Memories linger in Verizon robbery

By Darrell Clem
Staff Writer

By the time three teens are sentenced in March for shooting their way into a Canton Verizon store to rob it, more than a year will have passed since the gunfire made employees and customers fear for their lives.

Gerry Soubly, a former Navy man who had survived five heart bypass surgeries, was 72 years old and had stopped to look at phones when the incident unfolded the morning of Feb. 25 along Canton's prime retail corridor, on Ford east of Sheldon.

"Every time I go past that store, I think about it," Soubly said Friday. "It's an incident I wouldn't want anybody else to experience. It was an unfortunate incident."

Authorities say gunman Antonio Jerome Porter and accomplices Eric James-Lee Wilkins and Dantez Lamar

Boykin-Johnson, all 19 years old, could face penalties ranging up to life in prison when their sentencing, now delayed until March 10, happens in Wayne County Circuit Court.

Soubly regrets the incident has made him more suspicious when he is in public. He wasn't that way before.

Yet, within days of the incident, Soubly had said he hoped the defendants could

GIVING SPIRIT helps diaper bank surpass goal

Donations pass 250,000 before Thanksgiving deadline

By Darrell Clem
Staff Writer

Tugging along 21-month-old son Sennett, Plymouth mom Jessica Bigas dropped off diapers he had outgrown to help the Canton Public Library pack a truck with donations for the Detroit Area Diaper Bank.

"We had some extra diapers and this seemed like a good cause," Bigas said, pausing before she took Sennett inside the library for a story time session. "He outgrew the diapers, so this worked out really well."

Her charitable act was repeated across metro Detroit as diapers and donations poured in from Rochester to Wyandotte to help diaper bank founder Marybeth Levine shatter her goal to collect 250,000 diapers by Thanksgiving.

The library alone collected 44,963 diapers during a two-day Stuff the Truck campaign that ended Thursday, pushing Levine's fall drive to 259,059 diapers and bringing in enough monetary donations to buy thousands more.

"I'll never get over the people who pull up with diapers and just drive off," Levine said, as she greeted donors along with volunteer Lisa Kluka and the library's marketing and communications department head, Laurie Golden. "The turnout is always so heartwarming."

Four face trial for robbery at apartment

By Darrell Clem
Staff Writer

Four defendants are facing trial after courtroom testimony indicated they robbed two Westland teens who allegedly went to an apartment complex on Canton's north side to buy drugs.

The incident happened while a crowd had gathered for a party inside a residence at The Crossings, an apartment complex south of Joy Road and I-275, Detective Erik Kaleadas said.

The defendants — Muhedin Danny Turkovic, 17, and Joseph Charles Holland, 18, both of Canton, Alexander James Shippey, 22, of Livonia, and Clary DeJuan Scott Jr., 17, of Detroit — had initially faced charges of armed robbery amid allegations that threats had been made involving a gun.

However, 38th District Judge Michael Gerou reduced the charges to unarmed robbery after testimony during a Nov. 15 preliminary hearing failed to directly implicate the defendants in statements made about a gun.

The hearing ended with Gerou ordering Turkovic, Holland, Shippey and Scott to face trial in Wayne County Circuit Court. If convicted as charged, they could face penalties ranging up to 15 years in prison.

Turkovic and Holland have been released on bond. However, court records indicated Shippey and Scott remained jailed as of Thursday because $1,000 hadn't been paid toward their $10,000/10-percent bond.

Not-guilty pleas have been placed on record for all four.

Charges against them came from the Wayne County Prosecutor's Office following allegations two 18-year-old Westland men went to The Crossings to buy drugs, only to face a hostile situation by suspects accused of demanding money, wallets and a cellphone.

A police report indicated one victim was punched and kicked. The report said the other victim was struck in the face as he walked toward the door.

Share your Thanksgiving traditions with us

The Canton Observer is looking for your favorite Thanksgiving traditions, and the deadline is here.

We're offering rewards for the most unusual, most creative, most heartwarming stories. Deadline for entering is Monday, Nov. 25.

Do you always go to the America's Thanksgiving Parade downtown? Or do you just watch it on TV? Are you among the thousands of fans who just have to be at Ford Field for the Lions game?

Is there a favorite food that just has to be on your Thanksgiving table? Does your family help feed the homeless or senior citizens? Do you get together and play a fun game of touch football in the yard?

Maybe there's a certain way you cook your turkey. Or a special entree, veggie or dessert you just have to have.

Whatever the tradition is, we'd like to hear about it. Share your special tradition with readers (send a photo, too, if you'd like; just make sure it's a JPEG image).

Your special traditions will be published in our Thanksgiving Day edition (in homes and on the street Wednesday, Nov. 27).

Our panel of editors will select five favorites and award a movie pass for two to any Emagine Theatre.

Just email your tradition (and an accompanying photo, if you have one) to ObserverEditor@hometownlife.com.

somehow find a better path, could turn their lives around.

If so, that is likely to happen in prison.

Their fate now rests with Wayne County Circuit Judge Timothy Kenny, who is set to impose sentencing in March after Porter and Wilkins, both of Inkster, and Boykin-Johnson, of Westland, pleaded guilty to armed robbery, discharging a firearm into a building, felony firearms and breaking and entering a building with intent to commit a crime.

Canton police have said the teens shot the way they inside the Verizon store after an employee, seeing the hooded men approaching with an AR-15 semiautomatic assault rifle, tried to foil the robbery by locking a sliding glass door. The teens also had charges out of other communities. It was Canton police who caught them in a neighborhood after they fled the scene in a car, then on foot.

In the end, no one was shot – not the employees, not the customers, not the suspects, not the police. Yet for people like Soubly, the memory of what happened hasn't faded.

Funky Frog children's resale boutique in Rochester, from Girl Scout Brownie Troop 71041 in Taylor, from Corvette Legends club member Sandy Vassallo, from Canton grandfather Rod Jenkins and his grandson Axel, from a local man who no longer needed adult diapers after his wife had died.

They donated diapers and money to help children and adults they would never know. They gave so Levine, an unpaid volunteer who started the Canton-based diaper bank in April 2009, could distribute diapers to social service agencies across southeast Michigan. They gave so she could fill a need neglected by government safety-net programs.

"I think what Marybeth does is just wonderful," Vassallo said. Jenkins wanted to help the diaper bank and the library where his wife Patricia volunteers her time.

"The library is a special place for us," he said.

And it's a special place for the diaper bank, hosting a Stuff the Truck campaign every fall using a truck donated by a Canton catering company, Fat Ch in a Little Coat. Library employees donated diapers, too; Director Eva Davis even asked friends to give diapers rather than buy gifts for her birthday in November.

"We always worry what kind of response we will get because we've been doing this for five years," Golden said. "It always amazes us."

Worse for others

She mentioned a Canton woman who had battled cold nights all week after she lost electricity during a round of storms Sunday night.

"She still brought diapers over," Golden said.

Donors gave because they realized that, no matter their own circumstances, others had it worse – mothers who choose between buying food or diapers, children who could become sick if they don't have basic necessities.

Levine, who has a dedicated group of helpers, has distributed nearly 1.8 million diapers since April 2009. After reaching her goal before Thanksgiving, she now has supplies to help the diaper bank get through part of a long, cold winter – a winter that, because metro Detroit cares, will be a little warmer for some of its most vulnerable residents.

Canton Turkey Trot helps fight epilepsy

By Darrell Clem
Staff Writer

Bridget Murray, a 47-year-old Canton woman who started having epileptic seizures as a teenager, has inspired countless runners and walkers while helping to make Canton's Thanksgiving morning Turkey Trot fundraiser a success.

She used to fire the starter pistol to begin the race. For the last few years, she has sat in a golf cart as runners pass by her and wave.

This Thanksgiving, Murray has been chosen to serve as the first-ever grand marshal for the 11th annual Turkey Trot for Epilepsy, which already raised nearly $83,000 during its first decade.

"This is great," she said. "I love the race. I can't wait to see all the people and my family who are helping fight against seizures."

Some of Murray's relatives helped initiate the Turkey Trot, along with Canton Leisure Services. Last year, the event drew a record 1,288 participants to raise money for the Epilepsy Foundation of Michigan.

"This is something that kind of makes Bridget's year," her first cousin, Michael Murray of Canton, said.

Michael Murray's son Justin, 16, had epileptic seizures until doctors removed a lesion from his brain in 2007, so fighting epilepsy has given the Murray family and others a common cause.

Bridget Murray began having seizures as a teenager when she lived in Dearborn with her parents, Vincent and Margaret Murray, who now live in Canton.

Bridget Murray and others are urging people of all ages to join the fight against epilepsy by joining the chip-timed 5K event, which begins at Summit on the Park, 46000 Summit Parkway, and moves through Heritage Park and Pheasant

Run Golf Course, ending with raffles and awards.

Michael Murray said a children's race starts at 9 a.m. Thanksgiving Day, followed at 9:30 a.m. by the 5K event. On-line registration continues through midnight today (Sunday) at csc.canton-mi.org.

In-person race registration and chip pickup occurs 3-6 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 27, at the Summit banquet room. Participants also may register at 8 a.m. Thanksgiving morning at the Summit.

Registration fees are $25 for adults and $10 for children ages 4-12. For more information, including a map of the course, go to csc.canton-mi.org or call 734-483-5600.

Michael Murray said the Turkey Trot has gained momentum with each passing year. Some families participate in memory of loved ones they have lost. Others not affected by epilepsy simply want to show their support.

Bridget Murray of Canton, who has battled epilepsy much of her life, serves as grand marshal of this year's Turkey Trot in Canton.

Michael Murray said sponsors such as IHA Canton Family Medicine also have helped with the event.

Arlene Gorelick, president of the Epilepsy Foundation of Michigan, lauded the Murray family and Canton Township for organizing the 5K event.

"It helps spread awareness of this serious condition," she said, "and it raises needed funding that allows us to fulfill our mission—not another moment lost to seizures."

It's tea time for local history buffs

The Canton Historical Society is hosting a holiday tea 1-3 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 7, at the Bartlett-Travis House, on Ridge Road north of Cherry Hill, on Canton's far west side.

The historical society already has 15 people signed up, with 15 open slots still remaining for the event.

Historians hope to have an accurate count by Nov. 30 on attendees.

The tea will include a variety of tea sandwiches, desserts and, of course, special teas. Vicky O'Neil of Vicky's Tea Salon is the caterer.

The first floor of the Bartlett-Travis House has been decorated as it would have been around 1900. Attendees will be able to view these decorations and learn a little bit about how Christmas was commonly celebrated in Canton during that time.

Reservations are $20 for Canton Historical Society members and $25 for non-members. Those wishing to attend may register at the front desk at Summit on the Park, 46000 Summit Parkway, in Canton.

Proceeds will go to fund educational and preservation activities by the historical society.

Canton Waste Recycling adjusts collection schedule

Due to the Thanksgiving holiday, Canton Waste Recycling will not collect refuse, recycling or yard waste Thursday, Nov. 28. Residents whose collection date is Nov. 28 will have their refuse, recycling and yard waste collected Friday, Nov. 29.

CWR will not pick up Tuesday, Dec. 24, Wednesday, Dec. 25, Tuesday, Dec. 31 or Wednesday, Jan. 1. There will be no delay in pickup Monday, Dec. 23 and Monday, Dec. 30, but collection for residents whose collection day is Tuesday, Wednesday or Thursday during the holiday week will be delayed by two days both weeks.

The weeks of Dec. 23 and Dec. 30, CWR will be picking up Monday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday. CWR will resume its regular pickup schedule Monday, Jan. 6.

In addition, curbside pickup of residential yard waste will end Thursday, Dec. 5, and will not resume until April 2014. All yard waste should be placed with recyclables separate from trash on regular trash collection day.

All refuse, recycling and yard waste must be placed at the curb by 6:30 a.m. to ensure pickup. CWR will not pick up refuse or recycling that is placed past the sidewalk on private property. All recycling must be placed separate from your refuse on the opposite side of your driveway. For questions or more information on solid waste collection, visit www.canton-mi.org or call CWR at 734-397-5801.

Reality check

Exercise shows students ways of the 'real' world

By Brad Kadrich
Staff Writer

Like a lot of kids her age, Rowan Ashton may not always have understood what it means to have children and how expensive it can be.

But she does now.

Like the rest of her West Middle School eighth-grade classmates, Rowan recently went through the annual exercise known as "The Reality Store," which is really more of a reality check for kids about what grown-ups often call "the real world" is all about.

