

Picture Dad!
We're celebrating Dad this year with a special contest. Send us a favorite photograph of you and your Dad with a short caption, explaining why it's your favorite (funny, sentimental or just interesting). We'll hold a drawing of all entries and award a winner from each Observer Newspaper with two tickets to the Ford Senior Players Championship golf tournament at the Dearborn TPC, July 8-14. Participants are expected to include Tom Watson, Hale Irwin, Tom Kite and senior "rookies" Fuzzy Zoeller and Ben Crenshaw. All tickets include a free shuttle bus ride to the front gate of the TPC. To enter, send your photo to Tedd Schneider, 794 South Main, Plymouth, MI 48170. Photos will not be returned. All entries are due by 5 p.m. Thursday, June 6. Even if your name isn't selected for a prize, you'll have a chance to show Dad how much he means to you. We'll have a special page on Father's Day, Sunday, June 16, where we'll publish the photos.

Board seeks new round of cuts

Plymouth-Canton school board members have asked the administration to find $500,000 in additional savings before the June 30 budget deadline.

tbruscato@oe.hometown.com

Concerned about how deeply employee pay raises will force the district to dig into its pockets, the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education Tuesday night called for Superintendent Kathleen Booher to cut the 2002-2003 proposed budget by another half-million dollars.

The $500,000 request comes on the heels of $950,000 in staff, program and equipment cuts the administration has already presented to trustees to balance the budget.

Despite those cuts, plus an estimated 130 new students who will bring more state foundation money to the district, pay raises for four employee groups will put the budget back into the red. According to updated figures released by Patricia Brand, executive director of business services, a 2-percent wage hike would leave the district with a $777,000 budget deficit, while a 3-percent hike would force the district $1.7 million into the red.

"Our core business is education, but we put a lot of money into peripheral things to support education," said Trustee Susan Davis. "I personally don't think we can do everything for everybody anymore."

Davis noted other districts are going to pay-for-play athletics, and cutting transportation for students.

"I don't think we can say to employees that you're not going to get another raise. I don't think that's a place to make cuts," added Davis. "I think we'll be challenged ever so greatly in the next few years unless something different happens in Lansing."

Booher, who noted it took eight weeks to come up with the first round of cuts, said the administration will be challenged to come up with more.

"I think it's going to be very difficult to stay away from any areas that will illicit a lot of attention because it will Never forget

Memorial Day Parade sends patriotic message in 9-11 wake

BY BRAD KADRICH

Dennis Shrewsbury thinks he finally found the secret to having a great Memorial Day Parade.

It starts with a warm, sunny day. Have the Vietnam Veterans Color Guard leading things off, and the Plymouth-Canton Marching Band as the closing attraction. Throw in the American Legion and the VFW doing the wreath ceremony, sprinkle in some Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts and, voila, you've got the perfect parade.

That's the recipe that provided an enjoyable parade Monday, as local residents joined the nation in honoring the sacrifices made by its military men and women and remembering those who gave their lives for their country.

"I think this was the best parade," said Shrewsbury, a member of the Vietnam Veterans who was organizing his fifth parade. "I thought it was a real nice parade."

Yvonne Greenberg of Plymouth Township thought so, too. Blinking back tears after watching the wreath ceremony, Greenberg admitted she gets "very sentimental" on Memorial Day.

"I think these young men and women gave up their lives for us to be free," she said. "I try to come (to the parade) every year. If I don't make the ceremony, I come by the monuments alone and say a prayer."

The parade featured the usual participants, including another sterling performance from the Plymouth-Canton Marching Band. State Reps. John Stewart, (R-Plymouth Township) and

If regular diners at Bob Evans Restaurant on Ford Road near I-275 see a wrecking ball whacking into their favorite eatery in the next few months, they shouldn't panic. It's coming down, but a new building is going up in its place.

The Canton Board of Trustees gave final approval Tuesday night to a rebuilding project for the restaurant, which has been at that location for about 20 years.

Bob Evans representative Craig Little said once the project gets under way it will probably take about six months for completion.

Meanwhile, Little said, construction on a new Bob Evans on Michigan Avenue is "practically starting already." He said that project will be started first, but both projects may be built simultaneously.

Stacey Cline, a Bob Evans spokeswoman, said Wednesday the proposed opening date for the Michigan Avenue site is Nov. 25. She said that building could be open as early as October, depending on weather and other circumstances.

While the Ford Road project now has board approval, Cline said there is still more paper work to be done before actual demolition/construction gets going. She said it's possible that there might be "a couple of months" that there would be no open Bob Evans in Canton, but that they company "doesn't like to do that."

It might decide to delay the Ford Road project until the Michigan Avenue site is open. No final decision has been made on that, she said.

In other action:
■ The board approved a Class C Liquor License request for TGI Friday's, which is building a new restaurant.

Driver in fatal chase agrees to guilty plea

BY JACK GLADDEN

A 39-year-old Farmington Hills man has entered into a plea agreement with the Wayne County Prosecutor's office in connection with the death of an 8-year-old Garden City boy, after a police chase that started in Canton in February 2001.

John Steven Moffitt has agreed to plead guilty to a reduced charge of second-degree murder with a sentence ranging from 22 to 40 years. Sentencing is set for June 6 before Wayne County Circuit Judge Ulysses Boykin.

Wayne County Prosecutor Mike Dugan called the agreement fair to both sides given the facts of the case.

"I think 22 to 40 years is a very good sentence," he said.

Moffitt had originally been bound over for trial on a charge of first-degree murder and receiving and concealing stolen property over $1,000.

Moffitt was the driver of a stolen flatbed truck that was being chased by Canton Police when it ran a red light on Cherry Hill and Venoy in Westland and was struck by a Chevy S-10 pickup truck going south on Venoy.

A passenger in the pickup, Travis Miles, 8, of Garden City was killed in the crash. The driver of the S-10, 25-year-old Michele Burgess, a neighbor and longtime friend of Travis' family, received minor injuries.

The incident started when Canton Police were called to a construction site near Cherry Hill and Beck roads about 8:20 p.m. on Feb. 10 on a report of a theft in progress. At the site police stopped two vehicles that appeared to be loaded with construction material.

Two suspects in one truck, Joseph Foreman, 54, of Farmington Hills and Report: Kmart Kool-Aid thief takes a powder

A loss prevention officer for another Super Kmart store reported to police he was shopping in the Canton store about 9:40 p.m. Sunday when he noticed a woman putting cases of Kool-Aid into a large container.

When she wheeled 33 cases of Kool-Aid valued at $1,650 out of the store without paying, he followed her, identified himself and asked her to return to the store.

She refused, according to police reports, and the man asked someone else to take the Kool-Aid back into the store. At that point he grabbed her by the arms and walked her back into the store where she began to struggle.

At that point Canton Police arrived and arrested the 35-year-old Detroit woman.

Golf club theft

A resident of the 1300 block of Rand Road said golf clubs were stolen from his garage sometime Sunday evening.

He said he saw them about 5:30 p.m. Sunday, then closed the garage door around 8 p.m. When he entered the garage about 9 a.m. Monday morning, he noticed the clubs were missing.

CD lifted

A security guard at Meijer observed a man select an Eminem CD and a set of headphones Monday evening, then go into the men's clothing section where he stuffed them in his pants.

He stopped at a checkout station, paid for a candy bar and left the store. The security guard confronted him and recovered the items. Police were called and the man was issued a ticket for shoplifting.

Door damaged

A resident of the 39700 block of Coronation told police she left for work at 6 a.m. Monday and when she got home about 5 p.m. her garage door was damaged.

According to police reports the door was off the track and the south side of the door was about a foot off the ground. The bottom of the door had a large dent in it. Nothing appeared to be missing.

Tire slashed

A resident of the 7300 block of Admiralty Drive told police he came outside about 10 a.m. Monday and noticed the right rear tire on his 1989 Nissan Sentra was flat.

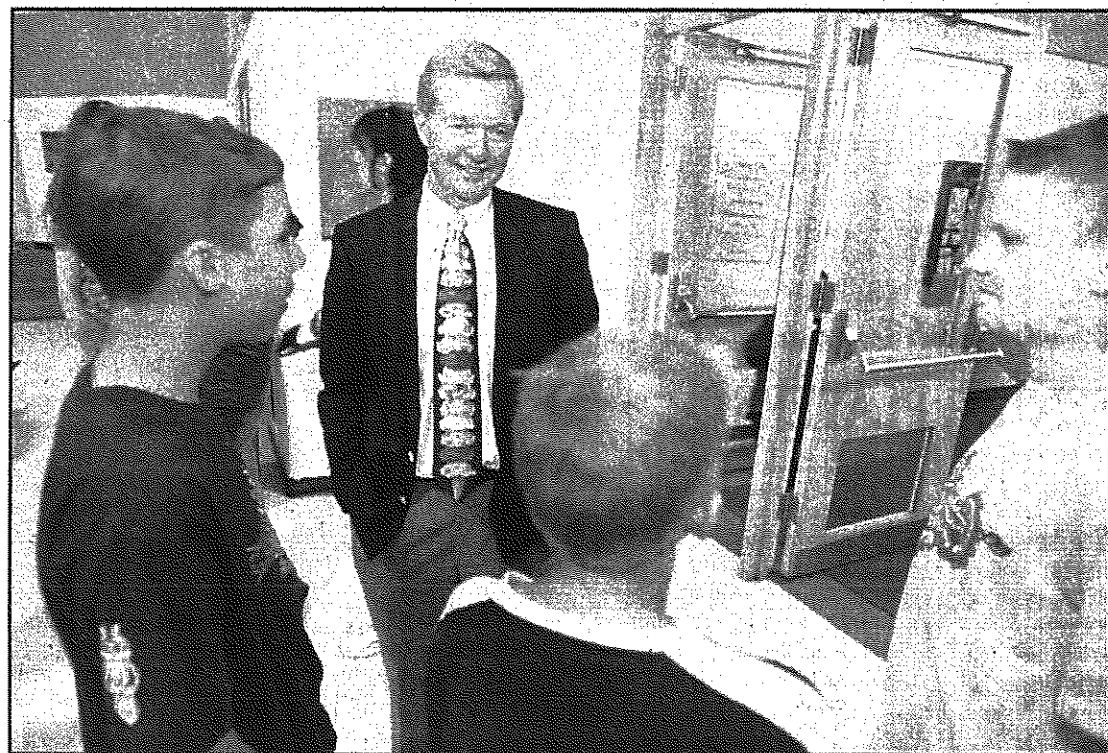

He said he thought the tire might have been slashed since another tire had been slashed on May 5. The car was parked on the street.

Plymouth-Canton students help establish Lincoln exhibit

"A child is a person who is going to carry on what you have started ... the fate of humanity is in his hands."

— Abraham Lincoln

Just as school children joined together in 1885 to help pay for the Statue of Liberty's pedestal, each of the Plymouth-Canton students listed below have "linked up with Lincoln" by donating more than $3,700 to help pay for the lifelike models of Abraham and Mary Todd Lincoln now permanently installed in the Lincoln Room at the Plymouth Historical Museum.

The students studied Lincoln as a model of good character and a true American hero during the months of January and February. The project, titled "Link Up with Lincoln," kicked off with a visit from Lincoln himself, as portrayed by Fred Prieb of the Michigan Council for the Arts.

Many of the students' names were published in the May 26 issue of the Plymouth Observer. The rest are provided here:

Wanted: Rouge cleanup volunteers at local sites

If you want to get your hands dirty and your boots wet, the Friends of the Rouge is looking for you.

Volunteers are being sought for this year's Rouge

Rescue/River Day cleanup, scheduled for Saturday, June 1.

Twenty-three work sites have been chosen throughout the Rouge watershed with projects ranging from river cleanups to storm drain stenciling.

Canton residents who want to take part in the project can register promptly at 8 a.m. June 1 in the parking lot behind the Administration Building, 1150 Canton Center Road. The project will take place, rain or shine, from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Volunteers can choose from three different activities: river cleaning/log jam removal, storm drain stenciling or bird house building (for ages 12 and under). T-shirts, a continental breakfast and lunch will be provided. Volunteers should come dressed for the weather and should wear long sleeved shirts, jeans and boots. Insect repellent is also recommended.

In Canton River Day is sponsored by Canton Township, with donations from the Western Townships Utilities Authority, Friends of the Rouge, Wade Trim and Yazaki North America.

Residents, students, scout troops, families, churches or just anyone wishing to help restore the Rouge to a pristine state are being invited to participate.

Thousands of volunteers have taken part in the annual project, held on the first Saturday in June, since it began in 1986.

For more information on the Canton project, call the Public Works Division at (734) 394-5150. The local coordinator, Bob Belair, can be reached at (734) 394-5154 or by e-mail to Bob.Belair@canton-mi.org.

In addition to the Canton cleanup, other similar activities will be taking place in Farmington Hills, Livonia, Plymouth Township, Redford Township, Westland and other locations in Wayne and Oakland counties.

For information on activities at other sites, contact Carolyn Foster at (313) 792-9627.

Friends of the Rouge is a non-profit organization dedicated to restoration and stewardship of the Rouge River ecosystem.

Physical Therapy UPDATE

Presented by Hands On Center For Physical Therapy
EXERCISE FOR BACK PAIN

Whatever the cause of your low-back pain, exercise is likely to be part of the solution. If the pain is minor, a simple exercise routine may be sufficient. However, you are generally best off with a program tailored to your particular problem, and that usually calls for the guidance of a physical therapist. You need to do not only exercises that stretch and strengthen weak back muscles, but also those that strengthen the abdominal muscles, such as sit-ups or crunches, since abdominals help support the back. You should also do exercises that keep your hamstring muscles (at the back of the thighs) flexible, as tight hamstrings often play a role in low-back pain, as do tight hip flexors. Back pain is a fairly generic term for a wide range of conditions depending upon the type and location of the pain. One factor which increases the difficulty of acquiring effective treatment is the fact that many physicians don't have the necessary equipment or expertise to correctly diagnose and treat back pain. If you are experiencing pain or stiffness, request a referral to the HANDS ON CENTER FOR PHYSICAL THERAPY. You'll find our facilities located in Plymouth, at 470 Forest Avenue, Suite 20. For more information, call 455-8370. Evening hours available.

Josh White Jr's performance in his whirlwind tour of Plymouth-Canton middle schools is any indication, the students at West and Pioneer are in for a treat the next couple of weeks.

White, who uses his music to spread his message of acceptance of diversity, is three-fifths of the way through his tour of local middle schools, with West (May 30) and Pioneer (May 31) left to go.

The concerts by White, 61, are being sponsored through a partnership between the Plymouth Community Arts Council, state and local arts agencies, local businesses and the local school district.

So far, he's been a hit.

"It was an outstanding opportunity for our children to hear about the personal experiences of his father, who grew up in the south," said Marcia Porterfield, principal at Central Middle School. "He's an excellent musician, and it was just a great learning experience for our kids."

White's message is a strong social one, aimed at getting youngsters to understand and accept each other. He talks about embracing diversity and being a social activist through his music.

During his appearance at East Middle School, White spent time in social studies classrooms. He'll also visit four classrooms during his visit to West Middle School Thursday.

"He likes to spend time with kids in a classroom setting," Tobin said. "Then they end the day with a huge concert. It's really been a super experience."

White will perform in a Ground Zero Tribute in New York June 7, and will be back in Plymouth for a Music in the Park series performance July 3.

"He's an amazing guy," said Jennifer Tobin, executive director of the PUC. "He had 800 middle schoolers (at Central) in the palm of his hand. Kids that age usually won't pay any attention to an adult, but these kids were singing and clapping and putting their arms around each other."

White will make his final appearance at Pioneer Middle School from 8:30 a.m.-3 p.m. Friday, May 31.

More information on Josh White Jr. can be found at his Web site, www.joshwhitejr.com.

Memorial

Bruce Patterson, (R-Canton), State Sen. Thaddeus McCotter, (R-Livonia) and Plymouth Township Supervisor Steve Mann were among the dignitaries on the dais.

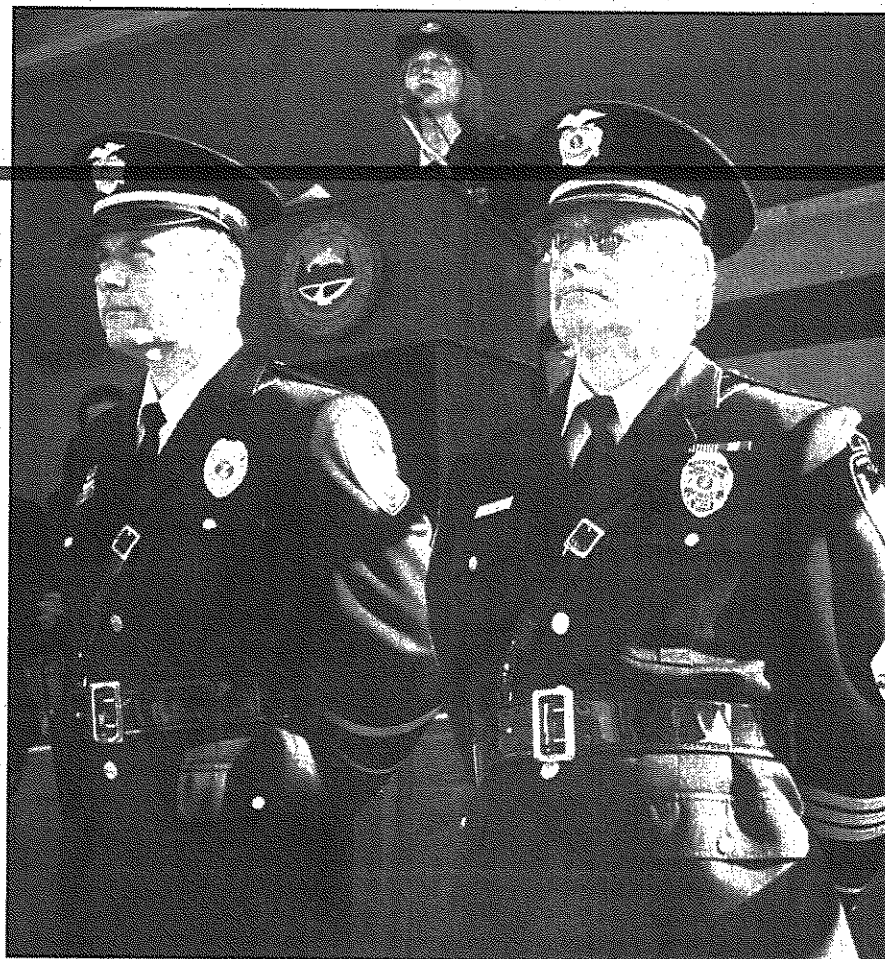

Brig. Gen. Carole Fausone, the first woman to be promoted that high in the Michigan Air National Guard, was the guest speaker, and urged Americans to pay homage to their military members more than just once a year.

"Memorial Day is the one day we set aside to honor them, but we owe them a debt of gratitude every day of the year," Fausone, a Canton resident, said.

Fausone centered her remarks around the aftermath of the terrorist attacks of Sept. 11, pointing to the envy the United States engenders with its freedom.

"For some, this envy turns to hate so strong that, on that day, they took the lives of thousands of Americans," Fausone said. "They destroyed families and made rubble of two towers that were symbolic of America."

"This is a day to stop, to remember, and to never forget."

Life-saving defibrillator placed at Cultural Center

BY TONY BRUSCATO
STAFF WRITER
tbruscato@oe.homecomm.net

The Plymouth Cultural Center and Northridge Church in Plymouth Township now have life-saving defibrillators on hand for medical emergencies, the result of donations from Huron Valley Ambulance.

According to Dale Berry, chief executive officer of Huron Valley Ambulance, the two locations were among nine given defibrillators because of the large numbers of people who gather at the facilities for a variety of events.

"They felt that because of the nature and number of activities we have in this facility we were prime candidates," said Mark Hammar, the city's recreation facilities manager.

Hammar points to the hundreds of hockey players who use the Cultural Center that could suffer blunt force injuries, and the high-risk population in the senior exercise program, as specific reasons for wanting a defibrillator nearby.

"If you're trying to be a full service facility, with a hockey rink and meeting rooms with different population demographics, this is another added benefit for us and our patrons," he said.

HVA will also provide both

CPR and defibrillator training for city employees and church representatives.

"The whole key is the time that someone goes down with no pulse," said Hammar. "Time is of the essence to get the patches hooked up, get the victim on the analyzer and hit the shock button to try and get the heart going again. While we're doing that, HVA is on its way."

Northridge Church was selected because of its 5,000 parishioners, as well as the thousands of people who attend special events at the church.

Scouts honored

Recognized: Natalie Anderson-Theison (from left), Elaine Burns and Marcia Lizzio, all of Canton, were honored by the Girl Scouts of the Huron Valley Council for their volunteer work with the organization. Anderson-Theison received the Outstanding Volunteer Award.

Q&A

Q: What is Chimborazo Day?

A: Chimborazo Day is Monday, June 3. A day to bring the shape of the earth into focus by publicizing the fact that Mount Chimborazo, Ecuador, near the equator, pokes farther out into space than any other mountain on earth, including Mount Everest. The distance from sea level at the equator to the center of the earth is 13 miles greater than the radius to sea level at the north pole. This means that New Orleans is about six miles further from the center of the earth than is Lake Itasca at the headwaters of the Mississippi, that means the Mississippi flows uphill!

affect more employees, and perhaps students, in more ways that are more noticeable than the $950,000 we were able to generate," Booher said. Those areas, mentioned during the meeting, could include athletics, transportation and curriculum.

Among the cuts already on the table are a reduction of four elementary teaching positions and a middle school teacher, $250,000; the district's allocation of funds for field trip transportation, $90,000; athletic expenditures, $65,000; and general budget reductions, $50,000.

Trustee Judy Mardigian said taking the additional money out of the district's fund equity would give the district time, but she would rather find the additional cuts immediately.

"Taking the steps now will be a lot less painful than doing them after school is open," she said.

Mardigian, who proposed the administration look for an additional million dollars in cuts, said the $400,000 for a new elementary and middle school language arts program might be a place to start, as well as selling old school buses.

"I don't have all the answers, but I'd like to challenge the administration to go back and take a look at it, with the proviso that we don't look at classroom teachers first, that we do pretty much whatever else we can."

Booher made it clear she doesn't favor cutting the language arts program, but didn't count it out as one of the future recommendations.

"It would be very unfortunate to target a new curriculum development, particularly one that is the basic literacy for education," she said. "So, I think we're definitely going to have to look at what the other options are. And, because they get into such strong philosophy about what the public school is able to provide or should provide, they will be very difficult topics for the board."

The Board of Education will have to make some quick decisions because, as required by law, next year's budget needs to be passed by June 30.

Watering restrictions

It's that time of year again.

Even with the relatively cold, wet spring, voluntary restrictions on outdoor water use are in place for Canton residents.

The City of Detroit Water and Sewerage Department has requested that people serviced by the Detroit water system (most southeastern Michigan residents) go to the odd-even system for outdoor watering through Labor Day.

Residents with odd-numbered addresses are asked to do outdoor watering only on odd dates. Those with even-numbered addresses should water lawns, fill swimming pools, wash cars and do other outdoor watering on even dates.

Young writer

Claudia Arisso, 8, of Canton will be honored May 29 at Detroit Public Television for her story, Fairy Dance, which received an honorable mention in Channel 56's Reading Rainbow Young Writers and Illustrators Awards competition.

Detroit Public Television received more than 500 entries, which were judged by local education, librarians and media representatives. The contest, staged for an eighth year in conjunction with the long-running Reading Rainbow series, seen weekdays at 1:30 p.m., is designed to encourage children's creativity. Reading Rainbow is presented as part of Detroit Public Television's "Ready to Learn" children's programming.

Rotary scholarships

Four Plymouth-Canton students will share $9,500 in scholarship money from the Plymouth Rotary Club.

Angela Florn of Plymouth Salem High School and Thomas Morbitzer of Canton High School will get a $4,000 scholarship, while Tanya Hadad and Michael McDonald, both from Salem High School, will get a one-time $750 award.

"I'm pleased to announce the winners as they represent the finest traditions for Memorial Scholarship winners, representing the Rotary ideal of 'Service Above Self,'" said Dr. Habib Zubed, the club's Memorial Scholarship chairman. Funding for the scholarships comes from the club's annual Chicken Barbecue during the Fall Festival, and from the club's Spring Rotary Golf Classic event. In addition, there are several donations from present and former club members.

"Former club members Arthur Haar and Walter Panse were instrumental in establishing the various Rotary Scholarship programs through very sizable contributions through their estates," Rotary President Paul Sincok said.

Mayflower descendant

Canton resident Robert Sanborn has joined the Society of Mayflower Descendants in Michigan by successfully tracing his ancestry to Mayflower passenger William Bradford, who arrived in the harbor near Plymouth, Mass. on the Mayflower in 1620. The Michigan society, formed in 1901, helps preserve the records and memories of people who made the initial voyage to America.

MSP promotion

DeWayne Brantley of Canton has been promoted by the Michigan State Police to captain and Second District commander in the Southeast Criminal Investigation Division.

Capt. Brantley is responsible for operations at the Detroit, Groveland, Metro North, Metro South, Monroe, Northville, Richmond and Ypsilanti posts. He has been a Michigan State Police trooper since 1977.

Business briefs

A number of local residents have received promotions or been recognized for workplace achievements. They include:

■ Erin and Mike Torres, were recently named as one of the top Tupperware recruiting managers in the region.

■ Ramakrishna (Rama) Pochiraju of Canton has received his professional engineering license from the state of Michigan. Pochiraju is employed by Orchard, Hiltz and McCliment, Inc.

