Plymouth-Canton school officials are bracing for what could be a $912,000 cut in state funding after Gov. Jennifer Granholm this week announced an executive order forcing $134 million in school budget cuts statewide.

However, at least one state legislator believes Granholm is just posturing, and the cuts won't ever come to fruition. State Rep. John Stewart (R-

Residents are ready for first Big Chill

BY JACK GLADDEN STAFF WRITER

Plymouth may have its Ice Festival, but Canton is gearing up for the Big Chill a winter event that special events coordinator Jennifer Eubanks hopes will become an annual affair.

Scheduled for Friday, Jan. 31, and Saturday, Feb. 1, the activities will take place in Heritage Park, Summit on the Park and Victory Park.

Everything from a Monopoly tournaments to an adult road rally to a chili cookoff to - are you ready for this? - an outdoor kite flying contest are on the agenda.

"I think I'm excited about the movie," Eubanks said. "It's the first time we've run one in the gym."

The featured film is Disney's Snow Dogs starring Cuba Gooding Jr.

There will be plenty of indoor as well as outdoor activities, so people who aren't aficionados of winter weather can have fun and stay warm at the same time.

"I hope the cold doesn't scare anyone off," Eubanks said. "We're working really hard to make the events as fun as can be?

Some events include a fee or may require pre-registration. Call Canton Leisure Services at (734) 394-5460 for more information.

Party leaves sour note for woman

A Canton resident reported to police last week that on Jan. 9 she went to a bar in Ypsilanti for the evening.

After the bar closed, she said, she invited four men and three women back to her apartment to party. She said she went to bed after a time and later found two rings, some money and two credit cards missing.

While she was making the police report, she received a call on her cell phone from MasterCard telling her someone had just tried to use her card in Ypsilanti and Ann Arbor at Western Union offices to have $800 and $1,600 wired to some unknown location.

She said she didn't know the names of the people at the "party" and couldn't remember where the bar in Ypsilanti was located.

A Wayne resident reported to Canton Police on Jan. 14 that in August 2002 he wrote a check to his doctor whose office is in Canton.

Sometime after that, he said, his check along with several others were stolen from the doctor's office. He said recently someone has been taking money out of his credit union account in Dearborn.

He was advised to file a report with Dearborn Police.

WINDOW BROKEN

A resident of the 46000 block of Geddes Road reported that while sitting inside his mobile home on Jan. 14 he heard glass break.

He look out the broken window and saw two juveniles running from the scene. He chased them, caught up with them and one of them admitted to breaking his window.

When police talked to the youth and his mother, the boy said he would pay for the window or work to pay it off. The resident did not wish to press charges as long as the youth took care of the damage.

SHOPLIFTER NABBED

Security guards at Meijer called police about 11 a.m. Jan. 14 to report that someone had stolen merchandise from the store.

They said they watched a man take an electric shaver and several packs of batteries and put them in his coat. He then left the store without paying.

The guards followed him out of the store but he refused to stop, got into a Green Ford Escort and headed north on Canton Center.

A police officer responding to the call saw the Escort just north of Ford Road. He stopped it and arrested the man on the spot.

Local man heads for possible Iraq war

BY TONY BRUSCATO STAFF WRITER

Operation Enduring Freedom is hitting close to home for a family that attends St. John Neuman Catholic Church in Canton.

On Tuesday, Marine Reservist Tom Piotrowski Jr., of Plymouth, was busy packing his gear and saying goodbye to family and friends. His Bridge Company Alpha unit has been activated, and is headed to California before a possible deployment to southwest Asia, as the U.S. gears up for a possible war with Iraq. "We found out Saturday while at drill in Battle Creek (Fort Custer)," said Piotrowski, 23. "We knew there was a possibility of us being sent out soon.

"We were actually activated Friday, but they gave us the official word on Saturday," he added. "They sent us home and told us to be back by 1800 today (6 p.m. Tuesday).

Last year, Piotrowski's unit was put on alert after the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks. However, this time it's for real.

"No matter how much you prepare for it, you really can't," he said. "It still hits you like a ton of bricks.

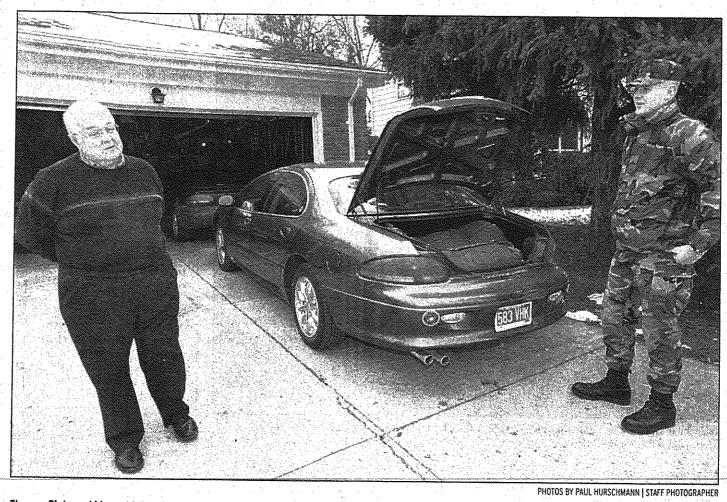

"As for concerns about myself, not really. That hasn't hit me yet," Piotrowski said. "I'm really more worried about <sup>0</sup> the people I'm going to leave behind, how they are going to handle it emotionally.

With tears in her eyes, his mother, Aurelia, is fearful, but at the same time knows her son has a job to do.

"I pray for his safety. I'm very proud of him," she said. "The irony of this is that my son is going to protect freedom, so we can continue to agree to disagree about our different political views. Freedom isn't free. We have to fight for it and defend it."

His girlfriend, Renee Ash, 23, is trying to prepare for the sudden change in life's direction.

"I don't want him to go," she said. "I'm going to try and keep myself busy by going to school and working so I don't have a lot of time to worry about not being with him."

While at Fort Custer in Battle Creek, Piotrowski expects to get briefed, be issued his orders and prepare to leave for California on Saturday.

"I'm leaving for probably a year," he said. "They told us it will probably be a minimum of three months and a maximum of two years."

Bridge Company Alpha specializes in constructing bridges for troops and equipment, and then taking it down until needed elsewhere.

"It's been a rough 70 hours. That's all they gave us to say good-bye and take care of any personal issues," Piotrowski said. "I would have liked that one extra day we were supposed to get. If we had a twoweek notice, I probably would have gone out of my mind."

On Monday, Piotrowski put his personal life on hold. He graduated from Michigan State University in May with a degree in criminal justice, and had just enrolled in the police academy.

"Yesterday (Monday) was the first official day of classes and I had to go in and cancel," he said. "I was really hoping to get through the 16 weeks of the academy before something like this happened."

Piotrowski, who has a sixyear contract with the Reserves, said if it comes down to a confrontation with Iraq, he would like to see the United States finish business this time, unlike the war in Iraq in 1991.

"I hope we take care of it so we don't have to go back 10 years later," he said "I strongly feel that if it were taken care of the first time, this might not be a problem right now."

Renee Ash looks up at her boyfriend, Thomas Piotrowski Jr., after he packed his duffle bags into the trunk of his dad's car Tuesday before heading off to Battle Creek, where his regiment will ship off to prepare for a possible war in the Middle East.

Sheriff re-establishes Internet Crimes Unit

Less than one week into his administration, Wayne County Sheriff Warren Evans announced today the creation of a new Internet Crimes Unit to track down. among others, sexual predators who are expecting to prey on children through Internet chat rooms.

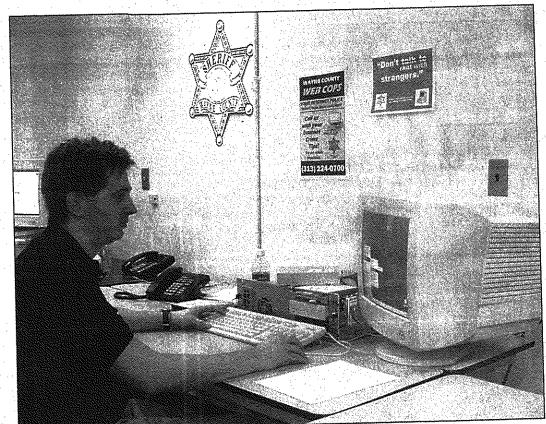

M4 (C)

Observer & Eccentric | Sunday, January 19, 2003

To lead this new team, Evans has recruited the same officers who created the first county Internet Crime Unit in Michigan, which received national attention for its groundbreaking work. That unit, however, was disbanded late last year by the previous sheriff's administration.

"Internet crime, specifically in the area of sexual predators, is growing at an alarming rate every day. Our children are at risk and we need to use every tool we can to protect them," Evans said. "It is important that parents, and potential online predators, know that someone is watching."

Evans said the unit will consist of several officers, who will go online and pose as children in Internet Chat Rooms. Once a potential predator contacts them, the officers will establish a relationship that may eventually lead to a request for a sexual encounter. If a meeting is arranged, an arrest will be made at the time of the meeting.

Erin Diamond of Livonia is part of the Wayne County Sheriff's Internet Crimes Unit which seeks out sexual predators and identity thieves.

Although its primary focus will be on sexual predators, Evans said the unit's scope will be expanded beyond what it was previously.

"Other types of criminals we will target are identity thieves and computer software pirates," Evans said. "Senior Citizens, especially, are vulnerable to being tricked into providing vital personal information that can lead to disastrous consequences."

In fact, estimates by consumer advocates suggest that as many as 750,000 identities are stolen each year. An increasing number of those identities are stolen over the Internet, Evans said.

Evans said the unit will begin operating immediately and hopes it will be able to make its first arrest in the coming weeks.