"I'm learning it's really expensive to have kids," Rowan, who'd like to maybe be a veterinarian one day, said as she surveyed the various options for day care in the store. "It's teaching you how expensive it is to live and how much your parents actually do for you."

The Reality Store is a social studies exercise designed to teach kids how to choose a career, what salaries are like and, most importantly, how much money it costs to pay for the various parts of their lives. It's a partnership between the school, the Canton Business and Professional Women and Schoolcraft College that teaches kids a valuable lesson about life.

According to social studies teacher Jeanne Martin, when students go through The Reality Store they have selected a career, they're technically 25 years old and the salary they're given is based on the career they've chosen. They're told whether they have benefits and what their taxes are so they can know what amount they have to work with for a month.

Various stations are set up in the cafeteria - day care, transportation, utilities, groceries, phone store - and students make their way through the gauntlet of life decisions.

"It gives kids a shot at what real life is kind of all about," Martin said. "For instance, if they're a mother with two kids, they can't pick a motorcycle, because they have two kids."

April Dabelstein-Shepler knows what kind of reality check life can dish out. A para-pro for Wayne-Westland Schools, Shepler had to decide quickly what she was going to do when her husband became ill. Her choice: Go back to school at Schoolcraft College to study accounting.

"I love it (at Wayne-West-

land), but at 50 years old I can't always keep up," said Shepler, who was on hand as a student volunteer. "I'm looking at something where ... the income can be much better."

Those are the kinds of lessons Martin believes The Reality Store can teach and, at the end of each session, the students really do an evaluation to see if they've learned them. The evaluation packet includes a "value" survey that begins to show the students the things that are important to them.

They learn a little bit about handling a checkbook and they also get a chance to interview their parents.

Martin said she's often fascinated to see how much the students really do understand, especially once they've completed the exercise.

"I think they really begin to get a bigger understanding of what their parents have to deal with month-to-month that they didn't realize," Martin said. "Some of the parent feedback is that this has been helpful because (kids) have a better understanding of how the real world works. It's really eye-opening."

Canton student heads to Cambridge for studies

Katrina Maynes of Canton will soon be headed to graduate school at Cambridge University in England.

She remembers that when she needed to learn social studies facts in elementary school, her mom made it into a quiz game and her dad would let her win. Maynes learned her lessons quite well and went on to study French and take several advanced placement classes in history before graduating in 2010 from Salem High School.

Maynes, the daughter of Theresa and the late William Maynes, continued her outstanding performance at Grand Valley State University, where she has been recognized with a Frederick Meijer First Generation Honors College Scholarship, a Niemeyer History Scholarship, a Grand Valley Faculty Scholarship, a Grand Valley Award for Excellence, a Grand Finish Grant and an I Am Grand Valley Award.

Maynes said that her parents instilled in her the importance of education and a strong work ethic.

"I just found what I loved and was willing to work hard at it," said Maynes, a Grand Valley Honors College history major and international relations minor. "I've always been interested in exploring identity, community and social integration, perhaps in part because I was adopted from South Korea. I have paired those interests with a focus in medieval history."

While completing challenging college history courses and French and Latin studies, Maynes also managed to be involved in a number of campus groups, including the Phi Alpha Theta History Honors Fraternity and the Phi Sigma Pi Academic Honors Fraternity, and served as president of History "Theta" Club, vice president of the International Relations Organization and editor of The Grand Valley Journal of History. She is also one of only three Lead Peer Research Consultants at Grand Valley's Student Academic Success Center, working with students and mentoring and training incoming consultants.

She said she tried to take advantage of all that Grand Valley has to offer, from campus groups and classmates, to the expertise of her professors.

"I have been very fortunate at Grand Valley to have so many excellent professors who have been caring mentors and role models for me," said Maynes, who will graduate in May. "My passion for history has also inspired me to become a professor to share my love of learning and history with the next generation of scholars."

Following graduation from Grand Valley, Maynes will continue her studies in the master's program in medieval history at Cambridge University.

Dolores Hamrick (left) and Tami Phillips run MiMoZ Clothez, a clothing bank serving youngsters in Wayne-Westland Community Schools. BILL BRESLER/STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER

Grandmothers join forces to clothe needy children

By LeAnne Rogers
Staff Writer

When Wayne residents Dolores Hamrick and Tami Phillips decided help local youngsters in need of clothing and shoes, they weren't sure what kind of response they'd get in collecting gently used clothing for redistribution.

"We never thought this would take off. We bought 10 (plastic) bins at Target and figured we could each keep five, if it didn't work," Phillips said. "We said who'd give us clothes? Had we only known."

"We didn't know if we would fly. We laughed when we were at Target," Hamrick said.

Started in 2012, MiMoZ Clothez now has 40 bins plus clothing racks and shelves to temporarily store clothing in the basement of Hamrick's home.

The big demand is clothing and shoes for youngsters at the start of the school year. MiMoZ Clothez helped 117 kids in 2012, mostly high school age, and the number jumped to 286 youngsters this year with requests primarily for kids in third- to sixth-grade.

"We started early with a Facebook account. We put out that we needed gently used clothing," Hamrick said.

"The second call we received had 15 bags of clothes. It was just blossomed from there."

Focus on schools

MiMoZ Clothez tries to focus on children in the Wayne-Westland School District with referrals from the Family Resource Center housed at Adams Upper Elementary School. Other word-of-mouth requests come from the Wayne County Family Center and First Step.

The idea for MiMoZ Clothez started when Hamrick was on vacation in Florida and read a book called "7: An Experimental Mutiny Against Excess" by Christian writer Jen Hatmaker.

"She (Hatmaker) decided

A pair of Spiderman slippers peer out from a tub of children's shoes waiting to be distributed by MiMoZ Clothez. BILL BRESLER/STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER to cut out a lot of the excess in her family's life," Hamrick said.

"You're able to focus on the needs of others and appreciate the bounty in your life," added Phillips.

Noting Hatmaker and her core group of friends helped change the life of one boy, Hamrick was inspired.

"I said I could help a whole school. I texted Tami," Hamrick said. "We talked about it for awhile."

The women, who have known each other for about a decade through First Baptist Church of Canton, contacted Family Resource Center coordinator Amanda Faughnan to see if there was a need.

This year, requests began in July and haven't stopped.

That put a dent in clothing available to fill requests.

"We got a nice financial donation. We had no boys' pants in certain sizes. We usually give two pairs of jeans," Phillips said. "We cleaned out Value Village and bought 53 pairs of jeans. We check out the zippers and make sure they are good. We bought 80-some shirts."

Organize clothing

Hamrick and Phillips launder and put together clothing for youngsters based on gender and size. The women learned it was easier to fulfill requests by organizing the clothes in marked clothing racks and bins - the shoes have painters tape with the size written on it.

"One of the biggest comments we get is that people would rather give the clothes to someone than to the Salvation Army or Purple Heart where they have to pay for it," Phillips said. "Some people can't afford that. We deliver the clothes."

MiMoZ is federally registered non-profit but Phillips and Hamrick keep their efforts a two-woman organization.

"It's just the two of us. We have no criteria. Some places you can only get things every three months. We want to make sure kids get to school," Phillips said.

"We don't want anyone to tell us who we can give to. It's all about the kids. They can't control the lives of their parents. It doesn't take much to make them happy."

The name MiMoZ comes is derived from nicknames used by the women's grandchildren. Hamrick's five granddaughters call her Mimi, while Phillips's two grandchildren call her Momo.

Both Hamrick and Phillips cite the support of their husbands - Hugh and John, respectively - who help carry, wash and deliver clothing.

Family ties bring WWII project close to home for DAR

By Julie Brown
Staff Writer

Marie Pleuss of South Lyon is glad to know Plymouth District Library staffer Susan Stoney of Plymouth.

Pleuss is second vice regent of the Sarah Ann Cochrane Chapter Plymouth-Northville, Daughters of the American Revolution, marking its 87th anniversary. She dealt with Stoney to make room reservations at the library - and discovered Stoney's cousin, Larry Halbert of Ann Arbor, is the sculptor for The Michigan WWII Legacy Memorial.

"I saw that and I thought this would be wonderful," said Pleuss, who went about setting up a program, held Nov. 18 at Station 885 with Halbert and Debi Hollis of Royal Oak, president for the initiative.

"We really do support veterans," said Pleuss, who was a longtime Wayne-Westland schools administrator. "That's one of our big causes."

Regents (similar to presidents) from other chapters attended with well wishes, according to DAR protocol.

Gloria Hunt of Plymouth Township is an associate member of Sarah Ann Cochrane and past honorary state regent, as well as past vice president general. Her chapter is Louisa St. Clair, the first in Detroit and now in Grosse Pointe.

"Sarah Ann Cochrane has one of the nicest programs," Hunt said. "You feel you've learned something." Hunt, who also likes the fellowship, plans on a memorial brick for her husband, a World War II Marine buried in Royal Oak.

Jan Sockolsky of Plymouth Township was a guest of Pam Brady's that day at lunch. Sockolsky's father was reading his Bible in a boxcar as a prisoner of war when he was killed in Europe. She was born seven weeks later.

"I think it's a wonderful thing," Sockolsky said of the memorial planned for 13 Mile and Woodward in Royal Oak. Her step-dad was a staff sergeant in North Africa and then stateside, with both men in the U.S. Army.

Her father is buried in Luxembourg. "Our daughter went and saw the grave. He was 24" when he died, Sockolsky said.

Hollis shared some thoughts before her formal presentation at her luncheon table. "Memorial Park is kind of where we started," she said. "The city of Royal Oak has been completely gracious and cooperative with Michael Gordon of Moiseyev Architects is also key, she added.

"There's not a single other one like this," she said of the Michigan memorial. "It's the whole Michigan story."

Deborah Davis of Novi is vice regent for the Sarah Ann Cochrane chapter and supportive of the memorial.

"I'm surprised it took so long," Davis said. "We want to rally around it. It's a good one."

Davis' dad served in the Navy, her father-in-law in the Army Air Corps. Stoney's dad was also a World War II veteran.

There was some time at the meeting to remember Sarah Ann Cochrane members and regents who have passed, as well as to welcome two new members.

Cochrane, who lived from 1832 to 1917 and was buried in Northville, was remembered. She was a librarian at the Detroit Public Library who oversaw introduction of the Dewey Decimal System there.

Cochrane was descended from five Revolutionary War ancestors on both sides of her family. Current members recognize their ties to the American Revolution, along with assisting veterans, giving high school senior scholarships and a Native American scholarship, presenting JROTC and ROTC medals and other projects.

Foundation hands out grants

In its 2013 grant cycle, the Community Foundation of Plymouth awarded $17,300 to support nine local organizations and projects that will benefit the Plymouth community and its residents.

The groups and their grants: Village Potters Guild gets $2,500 for a studio-sized pug mill to support workshops for seniors and funding for soup swap events.

Michigan Philharmonic gets a $2,500 grant for its youth education programs, including arts programs in the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools and the Michigan Philharmonic Youth Orchestra.

New Hope Center for Grief Support received $1,500 for program expansion in Plymouth, which will include an additional eight-week workshop per year geared toward seniors.

New Morning School received $2,000 for 10 one-week camp scholarships to enable low-income students living in Plymouth to attend the school's summer science, technology and engineering camp. Through hands-on activities, the camp enhances students' learning and stimulates interest in science.

Plymouth Community YMCA received $2,500 to expand the number of weeks the YMCA's Youth Volunteer Corps is offered in the summer from six to eight weeks.

Plymouth Fire and Drum Corps received $2,800 for scholarships to help members attend band camp.

Plymouth Historical Society received $1,000 for continued upgrades to the Plymouth Historical Museum's security systems by replacing the current system with better technology, cameras and network access.

Plymouth Oratorio Society received $1,000 from Britten St. Nicolas performance: two pianists, tenor soloist and a girls choir.

Rotary Club of Plymouth A.M. received $1,500 to support the Plymouth Community Opportunity House Beautification Project, which includes updating the living and kitchen areas and providing computer equipment for the 14 residents who live there.

Established in 2005, the Community Foundation of Plymouth is dedicated to building a permanent endowment to enrich the quality of life in the Plymouth community. CFP is affiliated with the Ann Arbor Area Community Foundation.

'Nutcracker' comes to Salem stage

The Plymouth-Canton Ballet and the Michigan Philharmonic bring the story of the Nutcracker, following Clara as she journeys with the Nutcracker Prince from her home through the Land of Snow, to the stage Dec. 7-8 at the Gloria Logan Auditorium in Salem High School.