Children's Choirs belt out a song during their "I Hear America Singing" concert Wednesday night.

Choir debuts 9-11 tribute

They came, they saw, they sang.

More than 180 voices of the Our Lady of Good Counsel Children's Choirs got together Wednesday with the University of Detroit Jesuit School Boys Choir and local Academy Award winner Pamela Conn for a tribute concert at OLGC.

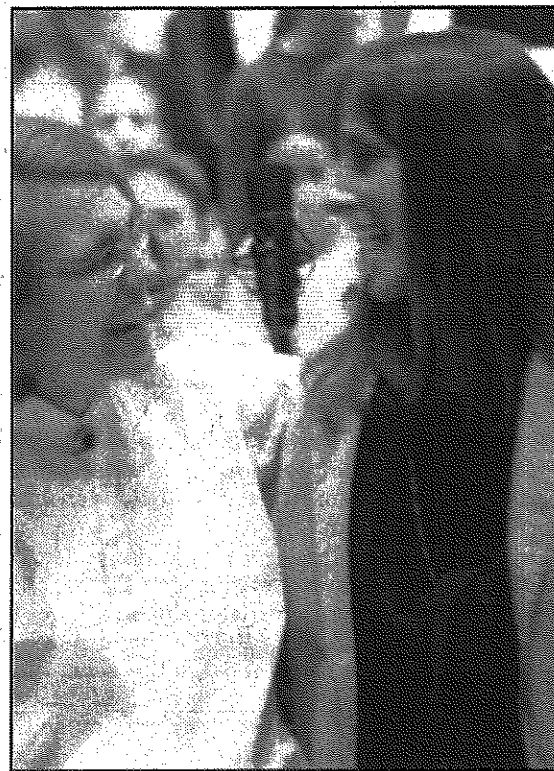

Conn, a Plymouth native, composed a new piece in response to the Sept. 11 tragedies, and it got its debut at Wednesday's concert. The piece, titled Children of the Earth, featured arrangement by Mark Radeke and percussionist Chris Fricke.

"It was a thrill to hear the music come to life with the voices for whom it was written, right here in our hometown," Conn said.

The U-D Jesuit Boys Choir, under the direction of Cindy Stimpfen, joined the Counselor's Youth Chorale (and alumni) and the Junior and Senior Singers in selections by Z.

Randall Stroope, George Cohen, Irving Berlin, James Mulholland and other composers.

State Rep. John Stewart, (R-Plymouth Township), led the ensemble in a rendition of God Bless America.

Students operate East credit union

Community Federal Credit Union recently opened its first student credit union for middle schoolers at East Middle School in Plymouth. A grand opening ceremony was held at the student-run credit union during the April 14-20 celebration of National Credit Union Youth Week.

Eleven seventh-grade students from East Middle School's Life Management class are employees of the school credit union.

"The credit union has brought reality to my students," said Danielle Wren, Life Management teacher and program coordinator. "Our curriculum covers employability, money management and personal finance — all topics that directly relate to the credit union operation."

Community Federal started its student credit union program for elementary schools in 1990 through a business partnership with the Northville School District.

"We are excited to extend our program from the elementary level to middle school as a way to continue to support our members with their financial education," said Natalie McLaughlin, CFCU's business partnership coordinator. In addition to East Middle School, Community Federal's program now includes eight elementary schools with 180 student employees and nearly 800 savings accounts, McLaughlin pointed out.

The partnership objectives encourage the practical use of math skills, developing career awareness and employability skills along with increasing students' knowledge of transactions and the uses of technology within the financial services industry.

Virgil Cagle, 47, of Detroit were taken into custody without incident. They were later charged with felony larceny and obstructing police and misdemeanor larceny respectively.

When an officer asked Moffitt and another suspect, Joseph Respondek, 43, of Detroit for identification, Moffitt, who was driving the truck, accelerated and struck the officer. The truck then headed east on Cherry Hill with police in pursuit. The chase continued east on Cherry Hill at speeds of 35 to 60 miles per hour until the crash at Venoy.

Respondek was later charged with felony larceny and obstructing police.

Duggan called the plea agreement with Moffitt "an excellent result ... a really important message."

"Had Moffitt pulled over when police tried to stop him, he probably would have been convicted of stealing shingles and gotten probation," Duggan said. "If you choose to flee a police officer at high speed, you run the risk. I'm not going to blame the cops. The fault is with the criminal who is fleeing and after this sentence, there shouldn't be any question of that."

Duggan said shortly after the original crash that he supported the police decision to pursue. He said if the police had simply let Moffitt drive away, he could just as likely have tried to rob a convenience store and shot the clerk.

"Then you'd be asking why your police left them get away," he said then.

Canton Public Safety Director John Santomauro credited Duggan with taking tough stance in this case.

"His issuance of a criminal warrant in this case sends a very clear message," he said, "that in Wayne County, vehicle pursuits will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law."

Moffitt's attorney, Marc Hart of Royal Oak, was in court Wednesday and was not available for comment at press time.

■ A request by Public Safety Director John Santomauro to purchase a new Fire Safety House was also approved.

The new safety house would replace the existing one that the department bought in 1991.

"This particular trailer has served its usefulness," Santomauro told the board.

The Fire Safety House is used to simulate actual fire conditions, allowing children to learn about fire safety in a controlled environment.

"It's the central point of our fire prevention program," Santomauro said. "Because it's mobile we are able to take it to a lot of different places."

He said the safety house is used extensively for neighborhood block parties during warm months and that more than 3,000 people use it every year.

The new house will be purchased from Mobile Concepts by Scotty Inc. of Mount Pleasant, Pa., at a cost of $36,639 including graphics. The old Fire Safety House will be sold at a sealed bid.

■ The board also authorized the Department of Public Safety to enforce traffic regulations on private property at the Super Kmart on Ford Road.

The action was the result of a request from Super Kmart that Canton Police "issue citations to all parked non-customer related vehicles on the lot with particular emphasis on 'semis.'"

CHAIRMAN OF THE BOARD

Our fundamental purposes are to enhance the lives of our readers, nurture the hometowns we serve and contribute to the business success of our customers.

If park is still a big deal, public sessions are too

We remember the uproar last December as dozens of residents descended on the Canton Township Board to protest plans for a water park at Ford and Ridge roads. So too, no doubt, do township trustees. The outcry was loud and strong enough to scuttle the project, which originally garnered support from Supervisor Tom Yack and other board members.

But the board's hasty retreat left a quandary. What should be done with 120 acres of township-owned land? And how should neighbors and other residents be involved in its development to avoid last year's controversy and bruised feelings?

Township officials came up with a good solution. A series of three public workshops was scheduled for this spring. About 10 residents showed up at the first session on May 8. We'd hardly call that a tidal wave of interest.

True, no vote was imminent and this was just the initial foray into public participation. Still, you'd think all the concerns about traffic, noise, "outsiders" discovering a good time in Canton would have generated a little more concern for the site's future.

If recent letters to the editor are any kind of barometer, we know the concern is out there.

Canton Leisure Services Director Ann Conklin said she was disappointed with the turnout, but not the process and several people who did show were appreciative of the chance to have input. "It's a great way to get ideas that might be overlooked if the (township staff) just went with their own ideas," said attendee Tom Borg.

Resident input ranged from pleas to keep the park natural, to athletic fields, to a scaled-back water park. Some people suggested a combination of uses.

There will be two more chances to discuss development options. They are 9 a.m. Saturday and 7 p.m. June 13, both at the Summit. Interested participants are asked to call Kristie Smith, (734) 394-5463 and leave your name, phone number and which session you'll attend.

It will be interesting to see how many people attend. While the water park idea was eventually dropped, the Observer believes the forums offer a better opportunity to be heard than waiting until the board is poised to approve plans for the site.

Voters best served with Horvath, Lamar, Staley

Over the next few weeks, voters have an opportunity to help shape the future of the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools district. With three open school board seats, 11 candidates and basic differences in philosophy between some and the current administration, the electorate's role looms large.

The Observer has previously endorsed Mark Horvath and Joanne Lamar for four-year terms on the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education; and Marcy Staley for election to the unexpired one-year term she was appointed to last fall. We reiterate those choices today and remind those going to the polls on June 10, as well as those voting by absentee ballot, of our reasons behind them.

Horvath, 43, of Canton, is a former school board president who decided not to seek re-election four years ago. He will bring knowledge and experience – as well as a much needed critical eye – to the board. Horvath has pledged to open up communication between the board, Superintendent Kathleen Booher's administration and the public. Horvath is sincere in his belief that the district has moved off track in several key areas, including keeping the Talented and Gifted Program in magnet school form and pressing for smaller elementary class sizes.

We believe he will advocate these positions with a strong, yet reasonable style that encourages civil debate at the board table.

Lamar, 51, of Plymouth Township offers the board the perspective of a parent who has seen two children make their way through the entire K-12 experience. We like her open approach to problem-solving. She is willing to listen to all sides and doesn't believe board members or administrators always have all the answers.

Staley, a 45-year-old Canton resident, has turned in a solid performance since her appointment to fill the vacancy created when trustee Steve Guile moved out of the district. We support her election to the remaining year of his term and encourage her to be a more frequent participant in public discussions, as well as behind the scenes.

River volunteers are making a difference

Saturday is River Day.

It was 16 years ago that volunteers first gathered to clean up the Rouge River. The river was polluted with chemicals and blocked with debris. Volunteers dressed in waders and long rubber gloves climbed in to drag everything from tree branches to automobiles from the sluggish brown water.

Every year since, the Friends of the Rouge has gathered volunteers in Wayne and Oakland counties to work at making the Rouge a healthy waterway. The concept has expanded to take in the Huron and Clinton rivers in what has become an annual celebration of our vital water system.

Recent concerns about attempts to channel Great Lakes water to distant locations and the harvesting of Michigan ground water by Perrier, have made us more aware of just how important our water system is.

The Rouge, Huron and Clinton rivers have been the lifeblood of our industrial development but they are also important for recreational use and for sustaining plant and animal wildlife.

This year, an estimated 1,600 volunteers will participate at 24 sites along the Rouge in Wayne and Oakland counties. The success in clearing out the river has shifted the focus for some areas to other projects such as streambank stabilization and the introduction of native plants along the river. In recent years some non-native plants such as the beautiful but strangling purple loosestrife have taken over the area. Volunteers will be removing these invaders and replacing them with native plants.

Other programs planned for this year include bird house building, storm drain stenciling, parkside clean up and environmental education programs.

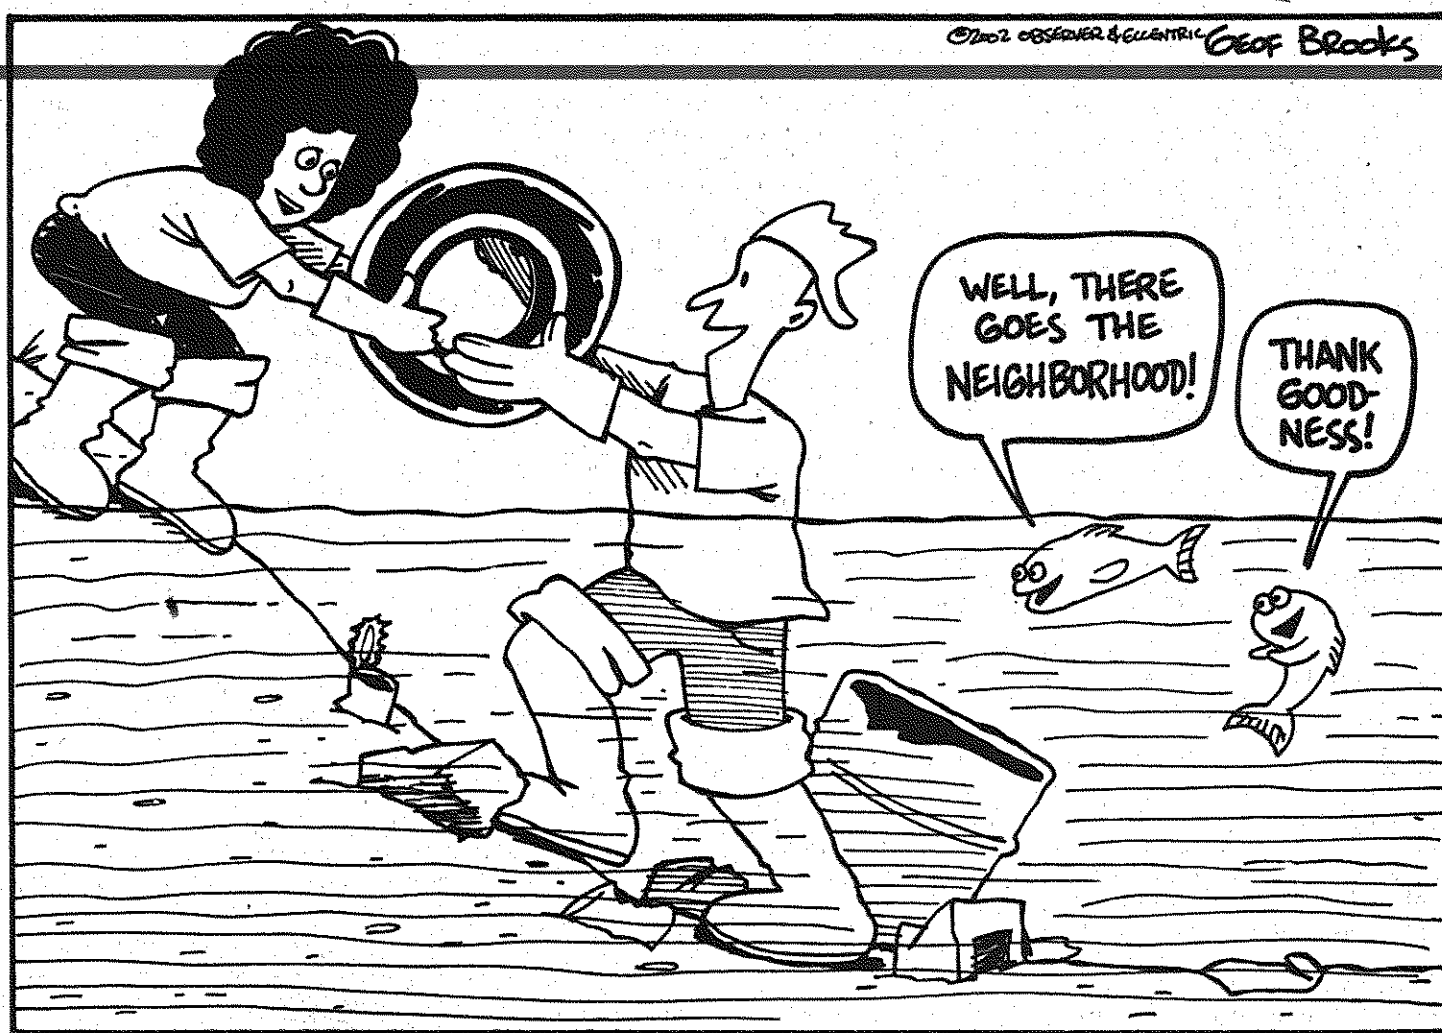

Volunteer work and government programs have helped turn the fortunes of the Rouge around. Once regarded as one of the nation's most polluted river systems, the Rouge has shown dramatic improvement in water quality and the ability to sustain fish and wildlife.

More than 50 miles of the Rouge flows through public parklands, making it one of the most accessible rivers in the country.

"It seems every year, more communities are getting involved and trying to encourage as many volunteers as possible to come out and clean up the Rouge," said Carolyn Foster, managing director of Friends of the Rouge. "The communities are recognizing the Rouge does have problems, and it needs our help."

We have long supported these efforts and urge everyone to take some time on River Day to either volunteer or at least take some time to consider how important these rivers are to the health of our communities.

Happy River Day!

ROUGE RIVER CLEAN-UP, JUNE 1

■ Heartless policy

It's about good PR. It's about building relationships with your customers to keep them coming back. Or is it?

Is it more about wiping out the small business competition and making profit? How have we become so dependent on "chains" that we are willing to be greeted by strangers following "policy" rather than supporting businesses who practice the "Golden Rule?"

The CVS store chain gives a bad wrap to other corporate run convenience stores. They are popping up two and three at a time all over areas falling under the same zip codes while smaller private stores lose profit, business and potential customers. I can count three in only one of the Canton Township zip codes.

With their wide variety of items I too have been tempted to pay outrageous prices as a matter of convenience, to endure robotic customer care and the different faces of high employee turnover. Although I am but one customer, rest-assured I will not be tempted to support the chain again.

It wasn't until the evening of May 14, that something even more bothersome happened to me at a CVS store in Canton. Not until my encounters with managers at multiple local party stores, grocery chains and food chains was the difference, in comparison, so obvious and cold.

My concern began when somebody's lost (de-clawed) house cat had begun hanging around my mother's yard. He is a sweet fellow, obviously old, and I took him in as a foster cat to keep him safe until I could locate his owners. Because of his age, and his being de-clawed, I imagine his family has been worried sick or even given up hope. One does not have to be a cat lover to understand the desperate, hopeless feelings of another human being – your neighbor, your parent, your sibling – at the loss of a very beloved friend.

The CVS store in Canton (Palmer and Haggerty), in the same area the cat was found, refused to allow a single 8-by-11-inch flyer to be left at the store where neighbors, who, like many, frequent the store as regular customers and might help me successfully place this cat back into his home. While policies and procedures are a necessity for any business, CVS was the only chain that refused to allow me to leave a single flyer. Even more ridiculous was the excited lecture by the store manager stating they prohibited soliciting and, further, that, should he let me leave a flyer, "Who knows what's next?... Who knows what this would open the door too?"

Indeed, where would such a moral deed lead this prospering company? What would this allowance bring next? Lost dogs? Or, God forbid, lost children? My request is hardly the equivalent of peddling a product or service. I am merely trying to help someone, still unknown, in my community reunite with their pet. In the same suburban community that supports this CVS chain.

As stated, in comparison to chains with the same policy, the manager's decision stood out like a sore thumb against the others. Not only was it was cold, it was a failure on CVS's part to give back to the very community that funds its prosperity.

I am, in fact, an animal lover and have pets of my own, which is what ultimately leads me on my mission to find "Mr. Kitty's" owners. It was more heartbreaking than anything though, with CVS being in the same neighborhood the feline was found, that they would refuse to support this obligation to our neighbors to show compassion and have a heart.

What has CVS done for us lately?

■ Survey misleading

I read with interest your article on the Kansas firm of Morgan Quitno and its ranking of the Charter Township of Canton as 14th safest community over 75,000 in the country (Canton rates high on safety, Observer, May 16).

First of all, Morgan Quitno has Canton listed as a city, a status that the local Charter Township Council cringes from with fiscal fear.

Canton Public Safety Directory John Santomauro was reported as being happy while he handed out the "survey" to the reporters. I wonder how much the Charter Township of Canton was charged to house this "survey" in its library, as the main income from Morgan Quitno is apparently derived from selling the survey to local libraries. It must be very satisfying for the Charter Township Council to know that their library dollars have gone a long way in statistically recording crime or the lack thereof. There are no statistics available on the majority of real cities and towns in the United States that were not included in the "survey."

A short time ago a boy was killed on Warren road by a drunk driver. The roadway is improperly painted. It will not be corrected according to local officials because there is a sign stating "Do Not Pass." That mess won't appear in the statistics.

Last year several complaints were received by the local public safety department that when calls were made to 9-1-1, the operator did not respond correctly and refused to send a car because "they had too many false alarms." The Public Safety Department made public the fact that people would be ticketed if they called in a false alarm. A "false alarm" includes a police officer going to a location, finding evidence of forced entry – but no criminal. No person – no crime. That information is not reflected in the survey.

Mr. Quitno is just one of the editors of Morgan Quitno Press, the publishing house that collects the statistics, compiles them, publishes them, markets them and sells them for cash. According to their own "formula," it goes like this: They choose six crimes, then they weight them, then the weighted numbers are plugged into a formula that reportedly measures how a particular city or metro area compared to the national average for a given crime category. The outcome of this equation was then multiplied by a weight assigned to each of the six crime categories.

Mr. Quitno used to work for Mr. Dole, the ex-Senator of Kansas, but that apparently didn't work out. He then had a stint working in politics for the Kansas governor, but apparently that didn't work out either. Finally, he went into private law practice, where, and I quote, "After a brief and highly unpleasant experience in private law practice in Kansas City he has devoted full time to Morgan Quitno Press."

In other words, Mr. Quitno is now working full time at Morgan Quitno Press because his regular job didn't work out. He has a very good business selling good news to people willing to pay for it.

Lastly, it may be that there are more arrests in Detroit because when you call 9-1-1 in Detroit, the police are alerted and they come to Serve and Protect as the real heroes that they are.

■ Day of prayer

This month many of us celebrated our National Day of Prayer. Twenty thousand Christians meeting in Chattanooga, Tenn., checked their denominational differences at the gate and joined in prayer. It was quite a contrast from what one could experience in the Middle East.

I was reminded of my experience in the Philippines during World War II when several of us G.I.s met under a tent, sitting on the ground and tree stumps, met in prayer with an Army cleric, denomination not remembered. We were Methodists, Baptists, Catholics; we represented religions not known to each other.

No one thought to ask and no one cared. We were concerned with the war's outcome and our immediate safety.

The Arafats of the world do make it difficult. The present Palestinian reality is the latest attempt to set men apart.

■ A proud 'pagan'

Bravo to Janusz M. Szyszko for taking a stand against organized religion ("Dangerous thinking," Canton Observer, Letters, May 16).

I am proud to be a pagan, as defined by Mr. Szyszko: "someone not associated with any of the major religions, a kind of secular humanist" – and I fully agree that religion is largely to blame for many of the world's most pressing problems.

I find it quite terrifying that in this modern age of enlightenment, so many people refuse to question their beliefs, even when those beliefs lead to death and destruction. I hope it is true that there is "a new paganism arising in our midst" – but as long as our society continues to encourage its members to delude themselves with fantastic myths about an old bearded guy in the sky, and discourage them from exercising their brain cells with rational thinking, I don't hold out too much hope for the future.

■ Vote for change

Over the past few months, as I have watched the actions of the Plymouth-Canton school board, it has become apparent that it is time for a change. A number of things have happened that have led me to this conclusion. However, one instance in particular demonstrates this need best. The board has actually considered censoring themselves – i.e. no question could be asked unless a majority of the board agreed. So much for democratic process.

For this reason I am urging everyone to support candidates who are willing to change this attitude. My endorsement is firmly for Mark Horvath and Debrah Madonna. After having discussions with them, I believe they represent the district's best chance in righting a ship that has definitely gone off course.

■ For Horvath

I am writing to urge readers to vote for Mark Horvath in the June 10 Plymouth-Canton school board election.

I have worked with Mark actively on issues when he was board president, most often with his participation in the Michigan Citizens for School Funding Equity Committee, where he tirelessly gave of his time organizing and supporting the planning of our very first Summit under the leadership of Mark Slavens. This summit was a huge success and Mark's contributions to this group enhanced its success. Mark is fully aware of the complicated funding issues that Proposal A has made our district suffer and will move forward to address these issues along with our legislators and other board members.

Because of Mark's vast experience with the district and on the board, there will be no learning curve or transitional orientation necessary to quickly address our complicated fiscal issues.

Under Kathleen Booher's able leadership and the reported wondrous overhaul of district finances by Patricia Brand, I believe Mark's input will be a positive contribution to a board with sophisticated decisions to make.

Mark will be diligent in ensuring that initiatives in the district are balanced and represent a variety of stakeholders. I personally am most excited that he could be a positive contributor to the implementation of the High School Renewal project, ensuring that a measurable win/win can be exacted exploiting the obvious pluses of our larger high school environment, but also optimizing inclusiveness, opportunity, a sense of assimilation and push toward academic excellence for all brands of individual high school kids.

Mark has a Masters Degree in Statistics and like the past, he can assist the district in seeking measureable outcomes for its worthy initiatives, so that their obvious successes and future improvements can be judged by any standard.

He has guaranteed me that he will seek to accomplish this, if elected.

A vote for Mark is not a vote against the activities of this district. Dr. Booher and the board have accomplished much in recent months, and the district's financial overhaul has made tough decisions easier given a clearer financial picture. However, electing Mark to the board will force all contributors to be part of solutions, not additional problems, and also ensure that broad perspective is considered in each decision.

Unlike many who are fearful of moving the TAG program from a magnet school format, I personally think the district owes all kids and opportunity to meet heightened expectations and seek excellence wherever students are. For this reason, I think Dr. Booher should move along as she has, and with guts, to broaden opportunities for the so-called TAG curriculum, perhaps offering it as a "TAG-ALONG" program to those who wish to try.

If there were any measure I would see enacted in the district in the next four years it would be seeing a concerted effort to bring the "B" students back up to the "A's" they received in elementary school. Challenging curriculum, coupled with expectation and personal attention for all students will accomplish this and further enhance our reputation as a competitive school district. I do not know if Mark Horvath and I agree on the status and future of the TAG program, but I do know this: Mark will listen to my opinion even if it differs from his own, and see what win/win can be achieved. Knowing that I can bank on this, if not anything else, I will myself be going to the polls and pushing the lever or computer screen in favor of Mark Horvath. I hope all of your readers will do the same.

■ Thanks

The Wayne Memorial High School staff and students would like to thank the following businesses for their generous gifts. The Wayne Dairy Queen, Palmer & Wayne McDonald's, Central City Red Robin, Central City Applebee's, Westland Red Lobster, and Toarmina's Pizza made generous donations during this year's M.E.A.P. testing program. The donations from these establishments were used to reward students for their perfect attendance during the M.E.A.P. testing. Their contribution was an important incentive for our students.