Anyone wishing to report criminal activity in any of these areas can call Wayne County's Internet Crime Unit at 313-224-0700 anytime.

Seniors swing at mall's monthly dances

It's not the Copacabana Barry McHale. Manilow has been known to sing about. But then again, when it comes to performers, Manilow is a shade young for this group of swingers.

In fact, Jim Lauri and The Upbeats is a perfect match for the senior citizens who are drawn to Westland Center the first Monday of the month.

For more than 10 years, the shopping center has been hosting a senior citizens dance once a month in the Community Room on its lower level. On average more than 50 seniors turn out to dance to the music of their ear.

"We usually have the same band every month," said Ed McHale, the mall's general manager." For the most part, he plays their music, but tries to throw some other music in there as well."

The dance is popular with seniors who come from Westland, Livonia, Plymouth, Canton and other surrounding communities to dance.

They pay $1 to attend with the money offsetting a portion of the cost for the live band and the refreshments - coffee and muffins - that are served. No reservations are necessary, just show up at the door, said

"Actually, a lot of people do get dressed up for the dances," he said. "Ultimately, it's a nice social event for them."

The dances are just a few of the activities the mall sponsors that attract seniors. It offers free blood pressure screening through Oakwood Hospital once a month as well as the Westland Walkers, an organized mall walking group that held is first meeting of 2003 Wednesday morning.

The shopping center opens it doors at 7 a.m. Monday-Saturday and at 8 a.m. Sunday at Arcade 2 by Olga's Kitchen for the mall walkers. The walking ends at 10 a.m.

The group has a meeting the second Wednesday of the month, except during the summer months, in the Community Room. The hour-long meeting includes a guest speaker, 50/50 raffle and snacks.

"It's for all ages, but more seniors take advantage of it," said McHale.

For seniors interested in dancing, the next dance will be 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. Monday, Feb. 3:

$10 and will have two speakers. It will be held at Salem High School and will feature the Rev. Alfred Johnson, pastor at Bethel AME Church in Ann Arbor, and Lily Eskelsen, a well-known Hispanic Elementary school teacher from Utah.

School Superintendent Jim Ryan said, "Î do hope we're moving to an understanding that there's a lot of different people making up the 17,000 kids in our district."

The library concert will feature Vision, the men's glee club from the Detroit High School for the Fine and Performing Arts, at 6:30 p.m. at the library. The 27-man group will perform pop, spiritual and classical selections under the direction of Sheryl Valentine and will be accompanied by local pianist David Reynolds.

Vision will be followed at 7 p.m. by Frank Gaskin Jr., aka <sup>a</sup>Franky the Genius." Gaskin is billed as a multilingual poet and world jazz guitarist, who will offer a mix of jazz, samba, African and funk styles. He's known for his pioneering guitar technique which allows him to simultaneously play bass, chords and melody on his acoustic guitar.

Refreshments will be served after the concert. The event is free and open to the public.

About 220 township employees will spend the day attending three training sessions running concurrently so people can rotate among the sessions, according to Dan Durack, administrative and community services director. All sessions will take place at Summit on the Park.

One session will be a showing of the movie "Remember the Titans," based on a true story of two high schools, one white and one black, who consolidate under orders to integrate. The year is seen through the eyes of the football team where the man hired to coach the black school is made head coach over the highly successful white coach.

The second session will feature a video, "Flashpoint," which shows how people of different ages have different outlooks on life because of different life experiences or generational issues.

Durack said that session will also feature an episode from "Twilight Zone, The Movie," which stars Vic Morrow as a redneck who makes some racist remarks after losing a promotion to a Jewish colleague, then finds himself in the shoes of the various people he condemned.

The third session will feature Ian Hill, whom Durack described as a "dynamic" speak-

"He will talk about commonality rather than diversity," Durack said. "Not how different we are but how alike we are."

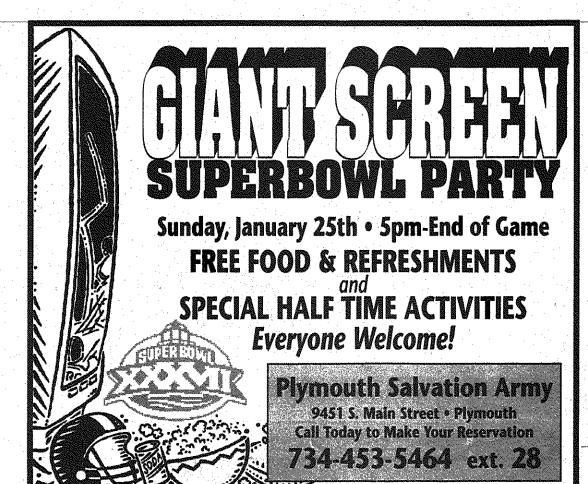

Durack said the sessions will break for lunch about 11:30 a.m. and will include a buffet with different ethnic foods.

"This year." he said. "we wanted to make the sessions informative and educational, but also entertaining and fun to keep people interested throughout the day."

Registration begins at 8:45 a.m. and sessions will conclude about 4:30 p.m.

Brandon Township, Northville and Howell. The reading promotion runs through April 4, and will encompass Black History month in February, Havenstein-Coughlin said. Gaines' 1993 novel is set in the black community in which he grew up in the land near River Lake Plantation near New Roads, Pointe Coupee Parish, La. He was born Jan. 15, 1933, in that community and worked in the sugar cane fields as a child.

The book is the story about two black men, one a wrongly convicted death row inmate, the other a teacher who visits him in prison, and their struggle to live and die with dignity in their community during the 1940s.

"Though the places in my stories and novels are imaginary ones, they are based rounding areas where I worked, went to school, and traveled as a child. My characters speak the way people speak in that area," he is quoted as saying in his publisher's Web site - www.randomhouse.com.

The book won the 1993 National Book Critics Circle Award for fiction. He is the author of The Autobiography of Miss Jane Pittman, which was published in 1971 and was turned into a movie staring Cicely Tyson.

According to his biography, he was raised by his maternal aunt, Augusteen Jefferson, who was the role model for Miss Jane Pittman. Gaines was the oldest of 12 children and at the age of 15 he joined his mother and stepfather in California to continue his education because there wasn't a high school he could attend in Pointe Coupee Parish and because at the time it was against the law for people of color to enter public libraries.

He is the writer-in-resiis a recipient of the John D. and Catherine T. MacArthur Foundation Fellowship in 1993 for his lifetime achievements.

To promote the reading of Gaines' book, the Canton library will be passing out buttons and posters.

"We hope people wear the buttons and when they see a each other, start talking about the book," said Havenstein-Coughlin.

'We'll also have a librarian going into the high schools," she said. "We'll bring copies of the book."

The book will also be the topic of discussion at the "Lunch and a Book" program at the Canton library at noon on Thursday, Feb. 13. The event is open to the public. People can bring their lunch and the library will provide coffee.

Q: What are good or bad molds?

A: There are about 300,000 different molds. A "safe" mold is in the blue-veined cheeses such as blue, Roquefort, Gorgonzola or Stilton or the white molds of Brie and camembert. The fuzzy green mold that grow in the refrigerator on forgotten foods are bad! Take precautions to avoid moldy foods. Mold can grow on bread, soft cheese, grain, meats, dairy foods, fruits and vegetables. Throw these moldy foods out! Q: Many people deep-fried their turkey over the holidays; are there any advantages?

A: Probably the biggest reason this method is so popular is that the turkey cooks relative fast, three to five minutes per pound in a deep fat fryer. There are many risk factors that also need to be considered. You need a large pot to accommodate a turkey so alking across the snowcovered parking lot in the early hours of the morning increases the pleasure I experience coming into the bakery. The heat of the oven provides a wonderful antidote to the bitter cold of winter.

Already, some of the golden loaves are being transferred to the cooling rack. Head baker Noel Black's long-handled peel draws out of the oven masterpieces, crackling hot and smelling indescribably good. Each one has its own charm of shape, color or texture. But none more than a multigrain bread, which is unique to The Give Thanks Bakery. It's called Swiss Multigrain.

The ingredient list reads, "natural wheat flour, purified water, sprouted whole wheat, corn, buckwheat, sunflower, sesame and flax seeds, barley malt, sea salt and a Biga starter."

This wonderful bread is more than a sum of its parts. It is wholesome, light yet substantial, and has a full-flavored taste

Now, it is true that multigrain bread can often taste like bird seed. But not this one. There are some interesting reasons for that. Let's take a closer look at the list of ingredients for part of the answer:

Natural wheat flour -Creamy in color (never bleached or bromated), this flour is the closest, in specifications, to the flour used in France for artisan bread.

Biga starter - Italian by origin, Biga is a whole-wheat starter that replaces the use of yeast to leaven the dough. It takes 16 hours for the Biga to develop the necessary strength. The wait is worth it. Then, long fermentation, in a cold environment, gives the bread wonderfully complex flavors and long shelf life (without the use of preservatives or any form of fat.)

So, there you have it -ahigh-nutrition, honest loaf - a great source of fiber and full of delicious flavor. Earlier, I wrote that the ingredients are part of the answer as to why Swiss Multigrain tastes so good. As important as the ingredients are, there is more to it than that. Each stage of production plays an important part - the mixing of the dough, its shaping, its cold fermentation (another 18 hours) and its baking. All are all crucial.

That's why we are blessed to have Noel Black to see to all those vital steps. He's one of the finest artisan bakers in the country. Ask him how he does it and he'll tell you, "It's easy."

Don't believe him. It's the result of rare skill. And respect for the real craft of artisan bread-baking.

Lentils help take chill out of winter

January is prime soup season. A steaming pot of soup on a cold winter's day warms the soul and nourishes the body. It will fill you up and fill your home with appealing fragrance.