Performances are 6:30 p.m. Dec. 7 and 2 p.m. Dec. 8. A Sugar Plum parade will be held following each performance, where the audience is invited to come up on stage and meet the dancers. Salem High School Auditorium is located at 46181 Joy Road in Canton.

Ashlee Baracy of WDIV-TV (Channel 4) will open each performance with a reading of the Twas The Night Before Christmas. The shows include special guest dancers from the Grand Rapids Ballet. Dawnell Dryja will perform as the Sugar Plum Fairy and the Snow Queen. Stephen Sanborn will dance the Snow King and Cavalier.

The P-CEP Madrigal Singers will perform the choral work in the Land of Snow. Dawnell and Ashlee are both past members of the Plymouth-Canton Ballet having danced in the Nutcracker and other performances.

Other dancers include Madison Thorp from Canton dancing as Clara.

The Dance of the Reeds will be complemented with dancers Madison Landon from Canton, Allison Mersereau from Livonia, Kaylee Carr-Taylor from Plymouth and Olivia Lovsin from Canton.

The Arabian Princess will be danced by Micah Endicott from Ypsilanti. Miranda Richards from Canton, Allison Reed from Belleville, Kayla Darksowski from Dearborn and Paige Adams from Gibraltar will be performing the high-energy and always popular Russian Variation.

Tickets purchased in advance receive a $2 discount for each performance ticket. Tickets purchased at the door are $25 for adults and teens, $18 for children.

Sugar Plum Parade tickets are $3 each and can be purchased in advance at the event. Ticket information and ordering is available online at www.plymouth-cantonballet.org or by calling 734-676-7233.

Holiday art exhibit set for Plymouth Community Arts Council

The Plymouth Community Arts Council will host a special art exhibit Dec. 1-29 by the Three Cities Art Club.

Titled "The Gift of Art," it invokes the holiday spirit, which talented artists offer the community in their work.

The public is invited to a reception 1-4 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 7, at the center, 774 Sheldon.

Many of the award-winning artists exhibit all over the country, but have reserved December to share their talents with the local community.

In turn, the community is invited to vote for their favorite pieces of art and may view the work from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Thursday, during public events and by appointment.

"Beyond Our Dimension," mixed media by Liz Gullikson of Canton, will be on display during the Three Cities Art Club exhibition.

Call the PCAC for holiday openings and closings at 734-416-278. Three Cities Art Club president Marilyn Meredith said that visitors will see two-dimensional styles from traditional to impressionistic to abstract, as well as photography, and most of the work will be for sale.

Membership in the club is open to all. Monthly meetings held in Canton include tips and tricks, art news and programs, information and competitions, prizes, exhibitions, demonstrations and marketing, besides the stimulation of fellow artists.

Membership costs $25 annually. For more information about the club or the event, contact Meredith at 313-231-3939 or visit threecitiesartclub.org.

‘Great’ Thanksgiving buffet provides meals for needy

By Sue Mason
Staff Writer

There were few empty seats at tables as an overflow crowd filled the Commons area of the William D. Ford Career Technical Center for the annual Thanksgiving buffet benefit for the Wayne-Westland Family Resource Center.

City and school officials as well as the public enjoyed a turkey dinner with all the trimmings, prepared and served by the center’s culinary arts students.

“The food was great, and it was great service,” said Rita Harmon of Westland. “I came last year and the fact it helps people is an extra reason to come again. It’s a great idea and a good experience for the kids.”

Great was a word used often to describe the event, started by Chef Anthony Paquette seven years ago as a way for students to practice their skills while helping others. Guests made a donation of $10 for the meal, with the money raised used to provide Thanksgiving dinners to needy families in the school district.

Help needed

“Thank you for coming and thank you William D. Ford Center for hosting this event year after year and putting on this elaborate meal,” said Amanda Faughnan, resource center director. “Chef Tony and the students do a fabulous job with the food.”

She added that the need for assistance among residents in the school district continues to rise, and with the help of Paquette and the Career Technical Center, the response from the community to that need continues to grow.

“Year after year, attendance grows. I hope you will continue to come and make this grow,” Faughnan said.

Some guests like 18th

District Court Judge Sandra Ference Cicirelli have been attending the event since Paquette sent out invitations seven years ago, while Keith DeMolay of Westland was a first timer.

“I was able to do this because I retired,” DeMolay said. “It’s a very good cause; there is a need in the community.”

“It’s a great opportunity to help people who need the help,” Cicirelli said. “It’s also a great opportunity for the students to be involved in a service program. This is really important even at this time of the year. People need the help.”

‘Excellent job’

Virginia Reid of Wayne also was new to the event after reading about it in the Observer. She was there with Denise Wright of Wayne, Sharon LaPorte of Romulus and 4-year-old Braylen Bowie who favored the turkey and mashed potatoes.

“This is nice, so nice,” Wright said. “They’ve definitely done an excellent job.”

“They’re doing a wonderful job,” LaPorte said. “Someone has been here every few minutes, asking if we needed anything.”

“We’ll be back next year,” Reid said.

Paul Motz, director of the Westland Youth Assistance, also had compliments for Paquette and his students who “always does a wonderful job.”

“It’s a great way to help the Family Resource Center,” Motz said. “And Amanda does a great job. This is a way to support her and the school district. I look forward to this.”

Faughnan sees the event as a plus for Career Technical Center.

“It’s a great time for the community to see the programs they have here,” she said.

Wayne State, University of Toledo to offer programs at Schoolcraft

Schoolcraft College has created a new bachelor's and master's degree partnership program with Wayne State University and the University of Toledo that will begin in the fall of 2014. Degrees in business, nursing, engineering, criminal justice and more will soon be available at Schoolcraft's main campus in Livonia.

While many community colleges offer university completion programs, the new "Schoolcraft to U" partnership is more than what others have offered, officials said. Both universities will offer classes on Schoolcraft's main campus in Livonia and online.

The University of Toledo also will waive out-of-state tuition fees for students interested in its program offerings. The agreement also provides for seamless transitions from Schoolcraft College to one of the partner universities and collaborative student support programs.

"Schoolcraft College is much more focused on helping its students earn a bachelor's degree and beyond," said Schoolcraft President Dr. Conway A. Jeffress said. "We selected Wayne State and the University of Toledo because we believe they have the programs that give our students their best chance of earning a degree and bettering their lives."

"For several years, The University of Toledo has been committed to blurring the line between Michigan and Ohio to provide access to high-quality UT degree programs to Michigan students," said Dr. Lloyd A. Jacobs, president of the University of Toledo. "Coupled with our marketing efforts and creative scholarship models, this partnership with Schoolcraft College is symbolic of that commitment by seamlessly allowing Schoolcraft students to continue their academic careers and achieve the dream of a four-year degree."

The 110,000-square-foot American Community Mutual Insurance, located on the corner of Seven Mile and Haggerty roads in Livonia, was recently purchased by Schoolcraft for $3.4 million. Most of UT's and WSU's classes will be held there.

Wayne State President M. Roy Wilson said. "At Wayne State, we want to offer classes when and where it's convenient for students. The new facility in Livonia will give us a presence in another part of metro Detroit and create an opportunity for more people to earn degrees in the high demand fields of business and engineering."

While UT and WSU will offer classes throughout Schoolcraft College's main campus in Livonia, the majority of their class offerings and business offices will be located in a new building that Schoolcraft College purchased about a year ago at the corner of Seven Mile and Haggerty roads.

Democrats applaud Schauer at local meet-and-greet

By Brad Kadrich
Staff Writer

The lights were out at John and Mary Bartek's Plymouth Township home, courtesy of last Sunday's high winds and rains that hit southeast

Michigan. But the power outage that turned off the lights did nothing to dim the enthusiasm of the 50 or so members and supporters of the Plymouth Democratic Club gathered for a meet-and-greet with Mark Schauer. The Democratic gubernatorial candidate, who plans to challenge Gov. Rick Snyder in the 2014 election, stopped by to talk to club members and to hear their views on a change in Lansing.

View Online
www.hometownlife.com

He gave them what they wanted to hear. "I didn't vote for Rick Snyder, but I gave him the benefit of the doubt."

I thought he'd be this "business" guy," Schauer told the gathered crowd. I thought we were getting sort of a Milliken, and we got more of a DeVos instead. I've talked with a lot of people around the state who are dissatisfied."

It was the kind of small-venue meeting Schauer has been doing since announcing his candidacy. It was the third of five similar events he did Sunday alone.

It's part of the strategy he's adopting in order to beat the perception that no one knows who he is. A poll done last year by Public Policy Polling, a Democratic polling group, showed some 72 percent of Michiganders had no idea who Schauer is. Ironically, the same poll showed him with a 44-36 lead in a hypothetical race against the incumbent governor.

Schauer said Sunday that polls show the race is a dead heat, with Snyder holding a within-the-margin-of-error 36-33 lead. He said groups like the Plymouth Democratic Club are going to make the difference if he is to unseat Snyder.

"This campaign will be won by people in this room, the doors they knock on and the contacts they make," Schauer said. "If people vote to the level of 2006 rather than 2008, I'll be elected governor."

Schauer mingled with club members and supporters for about a half-hour, then talked for some 20 minutes about the ways he'll challenge Snyder's record. He was critical of the governor's handling of the right-to-work situation last year.

He also criticized Snyder for "cutting $1 billion from public education" and "a half-billion dollars from higher education." He said Snyder has "raised taxes on retirees," "raised taxes on people with children (with the elimination of the child-care credit)" and "he's raised taxes on the working poor."

According to Schauer, Michigan has the fourth-highest unemployment rate in the country and the "highest percentage of children living in poverty in the Great Lakes region."

"You raise taxes on the poor and give a $2 billion tax break to corporations and it doesn't even create jobs," Schauer said. "Cutting education is mortgaging our future and it isn't working."

Mary Maguire, president of the Plymouth Democratic Club, said the event is an effort by the club to connect people in the local community with the folks who want to represent them.

"It's a wonderful opportunity for people to connect with (Schauer)," Maguire said. "His message is absolutely right on. He has the same core values as people around here and people in the state of Michigan."

The Barteks, who hadn't met Schauer before Sunday, were happy to open their home to him.

"A lot of people don't know a lot about him," John Bartek said.

"A lot of people are disappointed with (Snyder). It's not turning out the way they thought it would. This is about helping people get to know (Schauer)."

AJ DESMOND SONS

Paying tribute to the life of your loved one.

FONDA, MARY JANE

Longtime Birmingham/ Bloomfield Hills resident Mary Quinby Fonda died September 29, 2013 after a long full life. She died in Cupertino, California, where she and her late husband, James Fonda, relocated in 2001. Mary Jane was born in Oklahoma City on November 15, 1917. She grew up primarily in Tulsa before moving to Houston, where she graduated from San Jacinto High School and then Rice Institute. She worked for Burroughs Corporation in Houston, where she met her future husband who had recently moved from his native Troy, New York. Both families had moved to relatively prosperous Houston to escape the economic woes of the Depression in Oklahoma and upstate New York. Her late husband, members of the Greatest Generation they next proceeded to World War II. They were married January 10, 1943 and spent their first year of marriage migrating from one Army training base to the next. Mary Jane spent their second anniversary not knowing if her husband was alive, as he was MIA following the Battle of the Bulge. In Spring of 1945 she welcomed him home after his stint as a POW, and soon thereafter they moved to Detroit. The headquarters of Burroughs, her husband worked for Burroughs his entire career until he retired in 1985. From the time their first son was born in 1948, they lived in the Birmingham/Bloomfield area the entire time, except for a 10 year residence in Akron while he served as Branch Manager. Even during those years she spent much of her time in this area, since both her sons attended Cranbrook. She was particularly devoted to Art, serving as a docent for the Akron Art Institute and then the Detroit Institute of Arts, where she was also long active in the Art to the Schools Program. She is survived by her two sons, James R. Fonda, Jr. of Cupertino, California and Randolph C. Fonda of Issaquah, Washington, her daughter-in-law Laura Haddad, her beloved grandson Kyle C. Haddad-Fonda, and eight nieces and nephews. As the last living family member, her generation, Mary Jane was predeceased by her husband (in 2003), her brother, J. Quinby Fonda, her sister, J. Quinby Bricker of Bellare, Texas. She was also predeceased by her daughter-in-law, Mary-Ann Fonda. She would have welcomed any memorials in her name to the Detroit Institute of Art.