The assistance of the parents and support from these establishments help enable Wayne Memorial to accomplish far more than it otherwise could. The businesses that contributed are especially valued in bringing the schools and community together. On behalf of the parents, students, and administration. I would like to thank you again.

Last week the Board of Education began putting its final stamp of approval on a new set of policies that will change the board's governance activities. The series of four policies are Organizational Purpose (series 1000), Executive Limitations (series 2000), Board/Staff Relationships (series 3000) and Board Governance (series 4000).

During this school year the board will put all these revised/new policies in place except for the Executive Limitations. Series 1000, 3000 and 4000 are expected to take effect July 1, 2002.

During the last meeting several of us voiced serious concerns about the probability that these policies, as written, contained violations of the Open Meetings Act and a board member's right to free speech. After much discussion, the board committed to fixing those sections that would have violated these fundamental rights.

There are, however, several parts of these policies that we should be concerned with. First, will the rewritten version of the policies, in fact, support the commitments made by the board? Only time will tell.

The Board Governance Policy was approved with changes and it does not have to come back to the board for a vote. Organizational Purpose and Board/Staff Relations will be given to the board to approve prior to the end of the school year.

Second, is there adequate board oversight to ensure the financial and operational integrity? Should oversight include both results and processes?

Quite frankly, we do not know because the policy on Executive Limitations is not done and probably will not be until well into the next school year. What we do know is that the board will only be measuring results, NOT processes.

All of us have seen processes that achieve results, but they are efficient, effective, legal, ethical and moral. Operational oversight means being cognizant of how things are going to be done and making sure they are efficient, effective, legal, ethical and moral.

We elected our board members to make sure they watch over the operation and the finances of our schools. IT IS THEIR JOB!! We did not elect the board to be a rubber stamp for the superintendent. The Michigan Association of School Boards says that among a school board's responsibilities is "to monitor and assess the district's performance."

How can you assess the efficiency and effectiveness of the district without looking at processes?

Third, none of the policies addresses the cold

Board should review policies to put them in proper context shoulder citizens get when they ask a question or raise an issue at a board meeting. All they have put into their policy is the same old stuff. "During this time (public participation at a board meeting), the board listens to comments from the public but does not engage in dialogue or render decisions. In general, such issues will be referred to the superintendent for handling as appropriate. The Superintendent shall advise the Board of the final disposition."

Fourth, does the new policy place too much power in the hands of the board president? Is there a clear definition of the president's role and responsibilities? Without clear guidelines and definition of the president's role and responsibility we just don't know.

By law, board members have equal power, voice and vote. The "Duties of Board President" is written without clarity and definition. For example, there is no definition of what it means to "have general charge of the affairs of the board." While policies are generally meant to be written broadly, this one requires clarity and definition to prevent an abuse of power.

In addition, the president is to be "recognized as the official spokesman for the board." There are no guidelines, definitions or roles and responsibilities outlined in this policy. In the past, board presidents have acted as facilitators and each board member has had the right and obligation to speak for the board on those issues and items that the board has either voted on or reached a consensus on.

At least once in the past 22 months the president has acted on his own to establish a board position. This part of the policy needs to provide the president with clear role, guidelines, definitions and specific responsibilities.

Last, should the board, before implementing any one of these policies, review and approve all the policies? My 35 years of business experience and my 17 years on the Board of Education tells me that you cannot adequately review and approve policies in a whole context without all the policies being reviewed at the same time.

When the policies that we are presently using were first put into place, we reviewed all of them at the same time to ensure there was a logical sequence to what we were trying to accomplish.

These policies have some very well-written sections. However, I would urge the Board of Education to take the time to finish writing all of them and then read them all in context. Implement these policies when they are all completed.

Rouge River project receives recognition

The American Academy of Environmental Engineers has awarded CDM the Superior Achievement Award for the Rouge River National Wet Weather Demonstration Project as part of the academy's 2002 Excellence in Environmental Engineering competition.

The restoration and rehabilitation plan began in 1992, addressing the more than 400-square-mile watershed. The project's main goals were to restore and protect water quality, control combined sewer overflows and other sources of pollution, and implement watershed management practices.

CDM assisted Wayne County throughout the project's duration with designing and establishing pollution abatement facilities, design criteria, and best management practices to restore the river's degraded water and animal habitats. Major reaches of the river that had not met water quality standards for dissolved oxygen for decades now do, and there are aesthetic improvements, recreational development and evidence of increased aquatic life.

Schoolcraft board approves Jeffress' performance

BY GREG MIGLIORE
STAFF WRITER
gmigliore@oe.homecomm.net

Schoolcraft College's board of trustees gave President Conway Jeffress a favorable evaluation and approved raises for two groups of staff at its meeting May 22.

The executive administration, which includes Schoolcraft's highest-ranking officials, was given a 2.5 percent raise in salary. Full- and part-time non-union support staff also got a 2.5 percent raise.

"The evaluation of the board was very complimentary," said Jeffress, who makes $130,000 per year.

The trustees said Jeffress, Schoolcraft's first-year president, has been very efficient. Jeffress replaced longtime Schoolcraft president Richard McDowell last year.

"The president's evaluation went extremely well," board

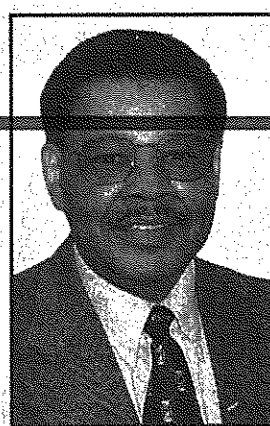

Chair Carol Strom said. "Board members were extremely pleased with his accomplishments."

"We're very pleased with the way the college has gone this year," Trustee Mary Breen said. "The transition was extremely smooth."

Jeffress will likely get a raise, although the board must vote on it and specific figures were not available. He said he thought his increase should be the same as the other groups.

"Philosophically, I think that's proper," Jeffress said.

Jill O'Sullivan, vice president of business and finance, said that the board gave the executive administration and non-union support staff raises to try to keep up with the cost of living.

Conway Jeffress

"I think it was a good decision on the board's part," she said.

Executive administrators make $65,134-$94,696 per year. The non-union support staff makes $26,125-$66,872 per year.

The board also discussed collective bargaining in closed session. Contracts with four of the college's unions end this summer.

"If there are no big crisis issues to talk about, that implies things will go smoothly," Jeffress said.

Steven Berg, who took over as president of the Faculty Forum May 3, said he expects smooth negotiations over the summer.

"I think that they're going to go well and I anticipate that will continue," he said. "We surveyed the faculty to find out what issues are important."

The Faculty Forum is Schoolcraft's largest union with more than 500 members. The college has not had a strike since the 1970s.

"We try to treat all employees equitably," O'Sullivan said.

In other action:

Architects Tom Mathison and Harry Diamond presented a preliminary report of possible renovations for the campus.

"There was a classroom crunch," Mathison said. "We wanted to make sure we had both short- and long-term needs identified."

The possible renovations would make the layout of campus buildings easier for students.

The cost would be more than $49 million. A final plan will be presented to the board in June.

"One of the issues is the prioritization of this," Jeffress said.

ARTISTIC EXPRESSIONS

LINDA ANN CHOMIN

On-line art auction offers chance to make a difference

The jagged line of the fence cuts like so many knives through the heart. In the background, an early morning mist sets a haunting tone. This is the battle ground in Gettysburg where 52,000 men lost their lives during the Civil War. Even if Brother Vincent Reyes had n't relayed the story behind the photograph he took, the image left me wondering about the eerie landscape. That's the power of photography. It captures the history of places and people, or simply a moment in time. In the case of Gettysburg, the black and white print documents the sacred ground, and it's why Reyes chose to donate it to an on-line auction of photographs to benefit the Capuchin Soup Kitchen in Detroit where he serves as pastoral director.

Sacred Ground: Brother Vincent Reyes took this photograph on the Gettysburg battle ground where 52,000 men lost their lives.

■ 'The first people touched by the project were photographers. They wanted to tell the story of what is sacred in the world and support the soup kitchen. They were touched by what their work would accomplish. That it would touch the lives of many thousands of people who make use of the soup kitchen. Everyone wants to feel that they've made some kind of imprint on the world.'

Brother Vincent Reyes
Pastoral director
Capuchin Soup Kitchen, Detroit

The Visions of the Sacred Web site, www.visionsofthesacred.org, features color and black and white images of men, women, children and nature that 45-photojournalists found sacred in the world. For a second year Reyes called on shooters he knows in the business to donate the photographs recently exhibited at Andiamo's in Bloomfield Hills. Reyes has called on all his connections in the community to make the auction a success. Last year, 7,000 people were fed with proceeds from the project.

"The first people touched by the project were photographers," said Reyes who's exhibited his photographs in the SnapOne Fine Arts shows in Novi and Livonia. "They wanted to tell the story of what is sacred in the world and support the soup kitchen. They were touched by what their work would accomplish. That it would touch the lives of many thousands of people who make use of the soup kitchen. Everyone wants to feel that they've made some kind of imprint on the world."

MUSIC UNDER THE Stars

OUTDOOR CONCERT SEASON UNDERWAY

Ah summer...time for picnics and playing outside, kicking back with music, watching the sun set and the stars come out.

You can do all that and more at southeastern Michigan's major outdoor concert venues: DTE Energy Music Theatre in Clarkston, Meadow Brook Music Festival in Rochester and Freedom Hill Amphitheatre in Sterling Heights.

The concert season is underway with more than 100 shows – from pop to rock to country to classical – scheduled through August.

It's time to grab you blanket, pack a picnic dinner and settle back to hear your favorite musician perform under the stars.

Meadow Brook Music Festival

Meadow Brook Music Festival brings an eclectic mix of music, art, food and comedy to the Oakland University campus this summer.

Originally built as the Detroit Symphony's summer home, the 7,700 seat outdoor venue will give DSO fans 15 concert opportunities in July and August to hear Beethoven, Brahms, Mozart and other classical music under the stars.

Two special annual events, the Fine Art at Meadow Brook juried art fair and Michigan Wine and Food Festival, fill the festival grounds the final two weekends in June.

The juried art show runs 10 a.m.-5 p.m., Saturday-Sunday, June 22-23, with the $1 admission at the festival grounds going to charity. One hundred fifty artists will sell glass, photographs, wood, metal sculpture, mixed media works, ceramics, jewelry, fibers, graphics and paintings. The festival will include live musical entertainment and specialty food and vendor booths.

The Michigan Food and Wine Festival runs 4-10 p.m., Friday, June 28, noon-10 p.m., Saturday, June 29 and noon-5 p.m., Sunday, June 30. Tickets are $17 general admission, $11 for designated drivers and $4 for children and teens, age 12-17. Admission is free for children under 12.

The festival gives wine-lovers a chance to meet winemakers and winery owners, while sampling from nearly 100 Michigan wines. Vendors also will select Michigan food items, including dipping oils, smoked fish and cheeses. Ticket-holders can attend wine seminars and cooking demonstrations in addition to sampling food and wine. Live entertainment will play non-stop jazz, reggae, rock and string music.

Tickets for the art fair, food and wine festivals and other events are available at The Meadow Brook Music Festival box office, The Palace of Auburn Hills box, DTE Energy Music Theatre box office and all Ticketmaster outlets. Call Ticketmaster at (248) 645-6666.

Other details:

Location: Enter the festival grounds off Walton or Adams. Meadow Brook is located on the northeast side of Oakland University's campus in Rochester.

Parking: The parking area opens at 5:30 p.m., for most evening shows and two hours before showtime for matinees. Ticket-holders may picnic in the parking lot before events, although alcoholic beverages are not allowed.

What to bring: Guests may bring picnic baskets, coolers, ice, beach chairs with short legs, blankets, sleeping bags and tarps, umbrellas and binoculars. Leave the long-legged chairs, alcohol, bottles, cans or any liquid containers, glass containers, strollers, wagons, video and sound recording devices at home. Meadow Brook allows juice boxes at children's shows and strollers and wagons at children's show matinees.

Concessions: The festival sells beer, wine, cocktails, juices, coffee, water, soft drinks, ice cream desserts, hot dogs, grilled chicken sandwiches, hamburgers, French fries, deli sandwiches, snacks and more.

Here's the complete list of Meadow Brook Music Festival music and comedy events:

Freedom Hill Amphitheater

Freedom Hill County Park located along busy Metropolitan Parkway, just a few miles east of the Oakland-Macomb counties line, is home to one of southeastern Michigan's newer outdoor concert venues.
Freedom Hill Amphitheatre, tucked inside the park, begins its third full season of concerts next week.
Promoted as an intimate venue with "unprecedented sight lines" and wide pavilion seats, Freedom Hill Amphitheatre offers a June-August concert season under the stars.
Parking: Park VIP, General or in Handicap areas. Freedom Hill also offers a shuttle service for parking. The venue adds a $3.00 "traffic control fee" to ticket prices on select shows.
Tickets: They're available through Ticketmaster outlets or by calling Ticketmaster at (248) 645-6666. Or through the Freedom Hill Box office at (586) 5100.
Location: Freedom Hill Amphitheatre is located at 15000 Metropolitan Parkway (16 Mile), three miles east of Mound, Sterling Heights. (586) 268-7820

School's in for young pianists

Schoolcraft College is offering young pianists the opportunity to develop their skills through solos, duets and performances with a professional string ensemble during Summer Piano School sessions July 15-26, and July 29 to Aug. 8. The tuition for each session is $275.
In the first session the focus is on solo performances and duets. Piano students from late elementary grades through high school can enroll. Students take classes in composition, theory, rhythm, and music history. The second session highlights piano concertos and chamber music. Students will receive instruction in theory, music history, skills and technique, and perform in a number of recitals. They rehearse and perform with a professional string ensemble.

Instructors include Donald Morelock, director of the Schoolcraft piano and applied music department, and Eugene Bossart, Schoolcraft artist-in-residence.

Auditions are required for first-time Summer Piano School participants. To schedule an audition time, or for more information, call (734) 462-4403.
Schoolcraft College offers a variety of piano instruction for all ages from infant through adult.

Observer photographer Bill Bresler was eager to donate a print because he's seen first hand the children, women and men waiting in line with their trays. The Capuchin Soup Kitchen serves more than 60,000 meals a month at its two locations.

Bresler hopes his photograph brings in a substantial amount of money to help the friars feed the hungry as they've done since 1929. The work is one of the more humorous in the auction. Two children - one an angel, the other the Virgin Mary - wait backstage to take part in a play put on by the Newman Center at Schoolcraft College in Livonia. The bored looks on their faces are sure to bring smiles to viewers.

"I donated the print because it's a great cause," said Bresler who's worked for the Observer Newspapers for more than 20 years. Bresler also teaches photography at Madonna University in Livonia. "As photographers it's the least we can do. Brother Vincent has a life or death mission. There's nothing more basic than feeding your brothers and sisters."

Bresler admits he's also delighted to see his work displayed alongside photojournalists like Steve McCurry who donated a signed 16 by 20 inch print of an Afghan girl which was printed on the cover of National Geographic in 1985. It's one of the most recognizable images.

Bresler admits he's also delighted to see his work displayed alongside photojournalists like Steve McCurry who donated a signed 16 by 20 inch print of an Afghan girl which was printed on the cover of National Geographic in 1985. It's one of the most recognizable images.

One of my favorites was taken by Los Angeles Times photographer Rick Loomis. A little girl, empty bowl in hand, stands waiting for food at a refugee camp in Herat, Afghanistan. Loomis was on assignment covering the war on terrorism there. These are the people left homeless by the Taliban. His photographs tell the story of the people and the rebels fighting the Taliban. Another image features one of the Hazara troops on a rearing white stallion moments before fighting the Taliban. It shows the tenacity of the man who hangs on for dear life as the majestic steed stands nearly upright on its hind legs.

But not all of the photographs are so intense. Jane Hale snaps a humorous shot of Milton Burro talking to his best friend Indiana Jones on a farm in Groveland Township, Michigan. Milton is a burro, Indiana, a Tennessee Walker.

Photojournalist Joe Lippincott captures the ferocity of a young snow leopard at the Detroit Zoo. Lippincott formerly taught photography at Michigan State University before moving to Massachusetts. I could go on and on but see for yourself by visiting the Web site.

Don't miss Desmond Howard's photograph of a child in the arms of the Detroit Lion's mascot. The running back snapped the shot while serving pizza at the soup kitchen with his team mates. Howard will sign the print before the highest bidder receives it.

"I'm very grateful to all of the photographers," said Reyes, a Franciscan friar. "They donated two prints each, one for the auction and one to surround people who come to the soup kitchen with images of creation, things of beauty."

"Through my own photography I like to tell the story of creation and make people appreciate the kingdom of God. St. Francis said friars are to preach constantly and only if necessary are they to use words."

Brother Vincent does it through photography.

Bidding on the on-line auction continues to 8 p.m. Sunday, June 16. For more information on Visions of the Sacred, visit the Web site at www.visionsacred.org or call Brother Reyes at (313) 579-2100, ext. 203.

Festival showcases performances by local artists

For a fourth year, the Tree-Town Performance Festival will feature everything from theater to dance for 13-weeks at the Performance Network, 120 East Huron Ann Arbor.

Single ticket prices are $18, $15 seniors/students or save with a pass that allows admission to any show as many times as you like for $85. Call (734) 663-0681.

The festival gives local theater and dance companies a venue to present their works. Peter Sparling Dance Company kicks off the weekend performances with adaptations of his most recent pieces May 30 to June 2. Language is My Friend follows June 6-16 with Dada Boy Paints on Canvas, a wacky romp of music, dance, characters and magic that plays with the senses and sensibilities surrounding art. Mature audiences suggested.

Mosaic Youth Theatre presents heartBEAT, a musical play about love, hate and rhythm June 20-23. Chimera Theatre Company performs Tennessee Williams classic tale, A Streetcar Named Desire, June 27 to July 7. James McNeill Whistler is the subject of a play about the artist presented by Prospero Theatre Company July 11-21.

Terpsichore's Kitchen returns to the festival with a showcase of modern dance works by independent choreographers July 25-28. A double bill Aug. 1-4 features Bill Boyer with his new one-man show Ground Zen and "spoke folk" artist Annie Gallup's cycle of songs about family, friends and ambivalent love. Collection, a fast-paced string of one act comedies and plays follows Aug. 8-11. Greenhouse Theatre Company concludes the festival with Anton in Show Business, a backstage comedy about three actresses doing a production of Anton Chekhov's Three Sisters.

DINING OUT

Legend continues

Maria's prepares old-style Italian specialties with amore

BY ESTHER ALLWEISS TSCHIRHART
SPECIAL WRITER

There is no Maria at Maria's Front Room, a romantically styled restaurant in downtown-Ferndale.

"There never was," said owner Buddy Orlando. "It's just a good Italian name."

His parents, Joan and Carl Orlando, were the founders, 22 years ago, of what was then called Maria's Pizzeria in Detroit's Rosedale Park neighborhood. The family restaurant at Grand River and Outer Drive became legendary for its old-style Italian specialties.

That heritage has been preserved at Maria's Front Room, so named because the "front room" of the old multi-room Maria's was where most diners requested to sit. The Ferndale restaurant, a storefront with seating for 65, is all front room.

The Orlandos, and Maria's "right-hand man" Mike Beaulieu, transformed the Middle Eastern restaurant formerly at this spot. Table linens in white with red napkins dress candle-lit tables (there are three booths). Grapevines and lights are strung on wooden lattice-work screens. A nod to Buddy Orlando's previous career — rock guitarist living in California — are the musical instruments hung on stucco walls.

Menu

A Ferndale High School graduate, Orlando is delighted his destiny was this restaurant. He shares the cooking duties with Beaulieu, preparing fresh, house-made bread and all the fine Italian dining specialties that made Maria's famous.

The specialty of the house is the milk-fed Provimi veal, Orlando said. Seven treatments are offered, with Scallopini alla Mare, including three large shrimp, the most costly entrée at $18.95. Scallopini alla Marsala and Spinach Tortellini are popular dishes on the menu.

Chicken, pasta and pizza are also available. Weekend specials might feature veal chop with veal glacé and Portobello mushrooms, or fresh salmon, swordfish, sole and sea bass.

Lunch hours were attempted but abandoned, Orlando said. The uneven customer response made staffing difficult. He also maintains that Italian food, being so heavy, is better suited to dinner. After eating lunch, "people were falling asleep at work," he claimed.

Dining at Maria's is an excellent value because of the extras, including garlic bread and choice of soup or salad. The veal and chicken entrees also include a side dish of pasta or vegetables.

"A lot of people don't give you a full dinner, but I believe the sides should be included. I don't believe in a la carte," Orlando said.

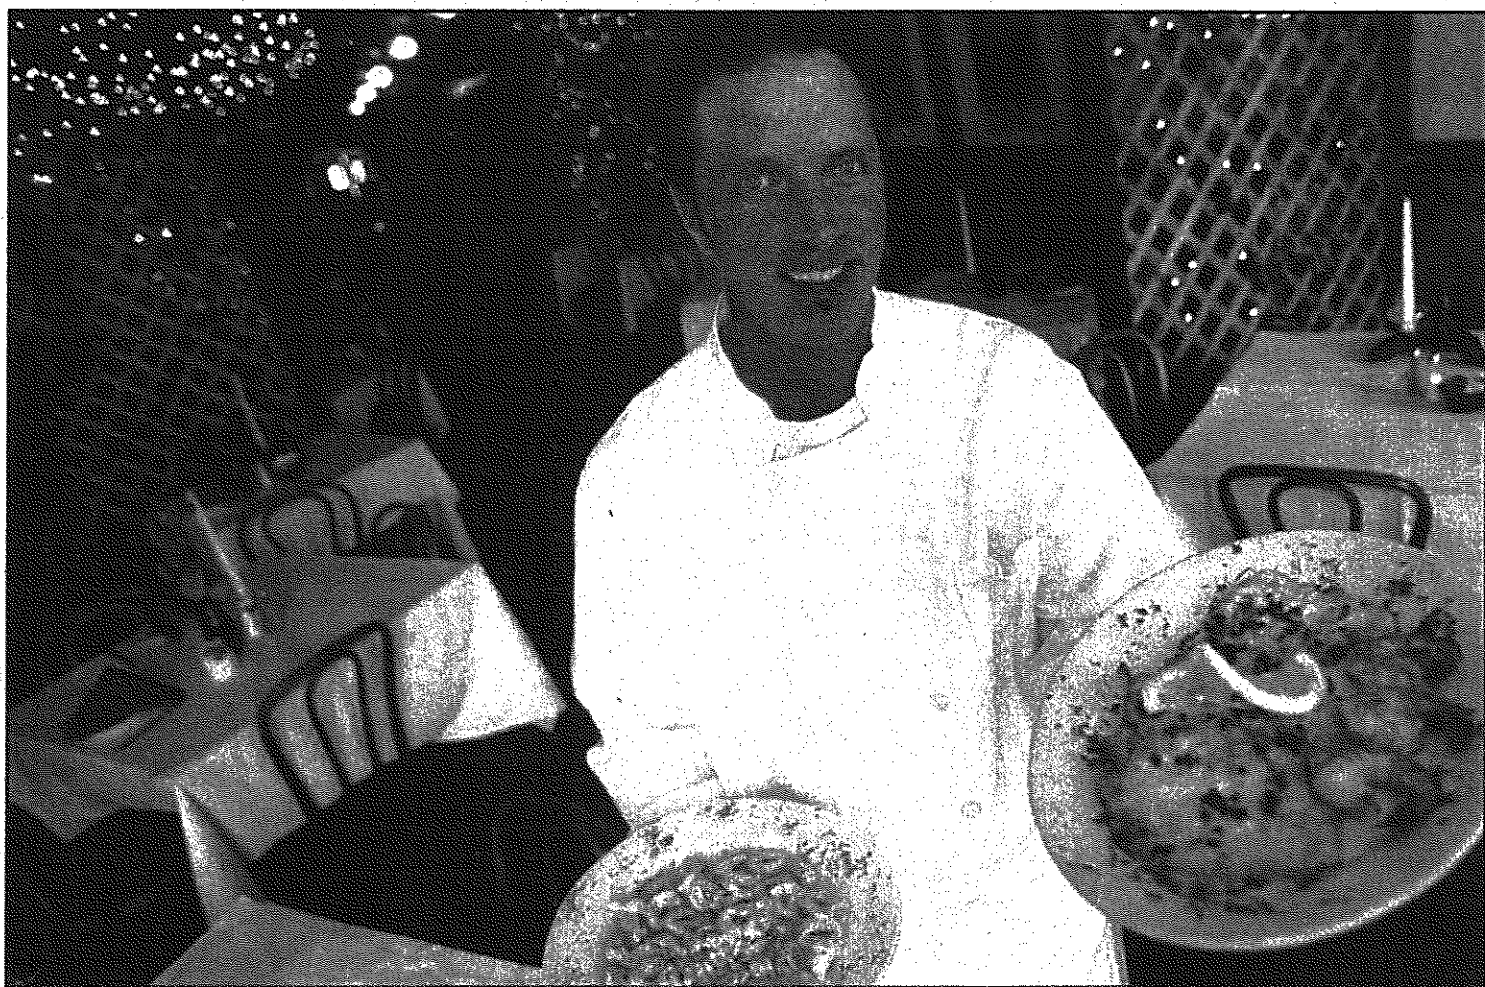

When Maria's came to Ferndale six years ago, the family couldn't find a way to get one of the city's coveted liquor licenses. Then inspiration struck. With guidance from St. Julian's Winery in Paw Paw, Mich., Orlando became a licensed small winemaker in the basement of his restaurant — perhaps the first in the state to make and serve wine on premises. Red, white and blush are the varieties.