Putting together a pot of soup doesn't have to be an allday project, and some of the most healthful soups take the least time to prepare.

The place to start is with lentils. Unlike many dried beans and legumes, lentils cook quickly because they don't require soaking. Health experts love lentils because they are rich in vitamins, minerals, dietary fiber and the phytochemicals that help protect your body from cancer and other chronic diseases. A standard, one-half cup serving of lentils contains six to eight grams of fiber and so much protein that they can be used as a meat substitute. Using lentils in dishes is also an inexpensive way to provide hearty, healthful bulk. In addition to soups, lentils are used in salads, dips, stews, and as toppings for whole grains like rice or couscous. Lentils are ethnically diverse, popular in many parts of Europe, India and the Middle East. Brown lentils are used in hearty peasant stews and tiny green lentils are a French delicacy. Before cooking, pick through them and remove debris and any broken or discolored lentils. Rinse them under cold water and place them in a pan along with a bay leaf and enough water or broth to cover by one inch. Cover and bring to a boil, then reduce the heat to low and simmer 10 to 20 minutes, adding more liquid as necessary, until they are just tender. Season to taste with salt and pepper.

When cooked right, lentils are chewy yet tender, with the kind of mouth-feel and flavor we expect from comfort foods. If overcooked, they may become mushy.

In this Italian-inspired recipe, lentils, fresh vegetables and some olive oil are cooked with pasta to make a satisfying, nutritious soup that will warm any January day.

ITALIAN LENTIL STEW

- 1 tablespoon extra virgin olive oil 1 medium carrot, finely chopped (about 1 cup) 1 small onion, finely chopped (about 1 cup) 1 cup diced fennel 1 1/2 cups green or small brown lentils
- 1/2 cup finely-chopped flat-leaf parsley
- 1/2-1 teaspoon basil
- 1/2-1 teaspoon marjoram
- 1/2-1 teaspoon chopped dried chives
- Sait and freshly ground black
- pepper, to taste 1/3 cup small pasta
- 6 cups water

Lentils, fresh vegetables and olive oil are cooked with pasta to create this Italian inspired dish that can be served as a soup or stew.

In a small Dutch oven or 3quart saucepan, heat the oil over medium high heat.

Stir in the carrot, onion and fennel and cook 3 minutes, stirring occasionally, just to soften the vegetables slightly.

Add the lentils and 6 cups water. Stir in parsley, basil, marjoram and chives. Bring to a boil, reduce heat and simmer for 30 minutes, uncovered.

Stir in the salt, pepper and pasta. Cook until the pasta is done and the lentils are soft, 10 to 15 minutes. Add more water, stirring it in gradually until mixture is desired consistency. Adjust seasonings and add more herbs if desired.

This dish can also be served as a soup, depending on the amount of water used. At this point, the stew (or soup) can be served, or stored in the refrigerator or freezer.

Makes 8 servings if served as a stew, more if thinned to a soup.

accustomed to such conditions, anyone used to more temperate weather can get caught unprepared.

Before setting off to take photographs in very cold conditions, you should spend some time preparing your equipment and your own clothing. Almost any camera can be operated normally to about zero degrees, but at temperatures lower than this, difficulties may start to occur.

Why do cameras function less efficiently in the cold? The most common reason is loss of battery power. Batteries not only operate the metering system, but also operate the shutter on most newer cameras. than during fair Batteries work by chemical reactions which always proceed more slowly at lower temperatures. Solution: Keep the battery in your pocket until just ready to shoot. Take your shots, then place the battery back in your pocket to keep it warm.

There are precautions you should take, too, for photographing in very cold weather. Dress warmly, in layers, and make sure your clothing allows easy access to cameras and lenses. Wear two pairs of gloves: a heavy outer pair and a thin inner pair. Remove the outer gloves when you're ready to shoot. The thin pair will keep your hands warm yet will enable you to work all camera controls.

In cold weather, you must take special care with your film. Because it can become brittle, advance it carefully and slowly as you run through the roll (turn off your power-winder) and rewind it carefully, too.

Besides the physical problems of working in low temperatures, there are other considerations, a major one being exposure. Snow-covered scenery is quite different from the average scene and the meter can be fooled. Remember that all meters are programmed to read average gray, so with snow scenes, be sure to overexpose a stop or two in order to produce a good negative

When you come in from the cold, pay special attention to your camera.

Water vapor in a heated room condenses on cold metal and glass surfaces and your camera will become covered with moisture. No damage will be done, just be sure to wipe off your camera.

There you have it. During the next cold snap get out and snap some prize-winning shots.

The new book on Motown is a slow read on music minutiae unless you might happen to be a recording. executive or involved in the business somehow.

Though Posner brings us many of the facts of the rise and fall of Detroit's historic Hitsville that history to life. And there's really not a whole lot that's new on these pages, either.

As to plodding details, I doubt that most readers will be particularly interested, for instance, in finding out the names and backgrounds of every member of Berry Gordy's promotion team back in the 60's, along with the sales department, and some of the most obscure artists. There's some pretty excruciating minutiae here, too, about the ultimate and complex sale of Motown, plus the numerous lawsuits filed against Motown by performers who considered their contracts financially unfair. (According to Posner, "The bulk of those legal files are crammed into multiple steel cabinets in the basement of the Wayne County Court in downtown Detroit. Some lawsuits over royalty disputes that arose in the 1960s are still pend

Not surprisingly, the lead player in this chapter of pop culture is Berry Gordy himself, the Detroit native who founded Motown, bringing a new 'crossover" sound to the American scene, and eventually developing some of the brightest stars in musical history-Diana Ross and the Supremes, Michael Jackson, Stevie Wonder, the Temptations, and Marvin Gaye, to name a few.

Before the Motown label existed, a few small recording companies like JVB and Sensation struggled to survive in Detroit. But, not long after Gordy obtained an $800 loan from his close-knit family to start the business he would eventually sell (to Boston Ventures and MCA) for $61 million, these companies pretty much faded away.

In his early days, Gordy strugzled to find a career niche. He served a stint in the Army, took dictator, and modeled it after up boxing, worked for his father's contracting business, toiled on the Ford assembly line, and finally began to try his hand at songwriting (though he had never had any formal musical training, and still hasn't). He hung out often at Detroit's Flame Show Bar, where he met the club's owner. Al Green, and young talents like the flamboyant Jackie Wilson. As it happened, Green owned a music publishing company, and soon "BG" was one of its songwriters. Eventually, he was writing and producing songs, and had obtained the loan from his familv to start his own label. In 1959, he purchased (for $25,000) the rather plain-looking house at 2648 West Grand Boulevard that would become the headquarters for Hitsville USA:

He ran the business something like a benign, paternalistic some of the assembly line procedures he'd witnessed while he was employed at Ford Motor Company.

For Berry Gordy, the bottom line was seemingly always the top priority.

And for those on its payroll, being a part of Motown was, in many ways, like being part of a large family. Gordy even hired a cook to put together generous and unpretentious meals in the kitchen for any and all employ-

"You wouldn't think twice about pitching in to help with whatever had to be done," according to the Temptations' Otis Williams, "whether it was singing backgrounds or mopping the floor."

Posner adds, "On any given day, a visitor...might find Pops Gordy doing some repair on the house, or Smokey Robinson cutting the grass.

and drastically, as Motown grew more and more successful. Finally, the business outgrew its little home on Grand Boulevard and moved into comparatively cold and generic offices downtown. Then, Gordy fell in love with the sunshine of California, and moved the business there, repeated and costly litigation had to be dealt with and, simply put, Motown matters apparently became too much for him to oversee the way he'd always tried to.

Ever the gambler, Gordy saw himself as a winner of sorts in the end, however, even though he had to give up Motown in order to save it.

From $800 to $61 million, I had done it." he once commented about the sale, "I had won the poker hand."

Put your artistry to work

Observer & Eccentric | Sunday, January 19, 2003

Wayne County Council for Arts, History and Humanities is sponsoring a logo contest open to all visual and graphic artists living, studying or working in Wayne County.

Visual arts students from art departments throughout Wayne County also may participate. Send submissions to WCCAHH Logo Contest, c/o The Maniscalco Gallery, 17728 Mack, Grosse Pointe, MI 48230.

Include full name, complete mailing address with zip code, area code and telephone number, and e-mail address. Include SASE if you want the submission to be returned.

Contest deadline is Monday, March 31. The winner will be notified within 30 days after contest closes and will receive a $300 cash award and recognition at the "Annual Wayne" County Executive's Awards" Ceremony in May. The work of the top five runners-up also will be on display at this event. The winning logo will become the property of WCCAHH.

Here are the specifications: ■ 8½-by-11 white archival paper, mounted on a firm substrate, with issue to protect artwork.

May be computer generated.

Must be camera ready. The new logo should be simple enough to be recognized easily as symbol of the creativity, inclusiveness, and grass roots nature of the organization, yet convey the weight and integrity of a county-wide institution. The new logo should include all three facets of what the organization does (arts, history and humanities), though not necessarily in a literal depiction. It should suggest vision, inspiration, elegance, gracefulness, perhaps spontaneity and fun.

Logo uses include letterhead, Web site design, banners, signage. Full color is desirable but since the logo might occasionally be expressed in black and white, it should be able to stand without color if necessary.

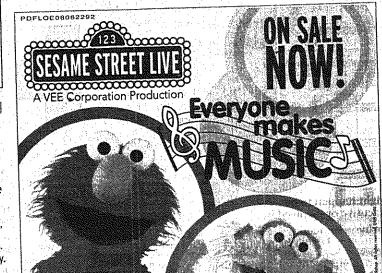

The organization plans to redesign its Web site (www.WayneArts.org) around the new logo. Bids for Web site designers also will be accepted.