Safety first: Gov. Snyder lauds Cyber Civilian Corps

Gov. Rick Snyder announced the Cyber Civilian Corps, a rapid response team that would assist the state and industries across Michigan during a major cyber incident, at the 2013 Michigan Cyber Summit recently at Novi's Suburban Collection Showplace.

Hosted by the Department of Technology, Management and Budget, the summit brought officials from the public and private sectors together to focus on the issue of cyber security. "Michigan's leadership in the area of cyber security continues through this summit and our innovative action plan," Snyder said. "Cyber threats are real and we must stay vigilant and proactive to help protect Michigan families and businesses from those who would use technology to do harm. By joining forces, public and private entities can address these threats and ensure a safer, stronger cyber environment."

According to state of Michigan Chief Information Officer David Behen, the Cyber Civilian Corps would include volunteers from government, education and business. Information technology professionals interested in participating would be able to improve their skills by taking advantage of training through the Michigan Cyber Range.

Michigan places a high emphasis on protecting the state's computer systems, networks and data. The state's centralized technology model places Michigan in a strong position to implement security efforts.

"Michigan's cyber initiative is aimed at defending the state against cyber attacks," Behen said. "Focusing on cyber security will help position Michigan to take advantage of opportunities in this growing and fast-paced and ever-changing industry."

Data theft and breaches from cyber crime can cost businesses as much as $1 trillion globally. Government is no stranger to cyber attacks either. In fact, the state of Michigan blocked 568,724 cyber attacks daily from January to August this year.

The 2013 Summit was a follow-up to the sold-out 2011 event, which also served as the national launch for Cyber Awareness Month. The event also served as the second model National Governors Association Resource Center for State Cyber Security Advisory Council.

Invest the max in 401(k) plan

Q: Dear Rick: I have worked for a publicly listed company for about 20 years. The bulk of my retirement savings is in my 401(k) plan. Typically, I keep about 50 percent of my money invested in company stock. The other 50 percent is spread out in other funds. I have been putting the max into the 401(k) plan. However, I wonder if I should continue to do so. The company has just stopped its matching program. Does it make sense to invest in the 401(k) plan even though the company is not matching? I am thinking about lowering the percentage of my company stock from 50 percent to 25 percent – what do you think?

A: If you have the opportunity to use a salary deferral program such as 401(k) or a 403(b) plan, it makes sense to invest the maximum, whether the company is matching or not.

When a company matches, it is a no-brainer – you have to take advantage of it. After all, it's sort of like getting free money. Even though you're not getting a match, it still makes sense to invest the maximum possible. Not only are there tax breaks associated with salary deferral programs, it is an easy and somewhat painless way to invest for your retirement.

Rick Bloom

You cannot have too much money invested for retirement and that is why I encourage people to put the maximum in their 401(k) plan. As I've mentioned many times in the past, retirement is a brand new concept in the history of mankind and, in order to have a comfortable retirement, you need resources. The only way most people are going to be able to obtain those resources is to invest on a regular basis and there's no easier way of doing it than with a salary deferral program.

If your company offers a Roth option, you may wish to use it. The downside of the Roth 401(k) is that you're putting after tax money into the 401(k) plan where you invest pretax money. However, the benefits are that when you withdraw the money from the Roth 401(k) it is tax-free. When you withdraw money from a traditional 401(k) plan, you're taxed at that point in time. In addition, money in a Roth 401(k) is not subject to the rules regarding required minimum distributions.

As to your allocation in company stock – I think 50 percent is too high and I also think 25 percent is too high. I prefer most employees not have any allocation to their company stock. It has nothing to do with the company or being a loyal employee.

My view is purely based on what's good for you as an investor. It's important to keep in mind that when you invest in company stock you are taking a greater risk. After all, if something went wrong with the company, not only would your investments be at risk, it is possible that your job could be impacted.

Remember, as an investor we wear different hats than when we're employees. As an employee, you should be loyal to your employer; however, as an investor you shouldn't have loyalty to the investment.

Masked man robs Radio Shack

A masked man with a gun robbed the Radio Shack in the 26300 block of Plymouth Road in Redford Monday afternoon, according to police reports.

The store manager told police that he and another employee were working in the store at around 2:45 p.m. Monday and both employees had gone to the back of the store for a time.

When they returned to the sales area at the front of the store, a man with a black hood over his head and a mask was standing directly in front of the cash register holding a gun, reports said.

The man then pointed the gun at them and told them to give him the money from the register, according to reports.

The man left the store with an undisclosed amount of money and ran along the sidewalk in front of the store and out of sight around the corner of the building, reports said.

The manager told police he thinks the same man robbed the store in late September.

A short time later, a robbery attempt occurred at the Game Stop at 9173 Telegraph in Redford.

A man with a similar description was last seen fleeing across Telegraph near Dover, according to reports.

U.S. district attorney shares stories regarding high-profile cases at Town Hall

U.S. Attorney Barbara McQuade talks about the attempted Christmas Day 2009 bombing of a Detroit-bound airliner. BILL BRESLER | STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER

By David Veselenak
Staff Writer

As Anne Bater listened to U.S. District Attorney Barbara McQuade speak Wednesday about the Christmas Day underwear bomber, she realized how an incident like that can take place at anytime.

A Livonia resident who moved to the United States from England two years ago, Bater said she has flown the same route Umar Farouk Abdulmutallab took from Amsterdam to Detroit many times.

"He could have been on my flight," she said. "I (now) know more than I did."

Bater was one of several hundred people who attended the year's second installment of the Livonia Town Hall series at St. Mary's Antiochian Orthodox Church. McQuade, the current attorney for the Eastern District of Michigan and first woman to hold the position, has been responsible for prosecuting several high-profile federal crimes, including the case against Abdulmutallab and former Detroit Mayor Kwame Kilpatrick.

She said she had been confirmed for the position, which prosecutes federal crimes in the eastern half of Michigan's Lower Peninsula, the day before the Christmas bombing had taken place in a plane over metro Detroit. Her term began in January 2010.

"Christmas Eve, I get a call. 'Great news, you have been confirmed as district attorney.' Hey, that's great thing, I'm going to kick back and enjoy my Christmas," she said she recalls thinking. "Then the next day, I'm minding my own business, preparing the family meal and opening gifts and I get this email."

The incident, had it been successful, would have resulted in the plane crashing somewhere in Woodhaven, which would have most likely killed everyone on board and possibly some people on the ground.

Terrorism any time, any place

"A terrorist attack can occur at any time, like Christmas Day, and at any place," McQuade said. Abdulmutallab was sentenced to life in prison in 2012 for the attempted attack.

She went over some of the duties her office handles, which are sometimes unknown by many residents. The U.S. Attorney's office focuses on federal crimes, which include issues related to terrorism, exports and imports, child pornography and some violent crimes.

Livonia resident Rose Kachnowski said she did not realize the wide array of responsibilities McQuade's office had and said she learned more details she did not know in cases she had heard about for several years, including the underwear bomber case.

"It did show that people take a deeper interest in this right now," she said. "All the details about it were quite interesting."

Kilpatrick prosecution

McQuade shared her stories of the prosecution of Kilpatrick, who was sentenced to 28 years in prison after being found guilty of several racketeering and extortion charges earlier this year.

McQuade said one interesting fact with the case involving Kilpatrick was that more than 30 other individuals had been charged in connection with how he was running the mayor's office.

"It shows it wasn't just him," she said. "This culture of corruption pervaded his entire administration."

The next Livonia Town Hall event, which will take place at 10:30 a.m. Jan. 14 at St. Mary's, will feature Detroit Institute of Arts director Graham W.J. Beal.

Shough to lead Chiefs

He'll take over for Richardson in 2014

By Tim Smith
Staff Writer

For more than a quarter-century, Jess Shough and Bob Richardson were friendly coaching rivals — at the helm of Westland John Glenn and Canton, respectively. Then they were together last season on Canton's varsity boys track and field team, with Shough serving as an assistant coach. But Richardson subsequently stepped down from the top job and Shough wasted no time jumping in to take over.

"Looking forward to the challenge," Shough said. "We want to continue with the tradition that has been established here, and I hope that we can do that."

Canton co-athletic director Sue Heinzman confirmed last week that Shough, 68, will succeed Richardson beginning with the 2014 season.

"I was an assistant here last year, and later on (in the season) he kind of hinted toward it (retirement)," Shough said. "I kind of thought, the fact we had such a good season, a fun season that 'He'll at least probably stick around for a little while yet.'"

Then came word that Richardson wanted to spend more time with his family, creating a vacancy that would open for long.

"It's a great place to work," Shough said. "Sue

Rocks start season on mission to eclipse past successes

By Tim Smith
Staff Writer

Could 2013-14 finally be the year where the Salem Rocks get over the playoff hump?

Veteran Salem varsity boys hockey coach Ryan Ossennmacher is optimistic his team features enough talent to go along with intangibles such as work ethic and desire to make a serious run.

"The expectations are high," said Ossennmacher following a recent practice at Plymouth Cultural Center. "We finished ranked in the top 10 two of the last three years."

"I think that we reached a point that that's an expectation. We have guys who come in here and they want to win. It's not just a place to come play hockey."

That was evident at practice, where players such as senior forward Jake Sealy battled along the half-wall with junior forward Noah Willer during a drill.

minder Parker Godfrey flicked his pad at a low shot, showing the kind of dexterity that helped him finish 2012-13 with a 12-2 record after taking over the top job at mid-season.

Next step

Ossennmacher stressed that now is the time for the defending KLA South Division co-champs (18-6-2 last year) to serve notice that they are the team to be reckoned with when the stakes are raised. The first test is 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at PCC against Novi.

"We've had success within our league. We won three division titles in the last six years," Ossennmacher continued. "... That's the expectation. But the last three years we beat the eventual state champs. Last year, we beat Brighton and a couple years ago we beat Novi. And so, we just now have to push through in the playoffs. "That's something we haven't been able to do the last couple years, and that's just the next step for our program to really move up."

Salem should be bolstered by the fact there "something like seven of our top nine scorers from last year" are back in the fold, Ossennmacher estimated.

"I think we have a good blend this year of veteran guys and some young guys coming in," the coach noted. "This is probably the oldest team I've had in (seven) years

Fundraiser for CC's Matt Sorisho

The Canton and Plymouth varsity boys hockey teams are set to square off at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday at Arctic Edge Arena, but it will be much more than a game.

It also will be a benefit for Novi-Detroit Catholic Central's Matt Sorisho, the Shamrocks hockey player who was seriously injured earlier this year.

Proceeds from admission fees and concessions will go to Matt, while direct donations to him also are welcome at the event, according to a spokesman for the Canton hockey team.

Sorisho, a senior at CC, broke his back during an on-ice accident Jan. 4; he reportedly lost his balance and fell hard into the boards.

Money collected Wednesday, the latest in a series of fundraising events (one took place Nov. 20 at Computware Arena, the Shamrocks' home arena), will be used to help the Sorisho family pay for medical costs, home modifications and mobility equipment for Matt.

Arctic Edge is south of Michigan Avenue between Canton Center/Belle-ville and Beck roads.

Waza wins

Not even a broken-down bus could keep the Detroit Waza Flo from turning it up last Saturday night in Harburg, Pa.

The team was forced to rent cars just to make it on time, but managed to rally for a 8-5 Professional Arena Soccer League Eastern Division win over the host Heat.

Waza Flo is now 1-1 in the division, while Harrisburg is 1-2.

After a slow start, Waza Flo went down 2-0 on a pair of goals by Kenneth Fultz.

This fueled the team to get back in the game and Miki Djericilo scored two unassisted goals in the first quarter, while Nik Djokic (Livonia Stevenson) and Costea Decu each added second quarter goals for a 4-2 halftime advantage.

The second half started with each team getting a goal.

The Heat's Tyler Wimer scored short-handed, but Waza Flo had a quick answer by Djokic. Fultz made it 4-4.

Zachary Sell gave the Heat the lead at the start of the fourth. Waza Flo scored three times in the final six minutes with goals by Mirsad Halep, Zane Pollack and Victor Otieno.

Persistent Saints sign Plymouth's Senkbeil

By Tim Smith
Staff Writer

The day Brooke Senkbeil looked forward to for so long had finally come.

To a lesser extent, the same could be said about Aquinas College's women's softball program — which began recruiting the hard-hitting catcher her freshman season.

Senkbeil, a senior catcher for the Plymouth Wildcats, signed her national letter of intent to play for the Saints during a ceremony in the Plymouth High School gymnasium on Saturday, Nov. 16.

It was part of a joint ceremony, with Lindsay Lutton also signing to play softball at Oakland University (see related story).