"I figured as a microbrewery, we could let people have wine with their dinners," he said.

Orlando was married last year to Emily, who had served him his birthday dinner at Forte's in Birmingham. He's a fan of different restaurants and cuisines. Four years ago, when Orlando couldn't find Mexican food in Ferndale, he opened up Jalapeno Pete's across the

APPLIANCE DOCTOR

JOE GAGNON

Too good to be true? He'll put this washer to the test

A few months ago I received a call from a company in Ohio that manufactures a washing machine not available in any store across the country. They only produce around 500 of these washers per year and sell them to people who call them or find out about the product. In business since 1976, they started making this washer in 1994, and are well known in the commercial laundry industry.

They are now seeking my assistance to help them launch this product in the regular retail industry.

At this point I must tell you that I am not going to give you information on this company, not until I do a lot more research. So far, they have come to my home with the washer in a trailer and they showed me the inner workings. It is so amazing that anyone can build a washer this simple that I asked the important question of who they have in different areas authorized to do the warranty repairs if needed. The answer given me is one that I've never heard before in the appliance industry. "We have no service personnel in the country nor do we feel a need for them. This washer can be repaired by any person that can hold a screwdriver." And folks, he wasn't kidding.

They give you a book on how to make necessary repairs and a direct phone line to an engineer at the factory. Can you believe it? A washer so simple that you can do all the repairs yourself. You have read my thoughts on how expensive the cost is today of electronic controls on major home appliances. Well, this washer uses an old fashioned timer with the three necessary cycles to do any wash load plus they have, can you believe it, two rinse cycles. Simple turn knobs for water temperature and load size like the old days. And it is not a front loader like everybody is coming out with. It meets the energy star rating set forth by the U.S. Energy Regulation Agency, holds sixteen bath towels and uses only 1 ounce of detergent. The tubs are stainless steel and you can even get the washer cabinet in brushed stainless steel.

The wash cycle is only 32 minutes long, which means finally, there is a washer that does the job faster than the clothes dryer. I'm telling you that this thing is just out of this world and yet today as you are reading this, I still am not ready to give you a name or place to contact. Wait, I forgot something. It spins so smooth that you can balance a nickel on its' edge, and the nickel will not fall down. Try that on your current washing machine.

The next chapter is to be written in several weeks concerning this best kept secret. I am going to the factory to see it made and make sure I didn't get a con-job. I am going to buy one of these and put it in my basement to make sure it does everything they say it does. I am going to get a list of 20 consumers who have owned one of these for the past 5 years and call them with their opinions. When I have completed all of the detective work, I will make arrangements for a dealer to carry them so that you can see it and purchase it. Please do not call me on this subject until I have had a few months to complete the steps I've described. I will let you know.

Stay tuned. Joe Gagnon can be heard Saturday and Sunday on 760 WJR. He is a member and past president of the Society of Consumer Affairs Professionals. His phone number is (313) 873-9789.

Outdoor Extreme: For the serious outdoor chef, outdoor grills can be as extravagant as this Home Expo sample that features a cutting station and natural-looking brick facing. The styles and frills of grills are becoming as popular as the outdoor dining set.

Hit the deck with low-maintenance, comfortable patio furniture

Outdoor living has become a lifestyle again.

More families are embracing the backyard; spending time with kids in the pool, grilling summer meals, hosting parties or just lounging on a deck. Proof of that trend is increased sales in high-quality patio furniture. And, of course, with the renewed lifestyle comes new trends.

It's low-maintenance, lasting, a little costly and made with vivid colors to create a light-hearted atmosphere. Some of the newest ideas are about style, others are functional. For example, the new tall, iron pub-style chairs are selling very well, said Victor Krawczyk of Corey Dinette based on Middlebelt in Livonia and on Rochester Road in Troy.

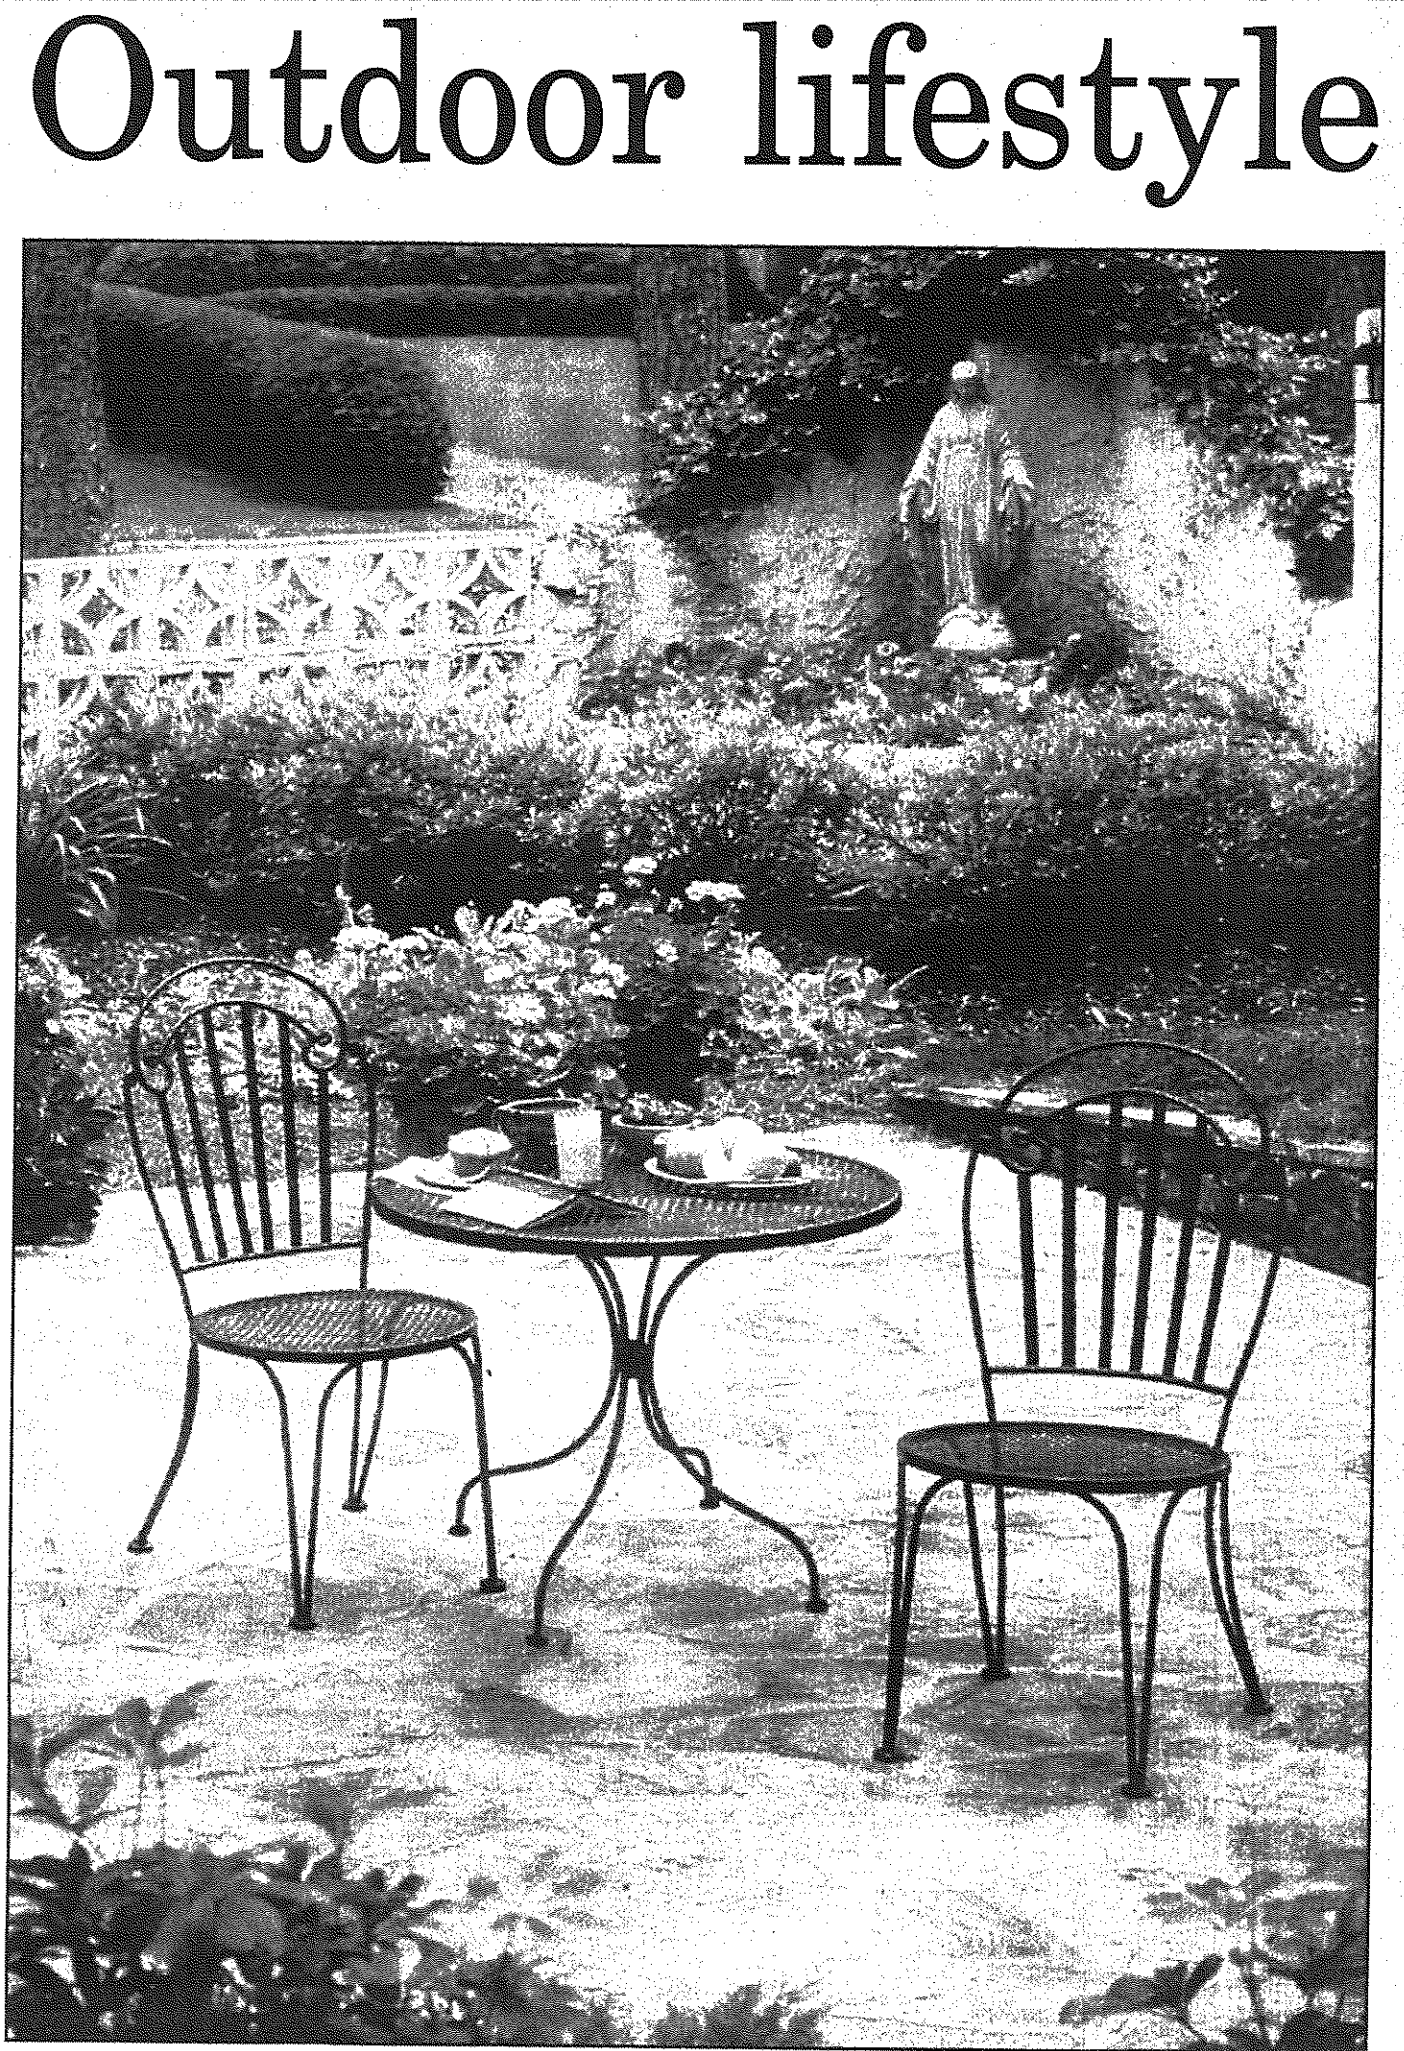

"The pub style version of chairs and outdoor bars are perfect for decks," Krawczyk, the Rochester manager, said. "The chairs and the bar are high. People like to see over the edge of the deck, rather than have a view of wooden railings."

The biggest trend it seems, is the shift to sling material over 1990s popular thick cushions.

Sling material is made from high-quality comfortable nylon and doesn't absorb moisture. Unlike cushions, the material literally slings over chairs. It can be washed with a soft brush and quickly hosed down.

"And twenty minutes later you're ready to relax," Krawczyk said. "It dries fast."

Classic: Wrought iron in black and dark green, with thin clean lines, is still popular for outdoor furniture. This set is found at Expo Designer Center.

Both Krawczyk and also Casual Concepts co-owner Tony Chila, on North Main Street in downtown Rochester, agree that market umbrellas are surging in popularity. Market umbrellas are typically made of natural colored canvas or aluminum, about 8-foot round on an 8-foot-high hardwood or aluminum pole, with brass fittings. It can be used with an umbrella stand or in dining tables, and many are made with wind vents to withstand breezy days.

Propane or charcoal, barbecuers have many choices

BY NORMAN PRADY
SPECIAL WRITER

Along with robins, weeds and worms, spring brings renewal of the great barbecue debate: Charcoal vs. propane. The decision might be in your wine glass.

If you want to sip and chat with your guests, go with charcoal, said Maria Alberti, manager of the Thisisit Shop, a grill store in West Bloomfield.

Barbecuing "is not just about the food," Alberti said. "It's a social thing. So stick with the grill that takes longer to get ready. It's about enjoyment."

Visit with your guests, she said; talk about the Red Wings while you wait for the coals to glow.

But Alberti isn't blindly loyal to charcoal.

"Charcoal people think they're doing something true, but if I didn't see what kind of grill the food was cooked on, I couldn't tell the difference."

On the other hand, she knows that charcoal people believe their method gives the food extra flavor, and she recommends briquettes that haven't been chemically treated in any way or natural lump charcoal.

She also likes wood chips added to charcoal for "an extra notch of flavor. Cherry and hickory. Mesquite for chicken and ribs."

And she likes propane. "When you talk about gas, there are three different kinds: One that uses special briquettes, one that uses flavor bars, and the infrared."

"Devoted charcoal users tell me that infrared gives the best steak taste. The high-temperature infrared energy pierces the

That which we call a barbecue

"Barbecue" is the name of an open-fire stove-like cooking unit, such as an outdoor grill, open pit or brick hearth, used for cooking food. (Some communities prohibit in-ground fire pits, so check local regulations before you make your pig-roast luau plans.)

"Barbecue" also is the name of what is being cooked, and the name of the event where a fire is cooking something. "To barbecue" is the name of the action of broiling or roasting seafood or landfood over fire.

"Texas barbecue" is beef brisket overcooked to shredding and then covered in a tomatoey sauce.

The word likely comes to our back yards from the American-Spanish barbacoa, in the language of the Taino tribe of the Arawak people of the Greater Antilles, the West Indies island group that includes Cuba, Jamaica, Hispaniola and Puerto Rico.

meat and the juices are cooking inside."

It's from Thermal Engineering Corp., Alberti said, adding that use of an infrared grill definitely will cut into the cocktail hour.

Outdoor kitchens

Chris Talbot, cookout expert at Town & Country, self-proclaimed as "Michigan's Largest Grill Shop," in Garden City, said that lump charcoal can light with the touch of a match and there are many ways to light briquettes.

He can show you how to use a chimney device to set the briquettes burning, and there are fire-starting tablets and electric fire starters. Some charcoal grills have built-in propane-fed fire starters.

Working well beyond the average patio grill, Talbot's company builds outdoor kitchens. He said they recently completed an $8,400 installation.

"There's no limit," he said. "You could spend $20-$30,000 without trying hard. An island grill of your choice built into a tile and stucco counter. Tiffany lighting, refrigerator, side burners, fireplaces, stereos and more."

Is the food better in a $30,000 outdoor kitchen?

"It's the same basic barbecue," Talbot said, "but they're doing it with more style."

Talbot also can show you smokers, which he describes as "outdoor convection ovens" providing extended low-heat cooking.

And outdoor deep fryers, which he said can be used for anything that can be cooked in oil — turkey to potatoes — and also can be filled with water to boil lobsters and other seafood.

New regulation

If you go with propane, you ought to know that a new safety regulation requires use of a tank with a valve which prevents "overfilling," limiting content to what is considered a non-hazardous quantity. If you have an older tank without the new safety valve, you'll have to modify it or replace it.

Dennis Wright of Wright Hardware in Livonia said tanks made since October 1997 meet the requirements. He isn't allowed to fill tanks made before that date. An older tank, he said, can be fitted with a new valve "at a nominal cost" and re-certified for five years' use.

"A new tank is set up for 12 years and costs about $29."

A refill, Wright said, giving 20 to 25 burning hours, is about $12.

Gas

Gas grills are the specialty of Michigan Fireplace and Barbecue in Troy, said Michael Super, store manager. Half of his sales are propane, half are natural gas, he said.

Gas, he said, offers "the convenience of getting ready to cook quicker. As little as three minutes compared to 25 minutes to heat the charcoal."

You'll be OK with an OPD

An Overfilling Prevention Device is now required on propane tanks used for barbecue grills. This is a new provision of the existing safety code developed by the National Fire Protection Association.

According to information from NFPA, "the OPD shuts off the flow of gas into a cylinder when 80-percent capacity has been reached. This limits the potential for release of gas when the cylinder is heated, averting a fire hazard or personal injury."

NFPA advises that "many filling outlets have the capacity to retrofit or recycle obsolete cylinders."

If your cylinder has either a round or star-shaped handwheel, it doesn't have the required valve. A new OPD valve has a triangular handwheel, according to the NFPA information, although early production OPD cylinders weren't triangular but were stamped "OPD" on the brass valve body.

In cooking time, Super said, charcoal has an advantage over propane.

"Charcoal heats to 800 degrees and gas to 650. Infrared heats to 1,600."

Natural gas, Super said, eliminates the need to refill tanks.

"You can hook up a natural gas grill on a cart with a quick-disconnect hose at a wall outlet so you can store the grill in the garage and take it when you move."

At Super's store, propane grills range from a basic model at $300 up to a completely stainless steel infrared unit at $6,000.

"You could serve 80 or more with no trouble," he said.

It's possible, he said, to run up the cost of the $300 grill with accessories.

"Sideburners are nice to have. Warm the beans or the sauce. Cook the corn. You can get a griddle for pancakes and eggs. Deep fryers, steamers, woks. You can get an electric rotisserie for $45. A cast-iron dish to hold damp wood chips under the cooking grids."

But consider how much money you'll save buying a gas grill because you won't have time for wine.

Indoors or out: This year's summer fad has a tropical traditional look that should stick around for seasons. It's all about lighter color.

very popular for the past eight or 10 years," Chila said. "It always comes up with fashion."

Added Krawczyk: "They are now made with sunblocker rather than just sun filters to protect against skin cancer."

Chila and his family own the 21-year-old Casual Concepts and see many fast fads. What was considered "in" a while back has now become the "in" thing again.

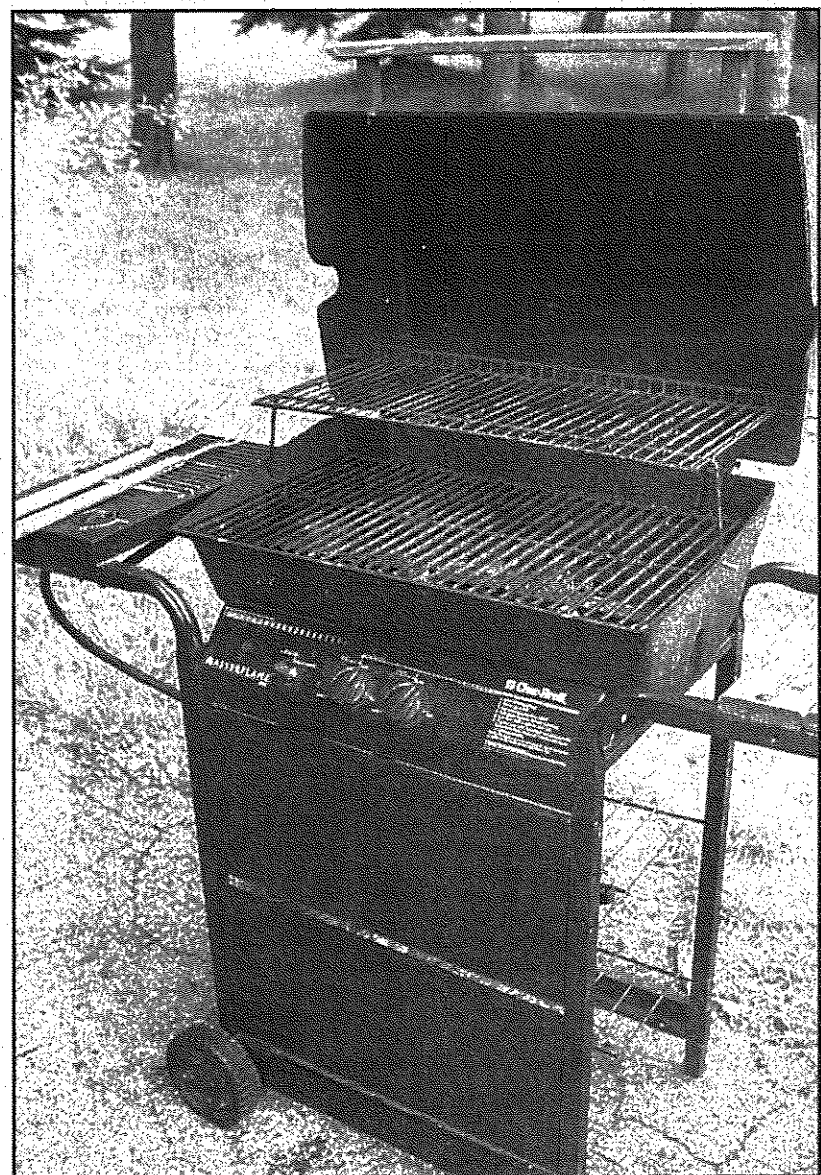

"They are reverting to the classic looks," Chila said. "Cast aluminum furniture has been very popular in the past few years. It doesn't rust. It's almost like toothpaste. It's hollow in the middle and lightweight. People want something lightweight that they can move around."

Krawczyk said brighter colors are popular too. The classic hunter green and black iron furniture is still stylish, but shoppers are looking for brighter colors like silver, light green and taupe in that material. For slings and cushions bright colors and patterns are replacing solid patterns and beige tones. Sling-back style recliners that are LazyBoy style, complete with ottomans are a new fun trend, Krawczyk said. Consider them the modern-day hammock.

The other trend Krawczyk noticed is that because the backyard is a cherished sanctuary for today's family, people are willing to spend a little extra money on the furniture. Quality intricate tables with faux slate, or even real slate tops, aluminum mesh, rattan, and other materials aren't necessarily cheap.

"People aren't looking to replace their furniture every two years," said Krawczyk.

Dogs should also be screened for elbow dysplasia

Q. Our 8-month-old Labrador retriever was recently diagnosed with elbow dysplasia. We chose a breeder very carefully to avoid getting a dog prone to hip dysplasia. We didn't know we should have asked the breeder if her dogs had elbow problems, too. We are very concerned as we learned that our dog needs elbow surgery. What can you tell us about elbow dysplasia?

A. Elbow dysplasia is not as uncommon as you might think. It is one of the most frequently diagnosed causes of forelimb lameness in juvenile large and giant breed dogs. Elbow dysplasia has received a great deal of attention in recent years due to the realization that elbow disease has a hereditary basis.

DRS. JAFFE

Elbow dysplasia is a disorder of the elbow joint which involves formation of bone fragments or cartilage tears within the joint. These lesions form due to abnormal growth of the bones of the front legs when your dog is approximately 4-6 months of age. These abnormal pieces of bone and cartilage, when present in the elbow, cause your dog discomfort.

A dog with elbow dysplasia is usually lame in one or both front legs and may limp after activity or following a long nap. Arthritis of the elbow joint is a complication of elbow dysplasia and unfortunately is a life-long condition. Your veterinarian may be able to diagnose elbow dysplasia based on a physical examination and elbow x-rays. Even with x-rays and an orthopedic examination, the diagnosis is sometimes hard to establish.

Elbow dysplasia is a broad term which includes several conditions: fragmented coronoid process, ununited anconeal process, or osteochondritis dissecans. These may occur alone or in conjunction with one another.

Treatment of elbow dysplasia involves surgical removal of the bone fragments or cartilage tears. Surgical specialists use arthroscopes to explore the elbow joint and remove the offending pieces of bone or cartilage. Arthroscopic surgery is less invasive than traditional surgery and results in a faster recovery and less arthritis.