The mission of WCCAHH is to advance arts, history and humanities in Wayne County, provide opportunities to Wayne County citizens and raise appreciation of arts, history and culture in Wayne County. One of the ways it does this is through various programs: Artists Among Us is a touring exhibition, unique in it's collaboration between the visual, musical and literary arts. It also presents annual awards to deserving artists, educators and patrons. It presents Fresh Art Festivals, in which artists paint outside during public gatherings, exposing the public to the artistic process.

It also is starting to mentor "at risk" populations. It is committed to encouraging collaboration between the more than 600 arts-related organizations in Wayne County as well as social service organizations.

The group is in the process of hiring an executive director and setting up offices.

For more information, call the Maniscalco Gallery at (313) 886-2993 or (800) 649-3125.

Tour the art collection of Rochester architect

Paint Creek Center for the Arts presents "Art at Home," a tour of Rochester architect Gerald Yurk's art collection Saturday, Jan. 25:

Yurk began collecting art when he moved to Rochester in 1989. His collection consists of pieces purchased in Paint Creek Center for the Arts galleries, the Art & Apples Festival and "For the Love of Art" auctions. Among his favorite pieces are works by Michigan artists Marianne Hall and Paul Flichinger.

Yurk is the fifth generation of in 1992, 1993 and 1994, the a family of construction workers with uncles and grandfathers who were carpenters or cabinet-makers and a greatgreat-great grandfather who was a wagon builder. He began drawing house plans as a child and by age 14 his plans led to a house being built. His official architectural training began at Lawrence Tech in Southfield where he obtained his degree. Yurk's 1964 home was originally 1800 square feet with a two-car garage. After additions home is 5600 square feet with a three car garage. The old garage is now a workshop and greenhouse for his wife who has a love for gardening.

Novi theater offers open caption films

Emagine Entertainment. Inc. has begun showing open captioned films for the hearing impaired at its Novi theater.

Open captioning is enhanced English subtitles that are 98 percent verbatim with audio prompts for slamming doors, doorbells and off screen dialogue (radio broadcast). Unlike subtitles in foreign films, open captions are placed directly beneath the person speaking on screen. Open captioned films. ensure movie patrons of a complete onscreen experience. An open captioned film is so flexible that it can play on every screen in any theatre. All sound is intact on the original film so the movie can be enjoyed by those with a hearing impairment or the general public.

Here's a schedule of open captioned films at Emagine Novi, located in the Fountain Walk shopping center, located between 12 Mile and I-96, just west of Novi Road, in Novi:

Jan. 17-23 — Lord of the Rings: The Two Towers, at 12:50, 4:25, and 8 p.m. Jan. 24-30 — Die Another Day at 1:05, 4:05, 6:45 and 9:25 p.m.

🖬 Jan. 31-Feb. 6 — Two Weeks Notice at 1:25, 3:30, 5:35, 7:40 and 9:45 p.m.

The films run every day. For more information and updates, log onto www.emagine-entertainment.com on the Internet.

Tripod Captioned Films, an outreach program of the Tripod Education Program, was created to bring "the big screen" experience to deaf and hard of hearing audiences. Recently it became its own 501c3 nonprofit with a new name, InSight Cinema.

Books on Lyndon Johnson, Ben Franklin nominated for award

NEW YORK (AP) - Robert Caro's Master of the Senate, winner of the National Book Award, and William Langewiesche's American Ground, which accuses firefighters of looting ground zero after the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks, are among the finalists for the National Book Critics Circle awards.

Authors from other countries are also eligible for NBCC prizes and Britain's Ian McEwan was nominated for Atonement, the best selling novel about, among other things, the process of writing. Last year's winners included three writers from outside the United States. This year, some of the awards drama may involve the voters themselves. After last November's National Book Awards ceremony, nonfiction judge Michael Kinsley acknowledged that he hadn't read most of the books submitted. His defense: The absurdity of getting through more than 400 works in six months. With the awards ceremony on Feb. 26, less than two months away, NBCC judges have a lot of reading to do. All 22 board members are expected to vote in all five categories, a total of 25 texts that range from Major Jackson's 75-page poetry volume, Leaving Saturn, to Caro's 1,100-page epic about Lyndon Johnson's years in the Senate. Critics, of course, read books for a living and many have likely already completed a good number of the final selections. But NBCC president Elizabeth Taylor acknowledges that judges, who still have to keep up with new releases, commonly ask not to vote in a specific category.

"Every year, one person usually says he or she didn't have time to read all the books," said Taylor, literary editor for the Chicago Tribune.

Commissioner Nicholas Scoppetta accusing the author of "tarnishing the memory of our city's heroes with foolish. absurd and unfounded accusations."

Reversing the usual trend, the critics' picks were better known than the choices for the NBA, which are voted on by fellow writers. Such notable works as Jeffrey Eugenides' novel, Middlesex. and Edmund Morgan's biography of Benjamin Franklin, overlooked for the NBAs, are finalists for the book critic awards. Most of the nominated books came from major publishers, including nine by Random House Inc. and four by Farrar, Straus & Giroux. Morgan's nomination for Benjamin Franklin continues one of the past year's happiest publishing stories. The 86year-old professor emeritus at Yale University has long been admired among scholars of the colonial era. But his short book on Franklin was a commercial breakthrough, with more than 100,000 copies in print and a brief appearance on The New York Times' best seller list. The National Book Critics Circle, founded in 1974, is a not-for-profit organization of book editors and critics. No cash prizes are given for the NBCC awards.

Individual judges have a greater impact on the NBAs, where five-member committees vote in just one category. And unlike the NBAs, publishers are not charged for submitting works and judges are not paid. "We think of it as a labor of love," Taylor said. The nomination of American Ground marks a breakthrough for Sept. 11 books, which have been defined more by their quantity - at least 100 published this fall alone — than by their merit.

The firefighting community, not reviewers, have been the biggest critics of Langewiesche's book. About 150 demonstrators, including off-duty firefighters and widows of firefighters killed in the attack, gathered outside a museum in Manhattan last fall where Langewiesche was holding a book-signing session.

The demonstrators — some chanting "Liar! Liar!" — distributed a letter from New York City fire department

'Unreal Championship' mindless fun

VIDEO GAMES

BY WILLIAM SCHIFFMANN ASSOCIATED PRESS WRITER

Fast-paced action, dazzling weapons and a variety of play modes make "Unreal Championship" one of the best pure shooters on the shelf for the Xbox.

Plot? There really isn't one. But who needs a plot when the next enemy is just a footstep away - and he's armed with a rocket launcher aimed right at you, with his finger on the trigger?

"Unreal Championship" comes to us from Digital Extremes and Infogrames as a follow to one of my favorite shooters, "Unreal Tournament." The game supports online play, which should be spectacular. Modes include Deathmatch, in which you ascend a ladder through maze-like venues by wiping out console-controlled opponents.

You move on when you reach a preset number of kills before your opponents do.

Team Deathmatch is similar, except that you head a team of four players.

Three roam on their own, and their kills (and deaths) are reported back to you. Again, you must reach a preset number of kills before the other team.

There's a lethal version of Capture the Flag, and also an interesting variation called Bombing Run, in which you must deliver a ball to a goal in enemy territory.

Playing turns you into a futuristic Roman gladiator, with vast coliseums in which you are pursued by enemies as heavily armed as you are.

Death comes, not after an emperor's thumbs-down or in a lion's jaws, but in a hail of bullets, a bolt of crackling electricity or the blast of a homing rocket.

You race through hallways or ride elevators between levels, #### with enemies around every corner. Start shooting as soon as you see one; there's plenty of ammo and new weapons around every corner, so you have to try really hard to run out.

There's a new twist to the game. So-called "mutators" allow you to do a variety of nifty things, like draining your opponent's life to refill your own, giving yourself a big head (literally), modifying your Shock rifle for instant killing power or trading weapons, all with the touch of a button.

There are also "adrenaline" pills scattered around. Collect 100 and you can perform such tricks as turning invisible or moving more quickly. I'm giving "Unreal Championship" a B. Plenty of action, lots of noise and excitement and a minimum of exhausted brain cells make it a great choice for an afternoon of mindless fun. "Unreal Championship" is rated M, for ages 17 and over.

A spa that's not just for the rich and famous

BY NORMA AND WENDY SCHONWETTER CORRESPONDENTS

B8 *

Nestled high in the Sierra Madres and 11/2 hours from Mexico City is a spa that offers the ultimate in relaxation.

This reasonably priced retreat, Hotel Spa Ixtapan, has 200 comfortable rooms and 50 villas surrounded by 35 acres of lush gardens.

The surroundings, as it turned out, were refreshing. Colorful blossoms filled the trees and bushes, and the grounds were littered with bright orange, fuchsia, lavender and white petals. A Las Vegas pool with a tiered waterfall, a second pool, large outdoor whirlpool, multicolored fountains, and mosaic murals portraying Mexico's history are comfortably situated in a climate of 75 degrees year-round.

Legend has it that Ixtapan de la Sal, the village where the spa is located, was a retreat discovered and used by Aztec Emperor Montezuma. Here he rested with his troops and bathed in the natural thermal waters. Today it has expanded into a complete spa resort with three programs called diet, relax and sport. Each offers a slightly different mix of massages, facials and other treatments, which include pedicures, hair treatments, paraffin and acupuncture. Activities that are part of the various programs are aerobics, golf and tennis lessons. A sauna, steamroom, whirlpool and a fully equipped gymnasium are available to all guests.

Observer & Eccentric | Sunday, January 19, 2003

The spa diet dining room offers a 900-calorie per day diet; the sparse meals are devoid of spices and herbs. Veteran guests bring a selection of seasonings from home to spice up the food. The main dining room offers more menu choices, including guacamole, salsa, fruit, great rolls and desserts.