"It's a treat for me, this is the first year to actually have been at a signing, even having been involved in the program for 11 years," said Plymouth head softball coach Bev McManus, about the Senkbeil-Lutton festivities. "Personally, it was a true joy to watch them sign their national letter of intent."

According to Brooke Senkbeil, there were other college softball options for her to consider, but ultimately Aquinas called long and loud.

"The coaches (Crystal Lasaka, Brad Koch) had stayed with me for all four years of high school, which was great," said the 17-year-old Senkbeil, who owns a 3.8 GPA off the field and .440 batting average on it. "They kept in contact, it's a lot smaller than the Park (Plymouth-Canton Educational Park) which I actually really liked, the campus is gorgeous."

Parents Cindy and Dave Senkbeil of Canton and a number of other family members were on hand for the ceremony, as was Koch, who first spotted

Heinzman offered me the position and I said that'd be great, exciting." Shough, whose 26-year coaching career at John Glenn featured the 1995 Western Lakes Activities Association championship, plans on bringing the same approach that Richardson did—only with a slight wrinkle.

In his blood

"I just had an organizational meeting and they were talking about philosophy," the Westland resident said. "I said the philosophy I have and what coach Richardson has are very similar."

"Number one, if you're going to be participating in track I want you to have fun with what you're doing."

The wrinkle revolves around how involved Shough intends to be with all aspects of the team.

"Probably the big difference is I'll probably be doing more coaching," Shough explained, "because at Glenn I only had one assistant my entire career there. It was a matter of I had to do more coaching of all the events."

"So, the likelihood is I'm going to be doing a little more coaching than Bob did because that's just in my blood."

Both veteran coaches also are proponents of helping kids to become well-rounded student-athletes ready to take on anything in the classroom or track.

He said they have always been "strong believers in being prepared, having good academics" throughout high school.

"Beyond that, if it's a case where your track career takes you further, we hopefully prepared you for whatever lies ahead," Shough explained. "Either in a track career or life. So we're hopefully giving you a foundation, a value system that helped you."

Shough also said he doesn't have any qualms about being the head coach for another KLAA team after being with the Rockets for so long.

"I had to actually deal with that (facing John Glenn) last year to some extent," he noted. "Many of the kids I had coached the previous season were still there. It was mutual respect, I guess. They (Rockets) accepted it, they were pretty good about it."

"In terms of a head position now, I'm looking to help the Canton team become the best team they can be. It'll be fun."

Cranbrook ices Plymouth, 5-1, in season opener

By Marty Budner
Staff Writer

Plymouth's boys hockey team had a tough opening-night assignment Tuesday evening in Bloomfield Hills against host Cranbrook Kingswood. Although the Wildcats gave a strong effort, they fell four goals short of the defending Division 3 state champion Cranes.

Cranbrook Kingswood came out flying and sailed to a 5-0 lead before Plymouth netted its first goal of the season two minutes into the third period. The teams played scoreless hockey the rest of the way and Cranbrook finished with the 5-1 victory.

"We knew we were going to have our hands full," said Plymouth's third-year head coach Gerry Ventro, whose team lost in the quarterfinal round of last year's Division 1 state tournament to Catholic Central by the same 5-1 score. "When you play Cranbrook you know you are going to get tested right away."

"I have a team with 12 new players and didn't know what to expect. I know the score shows 5-1, but, we tied them 1-1 in the third period and I thought we actually carried the play in that period."

Cranbrook Kingswood scored two goals in each of the first two periods as four different players found the back of the net.

Junior forward Austin Alger opened the scoring on a power play tally assisted by senior captain Christopher Brown. Junior Shawn O'Malley scored later in the period on another assist by Brown.

Cranbrook's second period goal scorers were freshman Alex Lycett and junior Blake Rogow. Jack Blumberg and Sean O'Leary were credited with assists.

One minute into the third, Rogow knocked in his second goal of the game.

Plymouth's lone goal came courtesy of senior Charlie

"This was our first official game of the year and I thought we had a lot of energy and played with a lot of jump," said Cranbrook Kingswood's veteran head coach Andy Weidenbach.

Junior goalie Jared Maddock made 22 saves for Plymouth. Cranbrook's junior goalie, Austin Movinski, made 12 saves.

CANTON 11, CHELSEA 4: Sparked by Christian Flack's hat trick, the Canton varsity boys hockey team got off to a winning start with this road victory Wednesday night.

In addition to the three goals by Flack, several Chiefs made the scoresheet at least twice.

Netting two goals were Tommy Kiddle, Cooper Rice and Brendan O'Hare while Kurt Snow registered one goal and three assists.

Forwards Connor Wherrett and Matt Eastman also had solid outings with two assists each.

Sharing netminding duties for rookie head coach Brad Barath were Nick Borg and Justin Kolbicz. Playing well in front of them were defensemen Collin Smith, Hunter Schlamp and Bryan Eastman.

Next up for the Chiefs is a "rivalry" game against Plymouth, slated for 6:30 p.m. Wednesday at Arctic Edge Arena.

Golden Grizzlies nab Plymouth's Lutton

By Tim Smith
Staff Writer

When Lindsay Lutton plays softball, she plays with a fierce competitiveness.

"I'm pretty much all or nothing," said the 17-year-old Lutton, a senior shortstop at Plymouth. "I put everything out there on the field."

So, it makes perfect sense that she signed to play with the Golden Grizzlies of Oakland University. Lutton signed her national letter of intent during a ceremony at Plymouth High School on Saturday, Nov. 16.

Familiarity also played a role in her decision to sign with OU, assistant coach Val Canfield formerly coached her with the Wildcats.

"I think I'm ready for that step," said Lutton, who batted .450 last season for the Wildcats. "I've done a lot of conditioning and weight training and I've been playing since I was 9. ... I played on very competitive travel teams so I'm ready to make that next step."

She added that Canfield being part of the OU coaching staff was a definite plus when she considered her college options.

"I'm really excited," Lutton said. "It's a great team, great coaching staff. I knew Canfield, of course, because she was head coach at Plymouth."

"And I knew (assistant coach) Carrie Wilks from previous years and when I met (head coach) Connie Miner I loved her. I'm really excited to play." Earlier this year, Lutton visited the Rochester Hills campus and knew that was where she wanted to sign.

"I just fell in love with everything when I went on my unofficial visit," Lutton said. "The campus, the coaches, the staff, all the girls on the team."

The student-athlete (3.6 GPA) intends to pursue physical therapy as a career.

Current Plymouth head coach Bev McManus praised Lutton for how she quickly stepped in to fill the void caused in 2011 following the 2010 graduation of standout shortstop Stacey Klonowski.

"We didn't know what we had until she hit the field," said McManus, who at that time was an assistant coach. "We just lost Stacey Klonowski and she just took over that spot."

"She's just amazing at shortstop. I think Oakland's going to be a great fit for her."

Lutton said. "The campus, the coaches, the staff, all the girls on the team."

"It's really exciting to have it done for her because she's worked really hard and now she gets an opportunity to go to a great university," Holly Toy said.

"She couldn't be prouder of her ... It's like a big family over there."

"She'll do really well over there and I'd say coach Miner is a good mentor for any young lady."

she put her mind to it." smith@hometownlife.com

Senkbeil during a college combine.

"It may not be the biggest school (about 1,900 students), but it was a school that was a perfect fit for her," Dave Senkbeil said. "When she went to the campus she loved it, she loves Brad and the head coach Crystal, so it's a good fit for her."

Brooke emphasized that it was her dad whose own coaching proved to be a common thread for her entire softball career, which began when she was just 7 years old.

Her softball skills were honed in travel leagues such as the Plymouth-Canton Pride and the P-C Pride and Finesse. Dave Senkbeil has coached her every step of the way.

"Luckily I had great coaches from when I was 7 until now," Brooke continued. "I definitely want to thank all the coaches that have been part of it and especially my dad, since he's been part of it from 7 until 17."

Better prepared

Dave Senkbeil said others deserve the lion's share of credit for her growth as a softball player, however.

He cited P-C Pride and Finesse, along with the coaching philosophy of former Plymouth coach Val Canfield (now an assistant coach at Oakland U) and McManus, a longtime member of Canfield's staff who took over the helm in 2013.

"At this high school she was lucky to get the coaching staff that she bad with Canfield and McManus," he continued. "They taught more of how travel is."

"It's more of a higher level softball than a typical high school, I would say."

Brooke Senkbeil concurred about the importance of travel softball and how it will prepare her for the college game in the Wolverine-Hoosier Athletic Conference (National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics).

"Playing travel and elite as long as I have, since I was 7, it will give me a good idea of what college will be like," she stressed. "But at the same time, not sure. It's going to be a faster pace, faster game and I'm really looking forward to it."

PCA's Jipping ready to power up for the Chips

By Tim Smith
Staff Writer

Daniel Jipping has a penchant for hitting the baseball a long way.

Soon, the Plymouth Christian Academy senior will have the chance to take his power and other baseball skills to Central Michigan University.

Jipping recently signed his national letter of intent to go to CMU and join the Chippewas, coached by Steve Jaska.

"Even though I had several other opportunities," wrote Jipping in an email to the Observer, "I really felt like CMU was a good fit for me."

"After visiting a couple times, I felt very comfortable with the coaches and the program as a whole. They do an excellent job of player development and I know they will be able to make me a better player."

Although Jipping has primarily played catcher for the Eagles, where he to date has totaled a .594 batting average along with 34 doubles, 12 triples, 18 homers and 84 stolen bases, he is being considered for a corner outfield position with the Chippewas.

"What a physical kid," noted Jaska in a scouting report about Jipping. "The ball really carries for him and he has a ton of pop in his bat. He plays for a smaller school, but we were able to see him play for the Michigan Bulls and came away very impressed.

"We think he projects as a corner outfielder as his arm strength continues to improve." Among his many accolades at PCA were being named a first-team all-conference player by the MIAC as well as being chosen to the All-Observer team in 2013.

Last spring, Jipping really came into his own with a .673 average, plus nine triples and 46 stolen bases as he was selected as the league's MVP. Central Michigan, a NCAA Division I school, plays in the Mid-American Conference, another plus as far as Jipping is concerned.

"My goal has always been to play D1 baseball and I feel very honored to be offered a position to play at CMU," Jipping noted.

Jipping, who has a 3.99 GPA and is a National Honor Society member, intends on majoring in criminal justice.

COLLEGE BASKETBALL

Sewell sparks Ocelot victory

Schoolcraft's Andrew Mapley tallied 24 points and 15 rebounds Wednesday night to lead the host Ocelots to a 78-69 win over Mid-Michigan Community College.

The Ocelots outscored Mid-Michigan 39-27 in the second half to overcome a 42-39 halftime deficit.

Coles added 14 points, 11 rebounds and seven assists.

Canton Chiefs' alum Terrell Sewell and Nathan Kamal chipped in with 12 and 11 points, respectively.

Schoolcraft (2-3) shot 28-of-56 from the floor, including 7-of-16 from beyond the arc.

Mid-Michigan got 23 points from Erick Layton, while Johnson (14), Gernaat (12) and Tanner Vida (10) also scored in double figures.

On Friday, the tables were turned as Mid-Michigan defeated Schoolcraft 91-78.

Women are 37 percent more likely to have chronic obstructive pulmonary disease than men and now account for more than half of all deaths attributed to COPD in the nation. November is COPD Awareness Month, a perfect time to take a look at some of the findings in the American Lung Association's latest report, "Taking Her Breath Away: The Rise of COPD in Women."

It explores how COPD, once thought of as a disease of older white men, has become a major and increasing health threat for women. More than seven million women in the United States currently have COPD, and millions more have symptoms but have yet to be diagnosed. The number of deaths among women from COPD has more than quadrupled since 1980, and the disease has claimed the lives of more women than men in this country each year since 2000.

"It's time for the millions of women like me who are living with COPD to break their silence and speak out about the toll that COPD is taking on our lives," said Grace Anne Dorney Koppel, patient and national spokeswoman for COPD awareness. "We need to lead the charge for access to adequate disease management services and social support that will empower us to treat the disease as early as possible and improve the quality of our lives."

Breathing difficulty

COPD is a progressive lung disease with no known cure that slowly robs its sufferers of the ability to breathe. Only heart disease and cancer kill more Americans than COPD does. Smoking is the primary cause of COPD, but there are other important causes such as air pollution.

The report identifies an interplay of risk-factor exposures, biological susceptibility and sociocultural factors contributing to COPD's disproportionate burden on women.