Does your dog need surgery? If you elect not to have surgery performed to treat elbow dysplasia, your dog's arthritis will become more severe over time. Once arthritis of the elbow becomes extensive, surgical treatment is of little benefit as the troublesome pieces of bone or cartilage cannot be removed. Unfortunately, this usually results in a lifetime of lameness. Medical therapy consisting of weight management, anti-inflammatory and joint protective drugs, and exercise restriction is used in conjunction with surgery or when surgery is no longer an option. When arthritis is severe and conventional surgery is not effective, elbow joint replacement surgery can be performed.

Both hip and elbow dysplasia are congenital problems and we discourage the breeding of animals affected with these conditions. Most breeders conscientiously screen their dogs for hip dysplasia and don't use dogs with questionable hips in their breeding lines. Breeders should also screen their dogs for elbow dysplasia!

The Orthopedic Foundation for Animals evaluates x-rays of canine hips and elbows for the presence or absence of hip and elbow dysplasia. The OFA keeps a registry of dogs 24 months of age and older with hip and/or elbow dysplasia and will grade your dog's hips and elbows based on the severity of changes within the joint. Breeds that have been shown by the OFA to be at high risk for elbow dysplasia are rottweilers, Bernese mountain dogs, German shepherd dogs, and Newfoundlands. In addition, we have seen a great number of Mastiffs with dysplastic elbows.

As always, if your dog is limping with what may appear as a sprain, we advise that you consult your veterinarian as soon as possible. Early treatment of elbow dysplasia results in fewer long-term complications.

GARDEN CALENDAR

IRIS CLUB

The Iris Club of Southeast Michigan will hold an Iris Show from 12:30 - 4 p.m. on Saturday, June 1, at the Royal Oak Senior Community Center, 3500 Marais, Royal Oak, three blocks east of Crooks Road and three blocks north of Crooks Road. Also, at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, June 27, the topic at the general meeting will be "2002 Perennial and Annuals" as George Papadelis from Telly's Greenhouse tells about the newest perennials and annuals. The talk is also at the Royal Oak Senior Community Center. The talk is free, the public is welcome. For information: Call Ann, (248)280-0848

SOCRRA

"Feed the Earth...Compost!" will be from 10-11 a.m. Saturday, June 1, at the Lathrup Village Children's Garden, 27400 Southfield Road. Learn the "easy" way to successful backyard composting through this hands-on demonstration. Advance registration is requested. Call Karen Bever weekdays, (248)288-5150, or e-mail Lillian Dean: LFDean@aol.com. Sponsored by the Southeastern Oakland County Water Authority and the Southeastern Oakland County Resource Recovery Authority.

GREAT LAKES ROSES

At 1 p.m. Sunday, June 2, and 11 a.m. Monday, June 3, a Rose Planting Demonstration will be held at Great Lakes Roses, 49875 Willow Road, between Rawsonville and Sumpter (Belleville) Roads in Sumpter Township, just south of Belleville. The slide lecture and hands-on garden demonstration will show some special techniques for success with summer rose planting. Free, no reservations needed. The program is one of several that owners Roger and Nancy Lindley are holding to celebrate the "Year of the Rose." The nursery offers over 500 varieties of winter-hardy modern and antique roses. (734) 461-1230 to request a flyer.

OAKLAND LAND CONSERVANCY

The Oakland Land Conservancy will hold a Native Plant Sale from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Sunday, June 3, at the Pancake Shelter near the Pontiac Library, southeast corner of Pike and Mill Streets in Pontiac. From Woodward (formerly Widetrack), turn west on Pike Street; from West Huron, turn south on Mill Street. Use the library parking lot.

No entry fee. Oakland Land Conservancy is a tax-exempt organization devoted to protecting the county's significant natural areas. Plants are from Wildtype Nursery near Lansing. A plant list is available by calling the land conservancy in Rochester, (248)601-2816.

HARDY PLANT SOCIETY

Hardy Plant Society sponsors a "Garden Resources" class, to be held at the Bowers School Farm in the one-story red and white classroom building on Agri-science Drive on the north side of Square Lake Road, the third road west of Adams Road, Bloomfield Hills, from 7-10 p.m. Thursday, June 13. Fee $10. To register, mail check made out to the society to 323 East Lovell Drive, Troy, 48065-1521. All profits go to the Bowers School Farm.

GARDEN WALK CALENDAR

FARMINGTON GARDEN CLUB WALK

The Farmington Garden Club's Garden Walk, "Garden Paths," will be 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., rain or shine, on Saturday, June 22, featuring six of Farmington and Farmington Hills most picturesque gardens. Tickets are $7 and can be bought at Steinkopf's Nursery. On the day of the walk, tickets will be sold at Heritage Park Visitors Center. A limited number of one-of-a-kind, handcrafted drag-only garden stakes will be for sale. Steinkopf's Nursery, walk sponsor, will offer perennial plantings at a special "patrons price" at the Visitors Center. The walk is a fund-raiser of the Farmington Garden Club.

GARDEN CITY WALK

The 9th annual Garden City Garden Walk, featuring five homes, will be 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. July 20. It will also consist of a judged flower show from 1-5 p.m. Tickets are $6. The walk and show help Garden City celebrate its 45th year. Tickets are available a couple weeks ahead of time from Barsons Greenhouse, Garden City City Hall, Rochys Florists, and at the walk homes on the day of the tour, and from garden club members. The club is still looking for three more homes to show. Anyone interested may call (734)427-5452.

Garden books share inspiring information

Although we're anxious to get in the garden, we did have some time to read about gardening. Perhaps you're looking for a book to inspire. Here are some suggestions:

Brent and Becky Heath, operators of a successful bulb farm in Gloucester, Va., have written two books that will guide gardeners in their quest for beauty with bulbs. Both books ($24.95 each) are published by bright sky press.

Daffodils for North American Gardens is an essential book, filled with clearly written information, from a description of a daffodil, planting tips, care, companion plants, miniatures, forcing, hybridizing, arranging for flower shows - the list goes on and on. I like their "down home," straight-from-the-heart writing.

The second book, Tulips for North American Gardens, follows the same format as the first and also is excellent. Information and ideas galore will encourage you to try new ways with these bulbs. You'll find a bonus of superb photographs of commercial as well as home sites, and an encyclopedia of recommended daffodils/tulips in each book.

"Our aim has been to describe and picture only the cultivars that will be commercially available well into the future so that our information will remain current and helpful to you for a long time to come," Becky writes.

"Our mutual vision is to help others see the brightest side of the world we live in, through gardening," they say.

I am proud to call these gentle people "friends."

Other visions

Bulbs of North America, a North American Rock Garden Society publication (Timber Press, $34.95), is a comprehensive guide to all kinds of bulbous plants that grow in alpine settings and rock gardens, in home gardens and the wild.

The authors have extensive experience observing the plants in the wild. A mixture of field botany and horticulture makes a good balance of information.

A perfect book to take on a field trip to help with identification, the descriptions are clear. Few pictures, but those that are included are in color and show the plants very distinctly.

By design: Yves St. Laurent's garden in Morocco is striking in color. This was taken at the Chelsea flower show in England. It is similar to those featured in the book Bold Visions for the Garden.

NARGS invites new members. Visit its Web site, <http://www.nargs.org>, or write to NARGS, P.O. Box 67, Millwood, NY 10546.

If you like intense color, surprises, wit, serenity and magic, Bold Visions for the Garden, Richard Hartlage (Fulcrum, $29.95, soft), will inspire you to create a memorable scene.

His approach is unusual as he discusses color, scale, time, light and architecture as we visit the featured gardens. This book will probably change the way you look at plants and design.

Hartlage, currently curator and director of the Elisabeth C. Miller Botanical Gardens in Seattle, Wash., shares many private and public gardens that he has admired and carefully designed, and explains how they evolved. I was intrigued with the garden that contained 1,800 bowling balls!

The ideas are indeed bold and dramatic, while the bright photographs shout at you and encourage the use of something different, all the while following good principles of garden design.

Did you know that when Thomas Edison needed a suitable material for a light bulb filament, he used carbonized bamboo? This, and many other uses for the plant, are included in Bamboo for Gardens, Ted Jordan Meredith (Timber Press, $39.95), the complete guide for growing one of the more than 354 varieties that grow in this country, in the garden or as houseplants.

Meredith tells how to choose, grow, buy, propagate, harvest, control and dispose of this versatile plant. He began to study and grow bamboo because he wanted a privacy fence. From that small beginning, this informative book resulted.

Informative series

I never cease to be amazed at the amount of information packed in the Brooklyn Botanic Garden's 21st Century Gardening Series.

The books ($9.95 each) generally follow the same outline with guest writers sharing their expertise. A collection of these handbooks makes an excellent library without too much expense.

Essential Tools gives the lowdown on what tools do, which are the most necessary, and those that are helpful even though they aren't used often. Equipment for seed starting, to irrigation, to lighting rounds out this book. Look for my friend Kip Smith's comments about her favorite tools.

Summer-Blooming Bulbs features information about growing bulbs in specific sites and conditions and the care of them. Descriptions and color photos of a plethora of these beauties help greatly with selection.

Gourmet Vegetables, the encyclopedia of tasty vegetables, includes mouth-watering recipes. Why not try something new this year? The information to do so is here.

Avoid contractor disputes with clear communication

(AP) - It's the regrettable underside of home repair and improvements: homeowners and contractors who disagree with each other on any of a variety of issues.

So, how can disagreements be resolved to everyone's satisfaction?

According to The Home Service Store, conflict resolution can be avoided with clear expectations and good communication. Should arguments end up in front of a court, a paper trail of what was done and said could make all the difference.

"Usually a job starts off pretty well. Homeowners are excited, the estimates are in and everyone has signed off on the job," says Laurie Gammell of HSS. "But things don't always go as planned."

When homeowners clearly state their expectations for workmanship, job schedules, and budget, it sets a clear limit for contractors to follow. Such preemptive communication is the best answer to head off arguments before they start. During the interview process, homeowners and contractors do well to level with each other on expectations and rules of the job for the project.

Typical areas of complaint involve workmanship, scope of work to be done, and budget.

Workmanship issues can be resolved by involving outside inspectors to independently assess the quality of work.

Homeowners should defer to the judgment of a professional on many scope-of-work jobs. For instance, a homeowner might think a leaky roof is easily fixed yet it might involve much more than is visible to the untrained eye. A contractor might find poor subsurface or materials fault.

Both sides should stick to detailed budget that is agreed upon in advance. Homeowners can avoid extra expense if they steer clear of expensive change orders. A change order is a misproject change in materials or work that drives up the material and labor costs of the job. Homeowners often are shocked by these new expenses and the contractor usually is blamed - even if the request is out of the contractor's control.

Gammell recommends homeowners solve problems as they occur. "Trying to solve workmanship, schedule or budget issues after the fact is always tough. It's easier to create a win-win situation if you deal with things at the point of the problem."

Gammell suggests homeowners avoid payment of the entire job before it starts. Pay contractors in phases, or as certain materials are needed to complete portions of the work. Homeowners should keep clear written records of budgets, work schedules, and any discrepancies they notice. Such record-keeping is essential if the dispute cannot be resolved. Courts will demand written evidence that documents a homeowner's claim.

The Home Service Store manages home maintenance, repair and improvement tasks in more than 130 markets nationwide. For more information call 1-(866)-HSS-6060 or visit www.TrustHSS.com.

Tip of the week: Improve storage

(AP) - If your attempts in the kitchen to locate that special pot, pan or can of soup make you feel like you need help from Sherlock Holmes, chances are you could use a little organizational assistance.

The addition of a few inexpensive and simple-to-install storage organizers will not only improve the storage capacity of your kitchen cabinets, but will make your kitchen a more pleasant place in which to work, as well.

Lazy Susans, pullout shelves, spice racks, cutlery trays, trash can pullouts and under-sink pullout caddies are a few of the accessories that can be found at your local hardware store or home-improvement center.

For specialty items or installation assistance check with a local cabinet shop.

OUT AND ABOUT

KEELY KALESKI

A new name, a new life, I'm moving on

"Hi, this is Keely Wygonik, no Kaleski, how can I help you?"

Excuse me, I'm having a little identity crisis – a new name, a new life.

My husband David and I would have been married 20 years on June 26. He was diagnosed with Acute Myelogenous Leukemia on Labor Day weekend nearly two years ago. We were shocked, and hopeful when he went into remission on Oct. 2. But he was readmitted to the hospital for more treatment Oct. 24, and died Dec. 17, 2000. His death was unexpected. Instead of planning Christmas dinner, I planned a funeral, and buried David on Dec. 21.

On Dec. 22 my brother Mike took me to the emergency room at Henry Ford Hospital. I was devastated, having trouble breathing, and wondered how I would get through Christmas without David. Leukemia strengthened our marriage, and caused us to re-evaluate our priorities. We made plans to travel, spend more time with family and friends, and talked about how precious and fragile life is.

After being examined by a doctor who wrote prescriptions for drugs to calm my anxiety and help me sleep, I talked to a therapist. It was the beginning of my journey to discover – "who is Keely?"

She told me that part of my life had ended, and another begun. "Look at photo albums to try and remember the person you were before you got married," she suggested. "What do you like to do? Are there things you used to do that you stopped doing after you got married?" Women don't mean to, but they give up pieces of themselves after they get married. It

Plymouth voice teacher is a hit with students

BY DIANE GALE ANDREASSI
SPECIAL WRITER

A Plymouth business woman may have just what you need if the sight of a microphone makes your heart flutter and you long for a moment in the spotlight whenever you see a karaoke machine.

Norma Atwood, owner of Village Music, expects to meet a lot of "wannabe" singers who never had the chance to develop their voices in a new class she's offering, Shower Singing in Public.

The three-hour seminar is geared toward amateur teenage and adult singers, who will learn technical exercises using playful games in jazz, pop and show music to understand breath control, alignment, resonance, articulation, free breath flow and performance anxiety.

"Maybe they've been singing in choirs or in the shower and they want to learn how to use their voices properly and perform, but they aren't confident enough to call a voice teacher," explained Atwood, who bought the national franchise two months ago and will begin classes this summer.

Atwood, who lives in Canton, has taught private voice lessons for more than 15 years in Ohio and Michigan. She has taught Kindermusik, a playful approach to teaching rhythm and basic music skills for newborns to 7-year-olds for 11 years.

Shower Singing in Public is to encourage people to sing and to "have fun," said Atwood, who last year battled two bouts with cancer. During the treatments, she vowed to achieve two goals – develop a singing class and cut a CD, with a mix of musical theater and classical songs, that she hopes to release in September.

Atwood comes to these challenges with what she often refers to as a "passion" experience that began when she was 8 years old and attended the New England Conservatory of Music.

She spent much of her married life raising three daughters with her husband, David, who was forced to relocate the family many times while he was in the Army and later when he accepted transfers with Ford Motor Company.

Miss Norma

While in Michigan, Atwood's students was doing."

Charlie Fleetham, of Farmington Hills, began taking singing lessons with his daughter, Chelsea, a 15 year-old North Farmington High School student who perfected her singing so well she was given a solo performance during a school concert last winter.

Fleetham decided a couple of years ago during a Hawaiian cruise that he wanted to take singing lessons when he watched his son, Derek, 10 at the time, singing karaoke.

"He was so bad I finally went up and helped him, and I felt like a frog being dissected," said Fleetham. "I started calling around and Norma told me to come in. She said, 'Let's see how we get along. I was so bad, and I really had no vision. She helped me discover a skill I never knew I had.'

It's been a real process of discovery. I'm still not that good, but she continues to encourage me and help me find a way to express myself."

Fleetham, who said he can sing along now with almost every tune and "sound OK," recently bought a karaoke machine for his family.

New skill

"For me the biggest benefit has been the ability to do this with my kids," he said. "We sing songs together and it's a blast. I never would have known how to approach it." He credits Atwood with giving him this new skill.

At the airport recently, Atwood said three people came up to her and referred to her as "Miss Norma." With her CD and Shower Singing in Public classes, Atwood hopes to continue an evolution back to just "Norma."

"It's a way for me to find myself again," said the grandmother of three.

"My whole interest in music is that I want people to feel the passion," said Atwood, who graduated from Northeastern University in Boston with a bachelor of arts degree in theater arts and minors in music and biology.

Her theater work includes performing with June Lockhart in No Sex, Please I'm British in a dinner theater production in Ohio. She is also the director, founder and performer in Variations I & II, a woman's vocal performing group in Ohio and Michigan.

Atwood went on to receive a post bac-

Jordan, who now runs an accounting firm in Ann Arbor, has assisted Morgan with the business side of the compact disc release. He said Somewhere in Time is just beginning to make some money for its designated charities.

"It's been very modest," Jordan said. "We're not talking tons of money, but it displays the talents of the Ford chorus and gives us a forum to work in."

In the past seven years, the chorus has embarked on three tours of Europe as well as tours of Michigan and the eastern United States.

The European trips have included visits to Germany, France and Italy, where the group sang for the pope.

One of the group's current major undertakings is the recording of a full-length compact disc called Liberty, which contains patriotic songs and is in the process of being recorded in a Houghton Lake church.

"The whole chorus is really excited about it," Morgan said. "It's a very spiritually uplifting CD and when people listen to it they're going to be very proud they're Americans. It instills a feeling in you that's kind of hard to describe."

Morgan said he first became interested in singing in public in 1975 when friends urged him to go onstage at a local bar to sing a rendition of the Everly Brothers' Cathy's Clown. Morgan went over big and was asked back again.

Discouraged from singing in bars by his former wife, Morgan joined a church choir. Not long after that, a friend at Ford encouraged him to join the company's chorus.

Even though he no longer works at Ford and runs his own heating and cooling business, Morgan has stayed with the chorus. It's something he wouldn't readily give up, he said.

"I love to sing in the chorus," Morgan said. "It's like a big family. Everybody kind of looks out for each other and it's real nice."

And the chorus is also about helping others, which is something Morgan expects to do with the proceeds of Somewhere in Time.

"I play Santa Claus and I go to those hospitals and I see those children," Morgan said. "I wanted to do something for the children."

According to Morgan, the Ford Motor Company Chorus is looking ahead to a busy spring and summer that will include local shows as well as a tour of northern Michigan and the east coast to promote Liberty.

Morgan said the east coast tour will include stops at West Point and Annapolis.

He's also working on getting the chorus to Ireland for a concert in St. Patrick's Cathedral at Trinity College in Dublin.

"Right now I think it's time to realize how lucky we are to live in this country," Morgan said. "Even though a lot of bad things happen, it's still a nicer place to live than just about any other place in the world."

Orders for Somewhere in Time and Liberty compact discs can be placed with Tom Morgan (734) 261-6579.

Friend's gift is 'squirrel whispering'

It was a quiet Sunday afternoon at Alice's house.

My friend and fellow journalist shares a house in Livonia with her husband, Mike, and three cats: Gus, Bill and Cleo. I visit on occasion to drink coffee or herbal tea, chat about newspapers and to play with the cats.

I'm not really a cat person, but for some, I'll make an exception.

CHAT ROOM

JONI HUBRED

That sounds as though I have some control over the issue. The truth is, these cats have made an exception for me.

Of the three, I have probably bonded most with Gus. A native of Detroit, he grew up a street cat and still drinks out of running faucets, rather than bowls. While Bill tends to be somewhat anti-social and Cleo fancies herself the Queen of All She Surveys, Gus is Mr. Personality. Defiantly independent as all cats must be, he also thrives on attention and affection.

On Sunday afternoon, I learned something about Gus I didn't know. He likes to hunt. And he's good at it.

Ensnared in Alice's family room, she and I were engrossed in conversation about all sorts of things. Through the open patio glass door, we could see the cats cavorting in the backyard. A gentle breeze wafted in and we laughed at how Miss Cleo seemed to bathe herself in the early spring sunlight.

I was instantly impressed that she'd even touched a mouse. My daughter and I once trapped a vole in one of those sticky boxes you bait and set down on the floor. The vole was most certainly stuck, but we still called her boyfriend to carry the box to the Dumpster. He laughed all the way across the parking lot.

The actual order of events escapes me now, jarred from my memory by the horror, no doubt. But at some point, Alice told me that Gus had once snagged a baby bunny rabbit, which she ended up chasing around the house.

He doesn't kill things, she explained. He seems to operate under the "catch-and-release" philosophy.

Not 10 minutes later, Gus bolted in from the backyard, a streak of black zooming past my chair. I heard an odd chattering sound that just didn't bode well. "Gus!" Alice yelled and started after him.

I stayed seated. It seemed like the safest thing to do.

The chase moved into the dining room, and Alice suggested this might be a good time for me to help. As I approached from the kitchen doorway, I still wasn't clear exactly what — besides Gus — we were chasing.

"It's a baby squirrel," Alice said. "He's behind the stereo."

I looked behind the stereo, which was in the living room. My guess is I must have misheard, because the poor creature was actually trapped in a corner of the dining room.

It was tiny and brown, with big black eyes and a long, bushy tail. And Gus appeared to be thinking since he'd caught this playmate, he ought to be able to enjoy its company.

Having heard the commotion, Mike bounded up from his basement workshop and strode purposefully toward the scene. Alice was bent over in the corner, trying to keep the squirrel safe.

I was standing a few feet away, trying to keep myself safe. Wild things bite. And they could have rabies.

Mom always said so.

"I'll help you, honey," Mike said in a very manly voice.

He grabbed the cat.

Alice allowed as how that might have been the easier course of action. But she remained vigilant, talking in a very calm voice, grabbing the squirrel's tail and holding out her arm stiffly as the thing wriggled and shadow-boxed.

"I'm sorry, but I don't know how else to do this," she told him. "I know this is how you carry a mouse."

I was instantly impressed that she'd even touched a mouse. My daughter and I once trapped a vole in one of those sticky boxes you bait and set down on the floor. The vole was most certainly stuck, but we still called her boyfriend to carry the box to the Dumpster.

He laughed all the way across the parking lot.

But I digress.

At this point, Mike was holding Gus and saying, "Way to go, buddy. Way to hunt."

Gotta be a guy thing.

So as they bonded in a manly way, I moved out into the backyard to check on Alice. And the squirrel, of course.

I was startled to see her still holding the critter, stroking its head and back. He appeared to be trembling. His eyes closed half-way then opened wide. There was no blood, just a little cat slobber on his fur.

Alice spoke to him softly and stood very still. She said she's always had a way with animals, which most certainly appeared to be true.

After a few minutes, she left him on the shelf of a birdfeeder that had been nailed onto the side of a large tree. The squirrel sat for a little while, then scampered away. She wanted to look into a knothole in the tree to see whether he'd crawled inside to recover.

"He'll probably fly out of there and attach himself to your face and gnaw at the bridge of your nose," Mike said.

Alice thinks he may be watching too much television.

Mike and I did a little good-natured teasing. Called her "Dr. Doolittle" and the "Squirrel Whisperer." With a stricken look, she recited the words to her favorite hymn, "All things bright and beautiful, all creatures great and small."

Our Lord God made them all.

Now, it's probably not wise to handle wild animals. Naturalists will tell you the less contact we have with wild things, the better off they are.

But this one time, maybe a little healing touch, the steady, calming hand of a loving person was a good thing.

I believe we're each given a gift for reaching out to make the world a better place. And we each have to find our own special talent before we can give without hesitation and help without fear.

As I drove home that Sunday afternoon, I figured out something pretty important — yes, perhaps even critical to the balance of my life.

Mine's not Squirrel Whispering.

relatives and visited Sulejow, the village where my grandpa was born. My relatives were happy to see me, and we all went to church to thank God for bringing us together. I felt a strong sense of belonging, generations of Kaleskis grew up in that village and still live there today. I used to think there was something odd about my family because everyone, even my dad's siblings, and my little brother, got divorced. Mom's an only child. Now I know better. I spent my first New Year's Day alone with my little brother and his second wife. He made meatloaf for dinner, and we watched a really dumb movie with his step children. It was one of the nicest New Year's Days I can remember. On the way home I said, "thank-you God for giving me my family back."

I love my in-laws, but as I began reconnecting with my family, and "Keely," I felt less of an affiliation to the Wygonik family. I wanted to be a Kaleski again, part of the clan.

Change is part of life, you can't stop it any more than you can stop seasons from changing. But you should never change yourself to make someone else happy. It was an important lesson to learn.

I've embraced change, and am open to new experiences. On June 26 I'll be on my bicycle with 700 people, somewhere between Stevensville and Luna Pier. It's the first vacation I've ever taken alone. I don't know anyone who's going on this trip, but am sure I'll have lots of new friends when the bus drops us off in Ann Arbor on June 29.

David's gone, but not forgotten, he'll always be a part of me. Sometimes I feel his presence, and it's always peaceful and loving. I'm not afraid of death or life anymore. I held David when he died, and know that death is cold and still. Life is warm and full of possibilities, something to enjoy and cherish.

Look past husband for cause of insomnia

Q: My husband and I have been married for 11 years and have a fairly good relationship. Our problem is our sleeping patterns. My husband is self-employed and nocturnal. He schedules his business appointments in the afternoon, and then works on his computer until the wee hours of the morning. I have a high-pressure day job, where I am required to be at work early to attend meetings with clients. I can't fall asleep until my husband is in bed, and the house is quiet. When I've spoken to him about my concerns, he says "it's your problem." How can I get my husband to respect my needs and come to bed at a decent hour?