Visitors can choose either a four-day or seven-day stay ranging from $535 to $1075 per person, double occupancy depending on choice of program and season (tax, tips, and airport transfers are extra). Selecting the plan with activities that best suits your interests, then select the dining room with a menu appeals to vou

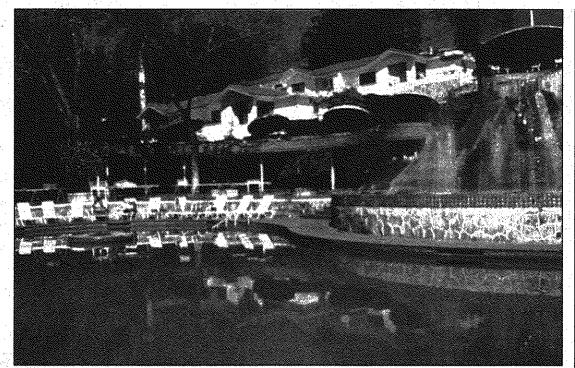

Ixtapan offers the same programs as the "fancier" spas at about one fifth the cost, including airfare from any major U.S. city.

Although golf, tennis and spa activities are offered for men, this is a place for women to bond and let their hair down, literally.

This is a spa for the veteran spa-goer and the uninitiated alike. Don't worry about wardrobe and lack of "proper spa etiquette." The dress code is very casual.

In fact, much of the time is spent in thick terrycloth robes (provided by the spa), bathing suits, shorts and tee shirts. Most clothing, except shorts and swimsuits, is acceptable in the evening.

Ixtapan is a place for rejuvenation of body and spirit where even the most frenzied will find themselves relaxing and dozing during a massage or facial.

The swimming pool, with villas in the background, includes a small replica of a Mayan pyramid with star-shaped fountains of water. Water trickles down the steps. A dome has painted representations of the signs of the the zodiac.

WALKING AND MORE

In a typical spa day, you might take advantage of the hour-long guided walks that start promptly at 7 a.m. The symphony of singing birds is enough to lift anyone's spirits. We walked through nearby villages, passing ancient and heavenly churches, beautiful golden hills, and local farmers walking their cattle past simple adobe dwellings. We witnessed the rising sun silhouetting 400-yearold gazebos, and townspeople going about their early morning chores. Walk and you will see the "real" Mexico.

After walking, consider an hour of aerobic exercise, breakfast and aquatic exercise in the pool. Follow this with a facial, (a fruit or vegetable yogurt mask and a spritz of rosewater); lunch on the terrace, acupuncture, body massage and yoga session. On the diet program you are entitled to a manicure, pedicure and hair treatment. The hair treatment is spectacular and includes a head. neck and shoulder massage.

The relax program offers six Roman mineral baths. These individual rooms accommodate one or two people. The attractive marble-walled rooms contain two cots, a large marblelined pool with bubbling hot water, a shower in the bathroom and pleasant music.

Guests are mostly from all parts of the U.S. who have heard about the spa by word of mouth. Some arrange to have an annual reunion with friends. The atmosphere is friendly; guests and staff are most congenial.

There's a shop on the grounds plus several shops adjacent to the Roman baths and stalls just outside the walls of the spa. The stalls are most active on weekends. Prices are very reasonable, but shoppers can bargain to save a few dollars.

WALK INTO TOWN

Had enough relaxing? Take the short pleasant walk into Ixtapan de la Sal.

It is clean, safe and a journey back in time. The locals' Ixtapan is down the hill from the big church courtyard. Seeing the farmers' market early on Saturday morning is a refreshing reminder of how a tight-knit community looks and sounds.

Farmacia Madrid, near the big 16th century church, is a must-see. Be sure to go inside to see the side altar decorated with stunning murals, golddecorated walls and stain glass scenes.

On Sunday, there's a flea market with pottery, silver jewelry, baskets, clothes and other wares.

Evening activities include movies, bingo, bowling and on weekends, live dinner music, folkloric ballet and a disco. Side trips to Cuernavaca and Taxco can be arranged by the hotel desk.

If your stress level and/or your waistline need reducing, then this is the place for you.

💹 LaRose honored

Chad LaRose, a right wing for the Plymouth Whalers, was named the Ontario Hockey League's player of the week for the week ending Jan. 12.

For LaRose, it was the second time this season he was so honored. In three games during the week, he scored five goals and added three assists - two of them, including the game-winner, in a victory over the Kitchener Rangers.

The Whalers, who lead the OHL's West Division, won all three games. LaRose is first in the OHL in goals scored with 43 in 42 games (through last Sunday); he had 77 points, third in the conference.

🕅 Grubaugh leads

Tiffany Grubaugh, a junior guard on Northern Michigan University's basketball team and a Salem HS graduate, scored 15 points in the Wildcats' 64-50 road win over University of Findlay Jan. 9. The rest of NMU's trip wasn't so successful. The 'Cats lost at Hillsdale 87-63 on Jan. 11, with Grubaugh collecting nine points, five assists and five rebounds; and at Wayne State, where Grubaugh started her collegiate career, they lost 78-67 on Jan. 16, with Grubaugh getting eight points, seven boards, four assists and two steals.

For the season, Grubaugh is averaging 14.2 points, 4.1

It was an old-fashioned shootout Friday night between Salem and Walled Lake Central. When it was over, the Rocks were the ones left standing. Thanks to a huge game from Dave Hoskins, Salem toppled the Vikings 78-61 in a Western Lakes Activities Association basketball contest. Salem improved to 8-2 overall and 3-1 in the WLAA with the win. Central is 2-2 in the league.

Tuesday, Salem takes on the winless Livonia Churchill Chargers in a WLAA road game.

Canton 72, Churchill 49: For 16 minutes, Livonia Churchill seemed well on its way to picking up its first win of the season. Then the third quarter hap-

Chargers pull off a shocker, 5-2

Livonia Churchill led the last time these two teams met. For a while.

The Chargers scored the first two goals of the game back on Nov. 20 in both teams season-opener at Eddie Edgar Arena.

Then Salem scored 10 in a row.

Since then, Salem's been unstoppable. The Rocks rose to No. 4 in the state's Division I rankings, while Churchill blended bouts of good play with mediocrity.

mangles Macomb

It was close, for a while. A very short while.

About five minutes or so. After that, Schoolcraft College's defense led to offense, and the offense led to points - a lot of them. And that, in turn, led the Ocelots to an easy win over Macomb CC, 95-43 Wednesday at SC.

The victory gave seventh-ranked SC a 16-1 overall record, 3-0 in the Michigan Community College Athletic Association's Eastern Conference. Macomb CC is 8-8 overall, 2-2 in the conference. "For was back and forth," said SC coach Carlos Briggs. "But our press got to them. They turned the ball over a lot, and we got some easy baskets."

How dominant were the Ocelots? They had more points in the first half than the Monarchs had in the game. SC led 53-22 at the intermission, thanks to 12 points from Gary Johnson (from Wayne Memorial), 11 more from James Holmes and 10 from Torvoris Baker.

Five Ocelots ended up scoring in double figures. Ronald Dorsey had 18 (12 in the second half), Johnson scored 16, Holmes finished with 14, Baker netted 12 and Andre Scott totaled 10. Marcus Bennett added nine. SC had 11 3-pointers in the game, seven in the first half (three by Holmes).

Macomb got 10 points from Tony Davis and eight apiece from Martell Summers and Chris Gray. SC is in the midst of a four-game home stand. They host St. Clair County CC at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday.

That's what Madonna University's women's basketball team did to Aquinas College Wednesday at Madonna - took control from the opening tip and kept it the entire game. The Lady Crusaders scored the game's first 13 points, denying the Saints a point until 8:28 had already been played.

Salem's Mark Nagel (white jersey) found the going tough Friday as he and Churchill's Justin Tonti battle for the puck in the Churchill zone.

Canton dunks N'ville; Salem sinks Wayne

BY C.J. RISAK STAFF WRITER.

It used to be a key meet in the Western Lakes Activities Association's Western Division. Now, Canton dominates.

Although there was a slight possibility that, going into the final event (the 400yard freestyle relay), Northville could have beaten the Chiefs in Thursday's meet at Canton, it was unlikely. Not the way the Chiefs were swimming.

The final score was 100-85, improving Canton's overall dual-meet record to 3-2. The Chiefs are 2-0 in the WLAA, 1-0 in the division.

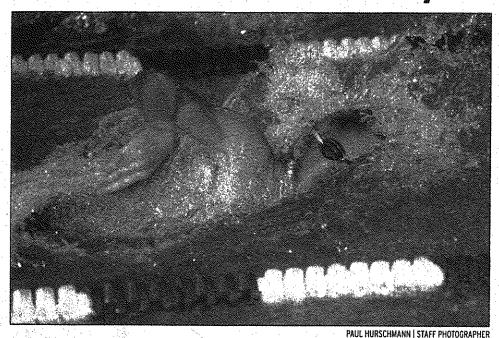

'We swam pretty well," said Canton coach Ed Weber. "We expected to win, just by looking at their other results, so we got to swim some people in different-type events."

Nine of the 12 events were captured by Canton swimmers. See meet results inside.

James Sattler, Yuhei Uno and Joe Le were all part of four first-place finishes. In individual events, Sattler finished first in the 200-yard (1:58.20) and 500-yard (5:18.85) freestyles.

Uno won the 200 individual medley (2:09.92) and the 100 backstroke (58.62), and Le was first in the 50 freestyle (23.05) and 100 butterfly (59.11).

Plymouth gymnasts hit regional qualifying mark

Plymouth High's first gymnastics dual meet in school history resulted in a defeat Friday, but it wasn't an altogether unsuccessful night for the Wildcats.