The rise of COPD in women is closely tied to the success of tobacco industry marketing. Cigarette smoking was rare among women in the early 20th century, but started increasing in the late 1940s after the tobacco industry began aggressively targeting women. While nationwide anti-tobacco campaigns and policy changes have successfully decreased smoking rates for both women and men in the recent past, the tobacco industry's success in addicting women smokers long ago is still resulting in new cases of COPD and other tobacco-related illness in those women as they have aged.

More findings

» Since COPD has historically been thought of as a "man's disease," women are underdiagnosed and undertreated for COPD.

» Women are more vulnerable than men to lung damage from cigarette smoke and other pollutants.

» Women with COPD have more frequent disease flare-ups, a sudden worsening of COPD symptoms that is often caused by a cold or other lung infection.

» Effective treatment of COPD is complicated, and women don't always get the kind of care that meets their needs.

The report, part of the Lung Association's Disparities in Lung Health Series, is available for download at www.lung.org/copinwomen.

Have A Happier New Year

...by enjoying a healthier holiday season!

Ask A Garden City Hospital Health Expert

Dr. Christina Blevis
Internal Medicine

Your New Year's resolutions don't have to be drastic, if you end your year on a healthy note. GCH Health Expert and Internal Medicine physician, Dr. Christina Blevis, offers up this perfect portion of holiday wellness advice.

Q: What foods should I avoid this Thanksgiving?

A: I say stay away from the ones you don't like. Other than that, eat what you love and what makes you feel as though celebrating. Just keep your portions small and enjoy every single bite.

Q: How many calories are in the traditional Thanksgiving dinner?

A: If you believe the American Council on Exercise, and I do, it's 3,000 calories, and 229 grams of fat. Ouch. But so much of that comes down to preparation and portion size. Certainly you can still eat turkey, mashed potatoes, LOADS of veggies and a slice of pie and come in way below that.

Q: Are the sleepy effects of tryptophan something to really worry about after eating turkey?

A: Tryptophan may contribute to making you sleepy, but it's not the same as taking a sleeping pill. You can overcome the lethargy by getting up and moving after your meal. Even a walk around the block will help perk you back up.

Q: Do you have any advice on the best way to stay healthy over the entire holiday season?

A: Here are a few important tips I share with my patients, which is good advice all year round:

- Wash hands often to keep yourself from spreading germs and getting sick. Wash your hands with soap and warm running water for at least 20 seconds.
- Manage your stress. Don't over commit yourself and prevent holiday anxiety and pressure. Get enough sleep.
- Bundle up to stay warm and dry. Wear appropriate outdoor clothing like mittens, hats, scarves, and insulated waterproof boots.
- Get your family vaccinated. If you haven't gotten a flu vaccine, it's not too late.
- Fasten seat belts while driving. Always buckle your child in the car using a child safety seat, booster seat, or seat belt according to his/her height, weight, and age. Use a seat belt every time, no matter how short the trip.
- Don't drink and drive or let others drink and drive. It's a simple rule that keeps everyone safe.
- Be smoke-free. Avoid smoking and secondhand smoke. There is NO safe amount of tobacco or secondhand smoke. Breathing even a little secondhand smoke can be dangerous.
- Prepare food safely. Remember these simple steps: wash hands and surfaces often, avoid cross-contamination, cook foods to proper temperatures, and refrigerate promptly.

'The Pie Lady's' skills benefit Thanksgiving Day church dinner

By Sharon Dargay
Staff Writer

Rose Gibbs has earned her nickname over decades of rolling, crimping, slicing and filling.

She is known as "The Pie Lady" to her neighbors in Plymouth and her fellow congregants at Newburg United Methodist Church in Livonia.

Gibbs, 90, has baked countless pies for church bake sales and events, including Newburg's annual community Thanksgiving Day Dinner. Last week, she supervised production of 50 crusts for pre-ordered pumpkin pies that will be baked Tuesday, Nov. 26 and sold the next day to help fund Thursday's church dinner.

The dinner is free and open to the public. Seating times are 1 p.m. and 4 p.m. Reserve a spot by calling the church at 734-422-0149. The church is located at 36500 Ann Arbor Trail.

Gibbs attended the church's Thanksgiving Day dinner two years ago. She also made pies for the gathering.

"It is a delicious dinner. They have everything," Gibbs said. "I made all of the shells last year. Then all the other ladies, we met at the church and put them together. We served them at Thanksgiving."

"Now what we're going to do this year is sell the pies to pay for the food for the dinner."

Young cook

The fourth oldest of 12 children, Gibbs got to know her way around the kitchen as a youngster. The family lived on a farm in Missouri and produced its own vegetables and butchered its own hogs. Gibbs recalled that as a teen, she and an older sister canned more than 1,000 quarts of produce one summer.

"On our birthdays, we'd have cake. But we had more pies, because pies seemed to go farther with that many children," she said. "We didn't have bread. She (her mother) made biscuits all the time."

Her father smoked hams and once sent one through the mail to her after she had married and moved to Washington, D.C.

"The mailman had a fit over it because it smelled so good," she said. "The hams were all father's pride and joy — they were so good."

Gibbs and her first husband raised three children in Livonia. After he died, she married her second husband, who also had three children. They combined their families, initially living in Highland and, later, Plymouth. She remained in Plymouth after his death and continued to attend Newburg United Methodist in Livonia, where her pies are in demand.

"They always seek out my pies when we have something at church. They always ask me to bring dessert, because I usually make pies. I enjoy making them," she said.

Recipe book

Gibbs said her pie crust evolved and improved after she started adding egg and vinegar to the mix, but most of her recipes have remained unchanged over the years.

Her daughter, Julie Baumkel, of Bloomfield Hills, compiled many of her recipes into a 77-page binder-style book, The Pie Lady's Favorite Desserts Cookbook, which has been sold at church events throughout the year.

"It's not all my recipes," Gibbs said. "I have many more pie recipes. (Baumkel) said, well, we can always make another book."

Latkes or mashed potatoes?

Brisket or turkey?

Kugel or pumpkin pie?

The overlap of two holidays this year — the second night of Hanukkah coincides Thursday, Nov. 28, with Thanksgiving — may have some Jewish cooks pondering which cuisine they'll serve.

Melissa Ser, director of congregational learning for Adat Shalom Synagogue in Farmington Hills, sees some similarity, at least in the spirit of the two celebrations.

"The meaning of Hanukkah is more connected to Thanksgiving than when it occurs at the same time as Christmas," Ser said. "Hanukkah has a lot more of a connection to the idea of Thanksgiving than Christmas."

The foods? Not so much.

But the challenge inspired Lorraine Platman to combine Thanksgiving flavors with a Hanukkah favorite. The result: Sweet Lorraine's Fabulous Macaroni & Cheese Pumpkin Kugel.

"I just developed it," said Platman, chef and owner of Sweet Lorraine's Cafe & Bar in Livonia and Southfield and Sweet Lorraine's Fabulous Mac 'n' Cheese in Troy and Auburn Hills. "I made a big batch and said (to her mother) this is based on your wonderful noodle kugel."

"She phoned me up at 10 at night and said, 'Lorraine, this has to become a tradition.' She loved it."

Platman experimented with the recipe, baking it in both a lasagna dish and in individual muffin tins.

"Every year I nearly always experiment with types of latkes," she added. "My mother does one in a blender. Last year I did it as a waffle."

The waffle idea stuck and this year she'll bring a rustic garlic-mashed

potato waffle, topped with smoked salmon, diced onion and capers, to Thanksgiving dinner. "We have two wonderful holidays with food ... and I am a complete foodie," she said. "I dream food. And I'm waffle crazy. This is fun because you can mix the different holidays. Hanukkah is eight days, so you can add on leftovers from Thanksgiving and turn them into a Hanukkah meal. You could make the stuffing into waffles.

"I love to experiment and, when you can mix Thanksgiving and Hanukkah, that experimenting can be rewarding."

Home cooks who feel uneasy about experimenting in the kitchen at the holidays, might be better off following their favorite recipes.

"Why add more stress to yourself?" Platman said.

SWEET LORRAINE'S FABULOUS MACARONI & CHEESE PUMPKIN KUGEL

Baked fresh pumpkin, ricotta cheese, eggs, milk, noodles, vanilla & fruit zest all baked and either served in individual muffin tins or lasagna pan, topped with fresh Michigan apples and cinnamon

8 ounces Cavatelli pasta cooked as per instructions and cooled and set aside

Custard:

4 egg

2 cups roasted pumpkin puree

8 ounces cream cheese, room temperature

1 cup ricotta cheese, room temperature

1 cup half-and-half cream

1 tablespoon pure vanilla extract

1 cup cane sugar

% orange zest (approximately 2 teaspoons)

Preheat oven 325

Spray either one cup individual muffin pans (approximately 12) or lasagna dish with vegetable spray

Combine all of the above in a mixing bowl and beat until combined mix in pasta. Pour into prepared pan(s) making sure to divide pasta and custard evenly into pan.

Topping:

3-4 Michigan apples, cored and sliced

2 tablespoons melted unsalted butter

1-2 teaspoons ground cinnamon mixed with 1 cup cane sugar

Fan apples over pasta custard and drizzle butter over apples. Finish with sprinkling cinnamon sugar and blend over entire dish. Bake until set approximately 1 hour for lasagna pan or 30 minutes for smaller muffin size. Cool. You can serve either warm or chilled.

Take a holiday decorating cue from local museums, curators

By Sharon Dargay
Staff Writer

Kim Marquette will decorate twice this holiday season.

Marquette, a volunteer at the Garden City Historical Museum, has been busy the past few weeks unboxing, unwrapping and carefully placing a private collection of Santa Claus figurines throughout the Straight Farmhouse.

"We have a beautiful collection," she said. "They are gorgeous Santas. They'll be in the main level of the home. There are well over 200 Santa Clauses. They run in different sizes, from a few small Santas to five-foot Santas."

Marquette, who curates many of the exhibits at the museum, plans to have the exhibit ready by Friday, Dec. 6, when Dan Dare, the former Garden City resident who loaned his collection to the museum, will speak to museum members at a wine and cheese reception. The exhibit will be open to the public from noon to 3 p.m. the following day and each Wednesday and Saturday through Dec. 28.

As soon Marquette puts finishing touches on the museum exhibit, she'll start her own decorating at home.

"I take after my mother," she said. "Every nook and cranny has something. My neighbor came over once and said, 'It looks like Christmas threw up in your house.' It's gorgeous, but everywhere you turn there is Christmas stuff."

Marquette will unpack some 56 boxes of decorations at home. "It's a whole variety. I collect nativity sets and I have over 200. I collect tree toppers. I have 22 tree toppers that go across the mantle."

Holiday decorating

Marquette is among museum curators and volunteers who are busy decorating the halls at local historical buildings, as well as at their own homes.

Need some decorating inspiration? Take a walk through the Simmons/Hill House at Greenmead in Livonia. Linda Wiacek, Greenmead director, invited Quaker groups to interpret this year's theme, "Christmas Dreams" throughout the first floor of the house.

"This house, because it's so big and was lived in by the Hill family up until the mid-1970s, went through a long period of private residency," Wiacek said. "This is a house museum that shows the evolution of the home dating back to 1841 to when it was sold to the city of Livonia in 1976. We have the flexibility to show a variety of periods. You have a lot of leeway in decorating."

Book collection

Sheer white fabrics, lots of sparkles, angels and snowflakes create a setting for Christmas dreaming throughout the house. Homemade ornaments made from copies of "Twas the Night Before Christmas" book covers drape a tree in the house library. Gloria Hull, a Quaker member, created the ornaments based on her "Twas the Night Before Christmas" book collection.

"I have around 70 books. I put them in the trees and some of them under the trees at home," Hull said. "I put up several Christmas trees."

While Hull exhibits her book collection only at the holidays, Elizabeth Kerstens, Plymouth Historical Museum director, leaves her Santa figurines out year-round in her kitchen at home.

"I have pencil Santas, the tall ones. I have about 40 or 50," Kerstens said.

At the museum, she brought back a favorite exhibit, "A Red Ryder Christmas Story," with a few updates this year, for the holiday season. The exhibit is based on the popular film A Christmas Story.

Kerstens have a new mannequin with Ralphie's clothing on when he was doing a dream sequence and was duded up in a cowboy outfit," Kerstens said. "We've been able to recreate that. Another thing we've added is motion-activated sound."

The Garden City Museum at the Straight Farmhouse is located at 6221 Merriman. View the Santa collection from noon to 3 p.m. each Wednesday and Saturday through December. Groups may make arrangements by calling 734-838-0650.

