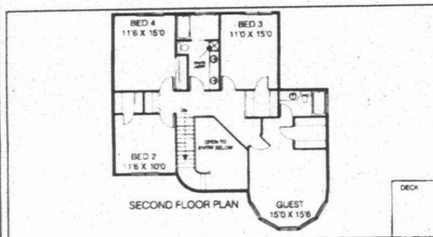

The formal dining room faces into the living room, creating a generous area to savor a good meal and relax in comfort afterward. The rear of the dining room conveniently opens to the walk-in kitchen. Here, for less formal dining, you have an eating bar and breakfast nook. The cook in the family will appreciate the labor saving benefits of this serviceable configuration. Other kitchen features include a garden window, center island, double ovens, trash compactor and walk-in pantry. A nice sized family room extends to the rear. There is enough room here to entertain the whole gang.

The isolated master suite in the Khayyam is truly luxurious. In addition to the substantial sleeping area, the amenities include: his and her walk-in closets, personal access to the back deck, a huge private bathroom with his and her commodes and vanities, spa and linen storage.

Directly across the hall from the master suite is a modest room that can be designated a home office or den. Completing the first floor design is a big utility room with built-in ironing board and a nearby linen closet.

The second level houses the secondary sleeping areas. Your overnight visitors will certainly feel at home in the sumptuous guest suite. Facing front and affording a superb view of the surroundings, it boasts a walk-in closet and private bathroom. Three other bedrooms are on this level, each with ample closet space. They share a full bathroom that has twin basins and a laundry chute to the utility room below.