Coach Andrea Rice's team posted a team total of 120.3, which was a regional qualifying score.

The all-freshmen Wildcats need to achieve the qualifying standard three more times to be eligible to compete in the regional at the end of February.

Royal Oak won the meet with a 127.25 score, but it had only one first-place gymnast - Jamie Cavanaugh, who won the beam competition with an 8.45.

Plymouth's Alie Saker was first on vault (8.4), uneven bars (8.7) and floor exercise (8.95). She also had the top allaround score at 33.30. She also was fourth on beam (7.25).

Teammate Amy Quiambao was second on vault (8.2), and she was third on bars (7.75) and floor (8.6).

Plymouth's other top performer was Alie Bates, who was fourth on vault (8.1), seventh on bars (7.0), second on beam (7.7) and fourth on floor (7.95).

CHARGERS

Cultural Center, the Chargers took the lead again. In the first period. Then they took it again. In the second period. Twice.

The third period was different. This time, Churchill didn't allow the Rocks to bounce back. This time, the Chargers scored three unanswered goals in the final period to upset Salem, 5-2.

The loss, the Rocks' first of the season, left them at 11-1-1 overall, 7-1-1 in the Western Lakes Activities Association and 3-1-1 in the Lakes Division. Churchill improved to 7-4-4 overall, 7-1-2 in the WLAA and 2-1-1 in the Lakes.

This keeps us in the (WLAA) race," said Churchill coach Pete Mazzoni. "But more than anything, it helps our confidence. It proves we can play with one of the best teams in finish. I think we had it as an 18-5 advantage (in shots)." In the two teams' first meeting, Mazzoni used both Justin Bolla and David Herrick in goal. He didn't need to this time - Bolla frustrated Salem. "I knew before the game our guys weren't mentally prepared," admitted Feiler. "But give Churchill a lot of credit. They played real, real well."

Defensively, it was no secret that the Chargers needed to stop Salem's Mark Nagel, John Schultz and Bryan Young, the WLAA's first, second and fourth leading scorers.

They did. Nagel, who had 15 goals and 12 assists coming into the game, managed just one assist; Young managed one goal and Schultz had two assists. "They had their chances," said Mazzoni, "especially early on. Justin (Bolla) kept us in it." Salem goalie Brandon DeMars was Churchill's other challenge. DeMars' 2.29 goals-

Other leaders for Madonna were Rehbine with 14 points, eight rebounds and three steals; Callie Gizicki with 13 points (including 3-of-5 threepointers), five assists and two steals; Sarah Thomson with nine points and six boards; and Marwa Ayoub with five points, 11 rebounds, five blocks and three steals.

Churchill was led by Tristan Thomas with 11 points; Jerry Murray finished with nine.

PCA 59, Southfield Christian 48: Junior guard Ben Baloga made six of eight three-point shots and scored a game-high 22 points Friday to lead host Plymouth Christian Academy to victory over Southfield Christian. ## Beaumont Eye Institute offers vision rehabilitation

BY RENEE SKOGLUND STAFF WRITER

Mary Ann Scheele, a Redford Township senior, thought she'd be in the dark forever after she lost most of her vision following a stroke last spring. Fortunately, she made an appointment with Dr. Susan Hahn, an optometrist with the Beaumont Eye Institute for a low-vision evaluation. Hahn referred her to Manjula Amarnath, an occupational therapist at Beaumont Hospital and a specialist in visual rehabilitation.

After months of therapy, Scheele is seeing a lot better.

Heart attack risk

At St. Mary Mercy Hospital, Livonia, the latest fast CT scanner allows patients to discover their potential risk of heart attack through a quick new test called calcium scoring. St. Mary Mercy is one of the few hospitals in the area to offer this new, leading-edge technology. The exam gives patients a "calcium score," which is a measurement of calcified plaque in their coronary arteries.

For more information on Cardiac Services, call (734) 655-2885. For a cardiologist on staff at St. Mary Mercy, call (888) 464-WELL.

Tremor Disorder

Shari Finsilver of Orchard Lake leads a local support group for those who suffer from Essential Tremor, a debilitating and incurable movement disorder. The group meets 7-8:30 p.m. on the second Thursday of the month at Temple Israel, 5725 Walnut Lake Road in West Bloomfield.

🔳 Appointment

The Southeastern Michigan Chapter of the American Red Cross has appointed Jan Shimshock of Bloomfield Township as chief development officer. Shimshock joins the Red Cross from Henry Ford Museum and Greenfield Village where he served as associate director/major gifts & gift planning officer. He brings to the Red Cross nearly 20 years of experience in the nonprofit sector. To learn more about the American Red Cross, call (313) 833-4440 or visit www.semredcross.org.

'I'm able to watch TV and go out with my friends. I can read a little if I have the right light," she said.

It's all about learning to track, said Scheele.

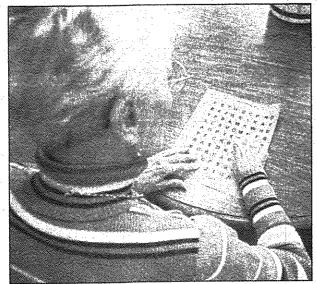

"Before I just moved my head and not my eyes. Now, rather than feeling for an object, I locate it with my eyes then reach. The brain and the eyes have to get together in this business."

Exactly, said Amarnath, who recalled that Scheele had to be led in the room by her daughter-in-law, Catherine, during her first therapy session. "Her eyes were fixed and she wouldn't move her eyes to locate anything.

A vision-impaired person cannot "see" unless what he or she sees is correctly interpreted by the brain, she added.

Amarnath soon had Scheele using her eyes to track a moving object, catch a swinging ball, and write and read by using her finger as a guide. She would give Scheele instructions as to an object's location, thus setting up a tracking route. She also gave Scheele homework. Scheele proved to be an eager student.

"It was amazing, really a pleasure to work with her," said Amarnath. "Every time I gave her a task she'd work on it, and when she came back we could move on.'

Unfortunately, Scheele's Medicare benefits have run out and she is now confined to doing her therapy at home.

NEW LIFE

Scheele has a new appreciation for the little pleasures in life, even though they may come with a few pitfalls.

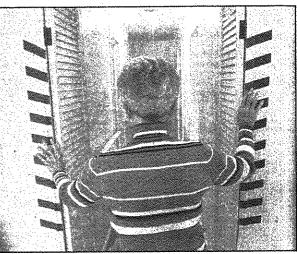

"I made Swiss steak one night and pounded the flour in it. My daughter-in-law put it in the pressure cooker. My son came out of his office and slid across the floor because I had gotten flour all over the floor," she said. (Scheele's son and daughter-in-law came to live with her after her stroke.)

"It has been a great, great improvement," she added. 'I can't say enough about my occupational therapist. She has such concern and compassion. She teaches you so well."

Scheele's sight is not perfect. Her vision is still foggy, still kind of gray, she said. "But I can see the kids when they sit down. I can see my son sitting there. He has a mustache and a goatee."

Scheele's family has benefited from Scheele's improved vision. "My life is a lot easier," said Catherine, who had to physically guide her mother-inlaw around the house. "It's given our family a lot of hope. Her life is changed. She's able to sing in the church choir again.

"She's doing very well and probably could be doing better if I let her walk by herself more," Catherine added. "We've gone from mom saying, 'I'm blind' to mom saying, 'I'm visually impaired.' There's much less stigma."

EVALUATION

Not everybody with low vision can be taught to "see" once again, said Hahn, who usually refers patients with vision loss from stroke or brain injury to Amarnath.

"Sometimes, it can be retaught, sometimes we can't regain everything we have lost. Visual field

Many Americans are at a loss of how to Region has partnered with the ecumenihonor Martin Luther King Jr. on the national holiday. Participating in the Blood of Martyr Blood Drive Campaign, a national initiative to increase minority blood donations, provides an opportunity to fulfill civic responsibility and perpetuate Dr. King's legacy by giving the gift of life through a blood donation.

In Metropolitan Detroit there is a chronic shortage of Type O and Type B blood. Both are more commonly found in African Americans.

"Patients often mistake this as being a bad right eye or left eye, but it actually occurs in the brain and thus presents as a loss in both eyes. Patients often run into objects, lose their place in reading and are startled by people or objects moving at them suddenly from the lost field," according to NORA.Scheele has recently been tested by her ophthalmologist for visual field loss and is awaiting the findings. An example is the announcement of a new type of coronar that will not clot. Just 3 years ago, stents were a novelty.

You are not out of line, to expect that such progress goes on everywhere in medicine. That is not true, in fact, this column will devote itself to praise soap and water. If you need to heat a legulcer, nothing yet betters soap and water, combined with patience and time. If this is to work it must be done in a particular manner, and you must get to the leg ulcer as soon as possible. The ulcer should be cleaned three times a day by placing it under the spigot of the bath tub. Then let water, at a warm and comfortable temperature, flow over the ulcer. During this time, squirt a small amount of liquid soap over the ulcer. Do not scrub the skin, let the water wash off the soap. After 5 minutes of washing in this way, let the ulcer air dry. Then cover it with a clean 4x4 gauze. You need not have the gauze sterile, that is an unnecessary expense. Cover the gauze with a kerlix wrap applied gently around the leg; use a piece of tape to bind the ends of the wrap. Repeat this procedure three time a day and do it every day.

This approach works by keeping the skin free of ointments and salves that macerate the skin, using gentle means to keep the skin free of germs, and through air drying, giving the tissue cells an incentive to grow.

Yes, you do have dust mites in your home

What are dust mites?

Dust mites are tiny bugs that live your house. They measure about 1/100th of an inch in length, which is smaller than the period at the end of this sentence. They are a major cause of allergies and asthma. When some children are exposed to dust mites, their asthma symptoms appear for the first time. If children already have asthma, dust mites can make them wheeze more.