A: It sounds like you're experiencing a classic case of disturbed sleep, better known as insomnia. Insomnia can have many causes and sorting out the reason you can't sleep can be tough. Here are a few places to start:

■ Depression is an overlooked cause of insomnia. Are you experiencing additional symptoms of low self-esteem, weight gain or loss, flat feelings, or loss of interest in things you used to enjoy? If so, undiagnosed depression could be your culprit.

A therapist who specializes in mental health issues can determine if you are clinically depressed. They may suggest an anti-depressant medication, in addition to therapy, to facilitate sleep and treat depressive symptoms.

■ Stimulants and depressants in our every-day diet can disturb our sleep-wake cycle. Caffeine in coffee, colas, and chocolate give us energy and pep us up.

Being keyed up in the evening, we look for a way to 'relax'. Alcohol is often a choice because it can bring on unconsciousness, but the sleep is not rejuvenating, and we wake up feeling tired. Try eliminating caffeine from your diet as well as alcohol to allow your normal sleep-wake cycle to kick in.

■ Many people think they are too tired to exercise, but moderate exercise has been shown to increase restful sleep.

Often our brains feel worn out because our jobs are mentally taxing, but our bodies are not physically tired.

Start a regular routine of moderate exercise three times a week, alternating between aerobic activity and muscle building exercises such as weight training. Your brain and body will both feel tired at the same time, and restful sleep can come.

■ Try going to bed at approximately the same time every night, avoiding naps during the day, eating late meals or watching TV late into the night. The key to natural sleep is in patterns. Try keeping track of your sleep-wake patterns for the next week, working to regulate your times of rest.

■ Stress is a common thief of sleep. Assess the areas in your life where stress is present but likely to pass (work stress, death in the family, a move to a new home.) Compare those to long-term difficulties that will require some type of change on your part. Insomnia is your brain's way of trying to resolve your problems even when you're lying down! A therapist can help you assess your stress level, help you develop adequate coping skills, and steer you toward resolution. You wanted to know how to get your husband to respect your sleep needs. You could try separate bedrooms, but finding the solution for your insomnia would be a better solution for you both.

SEBOK-STROCK

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sebok of Southgate announce the engagement of their daughter

Dr. Kimberly Sebok, of Farmington Hills, to Jeffrey Strock, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jan Strock of Sun City West, Ariz.

The bride-to-be is a graduate of the University of Michigan and Ferris State University College of Optometry.

Her fiancé attended Schoolcraft College and is employed by the City of Royal Oak as a Firefighter/Paramedic. He also serves as an adjunct faculty member at Baker College.

A September wedding is planned at Pine Knob Mansion in Clarkston.

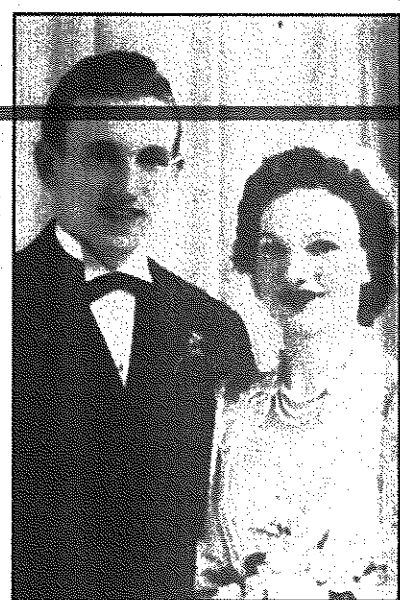

ENGAGEMENTS AND ANNIVERSARIES

NEWTON

Joseph and Jean Newton of Livonia celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary May 8. Friends and family surprised them at lunch time on May 8 with an anniversary cake at the Livonia Senior Center. A family dinner was held May 9.

Joe and Jean work at the senior center serving lunch Monday-Friday. They have been doing this for several years. They moved to Livonia in 1969. Joe retired as a manufacturing supervisor and Jean retired from St. Mary Hospital as a switchboard operator.

They have four children, Betty (Ron) Beiser of Livonia, Nancy (Andy) Caruso of Livonia, Robert Newton of Georgia and Richard Newton of Georgia; six grandchildren; and four great-grandchildren.

SUTHERLAND

Roger and Mary Sutherland of Ann Arbor celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary with a gathering of their children and grandchildren.

The couple were married April 5, 1952, in St. Paul's Evangelical and Reformed Church in Toledo, Ohio.

Mr. Sutherland is a retired anatomy and physiology professor and former head of the biology department from Schoolcraft College in Livonia where he taught over 30 years. Mrs. Sutherland is a homemaker and former dietician with the Cleveland Clinic.

Roger and Mary are active members and have held various leadership positions in Michigan Audubon, Michigan Beekeeper's Association, South Eastern Michigan Beekeeper's Association, Michigan Botanical Club and the Toledo Camera Club. They also volunteer at the Ann Arbor Hands-On Museum. In their spare time, Roger and Mary organize and lead eco-tourism excursions across the country.

The couple's children are Marie Powers of Beaver Island and Brown City, Mich., Stephen of Richland, Mich., Ellen Neal of Faber, Va., Anne Curtis of Grand Rapids, and Peter of Dexter, Mich. They also have 11 grandchildren.

Holocaust center offers docent training

The Holocaust Memorial Center, America's first, will begin its new docent training session 10 a.m. Wednesday, June 19, with an orientation at its current site, 6602 West Maple Road, on the Jewish Community Campus at Maple and Drake Roads.

Docents will learn to guide groups on walking tours through the HMC, explain the exhibits and interpret the history and lessons of the Holocaust. Coordinating the training program is HMC board member and retired teacher.

Participants will receive a script for the museum, view videos, read assigned books and articles and benefit from the experience of seasoned docents who will mentor the trainees. A one-on-one walk-through with an active docent completes the program.

Training sessions can be tailored to meet participants' needs and personal schedules. Docent candidates may complete the training at their own pace. Once they have finished the program, they may choose the day or days on which they would like to serve.

Pre-registration is necessary. For more information, call Selma Silverman at the HMC (248) 661-0840.

Pride and Humility

The dictionary defines pride as proper and justified self respect and a proper sense of personal dignity and worth. Everyone should take pride in their work, their family, their country and heritage. it is also good to take pride in things such as our personal appearance. When we take pride in all of the good things that our Lord has given us, we tend to take better care of them. However, we must be careful to have pride and self respect without arrogance or superiority. Children who are proud of their parents and respect them will try to be better children and do what is pleasing to their parents. As adults, we should always try to do what is pleasing in God's eyes. The Bible tells us that God opposes the proud, but gives grace to the humble (James 4:6). We should try to temper our pride with humility and not have an exaggerated opinion of our selves. The best way to be the best we can be. People who exalt themselves are usually esteemed less by others, and those who humble themselves are often more admired.

...do not think of yourself more highly than you ought, but rather think of yourself with sober judgment.
N.I.V. - Romans 12:13

Chrissy O'Malley of Birmingham has done her share of cardiovascular training.

Today, she takes three classes in Pilates, a fitness method gaining in popularity, every week, and enjoys working out more than ever.

And the results, well, simply astonish her.

Tummy power: Students at The Pilates Institute of Birmingham focus on isolating and strengthening their abdominal muscles during a Reformer equipment class.

"I can't believe the amount of strength I have," said the 31-year-old O'Malley, who began Pilates classes in November when The Pilates Institute of Birmingham opened. "This works out my entire body."

The appeal of Pilates lies with the fitness method's philosophy: Development of core body strength, particularly in the abdominal region, through slow, controlled movements. But along with strength, is improved balance and a long, lean, dancer's physique.

The fitness method was created in the 1920s by Joseph H. Pilates. Widely used by dancers since the 1940s, it struck mainstream fitness circles about a decade ago, making its way from California and New York to the Midwest.

More than results

Aside from the results, today's exercisers, including the baby boomers who embraced aerobics in the 80s, are looking for safer, smarter ways to work out.

Method without madness

Pilates gains favor with among fitness buffs

"Pilates is a good overall workout, and you don't leave hurting," says Tracy Tripp, 35, of Bloomfield Hills. A former personal trainer, Tripp also takes classes at the Pilates Institute of Birmingham.

Oakland County now hosts a handful of Pilates studios where students can enroll in classes using specialized equipment.

The Reformer, a bench with straps and a sliding mechanism, is the most commonly used Pilates machine and looks similar to equipment used in physical rehabilitation centers.

One studio, Equilibrium Mind Body Fitness in Bloomfield Hills, offers certification to aspiring Pilates instructors.

Even mainstream gyms are getting in on the Pilates trend.

American Fitness in Waterford started offering Pilates mat classes about a year ago. Enrollment in the class, which is available both through the gym and Waterford Community Education, has steadily risen, said the gym's co-owner Patti Heath. "It kind of started out slow because it's so new for people," said Heath. "But the word is starting to get out and Pilates is getting more popular mostly because it's a mind body workout," she said. "It really is the new thing."

Pilates is well-suited to an older gym user who can't take high-impact aerobics classes or run on a treadmill, said Sue

Reid, group exercise supervisor for Bally Total Fitness in the Detroit area. "The growth curve in fitness is now older," said Reid. "Besides, fitness is not grinding it out on the treadmill. It's about using mind and body together to create an overall fitness experience."

Body and mind

Like yoga, Pilates tends to calm the mind and lift spirits - another characteristic that appeals to today's exercisers.

"Pilates epitomizes the holistic approach," said Wendy Johnson, owner of The Health of It, a Pilates studio in Beverly Hills.

"Anybody can do a biceps curl and talk about what you did that weekend. With Pilates, you really have to focus."

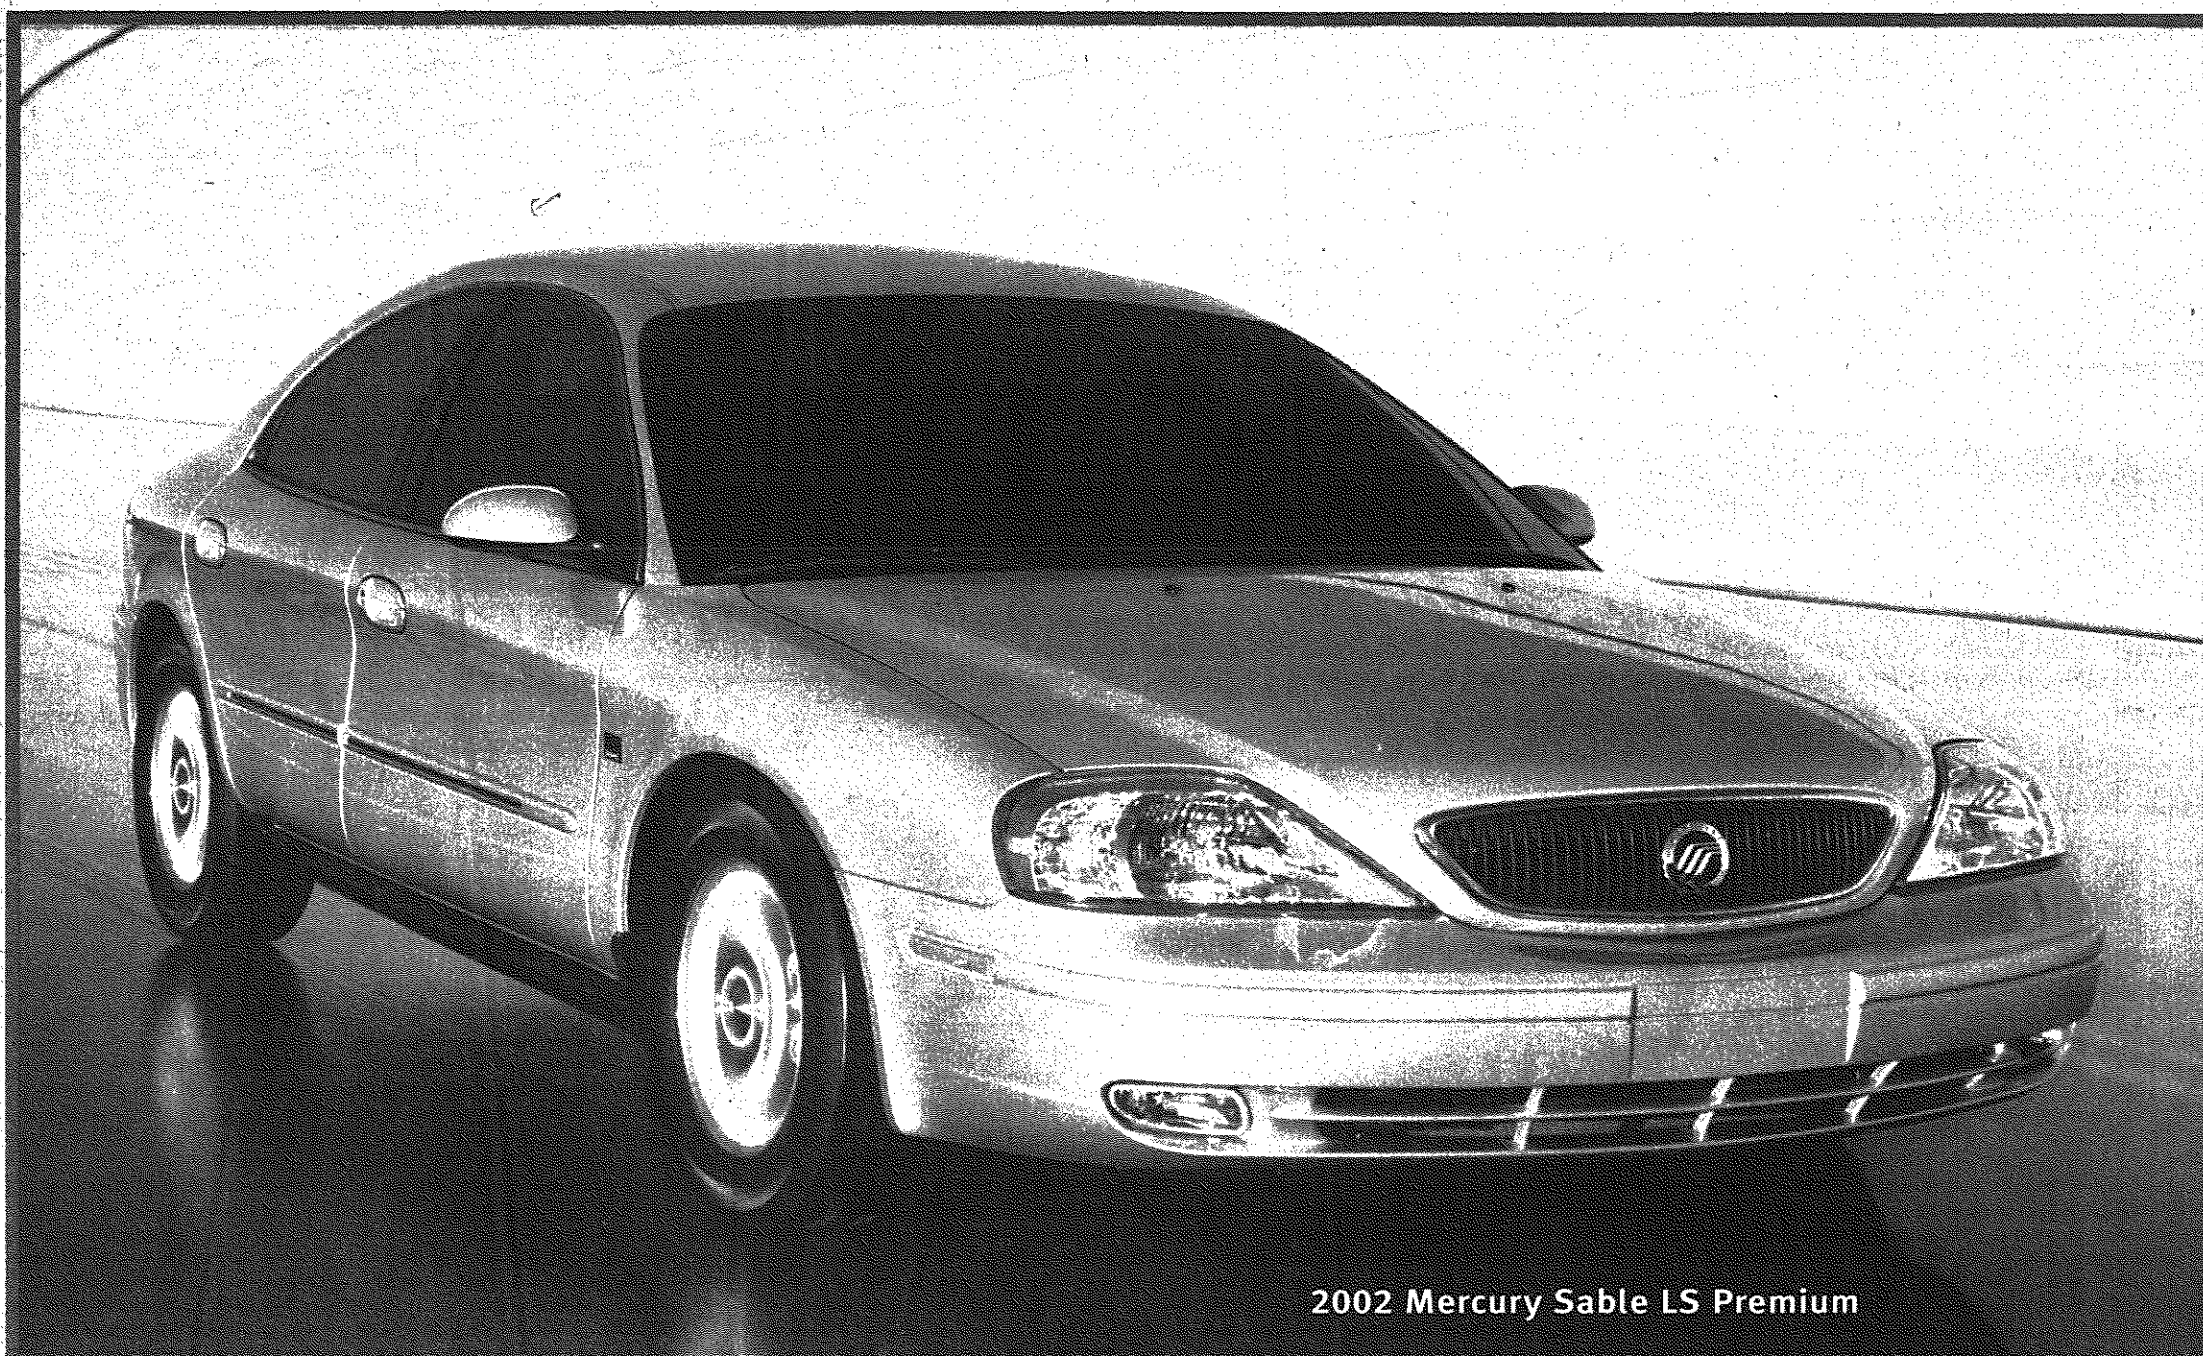

Concentration is required to isolate muscle groups and regulate breathing during movements.

Today there are two branches of Pilates, the original method and another called Stott, which was developed by a disciple of Joseph Pilates.

"The original method gets you moving faster. ... Stott is great for someone who wants to take a real slow approach," said Johnson. "But one is not better than the other. Each is just geared for different people."

Lightning strikes

The Plymouth Lightning '89, an under-13 girls select soccer team, finished first for the second-straight year in their age division in the Canton Cup at Sunday Independence Park.

The Lightning defeated CW3 Extreme Premier, out of Walled Lake, 1-0 in the championship final. Previously, the Lightning beat the Grosse Pointe Breakers 4-2; the Clio Cyclones, 3-1; and they tied Grand Rapids Scor, 0-0.

Team members are Carlee Barackman, Kathleen Bohrer, Lexi Burdette, Katie Salvey, Erika Henuagher, Meghan Hill, Katie Hughes and Hannah Mills of Plymouth; Kelly Buttermore of Salem Township; Shelbi Wisner of Superior Township; Sarah Gorzalski, Caryn Koestva, Addie Radkoski, Karissa Orcha and Michelle Sadler of Canton; and Amanda Dillova and Rachel Yarbrough of Livonia. The team is coached by Jim Zurawski; the team manager is Debbie Dillova.

A young ace

Brian LaCroix, from Canton, has been golfing most of his young life. On May 22, he accomplished something most golfers never manage.

LaCroix, an eighth-grader at Discovery Middle School, got a hole-in-one at Pheasant Run Golf Club in Canton. LaCroix aced the 105-yard seventh hole, using a nine iron.

LaCroix has been golfing for nine years.

Crusaders top seed

The Crusader Juniors Volleyball Club 14 Elite team, based at Madonna University, was undefeated at the State Seeding Tournament in Grand Rapids. Players are Marissa Bober, Katelin Bonk, Teresa Coppielle, Meredith Doyle, Theresa Hamilton, Emily Hunter, Rachel Jeffery, Ashton Judis, Madison McCoy, Lauren Price, Nicole Rotondo and Jennifer Swartz. The team is coached by Kim Price.

Hockey golf outing

The Canton Chiefs and Salem Rocks hockey teams will have their fund-raising golf outing Saturday, Aug. 24 at Hickory Creek Golf Club, located on Napier at Ford in Canton.

Cost is $110 per player or $400 per foursome; for dinner only, cost is $35. The price includes 18 holes of scramble-style golf with a shotgun start at 8 a.m. and a 1 p.m. dinner/auction. Added attractions are a two-year lease on a new car from Hines-Park Lincoln Mercury for a hole-in-one and prizes for best teams, longest drive and closest to the pin.

All proceeds benefit the Salem and Canton hockey programs. Checks should be made payable to the Hockey Booster Club.

For more information, call Pat McKendry at (734) 207-7720; Chris Wolfe at (734) 45-8332; George Fortais at (734) 354-6391; or Mike Young at (734) 454-9048.

Lacrosse camp

Registration is now underway for a summer lacrosse camp, which will be from 9 a.m.-noon at the Community Park Soccer Fields in Northville June 17-21. Cost is $100 for Northville residents; $103 for those in the school district; and $107 for non-residents.

John Beard, head coach of the Michigan Knights, will serve as camp coordinator. There will also be appearances by local high school and middle school coaches as well as all-star prep players. Campers will be grouped according to age and skill level; they should bring a lacrosse/hockey helmet; gloves, stick, mouthpiece, shoulder and elbow pads, an athletic supporter and a water bottle. The maximum number of campers is 100. For registration information, call the Northville Parks and Recreation Department at (248) 349-0203.

Girls hockey

The Canton Black Widows under-10 girls hockey team will host two evaluation skates at 1 p.m. Saturday and Sunday at Arctic Edge Ice Arena, located on Michigan in Canton. All girls 10 and under are invited to participate; the Black Widows, who are affiliated with the Canton Amateur Hockey Association and the Little Caesars under-10 girls travel hockey program, are looking to expand their program.

For more information, call Pete Lamoureux at (734) 495-0812.

End run

Mustangs' late goal puts Chiefs on the sideline

BY C.J. RISAK
SPORTS EDITOR
cjrisk@oe.homecomm.net

The chances were there. But this was not to be the year for Plymouth Canton's soccer squad, the defending Division I state champs. A year ago, the Chiefs dominated every tournament opponent in rolling to the state title; this year they didn't survive a single match, surrendering a goal with 2:41 remaining in a 2-1 loss to Northville in their district opener Tuesday at Canton.

Canton bows out with a 9-5-5 overall record.

PREP SOCCER

Northville, ranked No. 2 in the state with a 16-1-1 record, advances to the district semifinals against Plymouth Salem at 7 p.m. tonight at Northville. The winner of that semifinal plays the Ann Arbor Huron-Novi winner for the district title at 1 p.m. Saturday at Novi.

Both teams scored first-half goals Tuesday, and that's the way it stayed until the final three minutes. The Mustangs, like the Chiefs, had not had a great scoring chance in the second half until, with 2:41 left, Maggie Ossola crossed the ball from the right wing to Larisa Fill in the center of the field.

Fill's header got past Canton keeper Briana Wolcott and into the net to give Northville a 2-1 lead, which the Mustangs made stand up.

