It's the final overture for Arnoldt Williams Music, which has been in business for more than 40 years:

Second-generation owners of the Canton landmark posted signs in the store's windows announcing it was going out of business last Friday. A closing date has yet to be decided as pianos, sound equipment, recording products and other items are being sold off.

Meanwhile, a group of music teachers at the wellknown center have joined forces to form the "Canton Conservatory of Music" and are attempting to find retail space dents, taught by 12 teachers, walk through the doors of Arnoldt Williams Music weekly, said Kay Williams, daugh-ter of the late Arnoldt Williams.

Instructor Norma Atwood said the center is the only in Canton that offers private lessons. "That's why it came as shock because we were doing so well. It's a real reputable center," she said.

The closing of the store startled area musicians, many of whom have taken voice or piano lessons there over the past 20 years. Arnoldt Williams also has offered a wide selection of pianos and sound equipment ing on. It's a very positive move," said Kay Williams.

Arnoldt Williams' three children have been involved with the business over the years. John and Kay currently run the store, and a sister, Yvonne, worked there several years ago. Yvonne is currently traveling in New Zealand.

Kay and her mother, Janice, live in the home on Maben Road off of Canton Center, just north of Ford Road. It has yet to be decided what the family will do with the property, she said.

Her father began the business in the basement of his home in 1956 while he worked as a piano technician, a profession he picked up from his father-in-law.

Surprisingly, none of the Williamses, including the late founder, play or played the piano.

Teacher union begin talks with district

BY HEATHER NEEDHAM

Representatives from the Plymouth-Canton Education Association began meeting with the district's bargaining team this week and are expected to bring a number of issues to the table in discussing a new contract. Chuck Portelli, president of the PCEA, the district's teachers' union, would not comment specifically on the issues they intend bring before the district's team. He did say the school calendar - including class starts and end times - would be one subject of discussion.

"We have a lot of issues that are unresolved that we want resolved," he said.

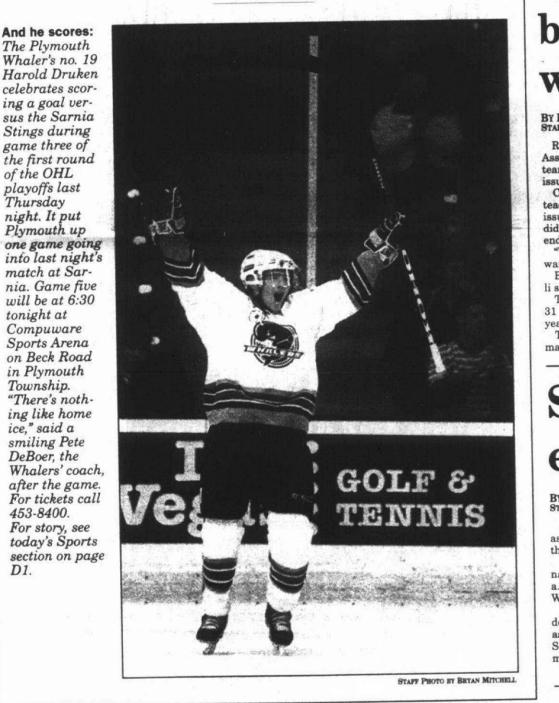

Bargaining is beginning "earlier than normal," Portelli said.

The contracts for the district's 887 teachers end Aug. 31 this year. The new contract will cover one to three years.

The most recent contract negotiations in 1996 were marked by disagreements over the benefits plan. To Christian Gerrard Armstead, 17, waived his preliminary exam Friday and faces his next court date at 9 a.m. April 3 in Wayne County Circuit Court, Assistant Wayne County Prosecutor Ray Maguire said.

Armstead has been charged with one count of thirddegree criminal sexual conduct for allegedly sexually assaulting a 15-year-old student under a Canton High School stairwell. He was arraigned March 13 in Plymouth's 35th District Court.

More than 350 legislators, school officials and concerned residents are expected to congregate at a special presentation Monday exploring the pros and cons of Proposal A and discuss how it has impacted local school districts.

The meeting is planned for 7 p.m. Monday at the Summit on the Park in Canton Township. It is sponsored by the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools Legislative Action Committee.

Though Proposal A has brought lower property taxes, it has also brought vast state funding inequities between districts. For example, Plymouth-Canton receives about $5,986 per pupil in state spending compared to $10,916 in Bloomfield Hills.

Building draws few complaints

Even with a huge increase in the number of building permits issued in the last several years, fewer complaints have arisen from new home buyers, according to the Canton Homeowners Advisory Council.

Over the past five years the number of building permits increased by 36 percent.

Last year, the Building and Inspection Service division reviewed and issued 11,128 permits and conducted some 35,666 inspections, according to John Weyer, township building official.

Canton rezones school property

BY VALERIE OLANDER STAFF WRITER

Plymouth-Canton Public Schools district is moving ahead with plans to build an elementary school in Canton Township, despite an ongoing legal dispute prohibiting the district from selling $79.7 million in bonds to pay or the construction.

The elementary school is planned for the northwest corner of Cherry Hill and Beck roads near 700 new homes in the Fairway West and Cherry Knoll sublivisions.

On Monday, school officials received the first round of approvals from Canton's planning commission to build the school.

The school district is buying the property from Eleanor Wiles for $700,000. The sale is contingent upon various environmental studies and township planning approvals.

There is no timetable as to when the appellate court will hear the case, although it was given accelerated status moving it to the top of the list.

Plymouth-Canton Schools Superintendent Chuck Little is hoping to educate many who believe growing communities like Canton get more money, while the reality remains state funding is now determined by school population.

"I don't think a lot of people realize that we are currently being funded at a percentage less than the cost of doing business," said Little. He said that last year the district received a 2.7

percent increase in state funding, while the Consumer Price Index was over three percent. Little notes this is the fifth consecutive year the district has operated with state funding increases less than the cost of doing business.

"The system is supposed to close the gap between the rich and poor," said Little. "However it definitely hasn't worked here."

'A room full of love' links 3 couples

BY DIANE GALE ANDREASSI SPECIAL WRITER

Yellow tulips will always be a special flower for Jeremy Pryor and April

Their meeting and subsequent mar-riage proposal is a story that links the paths of three couples in love, one in their youth, another in middle age and yet another celebrating 50 years of

A run of the mill, get down on your knees proposal, wouldn't do. Pryor had something much more romantic in

Who lives there now?

He called Henry, who works for Remerica Real Estate, to help him track down the people who now live in the Plymouth Township house where his mother lived as a girl. The plan was to propose to Seely in the same living room where his father proposed to his mother

"He's such a sentimental, old-fashioned fellow," Henry said. Initially, Henry had the wrong address and that delayed her investigative work. So she drove by the home built in 1900 on Lilley Road. If that didn't work, she planned to knock on the door and approach the residents herself. The address was all she needed. Henry went to a cross-reference book that listed the telephone number of the people who live there now.

CHEF JOSEPH STYKE

stopped at my neighborhood bistro for a few ginger ales after work on Monday, and the proprietor came over to say "hi" and talk hockey.