What do I do first?

car and 5

truck rental

Start in the bedroom. Most of the dust mites in your house live in your mattress. Put an airtight plastic or polyurethane cover over you mattress. Wash your sheets and blankets in very hot water every week. Wash your pillow every week or put a plastic cover on it. (The pillowcase goes over the plastic cover.)

The water used to wash your sheets and blankets should be 130 degrees. This temperature is higher than you may want for your water heater, because water over 120 can burn children if they turn on the hot water by themselves. If you don't want to set your water heater at this temperature, you can wash your sheets and blankets at commercial laundries.

Your bedroom should have a hardwood, tile or linoleum floor instead of carpet. Dust mites can grow rapidly in carpet. If you must use carpet, try not to place in on concrete because the warm space between a rug and concrete is a good place for mites to live.

I don't want to rip out my carpet. Is there anything I can do to treat it?

You can spray the rug with a solution of 3 percent tannic acid every two months to kill the dust mites. Ask your doctor if this solution will be helpful.

What else can I do?

Vacuuming your carpets and upholstery every week can help. Vacuums with highefficiency filters pick up more dust mites, but even standard vacuums work well enough.

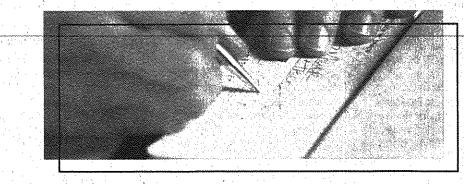

Plastic or wood furniture that doesn't have much padding can also help keep down the number of dust mites in your home. Because dust mites love warm, humid places, keeping the humidity low by using a dehumidifier and running your air conditioner makes a difference. Special air filters can help reduce dust mites in the air.

Tri-level condo conversion offers great address, view

Jeffrey Kaftan, vice president of Kaftan Enterprises, describes Brookside Townhomes of Birmingham as "kind of a town-and-country thing."

That's because the apartment-to-condominium conversion is within walking distance of that community's quaint downtown and all it has to offer.

Brookside also has a stunning view of the winding Rouge River, Booth Park and a fabulous topography.

"Truly what we sell here is location and our view. Those are the two strongest assets we have," said Michael Carroll, sales representative.

Only eight of the nine refurbished residences – originally constructed in the 1940s – are available off Old Woodward a couple blocks north of Maple.

"We do have the premier location in downtown Birmingham – 1 1/2 blocks off the shopping area and an incredible view out back," Carroll said. "That park behind us will never be encroached upon – spring, summer, fall, winter – our view gets better."

"We wanted to have the unit match the location," Kaftan said. "People want a nice unit. We want to fit their lifestyle."

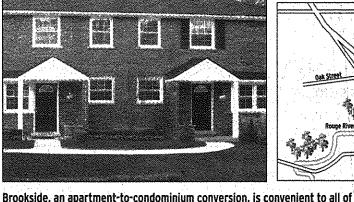

All nine homes in the community – six in one building, three in another – have the same basic floor plan.

The lower level includes a finished den, bathroom with shower and the laundry/utility room. The middle level has an open living room, dining area and kitchen. The upper level has two bedrooms and a full bath.

The interior units 1,250 square feet, carry a base price of $399,900; the end units, 1,350 square feet, $424,900.

The roofs of the brick buildings have been replaced, as will all windows. New steel front entry doors will be installed. The electrical system has been upgraded.

Kitchens will feature new cabinets, counters, vinyl flooring, cabinets, sink/faucets, range, refrigerator and dishwasher. Slate or granite flooring is available in the kitchen as an upgrade. Refinished hardwood floors or carpeting is available in the living room

Habitat's Global Village shows how poor live around world

(AP) – The green and brown house on stilts in south Georgia may look like a glorified treehouse, but it's actually the type of home Habitat for Humanity volunteers build for poor families in Papua New Guinea.

"We get deer hunters come by who want one as a deer stand," says Habitat spokeswoman Carla Robinson.

"Part of what we're trying to do is educate people about how others live overseas. We're so blessed as a country that what is a mansion to someone in the developing world is recreation for us."

The New Guinea house is one of 40 that are built or planned at Habitat's 6-acre Global Village & Discovery Center, designed to help the Americusbased group build awareness, encourage volunteers and bring tourists to southwest Georgia.

Construction began last January, and so far hundreds of volunteers from 68 countries have built 15 homes, typical of Habitat homes in places such as Sri Lanka, Guatemala, Tanzania, Haiti and Botswana. The $5 million village will open in the spring, but construction will continue for two more years. Visitors will see examples of Third World slums, where millions of poor live without electric lights, toilets or even a roof that doesn't leak.

Then they can tour Habitat homes from around the world. The center will also feature an exhibition center with photos and videos.

"It's important for Americans to see how 1.2 billion people live," says Habitat spokeswoman Kimberly Moore. "About one-fourth of the world's population lives in poverty."

Visitors also will be able to make bricks and roofing tiles or they can see how New Guinea residents weave mats for their homes.

They can even make a contribution by buying a $100 brick with their name inscribed on it, house at Third World prices, usually less than $5,000. "They're more than welcome to give more than that," says Millard Fuller, who founded Habitat with his wife, Linda, in 1976. "We have had tremendous support for this project."

Fuller says the Global Village funds are separate from the money Habitat uses to finance its poverty housing programs.

With affiliates in more than 3,000 communities in 87 countries, the Christian housing ministry has built more than 125,000 homes around the world: The contact number for Habitat for Humanity in western Wayne County is (734) 459-7744, for Oakland County, (248) 338 - 1843.Habitat's international headquarters, located in the southwest Georgia town of Americus, about 150 miles south of Atlanta, attracts more than 10,000 visitors a year. Over the years, visitors were or a front yard or even an entire most impressed by a small group of houses, displayed inside an old warehouse, depicting the group's international work, Fuller says.

"That was the thing they talked about," Fuller said. "I began to realize we needed something that was bigger. We launched a fund-raising campaign and got commitments for more than $700,000."

Habitat spent about $140,000 clearing land that had been occupied by a dilapidated peanut mill and now is in the process of building the village. The volunteer builders use native materials as much as possible.

"Most people don't get to go to India or to walk through a neighborhood in Kenya or Botswana," Fuller says. "We're giving you an opportunity. These houses are very authentic. We think it's going to be inspirational."

Former President Jimmy Carter and his wife, Rosalynn, whose home is about 20 miles friends of Fuller and have been the group's most high-profile volunteers.

The tourist train that stops at the Global Village continues west to the Carters' hometown of Plains and then on to Carter's boyhood home in Archery.

Jimmy Carter became the nation's 39th president and won the Nobel Peace prize this year for his global peacemaking efforts.

During a recent preview for Americus residents, volunteers and reporters, Gera Nelson of Brazil was cooking plantains, eaten as a vegetable throughout the tropics, in a brick stove inside an tin-roof African house made from concrete blocks.

"Anywhere in Africa, if a person can get a tin roof, that makes them happy," says Nelson who has worked on some of Habitat's international projects.

Patrick Nwokedi of Nigeria showed visitors a Ghanian west of Americus, are long-time home. It, too, was made from concrete blocks, but its white paint and light blue trim gave it a more cheerful look than some of the unpainted dwellings.

Nwokedi said Habitat homes change people's lives in Africa. "It makes them happy they have their heads under a roof," he said. "They are able to live happily and send their children to school. There are a lot of people who are poor and don't have their own houses."

Speaking at the groundbreaking for the Global Village earlier in 2002, Carter said, "Rosalynn and I have had an opportunity to see what Habitat is doing around the world.

We have been to Nicaragua, where we have made roof tiles. We have worked in the Philippines, Mexico and South Korea.

"The Global Village & Discovery Center will give a better sense of what Habitat is doing, not only at home, but around the world," Carter said

Development fight touches near historic battlefield

(AP) - Skirmishes between developers and Civil War buffs seeking to preserve battlefields are common in northern Virginia, a rapidly growing area that was also the epicenter of the Civil War.

But now a full-fledged national battle has erupted over a proposal to build a new town called Chancellorsville on the land that gave Confederate Gen. Robert E. Lee his greatest victory.

"This is not somebody's garden back yard. This is a piece of land of national significance," said James Lighthizer, president of the Civil War Preservation Trust.

That organization has worked to preserve 15,000 acres of Civil War battlefield over the years.

Preservationists from around the country have unleashed 10,000 letters, phone calls and e-mails on Spotsylvania County's seven-member board, which is to make the final decision on the development soon.

"Chancellorsville is a national name, right up there with Gettysburg, Antietam, Vicksburg," said Jim Campi, a spokesman for the trust. "A lot of times people become involved in these fights because of environmental concerns. In this case, both locally and nationally, a lot of people are involved because of the history." Recently, voters in the county district that includes the battlefield elected a new supervisor who opposes the development.

He won with 64 percent of the vote and says the development was "absolutely the overriding issue" in the campaign.

"Nationally, the issue is preservation of the battlefield," Campi said. "Locally, the issue is quality of life. We just don't have the water capacity, we don't have the road capacity to support this development."

The 1863 Battle of Chancellorsville is a textbook example of military ingenuity. Gen. Norman Schwartzkopf cited the battle as inspiration for his plans during the Persian Gulf War.

Lee's outnumbered troops defeated Union forces in a three-day battle that resulted in 30.000 casualties on both sides. Among them was Confederate Gen. Thomas "Stonewall" Jackson, who died after his own troops accidentally shot him. The victory emboldened Lee to invale Union territory, heading to his

He since has scaled back his plans to include 1,995 homes.