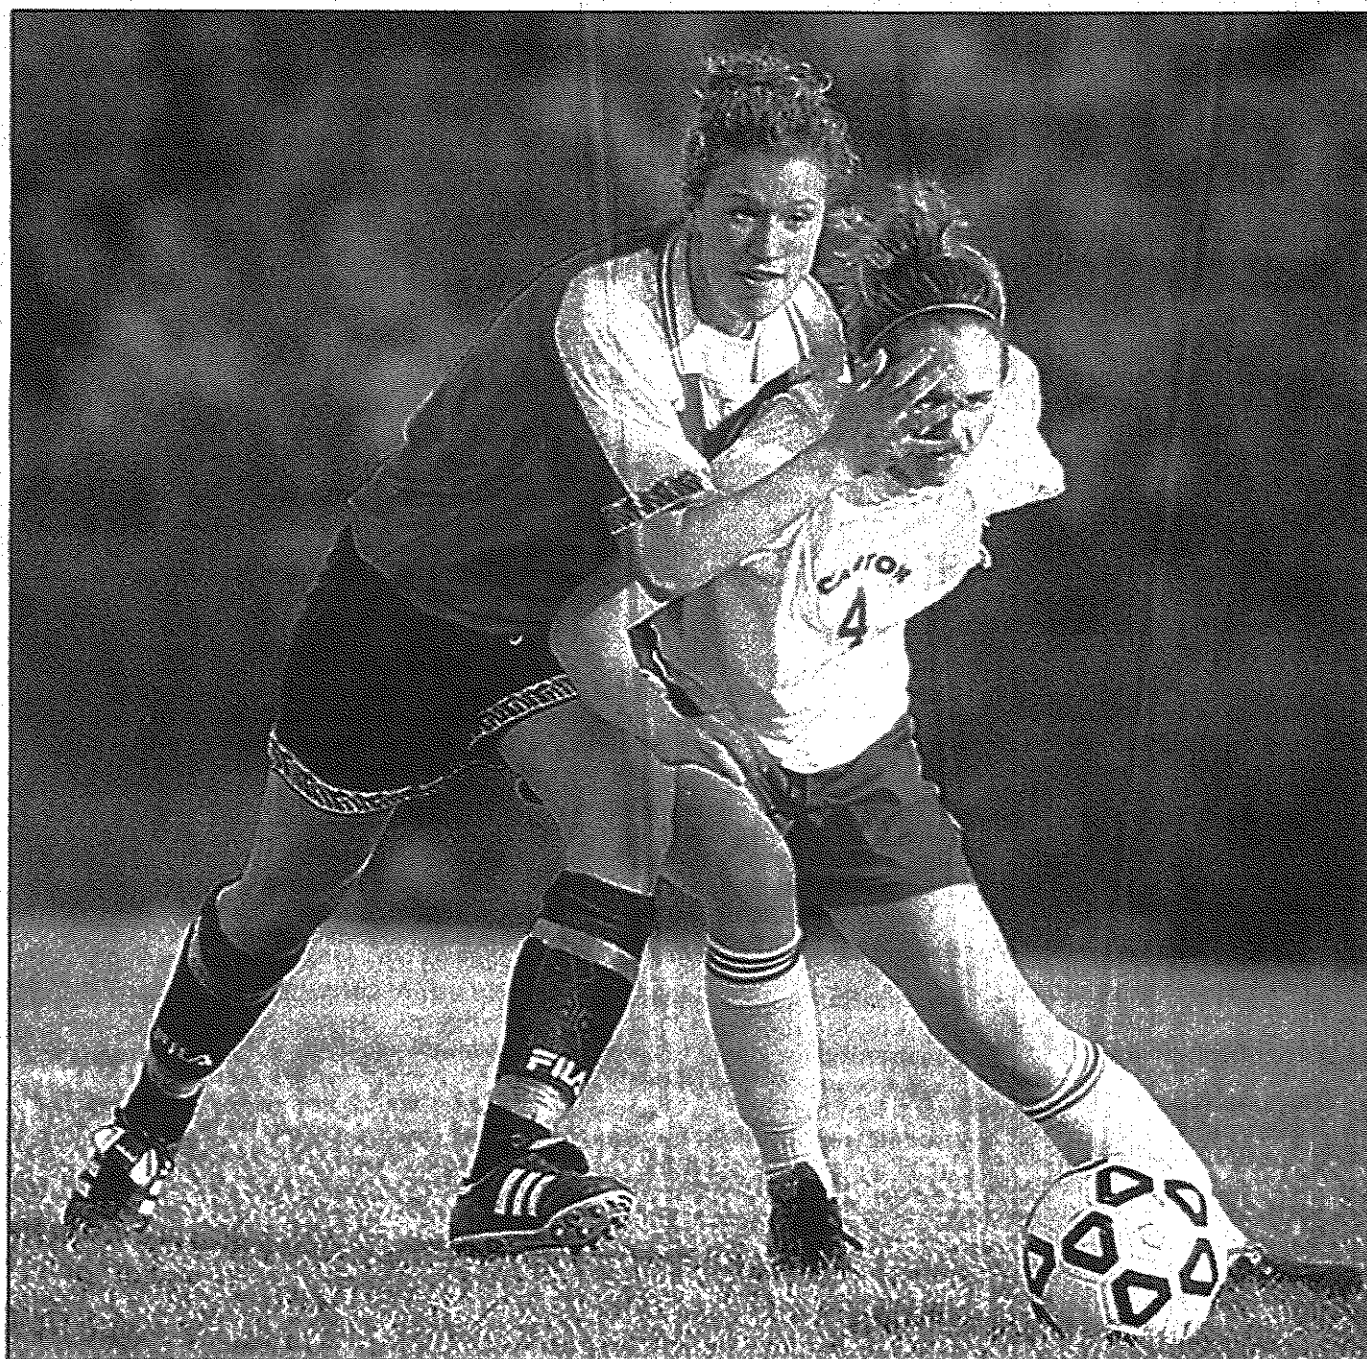

"Two head balls," said Northville coach Ron Meteyer, also noting his team's first-half goal scored on a header by Lindsay Dunmead. "I guess we don't have to practice that tomorrow."

Certainly it was a different Mustang team that took the field in the second half. Dunmead's goal, scored with 26:16 left before halftime, came following a corner kick by Whitney Guenther.

But Northville's defense was hardly tenacious. Indeed, prior to Dunmead's goal, the Chiefs put a head ball off a corner at the net, but Northville keeper Katie Kneisel made a diving save.

Canton kept getting good scoring chances and, with 15:59 left in the half, Stephanie Johnson fielded a cross from Jessica Dean and knocked in a shot off the post, knotting the score at 1-1.

It wasn't the final offensive opportunity of the half — for either side.

That's 2-straight Indy titles for Ilmor engines

BY C.J. RISAK
SPORTS EDITOR
cjrisk@oe.homecomm.net

Before Roger Penske's team returned to the Indianapolis 500 last year, Penske's teams had won 10 titles. But Penske's 10 previous champions never matched what this year's champ did.

On Sunday, Helio Castroneves became the first back-to-back winner at Indy since Al Unser Sr. in 1970-71, when he was driving for Parnelli Jones. Ironically, Unser later drove for

AUTO RACING

Penske; so did his brother, Bobby, and his son, Al Jr. Castroneves' two titles give Penske's teams 12 victories at Indy in 27 appearances.

These last two wins came with engines designed by Ilmor Engineering Inc., which is located in Plymouth. Penske owns 25 percent of Ilmor.

Castroneves' win last year took the racing world by surprise. This year's win was surrounded by controversy.

Castroneves won on Sunday under a caution after Paul Tracy's attempt to pass him was ruled to have occurred after the caution had been issued.

Tracy and his Team Green protested the ruling, both after the race and again on Monday, but to no avail.

Although the end result was pleasing to both Penske Racing Team president Tim Cindric and those at Ilmor, it wasn't the power of the engine that proved decisive. Indeed, Castroneves was only 13th in qualifying.

"We had six cars there," said Ilmor representative Ian Hawkins, "but the cold weather affected them during qualifying."

What the Penske team, with its Ilmor engine, did better than its competitors was gauge its fuel. Cindric opted not to refuel after lap 158, gambling there would be another caution in that time.

Errors end Canton's season

BY C.J. RISAK
SPORTS EDITOR
cjrisk@oe.homecomm.net

This shouldn't have happened. Not now.

Plymouth Canton's baseball team was rolling going into last Saturday's tune-up against a Redford Catholic Central team that was trying to recover from its loss to Birmingham Brother Rice in the Catholic League championship the previous day.

BASEBALL

But that double-header should have served as a warning, if nothing else. The Shamrocks slammed Canton twice, mercying the Chiefs 13-3 and 10-0.

Still, such a thing could be expected from CC, which improved to 22-5 with the sweep. Not so with Tuesday's pre-district game at South Lyon, a team that struggled to win anything all season.

But the Chiefs decided to help the Lions out, committing a season-high five errors — four of them in the fifth inning when South Lyon scored all four of its runs in a 4-2 victory.

"I'm still kind of shocked," said Canton coach Scott Dickey, his team ending its season at 18-10. "South Lyon was not a good team. This was all just kind of frustrating."

Mark Hanson certainly did all he could to avoid the outcome. Hanson tossed a four-hitter, allowing no earned runs and striking out eight. Hanson was also 2-for-3 at the plate with a two-run home run in the fourth inning.

But it wasn't enough.

Please see BASEBALL, D7

FILE PHOTO BY BRYAN MITCHELL

Not good enough: Mark Hanson did all he could for Canton against South Lyon. He did not allow an earned run and slugged a two-run homer, but the Chiefs still lost.

Bucks rout Dayton, but don't qualify

BY C.J. RISAK
SPORTS EDITOR
cjrisk@oe.homecomm.net

The breakout came, but it came too late.

The Mid-Michigan Bucks were expected to be a potent offensive force in their run for a fourth-straight berth in the U.S. Open Cup. But only once did the Bucks manage to score more than two goals in their four qualifiers, and that proved a decisive factor.

SOCCER

That one time came Saturday when the Bucks dismantled the Dayton (Ohio) Gems, 4-1 in a Premier Development League soccer match Saturday at Plymouth Canton HS.

The win gave the Bucks a 3-0-1 record in their qualifiers — good, but not quite good enough. The Des Moines Menace were also 3-0-1, but edged the Bucks on goal differential (plus-10 to plus-five) to gain the Open berth.

The Bucks are currently 3-1-1 in the United Soccer League's Great Lakes Division.

The disappointment of not qualifying for the U.S. Open, which could have given the Bucks a shot at playing an MLS team (they defeated New England in a Cup match in 2000), was apparent but hardly overwhelming.

According to general manager Jim Duggan, the Bucks — under first-year head coach Dario Brose — are just beginning to congeal.

Blazers fire away at Eagles in 14-0 victory

BY BRAD MONASTIERE
STAFF WRITER
bmonastiere@oe.homecomm.net

One-half inning of Tuesday's pre-district softball game took almost as long to complete as the other four-and-a-half, but as far as Livonia Ladywood was concerned, it all counted as a win.

The Blazers eased their way to an opening-round 14-0 win over Redford Thurston at Ladywood's softball field. Ladywood (19-12) now advances to Saturday's district semifinal against Detroit Renaissance, while the Eagles finish the season with a 4-20 record.

Ladywood was held scoreless through the first two innings but exploded for 11 runs in the top of the third, removing all doubt from the final outcome. The team sent 17 batters to the plate and belted out nine hits in the inning.

"I'm happy with the way things worked out," said Ladywood coach Bob Lulek. "We got a lot of kids in the game and I feel very confident with the level we're playing at right now."

Thurston coach Ann McManamon saw her young team struggle all season long, and did so again against the Blazers, committing seven errors in the contest and recording no hits.

"We had some good innings, but had some bad ones as well, which is what happened to us all year long," she said.

Thurston junior pitcher Jackie Green pitched well in the first two innings, but ran into trouble in the third when the Blazers did their damage. Danielle Palasak led off the inning with a single to left, and picked up another single later in the inning that drove in a run. Amanda McFlellan and Meghan Wilkenson followed with doubles, and the rout was on.

Sue Malonis and Erin Hulett drew back-to-back bases loaded walks to make the score 3-0, and a Thurston error brought in two more to make the score 5-0. Malonis later delivered a two-run single, and Patty Kolinski added an RBI single to round out the scoring in the big inning.

The Blazers picked up three more runs in the top of the fifth. Mindy Mitchell and Kristin Grewe slapped back-to-back RBI singles, and Jennifer Walkuski beat out an infield single that scored the final run of the game.

Alicia Taylor started the game on the mound for Ladywood and went two innings with two strikeouts. Liz Malek pitched the third, while Cory Sandrowicz pitched the final two, striking out one.

Green and Courtney Kruse drew walks in the second inning when the Eagles made their biggest threat to score. Sara Liske also got on base for Thurston in the game.

Ladywood could be looking at another matchup with rival Dearborn Divine Child in the district finals, and Lulek said the key for the team will be consistent play.

"We're a very good bunting team, and that will be a key to us getting through the district," he said. "We started the season a little slow, but we've been moving up a little each week. How we did against Divine Child in the regular season means absolutely nothing now."

Chiefs eliminated by Lions

BY C.J. RISAK

The outcome caught Plymouth Canton softball coach Jim Arnold by surprise — and maybe it shouldn't have.

Because if there's one thing this season's Chiefs' team should have taught Arnold, it was to expect the unexpected.

In its Division I pre-district qualifier, Canton gave up three first-inning runs without the benefit of a hit, and that was more than it could overcome in losing to host South Lyon 4-2.

The Chiefs finish their season at 16-14.

"This just wasn't a good outing for us," said Arnold. "It's been one of those seasons this year. We couldn't put things together consistently."

Certainly Canton started the season strongly, winning its first four games before going into a slide. Still, Arnold could sense progress when the Chiefs rallied to place second at the 16-team Madonna University Tournament May 18-19.

"I thought we were peaking at just the right time," Arnold said.

He was wrong. Against South Lyon — a team the Chiefs beat 5-2 at Madonna — pitching ace Renee Ross could not get on track. "She couldn't get her control," Arnold said, noting Ross kept slipping on the mound.

The result was a disastrous start. Ross lasted just 2/3 of an inning, walking two batters and hitting another before Michelle Roelofs replaced her.

In the first inning alone, the Lions scored three runs on four walks, a hit batsman, an error, a fielder's choice and a sacrifice fly.

That was more than Canton's offense could overcome. Indeed, the Chiefs managed just four hits in the game while striking out 12 times.

They got one run in the second inning on a double by Pam Hudson, a sacrifice and a ground out by Danielle Weber. South Lyon scored an unearned run off of Roelofs in the fifth, but Canton came back with a run of its own in the sixth on a single by Jonelle Brown, an error and Colleen O'Brien's sacrifice fly.

Brown was the only Chief to get two hits in the game.

Roelofs turned in a strong performance in relief, giving up one unearned run on six hits and two walks, striking out one in 5 1/3 innings.

The pitching win went to Lindsay Noren, who surrendered one earned run on four hits in seven innings, striking out 12.

"Today, we just didn't hit the ball," said Arnold. "It was (a frustrating season). This was one of those teams that had lots of talent, but it just didn't come together."

Blazers sideline Falcons

BY DAN O'MEARA

In a game between two good defensive teams, both sides knew it was quite likely one goal would decide the outcome.

SOCCER

That was all Livonia Ladywood, which has had difficulty generating offense this season, needed to defeat host Farmington in a girls district tournament soccer game Tuesday, 1-0.

"A lot of people have been saying Ladywood can't score, and the team wanted to prove them wrong," Blazers coach Jill Logsdon said. "They were driven to score today, and that goal is proof."

Ladywood (7-4-5) advances to play Redford Union in another district game tonight and will probably be seen as a slight favorite to win the title after eliminating the defending champion Falcons (8-6-3).

"This is a great ego-booster for our team," Logsdon said. "We picked up our play, and we'll go into the rest of the tournament with a lot of confidence."

"Beating Farmington is a key win for us. They're a tough team; they played hard the whole game. It took the same kind of effort for our team to come out victorious."

While it was largely an even game, Ladywood did have an edge in possessions and scoring chances.

The Blazers capitalized on one of those opportunities early in the second half when Sandy Swish scored off a rebound at 35:44.

Ladywood was pressuring the Farmington defense when Katie Rozum fired a shot that was blocked by goalie Kate Kelly, who had to step out to make the stop. That made it possible for Swish to knock in the rebound.

"At halftime we knew we had to come out and score right away," Logsdon said, "and it would pay off for the team that scored, as long as they kept the momentum, and it did."

Otherwise, it was a game dominated by the defenses with neither side having many quality shots in the first half and just a few more in the second.

Farmington had a chance with 4:13 remaining but couldn't make the right connection.

Joyce Rose got open on the left side and lifted a pass into the middle, but the ball rolled out of bounds on the far side of the net before Erica Rose could get to it.

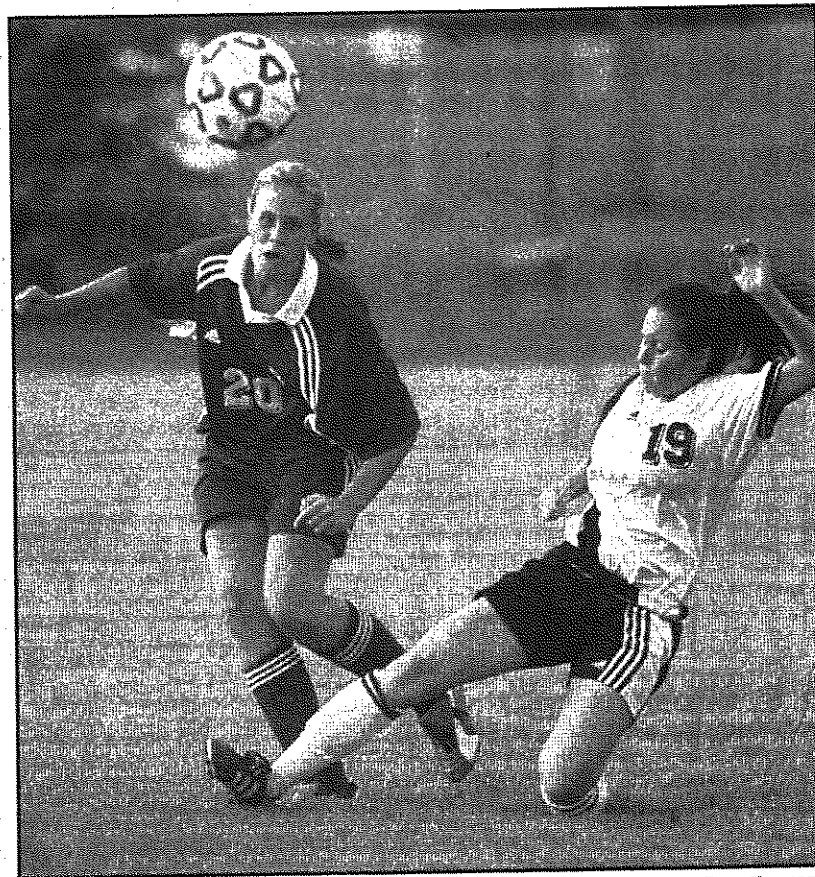

That resulted in a Farmington corner kick, but the Ladywood defense cleared the ball without a shot being taken.

With just over a minute to play, Julie Goettlicher turned and fired a hard shot from just right of the Ladywood net. Blazers goalie Stefani Szechewski was right there to quickly knock the ball down.

"(The Blazers) played a great game," Falcons coach Steve Montgomery said. "We had opportunities and didn't capitalize. We were scoring a lot of goals the last few games, but the week layoff and the distractions that come with the end of the school year didn't help."

"But you can't take anything away from Ladywood. They played well; they did a great job. As much as I hate to admit it, they deserved to win the game."

Montgomery added he thought it was going to be a one-goal game and whoever got it first would have a big advantage.

District tournament soccer: Farmington's Erica Rose gets to the ball before Ladywood's Christine Williams with a sliding effort Tuesday in a district tournament soccer game. Ladywood spoiled host Farmington's post-season hopes by winning the game, 1-0.

"We needed more possessions in the midfield and didn't get them," he said. "I'd say Ladywood had a few more possessions. Ladywood had good chances and finished one. A real fast forward could capitalize on their offside trap, and we weren't able to do it."

With the lead, the Blazers could rely on their strength — defense — though they did continue to attack.

"All year we've had a strong defense, and it starts with the keeper," Logsdon said. "In the second half, (the defenders) worked hard, were first to the ball and got the offense started. If they play well, the whole team plays well."

Montgomery said it was a disappointing loss, but his players took it well and life goes on.

"They don't feel they played their best game, but Ladywood did," he said. "Both teams put pressure on the other, and they came out on top. It was a good game for both teams."

MHSAA submits new sports season-changing plan

Stating its belief that more students are helped and fewer are hurt by adding new tournaments than by switching existing seasons, the Michigan High School Athletic Association submitted to a Federal District Court a plan that would change the scheduling of its tournaments in three sports and add four new tournaments for girls.

The MHSAA's tournaments for golf, swimming & diving and tennis would be affected. The MHSAA's Lower Peninsula tournament in boys golf would move to the spring, girls golf to the fall; girls swimming & diving would move to the winter, boys to the fall; and boys tennis would move to the fall and girls to the spring. In the Upper Peninsula, the MHSAA's championship for girls golf would move to the fall while boys golf would remain in the spring; boys swimming & diving would move to the fall, while girls swimming & diving would remain in the winter; and the MHSAA's U.P. championships in boys and girls tennis would reverse seasons as in the Lower Peninsula.

These changes are dependent upon the approval of the U.S. District Court in Kalamazoo later this summer, and none of the changes will occur if the MHSAA's appeal of the District Court's decision to the U.S. Court of Appeals is successful. On May 9, the Sixth Circuit of the U.S. Court of Appeals delayed until at least 2004-05 the District Court's ruling that seasons be realigned in 2003-04.

The MHSAA's plan also commits the association to starting four new post-season tournaments for girls before adding any new tournaments for boys. Two new tournaments would be initiated each year for two years, with the association choosing the four sports that serve its membership best from the following list of 12 sports: bowling, crew, equestrian, field hockey, figure skating, ice hockey, indoor track & field, lacrosse, powerlifting, synchronized swimming, water polo and wrestling.

The Compliance Plan was approved by the MHSAA Representative Council during a recent meeting this morning and filed with the Federal Court. Plaintiffs have two weeks to respond to the Plan, after which the MHSAA has two weeks to reply. The U.S. District Court in Kalamazoo will conduct a hearing regarding the Plan on July 18.

"Schools and their students wanted no change," said MHSAA Executive Director John E. "Jack" Roberts, "but no change is not an option for the court-ordered plan. We had to comply with the Court's Order to place an equal number of tournaments in what the Court ruled are disadvantageous seasons and still respect the overwhelming sentiments of our membership to maximize participation by scheduling boys and girls in different seasons in basketball, Lower Peninsula golf, soccer, Lower Peninsula swimming & diving and tennis."

The Plan leaves three girls' sports and places three boys' sports in the District Court-designated disadvantageous season. It puts three girls' sports and leaves only two boys' sports in the District Court-designated advantageous seasons.

"We have gone beyond the Court's order to demonstrate further the intent of this organization and its member schools to promote opportunities for girls in athletics," said Roberts. "Decades ago, schools scheduled sports seasons for girls in order to facilitate the fastest growth possible in girls' athletic opportunities, and their efforts have proven successful. In every one of the sports at issue in this case, Michigan's girls high school sports participation rates are better than its eighth rank nationally in population for high school age girls."

The MHSAA also released the results of a survey of its membership conducted in late April regarding sports seasons.

"The response was phenomenal," said Roberts. "In two weeks' time, more than 86 percent of our member schools responded with properly signed survey responses. This attests to their great interest in the issue, and their concerns for the outcome."

Basketball is the sport that schools least want moved for either gender. Basketball is also the sport that schools least want combined in the same season for boys and girls. No plan for season changes received majority support, but the option selected by the Council - addressing golf, swimming & diving and tennis - received the best response.

"The Council listened to schools as well as it could," said Roberts. "Schools and their students really wanted no change, and there wasn't enthusiasm for any particular option. But the Representative Council always takes its direction from the membership, and the membership has spoken.

"The part of this Plan that excites us is the part that does not disrupt schools, coaches and student-athletes, but challenges the MHSAA office to come up with the resources to provide high quality tournaments for girls in four additional sports over two years."

Area athletes shine at Meet of Champions

For some, it was one last chance to shine. For others, it was a warm-up for this weekend's state meet.

There were no team scores kept at Saturday's Ann Arbor Meet of Champions, held at Ypsilanti HS, but there were plenty of strong efforts by local athletes. For Plymouth Canton's boys, there were a pair of first-place finishes in individual events and a school-record in a relay.

The Chiefs' shuttle hurdle relay team of Pawel Paszkowski, Steve Kilijanczyk, Ken Page and Dane Kobus finished first in 1:02.3, breaking the school record.

Page was also a winner in the long jump, leaping 20 feet, 4 inches. Kobus placed second for Canton in both the long jump (19-10) and 110-meter hurdles (15.2), and Brad Waidmann tied for first in the high jump (6-1). Finishing in a three-way tie for fourth in the high jump was Mike Lanus (5-8).

Plymouth Salem's girls team had no first places, but the Rocks had plenty of standouts. Among them was a second by Lynden Gault in the 400 in a season-best 1:00.4.

Individually speaking, the Rocks also got a third by Jessica Shamberger in the 100 dash (13.1); a fourth from Erriane Bundle in the 100 (13.1); a fourth from Melissa Drake in the high jump (4-9); a fourth from Shamberger in the 200 (26.9); a fifth from Lauren Kane in the 3,200 (13:03.7); and a fifth from Ashleigh Shear in the discus (105-4).

Salem's 4x200 relay team of Bundle, Shamberger, Vicky Rozalski and Gault placed fourth in a season-best 1:47.5, and the 4x100 relay team of Bundle, Shamberger, Drake and Celena Davis also took a fourth (51.1).

Laura Friedman, Jill Grey, Erin Jensen and Kara Dendrinis finished fifth for Salem in the 4x800 relay (10:06.2).

The Division I track finals will be Saturday at Rockford HS.

"The last two games have been a significant improvement in our team playing as a team," said Duggan. "The organization through the central midfield has been much better. They mark up quickly and there's great improvement in not giving the ball away."

That wasn't the case in a 2-1 overtime loss to the Chicago Fire Reserves in a match played 12 days ago. "Horrendous," was Duggan's description of his team's play in the midfield against the Fire. "And on both of their goals, our defenders left their marks."

Both the players and the coach — who, due in great part to NCAA regulations that forbid college players (who make up most of the Bucks' roster) from joining PDL teams before May 1, had just one week of practice together before the season-opener — are now becoming familiar with each other.

"The guys are getting to know each other," said Duggan. "Dario is getting to know them, what they can do, and they're finding out what's expected of them. We've got a lot of depth."

Saturday's game did have some similarities with previous matches. For starters, poor weather delayed the start of the game by 45 minutes.

Then the Bucks started slowly, allowing the winless Gems (0-4) to take the early lead on a goal scored in the 12th minute. They tied it a minute before halftime, Pat Noonan getting the first of his two goals in the game.