He asked me what I was going to have for dinner the next day, and when I answered pasta with tomatoes and basil, and focaccia with rosemary and thyme, he asked if he could come over, as did the gentleman on either side of me.

Pasta with tomatoes and basil served with focaccia is one of my better half's favorite meals. It's simple, hearty and full of flavor.

The beer that I really like to serve with this meal is Old Mission Lighthouse Ale from the Traverse Brewing Co. in Williamsburg, Mich. It's a medium body golden ale, crisp and clean with well-balanced bitterness and aroma from the whole casscade hops. If you are ever up that way, stop in at the Brewery and have a pint or two, and tell Jack and the gang that Chef Joseph said "hello."

Old Mission Lighthouse Ale is also available for purchase at Wine Barrel Plus in Livonia and Cap and Cork in Plymouth

PASTA WITH TOMATOES AND BASIL

- 4 Roma Tomatoes seeded and diced
- 1 small yellow onion, thinly sliced 3 cloves garlic, minced
- 3 tablespoons fresh basil chopped
- 3 or 4 slices of prosciutto, chopped (optional)
- 5 tablespoons olive oil
- 1/4 cup white wine
- 6 ounces angel hair pasta Pecorino or Romano cheese, shredded to serve on the side

Set a pot of salted water to boil for pasta. This pasta cooks very fast, about 3-4 minutes for dry, and in a heart beat for fresh

Add oil to sauté pan. On medium heat sauté onions until they get a little color. Add garlic and basil and cook for 2 minutes. Add tomatoes, and prosciutto (if using), and cook 3 minutes more. Add wine want to stay in the kitchen while I have company. I can cook it early, and keep it warm on the stove." Wethington's Pork Piccata is made with pork tenderloin, trimmed of all fat, and topped with a lemony mushroom, onion sauce. "I've been trying to cook low-fat because my cholesterol is high," explained Wethington who lives in band, Robert, and two daughters, Alyssa, 6, and Lauren, 10. "Getting a recipe to taste good and be low in fat is a challenge.'

Drain pasta very well and add to pan and toss. Serves 2.

Wethington cooks every night. "I enjoy it, it's like a hobby," she said.

For inspiration she turns to magazines and loves collecting recipes. Her favorites are "Better Homes and Gardens," and "Cook-

If she's out of an ingredient, Wethington improvises. She grocery shops once a week and plans her menus a week in advance.

Rosemary is her favorite seasoning, and in the summer she grows it in her garden. Her must-have items on hand include canned tomatoes and chicken broth.

Like many parents, finding foods her children like to eat is a challenge. "They hate everything I cook," she said They like nuggets, hot dogs and grilled cheese sandwiches. It makes me crazy. They like my homemade chicken soup and sesame fried chicken.'

Farmington Hills with her hus- rie. "I have more energy." Betty J. Manthey of Plymouth shared a recipe and story about her daughter Roberta who lives in Ohio. When Roberta was 14 she baby-sat for two children who lived down the street. Their mother told Roberta to make lunch for her children with whatever she could find in the fridge.

"Roberta invented this dish, and we've never found it in any cookbook." said Manthey. "She used 1 bag of spinach, (well rinsed three times), and cooked it down in a four-quart pot. Then she added, and stirred in slowly, 2 scrambled eggs. Lastly toss in buttered croutons made from 2 slices of toast. Mix, and add salt and pepper to taste.

When she served the dish to the children they asked, "What is this?" She answered "It's Spinach Delish, and it's good for you.

PORK PICCATA

Serves 2 to 4

(depends on how hungry you are)

- 1 pound pork tenderloin, trimmed of all fat
- Salt and pepper to taste
- 1 tablespoon olive oil
- 1 cup dry white wine
- 1 cup water
 - 1 teaspoon chicken bouillon
 - 2 tablespoons lemon juice
 - 8 ounces sliced mushrooms
- 1 medium onion, thinly sliced into rings
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 1/2 cup water
- Lemon slices and chopped fresh parsley for garnish (optional)

Slice pork tenderloin into 1 1/2-inch slices. Place, one at a time, between 2 pieces of plastic wrap. Pound with a meat mallet until thin.

Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Heat oil in a large non-stick skillet, brown meat on both sides. You can do it in batches if the pan isn't big enough.

Reduce heat and return all meat to skillet, top with wine, water, bouillon, lemon juice, mushrooms and onions. You may add more salt and pepper if you wish. Cover and simmer slowly until onions and mushrooms are tender, about 30 minutes

Remove meat from skillet, arrange on platter, increase heat to almost boiling, mix flour and water and pour into pan, stirring constantly, let thicken. Pour sauce on top of meat, garnish with lemon slices and parsley, if desired.

Serve with rice pilaf.

Roberta wasn't always a good cook. Manthey told me a family story that still makes everyone laugh. "I was sick and Roberta decided to make spaghetti sauce. She used anything red in a jar including tomato sauce, cayenne and paprika. Her brother dipped a noodle into the sauce, it dripped on his neck, and he got burned."

- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1 tablespoon olive oil plus 4 table-
- spoons
- 1 tablespoon fresh rosemary
- 1 tablespoon fresh thyme
- 1 tablespoon fresh garlic, minced
- 1 package yeast

Pour yeast into milk and let set for 10 minutes

Place all remaining ingredients (except 4 tablespoons olive oil) in a large bowl. Add milk/yeast mixture and mix well with a large wooden spoon.

This is not a dry dough and it will be moist. If it is a little too moist, add flour by the tablespoon until it pulls away from the bowl.

Turn dough out onto lightly floured work surface and knead dough by hand for 5 minutes

Place dough in a greased bowl (I use PAM) cover and keep in warm draft-free place for 45 minutes, or until almost doubled in size.

Preheat oven to 400°F. On a greased baking sheet, form dough into a round like pizza. With a fork poke lots of holes all over the top, and spread the 4 tablespoons olive oil on top, and very lightly sprinkle with salt.

Cover lightly and let rise again for 20 minutes. Bake in oven for 20 minutes. Makes 1 round.

Teens care about what they wear on the outside, but sometimes what's inside gets neglected.

"They're dieting and not always in the correct way," said Terrie Karebian, a West Hills Middle School home economics teacher. In her nutrition and foods classes, Karebian talks about making healthy choices, but touring a grocery store with registered dietitian Gail Posner really helped send the message home.

"She was so entertaining and so knowledgeable," said Karebian about Posner. "She did a wonderful job. They've been taking other kids. The hands-on experience really helped.'

Since taking the tour in November, Debra Gluck has noticed some changes in her daughter, Lisa, an eighth grader at West Hills Middle School, part of the Bloomfield Hills School District. "She's making better choices," said Gluck. "She's reading labels, which she didn't before."

Gluck, who also went on the tour, has made some changes too. "I have more vegetables cut up so they're easy to access. Instead of reaching in the drawer, they can grab cut up carrots and cucumbers. Graham crackers satisfy Lisa instead of cookies.

Since taking the tour, Lisa said she's more aware of healthy foods, and how food labels can be misleading. For her, eating better is not just about losing weight, "it makes me feel better about myself," she said.