The Plymouth Museum is at 155 S. Main. It's open 1-4 p.m. Wednesday and Friday through Sunday. The "A Red Ryder Christmas Story" exhibit runs through Jan. 19, 2014. Admission is $5. 734-455-8940.

Greenmead's historic buildings, including the Simmons/Hill House, will be open for tours 1-4 p.m. Dec. 1, 8 and 15 at 20501 Newburgh. A visit with Santa is planned for 1-4 p.m. Dec. 8. Admission for the visit is $3 for adults and $2 for children. Free Christmas concerts will be held Dec. 1, 8 and 15 at the church in the village. 248-477-7375.

Pair white or red wines with turkey

The turkey is roasted to perfection and the mashed potatoes are a fluffy white dream. Now it is time to turn your attention to the libations and nothing sets your holiday meal off right like a good glass of wine.

The Thanksgiving meal can be one of the most difficult meals to pair due to the wide range of taste sensations, said Eric Novak, wine buyer for Hiller's Markets.

"You've got the tart and sweet of the cranberries, the savorys and salty stuffings, along with the sweet and the fat," Novak said.

However, choosing the perfect pairing for your meal does not have to be daunting. Turkey is pretty bland, so look for wines versatile enough to complement the myriad side dishes certain to accompany your meal, Novak advised.

Below, Novak offers some tips and guidelines for choosing the right wine to complement your feast.

RED

PINOT NOIR

Pinot Noirs go terrific with dark meat of your bird. The high acid of the red grape work really well with game birds, cutting the fat for a refreshing taste, Novak said. Look for wines from California's Napa Valley, Oregon and New Zealand, a newcomer to the Pinot Noir table. Northern Michigan's own Ventera winery in Leland also offers a spectacular rose of Pinot Noir. Recommendations: » Rose of Pinot Noir Ventera Winery Leland, Mich. $18 » 2009 Wild Rock Pinot Noir Wild Rock Wine Martinborough, New Zealand $13 » Carneros Pinot Noir Clos du Val Napa Valley $18

WHITE

GEWÜRZTRAMINER, RIESLING

Novak has two definite recommendations in the white category: Gewürztraminer and "a good, dry" Riesling. "Good Rieslings have terrific stone fruit notes — apricots, peach — and are typically high in acidity, which works well for the meal," Novak said. Gewürztraminers work so well, he said, because of their typical "jumping out of the glass" floral notes that complement the Thanksgiving meal. "People who like white meat will like Gewürztraminer," Novak promises. Recommendations: » Kung Fu Girl Riesling Charles Smith Wines Columbia Valley, Wash. $12.99 » Fetzer Gewürztraminer Fetzer Winery Mendocino County, Calif. $8 » Dry Riesling Chateau Grand Traverse Traverse City $14

Simple swaps help make holiday meals more heathful

The only thing harder than passing up a delicious dish at a party is trying to talk yourself out of eating holiday leftovers the next day. While everyone is entitled to a little indulgence now and then, it's possible to have your traditional turkey and cranberry sandwich and eat better, too.

The trick is to cut calories whenever you can and that means making simple swaps. Here are a few ideas to get you started:

» The day after a festive meal, stack your sandwich high with leftover turkey, lettuce and cranberry sauce. But don't blow it by adding a big smear of mayonnaise. Instead, top this traditional sandwich with delicious, smooth hummus to save fat and calories.

» If you want to cut a lot of extra carbs out of your holiday diet, skip the stuffing. Instead, try wild or brown rice with your turkey.

» Once you've filled your plate with crudité instead of a high-calorie appetizer, don't dip carrots and celery sticks in a vat of ranch dressing. Try a dip made from Greek yogurt, like Sabra Cucumber & Dill Greek Yogurt Vegetable Dip.

» Cut the fat and calories in mashed potatoes by making a dairy-free option with creamy hummus instead of butter or milk.

» It's easy to drink a lot of extra calories during the holidays. Fancy coffee drinks, egg nog and sugary cocktails can really pack on the pounds. Stick with seltzer-based drinks, sugar-free hot chocolate or herbal teas.

Make Thanksgiving happy, healthy

By Jill Halpin
Correspondent

Registered dietician Mayssoun Hamade has noticed a positive trend this year. Thanksgiving, it seems, is starting to go healthy.

"People are starting to pay attention to the ingredients they are using when they are cooking," said Hamade, who works for the St. John Providence Health System in Novi.

Slowly disappearing are the extra pats of butter added to grandma's casserole. Salads and other more complex vegetable combinations are replacing corn and green beans casserole at the table.

"We are moving away from the bland and buttery and trying to incorporate different salad greens as well as other vegetables from different part of the world,"

she said.

Hamade said she hopes the trend will continue: "This is a good step; we need to go back to the basics, back to more natural offerings."

Hamade warned against the inclination to use prepackaged, canned or boxed items that made be loaded with extra sodium and other preservatives.

"Look at the ingredients on the side of the package," she said. "Try to with fresh whenever you can."

Hamade also advised limiting portions. You can try a bit of everything in small amounts.

Using smaller plates will help limit portion size, she said: "If you are going to splurge and stick with the traditional menu, using a plate that is eight inches or smaller is a great way to keep your food intake under control."

VEGAN SWEET POTATO BISCUITS

Makes about 8-10

1 cup mashed cooked sweet potato (1 large)
1½ cups spelt flour (or whole wheat)
1 tablespoon baking powder
½ teaspoon sea salt
4 tablespoons cold nonhydrogenated margarine or coconut oil
½ cup vanilla Almond Breeze

Preheat oven to 400 degrees F.
Combine ingredients, bake in muffin pan or free-form on cookie sheet. Bake 25 to 30 minutes, or until bottoms are golden.

Hamade said that tofu, which picks up the flavors of other foods, is an excellent source of protein that can be used in many different recipes for vegetarians, vegans and others.

SOCIAL SECURITY

Many people are wrongly rejected when they apply for Social Security Disability benefits. Money was taken out of their paychecks for Social Security taxes to ensure that they would receive disability benefits if they could no longer work full-time. Sadly, the government denies approximately 60% of those who apply for disability benefits.

Attorneys J.B. Bieske and Jennifer Alfonsi have 42 years combined experience representing only Social Security disability clients. And they personally meet with all clients and appear personally at all court hearings. Many large firms assign inexperienced attorneys to your case. And some of these firms are located thousands of miles away and only fly the attorney in the day of the court hearing. Attorneys Bieske and Alfonsi have vast experience before local Michigan judges.

Attorneys Bieske and Alfonsi can often make a winning difference at the application stage. And, if an appeal is necessary they have won several hundred cases before a court date is even set.

Those denied can appeal on their own but statistics for many years reveal that those represented by attorneys win a much higher percentage of appeals. And attorneys who specialize in Social Security Disability cases win a much higher percentage yet.

In addition to practicing only Social Security disability law, Attorney Bieske has written a book for attorneys about the subject and has been interviewed on various television programs. Both Attorney Bieske and Alfonsi have also been interviewed on radio programs and have given speeches to many groups.

Attorneys Bieske and Alfonsi offer free phone office consultation. If they represent you, there will be no fee charged until after the case is won. The fee is a percentage of retroactive benefits.

Bieske and Alfonsi represent clients from all over the state of Michigan. Their Livonia office is on Six Mile Road just west of I-75. Their Novi office is located on Haggerty Road just north of 12 Mile Road. Call them at 1-800-331-3530 for a free consultation if you have been denied, or if you are thinking of possibly applying for Social Security benefits.

Enjoy taste of holiday ham and savory sides

Holidays are a time filled with family, friends and — perhaps most importantly — feasts. Traditional holiday menu items have the power to evoke warm memories of holidays past while continuing to bring people together year after year. For many, the center of that coveted holiday table would not be complete without a sweet and savory spiral-sliced ham.

But what kind of holiday spread would it be without a plethora of delicious side dishes to accompany and complement the meal? Whether you prefer ham with notes of honey, nuts or fruit, make sure your dinner table boasts a variety of options that enhance its delectable flavor. Look for recipes that incorporate both traditional and unexpected ingredients for a holiday menu makeover. Doing so will keep guests pleased with familiar favorites, yet pleasantly surprised with the new variations.

Savory side selections

If you're looking for a savory side that spotlights the distinct flavors of the season, butternut squash is an excellent choice. White Beans with Bacon and Butternut Squash is a perfect blend of savory, sweet and salty. Serve it alongside ham for a true taste of tradition. For more great recipes, visit www.smithfield.com.

A potato dish is also a must for many holiday spreads. Break away from mundane mashed potatoes and gravy with this recipe for Smashed Bacon Ranch Potatoes. Family and friends will line up for seconds when they get a taste of the ranch dressing and smoky bacon combination. Or try Green Bean Corn Casserole for another new twist on a classic holiday favorite.

Holiday Spiral Sliced Ham with Honey Glaze

Ham leftovers

For many, the best part of the holiday meal awaits them in the fridge the next day. If you find yourself with a kitchen still stocked for a holiday feast, here are some easy ways to turn delicious ham into a flavorful meal with just a few extra ingredients:

» Pizza: Nothing pleases a child — or a parent for that matter — more than pizza. Simply place marinara sauce, cheese and cubed ham atop broiled French bread or English muffins for a crunchy post-holiday lunch.

» Pasta salad: Whip up a cool classic you can nibble on all week long.

Prepare your favorite whole-wheat noodles, then mix in cubed ham, your favorite cheeses, diced tomatoes, spinach and a generous pour of creamy Italian dressing. It's an easy meal in just minutes.

» Sandwiches: Take standard ham and cheese sandwiches to new levels with uneaten goodies from your cheese platter. Fill leftover artisan rolls from your holiday fare with sliced ham. Experiment with your favorite cheeses — Gouda, Gruyere or Roquefort — and place on the grill for a gooey, crunchy bite.

HOLIDAY SPIRAL SLICED HAM WITH HONEY GLAZE

Cook time: 10 to 12 minutes per pound
Yield: 14 servings

1 Smithfield Spiral Sliced Ham with Honey Glaze

Preheat oven to 325°F. Remove packaging; reserve liquid. Place ham cut-side down on large sheet of foil in roasting pan, pour reserved liquid over ham and wrap completely with foil. Warm ham in oven for 10 to 12 minutes per pound. Do not overheat. After removing from oven, let sit for 5 minutes before glazing. Heat glaze packet for 15 seconds in microwave. Glaze is hot, so be careful when opening packet. Holding packet with towel or oven mitt, cut corner off packet and pour glaze into bowl. Stir well and spoon over ham. Let glazed ham sit for 5 minutes before serving to allow glaze to melt over ham.

WHITE BEANS WITH BACON AND BUTTERNUT SQUASH

Cook time: 30 minutes
Yield: 4 servings

2 tablespoons olive oil
4 slices bacon, chopped
1 pound diced butternut squash
½ cup onion, chopped
1 teaspoon kosher salt
½ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon nutmeg
½ teaspoon curry powder
½ cup chicken stock
2 cans cannellini beans, drained and rinsed
2 cups fresh spinach, stems removed and chopped

Heat olive oil in large skillet over medium heat. Add bacon to skillet and cook for 5 to 7 minutes or until crumbly; remove from skillet, drain on paper towels and reserve 2 tablespoons of drippings in skillet. Add butternut squash, onion, salt, pepper, nutmeg and curry powder to the skillet; saute for 5 minutes; add chicken broth to the skillet, reduce heat to medium low, cover and cook for 5 additional minutes or until butternut squash is tender. Add beans and spinach to the skillet and cook for 3 minutes or until all vegetables are heated through. Sprinkle with reserved bacon.

GREEN BEAN CORN CASSEROLE

Cook time: 50 minutes
Yield: 8 servings

1 bag frozen French-style green beans
1 cup celery, chopped
½ cup sour cream
1 can cream of celery soup
1 can corn, drained
1 green pepper, chopped
½ cup cheddar cheese, grated (or more)
1 sleeve butter crackers, finely crushed
3 tablespoons melted butter

Preheat oven to 350°F. In large mixing bowl, combine first 7 ingredients and place in prepared 13-inch by 9-inch casserole dish. Combine crushed butter crackers and melted butter and spread over top of casserole. Bake for 45 minutes or until hot and bubbly. Note: Add 1 cup diced ham and 1 cup shredded cooked chicken to this recipe to make it a main dish.

Avoid holiday stress by getting organized

By Sharon Dargay
Staff Writer

What's the best gift you can give yourself this holiday season?