The development is proposed for land next to the existing national park that preserves land from the Chancellorsville battlefield and from other nearby battles, including Fredericksburg, Spotsylvania Courthouse and Wilderness.

There is no current town of Chancellorsville, nor has there ever been. In 1863, Chancellorsville was merely a crossroads and a tavern.

But Smith envisions his new town looking like those that dotted Virginia in Civil War times, self-sufficient, with residents living in homes inspired by 19th-century architecture, able to walk to schools and shops in a town center.

The development would also include three hotels and other touristfriendly amenities that Smith says would boost attendance at the existing national battlefield park, which has been declining in recent years.

In addition, Smith said his plan rould proserve about 55 acres that are the most historically significant on the parcel and make it a battlefield park. Under the existing zoning, that portion of the land is already zoned for commercial development. The preservationists have stirred people up, but I'm not quite sure why," Smith said. "Where the fighting happened, we're preserving it." Lighthizer accused Smith of distorting history to make his development sound more palatable. Lighthizer said the new town would completely overwhelm the scene of the first day of fighting, put the existing national park under further development pressure and spoil scenic views. Lighthizer's group commissioned a poll showing that 66 percent of county residents opposed the development. At a recent public hearing, more than 300 people attended, with speakers equally divided between supporters and detractors.

Smith disputed the poll's findings, and said a majority of county residents support the project because of the potential to add millions of dollars to the tax base of a county that is growing rapidly and needs to pay for new schools and other services demanded by residents.

Sandy Rives, a spokesman for the National Park Service, said the park is concerned that the development will increase traffic on a busy highway. that cuts through the battlefield. a fear Smith says is unfounded. But Rives said he is optimistic that

Decorative doors add luster to home

FOR AP WEEKLY FEATURES

Doors can be innovative and attractive.

Although the most expensive doors typically are reserved for the front entry, service entries and back doors can be dressed up, too.

The latest in decorator doors is lead or stained glass, especially vintage reproductions from the popular Craftsman era.

Like their French cousins, these doors provide the rooms they serve with plenty of natural light, but grant a measure of privacy because of their translucency and color. Unlike French or Dutch doors, they come in every imaginable pattern and hue.

When planning to install such a door, look for one framed in heavy wood of good enough quality to was withstand sun and other weather-

Not only do decorative doors make good conversation pieces, they also sharpen the look of a more modest home.

Upgraded facade elevates look of 3-bedroom ranch

The traditional style of the Fleming (G20-100) is elevated by a facade featuring an unusually shaped window on the face of the 1,727-square-foot ranch.

Its angular lines with the use of the fanned wood overhead add great eye appeal.

The other windows are decorated with accent shutters and the covered porch with railing further enhances the look.

The narrow foyer of the Fleming allows a view of the dining room and the living room.

The dining room is to the right through an archway. The 10-foot ceiling adds to the spacious feel of the room. Through a door at the rear of the dining room is the kitchen, convenient for those larger dinner parties.

The C-shaped kitchen has an eating bar on the counter backing to the nook. There's a pantry and work area on the outside wall, as well as a broom closet adjacent to the door leading to the two-car garage.

The laundry with a window overlooking the back deck is next to the nook, while the nook has sliding doors that open to the deck.

The living room has a fireplace on the rear wall bordered by windows on each side. This room feels spacious and open, ready to receive the family after a long day at work or school.

The master suite, also with 10-foot ceiling, is oriented to the back of the home. The master also has a separate tub and shower, his-and-her sinks, a skylight and an elongated walk-in closet.

Two secondary bedrooms, each with a wall closet, are to the front of the home. The bath for these bedrooms and the rest of the house is parallel to the basement stairs.

Observer & Eccentric | Sunday, January 19, 2003

This house would be ideal for empty nesters or the family just starting out. The bedrooms aren't far from the master for young children. Yet, they're far enough away for privacy.

Choose natural comfort underfoot on home front

(NAPSI) - Flooring is one of the most important and long-lasting design elements homeowners must decide on.

The current trend is away from carpet and toward hardwoods and "naturals" such as stone, marble and granite, with throw rugs as accents. However, these materials can be cost prohibitive and high maintenance. One solution is luxury resilient planks and tiles, which look and feel like the materials they replicate with all the advantages of vinyl-water resistance, softness underfoot and light maintenance.

Deciding between the look of hardwood or tile is the easy part. Next, you must consider color and design. With luxury resilient planks and tiles - which all have the same thickness - you can combine the two. 「学習」位に、 ふらいにはっています。 what they cost. So that cost can be recouped within a year of installation. These thermostats will turn down the heat when you are away from your home or sleeping, whatever pattern and temperatures you choose.

The second thing is a bit larger, your furnace.

Most people think the furnace they have is the right size for their home, but that isn't always true.

The size of a furnace needed for a home shouldn't be determined by square footage or by simply matching the size of the existing furnace.

The only way to know for sure is for the contractor to do a heat loss/heat gain calculation. The calculation takes things like windows, doors, insulation and your basement into consideration and figures out the proper size furnace.

is the right size for your house. On a 30ºF day (approximately), your furnace should run in about 15-minute cycles. If it runs less than 15 minutes, it is probably too big. So when it's time to buy a new furnace, make sure your contractor uses a heat loss/heat gain calculation.

One last thing. When you buy a new furnace, buy the most energy-efficient model you can afford. The efficiencies will pay for the higher cost of the more efficient furnace.

One thing to keep in mind is that the new high-efficiency furnaces are designed to run for longer periods of time and blow air that is cooler than older, less efficient furnaces. This will increase the comfort level in your house. Please note that your electric bill may increase slightly, but your gas bill will decrease by a greater amount and is worth it.

What most people don't realize is that for every degree lower you set your thermostat, you save 3 percent on your energy bill.

Observer & Eccentric | Sunday, January 19, 2003

Let me start by telling you one of the most important things about the 2003 Chrysler Sebring Sedan. It's got the highest government front crash rating in the automotive industry.

Anne

Fracassa

And that's quite a feather in Chrysler's cap, let me tell you. To achieve that goal is mighty. Sebring was given a five-star rating for both driver and front passenger in frontal impact and rollover resistance from the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA).

The Sebring was also given a "good" rating from the Insurance Institute of Highway Safety for 40 mph frontal offset performance. This is one safe car to own.

Safety is paramount in the Sebring. Features include an advanced occupant restraint system, improved body structure and trim for better impact protection, internal trunk latch release, anti-lock brakes and optional side curtain air bags.

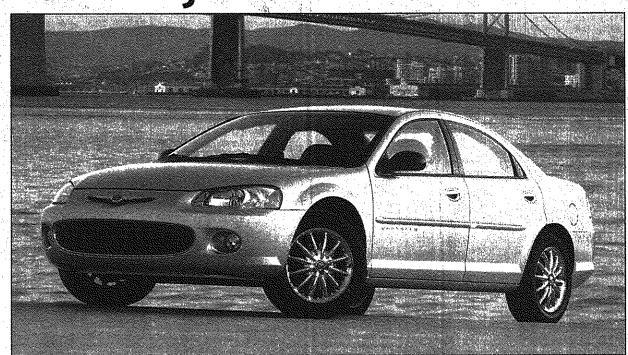

Driven this week was the LX model. The line-up includes a coupe and convertible models as well.

At the heart of the Sebring LX is a 2.4-liter dual overhead cam 16-valve four-cylinder engine that pumps out 150 horses. Also available is an all-aluminum 2.7-liter dual overhead cam 24-valve V6 engine rated at 200 horsepower.

Both engines are mated to a standard four-speed electronically controlled automatic transaxle that's the lightest, most compact in the industry. Also, as an option designed to make you have a little fun, the Sebring is also available with AutoStick. That gives you the control of a manual transmission with the convenience of an automatic.

The engine never disappointed me, whether I was accelerating from a light or merging onto the highway. It's got a bit of spirit and was fun to drive. It was nimble and handled every situation thrown at it with ease and confidence.

The LX package gives you a better option selection and features 16-inch cast aluminum wheels, remote keyless entry, cruise control and AM/FM stereo with CD player.

The 2003 Chrysler Sebring LX is safe and suprisingly affordable

I especially liked the mileage numbers on the Sebring between 20 mpg in the city and up to 30 mpg on the highway, depending on the model and the way it's equipped. For a car with this price tag, your daily commute just might become fun again.

Ride and handling characteristics are better than you would expect, however you won't find a luxury-car ride. It handles well on the road and is easy to park, nimbly finding itself into a tight space without a lot of effort.

The interior of the Sebring is smartly laid out, simple to understand and understated. Nothing screams out at you. Everything is within the driver's reach and comfortably placed. Instrumentation is easy to understand and you don't need an engineering degree to figure anything out.

Some of the options you'll find on the Sebring will surprise you for a vehicle in this class. Stuff like heated seats, engine immobilizer, power sunroof, four-wheel anti-lock brakes, eight-way power driver's seat, batter and engine block heater, remote and illuminated entry, and headlamp off time delay.

The standard equipment list is especially long and includes amenities like air conditioning, climate control in both front and rear, front and rear floor mats, power speed sensitive locks, power mirrors, auxiliary 12-volve power outlet, tile steering column, rear defroster, lighted trunk, child protection door locks, power steering and intermittent windshield wipers.

The center console is quite large and can hold a lot of your worldly possessions. Every seating position has a three-point safety belt, which protects every passenger you carry with you.

Seating is also quite comfortable. Fatigue isn't an issue on long jaunts. Doors open wide to allow easy entrance and exit for passengers and the driver. The rear seat folds and splits 60/40 for additional cargo space, allowing you the versatility to haul larger and longer items.

With all those options and all this versatility, you'll be surprised to find that the Sebring LX has a base price of just $18,095. Affordable? Sure.

Go drive one.