She appreciates her mom's efforts, too. "There's more at reach," she said "Now I'll grab a carrot instead of a cookie. I'll eat graham crackers instead of chips and more fruits. Grapes are a good snacking food when I'm doing homework.

On the tour, Posner encouraged students to sample foods they might not have tried before such as baked chips and Asian pears.

"It's just a fun place to learn," said Posner about the Kroger on Orchard Lake Road at Lone Pine Road in West Bloomfield where the tour took place. "The kids live within one mile of the store, and their parents probably shop here.

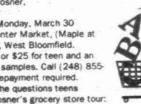

Posner believes the way to change habits is to expose people to new things. Walking through the grocery store aisles, students learned to read labels to learn which were misleading and to get the best food values.

"Bread was one of the favorite stops," said Posner. "They learned to pick a bread that's high in whole wheat flour."

Macaroni and cheese is a favorite with teens, and Posner encouraged them to skip the margarine called for in the directions and use nonfat milk

While 70 percent of teens say they are getting enough calcium, U.S. Department of Agriculture statistics show that approximately 80 percent of teens are not meeting the National Academy of Sciences recommendation of Posner also stressed serving your metabolism in the morning size. "Lisa will eat the same as so you can concentrate in before, but she'll eat a smaller school."

Most main dish salads are made with chicken, but Sandra Biagini, winner of a contest sponsored by the American Heart Association of Michigan, made one with salmon and beans that wowed judges.

"The flavor was an interesting combination of salmon and beans. Most of the recipes were for chicken salad with sweet and sour salad dressing," said regis-tered dietitian Muriel Wagner of Southfield who judged the contest with registered dietitian Catherine Goldberg of the Visiting Nurse Association of Southeast Michigan, and Elaine Horowitz, a registered nurse with the continuing education

Biagini's recipe is easy to make with ingredients you can keep in your pantry - canned llini beans and canned red canne salmon. These ingredients are tossed with sliced green onions, thinly sliced celery, lettuce leaves and a tangy vinaigrette.

Arlene Chypchar of Warren placed second with her Favorite Romaine Salad. Linda Stockton and Eileen Rande of Farmington Hills tied for third, and Mimi Ruehl said depending on the degree of injury, rehabilitation and therapy might involve joint mobility, strength and fine motor testing. Many area hospitals have programs to evaluate and improve your working environment. St. Mary for example has five Work-F.I.T. (Functional Improvement Together) programs that include consultation. assessment, fitness profiles and evaluations.

"We're better educated about working in a healthy environment," said Ruehl. "The changes we made to Joyce's office involved breaking down her job tasks and determining where the problems were and what was causing her muscles to be overextended."

Tips for preventing workplace injuries

Use a power screwdriver instead of a hand screwdriver to decrease hand fatigue. Position the lower edge of a keyboard so that it is located about one inch about your legs. Keep lights on to decrease eye strain.

Get help when the task is too much to handle. Keep work area clutter-free to prevent tripping. Adjust seat height so hips/knees are at right angles with feet on the floor. Use a document holder to keep paper at eye level and avoid neck strain. Use rollers or casters to move heavy objects to decrease risk of back injury.

Take time out every hour to stretch tight muscles. Keep your back straight, bend your knees and use both hands when lifting. - St. Mary Hospital, Department of Occupational Therapy

Lower back pain, a strained neck and sore joints are some of the distress your body feels when your working environment doesn't measure up to your physical needs. Job-related injuries, currently costing $68 billion per year in medical costs and lost wages, affect some 7 million workers annually regardless of occupation and existing safety standards.

The solution to this growing dilemma might conceivably be the science of ergonomics, the belief that equipment and the atmosphere in the workplace should strike a balance between the physical, emotional and environmental needs of the worker in an effort to reduce or eliminate the risk of injury.

With the momentum of computers being integrated into all aspects of our daily lives, occurrences of eyestrain, headaches, carpal tunnel syndrome and neck injuries have risen dramatically while injuries outside the office include back pain, pulled muscles, and repetitive motion injuries from small redundant tasks.

"Ergonomic improvements don't have to be costly," said Mary Ruehl, St. Mary Hospital director of occupational therapy. "Oftentimes it's about rearranging already existing equipment or improving upon a system that's hindering worker performance."

Ergonomic attributes include: addressing how a person's skeletal structure is affected by the physical tasks he or she performs;

emotional atmosphere such as stress, personal space, social interaction, sense of security and support;

environmental issues including lighting, temperature, comfort, and air quality

Factors that affect one's senses, like noise, color and aroma, have also been linked to productivity, health and perceived satisfaction.

Smokers run the risk of depression

Daily smokers have twice the risk for major I The study ' ... is the first-of-itspression compared to people who have a history smoking on an occasional basis, according to a lenry Ford Health System study.

In addition, researchers found that not only may moking lead to depression, but depression may ead to increased smoking. The study revealed that n young adults who smoke and have history of najor depression, their risk of becoming daily smokers is three times more likely. The progression to daily smoking typically begins in adolesence

The study, published in the February issue of Archives of General Psychiatry, is the first-of-itskind to demonstrate the influence of major depression on increased smoking. The study tracked 1,000 young adults ages 21 to 30 over a period of five years in southeastern Michigan. A daily smoker is defined as a person who smokes daily for one r more months

Interestingly, no conclusive data showed that najor depression played a role in the initiation of moking, nor did it show smokers with depression ave a harder time quitting, said Naomi Breslau, Ph.D., principal investigator and director of research for the Department of Behavioral Services at Henry Ford Health System. She offers several possible explanations for the relationship kind to demonstrate the influence of major depression on increased smoking.

between depression and smoking.

"Smokers who have depression tend to see their smoking become a daily habit, and it may be because they use nicotine to medicate their depressed mood," said Breslau. An addiction to nicotine may be especially powerful in depressed smokers because of the substance's mood-altering characteristics.

The Henry Ford data also revealed that smokers are significantly more at risk of major depression. But does smoking cause depression? There may be neurobiologic evidence that nicotine and other smoke substances play a role in causing depression, but additional research is needed to support this, according to Breslau.

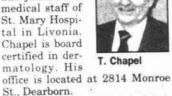

"We may find that factors predispose people to both depression and smoking. Social environment and personality may be the common causes. One study suggests that the relationship results solely from genetic predisposition. Future research is needed to determine what, if any, are the common causes of both." Breslau said.

Along for the ride

Tony Hansen wired himself to the World Wide Web and thus, took all of us along on his adventure.

A researcher tracking environmental pollution at the South Pole Dr. Tony Hansen discovered a world divided - snowblanket beauty accommodating top-notch scientific missions on the one hand, an environment increasingly smothered in exhaust fumes on the other.

And while his primary mission was to collect evidence regarding the degree of pollution, his other goal was to educate friends, colleagues, and the public about the region and the NSF's work there.

This was his second stint at the Pole. On his first expedition Hansen took still pictures with a digital camera and sent them back by e-mail. This time he sent video clips around the world using a new technology for sending high quality video on the two weeks last Pro.