Less stress through better organizational skills.

"I think it's a series of everything (at the holidays) that stresses people out. You've got family stress and financial stress, balancing time constraints with commitments and food stress," said Debi Weinstein, founder of I've Gotta Get Organized in Farmington Hills. "It adds up."

Making even a few changes — keeping track of year-to-year gift-giving, purging old decorations and learning to say no — can help keep your blood pressure down.

"I find that women, we are so good at doing so much, but sometimes being so good at doing so much is a detriment, it's taking on too much," she said. "You have to say no gracefully."

Weinstein started her business 16 years ago, but has had a flair for organization since childhood. As a youngster, she labeled the feet of her dolls with pertinent information about the who, when and why she received them. As an adult, she has kept a spreadsheet for all of her gift-giving and receiving. When her niece began collecting American Girl dolls, an annual updated list ensured no repeat dolls would be given as gifts.

"I'm not an accumulator or a saver," Weinstein said. "I keep what I need to keep. I have sentimental items I keep in an organized way. I'm not a shopper and I don't buy things I don't need."

Weinstein

Her company does everything from paying clients' bills and organizing paperwork to packing and unpacking boxes during a move. "If anything needs to be done, we do it," she said.

Here are a few of her tips to get you headed toward stress-free holidays:

Lists

Put items in an order that follows the layout of the grocery store you frequent. Shopping at a grocery store you know well saves time since you know where to locate everything.

"For the holidays, I gather all of my recipes and put the ingredients needed on a spreadsheet organized by the headings: produce, pasta/rice, condiments, baking, cereals/snacking, beverages, frozen, deli, dairy. Under these headings I type in each item I need to purchase, print out the list and take it with me to the store."

Decorating

Don't try to be the perfect decorator — the holidays are about spending time with family and friends. Purge while sorting through holiday decorations. Toss or donate any item you haven't used in a few years. If a piece has sentimental value, consider passing it along to your children.

Gifts

Don't hang onto something because it was a gift. If you have no use for it, sell it, re-gift it or donate it. "Keep spreadsheets listing names of family and friends and the gifts you have given and received. It will be beneficial to save this from year to year on your computer so you can refer back to it when the next holiday season rolls around."

Budget your time

Start gift and grocery shopping early so you can enjoy your time with friends and family. If you are entertaining, create a calendar leading up to the event and work your way backwards budgeting your time and tasks.

Be pleasant

Don't let your good sense go out the window during the holidays. Stick to your good habits and eliminate bad ones. Don't overeat and don't sweat the small stuff. Smile and be a good guest and host. Be prepared for travel delays. If you organize ahead of time, you can plan some down time for relaxing, putting your feet up and enjoying the holidays with a smile.

Frugal holiday gift-wrapping alternatives

Holiday shoppers spend billions of dollars each year on gifts for friends, family and co-workers. But holiday shoppers also spend substantial amounts of money dressing up those gifts with bows and wrapping paper. Shoppers may not want to spend much more on wrapping paper, bags and other ways to dress up their gifts and by employing a few tricks of the gift-wrapping trade, they may not have to. The following are some frugal, yet flashy, ways to wrap presents this holiday season.

» Children's artwork: Over the course of a school year, parents can accumulate dozens of original pieces of art from their children's time in the classroom. Instead of relegating those pictures to a memory box or temporary glory on the refrigerator, turn them into unique gift wrap. Pair these pieces of art with colored ribbon and everyone who gets a unique masterpiece will feel special.

» Newspaper: Recycle newspaper and comics into wrapping paper.

Encourage everyone to wrap in newspaper for a cohesive look come Christmas morning.

» Cloth: Leftover cloth from Halloween or cloth purchased to create be turned into gift wrap for awkward-shaped gifts. Use decorative ribbon to seal the bundle shut.

Baskets can be an inexpensive alternative to wrapping paper.

» Brown paper: Brown paper tied with twine or ribbon is inexpensive and can easily be recycled after use.

Use a marker to put the names of gift recipients on each package to save on gift tags as well.

» Glass jars: Use mason jars when wrapping smaller gifts, including gift cards, to give them an arts-and-crafts feel.

» Fabric gift bags: If you're handy with a needle and thread, sew sacks out of leftover fabric to make gift bags of various sizes.

» Cookie tins: Find unique cookie tins from yard sales or leftover tins from holidays past and use them as gift boxes.

» Recipes: If you plan to give a cookbook or food-themed gifts, print recipes that can be used as gift wrap.

» Baby linens: From blankets to wash cloths, use baby linens to wrap infant-themed gifts for new parents.

» Baskets: Wicker baskets are available in various shapes and sizes. They can be used to make a gift collection and then reused over and over again.

A must for holiday buffets and dinner parties!

Family gatherings spark talk about elder care

Holidays are a time for families to gather together for celebrating, reminiscing and sharing the joys of the season. It's also a time when out-of-town family members may suddenly be confronted with the declining health of a loved one.

Those taking care of aging family members are often unable to fully convey to those living far away the true needs of an elderly parent. So family gatherings are a good time to start the conversation about handling long-term health care needs.

The first step should be gathering together all involved family members, including the person needing care. It's important to take the time, while you have it, to develop a strategy for how things should be handled when a loved one eventually needs care.

Create a checklist of topics to discuss by visiting www.longtermcare.gov. Click on the "LTC Pathfinder" link, answer simple questions and this valuable tool will generate a list of topics to consider when planning for care. It is also a great resource for finding national and local resources.

Where can you receive care?

Most people prefer to stay in their home or apartment for as long as possible. If this is your plan, it is important to step back and consider if modifications would allow you to remain at home longer. The goal of home modifications is to maximize your ability to safely care for yourself. Examples of home modifications include roll-in showers, stair lifts and grab bars. These kinds of modifications can be done well before they are needed and may help to avoid or delay the need for long-term care by helping to avoid a fall. For things you can no longer do for yourself, there are a number of other needed services available in most communities.

Family gatherings are a perfect time to talk about housing and health care options for aging loved ones. GETTY IMAGES

Should care outside the home become necessary, several types of housing come with support services for people who cannot fully take care of themselves because of aging and/or disability. Public housing is available for low-to-moderate-income elderly and persons with disabilities. Assisted living or "board and care" homes are group living settings that offer housing in addition to assisting with daily living activities and other services, such as meals. Generally, they do not provide medical care. Continuing care retirement communities provide a range of housing options, including independent living units, assisted living and nursing homes, all on the same campus. Nursing facilities, or nursing homes, are the most service-intensive housing option, providing skilled nursing services and therapies as needed.

Who pays for care?

Long-term care is more expensive than most people realize. Many people believe wrongly the Medicare, Medicaid, medical insurance or disability insurance they currently have will pay for all or much of their long-term care. In general, health insurance covers only very limited and specific types of long-term care. Disability policies don't cover any at all. In fact, the cost of care is usually paid for out of personal savings and income.

For those who qualify, long-term care insurance is available to cover long-term services and supports. Medicare only covers medically necessary care and focuses on medical acute care, such as doctor visits, drugs and hospital stays. If very specific conditions are met, Medicare will help pay for all or a portion of a short stay in a skilled nursing facility, hospice care or home health care. Medicaid helps people with low income and assets pay for some or all of their health care bills. It covers medical care, long-term care services in nursing homes, and long-term care services provided at home.

For more information about additional Medicare, Medicaid and paying privately for long-term care, visit www.longtermcare.gov.

What resources are available?

The most common source of long-term care help is often unpaid family members. However, they may not always be available to provide the care a declining elderly loved one needs. Look for care-giving services in your area, including in-home care providers and elder day care centers. Find out about home-delivered meals and other services offered in your community.

It's also important to consult an attorney to make sure your loved one has appointed one or more individuals to make health care and financial decisions for them. An attorney can also prepare an advance care directive, which is a set of written instructions detailing what medical care your loved one wishes to receive.

About 70 percent of people turning 65 can expect to need some kind of medical or personal care services for months or years as they age. Planning for the care that a loved one may need one day is an important gift family members can give each other during the holiday season. The conversations can be difficult but are an important step to gaining valuable time to research options, prepare for the future and make the best decisions possible.

A GANNETT COMPANY

Important keys to researching your next employer

Beth Braccio Hering
CareerBuilder Writer

"I know when a candidate doesn't know the current news about our company," says Chris Brabec, director of leadership talent acquisition for Western Union. "If you don't know the CEO is retiring, or if a company made a big acquisition recently, that's not a good sign. If a candidate can't tell me what the company does (or thinks Western Union still does telegrams, that's another sign she hasn't done her homework."

In a job market where applicants frequently cast a wide net with the hope that anybody will respond, job seekers sometimes cut corners by not thoroughly checking out potential employers. But failure to claim your want to work at can make you seem unprepared and disinterested and cost you a job offer. Here, experts weigh in on things you should learn before seeking employment and how to find that information.

What to know

"Companies have to show that one of the things they use to weed out candidates is that the student didn't know anything about the company," says John M. Thompson, executive director of career services at Texas Christian University in Fort Worth, Texas.

Among the things Thompson encourages his students to find out are:

- What does the company do?
- What are its products?
- What is the company's mission?

- Where are its offices?
- How big is the company in terms of employees/revenue?
- How is it positioned in its industry?

"Everyone, but particularly for more senior-level roles, should know our stock price," says Yolanda Bush, director of human resources for Western Union. "Research the company's leadership team and the company's efforts around corporate social responsibility. This will help candidates position themselves to discuss how their skills and experience will help us succeed in the marketplace."

Julie Rulis, a senior recruiter for Western Union's talent acquisition team, agrees with her colleague's advice and adds, "If you are doing an interview at a company, find out if it's in the Fortune 500 and where it is on that list. Even better: Find out where it was a year ago, and if it's different, maybe ask why. It shows you've done your homework. A job candidate should know our products and services beyond just the basics. With all the tools available nowadays, there's no excuse not to know."

How to play detective

The "tools" Rulis is referring to are all the different ways a job seeker can find information. Abby M. Locke, master resume writer and personal brand strategist for Premier Writing Solutions in Seattle, offers these suggestions:

- Review the company's website.
- Read press releases.
- Pay attention to industry publications.
- Use Google alerts to stay on top of current company news.
- Do an informational interview with past or current employees.
- Talk to a representative at a career fair or trade show.
- Follow key decision-makers on Twitter.
- Use LinkedIn groups and other online social media tools.

Online directories such as Bloomberg and Standard & Poor's also give information on many businesses. For additional help in finding appropriate databases, job seekers may want to consult their local library or the college career center of their alma mater.

Show what you know

Finally, while you don't need to be a walking fact book, be ready to incorporate your knowledge of the company into correspondence and conversation when opportunities arise.

"I ask job candidates questions like what they know about the company beyond what's on the website, how they feel they fit in with our overall values and corporate culture, or what they found out about the company in their research that they didn't know before," Rulis says. "This is a great opportunity to show off your preparation — talk about our competitors or the fact that you read that we're entering an entirely new business segment."

Get to know your potential employers, and chances are they will want to get to know you.

We reserve the right not to accept an advertiser's order. Our sales representatives have no authority to bind this newspaper, and only publication of an advertisement constitutes final acceptance of the advertiser's order. Advertisers are responsible for reading their ads the first time it appears and reporting any errors immediately. The newspaper will not issue credit for errors in ads after the FIRST INCORRECT INSERTION. When more than one insertion of the same advertisement is ordered, only the first insertion will be credited. Publishers Notice: All real estate advertising in this newspaper is subject to the Fair Housing Act of 1968 which states that it is illegal to advertise any preference, limitation, or discrimination. This newspaper will not knowingly accept any advertising for real estate which is in violation of the law. Our readers are hereby informed that all dwellings advertised in this newspaper are available on an equal housing opportunity basis. (FIR 42082 3-1-72). Equal Housing Opportunity Statement: We are pledged to the letter & spirit of U.S. policy for the achievement of equal housing opportunity throughout the nation. We encourage & support an affirmative advertising & marketing program in which there are no barriers.

DISCLAIMER: All classified ads are subject to the applicable rate card, copies of which are available from our Advertising Dept. All ads are subject to approval before publication. Observer & Eccentric Media reserves the right to edit, refuse, reject, classify or cancel any ad at any time. Errors must be reported in the first day of publication. Observer & Eccentric Media shall not be liable for any loss or expense that results from an error or omission of an advertisement. No refunds for early cancellation of order.

Fun By The Numbers

Like puzzles?
Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!