The Bucks took the lead for good five minutes into the second half when Shawn Lee, a defender from Trinidad and Tobago making his debut with the Bucks, pushed forward and scored unassisted. Nine minutes later Noonan scored again, this time with an assist from Justin Dettler.

The Bucks' final goal came from John Swann, 17 minutes into the second half; Ryan Mack (from Birmingham Seaholm) assisted. Eric Pogue (Troy Athens) was in goal for the Bucks; he had five saves.

The Bucks play their second, and last, match of the season at Birmingham Seaholm at 7 p.m. Sunday, this one against the Indiana Invaders. The two teams met in the season-opener in Indiana, a match that ended in a 1-1 draw, called 20 minutes early due to inclement weather.

Discounted tickets for the match may be purchased from the Bloomfield Force/Flames and the Michigan Hawks/Wolves soccer clubs; at George's Soccer Stores in Lathrup Village and Troy; or at Global Soccer in Lake Orion. Tickets at the gate are $9 for adults and $6 for students.

For more information on tickets or the Bucks, call (734) 483-GOAL or e-mail the Bucks at info@mmbucks.com.

Gas mileage for these cars doubles when running under a caution.

Castroneves' ability to conserve fuel and the engine itself were also factors in the outcome.

"It really came down to fuel economy," said Hawkins.

Castroneves averaged 166.5799 mph. His victory gave him the overall lead in the IRL driver's standings; Penske teammates Gil de Ferran and Felipe Giaffone are second and fourth, respectively.

Last year, Castroneves drove an Ilmor-designed Oldsmobile engine. Hawkins called this year's engine, a Chevrolet, "basically the same power plant." Both are loosely-based on the Aurora V8.

"We've been working on this for the last year," said Hawkins. "It's been under constant development, for both mileage and power."

Penske's, and Ilmor's, racing interests go well beyond the IRL. They also sponsor the Mercedes/McLaren team in Formula One, which finished first at the Monaco Grand Prix Sunday.

"It was quite a weekend," Hawkins said, laughing. "We're still high on Indy. We've got a lot of races left, but you've got to celebrate (the wins) when you get them, because you don't know when your next one will come."

Until last year, it wasn't certain if a Penske team would get another win at Indy, simply because it wasn't racing there. The Penske Racing Team was part of the CART (Championship Auto Racing Teams) circuit; from 1996 through 2000, it did not race at Indy.

Penske, and Ilmor — which relocated to Plymouth from offices at Detroit Diesel in Redford in 1998 — returned to Indy last year, still racing for CART.

Because of a court ruling that limits the advertising of tobacco companies in sports, Marlboro, Penske's top sponsor, could not have its name on his car at last year's Indy 500 because it was an IRL (Indy Racing League) race and Penske was associated with CART (tobacco companies can advertise/sponsor in one circuit or the other, but not both).

The Penske Racing Team circumvented that by leaving CART and joining the IRL this year.

The move looks like a winner, for all those involved with Penske and Ilmor.

With 10:15 left, Dunmead scored again for Northville but the goal was disallowed after an offside infraction. Then with seven minutes remaining, Rachel Perry took the ball from Guenther at midfield and broke in alone on goal, with Kneisel racing out to confront her.

Perry, however, failed to get off a shot on goal.

"We walked right in on them a few times," said Canton coach Don Smith. "We just didn't take advantage of it. We did what we had to do . . ."

Except score.

Failing to pounce on those opportunities would prove devastating for the Chiefs. Northville adjusted its play in the second half, more mentally than technically.

"We got on their case (at half-time)," said Meteyer. "We named names, we named numbers of players who weren't doing what they needed to do. There were no vague generalities."

These were also two teams that knew what the other had to offer. Earlier this season, they had played each other to a 1-1 draw.

"We've played them twice, we've seen them before, we know what they're going to do," said Meteyer.

And they handled it — successfully. Now the Mustangs will try and do the same against Salem, a team they beat 2-1 April 17 at Northville.

It could be a greater challenge this time around.

In their first meeting, Salem was without midfielders Jordan Falcusan and Sara Schupra, both out with injuries. Also, star midfielder Marissa Sarkesian was playing in just her first game, having missed three matches due to MHSAA sanctions.

All three are expected to be in prime condition for tonight's rematch.

South Lyon answered Canton's two-run fourth with its four-run fifth, starting the rally with a base hit. An error on a bunt attempt put runners on first and second; the next batter was also prepared to bunt the runners up, but a passed ball made that unnecessary as the runners moved to second and third.

A grounder to second was then booted, allowing both runs to score and tie the game at 2-2. But the comedy of errors was not yet over; a walk and a wild pitch put runners at second and third, both scoring on a base hit.

Four runs on two hits, four errors, a passed ball, a wild pitch and a walk.

Canton, on the other hand, scored two runs in the fourth on a single by Joe Kondratek and Hanson's home run, with two other hits in the inning but a baserunner getting picked off first eliminating a scoring chance. A double play in the sixth on a line shot to shortstop, which followed a base hit, wrecked another scoring chance for the Chiefs.

In other words, it just wasn't meant to be.

South Lyon advances to play Plymouth Salem in the state district semifinal Saturday at South Lyon.

In the first game against CC Saturday, the Chiefs scored three runs in the fifth on a walk to Chris Pirch, a Kondratek base hit, a walk to Hanson, a Brent Kwiatkowski fielder's choice that scored one run and a Matt Kay single that scored two more.

But that was more than offset by freshman Eric Vogtkofsky, who had three hits in that game (including two doubles). He also had two hits in the second game.

"I don't think we were prepared to play them," said Dickey of the double-header mercies. "I haven't seen a freshman hit the ball like that since (Canton's) James Wisniewski."

Indeed, Matt Staley started and lost the opener, giving up seven runs (five earned) on six hits in 1 1/3 innings. In the second game, both teams emptied their benches, playing their entire rosters.

Still, finishing their season with four-straight losses — after winning their previous six — was not where Dickey figured the Chiefs were headed. "It was frustrating," he repeated, once again.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING
CHARTER TOWNSHIP OF PLYMOUTH
PLANNING COMMISSION

TO AMEND TEXT:

AN ORDINANCE TO AMEND PLYMOUTH CHARTER TOWNSHIP ORDINANCE NO. 83 BY AMENDING ARTICLE XIX, PLANNED UNIT DEVELOPMENT OPTION AND ARTICLE XXXII, DEFINITIONS, TO ADD PROVISIONS FOR THE ARC, ANN ARBOR ROAD CORRIDOR DISTRICT AND OS-ARC, OFFICE SERVICE-ANN ARBOR ROAD CORRIDOR DISTRICT, AND CONDOMINIUM PROJECTS, TO SAID ORDINANCE.

DATE OF HEARING: June 19, 2002

TIME OF HEARING: 7:00 P.M.

PLACE OF HEARING: PLYMOUTH CHARTER TOWNSHIP HALL
42350 ANN ARBOR ROAD

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Planning Commission of Plymouth Charter Township proposes on its own motion to amend Article XIX, PLANNED UNIT DEVELOPMENT OPTION, as follows:

ARTICLE XIX

PLANNED UNIT DEVELOPMENT OPTION

A. The PURPOSE section is hereby proposed to be amended to add the ARC and OS-ARC Districts, to read as follows:

PURPOSE:

It is intended by the Community that uses of high intensity shall be located in areas which will not adversely impact the orderly development of existing or future residential areas. Commercial, office, research, testing and residential uses in structures beyond two (2) and two and one-half (2½) stories in height are more than urban in nature and, therefore, could be in conflict with a specific development area and the general character of the Township of Plymouth, if not properly regulated in regard to location, relationship to adjacent land uses and development requirements. The Community has provided a MR Mid-Rise District to provide for locations for these higher intensity uses, separately or in combination, in areas which will not impact the existing or future land uses of adjacent properties and the Community as a whole. The Community, however, recognizes that within the C-2 District, IND, Industrial District, OS, Office Service District, OR, Office Research District and TAR, Technology and Research Districts there may be sites which, because of certain existing and specific factors, could be developed as a Planned Unit Development (P.U.D.) beyond the 2 to 2½ stories without negatively impacting adjacent properties and the community as a whole.

It is understood that said developments may be consistent with the planning goals of the community only in specific locations, under specific conditions, related to height, bulk and location of buildings in accordance with sound planning and site plan principles. It is further the intent that any uses permitted by this option be compatible and consistent with the availability of utilities, both existing and planned, for the area in which the P.U.D. is proposed. It is therefore, intended that the P.U.D. option permit flexibility in the regulation of land development, encourage innovation in land use and variety in design, layout and type of structures constructed, achieve economy and efficiency in the use of land, natural resources, energy and the provisions of public services and utilities, encourage useful open space, and provide better housing, employment and shopping opportunities particularly suited to the needs of the residents of the Township of Plymouth in the C-2, Commercial District, IND, Industrial District, OS, Office Service District, OR, Office Research District and TAR, Technology and Research Districts on parcels of five (5) acres or greater where the basic principles set forth in this article are met.

Further, the P.U.D. option shall also be available in the ARC, Ann Arbor Road Corridor District, and OS-ARC, Office Service-Ann Arbor Road Corridor District, subject to certain conditions applicable only to properties located within those districts. The purpose of allowing this flexibility within the Ann Arbor Road Corridor is to:

- Achieve a higher quality of development than would otherwise be achieved.
- Encourage assembly of lots and redevelopment of outdated commercial properties.
- Encourage in-fill developments on sites that would be difficult to develop according to conventional standards because of lot shape or size, abutting, development, accessibility, or other site features.
- Ensure compatibility of design and function between neighboring properties.
- Encourage developments in the ARC and OS-ARC Districts on parcels of one (1) acre or greater that are consistent with the Township's Master Plan, the Ann Arbor Road Corridor Plan, the basic principles set forth in this Article and the conditions of Section 19.12B, General Conditions for Sites in the ARC and OS-ARC Districts.

However, it is not intended that the use of the P.U.D. option in the ARC and OS-ARC Districts should detract from the primary function and use of the Ann Arbor Road Corridor as a commercial area, but rather it is intended only to provide some flexibility for limited uses within the Corridor.

B. SECTION 19.1, STATEMENT OF PRINCIPLES, is hereby proposed to be amended to add the TAR, ARC and OS-ARC Districts.

C. SECTION 19.12, GENERAL CONDITIONS, is hereby proposed to be amended to incorporate the existing language of this section under a new sub-section "A", entitled "SITES IN THE C-2, IND, OS, OR and TAR ZONING DISTRICTS" and amend Section 19.12 - A.1-b.4 to add:

- Facilities such as a licensed restaurant or bar may be permitted in an IND, C-2, OR, TAR and OS District, when said facilities are attached to or occupy an integral part of a main structure within the Planned Unit Development. In reviewing this aspect, the Commission and the Board shall find that the proposed restaurant or bar is consistent with the Purpose and Statement of Principles Sections of this Article.
- Research, testing and training uses including industrial or scientific research, development and testing laboratories and offices.
- Residential uses

D. SECTION 19.12, GENERAL CONDITIONS, is hereby proposed to be amended to add a new sub-section "B", entitled "SITES IN THE ARC AND OS-ARC DISTRICTS" and provide subsections B.1-B.15, as follows:

B. SITES IN THE ARC AND OS-ARC ZONING DISTRICTS:

- Permitted Uses for Sites in the ARC District.
- Permitted Uses for Sites in the OS-ARC District
- Site Area and Density Standards
- Maximum Building Height.
- Building Setbacks.
- Perimeter Yard Setbacks:
- Open Space and Green Area;
- Circulation, Parking, Loading and Access Management;
- Utilities:
- Landscaping
- Signs
- Streetscape Improvements
- Outdoor Lighting
- Sidewalks
- Elevators

E. SECTION 19.14, CONFLICTING ORDINANCES, and SECTION 19.15, VALIDITY, are hereby proposed to be deleted in their entirety.

F. SECTION 19.14, CONDOMINIUM PROJECTS, is hereby proposed to be added as a new section, as follows:

SEC. 19.14 CONDOMINIUM PROJECTS:

For any condominium proposed as a P.U.D., the applicant shall provide a copy of the Master Deed and Condominium Association Bylaws for approval by the Township Board of Trustees. The condominium documents shall provide limits on use of common areas or openspace for accessory structures such as swimming pools, decks, playground equipment and buildings. A plan shall be provided indicating the limits of such accessory structures within a defined envelope.

Prior to approval of the Final Development Plan, the applicant shall submit the necessary documents to the Township Attorney for review and approval by the Board of Trustees. The Association documentation shall include provisions for the following at a minimum:

- The conditions upon which the approval is based, with reference to the approved Final Development Plan.
- When open space or common areas are indicated in the development plan for use by the residents, the open space or common areas shall be conveyed in fee or otherwise committed by dedication to an association of the residents, and the use shall be irrevocably dedicated for the useful life of the residences, and retained as open space for park, recreation or other common uses.
- A program and financing for maintaining common areas and features, such as walkways, signs, lighting and landscaping.
- Assure that trees, waterways and woodlands will be preserved as shown on the Final Development Plan.
- Assure the construction and maintenance of all streets and necessary utilities (including public water, wastewater collection and treatment) through bonds or other satisfactory means, for any and all phases of the P.U.D. In the case of a phased P.U.D., this requirement shall be reviewed at the time of any final development plan approval.
- Address any other concerns of the Township regarding construction and maintenance.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Planning Commission of Plymouth Charter Township proposes on its own motion to amend Article XXXII, DEFINITIONS by adding definitions for "Apartment, Accessory," "Dwellings, Stacked Flats," as follows:

- APARTMENT, ACCESSORY. A dwelling for one (1) family located above a permitted non-residential use in the same building. Each dwelling shall have separate and individual kitchen, bath and toilet facilities, and a separate and distinct private entrance.
- DWELLING, STACKED FLATS. A building occupied by three (3) or more families, where dwellings are divided by party walls in the horizontal plane and floor-ceiling assemblies in the vertical plane in an appropriate manner for multiple-family uses. Each dwelling unit is capable of individual use and maintenance without trespassing upon adjoining properties and utilities and service facilities are independent for each property.

CONFLICTING ORDINANCES:

All parts of the Zoning Ordinance No. 83 and Subdivision Ordinance No. 32 conflicting or inconsistent with this article are hereby repealed only to the extent necessary to give this Article full force and effect.

VALIDITY:

Should any section, clause or provision of this Article be declared invalid, the same shall not affect the validity of the whole of this Article or of Ordinance No. 83 as a whole or any part thereof, other than the part so declared to be invalid.

NOTICE IS FURTHER GIVEN that the proposed amendment to the text, as printing, may be examined at the Plymouth Township Clerk's Office, 42350 Ann Arbor Road, and at the Community Development Office, 46555 Port Street, during regular business hours, 8:00 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., until the date of the Public Hearing. Written comments concerning the request will be received prior to the meeting. For more information, please call (734) 453-8131, Extension 37. At the Public Hearing, the Planning Commission may recommend the text changes as proposed or as amended.

JOSEPH BRIDGMAN,
Secretary
Planning Commission

Please Take Note: The Charter Township of Plymouth will provide necessary reasonable auxiliary aids and services, such as signers for the hearing impaired and audio tapes of printed materials being considered at the meeting, to individuals with disabilities at the meeting/hearing upon one week notice to the Charter Township of Plymouth by writing or calling the following: Supervisor's Office, 42350 Ann Arbor Road, Plymouth, MI 48170. Want the truth about generic drugs?

Your doctor knows about the quality of generics.

Grand Value Pharmacy

Grand Value pharmacist Kevin White agrees, "Physicians and pharmacists work together as a team to help patients understand that generic drugs are the same as brand name drugs so they can make an informed choice about their health care."

Ask your local pharmacist about generics.

Rite Aid Pharmacy

Rite Aid pharmacist Sara Fakhoury agrees, "Doctors write hundreds of prescriptions every day and whenever I see an opportunity for generics, I call the physician and he agrees to change because he also knows that generic drugs are safe and effective."

According to the U.S. Food and Drug Administration's Center for Drug Evaluation and Research

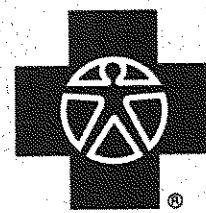

In a letter sent to health practitioners by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration about the therapeutic equivalence of generic drugs they write, "For both brand-name and generic drugs, the FDA works with pharmaceutical companies to assure that all drugs marketed in the U.S. meet specifications for identity, strength, quality, purity and potency. In approving a generic drug product, the FDA requires many rigorous tests and procedures to assure that the generic drug is interchangeable with the brand-name drug under all approved indications and conditions of use. For these reasons, the FDA-approved product labeling does not recommend that any additional tests need to be performed by the health care provider when a switch occurs from a brand-name drug product to a generic equivalent drug product."

On specifying lender source; 'flipping' on sale of house

I'm interested in buying a condominium unit, but the developer is pushing hard to get us to use a lender which the developer, I understand, controls.

Do I have any latitude in that regard as I am particularly interested in that unit?

Under Section 113 of the Condominium Act, as amended in 2001, a developer, builder and sales agent cannot require a purchaser to obtain financing exclusively from a specific lender.

REAL ESTATE QUERIES

ROBERT M. MEISNER

I have just been ripped off by a seller who sold me a house for a price which far exceeds its real value. I'm buying on a land contract and didn't get an appraisal. Is there anything I can do?

You may be the victim of a shady seller, who's referred to in some states as a "flipper," that is one who buys a house cheaply and then sells it to an unsuspecting home buyer for a price well in excess of real value.

There have been cases in other states where a purchaser has been able to obtain damages for what is tantamount to fraud and which would appear to be a violation of the Consumer Protection Act.

Consult with an attorney familiar with this new area of the law. You may also wish to write to the attorney general to see if the consumer affairs department can offer you relief.

Robert M. Meisner, a lawyer, concentrates his practice in the areas of condominiums, real estate, corporate law and litigation.

Oh, no!

Your house is for sale and the adjacent property is a big mess

BY DOUG FUNKE
STAFF WRITER
dfunke@oe.homecomm.net

You've done everything you possibly could to get your home ready for sale.

You've spruced up the yard, polished the windows, replaced the crumbling concrete porch steps, painted inside and out. The place looks terrific and it's priced right, but there's no action.

The reason is simple. The house next door or the one behind the back fence or the one across the street out front is a mess.

The grass is overgrown, full of weeds and dandelions. Or clunker cars parked around the property give the impression of a repair shop or sales lot.

Or peeling paint, well-worn shingles, clogged gutters and dilapidated windows bring to mind the children's book, The House That Had Enough.

Rose Butkovich, a Realtor with GMAC Quality in Livonia, remembers taking a prospective buyer to a home where the next door neighbor, who had been at odds with the seller, "basically let everything go to hell."

"They didn't want anything to do with it," Butkovich said of her clients. "They went into the house that was listed, and it was beautiful, but then again, the house next door was an eyesore."

Talk to any Realtor and you probably will get a similar story.

"The first impression a buyer actually gets of a home sometimes includes the neighbor's yard," said Mary Savoie, an associate broker with Snyder Kinney Bennett & Keating in Birmingham.

"We both know how important first impressions are. A lot of times, sales mentally are made or broken right there," Savoie said.

"I've had situations of junk cars or debris in the (adjoining) yard," said Marilyn Moir, associate broker with RE/MAX Village Professionals in Clarkston.

"What it really means, like any other condition you face, is value is affected," Moir added. "If you don't adjust for value, it will sit on the market longer. It's an unfortunate situation."

"I think communication is the key.... Depending on the relationship between the potential seller and annoying neighbor, you may be able to approach them... get some kind of understanding and they may... cooperate."

Marilyn Moir

— associate broker, RE/MAX Village Professionals

So now what?

"I think communication is the key," Moir said. "Depending on the relationship between the potential seller and annoying neighbor, you may be able to approach them... get some kind of understanding and they may be able to cooperate."

Offer to help, or better yet, promote a blitz of all homes and common areas on the block, Moir suggested. Make it a social as well as a working event.

"Organize a block party and organize a cleanup involving the whole neighborhood, so it's not personal," she said.

Style counts big-time if you decide to approach a neighbor for that talk. "Be gentle," Butkovich advised. "Make subtle, careful suggestions. Don't come up and say, 'Your place looks like crap.' Keep them abreast about what's going on. Don't let them find out (about the move) when they see the for-sale sign in your yard."

A beverage or some cookies to share while talking could set a good tone.

Savoie, who's been in the business nearly 30 years, has found that confronting the offending neighbor won't do much good.

"I think it's mostly people who don't care about the aesthetics of their own surroundings," she said of scofflaws. "Talking to them probably will offend them and make it more difficult. I don't see that as a means of getting them to clean up."

Her solution — go to the code enforcement department in the municipality where you live. Most cities and townships have laws about storing vehicles, running a business out of a garage and keeping grass and weeds under control.

Also, many newer developments have deed restrictions — rules and regulations — enforceable by a homeowner's association.

Savoie recalled a problem in Birmingham with improvements that seemed to stall at a house behind a listing she had.

"I started putting pressure on the city," she said. "When I called, then they called the (offending) owner. Finally, they threatened to ticket. It was fixed. I don't know whether you could do that in every community, but I bet you could."

Here are couple of other strategies:

■ Elderly folks or persons with health problems may have difficulty maintaining their property. They also may be more receptive to some friendly persuasion.

Offer to make some inexpensive cosmetic repairs, trim the bushes and regularly mow their lawn and police their yard for debris between listing your house for sale and closing. In winter, offer to shovel snow off their sidewalks and porch.

It could be time and money well spent.

■ Consider erecting a high-quality privacy fence. Again, a high-quality privacy fence.

But first check with your local building department and homeowner's association to make sure you can do it and learn about any restrictions on height, materials and other construction standards.

■ Send your Realtor over to talk to a recalcitrant neighbor. A third party may be able to better reason and convince the neighbor that everyone will be better off with cooperation and a quicker move.

Check your credit report for blemishes

Mr. and Mrs. Borrower were burned out on the renting scene. They happened upon a beautiful doll house in the neighborhood of their dreams. Excellent! The price was exactly in their target price range and they were ready to place an offer.

Mr. Seller, savvy on today's real estate trends, insisted that he would only entertain offers from borrowers who had been properly qualified by a professional lending institution. Anxious to lock up this gem, the Borrowers rushed off to get pre-qualified for a mortgage.

To their dismay, they found that their credit report was blemished by unpaid medical collections placed shortly after their child's birth. Further, Mr. Borrower was infuriated by credit carnage from his previous marriage that should have been resolved per his divorce judgment years ago.

Unfortunately, correcting credit reporting errors, and removing inaccurate information, can often take months. Had they known earlier, they could have repaired their credit with the three major credit repositories — Experian, TransUnion, and Equifax.

Alternatively, they could have turned to non-profit organizations, local or national credit repair companies, or their attorney for assistance. Their costs and headaches would have varied greatly depending on the choice. Sadly, all of these methods required time — a commodity which was no longer theirs.

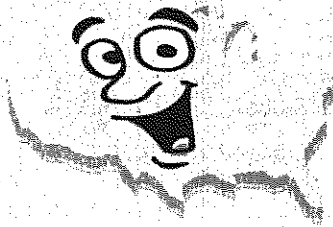

Their mortgage broker, a full-time loan officer, told them about some fascinating credit repair tools offered by the credit bureaus with whom he contracted. Such programs, often called "Quick Fixes" or "Rapid Re-Scores," allowed him make fast, permanent credit repairs in a matter of only a few business days.

To benefit from such tools, borrowers must be able to provide written documentation showing that the credit report information was wrongfully reported, and will usually pay about $20 per repository for each item.

A recent client of mine, a single mother, invested $220 in credit repairs which allowed her to purchase a home for which she would not have otherwise qualified. The Borrower family did the same thing.

Cooperation keys smooth disposition of estate

(AP) — A parent's death can be devastating, taking a heavy emotional toll even on adult children.

Then, to add to the grief, there's the difficult task of disposing of the estate — not just houses, securities and bank accounts, but a lifetime of possessions.

In some ways, it's impossible to prepare for the process. Just as it is difficult to predict what emotions will surface, there is no way to know in advance all of the family, practical or logistical problems that will arise as children sort through assets and belongings.

Financial planners say disposing of an estate can be made much easier if parents have done some careful planning, not just leaving a will, but letting children know where bank and brokerage accounts and any real property are located.

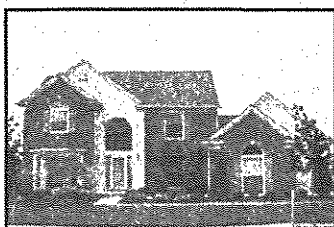

It can also be helpful if parents write what are known as testamentary letters, expressing their wishes about who gets the good china or the clock that's been in the family for generations.

BIA UPDATES

The Building Industry Association of Southeastern Michigan now provides weekly updates of news and information affecting the construction industry to members via e-mail.

Contact Rosalie Lamb at the association, (248) 737-4477 for details.

CONTAMINATION SITES

VISTAinfo, a publicly owned company based in San Diego, has a Web site that offers a free overview of environmental conditions - contaminated waste sites, hazardous waste locations and landfills - by ZIP code.

The Internet address is www.NearMyHome.com.

More specific reports are available for a fee.

PLAYGROUND SAFETY

A book available from the Community Associations Institute can help community association managers and board members ensure that their playgrounds and tot lots are as safe as possible.

Detailed information is provided on safety inspections and implementing an effective maintenance plan.

"Playgrounds for Young Children" is available for $40 by calling (703) 548-8600, or ordering through www.caonline.org.

SALES WEB SITE

Curious as to what houses are selling for in your neighborhood?