Hansen sent his accounts of the latest expedition at site (http:www.mageesci.com/Antarc tic), as well as to his colleagues at the Lawrence Berkeley National Laboratory, to collaborating scientists at government and university research institutions both in the U.S. and in European countries.

The site is still online, drawing thousands of hits a day and is typical of a growing number of sites that use the immediacy of video to illustrate the objectives, the methods and the nature of scientific research in an atten-tion-grabbing, " live on-location" manner. For parents and educators battling the draw of television on children, these sites are great alternatives to the tube.

Another great Web site you'll want to bookmark and check regularly is the Zambezi River "Make a Difference" site (http://www.zzam.org/) that will soon chronicle the adventures of a group of river rafters attempting to navigate this dangerous African river.

Sponsored by a group of Detroit-area folks, the trip is aimed at drawing attention to the problem of land mines, which litter the African nations the river flows through following decades of civil war.

While the expedition itself won't start until mid-April, there's already lots of excitement on the site.

Paul Templer, of Zimbabwe, is one of the key members of the expedition. In 1996, as he led a party of tourists floating down the river near Victoria Falls, Templer was attacked by a hippopotamus.

Internet called Video Sphinx 📕 'Want to know what it's like to climb the world's tailest and most dangerous mountain? This site does everything but take you there.'

The animal inflicted 38 puncture wounds to his head, chest, arms, and leg, before releasing him. Seven hours of surgery saved his life but could not save his left arm. He now has an artificial arm designed and fitted by one of the " Make a Difference' sponsors, the Wright and Filippis company.

Templer's tale is well-told on the site, and as the trip gets underway, photos and daily reports will let us all share the adventure...online.

Online adventures

Here are some other online adventure sites you may want to check out:

Jason Project The (http://www.jasonproject.org/) -There are all sorts of Jason project online adventures. The current one involves a bunch of Scuba divers off Bermuda investigating coral reefs. But you can also find other online adventures here aimed at kids and their parents. One of my favorites is an online chronicle of what it's like to live aboard a nuclear submarine.

Kevin and Dave's Great Adventure - http://www.whitetrash.com/mo/mcworld/adv.html Not all the online adventures are done by foundations and big groups. Everyday people use the net to share their fun. This site details the long distance motorcycle adventures of a couple of regular guys who set out to cover 7,000 miles in three weeks.

wrote the music for one of the pieces on the program, "The Times of Our Lives." The multi media work is accompanied by video created by the college's computer graphics technology program.

"Collage VI is a showcase for the music department," said Nissen. "All of us are excited about the variety of pieces. It's a collage of everything from classical to rock to jazz, from Renaissance to the present. It's like taking a roller coaster ride through time with one piece written 10 years ago, another piece 500 years ago. It shows off the latest in computer technology."

Professor Brad Bloom and the three students in his MATS MIDI Band will perform a range of selections from "A Raggy Waltz" by Dave Brubeck to "In Paradisium" by Faure and the mysterious sounding "O Magnum Mysterium" by Lauridsen. The MATS (Musical Arts Technology Studio) MIDI (Musical Instrument Digital Interface) Band create computer generated music.

"They'll be hearing sounds that are other worldly," said Bloom. "The musicians will make sounds the other ensembles won't be able to. We're taking nieces that are already written and we're transcribing it for electronic instruments. What we're trying to do is arrange existing pieces for a different palette of sounds. For those who love the big band sound, SCool JAzz and SCool JAzz PRime, under the direction of Steven SeGraves, are sure to be a hit. At least one of the jazz standards the vocal groups will perform is from the CD, "From Russia With Love," which was recorded after a Russian tour last summer. Later this year, SCool JAzz and SCool JAzz PRime will perform at the Michigan Jazz Festival at the Botsford Inn in Farmington Hills and the Detroit Montreaux Jazz Festival downtown. "The Collage concert will be fun, upbeat," said SeGraves. "It's one of the very few events at Schoolcraft College where the entire music department is involved." SeGraves also directs the college's Chamber Singers who perform 20th century and madrigal music for "Collage VI." The concept for the collage concert is that selections are performed back to back without applause. There will be about 130 performers "on stage" at the same time. Performers stand for their turn in the spotlight.

awaiian delights brighten March days

Everything is coming up flowers at River's Edge Gallery II in Canton thanks to watercolorist Tanya Au. As featured artist for the month of March, Au is exhibiting large scale watercolor paintings of flowers one of which is titled "Go Blue.'

Au painted the daffodils and hydrangea after attending the Ann Arbor Flower and Garden Show in Ann Arbor. The University of Michigan Matthaei Botanical Gardens produces the show featuring 22,000 square feet of plants, designs, sculpture, and garden accessories, March 26-29 at Washtenaw Farm Council Grounds.

Born and raised in Honolulu, Au loves flowers.

"Mom had a huge rose garden," said Au, "and used to cut them and bring them into the house. I used to spend a lot of the time in the garden when I was a young girl. I loved to weed and care for the flowers

The paintings of the exotic plants known as bromeliads were created by Au during a visit to a bromeliad farm owned by a friend of her brother's in Hawaii. Au spent the summer of 1992 with her family in Hawaii. At night, after putting her three daughters to bed, Au would paint. She's returning this summer for a monthlong stay. Her brother raises ginger and exotic flowers on a farm in Hawaii. She plans to do plenty of painting while she's there.

"As an artist, everything (I paint) needs to come from the heart," said Au. "Flowers represent where I came from, the lushness, the bright light. When I was painting, I could smell the flowers.'

Tulips, daffodils and other perennials fill the garden at Au's Ypsilanti home. A painting of fuschia, outside her back door, reflects her strong sens the Hawaiians." Jim Slack, an artist himself, admires Au's watercolor florals. He and his wife Patt invited Au to exhibit her watercolors in the original River's Edge Gallery in Wyandotte six years ago. The medium intrigues him. Slack attended the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Art where figurative-based oil painting was primary. After returning from a military stint in Vietnam, he took watercolor classes at Oakland Community College in Farmington Hills. Slack's own watercolors "are very big and very loose."

"Tanya's watercolors are terrific, loose, expressionistic," said Slack. "Watercolorists tend to get limited because of the size of the paper. When we see an artist working in this scale (up to 8 by 6 feet), it's impressive."

Au is always experimenting with materials, techniques and subject matter. Once, she painted in the dark only to awake the next morning to find the painting's palette primarily consisted of green instead of the purple Au thought she was creating. Her latest series deals with dying, grieving and the burial rituals of the Chinese culture. She began the paintings after the death of her grandmother who immigrated to Hawaii from China.

"If someone asks me to repaint something, I couldn't do it even if I tried," said Au. "I can't paint something the same way twice.

Au thinks most people love flowers as much as she does that's why she chose to focus on the subject in the show at River's Edge Gallery II. The only non-floral painting is of a water and dock scene.

"Flowers sell," said Au. "I've sold more flowers than anything else."

The Ann Arbor Flower and Garden Show offers hundreds of ideas for gardens and landscapes 9 a.m. Thursday-Saturday. March 26-28 and until 5 p.m. Sunday, March 29 at the Washtenaw Farm Council Grounds, 5055 Ann Arbor/Saline Road, Ann Arbor. Tickets $10 adults ($8 in advance), $5 ages 13-17 years, $3 ages 4-12 years, children three and under free. Opening night gala: 7:30-10 p.m. Wednesday, March 25, tickets $60 ($50 in advance). The musical variety is interesting and how the pieces go right from one piece to the next," said SeGraves. "When pieces contrast greatly, it can be interesting."

Donald Morelock, director of the college's piano and applied music department, and student Tracy Kwang, an eighth grader at Novi Middle School, will perform as soloists. Kwang, winner of the Michigan Music Teachers Association concerto competition last year, plays Debussy's "Gardens in the Rain," Morelock, Schumann's "Whims, Op. 12 No. 4."

Au wasn't interested in art during her school days in Hawaii. Not until she came to Michigan in 1979 did painting become one of her loves. Au took drawing and watercolor courses while working on a bachelor degree at Eastern Michigan University. Shortly thereafter, her major became watercolor.

Double the fun: Father and son pianists Joseph (right) and Michael Gurt perform with the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra on April 4.

Concert aims to 'double your pleasure'

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN STAFF WRITER

Eastern Michigan University music professor Joseph Gurt is counting the days until son Michael arrives from Louisiana. The two pianists perform with the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra, under conductor Russell Reed, Saturday, April 4.

Music played a major role during the years Joseph and Gloria Gurt were raising Michael and daughters Naomi, Deborah and Jordani in Ann Arbor. The family's two pianos saw plenty of action. Michael, who began playing when he was about 10, received his early training from Joseph as did the other children. Gloria is also a pianist who teaches privately. Naomi is a soprano living in Boston. "They're all musical," said the 64year old Gurt. "We were playing at home from when Michael was a kid just in our living room. Living 1,000 miles apart, it's difficult to perform as a duo. That's the only bad part of playing Gurt is excited about performing Poulenc's "Concerto for Two Pianos in D Major" for the first time with Michael, 39. Father and son will practice their parts at Gurt's studio at Eastern before a dress rehearsal with the Plymouth Symphony.

"Everything that's artistic is challenging," said Gurt, who's taught piano at Eastern for 31 years. "This is a bubbly piece, bright, not dissonant, quite melodious. It's a real crowd pleaser, a piece the audience will enjoy."

This is the Gurts first performance with the Plymouth Symphony as a duo although they've performed several solo recitals together in Florida, Michigan and Istanbul, Turkey. The engagement had first been discussed during the years when Gurt was a colleague of Reed, a professor of music and director of the Symphony Orchestra at Eastern Michigan University for 12 years before retiring in 1991. The topic arose again about 10 years ago when Gurt joined the orchestra as a soloist in the performance of Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue.

'We've talked about doing this for some time," said Reed. "I have heard Michael play and I have so much respect for Joseph's musicianship. The Poulenc concerto is a charming piece of

Three years ago, Janet Christensen's view from her studio looked out at the San Francisco Bay where freighters and sail boats slowly passed.

Today, Christensen of Bloomfield Hills is a transplanted Californian. Her spacious fourthfloor loft overlooks dusty train tracks and a residential Pontiac neighborhood where economic opportunity has yet to arrive.

On a day when a group of Pontiac-based artists are meeting in her loft, the western sunlight pours through the expansive space located in a nondescript warehouse a few blocks north of downtown Pontiac.

"There's a scene here bigger than ever." she said. "We're just waiting for things to happen. These artists may be wideeyed idealists, but they're also grounded in bottom-line reali-

What to wear Bridal salons may suit you

Anyone who's ever scrambled to find the right dress for a special occasion can identify with Harriet Spurlin of Livonia.

When she received an invitation to a bar mitzvah at the Tam O'Shanter Country Club in West Bloomfield, she visited one department store after another, searching for the perfect dress, to no avail. Then she thought, why not try a bridal shop?

She found what she was looking for at Bonnie's Bridal in Livonia. "I found a beautiful velvet gown there, but it was too tight due to middle-age spread.

They let it out for me.

I felt beautiful." she said. "I just wanted to tell vour readers about this store so it could be a source for others

shopping for special occasion dresses. Plus, the alterations helped do wonders. The staff was so nice," she said. Here's more information about Bonnie's and other stores you might want to try if you're searching for a special dress, too.

· About one-third of the dresses at Bonnie's Bridal shop are wedding gowns. The rest are social occasion. bridesmaid and prom dresses.

Customers can buy dresses off the rack (generally in sizes 6 to 30), order them from the manufacturer (available sizes are usually 2 to 42), or have the seamstresses custom make a dress, said Karen McDermott, who co-owns the store with Bonnie Bentley.

Some of the names the store carries include: Bill Levkoff, Jordan, Caterina, Sylvia Anne and Nadine. Manufacturer orders generally take eight to 12 weeks to come in and it takes about 12 weeks to custom make a dress.

Social occasion dresses generally run from $125 to $350. The store has been at its current location, 19183 Merriman at Seven Mile Road, for the past five years. Call (248) 471-7394.

• If you're looking for the kind of dress a movie star would wear, try Exclusives for the Bride at 708 N Old Woodward in Birmingham. The shop carries formal and bridal gowns by Vera Wang, Badgley Mishka and other designers.

"Women see their favorite actresses wearing Vera Wang or Badgley Mishka in magazines and then come to us because they know we carry them, said the manager, Jacqui Paramo.

It usually takes 12 to 16 weeks for an rdered dress to come in. Most people don't have that long from the time they receive an invitation until the event itself. For that reason, "A lot of women will order a dress, just to have it on hand," Paramo said.

Customers also can buy sample dresses off the rack, but the sizes are limited (usually 8 to 12). Regular-priced bridesmaid and social occasion dresses start at about $225. Bridal gowns can run from $1,200 to $7,000.

Alterations are extra and dresses also can also be custom made. For more information, call (248) 647-4999.

• Shapes Design Studio, 208 Eleven Mile Road at Main Street in Royal Oak, carries a wide variety of contemporary women's clothing, from "fun separates to extraordinary evening dresses and bridal gowns," said its owner, Treas Charow.

The store carries dress sizes 4 to 12. and clothing also can be custom made Evening gowns start at about $200. Prom dresses run from $80 (for short ones) to $250 (for full-length ones). Alterations available for a small cost.

Popular this spring, Charow said, are looks that combine layers of sheer fabric with layers of lace in bright, fresh

Black is always popular, she said, especially in slip dresses that are strappy and shapely. For more information about Shapes, call (248) 547-4990.

· Betsy's Bridal, at 6335 Orchard Lake Road in West Bloomfield's Orchard Mall, has a wide selection of formal gowns, with more than 600 to choose from, according to owner, Betsy

"I only carry full-length gowns. I don't carry short dresses," she said. Formals start at about $300 and prom dresses run between $150 and $400. Popular looks for prom this year lude sheath and trumpet-style silhouettes, sheer fabric around the midriff, halter-style necklines, and exotic colors, such as neon green, lavender and light ice blue, she said. Organic specialists open a shop for nature lovers

BY AMY MESSANO SPECIAL WRITER

This tree house does not come equipped with a blue sky, chirping birds and lush plants stretching for the sun, but you don't have to climb a ladder or be a member of a secret club to get in. The Tree House for Earth's Children in Farmington is an organic connection for many environmentally conscience shoppers.

"We don't want to just utilize nature, we want to be a part of it," said certified mymomassologist and store owner, Christine Meinke, about the philosophical root of this family-run business. And that's a message that is abundantly clear as you stroll down the aisles of organically grown vegetables, vitamin supplements and herbs.

There is even an organic raw food deli that serves up good-for-you snacks and favorites like a calcium-rich sesame drink made with horsetail (shavegrass), red clover and prickly

'My favorite is the strawberry sh made also with bananas, honey and maple syrup," said eight-year-old Cloriece Meinke, Christine's daughter, as she gives a spur-of-the-moment, oiled foot massage to a regular customer, Gary Wickersham of Farmington.

"They are not just trying to sell products, but provide information so people can make up their own decisions," said

All of the Meinkes are knowledgeable about the products they sell and the beliefs they stand firmly behind. Herman, Kirk and Christine's father, is a research scientist and alchemist who helps to run the store.

Herman Meinke is passionate about biodynamic gardening with what he calls "living water" that he credits for growing a 22 foot-tall corn stalk that produced a 28-inch corncob in 1982. According to Christine, people come from as far as northern Michigan, Ohio and Indiana to learn about her father's gardening techniques.

Herman's wife Susan, is a registered nurse at Botsford Hospital, an alchemist, certified myomassologist, mother, grandmother and manager of the store. On top of all that, in a pinch, Susan delivered Christine's youngest daughter three months ago.

The malls are getting ready to welcome some very famous rabbits this weekend, preparing garden settings and hosting local performers appearing in spring programs for children.

At the Fairlane Center in Dearborn, each child who visits Peter Rabbit in his storybook garden beginning Saturday. March 28, will receive a water-coloring book while their parents purchase special photographs.

Fairlane is also hosting a drawing for a basket full of beanie babies, valued at $400, which includes 40 plush pets from various mall retailers including The Disney Store, Natural Wonders and Warner

Not to be outdone, Lakeside Center in Sterling Heights, welcomes Peter Rabbit with a free, 40-minute puppet perfor-mance of There's A Frog in the Woods by Brad Lowe's Fantasy E-FEX at noon, also on Saturday, March 28. For the first time, Lakeside visitors who

Dogsledding in the north woods renews the spirit

C8*

Many paddlers know the secrets of Northern Minnesota's Boundary Waters Canoe Area Wilderness with its many lakes and rivers to travel for wonderful summer canoe trips.

However, more and more visitors are planning their journeys after Old Man Winter freezes the waters and blankets the north woods with snow - not to glide along on skis, but to traverse the wilderness on dogsleds.

Dogsledding offers the opportunity to quickly move deep into the woods where the spirit is renewed. The trip brochure states, "there is nothing that compares to the thrill and excitement of driving a dog team."

And from the moment you jump on a sled floating across the crusty snow, you know this is true.

The journey begins

This was my second mushing trip into the Boundary Waters wilderness to answer the call of these dogs and after a brief refresher on how to harness and drive a team of four sled dogs, a sense of anticipation was building in me and the dogs speed and stamina; they would rather run than do anything else. And that's a good thing because we had five sleds full of gear and four days to trek across this wilderness.

Now is when the novice musher learns about pandemonium and silence.

We were almost ready to shove off and our 27 excited dogs knew it. At this point their chorus of barks and howls are almost deafening

"The dogs are ready, " yells Kurt Lothe, one of our guides. They love to run."

Hopping onto the sled runners, untie the safety rope holding the dogs back. Slowly I step off the brake and command them, 'All right."

Like a slingshot, my four new canine friends, Pat, Champ, Fletcher and Bennie shoot onto Fall Lake. The silence piercing barks give way to only the soft shhhhhhhhhhhhhh of the sled runners gliding along the snow and the rush of a crisp wind in your face.

Anyone with some basic instruction and a sense of adventure can drive a team of sled-dogs. Peter McClelland, our lead guide and part owner of White Wilderness Sled Dog Adventure, told the story of a blind man driving his own team on a recent trip. "We just told him left, right, brake a little, duck. It was great," Peter said.

But we didn't really drive the team. Basically the dogs follow the team in front of them, single file with the guide and his team leading the way. Our job was to steer the sleds away from trees, push the sleds to help the dogs particularly on steep uphills and braking the sled on quick downhills to avoid running into the dogs. It can be hard work. But helping these Huskies and becoming a part of the team is extremely rewarding.

Fueling up

After each daily mushing adventure we would stop to make camp for the night. And after camp was established our first priority was to fuel our transportation.

The barking chorus explodes back to life the minute the dogs spot the feed bucket. A mushy mixture of warm water and high-protein dog food is a canine delight which each one devours almost before their bowls hit the ground. Its important to keep the dogs fueled and well-hydrated. This ensures the energy they need to pull the 200- to 300pound sleds as well as keeping warm at night.

Humans need some potent and tasty fuel also, and we were not disappointed. Foods can be brought in winter that would normally spoil in the summer heat. Furthermore, you can eat as much fatty foods as you want because your body burns much of it off keeping warm. The fourday menu consisted of such delicacies as steak and potatoes, biscuits and gravy, and lots of chocolate.

"The fat will keep you warm," Peter told us. So we fill ourselves full before jumping into

Whatever the weather

The trip started with El Ninoinspired mild temperatures and even some rain. However, midway through our trek temperatures fell below freezing overnight bringing four inches of new fluffy snow. Winter had returned with all its beauty offering up a perfect day for mushing.

At one point on that day some distance developed between myself and the sleds in front and behind. I imagined traversing a great uncharted wilderness, just me and the dogs. A peaceful, tranquil feeling fell over me lasting throughout the And I crawled back into day. my sleeping bag that night reflecting on how life doesn't get any better. NCAA hoop tourney has familiar faces

The NCAA men's basketball tournament was interesting from the standpoint that several familiar faces from Observerland appeared, including players Perry Robinson (Redford Bishop Borgess) and Matt Bauman (Livonia Franklin) for the University of Detroit Mercy; James Head (Plymouth Salem) of Eastern Michigan; Lorenzo Guess (Wayne Memorial) of Michigan State; Donte Scott (Plymouth Canton) for Michigan; along with UNC-Charlotte assistant coach Bob Kummer (Redford Catholic Central) and MSU assistant coach Stan Heath (Redford CC).

One player who appeared in last year's NCAA Tournament, but missed the big dance this year, was Iowa center Guy Rucker (Westland John Glenn), who appears to be in Dr. Tom Davis' doghouse after an outstanding freshman year. Rucker reportedly showed up during the preseason in poor physical shape and never really got his game off the ground. He played just three minutes in an NIT loss against Georgia . . . On Sunday I visited the United Center in Chicago for the lackluster double-header between U-D Mercy and Purdue and Western Michigan-Stanford. I was impressed with all the amenities inside the United Center, but the architects did a poor job on the outside of the building. It looks old, but I was told it was designed to duplicate the adjacent Chicago Stadium, which was torn down two years ago

Former Rock helps set NCAA mark

Sarah Hamilton has emerged as a budding star at Michigan, playing a major role in the Wolverines winning a Big Ten Indoor Track championship and then helping them estab-lish a new NCAA distance medley relay record.

Falling neatly into place. That's where everything has ended up for Sarah Hamilton, former Plymouth Salem running star now in her junior year at University of Michigan. When Hamilton graduated from Salem, she had several schools under consideration. U-M, however, wasn't one of them

"I really didn't know where I was going to go," she said. "It was kind of a last-minute decision. Michigan wasn't even in consideration, you know, because their academic standards are so high." None of the standards at U-M are too high for Hamilton now. A walk-on as a freshman in track, she has elevated her status enough that she helped the Wolverines' distance medley relay team set an NCAA Indoor Track Championship Meet record, breaking the old mark by five seconds, March 13 in Indianapolis.

"I knew we were going to run faster," said U-M assistant coach Mike McGuire. "I told the kids it would take an 11:07 to win. But I'll be honest with you, 11:03 did surprise me.'

The U-M foursome of Lisa Ouellet (1,200 meters), Adrienne Hunter (400), Hamilton (800) and Katie McGregor (1,600) had run the race just once before, qualifying for the NCAA championships a month earlier in 11:13.30.

They won the race in 11:03.28, breaking the previous meet record of 11:08.60, set by U-M in 1994.

"Yeah, we made a pretty big improvement," Hamilton said. "Maybe it was because the level (of competition) was raised for that meet. We

No sweat: Whalers rip Sting

BY C.J. RISAK SPORTS EDITOR

Just when you think you have things figured out, at least partially so, along comes the unexpected. Thursday's Ontario Hockey League playoff game, between the Sarnia Sting and the Plymouth Whalers at Plymouth's Compuware Arena, was supposed to be similar to the first two in the bestof-seven series - close, edge-of-the-seat, tightlyplayed.

Some relevant stats from the first two games: The home team won both times, the game wasn't decided until the winners scored an empty-net goal in the final minute, each team scored seven goals.

Here's the only relevant stat from game No. 3: Whalers 7, Sarnia 1.

Completely unanticipated. It put Plymouth up one game going into last night's match at Sarnia. Game five will be at 6:30 p.m. tonight at Compuware.

"There's nothing like home ice," said a smiling Pete DeBoer, the Whalers' coach, after the game. "We had a ref who was calling all the stuff that happens after the whistle, the stuff you're supposed to call."

That meant 21 penalties called against Sarnia (and 16 against Plymouth). It also meant five power-play goals for the Whalers.

And that was the game. No comebacks this time to disillusion the home team, the kind they'd been prone to surrendering the last month of the season.

The Sting solved that problem for the Whalers. They ruined any hopes they had for a rally by taking silly penalties.

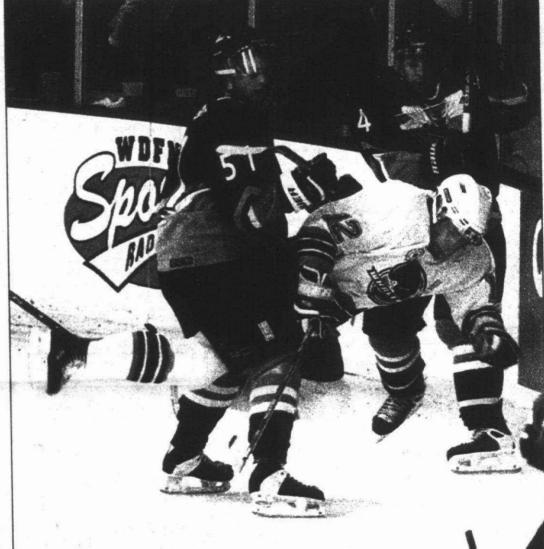

And they did it over and over and over.

The game was pretty much decided, it's true, by the time the third period started. Plymouth led 5-0 after two, then David Legwand jammed a rebound past Sarnia's back-up goalie, Greg Hewitt, to make it 6-0.

But the Sting did battle back, with Jeff Heerema finally putting a puck past Whaler goalie Robert Esche to make it 6-1. And there was 16 minutes left to play.

But 92 seconds later, Sarnia's Shane Kenny was called for cross checking. Harold Druken followed by scoring his second power-play goal of the game for the Whalers, knocking home a pass that was actually a deflection off Andrew Taylor's skate.

Before the puck could be dropped for the ensuing face-off, Sarnia was penalized again, this one on the bench for delay of game. And 2:41 after that the Sting bench was penalized again, this time for too many men on the ice. It was not going to be Sarnia's night, that was for certain.

Congratulations to Michigan's Bobby Hayes (Westland John Glenn) for making second-team All-Central Collegiate Hockey Association .

What a year it's been for Westland's Mike Modano, who has the Dallas Stars perched in first place overall in the Western Conference. First it was a knee injury, then the Olympics, and now a separated shoulder which could keep him out until the playoffs.

His misfortune, however, has opened a spot for Livonia Stevenson High grad Chris Tancill. The former University of Wisconsin standout, who has bounced around the NHL, IHL and AHL, was called up from the Michigan K-Wings (where he leads the team in scoring). Tancill drew an assist in his first game with the Stars.

Meanwhile, Mark Beaufait, from Stevenson, Northern Michigan and a former U.S. Olympian, continues to rank among the scoring leaders for the Orlando Solar Bears in the IHL.

Little known fact: Tancill, Beaufait and Hayes have all played on NCAA championship teams .

In a game which will go down as one of the greatest in Michigan schoolboy basketball history, Detroit Cass Tech outlasted Redford Catholic Central in double-overtime, 116-115, to claim the Class A regional basketball championship before a jam-packed crowd Friday night at Dearborn Fordson.

To say it was a shootout would be a gross understatement

It was 46-all at halftime, 75-70 Cass Tech after three quarters, 94-94 at the end of regulation, and 105-105 after the first OT.

In the second OT, Marlon Williamson split a pair of free throws with 32 seconds left to provide the final margin of victory

Salem wrestlers lead All-Observer squad

BY DAN O'MEARA

This year's All-Observer wrestling team is once again a formdiable collection of athletes who would represent the area well in an all-star event.

The honor squad includes five first-team, repeat selections in Katsuhiko Sueda and Dan Seder of Livonia Stevenson, Anwar Crutchfield and Teono Wilson of Plymouth Salem and Mitch Hancock of Redford Catholic Central.

The outstanding Observerland wrestler of 1998 is CC junior Casey Rogowski. A third-team, all-area pick last year, he emerged as one of the state's best, winning the Division I heavyweight title while going 45-0.

Four other members of the team were second-team, allarea wrestlers last year: Salem's James Greene, Westland John Glenn's John Fedulchak, Garden City's Brian Hinzman and CC's Broce Naysmith.

Salem coach Ron Krueger, who retires after 27 years as the only wrestling coach the Rocks have ever had, is the Observerland Coach of the Year.

His team won the Western Lakes Activities Association dual-meet championship, its first Observerland Invitation-al title and a Division I district championship.

Sophomore guard Rob Sparks also pumped in 24, including four triples, while Moore, who handled the ball against Cass Tech's pressure, added 17. Senior forward Don Slankster came off the bench to score 10 before fouling out in the second extra period.

D. Bryant, a 6-3 senior guard headed to Duke on a football scholarship, showed why he can hang with the Blue Devils on the hardwood as well, finishing with a team-high 31.

Williamson added 22, while Napoleon contributed 20. Reserve Blaine Denning chipped in with 14.

"I got a little tired at the end," Bryant said. "I was short on a couple of free throws so I had to dig down and make them because I wanted to play three more games and get to Breslin (for the state finals)."

As a team, the Shamrocks shot 53.0 percent from the floor (43 of 81), including 11 three-pointers. "Catholic Central had three

The difference may have come at the free throw line as the Technicians were 28 of 39 (71.7 percent), while CC was 16 of 21 (76.1 percent).

Another telling statistic was turnovers - the Shamrocki committed a total of 20, includ ing 14 during the final 24 min utes.

Casey, a Redford Catholic Central junior, is an outstanding college baseball prospect but how about his extraordinary talents in football and wrestling? U-D Mercy hasn't had football in four decades and never had varsity wrestling. If Titans' baseball coach Bob Miller, who also coached the elder Rogowski, campaigns for adding football and wrestling as varsity sports we'll know why.

Rogowski's one of those rare athletes who could play three sports in college. Rogowski completed a 45-0 wrestling season, winning the 275-pound division last weekend in Battle Creek.

Rogowski wrestled at 160 pounds as a freshman and as a sophomore qualified for the state meet at 189. He's undersized for a heavyweight packing 216 pounds on his 6-foot-3 frame. But with an accomplished wrestler, Brocc Navsmith, already in the CC lineup at 215, Rogowski decided to give it a try.

Rogowski was unranked throughout the season. No one knew him better than Plymouth Salem's Charlie Hamblin, who lost to him in the finals, 10-2. It's the fourth time Rogowski's beaten Michigan's firearm whitetail nesses for hunting from an elevated platform and a proposed ban on climbing attachments such as spikes and screw-in steps.

"The Commission received many, many letters and took lots of calls from hunters on the issue, and the testimony at public hearings was very helpful," NRC chairman Keith Charters said.

"Our vote today was based on that public opinion. I also think it's important the public have the opportunity to fully understand the ramifications of a ban on spikes and screw-in steps and for hunters to provide comment on the proposal that's before the commission."

An animal's name can tell quite a lot

What's in a NATURE name? NOTES Well, if the name is bobwhite, its the that name describes the sound that a quail small makes. Phoebe and peewee are two TIM names for fly-NOWICKI catchers that phonetically describe the sounds they can make. Names paraphrasing the sounds that an animal makes are common.

Some names are very descriptive of the appearance of the ani-

A bobcat, for instance, has a bobbed tail and is a recognizable member of the cat family.

Cottontail accurately describes the soft, fluffy tail of our rabbit. Red-headed woodpecker, chestnut-sided warbler and sharptailed grouse are also helpful names that conjure an image of the animal

Other names are a combination of the two, sounds and appearance.

Blue jay identifies the color of this bird and a call note that sounds like someone saying "J."

Black-capped chickadee combines the call note and the black on the top of the head of this common bird at our feeders. Gray catbird is another name that describes a gray colored bird that sounds like a cat.

Some names can be very con-

Lynx comes from Greek words that mean "lamp," referring to the fact that this cat can see in the dark, "like its using a lamp."

Nuthatch does not refer to this bird sitting on a nut to hatch a little tree.

It is a corruption of nut-hacking, or the habit of using its bill to hack open a seed. Moose comes from the Algonquian name "moos," which means "eater of twigs," or "one who strips off bark.'

All these names are descriptive too if you know the origins of the words.

Some of the best names are those that describe real or imagined habits of the animal.

One of my favorites is the woodcock. A woodland member of the shorebird family, this bird sings and dances at night, eats worms in wet moist soils and has large eyes positioned on the top side of its head.

These are some of the features that lead people to common names such as, big eyes, bog borer, bogsucker, Laborador twister (relates to its evening courtship dance that is really worth seeing), night peck, siphon snipe, timber-doodle and whistling snipe (refers to a sound made by wing feathers during the courtship flight).

These are all very colorful names for the same bird that has so many unique characteristics. They also reflect an intimate knowledge of the habits of this bird

Common names for animals often describe something the animals does or looks like, the uninitiated just have to look deeper in some cases to understand the relationship.

Now is the time for league bowlers to find a the money or the honors involved, every team wants to win and usually that is determined by a few lucky breaks, a vital strike when it makes a difference, or a missed spare which can affect the fame's outcome.

The end of the regular season can mean lots of excitement, and as they say, "May the best team win!"

If you have signed up for the Pro-Am this May at the Greater Detroit Open PBA at Taylor Lanes, you might have already picked up your new ball.

The paid entry fee includes a Thunder Road by Storm Products.

I have received mine, had it drilled to fit, and all I can say is that it's a terrific piece of equipment, versatile enough for most lane conditions, and hits with authority.

The entry forms are available at bowling centers everywhere. There are cash prizes to be won in every squad in the Pro-Am, For details, call (734) 946-9092.

The DWBA women's city tournament is underway now at Sterling Lanes.

The current leader in the Team Event is Contour Power Grips No. 1, Jeanne Gebbia (Garden City), Capt.

Their score was 1,112-1,112-1328/3552 (plus 160 handicap equals 3712. The 1.328 actual is also tops in that category.

The Doubles leaders are Jeanne Gebbia - Marianne DiRupo with 479-506-484/1469 (plus 84 handicap equals 1,553). They also led in actual score with the 1,469 count.

Michelle Ewald leads the field in Singles with 206-257-300/763 (plus 55 handicap equals 818 with an actual of 763).

Marianne DiRupo leads All-Events handicap with 741-797-699/2,237 (plus 108), but the actual All-Events leader is Aleta Sill with 726-793-718/2237.

There are still a few weeks to go, the scoring leaders can still change as the tournament keeps on going.

Classic Lanes in Rochester Hills and the Avon Hills Lioness Club will host the 17th annual Leader Dogs for the Blind bowling benefit at 11 a.m. Sunday, April 26.

Area bowlers will bowl doubles with members of the All-Stars to raise funds for the Leader Dog School. Each bowler is eligible to win prizes and will receive a gift bag donated by local merchants and vendors.

The Lioness Club's goal is to raise $25,000 for the Leader Dog school this year. Residents of the community are invited to come in and participate in the silent auction.

The school is located in Rochester and operates entirely on donated funds. Interested bowlers must register in advance.
